

ANOTHER BIG DRIVE FOR WAR SAVING STAMPS TO BE MADE IN SEPTEMBER

FLORIDA IS FAR FROM ITS QUOTA MUST RALLY TO CALL

Another intensive period for the sale of War Savings Stamps has been determined on at a conference of all the county chairmen in Florida held last Monday at Jacksonville. The drive for the taking of pledges and making of actual sales of stamps will begin on Monday, Sept. 16 and continue through Saturday, Sept. 15th. The quota assigned to Seminole county has not yet been raised. In fact, there is only one county in the state that has succeeded in raising its quota and that is Dade county. This county has about $40,831.18 and the War Savings organization here is already laying plans to see this county discharge its full obligation in this instance, as it has done in all other calls made by the government during these critical times.

A new feature of this campaign will be the delegation of authority to every person in the county to constitute himself or herself into a committee to spread the propaganda of thrift and savings and to encourage every individual in the county to purchase at once or pledge to purchase during the remainder of this year War Savings Stamps to the limit of his ability. While the quota assigned to this county is only Twenty Dollars per capita, there are a large number who are absolutely not able to purchase Twenty Dollars' worth of any kind of securities, which will make it necessary for those who are able to purchase a sufficient amount to help out the weak brothers.

It is pointed out by the state director for the Florida War Savings Committee that the people of the United States and of Florida must come to the final realization that if America is to win this war we must sacrifice—and keep sacrificing. That is, we must either go without things we do not absolutely need; that we must curtail the enjoyment of our luxuries and cut down very sharply in the purchase of necessities, for no country can successfully prosecute a war unless the armies at the front receive the united backing and support of the army of non-combatants at home.

The national government, when it inaugurated the plan of War Savings believed every man, woman and child in the United States could save and end to the government Twenty Dollars during the year. As a theoretical proposition there is no reason to change this view of the national administration, but it is an actual fact that in many counties in the state of Florida less than One Dollar per capita has been loaned to the government, although, the citizens have been importuned most earnestly during the last eight months.

War Savings as a means of contributing or lending to the government is the first example of democracy. It is in marked contrast with the methods employed in autocratic governments, where the people are commanded to give their money and if they do not give it it is taken from them. It is just this form of government and means of raising funds that the United States wishes to avoid and if it can be brought sufficiently to the minds and hearts of the American people it will never be necessary to revert to autocratic methods.

The War Savings campaign in no wise is designed to effect or detract from the necessity of purchasing Liberty Bonds. War Savings is a short term loan, carrying a liberal rate of interest, with a provision that in the event the purchaser needs his money before maturity it will be returned to him by the government. This attractive feature was incorporated in this form of loan for the benefit of those not able to purchase Liberty Bonds and leaving their money in the hands of the government for a period of twenty years. It is important, however, that people who purchase Liberty Bonds also purchase War Savings Stamps, thereby creating the habit of small investments systematically and in such measure that it will not embarrass them and, at the same time will stop actual competition with the government in the purchase of non-essentials.

Another new feature to be introduced in the September campaign will be the pledging of citizens generally to substitute War Savings Stamps for any other small present they may intend to give during Christmas. The giving of War Savings Stamps will not only encourage the recipient to begin to save and accumulate, but will help the government at a time when there is a competition for labor and material which the government so vitally needs.

MAN-POWER INCREASED

Places of Men to be Filled by Energetic Women

Florida is about to see a great change in many of its mercantile establishments as well as in the stands. From now on the government expects every man to do his duty in the War Work and they do not expect any man of military age to hold a position which a woman can hold during the duration of the war. For this reason, Robert Gamble, Florida Director U. S. Public Service Reserve is notifying the various people through the state such as office buildings department stores and other large institutions to replace their man-labor as quickly as possible with women labor. Elevators in the large office buildings of Jacksonville are now being manned by girls. As you enter some of the restaurants you will be greeted by a smiling girl waitress and very shortly every job of that nature will be held by the fair sex.

The call for labor is so great that the State Advisory Labor Board representing the U. S. Department of Labor are about to issue an order making it necessary for every restaurant and hotel to release their man labor and for every public chauffeur, yard man, butler and men in this class of work to immediately secure positions in War Work.

Mr. Gamble in talking this situation over states that the new draft law will be in effect within a very few weeks anyway and that the business men might as well prepare now for the change that is coming. The government quota of unskilled labor which they expect to take from this state during the months of August and September was estimated at 2520 but a wire just received by Mr. Gamble increases this amount.

The "Work or Fight" order is being enforced and the government inspectors are now starting to take Mr. Slack and Mr. Looper and send him to the front and putting him where he can do his family and the government some good.

Citizens of this vicinity who know of able bodied men who are not working between the ages of 18 and 55 will confer a favor not only to their city their state but their government and should report the names of these parties by the first mail to Mr. Robert Gamble, Florida Director U. S. Public Service Reserve Chamber of Commerce Building Jacksonville Fla. and he assures them that the matter will be given prompt attention.

Death of L. Allen Sr.
L. Allen Sr. died at the home of his son L. Allen in this city Wednesday night after a short illness. Mr. Allen was 83 years of age at the time of his death and on account of his advanced age his death was not entirely unexpected. He was a native of North Carolina but had been a resident of this state for many years.

The funeral was held in Bartow yesterday under the auspices of the Bartow Lodge of Masons interment being made in Polk Lake cemetery near Bartow.

Mrs. Eunice D. Smith and little daughter Virginia of Augusta are in the city, the guests of Mrs. Smith's mother, Mrs. Douglas on Third Street.

FLETCHER WILL AID FARMERS

WANTS CHANGE MADE IN THE INCOME TAXES

Senator Fletcher recently had up with Internal Revenue Commissioner Roper who called upon the conference his board of review the question of the basis of assessment against farmers in various portions of Florida. The most serious complaints filed with the Commissioner were from potato growers in St. Johns county by reason of large earnings last year and the falling off this year. Senator Fletcher contended for a rate of not exceeding 8 per cent on the income of farmers but it was held that the law would not permit that. As construed the law fixes the assessment on the basis of capital invested which would make the tax ordinarily about 50 per cent of the income and would practically confiscate the property of many. Senator Fletcher then contended that under Section 210 of the law if applied to farmers the tax would be from 15 to 20 per cent of the income and he urged that such application of Section 210 should be made.

The commissioner and his board of review are now considering the Florida cases and it is hoped will finally rule in favor of the position taken by Senator Fletcher who in addition to presenting an oral argument has prepared and submitted an elaborate written argument in support of his contention in favor of a liberal construction of the law in favor of farmers. He will insist when the new revenue act comes up for consideration a change of the basis of assessment as now applied to farmers and will insist that any tax on income derived from agricultural pursuit should be on a more equitable basis.

QUART A MONTH NO LAW

Supreme Court Declares It To Be Unconstitutional

Tallahassee, Aug. 13.—The supreme court today declared unconstitutional certain features of chapter 7284 of the acts of 1917, popularly known as the "quart a month" liquor law.

The question came before the court in the habeas corpus proceeding of ex-parte James Francis from Dade county. The opinion of the supreme court is by Justice Taylor, concurred in by Chief Justice Browne and Justice Ellis.

A dissenting opinion was filed by Justice Whitfield which is concurred in by Justice West.

The prevailing opinion declares unconstitutional the feature of the law undertaking to prohibit under penalties the possession or ownership by any citizen in "dry" counties or territory during any period of thirty days or more than one quart of spirituous or vinous liquors and six quarts of malt liquors—for personal use or otherwise, while it permits citizens in "wet" counties or territory to possess and own as much liquor of all kinds as they see fit; also the provision of the law prohibiting under penalties the receipt in "dry" territory in any carrier, public or private, of any such liquors exceeding such limited amount during any period of thirty days and the provision prohibiting the carriage by any citizen personally into "dry" territory during such period, of liquors exceeding the limited amount whether for his personal use or otherwise; also the provision for the summary seizure, confiscation and destruction of any such liquors found in the possession of any one in "dry" territory exceeding the prescribed limited amount whether possessed or owned for personal use or otherwise.

Lewis Smith brought to the Georgia office two stalks of Texas Seed-Ed Ribbon cane one 10 feet 10 in. the other 8 ft. 4 in. The shorter one is the average of his-acre of it at Bridge Hammock. Mr. Smith finds it a very profitable crop the leaves making good fodder and the grain, good chicken feed besides the syrup produced.—Syt. Mary's Georgian.

NEW DRAFT APPROVED IN SENATE

COMMITTEE ON MILITARY RULINGS VOTES FAVORABLY

Washington, Aug. 15.—The senate military committee today voted to report favorably at once the administration manpower bill extending draft ages from 18 to 45 years, but with an amendment by Sen. Reed of Missouri, to have the government provide two years' education free for all boys under 21 years old, to be given after the war.

Sen. Chamberlain announced that the bill will be reported Thursday and that if a quorum is present in response to the requests for senators to return at once, the unanimous consent agreement under which the senate recessed until Aug. 24 will be set aside and consideration of the measure taken up next Monday.

To Educate Youthful Soldiers

The Reed amendment affects both army and navy volunteers and those who have been drafted. Under its provisions, upon application, the youths would be given an education at the expense of the government at approved educational institutions, the period of such education being equivalent in point of time to the period he served in the army or navy, but shall not exceed two years.

