It's the Easter season and we wish our news were all in keeping with the gayety attendant upon it, but since such is not the case, we will bring you the bad news first and then go on to brighter things. Harry Unkela is hospitalized in Deland where, the report says, he is improving daily. The silver lining to this cloud is that Mrs. Unkela's brother, Carl Keuffel, flew down immediately upon receiving the news to be with her.

William Sanders is also on the sick list again. He and Mrs. Sanders had rented their house and were preparing to go North to be with their children, when he was stricken. They are living in one of Scott's cabins. We sincerely hope the patient will soon be out of the oxygen tent and able to carry out his plans.

To the Rev. Mr. Edward Kircher, preacher in the Barnett Memorial Church of Enterprise, go our very best wishes for a speedy recovery from his mishap of last week. A fall caused him to break his kneecap. Not only his parishioners but also his many friends in DeBary say, "Get well soon and we hope there won't be too much pain in the process."

Dr. William L. Fidler had to have some minor surgery done and went to a hospital in Philadelphia, Pa. We are glad to report that it was successful and that he is back home and fully recovered. Mrs. Fidler visited with some of the family in Dover, Del. during the time her husband was in the hospital.

Last Saturday was a particularly happy day for Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Dungan. They received word that their daughter, Mrs. Joseph J. Bagler of Norfolk, Va. had given birth to a six pound, ten ounce baby girl.

We hear that Mrs. Charles Youman is galavanting in New

Missouri Hits Flood Crest At Sioux City

Dangerous 31.5 Foot Level Is Predicted For Omaha, Neb., On Thursday Morning

OMAHA, Neb., (AP)—The flood-torn Missouri River threw its record-breaking flood crest at the Sioux City, Ia., area today while forecasters heaped new discouragement on the downstream Omaha-Council Bluffs, Ia., area by raising the predicted flood crest another foot and a half.

The new schedule calls for the arrival early Thursday of a monstrous 31.5 foot crest at Omaha, compared with flood stage of 19 feet.

With other rivers rampaging, too, the Red Cross reported 19,349 families in eight or nine Midwest states are homeless or about to be displaced by floods. This was estimated to represent about 74,000 persons.

Army Engineers estimated a total of 1,249,000 acres of land are under water along the Missouri and its tributaries from North Dakota to Southern Nebraska.

For Sioux City, with 44,000 persons, and neighboring South Sioux City, Neb., with 5,500, the crest's arrival was only minor injury. Surrendering to come days earlier and inundation had been a creeping, progressive thing.

Mechanically Refrigerated Freight Car

Charles Reavis, Jacksonville, assistant mechanical engineer of the Fruit Growers Express Co., left, and J. L. Gould, Frigidaire expert from Dayton, Ohio, supervises the last major detail of rearing a new mechanically refrigerated freight car for a shipment of celery from the Ohio and a packing plant on Beaufort Avenue to New York City, the first re-shipment of this type on coast.

Adams Attacks Warren, McCarty In Sanford Talk

McCarty Accused Of Getting Into Bed With '48 Opponents

Alto Adams, bringing his campaign for governor to Seminole County for the first time in this race, lashed out at his leading opponents, attacked the Warren administration as the most corrupt and incompetent in the history of the state.

He did not mention his Sanford opponent by name, but he referred repeatedly to "the candidate from Ft. Pierce who is opposing me," whom he called, "Daddy Boy."

Adams said that while he had not been a part of the State government, though he had served on the Supreme Court, where he dispensed justice between men, he had nevertheless been in an enviable position to know what was going on in Tallahassee, and that while he had been convinced of the rottenness of the administration when he resigned to enter this race, subsequent developments had shown him that it was even worse than he had thought.

He resigned, he said, for the expressed purpose of cleaning up. (Continued on Page Eight)

Office Is Re-opened By Western Union

The Western Union today announced that its recently re-opened local office may now accept telegrams and money orders at all cities where service has been restored.

Hours of service for the present will be from 8:00 a.m. to 8:00 p.m., except at some of the smaller points where previous regular hours will be observed.

In addition, messages to all points in Canada, Alaska and Mexico and international messages to all parts of the world are being accepted since Western Union cable operations are not involved in the current labor dispute.

Telegraph service here was temporarily suspended on Apr. 3 when the Western Union employees were ordered to strike by the Commercial Telegraphers' Union (AFL). The strike was called by the union in an effort to force the telegraph company to grant a 25-cent raise in the daily pay of its employees on $40,000,000.

