Russians Arms Race Accelerate

BRUSSELS (AP) - North Atlantic Treaty Organization experts are predicting a surge in Soviet spending on new weapons.

They said expected Soviet weaponry spending could upgrade Moscow's arsenal significantly between 1974 and 1975.

The report on Soviet military spending was issued as 13 NATO defense ministers closed their semi-annual two-day meeting Friday.

The NATO analysts see a long-term upward trend in Soviet spending, averaging out to about 3 per cent a year.

Right now, according to the experts, Soviet research and development and missile testing is at an all-time high.

During that period Moscow is expected to install new intercontinental ballistic missiles and other weapons.

For the past three years, the experts say, Soviet military spending has remained about even at $2 to $3 billion a year.

Washington (AP) - A truck drivers' rebellion that resulted in blockaded highways has slowed to low gear after a federal agency promised concessions.

Police arrested seven truck drivers near Lamar, Pa., early today after they stopped their tractor-trailers on Interstate 80.

Police said the traffic flow was interrupted only briefly. And in Ohio, about 700 drivers threatened to block the Ohio Turnpike near Toledo early today.

However, truckers elsewhere appeared to have accepted the government concessions.

Meanwhile, Teamsters union President Frank Fitzsimons arranged to meet today with President Nixon to discuss the truckers' grievances about fuel limitations, price gouging on fuel by some retailers and lower speed limits.

As Other Aides Leave New Veep May Garner Nixon Power

WASHINGTON (AP) — With some of President Nixon's top staffers talking about quitting, Vice President Gerald R. Ford may emerge as one of Nixon's principal lieutenants. Emphasis must be placed on the "may" because, historically, vice presidents never wield the influence sometimes expected of them. Similarly, presidents often make quickly-forgotten promises of large assignments for their vice presidents.

Nixon has not publicly discussed any specific plans he may have for Ford but circumstance alone could propel the new vice president into a role of genuine importance.

For example, Melvin R. Laird has said he will resign soon as a presidential counselor because Ford, with 25 years of House service behind him, can readily replace him as Nixon's unofficial ambassador to the Democratic-controlled Congress.

Bryce N. Harlow, another counselor recruited for his knowledge of Capitol Hill and his easy relationship with many Congress members, also has said he will resign soon.

Ford, who enjoyed broad popularity as House Republican leader, would seem the ideal candidate to fill the void that the departure of Laird and Harlow would create in Nixon's staff.

By coincidence, Ford joins Nixon's official family at a time when a rash of public bickering suggests that stacked tensions are rising to the surface.

Public backbiting has been rare in the Nixon administration but the past few days have produced a variety of examples.

Charles S. Rhyne, private attorney for Rose Mary Woods, Nixon's personal secretary, said a central figure in the tape gap controversy, said his client "is unhappy" with the White House lawyers who represented her during earlier court appearances and that "she disagrees with what they did for her."

Ziegler last week aimed an apparent rebuke at White House special counsel J. Fred Buzhardt and said Nixon's legal staff is overworked and has made "some mistakes."

John A. Love resigned abruptly Monday after being demoted as Nixon's energy policy chief and, when asked if he felt he had been badly treated, replied: "Well, it was a little clumsy anyway. It wasn't the way I would have done it." If given the opportunity, Ford can be expected to bring solid if unspectacular political savvy to the White House.

Than Spiro Agnew

Ford Has More Political Savvy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Gerald R. Ford has the background and temperament to become a far more significant influence in Congress than Spiro T. Agnew.

Relaxed and informal, the 60-year-old veteran of a quarter-century of House service is on a first-name basis with the key figures in Capitol Hill in both parties.

In contrast, Agnew was an outsider who never overcame a basic mistrust among veteran lawmakers, who figured they had been there before him and would be there after he had left.

In the months following his 1969 inauguration, Agnew spent a lot of time in the Senate, presiding over its deliberations and seeking to influence votes for the President's proposals.

That backdrop, at least one veteran GOP conservative, former Sen. Len B. Jordan of Idaho, told the vice president he would vote against any measure on which Agnew tried to lobby him.

In time, Agnew stayed away from the Capitol, spending his time in his downtown office making speeches around the country and traveling the globe as a presidential emissary.

He appeared at the Senate only for occasional close votes. Just once in 4½ years, on an Alaska pipeline bill last July, did he cast a decisive Senate vote.

Ford, by contrast, has said he expects his prime responsibility as President Nixon's new vice president to be in dealing with Congress.

A White House where, apart from the President, much of the political wisdom has resided with the departing Laird and Harlow. He could find himself a fresh and stabilizing influence on a staff whose physical and emotional resources have been sorely taxed by the continuing parade of Watergate-related developments.

Oil Scandals

WASHINGTON — President Nixon simply hasn't leveled with his fellow Americans about the fuel crisis. He has adopted half measures, put out misinformation and made Pollyanna-like promises. Here are resulting scandals that have already developed.

Scandal No. 1: The President misled the nation when he claimed heavy duty trucks and highway buses are more efficient at 55 miles per hour and should be permitted, therefore, to travel five miles faster than cars.

It's not the trucks but the trucking lobby which is more efficient. Cummins Engine Company, the diesel engine manufacturer, has found that its engines will operate more efficiently at 50 mph.

An interoffice teletype, intended for the eyes only of a few corporate bosses, states that a speed reduction from 60 to 55 mph will bring a seven per cent fuel savings but that a further reduction to 50 mph would push the fuel savings to 10 per cent.

This is substantiated by the Transportation Department's private estimates, which show the highway dreadnaughts could save 47,000 barrels of fuel a day by slowing from 55 to 50 mph.

We cited the department's own figures to Deputy Assistant Secretary Irwin Halpern who, echoing the President, had testified on Capitol Hill that the big trucks and buses "operate more efficiently" at 55 mph.

Halpern admitted our figures were right and his testimony apparently was wrong. But he pointed out, quite accurately, that fuel economy depends upon the variables. Terrain, transmission, axle ratios, driving techniques and mechanical adjustments can affect gas mileage.

The decision to let the big diesel rigs travel 55 mph, said Halpern, took into account the "economic impact." Irwin has estimated that the government for leasing the 1960s for $4,500 an acre. The cost of reclaiming the land, after it has been strip-mined, will also be borne largely by the public.

Stone told us these terms are necessary to give the oil companies "an adequate return" on their investment. He will have nothing to say, he added, about who gets the oil shale leases.

Scandal No. 2: Sources close to the oil industry tell us some suppliers are holding back fuel until prices go up. Then they will be able to sell the same fuel for higher profits. Other profiteers are diverting oil intended for the United States to foreign ports where prices already are higher.

This suppressing and siphoning of America's scarce fuel, say our sources, has been encouraged by the President's pricing and priorities policies.

Harder hit have been the independent truckers, who tell us they don't mind driving slower so much as taking on fuel in dribbles. Most truck stops will no longer fill up their tanks. This means the truckers must stop for fuel more often, which plays havoc with their schedules.

Truckers keep in touch with one another by radio. Scandal No. 3: The President told the Seafarers Union that the oil crisis shouldn't last much longer than a year. He also promised the union that his "Project Independence" could bring self-sufficiency in energy by 1980.

This is quite different from what his energy experts have been telling him privately. Our policies since World War II, they tell us, have made us so dependent upon foreign oil that the 1980 goal is completely unrealistic.

They say sadly that President Nixon still hasn't come to grips with the oil crisis. "I had not expected it to be this much," White said, who pointed out that the first report may not be entirely accurate. He said it did not necessarily indicate a sharp rise in unemployment.

Reports next week will be exact, he said. "You can't say that this is the pattern because this is the first week we collected data," White said. "There may have been some significant occurrences this week that won't happen again."

The employment increase apparently resulted largely from layoffs by Eastern Airlines, Thunderbird Boat Co. of Miami and Cobia Boat Co. of Sanford, he said.

It's probable that some pilots and other skilled employees laid off by Eastern have not yet submitted unemployment claims, White said. He said 405 of the new unemployment claims were submitted by Florida residents.

Another 119 came from out of state, lending weight to previously stated fears that Florida will become a haven for jobless northerners looking for a place to stay warm while out of work.

Florida News Briefs

Amtrak Keeps Run

WASHINGTON (AP) — Amtrak says it will not drop passenger service to Orlando and Winter Park on its Chicago-Florida train, the Floridian.

The announcement was made Friday by officials of the national passenger service in Washington.

Amtrak had been considering re-routing the Floridian, heavily booked because of the fuel shortage, through Ocala to St. Petersburg and bypassing Orlando-Winter Park.

But officials said the Floridian will now be splitting itself in Jacksonville, running one section through Orlando-Winter Park and another through Ocala into St. Petersburg.

Human Relations Appointee

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — The Rev. Earle Page of Gainesville has been appointed to the Florida Human Relations Commission by Gov. Reubin Askew.

Page was appointed Friday. The governor also reappointed Clare Leiby of Ocala to the Career Service Commission and Judge Gerald Mager of West Palm Beach to the Judicial Council.

Drug Ring Broken

MIAMI (AP) — Police say a $3 million-a-month narcotics ring has been broken up with the arrests of eight people in four Florida cities.

The Friday arrests came after a 10-month investigation that was aided with court-approved electronic surveillance, police said. They said the ring was bringing up to 100 pounds of cocaine and heroin into Florida each month.

The eight were charged with various counts of conspiracy to sell narcotics, police said. Seven names were released: James Dowling, 40, and Verline Dowling, 26, of Miami; Harry Brown Jr., 29, and Willie Belton, 26, of Tampa; Mack C. Harvey, 24, of St. Petersburg; and Earl J. Fields, 40, and Lorenzo Reddick, 32, of Jacksonville.

Home Fuel Costs

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Home heating-oil dealers in Tampa say a cost hike federal officials had said wouldn't go into effect until next month is here already.

J.H. Williams, one of the largest oil dealers in Hillsborough County, said Friday that Union Oil Co. raised his price by two cents per gallon last Saturday.

And Philip Pickering of Southeastern Fuels, Inc., said his Shell supplier hiked prices on kerosene by four cents per gallon, "the highest we have ever had in the history of the petroleum industry."

Dealers will be allowed to pass the hikes on to customers.

Grand Jury To Receive Gurney Info

MIAMI (AP) — Federal lawyers say they've accepted an offer by Sen. Ed Gurney, R-Fla., and have invited him to testify before a grand jury probing $300,000 in unreported funds collected by Gurney's behalf.

The Miami Herald says. "According to the senator, he is anxious to appear and tell his story," Asst. U.S. Atty. Bruce Wagner is quoted in today's edition of the Herald. "Well, we're glad to give him the opportunity."

Wagner said Gurney's appearance would be voluntary and that the senator had not been subpoenaed. No date for the testimony was set.

Gurney could not be reached for comment. But the Herald quoted Wagner as saying that a Gurney aide told him, "The senator will be happy to appear. The senator would like to appear."

During a news conference Thursday, Gurney had declared, "I wish the grand jury would request my appearance. I'm perfectly willing to tell everything I know."

The grand jury is investigating a claim by Larry Williams that he raised money for Gurney by pressuring builders seeking Federal Housing Authority contracts.

The Herald had previously reported that Williams agreed to plead guilty to two felonies stemming from the fundraising in return for immunity from further prosecution.

Florida's Job Loss Continuing

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Energy crisis layoffs added 534 persons to Florida unemployment rolls this week, a state official says.

And competition for scarce jobs could get tougher, said John Wesley White, state employment security director.

White said the first of a weekly series of special energy crisis unemployment reports, released Friday, indicated "in the realm of a 10 per cent increase in unemployment as a result of the energy crisis."

Florida had a 2.8 per cent unemployment rate in October. The jump will probably leave that figure slightly above 3 per cent.

"I had not expected it to be this much," White said, who pointed out that the first report may not be entirely accurate. He said it did not necessarily indicate a sharp rise in unemployment.

Reports next week will be exact, he said. "You can't say that this is the pattern because this is the first week we collected data," White said. "There may have been some significant occurrences this week that won't happen again."

Letters To The Editor

A Message To Sanford Parents

Editor, Herald: My husband and I are in our early thirties. We have lived in the Sanford area for over 10 years. We were both brought up to respect the rights and property of others and are trying to bring up our children to do the same. We are hard-working people and mind our own business.

For the past 2½ years we have lived out on the Old Orlando Highway No. 427. Our property, mostly in grove, joins the back of Sunland development. We are remodeling an old house which will be a credit to the area when we finish. We have been the target of malicious mischief and vandalism from teenagers since coming here. We give small amounts of fruit for eating to those who have the courtesy to ask, but have reprimanded many who steal it. We see them, and know that it is teenagers, but don't know who they are because they run.

In retaliation, our house has been bombarded with fruit several times, to the point of bending new window screens and cracking window panes, plus the mess on the house we are trying to paint.

The original mailbox here was blown off its post right after we came here. My husband replaced it with a nice one on a brick pillar. Within a few days it had a hole through it and not long after was bent in on one side. The flag was ripped off and had to be replaced. Now, we've just found the whole thing with the box bent up and the brick pillar knocked apart. I am wondering what will be next. I ask myself what is in the minds and hearts of these kids to make them commit these acts? We certainly don't bother them. What are the parents doing when all this is going on?

We are not "down" on all teenagers and think it's a shame for a few to make it look as though all parents in Sanford and particularly this area to start finding out what your children are doing when they are away from home. We report everything to the Sheriff's Dept. and it is on record there. Sooner or later, these kids will get caught and will be in a lot of trouble. To the teenagers responsible, I ask you to ask yourselves what good you are doing and if it will be worth it when you get caught? Surely, there must be something constructive these kids could be doing at home, rather than looking for things like this to do to take up their time. I urge parents and kids to take time NOW to stop and THINK.

Sincerely, Mrs. Diane Graham Sanford, Florida
Editor, Herald: The Casselberry Elementary School is completing its vision screening this week under the direction of Mr. Henry Ellis-county vision consultant.

Thank you very much, C.M. Herp.

cellent device to interest students in the study of government, power and history. They disagreed about expressing their own opinions about the scandal.

Gatherine Barrett, past president of the National Education Assn., touched on the heart of the problem. "While we should present all points of view, we cannot be impartial in the end. Failure to choose a course is to choose one. Not to teach about this issue, and the democratic principles behind it, is quite blunty, to fail to teach and that is a betrayal of professional trust."

6/6 Vision? The transition to the metric system is reportedly almost complete in the teaching of science and mathematics. Non-metric measurements are the visual acuity numbers on the familiar Snellen chart.

Because "20/20" has such a deeply imbedded popular connotation as a sort of visual standard of reference, however, it's expected that it will take a while before the term is abandoned. Even optometrists haven't yet decided whether the new standard should be 6/6 — the approximation in meters of 20 feet — or some other number.

Thus for the time being, politicians and other decision-makers can continue to make spectacles of themselves, while those who second-guess them can continue to claim perfect 20/20 hindsight.

Wax on the highway Along with causing a boom in small-car sales, the energy crisis is good news for the makers of all kinds of gadgets and gizmos designed to increase gas mileage.

For example, the manufacturer of a new friction-reducing coating for airplanes is now hoping to sell the product to car owners. The stuff is applied like a wax and, claims the maker, has the potential to increase the cruising speed of DC-3 from 189 m.p.h. to 190.

Only trouble is that, while a lot of motorists like to fly low, with the move to impose a nationwide speed limit of 50 m.p.h., the drag-reducing benefits of the wax on the highway will likely be minimal.

Child Control

By DONT REYNOLDS

Maintaining control of one's children has been and always will be a major problem of the home. The parents must maintain control of their children if the home is to be a happy home and if the children are going to be successful in their future lives. Children always resist control outwardly because it restricts their personal choice and they are constantly bombarded by the so-called "Individual Freedom" of our democracy, these are facts which are good.

Many methods of control have been tried by parents but all of them have one thing in common and it is that fear plays the dominant role. All of us have heard grown people talking about how they were whipped with a hickory switch or beaten with a leather strap if they did wrong. These people seem to approve my opinion. The so-called "Good old days" when closely examined were not too good.

Today, parents should think more in terms of what their beliefs are and what the beliefs of their children are. Parents should not try to control their children, but rather guide them. If parents believe that their sons and daughters are good, they will tend to be good. If parents extend invitations to do good then children will do good.

If parents continually express that Johnny just cannot do more than Johnny, they will be able to do more. If parents continually express to Johnny that he is a little trouble maker, then chances are he will live up to being a trouble maker. Children like to please their parents, so make your comments positive so that growth can occur and little Johnny will tend to do what is right.

