Meeting will air Seminole High plans

SANFORD — An informational meeting for parents and the public about proposed scaled-down versions of the Seminole High School building reconstruction program made necessary by a $3 million cutback will be held at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the school media center.

Architects and school officials are scheduled to be present to answer questions and receive input. The construction is planned for the fall.

No one injured in Geneva plane crash

GENEVA — There were no injuries reported in the crash of a small, private airplane in Geneva, but Seminole County sheriff's deputies said today the plane was totaled.

The crash occurred when the engine of the 1946 Luscomb Silver-A stalled. Its left wing clipped a tree over a private runway on Sutherland Air Strip, Jungle Road, Geneva, at about 4:15 p.m. Saturday. Pilot John Jurlina, 64, of 560 Old Mims Road, Geneva, told sheriff's deputies the engine stalled, the wing clipped a tree about 15 feet above the ground, and the plane crashed. He was flying alone.

The owner of the plane, Daniel Shaw, 41, of 520 Old Mims Road, was first on the scene after the crash. The Federal Aviation Authority has been notified of the accident.

Seminole girls win state heptathlon title

Seminole High School's girls track team captured its second straight state heptathlon title in Lake Worth over the weekend, only a week after the team won its third consecutive state track championship. See story on page 7A.

Vandals spray paint Lake Mary property

LAKE MARY — Vandals caused $300 damage to property in Lake Mary when they spray painted bulletin boards, signs, doors, windows and a brick walk recently in the Lake Mary Boulevard Country Club board area.

According to police records the vandals randomly sprayed blue paint on a bulletin board in front of Lake Mary City Hall, a sign in front of Kevin's Lock and Sale, and property at Calvary Baptist Church.

Drug, sex education proposals to board

By Carol Rumsey
UCF Intern

SANFORD — Recommendations to introduce sex education, including education about AIDS, to all levels of students in the Seminole County School District are expected to be approved at a future board of education meeting.

The board discussed recommendations for health, drug and sex education as part of its total wellness philosophy at a Friday work session.

Funding was cited as a major obstacle in the drug-free schools program. A four-member committee proposed an additional guidance counselor for each Seminole County school.

The committee also recommended help for students returning to the classroom from suspensions or rehabilitation programs and mandatory in-service training for instructors of substance abuse courses, however Supt. Robert Hughes reminded the board that money for those programs is hard to come by.

"We are 66th in funding out of 67 counties in the amount of dollars per student and it's not getting any better," Hughes said. "Growth engulfs the budget. How do you hire additional staff when there is not enough money to pay the existing staff?"

M.G. Daley, assistant superintendent for instructional resources, said the proposed programs would teach factual information Daley also serves on the sex education committee. She said the program is really a cooperative effort between family and school.

All levels — elementary, middle and high school — will receive instruction on decision-making, family roles and responsibilities, child abuse, sexual abuse, growth and development, human body and sexuality, peer pressure, individual responsibility, personal hygiene, reproduction and AIDS.

Middle and high school students will be taught about birth control, abortion, teen pregnancy and sexually transmitted diseases. The program, if approved, will put the emphasis on abstinence. Daley said students will receive homework assignments to be completed with parents' help.

Just when AIDS instruction will be incorporated into elementary school programs and who is to teach it, has yet to be

Foreclosure of property in Oviedo on board agenda

By J. Mark Barfield

SANFORD — County officials are hopeful Seminole County Code Enforcement Board members will approve foreclosure on Marvalyn Higgins' property this week in an effort to clean up the neighborhood expanse in Oviedo.

"We will request the board to allow us to begin foreclosure proceedings," said Assistant County Attorney Louie Groat.

"We hope the board members will exercise their full authority."

Board members balked at beginning foreclosure proceedings against Higgins last month, deciding to allow her another month to comply with county zoning regulations. If approved at the Code Enforcement Board meeting Thursday, it would be one of the first county foreclosures for code violations.

Higgins reportedly began living in an unpurported tool shed and tent last year in violation of county regulations. The structures have no sewer facilities, which is also a county violation, officials said. Her overgrown lot has become the bane of her neighbors on Lowery Drive in Oviedo.

Higgins has amassed about $70,000 in county fines, which she has not paid, not halted their continued imposition by re-

Ramp falls at Auto Train; 4 hurt

SANFORD — Four people were injured, none seriously, when a ramp used for the loading and unloading of cars from the Auto Train at the Amtrak station collapsed early Saturday afternoon.

"All I know is that I was walking and it just fell," said Kevin Brooks, 21, one of the four employees injured. "I was walking underneath. It shocked me. I just got naked."

Also hurt were Tim Goodenough, 18, Sean Morris, 19, and Myrel Reid, 18. All four are Sanford residents and are employed by the Peatross company that handles the loading and unloading of cars at the station.

According to reports filed by the Sanford Fire Department, which sent rescue units to the scene at 2:14 p.m., Brooks complained of back pain, while Goodenough hurt a shoulder. Morris was reportedly uncom-

New firing range uses computers, lasers

By Susan Loden

SANFORD — To shoot or not to shoot?

That is the question any law enforcement officer could face at any time.

How might an officer react in a potentially deadly situation with an unpredictable outcome?

Until recently there has been no way to test how local officers would react under realistic conditions, or to test their skills when shooting at a moving, unpredictable target.

Police officers who train at Seminole Community College in Sanford now have access to a new device intended to put the officers into video-generated situations where they have to make split-second decisions whether or not to shoot. This video-laser, computerized system can provide realistic target practice and evaluation of decision making, marksmanship and reaction time.

Firearms Training System

• What: A computer-controlled machine that employs filmed events projected on a screen and handguns that fire lasers.

• Where: At Seminole Community College.

• Why: To test law officers' judgements on when to fire their weapons at a suspect, and when to withhold fire.

• Who uses: Seminole County deputies will begin training on the machine soon, as well as police officers from Sanford, Lake Mary, Winter Springs and Winter Park.

In addition to instantly displaying a shooter's score on a screen, it also prints out a score which can become part of the officer's personnel file. The results may pinpoint skills that need upgrading or may even make some lawmen reconsider their career choice, said Seminole County sheriff's deputy David Smith, who is coordinating the training for SCC.

Firearms instructors from the Seminole County Sheriff's Department and Sanford, Winter Park, Winter Springs and Lake Mary police departments have been practicing with the $35,000, SCC-owned Firearms Training System (FATS) since it was installed at the college recently. The college has offered use of the system to all law enforcement agencies. It will also be used to train criminal justice students at SCC. Smith said sheriff's deputies will probably be scheduled for official tests with the system in August.

The system will be used in conjunction with outdoor firearms range training. Because live rounds of ammunition aren't used with the system, it is less expensive than range shooting. Also, the FATS system is used indoors, so weather isn't a factor in its availability.

A few officers have dropped in to check out the system and Smith said most who tried it have found they need more firearms practice under these realistic conditions.

Smith, who has been a sheriff's deputy for 16 years and who is a firearms instructor, said FATS has shown "I could use some more training. I think anybody could. We're too used to hitting targets that are standing still. Our problem is reaction time." Smith said he has

POLICE IN BRIEF

Suspect in aggravated battery incident found hiding in closet

SANFORD — A man found hiding in a closet has been charged by Sanford police in connection with a May 9 aggravated battery at that location.

Alan Carl Borsdorf, 28, of 1105 Laurel Ave., Sanford, was arrested at Franklin Arms Apartments, 1120 Florida Ave., Sanford, at about 9:40 p.m. Sunday.

Witnesses to a May 9 battery at that same location, during which Borsdorf allegedly cut Richard Pringle on the arm and the back of the head with a large knife, reported to Sanford police Sunday that Borsdorf was back at that apartment.

Police arrived and met at the door of the apartment resident Sandy L. Woodbury. Woodbury had been arrested May 9 on three counts of aggravated assault with a knife after allegedly threatening three persons in the same incident.

She reportedly told police Borsdorf was not at her home Sunday and gave them permission to search. Police reported finding Borsdorf hiding under a shelf in a hall closet in the home. Witnesses reportedly identified him as a suspect in the earlier attack and he was arrested. He has been charged with aggravated battery and was being held in lieu of $5,000 bond.

Holdup nets robbers $28

SANFORD — A Sanford man reported to police that he was held up at gunpoint early Sunday morning by two men demanding money.

Richard J. Snow, 1057 Henry Street, told police that he was walking near the corner of 13th Street and Olive Avenue at 4:15 a.m. when he was approached by two men who got out of a car. One man demanded money while the other held a handgun pointed at Snow. The unknown bandits got $28 from Snow and then drove off, according to the police report.

In other police action:

• A yellow Datsun, valued at $500, was reported stolen from M & V Motors, 1501 S. French Ave. The car was stolen sometime after May 11.

Police arrest would-be computer thief

SANFORD — A burglar alarm at Crooms School of Choice drew Sanford police to the scene where they reportedly found a man walking away with a stolen computer. The suspect faces several charges and remains jailed in lieu of $5,000 bond.

Greg Mark Sanders, 25, of 1814 Knox Ave., Sanford, was arrested outside the school at 2200 W. 13th St., at about 10:33 p.m. Sunday. He has been charged with burglary, grand theft, possession of burglary tools and possession of drug paraphernalia.

When confronted by police, Sanders was allegedly carrying a computer from the school. He reportedly had in his pockets a screwdriver and a pipe believed used for smoking narcotics.

In other police reports filed during the weekend:

• WINTER SPRINGS — A man apprehended by Winter Springs police outside the home of his former girlfriend has been released on $8,000 bond and faces charges of burglary and assault.

Jeffrey Scott Hefley, 28, of 1067 Seventh St., Casselberry, was nabbed outside 175 Lori Ann Lane, Winter Springs, at about 5:46 a.m. Sunday.

His former girlfriend, who was not named in the arrest report, called police to that location. She told police she was awakened by Hefley, who had forced entry to her home. He reportedly went outside as she called police and had allegedly made threats against the woman.

The victim said she and Hefley broke up Friday and since then, her car's tires had been slashed and a foreign substance put in the gas tank.

• SANFORD — Anthony

Lewis, of Sanford, suffered a cut to his face when hit with a bottle and a Sanford man has been charged with aggravated battery in connection with the incident.

Lewis reported he was attacked at William Clark Court, Sanford, and Sanford police arrested William Guy, 29, of 109 Castel Brewer Court at that location shortly thereafter. Guy was arrested at 9:08 a.m. Sunday and was being held in lieu of $5,000 bond.

• CASSELBERRY — A husband who allegedly battered his wife and threatened her with a loaded gun is free on $500 bond. He is scheduled to appear in court June 1 on a charge of spouse abuse-battery.

Robert Ellis Weber, 41, of 683 Holly Hill, Casselberry, was arrested outside his home at about 10:30 p.m. Saturday, two hours after Seminole County sheriff's deputies first visited that house to settle a dispute between Weber and his wife, Esther.

Mrs. Weber accused her husband of pushing her and threatening her with a loaded gun.

DUI ARRESTS

Several arrests were made during the weekend on charges of driving under the influence of alcohol. Arrested were:

• Mary Shannon Kavanaugh, 21, of Miami, after she was stopped by police for speeding on State Road 436 in Altamonte Springs at about 1:30 p.m. Police report Kavanaugh became belligerent with the officer when she was stopped and given sobriety tests, reportedly striking him as he attempted to arrest her, and later reportedly slapped an intake officer at the police station.

