ANCIENT GREEKS HAD A WORD FOR NEW CAPRA FILM

Life is earnest; life is glum. Be your friend, I shall, some fun.
That, in sloppy rhyme, is the true Epicurean philosophy, in the opinion of Lionel Barrymore, who considers his current character of "Grandpa Vanderhof" in Frank Capra's "You Can't Take It With You" a lineal re-incarnation of the Athenian thinker.
Calling attention to the odd hobbies he and other characters of his household are so ensconced in the new film at the Ritz Theatre, Barrymore emphasizes these are all harmless diversions or vocations.
"To employ a trite phrase," Barrymore states, "all these seemingly adulated pranks of the film play's comedy characters come under the category of Good Clean Fun."
"That, as I understand it, was the true teaching of Epicurus. His words may have been twisted by his disciples to an end-drink-and-be-merry code which became identified with license and voluptuousness."
Included in the stellar cast of Pulitzer prize winning adaptations are such stars as Jean Arthur, Edward Arnold, Mischa Auer, Ann Miller, H. B. Warner, etc.

JEAN ARTHUR and James Stewart do the Big Apple in Central Park to provide Frank Capra's "You Can't Take It With You" with one of its more hilarious sequences. The sign attached to Miss Arthur is not the cartoonist's idea; it's actually one of the more important props. Lionel Barrymore and Edward Arnold are others in the cast of the film showing Sunday and Monday at the Ritz Theatre.

MEET JUNE LANG (left) and Lynn Bari, grand girls to know. There's always excitement when they're around, and how they do get around! Twentieth Century-Fox's "Meet The Girls," Thursday at the Ritz Theatre, is your introduction to them and to the new Big Town Girl series. "Touchdown Army" is also featured—and the "Magic Eye."

JACK LUDEN, Columbia player featured in the Ritz Theatre's exciting new outdoor film, "Phantom Gold," seems to be surrounded by villainy. That's Hal Taliferro saying "Drop that gun" while Charles Whitaker forgets the weapon at his own stomach.

France Wonders If Hitler Has Eye On Alsace, Lorraine

PARIS, Oct. 15.—(AP)—There was excited debate in Paris today over the question of whether Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler had his eye on the French provinces of Alsace and Lorraine, which belonged to Germany before the war.
The chamber of commerce of Strasbourg, principal city of Alsace-Lorraine (apparently started yesterday by demanding that the French government negotiate a commercial accord with Germany.
A burst of attacks and counter-attacks in the Paris press followed and then came accusations and denials from Alsatian leaders. A summary of the outbreak indicated:
1. Both Alsace and Lorraine are determined to give Chancellor Hitler no chance to claim that the district's 2,600,000 French citizens, most of whom speak a German dialect, compose another Reichsland which wants to return to the Reich.
2. Despite their preference for France, the two provinces see a French-German commercial agreement as their best chance for economic prosperity.
3. All the discussion arose despite the fact that Hitler in his momentous sportspast speech in Berlin Sept. 26 disclaimed a desire for return of Alsace-Lorraine.
Paris newspapers published a photograph of a receipt bearing a drawing of Strasbourg cathedral allegedly given to contributors to a campaign in Germany for funds for propaganda in Alsace-Lorraine.
Edouard Fuchs, Alsatian deputy, wrote Premier Daladier stating that Nazi propaganda is "non-existent" in the district and Joseph Roese, spokesman for the independent popular action party, to which nine of Alsace's 16 deputies belong, wrote Vice Premier Camille Chautemps, who is in charge of Alsace-Lorraine affairs, affirming the loyalty of the provinces to France.
Fuchs filed a ban against meetings of four minority movements for autonomy or "neutralization" of Alsace-Lorraine.
An order published in the official journal today without explanation established a virtual censorship over news broadcasts from 11 of France's largest private-owned radio stations.

Germany Emerges As Mediator in Central Europe's Latest Threat of War ler was able to assure a Hungarian mission headed by Koloman Daranyi that he had talked plainly to Czechoslovakia and that Hungary might rest content her legitimate demands would be met.

