

Nashville Vols To Train In Sanford This Spring

Deal Signed By Larry Gilbert Of Vols. And Charles Bradshaw

Veteran Pilot Of Southern Association Team Arrives Late Yesterday, Leaves After Deal Is Closed

The Nashville Vols of the Southern Association will train in Sanford this Spring, Frank Lamson, secretary of the Seminole League Association, announced today.

The deal was announced after negotiations between Larry Gilbert, manager of the Nashville club, and Charles E. Bradshaw, president of the Lookouts.

Completion of the agreement would allow a major league club to train here in Sanford this Spring. It was understood that negotiations were under way to get the Philadelphia Phillies to come here but the Phillies had already tentatively decided to train at Miami Beach and had made a definite announcement to that effect.

Gilbert, a veteran of the game and well-known throughout the South, has been clerking with the local baseball association for some time. Late yesterday afternoon he arrived and immediately went into conference with Bradshaw. His arrival was unexpected as he had been in New Orleans for more than a week. He left immediately after getting the okay of the Lookout president on the Vol trip here this Spring.

Bradshaw conducted Gilbert through the ball park and showed him what other advantages Sanford had to offer. Gilbert appeared pleased and declared that he was sure the Vols would enjoy training here.

Nashville last year ended the Southern Association playing season in a second-place tie with Memphis, one and a half games ahead of Atlanta in that Class A-1 league's rousing finish.

In the Southern's Shaugnessy play-offs, Nashville defeated Atlanta in the final series to win the Southern Association championship.

Following their intral-league triumph, the Vols succumbed in seven games to Fort Worth, of the Texas League, in the annual Dixie Series.

CHALKING 'EM UP

CHARLIE CHALKER

You've Missed It

Some of these softball games have turned out to be hum-dingers. That one last night between Lemmond and Reel was the best of the season. That boy Waller who tossed for Reel certainly had those Lemmond players swinging at their aim—and that's no mean feat, either, for Lemmond has one of the best bunch of sluggers in the City League. Swafford was pitching his usual good game for Lemmond also. His performance was just about as good as that of Waller. But it must be taken into account that Waller did have to face the better hitters. At any rate it was a game that would have held anybody's attention, and it did hold the attention of a small group of spectators who braved the wintry blasts coming off Lake Monroe.

Orlando Game?

The Celery Feds will have to pick up steam the rest of the week if they expect to beat Orlando—but they don't expect to beat Orlando. That goes without saying. In fact, every member on the team will be surprised in all probability if they are able to hold the Orlandoans to three or four touchdowns. This cool weather may put a snap into the play of the Feds and they'll need all the snap they can get. For we understand that Orlando is much better than Ocala, and don't forget what Ocala did to Sanford.

As Good As The Best

Ralph Warner, who picks the winners for The Herald every week in the football whittling, really deserves the title "expert." He consistently averages as good or better than the best of the so-called "experts" throughout the country. Last week he had one of the highest averages it is our recollection of having seen. Of the 39 games picked last week, he missed only three. That's some picking. The three he missed were: Ohio State (14) over Cornell (6), Purdue (6) over Santa Clara (18), and Stanford (6) over Washington (8). Two games listed were ties while 34 were called right for a percentage of 91.8. So, folks, from now on when you read BELTLY BELIEFIONS you'll know The Herald is going to be about as close as the majority—and the chances are it'll be closer.

Stetson Prepares For Tampa Game Friday Evening

DELAND, Nov. 1.—(P)—The Stetson Hatters began determined preparations yesterday for their game against Tampa. Unusually in Tampa, last Friday night, viewing this struggle as crucial for Stetson prestige on the gridiron this season.

The sustained offensive power displayed last weekend by the Hatters in defeating Erskine College 14 to 7 encouraged Brady Cowell, head coach, to hope that his athletes are ready to perform in their best form against the Buccaneers.

Led by Tailback Ed May and Wingback Troy Hall, the Stetson squad produced a strong running attack against the Buccaneers from South Carolina, gaining more yardage than was indicated by the score. The Hatter line, responding to Coach Ben Clemons' instructions, opened up gaps in the opposing forward wall with fair consistency.

Stetson supporters, however, recognize that the Tampa line will be much heavier and probably more powerful than the forwards met and vanquished last week. They acknowledge that the Tampa-Stetson battle will be hard-fought, and over-confidence is entirely lacking on the campus here.

Cowell considered the pass defense work of his men satisfactory last week, perhaps for the first time this season. He will doubtless seek to improve the Hatters' passing attack, which was quite feeble against Erskine.

Reel And Lemmond Play Great Game; Fray Called Draw

St. Johns Beats Osceola Outfit By 14-13 Score

The two best games of the present football season were played last night at the lakefront diamond with St. Johns noosing out Osceola 14 to 13 while a brilliant pitchers' duel between Waller and Swafford of Lemmond was halted at the end of the 10th inning with the score tied at 1-1.

Despite a stiff, cold wind blowing off Lake Monroe, members of both teams put on remarkable exhibitions. Waller was well-nigh invincible, striking out a total of 17 men over the ten-inning route.

Lemmond got four hits off Waller while Reel collected but five off Swafford who got better as the game progressed.

Lemmond's score came in the fifth frame when McMillan singled past third base, stole second and went to third on a wild pitch and came home on a passed ball.

Reel scored in the seventh with one man out. Bart singled past third and went to second on an error by the Lemmond third baseman.

St. Johns and Osceola also played an, over time battle, the game going eight innings and finally being won by St. Johns when they pushed across in the eighth.

St. Johns scored two runs in the first inning, one in the second, two in the third, two in the fifth, two in the sixth, four in the seventh, and one in the eighth. Osceola scored four runs in the first inning, two in the second, and three in the fourth, and three more in the fifth, with one final tally in the seventh.

Suffering Women Welcome "Build-Up"

A simple method is saving many women much pain and discomfort! It is based on the knowledge that women's headaches, nervousness, and cramp-like pain often are symptoms of functional dysmenorrhea due to a weak, run-down, under-nourished condition. That so many women find relief from these painful symptoms through the CARDUI "build-up" is easy to explain. By improving the appetite, assisting digestion and assimilation, CARDUI helps to build physical resistance against periodic pain. Thousands of women also report that CARDUI, taken just before and during "the time," lessens periodic pain.

Roanoke's popularity is said to be growing. The idea seems to be he has kept us out of war.

After Molotov's speech, we are convinced that Russia is as much as ever a peace loving nation as Germany.

It is a good thing England can't get her French ally to depend upon Germany as she depends upon her Russian ally.

Roanoke figures her central city will see 2,000,000 next year. At that it is considered cheaper than going to war.

At Janson says Baby Kooler is the finest woman in the world. At that it is considered cheaper than going to war.

A government survey reveals that in the event of war, the total number of flying machines will fall upon the hills of the world, that's where everything goes.