Kavanaugh was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol, assault on a law enforcement officer, battery on an intake officer, resisting arrest without violence, criminal mischief, and driving a vehicle with a tag not assigned to the vehicle. She was booked into the Seminole County Jail where bond was set at $2,000.

• Christopher Scott Wayt, 21, 331 S. Northlake Blvd., Altamonte Springs, was arrested for DUI Friday night when an Altamonte Springs police officer reported seeing his truck slowly drive through a red light at the intersection of State Road 436 and Northlake Boulevard. The officer reported Wayt's truck continued east on SR 436, weaving from lane to lane and blocking traffic. When he was stopped, Wayt failed roadside sobriety tests and was arrested, reports show. He was charged with DUI, failure to maintain a single lane and running a red light. He was booked into the Seminole County Jail where bond was set at $500.

• Richard Allen Davis, 19, of Lakeland, was arrested early Saturday when an Altamonte Springs police officer reported seeing him speeding west on State Road 436. After failing sobriety tests, Davis was charged with DUI and booked into the Seminole County Jail on $500 bond.

• Jackie M. Rolan, 46, of Eustice, was arrested on State Road 600 after a Florida highway patrolman reported seeing him speeding and passing several cars in the center, left-turn lane. After failing a Breathalyzer test, he was arrested and booked into the Seminole County Jail. Bond was set at $500.

• Mark Allen Houser, 25, of 186 Nova Road #3, Sanford, was arrested at 8:05 p.m. Saturday after his car was in an accident on Markham Woods Road.

Lottery goes to $10 million

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Computer records show no one picked all six winning numbers in the weekly lotto drawing so the jackpot will roll over for the third time, pushing next week's prize to more than $10 million, a lottery spokesman said Sunday.

Winning numbers in the weekly drawing were 15-40-8-47-25-22.

Eager ticket buyers pushed sales for the week above $7.7 million, which lottery spokesman Ed George described as "phenomenal." The pace grew frenzied in the final hours before Saturday night's drawing.

"Between 7 p.m. and 8 p.m., we sold 6,137 tickets a minute, which translates to $2.148 a minute for education," George said.

The top prize money will continue to mount until someone correctly picks all six numbers.

Like the weather? have some more

By Fred H. Cooper
Herald Staff Writer

Those of you who saved your money by not buying arks over the weekend can maintain solvency by eschewing the purchase of stock in Noah Enterprises. It just ain't gonna do much during the next few days in the way of rain. The official prediction: More of the same.

Now, this "the same" means daytime highs in the high 80s and low 90s, depending on where in Seminole County you happen to be when you decide to check the thermometer reading. Lows will be in the 60s, and these will occur at night. Breezes will be the balmy type from the east and southeast. One word might describe the whole silly weather condition: sultry.

It did rain a little in Sanford over the weekend, but it was only 5/100ths of an inch. There may be widely scattered showers today and tomorrow in the late afternoon. It will be cloudy a lot. Count on it. Maybe even some early morning fog.

Count your blessings though. You could be in Hawkeye, Arizona and endure temperatures of 105 degrees. Or, shiver your timbers in Gunnison, Colorado with a freezing reading of 23 degrees.

If you still believe in rain, know that it does do that thing some places.

Rain and thunderstorms continued to drench parts of the Midwest, West and Pacific Northwest today while dense fog shrouded portions of the Northeast and clear skies brightened Louisiana and Texas.

Thunderstorms marched across southern Iowa and eastern Nebraska this morning and rain pelted northern Arkansas across northeast Oklahoma and parts of Missouri and Kansas to eastern Colorado. Rain also touched much of Nebraska and South Dakota and a few showers sprinkled eastern Washington and northern Idaho.

Widespread dense fog clouded the Lehigh Valley of northeast Pennsylvania and reduced visibilities to near zero in parts of Maine and New Hampshire.

Clear skies also stretched from northern Minnesota to central Montana.

Sunday night, a tornado touched down at Pikesville, Ala., west of Tuscaloosa, damaging two homes and downing powerlines and trees.

Thunderstorms swept Texas, Louisiana and Mississippi Sunday and lingered in the Northeast where lightning killed two people, including a pregnant woman electrocuted while holding a telephone as lightning struck a phone line.

Rick Moody, 45, was found dead near his campsite in Deer Lake, N.Y. Sheriff's deputies said they believe he was struck by lightning during thunderstorms that hit the area. An autopsy was scheduled.

More thunderstorms occurred Sunday in New York State, Pennsylvania, northern New Jersey and western New England, the National Weather Service said.

Severe thunderstorms moved out of Texas across Louisiana into Mississippi, producing large hail and high winds, with more severe weather expected in the Gulf Coast region Sunday night, the weather service said.

(Reports by United Press International and data provided by the National Weather Service were used in compiling this report.)

Local Report

The high temperature in Sanford Sunday was 89 degrees and the overnight low was 63 as reported by the University of Florida Agricultural Research and Education Center, Celery Avenue. Recorded rainfall totalled 0.05 inch.

Area Readings

The temperature at 8 a.m. 71, overnight low 67. Sunday's high 90, barometric pressure 30.06, relative humidity 81 percent, winds East at 6 mph, rain None. Today's sunset 8:13 p.m., Tuesday's sunrise 6:30 a.m.

Area Forecast

Today, partly cloudy with a 20 percent chance of afternoon thunderstorms. Highs in the lower 90s. Wind southwest 10 mph by afternoon. Tonight, becoming fair with the lows in the upper 60s and lower 70s. Light wind. Tuesday, day partly cloudy with a 20 percent chance of afternoon thunderstorms.

Extended Forecast

The extended weather outlook, Wednesday through Friday, for Florida except northwest — A chance of thunderstorms mainly north half Wednesday. Otherwise partly cloudy with seasonal temperatures through the period. Lows in the 60s north and 70s south.

Moscow Summit: A little is better than nothing

By Jim Anderson
 WASHINGTON (UPI) — Weary U.S. and Soviet arms negotiators — looking at each other across a pile of 300 pages of an unfinished treaty — have conceded short-term defeat and produced a face-saving substitute for their leaders to sign at the Moscow summit.

U.S. negotiators reached into the pile and pulled out Page 46, a non-controversial article in which both sides agree to notify the other of all ballistic missile tests.

Known as a confidence-building measure, the agreement is relatively unimportant because most long-distance missile tests are made over international waters, where mariners and aviators are notified routinely of the possible danger of dummy warheads splashing into the ocean.

But the signing of the agreement, which won't require Senate ratification, will be something for the leaders to sign — an "event" to ease the professional hunger of the estimated 6,000 reporters, photographers, editors and technicians who are expected to cover the May 30-June 2 meeting.

The larger strategic arms control agreement — the other 299 draft treaty pages still on the table in Geneva — is far from complete. The negotiators, driven by orders from President Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev at their last summit in December, are described by U.S. officials as "exhausted burned out."

The Soviets have asked for at least a four-week respite after the summit, just to rest up before diving back into the Geneva negotiations at the beginning of July.

The shorthand formula for the strategic arms reduction talks is that both superpowers will reduce their long-range nuclear arsenals by 50 percent over a five-year period.

In fact, because of the complex ways of counting nuclear weapons, the reductions — if they finally occur — will be in the order of 20 percent to 30 percent. A manned bomber — even though it can carry up to 10 nuclear-armed bombs — will count as one weapon.

An MX missile, which might have only a single warhead, will count as 10 because it is capable of carrying that many warheads.

The remaining negotiating problems are serious and complex. The principal ones are: —How to count and verify sea-launched cruise missiles, known as SCLMs and pronounced "sleek-ems."

Since a nuclear-tipped cruise missile looks exactly the same on the outside as one fitted with a high-explosive conventional warhead, nobody has figured out a workable way for the other side to tell which is which in order to count them as part of the nuclear arsenal.

One Soviet proposal is for inspectors from each country to go aboard the ships of the other side and identify the nuclear warheads with a Geiger counter.

U.S. experts say the Soviet system won't work, citing background radiation from nuclear reactors aboard the ships, and the ability to shield the radioactive warheads.

One senior American official cities a deeper reason: "I don't know of anybody who wants Soviet inspectors aboard American submarines. Do you know anybody who would want that?"

The Americans have countered with a proposal for each side to simply declare how many nuclear and conventional SCLMs they have, with no inspection. Not surprisingly, the Soviets have not been enthusiastic.

—How to keep track of mobile land-based missiles. Mounted on rail cars or huge road vehicles, the mobiles are meant to be difficult to target. This also makes them difficult to keep track of with photographic satellites.

A bigger problem, from the U.S. side, is that the various planners in the Pentagon have not yet agreed on which U.S. missile will be produced in the future and whether it will be transported by rail or by road.

—There has been no agreement on the chief remaining item of U.S. Soviet contention — the link between offensive weapons and defensive systems, such as the Strategic Defense Initiative, popularly known as "Star Wars." The Soviets want some guarantee that defensive systems won't be deployed. The Reagan administration adamantly refuses to bind itself.

But this problem may be solved with time and the passing of the Reagan administration, since both George Bush and Michael Dukakis are much less enthusiastic than Ronald Reagan about SDI.

As progress is made in limiting nuclear weapons — such as the Intermediate-range Nuclear Forces agreement — technicians now looking at the next generation of "conventional" weapons, such as highly accurate cruise missiles.

Diet Pills Sweeping U.S.

Doctors Invent 'Lazy Way' to Lose Weight

New 'Fat-Magnet' Diet Pill Gives You Steady Fat Loss

BEVERLY HILLS, CA (Special) — An amazing new weight loss pill called "fat magnet" has recently been developed and perfected by two prominent doctors at a world famous hospital in Los Angeles that reportedly "guarantees" to help you steadily lose fat by simply taking their tested and proven new pill.

You Can "Eat Normally"
 Best of all, "you can continue to eat all of your favorite foods as long as you don't increase your normal eating habits. You can start losing fat from the very first day, until you achieve the ideal weight you desire."

It is a totally new major scientific breakthrough for weight loss (worldwide patents pending).

Flushes Fat Out of Body
 The new pill is appropriately called the "fat magnet" pill because it breaks into thousands of particles, each acting like a tiny magnet, "fat trapping" and trapping many times its size in undigested fat particles from food that you have just eaten. Then, the trapped fat is naturally "flushed" right out of your body.

Within 2 days you should notice a change in the color of your stool, caused by the fat particles being eliminated.

"Pills Go To Work"

The fat-magnet pills alone, "automatically" help reduce calories by eliminating dietary fat, with no exercising. You simply take the pills with a glass of water before meals. However, you can lose weight "faster" if you choose to follow the fat-magnet diet plan along with the pills.

The fat-magnet pills are already sweeping the country with record sales and glowing reports of weight loss. It's a "lazy way" to lose weight for people who enjoy eating.

Now Available to Public

If you need to lose a large or small amount of weight, you can order your supply of these new highly successful fat-magnet pills and diet plan (now available from the doctor's exclusive manufacturer by mail or phone order only) by sending $20 for a 90 pill supply (+ $2 handling), or $35 for a 180 pill supply (+ $3 handling), cash, check or money order to: Fat-Magnet, 9016 Wilshire Blvd., Dept. W246, Beverly Hills, CA 90211. (Unconditional money-back guarantee if not 100% satisfied.) Visa, MasterCard and American Express OK. (Send card number, expire date, and signature.) For fastest service for credit card orders ONLY call anytime 24 hours, toll free (1-800)527-9700, ext. W246.

War on drugs no simple act

The House of Representatives has voted overwhelmingly to require the armed forces to "substantially halt the unlawful penetration of the United States borders by aircraft and vessels carrying narcotics" within 45 days. Will lawmakers next command the tides to stop?

