The Evening Herald has been awarded first place in statewide newspaper competition for special advertising sections promoting shopping centers or downtown shopping areas.

The Herald's Advertising Director Bob Markey and Barbara Di Masi proudly display first place plaque won in statewide competition.

The award was presented to the Herald at the spring convention of the Florida Newspaper Advertising Executives Association (FNAAE) held last weekend at the Treasure Island Inn in Daytona Beach.

911 Chief Spolski Starts Work Today

By RICK PANTRIDGE Herald Staff Writer

Orlando 911 officials, whose system is not yet operating, will attend the 911 action committee meeting in Orlando Friday.

Spolski said, "is to shorten the emergency response time and to eliminate confusion over the correct number to call when emergency service is needed."

Spolski, former associate editor of The Herald, will be in Gainesville soon to view the only 911 system now operating in Florida.

number," Spolski said. When the system is operational, all emergency calls will be received by dispatchers at a new county communications center at Five Points, near the geographical center of the county.

All calls will be recorded "for clarification in the event the person calling is distraught or excited," Spolski said, and the appropriate emergency agency dispatched immediately.

Eventually it won't be necessary for callers using public telephones to deposit any money to reach the 911 number, Spolski said.

Funds for the system are being provided by local, state and federal governments, with the state doing the majority of the funding.

The 911 system will be staffed by trained dispatchers, Spolski said. "The hope is that those currently operating in communications will continue in the 911 program."

Spolski views his job, initially at least, "as a job of coordinating operations among the many emergency service agencies and the two telephone companies operating in Seminole County."

Thai Premier Threatens U.S. If Marines Aren't Removed

By The Associated Press Thai Premier Kukrit Pramoj gave the United States until Thursday morning to remove 1,100 U.S. Marines he said were landed in Thailand without his permission.

Kukrit told newsmen he would take "drastic action" if the United States did not withdraw the Marines from the territory of its only remaining ally on the Southeast Asian mainland.

In an ultimatum delivered to U.S. Charge d'Affaires Edward E. Masters, Kukrit said his country does not intend to be drafted into U.S. preparations to take back the merchant ship Mayaguez by force.

Meanwhile, 40 or 50 student protesters yelling, "American go home," and carrying signs such as "Bastard Ford, get your troops out," were at the airport for the arrival of the new U.S. ambassador to Thailand, Charles S. Whitehouse.

New 'Spy' Unit Revealed

WASHINGTON (AP) — With $1.3 million from the federal government, the Law Enforcement Intelligence Unit, a nationwide police organization virtually unknown to the public, has amassed a computerized intelligence file containing 18,906 names. The intelligence unit and its data bank were established to exchange intelligence information on organized crime, but some police officials say it has expanded its interests to include political dissenters and any citizen who arouses the curiosity of the police.

Helms Offers Viet Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Jesse Helms says members of Congress should give their own money to help Vietnamese refugees and has backed his appeal with a personal check for $1,000.

The North Carolina Republican said private contributions should be used to resettle the refugees "instead of raiding the U.S. Treasury." Helms attached a check to a proposed amendment to the refugee aid bill requiring the resettlement program to be financed personally by congressmen and other voluntary contributors.

FBI, CIA Issue Denial

WASHINGTON (AP) — FBI and Central Intelligence Agency officials say they are mystified over claims by the U.S. immigration commissioner that security checks have created a logjam blocking resettlement of tens of thousands of South Vietnamese refugees.

Here it comes again... another shoplifting pitch. We know you've heard it before, but read on. Shoplifting is stealing. It is punishable by law and it labels you a criminal. It can wipe out your hopes for the future. It gets you a court record that can't be erased. Say goodbye to college plans or landing a job. Employers will think twice before they hire a thief. Is that wallet, necklace or lipstick you pocket worth the price you must pay in the end?

Energy Crisis Still Big Issue

The order by President Ford, suspending over a two-year period price controls on domestically produced oil, is a reminder to Congress that the shadow of the energy crisis still looms darkly over the nation.

Just as debate in the House and Senate on bills authorizing humanitarian and evacuation aid for South Vietnam was overwhelmed by the rush of events in Indochina, so, it seems, could American traffic and industry suddenly come to a halt while Congress deliberates over a comprehensive energy program.

Mr. Ford could have increased the pressure on the lawmakers by putting into effect the second step of the import tariff initiated with a $1 hike Feb. 1. He has delayed the second $1 increase again in a conciliatory gesture aimed at coaxing constructive action from Congress.

The decontrol decision should be an incentive to oil companies to intensify their search for new petroleum sources and increase production from existing wells as the price of domestic product drifts upward to match the cost of imported oil.

They probably seen the ones for Elvis Presley collections... "Posse Scene Music," featuring background music for chase scenes in famous Buck Jones, Host Gibson, Lash Lane and "Tim Holt westerns, hummed by Snooky Lanson.

"The Original Cast Album of Flash Gordon," featuring such favorites as "Ming the Merciless's Theme," "The Clay People Suite," and the haunting "Dance of the Octosacs and Orangutids."

"Commercially You've Purchased By" a memory-lapse inspired by the voices of Rex Marshall, Bill Shipley, Ed Herby and Alexander Scourby, reading those commercial messages that enriched so many of our lives.

"Stilet," gives you a chance for the first time to compare the sound on amand channels, juxtaposing the staccato beat of channel 6 in New York with the ragtime channel 9 in Chicago and the smooth channel 9 in Miami.

