N. Y. Hospital Calls Flat-Rate Plan a Success

System, Begun In July, Includes All Extras Benefitting Patients
NEW YORK CITY, Jan. 29. (AP)—An inclusive-rate program, under which hospital patients pay a uniform daily price and receive the use of hospital facilities normally billed as extras, was put into effect last July at New York Hospital, 525 East Sixty-eighth Street, and last week was pronounced a success.

Under the system at most hospitals the patient pays a basic rate for room and board, and all hospital facilities, such as X-rays and laboratory tests, are charged as extras. Under an inclusive rate all patients are charged at the same rate, without reference to the nature of their illness, and in return are permitted free use of all hospital facilities, with only minor exceptions.

New Landing Is Made On Luzon Island

American Eighth Army Splashes Ashore Above Subic Bay Without Casualties

A new American army splashed ashore in the Philippines without firing a shot and raced to within eight miles of the Bataan peninsula, where the Japanese are trapped today between the U. S. Sixth Army and the Eighth Army.

The surprise landing was made Monday along a ten mile stretch of the Luzon island coast, 60 miles northwest of Manila. An amphibious force of 110 ships was used.

American flags flying over every town in the landing sector.

Admiral Arthur Struble hurriedly cancelled the invasion naval bombardment. There were no casualties. The landing forces pushed more than 10 miles inland without seeing a Japanese.

Dogtags Save U. S. Flier After Crash In Russia

They were Russian. Hallett, who kept repeating "American," was stripped to his dog tags, examined for wounds and handled as a German prisoner. Suddenly he recalled his dogtags and showed the soldiers his dog tags.

Taken For German, He Shouts 'Americans-kee,' Gets The Best

WITH THE 15TH AIR FORCE Italy, Jan. 31, (AP)—Dog tags, a parachute and remembering to "American-kee" these things brought Sergeant Joseph Hallett, Jr., of Westinghouse a bullet through the chest on a German plane.

It was a race to hold the heavy bomber in the air. Hallett's territory could be reached. Hallett jumped first, drifted in to a wooded area and landed gently on the ground as the plane caught his chute and took on the check of the fall.

A patrol moved rapidly toward him—a patrol with tommy guns, light machine guns, rifles, bayonets and hand grenades. As they surrounded him Hallett realized

"I asked the Red soldiers when they expected the war to end," he said. "They replied that no major European war ends in spring or summer and that the battle against Germany would probably continue until early fall, unless the Reich proves tougher everywhere than is generally expected."

"We all speak German, because the Germans are our enemies, and we try to learn as much about them as possible," one Russian told him.

Hallett said he was impressed by the Russian soldiers and described them as alert, well-mannered, efficient and comfortable.

"I asked the Red soldiers when they expected the war to end," he said. "They replied that no major European war ends in spring or summer and that the battle against Germany would probably continue until early fall, unless the Reich proves tougher everywhere than is generally expected."

Veteran Pension Clause Explained By Senator Boyle

Continued from Page One... (free of charge, any person entitled to such claims. He said that the facilities of his office are also available without charge to any persons entitled to gratuity pay, pensions, or National Service Life Insurance benefits for death occurring in service in line of duty, whether of World War I or the present war.)

The following information relating to pension benefits to dependents of deceased veterans was today announced by Senator Boyle: "On Dec. 11, 1944, the President approved Public Law 483 amending the law governing payment of pensions to widows and children of World War I veterans for death not due to service (Public No. 484, June 28, 1941). Under this amendment pension benefits are payable even though the veteran did not have a service-connected disability at time of death, provided other conditions are met. "The World War service must have been before Nov. 12, 1918 or before April 2, 1920 if in Russia, and the discharge or release

Russians Reach Zielienzig, Only 55 Miles From Berlin

Continued from Page One... (The Soviet high command bulletin revealed that Soviet forces had advanced north of the Netze river from Driesen and Stolzenberg in their closest approach to Berlin which was within 55 miles southeast of the great Baltic port of Stettin.)

