

Proper Education Of Youth Stressed By University President

WASHINGTON, Apr. 14.—Dr. James B. Conant, president of Harvard University, warned a Senate subcommittee on education last week that "the youth of the country are future citizens of the entire country" and that they must be prepared for that citizenship.

go further and say the education of all our future citizens may well determine the kind of world we are going to live in. Democracy can prove itself in this country; a democracy can only be strong if all the citizens are properly educated and careers are freely open to all the talented."

Appearing as the first witness at hearings on several pending bills for Federal aid to education, Dr. Conant underscored his thesis by reminding the committee that "the future citizens of many of our wealthy cities are now being educated in our poorer states."

"In terms of the self-interest of these relatively prosperous communities," he added, "money is

Auto Workers Reject Wage Boost Offer

Increase By General Motors Is Turned Down By CIO Head As Unsatisfactory

PITTSBURGH, Apr. 18.—The leader of the CIO Auto Workers Reuther said today that the General Motors offer of a 15 cent an hour pay increase is not satisfactory. G. M. had notified the CIO workers that it was ready to boost wages 11 and one-half cents an hour and pay the workers for six annual holidays. The company said that with the paid holidays, the increase would amount to 15 cents an hour. The offer is a duplicate of that accepted earlier this week by the electrical workers union for its 30,000 workers in G. M. plants. The company last week offered the auto workers a 10-cent raise. In rejecting the company's offer, UAW President Walter Reuther said, however, that wage negotiations will be resumed in Detroit on Monday. He said he probably would have further comment from Detroit tomorrow when he sees the actual wording of the G. M. offer.

Hoover recently made a personal survey of Europe's food production prospects at the request of President Truman.

Volume At State Market Is Lower Than 1946 Period

Supply Of Vegetables Has Been Reduced By Heavy Rainfall

Business at the Sanford State Farmers Market is reported by H. J. Lehman as good, but not as heavy as during the corresponding period last year. Rains of the past few weeks have reduced some supplies of vegetables, especially string beans from the Pompano section where a four inch rainfall was reported Thursday. Limited local supplies of beans are being received. They sell at $2.00 to $3.25 a hamper as compared with $1.00 received a month ago, said Mr. Lehman.

Cabbage is receiving 75 to 85 cents per 50 pound sack, and is still in fair supply. Escarole is down in price with variations of $1.25 to $1.75. Cucumbers, which last week brought $11.00 a unit were $8.00 to $9.00 during the past week.

Top grade golden variety celery here was bringing $8.25 and pascal has brought $4.50 to $4.75 a crate. Due to the fact that many retail buyers cannot afford to buy the larger sizes they are buying the smaller sizes and these which are bringing as high as $7.50 a crate in New York. Even the X variety, formerly thrown away as small, is now bringing from $2.50 to $3.00 on the northern market, Mr. Lehman said.

Fencing Issue Disputed By Legislature

Amendment To Constitution Has Same Restrictions As Rejected Measure

TALLAHASSEE, Apr. 18.—The perennial issue of permitting cattle in Florida to run at large resulted in a sharp flurry of debate today in the State Legislature.

A bill to require fencing of cattle already has been rejected by the House Livestock Committee and supporters of the measure have postponed an effort to override the committee because they said this fight would disrupt the assembly and bring too much animosity to early in the session.

Today, however, the same sponsors of the bill introduced a constitutional amendment which would write virtually the same restriction in the State Constitution. The dispute developed over whether this amendment should be referred to the Livestock Committee, the same group that defeated the bill.

Reds Charged With Wanting Puppet State

Austrian Foreign Minister Will Not Sign Pact Giving Territory To Yugoslavia

MOSCOW, Apr. 18.—Secretary of State Marshall today accused Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov of trying to create what he called a puppet state of Austria. His charge came after Molotov had rejected an American compromise plan for the definition of German assets in Austria.

Austria's Foreign Minister, Karl Gruber, challenged the Big Four peace conference to complete a treaty with Austria quickly. In making his appeal, Gruber declared "Austria stands tomorrow as the best evidence of your ability to settle questions on a basis of mutual understanding." But he flatly asserted that his government would not sign a pact giving any Austrian home territory to Yugoslavia.