All parents have experienced in their youth someone telling them that they had an ugly nose, or their legs were ugly, or that freckles were funny looking, and even if the comments were done jokingly, the child believed them. In many instances one joking sentence can give a child a complex that might last 10 years or for life. Sons and daughters that are treated with dignity and respect will tend to treat their parents with dignity and respect.

Successful parents believe that they will make mistakes and that many times they will fail, but that in the long run they have the capacity to meet the problems of life. Successful parents must feel capable and confident. They do not have to win every time. In fact, some times they must admit a mistake and retreat if necessary.

School Forms Honorary Club

A new student Arista organization has been formed at Sanford Middle School to honor those students who excel in scholarship and citizenship.

Along with its honoring title, SMS Arista is a school service organization to formulate and spearhead various projects involving school and community. Among them are plans for a Student Tutorial Program and United Nations Day.

At the last meeting Mrs. Pullen showed color slides of her trip through Arizona and Nevada.

It is the hope of the school that by working with others these students will further expand their horizons as they prepare for high school.

My Thanks to the voters of the new city of Lake Mary for the privilege of serving on their first elected council.

Memorial Tree Lit In DeBary

By H. A. NAPA Herald Correspondent

DEBARY—The true spirit of Christmas was evidenced this week when the Chamber of Commerce came to the rescue of the Business and Professional Women's Club.

It all started when BPW members began preparations for the erection of the eighth annual Memorial Christmas Tree on Chamber of Commerce property.

Chairman Mrs. Albert T. Williams and her assistant Mrs. Margaret Clift were in a quandary regarding the lighting of the tree. They wished to adhere to national energy-shortage recommendations banning all outside holiday lighting for this season. However, the annual purpose of the tree is to gain money for a scholarship fund for some needy student in the community.

Hearing of the plight, the Chamber agreed to eliminate all usual outside Christmas lighting so that the ladies can light the tree from 6 to 8 p.m. nightly.

Numerous letters have been mailed to area residents by the BPW asking for one dollar as payment for one of the tree bulbs as a memorial to someone. This money will be used for the scholarship.

Toy Makers De-Escalate War Games

By ROBERT BETTS Copley News Service

Peace is an elusive thing, even on the toy front. Some toy makers have responded to the call for disarmament and stopped making weapons of war.

Others see no reason for calling a truce. Their miniature military hardware comes ever more sophisticated. In a toy store where whole battlefields were displayed in big boxes, the manager admitted, "Most of this stuff was made before Vietnam ended, but there's still a big demand for it. I guess a lot of kids still get fired up by TV movies."

A J.C. Penney toy department assistant agreed that war toys were still selling well, but explained it by the fact that not so many of them were being made. "So those that are available go fairly quickly," he explained.

In California, a state law went into effect July 1, 1972, prohibiting the manufacture and sale of toys related to violence, such as bombs, grenades and torture instruments. It was the first such law in the United States.

The antiwar-toy movement includes the world's leading toy manufacturer, Mattel. They are definite in their opinion that there is now not sufficient demand.

"War toys are just not popular anymore," said Joel Rubinstein, Mattel's director of marketing public relations.

"Toys reflect the attitude of the adult world," he explained. "We no longer are in a military confrontation, and the public mood generally is antiwar. The way children imitate and dramatize adult concerns and activities is illustrated in the current popularity of toys having to do with ecology, the environment, outdoor recreation, creativity and self-expression through arts and crafts."

Who'd Join Campfire Persons?

COPLEY NEWS SERVICE

"This is the era of Women's Liberation, coed dormitories, unisex and other social change which both delights and annoys that confused creature of the human species, the male.

Obviously, there is much to recommend a movement which demands equal opportunity for women. But should equal opportunity take the form of direct competition between boys and girls at the Little League level? Or, for that matter, at any level when the activity is a collision sport?

It is a question to consider because NOW (National Organization of Women) has found a psychiatrist who not only recommends coed baseball for children but proposes to integrate such traditional youth activities as the Campfire Girls, Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts.

The argument is offered that there are girls who can run faster than boys, or hit a ball harder than boys, and therefore are entitled to compete with boys. The point has some validity, yet it begs the larger truth as to whether such activity is beneficial to young people.

This, for example, is the concern of Dr. Tom Johnson, a child psychiatrist who recently became a director of the national Little League organization. It's Dr. Johnson's conviction that girls should have an opportunity to be girls without having their childhood cluttered by those strange little people known as boys.

"By all means," says Johnson, "let's provide something for girls. I think girls have missed out long enough on the value of experiences like Little League. But I believe a good case can be made on a purely psychological basis for keeping it separate."

"Why destroy the major value of something that is so well-established—like Girl Scouts, Campfire Girls, Boy Scouts and Little League?"

"We're going to have Little League for girls, it's going to start next year. It will not be less than boys' Little League or inferior to it. I would love to see mothers and fathers go to the games and become interested and strongly support the little girls' teams."

Dr. Johnson speaks not only as a child psychiatrist but as one who has been involved in athletics for many years.

He was a 185-pound, bird-string quarterback at the University of Minnesota till medical studies intervened; now he's a trim, youthful-looking man of 150 pounds who stays fit through jogging and other exercise.

He provides psychological counsel for three National Football League teams, and is on the board of the newly formed National Athletic Health Institute.

"Everyone," reasons Johnson, "needs opportunities to be alone. And everyone needs opportunities to cluster into small groups. Children of the Little League age (8 to 12) need opportunities to be with other children who are going through the same problems.

"The value of this grouping together is to get kind of a group support feeling. Girls form their own little group and develop group slang and talk about what it's like to be a girl, their bodily changes, all those things. This is not going to be accomplished if there are boys sitting there with them."

Johnson has little regard for parents who would push their daughters into competition with boys for their own ego gratification.

"It wouldn't be enough for that parent for the child to star in a girls' league. They want their girl to star in a boys' league. Why can't it be for the kids?"

Spartans Gallop Over Title Dreams Hollywood Hills Blasts Eagles

By JOHN CHERWA Herald Correspondent

ORLANDO—The reign of Edgewater came to an abrupt end Friday night when Hollywood Hills stopped the Eagles 2-1 in their quest for the state title.

It was the ground game versus the aerial attack on the rain soaked field that saw ten turnovers in 48 minutes of action.

The Spartan's attack was centered on the ground as quarterback John Kurovski went to the air only three times.

For the past two years the Seminoles have been in the Big Eight and open dates were hard to come by.

The people out at Seminole are in favor of the game being played. Lake Brantley is against it.

"We are a Three-A school," said head grid coach Bill Duty.

"And as long as we are, we will continue to schedule teams in our class."

In Duty's way of looking at the possible game, Seminole is a Four-A school and would have an unfair advantage over the Pats.

"We lose playing a Four-A school even when we win," said Duty.

"Because they use the same points for beating a Three-A team — and the loss hurts just as much."

Adding to the arsenal that ran for two years was Viven Coney who ran for 96.

The Eagles top rusher, Eric Early was held to a disappointing seven yards in eight tries.

Edgewater fumbled once but it was a costly fumble.

Eagle signalcaller Kenny Matthews took to the skies 30 times with 14 resulting in completions.

There was 27 seconds left on the first period clock as Hollywood took the lead they would not relinquish.

The game's second score came as the result of a fumble. It started when Willie Arrington fumbled into the arms of Gerry Richardson.

With the ball back in their possession Early tried the line for two and on the next play fumbled back to Hollywood.

The score came on a four yard scamper by Golden. The try for two fell short when Kurovski was stopped at the one.

Both squads played out the remaining 10:42 without a score sending the teams to the dressing room at halftime 14-4.

Edgewater started the third quarter with all the momentum after driving close to the Spartan goal but one of the frequent interceptions held off any score.

It wasn't until midway through the period that the Eagles started to move again. They went 53 yards in eight tries to close the gap to 14-8.

The six points came on a crucial fourth and ten from the 31 when Matthews found Don Briggs open near the end zone from where he waited in for the score.

The same combination accounted for the two extra points when Briggs caught a Matthews pass in the right corner of the end zone.

It didn't take the Spartans long to get even. In three minutes Bacon took off around right end and out ran his opponents to up the score to 23-8.

The Hollywood bunch put the contest out of reach in the fourth stanza when Gordon went over from the two.

Being a "minor" sport during basketball season can be tough but at Lyman and other area high schools wrestling is just as "major" as the roundball sport.

This year marks the start of countrywide wrestling program. Joining the veteran Greyhounds on the mats will be Lyman.

These next two weeks will decide who are the best county grapplers. On Thursday the Hounds will host Lake Brantley in a dual contest followed on December 20-21 with the Greyhound Invitational.

Head wrestling mentor Bill Scott has gone to extra pains trying to accumulate the best of Florida Air.

Despite all the central Florida squads participating great interest will be centered around intense personal rivalries such as Craig Davis and Glenn Hill.

Exciting action can also be counted on in the David Colomb-Vernon Prevat match and the Jimmy Brinker-Rich Garza clash.

A preview of these Brantley-Lyman matches can be expected this Thursday. Like most coaches though, Scott prefers to take the meet one at a time looking towards Monday's Metro opener against Boone.

The past week in the wrestling camp has found basically the same thing that has been going on for months.

For the seasoned veterans it's been mostly conditioning but Scott points out they have to keep looking over their shoulder because the younger grapplers are learning the ropes.

Whatever the outcome of the various battles wrestling has found a spot in high school athletics proving it can be just as exciting as any "major" sport.

8th Straight Win Bucks Devastate Portland

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS The Milwaukee Bucks have the best record in the National Basketball Association and Friday night they showed why.

The Bucks came out smoking against Portland, rolled up a 29-14 first-quarter lead and cruised to a 116-86 triumph. It was their eighth straight victory and it was no contest.

"They just had a terrible start," explained Milwaukee guard Oscar Robertson, "and they can't catch a team like ours."

Not many clubs can. The Bucks have played 27 games this season and won 23 of them. They lead the Midwest Division by 2 1/2 games.

Pitching Dominates Meeting

HOUSTON (AP) — Pitching, the dominating factor in baseball, was also the dominating factor at the winter baseball meetings.

Often called 75 per cent of the game, pitching took more than 50 per cent of the play in a wild, record-setting week of 24 deals between major league teams.

The trend started last Monday on opening day and continued right through the last out on Friday, when seven deals were blockbusted including a six-player blockbuster between the St. Louis Cardinals and Boston Red Sox.

The Cardinals received pitcher Bob Johnson from the Cleveland Indians for outfielder Bill Flowers.

The Phillies sold infielder Cesar Tovar to the Texas Rangers.

The explosive trading activity Friday, announced while the brass was literally clearing out of town, finished a short period during which 21 of the major league teams traded players.

By the time the trade was made, a total of 55 players had been dealt in five days—29 of them pitchers.

These deals also were made Friday as the club owners and general managers went down swinging.

The New York Yankees acquired pitcher Ken Wright and outfielder Lou Pinella from the Kansas City Royals for relief pitcher Lindy McDaniel.

Team captain Lenny Wilkens and it showed as the Cavaliers turned the ball over 30 times. Austin Carr netted 18 points for the lotters.

Suns 114, Bullets 92. Charlie Scott poured in a season-high 40 points and Phoenix played a strong defensive game. The Suns broke it open in the third quarter, outgunning Capital from the floor 52 per cent to 33 per cent.

Sonics 115, Lakers 111. Spencer Haywood and Milt Williams led the Seattle first rush that gave the Sonics their first win ever on the Lakers' home court after 20 losses.

Brantley-Seminole Matchup?

There have been several people of late calling me inquiring about the lack of in county competition. One game that is mentioned as a good possible pairing is a Seminole High and Lake Brantley fight.

The people out at Seminole are in favor of the game being played. Lake Brantley is against it.

"We are a Three-A school," said head grid coach Bill Duty.

On The Other Hand Looking further into the situation we find Lyman playing Brantley and the Hounds are in the Four-A category.

That is something that was pretty much agreed on when I came here," said the Patriot mentor.

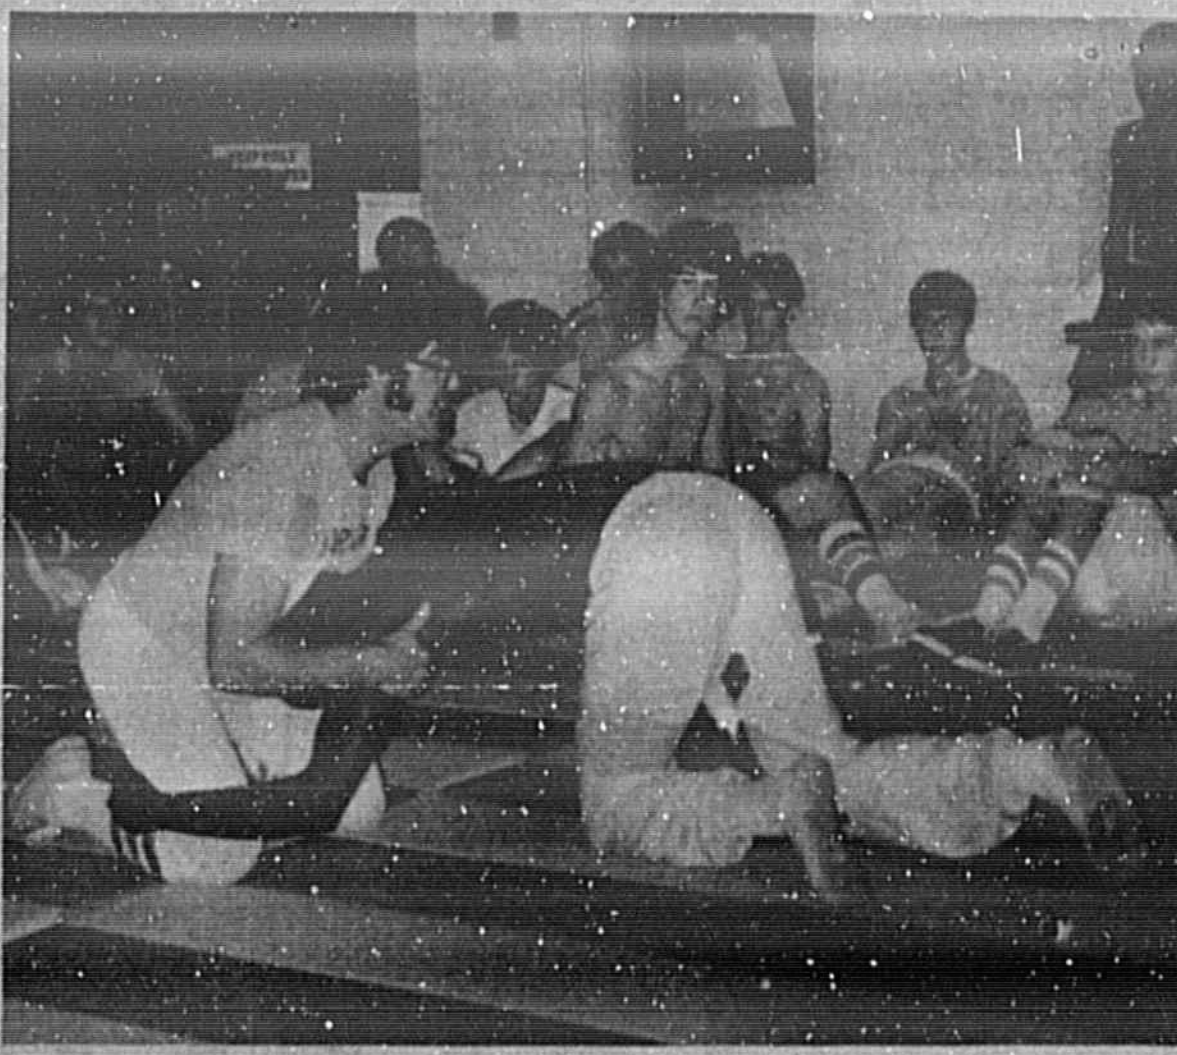

Changes In Classification? There is a strong possibility that Brantley could be classed Four-A next year.

Game Is A Natural This game, just like the Seminole-Oviedo and all the other in county fights are natural for the gate.

Squads Not That Far Apart Actually the difference in size between the four big schools in the County is minimal with the exception of Lyman.

THE SPORTS TIME MACHINE

By Dave Hove and Tim Simons

Forest Hills, N.Y., 1920

James Cox has Franklin Roosevelt as his running mate as he represents the Democratic party in the 1920 presidential election. The Republicans will counter with Warren Harding and Cal Coolidge in what promises to be an intense contest.

At Forest Hills today, an intense contest will take place on the tennis courts. William Johnston, the defending Forest Hills and United States Champion will play William Tilden.