At the same time, other troops south of the Netze river were forcing the Nazi Ostro River defense line marking the Poland-Cross Border. With other Soviet forces overrunning East Prussia and as much as 26 miles inside north-east Germany, Marshal Zhukov's 1st White Russian army crossed the Brandenburger border on a 40-mile front in yet another invasion, according to Nazi broadcast, launched an all-out assault toward Berlin with massive tank and infantry forces. In East Prussia, Soviet forces captured a village three miles west of the burning capital city of Konigsberg and virtually laid the city by reaching the Baltic southwest. Konigsberg was partially encircled. The first outburst of Zimkov's power drive, launched in the breakthrough between the Warth and Oder rivers, carried Zhukov's army some 100 miles north to the frontier and the towns of Pilsch, 85 miles east of Berlin, and Huthstadt, 99 miles south and west of Berlin. In other places were captured. The enemy Nazis said that these forces were already approaching a Nazi defense line based on the three big German cities of Schweidnitz, Merseburg and Zuellichau. Schweidnitz and Merseburg are 81 miles from the German capital.

Continued from Page One... (Berlin and the drive was aimed at the important Oder river city of Frankfurt on the Oder, 50 miles east southeast of Berlin and Kustrin, 12 miles east of Berlin, were approached with the capture of the city. The enemy indicated Zhukov's forces were approaching within 10 miles from Frankfurt on the Oder and 10 miles from Kustrin. North of the Warth river, powerful assault forces of Zhukov's army were reportedly plugging west from captured Driesen to envelop Kustrin from the north and to drive a wedge between Berlin and Stettin.)

Other Russian forces were taking toward Stettin at the mouth of the Netze river as the Berlin radio ordered the immediate mobilization of all formations on the Oder. Warth and Sothen. Capture of Kustrin, a major express train route, Berlin would shatter the German defense line between Berlin and Stettin. Moscow dispatches described the drive toward Stettin as a "great success". It's great to be here... Have a Coca-Cola... or helping a soldier feel at home When he's back on furlough, it's the little things a soldier left behind that he looks for. In three words, Have a Cola, much of his old life comes to mind. For Coca-Cola was part of his days after school or after work, with the gang and with his girl. A happy remembrance of carefree times. Ice-cold Coca-Cola holds a warm and friendly place in American life. And it should have a special place in your icebox at home. Wherever Americans go, Coca-Cola stands for the pause that refreshes—has become a symbol of our friendly way of life. THE SWANN

(From The Lyric)
I saw the swans fly westward to the hills
In that rich glow the fire of evening brings.
When suddenly a broken shaft of light Gave all its golden splendor to their wings.
Then for a breathless moment, I beheld Unearthly beauty in that passing gleam, Gold birds that flew in golden fields of air
To quiet waters, and the hills of dream.
JOHN IRVINE

We see where Harry Hopkins, former WPA chief, has gone to Paris. It will take a long time to rebuild Europe that way.

According to recent newspaper dispatches, the Jimmy Roosevelt travel by train, even when late.
They must not own any dogs.

We don't see why President Roosevelt is so anxious to get rid of Jesse Jones as Secretary of Commerce. He kept Madame Perkins, didn't he?

The Japs boast they are shooting down more of our planes over Tokyo. Our Superforts are getting so thick over there, the Japs just can't get their flak through.

If we had to pick a date for when the war will be over in Europe, we would say about three weeks from today. But we have been wrong before so we suppose we can be wrong again.

"If what they are doing to Mr. Avery is legal," asks the Florida Times-Union, "why does Mr. Byrnes ask Congress for a law to make it legal?"—Trust-ville Star-Advocate. That's what you call insurance.

Nightly jangles—No—frankly—I can't see so much wrong—a dog displacing three men—I been a dog too long myself.— V.L.S.—Lake Worth Herald. After all, this is the century of the under-dog, isn't it?

As long as they are talking about drafting 4-Fs for war work, why not draft some of these fellows who are engaged in black market operations, whether 18 or 60 years of age, and out them to work digging ditches along the highways, or at anything else that's necessary? If everyone were forced to work at worthwhile occupations, there wouldn't be any manpower shortage.

Drew Pearson, whom President Roosevelt characterizes with some restraint as "a chronic liar," reveals, now that the election is over and the CIO communists safely installed in power, that when this war broke out "the U.S.
Army had only two weeks' supply of gunpowder on hand." Some vision! some foresight! on the part of the New Dealers, who planned it that way. And he goes on to add that six big corporations (General Motors, DuPonts, Aluminum Corporation, etc.) have been given 50 percent of all war "orders." So that's the way they help little business, or is this just another of Drew Pearson's chronic lies?

