Explosions rock Navy ship

TOKYO — A fire and two explosions rocked the U.S. aircraft carrier Midway today, injuring at least nine sailors, U.S. and Japanese officials said.

The Midway was conducting routine flight operations about 125 miles northeast of Tokyo in the Pacific Ocean when the two explosions ripped through a catapult on the ship's deck at midday, the officials said.

Nine injured sailors were airlifted from the deck of the 45-year-old carrier, where the two explosions ripped through a catapult mechanism used to launch aircraft, said Japanese officials and Master Sgt. Jake Rodriguez, spokesman for the U.S. Forces Japan.

Five of the injured were flown by Navy jet to Yokosuka Naval Base, the Midway's home port, for treatment and four were taken to the Yokota Air Base, said officials at the two U.S. bases near Tokyo.

The cause of the explosion was under investigation, said Lt. Jeff Graydeck, a spokesman for the U.S. Naval Forces Japan.

The accident follows a string of Navy disasters last year. At least 65 people died in 10 incidents that began with the April 19 explosion aboard the battleship USS Iowa that killed 47 sailors.

Spitless spit wads hopeful

SCHERERVILLE, Ind. — Ted Skup hopes to make a wad of money off spitless spit wads, a product for which he believes the public is salivating.

Skup was quoted in Indiana newspapers in Gary and Indianapolis Monday and Tuesday as saying he discovered a reusable, non-toxic putty and that investors have backed him with more than $120,000 in start-up capital.

Rally saves fireworks

By J. BRADLEY DILLING

SANFORD — The fireworks will burst over Sanford this Fourth of July after all.

Steve Alford, a Sanford resident who said he couldn't bear Independence Day without Sanford's traditional fireworks, singlehandedly mounted a campaign to raise the $3,500 needed to pay for the display — and he succeeded.

When Alford boarded the Grand Romance Monday night for the meeting of the downtown merchants association, he had about $2,800.

After he left the meeting, he had $3,200.

Alford took on the fundraising effort last month after the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce abandoned the project.

One of Alford's next moves will be to call Sanford City Commissioner A.A. McClanahan, who, at a recent city commission meeting, promised to give Alford the remainder of the money if he could break the $3,000 barrier.

"I'm still going to give him the $500 regardless of the fact that he got $3,200," McClanahan said this morning. "Maybe we can just have a better display."

Alford will be giving a $2,450 down payment to Vic Vickers, owner of A.P.C. Fireworks in Orlando today. Vickers said he has orchestrated Sanford's Independence Day displays since 1977.

If either Alford or Vickers were surprised at the development, neither one of them made it apparent.

Gasoline leak underscores water worrys

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald staff writer

GENEVA — Ali Rabah, owner of Geneva Grocery store on Avenue C, hopes somebody stole 850 gallons of gasoline from his small underground storage tank Friday night and that the fuel didn't leak into the soil, threatening this small community's fragile water supply.

"My own well is just a few feet away," Rabah said Tuesday. "No one in Geneva is as concerned as I am."

The tank that apparently did leak gasoline into the ground sometime Friday or early Saturday is located at Rabah's Geneva Grocery store on Avenue C, not Geneva General Store on State Road 46 as Seminole County officials were reported as saying in Tuesday's edition of the Sanford Herald.

Crews from a Ft. Pierce company working on Rabah's gasoline tanks were expected to remove the cracked tank this morning. Officials from the Florida Department of Environmental Regulation will then inspect the soil to determine if the gas did indeed leak.

Rabah, who lives with his family over the store, said Tuesday he called county fire officials within minutes of having discovered the tank was empty. Although he hopes the gasoline was stolen, Rabah said he does not believe that. He said he has never had gasoline stolen from 1,000-gallon tank before, nor has it leaked.

Rabah said the tank was inspected last week by Alan Chemical, a Fort Pierce company that he hired to coat the tank's interior with fiberglass to meet new state regulations. The company had also installed four groundwater monitoring wells to detect leaks, also a state requirement.

Rabah said Alan officials first sanded the interior of the tank then conducted a careful inspection for holes or cracks. They found none, Rabah said he was told.

After the tank was coated, Rabah said he had it filled with approximately 850 gallons of gasoline at about 10 a.m. Friday to test it for leaks as Alan officials directed him to do. When he checked the level of the tank at 2 to 10 a.m. Saturday morning, the "dip stick" came up dry.

Rabah said he immediately called county fire officials who responded within 15 minutes of his call. Fire officials found three of the monitoring wells located within five feet of the tank showed no contamination. But one well about three feet south of the tank, showed contamination at about 26 feet in

Lake Mary irked over fast food

LAKE MARY — More fast food restaurants in Lake Mary? Not so fast, residents and city officials are saying.

The city commission tomorrow night will consider plans for Wendy's restaurant proposed for the northern side of Lake Mary Boulevard, just east of the Sun Drive intersection. Residents of the nearby Feather Edge condominium complex and city planners have voiced concerns about the project.

Originally, the commission was also scheduled to discuss a site plan and conditional use request for a McDonald's restaurant proposed for the same general area on Sun Drive, but that proposal was withdrawn. There has been some speculation, however, that McDonald's may still seek to locate a restaurant in the See Food, Page 5A

Firefighters warn of danger after muck fire

By J. BRADLEY DILLING
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Just because you don't see warning signs there doesn't mean you shouldn't avoid the area, local firefighters are saying about the forest ravaged by fire and smoldering muck behind Hidden Lake Villas apartments near Airport Boulevard.

Muck, the layers of decayed vegetation that form the forest floor, smoldered for weeks after the above ground blazes were put out, but fire officials said the area still presents hazards to curious onlookers or children playing in the area.

"We really can't put up signs or anything because it's private property," County Forester Mike Martin said. "People should avoid it at all cost."

Martin said about 95 percent of the smoke has been eliminated, but county and local fire departments still check every week to be sure there is no danger from flare-ups. See Forest, Page 5A

SCC declares its paralegal program a success

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Having just graduated the first student from the year-old paralegal department at Seminole Community College, Pamela Poole, who heads the department, feels the program is a success.

Approximately 60 students are enrolled in the two-year program.

"This is one of the big growth fields of the next decade," Poole said. "The possibilities for employment are very good."

She said that in addition to the traditional role of the paralegal as the assistant to an attorney, one can also find employment in insurance or real estate offices, in banks or in title companies preparing legal documents.

"A paralegal can do everything a lawyer can do except give legal advice," Poole explained.

She said the students in the SCC course range in age from 18 to "in their 60s". Some, she said, have chosen the career because of the potential for high-income jobs. Others are preparing for law school in the future when they can afford it, but want experience in the legal profession now. Some enroll in the classes simply because they are fascinated with the judicial system.

Classes include instruction on research, trial assistance, wills, probate and real estate law.

"There are some good, practical classes here for everyone too," she said.

"We have quite a variety of students in these classes," Poole noted. "It makes the program all the more interesting."

Poole said many of her students already have See Paralegal, Page 5A

Veteran printer completes mid-life change of career

By VICKI DeSORMIER

SANFORD — After 23 years as a printer, Ken Baker decided it was time for a change in careers.

"I don't know if it was the chemicals or the change of life that got to me," the 43-year-old quipped, "but I decided to get out and try something else."

Actually, a year and a half ago, Baker was experiencing some health problems and doctors told him he should retire from printing.

So, he cut back on his work schedule at the print shop and enrolled in classes at Seminole Community College's new paralegal program. Recently, he became the first graduate of the program.

"I've always enjoyed doing research. And I've been interested in the judicial system," he said. "I used to watch Perry Mason all the time."

Baker said he considered changing to a career in real estate or in medical technology, but he realized he did not have the interest or the "personality" for either field.

Defense hopeful in Noriega asset battle

MIAMI — A member of the defense team of Manuel Noriega was hopeful Tuesday that the deposed Panamanian dictator would win his court battle to free some of his millions of dollars in frozen assets to pay legal fees.

Bolstered by a ruling from U.S. District Judge William Hoewerl that ordered prosecutors to justify the seizure of Noriega's assets, defense lawyer Jon May said his side had the advantage going into a hearing on the funds, which is set for Wednesday.

In a written order Tuesday, the judge ordered the U.S. government to either justify the seizure of Noriega's accounts or be prepared to free part of the funds.

White student union adviser quits

GAINESVILLE — The faculty adviser to the University of Florida's White Student Union has quit, saying he wants to break ties with the group because some of its officers consider a Ku Klux Klansman to be their ally.

UF teaching assistant Russ Schneider said Monday he quit about 10 days ago after White Student Union president Mark Wright sent a copy of the group's constitution to former Ku Klux Klan Imperial Wizard Tony Bastanzio.

"They seem to look on him as an ally," Schneider said of the officers, whom he did not name. "They were willing to overlook his Klan affiliation and just thought that was garbage."

Bastanzio told The Tampa Tribune on Monday he asked for a copy of the document to use as a framework for setting up similar organizations on campuses around the nation.

He said he formed White Student Unions of America three months ago and has run advertisements at several Florida schools to solicit members.

Bastanzio also is organizing a planned Aug. 18 Klan rally at the Hernando County Courthouse to protest the May 19 beating death of Russell Coats, who was white. Seven black men have been charged with first-degree murder in Coats' death.

State investigator shot to death

GULF BREEZE — A 37-year-old man was arrested Tuesday in connection with the late-night shooting death of an investigator with the state attorney's office, authorities said.

Patrick Allen Salgat, 37, of Pensacola Beach, was arrested at a beach community east of Gulf Breeze after heavily armed law enforcement officers converged on a condominium at Navarre Beach.

The arrest was made without incident.

Escambia County authorities said another man who was in the condominium at the time was taken into custody as a material witness for questioning. He has not been identified and is not believed to be connected with the shooting.

Salgat was charged with murder in the Monday night shooting death of Steve Bolyard, 36, a veteran investigator with the state attorney's office.

Florida trucker sentenced in drug bust

RENO, Nev. — Luis Valdez of Miami was sentenced to 21 years in prison and fined $500,000 Tuesday after pleading guilty to trafficking more than 212 pounds of cocaine seized last October in a truck east of Reno.

District Judge Brent Adams told Valdez, "You're now out of the dope business."

Chieftain Deputy District Attorney Ed Basl said also that Valdez, 45, forfeited two trucks and refrigerated units worth several hundred thousand dollars.

Valdez was hauling a load of lettuce from California to New York when he was stopped at a routine safety inspection. But further investigation turned up 98 kilos of cocaine inside his tractor-trailer.

The cocaine had an estimated street value of between $9.5 million and $25 million depending on how it could have been cut down and sold.

Basl told the judge that Valdez has cooperated with law enforcement and has identified another drug dealer in Florida. Basl declined to identify the man but said the information will be turned over to Florida authorities.

Valdez had a prior conviction in Florida of trafficking in 1,100 pounds of marijuana and had received a three year prison term.

Suicide victim's corpse stolen

LAKE CITY — Five men have been charged with stealing the corpse of a suicide victim for use in a bizarre game at which the body was to have been the centerpiece for a ceremony.

The five were accused Tuesday of stealing the body of Steven Glen Morgan, a 20-year-old suicide victim buried in a Columbia County cemetery. They were charged with disturbing the contents of a grave, a third-degree felony.

Morgan's body was found last month, with one leg missing, in a wooded area of rural Union County. The missing leg was later found propped against a tree.

Gunman linked to more shootings

By MICHAEL MOLINE
United Press International

JACKSONVILLE — The gunman who killed eight people at a loan office with a semi-automatic assault rifle, then took his own life, was on a rampage that began the day before with the shooting of four people, authorities said Tuesday.

James Edward Pough, 42, shot a prostitute and her pimp to death early Sunday morning, then shot and wounded two teenagers 10 minutes later, Duval County Sheriff James McMillan said. Witnesses also linked him to several weekend robberies.

The next day Pough entered the General Motors Acceptance

Corp. auto finance office and sprayed it with gunfire from a .30-caliber semi-automatic rifle, killing eight people and wounding five others before committing suicide.

