LOCAL SOLONS TO STRIVE FOR TAX REDUCTION

Hagan, Entzinger Want Drastic Econ- omies Put In Effect To Assure Tax Cuts

Favor Abolition Of Many State Jobs

Race Track Issue Is Only Question Upon Which Don't Agree

Seminole County's delegation to the state legislature, which convenes next month in Tallahassee, will go to the capital with the firm determination to work for and vote for measures that will bring about reduction in taxes and economy in the operation of the state and county governments.

This briefly sums the views of Representatives L. P. Hagan and C. W. Entzinger as expressed by them in a joint statement released today. Both are opposed to what they described as "overorganized government" and both favor abolition of several departments and commissions now operating under the state government, and consolidation of others.

The local representatives favor reducing the motor license tax 50 percent, abolishing the motor vehicle department, abolishing the state hotel commission, consolidating the departments of Fresh Water Fish and Game and Salt Water and Shellfish, curtailing expenditures of the State Road Department, reducing fees of sheriffs, clerks and other main officers of the counties, reduction of the number of circuit judges and state attorneys, abolishing the State Tax Commission, and opposing "initiating other sources of income."

Mr. Hagan proposes to introduce a bill providing for two cents of the gasoline tax to be turned over to the counties for the retirement of road bonds. He also plans to submit a measure which would prohibit the artificial coloring of fruit as a means of checking the shipment of premature citrus products.

Since the County Commissioners have recommended the passage of a bill abolishing the County Court, Mr. Entzinger will probably introduce that measure. The Longwood representative has given considerable time to an investigation of this matter and was one of the first persons in the county to advocate discontinuance of the court.

Mr. Entzinger is also championing the reduction of fees for the various county officials. He would have the fees put on the same basis as they were in 1923 or would place the officers on salaries.

Mr. Hagan and Mr. Entzinger are not in accord in their views on the race track issue. Mr. Hagan has steadfastly opposed any movement to legalize gambling at dog and horse tracks in Florida and said that would be his position in the coming session. Mr. Entzinger, on the other hand, is inclined to permit it under a state commission, which would regulate every phase of race track operations and collect a percentage of the receipts as a state tax.

Neither representative regards the question of one of the most vital issues to come before the session, such as the importance of tax reduction as a means of raising money.

High School Play Is To Be Given Tonight

Staged under the auspices of the Seminole High School, the musical comedy, "Here Comes A-Bunch," will be presented to-night at 8 o'clock at the high school building.

Party girls comprise the two choruses, which support a cast that includes some leading local talent. The play has been directed by Miss Edith Hines, representing the Wayne P. Sewell Community of Atlantic.

A large number of tickets were reported to have been sold for the play. The show will be given at 8 o'clock to-night. Several hours later the officers found Whittemore making his way about after having abandoned the machine in a ditch near

Heir To Duke Fortune Sues Wife For Divorce, Alleging Many Acts Of Impropriety

CELERY SHIPPING RESUMED UNDER GOOD CONDITIONS

Good Quality And In- creased Demand May Bring Better Prices

After a week's suspension of cutting and shipping operations, Sanford celery began to move again yesterday under the most favorable, marketing conditions of the season.

Most of the shipments, numbering 83 cars, brought $1.50 a crate in Sanford, although some of the best quality was bringing slightly more.

The quality of the celery is good, and the prospects of it improving later in the week.

Today's shipments will be heavier than yesterday but the week's output will not exceed 600 cars.

Mr. Rutland sees the possibility of the price trend mounting, provided the quality is kept up to the highest standard.

Another favorable factor, preparing an increased demand for celery, is seen in the statement that most of the markets, both in the East and Middle West, will be depleted before this week's first shipments arrive at their destinations.

Local growers are sustaining losses in grading their stock more carefully but these are expected to be materially reduced in the increased prices.

Shipping representatives are reported to be feeling optimistic about the outlook and pleased with the general spirit of cooperation manifested by the farmers in weeding out inferior celery.

HOOVER REJECTS COOLIDGE'S PLAN OF NEW MANSION

Will Select Own Site For Summer House In Nearby Mountains

WASHINGTON, Mar. 19. (INS)—President Hoover will not carry out the Coolidge plan of establishing a summer White House at Mount Weather, Virginia.

The President is looking around for his own summer recreational spots and has already centered upon two of them in nearby Virginia and Maryland.

A presidential fishing ground to be established in Madison County, Virginia, at the headwaters of the Rapidan River, which lie within the confines of the new Shenandoah National Park.