Johnston beat Tilden convincingly last year in the finals of this same tournament. A few weeks ago, Johnston beat Tilden again in the finals of the London Lawn Tennis Championships.

However, since that tournament Tilden beat defending world champion G. L. Patterson to capture the Wimbledon title. Tilden's game is improving and many feel that he can beat Johnston today. The winner can claim world dominance in tennis.

Tilden and Johnston both have a variety of shots with Tilden leading an edge in power and Johnston the edge in finesse.

At 3:30 p.m. this tremendous match begins and there are 10,000 fans on hand to watch it. Tilden's ground strokes are overpowering as he wins the first set, 6-1. Johnston comes back to take the second set by the same score.

In the third set Tilden is starting to take command. His backhand has greatly improved from last year and his serve is scaring. He wins the set, 7-5. Johnston battles back to take the fourth, 7-5. Finally Bill establishes his superiority in the final set, 6-2.

One of the greatest matches in history has ended and Bill Tilden has achieved a level of supreme excellence in tennis. He is now the number one player in the world.

All you got to do is ask

By Murray Olderman

The tipoff:

The man likely to go first in the pro football draft isn't on many All-American rosters because he's a defensive tackle. Ed Jones plays at little known Tennessee State. The likely No. 2 choice is also from the same school — terrific linebacker Wayne Bryant.

Q. Can you tell me something about Gerald Ford as a football player at Michigan? I understand he was a center. — Edward Johns, Flint, Mich.

When the Vice President designate was a senior in 1934 and captain of the Wolverines, they won only one game and were blanked five times. The previous two seasons, when they were undefeated, Chuck Bernard was Michigan's All-American center. But a speech at the Pro Football Hall of Fame in 1967, Congressman Ford revealed that he was offered pro contracts by both the Detroit Lions and Green Bay Packers in 1935 — at $200 a game. He opted for Yale law school.

Q. I'm interested in Howard Cosell. He has remarkable "recall of information" — but so cocky. Can you tell me anything about Cosell's war record? I sort of feel he was a 4-F or worse. — R.J. Price, Oklahoma City, Okla.

Howard recalls vividly that he enlisted in the Army right after Pearl Harbor as a buck private and within two and a half years, after going to officers candidate school in the Transportation Corps, was a major. He was in charge of manpower at the New York Port of Embarkation in World War II but never went overseas.

Q. Can you explain the origin of the Cleveland pro football team's nickname? What method was used to select it and in what year? — Robert H. Kelley, Sacramento, Calif.

During World War II, when the All-America Conference was formed, the late Arthur (Mickey) McBride chose Paul Brown, then in the Navy, to be the coach of a new Cleveland team. In 1943, a newspaper contest was held to choose a name. An entry suggesting "Panthers" was the winner. But it was discovered there had been an old semipro team called the Cleveland Panthers. So the new coach vetoed the name. In the contest, the second most popular name had been "Browns" after the head man, William S. Thompson of Euclid, O., got a $1,000 bond for suggesting it, and they were thereafter the Cleveland Browns, with the coach always wearing a brown suit.

Q. My son played football in college for Don Coryell, now of the St. Louis Cardinals, and he tells me that Coryell is the originator of the "T" formation. Will you confirm or deny this? — Dan Hedger, San Leandro, Calif.

Motion denied. Tom Sampedro devised the modern "T" in 1949 at VMI, and it was soon copied successfully at Notre Dame by the late Frank Leahy. Four men formed the "T" then — the quarterback and three backs — unlike the three currently in vogue. But, get this, Bob Sampedro of Illinois, who coached Red Grange, claimed the Illinois used it as their basic attack in 1914.

Q. I have a baseball signed by Babe Ruth which I received personally from him in 1928. Could you estimate its worth today? If Hank Aaron surpasses Ruth in home runs, will his baseball lessen in value? — Albert Niederberger, Pittsburgh, Pa.

For someone who collects baseballs, the value of such a ball should be $2,500. My authority for this statement is San Francisco restaurateur Bill Munro, who on record as offering $10,000 for No. 715 when it's struck by Hank Aaron Munro will display his ball in a televised, burglar-proof plastic case. He also says, Mr. Niederberger, the value of your ball will not decrease because "Ruth is one of our immortals and no one will replace him." Now find someone who collects baseballs.

Parting shot:

Look for one signing NFL quarterback who's supposed to be through to seek rejuvenation if and when the new World League gets off the ground.

62 Point Buck Shot In Georgia

POTSHOTS

The national "big deer" contest, sponsored by the magazine Deer Sportsmen of America, will undoubtedly be won by the tremendous trophy taken recently in Monroe County, Ga. The deer field dressed at 267 pounds and carried a rack containing 62 points which sets a new state record for Georgia.

Many people who have seen the antlers at Dick Dove's Taxidermy Shop find the stature of this animal unbelievable; the total weight being estimated at better than 340 pounds.

Hunters in the party thought they were going to have to cook and eat the big fellow in the woods as it seemed almost an impossibility to carry him out.

When they finally succeeded in bringing him in, he was examined by biologists at the state. They classified him as a non-typical white tailed deer, about three and one-half years old.

Even though 62 points of over one inch can be counted on the rack, several more had been broken off due to his many battles with other bucks in protecting his territory.

The party reported an even bigger deer sighted on this trip and rumor has it that they are in the process of outfitting a safari to penetrate the jungles of Central Georgia in hopes of bringing out the prize.

Name of the lucky hunter is being withheld until the March-April issue of Deer Sportsmen of America hits the news stands. The cover of the magazine will feature this 62 point buck.

On the local scene, Gene Holcomb downed a spike buck on private lands east of Sanford, and Joe Lazare got a hog and a deer in the Ocala area.

Merritt Island duck hunters are having a problem with the steel shot which is required by the management. The hard pellets are ruining gun barrels and many people are putting away their expensive weapons in favor of cheap shotgun barrels for their duck shooting.

Even with the steel-shot handicap, the area is drawing plenty of hunters as ducks are there by the hundreds.

Locally, teal and black ducks are in good supply along with some mallards.

On the Wekiva River George Cheney reported several deer seen this week but only one small buck. Squirrel hunters are finding a few but ducks have not been seen in any great numbers.

from the bank to supply fish suppers and Wayne Foy of Longwood picked up four bass Saturday.

Bill Hawkins and son are landing some nice bass almost daily plug casting the flats with late afternoon sun. Friends of Bob King at Marina Lake Camp will be glad to learn that he is out of the hospital and is recuperating at home from his recent heart attack. As Bob put it, the doctors let him out on good behavior.

The camp is open with Bob's wife, Shirley and daughter pinch-hitting until he is able to return to his regular duties. On King's last fishing trip before entering the hospital, he guided a party to a catch of 120 speckled perch on Lake Dexter.

A bass of seven and one-quarter pounds was landed at Marina Lake this week on a live shiner and the angler reported three more good sized ones hooked but unfortunately "released" them as they were too hot to handle.

Rev. Beale and Andy Winsten, disk jockeys from radio station WHO, Orlando, found specks biting good at Hiley's Camp and brought in 20 while David Hiley and Poger Bahan in another boat took 17.

Average catches on Lake Jessup are running 20 to 23 per boat while some of the "old-timers" are getting even better strings. The fish are all good size — about three-fourths of a pound each.

Fred Sweet at the "Fishing Hole" Bait and Tackle Shop tells of plenty of big specks being caught by Deacon Coleman in the main channel of Lake Monroe in front of Holiday Inn. Other anglers are beginning to find them at Mullet Lake.

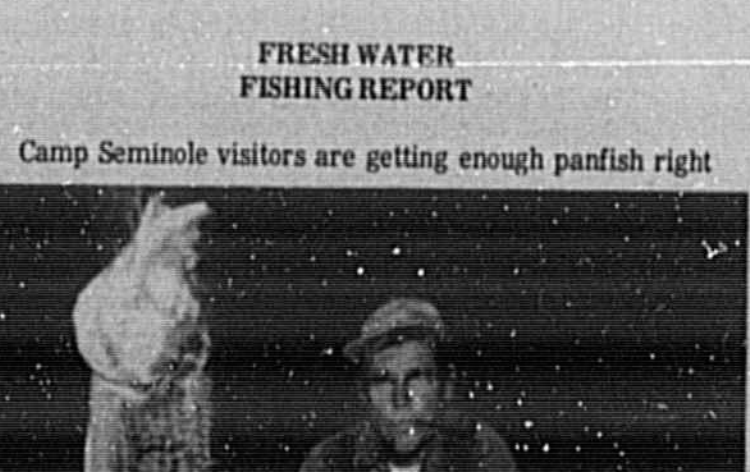

Trollers are having good luck Grassy Point in the lake with the yellow Beetle-spin lure replacing the white as the top lure. Many are being taken on the yellow and black "Pot-Gut" jig also.

In addition to the many fine catches of speckled perch taken around the bridge piling several good bass have been caught by anglers working the waters near Oslen Bridge and Fish Camp this week. Tom Gordy scored with a seven and one-half pounder and one four pounds Tuesday, both on the blue plastic worm. Shelby was accounted for a six and one-half pound three pounder with live shiners for bait. Another nice one of over five pounds fell to Skip Forsgate on a plastic worm.

BLUE WORM WORKS ... For Tom Gordy

SALT WATER SCENE

Don Smith at the Seminole Sporting Goods Store listed a beautiful catch of sea bass for L. C. Smith, Paul Graham, and Jim Brown. The trio landed 26 of the bronze batters using "Trout-Tons" tipped with shrimp while fishing near Port Canaveral. The largest one weighed in at 28 pounds, the entire string averaged 14 pounds per fish.

Two days of trout fishing in Mosquito Lake produced catches of 61 and 52 respectively for "Hoppy" Hopkins and Jimmy Williams with the T-23 Mirrolure plug doing the job, according to words from the Plaza Sports Shop.

The same pair then tried surf fishing and came up with 22 blue fish and one channel bass.

Doc Wells and wife landed a total of over 100 blues in a couple of days of surf fishing near the old coast guard station on the weekend.

Blues are hitting well on spoons with the "Crocodile" and the "Limpet" both taking their share as well as mullet and bait.

We understand that a road has been opened for some two miles past the coast guard station but is only passable for short wheel base four wheel drive vehicles. The road is so small that other cars might not be able to make it. One parking area has been marked with a white line to the surf. The new trail is near the Lagoon where the old dock stood.

The largest channel bass reported in many a day was landed by L. Wren of Daytona near the Rocks between Marieland and St. Augustine. Wren's big one was 47 inches long with a girth of 28 inches. The monster was estimated at over 30 pounds and the angler really had his hands full playing him on 25 pound test line, according to Wayne Brady at the "Fishing Hole" Bait and Tackle Shop.

Wayne also had word of a spanish mackerel taken from the Main Street Pier.

Thousands of bluefish taken on plugs was the word from Merle Keller, operator of the pier, and any spot on the pier seemed to be as good as the next. The blues have been hitting practically all day long and late afternoons big whiting are taking peeled deep shrimp along with some pompano. Sheepshead up to seven pounds have also been landed this week.

Inlet Harbor reports no boats out since Sunday due to the bad weather but Saturday and Sunday passengers on the snapper boats had a ball.

The "Snow White 2" had a total of 150 red snapper, 1 grouper, and five amberjacks Saturday and on Sunday, 50 snapper, six of the big jacks, plus plenty of triggerfish and black sea bass. — LET'S GO FISHING!

Weed Eating Fish Test Scheduled

TALLAHASSEE — The white amur or grass carp will have more room in which to prove itself and at the same time allow fishery biologists an opportunity to study both the advantages and disadvantages of the weed eating fish in a natural, unconfined setting.

According to action taken by the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission at a meeting in Tallahassee Nov. 30, the experimental grass carp study will be expanded by stocking the amur in Clear Lake a 147 acre lake, heavily infested with aquatic vegetation, Clear Lake is located in Pasco County west of Dade City.

The commission action stipulated that the program will continue to be a biological study to determine if the weed eating fish is capable of controlling vegetation and the effect of the amur and its habits upon the ecological balance of a natural lake.

According to Commission Chairman Howard Odum of Marianna, the research personnel assigned to the project will maintain a careful study and close surveillance to record changes in both water quality and weed growth and to prevent any possibility of the fish escaping or being removed to other waters.

Prior to the Clear Lake study the research program had been limited to plastic tanks of man impoundments and lakes. At the present time possession or release of the white amur is prohibited in Florida except for the research study program.

The Commission also agreed to accelerate an aquatic vegetation control program on Deer Point Lake in Bay County and Lake Wales in Polk County.

Both waters were suggested as possible grass carp study areas but were rejected by the Commission due to the recreational uses of Lake Wales and the water flowage of Deer Point Lake. Both waters have vegetation problems but were not considered by the Commission as the best possible study area.

The decision to expand the white amur research program followed a morning of testimony that documented both the advantages and possible dangers should the fish be allowed to spread in uncontrolled waters.

Odum said, "The Commission is responsible for the fresh water aquatic life in Florida and while we hope the white amur is capable of handling some of the tremendous aquatic vegetation problems we feel it is necessary to have a complete study end all possible answers before the program advances from the area of research study to one of vegetation control."

At the Tallahassee meeting the Commission also approved the purchase of a tract of land adjacent to the J. W. Corbett Wildlife Management Area in Palm Beach County for public hunting. The land purchase is made by the Florida Power and Light Company in exchange for power line right of way easement across a portion of the wildlife area.

The Commission also voted to open Lower Myakka Lake in Polk County to public hunting and the location of the next meeting.

In final action the Commission established the date and location of the next meeting.

The NFL And Nixon; Paragons Of Virtue?

NEW YORK — (NEA) — President Nixon, in Georgia recently, was the start of what apparently is the start of a comeback attempt from his Waterhouse troubles, said (possibly joshing) "I should have talked with Norm Van Brocklin for him to slip off of them."

The President was referring to Coach Van Brocklin's leadership in taking the Atlanta Falcons from a record of 0-3 to 6-3 at that time. But the way things have been going generally in the National Football League and the Waterhouse, perhaps the President would not want to know. Not that Van Brocklin used perfidious methods but who can be sure of anything anymore?

For, at about the moment President Nixon was putting up the Falcon feathers, there was more troublesome smoke rising from his favorite reservation: one of the Washington Redskins, a certain George Burman, was saying that a good portion of his teammates was taking illegal pep pills.

George Allen, heretofore Nixon's favorite football coach, was reportedly stunned by this charge. Possibly, he was joshing. It was Allen, after all, who became notorious for maneuvering draft lists, injury lists and ordering fake center snaps (as in the last Super Bowl), has he added pep pills to his list?

Earlier in the season, another distinguished member of the National Football League, Houston coach Sid Gilman, was accused of misconduct. The league censured him for contributing to the delinquency of his pep-pill-taking players when he was San Diego Charger coach. (This is the same man who, it was reported, refused to allow a visiting team to borrow his kicking tee because they might find out that this tee was bigger than the rules allowed.)

More recently, the Pittsburgh Steelers accused the Oakland Raiders of devious tactics. For example, such an ingenious fellow as Mean Joe Greene was appalled to discover vaseline on Raider cover vaseline on Raider talk with Norm Van Brocklin for him to slip off of them.

Added to this horror was the intimation by a Steeler center that the ball he was about to snap for an attempted field goal was deflated. The Raiders had snuck a dead bird into the game, he charged.

The NFL, like the President, has also had problems with the courts lately. There were several suits — some still pending — that involved players who charged coaches and trainers with devious activities, like forcing them to play when hurt by giving them pain-killers. The most spectacular case was that of ex-Charger Houston Ridge, who collected $300,000 in a court settlement.

Perhaps the most ballyhooed NFL-governmental conflict occurred over local television blackout of home games. Congress passed a bill this fall which permits home teams with sellouts to have their games viewed locally. The clubs fought it, thus incurring the cross-eyed wrath of fans who could not get a ticket to a home game (unless they bought one). Philadelphia owner Leonard Tose was so disturbed that he threatened to put on sale 500 tickets behind stadium posts (not previously sold) in order to justify a no sell-out claim (and thus gain a blackout).

The players generally were not thrilled, either, by the methods of the owners, who continue to put in artificial turf and say it is good for everybody involved. Meanwhile, the players suffer skin scrapes, heat prostration and the creepy feeling that they shouldn't be on the field because it is so much like their living room carpet.

The idea of water and house brings us back to the President, a long-time football fan. A telling anecdote of how all this fits together was written by Roger Kahn, in his recently published book, "How the Weather Was."

Kahn and a friend, Vic Obeck, a one-time pro football player, had spotted Richard Nixon at a table in Toots Shor's in Manhattan in the mid-1960s, when Richard Nixon was still in office.

