In an effort to save time and avoid frustrating delays, the Seminole State Attorney's Office has instituted a Witness Center to ensure felony witnesses appear in court on time. And it's coordinator Denise McCormick's job to make sure things run smoothly.

New Witness Center Designed To Oil The Wheels Of Justice

State Prosecutors say they're tired of wasting time and money by having felony trial witnesses show up to testify, then finding that the case has been postponed or dismissed.

So, in an effort to save the witness an aggravation and avoid the possibility of losing a case because a witness grew tired of the system and failed to show to testify, the State Attorney's Office in Sanford has implemented a Witness Center.

The center, which is operated by Witness Coordinator Denise McCormick, serves as the brain of the operation, sending out "signals" to people who have been subpoenaed to appear in court.

"Once an attorney files charges in a case, he gives me a list of the people the state may call in the trial, if the case goes to court," Miss McCormick says. "I send out a letter at that point, notifying the parties involved that charges have been filed and that they are on notice that we may call them as witnesses."

"I also ask those affected to call this office before the trial and inquire on the status of their case," she says. "At that point, the attorney has been to docket sounding and will generally know if the person charged has entered a plea or if the case is going to trial and when. I then pass that information on to the potential witnesses which could total as many as 30 or as few as two or three per case."

Miss McCormick says she also explains the subpoena process to potential witnesses advising them to keep the document and appear as directed or ignore it if the case has been disposed of by a plea or other agreement. She adds that some witnesses may have received two subpoenas, one to the trial and another to a pre-trial hearing. Again, she indicates to them that they should adhere to those orders unless otherwise directed.

"If the person charged does go to trial, we try by letter or telephone — whatever works — to reach the witness and let them know when they are to appear, if the trial date or time has been moved up or back and any other information they need," Miss McCormick says. "Then, they come to our office, ask for the attorney in charge of that case and report to the trial when the time comes."

Miss McCormick says she also sends a letter to the witness after the trial, notifying them of the outcome of the case.

"We are only prepared to handle the witnesses in felony cases at present," she explains. "The program is new here in Sanford, but it's been going on in the Brevard office for about two years and it's proven to be effective there."

"We're out to save everybody time and money which can be wasted if a witness shows up several times to a case that's been postponed or whatever," said W. J. Patterson, executive director of the Sanford State Attorney's office. "We want the witnesses to want to cooperate with us, but if they continually drive up here and the case is dismissed or continued, they get upset and discouraged. And, although they are under court order to appear and could be found in contempt of court for not showing up, it gets to be a hassle."

"We're also saving the state money because if a witness shows up without being told not to and he has a subpoena, he must be paid for the mileage (six cents a mile) and the fee ($5) for appearing," Patterson adds.

"In addition, we're freeing up some time for the attorney's secretaries who were once responsible for keeping up with witnesses," Patterson says. "With Miss McCormick handling all felony case witnesses, the secretaries have more time to attend to other duties."

Patterson says it could be "quite a while" before his office expands the program to include juvenile, civil and misdemeanor case witnesses "because the manpower and funding just isn't available to us."

"We're funding this position now because we cut out a secretarial position when that employee resigned and just shifted those duties to other areas," he says. "What I'd eventually like to see is

FP&L Issue May Wind Up In Court

Efforts to find a suitable route for Florida Power & Light Co.'s twin 500,000-volt transmission line through Seminole County have taken a twist which may lead to the courtroom.

A state hearing examiner has thrown the matter into a legal quagmire by refusing to re-hear a proposal to locate 35 miles of the line in Seminole and Orange counties.

The state Cabinet certified FP&L's route from Duval County through the Seminole-Volusia county line. They ordered Chris Bentley, director of the state's Office of Administrative Hearings, to re-examine the remainder of the line between Volusia County and FP&L's Poinsett substation in Orange County.

But Bentley told Cabinet members he has no jurisdiction to re-hear the case. Bentley cited provision of the state Constitution which prevents him from holding another hearing.

That action has put attorneys for the Cabinet, FP&L, and a citizens' group at the ready to take action to force Bentley to hear the case a second time.

FP&L attorney Carlos Alvarez said the Cabinet could file a writ of mandamus in Circuit Court to force Bentley to review the issue again.

Alvarez said FP&L or the citizens could try the same tactic, but warned that the move could backfire.

"The judge could rule that the Cabinet went beyond its authority and order them to certify the entire line," he said.

Members of People Against Power Intrusion (PAPI), the Geneva citizens' group that sparked the uncertainty by opposing the placement of the transmission line east of Geneva, has hired attorney Dan Fernandez to pursue possible court action.

PAPI members said this week they are considering an injunction to stop construction of the power line while the issue of where the line should go is settled.

Sid Kraftsov, a leader of PAPI, has threatened to sue the state if the line goes along FP&L's proposed corridor east of Geneva.

Other PAPI members said they are considering a suit challenging the state Department of Environmental Regulations' contention that the line would endanger marshland in Volusia and Brevard counties if it is moved east of Lake Harney.

DER officials testified at a hearing on the proposed line that the line's 125-foot towers would pose a threat to eagles nesting in the area and to the sand sparrow, a bird already on the endangered species list.

"We want them to put people on the same level as fish and birds," one PAPI member said.

Seminole County Attorney Nikki Clayton has set a meeting with FP&L officials for 10 a.m. Nov. 3 at the Agricultural Center and the county's Five Points complex to further discuss the routing of the power line.

It will be the last meeting scheduled before the Cabinet meets Nov. 16 to discuss placement of the line.

Started From Scratch; Now On Top

Building something from scratch always seems to instill pride in people.

That's the feeling the faculty at Lake Mary High School has as the school enters its second year.

"We want our school to be the best," Principal Don Reynolds said. "We're going to be taking preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Tests soon and if we don't do well, here's one person who's going to see white."

Reynolds said the administration and faculty had an advantage when the school began last year because there weren't any bad habits or traditions to perpetuate.

Reynolds said students attending the school have the opportunity to create tradition.

"Everything we do here is a first for the school, a new record," he said. "Our football team scored a touchdown against Bishop Moore. We were getting beaten bad but you'd have thought we'd won the game the way people were cheering."

"They've tried to build from there.

"We try to build confidence in the student by building pride in them and their school," he said.

Reynolds said he's started an honorary group, the Order of the Golden Fleece, as a reward for students who do outstanding work.

Entrance requirements for the group are at least a C-average, participation in school events and a love for the school.

"Kids who've done wrong, like selling dope, are bonded together by their crimes," Reynolds said. "We want to give the good kids something to bring them together."

Reynolds admits he feels pressure to make Lake Mary High a showcase but said it's the faculty, not the facility, that makes the school unique.

"Starting a brand new school enabled us to bring in the faculty and set the curriculum we wanted," he said.

The school is the prototype for future high schools in Seminole County and the school board took care to make the $3.5 million facility something special. Several design concepts were built into the school to aid teachers.

The two-story building puts 6½ acres under roof. Classrooms are grouped according to subjects with teachers sharing a common office areas.

"That way, teachers can synchronize their lessons and exchange ideas easily," Reynolds said.

Another feature is restrooms without doors.

"We were kind of skeptical about that at first but it's worked out real well. They just go in and do their business and come back out instead of hanging around in there," Assistant Principal John Reichert said.

Nikki Vavreck takes advantage of the Lake Mary High School piano laboratory. The Lake Mary facility is the only one of its kind in Seminole County, one of the many features that sets the school apart.

Reichert said the building still has several classrooms that are unused because the school hasn't reached its full student capacity. About 1,500 students in the 9th, 10th and 11th grades now attend the school. Next year, a 12th grade will be added.

The school has all the music rooms in one section, reducing the noise to other classrooms. There's a rehearsal hall for the band, a piano laboratory where students can play and listen to their performance through earphones, and a dance room which doubles as a wrestling room.

"The board of education is to be commended," Reichert said. "This school has all of the little details that set it apart."

Used Car Defect Rule May Go Into Effect Despite Congress' Veto

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A federal court ruling means a controversial used car regulation, vetoed by Congress in May, still may go into effect.

The U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Washington voted 8-0 Friday to strike down Congress' veto of the Federal Trade Commission regulation, which would force used car dealers to post stickers on automobiles declaring any known major defects and warranty rights.

The court's action does not automatically reinstate the rule, which drew stiff opposition from the used car industry.

The regulation is "in limbo" pending a possible appeal to the Supreme Court, said Ellen Broadman, attorney for a consumer's group that took the case to court.

Friday's ruling marks the second time this year that the Washington-based court — considered the most powerful of the 12 circuit courts across the nation — has declared unconstitutional Congress' use of the legislative veto.

The court said the congressional veto of the used car rule violated the separation of powers principle on which the government is based and went beyond powers given Congress in the Constitution.

The problem with the legislative veto is that one or both houses of Congress can overturn an independent or executive branch agency without review by the president as required under the Constitution, the court said.

The Supreme Court will hear arguments Dec. 7 on an immigration case that could resolve the balance-of-power struggle between the legislative and executive branches of government.

Congressional reaction to the ruling was sparse, since many lawmakers are campaigning. But Rep. Toby Moffett, D-Conn., who filed a friend of the court brief supporting the suit, said, "For consumers, this decision makes possible vitally needed protections against fraud and misrepresentation by used car dealers."

The cases could affect Congress' veto powers under more than 200 federal laws on issues such as the recent sale of AWACS planes to Saudi Arabia, war powers, immigration matters, consumer product safety laws and labor statutes.

Turner, Drage Square Off In District 36 Race

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

Pitted in a contest for the District 36 seat in the Florida House of Representatives is one-term incumbent Republican Tom Drage of Orlando and Goldenrod entrepreneur Glenn Turner a Democrat.

Turner, 48, and his wife, Sherry, have five children. He speaks on college campuses and before various civic and business groups on motivation, sales and attitude. He has run unsuccessfully for public office three times.

Drage, 33, a native of Jacksonville, but a resident of Orlando since his youth, is a lawyer and holds an undergraduate degree from the Florida State University in social welfare and criminology.

He was elected to the legislature in 1980 and has served on the House Finance and Taxation Committee, the Judiciary Committee and Select Committee on Juvenile Justice.

Seven Seminole County precincts are included in the district—precincts 8, 40, 44, 45, 49 and 68.

According to Turner, the major problem facing the Legislature in 1983 is crime and growth in the Central Florida area.

"We have to have some long-range planning for growth," Turner said, adding "We are already in trouble for the lack of planning in the past."

"The reason I say crime is a major problem," Turner said, "is because unless a solution is found to escalating crime, we won't have any other problems to solve." Turner lays the blame on adults for the rise in crimes committed by young people. He said adults are setting a bad example by "cussing and raising hell."

He also said laws have to be passed laying heavy penalties on those financing drug operations. "They have to be sent to jail to stay."

Drage says the most pressing issues are: crime, natural resources and government spending.

"According to our most recent statistics, crime in Central Florida has risen four percent over the last year. Violent crimes have increased even more drastically over the same period."

"This information comes to us just days after crime was reported to be decreasing at the national level. In light of this, we in the Florida Legislature must ask ourselves why, and what can we do about it. We must continue to identify the reasons behind this trend and look for ways to resolve it," Drage said.

"Our state's future depends upon our ability to continue responsible conservation measures for our resources, combined with controlled growth. With more and more people making Florida their home, we will have to plan more carefully than ever to preserve our water quality and quantity and to preserve our

$200 Million Available When DeLorean Arrested

CLEVELAND (UPI)—A Cleveland financier says he tried in vain to reach automaker John DeLorean with word about a $200-million loan about the same time DeLorean was arrested for allegedly buying cocaine to finance his failing company.

Larry Watts, president of Midwest Funding & Development Co., said Friday he called DeLorean's office twice Tuesday to try to tell him about the financing, but was told DeLorean was on his way to California.

"The next thing we heard was he was arrested and accused of having the cocaine. I can't believe he would do something like that," Watts said.

DeLorean was arrested Tuesday at the airport in Los Angeles and is being held on $5 million bond. He is accused of arranging to buy 220 pounds of cocaine with a street value of $23 million.

Poisoning Clue Studied

CHICAGO (UPI)—The task force hunting the Tylenol killer searched today for three or four people—one a neighbor to a poisoned flight attendant—who may have returned an unopened bottle containing cyanide-filled capsules.

FBI experts in Washington used a laser beam Friday looking for fingerprints of the person who filled capsules of Extra-Strength Tylenol with lethal doses of cyanide. Seven people died from the poison three weeks ago.

"We believe we have a standard (of testing) now, that if a fingerprint shows up on any of the capsules, it will be that of the killer," and investigator told the Chicago Tribune today.

O'Neill Shot In Stomach

BEDFORD HILLS, N.Y. (UPI) — Actress Jennifer O'Neill, the seductive star of the film "Summer of '42," was in fair condition today following surgery for the removal of a bullet from her stomach, police said.

Other people were said to be in the home at the time she was shot Friday, but Bedford police refused to reveal why or who shot the 34-year-old brunette.

The actress was found by Bedford police in the second-floor bedroom of her home in the exclusive suburb of New York City.