A deal has, about been consummated, also, for the purchase by Lawrence Richey, one of Mr. Hoover's secretaries, of the Catcote tract, near Hagerstown, Md.

Since his return to Washington from South America, President Hoover has spent considerable time, and Richey has spent more time, traveling about Maryland and Virginia looking for desirable summer retreats.

The Catcote tract, near Hagerstown, Md., is a fishing and hunting place, which he was in public office, declaring, "I never knew anything about it until I read it in the newspaper."

Man is Fined $200 For Driving Motor While Intoxicated

Twenty-four cases were tried Monday morning in Municipal Court, one of them involving charges of driving while in an intoxicated condition, several alleging disorderly conduct and a number for violating local traf- fic ordinances.

Leland Knight paid a $200 fine for driving an automobile while in an intoxicated condition and was fined an additional $5 for being drunk.

Violations of "stop street" ordinance were disposed of as follows: Scott Brookline, continued; Mrs. W. L. Morgan, $2; J. C. Dossberry, $5; A. Raffald, continued; W. T. Laird, $5 bond; C. G. Smith, $5.

Reckless driving charges cost Lucille Caldwell $10 while J. E. DeNey and H. L. Hayes were dismissed on similar charges.

Charges of violating parking laws were dismissed against Howard Fisher and A. H. Helms.

Spending charges were imposed against C. G. Smith. Other traffic violations were as follows: James Reed, operating car with no lights and with no muffler, $5; Henry O'Neil, operating a car with one head light and no tail light, $5; Sam Prim, operating a car with the front end open, continued; Joe Hamilton, operating a car with no muffler, $5; Boyd Wilson, no muffler, continued.

Disorderly cases were as follows: Willie Clark and Jane Dasher, $5 each; James Avery, $5; C. J. Chester, charged with having, was transferred to county authorities.

TO ABANDON "DRIVERS"

WASHINGTON, Mar. 19.

(INS)—While President Hoover plans a general tightening up of all law enforcement machinery, there are to be no spectacular or dramatic "drives" to enforce prohibition such as have sporadically featured the government's attempt to enforce the Volstead Law in the past, it became known.

The President is looking around for his own summer recreational spots and has already centered upon two of them in nearby Virginia and Maryland.

Why Print 'Em

As the Times-Union points out this morning, nobody ever reads the editorial page. People never agree with the editor on the subject on which he is expounding; hence, they don't read his editorials. They don't like his style; they hate certain peculiar little words he is always using; they think he has crazy ideas; they know he is too opinionated; he is always on the wrong side; he's always writing about things he doesn't know anything about. Of course, they don't read the editorials. Why should they?

But isn't it funny how the people know so much about the editorials when nobody reads them? We suppose they sometimes wonder why newspapers print any editorials at all. The Baltimore Sun wonders too. But evidently looking over the morning mail it must have found a number of reasons, for there appeared shortly afterward this editorial: Why do newspapers print editorials? Nobody ever reads them.

Unless they display "a spirit of unfairness scarcely in keeping with the fine tradition of your paper." Unless the facts as stated, though basically correct, may serve to mislead "if they are not followed up by the brief statement (about 1,200 words) contained herein, which I trust you may find space for."

Unless they contain facts "so palpably false that a retraction is demanded at once and in a conspicuous position."

Unless they refer to "the running of the first street car upon such and such a date and such and such a street when, as a matter of fact, the incident occurred upon such and such a date on such and such a street."

Unless they are "so flippant as scarcely to deserve serious attention, however."

Unless they are "so biased" that people write in to say they have stopped reading them, indicating that at some previous time they were read.

Unless they have "stated the case so clearly, so accurately, so fairly and so entirely in keeping with the opinion of the reader that he is provoked to offer his heartfelt congratulations."

Unless they have made "scandalous statements about a gentleman the dignity of whose great office demands greater respect."

Unless they have "fiercely and courageously attacked the terrible corruption now existing in high places."

Unless they contain a typographical error, corrected after the first edition, giving a Rabelaisian flavor to an innocent sentence, which makes the whole town laugh.

No. Nobody ever reads editorials. Why print them?

The Revolution and Tomatoes

It's an ill wind that blows nobody good. Florida tomato growers have suffered year after year from Mexican competition, but this year the revolution has knocked the spots out of the Mexican market. Florida tomatoes for the first time in several years are skyrocketing, bringing as high as $4.00 a crate. Sometimes we almost wish that California still belonged to Mexico so that the revolution might also boost the price of celery.

