NY Couple Celebrates 55th Year

Quipping, smiling, and laughing, Judge and Mrs. A. G. Meyer of New York City celebrated their 55th wedding anniversary at the Mayfair Inn last night.

As active and jubilant as one many years his junior, Judge Meyer remarked that "We've been coming to Florida for 40 years or more and we like it."

And Mrs. Meyer spoke up and said, "This is our first trip to Sanford and we like it well enough to have spoken for reservations for next year."

Only Saturday, Judge Meyer celebrated his 85th birthday.

Judge Meyer, now retired, was District Attorney for New York County and Judge of the City Court, City of New York. He recounted that the City Court, City of New York is a continuation of the old Marine Court and is the only court that has marine jurisdiction.

The Judge's also the Past District Grand Master of the Masons of New York.

Judge Meyer related that the most interesting case to come before him was the trial of Richard Crocker, leader of Tammany Hall who was sued by his son in civil court. He said, "It was the peculiar circumstances involved that made the case a memorial one in my career as Judge."

H. Roller Attends Funeral Of Father

EXTRA SPECIAL DELIVERIES

HOUSTON (AP)—Postman Thomas Autzen made two special deliveries on his mail route yesterday that were above the call of regular duty.

Spotting a burning duplex on his route, Autzen, 41, entered the flaming building to carry Pamela Rebecca Cloud, 3, and her sister, Phyllis Kay Cloud, 2, to safety. C. J. Wiles, 40, a bus mechanic, rescued their brother, Johnnie Franklin Cloud, 3.

Big Patient Switch To Start Tomorrow

City At One Time Without Hospital

Tomorrow is D-Day for the transfer of about 30 or 40 patients from the old Fernald-Laughton Memorial Hospital in Sanford to the new three-story, 75-bed Seminole Memorial Hospital recently completed and opened to the public for inspection. Everything is in readiness for the big move which is scheduled to take no more than four hours. It is hoped that patients, served breakfast at Fernald-Laughton, will be able to have lunch in the new Seminole Memorial Hospital.

The Big Switch, about to get underway, is reminiscent of the move from the present Fernald-Laughton Memorial Hospital site to the sprawling hospital located at the Sanford Naval Air Station and then back again to the home-turned-into-a-hospital at the corner of Fourth St. and Oak Ave.

There was a period of time that Sanford was without a hospital, according to Randall Chase, who yesterday reviewed the history of the efforts in securing the new hospital and of the spirit that saw the Fernald-Laughton Memorial Hospital alive and active through the more than 30 years of planning for what now is one of the most modern hospitals in the South.

A hospital, operated by the old Plant System was located where the old Atlantic Coast Line railroad station now stands on Ninth St., and was moved to Wapcross, Ga., when the Atlantic Coast Line took over the railroad.

The move left Sanford without hospital facilities and for a 13-year interim, said Chase, chairman of the Executive Committee of the Fernald-Laughton Hospital, and homes were used to house patients who needed hospital care and medical attention. Simple operations were done here, he said, but patients requiring complicated surgery were taken to Jacksonville.

Through the generosity of George H. Fernald and his wife, Mabel, the Fernald home, now the Fernald-Laughton Memorial Hospital, was given to the City of Sanford for use as a hospital. The name, said Chase, was taken from the George H. and Mabel Fernald gift and in memory of Mrs. Fernald's mother, Mrs. Elise Laughton, who lived here with her daughter.

Just as it is now, said Chase, the Fernald-Laughton Memorial Hospital has served Sanford. Changes in the building have been made with the addition of a new wing, air conditioning in the operating room and nursery, an elevator, and a new heating system.

Because of the necessity, said Chase, nurses in the old days shoveled coal and threw wood into the furnace to keep the hospital warm. Such was the spirit that carried the hospital through periods of time when no one knew where money would come from to operate.

Said Chase, "We can think of nothing better to wish for the new man of the hospital, the building which is exemplified by the desire to serve the patient." He added, "If such a spirit is instilled — that of service to the patient — Seminole Memorial Hospital cannot help but be a success."

In paying tribute to those who helped in the furtherance of hospital care for Sanford and Seminole County's sick, Chase recalled that there have been but two presidents of the Fernald-Laughton Memorial Hospital — T. W. Lawton and T. E. Tucker. He said, "T. W. Lawton deserves a tremendous amount of credit for steering Fernald-Laughton Hospital along and keeping the public interested."

Chase again said, "In spite of the physical handicaps of Fernald-Laughton Memorial Hospital, the lack of space and rooms, because of the nursing care patients received, it was almost superhuman effort on the part of the nursing staff that kept the hospital a complete success."

"We have a fine hospital," said Chase, "one of the most attractive I have ever seen. Nothing has been spared in money and plans to make it a most complete facility."

Tomorrow marking the Big Switch gets underway, The Sanford Rotary Club has volunteered to provide the trucks, cars, automobiles, or whatever is necessary to move patients and equipment from one location to another. Brisson's ambulance will be on hand to have stretcher patients.

Seminole Memorial Hospital will begin its operation tomorrow on behalf of those who need it.