A native of Rio de Janeiro, she starred in more than 15 films, including "The Carey Treatment" and "The Incarnation of Peter Proud."

But her best-known role has that of the cool, elegant, older woman who seduced a lonely adolescent boy in the film "Summer of '42."

Lake Mary Council Still Two Short

The Lake Mary City Council Friday afternoon recessed a special meeting until 5:30 p.m. Monday after Mayor Walter Sorenson failed to show up. City Attorney Robert Petree said that Councilman Ray Fox, in his role as deputy mayor, could chair the meeting, but, Petree added, if Fox assumed the role he could not vote as a councilman and thus there would not be a quorum.

The council currently has only three members since Councilman Vic Olvera and Gene McDonald resigned effective midnight Thursday. The special meeting was called Friday afternoon so that the three-member body could consider appointing two persons to replace them.

The Lake Mary City Charter requires three council members be present to take official action.

In other city business, Olvera became the city's fourth candidate to file qualifying papers Friday to run in the Dec. 7 city election. Olvera is challenging four-term incumbent Mayor Sorenson. Councilman Ken King has qualified to seek a second term. Charles Lyle has qualified to seek the one year remaining in Olvera's term.

Qualifying deadline is noon Friday.

delicate river systems and coasts," he said.

"During my two years in office, one concern that has been voiced over and over again by my constituents is unlimited government spending. As Florida's population soars, we are going to be forced to re-evaluate some of our priorities for government spending. We can't continue to increase taxes to provide additional services to citizens. Instead, we need to eliminate non-essential and duplicated services and we should continue to strive for efficiency from our government workers and agencies," Drage said.

New legislation Turner said he would push in the Legislature is educationally oriented.

"I would introduce a bill to require that every classroom have a stage, when a fat kid would walk into the class he would be brought up on the stage and told about the accomplishment of Winston Churchill, a thin kid would be told about Abraham Lincoln, and a black child about Martin Luther King, to build up their own self-esteem, personal confidence and pride.

"While I wouldn't want religion crammed down anyone's throat, I would have a moment of silence to begin the day," Turner said. "I would want the school children to know: My country, my school, my government believes in God. I'd teach flag-waving."

Drage said he plans to introduce legislation to:

—Provide a mechanism to identify and help potential problem children at the grade school level before they've had the opportunity to become entrenched in criminal or delinquent activity.

Hopefully, in this way, we can prevent today's problem child from becoming tomorrow's criminal.

—Call for an amendment to the state Constitution providing that homestead exemption not be applied toward the second $10,000 of the assessed value of a home. The purpose of this amendment would be to allow all property owners the opportunity to share in property taxes from which community services are provided.

—Call for a state Constitutional amendment to place a cap on state spending, subject to a growth and inflation formulas.

"Additionally, I am researching other areas for possible legislation including: time sharing, mandatory sentencing for certain crimes against the elderly."

for the state to take over the program and coordinate witnesses for us, the public defender's office, misdemeanor, juvenile, civil and traffic cases. That would be great.

"Court Administrator Bill Dietz has a proposal before the state court administration office now which, if approved, would provide a witness coordination program for criminal cases including felony, misdemeanor and traffic cases," said Chief Circuit Judge S. Joseph Davis, Jr. "Of course, we don't know yet if that proposal will be accepted. Once the program is begun, using our existing system but working through the coordinator, we'll see a saving of time and money to the witnesses and the judicial system."

Davis said that if the court system and witness program meets state guidelines, then the county could be reimbursed the $40,000 a year it spends on witness fees.

"We are aware of the State Attorney's office program and that wouldn't change under the new proposal," he says. "The new program, as I understand it, would incorporate existing programs with the new system."

As an offshoot of the witness coordination program, Patterson said he also hopes to set up "some type of police-courts liaison program" with all police and law enforcement agencies in the county.

"The officers have to call us most every morning to check on the status of a particular case and determine when they have to appear," Patterson said. "While we appreciate their calling, it would save them and us time if we could notify them exactly when they are expected to show without all the telephoning. If we get one officer to work it for the whole department, we could notify that officer, who, in turn, notifies his colleague of the court date. It will all be channeled through that one liaison officer."

"Let's face it, witnesses are vital in every case," Patterson says. "If you don't have witnesses to present testimony, the case doesn't fly."

"The headaches we have in getting all of these people together on all of these different cases are unbelievable," Patterson says. "It's not only a problem for us and local witnesses, but think of the ones who are out-of-state."

Car Theft Ring Broken; 2 Arrested

A Sanford man is one of two men arrested by Orlando police for his involvement in a multi-million dollar car theft ring operating in several Eastern states.

Police said Harold Stone, 47, who listed his address as the Cavalier Motel in Sanford, was arrested about a month ago on two counts of dealing in stolen property. He was released on $7,500 bond.

On Friday, police arrested Morris Wayne Davis, 43, of Oak Hill in Volusia County. Davis was charged with conspiracy to deal in stolen property and released on $2,500 bond. He was described as the key Central Florida member of the ring.

Fourteen cars valued at $300,000 were also recovered with the arrest of Davis. The cars were sold to Central Florida residents, including at least one in Seminole County for about a third of their value.

Some of the 14 car buyers in Central Florida are being questioned, but none has been charged. They could face criminal prosecution if investigators can prove they knew the cars were stolen when they purchased them. Longwood lawyer Jerry Korman was one of the people who bought a car from Davis.

Korman bought a Cadillac Eldorado for $16,800, $2,000 to $4,000 less than what he would have paid at a dealership, police said.

Davis reportedly delivered the car and Korman paid $8,000 in cash and planned to get a bank loan for the rest. Before he could get the loan, however, police confiscated the car.

Police said most of the cars stolen in the operation were taken from Seminole, Orange and Osceola counties.

After the cars were stolen, they were driven north and a title was obtained after the identification numbers had been altered.

Graham: We've Got A Good Thing Going

They say when you have a good thing going for you, you should stick with it.

We in Florida have a good thing going for us in the person of Gov. Bob Graham.

This esteemed and polished governor has served our state over the past few years with an unequalled commitment to improving and stabilizing the lifestyle of its residents. And he's committed strongly to the future growth of Florida.

Leadership is a desirable quality in the state's highest elected official. Gov. Graham has all we need...and then some.

An exceptional grasp of economics and commerce is a desirable quality in that same public official. Gov. Graham has all we need... and then some.

The ability to commit one's energies to reducing crime in Florida, coupled with the intestinal fortitude to follow through with that commitment are also desirable in a governor. Gov. Graham has all we need... and then some.

Gov. Graham has displayed a keen sense of understanding of the problems facing the state's senior citizens as well as the need for quality education to enhance the future prospects of our youth.

He's referred to as the working governor and that is not an idle label.

Gov. Graham has made it his business to examine the problems of the unemployed and worked diligently to keep unemployment at a respectable low, much lower than the national average.

And, Gov. Graham is a cost-conscious leader who has stuck to his commitment of limiting the number of state employees to one percent of the population, effectively keeping a rein on government growth.

As we said, when you've got a good thing going, stick with it.

We believe Gov. Graham is that "good thing" for Florida and urge voters Nov. 2 to keep him with us another four years.

McCullum Is Best

Fifth District Congressman Bill McCollum is being held out as "A congressman respected at home and in Washington." Well put.

This freshman congressman has certainly won our respect during the past two years he's been in Washington.

He is without a doubt one of the more articulate and informed congressmen we've seen in a long time.

McCollum has demonstrated amply his personal knowledge of the myriad of important issues confronting us today. And you can't help but recognize that the quickness with which Bill McCollum can intelligently provide data surrounding those issues—and just as quickly, make sense solutions—illustrates he's doing his homework.

In the short time Bill McCollum has been in Washington representing us, he's been appointed to some very important committees and sub-committees.

Congressman McCollum knows full well the economic problems with which our nation has been struggling for the past few years. But he's optimistic. He sees a light in the tunnel. And he knows the light will get brighter with continued reduction of interest rates, additional federal budget cuts to eliminate the deficit and stimulate employment and the holding down of inflation.

Those, of course, are not Bill McCollum's only goals. He has several others, all of which are designed to give Americans the ability to exist with pride and dignity. These are not small tasks. They are major undertakings and will require a lot of time and a great deal of personal effort by every congressman and senator in Washington. We feel strongly that McCollum will give us that.

Two years in Washington isn't near long enough for any freshman congressman to make many dents. But, if the voters on Nov. 2 give Bill McCollum another two-year shot at it, we know he'll make quite a few.

Our vote goes to McCollum Nov. 2. So should yours.

BERRY'S WORLD

"Your ignorance is a big turn-off, but your arrogance is utterly fascinating!"

By DORIS DIETRICH

For centuries mothers-in-law have been abused with untruths and have been the subject of jokes, both humorous and insulting, to say the least. And they have tolerated the abuse with remarkable good humor.

And the dear little ladies—or old bags—can't seem to win. Their day is supposed to be Oct. 24, but only half the U.S. Congress has recognized the resolution naming the fourth Sunday in October as the official Mother-in-Law's Day. The House of Representatives passed the resolution, but the Senate has not acted on the bill to date. The Florists' Transworld Delivery Association (FTD) is standing behind the holiday to remember this group of women who have contributed positively to family life.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen (D-Texas) introduced the bill in the Senate last November, maybe to make amends for something that occurred in his state in the 1930s.

For a number of years, an Amarillo newspaper publisher promoted a Mother-in-Law's celebration in that city after one of his columns upset his own mother-in-law.

FTD says Eleanor Roosevelt joined 125,000 visitors one year in Amarillo for a Mother-in-Law's Day parade and other festivities.

Since FTD first launched the celebration honoring mothers-in-law, half the states and more than 20 cities have proclaimed the date at one time or another.

Gov. Ed Herschler of Wyoming, for example, recognized the day after he got into hot water by describing his mixed feelings on an issue as being "like watching my mother-in-law drive off a cliff in my new car."

In many cases, "other mothers" are the apples of a son-in-law or daughter-in-law eyes. Many years ago, a Sanford woman phoned her mom from a distant city to send her air fare home. The husband picked up the extension with, "Send my fare, too. I'm coming with her."

If American mothers-in-law may think they have suffered punishment through tacky jokes, take a look back at history: Shunning was common in some ancient cultures because of fears that even looking at your mother-in-law could cause blindness or sterility.

So, if you do feel hostile toward your "other mother," maybe you can justify it through your culture.

On the other hand, at least, you could wish her a happy day Sunday.

Tylenol And The Feds

The macabre Tylenol case has predictably caused an outcry in favor of tamper-proof packaging, many people assuming as a matter of course that when an outrage of this kind occurs the government must "do something about it."

The truth of the matter is that a tamper-proof package would be very difficult to construct, and moves in that direction in mass marketing would be prohibitively expensive.

It has been suggested that the cardboard boxes be glued shut, and that seals be used that would indicate any tampering with the package. But this would scarcely even slow down a killer. Packages can be opened and resealed. It is not at all difficult, for example, to remove the sort of seal used on jars of food-stuffs. It is a simple matter to remove it with a razor and glue it back on.

Other ideas, like keeping all drugs behind the counter, or severely regulating the availability of cyanide, would not work much better than the seals, and often would be bothersome.

We ought to look with a degree of skepticism on proposals for regulation, even if they do seem to work sometimes.

For example, though I myself was initially skeptical, the airport inspections for concealed weapons do seem to have cut down the frequency of airplane hijackings. At least they seem to have cut down what might be called the "jerk" hijackings — the crazed Cuban who wants a trip back to Havana, for example — though determined terrorists can still seize a plane.

Or, quite possibly, the airport inspections have been irrelevant to the decline in seizures. Perhaps politically-motivated, hijackers simply concluded that hijacking was not in any way advancing their cause, and hijacking, in consequence, pretty much went out of fashion. When the pros quit, and it disappeared from the front pages, perhaps the jerks quit too.

It is quite possible that the legislation on hand guns passed in Massachusetts will have some effect, though I have not yet seen the pertinent statistics. In that state, you may own a hand gun, but you cannot leave your house with it. The idea is that you possess it solely for self-protection.

But I cannot think of any new regulations that would stop someone like the Atlanta killer of young men, or David Berkowitz, "Son of Sam," who a few years ago was killing randomly in lovers' lanes around New York and Long Island. And I can't think of any practical way of stopping someone like the Chicago Tylenol killer.

There is always a certain amount of madness going around in society, and modern, complex and interdependent societies are especially vulnerable to it.

There are, after all, lots of theories about the identity of the Victorian Jack-the-Ripper, but the fellow was never caught and never did a day in jail.

Short of taking up residence in a sealed (behaviorist B.F.) Skinner box, we will just have to accept the risks of existence.

Writing in The Wall Street Journal, Suzanne Garmet provided us with a few words of common sense: "The poisoned Tylenol is bad enough. But we also have to watch out for the fearfulness and longing for a risk-free environment that all these crises tend to promote."