Refrigeration Of Celery Is Tried By New Process

On Thursday, about midnight a long line of refrigerated freight cars loaded with crates of celery left the Ohio and a packing house on Beaufort Avenue. The first of the cars was packed in ice in the usual manner with the exception of the last car, which was bigger than the rest and which provided an innovation, mechanical refrigeration.

As Charles Reavis, mechanical engineer of the Fruit Growers Express Co., explained it, this was an initial experimental run on celery to New York, and if successful, may be followed by test runs of other vegetables such as peppers.

Already test runs have been made successfully with citrus concentrate from Plymouth in Lake County to New York and Atlanta.

J. L. Gould, designer of the new car, was here from the Frigidaire Co., Dayton, Ohio, to supervise the shipment, which was made at a temperature averaging 36 degrees.

The Diesel-powered electric cooling unit provides temperatures varying from five degrees below zero to 60 degrees above.

Other carloads of celery in the train required five tons of ice for initial cooling, and it would require about three tons enroute to New York for re-icing.

About 550 crates of celery can be shipped in one of these big cars. One of the advantages claimed by the engineers over the usual type of ice refrigerator car is the more even temperature control, stability, frozen or fresh and provides more loading space.

Automatic temperature control is maintained at all times, with current turning off and on automatically to maintain an even temperature.

Another advantage is that the Diesel power for cooling need not be used at sidings where there are facilities for plugging in an external power source.

Of sturdy all steel construction, the car measures 50 feet in exterior and 43 feet eight inches in interior length. Interior width is 8 feet nine inches and interior height, 7 feet, 11 inches.

ICC Grants Rate Hike On Freight Carried By Rails

Increase Is For 6 Percent In East

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Interstate Commerce Commission today gave the railroads a further freight rate increase, estimated to hike charges by about 6 1/2 percent in the South and West and six percent in the East.

The order, which took effect today, raised the rate on freight cars by 12 percent and on other freight by 6 percent.

The ICC last August ruled that a rate of a straight 15 per cent hike in the East and 10 per cent in the South and West would be considered a "substantial" increase. This means the 6 1/2 per cent hike in the South and West and six per cent in the East.

This is the 17th general rate increase allowed since the end of World War II.

The increase may be offset by a 10 per cent reduction in the rate on freight cars. (Continued on Page Eight)

Hal Boyle Insists Women Are More Honest Than Men

By HAL BOYLE
CINCINNATI—“Women are more honest than men, and they can sell things better than men,” says Phil Meyers.

The discovery of this simple merchandising principle has made him a success story.

He bosses an army of more than 30,000 women salesmen—mostly housewives—who sell two million dresses a year for his Fashion Frocks, Inc., a concern that grosses about 19 million dollars annually.

Meyers, now 52, is a tall, lean, friendly former star football player for the University of Cincinnati. After working in his father's small dress manufacturing firm, he decided to start one of his own in a gamble on a pet theory of merchandising he had developed.

“I had the idea that since all women are interested in style, the best way to sell me housewife was through another housewife,” he said.

So he launched in 1925—amid considerable laughter in the trade—that has now become the largest direct-selling dress making company in the world. Today Meyers figures he employs more salespeople than any American firm other than General Motors and the Woolworth chain. And they are all women.

“We've had some men salesmen in the past,” he acknowledged wryly. “But they weren't satisfactory. A woman will outsell them every time—at least in the field of style.”

His formula is this: He advertises for women who want to earn money to help themselves or their families. He sends them a kit book illustrated with pictures and fabric samples of 300 different dresses ranging from $2.98 to $15.98. The dress patterns are kept in current styles—he has his own staff of designers—but he avoids fads and frills.

His determined ladies do the rest. They go out and get the orders, collect a down payment or the entire price of the dress.

“Who are these women? Some are wives of ministers. Some are school teachers. Some are employees of consulates abroad. Some are mothers trying to send a kid through school. Many are widows. They earn up to $10 a week or more.”

“Their wishbone is sometimes longer than their backbone,” said

Meyers. “About 85 per cent of our business is turned in by about 15 per cent of our saleswomen. Naturally there is quite a turnover. Many take up the work only to achieve a single purpose, such as making enough money to buy new furniture for their homes, and then drop out. Others have stayed with us as long as 20 years. And they are usually the best.”