Foreign ship building firm has announced a big order. At that the Germans are sleeping, it is thought they may be hatching a few within the next few years.

Miller says that if you have a 10 year engine, you should have a 10 year car. At that it is considered cheaper than going to war.

Mussolini, The Neutral

Foreign diplomats are quick to see in Premier Mussolini's cabinet shakeup a drawing away from the German influence and a definite break in the Rome-Berlin Axis. The fact should not be overlooked that in the dictator countries where public opinion does not have to be considered it will be just as easy to reappoint the pro-German ministers as it was to remove them from office.

At the moment, it serves the purpose both of Mussolini and Hitler for Italy to preserve its neutrality in the European conflict. As a neutral Italy can send her ships into the seven seas, load them with essential war materials and food supplies, and then back to Italian ports without much danger of sinking or seizure, and sneak the stuff through the backdoor into Germany where the British blockade might otherwise prove embarrassing.

Thus Italy at one and the same time is recovering from the ill effects of the long drawn out struggle in Ethiopia, the strain on her resources of the war in Spain, and the costs of reconstructing Albania, is building up her industrial and commercial strength, and is lending valuable assistance to her Axis partner to a degree she could not match if she were giving her military support.

Furthermore, by remaining neutral Italy is making it possible for Germany to make some sort of a deal with Russia which while not exactly a military alliance at least enables the Nazis to feel temporarily secure in their backyard and at the same time acquire important natural resources from her big neighbor in the east, thus further breaking the British blockade.

If Italy were actively on Germany's side in the war, it is likely that the difficulties for Germany of maintaining Russia's friendship would be greatly increased. Italy and Russia have certain irreconcilable interests, from religious and political points of view as well as with respect to their territorial aspirations in the Balkans, which make any semblance of friendship between them absolutely ridiculous.

So for the time being it serves Italy's purpose to remain neutral just as for the time being it serves Russia's purpose to be friendly with Germany. But when the time comes that Russian and German interests clash, as they inevitably will, then the old Rome-Berlin Axis will be resurrected, the dirt which it has accumulated during cabinet shakeups will be dusted off, and Italy's true relation with respect to the Nazis will be revealed.

It should not be forgotten that Italy has demonstrated herself as much of an aggressor nation as Germany or Japan, and that she has proved equally unreliable with respect to treaties and promises. She too has certain irreconcilable interests in conflict with the British and French empires which she cannot satisfy unless and until those empires are broken up. The only way Italy can expand in the Mediterranean is to seize territory belonging to Britain and France.

When the time is ripe Mussolini will not hesitate to strike.

What About The Fruit Fly Money?

Sanford rises in consternation to wake up Central Florida's sleeping problem of losses sustained by visit of the Mediterranean fruit fly to this country about 10 or 12 years ago.

Mr. H. M. Papworth pens a letter to Senator Andrews and Congressman Hendricks, which is a pretty urgent editorial in its own right, and so we therefore reprint it as Mr. Papworth wrote it:

"The citizens of Seminole County, farmers and citrus growers, are calling at my office daily, asking what is being done toward a settlement for the losses sustained during the eradication of the med-fly. They constantly call attention to the fact that the Federal Government appropriated $10,000 for the appointment of an investigating committee. They understand the committee spent months working on the subject and then turned in a favorable report, suggesting reimbursement to the growers in the amount of seven to eight million dollars.

"All this took place prior to the last session of Congress and yet, so far as we know, no action has been taken on the committee's report.

"Gentlemen, our people will appreciate whatever information you are pleased to favor us with."—Orlando Sentinel.

S. citizens look forward to regular payments from the federal government; when their families and dependents are included, this means that Uncle Sam is supporting in whole or part about 40,000,000 of our population—a number virtually equal to the number of voters in the 1936 Presidential election.—Senator Harry F. Rockefeller Adds Final Rivet In Finish Of Center

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—(AP)—The architect's latest rivet, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., yesterday hammered a final silver rivet into a big guss that became a $100,000,000 structure.

The project is Rockefeller center—born in the depression to occupy some 22,000,000 sq. ft. of land and the site of the fourth and final building in the three-block skyscraper cluster in midtown Manhattan.

Before a crowd of several hundred in the Chrysler building lobby of the building at Forty-eighth street and Sixth Avenue, the silver-headed rivet hammer drove a pair of red-stained workmen's gloves and a "Globe" into the hole.

Russia Welcomes Two New Regions Into Soviet Union

MOSCOW, Nov. 2.—(AP)—Soviet Russia yesterday welcomed two new regions, fruits of the German-Soviet partition of Poland, into membership in the Soviet Union.

The Supreme Soviet, Russia's parliament, cheered the first appearance of delegates from the two regions—White Russia and the western Ukraine—carrying red banners into the chamber where the two houses of parliament met in extraordinary joint session.

Joseph Stalin was among the delegates who heard a Ukrainian representative declare "our first words are words of gratitude to Comrade Stalin."

At about the same time it was reported in semi-official German circles that a Nazi economic delegation had successfully completed negotiations for the purchase of major Russian items and was returning to Berlin tomorrow.

Expected to accompany the delegation by plane was German Ambassador Count von Schulenburg, summoned home to report.

Through her delegation to Moscow, Germany hoped to arrange the purchase of foodstuffs and raw materials to offset the British blockade.

It was learned that a separate group of German industrialists would remain in Moscow presumably until Nov. 13, when K. Schurro, German foreign affairs expert who headed the economic delegation, was expected to return here.

Despite the German claims of successful negotiations, it was rumored in diplomatic circles that the Germans were encountering difficulties in their talks. Informed German sources, however, said the delegation was returning to Berlin because of the impending celebration of the twenty-second anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution—Nov. 7, 1939.

Observers, however, noted that the celebrations do not begin until four days after the actual departure and end the day before Schurro's expected return.

Informed circles also indicated that Schurro's delegation had urgent business to take up with a similar Russian group now in Berlin.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By PRISTON GROVER

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—(AP)—To the hazards of life in Washington should be added rare cuts and the March of Time.

We will take them up in that order, although that may or may not be the way we feel about them.

Washington has no horse tracks of its own, but not far over the line in Maryland are such spots as Laurel and Havre de Grace where the horses run and the tests ply their trade with skillful additions to their tricks which should be reported.

At Laurel a taut rushes up to whisper something in the ear of Postmaster General Farley but he is usually brushed aside and doesn't press his point. On the next victim he wings his way, and the name of the victim will hold because he blishes easily.

"Put a piece on Blue Nose," says he, although Blue Nose is not the name of the horse, whose true name we will also withhold because the horse also blishes easily. Our victim is not eager to put a piece on Blue Nose because he thinks he knows the way of touts. But this one has tricks.

"I just come from the stables, see," he says, "and I was out with a couple of jockeys last night. This one is all loaded up. I am no bum, fella," he adds, and to prove his point he spreads a roll of bills with a tender on top. Nevertheless, our hesitant victim is on the point of turning away when out from behind an automobile sneaks a wiry fellow who says in a half tone that could be heard 40 feet:

"You ain't better get back to the stables, Breezy, you're in trouble about them bandages."