It was believed, however, one major difference existed between Hitler and Mussolini regarding the Hungarian claims. This was said to be Hungary's demand for a common border with Poland which presumably would mean a cession of at least a strip of Ruthenia, Czechoslovakia's easternmost section.
Hitler was said to support Hungary fully on this, while Mussolini has demanded a Slovak border one of a depth of at least 20 miles between Hungary and Poland.
This apparently was in order that Germany might have direct access to Rumania. In the event Germany's proposal for a close economic relationship with Czechoslovakia is realized.
STRIKERS TO NEGOTIATE
WILKES-BARRE, Pa.—(AP)—Publishers of Wilkes-Barre's four suspended newspapers asked the American Newspaper Guild yesterday to call off its strike and return to work pending negotiations for a contract.

Re-Adjustment Sought To New Nazi Expansion

New National Unity Backs Britain's Quickened Pace For Rearmament

Czech-Hungarian Dispute Unsettled

Germany To Find Needed Materials In Balkans, Funk Says

With Hungary partly muzzed and her territorial issue with Czechoslovakia in suspense, Europe still wrestled with the difficult problem of readjustment to Germany's expanding power and influence.

In Britain, a new note of national unity emerged to back the quickened rearmament pace. The cabinet was expected to approve large new defense expenditures and other defense measures.

Germany's economic minister, Walther Funk, predicted Germany soon would find the raw materials she needed in Yugoslavia, Bulgaria and Turkey which he described as "sort of a Balkan axis extending from the German border to the Black Sea."

Czechoslovakia also appeared ready to revolve in Germany's economic orbit. Reichsfuehrer Hitler has assured Prague that Czechoslovakia can retain her culture and attain greater prosperity by co-operating with Germany.

In Hungary, meanwhile, troops were equipped and sent toward the Czechoslovak border while diplomats examined possibilities for renewing suspended negotiations over Hungary's claims for the Hungarian-populated areas of Czechoslovakia.

Official Italian circles strongly hinted Czechoslovakia must come within the sphere of the Rome-Berlin axis before Hitler and Mussolini are satisfied.

The referendum on the issuance of bonds to pay the County's share of a $127,000 project failed to be valid by a margin of a few votes in the election on Sept. 27 and the physicians urged a re-run of the vote drive for the election.

Dawson were appointed to contact various merchants to secure their participation in the plan of welcoming new residents to the city.

The D. A. R. will handle the work of the Welcome-to-Sanford Committee during the month of November.

Also to be continued by the committee is its Calendar of Coming Events maintained at the Chamber building, for the purpose of avoiding conflicts in State constitutional amendment, entertainments, etc. All organizations planning an event or celebration of any nature are asked to contact the Chamber of Commerce office before a date is definitely selected, so that there will be no conflict harmful to another group.

Of considerable interest to committee members was a discussion of a new ruling of the Central Florida Exposition at Orlando which places exhibits of various counties on a non-competitive basis. No awards will be given until the next fair and will any county entries be judged. This will eliminate competition among the counties and will place exhibitors in better position to build displays of appeal to visitors at the fair from an advertising standpoint.

The Seminole County exhibit at the exposition is sponsored by the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce.

Members of the committee present at the first session of the new season were: Mrs. R. J. Holt, Mrs. Fred Forward, Mrs. Fred R. Wilson, Mrs. Gladys Kendall, Dr. Elizabeth Tracy, Miss Irene Hinton, Mrs. C. K. Dawson, Mrs. Martin J. Bram, Mrs. Ross Adams, Mrs. J. M. McCaskill, Mrs. Z. B. Ratliff, Mrs. J. M. Hayes and Mrs. Endor Curlett.

Public Pressure May Make For Labor Peace

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—(AP) Efforts in the "Steel Pacific Case" to rally a vote against strikes which have marked the war's progress between the American Federation of Labor and the Committee for Industrial Organization, provide an interesting feature of the November elections.

Proposed constitutional amendments in laws submitted for voter tests in California, Oregon and Washington differ in approach but not in purpose. All are brought up under popular initiative for a place on the ballot.

