Bike Week's Racing Rec. Man

SANFORD - The City of Sanford's Director of Parks and Recreation, Mike Kirby, is involved in his own recreational enjoyment this week. Kirby, a long-time enthusiast of older-model motorcycles, is in Daytona Beach with his vintage Bridgestone motorcycles, participating in some of the many race events for his class of machine.

According to reports, Kirby finished seventh position in a 200 cc class race Monday, and 18th in a 250 cc class event. Over 100 motorcycles were entered in these events held at the Daytona International Speedway.

Sanford's Public Works Director Jerry Herman is also involved in the racing events. Full details of the Racing Rec Man and Hotwheel Herman's adventures will be released after their return.

SANFORD - Efforts to obtain a new executive director for the Sanford Main Street (SMS) program are under way. Bess Simons, who has served as director, has resigned from the posttion, and will be moving to Scattle this month.

Bill Barwick, president of Sanford Main Street said a search committee from the SMS board has been formed. "We are presently reviewing some of the applications we have already received," he said, "and we have advertised locally, statewide and nationally as well."

There was no immediate indication as to when a replacement may be named.

Jet fuel tanks

SANFORD — The Sanford Planning and Zoning Commission meeting this Thursday evening will be considering a request for a 450,000 gallon Jet-A Fuel Facility, at the Orlando Sanford Airport. The operation will be located on property at 1385 E. 29th Street.

A conditional use request and site plan for this development are the only two items scheduled for the meeting agenda.

The P&Z Commission meeting begins at 7 p.m. this Thursday, in the Sanford City Commission chambers 300 N. Park Avenue.

SANFORD - While it currently works on plans to get and keep students on the right be-havioral track, the Seminole County school district also addresses those who have already been expelled from the system.

The Project Excel program, designed as an alternative educational program for those who have exhausted all other alternative programs in the district and been expelled, is filled to capacity at their Lake Mary site. Now, the district has scheduled additional classes that will nearly double the program's capacity.

According to Jim Dawson, the program's coordinator, the district has added afternoon and evening classes to the project that is designed to allow troubled students to finish their education in smaller classes with instructors who take a no-nonsense approach to teaching.

In their last chance to get on track for a public school education, the students in Project Excel get intensive academic work and a strong emphasis on job preparation skills.

According to Dawson, the majority of the students who graduate from the program return to either their zoned school or enroll in the adult high school and showed either "excellent" or, at least, "satisfactory" progress upon their return to a traditional classroom environment.

Almost all of the students in Project Excel are high school age, though there are a few middle school students who have already exhausted their alternatives and are put into the program.

Dawson said middle school administrators are shying away from Project Excel in favor of a new program directed specifically at middle schoolers: the Phoenix Project.

Hotline helps solve problems

LAKE MARY - Lake Mary's hotline established for citizen complaints has been proving itself valuable to not only the citizens but the city staff as well. The public works director used as an example complaints filed in early January about potholes.

The listing of complaints is being submitted as information to city commissioners at this evening's commission meeting.

According to the hotline reports, a number of collisions with potholes on Rinchart Road were reported, all taking place the night of Jan. 1.

 A Sanford woman reported running into a huge pothole on Rinehart Road near the entrance to Timacuan, which damaged a new tire on her vehicle.

 An Orlando man reported hitting a pothole he said was on Rinchart Road near the Stromberg-Carlson plant which destroyed a tire and rim.

 A Lake Mary woman reported hitting a pothole near Porter Paints on Rinehart, causing her tire to go flat.

OA Lake Mary man phoned to say that his vehicle had hit a pothole on Rinehart north of the old Stromberg building, blowing the rear tire and bending the wheel and hub cap.

 An Altamonte Springs woman reported striking a pothole and damaging a tire on Rinehart Road.

"We had those potholes repaired right away," said Public Works Director Bill Temby. "This is a relatively routine and ongoing thing we have to be concerned about, and one of the best ways for us to know of the locations of potholes or other problems is through this citizens' hotline.

Train travels back in time

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS - With 1940s and '50s music in the background, the dinner train tootles along at 30 mph on a 50-mile, scenic route into rural Lake County. Diners get a gourmet meal.

At a fare of $49.95, the Florida Central Railroad has people waiting in line to sample the food and the trip as the little railway switches tracks from hauling freight to passengers.

"I expected the food to be borderline OK and the atmosphere great. But the food was fantastic," said Gary Barker of Winter Park, who was among 112 passengers on the inaugural ride Friday evening.

The dinner train, which runs Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings - from Altamonte Springs north and west of Orlando to Tavares and back - could be the forerunner of several excursions the railway will use to replace declining freight

Tampa-bound jet forced to land

LOS ANGELES - A Delta jetliner with 147 people aboard returned to Los Angeles International Airport shortly after takeoff because of a minor engine problem, authorities said.

The Boeing 757, headed to Tampa, Fla., landed at 9 a.m.

Tuesday without incident, said Carol Long, a spokeswoman for the Federal Aviation Administration.

The passengers aboard Flight 808 boarded another plane about an hour later, said Delta spokesman Clay McConnell.

Mechanics, meanwhile, checked out the first plane and its engine, which showed "a slight irregularity of revolutions per minute." said Delta spokesman Clay McConnell.

"Whenever there's something out of the ordinary we're going to return to check it out." McConnell said.

It's the second time in less than a week that a jetliner was forced to return to the airport. On Saturday, an Air Canada jet headed to Toronto was forced to return after the Boeing 767's left engine overheated on takeoff. None of the 191 passengers aboard were hurt.

Blaze forces evacuation

OCALA - Scores of people were evacuated, two homes destroyed and five damaged by a wind-whipped blaze southeast of here.

Hundreds of acres of grasslands were destroyed Tuesday before the 2-mile-wide fire was brought under control by three agencies, said Marilyn Scott of the Marion County sheriff's department.

'About 40 homes and businesses were evacuated, but no injuries were reported," Ms. Scott said.

Sheriff's spokesman Joe Cobb said the fire may have been started by children playing in the affected area of the Silver Springs Shores subdivision. They had not been found.

'It could be arson or them just playing with matches and it got out of control," said Lt. Cobb.

Volusia agrees to pay medical bills

DELAND - Volusia County has agreed to pay medical bilis and other expenses for 32 workers who sued, claiming they suffered a variety of problems from "sick air" at the county courthouse.

