BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

NO DESPAIR COMES TO THE FAITHFUL: Now why dost thou cry out aloud? is thy counselor perished? —Micah 1:9.

A PLEA FOR A SINNER

Dear Mr. God, please listen, Since I had to give him up, Please take good care of Tippy, Sir; —He's such a little pup.

Mother says You called to him And he just had to go, I wonder if he misses me, 'Cause, Gee, I miss him so.

I know You'll treat him awful nice, But he's really lots of care, And if it's rainy out-of-doors, He'll track mud everywhere.

He'll sure get into everything, If You leave him just a crack, But Mr. God, if he bothers You, I'd be glad to have him back. —Pete Reed.

WITH WHOM THERE IS NO VARIABleness

It fortifies my soul to know That though I perish, truth is so; That, however I stray and range, Water's I do, Thou dost not change, I steadier step when I recall That, if I slip, Thou dost not fall. —Arthur Hugh Clough

Japan tells all other nations to get out of the trouble area in China so as not to run any danger of getting hurt. The "open door" of China is gradually closing.

Despite an adverse celery season, Sanford is enjoying a building boom and its merchants are looking forward with greater optimism at the prospect of the future.

Max Schmeling will not only be fighting for the heavyweight title he will be fighting for the privilege of remaining a German. If he falls he might just as well sell his return ticket.

The train wreck in Montana, costing nearly 50 lives, focuses attention not on the danger of railroad travel but upon its comparative safety. This is the first real smashup in many years. The day used to be that train wrecks kept newspapers supplied with their biggest headlines.

The business upswing is not expected to be felt until next Fall and then it won't get into high gear until early Spring, so the experts tell us. Wouldn't it be swell if we could have an interim during which time business neither got better nor worse—just a long dull period of normalcy—then a man might be able to tell within 100 percent what his receipts would be.

It seems to us poor psychology to remind young people that there are no opportunities left in the world today, that the frontiers have all gone, that big business has throttled all chances of advancement. Sanford has seen several of its young men going right to the head of the class during the current depression. Winning national recognition have been Bud, Byron, Stephens, and William Holmquist, and there are many lesser lights who are making names for themselves in all parts of the state and nation.

From our own office, we have seen these young men take advantage of their opportunities in very many ways to gain enviable jobs in other towns. We mention the names of M. C. Waters, and the others who are being mentioned in the field.

The Industrial System

A person doesn't have to look very far to find a bad case made out for industry. The woods are full of criticism of the machine age and its attendant evils. There is seldom a voice lifted to extoll the benefits which we all enjoy because of the inventive genius and energy of our industrialists.

Time was, not many years ago when there was a very common word, drudgery, in the daily vocabulary of a great many people. Today that word is seldom heard because it can no longer be used honestly. Drudgery of the household passed out with electricity, automatic ice boxes, vacuum cleaners, dish washers, streamline stoves and ironing equipment. The modern housewife's most serious problem is keeping the callous places off her thumbs from pushing buttons.

Within our memory, automobiling was a drudgery. A Sunday afternoon excursion into the country with the family used to be an experience not unlike a six-day bicycle race or a turn at the pick in a coal mine. The car was bound to break down either fore or aft, and lucky was the expedition that got back home without having the piston rods jammed through the hood, the differential sounding like a keg of nails, the muffler dangling behind and at least three blow-outs. The old man would be covered with dust and grease, his wife a nervous wreck, and the children black and blue from bumps received when the springs collapsed.

Contrast this picture with conditions existing every day, in every town, in almost every family. The car, the cheapest on the market, can do seventy miles an hour with perfect ease. Its looks and riding comfort equal those of cars costing many times as much. It can stand all manner of abuse and never give any trouble. The worst thing that can happen is an occasional puncture and his isn't much of a problem, what with the latest methods of changing tires. In the old days it required a contortionist, four crowbars, and a stick of dynamite.

We take the radio, the talking movies, air conditioning, mammoth ocean liners, streamlined trains, and luxurious airliners all as a matter of course, never realizing that behind all these was a system, evil in ways perhaps, but nevertheless on the whole a good system, the industrial system.