Legion Convention
 other offers and to report back at the next conference this year. Final action on the matter will probably be taken at the Panama City convention next May, declared Mr. Smith. He stated that the delegation, including Post Commander Henry Wolcott, himself, Mr. Field, Sid Richeard, and Jack Rocco believe that Sanford has an excellent chance of securing the memorial building, and that there is good support for this proposal throughout the State. He added, however, that he was reasonably sure that the fight would not be won without considerable competition from other communities, and that everyone here must get behind the project and push it.

 A large photographic enlargement of a lakefront air view of Sanford was loaned by the Chamber of Commerce to Mr. Field who took it to the convention and had it placed on the platform for all to see during his talk. Mr. Smith returned by plane last evening; the other delegates are staying on through the convention which terminates today. Chester Miller, Chief de Gare of the 40 and 8, returned Wednesday due to his railroad work.

Mr. Field pointed out to the convention delegates that the matter of erecting a perpetual memorial in useful and practical form as a tribute to comrades who lost their lives in the "great wars" had never before been discussed by a Department of Florida convention, and urged that something should be done without delay. He declared that it is well within the ability of the Florida department to do this, and pointed out that other state departments have constructed "permanent buildings" which house their headquarters, and which have been dedicated to the memory of our fallen comrades as a tribute forever to the honor and glory of their sacrifice.

"Sanford's location for the purpose is ideal," he pointed out. Situated as it is, well down the peninsula it is more readily accessible to all Posts in Florida than almost any other city. Its railroad, highway, river and airport facilities are more than ample; and its hospitable attitude toward the American Legion has been demonstrated time and again during these past 25 years.

"Being not too large a town, the Department Headquarters building, if placed in Sanford, would not be lost among impressive sky-scrapers. The location, which is offered, is the most desirable block on our beautiful bulk headed lake front. It is within a block of the hotel which now houses our Department offices. It is within a block of the City Hall, the Court House, the banks, the Post Office and close to a bus terminal now under construction.

"It is located on our scenic lake front drive," declared Mr. Field, "and overlooks the wide expanses of historic Lake Monroe. Its area comprises a city block and is fully paved on all four sides.
 "By virtue of his official resolution signed by the Mayor and Commissioners of Sanford, this property is hereby offered to the Department free of any costs, to be used for the erection of a Memorial building. In addition, Campbell-Lossing Post hereby offers to have the grounds completely landscaped and planted by competent landscape artists, so that the structure and surrounding area will be a thing of beauty and a credit to our great organization," he concluded.

Texas Disaster

 blazing oil tanks.
 Counting its dead, Texas City found 271 bodies, but rescue workers were burrowing in wreckage for hundreds more missing and believed to be dead. Tomorrow night, on the city's football field, the clergy of the city will hold memorial services for them all.
 Meanwhile, the work goes on to make the city safe for work and living again. The entire town will be sprayed with DDT to check any change of disease spreading. Until the fires are out rescue work is complete. It will be impossible to remove much of the debris from the fire-blackened streets lined with wrecked business buildings and homes.
 Monsanto Chemical announced it will rebuild Texas City, eventually, on the site of its $19,000,000 plant ruined by two days of explosions and fire. Monsanto also announced plans to give immediate financial aid to all families of its workers.
 Across the harbor in Galveston, a Coast Guard board headed by Rear Admiral Finlay will take steps today to find out what caused the first explosion, the one that blew up the French steamship Grandcamp and touched off the whole series of fiery blasts.

Louis Shuns Bout With Joe Walcott

NEW YORK, Apr. 18.—Promoter Mike Jacobs' outfit, the Twentieth Century Sporting Club, is looking toward a Heavyweight title fight next June between Joe Louis and either Jersey Joe Walcott or Mello Betina.
 Louis, however, doubts that such a bout will come off. The heavy-weight king said in Los Angeles that he doesn't believe either opponent would draw at the gate and he doubts if the New York State athletic commission would approve either Walcott or Betina as an opponent.
 Louis said the only reason he has been talking retirement is because it's difficult finding opponents. Commented Joe: "If outstanding opponents could be found for me, I would be willing to fight three or four times a year."

