Stay on top of drug facts

DEAR DR. GOTT: Can you inform me as to the availability of a reliable listing of drugs and their interactions when taken simultaneously, written in layman's terms, that is available commercially?

DEAR READER: There are several publications that supply the information you request.

Most medical libraries contain the Physicians' Desk Reference, a compendium of drugs that is updated annually. The same company (Medical Economics) also has begun publishing a companion text called PDR Generics. Both these resources are excellent.

In addition, "Best Drugs, Worst Drugs" has been a popular reference book.

Finally, don't forget to question your doctor or pharmacist about drugs and their interactions. These professionals usually welcome such opportunities.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm a 74-year-old person in good health who underwent hip replacement surgery in 1986. Now my dentist requires me to fill a prescription for amoxicillin in order to avoid possible destruction of the replacement due to the release of bacteria from my mouth into my system. What basis of fact or research is known for this surprising cause and effect problem from teeth cleaning?

DEAR READER: Prosthetic devices anywhere in the body can become easily infected when bacteria invade the bloodstream and are carried to the artificial joint, heart valve or other implant.

Certain procedures are known to release showers of bacteria into the blood. Such procedures include cystoscopy (examination of the bladder), flexible sigmoidoscopy or colonoscopy (to examine the colon) -- and professional dental cleaning.

Consequently, your dentist is absolutely correct: You should take antibiotics at the time you have dental work.

DEAR DR. GOTT: If a doctor does his own blood work and cardiograms, shouldn't they cost less than in a laboratory atmosphere?

DEAR READER: In theory, yes. However, because of high volume, labs often offer tests at discounted rates to insurance companies, HMOs and even the public. On the other hand, if a doctor is willing to make less profit, he, too, can discount lab fees.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder
Lisa and David Berkowitz, of Old Tappan, N.J., have won several national bridge championships. They have two children, Dana, 10, and Michael, 8, who are champions in the making. And although they have attended several nationals, the one in New Orleans last summer was the first in which they had played. Over the first weekend, they competed in side games with their mother.

On this deal, Michael showed his innocence. The opponents cruised into four hearts. Lisa, West, led the diamond jack and the dummy was tabled. Michael started laughing. "Why are you laughing?" asked the declarer. "I don't have any diamonds," Michael replied, "and I have lots of trumps."

After ruffing the first trick,

Michael imaginatively switched to the club queen. Lisa overtook with the king and returned the diamond 10. Correctly reading this as a suit-preference signal for spades, Michael, after ruffing, led back a spade. The defense continued with a spade ruff, diamond ruff, spade ruff. That was the first six tricks and they should have collected a seventh with the spade king, but a wheel fell off a moment later.

The declarer took it in good spirit, saying that she would never forget the deal. When should children learn to play bridge? As early as possible, but I had always thought that only once they are 10 do they really assimilate the basics. Yet Michael Berkowitz is picking up the game quickly at the tender age of 8. Maybe it has something to do with his genes.

Phillip Alder's book, "Get Smarter at Bridge," is available.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bede Osoi
YOUR BIRTHDAY
Sept. 27, 1995

You could begin to receive the type of lucky breaks in the year ahead that seemed to go to others rather than to you in the past.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) This is a good day to wine and dine someone you owe socially. When you reciprocate, make it a memorable experience. Libra, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $2 and SASE to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 1758 Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10150. Make sure to state your zodiac sign.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) An important matter that has been difficult to conclude can be successfully wrapped up today if you keep your eye on your objective. Stay focused.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your skills as a salesperson could be very impressive today.

However, be certain that what you're promoting would benefit everyone concerned.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Today you might have more opportunities than usual to strengthen your material position. Do not treat this day with indifference.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Endeavors or enterprises you conceive or personally direct have solid chances for success today. You mustn't hesitate to tout your own horn.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Be alert for an arrangement today where you could earn a commission or derive special benefits from helping others wire a deal together.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You are now in a brief cycle in which several things you've been hoping for have extraordinary chances of becoming realities. Don't yield to doubts in any form.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) In order to achieve objectives today, you must go all out. Do not use half measures when full force is required. Be the pusher, not the one dragging your feet.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Special knowledge you possess has greater value than you realize. This might become evident to you today if you market what you have to offer.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You might reap some unique benefits today from an arrangement in which your primary goal is to help another further his or her expectations.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) People will respond to your ideas and suggestions more readily today if your presentation is sprinkled with humor. Use smiles and humor when selling or promoting.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) This can be a very rewarding day for you if you're prepared to earn what you want. Your gratification will be proportionate to the effort you expend.

SANFORD — A computer software company and a conveyor systems firm are relocating in Seminole County from neighboring counties, thanks in part, to $350,000 in incentives from Economic Development Funds.

Seminole County Commissioners Tuesday

approved $300,000 of incentives for HTE to move its computer software company to a building to be constructed in the Heathrow International Business Center. HTE employs 200 people in Orlando with subsidiary offices in Franklin, Ohio and Arlington Heights, Illinois.

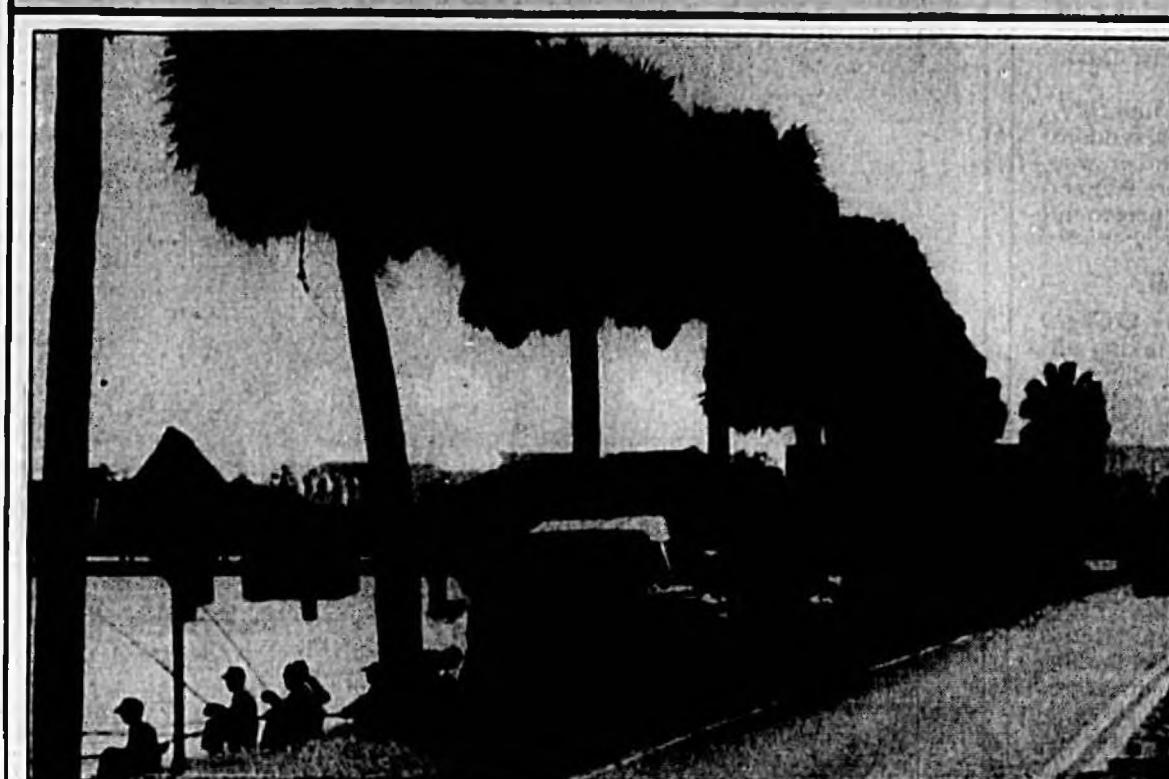

The commissioners also agreed to allocate $50,000 to Conveyor Systems, Inc. in DeBary as an incentive to relocate the Volusia County business in Sanford. City commissioners have also approved a $50,000 incentive for the company with a second reading scheduled Oct. 9. Award of the county money is contingent upon the approval of Sanford's contribution.

Both companies sell their products on the international market.

Cities, county weigh merits of fire departments responding to calls

By NICK PFREIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The question of who will be operating ambulances in the local area in the near future remains unanswered. The Seminole County Fire Chief's Association is recommending that each city and the county change from using Life Fleet Atlantic ambulances, to ambulances already on hand at the various fire departments.

The matter was brought up for extensive discussion Monday afternoon, during the Sanford City Commission work session meeting. On hand to join in the discussion were Dr. Ron Brown, medical director of Seminole County EMS services, and fire chiefs from Sanford, Lake Mary, Winter Park, Lake Mary, Oviedo, and Seminole County.

The Caselberry fire chief arrived late. Caselberry is presently the only municipality not using Atlantic. "Caselberry had a rough start at first," Dr. Brown commented. "But they're doing this now for five years, and they are doing an excellent job now."

Brown explained that with both medical personnel from fire departments and ambulance personnel arriving at injury scenes, "often, the fire people, knowing that the ambulance people are on their way, may have a tendency to hesitate or hold back. Where if the fire departments were handling these calls, they would arrive at the scene, determine the problem, load up, and be on their way immediately."

Brown admitted he had no complaints with AMS (Atlantic Medical Service) operations, but he See Ambulance, Page 5A

New grads enter work world

First class: Skills mesh in Academy of Construction Trades

By VICKI DeBORNIER
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — The first class to complete training in the Academy of Construction Trades has passed through the doors into the world of work.

The Academy of Construction Trades (ACT) is a consortium of more than three dozen area construction industry contractors and trade associations and the school boards of Seminole and Orange counties.

The education program helps prepare students for the workplace with both technical and vocational skills and practical application of academic skills.

In conjunction with the adult apprenticeship program at Seminole Community College, the program is a full four-year one.

The youth apprenticeship program involves completing the first year of the four year program during the junior and senior years of high school. The remaining three years are completed at SCC.

Of the 19 students of the youth program who graduated recently, 13 were students at Seminole County Schools. They came from programs at Lyman High School and Lake Mary High School.

They will go on to SCC to continue their education while working with their sponsoring contractors.

The graduates from Seminole County were: From the Carpentry program at Lake Mary High School: Quentin Brooks, James Brunson, Shane DeFreitas, Danny Kough, Steve Mucutza and Paul Simonson.

From the Electrical program at Lyman High School: Craig Kelly

Cops say boy, 15, to be tried as adult for attempted murder

By NICK PFREIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD — A 15-year-old boy has been arrested for attempted second degree murder after police say he allegedly shot another man in the mouth earlier this month.

Sebastian Salkind, 20, of Longwood, was reportedly shot in the mouth on Monday, Sept. 4.