Most are married and under 35 years old. But many are over 60. One saleslady over 70 sent in an advance of 70 orders a month last year. Meyers likes to tell about a brush salesman who called on one of his representatives.

“She didn't buy a brush, but he ended up buying two dresses from her for his wife,” he said. “Some of his ladies go door-to-door on foot. Some carry their kit books in baby buggies. One travels about on horseback. Another cruises

Hints to Housewives

By ALICE L. CROMARTIE

Food Conservation Specialist
Of all our fine garden vegetables, none is more versatile than the nutritious tomato. It can be served fresh, canned whole, converted into catsup, used in soup alone or combined with other vegetables. It can also be pickled and preserved.

Dried Tomatoes
Select 12 pounds of medium sized green tomatoes, freshly gathered, and wash. Select a large crock or wooden container or a large glass jar and cover the bottom with a layer of dill and mixed pickle spices. Place tomatoes in container and continue to layer liberally with dill and spices. Pack firmly and gently. Over this pour a brine made with 2 cups vinegar, 2 cups cooking salt, 8½ quarts of soft water, and 2 cloves crushed garlic. To each gallon capacity of container add 2 tablespoon sugar to brine.

Fill container to overflowing with brine and place a cover on it that is heavy enough to keep tomatoes submerged. Any brine lost during fermentation should be replaced with fresh brine. In about six weeks the tomatoes should be ready to use. The tomatoes should be clean, well flavored, and clear inside with no white spots when cut.

To store, drain and pack into clean glass jars. Add ¼ cup vinegar to each quart and then fill jars with the brine which has been strained, brought to a boil, and cooled. Seal jars air-tight and store in a cool dry place.

Tomato Preserves
This recipe produces one of my fondest childhood memories. Select firm sized small tomatoes. Wash and drain. If a preserve is desired without skin dip the tomatoes in boiling water, then into cold, and remove skins before starting to preserve. The tomatoes must be handled carefully to prevent them from breaking apart.

To each pound of tomatoes (about six small tomatoes) add ¼ cup of water and 1½ cups sugar and ¼ lemon sliced thin. Tinger roots may be added if desired. Boil lemon five minutes in part of the water. Boil remainder of water and sugar together to make a syrup. Add tomatoes to lemon and syrup. Boil until tomatoes are clear and syrup is thickened. Remove from heat and pour preserves at once into hot sterilizer jars and seal.

A “must” for this is hot rolls or warm fluffy biscuits.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY

How Florida agriculture has attained its front rank importance in the economy of the state was strikingly revealed in a recent statement by Director Willard M. Field of the University of Florida Agricultural Experiment Station.

It is well known that Florida is acquainted with the progress of her agriculture. Progress achieved despite obstacles not commonly encountered in many other states.

Agriculture brought Florida farmers a gross cash income of nearly half a billion dollars last year, which, as anyone will recognize, is a very large amount of money. This wasn't all, however. Director Field pointed out that about as much money again went to farms and persons associated with agriculture—hardware dealers, meat packers, railroad and truck lines, processing plants, seed and fertilizer concerns, and others. Altogether, a conservative amount about a billion dollars in income to Florida last year.

It's a fascinating story of Florida agricultural progress, as told in cash income to Florida farmers by Director Field in 1930, gross cash income was well over $400,000,000. And the crops of 1930 could not compare in quality to a previous year with those of 1932.

The soil and climate conditions which Florida possesses make her progress even more significant and notable. Generally, as Mr. Field explained, Florida soils are of naturally fertile, and the range of crops and plant diseases in Florida is as wide as that of any other state, wider than that of most states. In spite of consistently infertile soil, soil deficiencies, and many troublesome plant diseases and insect pests, however,

Florida's new culture has attained national and international renown. The soil resources and forward part of Florida farmers, merged and combined, federal and state assistance, and the interest and efforts of many individuals, groups, and concerns have been responsible for Florida's agricultural progress. While long and those details are not given here, the progress of Florida's agriculture is a story of progress. Director Field also pointed out that Florida's

Sunshine Boys Are Coming To Sanford

The Sunshine Boys and the Le Fèvre Trio will come to Sanford the night of April 17.

Appearing in the high school auditorium under the promotion of Ray McCormick of Tallahassee, the Sunshine Boys will arrive at 8 p.m. on.