Neither he nor lawyers for the workers would comment

Tuesday on how much money was involved.
"To the county's credit, it's going to save money in the long run." said Michael O'Brien, one of the attorneys for the county employees. "And for once, they'll get serious about cleaning up the courthouse." The number of claimants swelled to 32 by last week.

Christian Coalition takes its case to the state Legislature

TALLAHASSEE - The Christian Coalition of Florida wants state lawmakers to allow voluntary school prayer, reform welfare and pass tax relief.

The group's "contract with the Florida family" also calls for charter schools and private school choice, limits on the state's power to remove children from homes because of suspected abuse, and a 24-hour waiting period before abortions.

Dowless said he didn't think last week's resignation by "It's like a breath of fresh air former Rep. Marvin Couch. finally," said Shalaine R-Oviedo, would hurt the cause.

Couch, who had represented parts of Orange, Seminole and Volusia, resigned a week after being arrested for soliciting a prostitute. Couch had earned a perfect score last year from the Christian Coalition.

Empty beds costing taxpayers big bucks

By The Associated Press

LECANTO - The Department of Justice has a showcase program for reforming Florida's most violent delinquents, with taxpayers footing the bill.

Trouble is, most of the beds available for that program targeting maximum risk kids are empty.

The cost to the state - and to taxpayers — for each Level 10 bed, filled or not, is $127. That makes the total amount statewide for the program about $45,000 per year, per bed.

But in Citrus County, set up for 84 such kids, 82 beds are empty.

In Manatee County, farther south, 15 of the 50 beds for incorrigible kids are vacant.

While these beds go empty. nearly 700 juvenile offenders are on waiting lists for various treatment programs.

They don't meet the strict requirements for "maximum risk" kids — a violent or crime-prone teen who committed a felony involving serious physical harm, or has a poor track record with previous felonies and time spent at a residential juvenile program.
With empty beds, the money goes back to the organizations hired to operate these two proones in the state, the St. Petersburg Times said in a Tuesday report.

In Citrus County, it is run by Rebound Corp., a Colorado-based for-profit company.

Jane O'Shaughnessy, Re-bound's chief executive officer. declined to reveal the profit the company made from managing empty beds. "I'm not prepared to answer that question," she said, citing an impending state audit.

The Manatee County Level 10 is run by the sheriff's office.

Lannie Christie, Manatec Sheriff's Comptroller, said while the numbers haven't been tallied yet, extra money from the program would go to the Manatee County Commission.

However, taxpayers won't feel much of an effect because the state insists the two programs be fully staffed even though the beds are empty, he said.

At the Manatee County Jail, 27 full time county employees supervise 35 kids; at the Citrus County Jail. 70 full-time Rebound employees watch over 22

The bottom line is that the state's juvenile justice system is spending about $180 a day for each of the 34 Level 10 kids in Manatee County and more than did.

Issues: Chiles seeks cooperation on kids, tobacco

By ADAM YEOMANS Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE - Big tobacco and little children are the issues Gov. Lawton Chiles wants lawmakers to tackle in the 1996 legislative session.

The governor said his top priority for the last three years of his administration is providing more textbooks, health insurance, day care and safe schools for Florida's youngest.

"Our people are most con-cerned about the education of our children," he said Tuesday in his State of the State address. "We know we'll never be able to build enough prisons to handle our crime problem if we don't do something about children on the front end.

The governor hopes his children's agenda gets a better reception from lawmakers this year than his efforts at tax reform and health care reform did in previous sessions.

Chiles asked for a spirit of cooperation in a Legislature closely divided among Republicans and Democrats.

Republican leaders said they hoped the governor would live up to the issues he promoted.

"He provided a new attitude from last year;" said Benate President Jim Scott of Fort Lauderdale. "There would be discussion of public safety, education and economic opportunities - and he would talk about health security. I think it's good we're on the same wavelength."

The governor saved his harshest words for cigarette makers and made a special plea for the state's 1994 tobacco liability law that many lawmakers want to repeal.

Florida is using the law to sue the industry for $4 billion for the costs of treating Medicaid pati.nts suffering from smoking-related diseases. Medicaid is a joint state-federal program to pay for health care for poor Chiles is fighting to keep lawmakers from overriding his veto last year of a bill to overturn the tobacco liability law. It removes the best legal defense used by the industry: That consumers share responsibility for their health problems.

Steady work

Everything is interesting on the pages of the Sanford Herald if one takes the time to not only read, but associate the reading with serious thought. While the basic information comes from news stories, there is also a wealth of information to be learned by reading such as the classified ads, legal notices, police briefs, and other typical newspaper features.

Take the classified ads as an example. Look at the ads in the Sanford Herald, especially in help wanted. It perhaps makes one wonder why there is so much talk about the problems of our unemployed, or the heavy amounts of our tax dollars being spent on unemployment

Yet look again and read them closely. Then look back a few pages to the crime reports. We believe there is a slight connection.

Backgrounds of persons looking for a job are often checked thoroughly, especially if that person is to deal with money and/or merchandise. You can just about be certain that if there is a criminal record, even what some may consider minor, that person will not be hired.

Yet we are constantly hearing of youngsters who commit crimes "just because they have nothing else to do," or "because they were bored.

Yes indeed. They have nothing to do now, and because of criminal involvement, they will find they may not have constructive employment when they become adults.

Read those help wanted ads. If you were the owner or manager of any of those businesses seeking to hire someone, what would be your reaction to an applicant who has an arrest and consiction record. Even something which may be considered non-criminal, such as a DUI (driving under the influence) arrest may prohibit a person from being hired.

As an example, we'll use a teen-ager. He (or she) is persuaded to try some type of drugs, "because everyone else does it." Soon, he is hooked, and in need of money with which to purchase more. The teen begins to burglarize homes and vehicles and is subsequently caught, and convicted.

Many get out quickly however, often on probation. He or she will need employment. From where? Would you hire this type of person?

Trying some type of narcotic, just for a lark, may seem insignificant at the time. But people who do, clearly fall to look at the consequences. They may not be apprehended immediately, but one thing will lead to another, and eventually there will be trouble.

Therefore we see where even a few sniffs or puffs or hits could affect a person for the rest of his or her life.

We clearly have many job opportunities in this local area. However, we also have many persons who simply cannot obtain steady work. We must wonder why.