Since 1981, the United States has doubled, to nearly $800 million, the amount of money it spends on interdicting drug shipments across the border, including armed forces support for the Customs Service and the Coast Guard. According to estimates compiled by government agencies, the percentage of smuggled cocaine seized at the border has gone up from 2 percent to 25 percent since the beginning of the decade. Yet in the same period, the U.S. price of cocaine has fallen by half, and officials estimate that the amount successfully imported has doubled. The purpose of interdiction is to discourage drug consumption by making drugs more costly and less available. By that measure, the increased interdiction efforts of the last seven years have been a stupendous failure, especially in the case of cocaine, the nation's most vexing problem.

By pulling the military more deeply into the war against smugglers, the House is hoping for something to change. But smugglers enjoy important advantages in the struggle. It's nearly impossible, even with a major investment, to achieve full radar coverage of thousands of miles of border. Even were the military able to track all the hundreds of thousands of planes and boats that ply the border areas, it would still have to identify likely smugglers among all the legitimate traffic, then pursue and arrest the smugglers before they drop off their small cargoes in the huge expanse of the southwest desert or the gulf coastline.

Almost everyone wants to stop drug smuggling. But effective anti-drug policy requires more than wishes and election-year posturing. Before the military is thrown more heavily into drug interdiction, Congress should determine that the nation's defenses won't thereby be weakened and that the military expenditure will yield better results than putting the same amount of money into programs—education and treatment—that will attack the problem at its source: Americans' appetite for illegal drugs. Until then, sending the military into the drug war is nothing but irresponsible and mindless political pandering.

Ill advised word

Comes now another example of the deprecation of language, the trivializing of words that bear heavy freight: A news conference called by a civil rights coalition to complain about the Border Patrol's current "sweeps" of illegal aliens.

The coalition had a point. The raids sent mixed signals at a time, in the weeks before the amnesty deadline, when the Immigration and Naturalization Service was trying to overcome distrust and get as many eligible people as possible to apply to become legal residents of this country.

But the point was blunted by the description of the sweeps as "pogroms." The word was used several times. It is verbal overkill of the worst sort.

Pogrom had its origins in the devastation, destruction and massacres inflicted on Jewish shtetls in Eastern Europe, usually abetted, or at least tolerated, by the authorities in czarist Russia.

By extension, pogrom has come to apply to any organized persecution and massacre of a minority group. It does not apply to an agency of the U.S. Government trying to do its job, which in this case is to round up those who have immigrated illegally. That agency may fumble the job, or its timing may be bad, or some of its officers may be heavy-handed. But what they are doing is not a pogrom, and those who say it is are insulting both the Border Patrol and the memory of those who suffered and died in pogroms.

Time for remembering Pumpkin Papers

By Arnold Sawislak
UPI Senior Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Growing up, some events remain just below the surface of memory, always ready to be recalled into sharp focus by some esoteric cue. For many of us who remember the 1940s, "Pumpkin Papers" does it.

The announcement last week that Whittaker Chambers' farm near Westminster, Md., had been designated a national historic landmark brought back a flood of memories under the label "The End of Innocence."

When World War II ended in 1945, those of us too young to fight but old enough to know what had happened believed that the forces of evil had been destroyed and that the world was ready to enter an era of peace, prosperity and justice.

The courageous Russians, who had turned the Nazi tide in Eastern Europe at a price of lives in the millions, were our allies. China, freed of the Japanese aggressors, seemed ready to emerge as a great free nation.

The dash of ice water was not long coming. Suddenly, what Winston Churchill called the Iron Curtain divided Europe and China's interrupted civil war resumed. Stalin and Mao replaced Hitler and Tojo as international villains.

The Red Menace, which we vaguely knew had terrified our parents in the 1920s, reappeared in the United States. The House Committee on Un-American Activities went communist hunting, making a lot of noise but bringing back few scalps. True believing anti-communists believed the committee. Others viewed it as a political circus at best, a threat to free speech and thought at worst.

Then came the Hiss-Chambers case. The impeccable and upright Alger Hiss, a model of Eastern establishment respectability and diplomatic professionalism, was publicly accused of carrying on a secret life of communist allegiance and Soviet espionage. His accuser was the rumped, dumpy Chambers, a writer and confessed former communist who seemed to many to be intent on expiating his sins by smearing everyone he ever knew.

The Pumpkin Papers were microfilmed documents Chambers said he hid in a hollowed-out pumpkin on his farm north of Baltimore in the late 1930s, and the photographs of committee sleuths peering at Chambers' garden as if they had just discovered the fateful evidence were a forerunner of the staged "photo opportunities" that are a mainstay of modern press agency.

The documents actually proved nothing, but the episode became a symbol for the entire drama that was climaxed by a tense public confrontation between Hiss and Chambers and the former State Department official's sworn denial of the spy charges. That is what led to Hiss's conviction for perjury.

What came to be called "the McCarthy era" ran its course by the 1960s, re-emerging in less virulent form in the 1980s. But for those innocents who had their first sip of ideological politics 40-plus years ago, the words "Pumpkin Papers" evoke a taste that never will be completely forgotten.

Future direction needed

WASHINGTON—Times change, and political leaders, if they are wise, change with them. For the United States, that means that the national leadership in the next four years cannot afford to rely on the rhetoric or the policies appropriate eight years ago. Wise as many of those policies were then, there is need for a fresh look at problems and opportunities facing the nation.

For political conservatives, nothing would be more tragic than to offer warmed-over proposals for the 1990s or to adhere rigidly to the agenda of the early 1980s. Conservatism ought not to be regarded as a static approach to society. It ought not to be in the grip of an ideology or place theory ahead of reality.

Vice President George Bush certainly has an opportunity to articulate new directions for the United States in the 1990s. If he is to head a new administration, it should not be a clone of the administration which preceded it. Important measures were taken in the 1980s, but new and different measures are needed in a new decade.

Specifically, much stronger efforts must be made to address the No. 1 problem facing the nation—the budget deficit. America's new status as a debtor nation has not been fully appreciated in or out of government. A liberal-dominated Congress certainly has failed to come to grips with this grim reality. Debt service has become an appalling drag on the nation. Secretary of the Treasury James Baker's policy of talking down the U.S. dollar has left the United States with a gravely weakened currency, while the currencies of America's principal trade competitors—Japan and West Germany—get stronger month by month. The country needs a very strong hand at Treasury in the next few years that will seek to arrest the fall of the dollar.

The country also needs a new Secretary of State who appreciates the importance of a strong national stance on international economic questions—something that has been absent in recent years.

Indicating appointees would be something new in American politics, but it makes a lot of sense. The American people need and want specific information regarding the policies of those who aspire to the highest office in the land.

Verification key in dealing with Soviets

By Jack Anderson and Dale Van Atta

WASHINGTON — "Verification" is the buzzword on Capitol Hill these days. How will we know if the Soviets honor the intermediate-range nuclear forces treaty? Will they cheat and then cover the lie with characteristic indignant bravado?

If they do, the Army general in charge of the U.S. verification team will recognize the symptoms. Brig. Gen. Roland Lajoie has been there before.

In 1985, when a Soviet sentry killed U.S. Army Maj. Arthur Nicholson in East Germany, it happened on Lajoie's watch. He was then chief of a team of military observers who, under the terms of an agreement with the Soviets, were allowed to spy on specific Soviet military facilities in East Germany. While doing his job, Nicholson was shot to death by a Soviet sentry.

The Soviets have never apologized for the killing, in spite of several requests from U.S. diplomats for a formal apology.

From experience, Lajoie knows better than to expect an apology, or

ROBERT WALTERS

Appraise appraisers

WASHINGTON (NEA) — For most buyers and sellers of property, the methods and procedures relied upon by real estate appraisers are mysterious — but the importance of their work is universally acknowledged.

Because virtually all real estate purchasers rely upon borrowed funds for their financing, the appraiser's indispensable contribution to the transaction involves establishing the fair market value for the property that constitutes the collateral for the loan.

"It is the real estate appraiser," explains Rep. D. Douglas Barnard Jr., D-Ga., "who provides lenders and investors with assurance that, in the event of default, the (value of the) property ... will be sufficient to cover all or most of the outstanding loan balance."

But Barnard fears that too many appraisers are willing to accommodate the demands of both unscrupulous borrowers and dishonest lenders to improperly inflate property values.

"Appraiser ineptitude, negligence and misconduct are widespread," says a report issued by the House Government Operations Committee. "Faulty and fraudulent real estate appraisals have become an increasingly serious national problem. Their harmful effects are ... pervasive and costly."

The committee's report, based on an extensive investigation conducted by a subcommittee Barnard chairs, offers this description of a typically corrupt transaction:

"In exchange for an implicit or explicit promise of future business, so-called 'advocacy appraisers' provide the numbers needed to make the deal work." Instead of the independent value estimate they are supposed to furnish.

Borrowers press for inflated appraisals because they can obtain larger loans. Overly aggressive banks and other financial institutions also encourage the fraudulent practice because it enables them to lend more money, the report says.

The subcommittee's probe of the industry found that phony real estate appraisals "played a crucial role in the gradual weakening and ultimate collapse" of banks in Texas, Oklahoma and Tennessee.

The congressional report cites similar problems affecting commercial banks in California, Illinois and other states, while reporting that savings and loan associations in Florida and Maryland "failed in large part due to appraisal problems and abuses."

Contributing to the scandalous situation is the lack of professional standards governing the work of the 150,000 to 250,000 people who perform real estate appraisals on a full- or part-time basis.

Only about one-third of them are affiliated with a respected trade association that relies upon professional standards, certification criteria, codes of conduct and disciplinary procedures. The remaining two-thirds are unaccountable to any professional organization for their conduct.

"If appraisers want to be recognized as the professionals they truly are," says the congressman, "they have to be willing to assume the obligations of professionalism."

Elderly may eat poorly

By Lidia Wasowicz
UPI Science Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Older Americans who live alone are more likely to suffer from poor nutrition than those who share their home with a spouse — and women tend to be worse off than men, a new study shows.

A survey of 4,402 men and women 55 years old and older found a deficiency in mineral and vitamin intake among 22 percent of the women and 20 percent of the men living alone, compared to 18 percent of the women and 11 percent of the men cohabitating with a husband or wife.

In the general U.S. population, 6 percent of the 55-to-64-year-old men live alone, 10 percent of those 65 to 74 and 23 percent of those 75 and older, while 18 percent of women 55 to 64, 40 percent 65 to 74 and 64 percent over 75 come home to an empty house.

"Public health and food assistance programs for the elderly should focus on these groups and develop nutrition education for them," said Maradee Davis, a University of California, San Francisco epidemiologist who headed the study.

The scientists examined the effect of living arrangements on dietary quality of the elderly by analyzing meals eaten by the subjects on three consecutive days. The information was collected by the U.S. Department of Agriculture in 1977-78.

The researchers looked at whether the men and women in the study were getting the minimum recommended daily allowance of at least five of nine nutrients — vitamins A, C, thiamin, riboflavin, B6 and B12 and the minerals iron, calcium and magnesium.

Although the researchers found those with poor diets — and especially those who lived alone — ate less, they do not recommend the elderly consume more calories.

The recommended calorie intake decreases with age while recommended nutrient intake does not, the scientists point out.