This is the first appearance here of the Sunshine Boys. They have played for many years in pictures and appear regularly with such favorites as Smiley Burnette. The Sunshine Boys record for Decca.

They returned to the South recently and appear now exclusively with McCormick who has been acclaimed as the nation's greatest promoter of gospel music.

McCormick has produced more than 2,000 all-night gospel concerts before 3,000,000 people at the last five years in Florida, Alabama and Georgia. He lives in Tallahassee.

Along with the Sunshine Boys will also be the Le Fèvre Trio, with Little Trav Lunkin, Lampkin, a tenor of renown, is known all over the South for his rendition of “That Old Time Religion” a beautiful religious song that is done as a solo. The Le Fèvres, one of the oldest groups in the business, records for Bibletone records.

McCormick said that Naturo would be in further development.

Not "warmed over" but strictly brand new!

You owe it to your pocketbook to drive this Chrysler engine before you buy any fine car today.

It's not a "warmed-over" engine, but a basically brand-new one!

It gives a new kind of performance that means new value for every dollar you pay out for purchase, upkeep, or operation.

It was built brand-new around a hemispherical combustion chamber which makes better use of gasoline, and also permits sounder all-round engine structure, than any American motor car engine has had before.

It delivers 180 horsepower... without requiring you to buy premium gasoline. It runs with less waste, less heat, less friction and less wear than previous designs can equal. Its combustion is so clean it literally develops almost no carbon deposit at all.

It will last longer than any engine you've ever known. It will cost you less along the way. It will stay "young" in performance thousands of miles past the point where an ordinary engine shows old age.

And on top of all that, it makes driving a lot more pleasure! Its smooth response... its safety-power, in reserve for emergencies... its easy scorn for distance or hills... make you just plain feel good at the wheel as you've never felt before.

For the good of your purse and your pleasure too... we invite you to drive it, soon!

The above system is completely adequate for all other services, but it just isn't big enough for heating homes. It can't be used for heating homes. The fact that it's cheap is no reason for buying homes in Florida... just as it is the most-used method all over the U.S.

MONDAY, APR. 14, 1952

Some have spoken of the harmony of the spheres. This is a poetical picture of the infinite of the harmonious universe. We can introduce a note of discord to mar this harmony. The morning stars sang together, and all the sons of God shouted for joy.—Job 38:13

It begins to look almost as if Judge Adams were running against Governor Warren. Well, that's just what Warren did four years ago.
He ran against Governor Caldwell
when he beat Dan McCarty.

Not many newspapers are taking any stand these days on the government's race, many of the other political battles. But the people are funny about things like that. We have told them how to vote before, and they never seemed to pay much attention to us.

What is happening in Korea, Burma, or Indo-China may not mean much to those of us who are so wrapped up in our own personal affairs we are like the ostrich with its head in the sand, but if what William C. Billitt, former ambassador to Russia, says is true, we may be sending our sons to fight in the jungles of Malaya as soon as the truce in Korea is signed, if it ever is. How many times have blind men said, "We are not interested in the Far East, or in the Near East, or in Ethiopia, Czechoslovakia, or Poland", until some Pearl Harbor shatters our complacency, and we wake up to the draft calls, the bond drives, the price freezing, rationing, and the casualty lists.

Another national magazine has lost a libel suit as a result of articles defaming Florida and its various institutions. Former Senator Fraser of St. Augustine was awarded a judgment of $75,000 because the Saturday Evening Post said his "oldest school house" "fountain of youth" and what have you in the "oldest city in the United States" was just a lot of "skulduggery" and "faking of history" to fool the American public and defraud the gullible. It will be recalled that former Governor Caldwell also won a libel suit against a national magazine a few years ago. On each of these days these big publications are going to be careful what they say about Florida.

According to Frank J. Storz, general manager of the Associated Press, it is becoming increasingly difficult with each passing year to break down barriers in this country against the publication of the news and to keep the public adequately informed on important public questions, something which is absolutely necessary if our form of government is to be preserved, since only through a properly informed public opinion can decisions in our government be reached. "Newsmen", Storz says, "have been confronted by censorship, bamboo curtains, com-municational files, restricted information and downright censorship at times when the cost of getting news out is increasing and it has increased dramatically."