Nixon waved from a corner, writes Kahn. "He was waving at everybody." Kahn admits to being a little tipsy and introduced himself to Richard Nixon, and sat down.

"Nixon smiled greenly," said Kahn. "Several lawyers in his party glared."

"I wonder if you'd say hello to an admirer of yours, who is athletic director at NYU?" said Kahn.

"Of course, Nixon said 'through the green smile.' 'Hey Vic,' called Kahn.

Larry Kears

Leads BSU Cage Squad

BIRMINGHAM — Birmingham-Southern's basketball team has jumped out to four straight wins in what former Lyman Cage Mentor Head Coach Murray Arnold called his best start ever at Southern.

The Panthers have recorded victories over Belhaven College 57-55, the University of Montevallo 60-55, Tennessee Wesleyan University 75-45, and the University of Alabama at Huntsville 67-55. In defeating Belhaven and Montevallo, Southern captured the Montevallo Tiptoff Tournament title, the first team besides the host squad to take the crown in the tournament's four year history.

Defense has been the key in each of the four victories, as the Panthers are limited their opponents to less than 33 points per game. "Team defense has been our major emphasis since practice began," Coach Arnold said. "Our team has been willing to work in practice on defense, sometimes at the expense of offense, and we're beginning to find out how important it is to winning."

Offensively, the Southern attack has been very balanced with four players averaging over nine points per game and the team registering almost 55 points per game. Sanford & SIC star Larry Kears is pacing the Panther attack with 13.2 ppg.

Greg Love is next with 13, followed by Winston Davis at 12.2, and Mike Kitchens with 9.5.

The rest of the scoring shows Tony McWeay at 6 ppg, Tony Hunter at 4.2, Doug Branson with 3.7, Skip Uring at 4, and Butch Williams with 2 ppg. In their victory over Tennessee Wesleyan, Southern played one of their finest games to date. The Panthers dominated every phase of the game in their impressive 75-45 triumph.

Kears led the scoring with 14 points, followed by Greg Love and Doug Branson with 12 points, and Jon Boydston and Tony Hunter with 9. Coach Arnold said of the Tennessee Wesleyan game, "Our victory was the type of team effort defensively and rebounding that we strive for. We feel that with tough defense and good rebounding that we will score enough to win."

Southern ran into an aggressive hot shooting University of Alabama at Huntsville team No. 23, but held on for a 67-55 victory. "We thought we were going to break the game open a couple of times but UAH never quit and got very tough late in the second half," Arnold said. "They are a well coached team and will be tough to beat at home."

The Panthers conclude their pre-Christmas schedule with a game in Mobile against South Alabama.

"The next five games could be the toughest five game stretch on our schedule," Arnold said.

Pit Stop

The racing season is coming to a close at all the area tracks as the cold weather is creeping in on us. This week at Barberville and Jacksonville the season came to an end as each track had their Late Model Championship. At Barberville 25 cars lined up for the 50 lap feature with Bobby Johnson and Carl Tyler holding the pole. As the cars thundered down the track banging into each other as they were maneuvering it was Tyler taking the lead with Will Cagle in second. During the first 30 laps it was Tyler pulling out to a quarter lap lead as second place was a battle between Johnson, Cagle, Gardner, Chip and Curtis Crider and Larry Flynn.

A real battle went on between father and son as the Crider's ran door to door Ford against Chevy seasoned pro against rookie with the old man prevailing. The elder Crider was also honored as the points champion for the 1973 season.

After a restart on the 31st lap due to a spin out by Rod Eulenfield, Cagle found the groove he had been looking for and started making up ground on Tyler. By the 40th lap he had passed Tyler and was on his way to the checkered flag. Bill Raush (Tyler's teammate) also overtook Tyler to take second place. Tyler finished third with Ray Gardner taking fourth. Paul Crown took fifth and Curtis Crider came in sixth.

The heats were won by Bobby Johnson and Carl Tyler.

The Hobby class heats were won by Joe Faircloth and Lewis Green. In the feature Joe once again took the checkers as Lindsey Howard and Cecil Lewis were right on his bumper for second and third. Sanfor's Chris Dellaro lost another transmission. Rick Graham was still out with a blown motor and Heard Sargent also was out with motor trouble. Curt Carlson finished fourth in his heat and was in the top 15 in the feature.

At Jacksonville the season ended with a benefit race for the Beaches Area Boys Club. A patch of 30-lappers were run with Rance Phillips winning the first race as he beat out Wayne Shugart and Jack Nolan. Tiny Lund finished fourth. Sports car great Peter Green. In his first test of the Southern dirt tracks finished 14th. In the second race of the day Wayne Shugart came from the back of the pack to win over Tommy Higgins and Phillips.

At Ocala Leon Gault won the first heat in his Lake Mary based Anglia and then took a second in the feature. Len Hatcher won the mini-stock feature. Norman Turner another of the Lake Mary stars, had the misfortune of wrecking his second straight car into a total loss.

Grady Pickle, Garvin-Hardin and David Swagart also made the trip to Ocala. Cecil Lewis won the Hobby feature over Lindsey Howard. Paul Crown took the late model feature with J.D. Lewis finishing second. The races at Ocala are run on Sunday afternoon starting at 2:00.

Officiating clergyman at the double-ring, candlelight ceremony was the Rev. Clarence Gruesbeck, pastor. Mrs. Marvin Milam, organist, presented an appropriate program of nuptial musical selections and accompanied soloist, Robert Rella, of Gainesville.

Church decorations included two altar arrangements of white daisies, yellow mums, pink carnations and blue babies breath in white vases, flanked by potted palms and three branched brass candelabra. Family pews were marked with white satin ribbon and each window was adorned with two candles. Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a formal length princess style gown of white velvet with jewel neckline and long bell-shaped ruffled sleeves. Tiny velvet buttons trimmed the back of the gown which extended into a train. Her veil of silk illusion was secured by a headpiece of white fur and she carried a cascading bouquet of white mums, yellow daisies, pink and red roses with white satin ribbon. The bride's wedding ring pendant has been worn by seven generations of brides in her family.

Best man was Robert Rella, Gainesville and usher-groomsmen were Vance Blount, Orlando, brother of the groom and J. S. Carson Jamieson, Gainesville. The bride's mother chose a floor-length gown of blue polyester crepe with matching jacket and a corsage of yellow mums. The groom's mother wore a floor length gown of pink polyester with lace bodice and corsage of pink mums. The bride's maternal grandmother, Mrs. J. N. Lee, Lakeland, wore a floor length blue knit gown. The groom's grandmothers, Mrs. D. C. Smith, Leesburg, wore a floor length gown of blue polyester and Mrs. J. A. Highlighting the table was a three tiered wedding cake iced in white, adorned with blue, pink and yellow roses and topped with a small arrangement of live flowers identical to the bridesmaid's bouquets. The punch table was covered with a cloth identical to the one on the bride's table and the floral arrangement was composed of flowers similar to the others in a five branched silver candelabra. Fruit punch was served from a crystal bowl and all silver appointments were used.

For her going-away outfit, Mrs. Holton chose a yellow and white silk polyester knit pantsuit. The couple left for a wedding trip to Atlanta and their new residence will be 1728 Mercy Drive, Orlando. For her going-away outfit, Mrs. Holton chose a yellow and white silk polyester knit pantsuit. The couple left for a wedding trip to Atlanta and their new residence will be 1728 Mercy Drive, Orlando. The bride is a special education teacher at Lockhart Jr. High School and the groom is employed at Montgomery Ward in Orlando. Out-of-town guests came from Memphis, Tenn.; Atlanta, Ga.; Tampa, Gainesville, Lake Wales, Ruskin, Leesburg, DeLand, Fruitland Park and Miami, Fla.

REHEARSAL DINNER Following the rehearsal for the Green-Holton wedding, the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew S. Blount, entertained members of the wedding party and family members with a rehearsal dinner at the Cavalier Motor Inn, Sanford. Arrangements of blue carnations, yellow daisies, baby's breath, greenery and candles graced the tables and the host and hostess presented the bride-elect with an orchid corsage. Others attending along with the bride couple were her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Green, Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Brewer, Atlanta, Ga.; Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Green Jr., Tampa; Miss Denise Blount, Vance Blount, and Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Blount, all of Orlando. Also Keith Royston, Altamonte Springs and from Gainesville, Roberta Rella, Carson Jamieson, Mrs. Robert Martin and Carol Hale.

Nancy's Newsnotes

By NANCY BOOTH

from Orlando's twenty-first wedding anniversary. Congratulations and best wishes to all.

The next meeting of the North Orlando Garden Club will be held on December 13, at the home of Mrs. Jane West, 17 Hayes Drive, Sanford. Co-hostesses for the meeting will be Mrs. Joe Bush.

There will be a short business meeting followed by the club's annual Christmas Party.

Just received some last minute items on the Christmas Eve Eve Parade. Chairman ...

November 27 there was a November's Night ... at the Highlands Club House. It was not the usual type of pre-election get together. There were no speeches, as a matter of fact, there were no people. Only the candidates and a few of the incumbents were present. A few of the residents of the Highlands drifted in, but the general public was not invited. I was told that the evening was planned as a meeting of the candidates to get with the others, who were running, to meet the incumbents in a social atmosphere and to exchange ideas. This meeting was the only one held, to my knowledge, of those running for office in the city.

I am not referring to small coffees and the like, but to a rally type of gathering where we all can hear the candidates express their views. Let's hope next election that we will have some place in the city where a rally can be held. There is a desperate need for it.

Mrs. Golda Burge is back in our city. Mrs. Burge is the past president of the Hacienda Village Women's Club and one of the founders of that organization.

She has been on an extended vacation to parts North. She spent three months visiting relatives and friends in O'Feyville, Kan., Wichita, Kan., Springfield, Mo., and Venita and Tulsa, Okla.

She attended club meetings, did some sightseeing, and spent a good bit of time just catching up on all the news.

Mrs. Burge told me she had a delightful time but is very glad to be back home. I know her many friends are glad to have her back.

I would like to welcome two very nice people to our city. They are Lonnie and Diana Friend.

The Friends moved here just two months ago but already are quite actively involved in local events. Mr. Friend, with a large assist from his wife, has been very active in Cub Scout Pack 196.

He is the assistant Cubmaster and on the Pack Committee. He also officiated at the last Pack Meeting in place of Cubmaster Irwin Hunter who was unable to attend due to prior commitments.

As busy as the Friends are they found time to entertain Mrs. Friend's niece and family from Louisville, Ky., Skip and Patti Smith, over the Thanksgiving holiday. Mrs. Friend was telling me that they had looked for some time in the Central Florida area before choosing Winter Springs as their home.

From what I have been told, the Friends will be a great asset to our city.

GOOD NEIGHBOR OF THE WEEK is Mrs. Barbara Smith of 899 David Street.

Mrs. Smith does all of the things most neighbors do such as babysitting at the last moment, supplying transportation in emergencies, but does something I haven't heard mentioned yet. She helps some neighbor's children do that confusing type of school work known as "new math."

Any of you that have grade school children know what I mean about confusing? Her philosophy about and towards people is beautiful. She puts people at ease with her quiet dignity. And, finally, to quote a neighbor, "Is one heck of a gal."

Attention, please: Tell us your story. We welcome you news! Engagement and wedding forms, available at the Herald office, should be accompanied by a black and white glossy studio photo at least five days before desired publication.

Good Bye And God Bless!

All About Dorothy Luhrs Her World Sparks With Creativity

By FANNETTE EDWARDS
Herald Correspondent

DELTONA—A quiet, charming personality, with a yen for collecting shells, describes Dorothy Luhrs.

She enjoys making her own clothes, arranging attractive centerpieces of flowers she creates of brightly colored beads. She also loves to go to parties and dances.

"There's never a dull moment in Deltona, with all the peppy, wonderful clubs here. No one can ever say that there is nothing to do," Dorothy said.

She and hubby, John, whose romantic meeting aboard an ocean liner, could easily be written into a best seller novel, are exceptionally active in all clubs in Deltona.

Her marriage, Dorothy never thought of a second romance. But when she took that 17-day cruise to the West Indies in March of 1964, fate planned a new chapter in her life.

On their second day out at sea, she was introduced to John Luhrs, by the Captain who said that this gentleman had asked him to introduce them.

"It was a kindy gentleman, so gallant and before another day passed, he proposed," Dorothy said.

"I guess it was love at first sight for we were with each other from that moment on," she said.

John wanted the minister who was on board to marry them before they docked at New York on their return, but Dorothy thought that was rushing it too much. So she invited him to her home to meet her daughter, Carol.

On Halloween, in 1964, they were married in Chicago, where Dorothy and her daughter lived. John lived in New York and was a retired insurance adjuster.

"I actually was born in Long Island, N.Y. to Jacob and Sarah Hanz. At the age of 15, after my mother had died, my father and I moved to Chicago, where I attended high school and Northwestern University," Dorothy said.

"After my first marriage I went to work during the day and continued my Cost Accounting look another trip to the West Indies on the very same ship they had met, visiting other ports. They traveled to the Caribbean, to Key West and made five trips to Florida up and down the east and west coasts and Central Florida.

They traveled to Europe to see the house in which his parents and he had lived as a boy in Bremerhaven, Germany. They bought a car and for four months traveled by car through Germany, Sweden, Austria, France, Italy and Sweden, Switzerland and Liechtenstein.

Upon their return, they decided that the most desirable, the most beautiful place in which to retire was Deltona. So, in June of 1970, they purchased their spacious home in Deltona and moved into it in July.

They immediately enrolled in the Adult Education classes and signed up for Arts and Crafts, Drivers' Education program; Bridge; Horticulture and Ballroom Dancing.

They joined the Civic Association, the Empire State Club, the Firemen's Association and Auxiliary, the Fun and Travel Club and she, the Deltona Women's Club.

Their home is filled with the products of Dorothy's many lovely hobbies. Beautiful centerpieces made of brightly colored beads, shaped into flowers with birds or butterflies perched upon them can be found on her dining room and sunroom tables.

She sews all her own clothes. She does beautiful needlepoint work. On the wall of her living room is a most perfect reproduction of a picture she has made of a Lippson horse and rider, so real you'd expect them to ride away as you look at them.

They spend a great deal of their time enjoying their clubs, attending parties and dances given by them. They are extremely interested in the many plants they have grown since arriving here.

In their sun room you will even find a Christmas cactus brought here from Brooklyn. It hadn't bloomed for years, but as soon as it was brought here in the warm sunshine of Florida it has bloomed at Christmas time.

"And I feel that we have bloomed, again, here in Florida, in God's wonderful sunshine and ever growing green and flowers," says Dorothy.

Empire Club Stages Own Three-Ring Circus

By FANNETTE EDWARDS
Herald Correspondent

DELTONA — The Empire State Club of Deltona carried out a most unique skit, "The Circus," at the regular meeting, Nov. 25, in the Community Center.

Written and staged by Elizabeth Weig, chairman, skit featured "The Man On The Flying Trapeze," "Lady Fatima and Her Snakes," "The Siamese Twins" and many others, including the ever-lovin' cows.

Taking part in this original and enjoyable farce were Charlotte Weidig and Beverly Stubenberg, as The Siamese Twins (and from here on, Mrs. Weidig as the ring master, announcing all numbers); Herb Hubsch, Larry Durr and Ruth Smarak, as the tumblers; and Ray Venuti as the lion tamer; and Betty Konigsmark as Lady Fatima, the snake charmer.

Also Madeline Schroeder as the fat lady; Dorothy Langknecht and Lada Schmidt as jugglers; Hugh Lynch as the man on the flying trapeze; Ted Carter as a weight lifter; and Lucille Duerr, Betty McGee, Margaret Hubsch and Ray Anderson as clowns.

At the piano, accompanying those appearing in song and dance, was Grace O'Brien.

The skit was a huge success from the laughs and praise and applause the cast received during the performance.

Homemade pies and coffee was served following the entertainment.

The club is sponsoring a Christmas dance party at the center on Dec. 15 and a 14-day cruise to the Caribbean on Jan. 19. For dance reservations call Ellen Canton 789-436; and for the cruise, call Sid Simon 968-665.

SARA AND MARION ROBERTS AND DR. LUIS AND DR. MRS. MARIA PEREZ. They have been there every night with their off-springs, and up-to-the elbows in hard work backstage.

So to parents and entertainers... bouquets! Cast in one of the leads was a beautiful and talented young entertainer, MARITA ORR, whom I met when she arrived here about two years ago from Hollywood, Calif., as a choreographer for Disney World.

Marita has been in show biz since she was five-years-old and is superb. She attended a School of Dance Arts recital on the cultural scene in Sanford, since she is one of our Ballet Guild of Sanford-Seminole sponsors.