Dorothy Thompson who strongly believes in some form of socialism, which, however good, is certainly not the one that made America great, admits that if this new society provides us all with freedom from fear, with freedom from want, something else will be needed to make the individual do a good job. Hereafter people have taken a pride in their work have turned out a good job, because they were afraid they would get fired if they didn't. With that fear removed, Miss Thompson points to present-day unemployment, high taxes and the present-day economic incentive to work, recognizing "a positive deterioration in standards of work" in other words, reasons freedom from fear, freedom from want, and everybody wants for everything.

Learning On The Job

Young people leaving school for work are told they are losing great opportunities. The riches of the world's knowledge are too often thrown away for a chance to earn a few easy dollars, while two young to appreciate either the power of learning, or what might be done with the dollars to make life better.

On the other hand, one going into a modern factory, plant or store has a chance to acquire much useful education. Wonderful machinery can give him a respect for the inventor—for the mind and education which made the invention possible. He can learn respect for discipline and teamwork. If one part fails, the whole machine must stop until repaired. He can learn from this the importance of one humble citizen in a community.

The student in plant or store learns the value of punctuality, of cleanliness in man and machine, of good craftsmanship, of an even rhythm in living as well as working. He can learn such physics, chemistry, engineering, because here he sees applied the principles he started to learn about in school. From older men he can get much of the history of his industry or business.

He can learn the immense, immeasurable value of being dependable.
Only weaklings loaf and spend all their money. Those who aim to be the strong and useful citizens of tomorrow will be fair and square in work, and will learn all they can every day.

Jap Chivalry

It was probably inevitable that American ships and men should be sunk in the Pacific in the progress of the Japanese war. Our navy is greatly superior to the Japanese, and our sailors in every fair combat have shown themselves better men than their enemies, but they cannot always win.

In fair fight they ask no quarter. All that they ask of the enemy is adherence to rules of maritime warfare, which both sides have pledged themselves to observe.

It is with indignation and horror then that Americans have read of deliberate breaches of these rules recently by the Japanese between California and Honolulu, especially the case of the Liberty ship John A. Johnson. This vessel, it should be remembered, was not a fighting ship.

It was attacked by a submarine on a moonlight night.
Seamen who escaped, some in the water and others in a lifeboat, were deliberately rammed and run down and sprayed with machine gun fire from the Jap submarine, while the Jap sailors jeered at the dying. The official report says all were "victims of atrocities," while ten of the merchant and naval crewmen were killed or wounded. Apparently no more chivalry than this can be expected from the Japs while their war lasts.

Smoke Problem

This is supposed to be an Age of Reason, or a Rational Age. But it doesn't seem altogether rational when so many millions of people depend so greatly, for their comfort and peace of mind, on a once vulgar weed. The aforesaid, as the reader may have surmised, is tobacco. And the part it plays in this present and supposedly civilized world is almost incredible.

It is getting so that people, whether men or women, seem hardly able any more to do any kind of work, or even to pass their time comfortably, without doing it to the accompaniment of cigaret smoke. Our enemies might almost have won this war before it started, by the simple device of corraling and burning all the stored tobacco and tobacco seed.

Come to think of it, this very thing might occur some time in a great national emergency. Maybe, in order to be forehanded, we should have our scouts out searching throughout the plant world for some other form of mild and unnecessary poison to take its place.

Amid all this fuss, some smokers are resorting to a solution of the problem that is almost startling in its simplicity. They just stop smoking.

Too Late To Classify

Prior to Pearl Harbor I used to spend about half my time traveling over the state. Since then I've had to stick pretty close to my office, but a short time ago my friend Jack Monahan slew in to my "Private" (the door says) office and made the mistake of announcing that he was making a trip to West Florida.

"What," I say, "is it still there?" "It sure is," he replies, "and you ought to see it since it has grown up."

Well, that was all the encouragement I needed. I hopped out of my swivel chair, climbed into his lap and cried like a baby until he promised to take me along. If I'd signed up for a "Cook's Tour of the World" I couldn't have been any more excited.

After four years of solitary confinement, fenced in with Ybor City on one side, West Tampa on the other and my little pink eyes to the grindstone in between, the vision of rolling hills, changing landscapes, new faces and what have you came as a real thrill.