That touch of local color is enough to seek our victim and to slip off a sucker on every horse in the race.

So no matter which comes in he has a claim for a kick-in. But horses don't trouble us much, and not nearly so early in the morning as the March of Time.

At 7:15 A. M. our telephone cut loose the other morning and sent us galloping downstairs in our pajamas.

"This is the Western Union," says a sweet voice, sweet even at 7:15 A. M. "We have a rather long telegram for you."

"We have no cows to milk so we are not always up at 7:15 A. M. and when Western Union calls at that hour either a distant relative has left us some money or the office wants us down right away, there is trouble."

"Read the telegram," we tremble. "Western Union."

"The American farmer was the bulwark of the Allied armies during the World War," purrs the girl at 7:15 A. M. "Yes, yes," we agree, "so on."

"Yes, again in 1939 (we are quoting an lib as we remember it, so the words may differ but the idea is there) the American farmer may be called upon to feed a world at war. The March of Time has prepared a film release on the American farmer."

At this point our tension is down and our dander up because 15 minutes more of sleep were rightfully ours before we needed to consider the American farmer feeding the world.

But it develops via the sweet voice, that the March of Time is giving a preview of its new release to a few selected souls in the Department of Agriculture auditorium at 7:15 A. M. We have been selected as one of those to see and hear it.

And because we are a diligent soul even at 7:15 A. M. while shy 15 minutes of rightful sleep, we take down a telephone number where we are to call for a formal invitation.

And we went.

BODY IDENTIFIED

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 2.—(AP)—A body washed up by the Mississippi River was almost positively identified last night as that of former Capt. Hans Edvardson of the Norwegian steamer Jans, but Commander C. Green Cole continued his investigation to determine if he had suffered injuries before his body fell into the river.

annual parasites. Here are some general rules for preventing food spoilage in the home:

Keep all foods clean. Protect them from visible dirt and from contamination by insects and other carriers of dangerous micro-organisms. Most foods should be kept cool, also. Dry foods, such as crackers, must be protected from moisture, and succulent foods, such as fresh vegetables, from losing moisture.

Keep milk, fresh meat, poultry, and fish, and many fresh fruits and vegetables at a temperature of 50 degrees F. or, preferably, less in order to check growth of micro-organisms that cause souring and decay.

Thoroughly wash all fruits and vegetables to be eaten raw, for even though they look clean, dangerous bacteria may cling to skins or leaves. As a rule, uncooked meats of any kind should not be eaten. Smoking meat does not kill parasites.

Keep left-over cooked foods cold and covered, use them promptly, especially in warm weather, and, if possible, heat them thoroughly before serving them again. Dangerous poisons sometimes develop in such foods without making noticeable changes in taste or smell.

Fats and fat foods, such as nut meats and chocolate, should be kept cool and in covered, light-proof containers to prevent rancidity.

Store bread and cake in a covered box or dish which is sealed frequently to prevent mold development.

Flour, sugar, cereals, and other dry groceries should be kept dry and protected from household pests. Tea, coffee, and spices hold their flavor best in air-tight containers.

Canned foods keep best in a cool, dry place. Glass jars should be shielded from the light to prevent possible fading.

There is comfort in this philosophy for mothers and fathers who are tired after a busy day. It is the thought that comes to mind when you think of the future of their sons.

No parent could see a son off to war without being torn to shreds. But a parent who could face the thought that his son might be called on to serve in the armed forces of his country.

"Furthermore, I wonder if there is not a real value to society in the next day of rearing children to be people rather than soldiers and daughters even from their children may not even to maturity."

Miss Mary McMahon Honored With Party

Beginning a series of parties to be given in honor of Miss Mary McMahon, bride-elect of the month, Miss Herschel Hamby entertained last night with a Rainbow Shower at her home on Myrtle Avenue.

Miss Mary McMahon was the guest of honor at a party given by the Rainbow Club at her home on Myrtle Avenue last night.

The party was given in honor of Miss McMahon, bride-elect of the month, and was a most successful one.

The theme of the party was the rainbow, and this was carried out in every detail.

From the chandelier an impromptu rainbow of streamers hung to the floor with a huge "pot of gold" attached which held the numerous gifts of lingerie for the bride, arranged throughout the home.

In the games and contests, Miss Katherine Veiny was awarded a set of bud vases and Miss Doris Hall was presented with a set of plaques, which were presented to Miss McMahon.

The dining room table was overlaid with a lace cloth and centered with a huge wedding cake in the shape of a wedding bell with burning tapers on each side. Miss Helen Garner got the wedding ring and Mrs. W. D. J. Hunt the close, all of which were embedded in the wedding cake.

Individual rainbow-colored cakes and Spanish cream custard were served by the hostess, assisted by her mother, Mrs. H. M. Hamby. Each guest was presented with a novel candy conge.

Enjoying the affair with Miss McMahon were the following: Miss Dorothy Pavitt, Mrs. E. D. Stoumenick, Mrs. E. D. Kirchhoff, Miss Doris Walker, Miss Margaret Reitz, Miss Mary Adams, Miss Doris Hall, Mrs. Raymond Langford, Mrs. Mary Church, Mrs. W. D. Hunt, Mrs. S. C. Gardner, Mrs. J. Nazi Propaganda Is Better Than That Of Allies

Nature Of War Gives Germans Advantage In News Releases

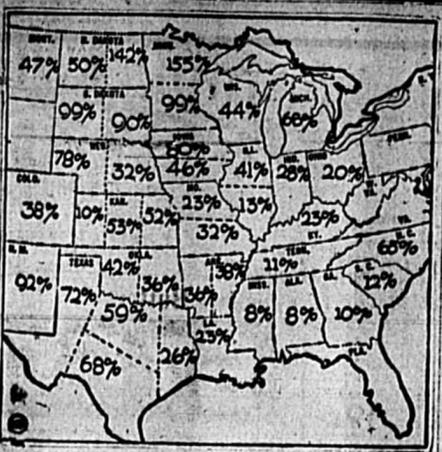

By CLYDE R. MILLER
NEW YORK, Nov. 2 (AP)—So far, German war propaganda has been much better than the British or French.

This is due to the nature of the war itself. The Germans, amazingly successful in their military campaign in Poland, could afford to send out photographs and to let newspapermen go right along behind their armies.

The British and French, on the other hand, have had very little news to give out. There has been little action on the Western Front. And a long, colorless campaign to strangle Germany by economic blockade will not produce many news stories.

One factor of enormous importance is the difference between 1914 communications and today's. In 1914, the British cut the German cables. The result was that the Allies controlled most of the news. Today—thanks to radio and monograms—all the countries in Europe can reach us and our newspapers.