"Application for such educational privileges," the amendment provides "shall be made within six months after discharge and the applicant shall begin his studies promptly after his application shall have been approved. Rules and regulations for carrying out these provisions shall be promulgated by the President."

Another amendment offered by Sen. Reed and accepted by the committee provides that orders granting deferred classification or exemption from military service for industrial reasons that be revoked when the man to whom the classification has been given, ceases to work at such occupation on which physically able to do so.

Still another amendment offered by the Missouri senator would permit soldiers and sailors, regardless of age, who are other volunteers or have been drafted, to receive commissions. They also would be made eligible for admission to officers' schools.

Red Davis Night Editor

The Charleston News and Courier in a recent issue has the following in regard to Red Davis who was formerly a member of the Times-Union staff and later made a reputation writing sports for the Sanford Herald and other papers throughout the state.

Red Davis a former Florida newspaper man and now a sailor in Uncle Sam's service has been named night editor of Ashport and Ashore and will be in charge of the new gathering organization of this paper.

The appointment of Mr. Davis to this position is a part of a plan providing for an enlargement of the editorial staff of the service men's publication made necessary by an increase in its size of the paper, and completion of an arrangement whereby the Ashport and Ashore management will conduct a section in the News and Courier daily and Sunday.

Afloat and Ashore is published for men and officers in United States service and on duty in the Charleston district under the auspices of the National War Work Council Army and Navy Y. M. C. A. and is strictly a non-commercial service rendered by the Y. M. C. A. under authority of the President of the United States and with the approval of the secretary of war and the secretary of the navy.—Times-Union.

Last week D. Rowe and associates drove to Jacksonville a herd of sixty-one beef cattle from Baker county. One of these beeves weighed 1010 pounds and while the others were not so large they were in fine condition and netted the owners a handsome profit.—Macclenny Standard.

GERMAN DRAW ARMY BACK FROM DANGER AFRAID OF ALLIED BLOW

NEW ALIGNMENTS WILL BE MADE AT ONCE BY THE HUNS

Washington, Aug. 16.—A new drive against the German positions either in Flanders or between the Oise and Soissons is expected by many army officers here as a result of the slowing up of the advance in the Picardy theater.

Outlining the situation at his mid-week conference with newspaper men today General March chief of staff confined his statements to pointing out that the Germans are now being forced back until they are not within fifty miles of Paris at any point. The head of the army has previously laid stress on the fact, however that the greatest advantage won by General Foch in a military way is in having wrested the initiative from the enemy.

The opinion prevails among other officers that the present struggle around Roye and Lassigny would soon terminate in the capture of these points to be followed by the taking of Noyon. They agree with the commentators abroad that all signs indicate the enemy intends to withdraw and is fighting fierce rearguard actions only to cover his retirement and to permit him to prepare strong lines in his rear on which to stand fast.

In the course of his discussion General March said General Pershing now has 1,250,000 American troops organized into the First army corps. Presumably the Americans on the British left flank in Picardy identified by the chief of staff as the 131st Infantry of the 33rd Illinois National Guard division are among those still brigaded for training.

It appeared possible to some officers the organization of the First American army might be followed by an all-American attack at some point on the line which it holds beyond Verdun where there has been no recent fighting. No reports official or unofficial have been received however throwing any light on General Pershing's plans or the part assigned to him by Marshal Foch in the present offensive campaign.

The primary purpose of the two blows Marshal Foch has struck has been realized. Both in the Aisne-Marne battle and again in Picardy the attacks were defensive measures to free Paris from the menace of two wedges the enemy had driven in that direction. The value of the drives in this respect was pointed out by General March today.

Officers here therefore anticipate a complete change in the character of the fighting in the next phase of the battle with Foch's armies assuming the offensive in the fullest sense of the word and striking to force the enemy back in such manner that he cannot avail himself of his old Hindenburg line defenses.

Allied success in Picardy apparently has compelled the Germans to realign their positions between Albert and Arras. The enemy troops have begun a retirement on a five-mile front but complete details of the movement are lacking.

Between the Aisne and the Oise the fighting is still confined to local actions at various points. The French have improved their positions slightly north of the Somme northwest of Roye south of Lassigny and north of the Oise.

Enemy troops have shown no disposition to counter-attack elsewhere and have confined their retaliatory efforts to artillery bombardments.

The extent of the German withdrawal north of Albert is not yet clearly defined and its effect on the situation as a whole is problematical. Field Marshal Haig announces the enemy has left his forward positions at Baumont, Hamel, Sorre, Puisieux, Au Mont and Bourequey.

These are in the Hesbeterne sector where the Germans were stopped in their offensive of March 21. Many vain efforts were made by the Germans to reach the heights around Hebuterne as their positions in this sector were dominated by the British guns.

Should the German lines be moved back any great depth the line south of Albert and thence to the Somme would be affected. Likewise the line northward to the Scarpe might have to be readjusted. It is not unlikely that the retirement here in similar purpose to the recent withdrawal in the Lys salient and part of a German plan to get into as strong positions as possible from Ypres to Rheims.

Australian troops have improved their positions between Brays and Etinehem on the outskirts of Brays one of the main bastions of the Germans to the southeast.

In the region of Purvillers northeast of Roye the British have made progress toward the Chaulnes-Roye road. Lassigny still holds out the French however continue their pressure and are about a mile south of the town. The Germans counter-attacked repeatedly in the hills and woods of the plateau region here.

Six miles north of Noyon the French have occupied Ribecourt. The town itself is on the lowland but the French also hold the heights to the west and northwest which were part of the defensive system for Arscamp forest east of the Oise and Thiescourt south of Lassigny.

While the French have not broken the Chaulnes-Roye-Lassigny line it is far from safe and a break through anywhere would nullify its importance.

Four weeks ago today the French and Americans took the offensive on the western side of the Marne salient and a week ago the French and British hit the lines east and south of Amiens. In four weeks the allies have reclaimed nearly 1,800 square miles of territory. Improved their positions to the detriment of the enemy freed the important railways running east and west from Paris an rung east and west from Paris and unofficially captured 73,000 prisoners and 1,700 guns. These are the physical gains—the future holds the others.

Many army officers in Washington expect that a new drive shortly will be made against the enemy. Flanders or the area between the Oise and Soissons are believed to be the most likely fields of action.

Along the Vesle the French and Americans are being subjected to bombardments from German airmen as well as from the enemy guns. There has been no infantry action. In Lorraine American patrols have brought back prisoners from the enemy trenches.

Allied airmen Tuesday put out of action 43 German machines 21 of which were destroyed. Attacks on railway stations airdromes ammunition dumps and other military targets continue without a let-up. American aviators also have bombed railroad stations in the area between Verdun and Metz.

Premier Lenine and Foreign Minister Trotzky were reported several days ago to have gone to Kronstadt because of unsettled conditions in Moscow.

AMUSEMENT

MY FOUR YEARS IN GERMANY

The Big Feature Film Made From Ambassador Gerard's

Although without doubt Germany knows America through its policy on intrigue and spying, it knows little of Americans as is proven by the entire mistaken policy of Germany with a nation that strove to keep its neutrality until its patience was entirely exhausted.

When you see in the feature photo play production of Ambassador Gerard's "My Four Years in Germany" the representative of Kultur in the person of the kaiser as he shook his finger under the nose of our Ambassador with the expressed warning that he would stand no nonsense from America after the war, you will better understand the reasons for America's present position in the world conflict.

The insolent treatment of our Ambassador by the kaiser, theoretically tantamount to the latter's shaking finger in the face of our President and of our nation with which he was not even then at war, is only one of the long series of incidents which are only appreciated at their true value when seen in sequence as they have been seen by the Ambassador himself.

"My Four Years in Germany" is a big dramatic production that will give Americans a better understanding of the most important page in world history.

It will be shown at the Star Theatre soon.

"Scandal"

In her new Select picture, "Scandal" which is scheduled for showing at the Star Theatre Thursday Constance Talmadge portrays the character of a high spirited society girl, spoiled and capricious, with the depths of her real womanliness untried. The story has been written for the screen from Cosmos Hamilton's fascinating novel of the same name, and is filled with amusing complications and tense action.

Beatrice Vanderdyke, child of rich parents among the socially select is pronounced one of the most successful debutantes of the season. She is spoiled to her heart's content and insists on her own way with the royal arrogance of a young queen. Left much to her own devices by a father and mother too busy to inquire into her ways, she has only the adoring Mrs. Keane, her chaperone to guide her. Mrs. Keane is a charming English woman, too foolishly fond of Beatrice to curb her headstrong impulses and the girl is allowed to do pretty much what she pleases.

Beatrice becomes interested in Sutherland Yorke, whose portraits of society women bring him in a comfortable income, and more enamored of his wicked reputation than of himself, enters into a flirtation. She recklessly visits his studio at night, but at Yorke's first mis-step leaves him in icy anger. Her visits to the artist's apartment become known to the family who determine to send her west out of harm's way. In order to avert the sentence of exile, Beatrice, on the spur of the moment declares herself secretly married to Pelham Franklin, a wealthy young eligible of her set, whose apartment is directly across the corridor from Yorke's, and explains that she was in Franklin's rooms, not Yorke's.