"The violence continued — the rampage that he started in the wee hours Sunday morning before he went out to GMAC," McMillan said.

A friend, meanwhile, described Pough, whose nickname was "Pop," as a man who was always willing to help, but was capable of violence if cheated. "Anything he could do for you he'd do, but don't try to cross him — no telling what he'd do," said Vanessa Gadsden, 35, who was Pough's neighbor until she was 19.

GMAC building closes as company consoles victims

United Press International

JACKSONVILLE — Workers removed shattered glass and blood-stained carpets Tuesday from the loan office where a gunman killed himself and eight people and company executives tried to help survivors overcome the emotional trauma.

The General Motors Acceptance Corp. auto finance office, a one-story tan stucco building where James Edward Pough, 42, of Jacksonville opened fire Monday with a .30-caliber semiautomatic rifle, was closed Tuesday while the company and employees tried to deal with the tragedy.

Only a handful of employees were allowed in to pick up personal belongings as workers picked up blood-stained carpets and glass from a bullet-shattered window.

A small number of customers stopped by to pay bills and were turned away with instructions to either mail in their checks or pay through their car dealer.

"The whole of General Motors, and certainly GMAC is shocked by this whole thing," said Ronald Uplyke, GMAC's regional manager from Atlanta, one of several executives, including GMAC President William Lovejoy, who flew to the scene.

Gunshots interrupt Pasco witches' ceremony

United Press International

NEW PORT RICHEY — A witches' ceremony came to an abrupt halt over the weekend when angry neighbors and members of the nature worshipping coven exchanged gunshots, authorities said.

The witches said the attack Sunday was just the latest in a series of violent acts against their group and its island shrine near Moon Lake, northeast of New Port Richey.

Five witches from the Coven Lothlorien told Pasco County deputies they had just finished a ritual seeking protection from threats when gunfire ripped through the trees surrounding their ceremonial grounds at about 11 p.m.

No one was wounded and no arrests were made, the Pasco Sheriff's Office said.

Witches, or wiccans, are nature worshippers who honor celestial cycles and the seasons, said Ron Parshley, president of National Association of Pantheists.

Wiccans' ceremonies include torch-lit dancing, chanting and burning of incense, he said.

"We heard the bullets ripping past and we all crouched down on the ground and started crawling back to my house on our hands and knees," said Kessie Cornwell, a witch and a registered nurse.

The small island sits in the middle of a pond at the end of a lush pathway behind Cornwell's house. Only one other house stands within 200 yards of the pond, which backs up to a vast stretch of swamp.

Members said Sunday's ritual was in response to threats they received the day before. Cornwell's house had been pelted with eggs, she said, and a note was left in her front yard Saturday.

The note warned the group to stop their "Satan worshipping or be prepared for worse. Next time we won't stop at eggs."

Another note said, "We are the ultimate enemy. We are out to kill!"

Cornwell, 43, said she heard people cursing, calling them Satanists and other names during Sunday's attack.

When the gunfire started, coven member Curtis Niles of Spring Hill grabbed a shotgun and fired several rounds in the air, Cornwell said.

Neighbor Art Gray, 39, told a sheriff's deputy he heard shots coming from Cornwell's property and he fired back, also in the air, to warn the people away from his house.

Several of Cornwell's neighbors said they believed the group practices Satanism and sacrifices animals. But Cornwell said the group doesn't allow animals near their worshipping area.

Mack criticizes court ruling on rap

United Press International

MIAMI — Sen. Connie Mack spoke out Tuesday against a south Florida federal judge's ruling banning music with sexually explicit lyrics by Miami rap group 2 Live Crew.

"The Florida Republican said many people would undoubtedly find the lyrics on the controversial recording 'As Nasty As They Wanna Be' to be reprehensible, but that did not necessarily make its sale illegal to adults."

"Our constitution protects our right to say what we feel, especially in the privacy of our own homes," he said in a statement sent from his office in Washington. "Despite the fact that 2 Live Crew's lyrics are vulgar and offensive, adults should have every right to buy the groups' songs."

Sen. Bob Graham, D-Fla., said he had not read the lyrics or heard the music.

"I have not heard the songs and do not plan to hear this music," he said, also from Washington. "On a general level, no freedom is unlimited. All freedom occurs in the context of freedom of others."

Luther Campbell, leader of 2 Live Crew, was not available for comment.

U.S. District Judge Jose Gonzalez in Fort Lauderdale ruled June 6 that the album was legally obscene by community standards because its lyrics vividly depict sexual acts and lack any redeeming social value. The judge's ruling covered Dade, Broward and Palm Beach counties.

Broward County Sheriff Nick Navarro immediately vowed to uphold the judge's ruling.

Court justices lecture state prosecutors

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — Florida Supreme Court justices Tuesday lectured a state prosecutor trying to push forward the execution of convicted killer Judy Buonomo, the so-called "black widow," for wasting their time.

The Supreme Court late last week postponed the execution until noon Thursday to review new evidence submitted by her lawyers.

Tuesday's hearing was to determine whether the execution should go on as scheduled. Following arguments, the high court took the case under advisement.

Buonomo was scheduled to die in Florida's electric chair Tuesday for the 1971 poisoning death of her husband, James Goodyear. She has also been sentenced to life in prison for the 1980 drowning death of her paralyzed son and was a suspect in the 1978 poisoning death of a boyfriend in Colorado.

To save her from the chair, defense lawyers have essentially placed the state's electric chair on trial, arguing that last month's fiery execution of Jesse Tafero raises questions about its working order. In its present condition, they argue, using the chair to execute Buonomo would constitute cruel and unusual punishment.

"After all, this court did not sentence her to be burned and tortured," lawyers for the Capital Collateral Representatives wrote in their appeal. Capital Collateral is a state-financed group of lawyers who handle appeals for death row inmates.

When Tafero was executed May 4 for killing a state trooper and a Canadian police officer, a faulty headpiece caused flames to shoot from his head when power was applied. Prison officials had to throw the switch three times in order to make sure he was dead, and witnesses said he seemed to be breathing before the third jolt hit him.

Decision may lead to stiff abortion laws

United Press International

FORT LAUDERDALE — A federal judge in Fort Lauderdale today said he will decide within the next month whether to listen to arguments that could lead to tighter restrictions on abortion clinics.

U.S. District Judge Jose A. Gonzalez Junior was critical of the state's inability to address the issue before a newspaper in south Florida published a story describing poor conditions in one abortion clinic.

Assistant State Attorney James Peters argued that under the current abortion regulations, the H-RS cannot guarantee that abortions are being performed safely.

The attorney representing the clinics, Charline Carras argued that the move to clamp down on abortion clinics is a thinly veiled attempt to restrict abortions.

She said the state is unwilling to impose the same kinds of restrictions on other medical facilities.

Abortion clinics won the first round of this battle in 1982 when Gonzalez shot down the state's attempt to impose tighter controls on abortion clinics.

The state filed a motion earlier this year to reverse that decision.

Police officer attacked

SANFORD - Police officer Robert Shull, Jr., was attacked when he responded to a call of a disturbance in front of 409 W. 18th St., Sanford at 7 p.m. Tuesday. According to police reports, Jaime Lawrence Brunelle, 32, 158 S. Fifth Street, Lake Mary, assaulted the officer, causing a cut to his forehead and a torn uniform.

Brunelle was arrested and charged with disorderly conduct, battery on a law enforcement officer and resisting arrest with violence. He was taken to the Seminole County jail, where he reportedly attacked another officer while he was being admitted.

Fugitive returned from Ohio

SANFORD - Steven Little, 35, 650 Lee Road, Winter Park, was returned to Seminole County jail Tuesday from Hamilton County, Ohio where he was apprehended on a warrant charging he had left his local residence April 1 without permission of his parole supervisor. Little had been serving three years probation on a charge of possession of cocaine.

Series of car burglaries hits Apopka

APOPKA - Losses of electronic equipment were reported in three separate vehicle break-ins over a 14-hour period in Apopka.

The first occurred at 4:30 p.m. Monday at 2713 Dorado Court, when someone removed the back window of a vehicle owned by Laura Carrero and took an in-dash stereo system. The second incident, at 4 a.m. Tuesday, involved the removal of a GE Citizens Band Radio from the vehicle of Ronnie Strickland, at his home, 3059 Suwannee Court. Entry was made through an open window. The third incident occurred just thirty minutes later at 829 Suwannee Court with the theft of a 2-way radio from an unlocked company vehicle at the home of B.J. King.

Cocoa police chief accepts settlement for resignation

United Press International

COCOA - Police Chief Gene Powers, who has been on suspension since March, has agreed to resign in exchange for $70,000, a newspaper reported Tuesday.

A special City Council meeting was scheduled at 5:30 p.m. Tuesday to give council members a chance to vote on the proposed settlement.

Neither Powers, who has served as police chief for three years, nor City Manager Charles McCool, who led an investigation into alleged wrongdoing in the Police Department, was available for comment.

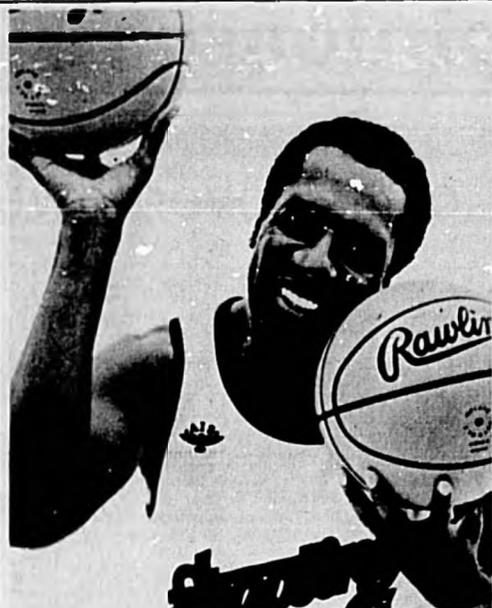

But the settlement called for Powers to resign immediately and receive $70,000. The Orlando Sentinel reported. McCool suspended Powers and the department's two-member drug unit on April 3.

His investigation uncovered allegations by more than a dozen people, many of them from within the department, who complained of criminal and administrative wrongdoing in the Police Department, McCool said.

The allegations included charges that evidence was falsified and drug suspects were tipped off before raids.

Powers' suspension, handed down a week after he went on sick leave for stress-related ailments, prompted protests from the community. About 40 protesters marched in front of City Hall three days after the suspension to protest the action.

Freedom from Drugs

Former Harlem Globetrotter Meadowlark Lemon will be featured in a crusade entitled "Freedom from Drugs," co-sponsored by the City of Sanford and Freedom Assembly Church, Sanford, Rev. Randall Hall Walker, pastor. The event will also feature musical guests Sherman Andrus, Celeste Wyman and the Freedom Singers, Birdella Hall-Walker and Bruce Thompkins. The crusade will be Friday at 7 p.m. in the Sanford Civic Center. Tickets for the event are $10 each and are available at Osborn's Bible Bookstore, 2599 Sanford, Ave., or Pine Hills Bookstore, 6415 Colonial Ave., Orlando.

Walk for Children set for tomorrow

Commission report on at-risk youth to be focus of 11 a.m. demonstration

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald staff writer

SANFORD - Children's rights activists will walk a mile through downtown tomorrow to draw attention to the needs of children in Seminole County.

The "Walk for Children" was organized by Ursula Sunshine Child Abuse Prevention, Inc. to show support for the Seminole County Commission on Children's findings and the report which they will present to the Seminole County Commission on Tuesday, June 26.

The report deals with the top 25 priorities for children's services in Seminole County, according to the Commission on Children. If implemented, the programs would cost a total of $1,065,302.

One priority set forth in the report is the recommendation that the Commissioners create a permanent Citizen's Commission for Children.

Some of the other recommendations included in the report include designating $60,000 to match the 4C waiting list for day care for 468 children; appointing a full-time community coordinator for The Grove drug treatment facility to coordinate drug treatment and services for children; hiring three full-time master's degree-level mental health counselors for the Seminole County Mental Health Center to provide more help for children; creating an outreach position for Central Florida Community Clinic to contact children who have not returned to the clinic for treatment and developing a Sunshine Connection office in north Seminole County to assist first time mothers in developing child-rearing skills.