Despite the work done by German propagandists to date, there is no sign that Nazi propagandists are beginning to win even mild U. S. approval of Hitler's

Edna Blue, Though Nearing 47, Is In Demand As Model

By BETTY CLARKE NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—(AP)—You've seen her photograph everywhere—as an over-forty woman giving her married daughter advice about baking powder, as a well-groomed middle-aged hostess, as a model in countless fashion pictures.

She's Edna Blue, top-notch older woman models for John Powers.

I've known Miss Blue (she's a Mrs. in private life) since 1936. The first time I saw her I was checking over possible models for older women's bathing suits. Miss Blue was willing to pose in bathing suits—although she did wear a size 18 or 20. And I liked her as a person.

The next time I ran across Miss Blue she was seriously at work in a beauty culture class—learning how to reduce, to stand, to walk, to use make-up to the greatest advantage.

Exercises Seriously Today, Miss Blue, who is nearly 47, is a size 12. She is in constant demand as a model. And she is glad about the whole business.

"My husband thinks it's grand," she remarks happily. "He encourages me to keep up my exercises."

"And my youngest daughter, Virginia, says she can't wait until she's 40 to make herself over."

What does she think most older women need to correct in their personal appearance? Posture comes first.

"An awful lot of their trouble is due to overweight," she points out. "But they just don't do anything about it."

"I think any older woman with the will power can get herself down. The first week is the hardest. After that it's simple. When you begin to get into smaller dresses, when you really see the results, then nothing can stop you."

Double chins are a by-product of both overweight and bad posture. They come next.

Had make-up rates fourth place.

"Women don't know anything much about make-up," she says. "They just dab it on—when they use it. And they use either too little or too much."

"They don't take care of their skins, either," she concludes. "You know an older woman's skin is apt to be dry, so she ought to use a cream."

"But she doesn't know anything about creams. So she lets it go—or else she uses way too much cream."

"To Inculcate A Sense Of Individual Obligation To The Community, State And The United States."

Through its many programs, The American Legion expresses its responsibility to the Nation. The obligation of good citizenship requires each one of us to contribute something to the welfare of our community. We can all assist The American Legion in this program.

Prepared By American Legion Under our American form of government, there are three distinct systems of government.

Through the Constitution, the Federal government binds the several states together into a single and indivisible union. It is the duty of this central government to provide for the general welfare of all of the states.

Behind it are the 48 state governments, each a sovereign commonwealth within the limitations provided by the national Constitution. Within each state government there are various municipal or "community" governments.

The American Legion believes that all of these governments will function best if the people will take a direct interest in all of them. That the American people are apathetic about their public affairs and their government's skin is apt to be dry, so she ought to use a cream.

But she doesn't know anything about creams. So she lets it go—or else she uses way too much cream."

When the service men went off to war in 1917, our nation was aroused to a stirring pitch of patriotism. Our people thought and talked nothing but the preservation of the nation. As a united people we threw our whole force into the job of winning the war.

The majority of the men who went off to the war were quite young. The enthusiasm of our people, therefore, made a deep and lasting impression upon them. War has a way of aging men quickly. Although still young in years, the vast majority of those who returned were mature in mind and knowledge and suffering. They could not understand the difference in the people back home. They remembered the enthusiasm of the people when they went away; now, it seemed, folks no longer thought about the country or the government. Everyone seemed engrossed with himself. As the veterans settled back into the ways of the old home town, they began to understand the change.

They realized that the people merely had slipped back into their normal peace-time role. It was difficult for the veterans to adjust themselves to such a role. They were accustomed to strict discipline, alertness and responsibility. The haphazard method of running the old town just did not square with the training they had been through. So when The American Legion was formed, the veterans determined unanimously to recall a sense of civic duty to their townsmen by frequent admonition and example.

Through its many programs, the Legion expressed its responsibility to the nation. It works for an adequate national defense, it opposes subversive elements, it fights for Americanism and carries on many more activities of a national character, and the Legion workers' contributions to the state and home town, which it calls community service. Probably no part of the whole Legion program has had greater emphasis than community service; certainly no part of it has been carried out more faithfully and more fully.

From one end of this country to another you will find communities enjoying Legion-built playgrounds, swimming pools, recreation centers, skating rinks, wild life preserves, parks, volunteer fire departments, public libraries, landscaped public grounds, airports, aviation museums, and even bridges; in the same communities you will find ambulances donated by Legion posts, disaster emergency units, life-saving units, the most improved equipment for treating such deadly diseases as infantile paralysis, and too many more things to mention—all of them donated and organized by Legion posts.

The American Legion is asking every post to contribute at least one community service project this year. If you are an eligible World War veteran you can help by joining The American Legion. If you are not eligible, as a good citizen you can give your ready support to this worthwhile program.

Boys "Bull Fight" Plans Are Halted

OKLAHOMA CITY Nov. 2.—(AP)—Best laid plans of mice and men.

Two boys with an idea "acquired" two goats, one nanny, one Billy, from an Oklahoma City back yard. They traded the nanny for another Billy and then headed for wide open spaces near Oklahoma City.

The strange procession aroused the curiosity of a citizen who called the police.

Intercepted, the boys explained their idea was this: if bull-fighting was a paying proposition in Mexico, then it "ought to make a mint of money in the U. S. A." if Billy goats were substituted for bulls. They were all set for a "trial run" when police interfered.

It is said of Harold Williams, football coach at the University of Florida, that when he practiced so hard that he wore out more shoes than any player in Pitt football history. After watching his intent coaching at Gatorland, no one doubts the story.

CELERY GROWERS! Obtain A More Effective Control of "BLIGHT" with GRASSELLI COPPER COMPOUND-A and GRASSELLI SPREADER-STICKER

GUARD against damaging infection by applying a spray containing four to five pounds of GRASSELLI Copper Compound-A to 100 gallons of water. By adding five ounces of GRASSELLI Spreader-Sticker to the solution, you'll get a more complete coverage.

It's economical, too! That's what celery growers say who have used GRASSELLI Copper Compound-A. Crops sprayed with Copper Compound-A result in greater yields per acre and are of a higher quality. That's why Florida Celery growers prefer this fungicide.

Ask for GRASSELLI Copper Compound-A and GRASSELLI Spreader-Sticker. You will find it an ideal spray combination to use for controlling celery "blights". BOLD BY: KILGORE SEED CO.—SANFORD NELSON & CO.—OVIEDO

14-Pound Turkey Is Average Size Desired By Most

Thanksgiving Fowl Can Be Bought For Moderate Price Now

By MR. ALEXANDER GEORGE, NEW YORK, Nov. 2 (AP)—

If you are thinking about Thanksgiving turkey, you are, naturally, thinking about turkey.

The size of the bird will depend upon the number to be served, whether seconds are in order and how the family reacts to leftovers.

A pound per person is a generous serving. This year, probably, one can afford to be generous for turkeys are comparatively moderate-priced.