Hefner's Daughter Self-Avowed Feminist

WASHINGTON — Hugh Hefner's multimillion-dollar Playboy empire was built on the undeniable, eye-catching appeal of feminine beauty. Now this fleshly empire has been turned over to Hefner's 29-year-old daughter, Christie (or Christine, as her father calls her, with uncharacteristic formality).

Hefner fills his what young men in my day used to call a knockout: medium height, brown hair that curls around her shoulders, wide-set piercing brown eyes under arching brows, a mouth that could model lipstick ads.

With this in mind, I asked Christie the Question: "Would you be willing to pose for Playboy?"

There was a slight pause. Then the centerfold-class president of Playboy Enterprises said: "I don't think so. I'm — I'm pretty shy. And I'm particularly shy in front of a camera. I don't think I would enjoy it."

A Destructive Move?

"Constructive engagement" is the phrase coined by the Reagan administration's Africa experts to describe the new relationship between the United States and the Republic of South Africa.

Broadly put, it meant rescuing the racist dictatorship from its "pariah" status by relaxing the enmity that flowed between Washington and Pretoria under President Jimmy Carter.

That relaxation included allowing South Africa to open consular offices, U.S. vetoes of United Nations resolutions against the apartheid state, ignoring repeated invasions of Angola and Mozambique, reversing U.S. export controls on sales of military hardware and linkage of the withdrawal of Cuban troops in Angola to the eventual independence of South African-occupied Namibia.

The theory that produced an American tilt toward the world's only master-race government runs like this: If the United States treats South Africa as if it were any country, and not an international outlaw, South Africa will stop acting like the outlaw it is.

Constructive engagement has not worked. Instead of moderating harsh racial policies at home and abandoning attacks on peaceful neighbors, South Africa has hardened its position.

South Africa has illegally occupied Namibia since 1966, when the United Nations terminated its 1919 mandate for the League of Nations. South Africa has ignored a 1981 World Court ruling that continued occupation was illegal.

In early 1981, as President Reagan was setting his Africa policies and personalities in place, South Africa refused to agree to a cease-fire date in Namibia. It needed two years for the Democratic Turnhalle Alliance, a Namibian creation of the South African Department of Foreign Affairs, to prepare for an election.

But in late September, South African Prime Minister P.W. Botha hinted that the Namibian National Assembly, dominated by the Turnhalle Alliance, would be dissolved.

Most independent observers agree that the Alliance would be swamped in an election against the South West Africa People's Organization (SWAPO), the guerrilla operation that was waged a low-level war against South African occupation. Earlier, South Africa had objected to elections supervised by United Nations observers, charging the U.N. was biased against South Africa.

Now South Africa is insisting that its troops will not leave Namibia until the 15,000 Cuban troops in Angola schedule their departure. But the Cubans are in Angola at the invitation of the Angolan government, while South Africa's Namibian troops are an occupying force.

"In 1975 before the proclamation of our independence," Angola's Foreign Minister Paulo Jorge said, "Angola was invaded by both South Africa and Zaire. The United States encourages this double invasion. What right does the U.S. with its military contingents all over the world—including Guantanamo Base in Cuba—have to demand Cuban withdrawal from Angola?"

In late August, South Africa invaded Angola again, 5,500 troops, 90 tanks, 260 armed vehicles and 162 artillery pieces penetrating 173 miles inside Angola's southern border.

Fifty thousand South African troops are deployed along Mozambique's border, and Botha has admitted that officials of the South African army and the National Intelligence Service helped plan the aborted invasion of the Seychelles last year.

South Africa continues to supply UNITA, the anti-government guerrilla group in Angola, and to arm the Mozambique National Resistance Movement, a similar faction in Mozambique. In late July, South Africa troops marched four miles into Mozambique territory.

Within South Africa itself, repression of dissident blacks and whites has become routine. In early August, 21-year-old Ernest Dipale became the 46th person to die while being held in "political detainment"—a South African euphemism for imprisonment without charge.

In July, a court in the South African homeland of Venda ruled that Lutheran clergyman Tshifhuwa Mufhe, who died in detention last November, had been beaten to death by two security policemen.

In South Africa, constructive engagement has become destructive delay.

RUSTY BROWN

Artist Finds A Home

Melody LightFeather is an artist who came close to losing her identity and her heritage.

She lived in two worlds: the Indian, as a child; the Anglo, as a young woman. Now, at 32, she is painting at a furious pace to reclaim her Indian roots.

She knows nothing of her father. Her mother was a Pima Indian of the tribe living in the Gila and Salt River valleys of Arizona. She died when Melody was 8 and then her grandmother became parent, family and teacher.

"Grandmother was afraid the school on the reservation was not good enough. She had heard about the great public schools in New York City and decided we should go there. I was 10 by then and I remembered it as a very long journey."

One can imagine the stares that greeted the twosome on the streets of New York: The old Indian woman in sandals and long dress, leading a beautiful child with black braids and excited brown eyes.

"We took a room in somebody's apartment. New York seemed to be all hard floors and hard walls and buildings up to the sky. I couldn't even see the sun come up. At school, I didn't feel I belonged. There were black kids and Puerto Rican kids and tough white kids."

"My grandmother took me to ballets and museums and I had art lessons and played cello in a youth orchestra. I don't know how she afforded things. She was always making baskets, and I think now she must have sold them."

Some time after her beloved grandmother's death, there was college in West Virginia for a certificate as an art teacher, marriage, children, then a divorce.

"It was during my divorce that I knew I wanted to return to my people. I was confused and wanted to search out my soul," she explains. She had seen enough of the "white man's" world.

Now, artist LightFeather lives on the outskirts of Isleta pueblo, one of New Mexico's numerous Indian communities along the Rio Grande River.

She paints Indian adobe the color of burnished gold beneath the setting sun and snow-covered mountains with coyote tracks leading into the woods.

"Coyote tracks are a good omen," she says. "Indian hunters follow them to the game."

Her watercolors often depict tribal rites of Indian women, Indian legends or history. Many paintings are still lifes of pueblo pottery and jewelry. Her trademark is an Indian symbol in one corner: a broken arrow to ward off evil spirits; the zia, or sun sign, for warmth and growth; rain clouds to symbolize a good harvest; or, the cactus flower to signify young love.

She hammers silver into bracelets and carves Indian faces in fossilized walrus tusks from Alaska. She weaves blankets of yucca fiber and turkey feathers, and Indian art more than 500 years old. She wears only Indian clothes now — buckskin boots, a string of turquoise around her neck, a cotton shirt and blouse sewn by herself. She has married a man from Jemez pueblo whose Indian name translates to Eagle Tail.

Galleries in Santa Fe carry her work and a few pieces have been bought by museums. A painting of a bird in flight is owned by Robert Redford, the actor and activist for Indian rights and wildlife.

"You may write," she said, speaking softly in a voice as melodious as her name, "that I am just an Indian woman in the modern world — trying to hold onto something that had meaning to my grandmother and my people."

Bail Changes Proposed In Amendment

PRO:

By GEORGE H. SHELDON
State Rep., D-Tampa

(Editor's Note: Rep. George H. Sheldon authored the amendment.)

The idea of preventive detention is one of those emotion-charged concepts like nuclear parity or environmental protection that provokes stiff resistance in some people and enthusiastic agreement in others.

The amendment is considered the best compromise possible.

On November 2, when Florida voters close the curtain to voting booths behind them across the state, they will have a chance for the first time to confront the issue—and more. For on the ballot will be a proposed constitutional amendment that would rewrite Florida's bail laws.

I believe that voters should pull the "Yes" lever on that amendment. It will give defendants greater rights to pretrial release without bond and Florida citizens greater protection from violent crime than the current state constitution.

Right now, the Florida Constitution gives persons accused of a crime an absolute right to pretrial bail—unless they are charged with a capital or life felony in which there is substantial proof of guilt. Unlike in the federal system and those of many states, a Florida judge cannot refuse to set bail if he believes that the defendant is likely to flee; he can only set a very high bail.

And a Florida judge cannot deny bail if he thinks that suspect, if released, will commit other crimes while awaiting trial. Four jurisdictions—the District of Columbia, Maryland, Texas and Virginia—permit their judges to consider whether a defendant will pose a threat to the community upon his release; if they conclude the accused does they can deny bail.

The rest of the states, Florida included, also have preventive detention. But it is disguised. When judges believe a defendant will be violent or commit crimes when released, they set bond so high the accused cannot make it.

The chances that someone released on bond or other conditions will commit other crimes is small but significant. A study conducted last year for the Justice Department found that nationwide 16 percent of defendants released were rearrested within about three months. In Dade county, one location studied, the rearrest rate was 17.5 percent. A recent study by the Duval County sheriff's office and the state attorney found that out of 120 felony defendants released 10 were soon rearrested, one for murder.

The public is outraged when that small percentage out on bond commits yet another violent crime and such an event receives wide newsplay.

The public also wonders how effective our criminal justice system is when it can not bring many large-scale drug smugglers to trial. Often smugglers regard the loss of a $500,000—$1 million cash bond as just a cost of doing business. They think nothing of skipping out on it to avoid a jail term.

Yet at the same time, our bail system, based on money bond, keeps many people in jail because they can't afford the bond or the bondsman. There is no reason to hold most of these people. The vast majority of people released—regardless of the method used to assure their return to court—show up. The Justice Department study reported that 85 percent of those released appeared for trial. In Duval County, only 4.2 percent of those charged with felonies and released failed to appear in court.

Many groups concerned about the bail system have endorsed preventive detention: among them the Tampa Chamber of Commerce, the Dade-Miami Criminal Justice Council and an American Bar Association task force.

The Governor's Task Force on Criminal Justice System Reform, co-chaired by Supreme Court Justice Alan Sundberg, proposed an extensive rewrite of the bail laws of Florida, embracing the idea of preventive detention and the de-emphasis of money bail.

This constitutional amendment and the statute to implement it were the product of long and intensive discussion among many interest groups. They are the best compromise possible.

Because of them, the poor will not be held in jail unnecessarily. Judges will be able to keep dangerous people off the streets until they are tried. But the rights of defendants will be protected by specific procedural safeguards. Those who would flee to avoid prosecution will not be able to do so.

This is the best preventive detention package in the nation.

Constitutional Amendment Article I, Section 14

PRETRIAL RELEASE AND DETENTION—Proposing an amendment to the State Constitution effective January 1, 1983, to provide that a person charged with a crime or a violation of a municipal or county ordinance other than a capital offense or an offense punishable by life imprisonment shall be entitled to release before trial unless enumerated conditions indicate that the person should be detained.

What Bail Reform Amendment Does:

By LEONARD SCHULTE,
Attorney for Secretary of the Senate

During the closing minutes of the last day of the final special session in late June the Florida Legislature passed two measures by Rep. George Sheldon, D-Tampa, to amend the Florida Constitution and change the state's bail laws.

The first measure, HB 43-H, was a joint resolution proposing an amendment to Article I, Section 14 of the constitution. The amendment, if approved by voters would —delete references to bail and make the right to pretrial release subject to reasonable conditions. The intent of the change is to encourage judges to consider nonmonetary forms before resorting to money bail.

—provide that an accused can be held before trial "if no conditions of release can reasonably protect the community from risk of physical harm to persons, assure the presence of the accused at trial, or assure the integrity of the judicial process."

The amendment does not affect current law regarding someone accused of a capital crime or life felony where there is substantial proof of guilt.

The second measure, HB 44-H, is a statute putting the constitutional amendment into effect.

The bill first creates a presumption in favor of non-money release conditions.

Next it provides standards for when an accused may be held as a threat to the community. The suspect could be held if he was charged with specific violent crimes, ranging from arson, aggravated assault and kidnapping to murder and sexual battery. The factual circumstances of this crime must "indicate a disregard for the safety of the community." The court must find that no release conditions will reasonably protect the community from further violent crime.

In addition, the defendant must either have been previously convicted of a capital or life felony, have been convicted of a violent crime within the preceding 10 years, or be on probation, parole or other release for a violent crime at the time of arrest.

The bill provides for a hearing, with an array of procedural rights, at which the state attorney has the burden of showing the need for detention. A defendant may not be held more than 90 days although charges are not dropped if he is not tried within that time.

The bill and its specific procedural safeguards were patterned after recommendations made by the Governor's Task Force on Criminal Justice System Reform and on a Washington, D.C., statute that has been upheld twice against constitutional attack.

CON:

By JACK T. BRIDGES
Seminole Attorney

On Nov. 2, 1982, the voters of the state shall have the opportunity to cast a vote in favor of or against a proposed Constitutional Amendment, authored by State Rep. George Sheldon, Tampa.

The amendment proposes a sweeping revision of our bail system by implementing a pre-trial release program and further, creating the ability to detain (for up to 90 days) a person without bail awaiting trial if certain conditions are met or proven, and further, should the amendment pass, implementing legislation to put the amendment into effect.

I would respectfully suggest that the lever be pulled against the amendment.

First of all, pre-trial release is no stranger to the Florida Judicial System and has been utilized quite effectively for some time in the State of Florida and further, standards for bail have always been subject to reasonable review by our judiciary. While the part of the proposed amendment and law implementing the amendment has merit which speaks to pre-trial release, since it attempts to codify this procedure and streamline it around the state, the balance of the amendment is what creates, in my mind, peril sufficient to warrant its defeat.