According to Seminole County sheriff's spokesman Ed McDonough, the incident occurred as Salkind was sitting in his car, allegedly attempting to purchase crack cocaine at the intersection of Jackson and Merritt Streets near Altamonte Springs.

McDonough said Salkind had given a man money for the crack, but the man apparently had no drugs to sell. He grabbed Salkind's money, and when Salkind protested, shot him in the mouth with a 22 caliber revolver.

Now, Moesha Antwan Coleman, 15, of 607 Lake Mobile Drive, Altamonte Springs, has been charged in connection with the case. Charges include one count each of attempted second degree murder, aggravated battery, shooting into an occupied vehicle and possession of a firearm by a minor.

Coleman's case was reportedly transferred yesterday from the Seminole County Juvenile Court to the Circuit Court where he is to be tried as an adult. He was scheduled to make his initial court appearance this afternoon.

Coleman is being held under $25,000 bond in the John E. Polk Correctional Facility.

Salkind has recovered from his wound.

Predators cheer their fans

Mike McBass, co-owner of the Orlando Predators and receiver Herkie Walls went to Wilson Elementary School in Sanford Tuesday to cheer on the parents who work so hard to help teachers and students in the business of getting an education. The school's PTA invited the Predators, who are committed to doing what they can to be sure youngsters in the community stay away from drugs and stay in school, to speak to their members. Visits, such as this one, to schools are one way they are trying to serve as role models.

Impeachment action suspended

KISSIMMEE — An appeals court will consider arguments that Mayor John Pollet should not be impeached for accepting Orlando Magic tickets from companies doing business with the city.

Circuit Judge Frank Kaney on Monday suspended impeachment proceedings until the 5th District Court of Appeal in Daytona Beach hears a lawyer argue the city charter's impeachment provisions are unconstitutional.

The city commission voted to impeach Pollet for taking the tickets from an engineering firm with a $700,000 contract pending with the city and from a homebuilder who regularly applies for city building permits.

Under the city charter, the city commission sits in judgment of Pollet in an impeachment trial, which had been scheduled for today.

Consumer confidence index rises

GAINESVILLE — Better employment figures and a slowdown in inflation helped spur a small rise in consumer confidence in September, a University of Florida economist reports.

Preliminary numbers for the month show the Florida Consumer Confidence Index edged up from 92 in August to 93 in September, according to UF's Bureau of Economic and Business Research, which compiles the report. A year ago the index stood at 88.

"People see their jobs as reasonably secure, the cost of food and medical care is not rising as rapidly as it did and the stock and bond markets are doing OK," said UF economist David Denalow.

The consumer attitude survey is conducted monthly. Respondents are 18 or older and contacted through random telephone dialing. The preliminary index for September was calculated from 1,000 responses. Statewide results are subject to a sampling error of almost three points; the error for regional results is almost four points.

Students earn degrees via computers

MELBOURNE — Students at Brevard Community College will soon be able to earn their two-year degrees by taking all their courses by computer.

BCC is a pioneer in a new association of community colleges and universities offering their classrooms to American Online users. The aim of the organization, World Community College, is to improve the quality of education and eliminate the traditional costs of its delivery.

College online is more than a good idea, said Jacques DuBois, the distance learning director for BCC and its Cocoa campus partner, the University of Central Florida. For some students, it's a necessity.

Many students or college prospects find it difficult to attend classes in a college setting and hold down jobs and meet family responsibilities, he said. This way, they can get an education without leaving home.

In some instances, students can get online classes while at work.

Jury acquits mayor

TAVARES — A jury has acquitted the suspended mayor of Maacotte on charges of assaulting the police chief, taking a bribe from a carnival operator and stealing dirt.

Josh Thomas, suspended from office in August 1994 after his arrest, will ask Gov. Lawton Chiles to reinstate him as mayor of Maacotte, a Lake County town west of Orlando.

Robert Merkle, Thomas' lawyer and a former U.S. attorney, characterized the charges as "a smear campaign" by political opponents, the police chief and others.

A vengeful police chief, Randy Stienstra, began an investigation because he wanted the mayor out of office, Merkle contended.

"The case is a series of inventions by the chief," Merkle said, noting that since Thomas' suspension, Stienstra had received a raise, new patrol cars and a police dog.

"Who knew what was in the future of Randy Stienstra's empire?" Merkle said. "And Mayor Thomas was in his way."

Man linked to murder kills self

TAMPA — A man gathered his family in the predawn hours, told them he had killed a woman and intended to take his own life. Then he left and fired a bullet into his head.

Diosadado Cano, 43, killed himself as Pasco County detectives gathered evidence linking him to the Sept. 18 slaying of Mary Schutz of Wesley Chapel, about 30 miles northeast of Tampa.

The naked body of the 33-year-old mother of five was found near a vacant business park. She had five bullet wounds in her head, investigators said Monday.

Cano, a Vietnam veteran, suffered from schizophrenia, said his daughter Myrna Cano, 21.

"We pleaded with him," she said, recalling how the family reacted in horror when he told them of his plans.

Food stamp fraud Federal agents arrest 12 in 4 states

By BILL KACZOR
Associated Press Writer

PENSACOLA — Federal agents have arrested 12 storekeepers in Florida, Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana on food stamp fraud charges totaling an estimated $3 million over the last 10 years.

The suspects, arrested Tuesday, are accused of purchasing food stamps for approximately half the value and redeeming them for full value, said U.S. Attorney P. Michael Patterson.

The stamps were redeemed directly through three stores owned by defendants in Pensacola and one each in Biloxi, Miss., and New Orleans or at other stores throughout the four-state area.

"The government has the responsibility to ensure that these programs go for the intended individuals and not to line the pockets of people that corruptly and illegally use the system," Patterson said at a news conference.

It is illegal to buy or sell food stamps for cash, but Patterson said the investigation did not target people who sold the stamps to the storekeepers.

Six arrests were made in Pensacola and the others in Mobile, Ala., Biloxi, and New Orleans. The government also is seeking forfeiture of millions of dollars in real estate and other property used in the alleged fraud.

The arrests resulted from an investigation involving several state, local and federal agencies that began in early 1994 when an informant tipped the federal Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms.

In some cases, law enforcement agencies conducted stings by using undercover officers to sell stamps to the stores.

The stores involved in the alleged fraud were reporting food stamp redemptions that accounted for 90 percent or more of their sales compared to an average of 15 to 20 percent for legitimate groceries.

The Tan Du Grocery in Biloxi was accused of frequently reporting average monthly food stamp redemptions that exceeded reported monthly food sales.

A separate 40-count indictment leveled the same charges against Ly Cong Nguyen and Sunshine Grocery of Northwest Florida.

25-cent calling routes approved

By BILL BERGSTROM
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — Regulators say nearly 290 long-distance routes will become flat-rate 25-cent calls for Southern Bell customers, though some argued that will hurt competitors of Florida's largest telephone company.

Callers will pay the quarter rate instead of long-distance charges of 19 cents a minute on regional calls such as those between Miami and Key West, West Palm Beach and Belle Glade, and Fort Lauderdale and Boca Raton, the state Public Service Commission decided Tuesday.

"I think you are going to have a lot of happy people throughout Bell's areas," said Public Counsel Jack Shreve, who represents consumers in rate cases before the state Public Service Commission.

Telephone customers flooded the PSC with some 2,000 e-mails urging the flat rates, Shreve said. Flat rates start Jan. 1.

Two members of the five-member panel voted against Southern Bell's proposal, which had been opposed by a PSC staff recommendation.

Long-distance companies such as AT&T and MCI said their ability to compete in the regional toll-call market would be hurt by granting Southern Bell the lower flat rates. The PSC staff said earlier this month all but 70 of the flat-rate routes should be rejected.

"We are in effect taking those routes out of the competitive market," said Commission Chairman Susan Clark, who voted not along with Commissioner Diane Kealing.

"This is trying to get money back in the hands of the ratepayers," argued Commissioner Joe Garcia, voting yes along with commissioners Terry Deason and Julia Johnson. "The reduction of these rates is what people want."

Burglary resolved

John L. Neece, 24, of 137 Des Pinar Lane, Longwood, was located by deputies in the 3600 block of Lake Emma Road Monday. Deputies had been investigating a reported theft near his home, also on Des Pinar Lane which reportedly occurred on Sept. 21. Deputies reportedly received a call regarding a suspicious person seen on Lake Emma Road Monday pushing a baby stroller with two VCRs in it. Following his apprehension and an investigation, the arrest report indicated that Neece not only confessed to the Sept. 21 burglary, but also told deputies he had taken the baby stroller and VCRs from the same residence Monday morning.

In connection with the two incidents, he was charged with two counts of burglary to a structure, two counts of grand theft, and one of dealing in stolen property.

Accident

Longwood police arrested Patton Floyd Eggericha, 28, of 2109 Hartwell Avenue, Sanford, following an auto accident Sunday at the intersection of CR-434 and CR-427 in Longwood. Police said he reportedly left the scene. He was located in the 200 block of Tullis Avenue, and charged with leaving the scene of an accident with injuries, careless driving, and having no proof of insurance.

Trespassing

Franco Fey, 37, who gave his address as 142 N. Hollis Street, Lake Mary, was arrested by Lake Mary police Sunday. The arrest report indicated Fey had lived at that address, but had been told to leave earlier, and had been issued a trespassing warning. Fey was reportedly located in the house Sunday, where police said he apparently broke a window for entry. He was subsequently arrested on charges of burglary to a dwelling, criminal mischief, and trespassing after warning.

Traffic stops

● Cindy A. Marshall, 35, 500 W. Airport Blvd., was stopped by Sanford police in the 300 block of Airport Blvd. Sunday. She was charged with driving with a suspended license.

● Raymond N. Fontana, 27, of Deltona, was stopped on Lake Mary Boulevard by Lake Mary police Sunday. He was charged with driving under the influence.

● Eric Leroy Butler, 31, 607 San Marcos, Sanford, was stopped by Sanford police at Third Street and Park Avenue Monday. He was found to be wanted on warrants for violation of probation on a conviction of driving with a suspended/revoked license, and failing to appear to pay a fine.

● Darren Stephen Guth, 28, 1267 Regency, Heathrow, was stopped by sheriff's deputies on Lake Mary Boulevard Monday. He was charged with possession of 20 grams of cannabis and possession of drug paraphernalia.

Warrants

● Bridget R. Nelson, 28, 105 Sterling Court, Sanford, was served a warrant at the John E. Polk Correctional Facility Monday. She was wanted for failing to appear on a charge of driving with a suspended license.

● Billy Joe Humphreys, 29, SR-415, Osteen, was located by Sanford police at U.S. Highway 17-92 and State Street Sunday. He was wanted for failing to appear on a charge of having a suspended license.

● Danny Austin Johnson, 38, 2212 Mitch Court, Sanford, was located by deputies at W. 25th Street and Hartwell Avenue Monday. He was wanted for violation of probation on a conviction of battery.