Nelson & Neal Duo Solve Difficulties Of Traveling Life

Most concert pianists on tour today have one question on their lips when they arrive in a city where they are scheduled to give a performance: "How is the piano?" Not so with Nelson and Neal, the two-piano team who will appear here tomorrow night at 8 o'clock at Pinecrest School auditorium. This brilliant young wife-husband team solved the piano problem several years ago by bringing their own concert grand pianos on tour—and tuning them. They have developed into an exact science the process of packing their valuable instruments, as well as unloading and reloading them.

Traveling in a specially-constructed mobile unit with their infant children, Nelson and Neal pull their two concert pianos in a custom trailer. The front vehicle, in which they travel, is devoted entirely to compact kitchen, bath, sofa bed, storage, play area for the baby—in fact, almost all the comforts of home. "All except space!" muttered Harry.

To those members of their audiences who think how nice it must be to go on tour from coast to coast, playing only four or five concerts each week, with nothing else to do, Nelson and Neal's daily routine would be a rude awakening. Not counting eating, caring for two children, dressing, resting, practicing, post-concert receptions and driving, one day's activity breaks down into the following component parts: unloading pianos, one hour; tuning pianos, usually three hours; concert, two hours; reloading pianos, one-hour.

Despite all this, the young Tennessee and his Australian-born wife seem to thrive on it. Nelson and Neal are on the road constantly from October to May and in recent years have seldom had this regime interrupted. Once, Miss Nelson came down with measles in the middle of a tour. Twice in the last three years they canceled three months' engagements in order to have their two babies, which travel with them everywhere they go.

Out of all the hundreds of thousands of miles traveled, Nelson and Neal have had only one accident. This took place in a whirling snowstorm in mid-Missouri in November 1931. Their truck lost traction on the icy pavement and skidded off the road, turning over into a snowbank. Fortunately, no one was injured and the two pianos were only slightly damaged. The Neals were soon on their way to New York after their mid-western tour, so they left their pianos at the Baldwin Cincinnati factory for repairs and continued on by train.

Their determination to have a normal family life in spite of the difficulties imposed by one of America's busiest concert careers prompted the nation's third largest magazine (the Ladies' Home Journal) to do an extensive study of their lives in its January 1934 issue.

The Neals have an infectious sense of humor and the rear of their mobile unit carries a sign which invites all comers to "Wave As You Pass!" You could not fail to recognize their 23-foot, two-section unit on the highway, painted jet black with gold and white lettering. If you prefer to hail them to a stop, rather than merely waving as you pass, the chances are Nelson and Neal would be delighted to invite you in for tea, if you don't mind having your second cup 20 miles down the road!

Democrats Are Ready To Go Into Action

"The Democrats are ready for action and ready to go to work," said Mrs. Ralph Austin Smith, State Democratic Committee woman. "An evidence of this," she said, "there was not a tuxedo worn at the head table when a dedicated Democratic contingent overflowed the ballroom of the Soreno Hotel in St. Petersburg to eat a delicious $28 a plate dinner on Saturday, Jan. 28."

Aunt Jemima Due To Give Appearance Friday At Foodmart

Aunt Jemima, the world's foremost pancake expert, known from coast to coast for her "fluffy" griddle cakes, is coming to Sanford on Friday and Saturday, Feb. 3-4. The originator of the world's first package ready-mix will demonstrate how to prepare and serve hot cakes at the Foodmart, Park Ave. at 23th St. It was announced today by "Chuck" Atkinson, manager of the supermarket.

"Chuck" issues a general invitation to his friends, neighbors, and all the citizens of Sanford to meet Aunt Jemima in person on that day and to eat her famous pancakes. "If you love good eating, you haven't lived until you try pancakes the way Aunt Jemima herself bakes them," he said in announcing the event.

As a leading culinary expert for more than half a century, the name and fame of Aunt Jemima are legendary. Aunt Jemima made her first public appearance during Chicago's Columbian Exposition in 1893, when she baked the world's first pancakes made from a ready-mix. Her immediate popularity spread the fame of her pancakes until Aunt Jemima was soon a household word for good pancakes. Since that time food-mixes have grown in popularity until today they are universally used, but the name of Aunt Jemima is still synonymous with ready-mix griddle cakes. Over the years, too, many other tasty food innovations have been developed by Aunt Jemima, but pancakes remain her favorite dish.

Aunt Jemima will demonstrate her cooking techniques, and serve hot cakes to all her old friends at the Foodmart, Feb. 3 and 4. During that time she will talk personally with everyone who visits the store, and give many cooking tips to make kitchen work easier.

Seven New Marines Arrive At SNAAS

Seven new Marines, all Private First Class, have been added to the Sanford Naval Auxiliary Air Station Marine Security Guard in the past few weeks. Officer-in-Charge, First Lt. Erno G. Love announced recently.

The Marine Security Guard, a detachment from the Marine Barracks at the Jacksonville Naval Air Station, now carries a 41 man roster with the addition of the newly arrived men. The mission of the Marine Guard aboard the NAAS is to bolster the Station's internal security forces.