The findings were reported recently at the annual meeting of the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology in Las Vegas. The study was funded by the National Institute on Aging.

even a straight story from the Soviets, who allowed Nicholson to bleed to death without medical attention. On the day that Maj. Nicholson was killed, Lajoie faced Soviet officials who did everything except admit guilt. They blamed the victim. They blamed Lajoie.

We have obtained the Army's confidential investigative record of Nicholson's death. Lajoie told investigators he was not called to the scene of the murder until several hours after it happened. By then, Nicholson was dead, and his driver, Sgt. Jessie Schatz, was being held by the Soviets in his car. Schatz would later tell authorities that the two men had been observing a Soviet tank shed in Ludwigslust, East Germany, when a Russian sentry, without warning, shot Nicholson.

The sentry wouldn't let Schatz assist help the dying major, so Schatz had no choice but to get back in his car where he remained for nearly eight hours until Lajoie arrived and persuaded the Soviets to let Schatz go.

But first Lajoie had to hear the litany of complaints from Soviet officers on the scene. And he had to go through a charade with the Soviets over Nicholson's body. Nicholson was lying face down on the ground when Lajoie arrived. The Soviets said they had not searched him because they wanted an American witness. Lajoie later learned from Schatz that the Soviets had searched Nicholson's body and then moved it back to its original position.

Lajoie persuaded the Soviets to free Schatz, but not before they tried to interrogate the sergeant. "We immediately protested that under the circumstances this was completely unacceptable," Lajoie recalled in the report. "They had their guard ... and they had his statement. They had the body of the individual who was killed, and the only other person who was there was Schatz. We protested, and this lasted for a long time."

It was finally agreed that Schatz could be questioned in his car. With the Soviets and Americans crowded around, Schatz rolled down his window. When he refused to answer all the Soviets' questions, they threatened to take him in for interrogation.

"You must now finish this circus," Lajoie demanded of the Soviet interrogator. "You've got the body. What more do you want now? Are you going to arrest and imprison my man? Think of the circumstances."

The Soviets thought, then released Schatz about midnight. "We got Schatz out of the car," Lajoie recounted. "He could just barely get out. He was cramped, having sat there for so long."

Lajoie left the scene after assigning an American medical officer to follow Nicholson's body to a Soviet hospital. "For a lot of good reasons, and particularly that night, we did not trust the Soviets," Lajoie told investigators.

In the Nicholson episode, the Soviets showed they are capable of stonewalling even a blatant violation of an agreement with the United States. And they failed the simplest test of basic humanity: They took a man's life and didn't have the decency to admit they were wrong.

High profile senators have large assets

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senators with high profiles in this year's presidential sweepstakes, either as former candidates or possible running mates, generally report high levels of personal financial assets.

Annual disclosure forms show Republicans such as Robert Dole and Democrats such as Bill Bradley and Lloyd Bentsen list holdings of as much as $1 million or more, with others such as Bob Graham claiming several million dollars.

This year's reports, released Friday, total 1,680 pages. Five senators, including John Glenn, D-Ohio, were given extra time to complete their forms.

Glenn, a former Marine fighter pilot who became the first American to orbit Earth in 1962, ran for the White House in 1984 and is considered a leading candidate for the vice presidential nomination this time around. He listed assets of at least $7.9 million on last year's forms and made six entries in the highest category — assets worth more than $250,000.

Most of Glenn's assets are in businesses. Under the broad categories on the Senate forms, his liabilities last year were between $310,000 and $765,000. He owed $2.4 million separately from his unsuccessful presidential campaign.

Bradley, D-N.J., who chose not to seek the White House this year despite the entreaties of several colleagues and who has indicated he does not like talk of the vice presidency, listed assets of between $661,000 and $1.4 million.

The former professional basketball player is assured of an NBA pension of $1,250 a month when he turns 50. Bradley has foreign property interests in Greece and Canada and reported outside income of at least $45,130.

Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., the influential Armed Services Committee chairman who also decided not to seek the Oval Office, listed assets of about $1 million and liabilities between $195,000 to $480,000.

Sen. Albert Gore Jr., D-Tenn., who did run this year but has suspended his presidential campaign, reported himself significantly less wealthy than his high-profile colleagues, listing assets between $97,000 and $140,000. His wife, Tipper, has $51,156 of stock in an Alexandria, Va., plumbing business.

As liabilities, Gore reported three bank loans, two secured by his $379,300 home in the Washington suburbs and his $110,000 home in Carthage, Tenn.

Sen. Paul Simon, D-Ill., who also has suspended his presidential campaign, joined Gore in reporting more modest means — a net worth of $142,735, which includes his collection of presidential autographs.

Back toward the top of the income chart, Bentsen, D-Texas, the Finance Committee chairman mentioned as a possible vice presidential candidate, claimed assets of between $1.3 million and $2 million.

And Graham, D-Fla., listed family assets of more than $3.7 million, with outside income of his own of at least $135,000. The half-brother-in-law of Washington Post Co. Chairman Katharine Graham has at least $250,000 in stock in the leading daily newspaper of the nation's capital.

Government closes Jackson land bank

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government closing of the financially strapped Federal Land Bank in Jackson, Miss., marks the first time one of the institutions has been closed since the nationwide land bank system began operating in 1917.

The action taken Friday by the board of the Farm Credit Administration was at the request of the Farm Credit System Assistance Board, an entity created by legislation last year to bail out struggling banks with as much as $4 billion.

The FCA placed the Jackson bank under the management of a receiver, Ronald Watkins, and closed its 90 service locations that provided real estate loans to farmers in Mississippi, Alabama and Louisiana. Technical help was given by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp., which handles commercial bank closings.

Farm Credit System leaders expressed surprise at the action, saying they had expected some action but not necessarily a closure.

Assistance Board officials said the bank had liabilities of $1.9 billion and assets of almost that much but $500 million of the assets earned no money. A cash infusion would have been much more costly to taxpayers and to the system than closing the bank, they argued.

"It seemed that receivership was the most cost-effective way to provide farmers and ranchers credit and new loans and the kind of agricultural credit they need," one official explained on the condition of anonymity.

FCA Chairman Frank Naylor assured farmers they will continue to get credit and assured Wall Street investors there will be no disruption in payment of principal and interest on the bank's outstanding securities. "Borrower stock is protected by the recently passed Agricultural Credit Act of 1987 and will be retired by the receiver with funds provided under that act," Naylor said. He added that Jackson bank officers, under the receiver, will open during normal operating hours as soon as possible.

The Jackson bank, one of 37 in the farmer-owned system, announced in early December it no longer could retire farmer stock and would run out of money by the end of the year. That announcement was part of the impetus for Congress to complete work on the bailout before the holiday break.

North Carolina cities paralyzed when phone system goes dead

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UPI) — The phones went dead in western North Carolina, forcing accident victims to flag down police and firefighters, because Southern Bell technicians "for some reason" failed to notice a crippling power surge for six hours, officials said.

The power surge struck Southern Bell's central office in Charlotte at about 11:30 a.m. Saturday, and a skeleton crew of six failed to notice alarms until the overloaded system failed about six hours later, Southern Bell District Manager Bob Freedman said.

"It's a big building," said Freedman, trying to explain why the alarms went undetected at the office that handles 1 million calls a day. "There are hundreds of alarm panels to monitor."

"What we got was an alarm that for several hours went unnoticed," he told a news conference. "It is not uncommon for us to get power surges. But for some reason they didn't notice it."

Swaggart back in the pulpit

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) — Detroched evangelist Jimmy Swaggart marked his defiant return to the pulpit by assuring his congregation that the Holy Spirit told him to forget "past sins" and return to his work of saving "tens of millions of people."

"I will keep my eyes ahead and not look back at those who are running behind me — doubt, fear, unbelief, past failure, past sins, past heartaches. I will completely forget them!" the fiery preacher told about 5,000 worshippers Sunday at his 7,500-seat Family Worship Center.

"I realize if I am able to obtain and see the future ... the Holy Spirit says I must forget the past," Swaggart said in his hour-long sermon.

He told his congregation that God spoke to him about his "moral failure" — reportedly consorting with a New Orleans-area prostitute — and said, "Your struggles could never have defeated this enemy." But all I had to do was say, "Satan, I rebuke thee!"

Killer upset over lost lawsuit

NEW YORK (UPI) — A former police officer who killed a federal judge at his suburban home left a suicide note describing his "strong displeasure" with the jurist's decision in a sexual harassment case that the gunman's daughter had lost, authorities said.

Charles Koster, who killed himself Saturday after shooting U.S. District Judge Richard Daronco, also had angrily confronted members of the judge's staff at least once during the trial of his daughter's suit, said James Esposito, deputy assistant director for the FBI in New York.

During one confrontation, Koster denounced Daronco, "expressing his continued displeasure with the way the case was being handled," Esposito said at a news conference Sunday.

Koster, a former New York City police officer, shot Daronco as the judge tended to his garden in the quiet suburban town of Pelham just north of New York City about 2 p.m. Saturday.

Iran begins military maneuvers as American warships look on MANAMA, Bahrain (UPI) — With American warships looking on, Iran began its first military maneuvers in the Persian Gulf since naval clashes last month with the United States and used the occasion to threaten ships bound for Iraq.

The maneuvers began Sunday as the U.S. military inspected the torn wreckage of a Marine Corps AH-1 helicopter pulled from the Persian Gulf a day earlier. The gunship and its two crewmen were lost during the U.S.-Iranian clashes April 18.

A military source in the gulf said the fragmentary state of the wreckage indicated the helicopter had been hit by an Iranian missile.

The bodies of the two pilots were recovered May 15.

Army, navy and air force units of the regular Iranian armed forces began the combined maneuvers in the southern gulf, the Sea of Oman and the Indian Ocean "to display (their) combat readiness ... to guard the marine borders of the country," said Tehran Radio, monitored in Athens, Greece.

Cease-fire efforts fail again

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Syria and Iran failed again in their efforts to arrange a cease-fire to end 18 days of fighting between rival Shiite Moslem militias battling for control of Beirut's southern suburbs, where 16 foreign hostages are believed held.

Police said the Iranian-inspired Hezbollah, or Party of God, and the pro-Syrian Amal group clashed with rockets and automatic weapons in sporadic street battles Sunday.

Ten people were wounded by stray bullets and five who were wounded earlier in the week died of their injuries Sunday, bringing the death toll in the so-called "war of the suburbs" to at least 226 since May 6. At least 1,000 people have been wounded in the fighting for control of the predominantly Shiite suburbs.

Iranian and Syrian officials failed again Sunday to reach a cease-fire agreement with the warring militias and to receive assurances the 16 foreign hostages believed held in the suburbs by Hezbollah will not be harmed.

Soviet withdrawal peaceful

KABUL, Afghanistan (UPI) — The last Soviet troops to retreat from Jalalabad said on their arrival in Kabul that the strategic eastern town on the main supply route from Pakistan was as peaceful as "a main street in Moscow."

The Soviet soldiers rode into the outskirts of the hilly Afghan capital about 2 p.m. Sunday, hot and tired after the 90-mile journey aboard about 200 tanks, armored personnel carriers and trucks dragging artillery.

The undetermined number of troops were scheduled to leave today for the remaining three-day drive up the Salang road to the Soviet border.

Soviet officials and many of the arriving troops said no more Soviet soldiers remained in Nangahar province or Jalalabad, the provincial capital.

"This is the last convoy from Jalalabad," said one soldier, Nicholas Nichiporenko of Rostov, who sat atop a dust-covered light tank as it rumbled along the final stretch of road into Kabul.