● Monroe Smith, 46, 1727 First Drive, Sanford, was located by deputies at First Drive near Burrows Monday. He was wanted for failing to appear to pay a fine.

Domestic

Terry Lynn Endicott, 35, who deputies said refused to give an address, was arrested in the 300 block of Polmettia Drive Monday following a reported altercation with her mother and other relatives. She was charged with battery, domestic violence.

Sanford police reports

● A TV, camera, and other items with a total value of $750 were reportedly stolen Monday from an apartment in the 6100 block of Stonebrook Apartments.

● A CD player, TV set and $10 in cash, for a total value of $425, were reportedly taken Thursday from a residence in the 400 block of Palmetto Avenue.

● An estimated 20 feet of copper cable, valued at $500, was reported stolen Monday from a Southern Bell construction site near the intersection of Upsala Road and Dogwood Road.

● A $1,300 air conditioning unit was reportedly stolen Monday from a home under construction in the 800 block of Valencia Street.

Violence cases

● Jeffrey Bernard Campbell, 33, of 22 Lake Monroe Terrace, was located at William Clark Court Friday by Sanford police, where he reportedly had a dispute with another person. He was charged with aggravated battery.

● Felicia K. Brewington, 22, 1124 Roseliff Circle, was located in front of her residence Thursday by Sanford police following a reported dispute with her husband. She was charged with aggravated assault, domestic violence.

● Victor G. Graham, 20, 1808 Peach Avenue, Sanford, was arrested at his residence Sunday by Sanford police following a reported fight with a female. He was charged with aggravated battery domestic violence.

● Harrell Robert Rawlins, 33, 382 Bentway Lane, Lake Mary, was arrested Sunday by Lake Mary police at his residence as the result of a reported altercation with his wife. He was charged with battery, domestic violence.

Retail thefts

● Robert N. Maloney, 53, of Casselberry, was arrested by Sanford police Saturday at a store in the 1500 block of French Avenue. Officers said he is believed to have taken $9.08 in food products without paying. He was charged with retail theft.

● Gary Willard Williams, 41, whose address was listed as Fifth Street and Palmetto Avenue in Sanford, was arrested at a store in the 100 block of E. First Street by Sanford police Saturday. Police said he is believed to have taken two 49 cent packs of donut sticks from a store without paying. He was charged with retail theft.

Number of new HIV cases in U.S. infants levels off

By BRUNDA S. COLEMAN
AP Medical Writer

CHICAGO — The number of U.S. newborns who get the AIDS virus from their mothers has leveled off to about 1,600 a year, government researchers said.

Despite the findings, doctors said they were discouraged. They noted that about two-thirds of the babies could be spared from the disease if their mothers were treated with the drug AZT during pregnancy.

"What it really says to me is that there is a continuing problem with HIV infection in children," said Dr. Susan F. Davis of the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention in Atlanta.

More than 15,000 youngsters were born with HIV, the virus that causes AIDS, between 1978 and 1993, Davis and her team reported in today's issue of The Journal of the American Medical Association.

Twelve thousand of those children were still alive at the beginning of last year, all needing medical and social care, and many destined for foster care because their mothers will die of AIDS, Davis and her team said.

In 1993, 6,530 HIV-infected women gave birth in the United States, an estimated one-fourth of them infecting their newborns, producing 1,830 HIV-infected infants that year, the researchers said.

That was fewer than in 1992 — when 1,750 infected infants were born. In 1991, 1,760 were born. In 1990, 1,650 were born. And in 1989, 1,590 were born.

The reason for the leveling off after 1989 is unknown, the researchers said. Possibly it was due to decreased fertility among infected women, or to an increased number of abortions among them or to a leveling off of HIV infections among childbearing women, the researchers said.

Treating infected women during pregnancy and their newborns afterward with AZT reduced the rate of mother-to-child transmission by two-thirds in a recent study, the researchers noted.

They called attention to recently issued CDC guidelines urging all pregnant women to get HIV testing and counseling so that treatment could be started and infections in newborns averted.

Dr. John L. Sullivan, a researcher of AIDS in newborns and a pediatrics professor at the University of Massachusetts Medical School in Worcester, said the study is consistent with trends in his state.

"We know that a majority of (infected) women are not getting access (to treatment) because they don't know they're HIV-infected, and that's because they haven't been offered HIV testing," said Sullivan, who was not involved in the CDC study.

Sullivan supports mandatory screening and also a resumption of the CDC's nationwide tests of newborns to track the infection rate. The agency suspended that testing this spring after protests that the results were kept secret from mothers of the tested babies.

"I think it's incredibly important that it continue," Sullivan said. "It's the only way we're going to find out if we're doing our job."

A wise decision

Many people love to fish. Therefore, we are certain many are pleased with the results of a discussion regarding lakefront fishing during Monday afternoon's Sanford city commission work session.

There had been a suggestion that police crack down on fishermen parking along Seminole Boulevard near the U.S. Highway 17-92 (French Avenue) intersection. Because of parking limitations, fishermen frequenting that area have to park their vehicles on the grass north of the pavement.

It should be pointed out that hardly ever are any of the vehicles parked close enough to the street to be a traffic hazard. Fishermen are not only nice people, but they practice safety and acknowledge the rights of others.

Fishing is many things to many people. For a large majority, it is sport. For others, it is rest and relaxation. There are also a few, who, because of their financial limitations, are trying to hook the big ones strictly to feed their families.

Fishing along the Sanford lakefront is often done in groups. People gather where they see others. They may believe the others know where the fish are biting, or they may merely wish companionship.

They all agree however, that it is an opportunity to meet friends and neighbors, and socialize. With the common connection being their fishing poles, they have a lot to share with one another.

Call it what you will, but there should be no doubt, fishing on the shore of Lake Monroe can be classed as one of Sanford's tourist attractions. Just look at the license plates of the vehicles along the lakeshore. They are from Orange County, Volusia County, Lake County, and often from out of state.

While many cities have outstanding lakes, there are very few lakefront of this caliber with the seawall on which to sit, beautiful scenery to enjoy, and nearby stores if a person wishes to shop or grab a bite for lunch.

We have an active Waterfront Master Plan committee working on ways to improve the lakefront. They are moving ahead very well. But in the past, other similar committees have operated in Sanford, and the result is what we have today. We should be grateful for what they did, just as we hope the citizens of the future will be pleased with what the present Waterfront committee will be doing.

In ending the discussion about preventing fishermen from parking off-street in that area of Seminole Boulevard, we believe the city commission acted wisely and in the best interests of the citizens. It was a good decision.

We also believe we can depend on fishermen to continue exercising caution in their parking.

Late Tuesday afternoon however, one vehicle was seen parked directly next to the yield sign. This is a no-no. Unless this stops, you can be certain the matter will come up for consideration again, and this time, fishermen may not like the results.

LETTER

No Jet Skis, please

Being a native Central Floridian my family and I appreciate the simple pleasure of canoeing on the Econ approximately twice a month. The environmental agencies, local and statewide, have done an excellent job on returning the Econ to a wonderful nature preserve.

Recently, a new development is threatening the Econ's serenity - Jet Skis. After calling all agencies that might deal with this problem it boils down to this: the fate of the Econ waterways are in the hands of the local county politicians.

I'm asking your help in trying to persuade the county commission to pass a "No Gasoline Powered Motors" ordinance for the Econ, or establish the Econ as a "No Wake Zone."

It is hard for me to understand why people are so inconsiderate - messing up one of the few canoe friendly areas - polluting with gas engines and causing wakes. It is so nice to have a place to watch the eagles and deer and other wildlife in their habitat. Instead, now I smell gasoline, hear tremendous engine noise, and the mud is washed into the river from the waves made by the Jet Skis. I realize that everyone has a right to use public waterways, but the Econ is one of the last wilderness areas in Central Florida that man has not developed and/or ruined. Jet Skis have a multitude of other waterways in Florida to pollute besides the Econ, which is one of the most beautiful canoe runs in the state.

Please give this your utmost consideration. Places like the Econ are disappearing fast.

Some lobbyists take taxpayer dollars

"More children will be killed, more children will be raped." So read an advertisement from The Child Welfare League of America, opposing the welfare-reform proposals included in the House GOP's "Contract With America."

The league is entitled to its opinion, of course. But it is unseemly - if not illegal - that the tax-exempt organization blithely accepted more than $250,000 in federal welfare dollars between July 1993 and July 1994, then proceeded to wage an advertising campaign to increase welfare spending.

And the Child Welfare League is not the only "nonprofit" organization that engages in this questionable practice. In 1995, the federal government will hand out more than $39 billion in subsidies to an estimated 40,000 special interest and tax-exempt groups, many of which actively lobby the government for even more spending.

Recognizing the difficulty of balancing the budget with so many groups pressuring lawmakers to spend more, Republican Reps. Ernest Istook of Oklahoma, David McIntosh of Indiana and Bob Ehrlich of Maryland co-sponsored a measure that restricts any group receiving federal dollars from spending more than 5 percent of their funds to lobby Congress or the White House, to participate in political campaigns or to engage in any other political activities.

The measure was included in the House Treasury-Postal appropriations bill, which passed in August, and is now under consideration by a House and Senate conference committee.

Ironically, the biggest impediment to enactment of the lobbying ban are two squishy Republican senators, Jim Jeffords of Vermont and Mark Hatfield of Oregon, who are blocking the measure in deference to liberal special interests.

But Rep. Istook, a member of House-Senate appropriations conference committee, along with Jeffords and Hatfield, refuses to back down. "You need to make up your mind," he said to the special interests who oppose his lobbying ban. "Are you a political group or are you a charity? You can't mix the two."

And the Child Welfare League is not the only 'nonprofit' organization that engages in this questionable practice.

But it hardly seems unfair or unwise or un-American to require that groups receiving taxpayer subsidies refrain from political activities. In fact, federal law prohibits the use of federal funds for lobbying (although there are no clear guidelines as to specific prohibited practices).

And the Supreme Court ruled in 1977 - before any Reagan or Bush appointments to the high court - that taxpayers must not be compelled, directly or indirectly, "to contribute to the support of an ideological cause (they) may oppose."

Yet, even with the federal law on the book, even with the Supreme Court ruling, thousands of advocacy groups continue to take federal tax dollars while engaging in political activities.

The biggest offenders happen to be two powerful seniors groups, the American Association of Retired Persons and the National Council of Senior Citizens. AARP received $73.6 million in federal grants between July 1993 and July 1994, making up one-quarter of its annual budget.

SARA ECKEL

Too many pounds or too much hype?

All my life, people have told me I'm thin. I'm neither proud nor ashamed of this fact: it's just how it is. "How can you eat that and stay so skinny?" an acquaintance will ask in the ice cream store. "So THAT'S how you stay so slim," a co-worker will say if salad is my lunch choice. I've never courted such comments, but I've received them, all my life.