Beetle Drivers

Whenever the subject of safe driving arises, there is always heard condemnation of the speeder, but, as menacing as the speeder is to life and limb, he is not the only type of motorist that deserves all the blame.

The Miami Herald says "There is another driver who is almost as obnoxious, but, perhaps, not so dangerous, as the speedster. He is the fellow who dawdles along at a low rate of speed and usually occupies the center of the street or road. He gazes back and forth over the highway as he lazes along.

"He forces the drivers behind him who are anxious to get on, to take perilous chances in passing him. He is a pest who needs regulating along with others who continually violate the reasonable rules of the road.

"The Pennsylvania motor police are launching a drive against highway accidents, and they have a special eye on the scenery gazing, thoughtless driver.

They have him on the list and they call him the beetle."

"We have beetle drivers here in Miami and on our country roads. They ought to be taught how to drive, how to keep out of the way of safe drivers, and to act while in their automobiles as though they have a reasonable amount of common sense—even if they have not."

HUMAN INCUBATORS

The domestication of the silkworm has attracted the interests of various civilizations since 2600 B. C., when the wife of China's Emperor Huang-ti first started feeding caterpillars.

In the year 552 two monks, seeing great industrial possibilities in the production of silk, smuggled some eggs from China concealed in the segments of their bamboo walking canes. They brought them to Constantinople, where they superintended experiments in cultivating the worms. They then turned the industry over to the Emperor Justinian, by whom it was monopolized.

Neighboring peoples soon took it up, and today many countries, especially those of the Mediterranean region, Persia, India and Arabia, raise silk in commercial quantities.

One of the strangest methods of silkworm culture is practiced among the Persians. The women attach silkworm eggs to pieces of paper and place them next to their warm bodies, underneath their clothing. After about three days, the eggs hatch and the tiny larvae crawl forth. They are then removed and placed where they may feed on leaves conducive to producing a fine grade of silk for their cocoons when they become full-fledged caterpillars.

The operation of spinning requires about five days, during which time the insect usually produces from 2,000 to 3,000 feet of silk, consisting of two microscopically-blended strands. These are produced by two special glands which run nearly the entire length of the body, terminating in apertures in the mouth.

It is estimated that there are about 20,000 to 40,000 silkworm eggs in a single ounce, capable of producing 100 pounds of cocoons or nine pounds of raw silk.

Not many years ago the French government sponsored a strange project to help her peasants combat the ravages of hail on their crops.

Hundreds of large, lofty "hail-rods" were erected to draw off electricity from passing storm clouds and prevent hail from falling in the vicinity—nobody knew exactly why.

Needless to say, the scheme was a failure and the French farmers soon gave up the idea when they found the hail-rods were not effective.

Hankow Defenses Strengthened By Chinese Forces

The Yangtze River offensive against Hankow and others north into Shansi province for a new try at penetrating the Chinese communist stronghold, adjacent Shensi province.

Only by an invasion of Shensi could the Japanese hope to cut off the Soviet Russian supply of munitions to Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek's armies.

A Japanese spokesman said Chinese forces in Shansi had been reinforced lately to a strength of between 100,000 to 200,000, better equipped now than when the Japanese thrust through the province from North China.

He said the Chinese were trying to re-occupy towns and cities in the southern sections of Shansi. The Japanese admitted that their foe had attacked Howma and Kuwo on the Shansi railway in the southwestern tip of the province.

The spokesman declared the Chinese were attempting to destroy Yellow River dikes on the northern, or Shansi, side of the mighty river to facilitate their attacks. The flood in Honan to the south was believed to have reached its crest.

Chinese sources reported 20,000 Japanese already were en route from Honan northward to assist hard-pressed garrisons.

Czar's Granddaughter Is Married In Rome

ROME, June 20.—(AP)—Princess Irena Youssouff, daughter of Prince Felix Youssouff, who is said to have brought about the killing of the Russian monk Rasputin, was married yesterday to Count Nicholas Scheremieteff.

The bride is the granddaughter of a sister of the murdered Czar Nicholas II of Russia, and the daughter of Princess Irini Michalovitch. She is a descendant of the Russian ruler Peter the Great.