At first blush, the bill speaks to a very laudatory objective that all citizens adhere to: the right to be protected from violence and those who commit it. The bill provides that if a person is charged with a violent crime, such as arson, aggravated assault, rape, kidnapping, etc., and has previously (within 10 years) been convicted of a like crime, then and therefore after a procedural hearing before the appropriate court, bail can be denied and the accused detained without bail, pending trial.

Most respectfully to the author of the bill, what happened to that sacred principle of innocence until proven guilty? While the proponents of the measure admirably argue that procedural safeguards are numerous and therefore the rights of the accused protected, the bill still obliterates that presumption of innocence so sacredly placed in American Jurisprudence by our forefathers, wherein they likewise held sacred the right (not privilege) to bail, based upon the gross miscarriages of justice placed in antiquity where bail was not a matter of right, but normally of aristocratic privilege and position.

Since the bulk of crimes that are committed are done by non-professional criminals (let's hope there are more citizens than pros) it would seem that our right to bail should not in the very least be eroded, which is exactly what this measure does.

The bill speaks of hearings, factual presentations and burdens placed upon the state to justify this invasion of our rights. But though the words speak, the bill does not in any regard appreciate the mechanics of enforcement, the additional strain it will place upon an already overworked, overscheduled, backlogged judiciary, not to mention further, the additional time required of the state attorneys to prepare for meaningful hearings and lastly, and most importantly, the impact upon the individual.

John Q. Citizen (age 45) is arrested for brandishing a weapon at a neighbor and simultaneously threatening him; charge: Aggravated Assault. John, as a young man of 35, some 10 years earlier, had been convicted of a crime of violence. Under the bill, John could be easily denied bail pending trial. Yet, if John is found innocent, how does he recover from that up to 90 days incarceration mentioned earlier, since while awaiting trial, he has lost his job, his home is in foreclosure, and he is facing financial ruin. He thankful he was found innocent! Not enough. In this land, you are presumed innocent. This amendment attempts to add a scripture not in our law, presumed innocent okay, but to get out of jail before trial you must also prove no disregard for the safety of the community. I do not know exactly what that means because of its vagueness, but it does not appear in our Constitution.

Last, the bill speaks to only violent crimes. John Flimflam embezzles a bank out of a million dollars or tricks 35 elderly citizens out of their life savings. He gets bail automatically, no questions asked, no hearing. Mr. Flimflam is the pro. This bill does not hamper his style, take his job, ruin him financially, but it very well could since the genesis and omega of the bill is "a disregard for the safety of the community". This standard is, as stated, vague and subject to arbitrary application. I, for one, do not wish to have the presumption of innocence directly or indirectly ripped off the backs of our citizenry, our already battle-scarred judiciary clogged even more, and a standard so vague and ambiguous as to be interpreted a thousand ways by a thousand reasonable people, placed upon the altar of our law, with the same dignity as presumptions that our nation was founded upon.

Search And Seizure Rule 'Ill Conceived'

On November 2nd, the people of Florida will vote on three proposed amendments to the state constitution. In my opinion as a law teacher, proposed Constitutional Amendment No. 2, which would restrict the rights of Floridians against unreasonable searches and seizures, is ill conceived and should be voted down.

Two constitutional provisions currently protect Floridians from unreasonable searches and seizures by law enforcement personnel: the fourth amendment to the United States Constitution and Article I, Section 12 of the Florida Constitution. The Florida Legislature has suggested that Article I, Section 12 be changed so that it would offer no greater protection against intrusive police investigation than the federal Constitution offers. This is tantamount to a complete repeal of Article I, Section 12, because it would completely surrender the task of protecting the privacy rights of Florida residents to federal judges sitting in Washington.

The current language of Article I, Section 12 provides a much better mechanism for the protection of individual privacy. The United States Supreme Court, interpreting the federal Constitution, establishes minimum standards for intrusive police conduct, which are applicable nationwide. Thereafter, if the Florida Supreme Court desires to offer Floridians greater protection, it can do so by interpreting Article I, Section 12. The proposed amendment to the state constitution would destroy this commendable example of federalism at work.

Currently, the most noteworthy application of Article I, Section 12 involves the sending of an undercover agent equipped with an electronic eavesdropping device (a "bodybug") into a person's home. In 1971, the United States Supreme Court voted 5 to 4 that this tactic did not violate the federal constitution, even when the undercover agent had no reason whatsoever to suspect that his host was engaged in any criminal activity. In 1981, the Florida Supreme Court wisely determined that this flagrant abuse of privacy rights violated Article I, Section 12 of the state constitution. But the court did not unduly restrict necessary criminal investigations: It also ruled that the police could use a bodybug in a suspect's home if they had probable cause (as reflected in a search warrant) to believe they would obtain evidence of a crime.

Thus, the Florida Supreme Court has been judicious in exercising the power granted to it under Article I, Section 12. The people of Florida should allow the state's judges to continue this good work by voting "No" on Proposed Constitutional Amendment No. 2.

Judge Acted Correctly In Fatal Accident Case

Judge Harold Johnson has been severely criticized as a result of the David Theodore Green case. Green is the 79-year-old man who, while driving, ran over a child who died. Green had had heart surgery and was on a pacemaker. Whether or not Green should have had a driving license due to his health or other factors unknown to me is not germane to this letter.

The Code of Judicial Ethics prohibits judges from answering or defending themselves against criticism, however undeserved, extreme or vindictive. Therefore, members of the Bar are charged with a duty to answer whenever they believe the criticism is unjust. This is not to say that the media, press or electronic, does not have the right and duty to fairly examine or censure judicial conduct, both official and private. However, the reporters should take the trouble to fine out the reasons causing the result under review.

As tragic as the Green case is, the facts are:

Judges do not charge anyone with anything. Charges, informations, traffic citations, all are brought either by the arresting-investigating officers (traffic cases), or by the state attorney for most misdemeanors and all felonies, except capital, which are commenced by indictment from a grand jury. A judge, any judge, can try a defendant only on the charges laid against him.

Mr. Green was charged by a uniform traffic citation with "careless driving", which since most traffic offenses have been decriminalized by the legislature, is a civil infraction. (F.S. 316.1925). Had there been the slightest evidence upon which a graver charge could have been bottomed, I do not doubt that such would have been brought in a case resulting in death.

Under the law, Judge Johnson could not impose even a five-minute jail term on Green, could not revoke his driving privileges and could, in fact, impose no greater punishment than a small fine.

Green did not demand a hearing, entered a plea of nolo contendere, (which is tantamount to a plea of guilty in criminal law, but cannot be used in subsequent civil actions for damages).

He did not appear personally before the court, but by attorney. A defendant can be tried in absentia for a misdemeanor and the court is bound by the Rules of Criminal Procedure to accept written pleas (including nolo contendere) in such cases.

Green agreed to and did consent to the permanent suspension of all driving privileges, for which Judge Johnson should receive an accolade rather than brick-bats, since under the charge the court was powerless to revoke his driver's license. An examination of the court file and the applicable statutes and rules will verify the thrust of this letter.

Perhaps all drivers should be required to take physical examinations and actual driving tests from time to time, but in a State with many retirees, and almost no public transportation, I doubt that such legislation will be forthcoming. Hard cases make bad law, but if the public demands a scapegoat, they should seek him in Tallahassee, not Sanford.

Kathleen Riddles Fighting Seminoles, 41-0

By SAM COOK
Herald Sports Editor

LAKELAND — Take your choice. Seminole couldn't solve Kathleen's Riddle or Vic Riddled the Seminoles.

Either way, Vic Riddle saddled the Fighting Seminoles with an embarrassing 41-0 setback here before an excited Friday night Homecoming crowd. The Tribe is 0-6.

"Awesome, just awesome," was how Kathleen coach Gary Spruce described the performance of his senior halfback and comeback. "That's not a night, that's a career."

Riddle ran for a touchdown, caught a pass for a score, intercepted three passes and recovered a fumble.

"That's a pretty good night's work," admitted Tribe coach Jerry Posey. "Of course, the way our quarterbacks were throwing the ball, I don't know if you could call them interceptions. They looked more like completions."

Seminole didn't throw very well. Alternating between starter Mike Futrell and backup Rob Cohen, the 'Noles could complete just 5 of 16 aeriels. In fact, the duo and Tim Lawrence threw better to Kathleen as the SIX interceptions will attest.

While the passing game accounted for just 42 yards, the running attack was worse. The Seminoles ran for eight net yards on 18 attempts. Fullback Ron Hurke had nine carries for 20 yards. Lawrence was three for a minus six.

Add to that seven fumbles and there is no problem understanding why this 1982 edition is still searching for its first victory after six ball games.

"They sure looked better offensively on the film," said Spruce about the 'Noles. "He's (Posey) a good coach, I guess he doesn't have any material."

Kathleen, which had allowed just 32 points in five previous games, posted its fourth shutout. The Red Devils are now 4-2.

Prep Football

Seminole dug itself into an immediate hole in the first quarter when Lawrence's halfback pass was intercepted by Riddle at the Tribe 48. A late hit on Riddle's return moved the ball to the Tribe 25. Three plays later, Riddle swept the left end for a touchdown with 8:02 to play in the quarter.

Kathleen marched to its next score after a 32-yard punt by Steve Alexander. On the seventh play at the Seminole 20, quarterback Pat Pinner hit Riddle coming out of the backfield for another TD. Cliff Fountain's point after put the Red Devils up, 14-0, with 2:26 left in the first quarter. The score came on a fourth down play, one of three Kathleen would convert into touchdowns.

All semblance of a football game went out the window on the next series when Futrell threw a swing pass into the waiting arms of Gerald Taylor who romped unmolested down the sideline for a 31-yard touchdown.

Fountain's kick gave Lakeland a 21-0 lead with 1:45 still to go in the first quarter. The 21 points represented more points than Kathleen had scored in any of its games this year. The previous high was 14.

In the second quarter, Pinner tossed an eight-yard touchdown to Jim Muntz for a 27-0 lead which stood that way at half-time.

Lawrence returned the second-half kickoff 27 yards to the 42 for the 'Noles best field position of the night, but a Cohen interception killed the threat at the Kathleen 41.

Three minutes later, Mark Wilson capped a seven-play, 56-yard drive by diving in from the one on fourth down. With 7:30 to go in the quarter, Kathleen led, 34-0.

Futrell returned to quarterback and the Tribe put together a mini-drive, fueled by Futrell's 14-yard toss to Alexander, which reached the Kathleen 33.

With 1:42 to go in the quarter, though, Riddle picked off his third pass to end the drive.

Kathleen added its last score in the fourth quarter with just 5:09 left when Willie Wright shrugged off a couple of tacklers and went five yards into the end zone.

"They didn't do anything fancy," said Posey after the game. "They just ran a simple 5-2 defense, but they play it tough."

Which couldn't be said about the Tribe's defense effort.

"I don't know what to say about them," continued Posey about his defenders. "One play they'll really stick somebody and the next play they'll be slipping and sliding and be face down."

"I know the last two games we haven't played football," he concluded. "No argument there."

Ruffled Rams Ransacked By Lions, 28-0

By CHRIS FISTER
Herald Sports Writer

A rivalry that promises to be an explosive one in the years to come was ignited Friday night as the Oviedo Lions fought off a fired-up bunch of Rams, 28-0, at Lake Mary High School.

From the opening kickoff it was obvious these two teams were out for blood. You could hear the opposing players growling at each other as they dug in at the line of scrimmage. You could see the intensity in their eyes.

"We played with a lot of enthusiasm and intensity," Lake Mary coach Roger Beathard said. "We need to improve on our offense and score some points. The defense played tough the whole game." Oviedo received the opening kickoff, and, aided by a roughing the punter call, held the ball for over eight minutes of the first quarter. The Lions drove to the Lake Mary 17-yard line but could get no closer. Rob Moody attempted a 34-yard field goal that was well short of the mark. Lake Mary got a first down on the second play of its first possession, but, three plays later, Oviedo's Tom Johnson picked off a Scott Sperrazzo pass at the Lake Mary 40.

Oviedo could not get its offense in gear after the interception as the Rams' defense continued to hold its own.

Lake Mary regained possession but ran only three plays before Jeff Hopkins kicked a booming 45-yard punt.

The two teams traded possessions the rest of the first half until 19 seconds remained before halftime when Oviedo recovered a Lake Mary fumble.

It didn't seem likely that the Lions would score before the intermission as they had 46 yards to go and only 19 seconds to do it.

But J.W. Yarborough reeled off 40 yards on the Lions' first play to put the ball at the Ram 6 with nine seconds left.

On the next play, quarterback Jodie Huggins tossed a six-yard touchdown pass to Johnson. Rob Moody's point put Oviedo up, 7-0, as the first half ended.

Both teams came out of the locker room for the second half just as fired up as when the game had started. But, after a few seconds had ticked off the clock in the third quarter, Lake Mary already had its back to the wall.