The newcomers to the Guard are R. R. Crawford of Griggsville, Ill., P. A. McGovern of Jersey City, N. J., J. A. Martorano of East Boston, Mass., J. D. Osborn of Safety Harbor, Fla., C. E. Whorton of Boaz, Ala., D. H. Mohrbaugh of St. Petersburg, and S. Andrews of Hialeah.

Mrs. Smith said that the dinner was the important event of the meeting of the State Democratic Executive Committee (of Florida) gathered at the Soreno for a two-day meeting.

Paul Butler, former Indiana lawyer and now National Chairman of the Democratic Party, introduced by Governor LeRoy Collins, told his audience, "This administration is the most partisan we have had in many years. There is no Democrat in any high position."

He then recounted, said Mrs. Smith, gains in elections to county, state and national offices. He praised and expressed appreciation for the assistance of Senators Holland and Smathers and Congressman Herlong and Haley in the work of the party.

Principal business of the Committee, said Mrs. Smith, who has just returned from the meeting, was renature of Barker, National Committeeman for his lack of support of the Democratic Presidential candidate in the 1932 election and his opposition to the Committee's legislative program at Tallahassee; the adoption of a pledged delegates slate; and agreement to adopt a state platform, following adoption of the national platform.

Said Mrs. Smith, "One of the important guests attending the Committee's sessions was refreshingly pretty Margaret Blocker of the Young Democrats organization who should be able to woo any eligible Republican male to the Democratic fold."

Mrs. Smith concluded, "Fired by Paul Butler's enthusiasm, the state committee members returned home optimistic as to the future and determined to win in '36."

Wrong Hospital Found By Couple

Everyone knows where the "hospital" is located.

And it was to the Seminole Memorial Hospital that Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Kimrey were directed when it became necessary for the confinement of Mrs. Kimrey expecting a baby.

The couple moved to Sanford only last Saturday where Cecil Kimrey is employed by McCrory's.

Shortly before 3:45 yesterday afternoon, the Kimreys arrived at Hospital during the "open house" from 2 to 8.

T. E. Tucker, Chairman of the Board of Seminole Memorial Hospital was standing nearby in the reception room, when he took over and led the couple to the Fernald-Laughton Memorial Hospital. Mrs. Kimrey was admitted at 3:45.

A baby girl, 4 pounds and 5 ounces was born to Mrs. Judy Kimrey last night at 7:50, at the hospital only five blocks from her home at 407 1/2 West First St.

The Kimreys found the "hospital" all right, but Seminole Memorial Hospital won't be officially opened for patients until tomorrow. She will probably be transferred from Fernald-Laughton Memorial Hospital tomorrow morning to the brand new facility when the "Big Switch" gets underway.

Wilson's Back Home From Slushy 'North'

A. L. Wilson, manager of the Wilson-Maier Furniture Company, at 311 E. First St., Sanford, and Mrs. Wilson, returned Friday evening from High Point, N. C., where they attended the Southern Furniture Market's Spring Exposition.

The Wilsons were among nearly 2,000 furniture dealers and department store buyers who annually inspect the latest offerings of 100 southern furniture manufacturers using the facilities of the vast Southern Furniture Exposition building.

The Wilsons were glad to return to what they had considered "cold weather" here at home after slugging through nearly six inches of wet slush and snow in North Carolina. Open-toed shoes and oxfords were not much protection, so they have two brand new pairs of rubber galoshes as souvenirs of their trip.

Diamond Authority Addresses Rotary

Members of the Sanford Rotary Club at their regular weekly meeting held yesterday noon at the Yacht Club had the opportunity of hearing an outstanding authority on the diamond, universally recognized as chief among precious stones.

Mrs. Gladys Rasmussen Hannaford, of the public relations staff of N. W. Ayer and Son, Inc., has made the most extensive study and examination of the South African diamond mines ever made by a woman and is a trained speaker of broad professional experience who knows diamonds from the inside of the industry through work with cutters, wholesalers and retailers.

She has been associated with the De Beers Diamond Syndicate, considered to be the world's largest diamond organization and has appeared before countless schools, colleges and clubs.

Mrs. Hannaford stated that diamonds were valuable, for three reasons: they are the most enduring substance known; they are rare, being found in very few places and they are beautiful. She gave many instances of diamonds having an effect on history. She displayed genuine stones and replicas of practically all the famous stones of the ages.

As to statistics, Mrs. Hannaford mentioned where and in what quantity the stones in a very rough state were found stating that 98 3/10 per cent of all diamonds are found in the Union of South Africa. Her talk held the attention of her hearers in a manner that must have delighted her and she received a rising ovation at its conclusion.

The program, arranged by William E. Kader, local jeweler, was introduced by Charles Morrison. The meeting was presided over by William (Bill) Bush, club president.

WW 1 Vets Urged To Attend Special Meeting At 8 p. m.

A meeting will be held at 8 p. m. today in the American Legion home to organize a barracks of Veterans of World War I, U.S.A., Dr. A. Royal Forsythe said yesterday.

Dr. Forsythe, St. Petersburg, Florida department chaplain and state membership director, said the organization does not conflict with the American Legion, the purpose being to secure special benefits for the veterans who organized the Legion.

The organization concluded a successful state convention at New Smyrna Beach last weekend and 21 barracks are in existence in Florida now, Dr. Forsythe said.