Children and their parents are being asked to join the walk, which will begin at the First Federal of Seminole building, 312 W. First St., at 10:30 a.m.

The group will progress down First St. one mile to the Seminole County Services Building.

Battle lines drawn in zoning issue

By NICK PFENAUER
Herald staff writer

LONGWOOD - City commissioners Monday got a taste of the battle lines that may be drawn when a rezoning request returns to city hall for second reading and a public hearing at the July 16 meeting. Property owner Janice Goebel and Longwood Deputy Mayor Jeff Morton, who has a contract to purchase the property, want slightly less than seven and a half acres of land rezoned from R-1A to R-1, which allows for smaller lot sizes.

As the rezoning was brought up for first reading late in the meeting, Morton, who was presiding in the absence of Mayor Gene Farach, turned the gavel over to Commissioner Hank Hardy and declared a conflict of interest. That left only commissioners Hardy, Adrienne Perry and Rex Anderson to represent the city. Hardy, however, allowed public comment from Morton's representative, and against the urgings of acting City Attorney Frank Kruppenbacher that this was not a public hearing, the line of citizens protesting the rezoning began.

Ed Lindquist, a resident of Hidden Oaks Subdivision which adjoins the property, set the tone for those in opposition. He said he had purchased his home, zoned R-1A, "with the understanding that the adjacent property would remain R-1A as well."

Several other Hidden Oaks Subdivision residents also spoke against the rezoning proposal for the same reasons cited by Lindquist. With the small size of the property however, it was determined that the rezoning to R-1, which would allow smaller lots, would only add three single family residences beyond what would have been allowed with the R-1A zoning.

Diversity in Eastern Europe

The results of the elections in Czechoslovakia and Bulgaria provide further evidence that the countries of Eastern Europe, freed of outside dominance for the first time in more than four decades, are evolving in their own separate ways.

In Czechoslovakia, whose historical ties are to the West and which had a democratic system between the two World Wars, power went to a democratic coalition — Civil Forum and its Slovakian counterpart, Public Against Violence — led by intellectuals with almost no political experience.

In Bulgaria, whose history grows out of the Byzantine tradition, with centuries of domination by Turks and Russians, the Communists — who now call themselves Socialists — won with nearly half the vote in what Western observers saw as a fair multi-party election.

Nearly 97 percent of eligible voters turned out in Czechoslovakia, this time not because they were forced to by a Stalinist regime but out of an overpowering desire to endorse the "velvet revolution" of last autumn and its leaders' determination to create a free and civilized political culture and a market-based economy. The Communist Party won only 14 percent of the vote, though the survival of thousands of midlevel party apparatchiks in the government may complicate an already awesome task of reforming one of the most collectivized systems in Eastern Europe.

Bulgaria, by contrast, had neither any democratic experience nor even much of a dissident faction until very recently. This political imbalance, plus the innate caution of rural voters and a fear among many Bulgarians of the potentially jarring impact of the kind of rapid reforms promised by the Union of Democratic Forces, helped the Communists win an election in which more than 80 percent voted. Yet those who now lead the party appear to be reformers, moreover, the UDF did well, obtaining an estimated 36 percent of the vote. However cautiously, Bulgarians are testing the unfamiliar waters of freedom.

Czechoslovakia's democratic impulses, the country's inspired leadership, its strong industrial infrastructure, modest foreign debt and well-educated work force put it in a position to be a leader in Central Europe, both in playing a mediating role in resolving East-West security issues and in making what's bound to be an extremely difficult transition to a more modern, market-oriented system. The question now is whether President Václav Havel and his colleagues can match their indisputable courage and vision with the pragmatic qualities needed to overcome decades of Communist mismanagement. Clearly their constituents have confidence that they can, and others in Eastern Europe are hoping that they are right.

Fear of life overpowers fear of death

BOSTON — On June 4, Janet Adkins, a woman in fear of losing her mind to Alzheimer's disease, traveled to Michigan for a back-alley suicide. The doctor that she found to speed her wish was Jack Kevorkian, an M.D. and a maverick, that word we use to describe both crusaders and loose cannons.

Dr. Kevorkian drove E's vehicle, his suicide-mobile, his welcome-to-death wagon, to a park in Oakland County, north of Detroit. There, in the back of a van, the doctor hooked up his patient to a machine. After saying thank you, we are told, Janet Adkins, 54, lover of music and mountain climbing, pushed a button that released a lethal drug into her body.

In the days since that fateful, fatal encounter, Mrs. Adkins has been eulogized by her minister as "a pioneer in the battle for death with dignity." Dr. Kevorkian has been both lionized and vilified as he makes his way through the headlines and the talk shows, daring the authorities to turn the maverick into a martyr: "If it's legal, let me do it. If it's illegal, stop me."

And in these same days, questions of life and death — what kind of life? what kind of death? — have been raised in the public consciousness with a new scenario attached to them.

In some ways, Dr. Kevorkian is too easy a target for this discussion. With a ghoulish passion, the retired pathologist and self-described "obituarist" or death doctor, has advocated everything from experimentation on death-row inmates to a chain of nonprofit suicide clinics. "My motto is," he says, "A rational policy of planned death."

From all accounts, Dr. Kevorkian was in no position to judge Mrs. Adkin's illness, the extent of her depression, to offer counseling or alternatives. It is impossible to justify the role played by a stranger/physician — one eager for a test case — in providing the weapon for suicide. But in some ways, the attention to Dr. Kevorkian's personality begs the central questions about life and death and medicine.

I believe that there is such a thing as rational suicide. If a person is old enough or ill enough, the hard part is defining "enough." When Dr. Bruno Bettelheim's ended his life some weeks ago, it seemed to me that he deserved moral permission for his act. The stories about Janet Adkins are less clear.

Alzheimer's, diagnosed a year ago, had robbed her of her music and pockets of her memory. By some standards she wasn't far gone enough to give up on life. But it's fair to suggest that it wasn't just her sense of loss but her bleak vision of the future that caused this pre-emptive strike against the debilitating disease.

Dr. Kevorkian says that Mrs. Adkins had asked her doctor what he would recommend for her when she was finally in a vegetative state. The Doctor, according to Kevorkian, said, "He would tell her husband to shoot her." If that is true, he offered nothing. She could exercise her will now or lose it.

The bleak future Janet Adkins faced is one that other elderly and ill recognize. Most of us have the desire to live as long as our minds are working. But at precisely the moment we might choose to die, we may have lost the capacity to make that choice. How many suicide pacts and acts are based upon that fear?

The desire to control death may be a modern conceit, a kind of hubris against nature. But it is one based on modern technology.

"If it's legal, let me do it. If it's illegal, stop me."

CIA conflicts obvious

Recent articles concerning the impending sale of the Community Improvement Association's building in Lake Mary have caused me to see RED.

Why is it necessary for the organization to sell the building? It belongs to the Community of Lake Mary. Why should the City of Lake Mary (translates to the citizens, taxpayers and/or community of Lake Mary) purchase said building?

According to members of the present CIA board, the building is too costly for them to maintain and they need money for other projects. Might I suggest they try holding fundraisers. I know they sponsor a Smoked-Turkey effort at Thanksgiving and a Spring Bar-Be-Cue, neither of which are real big money makers. This is not enough. In the early years, a minimum of six fundraisers a year was held. Among the six were smoked turkeys and the bar-be-cue, but we also held at least one major fundraiser, Go-Kart races which generally netted a minimum of $5,000. Hard work? Yes, but very rewarding.

Current President Randy Morris recently said "ton of programs — recreational and educational" could be a reality at the building if the city was to purchase it. According to the Charter, Articles of Incorporation, Lease and various other early documents, these very programs should have been on-going happenings at the building. If the building has been void of these programs the organization is in violation of the lease agreement. Violation of the lease agreement shall make it null and void. If the lease were null and void, any and all buildings, furnishings, etc. shall become the property of the Lessor — which translates into the City of Lake Mary. So why are we paying $160,000.00 for a building, which by default, already belongs to us?

The very commissioners who were so eager to purchase this building, former CIA president, Commissioner David Meador, and very recently former board member, Commissioner Tom Mahoney, were also very eager to "unload" this building for the CIA. Former president Meador is the one who introduced this idea to the board last year.

A clause in the Articles of Incorporation bothers me. It plainly states "No person, firm or corporation shall ever receive any dividends or profits from the undertaking of this corporation..." Wasn't the construction of this building an "undertaking" of this corporation?

Mayor Dick Fess and Commissioner George Duryea, in the days before either held those titles, worked just about every fundraiser the CIA has. Commissioner Meador, as a Rotarian, worked one that I can recall. Commissioner Mahoney wasn't here at that time and neither was Mr. Morris. Even though Commissioner Tremel was here, I cannot ever recall seeing him — even attending a CIA function.

For Commissioners Mahoney and Meador to be allowed to vote on this lease seems grossly unjust. The question of whether they should be allowed to vote on the issue or not should never have come up. They both should have claimed a conflict of interest and abstained from voting.

Perhaps one of the reasons I feel so betrayed by this action is I was there, at every fundraising effort of the CIA for the first four or five years. I never missed a planning session, a work session or the actual event. I was not alone. I don't wish to mention any more names, for fear I will leave some very hardworking soul out, but there were a number of wonderful people who showed up at every event. They worked through cold, rain, 99 degree weather — whatever it took — to raise money to get that building built. Yes, there were also donations that contributed to the building becoming a reality. Someone, somewhere worked for that money, too.

If the sale of this building goes through, as it is apparent it will, it is only fair and just, that each contributing organization be given — at the very least — their original contributions. Each business that donated time, talent, materials and/or expertise, for the center to become a reality should be compensated in some manner. I am contemplating billing the organization for all my many hours I donated. I didn't give up my evenings and weekends for those four years — so the present board could sell and make a profit on my effort to see our organization's dream. After the sale, they will sit back, play Santa, and take credit for any "good" this money might do. It doesn't mean the same if you don't have a little piece of yourself in it... a little blood, sweat and tears makes all the difference.

I would like to thank all those people, who supported the efforts to make this building a reality — the board members and their families, the members who worked so very hard at the fundraisers, the people who donated labor, time, talent on the building — and to those who supported our efforts by attending the functions — and I would like to apologize for letting you down. We promised this would belong to the citizens of Lake Mary. If we are not paying $160,000.00 for it — I guess it didn't belong to us after all.

I realize this is long. I am not an attorney, but as I have read over the lease, the Articles of Incorporation and Charter, I can't help but feel an injustice has been committed upon the citizens of Lake Mary.

U.S. is wedded to intermarriage

When Andrew Cuomo, son of New York's Gov. Mario Cuomo, recently married Kerry Kennedy, daughter of the late Sen. Robert Kennedy, it was hailed as the remarkable coming-together of two political dynasties. It was, moreover, one assumes, it was also the marriage of two young people in love.

Beyond all that was unique and beyond all that was universal, the marriage was also a symbol of a profoundly important American situation that has reached true majority status only in recent decades. Barely noticed nowadays, the Melting Pot has happened. Americans of European ancestry are becoming one people. Arguably, the same process is going on among most non-European Americans, although at a lesser incidence.

In the language of scholars who study the field, the Cuomo-Kennedy union was "exogamous" — that is, it was an "intermarriage." Mr. Cuomo is of Italian ancestry. His wife is of mixed Irish ancestry. Today, intermarriage between whites of European ancestry is the rule. That was not true in earlier generations. Among Italian Americans (IAs) born in America prior to 1920, almost two-thirds (63 percent) married other IAs. But of IAs born after 1950 (like Andrew Cuomo), only about a fifth (22 percent) marry other IAs.