Marriage A Good Business In Berlin

AP Newsfeatures
 BERLIN—Marriage is strictly a business proposition for those Berliners who believe in advertising.
 Love to the Germans who advertise every day in the Berlin press is something one reads about in books. In these hard times it evidently does not mean a thing compared to such important matters as a good business, a home and an income.
 The male of the Berlin species makes no bones of the fact that he seeks a female who has either her own business or a good job.
 "Barber, widower with 10-year-old son, seeks acquaintance of nice collegian with intention of marrying into her shop," advertises one male.
 A master craftsman who describes himself modestly as "handsome" advises he'd be willing to "marry into an auto repair shop or transport works."
 A businessman who boasts he is "not only handsome and versatile but also has a truck and money," tells all comers he wants a "nice woman who has a store and exists on a proper solid basis."
 Seemingly only the artists worry about such minor matters as the color of their intended's eyes.
 "Looking for a young, dark-haired woman with blue eyes," implores a painter in his middle thirties. Not a true Bohemian, he adds thoughtfully she "should have a home or property."
 One dark-haired 28-year-old girl is looking for a wounded war veteran who "likes music and has an irreproachable character."
 Most women, though, cannot forget the hard realities of present-day Berlin life. One widow offers marriage into my blacksmith's shop; the "only daughter of a home owner" advises she has an old firm in Lower Bavaria and offers marriage into this watchmaker's shop; and one enterprising aunt advertises that her 35-year-old niece "seeks a tailor who would like to marry into her tailor's shop."

Rural Common Sense

By Spuds Johnson
 This piece is especially for rural women who are not members of home demonstration club.
 Home demonstration clubs are those small groups of women who organize under the direction of their country home demonstration agents and work together for their own improvement and the improvement of their communities. Their primary interest is, of course, home-making, and the major reason for a woman becoming a member is to learn to be a better homemaker and to help other women better home-makers.
 There are other reasons, also, for the existence of the home demonstration club. Home demonstration club members help the whole community, they work for the advancement of education and for other things of community and state interest, and, too, they derive a great deal of pleasure from their association with other women.
 They learn many helpful things from their home agents and from other members about cooking, sewing, gardening, canning and other phases of work in the home. The agent has specialized in college subjects and she brings the latest information to the club members, and the home-makers themselves, very often help each other with suggestion and pointers on better ways of doing home work.
 Members of home demonstration clubs did great work during the war, running or helping to run canning kitchens, doing Red Cross work, selling war bonds, and things like that, but they do great work in peace-time, too. By improving themselves they also improve their families—make life more pleasant and comfortable for them. The influence of the club is felt by all the community through this family improvement.
 Club members are interested in every phase of community life, for the community, basically, is a group of homes, and club members, responsible for those homes, naturally are going to do all they can to make home and community life good, healthful, comfortable, and pleasant.
 All rural women, and city women as well, are eligible for membership in the home demonstration club. Women of its opportunities are missing something that is good for them and their families.

Mayor O'Dwyer Is Known As Just "Bill"

By JACK O'BRIAN
 NEW YORK—Mayor Bill O'Dwyer, a favorite local application of Aliger's success formula, has been eating at Cavanagh's restaurant since he first joined the New York police force as an ordinary "harness bull," or patrolman.
 Cavanagh's headwaiter is a disaffiliated Mr. Hall who has been there for the past 35 years. When Hissoner first became a regular customer the young police officer always saluted the headwaiter with a respectful "Good evening, Mr. Hall." Mr. Hall in turn, taking instant shine to the young Irish immigrant, always returned the greeting with a cordial "How are you, Bill?"
 Today when the mayor of New York enters Cavanagh's, he finds happily that here at least nothing has changed.
 It's still a most respectful "Good evening, Mr. Hall," and an equally cordial "How are you, Bill."
 Roy Rel Ruth, producer of "I Happened On Fifth Avenue," was here for a few days and visited the home of a friend. As dinner was being finished, the maid made the apparently sorry mistake of serving the tiny daughter of the house last, an oversight which sent the youngster into a paroxysm of temperment, during which she belabored the dinner table lustily with her spoon.