Water woes

Our family has been living in the Lynwood Revision Area (near Bear Lake) for over 20 years. We have owned our home for that period of time. We have been customers of Seminole County

Water and Sewer for all of that time.

Eighteen years ago, when the Bel Air Phase I Subdivision was built behind us, our sewer bills tripled. At that time, we were told that this was so that the builders would have access to water and sewerage and that after the houses were sold, and the new homeowners began paying for their water and sewerage, this would level off and our bills would go back to normal. This did not happen. In fact, our sewer bills became even higher after the houses were sold.

That is one of the issues Seminole County Water and Sewer has cheated our development in; there have been several others.

On Feb. 1, 1996, we received a notice in the mail from Seminole County Water and Sewer, stating that there was an open meeting to which we were all invited on Jan. 30, 1996, at Bear Lake Elementary School. We have heard though not verified, that our neighbors in Bel Air Phase I, II, and Ill received their notices before the meeting, while our neighborhood did not receive the notices until two days after the meeting. For some reason, this does not appear to be a coincidence.

If you, also, do not believe this was a coincidence, please write to the newspapers, Better Business Bureau and to the Seminole County Water and Sewer to let them know we are not happy about their underhanded business activi-

Why Buchanan has struck a nerve

Like Barry Goldwater in 1964 and Ronald Reagan in 1976, Pat Buchanan has become the conservative bogeyman of the 1996 presidential race. Unless he is stopped in his tracks, warns the Washington political establishment (which includes Democrats and not a few Republicans). he could transform America into a Fourth Reich.

Now I do not count myself among the ranks of Buchanan supporters. And I remain convinced that Bob Dole is the far more electable presidential candidate (notwithstanding his lackluster showing so far in the GOP primaries).

But I don't think that Buchanan is the racist. the sexist, the xenophobe he is made out to be. And I think he raises issues that are salient not only to his ardent supporters, but also to the majority of Americans.

Take the issue of job insecurity, which Buchanan has seized upon. In just the past three years, corporate America has given nearly 1.5 million well compensated workers the heave-ho. Such corporate bloodletting would be understandable if the U.S. economy was in the throes of recession and companies were drowning in a sea of red ink.

But the economy has been growing -- however anemically -- for the past three years. And most of the Fortune 500 corporations that have announced the biggest layoffs since 1993 are racking up profits; these include AT&T, Proctor & Gamble, General Electric, Johnson & Johnson, Raytheon and Wal-Mart.

Most free-market economic types (with whom I agree on most counts) would argue that what these corporate employers do in their business and that the government should butt out. But the government provides corporate America all sorts of tax breaks and tax subsidies (some call it corporate welfare).

So, as long as Washington is using the tax code to benefit certain in dustries, as long as Uncle Sam is contributing billions of tax dollars to corporate coffers every racist, the sex-

year, why is it such a bad thing for the government to offer favorable tax consideration to employers who retain workers?

Candidate Buchanan has also struck a chord with many Americans when he questions our absolutist trade policy. Indeed, even those of us who support free trade, who endorsed both the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade and the North American Free Trade Agreement, have to question outloud whether some of our foreign trading partners are taking advantage of our Yankee largess.

Immigration is another one of Buchanan's pet issues. Among other things, he would build a 200-mile fence along the U.S.-Mexico border to staunch illegal immigration and would seek a five-year moratorium on legal immigration.

Admire Pat Buchanan or despise him, but give the devil his due. He's the one presidential hopeful who's identified issues that hit home with most Americans. Whether Buchanan ultimately mounts a strong challenge to Dole for the GOP nomination remains to be seen. But the issues of job insecurity, trade and immigration will not go away.

Clinton hones his image

While his Republican rivals struggle for the White House nomination, President Clinton is developing a 1996 record designed to get ahead of them before the general election campaign. Polls indicate that the strategy is working. On crime, drugs, jobs, welfare, taxes, the budget, education, immigration, trade, and the environment - just about every issue that will come up this fail - Clinton is trying to occupy the center while Republicans scrap with each other on the right. Last year, for instance, Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan., tried to win support among social conservatives by criticizing sex and violence in movies. But recently, Clinton actually got top media executives to agree to a rating system for TV shows and to support the V-chip system giving parents more control over the programs their children watch.

Polemicist Pat Buchanan promises to build a fence to stop illegal immigration, but Clinton has doubled the U.S. Border Patrol, deported 50,000 criminal aliens, and is instituting new programs to prevent illegals from getting jobs in the United States and to require companies to hire American citizens instead of illegal Former Tennessee Gov. Lamar Alexander proposes to use the presidency to improve education at the local level, but Clinton has been busy promoting technology in schools, and on Feb. 24 won a testimonial from Microsoft's Bill Gates that Clinton had inspired him to donate $10 million to hook up all Washington state schools to the Internet.

Publisher Steve Forbes talks optimistically about the growth potential of the U.S. economy, but so does Clinton, citing his deficit cuts and lower interest rates as the spark that has created 8 million new jobs during his

And in March, aides say, Clinton will continue his strategy of outflanking the Republicans by meeting with and lauding business executives whose companies practice "corporate responsibility" toward workers -- a positive way of accomplishing what Buchanan threatens to do with trade penalties.

Clinton is scheduled to make a speech in Michigan calling for steps to improve economic growth. That same week, he swears in his new anti-drug caar and announces new drug ini-

He also has plans to host a White House conference on youth violence and drugs. On March 9, he will commemorate a milestone in the process of wiring up California schools with high technology.

And on March 11, Clinton is scheduled to make an environmental apeech in New Jersey and to institute a new program to reclaim toxic waste sites in urban areas. Cabinet officers vironmental missions.

Later in the month, he will meet in New Haven, Conn., with federal prosecutors involved in a special initiative to crack youth gangs around the country. He'll also visit with some of the last U.S. troops still on peacekeeping duty in Haiti.

He's also scheduled to make a trade speech in Ohio and announce new progress in geiting Japan to buy U.S. auto parts. And he'll announce a new education initiative when he attends the National Governors Association education summit on March 27.

Clinton is clearly taking advantage of the GOP primary season to exercise executive authority and use his "bully pulpit" to build a record for the fall campaign on the easumption that there will be little new business done in Congress this year.

He will urge passage of a balanced budget, capital gains and middle-class tax cuts, and campaign finance and welfare reform. If Congress is willing to make compromises with him to achieve agreement, he'il sign on and share credit for the accomplishment. Otherwise, he'il label Congress "extreme," "do nothing" or both.