Similar patterns of prevalent intermarriage now exists among Irish Americans, Polish Americans and English Americans. The overall figure is about 75 percent. (The data comes from the 1980 Census, as analyzed by Professor Richard Alba of the State University of New York.) Another way of looking at the identity of Americans is through the prism of "mixed ancestry." Just 8 percent of all IAs born prior to 1920 were of "mixed ancestry." Of IAs born after 1960, the rate is 70 percent. The Census Bureau doesn't keep statistics about religion, but estimates show that almost half of new marriages involving Jews now include non-Jewish partners, compared to less than 10 percent in 1950s.

Now intermarriage has been an issue about as passionate, and sometimes poisonous, as has existed in American life. But whatever the opinions, intermarriage is now a massive fact. We are witnessing the birth of genus Americanus, and we're never going to be the same.

The impact is powerful. In the old days, newly arrived white ethnic and religious groups faced scorn. Alba has written that Italian immigrants "became a focus for explicitly racist thinking and stereotypes," perceived as "swarthy" people with "low foreheads," and that the derogatory anti-Italian epithet "guinea" referred originally "to slaves from the Western coast of Africa." Much of that, not all, has vanished. It's a lot harder to countenance the rejection of other peoples when your in-laws and grandchildren are them, and even harder when, in the next generation, you are too.

It is unlikely that Joseph P. Kennedy, the "founding father" of the American Kennedy clan, envisioned having granddaughters married to people named Cuomo (Italian), Schlossberg (Jewish) and Schwarzenegger (Austrian). But who's going to argue, particularly with Schwarzenegger?

These trends of European assimilation are relevant to Americans of non-European ancestry. We are hearing a great deal about increased tensions, focusing on Hispanics, Asians and blacks. Most of the evidence is anecdotal, with little effort to compare what is happening now with earlier times.

"Barely noticed nowadays, the Melting Pot has happened."

Food

same general area, but outside of Lake Mary's city limits.

Depending on the outcome of a hearing before the Lake Mary City Commission tomorrow night, there may or may not be a Wendy's fast food restaurant in the city's future. Controversy is already evident not only from the public but city officials who seem to disagree over the question.

The proposed Wendy's restaurant would be located on the northern side of Lake Mary Boulevard, 300 feet east of the Sun Drive intersection near the Sun Bank, relatively close to the Feather Edge complex on Rinehart Road.

Elisabeth Hathaway, a resident of Feather Edge has already submitted a letter of opposition to Mayor Dick Fess, calling attention to the large number of fast food restaurants already in the immediate area.

"How many restaurants/fast foods does Lake Mary need?" Hathaway asked. "The traffic is bad enough now on Lake Mary Boulevard; increasing it to four lanes certainly is not going to help, and causing additional traffic by permitting these fast food chains on Sun Drive will only make a bad situation worse."

Regarding buffer zones, she said, "The only buffer our complex has is the wooded area that is left on Sun Drive; at least some of the traffic noise from Lake Mary Boulevard is muffled; but if you allow one or two fast food chains to put up their structures on Sun Drive, we will be left with nothing."

Lefwich Consulting Engineers, Inc., in a traffic impact study made on behalf of Orlando Foods Limited, (Wendy's), says, "The overall effect of the opening of Wendy's on Lake Mary Boulevard has a negative impact on the intersection of Lake Mary/Sun Drive." It adds, "Turning traffic into Wendy's from Lake Mary Boulevard does not have a major impact on the level of service along Lake Mary Boulevard for westbound traffic."

City officials however, are of mixed opinion over approval of the conditional use and site plan. The Planning and Zoning Board recommended denial at its May 22 meeting, with a consensus that, "Not under any conditions should a fast food restaurant be there."

Tim Weaver, Lake Mary's traffic engineer, recommended denial until the Lake Mary Boulevard widening is complete. But the planning staff has recommended approval of the conditional use, site plan and buffer variance, subject to a number of conditions.

The commission will meet at 7 p.m. tomorrow in the Lake Mary City Commission chambers, 158 N. Country Club Road.

wanted it badly enough and that they were just going to fall in behind me," Alford said. "He really wanted to help us. He's just like a big kid. He really loves this."

Vickers said he had faith in Alford from the start of the effort.

"I had a feeling from the beginning that he had enough enthusiasm and energy and that he was going to make it," Vickers said.

Vickers said he told Alford to save any remaining money for next year's display, but Alford has his own ideas.

"The $3,500 gets us 270 rockets, and $5,000 gets us almost twice as much — 470 rockets," Alford said. "I'm not so sure that I can make it to $5,000, but I'm just going to get everything we can. This is going to be the best display we have ever had."

Alford said he is exhausted from the drive, which he has conducted five days a week since May 25.

"I am really beat," Alford said. "I am really tired."

Alford said he wanted to thank all of the businesses that helped in the effort.

"There are so many of them," he said. "I went to about 100 of them. This would never have been possible without them."

Alford said the most important thing he got out of the experience was pride.

"It's the pride of it all to make something work that somebody else said wasn't going to happen. Pride is what I'll remember. It's a proud affair."

Forest

Jack Jones, regional supervisor for the Division of Forestry, said the biggest hazard in the area comes from the trees whose soil — muck — has been burned from around the roots.

"You can go out there and see trees with their whole lateral root systems exposed, and they're just hanging on by the tap root," Jones said. "It's real dangerous. They can fall anywhere, anytime on anyone. All they need is just the right wind."

One of the hazards that forest firefighters face is the weakened ground. When the fire burns, air pockets as deep as 20 feet can form below the forest floor, Jones said with the ground as moist and heavy with water as it is now, the deepest air pockets probably have caved in, but the shallower remaining pockets are hazardous, nonetheless.

"With pockets as deep as three or four feet, you could wind up with a broken leg or severe burn injuries, because some of that stuff could still be hot even if it isn't smoking on the surface," Jones said.

Jones said in more than six weeks of a cooperative effort among the division of forestry, the Seminole County Fire Department and the Sanford Fire Department, about 8 million gallons of water have been dumped on the area.

Jones said trees and foliage would probably begin growing back within weeks, although it would be several years before the forest would be fully restored.

"You can already see some green coming out through there, anyway," Jones said.

Jones said about 130 acres of land had been burned, but much of it was underbrush and about 60 to 70 acres of trees had been burned.

First Union names Georgius president

United Press International

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — Corporate directors Tuesday elected John R. Georgius, a vice president since 1987, as president of the First Union Corporation based in Charlotte.

Bank officials said Georgius, 45, will manage First Union's banking operations and related staff in five states and will also continue as chairman and chief executive officer of First Union National Bank of North Carolina. Georgius began his banking career in 1963, joining First Union in 1975. He was named head of the trust division in 1979, became a vice chairman of the bank in 1983 and bank president in 1984.

First Union Corp. chairman and chief executive officer Edward E. Crutchfield said Georgius has demonstrated exceptional leadership qualities and a "keen vision of the company's future." Crutchfield said Georgius worked on the "front lines" as the bank gained strength and efficiency through mergers and acquisitions.

"He has been a catalyst for positive change," Crutchfield said.

Georgius worked through the Charlotte Chamber of Commerce to develop the chamber's education initiatives. Under his leadership, First Union adopted a corporate commitment to use corporate resources and employee talents to improve education throughout the bank's five-state operating region.

First Union has 821 banking offices in North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida and Tennessee as well as 278 non-banking offices in 36 states.

As of March 31 First Union reported assets of $39.1 billion.

New York City prepares for historic Mandela visit

CLIFFORD J. LEVY

United Press International

NEW YORK — New York Tuesday prepared to welcome Nelson Mandela as only the Big Apple can — with a ticker tape parade, a Yankee Stadium rally and a glitzy downtown bash.

The whirlwind schedule was so packed that organizers were worried about exhausting the 71-year-old African leader.

Mandela's three-day schedule in New York has been charted with military precision. From the moment he lands at Kennedy Airport early Wednesday morning and sets off by motorcade for a high school in Brooklyn's Bedford-Stuyvesant.

Organizers of the visit, who have been flooded with requests for appearances by the African

National Congress leader, have worked out a schedule that gives him an opportunity to meet with city leaders who had been coordinating the huge Yankee Stadium rally-bachelor's degrees, but are looking for a career in a better paying area or want to advance their careers by getting additional education.

"Many of our students are legal secretaries who would like to advance themselves," she noted.

She said the course consists of 64 college credits. For less than $2,000 one can receive an associates degree.

"The diploma we give can go a long way toward getting our graduates a good job," Poole said, explaining that many paralegals graduate from correspondence schools which offer nothing more than a certificate of completion to their graduates.

Though the program is a two-year course of study, the first graduate doubled up his course load and took additional classes at Valencia Community College to finish his work ahead of schedule. The rest of his class will graduate next summer.

Poole said she is "really pleased" with the program's growth during the first year.

She also said the program was serving an important purpose in the community for people who wanted to advance or change their career direction.

"We're helping a lot of people change their lives here," she said.

Geneva

detect leaks, also a state requirement.

Rabah said Alan officials first searched the interior of the tank then conducted a careful inspection for holes or cracks. They found none, Rabah said he was told.

After the tank was coated, Rabah said he had it filled with approximately 850 gallons of gasoline at about 10 a.m. Friday to test it for leaks as Alan officials directed him to do. When he checked the level of the tank at 9 to 10 a.m. Saturday morning, the "dip stick" came up dry.

Rabah said he immediately called county fire officials who responded within 15 minutes of his call. Fire officials found three of the monitoring wells located within five feet of the tank showed no contamination. But one well about three feet south of the tank, showed contamination at about 26 feet in depth, said Tim Clabaugh, county natural resources officer.

Rabah said Alan officials have told him they would replace the tank and pay for any cleanup of the site. Alan conducted a subsequent inspection of the tank and found a crack no wider than a hair at one end of the tank, Rabah said. They do not know how the crack was created.

To know what the leak may do to Geneva's drinking water supply, known as the "Geneva bubble," an understanding of Geneva's underground terrain is needed. Kevin Rohrer is a former St. Johns River Water Management District biologist who conducted an extensive study of the bubble in 1987 along with Trudy Phelps with the U.S. Geological Survey.

The study found the bubble, which is about 20 square miles in size, is completely surrounded and underlain with undrinkable saltwater. The bubble is replenished with rainwater, not underground water. So if the bubble becomes polluted it will remain undrinkable until the pollutant is removed or more rain dilutes it to safe levels, Rohrer said. One gallon of gasoline can render 100 million gallons of water unsafe to drink, he said.

"The (bubble) itself is a limited source of water," Rohrer said. "If you contaminate that, there's nothing else to replace it."

Rohrer, now a Sarasota County biologist, said the shallow groundwater table under Avenue C begins at about 25 feet below the ground surface — about the level gasoline was detected near to the tank.

A layer of clay mixed with shell begins at about 70 feet underground and extends another 50 feet deeper, Rohrer said. Below that level — at about 120 feet in depth — lies the layer of limestone containing the drinking water aquifer, Rohrer said though the layer of clay and shell separates the groundwater from the aquifer. It is not dense enough to deter or even slow gasoline from entering the aquifer from groundwater.

Once reaching the aquifer, the contamination would probably flow northwest from the site to the county garbage dump on Osceola Road, Rohrer said. He said he did not know how fast gasoline travels through groundwater or the aquifer. Additional tests would be required, Rohrer said.

By Tuesday afternoon, DER officials had not inspected the site, although county fire officials contacted them Monday. DER officials could not be reached Tuesday.

Rohrer said the usual way of removing contaminated groundwater is to bore several wells near the leaking tank until the boundary of the "plume" of contamination is found. Then wells are dug to literally suck all the polluted water out of the ground.

"Time is of the essence, you want to try to capture the plume before it spreads," Rohrer said.

When told DER had not responded by Tuesday afternoon, Rohrer paused and said, "Unless you're aware of how sensitive this area is, you may not put a high priority on it."

County commissioner Jennifer Kelley, whose district includes Geneva, said she made repeated calls to DER officials Monday to get assurance they would inspect the site this morning. Kelley said the county and DER have tanker trucks available to deliver potable water to areas if tests show any home wells become contaminated.

County commissioner Fred Streetman said he spoke with an environmental representative in Gov. Bob Martinez' office in Tallahassee in an effort to drive DER into action.