So it was with great alarm that I read in the New York Times recently that I'm not thin at all. Actually, I'm overweight. I'm 5 feet 5 inches and weigh 125 pounds. That's tuberville, according to the Times. The study, published in the New England Journal of Medicine. The Times and many other newspapers say that women who are my height incur a 20 percent higher risk of early death if they weigh more than 119 pounds.

We thought they had eating disorders, but it turns out they were health nuts.

What's more, the health journalists report, it turns out that you can never be too thin. Dr. Tim Byers, professor of preventative medicine at the University of Colorado, told the Times that this and a related study "dispel the myth that being too thin is harmful."

Well, don't I feel the fool. For all these years I've been begging my friends not to deny themselves nourishment in the pursuit of a supermodel figure. I've been preaching the virtues of eating healthy food, reminding my dieting pals that food is a good thing, that the body needs it in order to function, that without it you'll die.

And now it turns out I was completely wrong. Worse, I've been hurling my friends headfirst toward death. Food IS the enemy, just like all the beauty magazines said. Those skittish girls from high school, the ones who prided themselves on eating nothing but lettuce leaves and Melba toast, weren't crazy after all. We thought they had eating disorders, but it turns out they were health nuts.

Distressed by all the misinformation I'd been spreading amongst my friends, I called Elizabeth Hiser, a registered dietitian and nutrition editor at Eating Well magazine. Hiser too was surprised by the findings. At 5 feet 6 inches and 120 pounds, Hiser had lived her whole life believing herself thin. "I've always been low on the weight charts and now I'm being told I'm just borderline. I really have a hard time believing that," she said.

Actually, the study, which came out of the Harvard Medical School, does have some value. "The researchers are correct in saying that we shouldn't liberalize our weight ranges and say it's OK to keep gaining weight," says Hiser, "but the problem is this gets interpreted by every woman who reads this in the newspaper, and they try to apply it to themselves."

That, says Hiser, is a mistake. Statistics do not always boil down to health advice, and the Harvard study has serious omissions that diminish its relevance to the average woman. For example, the study does not account for the effects of body frame or exercise. Large-boned women will simply not be able to get themselves down to the "ideal" weights unless they starve themselves or take up smoking. And exercise, which we all know makes people healthier, also makes people heavier, because muscle weighs more than fat.

Actually, the symptoms of starvation - listlessness, self-absorption, fatigue, apathy, anxiousness, restlessness - are something Berg sees in a lot of women. "They might not have eating disorders," says Berg, "but a lot of women are undernourishing themselves. People ask, 'Where are all the young women in the women's movement?' Where are they? They're dieting."

MORTON KONDRACK

Repeating '94 health errors

Congressional Republicans plotting Medicare strategy have successfully dodged the public scrutiny that killed off President Clinton's 1994 health care plan, but they are repeating another of his mistakes: refusal to compromise.

Just as Clinton and his wife insisted on comprehensive health care reform and disdained incremental change last year until no agreement with Republicans was possible, the GOP is demanding $270 billion worth of Medicare spending reductions - plus a draconian $182 billion in Medicaid cuts - guaranteeing a presidential veto of Congress' budget reconciliation bill.

Senate Democrats are working on a good compromise: stopgap reductions of $89 billion designed to keep Medicare solvent over the next seven years and creation of a national commission to study long-term reforms. This would require Republicans either to stretch out their budget-balancing plans beyond 2002 or cut back on their wished-for $240 billion in tax cuts.

A new proposal for a market-based overhaul of Medicare - which Republicans once promised but seemingly have abandoned to avoid political trouble - will be unveiled by the Democratic Leadership Council, headed by Sen. Joe Lieberman, D-Conn.

Meanwhile, until recently details of both the House and Senate GOP Medicare plans were being so tightly held that staffers reportedly were forbidden to carry written material out of strategy sessions.

The Senate plan is to be revealed at a meeting of the Senate Finance Committee and voted on beginning two business days later without any hearings.

The House Ways and Means Committee is planning to release details, hold a hearing the next day, and mark up a bill the following week. Ways and Means Republicans are under orders to defeat Democratic amendments and propose none of their own.

The Republicans clearly have overlearned the lessons they taught Clinton in 1994: that a plan lying in the open for months will be shot to pieces and that intraparty squabbling aids the opposition. As a result, the GOP is now open to charges of conducting health care reform by stealth.

Republicans also have suppressed outside opposition with promises and threats. Lobbies representing seniors, such as the American Association of Retired Persons, have been quieted by GOP promises to put the heaviest burden of Medicare reductions - $190 billion in the House measure - on doctors and hospitals and to go relatively easy on beneficiaries. Seniors won't be pushed into HMOs, for instance.

Undoubtedly, there will be a drop in the quality of care provided by many hospitals as nurses are fired and services curtailed, but the American Hospital Association and other provider groups have been threatened, health lobbyists say, with loss of access to Speaker Newt Gingrich, R-Ga., and the Republican leadership if they repeat a sharp advertising campaign they mounted earlier this year protesting the cuts.

The hospitals also have been wooed with a proposal allowing them to directly market services to Medicare recipients. This is being furiously fought by insurance companies and HMOs.

So far, secrecy, skillful politics, and PR have given Republicans an edge on Medicare and Medicaid, but that's likely to stop as Clinton becomes fully engaged. He threatened to veto proposed GOP Medicare reductions, and his recent speech in Colorado contained a blistering attack on the planned 30 percent Medicaid reductions for the poor and disabled.

Republicans think they can force Clinton to swallow a budget reconciliation package containing $450 billion in health reductions, plus tax cuts skewed to the wealthy, by attaching to it a "must-align" debt-ceiling extension permitting the government to borrow money to pay its bills.

As an alternative to GOP proposals, Clinton has suggested $130 billion in Medicare reductions, $54 billion in Medicaid cuts, $105 billion in middle-class tax cuts, and a balanced budget over 10 years instead of seven.

In between Clinton's proposal and that of the Republicans, one health care group has proposed a postponement of $80 billion in the cuts to be imposed on hospitals.

Under the DLC's long-term proposal, Medicare would cease to be an entitlement and would become a means-tested subsidy, with seniors encouraged to join purchasing cooperatives to bargain for insurance coverage and health services.

Clearly, there's an opportunity for compromise here, but so far Republicans are insisting that the 1994 election gave them a mandate they're bound to fulfill.

They are repeating another of his mistakes: refusal to compromise.

believed the people of the entire county would be better served if the entire county and all fire departments were directly involved.

Responding to a question regarding skills of fire EMS personnel versus AMS medical people, Brown said, "As was the case in Casselberry, the skills go up rapidly after they started. The more they do the better they get at it."

He explained that in addition to fire personnel, many hospitals are also instituting their own ambulance service. He added however, that Central Florida Regional Hospital in Sanford is not among the group at present.

Mayor Bettye Smith gave an example. "If someone had to be taken, we'll say, to Orlando Regional Medical Center from here, wouldn't that be a long trip and keep some of our people out of operation?"

Brown responded that this is already happening in some cases, especially in the Trauma Center. "But you would never be left short. If one unit is out for a brief time, another will be assigned to fill in if needed. Palm Beach County is also undertaking it now."

Commissioner Kerry Lyons questioned if other counties are conducting their own ambulance operations.

"Many, no, perhaps a majority of them are doing that," Brown responded. "Jacksonville has been doing it for many years and they are doing well."

On the other side of the issue, Bob Everhard, director of operations for Atlantic Medical Service was also on hand. Regarding Palm Beach County, he explained that while it is, indeed working well, "A recent magazine quoted Palm Beach statistics showing that it has the most expensive ambulance service anywhere in the state," he said.

"While Seminole County has the finest EMS service in Central Florida," he continued, "Seminole County, right now, (with AMS) also has the lowest transportation rate costs according to a July report."

The contract for services with Atlantic is nearing a conclusion, and Seminole County has considered whether to renew the contract or place the matter out for bidding from other ambulance services. The fire chiefs meanwhile, have come up with their own solution, that is, to have the fire departments, with what is already a large fleet of ambulance equipment, take over the entire situation.

Seminole County Public Safety Director Gary Kiser observed that the County Commission was originally scheduled to discuss the matter this Tuesday, but has put the item off until the second meeting in October.

"I will agree, Kiser said, "that to do this would practically be reinventing things, but it could be more efficient and improve ambulance service, and after all, doing what is best for all of the people is what each of us must have as our primary concern."

economic incentive proposals to the commissioners.

Calling the HTE move a "bricks and mortar deal," Rabun explained the new building will be constructed, adding to the tax base. Conveyor Systems Inc. is moving into an existing structure.

"The company (HTE) is proposing to enter into a long term lease in a new building that will be built at the Heathrow International Business Center and add over 400 new, high-paying jobs over the next five years," Rabun said. "The total capital investment of $11.9 million includes buildings and equipment with a return on county-wide ad valorem taxes of 1.3 years."

The proposed 78,000 square feet multi-story office building could be expanded another 80,000 square feet. A 10-year lease is contemplated according to supporting documents. Over the next five years, the company anticipates hiring 532 full-time workers with an average base salary of $40,000, less benefits.

HTE requested $450,000 in incentive funds to locate in Seminole County after a year-long search for a new location.

The cooperative incentive program providing $100,000 for Conveyor Systems Inc. will bring 75 people currently working at the DeBary facility to the Simplematic Building on Airport Boulevard. An additional 60 employees will be added over the next five years. The building has been vacant for two years.

Rabun said the total capital investment of $3.8 million includes the purchase of the building, machinery and equipment. The tax differential to the county for machinery and equipment, represents a return on ad valorem taxes of 2.4 years.

In business 11 years, Conveyor Systems Inc. manufactures state-of-the-art conveying systems for the food and beverage industry.

"Currently, our major product lines deal with the conveying of empty beverage cans throughout the fabrication process in can manufacturing plants," Bill Butt, general manager explained.

The company's customers include Anheuser Busch, Crown Cork & Seal, and Ball Container Corporation, according to a letter requesting economic incentive funds.

"The industry is currently enjoying a tremendous growth period, particularly in worldwide markets," he added. "Some of CSI's recent shipments have been to such diverse locations as Turkey, South America, China, Europe and Vietnam."

In other business during their day-long meeting, the commissioners:

• Set the 1985-86 millage rate at $7.92 for each $1,000 of taxable value. The rate is unchanged from the current rate. The owner of a $100,000 house with a $25,000 homestead exemption will pay $594 in county taxes. That amount does not include school taxes or other taxing district levies (municipal, water management, etc.).

• Approved the $443 million budget after several citizens requested some belt-tightening to help out the taxpayers. One speaker called for a 10 percent across the board budget cut. Chairman Randy Morris explained lopping off that amount would prompt lawsuits because the county could not fulfill its obligations. "There is no service we're supplying that isn't being demanded by someone," Morris said.