On the opening kickoff, the Rams' return man fumbled and Oviedo recovered on the Lake Mary 21.

On the first play from scrimmage, Yarborough darted 12 yards to the Lake Mary 9. It took Oviedo four plays from inside the 10 to crack the Lake Mary defense as Barry Williams crashed in to the end zone for Oviedo's second TD. Moody's point put the Lions up 14-0 at 9:36 in the third period.

A fine return of the ensuing kickoff gave the Rams good field position at the Oviedo 37. Lake Mary broke into Oviedo territory but fell one yard short of a key first down when Hopkins bobbled the snap on an attempted punt and tried to pick up the first down on a run.

Oviedo took over at the Lake Mary 43 and mounted its third scoring drive. Key plays in the drive were a 20-yard pass

While Quackenbush unbalanced the Spruce Hawks wobbly, Robey came in with three knockout blows. Halfway through the second quarter, the bruising fullback sailed 20 yards for the second touchdown. Kerr's boot put Howell up, 13-0.

Just a couple plays later, though, Spruce Creek tailback Billy Elmore zoomed 52 yards for a touchdown to pull SC within 13-7.

Undaunted, Robey took the ball on the first play from scrimmage following Elmore's run, bolted up the middle and then cut outside for a 69-yard scoring romp. Kerr's kick put Howell up, 20-7, with a little over three minutes left in the first half.

The Silver Hawks, however, weren't done yet. With just 30 seconds to go, Quackenbush tossed a 19-yard aerial to John "No Relation" McKay who gathered it in for a touchdown. Kerr's PAT put the Blue and Silver in complete control at intermission, 27-7.

"I thought it would be much closer," said Bisceglia. "This is the first time we've really played together as a team. I really mean that. The kids really united and that's why we beat them so bad."

Just three plays into the third quarter, Robey jolted Spruce Creek again. He took a handoff from a fading Quackenbush and lumbered 70 yards for the score. Kerr's kick put the game on ice, 34-7.

Spruce Creek added a touchdown in the third quarter on a four-yard pass from Sean Hamilton to Stacy Mobley.

In the fourth quarter, the teams traded touchdowns for the final 20-point outcome. Junior Mike Palowitch tallied on a seven-yard run midway through the final quarter. Paul Pompey came back with a one-yard plunge for Spruce Creek's final score.

Lake Howell also had a 62-yard TD dash by Jeff Solomon called back by a clipping penalty.

Defensively, safety Bill Lang turned in 13 solo tackles and five assists. Charlie Hodges had four tackles and two assists. Navarro had a sack to go with his fumble recovery and defensive end Rick Pugh also covered a fumble.

"Lang was all over the field," said Bisceglia about his versatile junior. "He's got to be the best defensive back around and he caught a pass for 38 yards too."

Lisa Olander was crowned Queen of the Lake Howell Homecoming.

Poor, Greyhounds Stun Apopka, 15-7

By SAM COOK

Lyman's John Poor usually makes his presence felt around the football field with his leg. The Greyhound senior currently sits atop the county's punting list due to his strong left leg.

Friday night against Apopka, however, Poor pulled a little "sleight-of-foot." Nonchalantly setting up for an extra point boot which would tie the game Poor followed quarterback Jerry Axley down the line on a fake. Axley pitched back and as Poor was being wrestled to the sideline, he tossed a two-point conversion to Greg Pilot for an 8-7 Lyman lead in the third quarter.

The Greyhounds later tacked on a touchdown on a one-yard plunge by Vince Presley to upset the Blue Darters, 15-7, and turn the Five Star Conference race into its usual dogfight.

"That's a typical Five Star Conference race," said Lyman coach Bill Scott about the logjam. "Everybody in the conference can beat someone else if they get up. It will probably go right down to the last game."

The Lyman victory leaves Apopka and Lake Howell with 3-1 records. Lyman and Spruce Creek are 2-1. Still with an outside shot are DeLand and Mainland at 2-2.

Football

The Greyhounds, 3-3 overall, seem in the best position to determine their destiny. This Friday, they travel to Lake Howell before finishing with games against Seminole, Spruce Creek and Lake Brantley.

For a while, on a Homecoming Friday night at Lyman, the 'Hounds were stifled by a tough Apopka defense and one big play on offense from the Blue Darters.

Apopka forged a 7-0 lead when quarterback Rodney Brewer unloaded a bomb to Sylvester Smith for 53 yards and a touchdown with 2:29 left in the first period.

"That was a nice fly pattern that beat us," said Scott. "But that was really the only time they moved the ball on us that we couldn't stop them."

Senior linebacker Mike Hill and teammate Paul Ellis led a tenacious Greyhound defense which effectively bottled up Apopka running backs Darin Jackson, Brian Pitts and Will Singleton. Jackson rambled for 186 yards two weeks ago against Seminole.

Although the defense was sturdy, it didn't pay off until halfback Phil Ger-mano burst 30 yards up the middle for the first Lyman score with 3:11 to play in quarter three.

The extra point gamble was just that from the beginning. Steve Abernathy, who handles the PATs, stayed on the sideline and Poor came on. A rollout and a flip later, Lyman was on top, 8-7.

And, when Brewer bobbed a snap from center on the next series, James Pilot covered the ball at the Apopka 18 to set up the Greyhounds again.

Several plays later, Presley muscled his way into the promised land from one yard away. Abernathy booted the point after and Lyman had a leg up en route to a big win.

Brewer tried rallying the Blue Darters, but Ellis again came through with a big play, picking off his pass with just a little over two minutes left to ensure the victory. Ellis also had a blocked punt to his credit in the game.

Jane Bistline was chosen the Homecoming Queen.

Jets Cool Off Devils

WINNIPEG, Manitoba (UPI) — Winnipeg Jets' Coach Tom Watt was ecstatic Friday after his team's first victory of the season on home ice — a 3-1 win over the New Jersey Devils. In fact, he refused to acknowledge the opposition. "I don't want to talk about the New Jersey Devils," Watt said after the Jets' victory. "We played as well defensively as the Winnipeg Jets can play. I was very, very pleased with our performance."

The Devils managed only 12 shots, scoring their lone goal on a shot by defenseman Joel Quenneville during a goalmouth scramble with 21 seconds left in the game.

New Jersey Coach Bill MacMillan gave Winnipeg full credit for bottling up the Devils' offense.

"The Jets forced about 15 turnovers in the first period and 14 in the second period," MacMillan said. "We seemed to be constantly coughing up the puck."

The Devils, relocated from Colorado, have a 3-3-3 record. MacMillan claims many observers are waiting for the bubble to burst.

"We have played some very good games, particularly at home," MacMillan said. "But we are going to have a few more games like tonight's. It was just a question of us not playing well and Winnipeg not permitting us to get out of our zone."

Quenneville spoiled Jets' goalie Ed Stankowski's bid for his second shutout of the season and the third in his NHL career. "That was a bad play on my part," said Stankowski. "I got caught behind the net while trying to clear the puck. But the important thing is we got the first win at home."

'Peete The Machine' Holds Pensacola Lead

PENSACOLA (UPI) — Calvin Peete is quite pleased with his new nickname — "The Machine" — given to him by Tom Watson at the $200,000 Pensacola Open.

Peete, whose accurate tee shots seldom stray from the fairways, shot a 5-under-par 66 Friday to trail rookie Steve Liebler by one shot. Liebler also shot 66 in the second round for a two-day total of 130 and a one-stroke lead.

Watson, who is six strokes off the lead after shooting a 67 Friday, said Peete was the player to beat at Pensacola.

"You don't know what the machine will do today," Watson said of Peete. "He's a machine though. He really doesn't miss many fairways or greens. He's a great player."

"I wouldn't expect any less of a compliment from Watson," Peete said. "I couldn't think of a better one. I wouldn't mind following in his footsteps." Peete said, referring to the famed golfer Gene Littler, known as "Gene the Machine."

Peete has won three times this year and is 7th on the PGA Tour money list with more than $281,000.

Peete birdied No. 2, 13, and 15 with putts of 30, 12 and 5 feet. His other two birdies came on par fives when he two putted from five and 15 feet.

Beathard, Blanton Face-Off Fuels Tense County Rivalry

ROGER BEATHARD
...Rams will remember

By CHRIS FISTER
Herald Sports Writer
Although the Lake Mary-Oviedo football game had its share of big plays, the real fireworks didn't go off until the game was over.

A confrontation that will make the Lake Mary-Oviedo rivalry one of the hottest in Seminole County took place after the Lions' 28-0 victory.

The two coaches, Roger Beathard of Lake Mary and Jack Blanton of Oviedo, met on the field and exchanged words. "Congratulations," or "good game," were not to be heard. What happened between the two coaches was perhaps the spark that will keep the Oviedo-Lake Mary fire burning until the two teams meet again. Beathard finger-handedly demonstrated to Blanton that Lake Mary was still number 1.

Oviedo led 21-0 with just 50 seconds left in the game when quarterback Dwayne Johnson hit Ken Ashe with a 22 yard TD pass.

Most Ram faithful felt the Lions were adding insult to injury. Blanton said the play was called by Johnson. Beathard pointed out that on the previous Oviedo possession, the Lions attempted four or five passes and thus tried to run up the score.

"Their (Lake Mary's) coach came up to me and cussed me out," Blanton said to his team after the confrontation. "And I don't think that's very nice." "I didn't like the way he (Blanton) was calling plays at the end," Beathard said. "If the quarterback called all those passes then the coach needs to have a talk with him." Whatever happened, the rivalry is on. It was definitely not the mismatch it was built up to be. Erase a couple of mistakes by the Rams and you have a much closer ballgame.

Blanton said he was not running up the score but trying to give all his players a chance to get in the game. "We have some seniors who haven't played this year and we wanted to give them a chance," he said. "It was the first time Johnson got to play in two weeks. We just wanted to give everyone some playing time."

The aggressive play and the intensity of both teams will make this rivalry a strong one, something that makes high school football so popular.

A few of the Lake Mary players promised that next year's outcome will be a lot different. Next year the Rams will have seniors and a lot more experience.

The last thing Blanton said to his team was, "Now Lake Mary knows where Oviedo is."

Beathard added fuel to the Rams' fire when he said, "Lake Mary will remember this game."

Owners, Players Spin Wheels, Mediator Punts

HUNT VALLEY, Md. (UPI) — Mediator Sam Kagel, facing fourth down and very long yardage in the NFL players' strike, apparently has decided to punt.

Kagel informed both sides in the dispute late Friday night he wants to return to his San Francisco home because "We are just spinning our wheels."

Kagel 73, entered the talks 11 days ago, appointed by the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service. A veteran of more than 10,000 arbitration and mediation cases, Kagel informed negotiators of his desires an hour and a half after recessing talks.

Kagel could not be reached for comment.

It is uncertain whether he is attempting to pull out of the negotiations completely, or attempting to set up a "cooling off period."

It is obvious these negotiations, which have progressed very little in eight months, are stalemated beyond immediate solution.

Kagel left the hotel only twice in 11 days. He went to downtown Baltimore on a sightseeing excursion Monday afternoon and had dinner at a nearby restaurant with members of both negotiating teams Thursday night.

Several times early this week, Kagel compared his stay at the suburban Baltimore hotel to being "in jail." He said at one point, "The only thing missing is the bars on the windows."

A union source accused chief NFL negotiator Jack Donlan of "hard-lining the hell out of things" as talks moved to the crucial area of wages.

Earlier, an NFL Management Council spokesman said union head Ed Garvey is "more interested in litigation than negotiation."

The union source said the talks will not budge until NFL owners give their approval.

"Until the owners and (Commissioner Pete) Rozelle throw the switch up at 410 Park Avenue (NFL headquarters in New York) and give a signal, nothing will happen," a union source taking part in negotiations told UPI.

"Donlan is back where he was Sept. 8 — nowhere," the source said. "Any mention of progress is so far wrong I can't describe it."

The source agreed with reports accords have been reached on several non-economic issues, but added, "I don't think anyone is on strike over the rights of the commissioner, or access to medical records."

Things have changed very little during the eight months of talks, with most of the negotiating coming during the 12 days of talks in suburban Baltimore.

The union still wants a fixed percentage of league revenues placed in a union-administered salary-bonus fund.

The league has said "no" so often to that proposal, it has become almost a reflex action.

Grover Takes Bat Lead

The Barn's Keith Grover took over the batting lead, dethroning Kip Grant, who fell all the way to seventh place. A mistake in the bookkeeping had Grant's average at .750 last week when it was actually .690. Billy Griffith, Cardinal Industries, regained the RBI lead and tied teammate Randy Brown for the home run lead.

In the race for the league title, Cook's Corner continued to roll with a spotless 11-0 record. Cardinal Industries is one and a half games behind and The Barn is three games back. Mobilite moves up a few notches by winning its last two games in a row. Two weeks ago, Mobilite was dwelling in last place with an 0-6 record but has moved up to sixth place by winning four of its last six games.

from Huggins to Howard Lingard and a 29-yard run by Yarborough.

Huggins plunged over from one yard out for the TD at 2:33 in the third quarter and Moody's point put the Lions up, 21-0.