The family is delighted with the news, for Beatrice has been somewhat of a problem, and hasten to welcome Franklin into the fold. She reaches him first and implores him to play the game which he does, inwaded, angered, however, at the deception. Franklin is more or less the cave-man type and he determines to give Beatrice the scare of her life. He accompanies her to her room, and refuses to leave declaring that she has brought his presence on herself. The balance can best be appreciated by seeing the picture.

Theda Bara in "The Rose of Blood"
Lovers of motion pictures which interest and enthrall will welcome the glad news that Theda Bara is about to appear at the Star Theatre in her newest William Fox production, "The Rose of Blood."

Miss Bara portrays a Russian heroine. But Lisza Tapaenka is different from every other leading lady of Slavonic origin. She is a Russian who fights, made of the same stuff which has formed the brave Legion of Death.

Lisza allies herself with a band of revolutionists who are seeking the freedom of the Empire. She is successful in assassinating several persons whose acts of oppression have made the lot of the people more miserable. She signifies the completion of her deeds by dropping a blood-colored rose on the body of each victim.

Finally, her band demand the death of her own husband. He is the prime minister, and his hand bears more heavily than that of any other. She had married him in her younger days, before he rose to so prominent a place.

Fighting between her love for him and her desire to free the downtrodden people, Lisza finally succumbs to the right. She blows up a building which houses the Premier and all of his cabinet.

She has struck the first real blow for freedom! But she has left herself alone in the world.

The story of this gripping picture was written by Richard Ordynski, stage director of the Metropolitan Opera House in New York. Mr. Ordynski, who himself acts the role of the leading revolutionist in the film, was born in Poland and lived there for many years. He personally supervised the details of the production and insured the accuracy of every setting and incident.

The picture will play at the Star Theatre for Monday.

"Dodging a Million" is Nest of Surprises

If ever there was a play shown on the screen that contained more thrilling mystery than Mabel Normand's first Goldwyn starring vehicle, "Dodging a Million," the authors, Edgar Selwyn and A. M. Kennedy would like to know it.

"Dodging a Million," which is to be shown at the Star Friday has neither murders nor detectives to create suspense; but by a clever unfolding of a novel plot the interest is kept at high tension to the very end.

Everything is handled from the viewpoint of the heroine, Arahella Flynn, who is a humble dresser in a fashionable modiste shop. The spectator shares her wonder at the mysterious things that happen to her, beginning with the appearance of a strange young man who asks her the names of her mother, father, grandmother and grandfather and then hurries off and learns the complete facts only as fast as they are explained to her.

Events come thick and fast. An expressman delivers three trunks to her, numbered consecutively, and a letter containing a check for $500 and instructions to open the trunks one at a time on consecutive days. The first trunk contains beautiful clothes of the Civil War period; the second is filled with jewels, and the third holds bottles of a curious poison that brings death painlessly and instantaneously in three hours after taking.

To complicate matters a mysterious, but always polite, Spaniard with unlimited funds, suddenly appears near her and guides her in the purchase of more clothes and jewels and otherwise helps her to live the life of a veritable princess.

Probably in all the screen career of Mabel Normand she has not had a part that has been as cleverly adapted to her charming personality, or that exhibits in succession the many phases of her histrionic ability. "Dodging a Million" is not the adaptation of a stage play, but was especially written by Edgar Selwyn, the celebrated dramatist and author of "Nearly Married," in collaboration with A. M. Kennedy, to meet the requirements of the little stage.

VITAGRAPH'S NEW SERIAL

Stars Bill Duncan and "Fighting Trail" Heroes

"A Fight for Millions," Vitagraphs newest and greatest adventure serial at the Star Theatre. The serial starts off with a rush and with a thrill in every scene. The amazing plot is quickly and clearly developed and the various characters placed, especially the villains who waste no time in getting busy to the keen delight of the audience. The serial is directed by William Duncan, who, of course is the fighting and unbeatable hero, this alone being a gilt-edged guarantee that the serial will break all records for swift action and sensations. Albert E. Smith, president of Vitagraph and Cyrus Townsend Brady, the widely read author of fiction, wrote "A Fight for Millions" and are frank to say they surpassed the high mark they established in their previous efforts, "Vengeance— and the Woman" and "The Woman in the Web."

Much of the action of "A Fight for Millions" is laid in the great northwest and besides bad men, cowboys, Indians and other types without which no serial would be worth while, Messrs. Smith and Brady have introduced that famous body known the world over, The Royal Mounted Police, those fearless, hardy guardians of wild regions who never miss a man they go after, though the chase circle the globe. Mr. Duncan and his company passed most of last winter in the big woods far from civilization and the photography throughout is said to be a revelation in rugged beauty.

The story is that of a young girl's fight for her birthright and a great fortune. She is pursued relentlessly by two men who seek only her riches and defended by two other men who strive only for her love.

"A Man's Story," Says Bill Duncan

"A regular he-man's story," is the enthusiastic summing up by William Duncan of "A Fight for Millions," Vitagraph's latest adventure serial, the first episode of which will be shown in the Star Theatre on Tuesday. Mr. Duncan, the "Sandal of the Screen," ought to know. He directed the serial and played the fighting hero, as he did in "The Fighting Trail" and in "Vengeance and the Woman," and he says "A Fight for Millions" has them both beaten for swift action and thrills and rugged romance. Mr. Duncan has his favorite which included many of the favorite players in the other serials, in the big woods most of last winter photographing interiors and some wonderful results were obtained, especially of snow scenes.

Thanks Board of Trade

The good work of the Sanford Board of Trade in collecting data about the St. Johns river will bear fruit some of these days and the engineer corps thanks the Board of Trade in the following letter from Capt. Messenger who was entertained here a few weeks ago in company with Capt. Poland. Following is the letter:

601 G Street NW.
Washington, Aug. 3, 1918.

The Sanford Board of Trade, Sanford, Florida.

Gentlemen: Captain Poland and I want to thank you for the data you sent us which has been of considerable service to us in preparing our report; in fact, we have incorporated all of the figures and statements you were good enough to forward, and we recall most pleasantly our visit to Florida.

Yours very truly,
W. R. Messenger,

Pickled Fish Recipe

I have been asked for the recipe for pickling fish, and for many who go to the coast this summer this recipe just received from Washington will be timely. It is by Mr. Frantz P. Lund, specialist in canning and drying, U. S. Dept. of Agriculture.

Riley M. Fletcher Berry,
Emerg. Home Dem. Agt.

Spiced Fish

Herring is especially used for the making of spiced fish, but trout, mackerel and other fish can also be prepared this way. It is very important that they are absolutely fresh. The tail catch is preferable.

The recipe calls for 80 herring. If trout or mackerel is used they should not be larger than from 10 to 12 inches long. If larger fish use not as many for the same amount of ingredients, and the fish after scaling and wiping with a coarse cloth should be gashed with a knife through the thick parts of the fish in order to let the spices penetrate better. Pack closely with back down in a crock or wooden vessel, sprinkling with one pound of dairy salt; cover with a board and weight down. Let stand for 12 hours. Remove and scrape clean. Pack as before in clean vessel and pour over the fish two quarts of vinegar mixed with two quarts of water. Let stand for twenty-four hours, remove and drain well.

Mix two pounds of best Liver salt, one half pound sugar, one half ounce best hop (Spanish hop preferred) 20 bay leaves and the following amounts of coarsely ground spices: 4-5 ounce cloves, 4-5 ounce allspice, 13-4 ounce pepper and one-half ounce saltpeter.

Pack closely again in clean vessel with back down and with the above mixture sprinkled under, between and over them. Cover and weigh down.

If the brine which forms evaporates, the fish must be covered with a not too heavy brine, made by boiling salt and sugar in water. Let cool, skim if necessary and pour over fish when used.

When the fish have been packed for 10 days, they can be used. They can generally be kept for months if stored in a cool place. When using the fish, soak in cold water if too salty. This spiced fish can be used in any recipe in place of anchovies.

Before serving, split, clean and wash and roll together. Serve with a thick puree of tomatoes over them and sprinkle with finely chopped parsley.

The Catholic parish has seventeen stars in its Service Flag, representing boys from the parish and members of the Knights of Columbus. The Knights of Columbus of Sanford are to help in collecting the $50,000,000 voted by the Supreme Council for work amongst all the soldiers in camp and overseas regardless of creed.

Two large silos have been finished on the Reolds Farms Company's big farm at Oldsmar. Each of them is twelve feet in diameter and thirty-six feet high, and together they hold 189 tons of ensilage. The big corn crop at Oldsmar has been cut to fill these silos, and on the former corn fields there is now a big crop of rice, which is the third crop on the same land so far this season.

"Calvin Platt shipped seventy-three head of steers Monday that brought him a price above the average of Florida range cattle," says the Melbourne Times. "The steers were selected from a large herd, and were estimated to weigh on an average 625 pounds each, and it is understood that the price received was about $45 a head." According to the Times, the new owner of these steers, by putting them on good pasture for a few months and finishing up on corn, will get $100 each for them and this makes some folks wonder why the steers weren't finished up in Florida. There seems to be too much difference between the Florida price and the estimated value after being kept in Tennessee where they were shipped for a few months.

According to the Gadsden County Times published at Quincy, the tobacco crop of the county will be valued at $4,000,000 this year. This is a splendid figure, and will well repay the growers. The Times says that about two thirds of the crop has been gathered and delivered to local packers, who bought it in the fields some months ago. The prices paid are better than ever before, and the losses from hail, bad weather and insect pests have been less than usual. Gadsden county tobacco growers are all delighted with the success of the year and ready to start in again as soon as the time arrives for beginning a new crop.

