Wickham Urges States To Aid Dry Law Enforcement

Head Of Hoover Crime
Commission Offers
Views In Message To Governors' Council

GROTON, Conn., July 16. (INS)—George W. Wickham, former United States attorney general and now chairman of President Hoover's commission to investigate crime and law enforcement, in a letter read before the twenty-first conference of governors here today, advocated the suggestion that states of the union might better cooperate with the national government in enforcing prohibition, one of the major factors in crime.

The letter was read by Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York.

Wickham declared that at present the federal government is "leading the band" of enforcing prohibition. He suggested the states take over the leading of public regulation dealing with speakeasies, bootleggers and the like and the national government attending to the larger preparation of preventing smuggling and manufacturing of liquor.

The letter, the first expression of Wickham's views on the subject of prohibition in print, came as he was appointed chairman of President Hoover's commission to investigate crime and law enforcement.

Wickham, read from Wickham's letter the following:

"Of course one of the most serious subjects we must deal with in the enforcement of the prohibition amendment is the enforcement of the prohibition amendment. The enforcement of the prohibition amendment is the enforcement of the prohibition amendment."

STEEL AND RAIL STOCKS ADVANCE IN DAY'S TRADING

Movie Shares Climb
Also As Call Loan
Rate Remains At 12

NEW YORK, July 16 (INS)—New advances in steel stocks, railroads and movie shares, stimulated by active buying in speculative shares of all kinds on the big board during the first hour of the afternoon today. Though price gains were comparatively narrow, except in the high-priced specialties, the tendency of market values was distinctly upward.

United States Steel's 6 1/2-point jump to 205 1/4, a new high record, among steel stocks, was the result of a special meeting of the directors of the corporation, to be held after the close of the market today. It was not known for what reason the meeting was called, but rumors of further splits of the stock indicate have been circulating.

Railroad stocks were held fast by profit-taking and speculative selling but higher prices were noted for Pennsylvania, Baltimore and Ohio, Rock Island, Missouri Pacific and Western Maryland.

The favorite rails were not all very close with transportation stocks, but as a rule have included the dividend payers of the industry, with moderate earnings reported for the current year.

Warner Brothers, Paramount and other moving picture stocks posted further advances in the afternoon. Wickersham Urges States To Aid Dry Law Enforcement

"Every state executive has sworn to support and defend the constitution of the United States. The Eighteenth Amendment is part of the constitution just as much as any other part of it. Surely it is pertinent to this country to suggest and consider how they may best accomplish this solemn undertaking."

The three-day conference of the governors was formally called to order this morning with Governor John Trumbull of Connecticut delivering the address of welcome. Governor George H. Dern of Utah presided. Twenty governors from all parts of the country were present.

Governor Henry S. Caulfield, of Missouri responded to the address of welcome. Governor Dern of Utah then addressed the conference on crime.

"There probably is more devil than about any other subject," he said. "The burden of the song is that more severe punishment will put an end to crime."

"The nonsense of that argument is apparent when we discover that only one out of 30 persons who commit crime is convicted and usually that one belongs to the feeble minded and so-called 'cheap cranks.' The big cranks get away and are not affected by the harsh treatment meted out to those who are caught."

"The way to decrease crime is to make certain that the perpetrators will be caught and punished—if we could make capture and punishment swift and sure there must be willing and wholehearted cooperation among the states."

Governor Roosevelt followed Governor Dern to the speaker's stand.

"We are now faced with new and alarming problems in criminal activities," said Governor Roosevelt. "I am certain the public is aroused to the necessity of suppressing the outrage and open lawlessness evident by the murders committed daily in the public streets of our great cities, of the vile feuds between gunmen which flourish with less punishment than in the darkest of slums."

Press Offers Good Dramatic Stories For Milane Picture

Front pages of the daily newspapers provide endless stories for motion pictures, according to Charles Furthmann, Hollywood author and adaptor of many screen plays. His latest story, the Josef von Sternberg production "Thunderbolt," starring George Bancroft, which will show again at the Milane theatre, today was a series of these front page events into a gripping dramatic story of the underworld of New York's Harlem.

"One of the biggest motion picture successes of 1928," Furthmann says, "was first written on the pages of Chicago newspapers. The plot of 'Thunderbolt,' written by Josef Furthmann and myself, has a similar origin. A newspaper story of an adventurer who posed as an angel-faced innocent and duped a smart man of the world gave us a start. With this one character, which we later subordinated to secondary places in favor of a hard-hitting man who was not afraid to take life's blows, eventually evolved a complete scenario."

"Every personality in 'Thunderbolt,' with the exception of incidental players, has stalked across the front pages of American newspapers in the last three years. Great drama and melodrama is constantly in the making and only imagination is required to transform it into a screen scenario, a play or a novel."