The talented and personable performer was still raving over a party we attended at the home of DR. TOM AND PAT LARGEN... so it is like home week for us to mingle backstage with the cast, including others we have seen in area productions.

So, if you need a lift... go, go, go to see "Anything Goes!"

A REMINDER... This elegant theatre is designed for All-Central Florida to utilize and not restricted to activities of the "Big Orange."

More plaudits! BURT PERINCHIEF did a marvelous job of directing Seminole County Chorus in Handel's "Messiah."

Just for the record, the dedicated master of music is off to Michigan State University to complete dissertation defense for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy in the Department of Music.

This step is the final requirement for the coveted degree and fulfills eight years of hard work for the maestro, who will earn his honor in March, 1974.

Congrats, Burt!

Just love optimists and positive thinkers!

ALL IN THE FAMILY

THEY'RE NEVER too young to appreciate good music while getting in the mood for a Merry Christmas. Dr. and Mrs. Gonzalo Huaman and family arrived early for Seminole Mutual Concert Association's presentation of "Messiah." Obviously carried away with it all are children (l to r) Kevin, Susanna, Alicia and Mark.

DICK AND LIB MOWER

Daughter Says Mom Has Become 'Expert'

DEAR ABBY: My mother has been running to doctors all her life. Her complaints run from chronic stomach trouble, migraine headaches, high blood pressure, back trouble, to a variety of skin trouble. [Shingles, eczema, psoriasis, and you name it.]

To make a long story short, my mother has become a self-appointed "expert" on everything pertaining to medicine and treatment. She doesn't hesitate to give out medical advice to her friends, and worse yet, she has a pill or ointment for everything.

When I tell her that she could cause more harm than good by giving her friends pills and salves, she says: "Relax, you need a tranquilizer," she tries to force one on me.

Will you please tell her to quit practicing medicine and pharmacology without a license? Thanks.

THE "DOCTOR'S" DAUGHTER

DEAR DAUGHTER: I'll tell her, but I can't guarantee a cure.

DEAR ABBY: Please help me. My mother, who is in her middle sixties, has been ailing for five years, but she absolutely refuses to go to a doctor. She has not had a checkup in 20 years. Just the mention of it infuriates her.

Also the rest of her is normal, her abdomen has become greatly enlarged, leading to fear she could have a tumor. She eats very little, but lately she drinks a lot. I suspect she does this because of the pain-killing properties in alcohol.

I have nightmares about her having cancer, but she says a woman her age doesn't have to worry about that.

Abby, how can we get her a doctor? She reads you faithfully. Can you help?

STUMPED IN NEW HAMPSHIRE

DEAR STUMPED: She is wrong. A woman "her age" is not immune to cancer. Your mother is probably avoiding the doctor because she's afraid of bad news. Stress your love and concern for her without communicating your fears. [P.S. If any doctors out there know of a better solution, I'll be glad to print it. And you may remain anonymous.]

DEAR ABBY: "Heartbroken Parents" would classify my husband as a "whole man." He is good-looking, beautiful, muscular, and he has a good mind. But according to my definition, he is far from whole because he lacks the qualities that make a real man. [Kindness, maturity, tenderness, sobriety, integrity.] His character is rotten, and his selfishness is not to be believed.

I'm not complaining. I married him for better or worse. I just want to tell that nurse how fortunate she is to be marrying a double amputee she knows to be beautiful on the inside. He will make her much happier than a lesser man of physical perfection.

INSIDE IS IMPORTANT

WORRY CLINIC By George W. Crane, Ph.D., M.D.

Gordon is furious at the lack of "horse sense" on the part of his large consolidated school. But note the ire of the bookstore manager here in Chicago who is forced to submit to blackmail by professors who "steal" new textbooks and sell them!

CASE Y-500: Gordon J., aged 42, is the engineer at a large consolidated school.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "I have 2 men that help clean up the building at night.

"And one of them asked my advice about a large pile of brand new school books that was supposed to burn.

"The public schools apparently coax or browbeat publishers into sending them free samples of all their new textbooks that might prove suitable for classroom adoption.

"After the teachers then make their choices, they discard all those dozens of other new copies, consigning them to the incinerator.

"But why don't they at least place them in the school library?

"Why be guilty of wantonly burning scores of those brand new books, whose prices nowadays run from $5 to $15 apiece?"

WANTED: HORSE SENSE

Imagine how many thousands of new books are sent out for examination to all the schools of America and then discarded, instead of being returned!

The day of the "free sample" is now gone, though a generation ago the manufacturers of breakfast cereals and even toothpaste companies would distribute free samples.

If that process is now too costly in this day of inflation, just consider the drain on book publishers who are browbeaten into sending examination copies of a 5th grade reading book or speller or other classroom text, merely for possible adoption.

"This same educational "blackmail" of book publishers has reached racketeering proportions at the college level.

For many professors will order an examination copy of a $10 or $15 textbook, even though it doesn't remotely fit into their courses.

Then, when they accumulate a pile of such costly volumes, they take them down to the local

Family Lib

By Jeanne and Lew Koch (Note: Today's column is written by Lew)

If your five year old child acts a little obstreperous in kindergarten, the teacher could wind up labeling him as a potential juvenile delinquent, a record that might follow him the rest of his life.

If the school guidance counselor or psychologist believes your teen-age daughter is "acting out" rather than suffering from normal adolescent problems, she may wind up with a permanent record labeling her "disturbed."

These are just some of the problems of keeping massive cumulative files on school children, according to Diane Divoky, writing in the September issue of Learning Magazine.

All over this world with keeping records on school kids? Well, according to Ms. Divoky, two things: the record probably contains a lot of material on the parents as well as the children; and that record is open to just about anyone who wants to see it.

Ms. Divoky and others have discovered that a government or police agent has only to walk into a school and ask to see a child's records and bingo, he gets them. And thanks to a nationwide trend towards computerizing everything, the agent won't even have to leave his office — all he'll have to do is push a button.

All over this nation, from kindergarten through high school, teachers, guidance counselors, psychologists and administrators are becoming, in effect, government police agents.

The Russell Sage Foundation, in two separate studies on the use and misuse of school records, reported the following: school records often contained information about both parents and children. Parents didn't know what information was in the records or how the information was to be used. Parents were forbidden to go through the records and challenge misinformation. Just about anybody (except the child's parents) who wanted access to the information in the school records could get it.

And to top it all off, the foundation discovered that teachers seldom use the information in the records to guide them in their relations with individual students.

To prevent such abuses Des Moines, Iowa and Jefferson City, Mo. have enacted safeguards. Oregon, Delaware, New Mexico and New Hampshire have also taken steps to preserve the privacy of school records.

So have California and New York. But according to Ms. Divoky, school authorities have done the least to avoid complying. The New York City school board said that most of the data in the records "are not part of the official record and are, therefore, not to be made available to parents to inspect." In California, some schools just plain refuse to let the parents see the record even though the law permits it.

For schools, like the one our children go to, allow the parents to inspect all the records. The school demands a subpoena before showing the records to anybody else.

But far too many schools, the record-makers and record-keepers are doing nothing more than compiling permanent dossiers on you and your children.

Beverly Adams Feathers Her Nest With Assortment Of Original Art

By ELDA NICHOLS
Herald Correspondent

Mrs. James B. (Beverly) Adams is an artist. She has many beautiful pictures of flowers, animals, scenes, and even cartoon characters, in her studio.

The difference in Beverly's pictures is that they were not painted by hand with a brush. Instead, they are printed pictures on cloth, that are stuffed, giving a three-dimensional effect. The realism is indeed startling.

"I've worked on stuffed pictures for the past three years," said Beverly. "Some friends in Maryland got me interested in them, and now I just can't make enough of them. People see them and they just have to have one!"

There is a tremendous amount of hard work on each picture, with very fine hand-work involved, she explained. "It has to be just right," said Beverly.

"After attaching a backing to the picture, I sew around each detail in the picture that has to be stuffed. Cotton is worked into each tiny part of the design, sometimes by using a toothpick. After mounting the picture on plywood, I put a special finish on the entire front, so that dust won't easily be wiped away."

One picture depicts a lone Indian, in full regalia. After stuffing, the effect is very realistic. Many of Beverly's pictures are hanging in homes and offices and schools, and are always much admired.

Recently, Beverly has been figuring out ways to have outside Christmas decorations, and yet conserve energy. Deciding to make her own, she got some masonite and a jig saw and went to work.

Making her own patterns for bells and Christmas stockings, she traced them on the masonite and cut them out with the jig saw.

As it was her first experience with the saw, she wasn't sure of the outcome, but the decorations turned out very well. Hand painted and trimmed with sparkly tinsel and glitter, Beverly intends to use one floodlight to show up the decorations at night.

Beverly is quick to explain. "I have been carefully conserving electrical energy so that I won't feel guilty when I turn on the floodlight. I have cut back on all electric appliances, and even denied myself my favorite daytime serial on TV!"

Beverly is an attractive and energetic woman whose house is bulging with articles all hand made by Beverly herself.

Among her other hobbies, she enjoys working with plastic crystals. She also imbeds wedding, graduation, and birth announcements in plastic, to make a charming permanent memento.

Her original jewelry designs are especially lovely as a gift for the hard-to-please.

Always experimenting with new ideas, Beverly's mind is full of original and different plans. And you can bet that she will soon be bringing her ideas to life.

Counting winners pays off successfully West will clear the suit with a third lead. At this point South will see that he needs a diamond finesse to bring home the bacon. He will lose it and go one down, provided West has taken care to hold on to both his hearts.

If South stops to count his winners, the C of ARCH, he will see that he needs two diamonds and four clubs for his contract. He will also see that if he takes a diamond finesse at trick two he will be able to lose it with complete safety. West will be on lead and won't be able to hurt him with a heart play.

South will clear the clubs next and wind up with his contract and one or two overtricks. A far better result than down one.

Truth About Sex Helps Child Form Code Of Behavior

By MARILYN GORDON
Seminole Coordinator
Youth Programs Inc.

A parent begins communicating with his child about sex from the time he is walking and talking, but today we will pay special attention to that period of time just before puberty.

This is an easy time to reach him despite his seeming indifference at times to what you may be saying. He is eager to gather facts about any subject and especially sex, specifically about its seamy side.

Even though he may not openly acknowledge this particular interest, to you, he most probably has shared it with his friends.

Soon, he will be reaching that age when he needs to draw a curtain between himself and his parents emotionally. Therefore, pre-puberty is a valuable time to see that he becomes informed about what will happen physically and that he is informed to the point where he will not be bewildered or surprised by the changes occurring.

It becomes a good time to openly share your attitudes about sex as you discuss these changes and their relation to reproduction.

It is time to soon to let a youngster know that while sexual intercourse can bring joy and pleasure, it can also bring pain and misery when it is entered into selfishly, that is, without a feeling of responsibility for the partner or for the act itself.

Many of what you say now will be remembered in the years ahead. As a youngster begins to form his own ideas of behavior, he will at least have something solid on which to base them.

Many parents have discussed facts and attitudes about sex with their children with ease by now but still find that they are having some difficulty at this age because of the greater complexity of it all, and the feelings that enter more obviously into these explanations.

Others find that because their youngsters are older, and can understand sex in an adult sense, discussions become awkward and embarrassing.

A few parents still fear that if I didn't realize that Es was in the hospital for surgery. She is so shy and didn't want any of her friends to worry, so she told us that she was only going to have some tests made.

Anyhow, she is back home now and doing real nicely. I am happy to report.

Well, the big night with our dear Burt Perinchief turned out to be a success and we were so delighted to see such a large turnout. We did work so hard (but it was fun too) and it was truly heart-warming to see a full house.

Now I have to settle back and try to catch up with the girls at the Central Florida Chorale as Julia Bishop sets out to teach us more and more new songs getting us prepared for our first engagement of this season. Gee, music is fun!

The wedding was performed by the Rev. Leo King of the First United Methodist Church of Sanford.

The bride wore a becoming two-piece suit in a delicate shade of off-white and a corsage of red roses.

Immediately following the wedding a reception was held for the family and friends. The traditional wedding cake centered the bride's table and a profusion of evergreens, mums and Tetraxpanix was used throughout the appointed site.

Mr. Donnelly is a retired attorney and Mrs. Donnelly is the Media Specialist at Sanford Middle School. After a wedding trip through the Caribbean they will be at home in Geneva.

I had a very pleasant surprise a few days ago when I received a note informing me that Charles E. Baker Jr. will be graduated from Emory University, Dec. 21, with a Physician's Associate Degree from the academy of Medicine in Atlanta, Ga.

At the present time, Charles is working with Dr. William Brown, M.D. in Winter Park as part of his elective and hopes to be employed in Florida after his graduation.

His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Baker Sr., houseparents at the Lutheran Haven, in St. Augustine. Mr. and Mrs. Baker and daughter, Leese will be flying up to Atlanta for the graduation exercises.

How's this for a surprise? Mrs. Lorraine Whiting of Geneva and Mr. John J. Donnelly of Washington, D.C. exchanged marriage vows on November 30, 1973, at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Betty Schlusemeyer.

Don't Let Your Tree Be A Holiday Hazard

By LOUISE L. GILL
Extension Home Economics Agent

Flame Proof Your Christmas Tree—Is your Christmas tree safe? Is it flameproof?

If you want to be sure it's both safe and flameproof, you'll be interested in some suggestions.

To flameproof your tree, mix 9 ounces of borax, 4 ounces of boric acid, and one gallon of water. Add 1 teaspoon of low sudsing detergent, which aids the penetrating quality of the solution. Spray the tree. Saturate it. Let it dry. Decorate. There will be no change in color or texture of the tree.

Always start with a fresh green tree, one on which the needles are not shedding. Make a fresh cut on the bottom of the tree, sawing off about an inch.

Put the base of the tree in water. There are inexpensive metal stands on the market which hold the tree upright and have a cup at the bottom to hold water.

If you don't have such a stand, then use an ordinary tin can filled with wet sand. The water goes into the tree and helps keep it green longer.

Be sure to locate your tree away from any source of heat such as fuel heaters and hot air ducts.

One other suggestion: Don't keep your tree up too long. A week is long enough. Never keep it up over 10 days. There should be a National Tree-Rid-of-water campaign.

Your Christmas Tree obsession may be a fire hazard.

McNulty Elected VP

... And regional manager

C. Howard McNulty, chairman of the board of First Florida Bank and four pending locations in the Central Florida area.

McNulty's region covers the rapidly growing area around Orlando, Sanford and Melbourne. His banks account for $200.2 million in deposits which will grow through the affiliation of the DeLand State Bank as well as through three new banks for which c'argers are pending.

McNulty is 37 years old.

At First Florida at Sanford H.E. Davis was named president by the board of directors and E.E. Tucker was named chairman of the bank's executive committee.

The $1.5 billion United First Florida Banks inaugurated the regional management system for the state-wide holding company to provide managerial accountability and maximum responsiveness to customers of its 32 member banks.

Frank Smathers Jr., president and chief executive officer of Florida's largest bank holding company, said "Our system of regional management is a move to further enhance our competitiveness and provide a full range of financial services to present and future customers in Florida and throughout the world.

Our goal was to combine the management expertise and depth of the member banks and the holding company into a structure that could most effectively serve the high growth markets in which the various banks are strategically positioned. It will also assist in integrating the strengths of new banks acquired in the future."

The other new regions are also headed by youthful senior officers whose combined ages average 43 years. All are holding company directors and members of the executive committee. The regions are: SOUTHEAST: (Six UFVB banks, two pending locations). Largest in the state in terms of population and deposits, this region extends from Key West to Vero Beach and will be headed by J. Stephen Hudson, 37.

A native of Florida and active in South Florida civic affairs, Hudson is president of the Greater Miami Chamber of Commerce. He has a background of marketing and domestic banking and was senior vice president of UFVB until today when he was elected executive vice president. United First Florida Banks have $579,253,000 deposits in Hudson's region.

SOUTHWEST: (Thirteen UFVB banks, four pending locations). This region includes Tampa, St. Petersburg and Fort Myers and will be under James H. White, 47, an executive vice president of the holding company. His 13 banks, including Okeechobee, have deposits totaling $281,871,000. These ultimately will be swelled to more than $395,297,000 with the addition of the Peoples Bank of North Fort Myers. The Southside Bank of St. Petersburg, and the First State Bank of Lutz. A new charter also is pending at Davenport.

NORTHEAST: (five UFVB banks, one pending location). James B. Lumpkins, 33, who is vice chairman of United First Florida Banks, will direct this developing area. That encompasses both Jacksonville and Gainesville. Because of certain alliances and common interests, the Ormond Beach First National Bank will be included in this region where deposits total $171,440,000.