"The facts of the case," says the St. Petersburg Independent, "are that for several years Florida tomato growers have been forced to meet a heavy handicap in their competition with Mexican tomato growers. The Mexican growers had at the start the decisive advantage of cheap land and cheap labor. Then the customs duty was in their favor. In short, Mexican tomato growers could produce their crop and sell it at such low prices that shippers could pay the border tariff, pay the freight toll to northern and eastern United States markets and still undersell the product of Florida and California."

"In the region where the bulk of the Mexican tomato crop is produced this revolution is under way—at least it was at this writing. Everything in that part of Mexico is more or less at a standstill. Mexicans know what revolutions mean and therefore stoically await their results. Early this week the United States department of agriculture reported that trans-border shipments of Mexican tomatoes, which had been heavy, had dropped to seventy cars, and that only a few consignments of tomatoes were moving by boats to Los Angeles. Just before the revolt started Mexican tomatoes were selling cheap, but by the middle of the week prices had advanced to a maximum of four dollars a box—a price which would mean the speedy crippling of the market for Mexican growers."

"The situation again calls attention to the urgent need of tariff laws that will protect Florida growers against a competition like that from Mexico. Here land is high-priced, and taxes and labor are high—that is, compared with land, taxes and labor in Mexico. Labor there is 'dirt cheap' and laborers exist rather than live. Such conditions would be intolerable here. Senator Fletcher may be called upon to meet the need of this legislation in behalf of Florida growers continuously before congress. The prospects are that he will be successful in securing its enactment at the coming session. It would be a boon to Florida tomato growers, and to growers of other vegetables as well, because the bill would include a tariff on other products shipped from Mexico—and perhaps from other near-by countries."

In the meantime our truckers will hope that the Mexicans continue to raise more revolution and less tomatoes."

PUTTING THE LAW ON THEM

The proposed law from which the bill was drafted... It was proposed, and with the backing that it will receive from the people of Florida, it will be enacted into law. It is a bill to amend the laws of Florida in relation to the artificial coloring of fruit.

This Afternoon by JOHN TEMPLE GRAVES II. Includes a portrait of John Temple Graves II.

And so I penned it down, until at last it came to be for length and breadth, the big news which you see."

Editor Lambright of the Tampa Tribune has found a newspaper feature syndicate, which says Tampa's population is 175,467 and Miami's only 159,000 and Jacksonville's a paltry 151,986. Loyal Tampan and newspaperman that he is, he accepts these figures as proof that Tampa is "larger than any other city in Florida."

Sale of arms and ammunition to Mexico by the United States government, is denounced by private American munitions manufacturers who say the profitable business should go to them and not be monopolized by the government. To sympathize with these gentlemen over this business last is to forget that one of the least possible ways to discourage war is to deny everybody any chance to profit from it. Personally we don't care a hang how much Mexican arms trade United States manufacturers lose.

For eloquent expression of a case without legal solution or it we nominate the Avon Park Sun's recent rhapsody on racing "Look about you, men," the Sun exclaims. There is only one Monte Carlo in France, one Saratoga Springs in New York state; one New Orleans in the Old South; and there will always be only one Miami in Florida. Millionaires have gone broke trying to build another Monte Carlo in France—millionaires will go broke as long as they try to create more Miami's in Florida. Florida has racing in Miami. That's enough for Florida.

In some other issue, we hope, the Sun will say how it proposes to legitimize racing in Miami and immunize the rest of the state. Miami's measles are highly contagious. But the Sun should be credited with good diagnosis, anyhow.

On a thing which the Coolidge article in the Cosmopolitan is a denunciation of the ex-president's attitude. The article shows him, too, with a strange sense of cause and effect. If he had not been president, he believes, he would not have lost his son, Calvin Junior. Many people will question the validity of such an attitude. It just as easy to believe that if Mr. Coolidge had not been president other tragedies or even this same tragedy might have befallen him elsewhere.

Floods in Georgia and Alabama had one more black mark against world weather. When the history of the past four years is written, it will surely record that rarely if ever has there been a period of so many and such widely scattered excesses of nature. From China to Kansas, weather has been the common curse of mankind in recent years.

It may be that one reason war seems so popular in Mexico is that it is so easy to become a general there. Nearly everybody who is anybody across the Rio Grande is a general.