The mother, Princess Irini, brought suit in London in 1934 for $2,000,000 against Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Pictures Ltd., charging she was libeled in the film "Rasputin and the Empress." In a settlement of the suit, the motion picture company paid her $250,000.

with direct participation in the espionage ring.

The objective of the elaborate spy system, the indictments indicated, was to steal military aviation secrets, including designs of American war planes which are regarded as the best in the world.

The fact that Nazi government officials were mentioned directly instead of secret agents, as is the usual procedure in espionage disclosures—was expected to create a ticklish diplomatic situation, since it definitely involves the German government.

A TRIBUTE

By MRS. KENNETH MURPHY

Is it not but fitting that a devoted little family should do honor to a wonderful father and companion? Loyal friends did honor to the memory of Kenneth Murphy as he lay just two months ago in the little chapel of the church of the Holy Cross. Death removed in him one of the striking figures of life—he was a vigorous personality, mentally and physically—a personality that would not and could not be submerged.

He was a son of one of Ohio's most prominent families, Judge and Mrs. Charles Willard Murphy—a son born into that privileged class, which in its usual possession of leisure, is given over to study of intellectual pursuits. From Kenyon College he graduated, majoring in business economics. The beginning of his life's work was in Washington, D. C., specializing in government contracts. He was connected with the Farm Administration and the Department of Agriculture, district credit and collection manager in the regional office of the old crop production loan office, representative in charge of the Atlanta office and later, upon formation of Production Credit Corporation, he was the expert organizer of the Civil Service Commission and had charge of the formation of production credit associations in the Third Land Bank District and especially in Florida.

In the completion of his work in Florida, in his usual unselfish way, according to the wishes of his family, he remained in Florida, entering the fertilizer business—a new life, a different one. Adapting himself and with all his energy and enthusiasm he gave his very best to its success. No man to the manor born could have given himself more devotedly to the common weal. In all his labors he thought first of the public good—never of himself. His honesty, his trustworthiness, his unselfishness, his general readiness to work with and for others, not only disarmed opposition but gained for him the friendly esteem of all. The growth of his business was a direct result of his honesty and his unselfishness.

But then France has the privilege of changing her mind again if the non-intervention plan to evacuate foreign volunteers fails. The development in Paris was taken here as implying there might be a mediation effort in the Spanish war by major European powers.

But obstacles still were great since both sides in the conflict appeared irreconcilable.

The government militiamen and insurgent veterans today fought a desperate battle for three miles of low-lying hills along the eastern Spanish coast, possession of which might decide the fate of Valencia.

If the government could hold out until fortifications were completed on a new defense line 12 miles south, General Jose Miaja's chances of stalemating General Franco would be greatly increased.

If the insurgents smashed through a direct road to Sagunto and Valencia, 35 miles south, apparently would be opened.

During the past three days virtually every yard of the hills has been fought over. Much of the battle has been hand to hand fighting.

Louis Odds Gain On Eve Of Titular Bout

Fighters Reported In Peak Condition For Go Tomorrow Night

NEW YORK, June 21.—(AP)—Biting in the high temperature of their own arguments, as well as the current June heat wave, the fistie faithful gravitated toward the big town and the big fight.

The approach of the near-million dollar spectacle the Wednesday evening in the Yankee Stadium, featuring dusky Joe Louis and Teutonic Max Schmeling in a 15-round match for the world heavyweight boxing crown, seemed to be conducive to more fever than facelifting.

Although the climax of training camp activity produced nothing more startling than reassurances that both gladiators had worked themselves into the traditional peak of condition, it developed that week-end betting had made Champion Louis a more pronounced favorite to turn the tables on his challenger.

There has been little tendency to "go overboard," either financially or for literary effort, but Broadway Jack Doyle reported his latest warring quotations as follows: 1 to 2 against Louis to win, 17 to 10 against Schmeling, on a decision; 9 to 10 against a knockout by Louis, 5 to 2 against a repetition of his 1936 K. O. by Schmeling.

Barring sudden development, calculated to sway pre-fight opinion, there's little reason to doubt that Joe and Max will enter the ring as closely matched as any title pair since the Dempsey-Tunney days. The usual eleven-hour rumors have begun to develop, along cauliflower row, most of them designed to hint that "Louis can't lose"—but this is characteristic of the fight game, in its bigger business dealings. It can be discounted now, as heretofore.