Since agriculture is the most essential industry, priority in fuel allocation will be given for operation of mobile and fixed farm and ranch equipment essential to the planting, growth, or harvesting of crops and livestock. Farmers are encouraged to take all possible steps to use available fuel as efficiently as possible. Growers that are unable to obtain adequate fuel for their farm operations should contact their local ASCS office, or in the case of diesel fuel, contact the County Agricultural Agent. The ASCS has been assigned USDA responsibility to provide fuel supply information to farmers and to help them verify fuel needs.

The fertilizer shortage was partially relieved when price ceilings were removed on materials used in the manufacture of fertilizer. Since there still will be an inadequate supply of some fertilizers and the prices have increased sharply, farmers will need to take a second look at their fertilizer practices.

Agricultural producers may be more adversely affected by indirect shortages than the more obvious ones. Any disruption in the harvesting, transportation and marketing process could have a severe effect on food production. If trucks and rail transportation is not adequate, the food cannot get to the market. If there is a shortage of packing cartons, the produce will never leave the field. There are numerous other examples that could be cited.

Appearance Helps Sell Your Home

By JULIAN STENSTROM

We're sure you've heard the expression, "It's a natural born salesman!"

One of our favorite expressions about a real good salesman is, "He could sell you a drink of water if you were dying."

And, of course, there are those salesmen who couldn't sell you a drink of water if you were dying of thirst or couldn't sell you a life preserver if you were drowning.

If you decide to list your home, particularly if you do it with several real estate brokers or put your home in a multiple listing service, the chances are that your home is likely to be shown by both types of sales people.

But even the bird who can sell anybody anything might have difficulty in selling your home for you without a little bit of help from you.

And, with a little effort on your part it is altogether possible that your home can be sold not only more quickly but at a better price than comparable homes.

Of course, one of the keys to selling your home is to price it right when you put it on the market.

But, let's assume you've listed your home at the right price. The big question now is to make the sale. And that's what this piece is all about.

When you list your home with a real estate broker and you price it right, your very next step is to do all you can to let your home "smile" a welcome to the folks who come with the salesman to look at it.

Anytime a sales person brings his customers to your home you can be fairly well assured that first, his customers are wanting to purchase a home; secondly, he has checked first to determine if they are qualified to purchase a home in your price range; and, finally, at least the salesman believes that his customers would be interested in seeing your residence.

The salesman has left little to the imagination. So, why should you leave the appearance of your home to the buyer's imagination? Unfortunately, too many people do this very thing.

Your first move is to take a good look at the exterior of your home. After all, the first impression a potential buyer gets is when the salesman drives his buyers into your driveway or parks his car in front of your home. You'd be absolutely surprised if you knew how many times a salesman will drive people to a home on the market only to have the kind of homeowner who probably takes good care of the interior of his home, too.

Now let's go inside. If the buyers see faded woodwork and walls their desire to buy your home is immediately diminished. Some homeowners stand there and try to tell the buyers how the house would look if it were painted, but that's not half as effective as showing him how nice it looks by redecorating those faded walls and the woodwork yourself. This will bring a much better offer on your home than by leaving it to his imagination.

Give your home a thorough cleaning and there's no doubt that that'll be more appealing to the buyers. You see, a sparkling, clean, neat home always attracts buyers.

Make Minor Repairs

Also, there are a few minor but important repairs you should make before your home is shown the first time. Tighten loose knobs, for example. Adjust sticking doors and windows, fix warped cabinet drawers, and remove stains from carpets. Get rid of any flaws you know of that will detract from the home and reduce the buyer's desire to purchase.

If you've got a "Fiber-McGee" closet, gather all the items you want to keep, stow them away in a box and get rid of the rest of the junk. Make all closets appear as roomy as possible.

A well-decorated and orderly kitchen aids, perhaps, one of the greatest appeals for the lady of the house to your place. And nothing can detract from a home more than a messy kitchen and a sink full of dirty dishes.

Now, let's go into the bedrooms. First, always be sure the closets are orderly. Arrange them to permit the buyers to see as much of the closet space as possible. Make them appear ample. Be sure the beds are made and try to let in as much light as possible. The bedrooms are one of the most outstanding features of any home so be certain they're neat.

Don't Hamper Salesman

Now that the house is prepared for showing and you've done all you can to make the salesman's job as easy as possible to show the property, what are you supposed to do while the house is being shown?

Friends, you've heard the expression that three's a crowd. It's true in this situation, too, unless the salesman asks you for your assistance. Never butt in. If you do without being asked, the people being shown the house will feel like they are intruding and will hurry their inspection.

Finally, a word to the wise. Let your broker or Realtor discuss price, terms, financing, possession and other major points with the customer. Let him do the negotiating. If anybody can bring about a favorable conclusion, he can do it better than anyone else.

If you'll help your salesman at the beginning it'll mean dollars for you in the end.

ON THE HOUSE

By ANDY LANG AP Newsfeatures

There isn't much doubt that, among the various types of houses available, the two-story ranks first in the matter of economy.

If you have, let us say, $40,000 to spend for a house, you can get more habitable space for that amount than you can in a split-level, a bi-level or a ranch. That's because it's always a little less expensive to build vertically than horizontally, assuming that similar-price materials are used.

This, though, is not the only consideration in the selection of a house. If it were, we'd all be living in two-story houses, whereas the truth is that ranch residences, with all the rooms on one floor, are the best sellers.

Some persons prefer bedrooms on the second floor; some want to avoid stair-climbing; some want each room to be a separate entity; some like the open-plan concept, which creates visual spaciousness and so on.

Builders want to construct houses that sell. Since ranch houses have been outselling all others, more ranches are being built. And because more ranches are being built, more persons are buying them. But entirely aside from this cycle process, the persons who deal in custom-built houses — architects — confirm the popularity

Here's How Sparkle this Yule with less Wattage

By VIVIAN BROWN AP Newsfeatures Writer

Christmas is a time of bright lights, but we should be prepared for alternatives in the face of brownouts.

For example, you might put more emphasis on draping the house with greenery, candlelight and minilights, which provide a lovely effect using little wattage. (A spokesman for Norma, the lighting people, advises that a string of 50 minilights will take only 24 watts. If they blink, that wattage may be cut in half.)

Some designers will take the greenery, candles, little lights route at Christmas. Interior designer Leif Pedersen plans to use lots of garlands of evergreens to decorate his walls and ceilings. He will also put great emphasis on candles this year, using tall wooden candleholders in varying heights to create a handsome grouping of big candles on the floor. (In a child-oriented home one might prefer to use hurricane lamps.)

Pedersen suggests a view of the tree from the entranceway to provide instant joy if it is possible. He also uses tall, slim red candles in candlesticks and tall sconces.

In his shuttered living area, he uses garlands of evergreens draped vertically down the length of the wall. In a window between shutters he places white-painted branches in a vase, using tall wooden candleholders, but they could be put in little pots across the wall. The branches are strung with the white minilights. Pedersen's window has enough depth to add a handsome, large carved goose between the branches and the window. The goose is placed on a pedestal to raise it above the height of the window box.

TRILLING TREE—Four little white birds amidst their white lights provide cheer to Yuletide mantel or table.

Christmas is a good excuse for using all the glistening crystal and shining silver you may have. Old or new crystal to hold candles and bowls of holly, your tree ornaments. Shine your silver Revere bowl for a Christmas punch or to hold a mass of holly.

Place anything that gleams or sparkles in front of mirrors which will reflect the light. In a teen-age room or upstairs hallway one might have a Christmas tree made from a pair of recycled blue jeans. Cut the garment into strips about

More than one way to silence your floor

By Mr. Fix

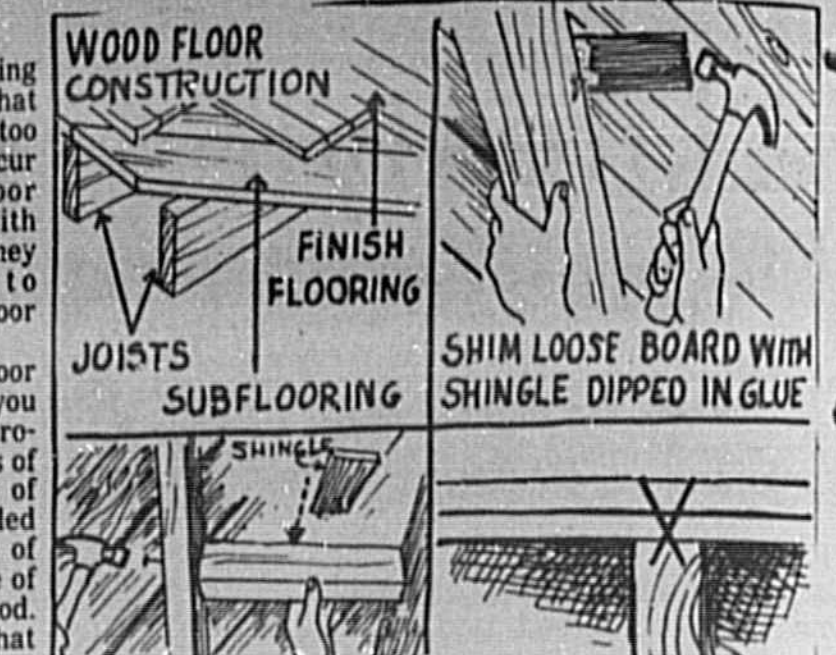

A squeaky floor is annoying but it's no annoyance that can be remedied without too much trouble. Squeaks occur in older homes as floor boards become loose with age, in newer homes as they become loose due to shrinkage, warping or poor workmanship.

Understanding how a floor is constructed will help you understand the repair procedure. The floor consists of two parts — a sub-floor of wide boards that are nailed to the joists and on top of this, a finished floor made of narrow strips of hardwood.

The narrow floor boards fit together in a tongue and groove construction. This allows them to fit tightly together. Nails are driven in at an angle along the tongue.

The finished floor boards fit together with a nail set and fill the hole with wood putty. Where a floor is open underneath, as is the ground drive it through the floor and floor over a basement, work into the joists. Tap the floor with a mallet to someone walk on the floor with your fist or a mallet to someone walk on the floor with a hollow sound indicates boards from below. Mark the joist. Once you have found them, drive thin wedges into the joists. They are generally 1/2 inches apart, measured from the center of one to the center of the other.

It's so that they fit snugly between the joists. Drive sub-floor without bothering nails through the joists and with the joists it will not be as good a repair. Use a drill bit slightly thinner than the nails floor by placing lengths of 2 x 4 to drill pilot holes to avoid 4/8 or 2 x 6's against the unsplitting the wood with the nails. Drive the nails at an angle so they form a V as they go through the wood. Drive the nail most of the way, then

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

COVERED PORCH frames the living room and foyer; the foyer has a large, walk-in closet for guests and family coats. The living room is at the front, with a dramatic bow window. Two steps down takes one into the recreation room, which is 20 feet long, plus having a view of the terrace through the dinette's bow window. A two-way fireplace serves the living and recreation rooms. Serving food from the well laid-out kitchen is easy, to the dining room, dinette or snacks in the recreation room. Laundry and sewing rooms also are close by. The bedrooms are in an unusual arrangement, the two smaller ones using a bath also convenient to daytime areas. Plan HA8073 was designed by Herman H. York, 96-04 161st St., Jamaica, N.Y. 11432, with 2,110 square feet. Anyone wanting to know the price of the blueprint can write to York, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Choice Investments Japanese Buy U.S. Land

By JAMES M. WOODARD Copley News Service

Japan is exerting an increasingly strong impact in the U.S. real estate market.

Buyers, in both countries, are reaching around the world to make what they consider to be choice international real estate investments. Professionals in the field are learning new techniques from their far-away fellow investors.

Japanese buyers are primarily interested in U.S. business and investment properties. An increasing number of major Japanese business firms are purchasing or leasing properties here to establish business operations and improve their competitive position in the lucrative U.S. marketplace.

For example, Suzuki Motor Corp., a leading marketer of motorcycles and snowmobiles, recently purchased a location in the Irvine Industrial Complex in Irvine, Calif. It's the 13th Japanese firm to acquire a location in this complex. At least 15 Japanese firms are now occupying space in New York's great Empire State Building.

When Japanese business operations get up in the United States, it follows that key executives will move here with the business. They are coming in a steady flow, sometimes purchasing high-value homes for their personal residence.

An outstanding example would be the recent sale of entertainer Dean Martin's 63-acre ranch in Hidden Valley, Calif., to Hideshi Kubozono, president of Nobel Soft Drink Co. of Tokyo. The property, which includes a 16-hole, three-hole golf course, tennis courts, corrals and other goodies, sold for close to $1.5 million.

Some are simply selling to investor-developers, who either demolish the building to make room for a new income property, or convert to office units or condominiums. A few creative owners have capitalized on the downtown location of their church. They first demolish the old structure. Then up goes a fine, modern building, an attractive complement to the entire downtown area. All except the ground floor is comprised of condominium office suites, which are subsequently sold.

The ground floor provides beautiful new quarters for the church. It is convenient for attendees, and church is again in a healthy financial condition.

Q. Was the recent Home and Land Buying Show at Madison Square Garden in New York a success?

A. Moderately. The promoter expected 25,000 attendees — 18,000 attended. He expected to sell 200 exhibit booths — sold 100. But plans are already under way for a show next year, and there will possibly be other similar shows in other parts of the country.

Although personal replies are impossible, questions from readers are invited. Write: J. M. Woodard, Copley News Service, in care of this newspaper.

Real Estate Question Box

By JULIAN STENSTROM

(Editor's Note: Do you have a question pertaining to real estate, taxes, planning, zoning or anything else that would affect your lifestyle? If so, direct your inquiry to Editor, Lifestyles, The Sanford Herald, Sanford, Fla. 32717. Be sure to sign your name. Upon publication only initials will be used. Your letters are welcomed.)

Editor: We live in Virginia and we own a house in Seminole County. We recently listed the Florida home with a real estate broker for rent. One of the first month's rent as a fee for renting the property. Our question is this: Is this the normal charge for services such as this in Florida?

Dear Mrs. ARA: Yes, it is. In Florida the typical commission rate for renting a property to one of a broker's customers is 50 percent of the first month's rent. And, believe me, there's far more to renting a home these days than just showing a customer a house and handing him the keys when he lays his money on the line. Usually rental agreements must be prepared, the real estate people assist the new tenants in getting water, power, gas and telephone service, often he will have to help coordinate moving into the home, arrange for any repairs which may be necessary and accomplish several other chores.

Sometimes, depending upon the condition of the home, a broker and a salesman can actually lose money handling the rental of a property.

Editor: I was told the other day that over one-half of all the property in Sanford was non-taxable. I don't see how this is possible. Would you check it out?

Dear WEM: You're absolutely correct. Let's put it this way. Of all the assessed valuation within the City of Sanford over one-half of it is non-taxable. This includes such exempt properties as churches, schools, city hall, county courthouse and the many, many other city, county, state and federally owned properties within the corporate limits of Sanford.

Editor: Has the Veterans Administration changed its procedure for veterans to obtain Certificates of Eligibility which enable qualified veterans to get a VA guaranteed mortgage?

Dear RBM: We checked with the Veterans Administration and have been informed that effective September 1, 1973, any veteran discharged on or after that date automatically receives his Certificate of Eligibility to purchase a home with a VA guaranteed mortgage.

The new procedure, it is believed, will reduce the time required to qualify veterans for such a benefit. But the VA also points out that any veteran discharged before Sept. 1, 1973, will still have to apply for the eligibility certificate. Thank you for calling this to our attention.

Prune To Maintain Plant Health

By DAVID DEVOLL Extension Agent

Pruning of ornamental plants is an art best learned by experience. One way to learn the fundamentals is to study the mistakes of others.

Everyone has seen the once-a-year pruner who, armed with saw, shearer and axe, attacks the garden and cuts all hedges and shrubs back to the ground. After clean-up, the tools are put away until the following year. Then there are the timid pruners who are fearful to remove even a single leaf from a plant. This hands-off policy often results in overgrown, leggy plants.

Next comes the "shearer." This one barbers his shrubs into domes, cones, spheres, rectangles, squares, etc. A few plants will survive under this treatment, but many are severely injured.

The purpose of pruning is to remove unwanted growth to benefit the plant parts that remain and to improve the appearance of the plants.

The most important reason for pruning is to maintain plant health. Prune to remove dead, weak or damaged wood and disease and insect infested wood. Remove dead or diseased wood whenever it appears. This is one of the best ways to stop the spread of disease to the rest of the plant or neighboring plants. Remove branches which procedure to follow if the plant rub and weaken another limb and remove weak, damaged or crowded stems. Always remember that maintenance of plant health is the fundamental reason for pruning.