"Work on enlarging and improving the quarters for the DeLand library will begin soon, under the direction of Architect Miller," says the DeLand News. The paper tells that considerable more space will be secured by the proposed addition, and that the place will be made comfortable and attractive in appearance.

WHAT CAN WE DO?

Red Cross Work in German Prison Camps

Germany now has 27 prison camps where American soldiers captured in battle are held.

The American Red Cross has accurate information about these camps and with the aid of the Swiss Red Cross keeps our soldiers and sailors supplied with nourishing food, new clothing, soap and other necessities.

At the beginning of June there were about 800 men in uniform in German prison camps. The American troops have captured considerably more than 1,000 Germans, so the score is more than even in that respect.

In Bern, Switzerland, the American Red Cross has a great warehouse from which is sent to each American prisoner in Germany 20 pounds of food every week. Our government pays for this food and equipment and the Red Cross sees that it reaches the men.

Already there are enough supplies in the Red Cross warehouse at Bern to take care of 22,000 American prisoners—if the Germans can take that number!

While they were in the schools they could be reached more easily but organization work among the children has gone so far that the chapters are still closely in touch with them and benefiting vastly by their help.

At present many chapters are asking the junior members to help get out some rush orders for knitted articles, comfort bags and hospital supplies. They are doing this in preference to their regular junior work.

Any Junior Red Cross member who has lost contact with the Red Cross organization since school closed should go to the local chapter headquarters and offer his or her services.

Of course, any child not now a member of the Junior Red Cross will be cordially welcomed by the Red Cross chapters and given an opportunity to enroll.

In Central division—Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa and Nebraska—there are about 2,000,000 members of the Junior Red Cross. Manifestly this group of workers is a big factor in the Red Cross organization.

The Junior members are members of 15,000 auxiliaries to the 508 Red Cross chapters. Virtually every school is an auxiliary.

Red Cross Pig Clubs. The Red Cross Pig club of Carroll county, Mo., was organized last fall with practically the entire population of the county constituting the membership.

O. F. Turner, the agricultural county agent, asked 2,500 persons to raise one pig each, to be known as the Red Cross pig. Although the county has only 1,000 registered voters, 3,000 persons answered the call. A few days ago the department of agriculture announced that 3,000 porkers represent the output of the club.

Handkerchiefs.

If the handkerchiefs are yellow, the reason is that they have not been properly washed. To overcome this yellow color put the handkerchiefs in cold water, in which there is kerosene, about one teaspoonful to a quart, and a shaving of good laundry soap. Let the handkerchiefs boil in this about three hours. Take them out, dry in the sun, and they will be snowy white. This treatment will apply to any linen or white clothing.

War Romance in the Stars. Almost overhead in the early evening are some faint stars, constituting the constellation Coma Berenices, or "Berenice's Hair." It commemorates Queen Berenice, wife of Ptolemy III, who offered her hair, to Venus to secure his safe return from war. The queen's hair was sacrificed, but disappeared from the temple. Hence the legend that her golden locks had turned into a constellation.

Best Way to Water Plants. A French botanist, who has experimented with vegetable raising, has determined the exact amount of water necessary for the best growth of various plants. In general, he found that a supply of water administered uninterruptedly drop by drop brought better results than even systematic drenching.

HOME TOWN HELPS

STRAIGHT ROWS PROVE BEST

Give Most Attractive Appearance to Garden, and in the End Also Save Much Labor.

If the garden is made in straight rows and in beds of uniform size and shape it will not only present a more attractive appearance, thus adding to the gardener's pride in his work, but it will be much easier to cultivate. This latter fact is an important item for consideration, as the average city resident has not too much time in which to cultivate his garden and the work must be done if results are to be obtained. Frequent plowing, as much work as possible with the hoe, and extermination of every weed that shows its head above the ground—all these are necessary if the garden is to produce to the limit of its capacity.

To insure that the rows will be perfectly straight all that is necessary is a length of strong cord sufficient to reach from end to end of the garden's longest dimension. At each end of the cord fasten a stout stake about two feet long and sharpened at one end so the stakes may easily be thrust into the soil.

In city and town gardens, where the space is restricted, it is best to have the rows run the long way of the garden—north to south if possible—planting several kinds of similarly grown vegetables, like green onions, carrots, radishes, etc., in the same row.

If you plant such crops as beets, radishes and onions in-beds these can be made four to six inches high by digging narrow paths around the beds with a hoe and throwing the soil upon the beds.

When the drainage of the garden is not good it is well to grow cabbage, cauliflower and similar crops on small ridges thrown up with spade or hoe. Other crops, among them early peas and celery, should be planted in shallow trenches scooped out with a hoe. When these plants grow the soil is gradually worked back around the roots.

Since hoeing must start early and sometimes when the soil becomes caked above the planted seeds it is necessary to break it, a few quick-growing radish seeds planted with other sorts will quickly spring up and show where the rows are.

BUILDING PLAN WORTH WHILE

Neighborhood Always Best Where Proper Attention Is Paid to That Highly Important Detail.

The average city allotment is spoiled because little or no attention is paid to architectural merit by the realtor. This is true because of the lack of appreciation of good lines in the formation of a building plan and its details of elevation. The attention can and will be saved when it is an appreciated fact that the employment of architectural ability raises the standard without increasing the cost, thus giving to the investor an asset which is dependable and sure of realization, both in actual value and desirability, because of stability and refinement expressed in the building.

The neighborhood where street after street is sold out without building operations being proceeded with or rigid enforcement of intelligent approval of building plans, is sure to be disappointing because of the lack of unity in the heterogeneous expression of ideas much of which is so often very bad in execution.

Some one has said that an ideal is the framework of a fact. The average person endeavors to express his ideal in home surroundings, hence it becomes a business worthy of careful study for the builder of houses to make them really homes.

The best neighborhood in which to live and rear a family is one where building activities are carefully guarded and the homeseeker is assisted wisely and prudently in building his highest ideal of home according to his means.

Improving Architecture.

The citizen who builds can do much to raise the general standard of our homes by an understanding of a few of the true principles of architecture. The essentials are geometric planning, good proportions, symmetry and judicious use of features of merely decorative character. Where possible, the location of the house always should be planned in relation to the site with a view to giving the house a setting by the planting of proper shrubs and surroundings.

The prospective builder can advantageously study some of our leading architectural publications with a view to familiarizing himself with the best of various types of homes and with this knowledge he can do much to demand a better class of domestic architecture.

From a Novelty to a Necessity.

The backyard garden was a novelty for most of us last year, and we took it up as a fad with faddish eagerness. We shall need the garden more than ever this year, and it behooves us to consider it as a military and business proposition, not to be entered into in a spirit of bucolic levity, but with serious purpose and endless determination.—Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

WELCOME YOUR NEW COMER CAN'T DO THE WORK

Best Possible Method to Insure One's Community Being Noted for Its Hospitable People.

Do you want your community to be noted for its hospitality? Then the best way to get such a name, is to welcome each newcomer as an old friend, met after a long separation.

Of course you can't slap the newcomer on the shoulder, saying, "Hello Jim, old boy, I'm glad to see you back." No, let us greet them in a different way.

Instead, let several families in the immediate neighborhood find out at which time the newcomer will arrive. Then let each family decide on some one or two dishes to contribute to the strangers' first meal. When the hour agreed on arrives, let each neighbor send or carry her dish to the newcomers, as a token of greetings and welcome into the neighborhood.

In this way the strangers will feel much more at home than if all the neighbors had dressed in their best, and simply called in the usual way. If you don't believe it, just try and see.—N. H. C., in The Progressive Farmer.

Advice About Brick Houses.

From a constructive standpoint the nonfireproof brick house is very similar to the frame except that the outside walls are of masonry and that the floor framing in each story should be carried on steel beams and columns so that the inside supports may be as free from shrinkage as the walls. In the fireproof house floors and roof are of tile or concrete and steel. It is never desirable to plaster directly on the inside of a brick wall. Lath and plaster should always be placed on furring strips so as to give an air space between plaster and brick. All brick work next the ground, in chimneys above roofs, parapet walls, dormers, etc., should be laid in cement mortar.

The Blacker's Load.

"De biggest' load some folks has got ter carry," observed Brother Williams, "is a grip full of excuses fer gittin' out o' doin' de right thing at de right time. Fer instance, ef it's wood-cutting day, dey ain't got no ax; an' ef dey got an ax, dey ain't no grindstone ter sharpen it; an' ef de grindstone's dar, de well's gone dry an' dey's no water ter wa' it."—Atlanta Constitution.

It's too much to try to work every day against a constant, dull backache or sudden darting pain in the small of the back. Be rid of it. Try Doan's Kidney Pills. Your neighbors recommend them.

Mrs. L. A. Micky, 420 W. First St., Sanford, says: "Doan's Kidney Pills, which I recently got entirely rid of a severe pain in the small of my back, that made it almost impossible for me to do my work. I also had severe headaches and whenever I stooped or turned about quickly I became dizzy and sick to my stomach. There were other symptoms of kidney trouble, too, and my kidneys didn't act as they should. Doan's Kidney Pills relieved me at once. Under this treatment all the backache, languor and other symptoms entirely disappeared." (Statement given September 14, 1910.)