Behind some "inside talk" is the idea that Schmeling, if he relimit than to end quickly, peats his victory of 1936 and becomes the first champion to regain the crown, will put the championship "on ice" back home in Germany.

This, of course, would be a severe blow to the industry now dominated by Promoter Mike Jacobs. It doesn't hold very much weight, however. Schmeling is already under contract to defend the title, not later than 1939, and probably could be persuaded to stake it against Max Baer this fall, for a substantial cash consideration.

It is no secret, however, that Jacobs will be much better pleased if Louis gets the revenge he is seeking and remains the king of the heavyweights. The negro is under long-term contract with "Uncle Mike" and is certain to defend the title again this year, if he turns back the German.

Louis, satisfied that he is on edge tapered off yesterday at Pompton Lakes, N. J., with roadwork, with the gloves on, impressed a capacity gallery of fans and critics yesterday. Joe will motor to New York Wednesday morning for the official weigh-in.

Schmeling, after a brisk four-round drill in the ring at his Speculator, N. Y., camp yesterday afternoon, echoed his handlers' assertions that he is in the best fighting trim of his career. Said Max: "I'm satisfied that I've reached unsurpassed condition. I expect to win over Louis again."

The German's confidence is no less superb than that of the negro, who insists he will try to finish Schmeling quickly, possibly within two rounds.

It will surprise most observers, however, if either fighter gambles at the outset or takes undue risks. Both are counter-punchers at heart, relying chiefly upon openings created by the other fellow's mistakes. The bout seems more likely to go the

So that you may be better acquainted with John (Cuba) Contreras, member of the catering staff of the Sanford Lookouts, songbird and a comedian of the crew, we will give you a few facts concerning the little but mighty man.

John, sometimes called Don, is a full-blooded Cuban and is a native of a Latin colony in West Tampa. He is 27 years of age, stands five feet six inches tall and hits the scales at 135 pounds. This is Contreras' first attempt in professional baseball, largely because of his small build.

Until this season, John played among semi-pro and amateur circles on the western coast of Florida. During the latter portion of the 1937 season, Contreras ventured to Alabama and played with Bridgeport in the Tri-State League, a semi-pro circuit. This spring he decided to make an attempt at pro ball and contacted Henry Watson former prey of the Sanford Baseball Association.

The Lookouts signed him but shortly after the season opened they released him. However, he learned about the managerial change slated to take place so he remained in this city until Bill Rodgers arrived to replace Guy Lacy.

Rodgers watched him in several practice sessions and immediately signed him. Since then, he and Freddie Holland have been dividing the platter work. Although Contreras is small, he has a wonderful throwing arm. He was the first catcher in the Florida State League this season to throw out Manager Lyle Judy of the Saints when he attempted to steal second base one evening.

His throws well, hits well and his movements are fast. He has saved himself many a passed ball by being agile and he is alert in the game at all times. Contreras is very entertaining and mirthy times, on long one day trips to St. Augustine or Gainesville, he entertains the entire roster. His favorite pastime is imitating political speakers while making election addresses and could probably give Dave Sholt's a valuable lesson along this line. He can talk and sing in three languages, English, Italian and Spanish.

Goat milk is more easily digested than cow milk.

Rain Prevents Lookout, Saint Game Last Night

Pinder May Hurl As Clubs Clash In Ancient City Tonight

The scheduled Florida State League tilt between Sanford and St. Augustine was called off last night after a heavy rain flooded the Municipal Baseball Park about two hours before game time.

The Lookouts will travel to St. Augustine tonight for a contest with the Ancient City crew but Manager Rodgers failed to announce his starting hurler. It is expected that it will be Joe Pinder, who was slated to begin last night's battle.

The line-up for the locals will include Joe Ruggiero on second base, Van Brown in rightfield, Bob Pitman on third base, Max Langston in rightfield, Pete Mahalic in leftfield, Fred Holland on first base, Lelloy DeLamais on shortstop, Don Contreras behind the platter and Pinder on the mound.