The commissioners added a $16,470 to provide six radar units to Florida Highway Patrol vehicles assigned to Seminole County. The board also added a pay grade adjustment in the reclassification of Planning and Development director. The reclassification will cost $3,911.

• Waived the recruitment posting requirements to allow the appointment of Bob Turk as Economic Development Coordinator. Turk works for the Economic Development Commission of Mid-Florida. He is the designated Seminole County representative on the commission and is involved in development of projects currently underway.

• Delayed discussion of changes in the county billboard regulations until the full commission could attend a work session. Morris left for a medical appointment before the start of the discussion. The session will be conducted Oct. 17.

of the subject during Monday afternoon's city commission work session, the fishermen and fisherwomen will be allowed to continue their enjoyment at that location.

It's common sense that people will fish where fish are biting. Therefore, that particular area has been the main fishing spot of late.

At the Sept. 11 meeting of the Sanford City Commission, commissioner Whitey Eckstein called for an end to the parking. He said the matter had been mentioned to him by Seminole County Commissioner Daryl McLain.

Eckstein told the commission that Eoghan Kelley, who has his office at the round building at 601 W. Seminole Blvd., could not even see the lake because of the influx of fishermen and vehicles.

Because of a lack of parking space, the vehicles park on the grass along the right-of-way.

Monday afternoon, Deputy Police Chief Joe Dillard was asked to report on any traffic problems in that area. "I checked over a five year period," Dillard responded, "and there have been only 19 accidents in that vicinity, with no fatalities." Dillard said the number, considering that length of time, was relatively insignificant.

"Based on my conversation with the Sanford police and Seminole County traffic engineers," said City Manager Bill Simmons, "they say they don't see any problems as long as there is no parking within 20 feet of that yield sign."

Simmons explained that some of the problem occurred when the city redesigned Seminole Boulevard, and eliminated some of the parking area near the Seminole County courthouse.

During the work session consideration, Eckstein did not enter into the discussion, and remained silent when the remaining commissioners voiced a consensus that there was no present need to ask police to prevent vehicles from parking in that area. It was felt the matter needed no further commission action.

Later however, following the regular commission meeting's regular agenda, Frank Joyce, who identified himself as one of the persons fishing in the area, asked the commission to vote against taking away the people's right to fish at that area. Joyce said he was speaking on behalf of many who enjoyed that pastime.

Study: Dangerous nicotine levels in workplaces

By BRENDA G. COLEMAN
AP Medical Writer

CHICAGO — In offices where smoking is allowed, nicotine levels are more than triple the levels considered hazardous by U.S. regulatory standards, researchers found in what is believed to be the largest study on secondhand smoke in the workplace.

"The tobacco industry says work exposures are trivial compared to home exposures," said lead researcher S. Katharine Hammond, an associate professor in public health at the University of California, Berkeley.

"And this paper says that's clearly not true."

A spokesman for the tobacco industry said the study's methods were faulty and its conclusions contradict other research.

The study, in today's issue of The Journal of the American Medical Association, was conducted in Massachusetts, when Hammond worked at the University of Massachusetts Medical School in Worcester.

Hammond's team placed 25 fiber disks treated to react to nicotine at each of 25 work sites, including fire stations, newspaper publishing facilities, textile drying plants and various manufacturing facilities. The disks were left for a week in offices, cafeterias and production areas.

Tests on the disks revealed that average nicotine concentrations in the air during the week varied greatly depending on work-site smoking policies.

Levels ranged from 8.6 micrograms per cubic meter of air in open offices where smoking was allowed, to 1.3 micrograms where smoking was restricted, to 0.3 micrograms where smoking was banned. In nonoffice areas, the levels were 2.3 micrograms, 0.7 micrograms and 0.2 micrograms, respectively.

Exposure to an average of 2.3 micrograms of nicotine per cubic meter of air for eight hours a day over 40 years creates a lung cancer risk of three in 10,000, Hammond's team said, citing previous research. A risk level that high almost always prompts U.S. regulatory agencies to try to reduce whatever is causing the risk, the researchers said.

Secondhand smoke is believed to have an even greater effect on heart disease. Studies have estimated that secondhand smoke may cause 30,000 to 50,000 U.S. nonsmokers to die each year from heart disease, compared with 3,000 deaths from lung cancer, the researchers said.

Hammond said the Massachusetts work sites are typical of other American workplaces.

Tom Lauria, a spokesman for the Tobacco Institute, a Washington-based trade group, said Hammond's method of monitoring at fixed locations failed to account for varying amounts of time employees actually spent at those locations.

"To measure workplace exposure properly, both concentration and length of exposure must be measured," he said.

Other research has found much lower workplace concentrations, Lauria added, citing a study by Oak Ridge National Laboratory in 16 cities.

"Preliminary results from the Oak Ridge study show as much as 13 times less exposure in the workplace than at other locations," Lauria said.

Hammond said the Oak Ridge study has not yet been published in a scientific journal and subjected to review by experts.

ment says.

The Environmental Protection Agency in 1993 classified secondhand smoke as a serious cancer threat and issued guidelines urging every company to have a policy protecting nonsmokers from involuntary exposure.

Michael Eriksen, director of the Office on Smoking and Health at the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, said Hammond's study not only is the largest, but one of the first to show the relationship between secondhand smoke and work site smoking policies.

NATIONAL BRIEFS

Road map to killer?

LOS ANGELES — Prosecutor Christopher Darden called it a road map from Nicole Brown Simpson, a special message to a jury she'd never know, in a trial dealing with a violent death she knew would come.

The message came from a safety deposit box drilled open last year by an investigator with a search warrant: letters from O.J. Simpson, a will and Polaroid photos of Ms. Simpson with scrapes and bruises inflicted by the man she loved.

"She left these for you," Darden told jurors, displaying two pictures of the battered Ms. Simpson on the courtroom big screen. "This is a sign. She wanted you to know who killed her when the time came."

On June 12, 1994, Darden said in prosecution summations Tuesday, the time did, in fact, come. And the man who killed her, Darden said, was her ex-husband, the famous football star and commercial pitchman sitting at the defense table across the courtroom.

Simpson also killed his ex-wife's friend Ronald Goldman, prosecutor Marcia Clark told jurors earlier. Goldman, she said, died because he unexpectedly walked up during the attack on Ms. Simpson and "the defendant could not leave a witness alive."

Sharing power

NEW YORK — Bosnia's factions have agreed on a formula for sharing power once the war ends, but major hurdles remain — there's still no cease-fire and they disagree on the role of the central government.

"There is no guarantee of success, but today's agreement moves us closer to the ultimate goal of a genuine peace," the accord said in concluding the talks of Tuesday's meeting here.

The accord by the foreign ministers of Bosnia, Croatia and Serb-dominated Yugoslavia builds on a breakthrough achieved in Geneva on Sept. 8. That agreement kept Bosnia's external borders intact while dividing the state internally between the Muslim-Croat federation and the Bosnian Serb republic.

Bosnian Serb nationalists, who rebelled in April 1992 with hopes of uniting their holdings with neighboring Serbia, oppose a strong central authority. Muslims, who insist on keeping Bosnia united, want to make the government as powerful as possible.

Keeping government functioning

WASHINGTON — The Clinton administration and congressional leaders seem likely to shake hands soon on a deal temporarily keeping the government functioning as the two sides seek to settle disputes over spending.

With neither party ready to risk being blamed for a federal shutdown, a pact appeared near that would let agencies operate for six weeks beyond Sunday, the first day of fiscal 1996.

Congress is likely to have completed no more than four of the 13 annual spending bills by then — some of which President Clinton may veto — and without a stopgap measure, many federal workers would be sent home.

"Our intention is to have no furloughs, no train wreck, no disruptions of government," said House Appropriations Committee Chairman Bob Livingston, R-La.

The deal, when finalized, would avert only one of several crises that loom this autumn as Republicans and Democrats grapple over the GOP's plans to slash spending, cut taxes and balance the budget by 2002. But it is the most immediate crisis lawmakers face, and congressional leaders want to clear it in time for Congress to take a one-week break next week.

Acrimonious standstill

WASHINGTON — Lawmakers trying to advance a spending bill are at an acrimonious standstill over a proposal that Republicans say will end an abuse of taxpayers' money by nonprofit groups.

Democrats charge that the initiative is a threat to free speech. With the blessing of Speaker Newt Gingrich, House Republicans say they will vote down the $23 billion Treasury-Postal appropriations bill for the new budget year unless it contains an amendment restricting "political advocacy" by groups receiving federal grants.

But Democrats say the bill, the work of Rep. Ernest Istook, R-Okla., is a frontal attack on nonprofit groups that support liberal causes.

"It suppresses political speech and political expression in an absolutely chilling, overreaching way," said Rep. David Skaggs, D-Colo.

The bill as proposed by the GOP would deny grants to any organization that spends more than 5 percent of its nonfederal funds on political activities.

High-stakes player

NEW YORK — By all accounts, the man Daiwa Bank blames for $1.1 billion in losses was a high-stakes player in the $4.9 trillion U.S. bond market.

Toshihide Iguchi, the Japanese-born executive in charge of U.S. Treasury bond trading, would order up $100 million in securities from each of several firms in a single day — trades so hefty they'd move the price of treasuries higher as word leaked that big supplies were being bought up. Iguchi could then dump what he had just bought at a profit.

"He had a reputation," said one trader who spoke on condition of anonymity. "He was known for taking very big positions. It looked like he was making money."

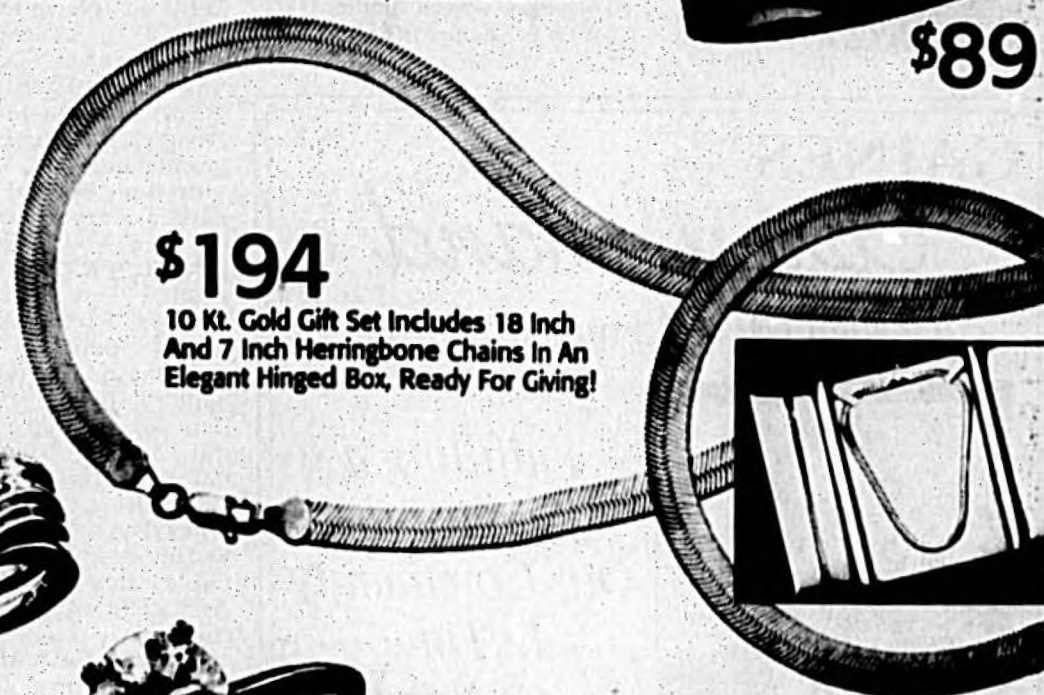

But it turns out Iguchi was losing far more money than he was making and concealing the losses from his bosses in New York and Japan.