On March 19, 1918, Mrs. Micky said: "I feel justified in again recommending Doan's Kidney Pills because they have always given me great relief from attacks of backache and other symptoms of kidney trouble."

SHERM'S DOTS

THE DOTS SOMEWHERE IN FRANCE.

By Clifford Leon Sherman.

Dear Folks:—This is our fourth day out, and the most excitement we have had was when we sighted the destroyers who came out to act as a convoy, to see that we got safely by the subs and the mines. It begins to look like real business, but we all believe we ought to do all we can to get this sorry job finished. I am feeling fine, and everybody on the transport feels the same. They are a dandy bunch. And by the way, I have discovered why a frog can jump so far. We have been taking an exercise every morning, that makes me feel like a human frog. It is something like this.

To complete the picture, draw a line from dot 1 to dot 2, then from dot 2 to dot 3, and so on.

and along the stairways. The point is to plug up all draughts, thus keeping the fire in one part of the house—Harry Irving Shumway, in, House Beautiful.

Dictionary Slavery.

The fact is that the highest lingual intelligence today prescribes no such dictionary worship as that of the petty potentates of schoolroom and print shop. The usage of a people is what makes and animates a language, and those words become a recognized part of the language which are approved by the leading writers and speakers of the time. But these writers, by habit and education, are themselves prone to dictionary slavery. They hesitate to take up a new word and dignify it with usage. Therefore, when they want a new word which our dictionary doesn't provide they go deliberately to the French! This takes the curse off the crime of coining a new word in English!

Aside from the cheap and pedantic practice of "lifting words from a foreign language to fill out the gaps in our own, our language has today no constant source of replenishment but slang. Shakespeare went to the root forms of classical literature to secure him his materials for words which the language did not afford. We, because of our dictionary fetish, can go only to the sporting page!—St. Paul Pioneer-Press.

Old-World Industry.

No one exactly knows the origin of lace. Both Flanders and Italy claim its creation. Probably it was the natural evolution of embroidery.

One often hears the term "pillow lace." Of this it may be mentioned that the phrase refers to lace made on a pillow for the reason that it brought the work to a correct height for the maker and also because the lace required less handling in this way. And a kindred much heard expression, "needle point lace," refers to that in which the design is formed with but one needle and one thread.

It has never been well imitated by machinery, since a machine cannot satisfactorily produce a buttonhole stitch, and this lace is largely formed by buttonhole stitch and like loopings.

Chemical Generator for Hot Water.

It has been shown that a certain combination of salts brings about the generation of heat. By applying this chemical phenomenon a cheap and efficient warming bottle may be formed, writes S. Leonard Bastin in the Popular Science Monthly.

First of all, mix together sodium acetate and sodium hyposulphate in water, using one part of the former to nine parts of the latter salt. There should be a sufficient quantity of these materials to fill the earthenware bottle three parts full. The vessel should now be loosely stoppered and placed either in hot water or in an oven until the salts have completely dissolved.

For many hours after this the bottle will radiate considerable heat. To renew the warmth-giving properties it is only necessary to give the bottle a good shaking.

GERMANS FOILED IN SPAIN

Exhibition of French Art is Expected to Counteract Teutonic Influence.

Paris.—Earnest efforts are being made to counteract the German influence in Spain. One of the latest attempts to build up a cordial feeling with the country south of the Pyrenees is the opening of an exhibition of French art which is being held in Madrid.

Such eminent Frenchmen as Gabriel Hanotaux, Charles Widor, Imbart de la Tour, Bernier, Lallemand, Teissler, Fourcade and Raphael-Georges Levy are in attendance.

Old Custom Kept Up.

"Ringing for Gofor" is a unique custom confined to Newark parish church, England. It has lasted 300 years. It is said that a wealthy merchant named Gofor lost himself in the woods which then surrounded Newark, and, as he carried much money and the forest was infested with thieves, he was in danger of his life. Suddenly he heard the bells of Newark, and was guided home by their music. To commemorate his escape, he left a goodly sum to the church on condition that the bell-ringers ring for "Gofor" every year on Sunday nights in October and November.

Personally Conducted Publicity.

"I make it a rule, not to read what the newspapers say about me," remarked Senator Sorghum. "But some of the things are corapilimentary."

"I don't have to read those. As a rule such articles are prepared and sent out under my own direction."

FRESH MEATS ALL YEAR

Of course you do your share of complaining about the monotony of eating salt meat every day.

Stop it! Stop both of them—the complaining and the constant eating of salt meat.

Get in touch with the department of agriculture's home demonstration agent in your county or district.

Learn how to operate a steam-pressure canner.

Utilize every bit of pork, beef, mutton, fowl, and fish.

And vary the family diet by substituting fresh meat for salt meat whenever you like.

RACCOON POPULAR THIS YEAR

Considerable comment has been made over the attractive appearance of this wrap. Vivid amethyst and Australian raccoon combine to make this long-waisted evening or afternoon garment.

BUTTONS FROM NECK TO HEEL

Closing Gown Down Back an Idea Created by Designer Aided by Smart Woman.

Primitive draping is in high fashion. And right against it, sitting in the same room with it and exploiting itself quite as proudly and successfully, says a fashion correspondent, will be a gown that is fastened with bone buttons from the nape of the neck to the turn of the heel.

It is pure perverseness to employ a line of buttons down the back of a frock. The entire world of fashion was stimulating itself to the utmost to provide new ways with ancient ideas. It was on the cards that we would drape ourselves in different ways. Then some designer, aided by a smart woman, made a tight bodice to a frock, buttoned all the way down the back, and added a Japanese bow at the waistline.

What was the result? Huge bows and tight bodices, smoothly pulled across the bust and sinking in over the diaphragm, became an exalted fashion.

Perhaps it was panic, and not perverseness, that created this gown. It takes a skillful hand to wrap material around the body in a graceful manner, and we have not the art of the primitives. A modest woman has a right to demand that this drapery be well put together before she appears in it in public, to dance, to dine or to walk. The Japanese woman can wind her sarong about her hips, and other ancient races can tie the invisible knots in material to keep it modestly in place, but we are used to hooks and eyes, buckles and buttons, and we are a bit afraid to go abroad in something that depends upon our skill in tying knots to keep us from being naked and ashamed.

HERE'S A NOVEL SLEEVE IDEA

Clever Girl Offers Valuable Suggestions for the Woman Who Makes Her Own Clothes.

Are you decided on the sleeve of your new frock? Of course, you are undecided. Everyone is when it comes to sleeves; because they are such terribly important things. As a matter of fact, most of the dress interest and individuality center about the sleeve. One clever girl offers this suggestion: Make the conventional not-too-loose or not-too-tight elbow-length sleeves. Now cut from the same material, or contrasting, should you prefer, two squares. A "hole" in the middle of each provides a hand entrance. After that you tack each corner of the square to the sleeve proper, and you have achieved enviable chic. Other awfully clever ideas can grow from this one.

For instance, you are making a tunic blouse of two colors of chiffon or georgette. In that case you will use the two colors on your two-piece sleeve.

Also fetching trimming will suggest itself. What do you say to tacking the corners back with little glass buttons, or finishing off with two slender tassels fore and aft of the arm?

On your lingerie dress, you might treat the four sides of your square to a border of flet lace. Lace buttons would be perfectly exquisite with this.

Lantern Fly a Brilliant Insect. The lantern fly of South America is said to be far the most brilliant of all luminous insects. It sometimes measures more than 2 inches in length. The shape of the head is very curious. It is furnished with a hollow transparent snout nearly the length of the body, whence comes the lamplike light.

Another to Be Found.

A tracer sent to locate the old-fashioned man who wore a peachstone watch charm, reports from Clearfield, Pa.: "Located my man. He also carries a combination pen, pencil, toothpick, and rubber stamp. ## HUNS PLAN TRAP; KILL EACH OTHER

British Join in Air Battle Between Two Teuton Flying Squadrons.

ENEMY PULLS BAD BONER

English Pilots Joyfully and Impartially Render Assistance First to One Side, Then to the Other.

With the British Army in France.—This is the story of a battle royal waged in the air between two flights of German planes. It was an unintentional but disastrous fight between brother aviators, during which British pilots joyfully and impartially rendered assistance first to the one side, then to the other, until so many of the emperor's flyers had been destroyed or damaged that the conflict could not continue.

This extraordinary engagement began thus:

Two British officers in a fighting machine were lending a patrol along the lines when they sighted a German Halberstadt two-seater, which upon their appearance fired a green signal light. The British leaders expected a trap and waited to see what this unusual performance meant.

Too Many Come to Rescue.

In a short time six German scouts came wheeling out of the blue and joined the Halberstadt. Almost at once six other enemy scouts dived out of the sun onto their comrades, whom they apparently mistook for a British patrol about to attack the Halberstadt.

What had happened was this: The Halberstadt had been acting as a decoy, and the green light had been meant as a signal for assistance. But there had been no expectation that two flights of German planes would respond at the same time.

Not being able to distinguish the markings of their friends—and this has happened not infrequently before—the newcomers immediately began a furious attack upon them. The British leaders then guided their patrol into this mad melee and took a hand.

The Halberstadt was the first victim and this was shot down by the British commanding machine. Another British fighter in the meantime had accounted for two more enemy scouts, which were sent swirling to destruction below.