Steel Seizure

President Truman's order seizing the steel industry presented one temporary solution to the controversy. The unions have agreed to remain on the job, and for a time at least the production of steel will continue. But almost one million tons of steel were lost to the nation's defense effort and economy because the companies, expecting a strike, had ordered furnaces to be banked and production to be slowed up in the days immediately preceding the scheduled walk-out.

Whether government seizure of the industry will prevent any long-range solution to the industry management problem, is doubtful. Government intervention was merely final proof of the inability of labor and management to settle their own differences. The steel industry was angered by the presidential order and will seek to have it set aside by the courts. The unions, at least for the moment, are not provoked by the seizure. But the government took over the railroads and workers who tried to strike against the labor practices of the government have found themselves up against a formidable opponent. It may be that in the long run the unions will find the president's action distasteful.

The strike has been prevented. It remains for the courts to decide whether the means used to avoid it were constitutional. In the meantime both sides should work energetically for a solution that will allow the steel plants to be returned to private industry as soon as possible in either case. Neither labor nor management can afford to concede that the government is better able to handle their affairs than they are themselves.

Heat, Not Light

"Invasion of private property" is not an alarm that has been only lately raised. All through the ages the owners of wealth have been quick to scent danger in government financial proposals, sometimes justly. Their fears, however, should not invariably be the deciding factor.

The Modern Jefferson

Thomas Jefferson was born on April 13, 1743. He died July 4, 1826. But no statesman of today is more modern in his point of view than was the Sage of Monticello. Let him write his own birthday editorial on changes in law and government.

"I am certainly not an advocate of frequent and untried change in laws and constitutions. I think moderate imperfections had better be borne with, because, when once known, we accommodate ourselves to them, and find practical means of correcting their ill effects. But I know also that laws and institutions must go hand in hand with the progress of the human mind. As that becomes more developed, more enlightened, as new discoveries are made, new truths disclosed, and manners and opinions change with the change of circumstances, institutions must advance also and keep pace with the times."

While Washington is at its best in cherry blossom time, it isn't nearly as beautiful as my anticipation of being in Florida for a couple of weeks while the House is in recess.

Modern Conservation Farming

The modern concept of conservation farming means to apply the necessary practices of a farm to increase production and to build up soil productivity, both at the same time. It means making soil yield abundantly year in and year out for an indefinite period.

Mr. Roland L. Dean, Editor
The Sanford Herald
107 Magnolia Avenue
Sanford, Florida

Dear Mr. Dean:
We would like to thank you for the fine editorial you wrote concerning the Seminole Blues in your paper of Friday, April 11th. We hope that everyone will cooperate with our local baseball association and help make this the biggest season we have ever had. The general public is influenced greatly by statements coming from men such as yourself in whom they have the greatest respect and trust. We hope that you will continue to boost our team in your editorial section because we know it will contribute immensely toward the completion of a successful season this year.

We would like to take this opportunity of urging every citizen of Sanford and Seminole County to cooperate with the officials of our local baseball association. We think they have done a wonderful job in reorganizing the baseball movement here and we would like to congratulate all the officials who have taken time out from their regular duties to make this association possible.

TV FREEZE LISTED

WASHINGTON (AP)—Television in every American community was a long step nearer today as the government lifted its 3 1/2-year freeze on new stations.

Washington (A-Television)

Eventually 2,000 stations may be built throughout the United States and its possessions. Only 108 operate now, mainly in large cities. The Federal Communications Commission's "unfreeze" order means TV reception for areas which do not have it now, a far wider range of programs in areas already covered, and a golf rush for the multi-million-dollar industry itself.

Congressman Herlong Reports

By SID HERLONG

My trip home coincides with the visit to Florida of Senator Richard B. Russell, and it will be my privilege to accompany him and introduce him to the people of our district. I have observed the candidates for President, and while I have nothing against any other, there is no question that the thinking of Senator Russell is more in accord with the thinking of the people of our State, both on foreign and domestic matters. His belief in States' rights and Constitutional government, his position on the fundamental issues, are ours. The best yardstick by which to gauge the respective merits of two people is to find out what they are thinking about. In this respect the members of Congress who have served with both avowed candidates overwhelmingly favor Senator Russell.

Try and Stop Me
By BENNETT CERF

HAROLD WILLIAMS, dean of executives of the American News company, complained to his doctor that he was seeing spots in front of his eyes instead of discount schedules. "You are a bit run down," confirmed the doctor. "I suggest you get out down for a while on your golf and get in a good, healthy day at the office every now and then."