Scholarship seminar tonight

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — If you are a high school student athlete who is aspiring to earn a scholarship to college, the Lake Brantley media center is the place to be tonight at 7 p.m.

Rollins College men's golf and basketball coach Kyle Fraakes will join Stetson girls soccer coach Bob Wilson for a seminar that will offer tips about how to get a collegiate athletic scholarship. The Lake Brantley Athletic Dept. and Booster Club are sponsoring the seminar, which is open to the public. Lake Brantley athletic director Bob Peterson expects to have three collegiate coaches speak at the seminar.

Peterson encourages high school student athletes of all ages to attend because the seminar also discusses high school courses that are required by the National Collegiate Athletic Association. The process that high school athletic directors go through to help kids pursue scholarships will also be discussed, and helpful resource materials will also be introduced.

For more information, call 862-1772 ext. 234.

Tribe stays on top

Seminole girls remain undefeated in SAC play

By GARY COATSAM
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Seminole remained in first place in the Seminole Athletic Conference with a 15-5, 15-12 win over Lake Brantley. Aubrey Nelson had 13 service points Tuesday night, including nine aces, to help the Tribe improve to 4-0 in the SAC and 9-4 overall.

"Aubrey had a very strong week last week, and she is just carrying it over into this week," said Seminole coach Beth Corso. "Her serve carries us through a lot of times, and her front row play is really on. Aubrey's back row play and her digs are right on target every time, and she adds a lot to our offense."

Nelson put together nine straight service points to give Seminole a 12-2 lead in the first game, and she finished the match with nine kills. Tina White had two service points for the Tribe in support of Nelson, and Harmoni Roster closed out the first game with a string of three more.

Lake Brantley senior Kinsley Craven had nine kills in the match to bring her season total to 100. Craven helped the Patriots close to within 12-5 in the first game with three straight service points.

"Kinsley was unstoppable in the second game," said Lake Brantley coach Stan Cutler. "That was the one thing she did not have an answer for. We didn't pass the ball to her as well as we needed to, and that made a difference."

Michelle Cates served Lake Brantley to a 4-2 lead in the second game, and Lauren Andrade later extended the Patriots lead to 5-3. Tina White then posted five straight service points to put the Tribe ahead 8-5 before Cates and Sara Winchell knotted the action 8-8 with three service points for the Patriots.

Lake Brantley was within one point of the lead three times before Seminole put the match away. Roster put Seminole ahead 10-8, but Andrade answered with a point to make the score 10-9. Maria Alford put the Tribe back on top 13-9, but three straight service points by Carrie Arago pulled the Patriots to within 13-12 before Nelson closed out the match.

White led the supporting cast for Seminole with nine service points and two aces. Roster had eight service points and one ace in the match for the Tribe, while Alford had six kills and three aces, and Dawn Trains had five digs.

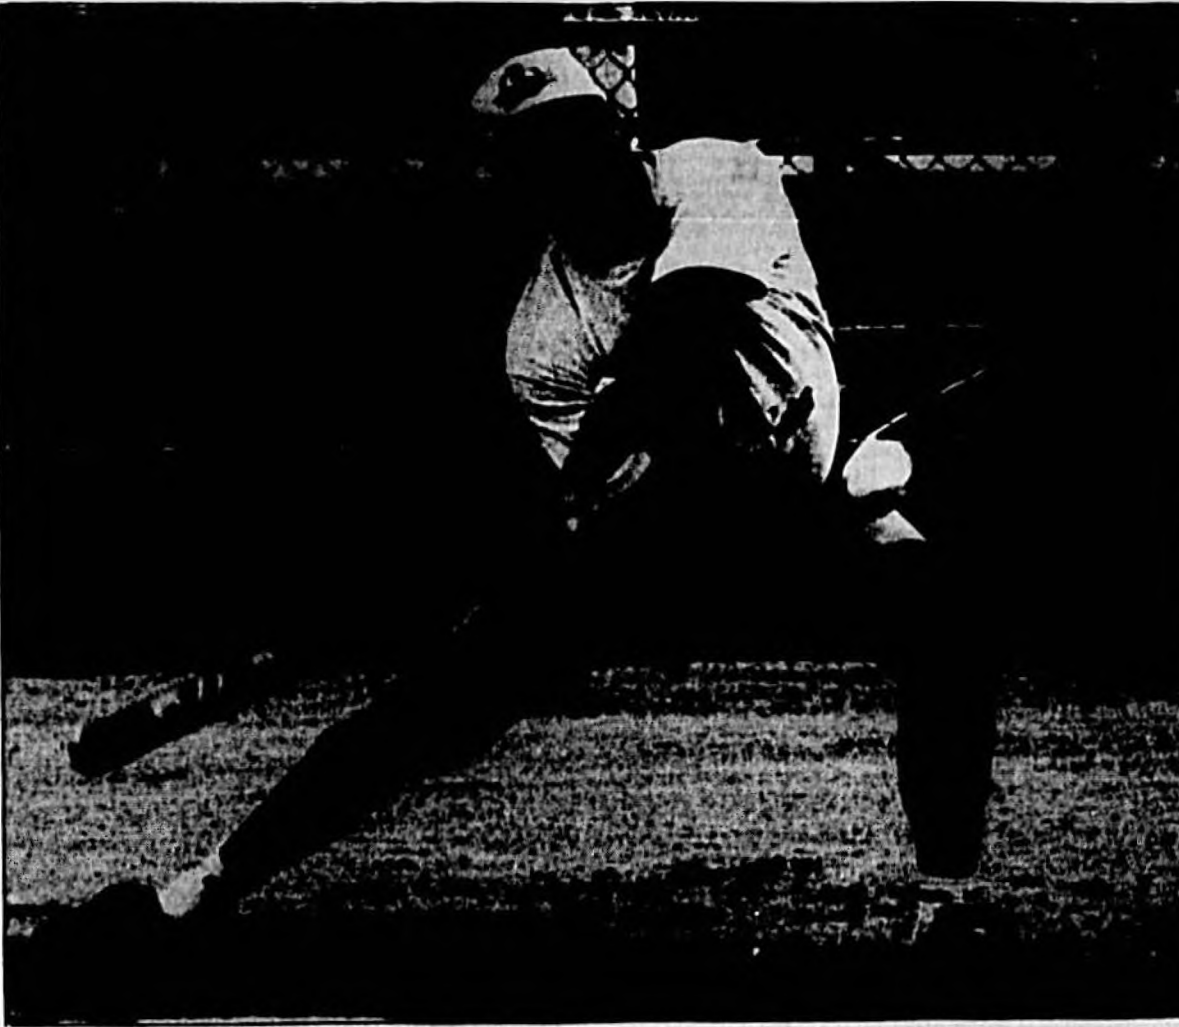

"We played well as a team," Corso said. "Our execution has improved, and we communicated well. It was a nice night for us. We did what we set out to do and played well."

Cates had four service points and two aces in the match for the Patriots. Arago led Lake Brantley with five service points, Winchell had three, and Andrade had two.

In the junior varsity match, Lake Brantley defeated Seminole 15-10, 6-15, 17-15. The Patriots improved to 8-5 on the season and 4-1 in the SAC. The Tribe dropped to 4-8 overall and 0-4 in the conference. In tonight's action, Lake Brantley travels to face Mainland and Seminole hosts Gateway.

Seminole junior middle hitter Maria Alford (No. 34) goes up for one of her six kills during Tuesday night's 15-9, 15-12 Seminole Athletic Conference girls' volleyball victory over Lake Brantley.

Manager Dan Dougherty reached base seven times in eight at bats as Bottoms Up Pub swept a doubleheader to take over the top spot in the Tuesday Night Softball League at Chase Park.

Bottoms Up Pub sweeps

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — Bottoms Up Pub got a couple of scores but ran its winning streak over two seasons to 13 games and moved into the lead in the Sanford Recreation Department Men's Fall Tuesday Night Slowpitch Softball League at Chase Park.

Bottoms Up Pub and Zoo Crew II swapped the lead a couple of times before Zoo Crew II scored two runs in the seventh inning to tie the game at 6-6 and force extra innings. In the bottom of the eighth inning singles by Dan Dougherty, Tom Seabo and Bob Shaw loaded the bases and, after an out, Kevin Julian singled in Dougherty with the winning run to give Bottoms Up a 7-6 victory.

In the nightcap, Bottoms Up Pub took a 7-0 lead, but Wheelchul & Howard came up with six runs in the fourth inning to cut the lead to 7-6. But Bottoms Up Pub answered with four runs in the fifth inning and held on for an 11-7 triumph.

In the opening game of the evening, Sanford First Baptist Church scored six runs in the bottom of the fifth inning to break a 4-4 tie and went on to defeat M.T. Muggs 10-4.

Bottoms Up Pub is now 3-0 on the season.

IN THE SERVICE

SHANNON M. SUNDVALL

Navy Seaman Recruit Shannon M. Sundvall, daughter of Bill R. and Cathy M. Sundvall of 110 N. Somerset Court, Sanford, recently completed U.S. Navy basic training at Recruit Training Command, Great Lakes, Ill.

During the eight-week program, Sundvall completed a variety of training which included classroom study, practical hands-on instruction, and an emphasis on physical fitness. In particular, Sundvall learned naval customs, first aid, fire fighting, water safety and survival, and a variety of safety skills required for working around ships and aircraft.

She is a 1990 graduate of Seminole High School, Sanford.

BENJAMIN MARSHALL

Army Sgt. 1st Class Benjamin Marshall has graduated from the Battle Staff Course (BSC) at the Army Sergeants Major Academy at Fort Bliss, El Paso, Texas.

The six-week course trains battalion and brigade-level staff noncommissioned officers (NCOs) to become integral members of the battalion battle staff to manage the day-to-day operations of a command post.

The students receive instruction in such topics as leadership, military operations, resource management, and use of the new computerized Manuever Control System to chart the conduct of battle.