Both sides optimistic as fourth summit nears

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Promoting "winds of hope" and greater cooperation on Earth and in space, Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev has joined President Reagan in setting a positive tone for their fourth superpower summit.

The global event that opens Sunday with a handshake in the Kremlin holds little prospect for dramatic breakthroughs in arms control or the achievement of major agreements in other areas of U.S.-Soviet relations.

But in the run-up to a meeting that holds political value for both men, the two sides have taken pains to ensure no problems intrude on their plans for a smooth, successful summit.

That shared determination has manifested itself in the kind of conciliatory rhetoric seen Sunday in a wide-ranging interview Gorbachev held with The Washington Post and Newsweek, in which he painted a bright picture of U.S.-Soviet relations and pledged to work beyond the summit to sign a strategic arms reduction agreement before Reagan leaves office in January.

With too little time remaining to conclude an arms accord before the summit, Gorbachev said the importance of the upcoming talks in Moscow will not lie in the agreements that are reached, but continuation of "the regular and very productive political dialogue that we have been having."

"The important thing," he said, "is that if the dialogue continues it will lead to specific achievements."

Reagan leaves Wednesday for Helsinki, where he will rest up for a visit to Moscow that will include five formal sessions with Gorbachev, as well as meetings with dissidents, refuseniks, monks and university students.

In his scene-setting interview, Gorbachev offered praise for Reagan and a frank admission of his own political difficulties.

In written response to a separate set of questions, he suggested it was ironic that Reagan, who staked out a hard line on dealing with the Soviets early in his term, would be the first American president to sign a treaty to reduce nuclear weapons, as the still-unratified Intermediate Nuclear Forces Treaty would do.

Strikes against Firestone, Goodyear end

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) — A tentative agreement that ended a nine-day strike against Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. calls for no pay raises but boosts cost of living allowances and pension payments for 4,700 workers around the country, officials said.

The Firestone agreement was reached after 14 straight hours of negotiations that ended at 5 a.m. EDT Sunday on the day United Rubber Workers also ratified a new contract with the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co.

Akron's URW Local 2 Sunday approved a contract with Goodyear by 95 percent — the sixth of the 11 URW locals to OK the agreement reached last week and provide the required majority of locals to officially ratify the pact.

"We are very well satisfied with this agreement," union spokesman Curt Brown said. "I think this vote means the membership is happy with the contract."

The proposed Firestone contract will be presented to the 4,700 workers at six Firestone plants around the country for ratification within 10-14 days, Brown said.

The agreement was modeled after the URW contract with Goodyear, the world's biggest tire and rubber company. The contract includes no pay raise, but Brown said that, like the Goodyear pact, it included increases in cost of living allowances and pension payments.

The contract also calls for improved health benefits, life insurance and a successor clause that ensures continuation of the URW contract in the event the plant is sold.

"They were major sticking points that we won," Brown said. "I'm sorry we had to strike, but we're glad to have a contract."

The previous Firestone labor contract expired April 20, and workers walked off the job May 14 at plants in Akron, Noblesville, Ind., Des Moines, Iowa, Decatur, Ill., Russellville, Ark., and Oklahoma City. It was the first URW strike since a 40-day walkout in 1979 at Uniroyal.

Under the contract, workers will receive a 1-cent cost-of-living increase for every 26 percent increase in the consumer price index, said Brown.

Warning light causes pilot to abort takeoff

GRAPEVINE, Texas (UPI) — An American Airlines captain decided to abort takeoff in a "split second," causing the jet to roll off the runway, because he spotted a warning light showing insufficient lift for takeoff, officials said.

The jetliner skidded 1,000 feet through grass and mud and its front landing gear collapsed Saturday before it stopped on its nose with its wing engines and tail high in the air.

The passengers and crew slid down inflatable emergency chutes. Three members of the flight crew and four passengers were taken to hospitals. About a dozen other people were treated at the airport for slight injuries, American Airlines said.

The pilot who spotted the warning light, Bob Cornelson, 57, of Laguna Miguel, Calif., a 31-year veteran, was in stable and satisfactory condition at Baylor University Medical Center in Grapevine.

"That was a major warning light that he got," American spokesman John Hotard said Sunday. "At this point we do not know if there was something wrong with the warning light or if something was wrong with the system itself."

"Many times you get a faulty warning light, but you do not, in a split second, take the chance," Hotard said. "The captain opted to abort the takeoff."

American Flight 70, a DC-10 en route to Frankfurt, West Germany, with 240 passengers and 14 crew members, was scheduled to depart at 4 p.m. Saturday at Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport.

But the warning light indicated "a leading edge slat disagree," which refers to the control surfaces on the front edge of the wing that extend out and down on takeoff, Hotard said.

"The warning light indicated that those slats were in disagreement, that the left one was not doing what the right one was doing," Hotard said. "Of course that control surface is critical for lift on takeoff."

The four injured passengers, including Federal Aviation Administration inspector Bill Daventport, were treated at local hospitals and released late Saturday.

The jetliner was removed from the mud and taken to a hangar at the airport on Sunday.

Soviet doctor in Florida seeks government's help for husband

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Florida neurosurgeon separated from her Soviet husband for eight years is scheduled to ask Secretary of State George Shultz Monday to press her husband's request to join his family during the Moscow summit.

Dr. Galina Vileshina of Fort Lauderdale emigrated from the Soviet Union in 1980. Her husband, Pyatras Pakenas, also requested permission to leave but has repeatedly been denied an exit visa.

Vileshina and her 8-year-old grandson, Eric, are scheduled to meet with Shultz and Sen. Bob Graham, D-Fla., at the Capitol Monday at 5:50 p.m. They will ask Shultz to carry her request for her husband's exit visa to the summit, which begins May 29.

State officials defy car law

FORT LAUDERDALE (UPI) — Some state departments are using an exemption in the law to add more midsize cars to the state's fleet, despite a law that requires them to buy the smallest cars possible.

The bigger cars cost as much as $1,000 more per vehicle, but officials claim the bigger cars wear better, have similar gas mileage and cost less in the long run.

In addition, none of the 20 cars sold to the Department of Professional Regulation since November has been a subcompact.

I. River's Pinckes signs with Stetson

DELAND — Lake Mary High graduate Mike Pinckes, who attended Indian River Community College last year, has signed a letter of intent to play baseball for Stetson University.

During the 1988 season for Indian River, Pinckes, who plays third base, collected 64 hits in 166 at bats for a .386 average which included 13 doubles, three triples, three home runs and 16 RBIs.

Pinckes will be one of three Lake Mary graduates to play for Stetson next season as pitcher Steve Shakar was a freshman for the Hatters this past season and starting Wes Weger will be a freshman this season.

Penick runs 3:53.06 in Metro 1,500 meters

TALLAHASSEE — Smithville's Jilly Penick, a sophomore at Florida State University, turned in a superb time of 3:53.06 in the 1,500-meter race, second place in the Metro Conference Championship this past Saturday. Robert King of Southern Mississippi was first at 3:50.55.

Penick, a graduate of Seminole High School, was the state mile champion as a junior at Seminole. His 4,000-meter time converted to 3:41.04.

Also, two former Lake Brantley standouts brought Florida State to the championship title. Bucky Chambers, a freshman for the Seminoles, threw the discus 145.00 meters. Mark Napier, a sophomore, took seventh place in the triple jump at 47.14.

Sheiman hurls Tigers past Cardinals, 6-3

ALFAMONTE — Steve Sheiman tossed a three-hitter and was backed by an active offensive outburst as the Tigers downed the Cardinals, 6-3, in Alfamonte Springs Little League World Series action.

The Tigers ran their record to 14-2 for the season and will be headed for Top Tennis Tournament action.

Brian Cole and Kevin Scott drove in two runs each for the Tigers while Shane Wilson and Sheiman each had one RBI. Sheiman also had eight strikeouts in his 6 1/2 innings.

SHS girls add 2nd Heptathlon title

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Editor

LAKE HOWELL — A class act performance by Lake Howell's girls' heptathlon team earned them a second consecutive title at the 1988 State Heptathlon (SHS) with another record-setting performance.

The team finished with a total score of 1,197 points, just over the 1,100-point mark set by the 1987 team. The team's success was a direct result of the leadership of coach John F. Leonard and the efforts of the team's top performers.

lead group as she compiled 1,171 points to complete the Lady Tribe's impressive team score.

The individual battle came down to the last event, the 800 run, where Martin, Webster and Odum all ran in the same heat. Martin, the state 800 champion and record holder, finished with a nice 2:13 while Webster recorded a personal best 2:16 for second place. Odum finished with a 2:19 and it was good enough to give her the overall title.

Lake Howell's team also turned in a fine performance as the Lady Silver Hawks finished 12th with 9,803 points. Stacy Johnson led the way with 3,568 points which included personal best efforts in the discus (79-4 1/2) and 220 dash (26.4) while she also had strong efforts in the 800 run (2:34.8) and the high jump (4-11). Johnson's total, 25th overall, was a school junior record and was just 400 points off the overall school record.

Amy Miller finished with 3,130 points for Lake Howell led by a 17.3 in the 110 high hurdles and a personal best 28.4 in the 220 dash.

Freshman Jessica Cardarelli had a nice meet with 3,075 points including personal bests in the 110 hurdles (17.5), 220 dash (29.0) and long jump (14-10 1/2). Also competing for the Lady Hawks was Emily Fohl who finished with 2,686 points.

"I was very pleased with the kids," Lake Howell coach Tom Hammonree said. "Stacy (Johnson) did a good job and was very competitive. Amy (Miller) was the nice surprise, she surprised herself more than anyone else."

Lake Mary finished in 19th place with 8,296 points. The Lady Rams were led by Kwaja Floyd with 2,970 points while Tabitha Newsome totaled 2,839 and Elisa Maher 2,487.

Among Floyd's top efforts on Saturday was a 15-0 long jump and 4-7 high jump while Newsome had a team-leading 2:52 in the 800 and a 13-1 long jump and Maher led the team with a 20-9 in the shot put.

"We got some good experience and we had fun," Lake Mary coach Mike Gibson said. "We competed with athletes without any heptathlon experience and we had some nice efforts from everyone."

Wadkins takes Colonial

FORT WORTH, Texas (UPI) — Lanny Wadkins, whose record at the Colonial National Invitational was so poor he skipped the event the past two years, made a 3-foot birdie putt at the 18th hole Sunday to win the $750,000 tournament by a shot.

Wadkins, who lives an hour's drive from the course, had played 35 competitive rounds at the Colonial Country Club before this week and had never broken par.

But he finished the week with his third sub-par round, a 5-under 65 that gave him a 72-hole total of 10-under 270 — a stroke in front of Mark Calcavecchia, Ben Crenshaw and Joey Sindelar.

It was the 18th victory of Wadkins' 18-year career and the second this year. His $135,000 first-place check boosted his earnings for the year to $447,456.

He also raised his career total to $3,538,456 and into fourth place on the all-time list. Only Jack Nicklaus, Tom Watson and Tom Kite have earned more on the American circuit.

Sindelar, Calcavecchia and Crenshaw wound up at 9-under 271 and each won $56,000. Sindelar shot a 68, Calcavecchia a 66 and Crenshaw a 67 that included birdies at the last four holes.

Clarence Rose began the day three shots in front and held as much as a four-shot lead early in the round. He faded to a 74 and a fifth-place finish at 6-under 274 that brought him $30,000. Rose, seeking his first victory, was the fourth player this year to lead by as many as three shots going into the last day and he was the first of that group to lose.