Out of what we had always thought was a clear sky Averil Powell remarks in the Times-Union that many things in this world are "beautiful" but false. The eye responsible for this unwanted cynicism in Florida's most amiable and lovable paragrapher should be driven from the Garden of Eden.

Mr. Hoover has been "sculpted" in clay, plaster and marble, but there is no sculptor alive who could put him in putty.—Boston Transcript.

It was decided that the law should not include the prohibition of the artificial coloring of fruit, provided it is natural. The department said that this would not Florida fruit at a decided advantage in competition with California fruit. It is generally all right, but the department said that this law would not include the artificial coloring of fruit.

Its dauntless, virile citizenship, with inspiration, imagination, grit and elbow grease, have put it there. From the sand dunes Miami has risen to urban eminence. Nothing can ever stop its progress save itself. Nothing will ever dwarf its great destiny except a forgetfulness and abandonment of the vital elements of Miami's rise.

Racing, prizefighting, winked-at gambling and the shadows of the sinister were absent in the city's building, still absent when it came to its own. Neither was the boom a foundation stone, rather a sand-drift under corner pillars. The backwash of the fevered era carried away that drift and the edifice paused in its building and shook a bit in the state's typhoon of pessimism. Just a call for a little foundation repairs with the stones of initiative, locked together with the mortar of conservative common sense.

Miami, however, seems to have listened recently to the jackleg mechanics of the temporary instead of to the architects of permanency. The rotting timber of racetrack gambling and other economic mirages are being offered by panacea vendors, shallow thinking disciples of the opportunist.

THE DEATH OF LEE BIBLE

GAINESVILLE SUN

The recent death of Lee Bible at Daytona Beach which occurred while he was driving a big racing car at a speed of more than 200 miles per hour was indeed an unfortunate occurrence. We cannot help but admire the courage of this mechanic who, with an experience in driving racing cars limited to dirt tracks in Florida and the Middle-West, undertook to pilot one of the two fastest cars in the world over the hardest packed sands of Daytona Beach. It was Bible's one chance for fame. He staked his all and he lost to a death that was hovering over him from the minute he first sent the powerful machine forward.

Bible's gamble, with fate was very similar to the adventures of those aviators who were lost shortly after Colonel Lindbergh's history making flight. What Lindbergh had done they thought they could do. Many of them, like Bible, were without experience in the dangerous task to which they set themselves. They, too, were playing for fame.

It is to be hoped that the death of the Daytona Beach man will not be without its effect in teaching others who are unskilled in the dangerous task of this sort to refrain from them at least until they have had adequate preparation for what they are about.

Florida Bar Association For Changes

FLORIDA TIMES-UNION

Deploring not only the law's delay and the various and improper means used to secure the release of criminals, after capture, conviction and sentence, prominent members of the Bar discussed possible changes in the laws at the annual meeting of the Florida State Bar Association, held in Miami. With more than a hundred delegates present and the fullest discussion of matters and means indulged in, recommendations will no doubt be made to the legislature for improvement in methods of procedure. Particularly interesting was the address of Robert H. Anderson, of Jacksonville, president of the association for the past year, who was certainly endorsed by the public.

Calling for changes in the "ancient grand jury" system, Mr. Anderson thought that it could perhaps be advisable to retain the body for certain duties, if deemed necessary, but he strongly favored the bringing of criminals to the through information by the attorney, the county solicitor or the prosecuting attorney. Simplification of indictment and information he declared were demanded by all well minded people. For the older forms used were largely absurd. "To say that it is necessary to go through a lot of rigamarole is sheer nonsense," the "legal verbiage" which now merely clouds up the situation, if accomplishing anything, was denounced.

Mr. Anderson said that a simple form of indictment had been suggested by Justice Brown which would bring this matter to common sense and put an end to the absurdity which now often made a legal document the laughing stock of intelligent men. A strong plea was made for less than unanimous verdicts. A bare majority was not recommended but it seemed to the speaker that two thirds or three-fourths would serve the ends of justice, better than the now required unanimity. He believes that the state should have the right to appeal, not from a verdict of acquittal, but from the facts, but to review rulings and charges by the court, matters in evidence and orders sustaining

Beware "Still Hunt"

Leesburg Commercial

Overwhelmed by the rising tide of public sentiment against the form of legalized gambling, coming up throughout the length and breadth of Florida, proponents of legislation desired by the racing interests have permitted it to be announced that their campaign is to be abandoned for the present, allowing the people of the state to concentrate their thought on other law-making problems. Let no opponent, of open, or a mutual betting be deceived by this news.