 A Revival That Is Different

THE BIBLE TEACHES

That to be a Christian is to be in the church. The church is referred to as the house of God, meaning the family of God. "These things write I unto thee, hoping to come to thee shortly: But if I tarry long, that thou mayest know how thou oughtest to behave thyself in the house of God, which is the church of the living God, the pillar and ground of the truth" (I Tim. 3:14-15). All Christians are children of God. "For ye are all the children of God by faith in Christ Jesus. For as many of you as have been baptized into Christ, have put on Christ" (Gal. 3:26-27). All of God's children are in God's family. God's family is the church. Therefore, all of God's children are in the church.
 The church is the body of Christ, and every Christian is a member of that body. "And he (Christ) is the head of the body, the church," (Col. 1:18). "And hath put all things under his feet, and gave him (Christ) to be head over all things to the church, which is his body, the fullness of him that filleth all in all" Eph. 1:22-23). Both of these passages definitely declare that the church is Christ's body. The apostle Paul speaking by inspiration declared Christians to be members of Christ's body. "Now ye are the body of Christ, and members in particular" (I Cor. 12:27). "For as we have many members in one body, and all members have not the same office; so we, being many, are one body in Christ, and every one members one of another" (Rom. 12:4-5). A man's relationship to Christ defines and determines his relationship to the church, for the church is the body of Christ. If a man is in either Christ or the church, he is in both. If he is out of either Christ or the church, he is in neither Christ nor the church. One must become a new creature—must be born again (Jn. 3:3-7)—to be a Christian; but one must be in Christ to be a new creature. "Therefore if any man be in Christ he is a new creature; old things have passed away; behold, all things have become new" (II Cor. 5:17). To be in Christ is to be a Christian; to be in Christ is to be in his body, the church; therefore, to be a Christian is to be in the body of Christ, the church.

ZULULAND IS FAR-CRY FROM MODERN WORLD

By RUSSELL LANDSTROM
AP Newsfeatures

IN ZULULAND, Mark Twain's Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court was no further removed from contemporary facts than is the royal party visitor to this strange, fascinating domain where time creeps and only the slip of the white man's automobile—American-made—suggests that modern civilization is a neighbor.

It is a land of superstitions that will not be scotched, of astonishing paradoxes, of incredible naïveté, of a certain pastoral idyllicity, of inflexible codes which baffle the outsider, of cabalistic customs which the people will not explain.

The Zulus know nothing about Noel Coward, Frank Sinatra, "Forever Amber," the BBC and other such urban refinements, but they delight in their folk songs and boast a lively mother wit. Repercussions of the atomic bomb have spread extremely vaguely to a few, but it is no more dreadful to them than an alarm clock, an outboard motor or a bulldozer. They have no more idea of an air raid siren than Hannibal had of radar, no clearer notion of a city street-car than Marco Polo could have had of the Chicago subway.

HIS ONLY ADORNMENT WAS A HEADRESS OF LEAVES AND FEATHERS

The colorful native adornment—skins, lioncloths, blankets, beads and headresses—have largely given way to a patchwork of European covering. This often makes the Zulu a little absurd and futile, like a character drifting in and out of a Somerset Maugham short story, or a figure Gilbert and Sullivan might have created.

The fancy dress is brought on now mainly for important tribal occasions and for the benefit of the sightseer.

But the Zulu has his immemorial traditions like the marriage custom of "lobola," which has been described as dowry in reverse. In the Bantus and most of the other tribes of the subcontinent, the Zulus follow the practice of paying a bride-price for their wives. Pioneer missionaries sought to wipe out the custom—along with many others that were considered heathenish but with little success. Described by them and by marking of women like lobola, others as a gaudy and shocking "lobola" is championed even by Zulu religious leaders because, in the words of one black-theologian minister, "it gives stability to family life which would be lacking if lobolals were more irrationally and casual."

Women Do Work

Traditionally the women do most of the hard work in the fields and in the kraals, and it is rumored that when a woman of one of the patriarchally organized groups is desired in marriage, the man naturally should be prepared to pay over to her family something valuable in return. As tribal communities set greatest store by the girls which are not sold on the ordinary ways of husbandry, the slaughtered except for great feasts women are "lobola'd" for from five to fifteen head, the average being ten, and installment payments permitted among some tribes.

To the bride "lobola" is proof of marriage; to the groom it assures his right to fatherhood; to the girl's parents it is a fine and half-hundred of power and prestige for a family in those days when a man's status was determined by the number of his wives.

Before these negotiations are completed and the two settle down in a kraal, however, a long courtship takes place, lasting not infrequently four to five years and starting when the girl is 15 or 16 and it is the girl who makes most of the overtures.

As the greater number cannot read or write, the messages are transmitted by means of different colored beads, each string representing standard sentiments.

The bead language is authentic enough basically, but is often considered far and by the glass "mystery."