Perhaps you sent a lovely card.
Or sat quietly in a chair.
Perhaps you sent beautiful flowers.

If so, we saw them there.
Perhaps you sent or spoke kind words.

As any friend could say:
Perhaps you were not there at all.

Just thought of us that day.
Whatever you did to console the heart.

Grand jury indicts former FDA chief

BALTIMORE — An investigation into the generic drug industry will turn to the drug makers following the indictment of the former director of the Food and Drug Administration's generic drug division on perjury charges.

Federal prosecutors in the 2-year-old investigation said they expect indictments in the next year against drug manufacturers and their executives on charges of giving the FDA brand name drugs to test as generics.

The new phase of the investigation follows two federal grand jury indictments issued Tuesday naming Marvin Selfe, 66, now of San Antonio, Texas, who retired as director of the agency's generic drug division at the end of 1989.

Group recommends limits on billboards

NEW YORK — The Outdoor Advertising Association of America said today it has adopted a code of standards designed to limit advertising of such products as tobacco and alcohol that may not be sold to minors.

The policy recommends that billboards with those products be kept 500 feet from places of worship, schools and hospitals, and that there be voluntary limits on the number of such billboards in a given market.

The policy would include products such as tobacco, alcohol and even R-rated movies, said B. Roland McElroy, the association's president.

Flag amendment heads for House

WASHINGTON — Opponents openly began predicting the defeat of a constitutional amendment to protect the American flag as the measure headed for a possible vote this week and supporters considered delay tactics.

After six hours of arguing and two failed votes Tuesday, the House Judiciary Committee decided, 19-17, to send what could become the 27th Amendment to the Constitution to the House without any recommendation on its fate. Five Democrats joined 14 Republicans in supporting the amendment.

Chlamydia increases ectopic risk

BOSTON — Chlamydia, the most common sexually transmitted disease in the United States, could be contributing to an "epidemic" of a serious pregnancy complication in which the fetus begins developing outside the womb, researchers said.

A new study found 306 women who had ectopic pregnancies — in which their fertilized eggs started developing outside the womb — were more than twice as likely as 266 women who had normal pregnancies to have had a prior chlamydia infection.

WORLD BRIEFS

Gorbachev hints he may give up post

MOSCOW — Mikhail Gorbachev told conservative critics Wednesday that the Communist Party may have a new leader soon, an apparent hint he might quit his party leadership post at the Party Congress in July.

"I think that comrades are making very free with the general secretary and president of the country," Gorbachev said in an angry response to criticism on the second day of a conference of Russian communists that is dominated by conservatives.

"I am not talking about myself. Tomorrow maybe or in 10 or 12 days there could be a different general secretary or chairman of the party," he said.

The crucial 28th Soviet Communist Party Congress to decide the future of what was once the world's most monolithic ruling parties begins in 12 days on July 2.

Even if Gorbachev resigned as general secretary, he would maintain his position as president of the Soviet Union, a new and more powerful post created in March. Gorbachev does not face an election for at least four years.

Ilescu inaugurated Romanian president

BUCHAREST, Romania — Ion Ilescu was officially inaugurated today as president of Romania in a ceremony boycotted by the United States to protest the government's crackdown on opposition protesters last week.

Ilescu won the presidency with a 85 percent of the vote May 20 in Romania's first free elections in almost 50 years and his National Salvation Front, which assumed power after last December's bloody revolution, won 325 of the 494 seats in Parliament.

Survey: High-risk sex common among students

By KAREN KLINGER
UPI Science Writer

BOSTON — A study of more than 5,500 Canadian college freshmen found that most of them were sexually active but relatively few used condoms regularly.

Besides avoiding condoms, a "significant proportion" of the students engaged in risky sexual practices, such as multiple partners and anal intercourse, the study said.

As a result, the students appear to be at "high risk" for acquiring such sexually transmitted diseases as gonorrhea and chlamydia and at "substantial risk" of becoming infected with the AIDS virus, said Dr. Norm MacDonald, of the Children's Hospital of Eastern Ontario in Ottawa.

The survey of 2,248 men and 3,266 women at 45 community colleges and universities across Canada found that three-quarters of the men and nearly 70 percent of the women reported being sexually active. The students ranged in age from 18 to 24, with an average age of 19.7.

Of those sexually active, only 25 percent of the men and 16 percent of the women said they "always" used condoms, while 24 percent of the men and 30 percent of the women said they

Lake Mary historical group expands

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald staff writer

LAKE MARY — Chairman Robert A. Petre has called a meeting of the newly expanded Lake Mary Historical Commission June 25.

The main purpose of the meeting will be to allow the new members to have the opportunity to meet each other and learn more about the role of the commission, Petre said.

Eleven new members were appointed to the Historical Commission at the May 19 city commission meeting, joining the seven listed in the current membership. All are certified residents of the city. At that time, Petre said it was his intention to step down as chairman to allow the larger organization to seek new leadership.

"I don't necessarily think we should tackle that at this first meeting," Petre said. "Everyone should get to know each other first, then possibly designate a nominating committee for a new chairman and secretary." He said he plans to let the group decide what it wants to do. "Probably we can find a new slate of officers who could take over beginning with our July meeting and get the organization moving."

Other items on the meeting's agenda, according to Petre, include a discussion on the historical ramifications of the old city hall building, 158 North County Club Road, where the meeting will be held, and a discussion on collecting historical documents for the city. An attempt is being made by the city to obtain state money which would renovate the building, which Associate City Planner Mark Riggerton has called the "only historical building in Lake Mary still in public hands." The building was built during the 1920s and served for many years as the headquarters for the Lake Mary Chamber of Commerce. Presently it is the home of the Lake Mary Seniors and is used for other meetings including the twice monthly City Commission meetings.

The meeting at 158 N. County Club Road will begin at 7 p.m. and all new and old members as well as the general public are invited to attend.

Recluse sentenced in Daytona boy's murder

United Press International

DAYTONA BEACH — A 72-year-old recluse was sentenced to 11 years in prison for shooting to death an 11-year-old boy who had wandered from near the beach where she lived.

Fredericka Gibbons was charged with first-degree murder, but jurors last month convicted her of manslaughter.

During the trial her attorney argued she was insane, but she testified she was just confused and frightened. Gibbons said the victim, boy Karon, and another boy had wandered into the woods near where she lived in a car with eight dogs. She said she heard someone approaching and was afraid it was a boy who had threatened her before. Gibbons could have been sentenced to from three to 12 years in prison.

County starts third round of interviews

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Seminole County commissioners have begun the third leg of their interred search for a new county manager.

Tuesday a divided commission agreed to interview a candidate they had met earlier this month and possibly two others being screened by the county's executive search firm, MSN Inc. of Atlanta June 29. Two previous candidates have turned down offers by commissioners.

Timing was the point of difference Tuesday as commissioners split over whether to hire someone now during the county's budget review process or to wait until the process is completed in September. Fred Strechman and Bob Sturm were in favor of hiring John Lawrence, the city administrator at Dunedin, as soon as possible, saying he could learn about the county's budget process by seeing it in action.

But commissioners Pat Warren and Jennifer Kelley said they should wait until August so that the new manager could start in September after the process was completed. They said many qualified candidates may not want a new job now because they are in their own budget review.

Commission chairman Sandra Glenn became the swing vote and first sought a compromise to interviewing Lawrence again, again, Glenn said, although she was impressed with him, she was concerned Lawrence had only managed management experience in a small city. Dunedin has a population of about 36,000. Seminole County has about 281,000 residents.

Strechman and Sturm agreed to interview Lawrence again, but Warren and Kelley said if they interviewed him again, they also wanted to meet any new candidates recommended by MSN. County Employee Relations Director German Romero said MSN may have two candidates to offer later this week.

Glenn then compromised and agreed to interview Lawrence and the two candidates and commissioners agreed.

Bush supports big science at NASA rally

United Press International

WASHINGTON — With plenty of expensive projects in the works, President Bush was out to defend his commitment to big science. At the rally, against a backdrop of anti-science to the President and a gathering of huge budget deficits.

Lawrence is one of Southern companies steps Bush arranged to visit at the Marshall Space Flight Center in Huntsville, Ala. He said NASA's budget is being cut, and he wants to see how the federal government can help.

The trip will be the first of a series of 15 public trips in Alabama and North Carolina, where the administration and the state are the backbone of manufacturing. Bush said he will be in the state for a week.

At the rally, Bush said he will support the White House's plan to cut the federal budget by $100 billion over the next five years. He said he will support the plan to cut the federal budget by $100 billion over the next five years.

Two things are going on. When you have a big budget deficit, you have to cut the federal budget by $100 billion over the next five years.

At the rally, Bush said he will support the plan to cut the federal budget by $100 billion over the next five years.

IN BRIEF

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Sox rookie clips Jays

Despite a shortage of major-league experience, Boston Red Sox pitcher Dana Kiecker credits his time down on the farm with building his confident attitude.

The 29-year-old rookie, who has had a minor league career dating back to 1983, showed that attitude Tuesday night in Boston's 4-2 win over the Toronto Blue Jays.

The right-hander scattered three singles over 8 1-3 innings and gave up just a pair of unearned runs.

Elsewhere in the American League, Cleveland scalped Baltimore 5-4, Detroit edged Oakland 7-6, California topped Chicago 5-3, Texas shaded Minnesota 5-4, Kansas City clipped Seattle 2-1 and New York downed Milwaukee 5-1.

BASKETBALL

Heat to play in Puerto Rico

MIAMI — The Miami Heat will open its 1990 preseason in Ponce, Puerto Rico, Oct. 12 against the Sacramento Kings, the club announced Tuesday.

It will be the first time an NBA game has been played in the Caribbean and the initial appearance for the Heat outside the continental United States, said Lewis Schaffel, Heat managing general partner.

The eight-game schedule a7s in Boca Raton Oct. 14 and two games in the Miami Arena, one against the Los Angeles Clippers Oct. 16 and another against the Orlando Magic Oct. 26.

The other games include two games in the Expansion Bowl I at Charlotte, N.C., which also includes Minnesota, the Magic and the Charlotte Hornets. The Heat plays New Jersey at Syracuse Oct. 23 and at Orlando Oct. 27.

Patriots release Sims

FOXBORO, Mass. — The New England Patriots released Kenneth Sims Tuesday, two weeks after his arrest on cocaine possession charges, but said the veteran defensive end was dropped because he was out of shape, not because of his legal problems.

"For reasons unknown to us, Kenneth Sims has allowed his physical condition to deteriorate to an unacceptable level, and therefore we are releasing him," said Patriots General Manager Patrick Sullivan.

Sims was stopped by police for speeding in Austin, Texas, on June 3 and was charged with possessing a small amount of cocaine. Police said two-tenths of a gram of the drug wrapped in a piece of paper fell out of his wallet when he was stopped.

WORLD CUP

Americans bow out with loss

ROME — The United States bid "arrivederci" to the World Cup Tuesday, leaving Austria to wait before saying "auf wiedersehen".

The Americans capped their first World Cup appearance in 40 years with a rugged 2-1 loss to Austria in Florence. The U.S. team goes home 0-3 for the tournament but turned in a reputable performance after an opening 5-1 rout by Czechoslovakia.

Austria, meanwhile, still has faint hopes of advancing to the second round despite having only these two points after the first round.

In other World Cup matches Tuesday, Italy defeated Czechoslovakia 2-0 to win the Group A title, while Colombia and West Germany tied 1-1 and Yugoslavia beat the United Arab Emirates 4-1 to close out Group D.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Boskie steals Owen's spotlight

On a night when Spike Owen established a National League record, Shawn Boskie was just trying to establish himself.

Owen played in his 61st consecutive game without committing an error, breaking the record set by Kevin Elster of the Mets in 1988, but it was Boskie, the Chicago Cubs' rookie pitcher, who stole the spotlight Tuesday night in a 2-1 victory over the Montreal Expos at Olympic Stadium.

Boskie, 23, scattered five hits over 6 2-3 innings, walked one and struck out four.