He added, since organization nationally two and one-half years ago, there are 500 barracks in the U. S. with over 150,000 members in 38 states and the Philippine Islands.

One of the stated purposes is to secure for needy World War I veterans over 60 a pension of $100 a month in addition to any social security benefits, and another is medical treatment, Dr. Forsythe said, which is urgently needed.

Photography Studio To Open Thursday

A new studio of portrait photography, the Nichols Studio, will open Feb. 2 at 110 Magnolia Ave., in the building formerly occupied by the Powell Office Supply.

It will be operated by Eida Nichols, formerly of Kingsville, Texas, where she owned and operated the Nichols Studio. Mrs. Nichols attended Adel College in Kingsville, Texas, and is a graduate of The Wynona School of Photography. She is an active member of the Sanford Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi.

Bride-Elect Feted With Coffee Home Of Mrs. Hutchison

Miss Shirley Tyre, Feb. 4 bride-elect, was honored with an afternoon coffee Saturday afternoon by Mrs. R. U. Hutchison at her home in Cameron Hill.

The party rooms were decorated with gladioli carrying out the bridal theme. The dining room table was overlaid with a white linen cloth centered with a bouquet of red roses. White tapers were on each side and bore strings of tiny wedding bells to further bring out the theme. In both rooms and on the table in the living room flowers were used. A miniature bride marked a special place in the living room. A large wedding bell was placed on the table and was echoed by smaller bells throughout the home.

Miss Tyre wore for the occasion a lovely green dress with a pink camellia corsage. The hostess presented her with a hostess gift of her chosen silver during the event.

New Cheese-Topped Apple Pie

THE English have a famous old tavern dish called a Cheese Sluiper. It is a deep-dish apple pie, with cheese added after the pie is baked, and the whole thing run under the broiler heat a few minutes. Here is the American version.

CHEESE-TOPPED APPLE PIE
 Prepare your favorite apple pie and put it together except for the top crust. Now spoon triple-cream cheese spread on top of apples — about 1 generous tablespoon per cut of pie. Adjust top crust and bake as usual. The cheese spread will melt and permeate the whole pie with its sharp tang and delightful flavor.

He displays the living part of the house, which is ornate in the southern California tradition of the '20s and '30s. At the head of the stairs is a hidden passageway so small that Jackie Gleason couldn't get through it. This leads to a sun deck, where a hidden bed slides out at the press of a button.

He takes you into the large bedroom with seven-foot-square bed. Then you go down a long hallway, past his spacious office and outdoors.

He leads you down a steep path, past a sign saying 'I thoughtless people discard cigarette butts ("Find and use ash trays")' At one level is a large barbecue and swimming pool.

On the next level is a tennis court, championship size. Rudy leads you to a door under the court. Inside, you find yourself in a long hallway, about the length of two Pullman cars. On the walls are photographs, clippings and posters covering Vallee's long career.

Off this hall you find a large movie theater, a big bar complete with pool table and slot machines and another long lounge decorated with Christmas cards from celebrities over the years. Finally, on the level under the tennis court, is a vast catacomb-like place with files containing all of his old music arrangements, radio scripts and transcriptions, plus a liquor closet big enough to stock any commercial bar.

THE LIEUTENANT IS A LADY—Lt. Betty M. Roberts, NC, USNR, is the only woman officer based at the Sanford Naval Auxiliary Air Station. She received her permanent appointment to the rank of lieutenant in the Naval Reserve last week.

In Case Of Betty M. Roberts Lieutenant Title More Apropos

According to Emily Post, the correct way to address an unmarried lady is Miss, but in the case of Betty M. Roberts the title of Lieutenant is more apropos.

Spotlight On Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD (A)—You haven't seen anything until you've seen Rudy Vallee's house.

The place makes Liberec's house — piano-shaped pool and all — look puny by comparison. Come along for a tour.

You climb up, up, up into the Hollywood Hills, get a little lost, then find Pyramid Place, on which Rudy lives. You pass through an auto gate — "caution — This gate closes 20 seconds after you enter" — and climb to the top of the peak, stopping your car on a turntable as per instructions on a sign.

The master of the house is there to greet you, picturesquely dressed in knee-length yellow socks, walking shorts, yellow sport shirt and checked coat. He is smoking a long cigar and instructs you to follow him for the "40-cent tour."

The house was built by Ann Harding and Harry Bannister in 1930, then passed into other hands before Vallee bought it. Rudy added many features himself, including the door chimes that play his theme song "My Time Is Your Time."

On The BOOKSHELF

By S. DRIGGERS

Here are reviews on new books just received. "Five Devils of Killmainham" by Esther McCullough is based on a series of crimes committed in a small town near Dublin in 1882 and 1883. The murder of the Widow O'Shea sets off a train of events which end with the arrest of the murderer over a year later. The effect on the widows' only son is the theme of the novel.

"How to Live 365 Days a Year" by John Schindler, this guide to mental hygiene and psychosomatic medicine resembles other self-help books on the market. It excels most competitors, however, in its refusal to admit easy solutions to complex human problems and in its disavowal of the Pollyanna approach. The author has successfully put his method to work in the Monroe clinic in Wisconsin. He starts out by describing emotional induced illness and lists ways to achieve emotional maturity on the job or in the family.