Head Language

If a string of beads is passed to a white visitor, he is told the message. "I am getting thin and I am true to you," might mean "I will remain true even to the depths of the sea." A red-green expresses the candor of innocence: "I am getting thin with longing for you and my heart is sore." Blue conveys: "The dove is a lucky bird, for it can see you every day." Red, white and blue stand for: "Do not close your door to me; I wish to be made a part of your family."

Should anything go amiss, the girl puts beads of all colors in a string, thus letting it be known "I am disappointed. Come and explain." A serious estrangement calls for a flash of yellow beads. "Break off engagement."

But a message in pink means that a long and successful courtship is virtually at an end: "If you have the necessary cattle to pay my father, I am now grown up and ready to come to you." And finally in black: "I have now prepared my substantial black wedding dress (faded from lobola) and am ready to come to you." Once married, the Zulu girl polishes up her hair and is carefully thoughtful for tenacious polygamous practices, varying among the tribes, in which indeed the bride has a good chance of becoming the good qualities of her husband to eligible young women.

THE SOUTHERN BELL COMPANY'S POSITION ON ARBITRATION

The Southern Bell Telephone Company is willing and eager to settle the Strike by Arbitration, and if the Union will agree to arbitrate wages on the basis of southern conditions, the strike can be ended immediately.

We do not believe that any other basis of wage arbitration is fair to our customers who, in the final analysis, pay us the money we pay to our employees in wages.

Eighty percent of the revenues in the nine Southeastern States in which we operate is from business transacted within each state. Our employees work and live in these local Communities, and pay the prices which prevail in them.

The Rates which we charge our customers for both local and long distance telephone service within the State are regulated by State Authorities and are established on the basis of local conditions, varying "in accordance with local factors."

Wages, too must be fixed on a Southern basis if they are to be fair to employees and Telephone users alike. Telephone employees wages

Our offer is fair to the Union, fair to the Company, and fair to the public.

If the union would arbitrate on a fair basis the strike could be ended immediately.

SOUTHERN BELL TELEPHONE & TELEGRAPH COMPANY INCORPORATED

that are far above the level of other wages paid in the community are not fair to other employers who must compete with these higher wages in order to recruit and maintain an adequate employee force. Unreasonably high Telephone employee wages must also inevitably result in proportionately higher rates for telephone service.

In order to avoid a strike with its inevitable harm to all concerned, we offered before the strike started to arbitrate our wage rates on the basis of comparing them with other wages paid in the South. We proposed that an impartial panel of Citizens representing the Public's interest, along with a representative of the Union and one from the Company, compose the board of arbitration.

The Union rejected this proposal and insisted upon a determination of wage levels on a National, Industry wide basis.

We have repeated our offer since the strike started.

We repeat it again now, and urge the Union once again to accept it.

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

DO NOT FRITTER AWAY THE HOURS AND DAYS IN FUTILITIES AND VANITIES: So teach us to number our days, that we may apply our hearts to wisdom.—Psalm 90:12.

And just to think, Mr. Wallace used to be Vice President of the United States... almost became President.

The Hutchins Commission on Freedom of the Press spent $215,000 and two and a half years on a report relating everything that is wrong with the American press, but failed to disclose where it can get any newsprint.

The recommendation of the Citizens Education Committee that school superintendents be appointed rather than elected as at present has been changed in the school bill recently introduced in the Legislature so as to continue to elect them. That would seem to be just as well since the people are not going to have anyone for school superintendent they don't like anyway.

In Jacksonville Democrats have named a negro to go into a runoff primary to fill vacancy on the city council. In the first primary the negro finished second in a four man race, goes into the runoff trailing his opponent by about 75 votes. It hardly seems likely that Jacksonville Democrats are yet ready to elect a negro to the city council, but it would be an interesting development, should it occur.

Bernard Baruch, who always has good advice to give on economic problems, tells how to avoid rising prices, bring down the cost of living. "If this country would adopt a 5 1/2 day week, 44-hour week, with no strikes or shutdowns until 1949," he says, "the result would be electrifying." It isn't so much high wages which are keeping prices up as it is the general slowdown in production, absenteeism, inefficiency, strikes and shutdowns.

Down at the American Legion convention in Miami Robert Wingfield of DeLand declared that the United States has deteriorated into a "third rate air power." That is a sad plight for the United States to be in while in the midst of all this big talk about stopping Communism all over the world. There is only one thing that will stop Communism and that isn't American dollars. Unless those dollars are used to provide first rate air power.