Marshall is the son of Richard Marshall of 141 Colburn, De-Bary.

What's Cooking?

Americans go for traditional popcorn

As Indian summer fades into autumn brilliance, entertaining with family and friends comes to mind. Popcorn has become America's favorite "pass" time snacks when company comes a-calling. Ever since its legendary introduction at the first Thanksgiving, popcorn has been right up there with baseball and apple pie as an American tradition.

Ragin' Cajun Party Mix has a distinctive taste without the fat and other delicious contemporary crunchers are: Stuffed Mushroom Caps, Peppered Popcorn Breadsticks and South of the Border Cheese Balls.

The following recipes have been developed and tested by the Orville Reddenbacher kitchens.

RAGIN' CAJUN PARTY MIX

- 1 tsp. chili powder
- 1/4 tsp. onion powder
- 1/4 tsp. garlic powder
- 1/4 tsp. salt
- 1/4 tsp. cayenne pepper
- 1 bag popped Microwave Popping Corn, unpopped kernels discarded
- 2 cups tiny thin pretzels
- 2 cups toasted corn cereal squares

Combine chili powder, onion and garlic powders, salt and cayenne pepper in small cup.

Pop popcorn and sprinkle immediately with spice mixture. Mix to coat evenly.

In large bowl, toss together coated popcorn, pretzels and cereal until well mixed.

Makes 9 cups.

STUFFED MUSHROOM CAPS

- 2 Tbsp. butter or margarine
- 1 pound medium to large mushrooms, remove and chop stems
- 1 1/2 Tbsp. chopped fresh parsley
- 2 Tbsp. crushed fresh garlic
- 1/2 tsp. chopped fresh basil
- 2 1/2 cups popped popcorn, discard popped kernels; finely crush popped corn
- 1/4 cup Parmesan cheese

Preheat oven to 350°F. In medium non-stick skillet, saute' mushroom stems, parsley, garlic and basil in butter for 2 to 3 minutes.

Remove from heat; stir in popcorn and Parmesan until moistened.

Fill mushroom caps with stuffing mixture.

Place stuffed mushrooms, filled side up, on baking sheet. Bake for 10 to 15 minutes or until heated through.

Makes 18-24 servings.

PEPPERED POPCORN BREADSTICKS

- Non-stick cooking spray
- 1 cup (1/2 bag) popped Butter Microwave Popping Corn, discard unpopped kernels and finely crush popped corn
- 1 Tbsp. sesame seeds
- 1 Tbsp. poppy seeds
- 1/2 tsp. seasoned pepper
- 1/2 tsp. garlic salt (optional)
- 1/2 cup water
- 1 (11-oz.) package refrigerated soft breadstick dough

Preheat oven to 350°F.

Serve guests stuffed mushrooms, breadsticks and a cheese ball made with popcorn.

In shallow dish, place popped corn, seeds, pepper and garlic salt; set aside.

Separate breadstick dough at perforations; unravel each piece and cut in half.

Dip breadstick dough in water and press into popcorn mixture. Twist and place dough on greased baking sheet, pressing ends down firmly.

Bake for 20-23 minutes or until golden brown. Serve immediately.

Makes 16 breadsticks.

SOUTH OF THE BORDER CHEESE BALLS

- 2 cups popped Golden Cheddar Popping Corn, unpopped kernels discarded
- 1 (1-lb.) package mild Mexican pasteurized processed cheese spread, cubed
- 1 (8-oz.) package cream cheese, softened
- 1 (2.5-oz.) can chopped ripe black olives, drained
- 1 1/2 Tbsp. chopped fresh cilantro
- 1/2 Tbsp. chili powder
- 1/2 tsp. garlic powder
- Crackers

Place popped popcorn into a plastic food storage bag. With a rolling pin, crush popped corn to a medium-fine consistency; set aside.

SENIOR EDITOR

DORIS DIETRICH

Place cheese balls on serving platter and refrigerate at least one hour before serving. Serve with crackers. Makes two 4-inch cheese balls.

Kids love hot dogs and pizza. And now you can serve both when you make Polka Dot Pizza.

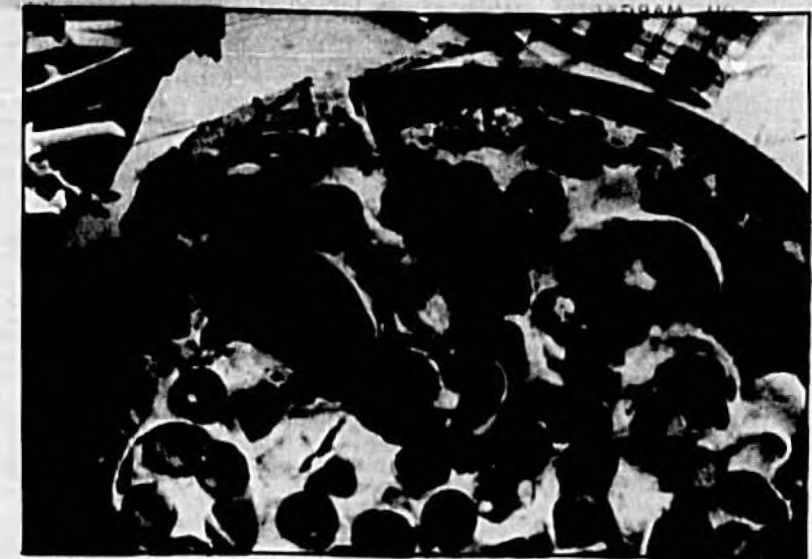

It's quick and easy because the dough is an Italian bread shell topped with bottled Sweet & Sour Sauce, onions, cheese and hot dogs. Even if your kids have never been overly fond of onions, they'll love them on this pizza because the bottled sweet & sour sauce makes them taste great. A spirited blend of sugar, vinegar, naturally brewed soy sauce, tomato paste, pineapple, onion, green bell pepper, garlic and spicy red pepper, bottled sweet & sour sauce provides just the right flavor to perfectly accent and season all of the ingredients. It takes less than half an hour to assemble and bake this fun entrée, and don't be surprised if it becomes a family favorite.

POLKA DOT PIZZA

- 1 (12-inch) Italian bread shell
- 1/2 cup Sweet & Sour Sauce
- 1/4 cup thinly sliced onion
- 1 1/2 cups (8 oz.) shredded Monterey jack cheese
- 3 turkey or beef hot dogs, thinly sliced

Place bread shell on large pizza or cookie sheet. Spread sweet & sour sauce evenly over bread. Arrange onion over sauce, then cheese; top with hot dog slices. Bake in 450° oven 15 minutes, or until cheese melts. Serve immediately.

Serves 4.

Divorced parents cause kids stress

DEAR ABBY: When I read the letter from "Ticked Off in Texas," I had to respond. My husband also has an ex-wife with whom he tries to stay on friendly terms. This is the biggest point of contention in our marriage. However, I keep reminding myself that she is the mother — and custodial parent — of his children, and he hasn't a leg to stand on if she decides to withhold visitation. Children whose parents are divorced already have enough stress in their young lives.

Even more important, studies show that increasingly, fathers are pushed out of their children's lives. This is rarely beneficial to children — especially boys.

"Ticked Off" didn't indicate the nature of her relationship with her stepchildren, but I would bet she would find it better if she didn't hate their mother so much.

BEEN THERE IN MINNEAPOLIS

DEAR BEEN THERE: The letter from "Ticked Off in Texas" inspired a flood of letters such as yours. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: I've read your column for years, but was never moved to write to you until now. "Ticked Off in Texas" wrote that she was furious about having to share her husband with his ex-wife. That letter brought back memories for me.

My husband has an ex-wife with whom he refused to have any contact. He wouldn't even speak to her. This behavior unfortunately extended to his daughter as well, even though he paid child support. There

Are homosexuals 'born that way?'

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm the parent of a gay son and am in the process of starting up a local chapter of an organization for parents of gay children. After the newspaper ran a story about me, I received a similar article you had written that someone sent, along with a pile of church pamphlets -- no name and address. I find your vast amount of knowledge quite intimidating; however, it seems you, too, suffer from the "God Syndrome," the incurable disease afflicting most medical doctors. Homosexuality can be traced back through the ages, and some cultures saw their differences as a gift from God and gave them an honored place in the clan. Only Americans and their fundamental right wing religious leaders seem to be totally hung up on sexuality. It's about time to update your data bank. Homosexuals are truly "born that way."

DEAR READER: I hope I suffer from the "Gott Syndrome," not the "God Syndrome." This means that I try to keep an open mind about medical issues, especially those relating to tastes, lifestyles, and sexual preferences.

Certainly, homosexuality is as old as the human race. It's not my interest or responsibility to judge this activity right or wrong. It's been with us for centuries; that's the reality. We could argue for several days whether or not homosexuals are "born that way." This is akin to the old religious discussions of how many angels could dance on the head of a pin. It's really immaterial. Homosexuals are no better or worse than heterosexuals and should be treated as people, period.

If you want to consider homosexuals as individuals who are somehow victims of their genes, fine. I prefer to view them as normal people -- not victims -- with a different sexual orientation. I'm more interested in what kind of a person I'm dealing with, not how he or she got there.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder
Beginners are taught that one shouldn't give declarer a ruff-and-discard; that it is a no-no defense. However, as more experienced players learn, there is an excellent time for conceding a ruff-and-discard: when you have taken all your side-suit tricks. Then the defense's only chance for extra tricks is in the trump suit, and the ruff-and-discard might weaken declarer's trump holding.

Dr. George Rosenkranz, Mexico's top player, spotted an ideal chance for a ruff-and-discard in this deal from the IMP Pairs at the Summer Nationals in New Orleans.

That was some bidding by North. Four no-trump was Roman Key Card Blackwood. South's reply showing all four aces or three aces and the heart king.

I cannot help feeling that

South should have bid four clubs over three spades, which might have got them to the laydown six clubs.

Playing in six hearts, after winning the first trick with his spade ace, as the cards lie South does best to play a club to the dummy. But he actually ruffed his remaining spade. Then came a heart to the queen and king.

Now Rosenkranz made the killing play of his last spade. If declarer ruffed in the dummy, he would have only two trumps left in each hand, unable to combat West's three. But after South ruffed in hand, he could no longer pick up West's heart 10. South cashed the heart ace, getting the bad news. Then he couldn't do better than play on clubs, finishing one down.

Watch out for the yes-yes ruff-and-discard.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bode Cool
YOUR BIRTHDAY
Sept. 28, 1995

In the year ahead, you might not have many opportunities, but the ones you do have will be of very high quality. What they offer will make up for their lack in numbers.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Today you might be much better at issuing orders than complying with them. Set a good example if you expect others to obey your commands. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2.75 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 1758 Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10150.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You won't have to spend lots of money today to have a good time. Unfortunately, you might not believe this, much to the dismay of your wallet.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec.