In the Jesse James era of the wide open spaces a man accused of horse thieving was lynched by a mob. The next day it was discovered that the wrong man had been hanged. His contrite executioners wiped away vagrant tears, and ordered a tombstone for the poor fellow's grave, with this inscription engraved thereon: "Lynched by mistake. The joke's on us."

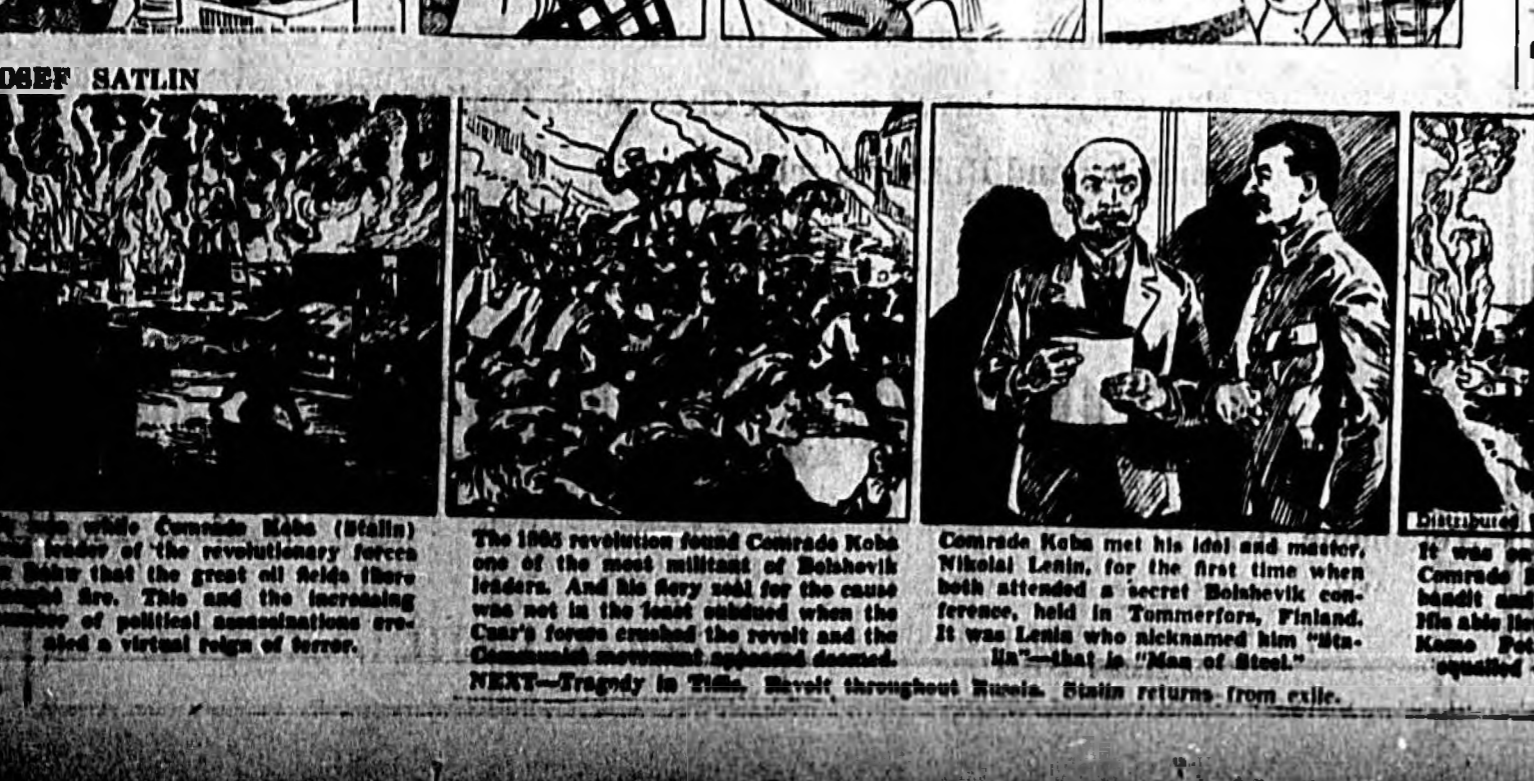

"It's quite true that wild beasts in the jungle will not harm you if you carry a lighted torch," Frank Buck was fond of telling his lecture audiences, "but a great deal depends, of course, on how fast you carry it."