Paul Stine, former Sanfordite, past president of the Sanford Rotary Club, brother of brothers Andy and George, has been elected president of the Greater Orlando Chamber of Commerce. We don't know what Orlando would do if it were not for Sanford men who go down there and help them run the town. Other Sanfordites making a name for themselves in Orlando include Linton Allen, Jim Pittman, Ben Caswell, Billy Beard, Allan Jones, J. O. Adams, C. Watters, George Cochran, John Hall, Jack Wilkinson and so on.

A proposal to amend the State Constitution has reached the House which would provide a practical and sure order of succession in the event of the governor's death. The proposed change would leave it up to the people to decide by election whether the secretary of state or the president of the Senate would take the governor's place in the event of his death. Under present law in Florida the president of the Senate automatically becomes governor upon his death. And if there is no president of the Senate, the job falls to the speaker of the House.

Business Recession?

Unless the country "talks itself" into a business recession, the year 1947 should be one of sustained business activity, Frederick H. Ecker, chairman of the board of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company recently told a convention of the company's field representatives in New York City.

"Basic factors are favorable to a period of sustained business activity," Mr. Ecker. "Year-end forecasts of economists and other business experts pretty generally warn of business recession for 1947. We may talk ourselves into one, but the unanimity of view among the business prophets is probably the best reason for expecting a good year in 1947.

"Inflation forces are still potent, although fears of inflation are subsiding at the moment in keeping with declines in certain commodity prices. But inflation exists in our economy and should support a price level substantially higher than pre-war for some years. The rigidity of labor costs will serve to maintain higher prices which experience shows can be reduced without wage decreases only by higher productivity and efficiency which lower costs, and this is a gradual process.

"In general, interest rates on new investments are now somewhat more favorable than they were a year ago. Because of the refundings of bonds, maturities and repayments of mortgage loans, the company has a much larger fund to invest each year this is represented by the increase in assets. For example, in 1946 there was invested approximately 2 1/2 times the increase in assets. Inasmuch as the yield on most types of new investments is lower than the rate earned on the outstanding portfolio, this process results in a gradual reduction in the interest rate earned.

"During 1946 the net interest rate dropped to 3.01 per cent from 3.27 per cent in the previous year. A portion of this drop was due to the small amount of back payments of interest received in 1946 as compared with 1945, so that the truly comparable decrease in earnings was not as great as appeared. However, I look for new investments in 1947 to be made at a more favorable rate than in 1946"

Recipe For Long Life.

John Donaldson of Chicago, who will celebrate his 100th birthday this month, is willing, as are most centenarians, to hand out a little advice to those who wish to live long.

He says he owes his great age to these things: he has never cared for whiskey or tobacco, has kept alert mentally, had a Scottish father and an Irish mother, and has kept active, having held a responsible position since he was 75, an age at which most people feel justified in retiring.

An impartial observer might conclude that while healthy and vigorous ancestors may have something to do with it, their nationality is not important; that moderation in living very likely leads to length of life; and that most important of all is the habit of mental alertness and the wish to be active and useful. A well-furnished mind makes the passage of time seem interesting and fruitful instead of a cause for decay.

Finland's Credit

The United States was founded by a sturdy, self-reliant group of people who believed implicitly in the sacredness of promises and in the payment of just debts.

These basic principles still underlie our dealings with other nations, and we expect the same treatment in return. When the Export-Import Bank recently authorized a long-term loan of $20,000,000 to Finland, that country's long record of bill-paying was taken into account. Finland's lumber, pulp, and paper industries will be rehabilitated by this loan, and a further amount of $20,000,000 was also furnished to be used in purchasing food and textiles in this country. This loan is, for one year only.

Uncle Sam need lose no sleep over this money. It will come back.

Palestine and the U. N.

The first special session of the United Nations Assembly, called to consider an emergency condition in international affairs, has been summoned to meet in New York on April 28. Its purpose will be to add another to the many committees that have studied the problem of Palestine—a proceeding that, in itself, does not offer too much hope of producing a practicable solution. Whatever reasons there may be to expect something more from this meeting than the fate which has attended other approaches to the Palestine question, it is clear from the fact that the nations of the world would not relax participation in an elaborate scheme to do nothing whatever.

The problem itself has not become any more susceptible of solution simply because many nations are endeavoring to solve it rather than one or two or three. The basic elements remain the same—the pressure of the Jews of Europe toward their promised homeland, the aspirations of the Jews of Palestine for self-rule, the opposition of the Arabs (particularly in the state surrounding Palestine) to any change that might give the Jews a greater population or greater influence in Palestine, and the network of interest of the great powers in the Mediterranean Basin.