21) Your opinions might be much more important to you than to your peers today. Try not to be overruled by the sound of your own voice.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) On numerous occasions your hunches are remarkably on target, but this might not be the case today. Let your logic and practicality take precedence over your intuitive perceptions.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Although it's healthy to remain optimistic, keep your expectations within realistic bounds. Do not expect to get fabulous returns in risky situations.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) This might be one of those days when persons who make big promises will deliver little. Depend on the quiet person with the low profile.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) If you feel someone's taking advantage of you today, the blame could be partially yours. Avoid putting yourself in positions where others can use you.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

Assume personal control of critical developments today instead of merely hoping everything will take care of itself.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Words without action won't count for anything today. Instead of boasting of your intentions, develop an agenda and complete things one step at a time.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Keep pace with your responsibilities today because if you fall behind, you could have a difficult time catching up. Do the worst assignments first.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) If your self-discipline is a trifle lax today, all your resolutions and good intentions could go by the boards. Don't be self-indulgent, be self-sufficient.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) At the least, politely listen to those who are interested in your welfare when they offer advice today. Much of what they recommend could help you.

Leisure Guide changes

The Leisure Guide, normally carried in the Sanford Herald on Fridays, will no longer be included, effective tomorrow. Television listings will be presented in the daily editions, with both Friday and Saturday appearing on Friday, and Sunday and Monday in the Sunday editions. Other information normally contained in the Leisure Guide will be included in various pages and sections of the daily Sanford Herald.

INSIDE

Sports

Busy net night

SANFORD — Both the boys' and girls' teams from Seminole High as well as the Lake Mary boys and Lake Brantley girls were winners in prep volleyball action Wednesday night. See Page 1B.

Keep on wishing

Psychic Jerry Stewart advises readers to keep on wishing, hoping, dreaming. See Page 5B.

BRIEFS

Flu vaccine available

SANFORD — The Seminole County Public Health Unit has announced that flu vaccine is now available at the County Health Department facilities, 400 W. Airport Blvd. in Sanford, and 182 W. Wilshire Blvd. in Casselberry. Cost of the vaccine is $6, which is also billable to Medicare.

For additional information, contact the health unit at 322.2724.

Derby races set

SANFORD — The Sanford Recreation Department has announced that two rally events will be held this Sunday at Sanford's Soap Box Derby Park, south of Rinehart Road on Oregon Avenue.

Recreation and Parks director Mike Kirby said the races will not be for competition, but will give prospective soap box racers opportunities to fine-tune their driving skills for next year's races.

Two rallies will be held, at 8 a.m., and at 1 p.m.

There is no charge for admission, and the general public is invited to watch the activities. For additional information, contact the Recreation Department at 330-5897.

Incumbents plan to rerun

SANFORD — The county elections are a year away but some incumbents for county offices have opened campaign accounts.

The 1996 qualifying period is July 15-19 according to Supervisors of Elections Sandra Goard. Potential candidates must notify Goard when they open an account for collecting campaign funds and name their treasurer.

The three incumbent county commissioners and property appraiser have open campaign accounts. In addition, a candidate for sheriff has an account.

Commissioners Pat Warren, Dick VanDerWeide and Daryl McLain along with appraiser Bill Suber reported their accounts. Joe Becker, who plans to run for Sheriff, has also opened an account.

Lake Mary High School Homecoming, 1995

Wanting to look their best, some of Lake Mary High's finest young men find the cutest way to show off their legs. The young men have found a unique way to cheer on their Rams. Here's looking at Ewe, guys.

Parade kicks off festivities leading to dance, football game

LAKE MARY — Lake Mary High School kicked off the Homecoming season with their annual parade on Wednesday.

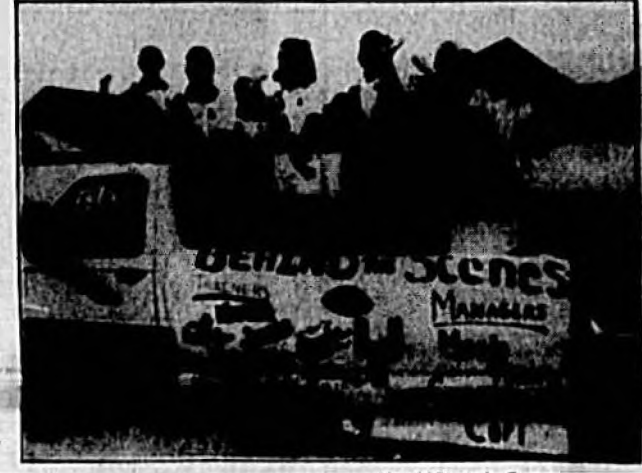

Traffic on Greenway Boulevard to the south of the school was blocked off for more than an hour to allow the floats, marchers, trucks, horses, "dragsters," cheerleaders and football players to make their way down the street toward the school.

No one seemed to mind the detour and either made themselves comfortable along the sides of the road to watch the proceedings or they found another way to get where they were going.

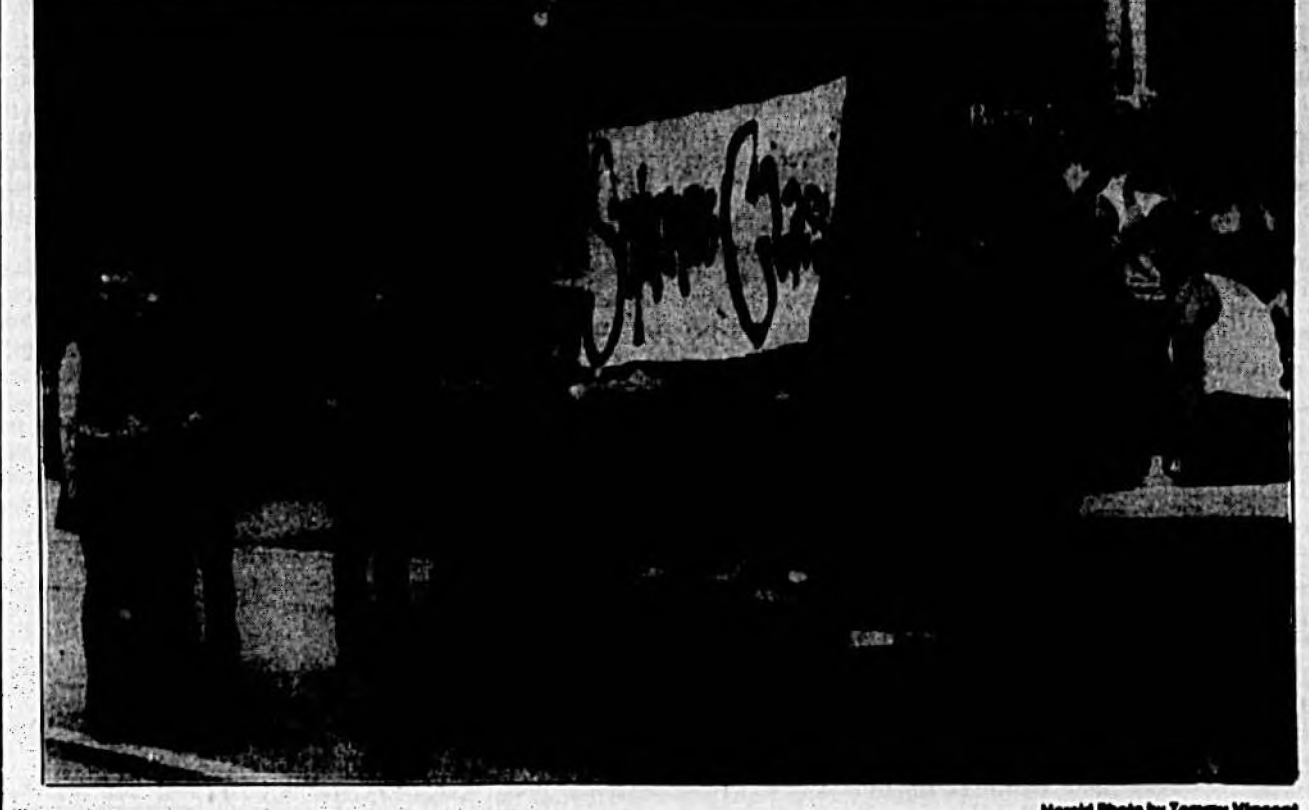

Lake Mary Police reported no incidents related to the parade which attracted "a thousand or so" spectators, according to police reports.

Floats representing the various clubs and school activities were the main feature of the event. The event was the first of several which will lead

SANFORD — As teachers rage at the educational disadvantages and parents protest the disruption of family life, the modified school calendar may face some refinement, but not complete demolition in Seminole County.

The experiment has been tried and failed elsewhere, most recently in Orange County. In this county, the common calendar (more like traditional school year used in high school) will be addressed for the 1996-97 school year.

A school board work session, scheduled for Oct. 17, will look at the possibilities of a common calendar for the elementary and middle schools.

Orange County's seven-year trial of year-round schools will be phased out beginning next year, when 40 elementary schools go back on a new common calendar. The catalyst for change there, school officials said Wednesday, was protest by parents who didn't like the effects of year-round schools on family life.

Year-round students have three-week vacations throughout the year that don't always coincide with the breaks of siblings attending school at other levels. Also, some families who only had children in the year-round system didn't like their traditional summer vacations and holidays interrupted.

According to Geraldine Wright, co-director of elementary education who works on year-round issues for Seminole County, the common calendar does not mirror the high school calendar.

"It's very similar to the high school calendar," she said, "but it's not the same. It has a lot of common time for families."

Raise in pay for 4 county workers

SANFORD — Some 11th hour job reclassifications approved by the Seminole County Board of County Commissioners Tuesday will mean four county workers will get a little more money in their paychecks during the next fiscal year.

The commissioners OK'd job reclassifications on the consent agenda during their afternoon session. The upgrades resulted in 5% pay increases totaling $8,200 for the four. The commissioners approved the amended 1995-96 following a public hearing that night.

Another $16,470 from the general fund was OK'd to purchase six radar units for Florida Highway Patrol vehicles working Seminole County.

Planning and Development director Tony Vanderworp receives a five percent salary adjustment with the reclassification. His $78,291 salary will increase to $82,202 for the coming year.

SANFORD — Two original one-act plays and a short version of a familiar one will be highlighted this Friday and Saturday by the Ritz Patio Dinner Theatre group. The plays will be held at Cafe Jakes on E. First Street in downtown Sanford.

One of the highlights will be the first performance of "Change for a Five," by prizewinning writer Minda A. Stephens.

Stephens is a fifth generation Floridian, and attended the University of South Florida where she majored in the visual arts with a minor in music. Her instrument is the string bass.

She has also served in the intelligence branch of the U.S. Army, and is fluent in French and German languages. She has worked in the field of public relations for the Pinellas County Arts Council.

Another of the features to be presented as a one-act play is "We Need a Book Deal, Elvis Says So," written by George Betz. The third