The line-up for the Saints will include July on second base, Oler on first base, Heim in leftfield, Balan in centerfield, Ret-n-ki on third base, Kirkland on shortstop, Schweigerath in rightfield and either Wrenn or Gonzalez catching. Carl Weigle may be the starting moundman for the Saint outfit.

The G-Men scored five runs in the seventh to break a 1-1 tie which had existed since the third and then came the Goldoliers' eighth and the ball game.

Roosevelt Signs Bill Providing Millions To Assist Recovery

WASHINGTON, June 22.—(AP)—The Public Works Administration today began the 1938 spending-lending program with an allocation of $41,632,717 in grants and $9,021,000 in loans for 291 projects.

Howard A. Gray, assistant administrator, said the 291 projects would involve $92,520,374 of construction. Grants were for 45 percent of the cost and loans for 55 percent.

The difference between the total of the loans and grants and total construction cost, Gray said, would be made up by the applicants.

Six grants fell in the million dollar class but a majority drew from a few thousand to as much as half a million dollars.

Among the projects were $1,000,000 for a school, $1,000,000 and loan of $2,200,000 for harbor development; Jacksonville grant of $1,670,155 for $7,712,122 worth of school improvement; Boca Raton $43,363 for bridge; Gainesville $149,277 for road.

Improvements at the University of Florida; Ocala, a grant of $148,790 for a high school; Fort Pierce, a loan of $22,000 and grant of $4,000 for a hospital; Mayo, a loan of $28,000 and a grant of $16,364 for water works.

President Roosevelt last night announced he had signed the lend-lease bill providing more millions for recovery, and multi-billion dollar aid to aid some people think and that it is getting better.

He said newspapers he had signed the new recovery law by which the government recognizes that economic and social welfare go hand in hand.

The bill, the president explained, as read from a rough draft of notes, covers both forms of welfare and permits the program to get under way immediately, with a large amount of money to be spent for many different forms of assistance, not only to the unemployed and for selling wages out, but also to agriculture, industry and to business.

He said it would be carried out in partnership with state and local agencies—almost wholly a partnership work. Practically, he declared, all PWA work is that, all PWA work is that, it is, he emphasized, a partnership bill.

He read figures revealing estimates of national income for the first three months of 1937 totaled to a year that will be likely to exceed $90,000,000,000 as against $85 for 1937.

He cited the first quarter figure as a definite improvement over what the government had been working on, which, he said, was an estimated national income of $80,000,000,000 for 1936.

Then he observed business was not and has not been as bad as a lot of people believed it to be, adding that he was speaking in terms not only of industry but of agriculture as well.

Ralph B. Chapman of Sanford was elected vice-president of the Adviser's Association to promote the interest and welfare of the Florida Order of DeMolays yesterday at the annual convention here held in Tampa.

A. L. H. St. John, of Jacksonville, was elected president of the officers, including William Franklyn of West Palm Beach, vice-president of the lower East Coast district; John W. Rogers, of Pensacola, vice-president of the Pensacola district; and Frank O'Brien, of Tampa, vice-president of the Tampa district.

Delegates voted to hold their 1939 convention in Pensacola.

Reports were given of the outstanding achievements of members of the St. Petersburg and Pensacola chapters. St. Petersburg DeMolays contributed more than $500 during the last few months to charitable organizations and other institutions.

St. Petersburg Junior College received a contribution of $350, members gave $150 to the Crippled Children's Hospital at St. Petersburg, $50 to the DeMolay revolving educational fund and $15 to the Warm Springs foundation, Warm Springs, Ga., founded by President Roosevelt.

An athletic contest scheduled for yesterday afternoon was postponed until this afternoon because of the rain.

The final business session of the three-day conclave will be held this morning at the Scottish Rite cathedral at 9:00 o'clock. Officers will be installed and several cups and trophies will be awarded. Paul Armstrong, of St. Petersburg, will lead a discussion on the ritual, and A. F. Pierce, of Tampa, will give a talk.

Outlining the history of the Municipal Zoo, Superintendent Parks James I. Moughton told Kiwanians at their regular weekly luncheon today that the zoo is one of Sanford's best advertising attractions.