In proportion to its size the hen turkey has more meat and less bone than the tom turkey. The 10 pound turkey is about the average buy. When preparing for a large crowd some cooks prefer two 10-pounders to one very large turkey. Of course this is determined by the cooking facilities.

Here are the four stages through which a turkey passes. 1. The Choice: Select a turkey that is plump, has the fat evenly distributed underneath, firm, yellow skin, has few blemishes or pin feathers. The breast bone should be straight and pliable at the end. Most turkeys are sold by dressed weight, picked but not drawn and with the feet and head on. The butcher will usually cut off the feet and head and clean the fowl. The giblets are placed inside the cavity. Drawn weight is about 10 per cent less than dressed weight.

2. The Preparation: Remove all pin feathers and singe off any extra fat by holding the fowl over a low flame. Make sure that all the entrails have been removed. Thoroughly scrub both the inside and outside of the turkey. Rinse by letting cold water run through. Wipe very dry both inside and out. Sprinkle inside with salt and stuff.

3. The Stuffing: A generous amount of stuffing, preferably made up of bread cubes, is the average amount of stuffing. Remember that to many people giblet gravy is a turkey what there is to apple pie.

4. The Cooking: Rub the outside of the bird with salt mixed with butter. Place the turkey, breast side down, on a rack in a large open roasting pan. An old turkey will need a cover so that the steam will help make it tender. Roast in a moderate or moderately slow oven, about 300 degrees. This even, slow cooking keeps the full flavor and juices and gives a delicious crusty (not hard) skin. Baste every 15 minutes with 1/2 cup butter mixed with 1/2 cup hot water. When this is used up, baste with the drippings in the roasting pan. Carefully turn the bird on its back during the last hour of roasting. A 14-lb. dressed bird requires about 2 hours to cook, 9-10 lbs. about 4 hours and a larger one from 5 to 7 hours.

5. The Carving: Rub the outside of the bird with salt mixed with butter. Place the turkey, breast side down, on a rack in a large open roasting pan. An old turkey will need a cover so that the steam will help make it tender. Roast in a moderate or moderately slow oven, about 300 degrees. When this is used up, baste with the drippings in the roasting pan. Carefully turn the bird on its back during the last hour of roasting. A 14-lb. dressed bird requires about 2 hours to cook, 9-10 lbs. about 4 hours and a larger one from 5 to 7 hours.

Anthropologist Suggests Sending Misfits To War

By EARNEST A. HOOTON, NEW YORK, Nov. 2 (AP)—

I think that mankind might derive a biological benefit from the present war, if only it could be conducted with an eye upon the conservation of human resources. To this end, active service for men of 25 years and older ought to be substituted for the conscription of youth. This would eliminate wastage and diminish the subsequent cost of old age pensions and bonuses for veterans.

However, as an exception to these age limitations the shock troops would be recruited from our herds of convicted criminals who are usually of the present "military age." The incorrigible young toughs who use firearms and bombs against a peaceable society ought to do well in the trenches.

Regiments of schizophrenics, paranoics, and manic-depressives would also be organized, led by huge labor battalions of morose and imbeciles. All statecraft and diplomats who cannot war would be recruited to lead reconnoitering parties, as did the late General Werner von Fritsch.

Airplanes should not be used in this eugenic war, because all of the persons on whom bombs ought to drop would be in the army within artillery range, and not in civilian centers.

This would be veritably "a war to end war." If the combatants finished it by finishing themselves there would be no need for peace negotiations, because both sides would have won, having got rid of their respective armies. Civilization, freed of the blight of the antisocial and the biologically unfit, would blossom anew.

Of course I am only a crack-brain anthropologist, and the matters of our destiny are too wide to conduct a war on the lines I have laid down. They do it the other way round. The fittest and best of the nation are sent out to be killed, and the trash stays at home to breed more trash and plan more wars.

I forgot to say that I think I should also include for front line service all persons suffering from heredity and progressive myopia. This provision would make me eligible for a heroic death and would hearten a lot of book reviewers.

Apartment from them, new standards for combatant duty should be established. These would consist of all of the defects for which men are at present exempted from fighting. Thus a man would be accepted only if he had an incurable disease, serious congenital deformity, or an I. Q. below 100.

Early End To Repeal Debate Seen By Demos

By MR. ALEXANDER GEORGE, NEW YORK, Nov. 2 (AP)—

The morning Early had voiced a suspicion that Molotov's speech was an attempt to influence the fight over neutrality legislation in this country, while at the capital—Congressman McCormack, Massachusetts, had demanded flatly that the United States recall her envoy to the "anti-God" Soviets.

thickest part of the breast; if the juice comes out clear and not red, the turkey is done.

Lightly fill the cavities with the stuffing. Never pack it in, for when cooked it will be soggy and heavy. Sew the cuts with thread or skewer in place. Press the wings over the back and legs close to the body. Fasten with skewers or a cord. This trussing keeps the turkey compact, which helps hold in the flavor and moisture and makes carving easier. Remove all cords when the fowl is served.

Celery Feds Get Ready For Orlando Fray Friday Night

McLucas To Begin Some Lineup That Opened Ocala Tilt

Coach Leonard L. McLucas sent the Celery Feds through a hard workout yesterday in preparation for their game tomorrow night with the Orlando Tigers here at Semole High Field at 8:00 o'clock.

McLucas is concentrating on fundamentals this week in hope of getting his team on the field for the first time this season in exhibition that will be worthy of past Fed eleven. The Fed manager pointed out that the most glaring failure all season has been lack of good blocking and tackling. "Without these two fundamentals," he declared, "no team will ever win a game."

The same lineup that took the field in the opening half of the game with Ocala last Friday will again get the call tomorrow night. This will line up left end Charles Lavitt, M. Smith at left tackle, Ward at left guard, Riser at center, Stansland at right guard, A. Jones at right tackle, and L. H. Sanford at right end. In the backfield there will be John Angel at fullback, Bub Epps at left half and Jimmy Page at right half with Beckwith at quarter.

The lineup has shown to the great advantage with Epps and Page providing for the first time in the past two games the only real threat Sanford has produced this year. Page turned out to be a classy broken field runner while Epps can run and pass and is always a danger to opposing eleven. Danny Altman played well last Friday night and chances are that he will see plenty of action against the Orangemen.

The Tigers have a strong outfit and are considered much stronger than Ocala which walloped Sanford 33 to 7.

Tennessee Vols Ready For Bid To Rose Bowl

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 2.—(AP)—Tennessee's dreams already are soaring away on a limited speeding toward the Rose Bowl but the Volunteers make a junction stop here Saturday that may end in derailment.

Waving a red flag, signaling danger ahead, is towering Kentucky Kavanaugh, Louisiana State's great end.

Ken and his slingshot passing partner, Tiny Leo Bird, form a "David and Goliath" aerial combination as devastating as any in the land and Tennessee's power-hour must roll over them if it wants to keep on the tracks toward the west coast.

Coaches widely agree the top-flight Volunteers have developed a highly developed aerial bombardment as the Bayou Tigers are able to dish up.