Former Bar Group Head Says Sanford Candidate Has No Strings Tied To Him

JACKSONVILLE (AP)—Cody Fowler, former president of the American Bar Association, endorsed the candidacy of Bralley Odham for the Florida Democratic nomination for governor here Monday night.

Fowler, a Tampa attorney, disclosed his decision on a TV program here where he appeared with the Sanford candidate just prior to the start of Odham's "talkathon" here.

"I know he will go in as governor without having any strings on him or owing any political debts that have to be paid at the expense of the people of Florida," Fowler told his radio audience.

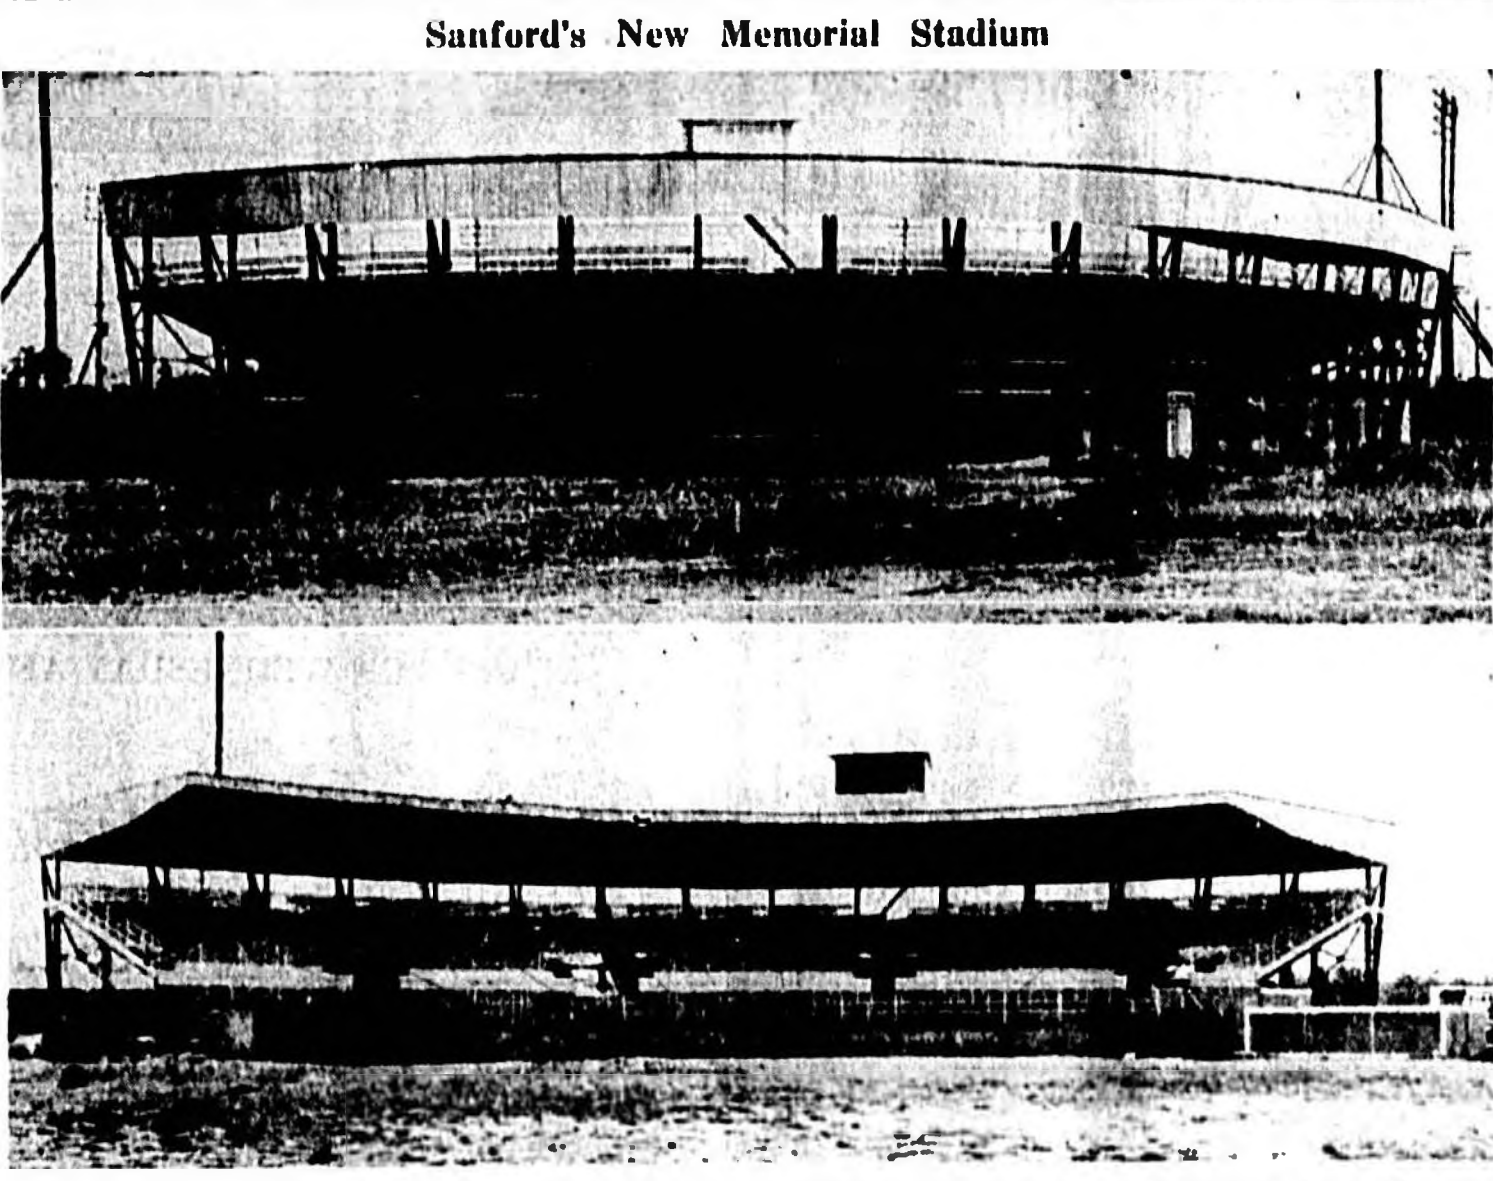

Odham started his fourth 24-hour radio talkathon answering questions telephoned in from listeners at Jacksonville.

He promised if he becomes governor to "do everything possible to complete all road and bridge projects, to complete the Florida Turnpike, the Jacksonville Bridge and Expressway Project—without delay.

Odham read a breakdown of contributions as reported in Tallahassee which he said showed that Adams had received $77,388 from 393 contributors for an average donation of $197. He said McCarty had received $79,005 from 1,165 persons for an average of $68.25.

Odham said his $38,873 in donations came from 3,516 contributors for an average of $11.05.

Both Adams and Odham continued sniping at McCarty, who they claim has the backing of the...

Feinsinger Testifies Ex-Economic Mobilizer Is To Blame For Crisis In Industry

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chairman Nathan P. Feinsinger of the Wage Stabilization Board (WSB) accused former Economic Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson today of creating "havoc" in the crucial steel dispute.

Conclusion reached on Feb. 12 by a Sanford Post Terminal Committee and a committee named by the Commission regarding plans for the port terminal and warehouse project were outlined last night to the Commission by G. W. Spencer, attorney, who called for a "go ahead" signal by the City to secure the property as a basis for further action.

The proposal submitted by Mr. Spencer, based on the conclusions of the two committees, was that the City grant a 99 year lease of all City owned property west of First Street and north of First Street when the project is finished and contracts are secured to build the Port Terminal and Warehouse.

This court is compelled to observe that injunction is not the solution to the dispute over wages and working conditions which has existed for a period of three years.

The duty rests with the government, the railroads and the unions involved.

Justice Department attorneys filed the action in behalf of the Army, which has been in technical control of the union's rail lines since Aug. 27, 1950, when another strike was threatened.

The Wage Board chief said "quite properly I was not consulted on the question of seizure" and defended that action by the President a week ago as "sound and right."

The President has been criticized for what his actions in the steel industry called a "surrounding" of power in taking over the steel industry.

New Jersey Republicans elect 38 delegates to the presidential nominating convention in July at Chicago—18 at large and 20 in districts. Taft backers are contesting seven at large seats, and admitted losing give Taft 201, Eisenhower 88 and Stassen 21.