It is no more possible for the United Nations to reconcile all these factors than it was for Britain or for the United States. Some must be sacrificed, and they will not succumb without a fight.

One aspect of the problem is cause for particular concern. The Arabs will have direct representation in the Assembly. The great powers will also be present and voting. But the Jews—those of Palestine as well as those who watch desperately from the camps of Germany while their fate is being decided—have no standing except such as may be granted as a special grace, by the Assembly. This matter is acutely im-

Moscow Meet

(Continued from Page One) ported demands of communist-dominated Yugoslavia. If Russia stands firm and the deadlock remains, chances for the writing of an Austrian treaty at the Moscow conference seem extremely thin. The next few days may well tell the story.

As the session opened, the American delegation was said to be ready to demand a showdown to determine if it will be possible to wind up the Austrian peace treaty at this conference. If the Russian answer is no, it is believed the conference will break up quickly, possibly within the next three or four days.

Palestine Attack

(Continued from Page One) general commanding the 1st Infantry Division now stationed in the Palestine coastal plain was in the Nathanya camp at the time of the bombing. The attack came after the British had eased up on the tight security measures enforced after the hanging of Dov Gruner and three other members of the underground.

In the all-Jewish city of Tel Aviv, a bomb blasted an armored car and wounded two British police officers. Three civilians were said to have been injured by the gunfire that followed. The attack was made by four persons. All of them fled in the taxi which brought them to the scene.

Bombs also exploded in the all-Arab city of Jaffa, but unofficial sources explain this might be the result of a dispute between two Arab youth organizations. The offices of one of the two groups, Futuwah, was bombed, but no one was injured.

State Legislature

(Continued from Page One) the crossing is obstructed. Still another proposal would give Nathan Jones, veteran sergeant-at-arms of the House, a monthly state pension of $90. Meanwhile, 30 state senators have raised the issue of a separate bill to increase teachers' salaries. At present, increased school appropriations are included in an omnibus bill which would also reorganize the public school system. Governor Caldwell has indicated

Bulk Of Estate Of Henry Ford To Go To Ford Foundation

DETROIT, Apr. 18.—Counsel for the family of Henry Ford disclosed today that the bulk of the estate of the late industrialist will go to the family-organized, tax-exempt Ford Foundation.

The will assigning the huge estate has been filed for probate in Detroit.

The family counsel did not disclose the actual amount of the Ford estate or the probable inheritance and estate taxes to be paid.

Ford died Apr. 7th of a cerebral hemorrhage in his 84th year. The will was dated Feb. 3rd 1936. It left all the voting stock Henry Ford held in the giant Ford Motor Company in five equal shares to his son, Edsel, and his four grandchildren. The share left to Edsel was divided equally among the grandchildren when their father died in May, 1943.

All the non-voting stock, which represented the bulk of Henry Ford's estate, was turned over to the Ford Foundation. Ford decreed the foundation should get all this Class A stock, except that which would have to be liquidated to meet the obligations of his estate.

At one time Mexican law forbade shipment of cotton seed out of the country, but importers in the United States discovered there was no law preventing the stuffing of dolls with cotton seed and shipping the dolls, so cotton seeds were imported in that way.

Swiss Club Regrets Inability To Attend Sanford Glider Meet

Yesterday George Touhy received a letter from the Aero Club of Switzerland, whose central office is in Zurich, expressing regret for not being able to accept the invitation of the Southwestern Glider contest to participate in the meet here last month.

The contest committee, according to Mr. Touhy, sent invitations to all clubs that had been interested in motorless flight, and this club in Switzerland is one of the most active ones in Europe, especially outside Russia.

The letter read in part, "We really regret that we were not able to take part in your contest, but our special grants for competitions in foreign countries are consumed and it was too late to organize a private team. We sincerely hope that your contest was a big success and hope to meet you on another occasion."

"It was the idea of Ginny and Steve Bennis to invite the European clubs," said Touhy, "because there was a hope that in view of their intense interest in gliders and the records that they have made with them, at least one or two pilots and sailplanes might be brought to the meet. At least we know from our responses that there are a number of people on the continent who know Sanford is definitely on the map and this response serves to illustrate how far-flung the effects of this type of publicity may be."