General thinning and corrective pruning can be done any time of year. Heavier pruning may be done on deciduous plants during the dormant season. For late flowering and fruiting plants, winter or early spring is suitable. A good rule of thumb to follow on flowering trees and shrubs is to prune soon after the flowers have fallen.

Plants are also pruned to develop or maintain a desired size or form, to shape the plant and to produce more dense growth.

Insulation Cuts On Heat Loss

By JULIAN STENSTROM

About 27 percent of all energy used in this country goes toward maintaining homes in a comfortable condition. Homeowners can save substantial amounts on their heating bills by cutting down heat loss and preventing infiltration of cold air into the house. Proper insulation, plus tightness of the house, will make a big difference, Mrs. Faye Plowman, housing specialist, with the Florida Cooperative Extension Service, says.

During cold weather, heat from a warm house passes through the walls to the outside. The amount of heat lost in this way can be greatly reduced by proper insulation. The attic is a good place to start, especially in older homes where the original insulation may have been insufficient, or where there may have been no insulation at all. Adding insulation to an attic is relatively inexpensive and well worth the effort. Mrs. Plowman recommends a minimum thickness of four inches.

THE WEEDERS GUIDE

By EARL ARONSON AP Newsfeatures

If pruning back evergreen trees and shrubs that grow out of bounds in your landscape becomes a difficult chore, turn to dwarfs.

There are, according to Cornell University researchers, more than 600 types of dwarf or slow-growing conifers that may be used effectively in a number of areas. They grow only three to four feet tall at maturity.

The small varieties have been used extensively in Europe for some time and are just now becoming known to the gardener in this country. In the Northeast, for example, about 20 types are produced commercially, offering a variety of foliage colors and growth habits.

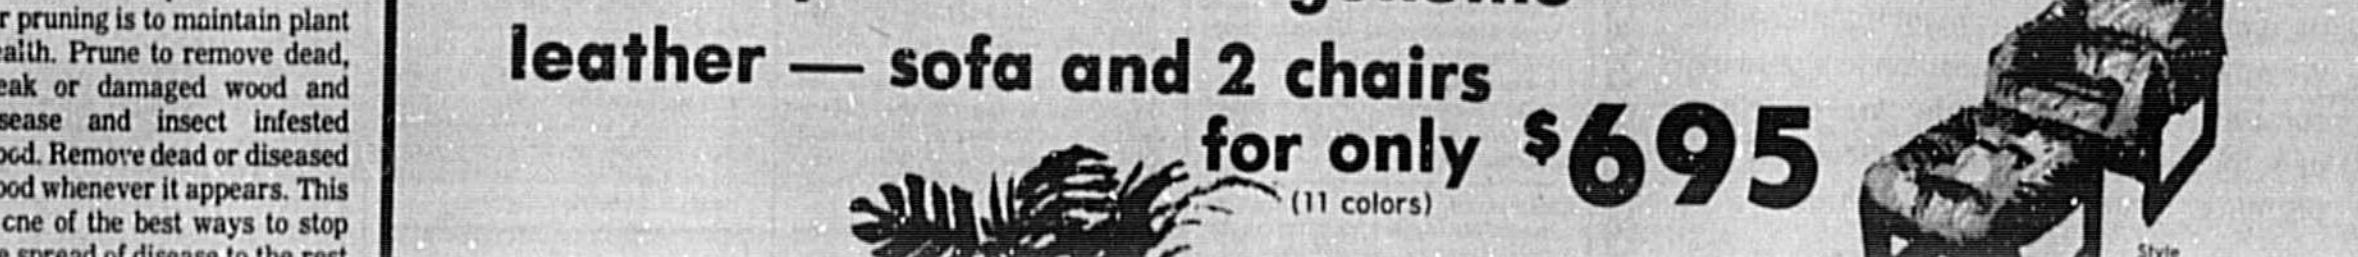

Ordinarily, balsam fir will grow up to 80 feet tall, yet one dwarf form will range from three to 10 feet tall, and it will take them about 20 years to reach 10 feet.

The tiny trees fit nicely into a rock garden or shrub or perennial border. They may be combined nicely with traditional plants for foundation landscaping and used in small closed inner courts.

AMANDA PANDA

by Course & Millie

PINS ARE USED TO FASTEN THINGS TOGETHER.

FOR INSTANCE, CLOTHESPINS HOLD MY SOCKS TO THE LINE TO DRY IN NICE WEATHER!

THERE ARE PINS TO PIN-UP THE HEM ON MY DRESS!

THERE ARE BOBBY PINS TO KEEP MY WIG FROM BEING A MESS!

THERE'S ANOTHER TYPE OF PIN YOU MIGHT LIKE TO SEE!

OH, YES! THERE ARE PINS LIKE THE ONE YOU SEE ON ME!

MEET THE WORLD

THAT DOES IT, RALPH! I'M NEVER GOING TO SPEAK TO YOU AGAIN!

IT'S ALL YOUR FAULT, MADGE!

YOU BOUGHT A LOT OF NICE, ORDINARY CHRISTMAS CARDS. THEN YOU SAW SOME BEAUTIFUL, EXPENSIVE ONES, AND YOU HAD TO BUY A FEW BOXES OF THEM, TOO, DIDN'T YOU?

CAN I HELP IT IF WE CAN'T AGREE ON TO WHICH FRIENDS WE SHOULD SEND WHICH CARDS?

THIS IS THE MODEL I JUST FINISHED YESTERDAY.

THE PRECEDING INTERRUPTION WAS ONLY A TEST...

...IF THIS HAD BEEN AN ACTUAL EMERGENCY...

WHAT'S THE MATTER... YOU'RE NOT WORRIED, ARE YOU?

THEY RUIN THAT ANNOUNCEMENT ON TELEVISION ALL THE TIME.

I KNOW... THAT'S WHY I'M WORRIED.

WE DON'T HAVE A TELEVISION SET.

OUR NEW AGE
DYNA-SHIP

A COMPUTER-GUIDED WIND-DRIVEN CLIPPER IS BEING DEVELOPED IN GERMANY AS A NON-POLLUTING CARGO CARRIER. DESIGNED BY AERO-ENGINEER WILHELM PROLSS, IT WILL HAVE 4 TO 6 ROTATABLE, UNSTAYED MASTS AND STAINLESS STEEL YARD-ARMS SHAPED LIKE RIBS OF AN AIRPLANE WING FOR AERODYNAMIC PROPULSION.

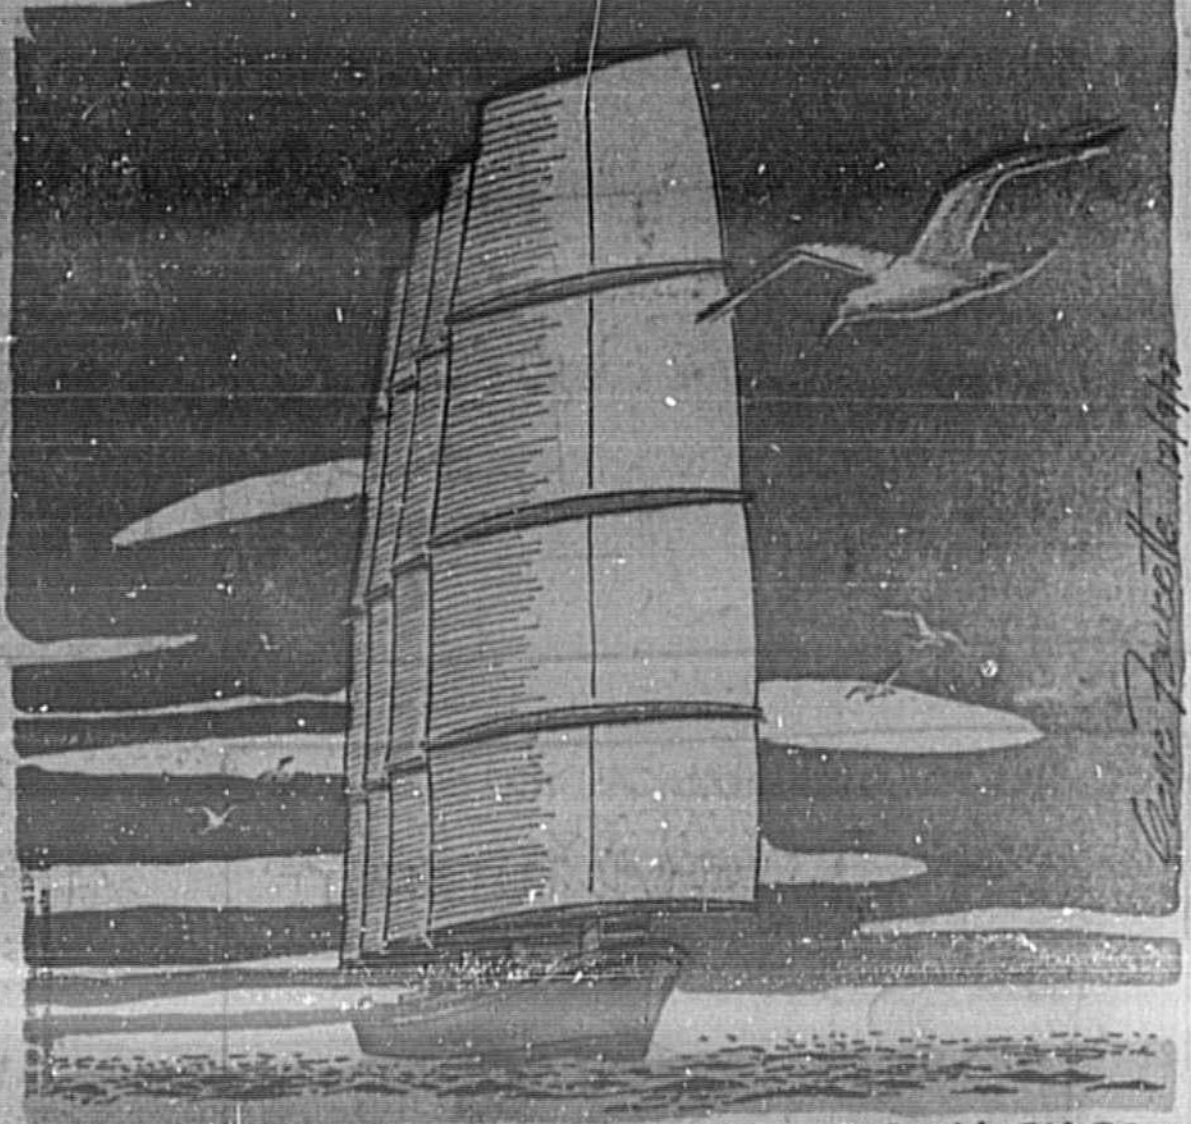

A SINGLE OFFICER ON THE BRIDGE, USING COMPUTER DATA, COULD CONTROL EVERY MAST AND SAIL ON THE 400 FT., 17,000-TON SHIP JUST BY PUSHING BUTTONS.

THE SAILS OF PVC-COATED DACRON WILL ROLL OUT FROM THE CENTER OF THE MAST ALONG TOP AND BOTTOM TRACKS IN THE CURVED YARDS AS EACH MAST ROTATES FOR MAXIMUM EFFECTIVENESS.

By Athelstan Spilhaus

UNLIKE THE BIG WINDJAMMERS OF OLD, DYNA-SHIPS WOULD RECEIVE CONSTANT WIND SPEED AND DIRECTIONAL INFORMATION FROM ORBITING WEATHER SATELLITES SO AN ESTIMATED 12 TO 16 KNOTS AVERAGE SPEED MIGHT BE MAINTAINED— GREATER THAN PRESENT DIESEL-POWERED BULK CARRIERS!

CARL PAYNE TOBEY'S
This week in ASTROLOGY

Leo-Aries ASSOCIATIONS

THIS CAN BE AN ENTHUSIASTIC ASSOCIATION. THERE IS ENERGY AND THE WILL TO DO BECAUSE EACH HAS INDIVIDUAL PLANS. THERE IS LESS LIKELIHOOD OF GETTING IN EACH OTHERS HAIR. IT IS A COMBINATION OF EXTREME INDIVIDUALITY. THERE MUST BE CARE NOT TO NEGLECT CHILDREN. PERSONAL PROJECTS CAN BE MANY, BUT NEED NOT CONFLICT WITH EACH OTHER.