Already the race track interests have spent too much money in Florida for them to cease their efforts and withdraw from the field so long as there is the remotest chance that they may win. Any and all statements to the contrary are mere camouflage intended to deceive and mislead the unwary. Now, as never before, the anti-racing element should insist on itself. Vectors in the interest in the race track legislation by the closest margin. Racing fellows have had too much blasted by announcements from the governor that he will veto the bill passed.

In the event the proclamation and pronouncements indicating the intention on the part of the race track crowd to "Leave no stone unturned" and give over the idea of putting through the legislature acts favorable to the enterprise are accepted by the people of the state, it may be hunted as a certainty that a "still hunt" among members of the state, and house will be made at Tallahassee and a surprise attack depended upon to attain the desired end. Men with the utmost vigilance on the part of those who are fighting the proposal to amend the fair future of Florida for the good gain, there will remain danger, existent until the gavel falls for final adjournment of both houses that legislation of gambling will be slipped and passed otherwise apparently innocent bill.

Much activity prevails throughout the citrus grove areas in the state and in the citrus industry. The citrus groves are being marketed and the trees are being given the spring application of fertilizer and cultivation to bring out the early growth. Pruning required much attention this season owing to the injury caused by the storms of last fall. The first flush of growth has been very heavy dispelling traces of the foliage suffered in the fall. Irrigation is under way in groves equipped with flowing well-watered Beach Press-Journal.

The joint statement issued by the representatives is as follows: "In the first place, we are in favor of reducing our automobile license tax 50 per cent and placing the collection of the tax and issuing of tags in the hands of the collector of county judges' office—50 per cent of this to go to the school board and 50 per cent to the State Road Department, with the expense of raising the license tax, we think the tag should carry the number and state and county and it should be compulsory for a reason to be shown in the county in which he resides.

"We are also in favor of the re-division of counties being made in the county of Santa Fe, to include the same, as well as property transfers and copy of same being furnished by the county clerk to a department and in connection with the completion of office.

"We are in favor of abolishing the Motor Vehicle Commission, the entire department, inspectors and all, and placing the entire control of the delinquent licensees in the hands of the constituted authorities in the several counties of the state.

"We are opposed to a law requiring a driver's license, a this would only be an additional indirect tax burden on the car owner and would accomplish no good. It would only mean the establishment of another department, and the main tax to be collected on the license. The information to have from states that already have this law is a waste of time.

"We are in favor of the five cent gasoline tax, three cents to go to the State Road Department and two cents to come back to the counties for the purpose of paying interest and sinking fund on road bonds, this two cents to be paid back to the counties on the basis of the amount collected from the sale of gasoline and oil in each county.

"We are in favor of abolishing the Hotel Commission and leaving the enforcement of that law in the hands of the constable authorities of the several counties in the state.

"We are also in favor of consolidating the Fresh Water Fish and Game Commission and Salt Water and Shell Fish Commission, with the enforcement of the state law left in the hands of the regular constables, rather than the several counties of the state.

"We are in favor of abolishing the county court of Seminole County and are satisfied that any public minded citizen who will compare the records before the court as established with the present one and figure the additional cost will feel as we do.

"We are in favor of curtailing the expenditures of the state Road Department in line with the financial condition of the tax paying public.

"We are in favor of abolishing the office of rural school inspector and county forest and the office of state inspector of institutions of higher learning and force, cutting out all unnecessary expense, and giving the amounts saved direct to the schools.

"We are in favor of cutting the fees of the sheriff's office, clerk's office and other main offices of the county back to where they were in 1923 or of putting them on a salary basis.

"We are in favor of paying the present salaries of the judges and state's attorneys but would favor cutting out all unnecessary judges and prosecuting attorneys.

"We are in favor of having a budget prepared and furnished in the early part of the coming session of the Legislature so as to give the members plenty of time to go into it thoroughly and investigate in order to act intelligently and give the departments the financial assistance necessary to carry on the business of the state in a conservative and businesslike manner.

"We are not in favor of hunting up other sources of tax for income, as this would only lead to extravagance and careless handling of funds collected from such tax in fact, what we would like to see would be all the commission, inspectors, agencies and bureaus cut off from our state and county budgets, and none added, and the county and state officials collect only such funds as are absolutely necessary to carry on the business in a conservative, businesslike manner.