Bird shoots down high-flying Hawks

BOSTON (UPI) — The Boston Celtics had seen "the look" in Larry Bird's eyes before and they knew it meant the end of the Atlanta Hawks.

Playing with furious intensity, Bird scored 20 of his 34 points in the fourth quarter Sunday, hitting the Celtics to a 118-116 victory in the dramatic and decisive seventh game of the Eastern Conference semifinals.

"I could see it in Larry's eyes," said teammate Kevin McHale. "When he gets a look like that, it's 'katty bar the door.'"

Bird hit 9 of 11 shots in the final quarter, when he controlled Boston's offense. The 6-foot-9 forward hit long jumpers, driving scoops and delivered pinpoint passes. His 3-pointer with 1:43 left put Boston ahead 112-105 and the sellout crowd of 14,890 at Boston Garden did not sit down after that shot.

"Every shot I took, I tried to concentrate on it," said Bird. "The team wanted to see the ball in my hands and I definitely wanted the ball."

The Celtics, who avoided elimination by winning the series' final two games, will host the Detroit Pistons Wednesday night in Game 1 of the conference finals.

The Boston-Atlanta finale was hailed by both teams as a game to remember.

"It was a game neither team should have lost," said Boston Coach K.C. Jones.

Boston shot 61 percent and had only 8 turnovers. Atlanta shot 57 percent and had just 5 turnovers. The Celtics' biggest lead was 7 points, the Hawks' largest advantage was 6.

"It's the greatest NBA game I've seen," said Hawks Coach Mike Fratello. "It's maybe one of the greatest basketball games you're going to see."

Bird's play was rivaled by that of Atlanta's Dominique Wilkins, who scored 47 points, 16 in the fourth quarter, which for a time evolved into a scoring duel with Bird.

"We double-teamed and triple-teamed him, but he still got his shots off," said Boston's Danny Ainge.

The Celtics have won the seventh game of a playoff series 14 of 18 times and six of seven times since Bird joined the team in 1979.

"This seventh game was one of the best I've seen," said Jones. "The second half was awesome basketball."

The score was tied nine times in the fourth quarter before Bird put Boston ahead for good at 107-105 with a foul-line jumper with 3:30 remaining. McHale, who finished with 33 points, added a pair of free throws and Bird's 3-pointer capped the 7-0 spurt.

'Candy' pacifies powerful A's

United Press International
The New York Yankees found out Sunday how to pacify the hard-hitting Oakland Athletics — just feed them 'Candy'.

John Candelaria, who is nicknamed the 'Candy Man', pitched a two-hitter to win his fifth straight start and Jack Clark hit a two-run home run leading the New York Yankees to a 2-0 triumph over the Oakland Athletics.

The Yankees won the rubber game of the three-game set that matched the early front-runners in the American League. The Yankees improved their record to 27-14 and kept a one-half game lead over the Cleveland Indians in the American League East.

Candelaria, who struck out a team season-high 13 and walked none, retired the first 14 batters he faced in notching his first shutout since Aug. 9, 1986. That was also the last time the left-hander reached double-digits in strikeouts.

"It's a great right-handed hitting lineup," Candelaria said of the Oakland club that features sluggers Mark McGwire and Jose Canseco. "Why fool around with a great power-hitting team like that?"

"I've played on some great teams, this is a great team," said the left-hander, who pitched his fourth complete game of the season. "The team we played is a great team. September will tell."

Candelaria surrendered a two-out double to Dave Henderson in the fifth, but retired Glenn Hubbard on a fly to right. Carney Lansford singled an inning later for the A's only other hit.

New York scored both its runs in the fourth off starter Storm Davis, 4-2, who suffered his sixth straight loss to the Yankees. He is 1-7 lifetime against New York.

Elsewhere, Boston crushed California 11-4. Baltimore dumped Seattle 7-2. Milwaukee buried Toronto 7-1. Detroit tripped Chicago 3-1. Cleveland edged Kansas City 8-7 in 10 innings; and Minnesota swept a doubleheader from Texas 15-5 and 4-2.

In the National League, it was: Atlanta 6, Pittsburgh 4; Chicago 5, Cincinnati 1; Houston 2, St. Louis 1; San Diego 9, Philadelphia 2; San Francisco 7, Montreal 2; and New York 5, Los Angeles 2.

Red Sox 11, Angels 4

At Boston, Dwight Evans led a 16-hit attack with three hits and Bob Stanley surrendered two hits in a 5-2-3 inning relief stint to lead the Red Sox. Stanley, 1-0, relieved starter Jeff Sellers and retired the first seven men he faced. California starter Willie Fraser fell to 4-3.

Orioles 7, Mariners 2

At Baltimore, Larry Sheets and Cal Ripken Jr. each blasted a two-run homer to spark the Orioles. Rookie Jose Bautista, 2-2, earned the victory. He allowed four hits over 6 2-3 innings. Mike Morgan went 2 1-3 innings to earn his first save. Mike Moore, 2-6, was the loser.

Brewers 7, Blue Jays 1

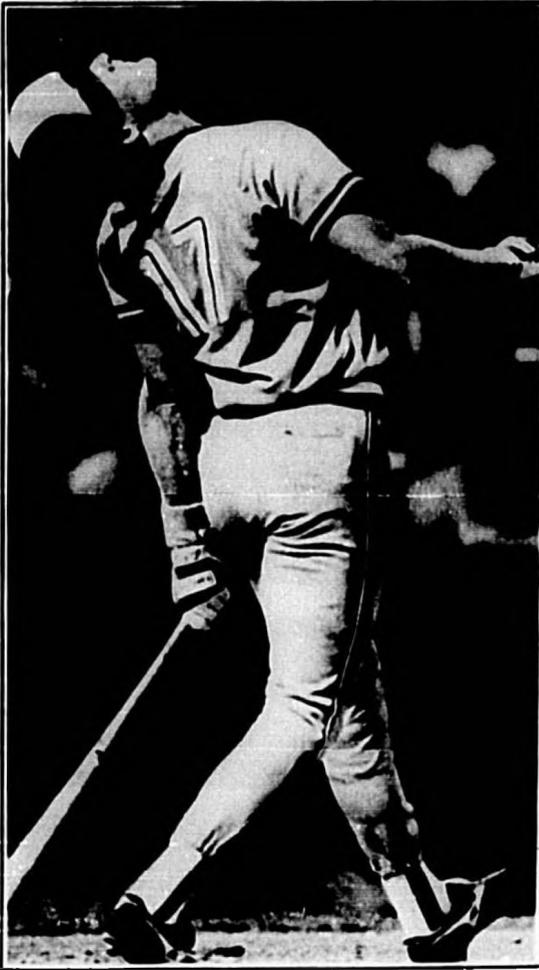

At Milwaukee, Mike Birkbeck and two relievers combined on a five-hitter to help the Brewers snap their four-game losing streak. Birkbeck, 2-3, gave up one run on three hits in 6 2-3 innings. Mike Flanagan, 4-3, took the loss.

Tigers 3, White Sox 1

At Chicago, Walt Terrell, 2-1, pitched a five-hitter to lead the Tigers and extend their winning streak to five games. The White Sox dropped their seventh in a row. Jack McDowell, 2-5, was the loser for Chicago.

Indians 8, Royals 7

At Kansas City, Ron Washington singled home Mel Hall with two out in the 10th inning to rally the Indians. Bill Laakey, 1-0, recorded one out for the victory and Doug Jones pitched the 10th inning for his eighth save. Royals pitcher Gene Garber 0-2 took the loss.

Twins 15-4, Rangers 5-2

At Arlington, Tim Laudner homered and had four RBI and Kirby Puckett collected three hits and three RBI leading a 16-hit attack that powered the Twins in the first game of a double-header. Les Straker, 2-2, pitched 6 1-3 innings for the victory. Rangers starter Charlie Hough, 4-6, took the loss.

In the second game, Gary Gaetti slugged a grand slam with two out in the ninth inning to break a scoreless tie and give the Twins a sweep. The homer made a winner of Frank Viola, 7-1. Jeff Reardon notched his seventh save of the season and 200th of his major-league career.

Cone frustrates Guerrero, Mets sweep Dodgers

NL BASEBALL

United Press International
An apparently frustrated Pedro Guerrero failed to hit Mets pitcher David Cone or any of his pitches safely.

In the sixth inning of New York's 5-2 triumph over Los Angeles Sunday, Mets starter Cone hit Guerrero on the shoulder, prompting Guerrero to throw his bat at Cone. He then charged the Mets pitcher as both benches emptied.

"It was a 70-mph curve ball," said Cone, who improved his record to 6-0. "I was consistently inside on him all day. He was looking at me all day. Pedro is very intense. Maybe it was just out of frustration over this series."

The three-game series was swept by the Mets who have won seven straight and 14 of their last 18 and lead the National League East by six games over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The Dodgers have lost five of their last six games and trail the first-place Astros by 1 1/2 games in the National League West.

Meanwhile, Cone limited the Dodgers to four hits and one earned run over six innings. Darryl Strawberry's National League-leading 11th home run in the first inning off Fernando Valenzuela, 3-5, gave the Mets a 3-0 lead.

The Mets chased Valenzuela in 1 2/3 innings, collecting five runs on six hits and two walks. It was the earliest exit in the left-hander's nine-year career.

Dodger manager Tommy Lasorda said Valenzuela "didn't have his normal stuff and didn't want him to stay out there and get in more trouble."

Meanwhile, Mets manager Davey Johnson called Guerrero's response "a new version ... go out there a couple of steps and then throw it."

However, home plate umpire John Kibler says the whole incident was an accident.

"Tommy (Lasorda) wanted me to throw the pitcher out. I didn't think it (the hitting of Guerrero) was intentional."

Elsewhere, Atlanta downed Pittsburgh 6-4. Chicago defeated Cincinnati 5-1. Houston edged St. Louis 2-1. San Diego routed Philadelphia 9-2 and San Francisco whipped Montreal 7-2.

In the American League: New York 2, Oakland 0; Boston 12, California 4; Baltimore 7, Seattle 2; Milwaukee 7, Toronto 1; Detroit 3, Chicago 1; Cleveland 8, Kansas City 7 in 10 innings; and Minnesota swept a doubleheader from Texas 15-5 and 4-2.

Braves 6, Pirates 4

At Pittsburgh, Bruce Benedict hit a two-run double to highlight a five-run first inning and Rick Mahler won his fourth straight decision to spark the Braves. Mahler, 4-4, yielded eight hits and walked none in 7 1-3 innings. Bruce Sutter earned his fourth save. Starter Bob Walk fell to 4-3.

Cubs 5, Reds 1

At Cincinnati, rookie Mark Grace drove home four runs and Greg Maddux scattered seven hits over six innings to pace the Cubs. Maddux, 7-3, allowed no walks and struck out three. Frank DiPino pitched one-hit relief over three innings to secure his second save. Tom Browning fell to 2-1.

Astros 2, Cardinals 1

At St. Louis, Chuck Jackson doubled home Alex Trevino in the ninth inning to lift the Astros. Trevino singled with one out off reliever and loser Ken Dayley, 0-1. Jackson followed with a double to score Trevino and make a winner of Juan Agosto, 2-0. Larry Andersen recorded two outs for his first save.

Padres 9, Phillies 2

At San Diego, John Krak homered, knocked in four runs and scored three more to back the seven-hit pitching of Eric Show and help lead a rout of the Phillies. Show, 3-4, walked none and struck out seven in pitching his third complete game of the season. Kevin Gross, 4-2, was the loser.