All this time the German aircraft were continuing their bitter battle among themselves and several of them were seen to go down out of control before the engagement finally ended. The British leaders, by their good judgment, had led the Huns into their own trap.

Fifty Planes in Fight.

This undoubtedly was a unique occurrence, but there are always plenty of thrilling incidents happening in the air these days. Take, for instance, the case of a British patrol of about eight battle planes which fought and vanquished some forty enemy craft a few days ago. This British patrol, under command of a captain, was escorting a bombing squadron when two score enemy machines were encountered. The British fighters and the enemy immediately raced in for the attack.

Within a few seconds a fierce fight was in progress and the great fleet of nearly half a hundred airships were swirling and diving madly against one another, while their machine guns joined in the vicious chorus that swept down to the troops on the ground like the noise from scores of steam trip-hammers.

The British outmaneuvered and out-fought the enemy and many of the Germans were sent spinning away. Whether they were merely frightened or were out of control, it was impossible to say, but at the conclusion of the fight four German machines lay in crumpled masses on the earth and another had gone down in flames.

DON'T FORGET FIRE BARRIERS

Their Value in the Event of a Possible Conflagration Can Hardly Be Overestimated.

Too much importance cannot be given to the problem of fire stopping throughout the house. Whether or not it is demanded by the building laws of the town or city where the building is being erected, an owner should see to it that this is done in a thorough and workmanlike way. If done properly, it confines a fire, should it start in the cellar (which is a common place for fires to start), to that part of the house, giving the firemen time to get at it. The partitions being thoroughly stopped, there will then be no need of firemen going through them with their axes. The fire stopping is composed of ordinary brick and cement, and is put in wherever possible in partitions

Packers' Costs and Profits

How much do you think it costs—

- To dress beef, cure hides, and prepare all the numerous by-products?
- To cool the meat for two or three days before shipment?
- To freight it to all parts of the country in special refrigerator cars, iced daily?
- To carry it in hundreds of branch houses, each with its refrigerating plant?
- And to deliver it to the retailer—sweet and fresh—in less than two weeks after dressing?

Swift & Company did all this for you in 1917 at an expense of less than 2 1/2 cents per pound of beef sold, including an average profit of 1/4 of a cent a pound.

OUR PLEDGE

Appreciating to the utmost the supreme unselfishness of our American manhood which is offering its very life upon the altar of freedom for the world, we, the members of the South Florida Press Association, in semi-annual session assembled, do hereby
'Resolve, That in this crisis and as long as life shall last, we dedicate all that we are and all that we have to the support of our glorious nation, our righteous cause, and our illustrious government. And be it further
'Resolved, That every newspaper holding membership in this association display this resolution in bold type at the masthead of its editorial page throughout the month of August, and that copies be sent to the president and our representatives in congress,
'Done and ordered in the city of Wauchula, state of Florida, this 12th day of July, 1918.'

Get the latest war maps from the Sanford Herald and trace the movements of the allied troops in the glorious news that is coming from the front. Your boys are over there and you want to know just where they are located.

Merchants who advertise are not going out of business and merchants who advertise are getting their share of the trade that would otherwise go to some other town. Therefore in advertising you are not only helping yourself but your town as well.

That Sanford bale of cotton which was the first of the season sold on the Savannah Cotton Exchange was sent to New York and sold at auction for the benefit of the Belgian Relief Fund. It brought one thousand dollars.—Palm Beach Post.

These are days when the merchant who has real bargains to sell need only tell the public about them to make his sales fast and joyously. Everybody is looking for opportunities to save a few pennies and never were store advertisements read with closer attention.

The possession of a thriving business and a lovely family would seem to be excuse enough for a man beyond the draft age to stay at home; but Editor Holly of the Sanford Herald is such a true patriot that he is going to leave these things to give his services to his country. The war develops some surprises. We see in times of peace fierce fire-eating patriots whom we expect to rush to arms at the first trumpet blast—but when the time comes it is evident you could hardly march them in line in front of a firing squad. And then we see gentle kindly peace-loving men like Holly quietly leaving their homes and business interests and taking their places in the ranks of their country's defenders—just like that. It is men of this type who make our nation invincible.—Lakeland Telegram.

SEMINOLE COUNTY GOING SOME

A trip to Tampa and back recently showed again the greatness of Florida as a producing state. All round and about the Celery City of Sanford we found short staple cotton and it looked fine. One of the county commissioners of Seminole was the first to get a bale to the Savannah market more shame to Jacksonville that we have no market here for our own products; find its 524 pounds brought 40c per pound at auction and was one day ahead of last year's bale. This bale was bought by the Belgian Consul at Savannah and by him sent on to New York where it will be auctioned off for the benefit of the Belgian Relief Fund. All hail to Seminole county and her thrifty fifty; you've got to be "nifty" to beat them Georgia crackers county commissioner. 1200 to 1500 bales will be raised in the Sanford district this year.—Florida Chit Chat.

NO MORE VOLUNTEERS

If The New Draft Plan Goes Into Effect

Washington Aug. 15.—In reporting the government manpower bill extending draft ages this morning Chairman Chamberlain disclosed to the senate today that General March told the military committee it was up to the United States to put enough men in France to win the war on the west front and he expressed the belief that 4 000 000 Americans under one command could go through the German lines wherever they pleased.

All men called for active service under the new draft law 18 to 45, Gen. March told the committee would be in France by next June according to program.

Secretary Baker informed the committee the report said that the President's policy called for concentration of American forces in the western front including Italy and that "the theory of the fighting in the future is that we must force the issue and win on the western front."

If the draft ages are fixed at from 18 to 45 Gen. March said the system of volunteer enlistment in the United States army automatically disappears.

In his report Chairman Chamberlain quoted extensively of testimony by Secretary Baker Gen. March and Provost Marshal General Crowder.

The United States government Gen. March is quoted as saying has been asked by her allies to embark upon a program so large that it was necessary virtually to ascertain whether we could go through with it or not and features of this enlarged program was providing men. The desire of this administration is to establish limits both maximum and minimum which will accomplish this program and at the same time disturb industry as little as possible. The policy of the war department is to put the maximum of men into France with a view of shortening the war. From figures furnished by the Provost Marshal General that we could embark on a program of 80 divisions in France by June 30 1919 with 18 divisions at home. These divisions consist roughly of 40 000 men to a division.

Entered Apprentice Degree

At the next regular communication of Sanford Lodge No. 62 F. & A. M. which will be held on Tuesday evening Aug. 20th at 7:30 the Entered Apprentice Degree will be conferred and all Masons are cordially invited to attend.

The Master Mason's Degree was conferred at the last communication. Chaplain F. P. Forster delivered the charge and, with the other officers assisted in making the ceremonies most impressive.

Past Master L. R. Phillips in a splendid heart to heart talk presented to the new members as a token from Sanford Lodge the miniature working tools of a Master Mason.

One of the first lessons enjoined upon the candidate for Freemasonry is a study of the Scriptures, and as the Fellowcraft starts upon his journey towards the goal of his ambition the sublime degree of a Master Mason he is greeted by the Chaplain with one of the most sublime pictures ever painted by the wis-ard of words "Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth." There is probably no passage in the Bible or any other book richer in beautiful imagery or more redolent of striking metaphor than that contained in the first seven verses of the twelfth chapter of Ecclesiastes.

WARNING TO FLORIDIANS

Don't Give Hospital Solicitors Any Contributions
Washington, D. C. Aug. 15.—Warning to the people of Florida against contributing to any individuals for the support of hospitals for wounded soldiers as given by the surgeon general with the authority of the war department. The following statement has been issued:

The collection of funds from individuals for the building of hospitals for wounded soldiers is disapproved by the war department. Persons who are so doing are acting without authority to any individual to collect money for the erection of hospitals to care for sick and wounded soldiers.

The war department wishes to discourage any campaigns of this character, as it has funds for the building of all hospitals required. Congress has appropriated sufficient money for the hospital requirements to date and it is reasonable to assume that it will continue to do so.

Weather and Crop Conditions

Temperature.—The temperature ranged from about normal to 2 deg. above normal. The highest reported was 98 deg.; the lowest 63 deg. Midday temperatures were uncomfortably high for several days.

Precipitation.—The rainfall was below the seasonal average except locally in the extreme west and in portions of the peninsula where some stations report amounts exceeding 3 or 4 inches. Over much of the east coast and in the south the deficiency for the week exceeded an inch or more. Some totals in inches and tenths were: Bonifay 2.0 Marianna 2.9 Pensacola 6.2 Tampa 2.9 Bradentown 2.3 Old Town 2.5 and Gainesville 1.5. At Jacksonville there was 0.8 Miami 0.4 and Key West 0.6.

Condition of Crops.—The week as a whole was most favorable. Showers and locally heavy rains were beneficial to cane sweet potatoes citrus fruits late corn some late cotton and seed beds. In much of the cotton district however the hot sun hastened the opening of cotton—prematurely in some localities as a result of rust and shedding. Most of the early planted in the central division is open and picking is active. Picking is beginning in northern counties but as yet the work is not general; the scarcity of labor and the need of gins are factors in much of the cotton district. There are some complaints of insect damage in citrus groves but only locally. Stock ranges are in fair condition. Most of the early corn is being harvested; the yield is good except in the west where dry weather did considerable damage.

Tons of Sweets for Our Soldiers

Every southern mother fondles the remembrance of how her boy made her life miserable hunting down her hiding place for the family cookie jar.