"We are opposed to the burdening of our state and county with any more laws that are obsolete or unnecessary and we expect to oppose the establishment of any commission of adding of any tax system unless it can be shown that the state and county are in need of it and that it will profit thereby."

DEFENSE OF HIS CONDUCT MADE BY DAUGHTERY

"I cannot understand why members of the Harding Cabinet were not quick to denounce the public attacks and the underhand whisperings directed against President Harding after he died. I was so close to Harding that a defense of him coming from me did not seem to be the thing that was needed.

"In my opinion it was a high honor to be a member of the Harding Cabinet. I observed however, that no member of the Harding Cabinet had a word to say in the dead President's behalf. "We," his administration, was a successful success. It was no apology. His policies and administration, his career, and his life made his country happy and prosperous.

"This book that was published was built on a foundation of falsehood. When I detected the President having become interested in the fifth green house, I had a rough time of it, but I was not a hypocrite. I was a patriot.

"My voice rang in indignation. "I might have resorted to anything," the President of the United States or to the attorney general. There were always at least half a dozen persons, every person who knew my every move, and the President's secretary. The whole thing is ridiculous.

"No one of them, except in Washington than he did, or than I did. I saw and read these things. I made plenty of excuses and they blamed Harding for anything I did they disliked. I have always been an advocate of sobriety although I had no aversion to taking an occasional cocktail. I never could drink in the day time and work I couldn't drink at night, because I would be a drunkard.

"Many people may have a wrong idea of President Harding. It was true that he was a genial, charming and good-looking man but he was more than that. He had a strong character. He was the president of the United States and no one else. He may have accepted my advice on occasions but it was he who made the final decision.

"Harding had a keen mind. He had a great cabinet for his field in surrounding himself with big men. But when Harding sat at the cabinet sessions

FLOOD WATERS RECEDE HAVING PLAYED HAVOC

Georgia, and at the convergence of the Flint and Chattahoochee at River Junction, Fla.

Twenty planes today were taking supplies to Florissant, Breton, Geneva and other towns threatened by famine. Refugees along the Savannah river in Alabama are being taken food by Federal guard vessels from Florida, Fla., which are proceeding in swollen streams.

Camps at River Junction, the station was first impressed by the swollen waters. The first relief work was being taken up by the state government. It has established a relief base at Florissant.

In the rain, hundreds were being taken to the lower reaches of the Flint river. Since the Georgia rains began to ease, there have been 22 deaths have been attributed directly and indirectly to the flood. In that state several small towns have been abandoned in despair.

The Mississippi river situation is unchanged. At Memphis the mighty father of waters is three feet above flood stage. Only two minor levee breaks have occurred. Government engineers believe the others will hold. However, they are building thousands of dykes to reinforce the weak spots that develop. Back waters have caused several hundred persons in the delta to leave their ground.

A SECRET

Just in case you have used a Herald Classified Ad without the proper results we are going to let you in on a secret... It's worth knowing too!

To get the best results a Classified Ad should tell the WHOLE STORY. We'll say you have a house for rent and you advertised just "a house for rent, call John Doe at 2900."

Perhaps that house offered the utmost in conveniences, but if it did, how are the readers of your Classified Ad to know?

Advertising that isn't truthful is worse than no advertising at all, but the more attractive your ad reads the better results you are CERTAIN to get.

U. S. INITIATIVE IS CAUSE OF BRITISH BUILDING SPURT

Modern Theatres Are Built By American Concerns In London

LONDON, Mar. 18.—(INS)—The initiative of American movie corporations has been responsible for the biggest cinema theatre building boom in London's history.

Three years ago London was without a modern movie theatre. There were several big houses but they all lacked one or more of the essentials of a high class movie theatre, since they mainly were converted legitimate theatres.

Then an American movie-pictorial corporation, desirous of having a theatre where its big productions could be shown in advance of the usual "general release" run, bought the site of the old Trovito Music Hall in the Strand, one of the city's most central and important thoroughfares, and erected a palatial building.

Other big American corporations are vying to be at a disadvantage built theatres in central positions or partially converted existing theatres until at the beginning of 1927 London had at least half a dozen movie houses worthy of the name. In the past two years, building after building, each one more flamboyant and imposing than the last, has been run up to house the silver screen, and London can now claim to contain more of the finest moving picture theatres in Europe.