It might also bear mentioning that L. S. U. will have its hands full coming with Tennessee's steam-roller grand game, led by George (Old New) Cafego and Johnny Butler.

The Bengals put their chips on Kavanaugh, remembering the sensational pass-one sports writer called it "an epic in the pure sense of the word." Ken caught for L. S. U.'s line score against Tennessee last Fall Tennessee won 14-6 but the Vols haven't been scored on since in 11 games, including their battle with Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl.

The season at Kavanaugh has come off but two of L. S. U.'s touchdowns, one of the others coming on a line back over the end after Kavanaugh was given a pass completion through an interference ruling after a long pass.

Ken has run nine passes for touchdowns, seven of them being by hand a little combination who makes Kavanaugh look like a giant. Incidentally the handsome and muscle-fingered Kavanaugh has lifted his collegiate scoring record to 115 points.

Gators Engage In Light Drill In Preparation For South Carolina Tilt

MAURICE CLIPPERTY SMITH, above, is reported to be sought by Sanford as its head football coach. Smith, now at Villanova, formerly drilled Santa Clara.

GAINESVILLE, Nov. 2.—(AP)—Head Coach Josh Cody changed his practice plans yesterday and sent his University of Florida gridlers through a light mid-week drill in preparation for their tilt with South Carolina Saturday in Columbia.

Cody sent the team through a long and hard scrimmage Tuesday and more tough work had been expected today.

The Gators will stage their last real practice today and Friday through a light tune-up Friday afternoon prior to leaving that night.

Mindful of the Gators' display of offensive power last week-end in their 14-0 win over Maryland, with Bud Walton at the helm, the Gators brushed up on their passing plays this afternoon with the junior tailback doing most of the tossing.

He is Herb H. Johnson's lack, also took a hit at passing against a five-hour scrimmage drill.

Near the end of the practice, the Gators had a little trouble with Cody's plan to have a look at 17th Carolina players as they are the finest in a defensive strategy.

Bill Johnson, sophomore center, led a drill and complete uniform yesterday for the first time since the line back over to the T. S. U. game. He attended yesterday's practice in full uniform but did not participate in the touch work.

CHALKING 'EM UP

With CHARLIE CHALKER

A Frown From Lady Luck

Announcement that the Nashville Vols will do their Spring training here next year comes as a pleasant surprise. It was virtually certain that some club would train here in the Spring but until yesterday there was nothing definite. But it was rather a shock to pick up the Orlando Morning Sentinel and see the story that the Vols had been signed to train here in a deal consummated between Charles Bradshaw, president of the local baseball association, and Larry Gilbert, veteran pilot of the Vols. Fate seems to work against us on some news events. It seems that Mr. Gilbert slipped into town shortly after the Herald went to press Tuesday afternoon and surprised officials of the local baseball club. He immediately broached a subject which usually takes long-winded negotiations and several trips to complete, and hardly had night set in, so we are told, that the deal had been finished and Mr. Gilbert was once again on his way. No one is going to blame Lady Luck—or somebody—for permitting Mr. Gilbert to arrive in town for such an important deal immediately after the Herald went to press and 24 hours before it would be ready to go to press again. Old bodkins!

From Lookouts To Volunteers

But, despite our chagrin that Bob Hayes occasionally beats us to the finish tape, we're really glad to hear that the Vols will be here. Their presence will mean a lot to us. Larry Gilbert is a fine man from all that we can hear. We don't happen to know him personally but a man's reputation travels faster than the speed of light and Larry's reputation carries a gold label. It's nice also, to think that we'll have the team here that beat out the Chattanooga Lookouts for the pennant. Charley Bradshaw would make a good diplomat. And now comes Bob Hayes with a suggestion that we change the name of Lookouts. Not a bad idea. What about Volunteers?

SELECT SELECTIONS

By RALPH WARNER

Attempting to duplicate our fortunate record of last week, we have spent all our time on a study of the games and neglected the prelude.

So, hoping, that the old saying—"Lightning never strikes twice in the same place"—is false, the following selections are proffered.

Florida over South Carolina. Gators have nice two touchdown edge, which should enable them to record their fourth consecutive triumph and probably their fourth shutout in a row.

Tennessee over L. S. U. Remember what the Tigers did to strong Holy Cross. There is little chance of repeating over emotional Vols, but the Vols had better keep an eagle eye on a gent titled Kavanaugh.

Alabama over Kentucky. About 60-40. Not impossible for Wildcats to surprise.

Duke over Georgia Tech. One touchdown.

Mississippi over Vandy. Latter improving. Close.

North Carolina over N. C. State. Tar Heels, with probably the most deceptive passing attack of the year, should get by with room to spare.

Mississippi State over Birmingham Southern.

Virginia over Chicago. Watch out! Little Virginia invaded by midwestern power the "Sewanee" of the Big Ten, only one of Southerners by a nice margin.

Texas A. and M. over Arkansas. Latter's heavy eleven may cause trouble, but it probably will be a little slow against excellent Aggie aggregation.

Southern Methodist over Texas. Have to cast a slim vote against Texas.

Texas Christian over Baylor. Cornell over Columbia. Speedy Big Red is good.

Boston College over Auburn. Since loss to Gators, Eagles are developing into one of East's best.

Fordham over Rice. Only an outside passing chance for disappointing Owls.

Pittsburgh over Temple. Not easy.

Navy over Penn. Toss up punch.

Birmingham over Yale. Indians are hot now. One touchdown.

Princeton over Harvard. On a fake reverse.

North Carolina over Oregon State. Tar Heels, with probably the most deceptive passing attack of the year, should get by with room to spare.

South Carolina over Oregon State. 20 to 7.

P. C. I. A. over California.

Coast Defenses Are Considered Superior To Ships

Authorities Here Say British Navy Won't Attack Nazi Shores

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2—(AP)—So great is the superiority of coast defenses over naval power in attack that authorities here discount almost 100 per cent the persistent stories that the British fleet may attempt to force a landing on the North German shore.

They don't discount the possibility that the British fleet may break onto the Baltic sea and shut off German trade with Sweden, so important because of rich Swedish iron. But even that would be a hazardous task and might cost British half its navy.

Attempting to land on armed force in the face of German power along the Baltic or North sea would be one of those tasks no navy would undertake if any other avenue of attack remained. Authorities always leave light areas open. A British fleet pressed in other quarters might make the desperate attempt at a shore landing. Odds against success are high.

Long ago Germany saw the possibility that a British fleet action might be launched against her in the Baltic. She took protective steps. Taking Danzig was one important step. As a free city Danzig was not strongly fortified against naval attack. Polish forces there failed to beat off one German battle-ship. You can almost tank on it that by now Danzig is well fortified.

A Port Would Help

More than a year ago Germany crowded Lithuania out of Memel. That is another Baltic seaport that undoubtedly was only lightly armed until Germany took over.