Most of Clinton's actions and speeches follow the centrist ideological path traced by his political guru, Dick Morris, who is anxious to build Clinton's support among so-called "Swing 2" voters - moderate independents who lean Republican but can also be attracted into the Clinton column.

Public polls out recently indicate that Cliuton is accoring well with Independent voters and, as a result, is enjoying some of his highest approval ratings and strong leads over his GOP

A recent CBS/New York Times poll showed Clinton with a 52 percent approval rate, up 5 points since January. Among Independents. his rating was 48 percent positive, 38 percent

Of course, Clinton has not been under attack during the primary season, and Republican candidates have been savaging each other. That situation will change when the Republicans finally have a nominee.

Arizona cuts back prisoner lawsuits

PHOENIX -- It's bad news when America's prisoners have easier and cheaper access to the courts than most taxpayers.

Few states have recognized that quicker than Arizona, and none have curtailed more effectively through legislation the rising trend of frivolous prisoner lawsuits than Arizona.

"It's a big national problem." Arizona Attorney General Grant Woods told our associate Dale Van Atta. "Every state's attorney general's office faces the pro-blem. What's unique about Arizona is that we were the first state to do something about it."

In fact, one out of every four lawsuits in federal court is filed by a prisoner, not a law-abiding citizen. But what got the blood of Arizona citizens and lawmakers botling were stories like

filed by a prisoner, not a law-abiding citizen.

Thirteen-year-old news carrier Christy Fornoss, the second youngest of seven children in the devoutly Catholic family of Roger Fornoff, was collecting for the Phoenix Gazette at a Tempe apartment complex one Wednesday evening. Her mother, Carol, came along because she didn't want her daughter alone in the dark. She waited patiently outside the 116-unit Rock Point Apartments, two blocks from their home, while Christy knocked on apartment doors to make her collections. Christy never returned.

Her body was found two days later, wrapped in a sheet and stuffed behind an apartment dumpster. She had been raped and suffocated. The man who found her body, Donald Beaty, 29, the live-in apartment maintenance man, soon became a suspect. Beaty was convicted by a seven-man.

five-woman Phoenix jury, which deliberated for less than two hours. The evidence was compelling: hair and semen samples on Christy's body and the sheet matched Beaty. Dried vomit around her mouth matched remnants found in Beaty's closet, where Christy had thrown up during or after being raped. He kept her body in the closet for two days before stuffing it behind the dumpster.

Superior Court Judge Rufus C. Coulter Jr. sentenced him to death by lethal gas.

Beaty continues to appeal his 1984 conviction from a jail cell at Arisona State Prison at Florence. But that was not his only court action. He also sued the Arisona prison system in federal court for subjecting him to

"cruel and unusual punishment," which is banned by the Eighth Amendment.

What was cruel and unusual? "He sued the state because he wasn't allowed to use his Game Boy (video game) on death row!" says Attorney General Woods.

The lawsuits, of course, cost the taxpayers money and clog up the courts. As a result, more legitimate lawsuits often must wait months, or even years, to be heard. The Arisona solution, spearheaded by Woods, was to pass legislation aimed at curtailing the suits:

First, a prisoner can only sue if he can show physical injury -- not merely the "mental distress" that is the cause of countiess prison lewsuits. Second, prisoners must pay a filing fee like other citizens. In the past, fees were waived by claiming they were paupers and couldn't afford it; now, their cigarette money and minimal salary earned in prison can be at-tached for fees.

Third, if a judge finds the prisoner lawsuit is frivolous, the prisoner may lose good time credits, which can allow for early release. Thus, a prisoner can add time to his sentence by deliberately abusing the court system.

"The areas we agree are the topics," said House Republican Leader Dan Webster, R-Orlando. "it's the solutions and the details where we're probably going to have to discuss the matter,"

Chiles said lawmakers have taken major, costly steps in recent years to ensure criminals serve their prison sentences, and that the Legislature must now find ways of preventing criminal

A tight financial environment means lawmakers will spend much of their time seeking public school students, provide enough textbooks and reduce class size.

Chiles has proposed a $39.6 billion budget for 1996-97. It includes about $85 million in tax and fee increases but no new statewide tax hike.

The amount of new tax dollars produced from the state's growth won't be enough to cover the increase in new students, Medicald, prisons and other government programs.

The governor's other legislative priorities include:

-Welfare reform with time money to pay for the growth in limits on benefits and requiring recipients to work. "We are sending a clear message: No free

> -Economic development. He wants to dismantle the Department of Commerce and shift economie development functions to the business-government group called Enterprise Florida.

-Government reform. He supports legislation to streamline the state's rulemaking process. "If we can't justify the red tape," Chiles said, "let's get rid of it."

Buchanan accepts Dole's nomination as 'inevitable'

By MIKE PEINSILBER Associated Press Writer

Pat Buchanan said today that it "appears inevitable" that Sen. Bob Dole would be the Republican presidential nomince, but he intensified his criticism of the front-runner even as several also-rans were dropping out in the face of Dole's eight-state primary sweep.

In Albany, N.Y., publisher Steve Forbes, Dole's other major rival, after attending a breakfast cancelled the rest of his morning events and called a news conference with "a major announcement" about the status of his campaign. Forbes spokeswoman Gretchen Morgenson tried to dampen speculation Forbes would drop out. "It is major but remember, he has said in the past, he's in it for the long haul," she said.

As Dole flew to Texas to pick up the endorsement of Gov. George W. Bush - and the blessings of his father, former President Bush - two more rivals for the GOP nomination. Lamar Alexander and Dick Lugar, were making their exit announcements later today.

But Buchanan promised to carry his conservative message across the country, calling Dole's campaign "hollow, an empty vessel." Dole supporters called for party unity, but Buchanan continued his sharp attacks.

"Bob Dole has no ideas," he said, charging that Dole won "ugly." He called Dole's campaign "hollow, an empty vessel.

"We think we can fill that vessel up with our ideas if he is the nominee." Buchanan said. referring to party platform.

"We're going to fight all the way to San Diego, create the kind of Republican Party we think is the party of the future," he said, speaking to reporters in Miami.