Attention is now being turned to the suburbs, where movie theatres which formerly were deemed too palatial even for the West End are now being erected, capable of comfortably seating thousands of people at a moderate cost. British companies have now awakened to the possibilities of fine movie theatres in good sites, and are erecting buildings in every section of the city where there is a known movie-going population.

The total capital involved since the commencement of the boom is conservatively estimated to be $40,000,000, a large proportion of which is American money. Twenty million dollars have been expended on new buildings in the West End alone, it is stated.

According to one authority, the number of cinema theatres in the West alone has increased by nearly 200 per cent in the past two years.

LOCAL SOLONS TO STRIVE FOR TAX REDUCTION

The joint statement issued by the representatives is as follows: "In the first place, we are in favor of reducing our automobile license tax 50 per cent and placing the collection of the tax and issuing of tags in either the tax collector's or county judge's office—50 per cent of this, to go to the school board and 50 per cent to the State Road Department, with the expense of sealing the license, tax. We think the tag should carry the number and state and county and it should be compulsory for a resident to get a license in the county in which he resides.

"We are also in favor of the certificate of ownership being recorded in the county clerk's office as soon as the deed and property transfers and copy of same being furnished by the county clerk to a department operating in connection with the Comptroller's office.

"We are in favor of abolishing the Motor Vehicle Commission, the entire department, inspectors and all, and placing the entire control of the department in the hands of the constituted authorities in the several counties of the state.

"We are opposed to a law requiring a driver's license, a status would only be an additional direct tax burden on the car owner and would accomplish no good, it would only mean the establishing of another department, and the main feature would be collecting the license. The information laws from states that already have this law is a waste of the five cent gasoline tax, three cents to go to the State Road Department and two cents to come back to the counties for the purpose of paying interest and sinking fund on road bonds. This tax is to be sent back to the counties on the basis of the amount collected from the sale of gasoline and oil in each county.

"We are in favor of abolishing the Hotel Commission and leaving the enforcement of that law on the hands of the constabular authorities of the several counties in the state.

"We are also in favor of consolidating the Fresh Water Fish and Game Commission and Salt Water and Shell Fish Commissions, with the enforcement of that law left in the hands of the regular constituted authority of the several counties of the state.

"We are in favor of abolishing the county court of Seminole County and transferring that jurisdiction to the circuit court which will be established with the present jury and figure the additional cost will feel as we do.

"We are in favor of curtailing the expenditures of the state Road Department in line with the financial condition of the tax paying public.

"We are in favor of abolishing the office of state school inspector and entire force, and the office of state inspector of institutions of higher learning and force, cutting out all unnecessary expense, and giving the amounts saved direct to the schools.

"We are in favor of reducing the fee of the sheriff's office, clerk's office and other main offices of the county back to where they were in 1925 or of putting them on a salary basis.

"We are in favor of paying the present salaries of the judges and state's attorneys but would favor cutting out all unnecessary judges and prosecuting attorneys.

"We are in favor of having a budget prepared and furnished in the early part of the coming session of the Legislature so as to give the members plenty of time to go into it thoroughly and investigate in order to act intelligently and give the departments the financial assistance necessary to carry on the business of the state in a conservative and businesslike manner.

"We are not in favor of hunting up other sources of tax for income, as this would only lead to extravagance and careless handling of funds collected from such tax in fact, what we would like to see would be all the commissions, inspectors, agencies and bureaus cut off from our state and county budgets and none added, and the county and state officials, unless only such funds as are absolutely necessary to carry on the business, in a conservative, businesslike manner.

"We are opposed to the legislating of our state and country with the mere intention of an expedient of necessary and we expect to oppose the establishment of any commission or adding of any tax unless it can be shown that the public in that case is benefited or there will profit thereby.

"I cannot understand why members of the Harding cabinet were not quick to repudiate the public attacks and the underhand whiplashes directed against President Harding after he died. In the dead President's behalf, I have no apology. His plans and policies were a national success. It would not seem to be the thing that was needed.

"In my opinion it was a high honor to be a member of the Harding cabinet. I believed, however, that no member of the Harding cabinet had a word to say in the dead President's behalf. With his administration was a national success. It would not seem to be the thing that was needed.

"This book that was published was both a foundation of falsehood. When I left the President of having become interested in the little green book, I was having a hard time, with us and when I saw what was at hand, I was in a quandary.

"The once great investigation 'roughly' described what could have occurred to the President of the United States on the morning of the 2nd of August, 1923. There were about at least half a dozen persons, Secretary Service, who knew my secretary and the President's secretary. The whole thing is ridiculous.