Giants 7, Expos 2

At San Francisco, Kelly Downs and Scott Garrelts combined on a four-hitter and Jeffrey Leonard singled, doubled and tripled to help defeat the Expos. Downs, 2-4, allowed all four hits and both runs over eight innings. Neal Heaton, 1-3, lasted five innings allowing six hits and five runs.

East vs. West could be story of '88

By MIKE TULLY
UPI National Baseball Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — You hardly ever think of New York City and the San Francisco Bay Area as being enemies.

Different, yes. For instance, in San Francisco people act weird and hope someone notices. In New York, you can act weird 48 hours a day, and even your shrink might not pay attention.

Yes, New York and the Bay Area are different. But enemies? Nah. New Yorkers think the country ends at the Hudson River. And San Franciscans hardly ever bother with Oakland, much less with the rest of us.

All that could change this October, when East will be East, West will be West, and the twain could meet as many as three times. By the way, what is a "twain"? Anyway, take a look at today's baseball standings. The Mets lead by 5 1/2, the Yanks by a half-game, and A's by seven games. The Giants, who feel they may be the best of all, aren't far back at 3 1/4 games out.

If everything broke just right, the Mets could meet the Giants in the playoffs while the Yanks took on the A's. Never since the current playoff format began in 1969 has the tournament let two regions get so down and dirty.

Only three things could happen, each one guaranteed to keep winners and losers a continent apart:

One, Bay Area teams would win both playoffs, then stage the first World Series by the Bay. New York would then ban the import of all California goods.

Two, New York would win both, setting up the first Subway Series since 1956.

SCOUTING REPORT

California would then turn to football season.

Three, one team from each region would advance, with the World Series becoming a tie-breaker.

To prepare you for this chance, and to fill today's column, UPI presents a few points to guide you through the Suspension Bridge Series.

Rapid Transit — Californians move around on a system known as BART — Bay Area Rapid transit. They have a nice homey name for it, as in, "I took BART." In New York, you have your own name for transit, and you never have to tell anyone you took it. You smell like the tiger cage at the Bronx Zoo and someone's briefcase is sticking through your sleeve.

Weather — Candlestick Park is famous for its chilly winds. Yankee Stadium is better known for the hot air that comes from the front office.

Bets — What would a major sports event be without some really trite bets from the local politicians? San Francisco Mayor Art Agnos and Oakland Mayor Lionel Wilson could put some Grateful Dead T-shirts on the line. New York Mayor Ed Koch could counter with some autographed pictures of Jesse Jackson.

Campaign Appearances — Remember, Election Day comes just a week or so after the World Series, and New York and California have enough electoral votes to keep the campaign nearby.

President Reagan would take one look at the field and say, "Nancy and I have never seen so many stars." Vice President Bush would say, "I stand with the President on this one." And then Mike Dukakis would wow 'em all by discussing the budget.

Some people say A's Manager Tony LaRussa looks like Dukakis. Have the two ever been seen at the same time?

By the time all of it ends, we should have a new baseball rivalry and a World Series winner. In the meantime, somebody may even find out what a "twain" is.

BASEBALL CENTRAL

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Tommy Helms has enjoyed being the Reds interim manager so much he says he wouldn't mind if some club removed the word "interim" for him.

"Down the road, if something came up, I wouldn't mind throwing my name in the hat," Helms said.

Helms, a Cincinnati coach, is serving as interim manager while Manager Pete Rose serves a 30-day suspension for shoving an umpire. Helms's record is 10-9 through Sunday.

"People around me are getting ideas," Helms said. "Everybody asks me now, 'What if you do a good job? What if you do this or do that?' Let's just wait until 30 games are up and if we come to that bridge, we'll cross it."

Even though Helms is an interim manager, he's not conservative. Helms already has scored a runner by calling a squeeze bunt, something Rose hasn't done.

at 25 mph. Wadkins birdied three of the first four holes and made the turn in 4-under 31. That allowed him to catch Rose, who bogeyed the third, fourth and fifth holes to lose his grip on the tournament.

Down the back nine, the tournament turned into a battle among Wadkins, Calcavecchia and Sidelar — with all three of them tied for the lead at one point.

Calcavecchia took the lead by himself when he made an 8-foot birdie putt at the par-4 15th, but he put his tee shot on the par-3 16th into the crowd and the resulting bogey put him back in a tie for the lead.

Moments later, Wadkins appeared to have shot his way out of the title when he put his second to the right of the 17th green. But his pitch shot ran to within a foot of the hole.

Wadkins then drove excellently at the 18th and sent an 8-iron 148 yards to within 3 feet of the pin.

performances in the 440 yard dash with a 50.8 effort for 785 points, the mile where he ran a nice time of 4:48.3 for 755 points, the 100 meters with an 11.5 clocking for 744 points and the 220 where he ran 23.5 for 726 points.

Marshall completed his effort by clearing 19-4 in the long jump, 34-3 in the shot put, 5-8 in the high jump, 94-2 in the discus, clearing 11-6 in the pole vault.

"I projected Darren to finish with around 6,300 points and he exceeded that," Finke said. "All our athletes did better than I expected and that was great, we had a great time and we're looking forward to returning next year."

Flint added strong support for and Lyman as finished with 6,170 points good for tenth place as he soared to 22-3/4 in the long jump to amass 762 points while running 23.3 in the 220 for 744 points adding a 15.8 time in the hurdles for 728 points to go along with a 52.1 clocking in the 440 for 727 points and 11.4 in the 100 meters for 723 points.

Flint rounded out his effort by throwing the shot 33-1, clearing 6-0 in the high jump, tossing the disc 84-1, clearing 9-6 in the pole vault and running 5:08.8 in the mile.

Victor Farrier finished next for the Greyhounds as he ran 11.8 in the 100, cleared 18-6 in the long jump, 4-10 in the high jump, 36-3 in the shot, 116-2 in the disc, 8-0 in the pole vault, ran 55.1 in the 440, 15.5 in the 120s, 24.6 in the 220 and 5:28.9 in the mile. Octavious Holliday rounded out the Lyman team as he ran 11.8 in the 100, 53.5 in the 440, 18.3 in the 120s, 24.4 in the 220 and 5:00.3 in the mile while clearing 19-6 1/2 in the long jump, 5-6 in the high jump, 32-3 1/2 in the shot, 76-5 in the discus and 6-6 in the pole vault.

"Flint gave us some strong backup and Victor was an emotional leader for us," Finke said. "I think Holliday will improve a lot next year, he was nervous during the first day before he calmed down and put some good efforts together during the second day."

Seminole High School finished tenth overall with 16,333 points and was led by Allen Seward's 5,789 points as Walter Hopsan recorded 5,536 and Chris Bradley combined for 5,008.

Seward ran 11.5 in the 100 meters, 53.1 in the 440, 14.5 in the 120s, 24.2 in the 220 and 5:28.1 in the mile as he finished with a leap of 18-2 1/2 in the long jump, threw the shot 36-2, cleared 5-6 in the high jump, tossed the disc 91-9 and cleared 9-6 in the pole vault.

Hopsan ran 11.3 in the 100, 54.9 in the 440, 17.1 in the 120s, 23.9 in the 220 and 6:19.2 in the mile while clearing 6-6 in the high jump, 17-11 1/2 in the long jump, 8-0 in the pole vault and throwing the shot 37-7 1/2 and discus 104-10.

Bradley added strong performances in the 110 with an 11.5 clocking, the 120s with a 15.8 performance and the 220 with a 23.9 time to aid in the Seminoles efforts.

Lake Howell finished 19th overall with 14,664 points as Gary Weeden led the way with 5,112 points. Weeden finished with a 53.3 clocking in the 440 and cleared 6-2 in the high jump to lead his performance. Brian Horvath was next for the Silver Hawks as he finished with 4,986 points led by a 14-0 foot personal best effort in the pole vault. Brandon Lowenthal added 4,556 points with Brian Hammontree scoring 4,188 to round out the Lake Howell team.

Lake Brantley finished 26th overall with 13,259 points as Jason Hobbs led the way with 4,987 points, followed by Darin Tugman who finished with 4,756 and Matt Ogilvie's 3,536.

Prices mixed in slow trading

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices opened mixed today in slow trading of New York Stock Exchange issues.

The Dow Jones Industrial average, which fell 37.96 last week, was up 1.49 to 1954.08 shortly after the market opened.

Declines, however, led advances 311-237 among the 837 issues crossing the New York Stock Exchange tape. Early turnover amounted to about 3,420,000 shares.

Stock prices ended mixed Friday in the slowest session of the year. Volume was an anemic 120,800,000 shares, compared with 165,160,000 traded Thursday.

Analysts said news that April's increase of 0.4 percent in U.S. consumer prices was within the expected range gave the stock market an early boost, but failed to overcome widespread inflation worries.

Analysts believe a lack of confidence triggered the slide of nearly 57 points on the Dow on Tuesday and Wednesday following news of a substantial contraction in the nation's trade deficit in March.

Dollar drifts lower; gold, silver higher

By United Press International

The dollar drifted slightly lower today in light trading on the few major foreign currency markets that were not closed for religious holidays. Gold rose.

Currency markets in Frankfurt, Zurich, Paris, Brussels and Amsterdam were closed for the Pentecost religious holiday.

In earlier trading in the Far East, the dollar remained almost unchanged against the Japanese yen in Tokyo, closing at 124.80 yen, off 0.02 from 124.82 yen on Friday.

Currency dealers in Japan said most market players refrained from taking large positions in the absence of incentives.

In early New York trading, the dollar was mixed against key foreign currencies in light trading.

Currency market watchers in New York said trading was quiet in the absence of the Continental European markets.

In Europe, the dollar began the day in Milan at 1,262.25 lire, down from Friday's close 1,263.40.

In London, the pound strengthened against the dollar, opening at $1.8665, up from Friday's close of $1.8635.

On the bullion markets reports that right-wing politicians in South Africa have stepped up the pressure on the government to limit exports of strategic metals sent gold and silver prices higher.

Singapore says U.S. ties souring

SINGAPORE (UPI) — A senior official today advised the United States to "leave us alone" in what Singapore views as U.S. support for the opposition, and another said relations between the longtime allies and trade partners had been soured.

"The relationship has been damaged. It will take time to heal," said Trade and Industry Minister Lee Hsien Loong at a news conference with Deputy Prime Minister Goh Chok Tong.

Lee, the son of Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew, accused State Department officials of encouraging a dissident lawyer to organize an opposition slate for general elections this year and holding out the possibility of asylum in the United States.

The latest round of accusations followed the Singapore government's publication Friday of a 28-page sworn statement by the jailed attorney, Francis Seow, who is being held at the government's detention center without prospect of a trial.

scion for a short time and Reid suffered a shoulder injury.

All four were taken by Rural/Metro ambulance service to Central Florida Regional Hospital, where they were treated and released.

An Amtrak official said Peatross is a private contractor hired by Amtrak to load and unload cars.

Reached by telephone, a company employee, who identified herself "as only a secretary" would not release any information concerning the accident. The secretary said company spokesman Tom Fitzgerald was in Washington, D.C., today at a meeting regarding the accident.

According to Brooks, the ramp was in use at the time of the accident. The ramp is moved up and down by cables to load or unload cars from the train, said Brooks.

Sanford Police Chief Steven Harriet, who was at the scene said, "At first, it looked catastrophic. Thankfully none of the people involved were seriously hurt."

Automobile traffic was backed up from the Amtrak station on Permisson Avenue onto State Highway 46 as emergency and police vehicles responded to the scene.

determined. Dailey suggested the board study the possibility of school nurses teaching about these issues. The board was told regular teachers already feel overburdened by subject loads.