Lake Mary seemed to have a scoring threat going when Pat Murray broke loose for a 55-yard run. But, the play was nullified due to offsetting penalties.

The drive ended not long after that but Hopkins stepped in and called a 47-yard punt deep into Oviedo territory.

Two penalties and a sack of Huggins by the Rams' Willie Green put the Lions in a hole that John Quintana had to punt 38 yards to get Oviedo out of.

Lake Mary had good field position after the punt but could not get its offense going. Two 15-yard penalties sent the Rams back so far back that the announcer called it a "third down and about a quarter of a mile to go."

The fourth quarter was a back and forth affair and Lake Mary ran out of time to come back.

Still, Oviedo tried to add to its lead, irritating a lot of Lake Mary people who said the Lions were trying to run up the score.

Oviedo scored its last touchdown on a 22-yard pass from Dwayne Johnson to Ashe with just 50 seconds remaining in the game. Moody's kick made the final, 28-0. Yarborough led all rushers with 164 yards.

"It was a great win and we're glad everyone got a chance to play," Oviedo coach Jack Blanton said. "We need to improve on execution, cut down on mistakes and penalties."

Speaking of the Yankees, one of their delisted partners happens to be John Z. DeLorean, the one-time boy wonder at General Motors being held now in that $24 million cocaine bust. This is just what Bowie Kuhn needs now, isn't it?

Oviedo, 3-3, hosts Eustis next week. "We are starting to get the experience we need but the youthful mistakes are still hurting us," Beathard said.

The Rams, 1-5, travel to Wildwood next Friday.

Anticlimatic? Paul Wants Martin

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Editor

Cardinal and Brewer players generally agreed they got a lot more pumped up for the playoffs than for the World Series, which struck many of them as anti-climactic. Both soon will discover that financially speaking, there isn't that much difference between winning and losing. A full Series winning share will come to approximately $44,000 while a losing share will run about $35,000....

Oakland A's had made up their minds to fire Billy Martin weeks ago. They were merely looking for a good time to announce his departure, so they picked one of the worst times — an hour or so before the final game of the World Series....

Gabe Paul still hasn't given up trying to land Martin as manager of the Indians, and if you ask him what he can possibly offer Martin that the Yankees can't, he says, "the oldest bromide in baseball — a new challenge"....

Speaking of the Yankees, one of their delisted partners happens to be John Z. DeLorean, the one-time boy wonder at General Motors being held now in that $24 million cocaine bust. This is just what Bowie Kuhn needs now, isn't it?

Knights Take On Powerful Nicholls State Saturday

Central Florida's Knights go to Thibodaux, La. Saturday night to battle Nicholls State, another powerful Division II opponent for coach Sam Weir's club to survive.

UCF, 0-6, is the main course for the Nicholls State 8:30 p.m. homecoming. "They just keep getting tougher," sighed Weir after last week's physical loss to Alabama A & M. "I just hope we can get out without any injuries."

The Knights have moved the ball through the air the past two Saturdays behind the triple-quarterback threat of Dana Thyssen, Raymond Agee and Jaime Lugo.

A ground attack, however, has been almost nonexistent, which will have Nicholls safety Greg Greely licking his chops with anticipation. Greely has seven interceptions already this year.

After Saturday's matchup, the Knights return home for their final three games beginning with a homecoming contest with 5-0 West Georgia.

Sloan Suspends 4 Players

GAINESVILLE (UPI) — Last year's Southeastern Conference basketball scoring leader Ronnie Williams and three teammates will be suspended from the University of Florida basketball team until Dec. 1 for their involvement in a telephone fraud case, Coach Norm Sloan says.

Ronnie Williams, Vernon Delancy, Tony Rogers and Rodney Williams were temporarily taken off the squad Friday, Sloan said. They will be permitted to practice with the team during the suspension.

Two other players charged in the case, Nab Palmer and George Jackson, were not suspended because they were charged with offenses to a "lesser degree," Sloan said.

The suspended athletes will be able to play in the Gators' home game against Ohio State Dec. 3, Sloan said.

Mauch Calls It Quits

ANAHEIM, Calif. (UPI) — In the end, it probably was the stinging criticism — from his boss, the fans, the media and even some of his own players — that convinced Gene Mauch 23 years as a major-league manager was enough.

Mauch told the Angels Wednesday he didn't think he'd be back in 1983. After trying three times to change his mind, the Angels gave up Friday.

His search for the 10th manager in the club's 20-year history has begun.

A spokesman said the Angels offered Mauch the job again for 1983 and he refused to take it. The 56-year-old manager considered it for two more days, and turned it down again.

Barnett Banks Report Record 1982 Earnings

Record earnings have been reported for both third-quarter and nine-month periods by Barnett Banks of Florida, Inc.

The company earned $16.4 million before securities transactions, the primary measurement of bank income, for the third quarter 1982. This was an increase of 40 percent from the $11.7 million in the 1981 period.

Primary earnings per share rose 15 percent to $1 from the .87 cents in the year-ago period. This more modest increase was due to a 21 percent rise in common-equivalent shares, most of which were issued as preferred stock in acquisitions last December. Fully diluted earnings per share were .95 cents, an increase of nine percent from the .87 cents recorded in third-quarter 1981. Net income (after securities transactions) was $16.3 million for the quarter, 83 percent higher than the $8.9 million in the year-ago period.

Consolidated assets had increased to $6.3 billion on Sept. 30, up 34 percent from the $4.7 billion reported on the same date a year ago. Third quarter consolidated deposits also rose, from $3.8 billion in 1981 to $5.1 billion in 1982, an increase of 34 percent.

ComBank Promotes Gurley

Thomas W. Gurley has been appointed senior vice president of commercial lending in Seminole County, as recently announced by Robert M. Klingler, chief executive officer of ComBank Corporation.

Gurley will be headquartered in the Casselberry Office. He began his ComBank career in 1968 after he attended Seminole Junior College, First National Bank Atlanta and the Florida School of Banking.

Suncrete Selected

Suncrete Corp. of Sanford has been appointed an authorized builder for Varco-Pruden Buildings. The announcement of the appointment was made by Robert C. Kelley, president of Varco-Pruden.

Suncrete is a general contracting firm specializing in the design and construction of commercial and industrial buildings, offering a complete line of pre-engineered metal building systems. The company also specializes in concrete work, subcontracting design-build tilt-up services with inhouse engineering.

Robert W. Thelsen Sr., president of Suncrete, also serves as vice president of the American Society for Concrete Construction and is on the board of directors of the Orlando chapter of the American Concrete Institute. Robert W. Thelsen Jr. and Mark Thelsen are both vice presidents of Suncrete.

The firm has been recognized by the Central Florida Builders Exchange receiving a craftsmanship award for construction of the Schenk Co., a wholesale beer distributing firm in Orlando. Suncrete also has received Hall of Fame recognition within the metal building industry.

Corporations Growing

Though the recession continues to cut deeply into some sectors of Florida's economy, Florida's Division of Corporations is still showing a slight gain in new business activity in the state.

According to the Secretary of State, George Firestone, new corporate filings and fee collections for the first nine months of 1982 are higher than those logged during the same period in 1981, though not as high as earlier anticipated.

More than 52,300 new businesses set up shop here as of Sept. 30, compared with 51,300 new incorporations as of the same date in 1981. Collections of filing fees showed a similar gain, with $11.4 million collected by September 30, compared with $11.2 million collected by the end of the third quarter in 1981.

"Though things have slowed a bit, it's important to note that we're still growing," Firestone said. "We're still seeing an increase in filing activity and revenue collections, which implies that we're weathering the recessionary storm and not being hit nearly as hard as we were in 1974."

Small Firms Needed To Foster Good Will

By LeROY POPE
UPI Business Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Nobody wins friends for the United States in areas such as the Caribbean like the small American firm that establishes a labor-intensive local business, says William A. Delphos.

Delphos is vice-president for marketing and operations of the Overseas Private Investment Corp. He currently is cooperating with the Agency for International Development on a Telemission program Oct. 28 to interest small American firms in setting up ventures in 10 Caribbean countries.

This is part of the U.S. private investment foreign aid program that has been going on for more than a decade and of President Reagan's more recent Caribbean Basin initiative.

The Telemission will be a two-hour, two-way, live-via-satellite program to be heard by audiences simultaneously in New York, Washington, Boston, Chicago, Minneapolis, New Orleans, Dallas and Miami. It is a way of introducing American companies to the opportunities in the Caribbean countries, and will be followed by conducted visits to the islands for interested firms.

OPIC and AID are seeking to interest small firms in investing in the Caribbean and other third-world areas for a number of reasons. For one, such small ventures tend to be labor-intensive, which is what the third-world peoples need and want. They will not be viewed by the local populace as "rape and pillage" ventures as big, capital-intensive resources extractive ventures have been, Delphos said.

He said OPIC and AID seek ideally to get American companies to invest in third-world ventures that will serve local or nearby markets. If the businesses are to be export-oriented, they must not be designed to export to the United States and compete with American manufactures. They can be designed to export to the United States and compete with Japanese or European imports.

Under no circumstances, he said, will OPIC and AID help finance an American company trying to move production out of the United States to a third-world company in order to get the advantage of lower labor costs.

It's no secret that public feeling in some of the Caribbean countries towards Americans has been chilly lately.

American boating magazines, for example, warn American yachtsmen about hostile official and public attitudes towards Americans in these countries that have such great sailing waters. And it is not currently recommended that American motorists try driving around freely in the central American countries.

Delphos said his personal experiences in visiting the Caribbean countries convinced him small American firms can do more than anybody else to overcome these attitudes and restore friendship toward Americans by creating job opportunities for the local residents. He said American-owned or joint ventures that create 50 to 100 jobs are needed most.

The Telemission program will stress Caribbean opportunities for American firms in agriculture, food processing and in light manufacturing, particularly in some of the region's free-trade zones.

OPIC's first Telemission program in April dealt with opportunities in Egypt, and was followed by a personal tour of Egypt for some of the more interested companies. Delphos said 14 firm investment ventures have come from this.

The law requires OPIC to be self-sustaining, so Delphos said it gets banks and other enterprises that stand to profit from the ventures it attracts to pay the costs of the Telemission programs.

In 1981, OPIC insured $308 million and committed $55 million for 30 projects in 11 Caribbean countries. Delphos said this year's figures will be much higher.

Orange Juice Offered More By Restaurants

Although orange juice long has been regarded as a fixture at the breakfast table, an overwhelming number of the nation's restaurants that sell orange juice also offer it at other times of the day.

Too often, the availability of orange juice in an eating establishment isn't advertised, according to George de Jager, market research director of the Florida Department of Citrus.

"We have received a report from Audits and Surveys, Inc. of an annual national restaurant study that shows only 10 percent of all public eating places serving orange juice during 1982 limited the product to breakfast," he said.

Of the remainder, 46 percent made orange juice available during several different times of the day, while 44 percent offered orange juice throughout the entire day.

"Unfortunately, while many managers of restaurants reached in the study indicated that orange juice was offered at times other than breakfast, there has been little effort made to so inform consumers. Many eating places list orange juice with the breakfast menu only."

De Jager said the citrus department intended to lend support during the 1980s to an effort to advertise the availability of orange juice at other times of the day.

Among the types of restaurants covered in the study, 58 percent of the fast food outlets that offered orange juice made it available throughout the day, followed by hotels-motels with 55 percent and by restaurants located in drug stores at 47 percent.

Of the 114.8 million single strength equivalent gallons of orange juice offered by public eating places, $1.2 million gallons were in the form of frozen concentrate. This product increased in usage for the fourth consecutive year while pre-packaged ready-to-serve orange juice declined to 45.7 million gallons. Canned single strength juice accounted for 17.9 million gallons.

Sanford Landing To Open

Sanford Landing, the 264-unit development on State Road 46 (First Street) west of Sanford, is getting ready to open.

The first apartment buildings are nearing completion and units are being leased.

According to Oletta Yates of Southeastern Property Management, Inc., of Birmingham, Ala., the first buildings will be occupied by Dec. 1. A grand opening for the complex is expected after Christmas.

Sanford Landing features four apartment floor plans, including three for two bedroom and one for one-bedroom units. Rent will range from $355 to $475 monthly.

Construction also is nearing completion on a 6,000-square-foot clubhouse and other facilities. Features will include a four-acre stocked lake, Olympic-sized swimming pool, tennis and racquetball courts, a health club, game room, washer and dryer connections in the apartments and a central laundry room.

The $10 million development is scheduled for completion by June.

Ms. Yates said the apartments are designed for persons of all ages. Small pets and children will be permitted, she added. Carol Fagen has been named to manage the complex, assisted by JoLene Nicholson.

The 26-acre development is owned by Charles Welden of Birmingham, Robert Bobinchuck of Orlando and Wallace Yost of Pensacola. The contractor is Concurrent Construction Co. of Key Biscayne. Construction has been underway since April.

Ms. Yates said the owners decided to build the facility in Sanford because of the "friendliness of the people of Sanford, because of the easy access to major highways and the convenient access to Lake Monroe and the (Central Florida Regional) hospital.