Mr. Moughton said the zoo received its first great impetus while Karl Lehmann was secretary of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Lehmann believed the zoo would be a great attraction for Sanford and under his leadership the present zoo was chosen as the most central and appropriate place for its permanent establishment.

Pointing out that the zoo was started with only a few birds and animals, Mr. Moughton declared that he had to secure a permit from the State Game Commission to take a limited number of wild fowl which formed the backbone of the present fine collection of birds.

He related the incident where a man who called himself Captain Archer appeared at the zoo with a big reptile several years ago saying it was a komodo dragon, a rare reptile, and offered to let the zoo have it if they permitted him to charge a small admission to see it for a limited time. A couple of years later news stories from the north indicated that the only komodo dragon in captivity had just been brought to America. A picture of the reptile here was sent to Dr. Raymond Ditmars in New York and Dr. Ditmars wrote that the reptile was of different species.

Mr. Moughton told of a trip which he took a couple of years ago to the island of Komodo.

Rhodes States Publicity Of Celery Needed

Market Commissioner Says Advertising Is Solution For Expanding Market

State Marketing Commissioner I. M. Rhodes last night told a large gathering of local farmers who packed the court room of the County Court House that advertising was the necessary means for expanding the market for Florida celery.

He pointed out that the Florida celery crop over an eight-year period has an annual average value of over $1,000,000 and that Florida leads all other states in the marketing of celery during the shipping season. He declared, however, that the future of this industry was threatened unless the problem of "how to increase profits to growers" was satisfactorily solved.

"It is economic folly to expect the industry to continue to produce celery at a loss," he asserted. "It is my sincere opinion and well founded conviction that the celery industry cannot succeed or even continue to exist unless the producer is allowed to make a fair margin of profit, and an income commensurate to his investment and labor," he said.

County Agent C. R. Dawson introduced the speaker and later outlined to the farmers a scheme for sending celery recipes to housewives in the principal markets. In advocating a national advertising program for the commodity, he declared the industry was faced with a problem of either over-production or under-consumption and that the only remedy open to the industry was either to curtail production, which is a step backward, or increase consumption, which, he declared, could be done through proper advertising.

Several prominent farmers and others expressed opinions on the value of an advertising program and the County Agent announced that a committee would be appointed to investigate the possibilities of launching a campaign during the next season.

When asked for an opinion on the probable effect of the Marketing Agreement under which the industry operated during the past season, Mr. Rhodes declared that it is a mistake in marketing any product to crowd the markets thereby decreasing demand.

In his address, Mr. Rhodes declared that Florida shippers must remember that competition begins at home and that price declines are due largely to how orderly and in what volume the Florida crop moves.

"Advertising is the art of recommending commodities, services or merchandise to consumers or patrons. It stimulates demand and finds customers.

"Advertising acquaints the consuming public with the merits, quality and supply, and spreads up producers' sales and consumers' purchases. Advertising helps to keep consumption adjusted to production and makes a dominant appeal to the consumer.

"In advertising lies the power to create new markets, new desires, new demands, new ways of doing things, and a better understanding of what we have to offer. To try to sell Florida's celery crop without it would be to drift along the channels of trade in a redoubt craft.

"Why not tell the consuming public that our celery is not only delicious but that it improves the health, increases the happiness and lengthens the lives of those who consume it—and thereby increase the consumption and add a million dollars to the profits of growers.

"The same advertising that has expanded the markets of other fresh foods will do the same for celery. The celery industry must realize that all food producing industries are engaged in a struggle for buyers and consumers; and when a consumer's stomach is filled with other fresh fruit or vegetables, he will not eat celery.

"With only one other state shipping a new crop the first six months of the year in strong competitive volume, and with the celery growing districts concentrated in only a few counties in

Comptroller Lee Flays Inequality Of Present Tax Adjustments

Florida Commissioners D. I. Theobald, F. A. Dixon and W. B. Haddock, joined Comptroller J. M. Lee at the annual meeting of the Florida Association of County Commissioners in Pensacola yesterday.

The Seminole Commission met today for the first time and was expected to meet in Sanford tonight in early morning following the concluding session of the convention this afternoon.