In days gone by I've driven State Road 5 from Tampa to Tallahassee a hundred times, but I tore along at 70 miles an hour and never saw much of anything but the shoulders that you are supposed to keep off of and the CAUTION CURVE signs you are supposed to observe. But now with a speed limit of 35 the traveler is given an opportunity to really appreciate the enchanting flora and fauna that Mother Nature has so generously scattered around for our enjoyment. Why even the lowing kine on the highway gave me no offense, and I can remember when I used to suss 'em out in all the languages including the Scandinavian. The sight of a Mama Razorback in the middle of the roadway with a flock of offspring chewing the buttons off her vest was even pleasant. Of course, I wasn't driving and maybe that makes a difference.

Stopping at Brooksville, we visited the office of the Journal and the Sun. Editor Russell of the Journal was busy covering a Commissioner's meeting as something and I missed him, but I found Editor Lovett of the Sun as busy as a six headed cat with

LATEST DEVELOPMENT IN THE "THEORY OF SCARCITY" works out of a hinctype, but made 'em knock off long enough to swive a Coca-Cola and do a bit of fat chewin' and we enjoyed a delightful visit.

Journeymen on to Inverness we found Mrs. M. C. Scofield, who now edits the Citrus County Chronicle and Dunellon Sun, chewing the bark off a pencil tryin' to figure out how to get all the ads in and have enough room left to tell folks about the activities of the Parent-Teachers, Women's Club, Women's Field Army for the Control of Cancer, committee for the Infante Paralysis Drive, and all the rest.

Reaching Williston we learned that Editor Vause, who incidentally is President of the Florida Press Association, and my boss, was all tangled up and backlashed a local chairman of the Red Cross Drive and busy attending a committee meeting to determine who to put the bite on and how.

At Bronson we were lucky for we not only found good old Roy Child, publisher of the Levy County Journal, at home and on the job but J. Min Ayers, editor of the Gilchrist County Journal, was there too so we killed two birds with one stone. Min, by the way, is Speaker Pro Tem of the 1945 Florida House of Representatives, so if you don't think we talked politics, you're crazy.

Take my advice, brother and don't run out of cigarettes in this neck of the woods if you are pernickety and inclined to winkle your nose at unknown brands. A Camel is hard to find nowadays as the real McCoy and Mrs. Herndon introduced a new member, Mrs. E. H. Laney and a letter on the work of the organization from Mrs. C. D. Walker of Florida, Florida division president, was read.

A historical program was presented by Mrs. L. A. Brumley, historian, and Mrs. Roumillat and Mrs. Caskill read articles on the life of General Robert Lee, Thomas Fontaine Maury, General Thomas J. Jackson, George Davis and Thomas Braxton.

$273,000,000 State Help For Cities In Budget

Record Total In Share and Aid to Dewey's Answer to Critics

ALBANY, Jan. 21.—State aid to the municipalities, including New York City, will be greater during the next fiscal year than ever before in New York's history, without the addition of any new sources of state-wide revenue and exclusive of any increase in education which may result from a proposed revision of the Freedman formula.

This, it was learned, will be Governor Thomas E. Dewey's budget message answer to Democratic and pressure group demands that the state divert some of its $310,000,000 surplus, now locked up in a post-war recession fund, for war-time relief payments for municipal employees.

The Governor will submit his 1943-44 budget to the Legislature next Wednesday in a message which will be accompanied by a report on the state's financial condition and a report on the state's revenue during the year a total of $273,000,000 in shared taxes and state aid compared with $210,000,000 for the current fiscal year and $260,000,000 in 1939 and 1940. The two previous years when the highest total figures were reached.

Actually, state aid from bonded debt (state taxes) will be increased to $110,000,000 during the next fiscal year, compared with $70,000,000 in 1939. The reason for this difference is not reflected in the comparative total state aid figures because there has been a large shrinkage in state aid to the localities for relief and lesser shrinkages in other objects, such as education.

The increase in state aid for the coming year is caused by a comparative shrinkage in local contributions. For example, the local contribution for relief is expected to be $110,000,000 during the next fiscal year, compared with $120,000,000 for the current fiscal year. With the state contribution of $110,000,000 the total relief total for the next fiscal year will be $220,000,000, a 10 per cent increase over the $200,000,000 for the current fiscal year. The total state aid for the next fiscal year will be $330,000,000, a 25 per cent increase over the $260,000,000 for the current fiscal year.

Figures such as these were set today to show that there will be a large net increase in state aid to the localities, not including possible further relief which might be included in the budget of a report submitted by Feb. 1 by the commission on Municipal Revenue headed by State Comptroller Frank C. Moore.