Looking in retrospect the boys cross seas coddle the dream of the cookie jar in the same light for they are nothing but boys grown up and the National War Work Council of the Y. M. C. A. realizing this too, has placed an order for more than a billion cookies for distribution to the American troops in France.

This gives an insight into the magnitude of the service rendered by the Red Triangle organization. A small realization of the little comforts our fighters crave and the amount they can consume is reflected in the Y. M. C. A.'s orders for 840 000 000 cookies representing 750 carloads 93 750 000 sticks of gum 112 500 000 jars of jam and marmalade. These goods have been contracted for and will be exhausted before Christmas.

ENCOURAGING CROP REPORT

Drouth in West Shortens Some of The Crops

The crop reports from the country at large is encouraging in the main says the state marketing bureau. One weak spot is that the early crop of potatoes does not look good.

There has been a long period of drouth on the Pacific coast and eastward to Texas. Up to the extreme hot weather of the last few days the spring wheat corn and oats outlook of the northwest was never better.

With a long spell of dry weather in Texas and Oklahoma the pasturage is good and the same is true of considerable areas in the plains states. This means a scarcity of hay. The intense heat of the past week will further injure this prospect. It means possibly that but little or no hay will come south this winter and Florida and the south will have to look to their own stock feed resources.

The cotton area of Florida has been broadened by plantings being extended in more southerly counties. Seminole county has the record of sending the first bale to the Savannah market where it was sold at auction bringing a fancy price. The cotton prospect throughout the state despite the boll weevil is fair.

More corn was planted throughout Florida than ever before and where cultivation has been maintained the yield is promising.

The castor bean crop is advancing but the presence of the army worm is causing much concern. The State Plant Board has a large force of experts looking after this pest.

The sweet potato acreage is reported less than last year the crops generally look well but there are reports of weevil injury in various localities.

The citrus fruit crop a better than last year and unless the unexpected happens the yield will be large. The only difficulty in sight is inability to handle it owing to the scarcity of labor. It is recommended that growers enlist women and children for picking and packing.

More forage crops have been planted than for a long time and not having had the hot weather that has prevailed in the north conditions are favorable.

The systematic activity of the livestock sanitary board in carrying on a campaign for dipping cattle to exterminate the tick is being felt in all parts of the state with beneficial results.

It is urged that growers of pear peach and other fruit trees cut off and burn all blighted branches and cut several inches below the dead part. Also cut out all water sprouts from fruit trees and keep the weeds down. Watch for bugs and insects and if found in numbers to do serious damage ask the help of Wilmon Newell the state plant commissioner at Gainesville.

The United States government is anxious to increase the winter wheat acreage and farmers in the north half of Florida are urged to give the matter consideration. Address the department of agriculture Washington D. C. for details.

Plan ahead for this winter's garden and field crops. Good seed is scarce and high priced. Write to the state experiment station at Gainesville for methods to test the vitality of seed.

Revision of Freight Rates
Washington D. C. Aug. 15.—Freight rate revisions to be made continuously by the railroad administration in the future are on the principle that the roads should remove fundamental injustices as well as in qualities arising out of the 25 per cent. increase in freight rates.

This order issued today by Director General McAdoo means that thousands of shippers are free to protest systems of rates in effect before the government took charge of the railroads and to press their claims for adjustments which will remove discriminations favoring competing localities or routes.

The director states many instances of inequalities not previously brought to the attention of the interstate commerce commission have recently been brought to light. This policy of the railroad administration also is considered significant and may lead eventually to an establishment of rate systems on a scientific rather than a competitive basis.

AIR TANK BLEW UP
And Citizens Thought German Were Bombing Sanford
The compressed air tank of the Kent Vulcanizing Co. on Oak avenue blew up Wednesday afternoon about two o'clock and the people residing in that neighborhood thought the Germans were attacking the city. There were three tanks connected together and bolted on supports near the roof of the plant and it is thought that the tanks being filled with compressed air expanded under the heat from the roof causing the end of one tank to blow out and this pushed one tank out the north end of the building and the other out the south end. One of them knocked a large pulley wheel into pieces the falling parts going on each side of Mr. Leavitt in the office adjoining occupied by the Mahoney-Walker Co.

Harry Kent the proprietor of the Vulcanizing Works had a narrow escape the head of the exploding tank coming to the floor alongside of him. Falling pieces fell all over the shop but none of the occupants were injured and Mr. Kent although at a loss in repairing the shop says he is thankful no one was injured and counts himself lucky.

Mr. Honeycutt was formerly the secretary of the DeLand Commercial club but has been granted a leave of absence to become state secretary of the Y. M. C. A. to get secretaries for the war camp work in this country and overseas. There is no better man in the state for this work than Mr. Honeycutt and he will probably be going over next year himself for his heart is in the work and the war.

There are many vacant lots that should be cleaned up now while the sun will kill off the weeds and the summer rains will make the grass and flowers grow. The fall and winter season will soon be here and the visitors will be coming and the city should present the proper appearance. Weeds and long grass are a good harboring place for mosquitoes and are not desirable in many ways. There is nothing that adds more to the appearance of the town like well kept yards both back and front.

A card from Lieut. Worthington Blackman bears the intelligence that he has arrived safely overseas. Lieut. Blackman is the youngest son of Dr. and Mrs. W. F. Blackman of this county and the many friends of the young man will be glad to learn of his safe passage across. He was an attorney at Orlando when the Mexican trouble broke out and joined Co. C going to the border and when the present war broke he went to Camp Wheeler as first sergeant, afterward taking the opportunity of attending the training camp where he won his commission.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Miller and Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Lane and several of the family are again encamped amid the cool shade of Palm Springs where Mr. Miller recently built a bungalow for camping purposes. Miss Sara Wight is with the party and they will be joined by many of the other young people during the week. Palm Springs is one of the most popular resorts in this part of Florida especially since Lester Beeman has done so much to supplement the hand of Nature and make the springs what they should be. A good road from Longwood is badly needed and when this is made Palm Springs will attract people from every part of the state.

Averitt to Y. M. C. A. M. S. Averitt of Chuluota has joined the Y. M. C. A. Overseas Service and leaves at once for New York. After a few weeks' training he will be sent to the battle lines. He has our best wishes.

Youths Register Again. Washington D. C. Aug. 15.—Registration on Saturday Aug. 24 of all youths who have reached the age of 21 since the second registration last June 5 was ordered today by Provost Marshal General Crowder. A proclamation by the President under a proclamation by the President. The purpose is to add quickly to the almost exhausted class one to meet army draft calls in September.

About 150 000 young men will register. Most of them will qualify in class one and therefore will gain the army probably within a month after their names are recorded.

Telegraphic orders to local authorities to arrange for the registration have already been distributed. President Wilson's proclamation excepts the territories of Alaska, Hawaii and Porto Rico from the registration temporarily but a later day will be fixed for these. Only men in the armed service are exempted from registration.

It was pointed out at the provost marshal general's office that the registration would be entirely distinct from the registration that will follow when the draft ages are extended. It also was announced that the suggested date Sept. 5 would not be the day for the registration of men from 18 to 45 even if congress passes the bill in time because several of the largest states in the union hold primary elections on that date.

The provost marshal general has no intention it was said of creating registration dates for men reaching 21 throughout the year but the present registration is made necessary by the approaching deficiency of manpower.

No More Fabers
"Ye editor" will no longer boast of his experience in wielding his "trusty Faber." The business of A. W. Faber of Newark N. J. which has been making pencils for the past 127 years has been seized by the government as alien property its stock being owned in Germany. NOTICE
Believing that FIRE INSURANCE RATES charged by old line stock companies are too high, I have secured the agency of the FLORIDA MUTUAL FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY of Tampa, Florida.

This company saved its policy holders 20 per cent last year and hopes to do better in the future. The company is organized under the state law and selects its risks carefully, and the profits go back to the policy holders instead of being paid in dividends to stockholders.

Being a mutual company, the policy holders are pledged to pay the premium the second time in case the company needs more money than the original premium in order to pay losses. This adds to the security of the policy holders, and is necessary because there is no capital stock. However, the chances that such an assessment will be made is very remote.

If interested before your policy expires, bring it to my office at Room 20 in the Court House, and make application for its renewal in the Mutual Company.

U Boats Are Brazen

New York Aug. 14.—A German submarine approaching the very gates of New York sank the American tanker J. R. Kellogg in Ambrose channel. Most of the crew have been picked up by an American steamer.

The Frederick R. Kellogg was a new tank steamer of 7 127 tons gross register valued at more than $1-500 000. Under command of Capt. G. H. White she was on her way from Tampico to Boston with a cargo of crude oil. The ship was owned by the Petroleum Transport Company and was launched a year ago this month at Oakland Cal.

The Kellogg sank within fifteen minutes said members of her crew who reached shore today. The force of the explosion was terrific and it is believed those in the engine room were killed. The survivors rowed three hours before being picked up.

One of the crew told of his narrow escape, being 'between decks when the explosion occurred. He was carried down with the boat but managed to reach the surface and swam to the 'dories. Naval authorities enjoined silence on the men before they could complete their accounts.