"Gallant Captain" by Pearl Frye, is a biographical novel based on the life of John Paul Jones. As commander of an English ship in the East Indies, he stops a mutiny by killing a man in self defense. He then escapes to America with a band of smugglers. An exciting picture of turbulent times and of the man who said "I have not yet begun to fight."

"Tender Victory" by Taylor Caldwell is the story of Johnny Fletcher, a young minister, and his family of five orphaned refugee children. When the community of Barryfield will not accept them, it takes a common disaster to overcome public fear and mistrust.

"Boon Island" by Kenneth Roberts; a novel about the drama and peril of a wintertime shipwreck on a Maine island in 1710. Founded on actual experiences of John Dean. This is a gripping, though unevenly written novel, for men.

"Angry Hills" by Leon Uris, (author of "Battle Cry"); a slambang adventure tale which takes place during the German invasion of Greece. Mike Morrison, an American is given an envelope in Athens to be delivered in London. From then on Mike is caught up in enemy attack, sheltered and nursed by a Greek peasant girl, escorted to Athens by lovely Lisa, a resistance operator whose children are in the hands of the Germans. Read the book to find out how and if they escape in time. You feel as if you'd like to get more than a two dimensional view while reading this exciting novel, but there just aren't enough pages!!!

"Wings of the Morning" by Van de Water; A new novel by the author of "Catch a Falling Star" and "Reluctant Rebel." This story fills the gap in time between them, carrying on the exciting tale of Vermont's struggle for independence.

"Waterfront" by Budd Schulberg; a story of the mob ridden harbor, with its evils of the shake up, blackmail, tuggery and murder. A situation that has become a national shame is revealed vividly and compassionately in this book.

In the reference room, now a new volume called "College and Private School Directory of the United States and Canada". Published by the Educational Bureau Publishing Co. Inc., it includes a standard descriptive list of Universities, Colleges, Private schools or all descriptions, technical commercial, vocational and correspondence. It has a list of preferred summer camps, a travel section that lists travel accommodations, hotels and resorts. Also a directory of publishers, business firms and agencies.

Open House Is Held By Jay H. Becks Friday Evening

Mr. and Mrs. Jay H. Becks held an "open house" Friday evening at their home on 410 Magnolia Ave. celebrating their recent wedding.

A color motif of green, white, and yellow was used and the reception room was lovely with floral decorations. The punch bowl on the large serving table in the dining room was surrounded with fern and white camellias. The table was overlaid with a lace cloth.

On the buffet two silver candelabra held burning white tapers which were centered with cut glass bowls holding calendula and white stock.

Bouquets of white gladioli were used through the other rooms.

Mrs. Roy Holler presided over the punch bowl and Mrs. Christine Woodruff kept the guest register while Mrs. Marvin Millam was at the piano.

Others assisting in entertaining were Mrs. May Bell Maxwell, Mrs. Clara Lorig, Mrs. Pearl Hansell, Mrs. Beaula Thornton, Mrs. L. A. Brumley and Essie Wilson.

Approximately 75 guests called during the hours from 8 to 10 p.m.

Alston Convinced Dodgers Are Aware This Is New Year

NEW YORK (AP)—Walter Alston... Alston pointed to catcher Roy Campanella, pitcher Don Newcombe and third baseman Jackie Robinson as he spoke of his hopes for the new season. He discounted the problem of the Dodgers' advancing ages. "Campy, Newk and Jackie look pretty good to me," he said. "I think they all lost weight since the end of the season. Although they're a year older, they'll still get us plenty of runs. "Pitching could be a problem, if we still have sore arms. It all depends on how Carl Erskine, Karl Spooner and Billy Loos come around. Roger Craig and Don Besant should be better but you never can tell about young pitchers. Alston singled out second baseman Charley Neal (.374), outfielder Glen Smalton (.308) and pitcher Ken Lehman (.23-9) as newcomers from the Montreal farm with "good reports."

SOKC Charity Nite Set For Thursday

Sanford-Orlando Kennel Club will stage its first annual Charity Night racing program on Thursday, Feb. 9. All profit from the 10-event program will go to the Seminole County and Orange County charity and welfare organizations. Jerry Collins, new operator of the dog track, says that several Sanford groups will play a prominent part in the charity night. About half of the proceeds will go to Seminole County and it's hoped that the total profit from the special affair will reach the $4,000 mark.

Poirier Credits Win To Sureness

NEW YORK (AP)—Gene Poirier, shifty Niagara Falls youngster, credits his 10-round victory over Carmine Fiore, veteran Brooklyn left hooker, to added confidence. "The last time I fought Fiore I wasn't sure of my ability to go 10 rounds," said Poirier. "Now I know." Poirier, an 8 to 1 favorite, won the vote of only one official, Judge Artie Aldala (5-4-1), last night at St. Nicholas Arena. Judge Barney Felix (.674-1/4), Judge Harold Barnes (6-4) the AP (6-3-1) and most of the 1,500 customers thought Poirier won it. Poirier weighed 151, Fiore 150 1/2 pounds.