Young Woman, Who Has Visited Here, Is Killed In Mishap

"The Spirit of Jefferson," newspaper published at Charles Town, W. Va., recently carried the following account of the death of Miss Virginia Lucas, who was killed July 6 in an automobile accident here where she had many friends here where she had visited on several occasions. The driver was Miss Brooke.

"One of the most tragic accidents in this section for many years occurred about ten o'clock Saturday morning, July 6, when Miss Virginia Lucas was killed in an automobile as she entered the main road from her gate at Rock Hall, on the Harpers Ferry pike.

Miss Lucas, in company with her aunt, Mrs. L. C. Brooke, were on their way to Charles Town to shop when the fatal accident occurred. Leaving the private driveway at Rock Hall, her country home, Miss Lucas drove out onto the main highway. An approaching truck, coming at a slow rate of speed, rounded its horn but Miss Lucas, being quite deaf, evidently did not hear the truck's signal and drove directly in front of the machine, resulting in the fatal accident. Miss Brooke was not injured by the impact of the truck and the Chevrolet sedan driven by Miss Lucas.

"The truck, loaded with timber and bearing a Maryland license, struck the sedan a little in front of the corner of the car, breaking the door and damaging the front part of the machine. Being on the left hand side, or drivers side, it is probable the reason for the severe injuries sustained by Miss Lucas, resulting in her almost instantaneous death."

"Miss Lucas was a daughter of the late Judge Daniel B. Lucas, a member of the Supreme Court of Appeals of West Virginia and a lawyer of distinction, and Mrs. Lena Tucker Brooke Lucas. She was a woman of great literary ability, having written several books of poems and contributed a number of magazines and periodical articles of an historic nature. She was cultured, educated and a delightful conversationalist. Her quick wit was always a source of pleasure to those fortunate enough to know her. Few women in this section enjoyed a wider circle of really intimate friends than Miss Lucas. Her home was a center of Southern hospitality."

"Her life was devoted to thoughtfulness of others and whether in adversity or in sorrow her cheerfulness and kindness were an inspiration to her many friends. In her death this community sustains an almost irreparable loss."

"She is survived by a large collection of influential people, although she had no immediate family, her father having died a number of years ago and her mother died little more than a year ago."

Negro Sought For Murder And Attack

MONTGOMERY, Ala., July 16.—(INS)—Search was under way today for a former state convict, a negro, following announcement by state authorities that fingerprints and photographs had convinced them he was the man who Wednesday night killed Jack Hines of Lufkin, Ala., and assaulted his young companion.

The negro's name was not given, but it was declared that he was released from the state penitentiary recently after serving a 11-year sentence for burglary. He is believed by officers to be hiding in or near this city.

The earliest use of candy was to disguise the unpleasant taste of medicine. It was made chiefly by physicians and apothecaries.

New Radio Slander Law In California Is Practically Same As Statute On Libel

Nothing Punishable As Slander Which Would Not Be Actionable As Libel If Printed, Says Authority Explaining Laws

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., July 16.

California's new radio slander law is almost identical wording to the criminal libel law and in reality involves no new principles, according to a written opinion of Superior Court Judge Leon R. Yankwich of Los Angeles, authority on libel and former libel attorney for numerous California newspapers.

Punishment by $5,000 fine or one year's imprisonment of anyone using the radio or other mechanical device for slander, is provided in the law which was recently signed by Governor C. G. Young, who stated that he believed similar legislation was inevitable in every state.

Basia for punishment of libel as a crime is the tendency to breach the peace, Judge Yankwich says, and if this is a valid ground for state interference, then the danger of such breach is greater now from the radio than from the printed word. He contends that the spoken word in a way which cannot be done by the printed word.

"The punishment of slander as a crime is not new," said Judge Yankwich. "In the code of Hammurabi (2250 B. C.) there is a provision making slander a crime. It is providing therein if a man points the finger at a priestess or the wife of another and cannot justify it, they shall drag that man before the judges and they shall brand his forehead."

"This provision, by making truth irrespective of motive a complete defense, is far ahead of the modern statutes dealing with the subject. Our statutes do not make truth defense in criminal prosecutions unless good motives and justifiable ends also be present. Hammurabi's code also is novel in this, that it provided for punishment not only of the slanderer but also of the one who listened to the slanderer."

"The distinction between slander and libel grew up in English law early in the seventeenth century. Judges, frightened, as it were, by the power of the printed word, decided that printed slander should be considered greater in effect than oral slander. From this beginning grew the principle that a thing may be libel when written which would not be slander if spoken. Many great English judges have combated the distinction."

"It can be seen readily that if the California legislature thought with the development of the radio, slander via this vehicle, should be punished criminal it had in mind the fact that many English authorities had deprecated the distinction which slander has enjoyed for centuries. The laws for the punishment of libel as a crime is the tendency to breach the peace. If this is at all a valid ground for state interference, the danger for such a breach is greater now from radio than from the printed word. You can inflame people with the spoken word in a way which you cannot do by the printed word."

"The wording of the new bill is identical with the wording of the section punishing criminal libel."