In New York, which votes Thursday, a tracking poll conducted Sunday through Tuesday for the New York Post and Fox 5 television said Dole was gaining strength in the aftermath of his eight-state sweep Tuesday. The poll said Dole was the choice of these people are not going to go 48 percent of 566 likely Republican voters, up almost 6 percentage points from Tuesday. Forbes was at 19 percent, while Buchanan trailed at 15 percent. The poll had a margin of error of 4 percentage points.

Dole's clean sweep of all eight "Junior Tuesday" states severely wounded Buchanan and Forbes, and many party figures said that Dole had a lock on the GOP nomination.

"It's over," Republican pollster Bob Teeter said. surveying Dole's sweep. Buchanan accepted as much, with a caveat: "I still think there's a very, very long shot that Senator Dole could stumble

Buchanan was coy about whether he would support Dole under all circumstances, avoiding answering the question directly.

He told one interviewer, "There's no doubt Senator Dole's nomination appears inevitable," but told another, "I still think there's a very, very long shot that Senator Dole could stumble badly.

He wavered on whether he would support a GOP ticket headed by Dole and said many of his supporters probably would

"They certainly would not, as of this moment, given the character of the campaign Senator Dole has conducted with the attacks and the extremist nonsense, all the rest of it," he

As for whether he might bolt to a third party, Buchanan hedged.

"I'm not saying I'm ruling anything like that in ...," he said. "I'm not saying what I'm going to do at all. I'm going to the Republican convention. I've always supported the nominee."

Buchanan recalled recent history: Ross Perot's inde-pendent bid in 1992 which won 19 percent of the national vote. and, many observers think. assured President Clinton's election.

LAURENS, S.C. — A block from the town square, with its Old South white brick courthouse surrounded by mom-and-pop shops, one storefront conjures up images of lynchings, burning crosses and men in white hoods. Inside the town's old movie theater is The Redneck Shop, where shoppers can take pictures in Ku Klux Klan robes, gaze at photographs — including one of a black man with a KKK brand — or just talk with owner John Howard about Klan history.

While just about everything is for sale, including old hand grenades that once belonged to the Klan, robes and flags, more common sales are of T-shirts, buttons and Klan books.

Howard, who wore a Confederate-flag cap and a T-shirt with a Confederate flag that read "Hell Yes! I'm a Redneck," says profits will pay for the South's first Klan museum in the theater. But he faces opposition from some area residents, who say the store is insulting to blacks.

Trug trafficker shot to death

BOGOTA, Colombia - A $2 million price on his head. one of the world's richest drug traffickers was shot to death by police two months after he slipped out of a maximum-security jail.

The killing Tuesday night of Jose Santacruz Londono. considered the No. 3 leader of the Call drug cartel, followed a U.S. decision last week to deny Colombia some aid because of failures in the drug war.

Authorities were elated at the death of 53-year-old Santacruz, whose Chevrolet jeep was intercepted shortly after 11 p.m. by police in the northwestern city of Medellin, once home to a rival drug gang.

"It is a way of showing the world that this country is not an executioner but is rather the main victim of drug trafficking." said President Ernesto Samper, who has been plagued by charges he won office with drug traffickers' cash.

Striking back against terror attacks

HEBRON, West Bank - Striking back against terror attacks that have paralyzed the peace process, Israel's army blockaded more than 1 million Palestinians in their West Bank communities and scaled the houses of Islamic militants suspected in four bombings.

Hebron resembled a ghost town today after Israeli troops set up roadblocks and shut down colleges and charities suspected of links to the Hamas movement that seeks to destroy the Israel-PLO accords.

"We will arrest anyone who may belong to the Hamas," vowed Israel's army chief, Lt. Gen. Amnon Shahak. "We will harm all those who were connected to attacks."

In an about-face, the military wing of Hamas said Tuesday it would heed a call from the group's political leaders to halt bombing attacks until July. The wing, Izzedine al Quasam, claimed responsibility for four bombings in nine days that killed four bombers and 57 other people. The latest explosion, on Monday, killed 13 people, half of them children.

Braves maul Marlins

MELBOURNE - Jermaine Dye hit a grand slam to help the Atlanta Braves beat the winless Florida Marlina 9-1 Tuesday.

The Mariins, who split their squad and also lost to the New York Mets 4-2, falling to 0-8. Among the 20 teams training in Florida, only the Marlins are without a victory.

Dye, who played at Double-A Greenville last season, homered against Terry Mathews. Marquis Grissom and Rafael Belliard had two hits spiece, and Ryan Klesko drove in two runs.

Steve Avery, making his first appearance of the spring, allowed one hit and no runs in two innings. Brad Woodall and Terrell Wade, bidding for a spot on the Braves staff, pitched two scoreless innings each.

Florida's Gary Sheffield, hitless in his first nine at-bats this spring, finally reached base in the fifth inning on an infield hit. Cuban defector Livan Hernandez pitched three scoreless innings, retiring the final nine Braves he faced.

Heat melt Timberwolves

MIAMI — Tim Hardaway had 19 points, 10 assists, six rebounds and six steals despite sitting out the fourth quarter, leading the Miami Heat to a 113-72 victory over the Minnesota Timberwoives, their worst loss ever.

The defeat eclipsed the Timberwolves' 114-75 defeat in Indiana on April 16, 1995. It was the second largest margin of victory in Heat history. Walt Williams paced the Heat, who never trailed, with 20 points, while Alonzo Mourning added 18 and Rex Chapman contributed 15. Spud Webb's 16 points led the Timberwoives. who scored just two points more than their franchise record low of 70.

Lightning blank Chicago

ST. PETERS — Defenseman Roman Hamriik had the life two-goal game of his career and goalth of Daren Puppa recorded his fourth shutout of the season as the Tampa Bay Lightning defeated the Chicago Blackhawks 2-0 for the 100th victory in franchise history.

Brian Bradley had two assists for Tampa Bay (30-25-9), which tied a team record for most wins in a season (set in 1983-94) and reached NHL teams. The Lightning, 8-1-1 in their last 10 games, are 17-11-4 at the ThunderDome.

Puppa faced only 20 shots and improved to 22-11-6, tying his own team record for victories set in 1993-94. It was his 16th career shutout.

The Blachawks (33-22-11) lost for the sixth time in seven sames and the fifth consecutive time on the road. They entered with the league's sixth-best offense and were shut out for only the third time this season.