The shared tax increase for the next fiscal year will be mainly the result of large increases in the state's income tax and income and corporation tax share taxes.

It was pointed out that the state's $500,000,000 war-time highway program will be a net benefit of $100,000,000 to the state treasury, the net result of $100,000,000 in state income tax and income and corporation tax share taxes.

The program also called for the expenditure of $100,000,000.

Ward Suit Judge Named To Bench By Roosevelt

Sullivan Has Reputation For His Clarity And Independence

CHICAGO, Jan. 31, (AP)—Judge Philip L. Sullivan, who ruled that the government's seizure of Montgomery Ward & Co. was illegal, was appointed a judge of the United States Federal District Court for the Northern District of Illinois by President Roosevelt in 1933.

A life long Democrat, Judge Sullivan has long been noted in Chicago for the independence and clarity of his decisions. His reputation among newspaper men covering the Federal courts here is that of a judge who "calls them as he sees them."

Before his appointment to the Federal bench, he had served for 12 years as a judge of the Cook County Circuit Court. He became the youngest judge ever to serve on that court following his election in 1921 at the age of thirty-one.

Judge Sullivan, now 55 years old, was born and grew up on a 700-acre farm operated by his father near Maroon, Ill. He was the 13th of 17 children.

After finishing high school he enrolled at Loyola University in Chicago and obtained a part-time job in the Marshall Field & Co. department store to help finance his education. He was graduated from the Loyola Law School and admitted to the Illinois bar in 1911.

He became active immediately in Democratic politics and, after practicing in the offices of several law firms, was appointed master in chancery in 1916. He resigned the following year to enlist in the Army as a private and had risen to the rank of first lieutenant when he was mustered out of service in 1919.

Returning to Chicago after the war, he was again appointed master in chancery, a job he held until his election to the Cook County Circuit Court in 1921. A few months before his appointment by the President as a Federal judge in 1933 he was made one of the judges of the Federal Court of Cook County.

Judge Sullivan is married and has a 21 year old daughter, Miss Daisy Sullivan.

Results Of Racing Shutdown Are Shown

MIAMI, Jan. 31 (Special)—What the recent racing shutdown means financially to the state of Florida is revealed in a check of revenue derived from the pari-mutuels industry for its termination on the peninsula in 1941.

Twenty-nine and one-half million dollars has been contributed in racing taxes to Florida's 67 counties, the state treasury, and the old age funds in 14 years, according to figures recently released by the Florida State Racing Commission.

Of the $29,469,591.80 total, 40 percent—or the amazing amount of 11 million-100-thousand dollars—was derived alone from horse racing at Miami's famed Hialeah Race Course. Actually, the figures tell only a part of the story for twice in three winters now horse racing has been curtailed and Hialeah unable to operate.

The state's racing receipts reached a peak during the 1943-44 season when $5,824,272.72 was collected from two horse tracks, nine dog tracks and one jai alai fronton. Three-million-two-hundred-thousand dollars, or 48 percent of the total, was from 50 days of Hialeah's operations.

The biggest increase in revenue was in 1941-42 when income jumped from $2,402,773.99 to $4,592,861.86 as a result of the increase of the state's "tax" on the tax on wagering is known, from three to eight percent by the 1941 legislature.

Attendance figures, interestingly enough, have failed to keep pace with the wagering rise. Where betting went up six times from 1931-32 through 1943-44, attendance was little more than double. Paid crowd the first year totaled 1,157,161, and last season was 2,458,993. Highmark was in 1940-41 when attendance at the horse tracks, dog parks and jai alai fronton was 2,699,484.

New Ruling Made On Revenue Taxes

JACKSONVILLE, Jan. 31 (Special)—John L. Fahn, Collector of Internal Revenue for the District of Florida, today advised he had received notice from Washington that Collectors of Internal Revenue are now authorized to accept cash, United States postal, bank, express, and telegraph money orders, or cashier's and treasurer's checks drawn on National and State banks and trust companies, or certified checks in payment of stamps to be used in payment of Internal Revenue taxes.

If any other form of remittance is received in exchange for internal revenue stamps, it can be accepted only at the collector's risk and may be regarded as cash only after collection and receipt of the proceeds.

It is believed that this new ruling based on recent legislation will prove most helpful to taxpayers who are required to make large purchases of internal revenue stamps.