"They felt there was a need for the small town, suburban living atmosphere because of the desire of people to get away from the hustle and bustle of the urban area," she added.

Manufacturing Orders Up

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The strength of last month's orders for major consumer items surprised some analysts but gave no clear signal economic recovery is on the way.

New orders for manufacturers' durable goods, including products that depend most on assembly-line employment, went up 0.2 percent overall in September and, outside the auto industry, showed the most strength in nearly two years, the Commerce Department reported Friday.

Chemical Bank lowered its prime rate to 11.5 percent but the rest of the major banks stayed with the prevailing 12 percent rate.

Flagship Sets Earning Record

Flagship Banks, Inc. (OTC), a $2.9 billion Florida bank holding company, has reported the highest third quarter and nine-month operating earnings in the Company's history.

For the three months ended Sept. 30, Flagship reported record third quarter operating earnings of $6,783,000, a 18.8 percent increase from $5,800,000 for the same period in 1981. Per share income before securities transactions in the 1982 third quarter was 77 cents, compared to 68 cents per share a year ago.

Net income, after securities transactions, for the period was $6,245,000, or 71 cents per share, compared to $5,706,000, or 65 cents per share in 1981. The net income figures reflect securities transaction losses which were incurred to provide a higher future yield on the company's investment portfolio.

For the first nine months of the current year, Flagship had operating earnings of $21,000,000, or $2.41 per share, a record for the period, compared to $19,017,000, or $2.26 per share, for the first nine months of 1981. Net income for the nine month period of 1982 was $19,387,000, or $2.21 per share, compared to $17,951,000, or $2.12 per share, for the same period in 1981.

Flagship's total assets at the end of the 1982 third quarter were $2.89 billion, a 12.0 percent increase over a year ago, while total deposits grew by 15.5 percent to $2.40 billion and loans, net of unearned income, increased by 18.8 percent to $1.529 billion.

All prior period figures have been restated to reflect the acquisition by Flagship of the $120 million asset Citizens National Bank of Naples, which is being treated as a pooling of interests.

Flagship Banks with $2.9 billion in assets and 132 banking offices and 104 automatic teller machines throughout Florida, is one of the state's largest bank holding companies. Flagship common stock, NASDAQ symbol FLAG, and convertible preferred stock, FLAGP, are traded in the over-the-counter market.

Twiggy, the world's first waterskiing squirrel, was a frightened rodent when she blew in with Hurricane David. Chuck Best, right, and his wife, Lou Ann, trained the squirrel and the rest is a success story with Twiggy, left, a celebrity today. Twiggy is not the first animal Best has trained, though, nor is she his last. 'Nobody ever told me that horses can't waterski,' he said.

Sanford's Son: 'I Wanted To Be Another Walt Disney'

By DORIS DIETRICH
PEOPLE Editor

Lou Ann Best feeds Twiggy.

Ask an all-American boy of 5 or 6 what he wants to be when he grows up and his answer will likely be a ballplayer, a policeman or maybe an astronaut.

But not Charles (Chuck) Thurston Best, 34, of Sanford. He was playing the piano at 5, training animals and wanted to grow up to be a journalist. "I wanted to be another Walt Disney," Chuck said, adding that he has always liked animal movies. "Not cartoons," he said.

Chuck explained that his sister, Sheila Stanley, was studying piano, and at about 5, he started picking out tunes on the "black keys." He later studied piano, but never did master playing to the music. "Since I played by ear," he says, "it was a challenge for any teacher to get me to play."

He recalls that one piano teacher promised the pupil who learned his piece first a surprise. Chuck said he dashed home to find a record, picked up the correct key, only to discover the eagerly awaited surprise was voice lessons. "I got suckered into that one," Chuck laughs. He likes to sing but admits that "Sinatra doesn't have to worry."

Chuck, a native Sanford son, is the son of Emmeline and Shealy Best. Emmeline is also a native and Shealy moved to Sanford at age 10. The family lived in Slavia for several years and later moved back to Sanford.

While living in Slavia, at age 9, Chuck said, "I lived so far back in the country that I drove a Crossley from there to where State Road 436 is now. Where Tuscawilla is now was nothing but a rut."

Chuck didn't limit his travels as a land-lubber along back country roads. He took to the water like a duck, experienced the excitement of driving a Herndon ambulance, is a licensed pilot and is a member of the Florida Highway Patrol Auxiliary.

Chuck's father was one of the owners of Skate City, Fern Park, in 1959, and later opened Melodee Skating Rink on Chora Road, Sanford, in 1963 when Chuck started skating seriously. "Your daddy owns the rink, you're gonna be here. It's a case where practice makes perfect—in my case, good, though, not perfect, but I got to where I was a pretty strong competitive skater."

After he began working at Melodee when he was about 14, Chuck said he got a motorcycle and began training the family pet poodle, Moose.

The white standard poodle was nothing less than taciturn and a bit shy. But before long, Chuck had trained Moose to smoke a pipe, walk on roller skates, surf and take paper cups to the trash.

"He could do about anything that required discipline," Chuck said. "He was very well disciplined and wouldn't move until he was told."

There were other animals before Moose that claimed Chuck's undivided attention. "Many kids did the same thing I did—nothing special," he said. "I always wanted my pets to have immense trust in me and want to be with me."

While still skating and playing the piano locally during 1965-70, Chuck turned his musical aptitudes toward the band "Beau Geste," he joined that toured the state.

Chuck's father purchased a $10,000 organ for the skating rink. "Anything that would help me in my musical career, Dad got it. Mom never pushed me. But even today, Dad passes the organ, puts it and says, 'Maybe some day,'" Chuck laughed.

Working toward a manager's position at Penney's in Sanford, Chuck said he really liked the work and wanted to get into management with the company. "But all my friends working there were getting transferred and I got homesick north of the St. Johns River."

Later, he and his father went into business together when Melodee moved to 25th Street. "The adults now that I remember when they were 3 or 4 are bringing their kids to skate," he said.

As a professional skater for 15 years, Chuck is not too impressed with competitive skating. He has won his share of awards but says, "In the professional circuit you have to be a good athlete with lots of money. Skating shows are more rewarding. Every kid is a winner. I'm not a competitive-type person."

But Chuck Best calls himself "strict" at Melodee where he runs a tight ship. He lays out the rules and enforces them. Many a parent has been called to pick up an undisciplined skater. And Chuck and his father constantly patrol the parking lot for unwanted patrons.

"I don't believe in letting your own good time interfere with anyone else's good times. I don't like to see bigger kids take advantage of smaller ones," he said.

Chuck mentioned that he has started on plans for a skating show in the spring and that Melodee has not had a skating show for the past three years.

Why?

Chuck Best and his wife, Lou Ann, have been accompanying a frolicking, four-legged, furry form of a squirrel around the United States and Canada. This diminutive creature is proclaimed as the world's first waterskiing squirrel.

Incredible!

Twiggy blew in at about the same time Hurricane David briskly by passed Sanford in 1979. The frightened baby rodent took refuge with a skater who later gave the squirrel to Chuck. Twiggy became a family member, joining Lalama Best, 10, and now Chuck Jr., 13 months.

The following January, my daughter had a birthday. I bought her a remote controlled boat. To justify buying the gift, Chuck said, "I told everybody I would teach the squirrel to water ski. Nobody ever told me that squirrels can't ski."

Well, ignorance is bliss," he continued. "I got her used to the water and used to training skis with weights. It took about two months to get her steady. It was a secret. Only Lou Ann and I knew it."

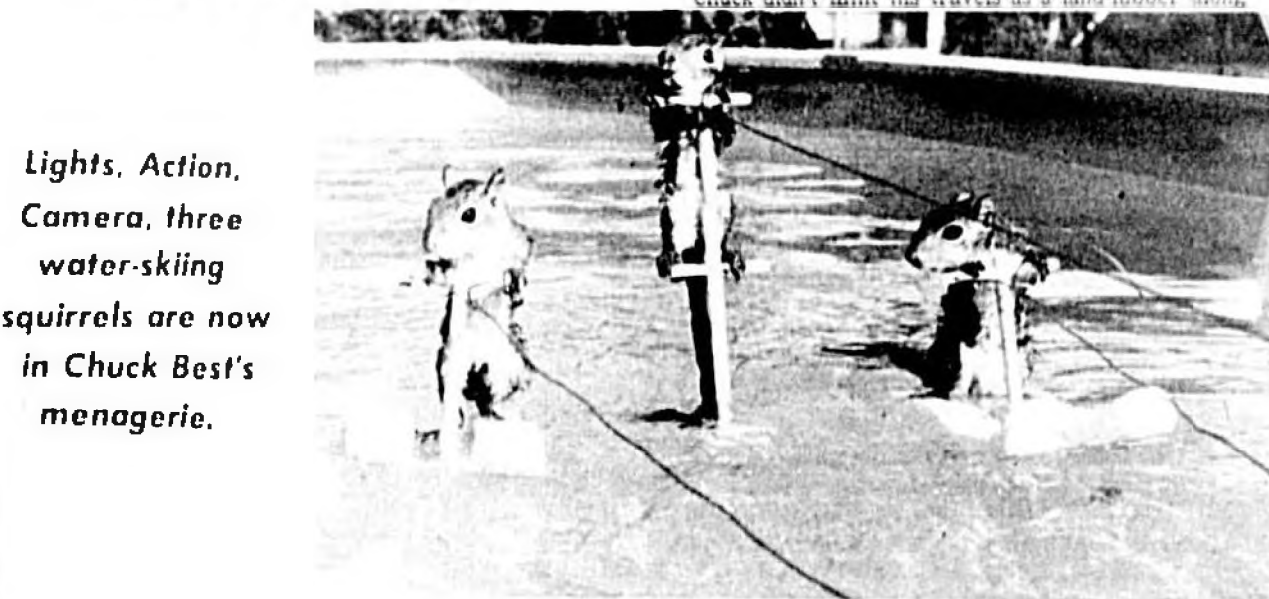

Did Chuck Best ever dream that his squirrel-training shenanigan would reach such magnitude?

"Heck, no!" he exclaimed. "I told a reporter, but he Moose, the poodle Best trained, was a favorite of all ages on the skating rink.

Lights, Action, Camera, three water-skiing squirrels are now in Chuck Best's menagerie.

Chuck Best, left, when he played the piano with "Beau Geste."

Organizations in Seminole County have been benefactors of skating benefits since Melodee Skating Rink opened its doors. In years past, Chuck Best presents a check to Dr. Maria didn't believe it. He came out though to see how squirrely I was."

Continuing Chuck said, "she's gotten out several times, but she always comes back. She lives in a 'mansion' on the bureau in the bedroom."

Where Twiggy and Chuck go, so does Lou Ann. Presently, the Twiggy act has booked engagements in Ottawa, Halifax and St. Louis. There are children's shows coming up and other television performances in addition to boat shows. "Real People" is coming back for the third time to do a story on Twiggy," Chuck said.

And now, three other bushy-tailed squirrels, Camera, Lights and Action, are getting their waterskiing act together under Chuck and Lou Ann's training.

"Not many people spend time training a squirrel," Chuck says. "It's hard work training squirrels."

Explaining that the skating rink is a strong venture now, Chuck has visions of "Squirrel World" or some such theme for a park. "But right now, I'm dreaming on a smaller scale," he said.

Chuck awaits the delivery of a parcel daily. This time, water skis for a miniature horse—his latest prodigy.

"Nobody ever told me that horses can't waterski," he laughed.

It didn't take long for the act to catch on and Twiggy was seen on "Good Morning, America," "Real People" and "That's Incredible," among many other TV shows in addition to being the star in several boat shows, featured in several publications, including a children's book.

Starting out with a $45 investment, a boat company in Dallas, Texas, gave Chuck a $200 model, remote controlled boat. Later, an Orlando boat company supplied him with a model Ski Nautique which today he manufactures. "It's an expensive toy," he said, "about $325."

Nobody dreamed Chuck Best would teach the squirrel to waterski. Twiggy began her training on skis in a Sanford lake. Today, a remote-controlled boat pulls her in pools in her guest appearances.

Relaxing, Chuck marvels at Twiggy's success story. "She's made a lot of people smile—the only rich reward I've had," he smiles. "She has a lovely personality and eats pecans, oatmeal with butter and sugar, a spot of tea, caramel and sweets."

Neighbors Meet Only For 'Auld Lang Syne'

DEAR ABBY: Poor "Agnes in Culver City!" She lived in the same house for 25 years and complained because her neighbors never said hello to her.

this is an informal, low-budget affair. A new trend? Yes.

Also, a gift is voluntary. It is never obligatory.

Your suggestion that she could have broken the ice and said hello to them might have worked anywhere else in the world except in Southern California.

We lived in Northridge in the San Fernando Valley for 5 1/2 years. One New Year's Eve a couple invited the entire block to their home for a party. At 3 a.m. as the guests were leaving, we overheard one guest say, "This has been so much fun, let's plan to get together again next New Year's Eve!" DON IN FONTANA, WIS.