Magic mash Hornets

CHARLOTTE, N.C. - Aniernee Hardaway had 27 points and 10 assists as Orlando reached the .500 mark on the road for the first time in two months in a 123-97 win over Charlotte.

Nick Anderson had 28 points and Dennis Scott fueled a 22-6 run at the end of the first quarter and the start of the second, handing the Hornets their worst loss of the season.

The Magic, an NBA-best 30-0 at home, won for the sixth time in seven road games since the All-Star break to even their road mark at 15-15.

The Hornets, who came in allowing opponents to shoot 49 percent, the most generous figure in the league, let Orlando make 58 percent of its shots, including 12-for-23 from 3-point range. Larry Johnson had 21 of his 27 points in the first half for the Hornets. Orlando's Shaquille O'Neal had 18 points and 10 rebounds when he was ejected with 7:29 remaining after receiving his second technical.

Blues whitewash Panthers

ST. LOUIS - The night belonged to Wayne Gretzky until Brian Noonan stole the show.

Noonan rescued what was supposed to have been an electric evening. Gretzky's home debut, with a goal and an assist in the third period as St. Louis best Florida 2-0.

Noonan scored on a rebound shot midway through the third period, then set up Mike Hudson on a 2-on-1 with 2:42 to go to clinch the victory over the alumping Panthera.

Deltona's John Albert slides home safely on a squeeze play after Lyman's Jason Gronert dropped a throw from Eric Paulus to give the Wolves a 1-0 lead in the fifth inning. But the Greyhounds would raily with three runs in the bottom of the fifth inning for a 3-1 victory Tuesday night to even their record at 6-6.

Paulus huris Lyman past Wolves

Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD - Eric Paulus struck out six and gave up just three hits and two walks over six innings. to lead Lyman past Deltona 3-1 Tuesday night.

"Eric did a great job," said Lyman coach Bob Mc-Collough. "He keeps the ball down and around the plate. I was very pleased with the performance I got from our pitchers.

Freddie Young gave the Greyhounds their first threat of the game when he reached base on an error to lead off the first inning, then took second base on a steal. Jason Gronert drew a one-out walk, but Lyman left the runners atranded. Kevin Naas reached second base in the second and fourth innings, but Lyman failed to take advantage both times.

"That's just baseball," McCollough said. "When you get runners in scoring position, you need timely hits. Some days you get the hits you need, and some days

Dream Catchers rumble again at Chase

From Staff Reports

SANFORD - Dream Catchers continued to run roughshod over the competition Tuesday night, crushing the Sharks 15-3 to remain the only team in the Sanford Rec-reation Department Women's Chase Park Polar Bear Slowpitch Softball-League with a winning record.

The Dream Catchers quickly crased the memory of last week's loss to Club Paradise, scoring four runs in the each of the first two innings, then scoring five runs in the fourth inning to build a 13-0 lead before the Sharks could get on the score board.

In the other games, the She-Devils used a six-run fourth inning and a seven-run sixth inning to even its season record with a 14-8 victory over Club Paradise. Club Paradise then came back to gain a split. scoring four runs in each of the fourth and fifth innings to pull away to a 12-3 triumph over the Red Dream Catchers, which has already wrapped up the championship, improved to 9-2 on the season. Trailing are the She-Devils (5-5), Club Paradisc (5-6) and the Sharks and the Red Hots (both 4-7).

junior college baseball Hawks hammer Raiders in SANFORD - The Hawks from Hillsborough Community College swooped into Sanford with a not offense and flew back to Tampa with a 7-2 victory over Seminole Community College in junior college baseball action at Raider Field Monday afternoon.

Hillsborough counted four doubles and a home run among its 11 hits as it improved to 14-10 on the

The up-and-down Raiders (6-13), which opened the season 1-9, have now lost four in a row after a five game winning streak.

SCC continues an 11-game homestand today when it hosts Hibbing Community College from Minnesota starting at 3 p.m. at Raider Field. The Raiders then open their Mid-Florida Conference schedule on Thursday as they host back-yard rival Valencia Community College at Raider Field starting at 3 p.m. SCC will also be at home for single games on Saturday and Sunday starting at 2 p.m.

The Hawks started fast against Raiders starter Ricky Padilla (Lake Howell), scoring a run in the first inning and adding two runs in the second inning to take a 3-0 lead. Padilla (1-2) settled down to hold Hillsborough to only one run over the next four innings, in the fifth inning, but the SCC offense could only come up with a single run in the second inning. Both teams scored a run in the seventh inning, but the Hawks put the game away with two runs against Padilla. Aaron Mowery (Spruce Creek) and Adam Coleman (Oviedo) in the eighth inning.

Fryman, the first of four Hillsborough pitchers, got the victory to run his record to 2-0 on the season. Lee hurled the final three innings to earn the save.

Rob Marlow led the Hawks offense, going 3-for-5, including a home run and two doubles, and driving in three runs, while Mike Owen was also 3-for-5, including two doubles.

Christopher Thorne (St. Cloud) homered for the Raiders, while Gerald Eady (Jacksonville) added a double to SCC's six-hit attack. SCC also comitted five errors.

Potatoes bat their Irish eyes

By MAMALISA CALTA NEA Food Writer

St. Patrick's Day is almost upon us, and sooner than you can say "Blarney Stone" you'll find people with not a wee drop o' Irish blood in them wearin' green and sporting shamrocks "Kiss-me-l'm-frish" buttons. I keep trying to tell my friend Ruth -- who is of German extraction, and an Orthodox Jew as well -- that drinking green beer does NOT qualify a person as Irish, even if she was born (as Ruth was) on St. Patrick's Day.

Well, there's not a wee drop o' Irish blood in me, either, but I DO like a reason to celebrate, and the fact that my husband is half Irish counts as one. Since we live in a small, roral town sorely lacking in Irish bands and green beer, we are required to make our own celebration. which usually involves some Guinness, a Clancy Brothers recording and food.

This year, in honor of the oc-casion, I'm brushing up on potato recipes. Potatoes, according to Lydic Marshail's "A Passion for Potatoes," originated in South America, and were scorned by Europeans because -among other reasons -- they were not mentioned in the Bible. In the 17th century, however, the Irish became the first Europeans to embrace them as a food crop. The famed potato famine in the 1840s forced hundreds of thousands of Irish to flee their homeland, but they never abandoned their love of the spud.