An undefended port would be an ideal spot to make a landing. Under a naval barrage, troops could sail right into port and unload men and cannon. That is a dream situation for a navy.

Breaking into a fortified port is another thing. Shore guns have tremendous advantages over naval guns. They are concealed. The navy is in full view. Fighting and ranging devices for shore guns are greatly superior to those that can be installed on a ship.

Take Pearl Harbor, Hawaii as an example. The water all around is zoned off. The coast guns know in advance what range and direction to set off to hit a ship wherever it may be seen. Land guns, on fixed bases are far more accurate than naval guns rolling at sea. Their range normally is equal.

Any landing the British navy would attempt likely would be along some unfortified shore. It would be necessary for the heavy ships to stand offshore and lay down a barrage to keep defending forces back while troops landed. Troops ships, conveyed by destroyers and cruisers, would crowd closer into shore, put men out on small boats, and trust to naval fire to keep enemy light and heavy artillery fire and machine gun fire to a minimum.

Dangerous Work

But for a navy to stand offshore and pound away at land troops is risky business. Undoubtedly every submarine in the German navy would be concentrated on the fleet. A half dozen, breaking through the screen of destroyers and cruisers, could sink the British navy in a half hour. And they would try to break through even if it meant that time of every ten submarines would be sunk.

Moreover, a force once landed would be the target of all the defense mechanism that could be brought against it. Japan made a landing at Shanghai with considerable difficulty against a defense that was nothing compared with what Germany would build against a British attack.

The moral of this would seem to be: The war won't be decided in the Baltic.

Soviet Says Erko Speech Is War Appeal

Threat Of Military Might Is Cast Over Russia's Negotiations With Finns

Allies Welcome House Repeal Vote

British Ships Are Reported In Sight Of City Of Flint

The Associated Press Soviet Russia's Communist party newspaper Pravda today termed the speech by Finnish Foreign Minister Eljas Erko an "appeal for war" and cast a threat of military might over Russia's negotiations with Finland.

As the Pravda threatened that the Soviets "shall send to hell any and all maneuvers" interfering with their aims, the Allies welcomed the United States House of Representatives vote toward lifting the arms embargo.

The Communist newspaper attack on Erko came as the Finnish delegation waited in Moscow to resume talks with Russian officials. Erko asserted in his speech last Wednesday that Finland was ready to help improve Leningrad's defensive position by any "guardianship" which a foreign power might receive over Finnish territory must be regarded as "endangering Finland's neutrality."

The Pravda charged Erko "directly threatened the Soviet" although most foreign diplomats viewed the Finnish minister's (Continued on Page Four)

Five Are Injured In Miami Auto Accident

MIAMI, Nov. 2. (AP)—Five persons were injured, one seriously, yesterday when a Miami police car carrying Mayor E. G. Sewall, Capt. John H. Price, city aviation director, and Police Chief Charles Parker collided with another automobile outside the city limits.

The Miami accident prevention board, which investigated the collision, reported the police car failed to obey a stop sign. None of the city officials was injured. The occupants of the other car, Mrs. Catherine Irwin, 52, the driver, her daughter, Mary Louisa, 16, and three other children, Edna, Jimmie and John Santarosa, were taken to a hospital.

Physicians reported that Mary Louisa was in a serious condition. She left her hospital on an ambulance this morning. The other children suffered only minor injuries. All were residents of Miami.

American Planes To Be Shipped To Europe By Boat

Original Plans Had Called For Flying Air Liners Across

NEW YORK, Nov. 3. (AP)—American-made warplanes scheduled for service in the European conflict if the embargo is lifted apparently will be shipped to Europe by ocean liner of freighter instead of being flown across the Atlantic—at least this winter. As fast as bombers ordered by Great Britain prior to the outbreak of the war, are loaded in New York after flights from the west coast they are being airdropped. Removal of the wings and the application of a spray of oil which solidifies in contact with metal to prevent corrosion supplies at least ostensible evidence of the abandonment of a plan by which the planes would be flown across the 2300 miles of ocean separating Newfoundland from England.

The project for flying planes across thereby obviating the possibility of submarine attacks (Continued on Page Four)

State Banks To Close Two Thanksgivings

TALLAHASSEE, Nov. 2. (AP)—Governor Lee advised state banks yesterday to close both Nov. 23, the Thanksgiving day proclaimed by President Roosevelt, and Nov. 30, the day set aside by Governor Cone.

He said national banks in Florida probably will observe both holidays and for the purpose of uniformity "it is better for all to do so."

The 118 state banks and trust companies will receive letters from Lee giving his advice. "There will be confusion if some banks close Nov. 23 and others Nov. 30. Lee said. "It is too bad that the situation arose, but since it has I think it better for both holidays to be observed."

STRAKES HALTED BERGMAN, Norway, Nov. 2. (AP)—A Norwegian destroyer halted a British steamer in Norwegian waters by firing a warning shot after signals flags had been hoisted. The Norwegian vessel reported yesterday.

The British ship was permitted to proceed, the newspaper said, after the captain had established that the ship was an armed merchant vessel.

Murphy Act Ruling Handed Down By Smith

Interpretation Gives Certificate Purchaser 30 Times As Much Interest

Purchasers of delinquent tax certificates in Seminole County under the provisions of the Murphy Act will receive approximately 30 times the interest that was originally held as due to them, according to a ruling handed down today by Circuit Judge Millard B. Smith.

The ruling by Judge Smith holds the amount bid includes the cost of holding the sale plus the bid for the certificate and that it draws interest from the date the certificate was issued to the State rather than from the date the certificate was sold under the Murphy Act.

The chancery suit named O. P. Herndon as clerk of the Circuit Court in Seminole County as defendant. W. W. C. Smith was the plaintiff and was represented in the proceedings by G. W. Spencer, local attorney.

The order restrained the clerk from permitting the redemption of certificates sold under the Murphy Act in accordance with the provisions of a ruling by Attorney General George Couper Gibbs who ruled that the act allowed only 3 percent interest per annum from the date of the sale.

As an example, a 1929 tax certificate was sold under the Murphy Act on Apr. 17, 1939 for $2.00 while the cost of the sale was $7.55, making a total of $9.55. Under the new ruling, the interest on the investment (Continued on Page Four)

British Pleased At House Vote On U. S. Neutrality

LONDON, Nov. 3. (AP)—Official British quarters last night received with enthusiasm word that the American Congress had voted to lift the arms embargo.

It was stated that as a result it might be expected that the United States will release "hundreds" of reconnaissance and bomber planes, fighters, light bombers and big flying boats awaiting shipment from New York and California.

Immediately shipments of guns and munitions were expected as soon as the bill has had final passage and is signed by President Roosevelt.

"It means an unlimited supply of fighting machines and aircraft is available to the Allies," this respect never have been actually tested, but are far beyond anything ever conceived that there is no limit to the supply available.

