'War Of Bands' Will Benefit Schoolhouse

Sanford's musical students will be rocking the night of June 25 when rock and roll bands and combos from all over the Central Florida area will compete for prizes in the first "Band-A-Baloo."

It also has been titled "The War of the Bands." The sponsors of the show which will benefit the Little Red Schoolhouse have announced that prizes will be awarded by the Sanford High School students in three categories—beginner, amateur and semi-pro.

All rock and roll bands in the area are invited to participate in the Band-A-Baloo by signing up with Mrs. George Blevins, 2621 French Avenue, chairman of the show.

First band to enter the competition was an all girl band named "The Birds," composed of three Sanford Junior High School students, Kathy Brown, Laura Wilkins and Marsha McMillan.

Adults as well as teenagers are invited to attend the Band-A-Baloo for a small donation, with all proceeds going to the benefit of the Little Red Schoolhouse, a school for retarded children.

Master of ceremonies will be Bill Beck of WFLB and also on hand will be Marty Robbins of WOOD, DeLand, and Pat O'Day of WLOP, Orlando.

"We have kept the admission price very low so that every youngster may attend and our committee is just as excited about it as the kids," said Mrs. Blevins.

War hero Paul Pearson, a World War II Royal Air Force squadron leader, was the second holder of the coveted MBE to return his medal because of the award to the Beatles.

Harold Wilson of Montreal, a former Canadian member of Parliament, said in Canada Monday he was sending his back because "English royalty wants to place me on the same level as those vulgar showbusiness."

Official sources said Tuesday that Prime Minister Harold Wilson had received a number of other complaints about the decorations being given to the Beatles. The sources were named for the awards when he announced he honors his during the weekend.

Pearson, 64, said he meant to disrespect for the Queen. "I appreciate she's in the hands of her ministers," he said. But he said he felt the awards were being used as a "political weapon."

He said the Beatles just "exploit a basic human rhythm that the money."

"If they had done something to achieve this honor, I would have been the first to congratulate them," he said. "At the moment, though, I would have thought they were being simply awarded by the politicians and spokesmen of their teen-age audience and their bank managers."

Donald, 60, said he did not want to be in the same order "that recognizes such stupidity and hysteria as that behind the money group called the Beatles."

Donald Blevins said he didn't want to be "under the thumb of people who are being awarded it." He said, "We never asked for the award. For what? What's wrong with that?"

New Teenage 'Game' Fatal To Two Boys

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two teenagers have been killed and a third critically injured within a hour playing a new game called "elevator hopping," police reported Tuesday.

Police said they had received complaints from four of the city's five boroughs that teenagers are riding on top and underneath elevators in apartment buildings. Several boys told authorities they got the idea from a television show.

Wayne Byrnes, 16, plunged six stories to his death Monday night when he lost his grip on a beam beneath the elevator car in a Queens apartment building. A companion, Dennis Guardino, also 16, was in critical condition as the result of an identical fall.

Ramon Vasquez, 16, was crushed to death 64 hours earlier while riding on top of an elevator car in a Brooklyn housing project. His hand was crushed by a descending counter weight and his body jammed between the car and the shaft.

Leukaemia Deaths Show Rise In State

JACKSONVILLE (Special)—Deaths from the blood disease leukaemia are rising in Florida; but no one knows exactly what has caused the increase. Dr. James E. Fulghum, director of the State Board of Health's Division of Chronic Diseases, said older persons and white males are hardest hit. Least affected are persons in the 15-24-year group and nonwhite females. It is generally a fatal disease usually characterized by a marked increase of white blood cells in the peripheral blood (circulating blood as opposed to blood in bones). Effects of the disease range from swelling of the lymph glands to internal hemorrhaging resulting in general weakness, infection and pneumonia. The number of leukaemia deaths has increased in Florida from 219 in 1955 to 486 in 1964. The rate per 100,000 population has increased 87 per cent—from 4.0 to 7.6. The rising death trend also has been experienced by the nation. Florida's rise is slightly greater than the national trend. Leukaemia deaths cluster in two distinct age groups, Dr. Fulghum said. The first peak occurs in the under-18 group with 14 per cent of the total. The second peak is in the 45-74 age group. Forty-eight per cent of the deaths occur after 65. Dr. Fulghum said chemotherapy is the form of treatment most often administered to victims and that while some of these "drugs" have cured the disease, they have in some cases substantially increased the life span of the victim. Radiation therapy and blood transfusions are widely used for some forms of the disease. He said that while there is no specific treatment, prospects for discovering and perfecting a cure through research increases each year.

Woman Freed Following 18 Years In Cage

COHENZA, Italy (UPI) — Police said Tuesday a 36-year-old woman has been found imprisoned in a tiny cage in the home of her parents, who locked her up 18 years ago after a teenage love affair.