I've got my recipes, and I've stockpiled some Guinness. Now, if I can only find that "Kias-Me-l'm-irish" button, l'il be all H

IRISH MASHED POTATOES (COLCANNON)

1 pound kale, stems removed and leaves chopped

2-1/2 teaspoons salt, plus more for salting water

4 pounds russet or Yukon potatoes, peeled and cut Into 1-Inch cubes (10 cups)

1-1/2 cupe milk 8 tablespoons unsalted butter, at room temperature Freshly ground black pepper

Put the kale in a colander, and wash thoroughly under cold running water. Drain, and place in a pan with 1/4 cup water and 1/2 teaspoon of the salt. Cover tightly. Braise for 15 minutes, checking and adjusting the heat and water content so that the kale does not burn. Remove from pot, drain and chop fine with a knife or in a food processor. (You should have about 2 cups chopped, cooked kale.)

In a large saucepan, cover the potatoes with cold, saited water. Bring to a both partially cover, and cook for 30 minutes, or until tender.

Drain the potatoes and mash them in the pot with a potato masher, or put them through a ricer back into the pot.

Turn on the heat and fold the kale into the mashed potatoes. Gradually whisk in the milk and butter. Season with the re-maining 2 teaspoons salt and freshly ground pepper. Serve immediately.

Yield: 8 servings. - Recipe from "A Passion for Potatoes," by Lydie Marshall (HarperPerennial, 1992).

2 pounds potatoes, scrubbed

1 cup chopped scallions 1 to 1-1/2 cups milk Freshly ground black pepper 1/4 cup to 1/2 cup unsalted

Put the potatoes in a large saucepan and fill with enough cold water to cover. Salt the water. Cover the pot and bring to a boil, reduce heat to a simmer and cook until potatoes are tender (time will vary with size of potato).

Meanwhile, simmer the scallions in a saucepan in 1 cup of milk for 5 minutes, or until they are soft, and strain them, reserving the milk as well as the scallions.

When potatoes are done, drain them well, then peel them and mash them in a large bowl with the strained milk, adding the additional 1/2 cup milk if necessary to make a soft consistency. Stir in the scallions and season with salt and pepper to

Spoon into a serving dish, make a hollow in the center, and put the butter in the hollow to melt slowly. Serve immediately. Yield: 6 servings.

IRISH STEW

5 pounds lamb stew meat (neck or shoulder), trimmed of all fat and cut into 2-inch cubes 4 teaspoons salt

2 leeks, tough green parts removed, bottoms trimmed I pound Yukon Gold, Red La Rouge or White Rose potatoes, quartered and unpeeled

1/2 pound pearl onion 1/2 cup cherry tomatoes,

Irish Stew dresses up the tuber for St. Pat's.

4 tablespoons butter

1/4 cup flour

1/4 cup minced fresh paraley

In a large Dutch oven or stockpot, cover the meat with cold water and 1 teaspoon of salt. Bring to a boll, and skim off the scum. Drain the meat, and wash each piece under cold running water to remove any scum left on it.

Put the meat back in the empty pot. Cover with 4 cups of water, or enough to just barely cover the meat. THOROUGHLY wash the leeks under cold running water to remove any grit. Add the leeks and 2 teaspoons of the remaining salt to the pot. Bring to a boil, cover tightly, reduce heat and, simmer for 1-1/2 hours.

Place the potatoes, onions and tomatoes on top of the leeks. Sprinkle on the remaining teaspoon salt. Cover the pot and steam for 1/2 hour, or until tender.

With a slotted speon, transfer the meat and vegetables to a soup tureen and keep warm.

Mash the butter and flour together in a small bowl. Bring the liquid in the pot back to a boll and whisk in the butter mixture: Simmer for 10 minutes, stirring frequently. the meat and vege-

Ladle the stew into soup bowls and sprinkle with fresh paraley.

Yield: 6 servings. -- Recipe from "A Passion for Potatoes," by Lydic Marshall (HarperPerennial, 1992).

POTATO AND ALE PEASANT BREAD

1-1/2 cups all-purpose flour 1 cup mashed potatoes

1 large egg 1/4 cup grated Parmesan

1-1/2 teaspoons baking powder

1-1/2 teaspoons salt I large garlic clove, crushed 1/4 cup ale or beer

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. in a large bowl, combine the flour, potatoes, egg. Parmesan cheese, baking powder, salt and garlie; stir in the ale. Using your hands, knead the mixture until it forms a round loaf. Place on a small greated cookie sheet. With a knife, cut slashes in the top of the dough. Bake 45 minutes, or until golden and the loaf sounds hollow when tapped with your fingers. Remove to wire rack to cool.

Yield: I loaf. ~ Recipe from "The Perfect Potato," by Diane Simone Vezza (Villard Books, 1993).

Angry widow feels betrayed by nephew's sneaky behavior

DEAR ABBY: A few years ago. my brother, "Leonard," stayed with me while he was in the process of getting a divorce. His son, "Craig." visited him several times. On one of those visits, Craig received an invitation to dinner, and because he had not brought a tie, I loaned him one of my late husband's ties. I also loaned him one of my husband's

For some reason, Craig had the ring appraised the next day, and asked to take it with him to show his girlfriend. He promised to return it on his next visit. When he came again, he claimed to have forgotten to bring it with him.

After my brother got his divorce, he found his own apartment and I never saw Craig again, although I frequently took meals to my brother and stayed with him for several days in a row when he became very ill. Craig never called or visited his sick father.

Leonard died last month. A few days later, when I went to his apartment, I found it empty — Craig had cleaned it out and didn't leave me even one memento of my

I called Craig to insist that he return my husband's ring. He said, "Oh, I lost that ring years ago."
Abby, I can't afford a lawyer to help me get the ring back, and even if I could afford one. Craig, a phar-macist, would probably fight me for it. I'm not so concerned about the monetary value as I am the sentimental value, but if he sold it or lost it, he should pay me for it.

I want Craig to see my letter in your column and feel ashamed for taking a ring that means so much to

> NO RING, NO BROTHER, NO FAIR

DEAR NO FAIR: To make sure Craig sees his shameful behavior in print, send him this column. But don't count on getting your ring back unless you take legal action. A judgment in small claims court may force him to return the ring or be in ble with the law. Good luck.