The referendum on the issuance of bonds to pay the County's share of a $127,000 project failed to be valid by a margin of a few votes in the election on Sept. 27 and the physicians urged a re-run of the vote drive for the election.

BE CHARITABLE. A friend

From this distance it looks like a very promising crop of

Now that the Japanese have launched their drive against Canton, we're wondering whether it is properly Canton or Canton.

One of the delusions is claiming he overpaid the government in 1934 federal taxes by five million dollars. It was evidently just a little oversight on his part.

England has banned the showing of the March of Time's new film called "British Dilemma" on the grounds that it is dangerous, though how or to whom was not stated.

England is reported as having bought four hundred new airplanes from the United States.
She must be figuring on ending the whole parliament to Munich next time.

We've been having a hard time trying to figure out whether the Hungarians want to over-

The thing that appealed to us quet of roses, it isn't so much ciple of the thing that counts.

We see where most of the economists are predicting a vicious fall upturn in business.
If they hadn't it would have been the first time in seven years that such predictions were not made.

Secretary Wallace says that if our farm surpluses are going to why not dump them where the

There are four constitutional

All of them are good. In our

Claude Pepper, back from Europe where he saw world war in the making, says the United States should mind its ers dry. And furthermore we should not fire until we can see the whites of their eyes, and then we should never give up the ship.

Anne Lindbergh, wife of the Colonel, is out with a new book, "Listen to the Wind." The book describes the flight across the South Atlantic to South America five years ago. At Bathurst, in British Gambia, the Lindberghs with the airplane heavily laden with gasoline and supplies, were "beached" for several days, unable to get off the water with their great load until a wind came up into which they could fly. Hence, "Listen to the Wind."

Instead of denouncing Col.
Lindbergh's Russian airman might have been wise to take his advice seriously, find ways and means of improving their aircraft, build it up until it is better than the German air force.
Col. Lindbergh has seen both sides and is in a position to know which is better. If the German air force is inferior, it ought to be better for them to have it now than after the war is started.

The Strike Cost

The controversy which, despite efforts to effect an understanding, still persists between the American Federation of Labor and the CIO is perhaps one of the most expensive luxuries in which this country has ever indulged.
At the root of most of the strikes which have occurred in industry during the past few years is the friction between these two labor organizations.

Time was when strikes were called only because wages were too low to permit even a minimum standard of living, or because family men were supplanted with child labor, or because working hours were extended to sixty, seventy, or even eighty hours a week. In such strikes, there is every justification.

More recently however, strikes have been called because a certain group of workers belonging to one organization sought to force other workers into the same organization. In some instances union workmen on one job have struck because some of the business deals on their job were made in factories by workmen belonging to a rival organization.

Such jurisdictional disputes resulting in irresponsibly called strikes have cost this country billions of dollars. Coming at a time when there are already millions of unemployed when consumption is already at a low ebb, when business and industry are absorbing billions of dollars more than normal, this additional strike cost is one which the country cannot long afford.

For, whenever a strike is called in an automobile plant in Michigan, it affects every person in the entire country. Orders of steel, aluminum, iron, glass, rubber and similar materials are immediately cancelled. Because of the falling off of demand for these supplies, workmen in far away cities are laid off. Because of the inability of dealers to obtain automobiles, salesmen have nothing to do. Transportation companies likewise suffer.

Competent and impartial authorities are of the opinion that much of the slump which occurred during the latter part of last year and the early part of this year was due almost entirely to the wave of irresponsible and down strikes which spread over the country in the winter of 1937, and which have continued more or less intermittently ever since. These strikes have resulted in the unemployment of millions of persons and in the expenditure of billions of dollars by the government for relief.

Under the circumstances it would seem that the leaders of the American Federation of Labor and the CIO could find some way of burying their differences and living in harmony with one another without the costly resort to strikes which have been plaguing the country during the past few months.

The Way Of The Machine

An old Negro was watching an experimental cotton-picking machine at work. The late Alexander Lezge, farm-machinery manufacturer, said to him:

"Uncle Tom, what will happen to your job if they begin picking all the cotton with machines?"