Sports Roundup

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The sum of $1,251,200 is not quite the digitized lump that it once was, when you could have bought a small railroad for that amount, but there still is a thrill in saying a few words to a horse that fetched such a figure. Nashua is a beautiful animal, even when interviewed at Hialeah Park in the chill of the very early morning. One could almost swear he knows what his new owners paid for him as he gazes majestically from Stall No. 45 and thinks up new ways of getting attention from his groom, Artie Robinson. Nashua stomps and stomps with an expensive foreign until Robinson jumps up in pretended exasperation with a "No, Mick! No, Mick!" and drives him back a step or two into the deep straw. Or Nashua nips at the spring which holds shut the special cage door of his stall to make it "hang" and he knows that will bring Robinson too.

For five weeks between the tragic death of Nashua's original owner William Woodward Jr. and his record sale to the syndicate headed by Leslie Combs, the colt and his groom camped out on a farm near Paris, Ky. Nashua ran loose in a pasture. Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons, the 81-year-old trainer of Nashua, recognizes that the snowpiece of his extensive stable is ready to run again, and he would like to let him stretch out for about seven eighths of a mile before he goes in the 3000-odd added "Winter Handicap" here Feb. 18, but it isn't too easy to find exactly the right event and the right conditions, even with the eager cooperation. "We've got too much time ahead of us to take any chances now," Fitz explained. "We'll have to wait and see how things turn out. Nashua isn't going to run in any race, not even in the Widener, if the track is really bad, the way it was a couple of days after last week's heavy rain."

APARTMENT FIRE. NARA, Japan (AP)—Fourteen Japanese burned to death and four were injured today in a fire that destroyed an apartment building, police reported.

MARRIAGE OF THREE

By ELIZABETH SEIFERT

CHAPTER TWENTY-ONE
"HATING nothing, Adam strode ahead of Ann. What with the cars one had to walk single-file in such a street. He heard rather than saw the scuffle behind him, he turned and—
"Great dogs!" he said under his breath.

An Indian lay on the ground at Adam's feet. She was watching traffic for a chance to go around him.

"What happened?" Adam asked.

"That character?" she gasped, eyes some bursting out of the corners and full right on Adam.

"And you pushed him?"

"Well, what else?"

Adam helped the man to his feet. He was undoubtedly drunk. He swore around his head the while Adam was being pushed.

"You ever let Dunning get started on the late war," one of the men told Pinky. "You're right here for all right!"

Pinky laughed and laughed. As ten o'clock, Adam thought they ought to try to make it to Santa Fe.

The hostess shook her head. "You'd better stay right here for the night," she said. "It's only two miles to the Highway, but with this snow—"

Adam took a look outdoors, came back and phoned Ann. She assumed that he was up at Los Alamos, and agreed that he shouldn't risk the snowy road at night.

"I might get through . . ." he said.

"Don't try it."

"You'll be all right?"

"If the roof doesn't blow off."

He left the telephone and joined Pinky and a group about the great open fire.

The night of the storm marked a change for Ann. She sat alone in the little cinder-block house, close against the ground, safe from the screaming wind, warm enough physically, but cold to her bones.

She'd stayed at the swank hotel where she'd first come to see New Mexico. Surely she'd love to go there with Adam. Why not go the next afternoon? It wasn't far.

Next day she stopped at the hotel to say that a storm seemed to be brewing.

Pinky spoke cheerfully. "It's only in the mountains. You know how this country is. Clouds don't mean a thing."

But the clouds meant business that night. Adam and Pinky explored the tiny, jewel-like chapel, read the plates on the wall of the big entrance way, and saw a few wind clouds close against their mountain, wind howling about them, catching the words from their lips. Snow and sand stung their cheeks.

Adam could scarcely see to guide Pinky down the slope to the Lodge where he'd left the car. "We'll get stinner here, and let it stack up.

Whose, what a bizzard!"

They went in through the wide porch, stepping across skis and poles and gear. The lamp-lit lobby was warm and friendly. A big fire roared on the hearth. A group of airmen from Kirtland had come up for some week-end skiing, and it was all very gay in the dining room around the fire afterwards.

Adam told some hilarious tales about the South Pacific; these were matched by what he called the spy-boys. One sergeant, a widwed-tongued rascal from Georgia, named Ed, who had a curving scar from one eye to the corner of his mouth, was doing his best to tell how he had been "wounded."

He was constantly frustrated in this attempt by interruptions and protests from his friends.

"You ever let Dunning get started on the late war," one of the men told Pinky. "You're right here for all right!"

door and snap on the light.

But there was no one in the white-painted roomlike porch. The outer door was swinging with each vicious gust of wind. She went over and looked it tightly shut, went back into the kitchen, locked that door and looked about with relief at the neatness of its shelves, the stove and refrigerator, and chokered red curtain. The warmth of the living room and its lamp-light folded reassuringly about her; she was relieved to return to the couch, relieved to be alone.

She remembered the way she had sat at the proper part of the door, and the thought of Adam's return. But now—

She hadn't really wanted Adam to come home. She looked steadily at the blue fire of the gas heater. I can't bear to have him around me," she said aloud. "I can't bear to have him in the house!"