Elsewhere in the National League Tuesday, Cincinnati split a double header with Atlanta, winning the opener 4-2, dropping the second 3-0. New York blanked St. Louis 6-0, Philadelphia edged Pittsburgh 2-1 in 10 innings, Los Angeles downed Houston 5-1 and San Diego topped San Francisco 4-3.

Pee Wees, Majors honored

Banquet caps banner year

By DEAN SMITH
Herald sports writer

SANFORD — The Sanford Recreation Department welcomed 650 people to its awards banquet honoring the Pee Wee and Little Major Baseball Leagues at the renovated Sanford Civic Center Tuesday night.

The huge turnout didn't surprise Rocky Ellingsworth, Special Events Supervisor for the Recreation Department.

"This is the coup de grace," said Rocky Ellingsworth, supervisor of special events for the Recreation Department. "The season was a success and tonight proved it. Player and parent participation was up this year, which is what we were looking for when the season began."

"This many people showing up for this event doesn't surprise me. What shocked me was that about this many people showed up for every game this season. This is great."

Among the dignitaries at the banquet were Mayor Betty Smith, City Commissioners A. A. McClanahan and Whitey Eckstein, Athletics Supervisor for the City Jeff Monson and Recreation Superintendent Mike Kirby.

The festivities started with Mayor Smith leading the crowd in the Pledge of Allegiance and Seminole High football coach Emory Blake giving the invocation. Ellingsworth then called the coaches and players from each Pee Wee team to the stage, where they were presented with trophies.

Next to the stage were the Little Majors who were announced by team and given certificates of participation. The Disabled American Veterans Royals and Coach Otis Raines then received their trophies for winning the American Division.

Tribe's Moore signs with SCC

From staff reports

SANFORD — Robert Moore, one of the best athletes in Seminole High School history, has signed a scholarship to play basketball for Coach Bill Payne and the Seminole Community College Raiders next year.

"It's great to sign an athlete as good as Robert," said Payne. "We've been watching him for the past four or five years and hoped we would get a chance to sign him. There's no telling how good he can be when he concentrates on just one sport."

Moore excelled in three sports for Seminole High last season, competing in football, basketball and track.

He played tight end and linebacker on the regional champion football team that finished with an 8-4 record; won the triple jump and finished second in the shot put for the Class 3A state champion track team; and finished in the top 10 at the state decathlon.

In basketball, Moore used his jumping ability and quickness to average 22.8 points and 12 rebounds per game for the team that went 21-7 and tied for the Seminole Athletic Conference championship with Lake Mary. Robert earned all-tournament honors at the Oviedo Christmas Classic at SCC over Christmas.

"I figured if I put more time in on the basketball floor, I could get a lot better," said Moore. "Also, a lot of my high school teachers said they would like to be able to watch me play in college. So I thought about the support I would get from the local people and it made my decision much easier."

Moore chose SCC over Miami-Dade Community College, South campus and Riverside Community College of California, which has one of the best junior college track programs in the country.

"I think he's happy to be at Seminole," said Seminole High coach Greg Robinson. "He told me last week he wanted to go to Seminole and play basketball, but he didn't know much about the other schools. I'm happy he's going to be around and I know he will be well taken care of there."

Payne expects Moore to play forward for SCC.

"He will be facing the basket this season," said Payne. "Because of circumstances, he was forced to play center in high school which didn't allow him to take full advantage of his athletic ability. We expect big contributions from Robert over the next two years."

Adcock overcomes obstacles

By TONY DeBORMIER
Herald Sports Editor

LAKE MARY — Every coach has to deal with different obstacles as they arise. For the coaches leading the county's high school summer baseball teams, the main obstacle is having to share players with other youth leagues.

On Tuesday night, for example, Lake Mary coach Allen Tuttle had 10 players to use in a game against Adcock Roofing (Seminole High School's summer team). A couple players are out with injuries but several others were pulling double duty with some of the county's Little League teams.

"I told the guys that if they had something else important to do, go do it," said Tuttle, refusing to use the thin roster as an excuse for his team's 7-2 loss to Adcock.

"The way I look at it, it gives those players who do come a chance to play and gain some experience. That's the point of playing in the summer, let the kids learn."

Adcock coach Mike Powers echoed Tuttle's sentiments, noting that one of his players was playing Pony League ball on Tuesday night and three more will be absent this weekend to play in the state Colt All-Star tournament in Tampa.

In fact, the three who will be in Tampa this weekend were in-

Orr goes wire to wire for Late Model victory

Special to the Herald

NEW SMYRNA BEACH — On Saturday night at New Smyrna Speedway, Pete Orr scored his second FASCAR-sanctioned Late Model feature of the weekend as he led all the way from the pole position.

Jim Crowe came out on top of a tough three-way battle for the runner-up spot. Rounding out the top five were Pete Starr, Joe Middleton and Grumpy Tatro, who currently stands in fourth place in the season-long point chase.

Ricky Marshall won the Sportsman feature.

ORLANDO — Pete Orr overcame a wall-banging incident in the heat race and came back to win his ninth Late Model feature of the season Friday night in FASCAR-sanctioned stock car racing action on Friday night at Orlando SpeedWorld.

Looking strong early in the race, Ed Meridith led easily until a caution period put Orr side by side with him for the double-file restart. Once the green flew, Orr was off on the point for good while Meridith had a back window full of LeRoy Porter.

At the checkers, it was Orr by a wide margin at the wheel of David Russell's Fountain Auto Mall/Q-96 Radio/T.J.'s Pub/G and P Racing Oldsmobile. Runner-up Meridith managed to hold off Porter, who survived a heat-race crash and two bumping incidents in the feature. Veteran Jim Crowe was fourth over Wayne Anderson in one of Tom Stimus' Late Models.

The 30-lap "A" Bomber Special was a cake walk for Melbourne's Donnie Narmore. After setting fast time, the talented second-generation driver, who is having a stellar season, avoided a couple of early-race crashes and cruised to victory in his Jim Rathman Chevrolet sponsored Monte Carlo.

Rick Johns came from the rear of the field to take second place over Paul Colgan, Dave Savicki and Jimmy Johns. The race, paying $500 to win instead of the regular $175, was co-sponsored by Melbourne Radiators, Tom's Auto Repairs and Sue's Wrangler Restaurant.

For the Marshall clan, the 15-lap Sportsman main event was least and tame.

Oviedo, playing as the visitor, scored two runs in the top of the first inning. Trinity Prep scored once in the bottom of the first before Oviedo put together another five-run rally in the top of the second.

Trinity Prep cut into the lead with a three-run outburst in the bottom of the second but Oviedo scored once in the fourth and again in the fifth to pull away.

Alkire tripled, singled scored two runs and dove in three more for Oviedo in the nightcap while Chris Huff singled twice and had an RBI. Calapa added a triple while Rufus Boykin chipped in with two runs scored.

In the fifth inning, Gracey led off with a single and scored an out later on a double by Chumet. Gracey also scored Adeock's seventh run, reaching base after he was hit by a pitch and scoring on Demetry Beaumont's two-out single.

Both of Lake Mary's runs came off Jon Eltonhead in the bottom of the seventh inning. Neil James led off with a single and went to second when Mike Merthle reached on an error. An out later, Chris Jackson singled to load the bases. Pinch-hitter Steve Reyes then hit a two-run double.

Gracey was 2 for 2 to lead the Adeock attack, scoring three runs while Clinger scored twice. For Lake Mary, James and Jackson both had two singles.

Adeock Roofing now 10-6, plays at Lyman this evening in a 7 p.m. contest. Lake Mary, 5-3, will play at Lyman on Thursday night at 7 p.m.

Thermocarbon, Ensley Inc. stay out in front

Front staff reports

SANFORD — Both Thermocarbon and Ensley Inc. won their games on Tuesday night to keep in ahead of the pack in Sanford Recreation Department Women's Softball League play at Chase Park.

Undeclared Thermocarbon pushed its record to 7-0 with a 17-4 blowout of In Home Medical while second-place Ensley kept pace with a 16-3 win over the Honey Beers. In Tuesday's nightcap, Seko Air Freight rallied past Harcar 12-8.

Following Thermocarbon in the standings are Ensley (5-2), Seko (4-3), In Home Medical (3-1), Harcar (2-5) and the Honey Beers (1-6).

Ensley built a 3-1 lead after two innings in the first game of the evening, then exploded for six runs in the top of the third to take complete control of the game.

Bobbie Osborne ripped a pair of home runs to pace Ensley. Val Wilks added a triple, two singles and two runs scored while Kristi Kirkpatrick had three doubles and a run scored.

Other contributors included Kelly Rumble (three runs scored, two singles), Rena Tillman (two singles, two runs scored), Latrice Turner (single, double, run scored), Tiffany Jones (two singles, one run scored), Andrea Ruffin (single, two runs scored), Carey Dryden (single, run scored) and Rita Frison (run scored).

For the Honey Beers, Jodi Doyle hit a two-run home run and a single. Robin Martin singled and doubled. Sandy Manning and Gretchen Walked both singled and Kelly Gault and Luame Munhollen each scored a run.

Every starter scored at least one run in Thermocarbon's 17-4 romp. Betty Divens homered and scored two runs and Theresa Walburger hit a home run to power the onslaught. Kim Eltonhead singled, doubled and scored two runs while Sharon Paulk tripled and scored two runs.

Also chipping in were Michelle Widener and Sandy Adams (each with a double and two runs scored), Mimi Raub (single, two runs scored), Jackie Suggs (triple, run scored), Sue Sojka (two runs scored) and Rhonda Gorman (single, run scored). For In-Home Medical, which scored all four of its runs in the top of the fourth, Marisal Pomaes singled and scored a run. Liz Taggart doubled and Lisa Bishop, Rita Clifton, Yvonne Simms and Bobbie Gresham each scored a run.

Finally, in the nightcap, Seko scored four runs in the bottom of the sixth to break an 8-8 tie and win 12-8 before the game was stopped by the time limit.

Bobbie Mosley doubled twice, tripled and scored three runs to lead Seko, which also got contributions from Denise Levinson and Sally Foust (each with a double and two runs scored), Janet Morris (two runs scored) and Faye Kennedy, Sandy Reid and Sue McRae (one run scored each).

Rosa Williams paced the Harcar attack with a three-run home run in the fourth inning. Debra Boyer and Teresa Finck both doubled and scored a run. Pat Black singled and scored a run. Belinda Anderson scored twice and Sharon Glass and LeeAnn Arnold each scored once.

stole second. Eddie Pita reached on an error that moved Seidenfaden to third. Richardson went into run for Pita and Mike Lyons singled to score Seidenfaden and move Richardson to third.

With Todd Herrbach at the plate, Richardson broke for home on a squeeze attempt but the pitch sailed over everyone and Richardson scored the winning run.

In the other game played Tuesday, the Altamonte Springs Indians eliminated Windermere to set up an elimination game with Daytona on Wednesday. The game will be played at Altamonte Springs and will start at 7 p.m.

The winner of the Indians/Daytona game will face the Dodgers at Rolling Hills Thursday night. Game time is set for 7 p.m. If the Dodgers should lose Thursday, the two teams will square off in a winner-take-all game Friday.

Winning pitcher Tim Ruckdelschel overcame a rough start to hold Daytona scoreless over the last three innings to give his offense a chance to pull out the victory.

Daytona scored two runs in the top of the first inning but the Dodgers answered with five runs in the bottom of the first. Daytona came back with a run in the third and three in the fourth to take the lead which it held until the fateful seventh.

Providing the offense for the Dodgers were Scott Johnston (2 for 4, double, RBI), Seidenfaden (2 for 4, two runs scored, RBI), Herrbach (1 for 3, double), Jimmy Ruddy (1 for 3, two RBI), Lyons (1 for 3, run scored, RBI), Matt Hegglund (1 for 3) and Pita (1 for 4, run scored, RBI).

Leading the Daytona attack was David Sipes, who went 3 for 4 with a triple.

Banquet

before the Rinker Materials Dodgers and Coach Mike Watson received their City Championship and National Division trophies.