Authorities identified the victim as Ida Bure and said she was undergoing medical treatment in hopes she can return to a normal life. The woman was emaciated and showed signs of mental disorder.

Officers said they received an anonymous telephone call from the nearby village of Malone telling them they would find the daughter of Francesco and Giovanna Bure caged in the attic of the family home.

Police said they discovered the story but decided to check it out Monday. They found the woman in a wood, on cage, six feet long and almost as high.

Guests Get The Message

The tourist business is booming in America, and among those who aren't complaining are the nation's friendly innkeepers. Motel proprietors, in fact, no longer regard tourists as mere customers but as guests. They say they must embarrass them to have to mention that the guest rooms aren't free.

But the genial host has nevertheless retained just a smidgen of practical caution. On the television set in his motel room, for example, the guest may find a sticker which says: "This receiver is equipped with an electronic theft alarm. Do not unplug or detach without notifying management."

And posted on the door is this helpful minder: "Please check. Did you accidentally include towels or other motel property in your luggage? Your license number is on file at motel office. Even the most obtuse guest now gets the message and mentally checks his luggage to make sure he has not thoughtlessly — and accidentally — included a lamp or a chair that may belong to the motel."

It is gratifying to know that such messages are never directed to the guest who is reading them. But it is sobering to reflect that they wouldn't be there if some clown hadn't done something that prompted them.

Come in as you are folks. Just make sure your hands aren't sticky.

ROSS LEWIS, MILWAUKEE JOURNAL

Phil Newsom Says

New Climate For Tshombe
Trouble for the Congo certainly could not be so far over, but as the former Belgian colony approached the end of its fifth year of independence the outlook was far more encouraging than even a few months before.

A year ago at this time he was an exile living in Spain. This time he was back in the Congo. He was instead the premier of the whole of the Congo.

And in Madrid he had negotiated a commercial agreement under which, in exchange for Spanish technical goods, coffee, tea, rubber and other raw materials.

The new climate in which Tshombe found himself also represented a change for the United States.

In the Congo, the United States had given full support to a four-year United Nations attempt to restore peace and stability, the military phase of which ended on June 30 of last year still far from success.

Letters

To The Editor

Editor, Herald: Recently I discovered that my house was not tied into the city sewer system. This in itself is not a major problem. The problem is why am I paying for the use of this system? Since April of 1958 over $300 have been paid into the use of this system, but the system has never been used. This brings to mind two questions that I cannot myself answer.

(1) Why am I paying for a system that I have never used?
(2) What is being done with the money that is being paid for the use of it? If the city of Sanford needs my money to bid that they have to charge me for a system that I do not use, why don't they change the bill to read "contribution to charity" instead of "sewer charge." If this was done I could at least get some satisfaction out of giving my money to something and I could deduct it from my income tax.

Recommendations of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service are to preserve the existing values of that reach of the river between Lake Monroe and Lake Harney for a reproduction. This to be believed by locating the canal.

Dear Abby:

DEAR ABBY: I am 22 and Don is 28. We've been dating (officially) for nearly two years and I'm sure he's in love. There's only one thing we have over fought about, and that is my makeup. Don doesn't want me to wear any makeup at all. I am so natural, and I NEED makeup. I feel positively naked without it. I don't wear a lot compared to most girls. I use a Foundation base, just a hint of rouge and a tiny bit of blue eye shadow. Being a freshwater blonde, my eyebrows and eyelashes are practically invisible, so I need a touch of eyebrow pencil and mascara. I use an eye liner, but that is considered fashionable these days. The lipstick I use is in pinkish tan and without any great ado. Ely Culbertson snatched his four good diamonds and a small 1.5 carat diamond. He made the rest of the trick was skill, not luck.

DEAR "K": I think that you earn your allowance, which is commendable. But if that's all your mother can afford, you ought to drop it, honey.

DEAR ABBY: So the father of girls is complaining. I have a husband, a son and my brother living here. I'm the only

Jacoby On Bridge

1964 Vanderbilt Cup Winner Newspaper Enterprise Assn. Jim Jacoby tells his father another question today. Jim: "When you played as Sidney Lons' partner in the Culbertson-Lons match, were the strongest and weakest parts of his game?"

Jacoby and Son

DEAR ABBY: I was a widow for 16 years. I met a man and married him before I knew very much of his ways. I have worn pants around the house and sometimes to work because they are comfortable and convenient. He never objected to my wearing pants until after we were married. Now he is making me to be the only one in his family to wear the pants. Let him. It's a small sacrifice to keep the peace.