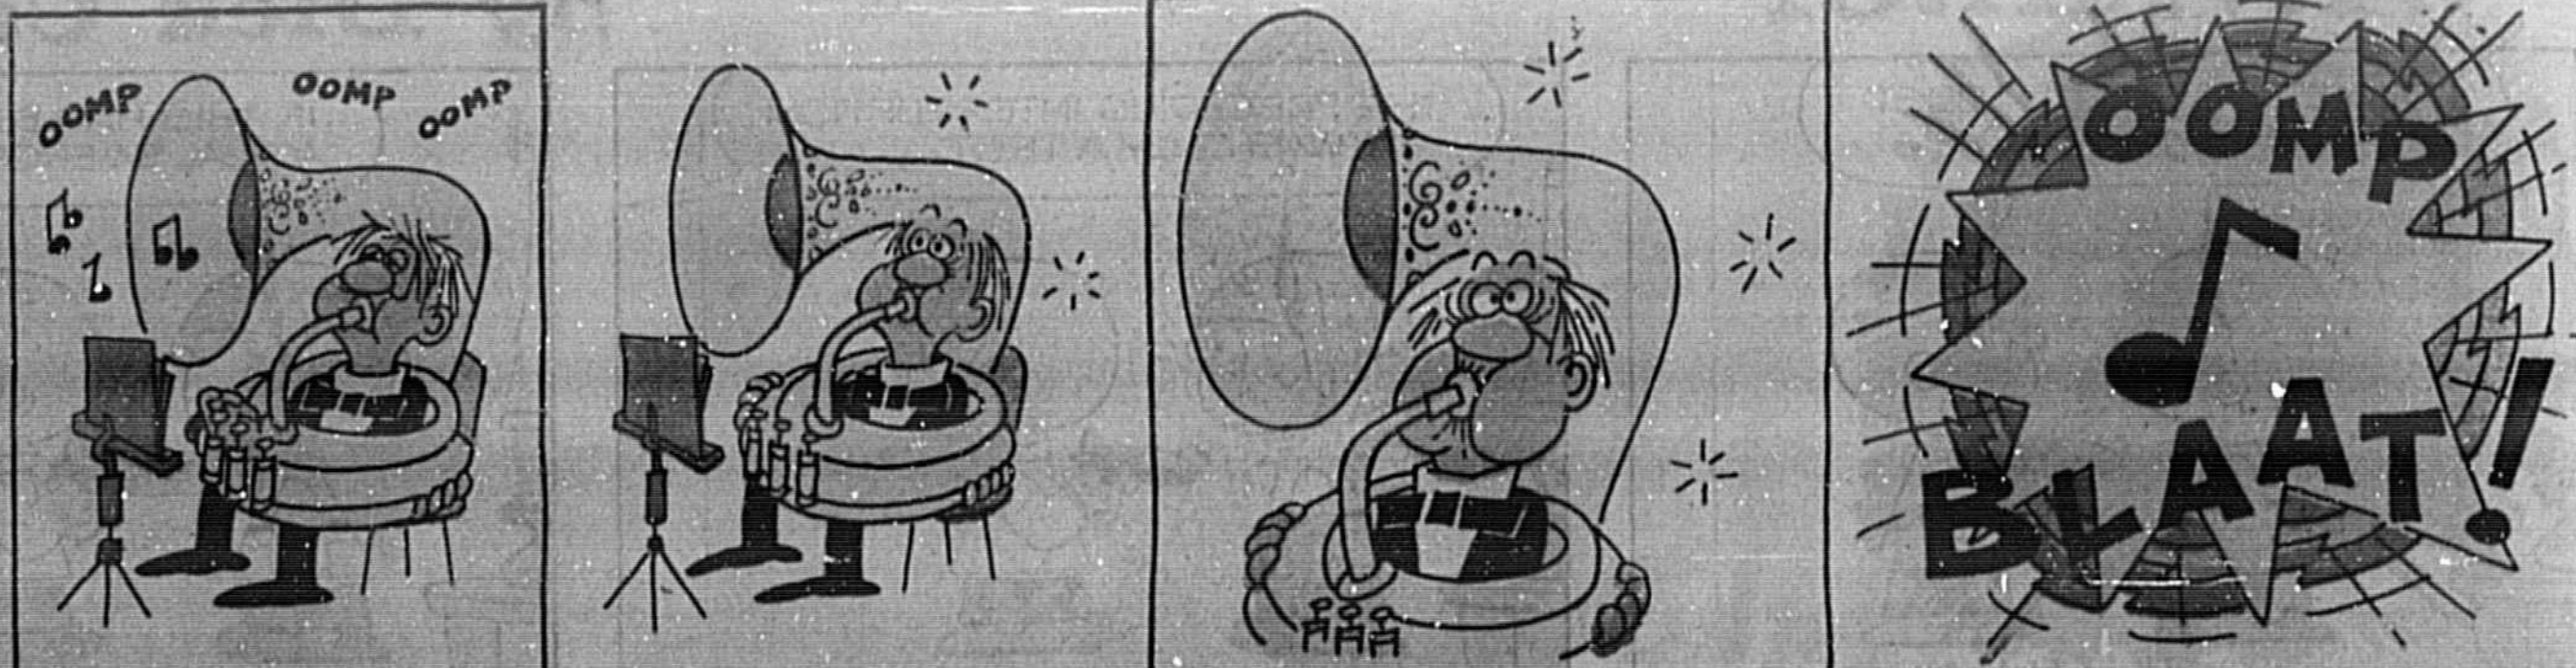

Tobey's Prediction

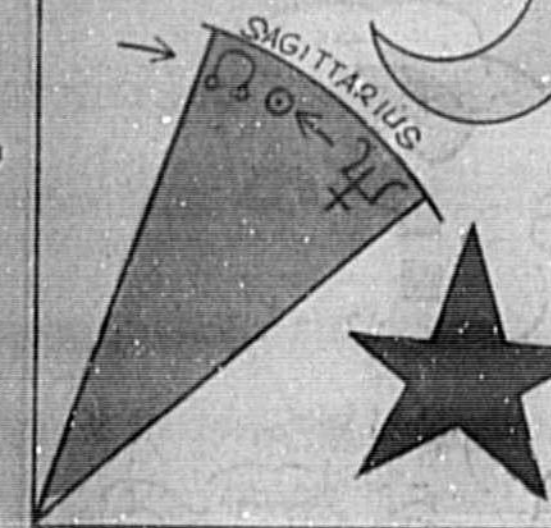

THE WEEK OF DEC. 9-15 IS AN UNSETTLED ONE. THERE CAN BE DISCONTENT AND ANXIETY. WHERE THERE IS NO ACTION, IT IS IN THE WIND AND NOT TOO FAR AHEAD. WE GO FROM ONE KIND OF INSTABILITY INTO ANOTHER KIND. ALL THIS CARRIES INTO NEXT WEEK BEFORE REACHING ITS APEX. DON'T TRY TO FORCE NATURE. SHE'LL COME TRAVELING IN HER OWN TIME.

- ARIES (March 21-April 20) Avoid being too headstrong. If born late in the sign, much action ahead. Life seems leading up to a climax. Don't misinterpret this as negative. Relax a bit.
- TARUS (April 21-May 20) Push plans through Wednesday morning and then slow down a bit through Friday. Weekend ahead better for individual projects. More independent. Socially doubtful.
- GEMINI (May 21-June 21) Into Friday, your judgment, intuition best. Express yourself. Late Friday through next weekend, avoid the spectacular. Protect home, financial interests. Stay put.
- CANCER (June 22-July 22) Monday p.m. into Friday p.m., you can do your best thinking. Start the new. Travel if you wish. Make changes if desired. Next weekend favors communicating.
- LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Avoid irritability, too much restlessness, and you can make this week count. Wednesday through Friday, have confidence in your plans, ideas. Your thinking is more sound.
- VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) The trend is upward all week. Weekend ahead can find you at your best. You can handle practical matters in a practical way. Changes, adjustments lie ahead.
- LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Possible strains if born Oct. 19-22. Don't fight imaginary problems. Wait till you know all. Wednesday into next week best for other Libra birthdays. Be self-confident.
- SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) Sunday good for social communication; a bit radical otherwise. Tuesday, Wednesday, more sympathetic. Thursday, Friday, superiors can create problems. Saturday OK.
- SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) Sunday Monday, stick to routine. Appearances deceiving. Unknown factors. Upward trend begins Tuesday. More unstable if born after Dec. 16. Adjustments ahead.
- CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Early part of week very uncertain. Dec. 23-26 birthdays most doubtful. Try to avoid legal traps. Be moderate and alert to new developments, change.
- AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) You can make mistakes. There are invisible hazards. Watch out you are not taken off guard. By the weekend, you'll have a safer viewpoint. More secure.
- PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) To the best of your ability, avoid accepting illusions as reality. If your emotions dominate, you could take a header. Avoid important decisions.

THE HOLES WE FIND IN SWISS CHEESE ARE MADE BY BUBBLES OF GAS THAT FORM IN THE CHEESE AS IT IS BEING MADE. DEAR POLLY — Here's how I made a cute holder for my pencil and reminder pad. I cut the shape of an owl about 12 inches high, out of a rug remnant, sewed two buttons on for eyes and glued a triangle of colored felt for the beak. I stuck a small felt pocket on the lower front to hold a small pad of paper and placed a pencil in the two claws. A cord run through holes made in each ear can make a hanger for this. — BLANCHE.

DEAR POLLY — Once I had no fancy paper for giftwrap and could not get out to get any, I resorted to using newspaper and a bright bow. The children were so delighted that I have continued to do this — the women's page for a lady's gift, sports pages for a man and the funnies for children. This is inexpensive, handy, uses old papers and is FUN. — LAVONNE

(Polly's note: The big, fat yarn used for gift wrapping looks great on newspaper - wrapped packages, particularly when red or green yarn is used.)

DEAR POLLY — I am only 13, but have a good Pointer for the owners of new puppies. If you do not have a cool place to keep your puppy the bathtub is the place. Put some newspapers at one end and a little washable rug at the other, with some space left between that will be smooth and cool. If he seems to be too cool pick him up and place him on the rug. The sides of the tub cut off any drafts. If you like, a stuffed animal could be put in for him to play with. — MARY H.

PRESIDENT NIXON
...First move to clear taint

Nixon Awaits Panel's Tax Verdict On Whether He Owes $300,000

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, after an unprecedented disclosure of his financial records, awaits the verdict of a congressional committee on whether he owes up to $300,000 in federal income taxes and interest.

Baring his federal tax returns for his first four years in the White House — and more than 50 other documents — Nixon acknowledged that accountants and lawyers disagree on the propriety of his 1969-1972 federal tax payments. They totaled less than $80,000, on an income of more than $1 million.

Nixon's Saturday disclosures were the first in a promised series he hopes will clear him of any taint of wrongdoing in the Watergate scandal and other controversial areas. His first installment went further than any president before him in revealing intimate details of personal finances.

Nixon said he has enlisted the Senate-House Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation to decide two tax questions that could cost him heavily if it rules against him:

—Did he act legally in claiming almost $500,000 in deductions for donation of his presidential papers to the National Archives? Some argue he acted too late to take advantage of a donations law Congress voided in mid-1969.

—Did he make a taxable capital gain of $117,000 on the 1970 sale of part of his San Clemente, Calif., estate? Nixon's tax accountant claimed at the time he had no gain, but a national auditing firm concluded recently that he had made a taxable profit.

White House officials acknowledged Nixon would be liable for sizeable payments to California should state officials decide he should have filed tax returns there.

The Senate-House Committee, chaired by Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., seemed uncertain as to how it would proceed in fact-finding and ruling on the questions. Mills could not be reached for comment on how the committee would proceed.

Nixon's massive release of financial statements and documents also disclosed he has paid no state income taxes in California, or anywhere else, since becoming President.

President, savings from his $200,000 annual salary and the pocketing of a taxable $85,000 from his yearly expense allowance of $50,000.

Other major disclosures made by the President included:

—The President and Mrs. Nixon, despite their sizeable income, were able through deductions for the vice presidential papers, business expenses, interest and property taxes, to reduce federal tax payments to $72,682 for 1969 and $73,000 for 1970, $878 for 1971 and $4,238 for 1972.

—The Nixons would have owed no taxes at all in 1970 save for a new "minimum tax" provision enacted as part of the 1969 tax reform law.

Corporate Donations Revealed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Les Aspin says that officials of the nation's 100 largest defense contractors gave more than $5.4 million to President Nixon's reelection campaign last year.

And the Wisconsin Democrat said he plans to ask the Senate Watergate committee to probe the possibility there may have been more gifts which are still secret.

Aspin said a pattern to some of the gifts suggested that some of the money may have come from corporate funds rather than individuals, which is illegal under federal law.

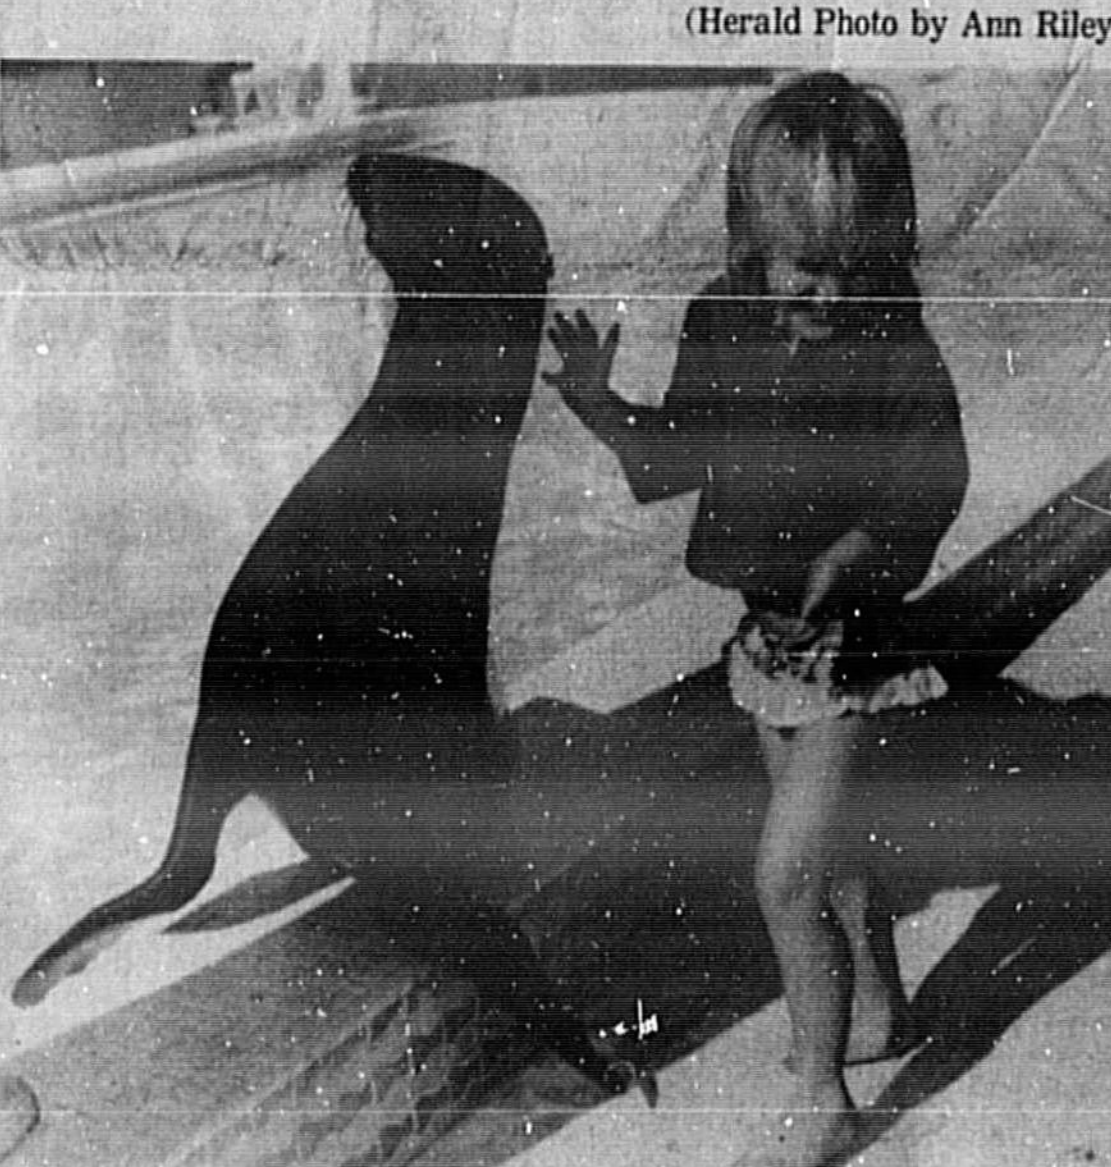

The study is "solid evidence of the endless trade-off between big business and the Pentagon. It shows unmistakably the stake big business has in maintaining a bloated military budget," Aspin said.

"When you get right down to it, many defense contracts are nothing more than political patronage, and here's the proof," he said.

Aspin said the largest contributions were made by oil, electronics and aircraft companies. The largest item on his list is $1,039,000, which he said came from officials of the Gulf Oil Co.

Council To Ensure City Jobs

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS—City councilman Tuesday at 4:30 p.m. will make their move to ensure city employees jobs.

Listed on the agenda for the council meeting is council policy with respect to hiring and dismissal of city personnel.

City Councilman Dan Dorfman told The Herald last week to make sure no wholesale dismissal of city personnel takes place the first of the year when a new administration takes office and to put to rest the rumors a "new spoils" system will be initiated, he will sponsor the new city policy.

The policy to be approved will return all authority regarding the hiring or firing of employees to the city council. Mayor Lawrence Swedford has been in charge of personnel employment during his tenure of office to end Jan. 1 when new mayor Norman Floyd Sr. assumes office.

Also on the agenda in addition to routine reports is approval of the Heatherthorn Village plat from the Condev Corp. The condominium development is to be built on Montgomery Road.

Area Drivers Question Energy Crisis Validity

By JEAN PATTESON
Herald Staff Writer

Several Sanford area residents interviewed this morning said they had weathered their second gasless Sunday without hardship or changing their Sunday driving habits, and agreed it would take a sharp increase in gas prices to radically reduce their gas consumption. All questioned the seriousness of the energy crisis.

"I don't wait till Sunday to fill up my car, and all gas stations aren't closed anyway," said Ellen Betts. "I can still go shopping on a Sunday and make local trips, though I wouldn't venture on a long trip. I think if gas stations are going to close, they should all close, or what's the point?"

She said an increase in gas prices to $1 per gallon would certainly cause her to conserve gas by eliminating pleasure trips and condensing all shopping trips into one.

"I don't think the shortage is too serious, but I may have a rude awakening," said Miss Betts.

Ruth Pettis said the closing of gas stations on Sunday did not affect her driving habits as she buys gas and does her shopping during the week. "I don't shop on Sundays; I go to church," she said. "If all shops and gas stations closed on Sundays I think the nation would be in a better condition."

She said if gas prices were increased she would do less driving. "There's just so much money, and it's got to go around. I suppose we all drive more than is absolutely necessary."

Mrs. Pettis said an increase in the price of gas would definitely affect her mileage. "I think it would everybody's."

Telephone Franchise On Lake Mary Agenda

By MARY RICHARDS
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY—In the wake of municipal elections, tonight's city council meeting at 7:30 at the volunteer fire department's meeting room will be very brief, city officials say. Only three items are on the agenda—the Southern Bell Telephone Franchise, poll-worker's pay and a request from the fire department.

Council will consider first reading of the Southern Bell Franchise ordinance, but no figures on anticipated revenue have yet been released. The one per cent standard franchise rate will be explained by the Southern Bell representative tonight, acting Mayor Donald Jackson said.

Council will also consider paying poll workers in the December 4 city election. The county does not provide funds to pay the workers for city elections, Jackson said, and the council will have to consider the amount to be given.

Also on the agenda is a presentation of specifications from the city's volunteer fire department for a water tank to go on a truck chassis it already has.

County Will Seek Park Grant Funds

By CHRIS NELSON
Herald Staff Writer

Florida has been allocated $12 million for land and water conservation by the Nixon administration, and a "very disappointed" Seminole County Commissioner Mike Hattaway today said he will ask Tallahassee to earmark the entire amount to the county.

Hattaway, who earlier called Seminole's $250,000 application for the proposed Sylvan Lake Park "one of the best the state has ever received," said the state normally splits the federal grant money on a 50-50 basis.

However, late last week the Interior Secretary Rogers Morton said the administration was spreading $85 million throughout the 50 states and five territories.

Hattaway said Tallahassee can afford to hand over the federal money because the state has its own $40 million bond program for recreation and parks.

The federal allocations ranged from a top of $2.8 million for California to $1,051