DEAR DON: You were topped by a lady in Fullerton. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: I was born and raised in Salem, Ore., where neighbors always welcomed newcomers with some kind of food and an offer to help them get settled and make friends.

A new family moved in next door, so I baked a lovely chocolate cake and took it over to welcome them. The Mrs. handed it back to me and said, "Sorry, I'm allergic to chocolate."

DEAR ABBY: We are perplexed by a wedding invitation we just received. The ceremony is scheduled for 10:30 a.m. The "reception" is to follow, and get this, the bride-to-be wrote, "The reception will be a covered dish affair. Each guest is expected to bring an item of food. RSVP."

Dear Abby

Is this a new trend, or are these people just plain tacky? When the guests provide the food, does this mean they are still expected to bring a wedding gift? HEARD EVERYTHING IN PA.

DEAR HEARD: Tacky? Not for very dear and close friends who understand that

Baptist Leader Rejects Proposal

By DAVID E. ANDERSON
UPI Religion Writer

James T. Draper, conservative president of the Southern Baptist Convention, the nation's largest Protestant denomination, has rejected proposals by moderates in the church to "depoliticize" the denominational presidency.

But Draper says he will continue to work for unity in the 13.8 million member church — a unity shattered by years of intense feuding over biblical doctrine and control of denominational machinery.

At issue were a number of changes proposed to Draper by moderates involving the appointive power of the convention president.

That power has been the focus of the controversy in recent years as conservatives have publicly stated their intention to use the presidency and appointments made by the president to turn the denomination to a more fundamentalist stance.

Under current Southern Baptist procedures, the convention president appoints a layperson and a cleric from each of the 26 cooperating state conventions to form a committee on committees.

That committee nominates two persons from each state to serve on a committee on boards which, in turn, nominates trustees for the 20 denominational agencies.

Moderates, in several meetings with Draper following his election to the convention presidency earlier this year, proposed that the SBC president be required to seek and obtain nominations from state convention leaders.

They asked Draper voluntarily to follow the procedure this year in his appointment policy and to support changes in the church's bylaws that would require such procedures.

"I think the group shares with me a common goal: to bring back unity to the convention," Draper told Baptist Press in announcing his rejection of the proposal. "But I do not support it (the plan) at this time. I do not see that changing the bylaws is the best way to do it (bring unity)."

Cecil Sherman, pastor of First Baptist Church, Asheville, N.C., a leader of the moderates, said he is "disappointed and frustrated" by Draper's response.

Nazarenes Observe 50th Anniversary

Lake Mary Church of the Nazarene will celebrate its 50th anniversary on Oct. 31 with former pastors invited back for the occasion. The Rev. Albert Green, former pastor, will speak at the 11 a.m. service. Speaker at the 3 p.m. Precious Memory service will be Dr. J.B. Morsch district superintendent of the Central Florida District.

Former Pastor Barry Wagner will review the past history of the church. A luncheon will be held at noon at the Lake Mary Fire Hall. There will be special singing in the morning by the original Christianaires from Trevecca Nazarene College, Nashville, Tenn., and in the afternoon by the Pickering Family.

Also participating will be Earl Gorman, who was instrumental in building the church, and former pastors Ray M. Snow and Leslie Holcomb, and present pastor Drexall Baker.

The Lake Mary Nazarene Church and the one in Orlando both started in October 1932 and are pioneer churches of the denomination the area.

Soper Jr., (seated) of Holy Cross Episcopal Church, Sanford; Bishop William Folwell of the Central Florida Diocese; and Carl Engstrom, president of the board. Stress — Not Just For Executives

We started out calling stress "the illness of the 1970s." It turns out we underestimated its staying power. It is still with us in the '80s.

The Wall Street Journal recently devoted a three-part series to "executive stress." But it isn't only management people who are feeling stress these days. The high rate of unemployment is bringing on the physical and mental symptoms of stress to many an out-of-work employee.

And it isn't only the male unemployed worker who is suffering from stress.

After she was laid off from her job, Marie developed tension headaches and insomnia. She went to the doctor who could find nothing wrong with her physically. He suggested her symptoms might be caused by stress resulting from the loss of her job.

When Marie told this to her husband, he poo-pooed the idea. Tom reminded his wife that he had a good job and that she knew as well as he did that they could manage very well on the money he made.

"What he was doing," said Marie when she came to see me later for counseling, "was consoling me with the idea that my job wasn't important."

Tom's response to his wife's problem may be one reason why women experience nearly four times as much stress-caused tension as men. A University of Michigan survey, taken during a time of heavy layoffs in Detroit, showed that only a little more than 9 percent of the unemployed men reported symptoms of stress compared to 33 percent of the women who were laid off — even though most of the women had working husbands while the men were the principal bread-winners in their families.

The reason given by the researchers for this "stress gap" was that men had a better "support system" going for them. When a man is laid off, for example, he gets sympathy from his wife, co-workers and neighbors — and the boys at the corner bar.

But less than half the women interviewed reported that they could count on their husbands for emotional support in time of stress. In the old days, a woman might have been able to cry on the shoulder of her next-door neighbor and receive solace but most neighborhoods today are not so close-knit.

Saints And Sinners

Men get considerable comfort from falling into the arms of a sympathetic and loving wife. They must learn to provide the same comfort and understanding for their wives.

A certain degree of stress won't hurt any of us. It may even be necessary for our self-fulfillment. An examination in high school or college produces stress but without it we wouldn't get our high school diplomas or college degrees.

Getting married is a stressful experience, according to two psychiatrists who have drawn up a scale indicating which changes in our life cause the most stress. Getting married is No. 7 from the top, just above getting fired or retiring. But a happy marriage can, on the other hand, go a long way toward reducing stress in our lives.

Children can put up with a good deal of stress in the home. But when it gets past a certain point, stress can bring on what is known as "situational disorder" in a child.

I tell people who come to me as a minister for counseling that stress is like a martini. Let's say you walk into a bar and sit down next to someone who has a martini in front of him. If he asks you, "Will this martini make me drunk?" you would first have to know how many martinis he had before this one.

One martini is like any other. (Experienced drinkers may want to challenge that.) Whether this one is going to make you drunk depends on how many you have already downed.

The same with stress. We have to keep count and say, "No more for me," when we have had our limit. Living as we do in a world of rapid change and stressful situations, "stress watching" can keep us busy the rest of our lives.

But it will be well worth the effort.

BAZAAR HELD

Willing Workers (from left) Elveda Smith, Thelma Freese, Pearl Hammond and Lucy Gressell display items their group made for the bazaar held Friday and Saturday at Good Shepherd Lutheran Church, Sanford.

DISHING IT OUT

Pastor of the Sanford First Baptist Church, Rev. Paul Murphy, (third from left, standing) is really busy dishing it out to the new members who joined the church during August and September. An ice cream social held recently in the fellowship hall was in honor of the new members.

The Church: Christ's Bride

Pastor's Corner

By LEO F. KING,
Pastor,

First United Methodist Church of Sanford

God gives us a Glorious Church! The Bible begins with God wanting company. A man, his bride and God are walking in the Garden of Eden. The Bible ends with God wanting company. In Revelation we read: "The Spirit and the Bride say come." A familiar hymn pictures Christ seeking company: "From Heaven He came and sought her to be His holy bride."

A bride is one who cares. At the altar she vows: "to love and to cherish till death do us part." Christ brings the tender touch to life. He is the groom and He cares for us — the Church. When a community is taught to care for Christ's sake, it begins to be a lovable place to live.

Almost the saddest sentence in the Scriptures is this, "No man cared for my soul!" It is God's Spirit that brings us together in a fellowship that we know as a caring church.

People join the church of their choice for different reasons. Some may choose a group for fellowship, others that they might promote themselves. Some are interested more in contacts, others in great convictions.

Do you know of any institution that advertises its failures publicly? Personally, I find it exciting to belong to something so solid that our sins and failures cannot kill it. I am thankful for that which brings peace to my spirit when the world about me seems so filled with hate.

I find a victorious group of people, who in the midst of life's petty defects, believe in one another, and help lift the world around them. The church is a place of worship through which we gain perspective and can bring our lives into time with the infinite. It is a place of learning. We learn more about life, why we are here on this earth, and for what we were meant to become.

One pastor said that a woman in his church drove many miles to get there and he asked her why she came and she replied, "sometimes it helps." She might have added how it helps to bear the monotony of life, and how it keeps one's proper faith in God and man.

God wouldn't be without the church. He loves it deeply, because it cost him more than anything else in the world. He gave His only Son to redeem it that He might have fellowship now and forever with His children. In the church of your choice may you find that which gives you inward power for life's purposes.

Baptists Conduct Drive

Financial goals for the Seminole Heights building fund program announced last week by general chairman Ned Julian Jr. and co-chairman Victor Richburg were Victory, $150,000; Challenge, $200,000 and Hallelujah, $250,000. Members of the congregation who share what the church means to them will be Lamar Garrett in the 11 a.m. service and Marion Roberts in the 7 p.m. service. The congregation held a 24 hours of prayer for the fund raising campaign ending at a.m. Sunday.

It looked as if that suit was not going to break and East's drop of the six spot did nothing to dispel that thought. Anyway, South went right after clubs. West took his ace and continued with the nine of hearts while East completed the echo with his deuce. South cashed the third top heart anyway. People have been known to falcater. Now South led dummy's jack of diamonds and let it ride. Lo and behold, the diamond finesse had worked for him. South was about to repeat the finesse, when he paused to see that a little care would guard against a 4-1 diamond break. He postponed a second diamond play while cashing all his clubs and the ace and king of spades. The king of spades squeezed East. He had to come down to three cards, and of necessity one was the jack of hearts. A diamond had to go and a repeat diamond finesse gave South the rest of the tricks. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)'

HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

For Sunday, October 24, 1982

YOUR BIRTHDAY October 24, 1982 Both by your own choice and by dint of circumstances, you will undergo a metamorphosis of viewpoint and attitude in the year ahead. Your changed persona will be more positive. LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Don't let things which occurred in the past cause you to prejudice resentfully what may happen now. If you think things'll work out bad, they will. Available: the new Astro-Graph Matchmaker wheel and booklet which reveals romantic combinations, compatibilities for all signs, tells how to get along with others, finds rising signs, hidden qualities, plus more. Mail $2 to Astro-Graph, Dep. M, Box 489, Radio City Station, 10019. SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Seek companions today who are equally as generous and sharing as you are. If you choose the wrong types, you may be the only giver in the entire crowd. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Even though you may secretly feel your way is better than that of your contemporaries, you'd be wise to let all have an input in the happenings. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) This is one of those days when you could cause problems for yourself in areas where there are no reasons for problems to exist. Don't get in your own way. AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Be helpful today, but be careful not to become too deeply involved in others' problems. If you get in too far, you might lose your objectivity and ability to assist them. PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Your ability to perform at your best has its limitations today, so try not to become involved in more things than you can efficiently handle. ARIES (March 21-April 19) Persons whose help you may need today are apt to back off if they feel you are too demanding. Request assistance tactfully. TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Normally you're not the type who tries to put restraints on others, but today you might be more possessive than you should be with one you love. GEMINI (May 21-June 20) This is not a day to rehash old issues with your mate. Why churn up a storm when the waters are calm? CANCER (June 21-July 22) You are very perceptive today and you can easily spot the shortcomings in others, but you would be wise to keep your observations to yourself. LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Your prudence and good judgment in financial matters could desert you today, so take care. Don't involve yourself in decisions which must be made under pressure. VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your desire for doing your own things and expressing your independence is admirable, but don't do so in ways which could arouse resentment.

For Monday, October 25, 1982

YOUR BIRTHDAY October 25, 1982 This coming year you will have opportunities to assume a more direct control over matters which were regulated by others. Under your direction, success is likely. SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You're now coming into a cycle where your luck should begin to improve. However, don't let poor timing deprive you of opportunities which need development. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the seasons following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph. Send $1 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Members of the opposite sex are likely to find you even more appealing than usual today. Take care that a harmless flirtation doesn't put you on the wrong path. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) If your budget is getting out of kilter, it's time for a closer look at how your monies are being spent, and to try to eliminate nonessentials. AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Something beneficial may develop today careerwise. It'll encourage you to aim a little higher than you presently have set your sights. PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Things will begin to look up regarding a situation where the odds seem to be working against you. Lady Luck will intervene to balance things out. ARIES (March 21-April 19) A more binding relationship may soon develop with someone you presently view only as a distant friend. The change will take time to unfold, but will be of a lasting nature. TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You have the wherewithal to achieve your objectives independently today. However, someone will be watching in the wings in case they're needed. GEMINI (May 21-June 20) This is the day to do more than merely contemplate your future plans. Take programs already devised and put them into action without further delay. CANCER (June 21-July 22) In dealing with your special someone today, try to be protective without being possessive. If you are unable to distinguish between the two, your romance could suffer. LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) When making decisions today which could affect you and your mate, try to slant things in his or her direction. VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Complications could later result if you form a romantic attachment that you shouldn't with someone at work. LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your extravagant urges could surface today. You may be tempted to spend what you shouldn't.