The Negro rolled his eyes in thought. "Boss," he said, "ah don' know. But ah knows dis: whatebber 'tis, it can't be harder dan pickin' cotton."

Workers do not always have such faith. Machines have lightened the burdens and increased the output of consumer goods past all reckoning; yet every important new machine causes widespread fear. "How many of us," workers ask, "will be thrown out of jobs?" Sometimes efforts have been made to beat the machine by destroying it or denying it. Self-binders were burned in the harvest fields by angry seythemen. Laws were once passed forbidding the use of machinery in making h. s.

Machines are not beaten that way. But the facts about technological development are slowly becoming better understood. Machines do throw men out of jobs.
But they make more jobs than they destroy. When agriculture, barely a century ago, was still largely an industry of hands, backs, and animal labor, only 258 out of each 1,000 persons were gainfully employed; 215 were agricultural workers. That was in 1820, in the United States.
In 1930, in the United States there were gainful jobs for 307 out of each 1,000; but only 85 of those jobs were in agriculture. Farms had been mechanized. Men who would have been farmers chose other occupations.

Thanks to the machine invasion of industry, there were hundreds of occupations awaiting their potential skills. This is satisfying to know. But another fact must be remembered. Machines make more employment in the long run, but may not create jobs for the particular men they displace; and in the long run, as a social worker put it, a man may starve. For full mastery in the machine age, we still have to give more thought to the problems of the transition period, when new machines make old labor techniques obsolescent. Men are still more important than machines. Even in the short run, they must not starve.—

National Pharmacy Week To Be Observed

Observance of "National Phar-by local druggists has been announced with the statement that the occasion is intended to focus public attention on the development of pharmaceutical science and the service of the druggist to the community.

In a prepared message to the public, local druggists today pointed to their profession and the service they render "in satisfying the million-and-one needs of their community—filling prescrip-night—and delivering them, too; the first one available in case of emergency, providing conveniences such as telephone, stamps, etc., at no extra cost, always ready with advice and information, a

Tobacco Marketing Election To Be Held

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—(AP)— Department of agriculture officials indicated a referendum on establishing marketing quotas for the 1939 Burley tobacco crop probably would be held around the middle of December.

A decision on the exact date for the balloting will be made late next month after it is determined whether supplies will be excessive.

December 17 was mentioned by informal persons as the likely date for the tobacco referendum both for Burley and dark types.
A cotton vote will be held, on Dec. 10, the same date being considered by the department for a flue-cured tobacco vote.

Before a production control program can be put into effect, two-thirds of the growers of each crop must approve. Growers gave overwhelming approval of control of the 1938 crop, 87.1 percent of the Burley growers approving the program.

A new device has been invented

York are the publishers, and the agine an Ezekiel book without the author's own first-illustrations and action.—N. S. H.

Illustrations in color, made from amusing sketches are worked into the text, sometimes four or five to a page, and they are the most expressive things. They make the little stories about Ezekiel, Emancipation, Old Florida, and the baby, A-ghost-data, very real. One sees them on their way to Ocala, to visit the big old home they started to dig "him" from out Florida. Then there are the top to Silver Springs, where Ezekiel gets caught on one of the glass-bottom boats, and is scared to death when the white folks find him. But instead of getting a scolding and a ducking in the water, Ezekiel benefits by a collection taken up among the passengers, so that he has enough to buy presents to take home.

The storm story is good, too, with Ezekiel tying the baby to a tree with his puppy's pink gal-luses, and then packing his little charges under a boat high up on the river bank, where they slept safely until the storm was over.

The turtle egg hunt makes a good story. So does the visit to the turquoise mine. Then, last of all is the story about Ezekiel and his love tools, which got pulled for him in the funniest way, right in church.