In the deep silence, her words echoed in her mind, repeated themselves.

But what a terrible thing for her to say! She didn't mean it. Not really.

But, to tell the honest truth—as it was high time to do!—Ann was more content—she couldn't call it happy—when Adam was away from her, out of the house. Then the things she did, sewing, marketing, cooking, even her frequent excursions to the movies, were not a proper part of such wifely duties as he had allotted her; she could feel virtuous about the job she was doing for him as his wife.

The known Adam was at home . . . She talked to him, she let him touch her—but then a sense of something's being wrong would threaten her with the knowledge that there was something wrong!

The knowledge had come to her full force out there on the porch. She was as shocked by the revelation as if she judged a strange woman who told of hating her husband's presence.

She couldn't stand to have him around her! Ann had said.

If she really felt that way, she should pack up and leave! Leave at once. She had no right in Adam's home.

Shivering, Ann sat in the corner of the red couch. She should . . . But she couldn't leave Adam!

It would mean not seeing him again, not knowing what was happening to him, how far he had gone with his love affair. In building, his clever ideas—never, never having his child. One with eyes the color of the sky, and long, straight limbs.

She was weeping at this hour when the phone rang, but her voice was quiet. "I'm glad you're all right, Adam," she said softly. She hung up and went to bed. But the bitter tears continued to flow. She loved Adam. She needed Adam. Her soul rose and rose, until they filled the empty room, and even the storm could no longer be heard.

Informal University Discussions

GAINESVILLE, Fla. — A hole through a hole in a hole is no more puzzling than a bottle with no inside or outside that holds liquid.

But take a one-sided two-sided strip and you can get back to where you started.

This could be a lesson in Greek, but it's really part of informal discussions among math and astronomy club members at the University of Florida.

"It's all easily explainable, says S. Gould Sadler, associate professor of mathematics; the students are exploring various phases of mathematical aspects. And to this sort of double talk, Sadler, who is one of the club advisors, adds a bit of clarification. "All three are examples of continuous surface and are called 'topology'."

Topology is a nonquantitative geometry.

Take the hole through a hole in a hole.

Puncture a hole through opposite sides of a sphere such as a glass ball, then a similar hole at right angles to the first one. Where the second hole passes through the first is the hole through a hole, and it is in a hole because the hole of the sphere is hollow.

The bottle is a Klein's bottle which illustrates a closed surface with no inside and no outside—it ends where it begins. Liquid slowly dripped into the opening is retained and may slowly be poured out.

"The Mobius strip gets you back to where you started and is one of the curios of topology," Sadler said. "Take a long rectangle (marking the corners AB and CD), give it a half-twist and join the ends so that C falls on B, and D on A. "Draw a straight line down the center of the strip, extending it until you return to the point at which was started. Separate the ends of the strip and you will find both sides are covered by the straight line."

What it boils down to is this—club members are learning how to have fun with math and your reporter is still trying to understand about Klein's bottle.

GUNMAN WANTS DIRECTIONS
LEXINGTON, Mass. (AP)—A man with a gun in his hand invaded the home of Mrs. Dorothy Houdlette, 50, last night—and demanded only road directions.

She told police she was alone when the man rang the bell. When she went to the door, he forced his way in and without attempting to rob her or commit violence asked how to get to Route 128.

After she told him, the man got into a station wagon driven by an other man, and off they rode.

OLDEST RESIDENT DIES
VATICAN CITY (AP)—Vatican City's oldest resident, 91-year-old Maria Bonatti, died last night. She received the blessing of Pope Pius XII.

She was the widowed mother of Pietro Bonatti, custodian of the Sixtine chapel.

Electronic Brain Works On Rails

CHICAGO, Ill. — An electronic "brain" is working on the railroad.

Metallurgists of the Chicago and North Western Railroad employ a device called a quantummeter to discover the presence and amounts of foreign substances collected in the crankcase oil of diesel engines. They call it "the thing."

The thing knows more about the two diesels on the road's system than the men who operate them. It is a 25-gallon-capacity of crankcase oil, and it can detect mechanical sickness before the patient becomes bedfast.

Contaminants like lead, from wear of bearings; silicon, from airborne dirt; iron, from engine and ring wear; chromium, from either a water leak or engine wear on chrome-plated surfaces; aluminum, from bearing or piston wear; copper, from wearing bearings and bushings; tin, caused by bearing wear; silver, from wrist pin bushings; nickel, casting or gear wear are measured in quantities to one-millionth of a part.

The thing is so delicate that it must be housed in air-conditioned quarters maintained between 72 and 74 degrees Fahrenheit. Relative humidity is held at 40 per cent, plus or minus 10 per cent. The instrument itself is heated so that its intricate parts are a constant 78 degrees to prevent them from going out of kilter.

The thing was designed by Applied Research Laboratories of Glendale, Calif. North Western is the first railroad to use it in preventive medicine. "Blood tests" are made of oil samples taken every five days from passenger diesels, every 20 days from freight and twice a month from switchers.

The resulting data is interpreted carefully to determine the condition of each engine. A life mechanical history is kept on each diesel. Its crankcase oil is seldom changed. Average overhauls occur every six years or every 140,000 miles, Coughlan said.