Revelation of the arms embargo law, while opening the way for large British arms and munitions purchases, was expected to lead to a drastic curtailment of British imports from the United States such as industrial and agricultural products.

One authoritative source estimated that British imports of certain American industrial products and foodstuffs might fall off as much as $100,000,000 a year.

Imports of American products said Britain's anticipated heavy purchases of war supplies from the United States would be offset "to a substantial degree" by curtailing imports of "non-essential" industrial and agricultural products.

These so-called "non-essential" in normal years yield scores of millions of dollars to American exporters.

The curtailment would be necessary, it was explained, to protect exchange and permit unlimited purchases of arms and munitions from the United States.

The importation of many American commodities including tobacco, automobiles, women's apparel, shoes, hosiery, dried fruits and California barley already has been reduced drastically since the outbreak of the war.

The effect of the reduction of imports from the United States undoubtedly will be felt heavily over widespread areas of New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Michigan, the grain belts of the middle west, the tobacco districts of the South and the fruit zones of Florida and California.

Power Company Pays Delinquent Personal Taxes

City Receives Check For $16,950 On Adjustment Of Levy

A check for $16,950 has been tendered to the City after an agreement was reached between officials of the Florida Power and Light Company and the City Commissioners on the request of the power company for an adjustment in the assessed values of its personal property in Sanford.

According to records at the City Hall the agreement was reached about 10 days ago at a special meeting of the commission and the check in payment of these taxes was tendered to the City on Oct. 27 and 1939 and lowered the assessed valuation for 1939 to $168,000.

With a personal property tax levy of 30 mills, the taxes paid to the City for these years are $6,000 a year for 1937 and 1938 and $1,950 for 1939.

Fleming To Enforce Wage-Hour Measure

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2. (AP)—A concentration of wage-hour enforcement activities in areas of low wages and long working hours was forecast yesterday by Lt.-Col. Phillip Fleming, who took over direction of the wage-hour administration 10 days ago.

"Our efforts to enforce the law," he said "should be concentrated on the areas having the largest number of workers who have been getting less than 30 cents an hour or working more than 42 hours a week."

A recent survey by the bureau of labor statistics showed that the bulk of such workers situated in the South and the industrial states of the Northeast.

The minimum wage under the law increased Oct. 24 from 25 to 30 cents an hour, and the maximum work week was reduced from 64 to 42 hours. Time and a half compensation is required for work done in excess of 42 hours.

Fleming indicated that who would check up on compliance with the new standards by sending part of his enlarged field force into affected establishments to check payroll and employment records.

Andrews Backs Measure To Pay Med Fly Losses

Papworth Told Solon Will Continue Settlement Efforts

Pointing out that there are some difficulties in convincing 80 or 90 senators of the value of a settlement to Florida growers of the losses sustained during the Mediterranean Fruit Fly campaign, Senator Charles O. Andrews, in a letter to H. M. Papworth, phoned his continued support of efforts to reach results.

Senator Andrews' letter was in reply to a request for information concerning what is being done toward securing an agreement to make the settlement.

The letter from Senator Andrews is in part as follows: "This is to advise that the President called Congress together for the consideration of only one subject, the Neutrality Bill, which passed the Senate late Friday night. It is my understanding that the policy now is to adjourn as soon as the bill passes the House."

"The report of the Medfly Board was filed the latter part of March last year, favorably approved, as you will recall, by a vote of four to one. The recommendation of Secretary Wallace which was based on this report was sent to the House and Senate and recommended against favorable action for endorsement (Continued on Page Four)

FDR Expresses Pleasure At Repeal Vote

President Says He Is Glad Neutrality Bill Restores U. S. To Historic Place

Plans To Issue Proclamations

Roosevelt Hopes Congressional Leaders Will Stay In Capital

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3. (AP)—Roosevelt expressing gratification at the size of the majority by which the House showed approval of the arms embargo repeal, today asserted he was glad the neutrality bill had restored the historic position of United States neutrality.

The Chief Executive disclosed that he probably would issue several proclamations under the new measure, once he has signed it. He said he hoped to issue the proclamations as soon as possible after the bill comes to the White House from Congress. That may be sometime tomorrow although there was a slight possibility it might arrive late today.

The President expressed the hope that congressional leaders would remain in Washington and be available after Congress adjourns the special session.

Roosevelt won his long fight for revision of the neutrality act yesterday when the House agreed to repeal the arms embargo and permit sale of American munitions and equipment to European belligerents on a strict "cash-and-carry" basis, proposals already approved by the Senate.

The roll call vote was 212 to 181. It left only a few preliminary technicalities remaining to be adjusted between the two Houses of Congress to complete action on the measure and send it to Mr. Roosevelt for his signature.

Leaders predicted that the differences which he compromised somewhat today and the measure completed shortly thereafter. It was predicted also that Congress would adjourn sine die Saturday.

The House action in upholding the program, which Mr. Roosevelt said would prevent a "black-out of peace" in the United States, involved several technicalities, and the rejection of two important provisions which would have had the effect of retaining the arms embargo.

In parliamentary language, the House voted to permit Speaker William C. Clegg to appoint uninvited delegates to confer with an equal number from the Senate. The House conferees thus were left free to approve the Senate repeal bill technically an amended version of a measure adopted by the lower chamber last session.

The isolationists had sought to have the House delegates instructed to hold out for retention of an arms embargo proposal embodied in the original House bill but eliminated when the Senate passed its version. The measure came on this proposal which was introduced by Rep. James A. Shanley.

A few minutes earlier the Administration lattered down 245 to 179, a motion by Rep. John M. Vorys for a modified embargo. Even had this been approved, its effect would have been nullified by the House's refusal to instruct its conferees.

A third important motion, likewise contingent on acceptance of the Shanley proposal, was defeated 228 to 198. This vote was on an amendment by Rep. Jesse R. Wolcott to specifically prohibit loans by government agencies to belligerents.

Both the votes on the Vorys and Wolcott proposals reflected growing Administration strength, and when the crucial Shanley motion came up, its defeat was obvious.

Bankhead appointed as conferees for the House Reps. Sol Bloom, chairman of the Foreign Affairs Committee; Luther A. Johnson, John Kes, Hamilton Fish and Charles A. Eaton.

The Senate, which approved its own bill 60 to 35, met for two minutes at 5 P. M., and Vice (Continued on Page Four)

Mrs. Dyson Urges Support For Band

Mrs. F. A. Dyson, chairman of the special committee for raising funds with which to buy uniforms for the Seminole County School band, today urged the public to be generous in its donations.

"We cannot hope to outfit the band properly," she declared, "unless every person in Sanford who is able will donate something to the fund being raised for that purpose."

She pointed out that approximately $650 will be needed to outfit the band with its uniforms and purchase one or two instruments that are lacking.

There are approximately 33 members of the school band which is composed of members of various schools in the county. The band is under the direction of T. M. Dollison.

Donations may be turned over to E. E. Kipp, principal of the Grammar School and business manager of the band.