DEAR ABBY: Last Friday night, my 14-year-old daughter, "Amy," baby-sat for one of her regular customers. When she got home around midnight, she was visibly shaken. "Jane," the mother of the child Amy was watching, was drunk when she drove my daughter home. The drive, which should have taken 10 minutes, had taken 46 minutes because Jane kept swerving and making wrong turns that took her away from where she was supposed to be going.

I instructed my daughter to refuse to ride with any parent who had been drinking. She is to call me to come get her when she suspects a parent isn't sober.

Abby, I remember encountering that problem as a girl. It's not easy for a teen to know when an adult has been drinking and to refuse to get in the car.

Adults should be responsible enough not to take a child's life into their hands. Unfortunately, when people have been drinking, their judgment is impaired, so parents should insist that when in doubt, their children call home for a ride. WORRIED MOTHER IN CALIFORNIA

DEAR WORRIED MOTHER: Every parent should insist that their children refuse to ride with anyone who has been drinking. And that goes for adults, too. While it may anger the driver, better an angry dri-ver than a serious — or fatal —

DEAR ABBY: On the subject of giving baby showers for unwed mothers:

A few years ago, the women's organization board of my church decided to give a baby shower for the young woman who baby-sat in the nursery during Sunday services. (I'll call her "Tracy.") She was unmarried, pregnant and teetering very close to going on welfare, with little support from her family or the father-to-be.

Putting aside the morality of outof-wedlock pregnancies, we and all the young mothers of the children out to another human being in need. I believe this is what good Christians are supposed to do in such a situation.

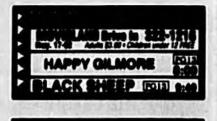

Tracy had a baby boy, and not a tongue clucked nor was an eyebrow raised when Tracy and her infant son played Mary and Baby Jesus in our live nativity scene in our Christmas pageant.

I believe it's possible to reach out to someone in need - in this instance, an unwed mother - without condoning the situation, don't MARTHA FOX, GARFIELD THERE ARE MICE RUNNING ALL OVER THIS HOUSE, AND THERE YOU LIE!

These lungs are for the birds

We humans like to think we have become comatose. arrived, after millions of years, at the pinnacle of the evolutionary process. We congratulate ourselves on having advanced to such a high level of physical and mental prowess.

However, this form of hubris is becoming the mark of the uneducated man. Like the philosopher who finds that answers simply lead to additional questions, the more we learn about our environment, the more we recognize the ways we aren't so special after all.

For example, consider the lungs of birds. These fascinating creatures have less relative lung volume, longer windpipes tresulting in more dead-air space), and less elastic rib cages than do humans. In addition, birds can't sweat. They regulate body heat through respiration.

Yet, birds don't become short of breath. Have you ever seen a bluejay pant? Our feathered friends accomplish their amazing feat because their lungs work in a different way - one that's much more effective than our

When we breathe, we exhale stale air in preparation for inhaling fresh air — in and out. Normal people don't ordinarily appreciate the amount of work involved in this process, but patients with emphysema know that expelling used-up air can be a major part of the cycle. They trap old air in worn-out lungs.

Birds don't operate this way. Their respiratory organs function as twocycle pumps, with the equivalent of a turbo-charger, to boot. As a bird inhales, fresh air bypasses the lungs and is stored in reservoirs called posterior air sacs. During exhalation this oxygen-rich air is literally pumped into the lungs under pressure. As the bird again inhales, stale air is sucked from the lungs into expanding anterior air sacs, to be exhaled through the beak during the next breath.

In essence, birds' lungs are not composed of tiny, blind air pockets; rather, air is forced — bagpipe style in a steady stream that bathes respiratory tissue.

I'll bet that any serious runner would give his or her eyeteeth (or new color-coded jogging outfit) to be able to mimic the respiration of birds whose lungs are made up of miniature tubules, unlike our own cumbersome system of bags that have to inflate and deflate.

The avian system is so much more efficient than ours in that it permits smaller lungs and slower respiratory rates. Large birds, like ostriches, breathe only six times a minute at rest. Some birds can even breathe through their bones; how they do it remains a mystery.

At oxygen-poor high altitudes, birds can extract enough gaseous nutrition to keep flying, while mammals

DEAR DR. GOTT: What can you tell me about the miracle cream DMSO? I know people who use it regularly and swear it gives instant relief from every ache and pain they have. Conversely. I've heard it is not a safe drug to use.

DEAR READER: Dimethyle sulfoxide enjoyed wide popularity several years ago as a cream that reduced the pain and swelling of arthritis and sports injuries. Alas, its notoriety faded when rigorous scientific studies proved that it was ineffective.

Further tests revealed that the drug's purported benefits were actually due to high levels of cortisone that had been illegally added to certain brands. Thus, it was the cortisone — a dangerous drug to use indiscriminate-- that was the active ingredient.

MEDICINE PETER

Because It is absorbed into the body, DMSO itself can cause intestinal disturbances, eye sensitivity to light, problems with color vision, headache, and a garlicky body/breath odor. Therefore, the risks of its use seem to outweigh any potential benefits. Don't use it. Try over-the-counter analgesics instead.

Play well, get lucky

By Phillip Alder

Samuel Taylor Coleridge summed up bridge players quite well when he observed, "It often amuses me to hear men impute all their misfortunes to fate, luck or destiny, whilst their successes or good fortune they ascribe to their own sagacity, eleverness or penetration."

Of course, we will overlook the fact that Coleridge died some 60 years before bridge was devised. However, it is true that most who complain about bad luck are poor players.

Take today's deal as an example. After winning the first trick with the spade ace, South drew trumps ending in the dummy. Next, he ruffed the spade seven in hand, cashed the diamond ace, played a club to dummy's king and called for a diamond.

Even though East's spade discard was disagreeable, South wasn't unduly perturbed. Having a second string to his bow, South won with the diamond king and played a club to dum-my's jack. However, East won with the queen and returned a club, leaving South with an unavoidable diamond loser: one down

"What could I do?" wailed South. "Both minor-suit finesses were wrong and the diamonds split 4-1."

"Don't blame the fates, as you were lucky the trumps split 2-2," commented North. "If only you had sufficient sagacity, after winning trick seven with the diamond king, you would have led a club to dummy's eight. East wins with the 10 and does what?"

"Yes, I see," said South penetrating-"Whether he returns a club into dummy's king-jack or concedes a ruffand-discard, both my diamond losers go away. That wasn't too clever of me, was it?"