Funds Released For Waterway Projects

MOUNT DORA, Apr. 18.—Federal expenditure of some $2,000,000 has been authorized for five waterway projects in Florida. Lieut. General R. A. Wheeler, chief of army engineers, said today.

Speaking at the annual meeting of the Florida Waterway Congress in Mount Dora, General Wheeler said advance planning for the current year has been for recently authorized new construction and for work on projects for which no construction funds are at present available. There are about 15 projects which fall into this category. These projects for which funds have been released are widening and deepening of the St. Johns River from Jacksonville to the ocean, deepening of the St. Johns River between Palatka and Aitor Bridge, widening Tampa's harbor, completion of the new spillway for the St. Lucie lock and straightening of the St. Marks River channel.

Teenage Changes Puzzle Parents

By MRS. MARION L. FAEGRE, Consultant in Parent Relations, Children's Bureau, U. S. DEPARTMENT OF WASHINGTON
Parents are puzzled by the changes that are taking place in the lives of their teenagers. These changes are so rapid and so different from the changes that took place in their own lives that they are often bewildered.

Housewife Alters Character Kinks

By ADELAIDE KERR, News-features Writer
If Evelyn Adlerblum had been content to become a bridge-playing housewife, something which may change many lives might never have been done. But Mrs. Adlerblum used her time between the chores of housekeeping and motherhood to do work she saw before her, extending it step by step.

Character Kinks

The result, after 20 years, is an experiment in child development sponsored by the National Committee for Mental Hygiene as an official demonstration for the New York City Board of Education. Mrs. Adlerblum says it can result in changes in the public school curriculum.

Character Kinks

Put in capsule form, it is an effort to locate the causes of children's character kinks and iron them out before they have done the damage that produces juvenile delinquency, social maladjustment in extreme cases—criminal action and insanity. The experiment stems from something Mrs. Adlerblum learned from the Depression. After her marriage to Cullen Adlerblum, New York physician, she had won a Columbia University B.A., and was lecturing on books to Y.W.H.A. at a time when they were wrestling with depression problems.

Character Kinks

She saw how characters buckled in the heat of adversity and thought what a boon it would be if they could be shaped in youth to get along with others and withstand life's storms. So she went back to school, studied counseling and emerged with an M.A. from Teachers College, Columbia. After she tried out her theories in a New York YWHA advisory school the Vocational Adjustment Bureau in subcommittee for the National Committee for Mental Hygiene) asked her to tackle the present experiment—first of its kind ever tried in a public school.

Character Kinks

It was begun in 1943 in the kindergarten and first grades of Public School 33 on West 28th Street. Mrs. Adlerblum joined the teacher in class, spent weeks watching the children, noted the behavior problem children, talked to them, discussed them with the teacher and interpreted their character quirks to her. Mrs. Adlerblum also took the children in groups of two into a play room for storytelling, drawing, conversation and dramatic play and watched their reactions.

Character Kinks

There was bombastic Johnny, banging on the desk and always wanting to run around when the groups were sitting still. (He suffered from a case of insecurity.) His father had deserted his family and his mother was trying to support them and run the house as a job too big for her. There was shy withdrawn Jane, always watching the others wistfully, but never having the courage to join their games. (She was overcon-scious of her mother's criticism.) But some of the adolescent's most puzzling behavior may spring from his growing awareness of himself as a person, and his uncertainty about whether that person is going to be accepted by his peers. Polly can't understand why her father raises objections to her having boy friends. How can she avoid being a "drag" if she isn't allowed to do the things other teen-agers are doing?

Character Kinks

No parent wants his or her children to be unhappy, reclusive, ap to match those great big feet? Who said it's not painful to have your parents utterly unaware of how hard it is for you to make friends in the new town you've moved to? Shyness, awkwardness, fear of But failure to realize a youngster's need to be like the others around him, ridiculing the desire for faddish clothes, or being overambitious for an adolescent to get into the "right set" socially may push the sensitive young person into sullen, moody withdrawal.

Character Kinks

Parents need to keep tuned to the subtle changes that are occurring in our children. These are on sight under our noses, but our boys and girls aren't going to confide in us as they need to. How can they ever begin to lead separate, independent lives, unless they keep something of themselves inviolate from us? Our longing to continue the intimate, open-book relations, appropriate in childhood, must give place to acceptance of the teenage need for more reserve and independence.