Beauty after Forty

Flattering, I think. "I am fifty, but my neck looks eighty. I do use makeup on it, but it does no good. What should I do?"

Most marriages start out as happy marriages. But it isn't just chance that while some of those and in the divorce courts in a few years, others are still good marriages after a quarter or a half century.

U. S. Navy Jets Down MIGS Over North Viet Nam

Americans Get First 'Kills' in Dogfight

SAIGON (UPI) — Two U.S. Navy jets shot down two Communist MIGs over North Viet Nam today with deadly accurate guided missiles. It was the third dogfight of the air war against North Viet Nam and produced the first confirmed kills for American aviators. One of the MIG pilots was seen parachuting but the other apparently went down with his plane. The Communist fighter planes exploded in the air and crashed in flames only 40 miles south of Hanoi, the North Vietnamese capital. A U.S. military spokesman said the two F4H Phantom jets intercepted a flight of four MIG-17s at 10:55 a.m. heading toward other Navy planes at the intersection of the 24-hour Viet Cong assault on Dong Xoai north of Saigon. An official casualty report lists 795 Vietnamese soldiers killed and missing in action as a result of Communist rainy season offensive.

Education At Crisis, Kelly Says

By Betty Austin
Florida's educational needs are at a point of crisis, Kelly says. He says that the state's educational system is in a state of crisis and that the state's educational system is in a state of crisis. Kelly says that the state's educational system is in a state of crisis and that the state's educational system is in a state of crisis.

WARM WELCOME was extended by William Fraase, (right) president of the Sanford Kiwanis Club to Scott Kelly, former state senator for the 1st district, who spoke to the club Wednesday on "The Crisis in Florida Education."

Reapportioning Hopes Pick Up

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Fast-breaking developments on several fronts of the reapportionment struggle today brought hopes of an early breakthrough in the two-week stalemate. There were three developments in a three-hour period. Circuit Judge Hugh Taylor set 1 p.m. for oral arguments on a law suit by a group of senators and representatives aimed at requiring that any plan requiring the size of the legislature be submitted to the people for a vote. The rural bloc's 100-40 plan, taken from the senator and returned to the committee for more study, was junked by the sponsor and a similar plan offered in its place that was designed to pick up the vote of Sen. Harry Stratton of Callahan by putting him into a three-senator district with Columbus, Alachua and Baker counties. In the original plan, Nassau was with Columbia and Baker and only one Senate seat and that given by language in the bill to Sen. G. T. Melton of Lake City.

Kelly Plans To Run

By Betty Austin
Kelly's hat is in the ring. Officially, he hasn't announced yet. Kelly says that he is planning to run for the state senate in the next election. Kelly says that he is planning to run for the state senate in the next election.

Swofford Asks Investigation If Anything Wrong With Audit

By Donna Estes
Alachua Springs Mayor W. Lawrence Swofford at a regular meeting of town council Wednesday evening demanded that council request the town to cease collecting the tax when it is requested the water system; (2) that the clerk handle too many funds by citing the charter requirement that one person serve as tax assessor, collector and clerk, reading an amendment to the charter which allows other employees, in addition to the clerk, and stating that more employees would be hired if council voted sufficient funds to pay them; (3) that the tax rolls be not certified and signed by council by exhibiting out "withhold" in it and answering each and every criticism.

Countdown Halted On Titan Launch

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — Trouble with a pressurization system halted the countdown of the Titan 3-C missile today in the attempt to launch the Titan 3-C, world's most powerful rocket, on its maiden flight. There was no indication how long the delay would last, but thousands were moving toward the Cape Kennedy area and an extended hold might force postponement of the launch. The Titan 3-C, a triple-pronged booster designed to become the military workhorse of the future, originally had been scheduled for a nationally televised launch at 10 a.m. (11 a.m. EDT). But first there was a hold early today to complete work delayed by weather last night, and then came the trouble with the third stage.

Floods Cause Major Damage

DENVER (UPI) — Fed by heavy rains, the South Platte River today smashed through low-lying areas of Denver and its suburbs with a 64-foot crest that caused millions of dollars in damage. Thousands fled their homes. Officials said casualties were killed during the thunderstorm and the body of an apartment attack victim was found floating in a street. Five persons were known injured. Power substations forced hospitals to resort to emergency generators for brief periods. Radio stations went off the air. Newspaper help of each other published.

LBJ To Honor 2 Astronauts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — General astronauts James A. McDivitt and Edward H. White came to Washington today to receive honors from President Johnson and Congress. The astronauts, who were given big welcomes by thousands in separate hometown appearances Wednesday, were brought along their wives and children for the Washington tribute. White and McDivitt were accompanied by their wives and children to the White House to the Capitol.