As many as 150 samples can be tested in a day on the quantummeter. It has a spectograph which contains a prism, mirrors and a battery of 22 phototubes. The phototubes are its memory and record light from the ultra-violet area of the spectrum. They are able to store up the light as electrical energy and release it at the press of a button for recording on a chart.

In a test, a sample of oil is placed on a tiny metal "boat" and fired by an arc light. The resulting color and intensity of light is picked up by the prism and transmitted to the tiny mirrors that in turn reflect the color range spectrum of the selected elements to the phototubes.

Since last March, the thing is credited with saving the railroad as much as $100,000 in maintenance of diesel equipment, Coughlan said. Its accuracy once tripped up the chemical lab. An extreme quantity of lead was found in one oil sample. Another showed clear.

Investigation showed that a workman had washed his hands in the solvent used to clean the bottles in which oil samples are taken.

ALLEN HAYES JENKINS, national skating champion of the United States, takes to the ice in Cortina, Italy, in previous contest for the Olympics. Jenkins is from Colorado Springs, Colo.

Florida Acreage Prices Pushed Up

MIAMI (AP)—Florida acreage prices are being pushed far beyond their real or foreseeable future value by professional land speculators, a research firm said today.

"Syndicates and individual speculators are buying and selling raw and often unusable land in 10 percent down payment deals," said the First Research Corp. of Miami in its Florida business letter.

The firm said a statewide survey showed the present land boom is reminiscent of the land boom in the 1920s.

"The musical chair-land estate game has become so popular that courts are riving the state to 'locate' 'poor land' to use as legal tender in this new Florida land boom," it added.

Speculation fever has spread to the east coast's undeveloped beaches between Melbourne and Stuart, the firm reported.

Many Workers Are Included In System

TALLAHASSEE (AP)—The expanding merit system designed to provide state employees with job security already has taken over one-third of the state's estimated 24,000 employees.

Several other state departments, including at least one of the cabinet officers, may be brought in by July 1.

In addition to those state universities, the highway patrol and the parole commission have personal plans set up on a merit basis which operates outside the system.

Altogether this means that well over half of all state employees are under some type of merit personnel plan.

Angus Laird, director, said the number of employees covered were almost tripled when six state departments were brought in by executive order of Gov. Collins under authority of the 1955 merit law.

Mayor F. D. Scott today signed a proclamation designating the week of Feb. 3-11 as "Children's Dental Health Week."

He said that preventative dental care for children is the most effective way to attack dental decay.

It was stressed that the dentists and the Florida State Dental Society seeks to bring to the attention of all parents the need for helping to prevent children's dental decay by keeping their diet low in sugar or candy and training them to brush or rinse the teeth after every meal.

Mayor Scott, in his proclamation, urges that all citizens, schools and community organizations join in this special observance of the rules of dental care to improve the dental and general health of our community.

Rezoning Of Area Comes Up Tonight At Special Meet

Postmaster General Warns Of Swindlers Operating Rackets

Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield warned today said Sanford Postmaster Joel Field that there has been an increase recently in the racket in which swindlers send unneeded "C.O.D." parcels addressed to recently deceased persons.

The C.O.D. articles—often expensive Bibles, religious articles and the like—are sent at exorbitant prices, because the operators of this racket know the bereaved family usually will accept them, believing they were ordered by the deceased.

"The operators of this ghastly racket scan obituary notices, publications containing death notices and the like to find the names and addresses of deceased persons," Summerfield explained. "They then mail the item C. O. D. for a big price."

In some recent operations, some of the unneeded merchandise is being sent by Railway Express, rather than through the mails. However, the C. O. D. payments to senders are sent through the mails, and this places the matter under the jurisdiction of the Post Office Department, Summerfield related.

The operators in the operation of this particular racket has been located in recent reports by postal inspectors, Summerfield said. He urged citizens to report any information on the racket that may come to their attention.

All instances in which the U. S. Mail is in any way involved will be promptly investigated by postal inspectors, he added.

Request Referred To Group One-Lot Depth Under Discussion

The rezoning of an area on the east side of Laurel Ave. at 8th St. will come before a special meeting of the Zoning and Planning Commission to be held tonight at 8 o'clock at the Sanford City Hall.

The request for rezoning was referred to the Zoning and Planning Commission by M. R. Strickland and Homer Osborn.

The area under discussion will be the one-lot depth between 8th and 10th Sts. which includes a building originally purchased to house a recreation center.

Action, according to the notice mailed to each member of the Zoning and Planning Commission, is urgent and must be placed on the agenda of the Sanford Board of City Commissioners by February 10.

A commercial establishment has proposed the purchase of the property originally purchased by a recreation council which grew out of P-T-A proposals for a center to be used by young people replacing the presently used Cery Ciale in the City Hall.

The area, according to reports, is rapidly growing into a commercial one with the Southern Bell Telephone building to be constructed in the future on property opposite the proposed new commercial area.

The meeting of the Zoning and Planning Commission will replace the regular meeting of the group for Feb. 14.

The "Special Meeting" tonight is expected to bring to a climax and a final decision on the disposition of the area as a commercial zone.