The Comptroller criticized the present and adjustment of tax rates, the provisions of the so-called Murphy law.

"I identified syndicates and profiteers, he said, against the 'commodity' taxpayers.

He said $8,124,790 of taxes was withheld for $18,546 in tax credits, which were provided by the adjustment law.

"In the name of justice and equity," Lee declared, "let us get out of this commodity and adjustment business. If you are not going to collect taxes on the basis of cost, then don't jump on them over there. If we get equity, let us get it right into our pockets. The tax problem will take us to 1940."

Lee said the county commissioners were under a great deal of pressure to reduce the tax rate, but he pointed out that the tax rate was not based on the county roads and bridges. Former Senator W. A. MacWilliam of St. Augustine proposed the amendment and the commissioners referred the plan to their legislative committee.

MacWilliam would have the counties use part of the bond retirement money now received from the State to reduce the tax rate. "I'm going to have them build roads and bridges," Lee said, "and I'm going to have them pay for it by paying the high way bonds in whatever amount of cash they are switched to retirement. These bonds are exempt from governmental operating taxes, but they are not exempt from taxes for bonds issued prior to 1934.

Franco's Forces Prepare For New Attack On Barcelona

Two British freighters were sunk in Spanish waters today as Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain, already severely criticized for failure to stop attacks on British shipping, pressed his efforts for a truce in the Spanish civil war.

A lone sky-raider sank the freighter, Thompson, with a well aimed torpedo and later returned to stay the Santon. A third member of the Thompson crew was killed, all others were rescued.

The attack comes as the British cabinet meets to consider what progress if any has been made by Chamberlain in trying to persuade Franco Mussolini to halt the Spanish war. Franco is believed to be in close contact with the sky-raider.

Spain's urgent advice, in General Franco's opinion, aimed down to a neutral standstill in the British Air Force, was a preliminary to a fresh offensive on Barcelona. He was not to be taken in by Chamberlain's drive through Catalonia, now would which victory for him.

In the House of Commons yesterday the British Prime Minister indicated an armistice was the only practical way to end international atrocities which had arisen from the war.

He declared Britain would try from time to time to see whether there were favorable prospects of success and "when the time comes we shall be only too glad to offer our services, either alone or in conjunction with others, in bringing this lamentable conflict to an end."

Chamberlain compared the task of mediating in the civil war to settlement of an industrial dispute by a third party.

With the greater part of Spain under his control, it is considered unlikely that General Franco would agree to any cessation of hostilities except on his own terms.

Pardon Board To Hear Plea For Commuting Of McCall's Sentence

TALLAHASSEE, June 22.—(AP)—The Florida Pardon Board today granted C. A. Arvriett, Jasper attorney, 30 days in which to prepare a plea that the death sentence imposed on Franklin Pierce McCall for the confessed ransom kidnaping of Jimmy Cash be commuted to life imprisonment.

The board promised a death warrant would not be issued until after Arvriett had an opportunity to advertise his intention to seek clemency and to investigate the question of McCall's sanity.

Arvriett and Attorney General George Connor Gibbs will agree on the date for further hearing of the case.

Arvriett, previously had asked the pardon board to consider a plea that the 21-year old McCall be saved from the electric chair and allowed to spend the rest of his life in prison.

The attorney retained by McCall's relatives in Jasper, his lawyer here, said he did not wish to prevent the case today but wanted the board's word it would allow him to offer arguments and petitions after advertising intentions to seek clemency as required by law.

Answering a reporter's question, Arvriett said he had no intention of going beyond the pardon board with the case. This indicates that no contention is planned if a clemency plea is turned down.

Tax Suit In Mellon Estate Is Settled

WASHINGTON, June 22.—(AP)—The Government settled yesterday for $668,029 a $3,000,000 tax controversy involving the estate of the late Andrew W. Mellon, former Secretary of the Treasury.

The settlements included $405,000 principal and $262,220 interest figured from 1931, the year in which Mellon allegedly underpaid his income taxes.

A ruling by the Board of Tax Appeals had awarded the Government $103,653 plus interest and had exonerated Mellon of income tax fraud charges. Both parties agreed today not to appeal the decision.