The little tales, told in the language of the colored people, are gay, and amusing with little white and black who will make new friends for Ezekiel and his little brothers and sisters. They are based on incidents which are of Florida all to be about, and we can't find the names or be- long carried by the children of other part of the country. They, and a host of good stories, will en- gage the interest of all who read these books for children that all their own. It's talk about, and recall of your childhood of delight. FLORIDA HIGHLIGHTS

THE ST. JOHNS RIVER remained unknown to the white man until 1567, the date of its discovery by Edgault. The St. Johns had previously been discovered in 1499 by Jacques Cartier, the Colorado by Arizon in 1491 and the Rio Grande and other large rivers of the southwest and west had also been discovered prior to 1567. The St. Johns had had various names: Indian, Illaka, French, River May; Spanish, San Mateo, Pineda, San Juan, English, St. Johns.

A FISH that can walk sounds quite impossible, nevertheless, it is a fact. Only natural for the FLYING ROBIN, a fish which ranges the coast of Florida. Its remarkable ventral fins can be directed downward which enable the fish to walk as though on still water. A member of the Flying Gurnard family and is regarded as being the most striking of the entire species. It is a fish of brilliant coloration and is often exhibited as a curiosity.

THE WILSONS of Lake Wales, Fla., have been notified by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service that they have been selected to receive a grant of $10,000 for the purpose of conducting a study of the flying gurnard in the St. Johns River. The grant will be used to purchase a boat and other equipment necessary for the study.

The ancient ritual of Rosh Hashanah, Jewish New Year, is performed in the above picture of two Jewish patriots officiating at the annual religious observance. One blows the "shofar," or ram's horn, calling the Jews to penitence and reflection and one holds the holy scroll of "Torah" or Old Testament. Orthodox Jews celebrate the New Year two days, while reform temples limit the observance to one day. Yom Kippur, "Day of Atonement," climaxes the 10 days of penitence, which this year are from sunset, Sept. 25, to Oct. 4.

Rolla J. Reel And W. H. DaBoll Die In Local Air Crash

Missing Motor And Attempt To Land Said To Have Been Cause Of Accident

Passengers Flown Without A Permit

Department Of Commerce Officials Arrive For Inquiry

Rolla J. Reel, local aviation enthusiast, and William H. DaBoll were killed instantly at the Municipal Airport yesterday afternoon about 1:45 o'clock when the small "Aviation" experimental plane in which they were flying crashed from an altitude of approximately 100 feet shortly after the take-off.

Eye witnesses said the craft's four cylinder motor started missing as the plane passed over the northern boundary of the airport. The pilot throttled the engine and attempted a sharp bank down in order to bring the plane down within the airport.

The pilot apparently lost control of the craft which went into a spin and plummeted earthward, landing on the left wing and engine about 50 feet from the northern boundary.

A loosened sparkplug had blown out, causing the motor to miss. It was revealed after the crash.

Valie A. Williams, who with Ralph Wight, James Webb, and other Sanford residents had been inspecting the plane which came here from Orlando, had just alighted after a flight over the city.

Mr. Reel, 58, is head of the Reel and Sons Dodge, Plymouth and used car agency here, and has been a business success for the past 12 years. For eight years he has been an aviation enthusiast and owns a small plane which he has been flying regularly. Several months ago Mr. Reel was injured when his plane crashed after a take-off from the DeLand airport.

Mr. DaBoll was a transport pilot from Lakeland. He was believed to have been piloting the small motor plane, at the time of the accident but it is not definitely known since the craft was equipped with dual controls.

Valie Williams who had gone aloft to see how the ship performed was the occupant of the plane before its last ride.

"We came down after a short spin and Mr. Reel, who was at the controls, said that he would take a short trip with the plane," Williams said last night describing the fatal "last ride."

"He and DaBoll taxied off and the plane went into the air, rising to about 200 feet when we could hear his engine missing. The pilot evidently cut off the motor and then we saw the ship turn out of the wind and head back towards the port. In just a few seconds it was plummeting down to earth. I had been taking moving pictures of the take-off. After it was up a piece, I took down my equipment. I don't know why."

Spectators rushed to the plane after the crash but found that the two men were dead. Neither of the occupants was badly cut but the terrific impact killed them instantly.

Eye witnesses said Mr. Reel's chest was crushed, his neck snapped.