Raines accepted the American Division Championship trophy for Commander Wheeler of D.A.V. and Ken Rinaldi, accepting in the absence of Watson who is in California, took possession of the National Division and City Championship trophies for Les Owens of Rinker Materials.

Ellingsworth then recalled the coaches to the stand where each was presented with a plaque.

Representing the Little Majors were Ricky Boyd (Sunbank Orioles), Jason Bender (First Federal of Seminole Cardinals), Steve Laurence (Railroaders Cubs), James Littles (Seminole Ford Red Sox), Ronnie Sippio (Sunland Pirates), Dave Bennet and Al Anderson (First Union A's), Otis Raines (D.A.V. Royals) and Ken Rinaldi, for Mike Watson, (Rinker Dodgers).

The final presentation of the night went to White Eckstein, who accepted a plaque/photo of him throwing out the first ball of the season earlier this season.

After the awards the players, coaches, families and City representatives were treated to a covered dish dinner, with the meat course and drinks provided by the Recreation Department and Sanford Parents Association.

After dinner Ellingsworth thanked Dianne Taylor, Otis Raines and Gary Taylor of the Parents Association and Robert Robinson, Lisa Jones and Rebbie Hillary of the Recreation Department for their help in setting up the banquet.

Steve Laurence, this year's Little Major All Star coach, summed up the evening by commenting, "This is unbelievable. I never expected this many people to show up for the banquet. This is great."

instrumental in Adeock's win. Pitcher Jeremy Chumet threw five shutout innings, allowing only six hits, while shortstop Scott Ferguson and second baseman David Eckstein were in the middle of four double plays.

"Our defense looked good," said Powers. "We did a nice job hitting and out pitchers did well. We played a good game."

Taking advantage of three Lake Mary errors, Adeock jumped out to 4-0 lead in the top of the first inning. David Eckstein, Harvey Clinger, Anthony Roberts and W.L. Gracey each scored runs while Clinger and Ricky Eckstein each had an RBI.

They added a run in the top of the second as Clinger walked before Roberts and Gracey hit consecutive singles. Clinger scoring on Gracey's hit.

Baseball

Oviedo, playing as the visitor, scored two runs in the top of the first inning. Trinity Prep scored once in the bottom of the first before Oviedo put together another five-run rally in the top of the second.

Trinity Prep cut into the lead with a three-run outburst in the bottom of the second but Oviedo scored once in the fourth and again in the fifth to pull away.

Alkire tripled, singled scored two runs and dove in three more for Oviedo in the nightcap while Chris Huff singled twice and had an RBI. Calapa added a triple while Rufus Boykin chipped in with two runs scored.

Chef with Italian flair shares secret recipes

By JOAN KING
Herald correspondent

SANFORD — Peter Rudez, our Cook of the Week, is a newcomer to Sanford. He, his wife and three children immigrated from Yugoslavia on the Italian border to Sanford eight months ago.

Rudez learned to prize a recipe when he was a very young lad in his native land. A family friend from Italy gave him a recipe for pizza.

Rudez says, "I always kept the recipe a secret because I said to myself, someday I can use it. Now, I use it. People ask me to reveal the ingredients, but I don't want to do that."

Rudez owns and operates Amella's in the Wal-Mart Plaza. He purchased the restaurant eight months ago from a man who owned two Amella's at that time. A stipulation in the contract demands that Rudez change the name of the restaurant within one year. Presently, he is in the process of a name change to Sergio's.

Rudez' concern is that the people of Sanford will continue to frequent his establishment after the name change.

He explains, "I'm here day and night. I work very hard trying to make everybody happy. If anyone ever has a complaint, all they have to do is to see me, I'll make it right."

Rudez has four people working with him during the week and five on weekends.

On a typical night he might cook 40 gallons of meat sauce that will serve his clientele for two days.

From his homemade sauces to the pizza dough, everything is made fresh right on the premises with the very best of ingredients. Rudez proudly states,

"When Rudez learned to cook, he made salads, worked up to sauces, then entrees, until he reached the level of perfection known as professional. He became a chef through hard work and diligence peppered with professional instruction."

Rudez' pizza recipe remains a secret but he does share a couple of excellent entrees and a salad.

ANTIPASTO

- Lettuce, torn by hand
- Tomato wedges
- Green peppers sliced
- Mushrooms sliced
- Broccoli and cauliflower tips
- Carrots sliced thinly
- Black olives sliced or whole
- Capicola
- Boiled ham
- Genoa salami
- Provolone cheese

The cold cuts may be cut into bite-size pieces or left as whole slices arranged in the center of a platter with the veggies surrounding the deli meat and cheese or it may be all mixed together with an Italian dressing.

Italian Dressing

- 1/2 cup olive oil
- 1/2 cup red wine vinegar
- Salt and pepper to taste
- Oregano
- Grated cheese
- Garlic powder

Pour into a jar and shake it well. Pour over salad.

LABAGNE

- 3 lbs. wide lasagna noodles
- 1 qt. Ricotta cheese
- 7 to 8 eggs
- Parsley, about a handful
- 5 lbs. ground beef

Herald Photo by Joan King

Peter Rudez cleans up after cooking.

- 1/2 lb. grated cheese
- 1/2 gallon home-made tomato sauce
- Salt and pepper

Mix ground beef with eggs and spices. Add cheese and mix well. Brown meat mixture, heat sauce and mix together. Carefully place each noodle in a large pot of boiling water. Try not to break the noodles. Drain carefully. When all of the noodles are cooked, place each one side by side on the bottom of a good-sized baking pan in a pool of sauce. Top with meat sauce then Ricotta on top of the sauce. Build layers with noodles, sauce and Ricotta until the baking pan is full.

Note: If you plan to make lasagna then you might as well make plenty. It freezes well in the baking pan. Be sure to cover it and wrap it well before freezing. Bake or reheat at 300° until brown on top. Before serving sprinkle with grated cheese.

VEAL SCALLOPINI

- Veal slices, cutlet size, one per person
- Garlic cloves minced or sliced
- Oil
- Butter
- Mushrooms
- Green peppers sliced
- Sherry wine
- Large spoonful home-made tomato sauce
- Beef au jus, for flavor
- Flour
- Dip veal slices in flour, fry; saute veggies in oil and butter. Mix all together with sauce and serve with pasta.

Citizens stand up and cheer for community spirit award

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for telling your 90 million readers I'm September about the Midland Community Spirit Award, created to honor annually a community that best represents the American ideal of a community pulling together and helping one another. Also, thank you for joining us at the White House last November to honor the citizens of Sioux City, Iowa, who won the award for their compassionate assistance to the passengers and crew of United Flight 232 after it crashed into an Iowa cornfield.

Among the 88 communities nominated last year were many inspiring stories of community spirit. As one of the judges said, "It was difficult to select a winner, since through their efforts, all were winners." For example:

— When a building collapsed in Brownsville, Texas, citizens worked shoulder to shoulder for more than 60 hours, relentlessly clearing rubble to find those who died and rescuing trapped survivors.

— When a train derailed near Saen and Glasgow, Montana, the citizens of these two small towns graciously fed, clothed and cared for the waylaid passengers.

— When a blizzard halted traffic late one afternoon, members of the Valley View Methodist Church in North Texas walked from car to car inviting hundreds of stranded motorists to spend the night in their church. And townspeople brought whatever they had in their freezers to feed all of them.

— When Colonial Beach, Va. (population 2,500) needed to replace the old school built in 1912, the community raised half a million dollars to build a new school through bingo, bake sales and penny campaigns.

We are now seeking nominations for the Midland Community Spirit Award to be presented in October 1990. We have asked President Bush to make the presentation again at a White House ceremony.

Abby, won't you please ask proud citizens to nominate their communities now? Thank you for your help.

CARROL M. THOMAS,
MAYOR, MIDLAND, TEXAS
DEAR MAYOR THOMAS:

Here's your letter.
READERS: The deadline for nominations is Sept. 1, 1990. For a nomination form, write to Midland Community Spirit Award, P.O. Box 1152, Midland, Texas 79702-1152, or phone (915) 685-7436. I am sure there are many communities whose citizens rose to the occasion this past year when tragedy struck.

COUPLE OF FOXES

DEAR ABBY: Here is a suggestion for all of you dear people out there who want to give a gift to your priest, minister or rabbi. Please do not give him or her a Bible. We have all the Bibles we need in Hebrew, Greek, English, German, French, Spanish, etc.

Instead, give us a pair of tickets to some kind of entertainment, movie, play or a sporting event — something we can't afford to do on our own very often.

This is in no way insulting to the Lord; it is just a practical suggestion.

Help find best pet

During June, Adopt-a-Cat month, the Sanford Herald will be searching for pet stories from our grade school and middle school-aged readers.

We need you to write us a letter about you and your pet to be reviewed by our panel of judges. Tell us how you adopted your pet, what your pet means to you, and include any anecdotes about you and your pet. Your pet does not have to be a cat to qualify.

Judging will be based on sincerity and clarity.

You must live in Seminole County to enter. We will select one winner from grade school and one winner from middle school. We will be running a different contest for high school students in the near future.

Letters should be typed or printed legibly. Include your name, your pet's name, street address, city and daytime phone number at the top of your letter.

Deliver or mail to "Love a Pet Contest," Sanford Herald, 300 N. French Ave., Sanford, 32771.

There is no maximum length limit on letters.

Entries are due at the Herald office by 1 p.m. Friday, June 29.

The two winners will be featured with their pets in an upcoming edition of the Herald.

Treating chronic lung infection

DEAR DR. GOTT: Can you provide information on bronchiectasis? I've been bothered for years with coughing and phlegm, and feel I probably have been given every antibiotic imaginable. What would you recommend?

DEAR READER: Bronchiectasis is a form of localized, chronic lung infection, often associated with emphysema and chronic bronchitis, that causes increased sputum, cough, wheezing and — sometimes — hemoptysis (blood in the sputum).

Specialists are not sure why bronchiectasis develops in some patients and not in others. It is more common after severe pneumonia, inhalation of injurious material (such as silica) and bronchial obstruction. It is frequently a complication of cystic fibrosis (a chronic, inherited lung condition marked by thick mucus and a susceptibility to lung infection).

Bronchiectasis causes portions of the bronchial passages to stretch and dilate. The bronchial tubes are normally shaped like straight pipes, much like a car's exhaust system; bronchiectasis alters this shape: The muffler (bronchiectasis) bulges between two pipes of uniform diameter (bronchial tubes).

Early bronchiectasis causes no symptoms. More advanced forms produce the symptoms I mentioned above. Severe degrees are associated with respiratory insufficiency, heart failure and significant scarring of pulmonary tissue. The diagnosis is usually made by a bronchogram, a type of special lung X-ray.