Colored Men in the War

Very gratifying to the nation at large is the whole hearted way in which the colored people have responded to the call of war. The draft has been accepted with enthusiasm. An army officer from the south tells us that the colored soldiers are proud of the uniform and the service. Also in the work of preparation going on behind the fighting line the colored man is doing excellent service both in France and at home. We find him at the docks as stevedore; along the lines of communication as railroad builder and teamster; and at home we have records which show what he can do when he extends himself such as the driving of 220 piles aggregating 14-260 feet in total length in 9 hours' time. After the war, when the question of extending the rights of the colored people comes up for discussion their record during the war will be evidenced.—Manufacturers Record.

Empey Was Too Smart
Chicago Aug. 15.—Arthur Guy Empey soldier author lost his chance for a commission in the United States army by a fiery curtain speech on the stage of the National Theatre in Washington. He was appearing in a new play "Pack Up Your Troubles." President Wilson was present.

The real heroes of the war Empey declared in effect were the volunteers who went over in the first place and not the drafted men who are fighting now because they were compelled to do so. Empey ended with a flourish but the expected burst of applause did not follow.

While the commission had been recommended it had not been signed and delivered, and three days later came the announcement that there had been a "mistake" in connections with the granting of a Captaincy to the former Sergeant.

Convertible Outing Caps

The outing cap, which can be easily converted into an auto bonnet, and is made of stuff that will stand the stress of wind and weather, needs not to be recommended. It speaks for itself and its talking points are unanswerable. As a rule these caps are made of mercerized poplin or Palm Beach cloth, although pongee, taffeta and some other fabrics are occasionally used. Mercerized poplin and Palm Beach cloth are cotton materials in weaves so attractive that they are often combined with silk and lose nothing by this close association with it. Both these materials are washable and strong. Machine stitching and narrow silk threads are relied upon to furnish the decorative features in these useful caps. Sometimes they are used together. The brims and crowns are often in contrasting colors, or the brims are faced with a color different from that in the body of the cap. Favorite combinations are those made of pongee-colored cloth with bright green, blue, black or red introduced in the brim facings. Vells are either of the same color as the body of the cap or like the contrasting color used. They are about two yards long and three-quarters (or less) in width. When the top is to be used for motoring they slip through a prominent fashion authority. She has never been inclined to risk the exploitation of fabrics, fashions and colorings that were not sponsored by the mother of fashions. It is said of us that we acknowledge the best in every nation and bring it to our shores. We know the best in every department of art, science and literature. If we are compelled to put our knowledge to practical use, we at least have the best to go on. We are not ignorant. The time has come for this experiment, as we all know, and the observer thinks that a few medals of honor should be distributed to those who have gone "over the top" in designing clothes in this country. It took great commercial courage and it required a sound knowledge of the American public. What France Did America Does. Here are two anecdotes which accentuate the point. They happened a dozen years apart. Mme. Paquin saw several bolts of checked silk in a manufacturer's hands. Neither the weave, the coloring nor the design was in fashion, to quote her own phrase. The importer. "Nothing new," said the importer. "Here I am held up with about fifty Spanish lace scarfs which I bought at a venture, thinking I could distribute them in the trade in America, but no one took them. The one answer was that they are not in fashion." The designer said that if the importer would give him one he would turn it into a gown that would sell all the other scarfs, on condition that he received a commission on their sale. The bargain was closed. The gown was designed. It sold immediately. It was copied so fast that the other 40 scarfs melted away like flakes of soap in hot water. Spanish lace was offered as a first fashion. That is a good example of the change that has come over the American merchant and the American designer. We no longer have to ask what is the fashion, but are probably enabled to make the fashion for our own continent. Management of Black Taffeta. It is easy to realize that taffeta has come into a first summer fashion, although the popular mind does not regard it as one of the lovely weaves slides sewed at the sides of the cap. The brims turn up or down and remain in almost any position the wearer may want. The vells may be tied about the cap in big bows and become a trimming in an emergency requiring something more pretentious looking than the cap unadorned. The clever girl may be trusted to ring all the changes possible with these classy bits of headwear, which are, by the way, so inexpensive that everyone may own them. JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

New Hat Model. One of the prettiest transparent hat models is shown in a shop which caters to exclusive patronage, writes a New York correspondent. The crown, a round bunchy, dented tam-o'-shanter, is of neapolitan and the brim is naught but a wide stiffened ruffle of malines, so full that the ruffle curves up and down bonnily at the edges. If desired, so that the malines will longer keep its shape, the ruffle may be supported with satin-covered wire, bent to accommodate the natural curves of the ruffle and extending in a few radiating spokes from the crown as well. If the malines ruffle is unsupported by wire, then the malines must be renewed from time to time and a very stiff variety must be obtained.

manufacturer complained that he had no call for this quantity of material and that he would sell it for about a franc and a half a yard. Mme. Paquin took it all, went to her salons on the Rue de la Paix, turned the cheap check silk into an alluring frock of her own design, and then wore it at Trouville-by-the-Sea. She made the frock, the design, the color and the fabric fashionable. Everyone wanted to wear what she wore. She sold every inch of the material at a price that brought her unmeasured profit on the transaction. Last month an American designer was looking over the stock of a lace is mounted on a yoke of taffeta braided with white cord, and the short sleeves are cut in one with the yoke. There is a pink rose with green leaves at the waist, and there are green shoes and stockings. of the world, because it is plentiful. There is no trouble about getting all the taffeta one wants, and it is best that we model our wardrobes for the near future on the materials that can be bought in this country in sufficient quantity to correspond to our needs. Much can be done with this material that will result in a gown out of the ordinary and conspicuous for charm and cleverness. If you could have seen a woman who came into a restaurant for dinner wearing a certain black taffeta gown, you would have been convinced in the twinkling of an eye that the fabric matters nothing if the designer has cleverness. The skirt was made of narrow ruffles that extended from waist to ankles, each ruffle edged with a white silk cord. The hem was excessively narrow. The foundation for these ruffles fitted the figure like a sheath. There was a bodice, straight and simple, and the major part of it was a yoke with short sleeves which was braided with white cord in a fantastic design. At the side of the waist was a deep pink satin rose with green velvet leaves. The slippers and stockings were green. There was nothing demure about this black taffeta gown. Treat Blue Serge in Various Ways. Blue serge is a fabric that will always be with us, as far as the manufacturers and the war board can look ahead. It is usually midnight blue, and, given a few yards of it in this color, the designers do not want to sit down and turn it out into insignificant frocks and inconspicuous suits. A woman who came to a "defense" luncheon one day wore a blue serge gown that was the product of a clever designer and it surely turned our ideas about suits topsy-turvy. The coat was split up the back as well as the front. It was worn over a long cultrass blouse, the kind that gains in importance every day. The blouse was made of a richly embroidered tricot in blue, black and dashes of dull red. It did not cling tightly to the figure, but outlined it more than usual. Over it hung the loose blue serge coat, opening in a deep V in the middle of the front and the back. It was closed at the neckline and had a collar of the serge. There was a loose belt of the material, and the skirt was exceedingly narrow and short. By the way, it is wise for any woman who orders a new suit today to see that the skirt has a sizeable hem, for the new order to the shoemakers, given by the government, which demands low shoes for the duration of the war, may change the skirt length. I doubt it. The length may be changed, but it will not be because of the low shoes, for gaiters, which are made of fabric, may be as high as desired, and women prefer them to high boots. We may also adopt the French fashion of wearing serviceable Oxford ties with straight heels and rounded toes. The bootmakers say they have more orders for these today than ever. With such shoes the average woman does not care whether her skirt is eight or ten inches from the ground, unless she is given to suffering from exposed ankles. You do surely bar the door upon your own liberty if you deny your griefs to your friends.—Shakespeare.

COMPANY GOOD THINGS.

These days we do not make frosted cakes except for state occasions and even plain cakes should be used sparingly to save our sugar. Lightning Cake.—Beat half a cupful of butter substitute to a cream, add half a cupful of sugar, the yolks of four eggs beaten light, three tablespoonfuls of milk and one cupful of corn flour sifted with a teaspoonful of baking powder. Spread the mixture in a shallow pan, beat the whites of the eggs, add gradually three-fourths of a cupful of sugar, then fold in a half cupful of blanched and shredded almonds. Spread this meringue over the cake mixture, dredge the top with sugar and cinnamon and bake thirty minutes. Cut in strips for serving. Small sponge cakes baked in gem pans and when cold cut open and filled with sweetened and flavored whipped cream make a most delicious cake for nice occasions. Dog Biscuit.—Roll thin a baking powder dough, using barley flour instead of wheat, cut out the biscuit and place a slice of bologna sausage on one then cover with another pressing the edges together. Bake as usual. This is a most appetizing dish enjoyed by people who do not ordinarily care for bologna. The name is the only drawback to this biscuit. Pineapple and Cream Cheese Salad.—Wash and dry the leaves of head lettuce; cut canned sliced pineapple into straws, keeping the straws as long as the slices will allow. Roll cream cheese into balls or egg shapes. Dispose the pineapple straws in the heart leaves of the lettuce and set three eggs in each nest, sock each egg with paprika. Serve plain French dressing in a bowl. Allow two tablespoonfuls of oil, and one of lemon juice with a few grains of salt and pepper for each nest. Banana Parfait.—Peel and scrape two or three bananas, then press the pulp through a ricer or sieve, scald the pulp with two-thirds of a cupful of sugar and the juice of half a lemon jolted together, chill, then fold in one cupful of cream whipped and one-third of a cupful of candied cherries, cut fine and soaked in orange juice over night.