"No one had more than a Washington that he did not know. I did not know the man at all. I made plenty of enemies and they blamed Harding for anything I did and they did not have always been an advocate of Harding although I had no voice in taking an occasional cocktail. I never could drink in the day time and in my own way, I did not know the man at all.

"Many people may have a wrong idea of President Harding. It was true that he was a genial, charming and very loving man but he was more than that, he had a strong character. He was the president of the United States and no one else. He may have accepted my advice on occasion but it was he who made the final decision.

"Harding had a keen mind. He had a great cabinet for he believed in surrounding himself with big men. But when Harding sat at the cabinet sessions,

"We are in favor of abolishing the office of state school inspector and entire force, and the office of state inspector of institutions of higher learning and force, cutting out all unnecessary expense, and giving the amounts saved direct to the schools.

Twenty planes, today, were taking supplies to Flomaton, Brewton, Geneva and other towns threatened by famine. Refugees along the Chattahoochee river in Alabama are being taken food by first guard vessels from Flomaton, Fla., which are proceeding to swollen streams.

From at River Junction, the situation was first improving in Northwest Florida. The 1,200 refugees were being taken supplies by the state government, which established a relief base at Tallahassee.

In Georgia, the lower reaches of the Flint river. Since the Georgia rains began to rise these weeks, 25 deaths have been attributed to the flood.

The Mississippi river situation has not changed at Memphis. The mighty father of waters is three feet above flood stage. Only two minor levee breaks have occurred and government engineers believe the others will hold. However, they are building thousands of sandbags to reinforce weak spots that develop. River waters have caused several hundred persons in 65 delta levees to higher ground.

Address the Methodist congregation last night on the subject "The Holy Spirit." Rev. A. B. Hubbard of Orlando, described how the Lord influences the human mind by presenting the truth, more particularly the truth concerning Christ and his teachings. Rev. Hubbard, son of Dr. W. P. Hubbard of Sanford has been conducting a series of special meetings at the church.

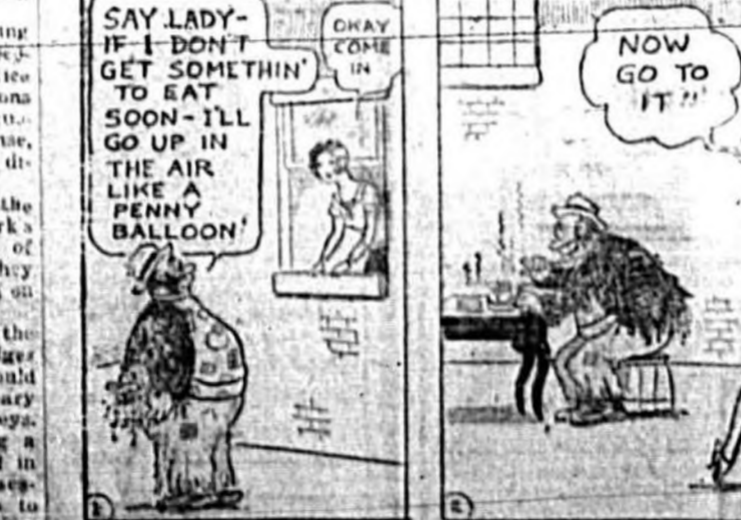

Direct and indirect ways of assisting the pleadings of the Holy Spirit.

SNAPPED AT BOSTON, MASS.
Third from left, in front, M. P. Dransley, former contractor of Cleveland, O., and his party aboard Commander Donald J. MacMillan's well known Arctic ship Peary, which he purchased for his quest of a "dream island" off the coast of Meppen. He drowned of a sudden illness and has spent much money trying to locate the dream island. At 12:15 P. M. the Peary will start for New York and then on to the dream island. At 1:15 P. M. Dransley's right to his wife, who will disembark at New York. Others in the party are Capt. Charles V. Orilla, Dr. Donald J. Landon, Robert Cann, William Gibson, Mrs. Mary Wagner, secretary; Miss Lillian Wagner, nurse; and Richard J. Orilla, radio operator. The Peary is a 300-ton ship on the way out of Boston Harbor at the start of the Peary expedition.

What Is A Tin Can?
The oldest riddle the writer knows is "When is a tin can a tin can?" And the answer is "When it's a tin can." One might ask the same kind of question about a tin can because a tin can is not really a tin can at all, but simply a steel boiler with a tin coating.