Doctors seek to improve breathing and eradicate underlying infection. For example, most patients are aided by breathing exercises, antibiotics, avoidance of air pollution and discontinuation of smoking. Postural drainage, during which a patient leans head down over the side of the bed several times a day, improves breathing by riding the lungs of mucus. In cases of repeated bleeding or resistant infection, the segment of bronchiectasis may have to be surgically removed.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Living With Chronic Lung Disease." Other readers who would like a copy

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

If you wonder why North did not consider bidding a grand slam, the reason had to do with bidding logic. If South held good intermediate cards in diamonds and clubs, along with his known 6-4 distribution, he would have first rebid two clubs. But when he rebid his diamonds and later bid three clubs, he showed a minimum hand with 6-4 shape. This deal comes from the Canadian Invitational Pairs held last spring in Toronto. Although most North-South pairs reached six diamonds, not many succeeded. One of the winning declarers was Ralph Cohen. Here is his line of play. He won dummy's heart ace and cashed A-K of spades, pitching a heart. Next came the club king, followed by a low heart, ruffed. The king coming up was good news. He cashed the club ace and ruffed a club, then took the diamond king. When the heart queen came next, East had unpleasant choices. He could ruff and see his natural diamond trick disappear, or discard and have declarer get rid of his losing club. Either way the slam came home. What if the heart king had not fallen? Declarer would still have made two little trump tricks by ruffing hearts. He would still have cashed the king of diamonds in dummy. So he would make the slam whenever diamonds divided 3-2, or whenever the length in diamonds was to his right. In that scenario he would cash his diamond ace. When West showed out, he could get off lead with the club jack and wait to take the last two tricks with the Q-9 of trumps.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bede Osol
YOUR BIRTHDAY
June 21, 1990

Interesting times and conditions are in the offing for you in the year ahead. This can be a very rewarding cycle for you, provided you keep the key areas of your life in harmony and balance.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If you are pursuing an important objective today, there is no place in the procedure for being timid. Use bold strokes where bold measures are required. Cancer, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $1.25 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) What you say today will be remembered and carry a lot of weight with your friends. Fortunately, most of your suggestions and ideas are likely to be positive and constructive.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) By doing for others today there is much you can gain for yourself in the process. You won't come out on the short end, even if you have to devote considerable time to someone else's needs.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your greatest asset today is your ability to bring out the best in persons with whom you'll be involved. This will be operative in more than one partnership arrangement.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) This could be an opportune day to change a condition that has not been working to your advantage when your career is concerned. Do what needs doing to improve matters.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) A blending of enthusiasm, sincerity and warmth endows you with a charisma today that others will find appealing. Your presence will be welcomed in any circle.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You have an inner strength and resolve today that may be lacking in your peers or associates. What is insurmountable to them won't be that arduous for you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Today when you share time with a wise friend try to do more listening than talking. This person has your best interest at heart and might try to tell you something that could prove helpful socially.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) A friend may share an idea with you today that you'll know how to turn into something profitable. If any gains are made be equally as willing to share.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Try to free yourself from involvements today that hamper your mobility and independence. This can be a very fulfilling day for you, provided you can call your own shots.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Pay heed to your hunches today, especially those that pertain to ways to make or save you money. This is one of those unique times when you can do better than usual in both areas.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Friends will look out for your interests today if you show a willingness to look out for theirs. Try to do that which is not only good for yourself, but, for pals as well.

Delight in summer vegetables

This time of the year is a cook's delight with fruits and vegetables abundant, all at their peak of flavor.

The microwave is ideal to precook vegetable casseroles and blanch vegetables for freezer preparation. The frozen products also heat well in the microwave. Plan to serve the fresh vegetables now and freeze some for later. You'll appreciate the convenience of having side dishes and casseroles on hand.

EGGPLANT MOUSSAKA

2 medium eggplants (about 1 1/2 oz. each)

- 1 Tbsp. salt
- 1 lb. ground beef
- 1/2 C. chopped onion
- 1/2 C. chopped green pepper
- 1 can tomato paste
- 1 tsp. salt
- 1/4 tsp. garlic powder
- 1 C. (4 oz.) shredded Mozzarella cheese

Peel and slice eggplant. Place slices in paper towel-lined bowl, sprinkling each layer with salt. Let stand 1/2-hour. Rinse eggplant well; drain. Layer in a 10 x 6-inch glass baking dish. Cover with wax paper. M/W on 100% power 10-12 minutes or until tender. Let stand covered.

Crumble ground beef into 2-qt. casserole; add onion and green pepper. M/W on 100% power, uncovered, 5-6 minutes or until meat is no longer pink, stirring once; drain. Add tomato paste, 1 tsp. salt and garlic powder.

Drain eggplant and layer half the slices in another 10 x 6 or

MICROWAVE MAGIC
MIDGE MYCOFF

8-inch square dish. Spoon half of meat mixture into each baking dish; toss gently with eggplant. To freeze half, wrap tightly and freeze up to 6 months.

To cook: Sprinkle with half of the cheese and parsley. Cover with plastic wrap. M/W on 100% power 8-10 minutes or until heated through.

VEGETABLE SAUTE

- 4 green onions, sliced
- 2 medium tomatoes, coarsely chopped
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 1 tsp. salt
- 1 tsp. cornstarch
- 1 tsp. basil leaves
- 1 tsp. fresh parsley
- 1/8 tsp. pepper
- 3 C. chopped zucchini (2 small)

Combine green onions, tomatoes, garlic, salt, cornstarch, basil, parsley and pepper in 1-qt. casserole; mix well. Stir in zucchini. Cover with casserole lid. M/W on 100% power, 5-6 minutes or until tender, stirring once.

ZUCCHINI BOATS

- 4 small zucchini squash
- 1 Tbsp. chopped onion

sliced thinly

- 3 1/2 ounces onion, diced
- Salt
- 2 teaspoons wine vinegar
- 6 teaspoons olive oil
- Pepper

Wash potatoes and cook 30 minutes in their skins in medium saucepan; rinse in cold water. Hard-cook eggs. Rinse spinach leaves thoroughly and use only most tender shoots and leaves. Trim off stems and tear leaves into medium-sized pieces. Peel and cut eggs and potatoes into rounds in large bowl. Add spinach, Gruyere and onion.

In small bowl, dissolve salt in vinegar and add oil and pepper. Whisk until blended. Pour vinaigrette over salad just before serving. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 4 servings.

NAVY STYLE LIVER AND ONIONS

- 1/4 to 1/2 lb. liver per person
- Salt
- Pepper
- Garlic powder
- 1/2 cup flour for dusting
- 1 lg. onion sliced
- Peanut oil

Devein liver and cut into finger lengths. Dredge in flour. Lightly salt and pepper liver and sprinkle garlic powder on both sides of liver fingers. Brown in hot skillet with peanut oil. Turn quickly. Remove immediately. Cook less than two minutes.

Make gravy with pan drippings adding more flour to oil, about two tablespoons, fry until golden brown. Add water until the gravy is a little thinner than regular gravy consistency. Add liver back into skillet and gravy. Slice onion on top of liver. Cover, bake at 350° for 20 to 35 minutes. Check it frequently until onions are tender. It may be covered with aluminum foil. Seal edges and punch a steam hole in the top.

SHARON'S POTATO SALAD

- 10 pounds white potatoes, peeled, dice into nickel size
- While potatoes boil prepare:
- 1/2 qt. mayonnaise in a large bowl
- 1 dozen hard-boiled eggs, grated
- 1 cup pickle relish
- 1 Tbsp. salt
- 2 Tbsp. prepared mustard
- 1 lg. onion chopped
- 1 stalk celery diced, optional
- 1/2 tsp. black pepper

Lightly mix all of the above. As soon as the potatoes are tender, drain, add immediately to mixture. Mix quickly and cover while all still hot. Crack the lid to allow steam to escape. Serve hot or cold.

Abundant vegetables

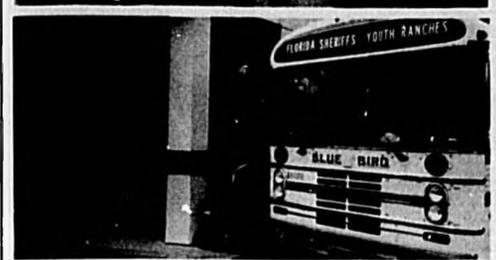

- 1/2 C. shredded Monterey Jack cheese
- 1/4 C. mayonnaise
- 2 Tbsp. dry bread crumbs
- 1/2 tsp. tarragon leaves
- 1/4 tsp. salt
- Dash of pepper
- 1 medium tomato, chopped
- Fresh parsley, optional

Wash squash; trim ends. Arrange in microwave oven in circle like the spokes of a wheel. M/W on 100% power, uncovered, 4 1/2-5 minutes or until hot, rearranging once. Let stand 5 minutes. Cut in half lengthwise. Scoop out insides into 2-cup glass measure, leaving 1/4-inch shell. Chop scooped-out zucchini. Invert shells and set aside. Add onion to zucchini pieces in cup. M/W on 100% power, uncovered, 4-5 minutes or until tender, stirring once. Drain if necessary. Mix in cheese, mayonnaise, bread crumbs, tarragon, salt and pepper. Add tomato; mix lightly.

Arrange shells, cut-side-up, on microwave-safe serving plate.

Spoon filling into shells, mounding slightly. M/W on 100% power, uncovered, 2 1/2-3 minutes or until hot. Garnish with parsley.

Camp time

Top: Louis Elkins, 10, Buddy Lindstrom, 11, and Joey Snyder, 11, get ready to board the bus with fellow campers, aged 10-15. They are headed for 10 days of fun at the Florida Sheriff's Youth Ranch Summer camp in Barberville, where they will be exposed to a wholesome environment and camping opportunity which they would not otherwise be able to experience. Bottom: Campers wait to board the Blue Bird Special, heading for camp on June 13.

The right wine makes dinner sparkle

Phillippe Court has a job that is the envy of those who take their wine seriously. As assistant managing director of the house of Champagne Taittinger in Reims, France, he travels the world promoting champagne.

Although price increases and the anti-alcohol movement have lowered the demand for wine in America, worldwide the demand is increasing.

Court is optimistic about wine sales in the United States, because he believes that a good wine consumer understands the risks of drinking too much. "Prohibition has never been successful," he says.

He also believes that those who can afford to travel, specifically those in the 40- to 60-year-old range, will expand their interest in fine wines. "Younger people begin with less expensive wines, perhaps from California or Spain, but often this consumer starts with a sparkling (wine) and eventually will come to champagne," Court says.

The relationship between the wine and champagne consumer and the producer is quite unique. In both France and the United States, there are many vineyards that wine lovers can visit and meet the owner.

Court explains that for years experts recommended eating light food, such as fish, with sparkling wines. Now people drink it with just about everything. Court believes that it's easier to drink champagne throughout the meal, because mixing wines can be tiring for guests. Champagne leaves your palate clean, he says. He admits, though, that at Taittinger, they offer a red wine such as Bordeaux with meats and fat cheeses.

Like several other French champagne houses, Taittinger is now producing champagne from vineyards in California. The first non-vintage release of Domain Carneros by Taittinger will be out this fall and will sell for $15 to $17 a bottle.

And, what does one do when presented a bottle of champagne? Drink it, don't store it unless you have a fine cellar, Court advises. Champagne is aged and ready to drink when it is released.

Here are some recipes for summer dining that go particularly well with champagne. Court and his wife and son also enjoy sautéed chicken with tarragon, fruitcake and a unique Provencal basil soup made with fresh vegetables, vermicelli and potatoes.

RATATOUILLE NICOISE

- 1 (2 pound) eggplant
- Salt
- 4 1/2 pounds tomatoes, diced
- 8 1/2 ounces (about 1 cup) olive oil, divided
- 2 to 4 cloves garlic, crushed
- 2 sprigs fresh thyme
- 1 bay leaf
- Pepper
- 4 sprigs parsley
- 1 pound green peppers
- 2 pounds zucchini, cut in rounds
- 2 pounds onion, minced
- Peel eggplant and cut into rounds. Sprinkle with salt and let sit in bowl for 30 minutes.

Peel, seed and dice tomatoes. Simmer in large frypan over low flame with 2 ounces olive oil, crushed garlic, thyme, bay leaf, pepper and parsley until just slightly thickened. Stir occasionally.

Roast peppers over gas flame or in broiler about 10 minutes, until skin can be peeled off easily. Remove skin and seeds; cut into thin strips. Cook for 30 minutes in small frying pan with 2 ounces olive oil.

Rinse eggplant and cook in 2 ounces olive oil for 15 to 20 minutes. Mince onions and saute in small frypan in remaining oil, about 5 minutes. Remove and discard bay leaf. Mix all cooked ingredients together in large bowl. Serve hot. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 6 to 8 servings.

GRILLED GOAT CHEESE ROUNDS

- 4 small half-dry rounds of chevre (goat cheese)
- 2 to 3 ounces dry white wine
- 4 large grape leaves
- Grate the crust of the cheese and rub cheese with wine. Lightly pepper rounds and wrap each tightly in a grape leaf. Grill over medium-hot coals until grape leaves begin to char slightly, turning constantly. Remove grape leaves and serve cheese hot. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 4 servings.

SPINACH SALAD WITH GRUYERE

- 4 medium red potatoes
- 2 eggs
- 10 1/2 ounces fresh spinach
- 5 ounces Gruyere cheese,