The committee noted middle schools could add sex education courses to their current health program. However, not all middle schools have a health program.

Dailey said a curriculum writing team is working this summer to develop course content for high school life management courses. She suggested the team add AIDS to the curriculum.

Hughes told the board that instructors in family living and life management courses have had to skip over chapters dealing with sex education due to an old board policy. That policy forbids the teaching of most controversial health-related issues. Hughes said the board needs to review that policy before considering adding a new policy that may be in conflict.

In regard to a drug education program, health education consultant Jim Dawson said "I would like to see an established system or network in each school that would give kids in need of help a place to go without placing a stigma on them. We need a place that would handle a variety of issues, so that we're not labeling kids by sending them to a drug resource center," he said.

School drug resource teams were established in 1980-81 in all Seminole County elementary, middle and high schools. Patty Fritch, drug prevention specialist, said a three-day workshop was held and core teams assigned at that time.

"There was a great deal of enthusiasm for the program seven years ago," she said. "Since then, things have slowed down to a snail's pace."

The program is now referred to as the Student Assistance Program, thus removing any drug inference from the name. Fritch said only a few schools, Lake Mary High School being one, have an active program going.

"There is very little referral going on," she said. "Teachers have been reluctant to identify a student as a drug user. Only two percent of our students are actually being referred for assistance. Nationally, statistics show about 19 percent of young people have a substance abuse problem."

Fritch said she has seen beer bottles on school campuses and heard stories of students being intoxicated at school. She said there is not adequate time or sufficient staff to accomplish the program's existing policies and procedures.

For many schools, it's a matter of poor public relations, she said. She explained active programs aren't set up because of a fear of being perceived as a school with drug problems.

The committee recommended additional counselors and formation of support groups. Polk and Dade counties have recently hired additional counselors with $600,000 in grants, according to Fritch.

never fired at a suspect, but a few years ago as a member of the SWAT team he was fired at in a Volusia County incident.

He said the system shows how difficult it is under realistic circumstances to decide to shoot or not to shoot.

FATS, the product of a Norcross, Ga., company of the same name, features a computer control, through which moving pictures depicting re-enactments of police confrontations with suspects are projected on a screen. For the tests, officers are armed with real firearms of any type or caliber that have been modified with the addition of a laser. The FATS firearms are loaded with cartridges similar to real shell casings, but cannot accept live rounds. When the cartridges, which cost about 9 cents each and can be "re-loaded", are hit by the firing pin they activate the laser.

The computer tracks the placement of the laser beam shot on the screen where the suspects in the scenario are displayed. The computer records and displays the placement of the shot and the reaction time of the shooter. It also determines if the officer made the proper decision whether or not to shoot.

Smith said in the past sheriff's deputies have trained with a slide show that depicts shoot-don't shoot situations, with blanks fired at a screen. The effect is not the same because with the slides, the target isn't moving. The officer cannot determine where he placed his shots and the outcomes of the scenarios are always the same.

FATS is programmed to present, at random, any of 40 scenarios which unfold on the screen in real time, with unpredictable outcomes. Some of the scenarios start out with the same situation, but the endings may be different than one shown earlier with the same characters. The officer can't predict if what he is seeing will develop into a shooting situation or not.

That keeps officers from being able to memorize the outcomes, and makes every scenario a true test, Smith said.

Officers must begin the test with their weapons holstered and must follow their department's rules for identifying themselves before shooting, he said.

Each year the company issues 40 new scenarios, based on actual cases. The videos are so realistic and the FATS system so effective that it has been used in courtroom situations to demonstrate the reality of what an officer is faced with in making a split-second decision to shoot or not to shoot, Smith said.

A .357-magnum revolver is supplied with the system and other laser-equipped firearms are available at additional cost.

The sheriff's department will purchase a laser-equipped 9mm semi-automatic pistol for its trainees, Smith said. The equipment costs $1,500.

Since that type of weapon is being issued to sheriff's deputies to replace six-shot revolvers, Smith said, they need to train with it. The department and many other police agencies are switching to the 15-round semi-automatics for greater firepower.

Smith said those who take the FATS test and fail will think about the risk associated with police work, and it may weed out some who can't be trained to correct the problems the test shows they have.

"Deficiencies can't be concealed. This puts more pressure on the officers. They can't say the instructor was biased because this is all done by machine," Smith said.

Indian adoption case accepted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court agreed today to decide if an American Indian tribe has the right to challenge the adoption of twin Mississippi Choctaw children by non-Indian parents.

The justices will hear arguments next term in an appeal by the Mississippi Band of Choctaw Indians of a state Supreme Court ruling finalizing the adoption of Samuel and Megan Holyfield.

The Holyfield twins, now 2, were born Dec. 29, 1985, to a member of the Indian tribe. Both the natural mother and the Indian father agreed that the children would be given up for adoption upon their birth.

The twins were born at a hospital off the reservation and adopted by Orrey and Vivian Holyfield on Jan. 28, 1986.

In March 1986, the tribe went to court in an effort to set aside the adoption decree, arguing that the children are full blooded Choctaws who should be brought up on the reservation in Philadelphia, Miss.

Lower courts, however, disagreed on grounds that the parents had the right to place the children for adoption with whomever they wished.

Other items on the city commission meeting agenda:

- A first reading of the adult congregate living and residential care facilities ordinance.
- A first reading for an ordinance to annex property near Airport Boulevard and Jewett Lane, Seminole County has indicated that it will challenge the annexation in court. A past city annexation of another property near this one is currently on appeal by the county before the Fifth District Court of Appeals.
- Approval of a concept for design for a park at Park Avenue and Eight Street as proposed by the Scenic Improvement Board. Commissioners are also expected to approve the SIB recommendation to have Robert Leathers develop specifications for the park and its equipment.
- Authorization of the hiring of an architect to begin design of the Civic Center modifications and Senior Citizen Center addition.
- Discussion of the proposed Road Impact Fee Interlocal Agreement with Seminole County.

Washing may help your skin problems

Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I have beautiful skin on my face, but my buttocks are covered with pimples. How can I clear up this embarrassing situation?

DEAR READER: Complexion problems often appear on the buttocks without skin elsewhere on the body being affected. In part, this may be because the buttocks are almost always covered; therefore, increased sweating can contribute to skin blemishes in this area, as can prolonged sitting and non-absorbent underwear. Try washing your behind with bacterial soap, such as Dial or Betadine, twice a day. This will reduce the bacterial count on your skin, thereby making skin infections less likely. In addition, change to cotton undergarments. Finally, some people have discovered that regular washing with an abrasive soap, such as Lava, will gently remove the occlusive outer layer of dead skin, permitting the pores to breathe.

If these simple measures are ineffective, you may have to consider seeking professional attention from a skin specialist.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I don't make earwax and my ears are dry and scaly. Eardrops only help temporarily. Is there another solution?

DEAR READER: Everybody makes earwax (cerumen), but there is enormous variation in quality and quantity. If your ear canals are unusually dry, you may have a skin disorder, such as psoriasis or seborrhea, that is the cause of your ailment. See a doctor for diagnosis.

For more information, I'm sending you a free copy of my Health Report on "Eczema and Psoriasis."

DEAR DR. GOTT: My daughter started to lose her eyebrows, eyelashes and hair on one side of her head. The doctor told her to use Cortaid every time she washed her hair. It is coming back on that side, but now the other side is getting thin. She goes to high school next year and we'd like to spare her the humiliation of being called "Baldy."

DEAR READER: Your daughter's hair loss is troubling. I do not know why she tends to lose hair on one side of her body. Rather than relying on cortisone cream, which can produce future skin problems, I think that your daughter deserves referral to a dermatologist. Ask her doctor to recommend one in your community. (C)1988, NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby
Since North imagined South's hand to be stronger than it actually was, he bid aggressively to slam. Although declarer played all-out to make it, there was an interesting play available to the defenders that would have scuttled the contract. When South jumped to four spades, North thought the club ace might just be enough for slam, so he showed it. South expected a little more in other places; hence his six-diamond bid. Not knowing whether that was a cue-bid or a real suit, North returned to spades. Declarer won the king of hearts with his ace and carefully cashed the A-K of diamonds before playing back the heart 10. As you can see, if West wins the queen, he will give the contract to declarer with any lead. Of course, if he ducks the queen,

South will rise with the jack in dummy to take a spade finesse. So what can be done about it? See what happens if East puts in the nine of hearts at trick one. Sure, declarer scores up a trick with the soft 10, but what next? Giving up a spade to use the jack or 10 to get to dummy won't help, since one diamond pitch (on the club ace) is not enough. Declarer will have to hope for a miracle — the trump king dropping singleton — but no such luck. What about the bidding? Despite the good result, both North and South bid too much. South should have bid three spades after doubling, and North would have raised to four. In the actual bidding, North should have known that South sometimes races his motor when the opponents pre-empt, so he should have passed four spades.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...
By Bernice Bede Osol
YOUR BIRTHDAY MAY 24, 1988
The year ahead should be a very gratifying one for you, even though it may take some unusual turns. Areas where you were previously unlucky could now prove to be your most fortunate ones.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Things have a way of working out to your ultimate advantage today, especially matters over which you have direct control. Expect to be successful. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker set instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH, 44101-2428.
CANCER (June 21-July 22) Conditions in general look quite good for you today, especially arrangements where there are friends involved. Each person should be lucky for the other.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) More propitious conditions appear to exist for your business dealings today than they do tomorrow. Keep in step with the trend.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Somewhere far removed from where you presently reside, beneficial developments are stirring that will turn out to be to your advantage. You might get some signals today.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Thoughtfulness that you showed to another could be repaid today. Your reimbursement might be on a grander scale than you gave.
SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) An influential contact may help you attain something today that you couldn't acquire on your own. You won't mind sharing your success with this person.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Ambitious aims that have been previously thwarted have good chances of being fulfilled today. Don't be reluctant to make a second effort.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan.

19) An involvement that you have that is already quite good looks like it is going to be improved on. This is because Lady Luck may take a more active interest.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Something that you have been wanting to change isn't really as difficult as you have led yourself to believe. Today, you might discover why.
PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) What you can't achieve on your own today can be accomplished with a competent ally. Don't make the mistake of thinking you have to do everything alone.
ARIES (March 21-April 19) This can be a very rewarding day for you in ways you would least expect. Think in terms of being helpful and of service to others.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You should do rather well today in situations that have elements of chance as well as competitive components. You'll enjoy having your mettle tested.

SUPER SALE!

Check out the great values this week at your neighborhood Winn-Dixie. We've got a super sale on super items throughout the store. And just look at the Super Bonus Values! You can pick up four items this week with one penny each and your Super Bonus Certificate! So come on in. We'll see you there!

ATTENTION: CONTINENTAL AIRLINES CERTIFICATE HOLDERS

All Continental Airlines Certificates of Transportation Expire on Wednesday, May 25, 1988. If you purchased certificates during the promotion and are unable to use them, refunds will only be available at the store where they were purchased until May 25th. Beyond that date, the certificates are no longer valid and no longer refundable.

SUPER BONUS SPECIALS

HERE'S HOW IT WORKS

- 1 Pick up 4 Winn-Dixie Super Bonus Certificates at our checkout counters.
- 2 You get a Super Bonus Stamp for every $1 you spend. From 25 Super Bonus Stamps at each certificate.
- 3 When you check out present one filled Super Bonus Certificate for each Super Bonus Special you select.