"4119 Versions of Stardust," performed by a dazzling variety of musicians and singers, including Casey Stengel, Norman Mailer, Imogene Coca and a rare recording of Mae Tinee, on song, playing his version of the "Yogi Berra" musical classic.

"Recorded Messages from Around the World," featuring our reservations agents are busy" messages from 113 different airlines and weather forecasts for March 18, 1968 for 73 selected cities.

"Great Lile Flight Record Offer Comments," with Frankie Laine, Chubby Checker, Artie Shaw and Bobby Vinton, among others, offering you hours of listening pleasure, again and again and again and...

But the airlines themselves have not fared so well. Struck with heavy losses, they should not be saddled with any changes which will further threaten their service to the public or their financial solvency.

There seems no reason to change the present balance between airlines and management in the airline industry. Indeed, the public good is best served at this time by maintaining the airlines' mutual aid agreement.

Around The Clock

Seems funny, but we can vividly remember the days when it was fun to hitch-hike from place to place. There was no fear — for neither driver nor potential passenger — as it was just an assumed fact that you couldn't drive far in any direction without encountering at least a few roadside hopefuls with thumb stuck high in the air for all to see.

Today? Well, it's just not quite the same. We know from personal experience that it's changed — for both driver and hitch-hiker.

When you're behind the wheel today and see some of those who are literally attempting to "bum" a ride, you're just plain afraid to take a chance — fearful that the one you stop to help just might pull a gun or some other weapon and demand your worldly possessions — plus your life, if he's in that frame of mind.

Too, you have to worry if he/she is alone or if a buddy might be lurking in the shadows of a tree or somewhere else close by ready to double-team you.

Then again, so many drivers have been accused, and some, we might add, wrongfully, of assaulting a female hitch-hiker that you think twice about picking up a gal who might well be in need of a ride, here or there.

Granted, we've been tempted to stop many times, and have done so without any reprisals, but then again, we've failed to stop and offer a lift on more occasions than we care to admit.

Yesterday, the shoe was literally on the other foot and it was strictly involuntary. Seems the battery on the buggy decided it needed a vacation and just wouldn't kick over — no matter how much we coaxed, begged and pleaded.

So, we decided to hoof it, forgetting it was about 18 blocks or so between the house and the office.

At first, we were undecided as to the hitch-hiking bit, figuring the walk would be good for the legs and the rest of the human anatomy. A few blocks later we decided, "Oh, what the heck. Give it a try."

That's when we remembered all the stories which have passed over the copy desk relating to the crimes perpetrated against innocent guys who needs a ride for one reason or another and is forced into taking that offer to lift on more occasions than we care to admit.

So, we decided to stick to the sidewalks of Sanford and hike the distance. And you know, it was a pleasant walk — those 18 blocks. Surprisingly enough, it took just about 30 minutes to make the trek as I was in the office before we knew it.

However, the fact of the matter was we couldn't help but recall those days when we "hitched" a ride to participate in a baseball game for the Meadville, Pa., Moose team, etc.

Mail Order Buyers Get Business

The consumer advocates notwithstanding, it isn't the Standard Oil or the AT & Ts or the like that bother us. Corporate giants like these tend to run scared at the merest hint of criticism.

What does bother us is the performance of the little enterprises which are supposedly the backbone of the American free enterprise system, particularly the multitude that operate via the mails and which actually do more business this way than when the majority of Americans lived in rural isolation.

The "action lines" or similar services, that appear in nearly every newspaper today are filled daily with complaints from people about mail-order houses. They sent money and got the wrong item and can't get satisfaction. Or worse, they sent money months ago and have never received anything, not even an acknowledgement, except a cancelled check.

The "action lines" have proven to be a useful recourse for the put-up consumer, as their Southwestern Publishers, who are not getting the word out, remain an important part of the country's economic life serving a real need. But even the best of them seem to be infected with "manana" disease these days.

The larger companies, who have reputations to protect, are usually the quickest to serve and prompt to make adjustments. Again, it seems to be the little enterprises who collect most of the complaints. It is because they operate out of shoeboxes using the cheapest help you can hire and lack both managerial expertise and public relations sense.

Maybe it's their employees, who consider any indignation board, called for by the Federal Trade Commission, a step toward bankruptcy. And at the court hearing, the government argued that the cease-fire represented an agreement with a foreign state (South Africa) which could not be made public.

The ANC has again made it clear that it will not talk about a conference until Smith fulfills all the conditions it claims he accepted.

One of the reasons why the constitutional talks, agreed on at Lusaka, have never begun is that the Rhodesian government and the ANC have been long and publicly disagreeing on what was decided at Lusaka. The ANC has repeatedly said that the only precondition for a conference he accepted was that he would release African nationalist detainees and when a cease-fire in the guerrilla war took effect.

The ANC claims that Smith accepted far more, including an end to the state of emergency, the dismantling of the "protected" villages and no more political trials or executions of convicted terrorists.

It is almost impossible to believe that the Rhodesians could have agreed to such terms. Yet they have refused to disclose precisely what did happen.

Vandals Smash Windshields At Sanford Used Car Lot

By ROE LLOYD
Herald Staff Writer

Sanford police today were looking for clues to the identity of vandals who smashed windshields of 13 autos on an sales lot yesterday during an estimated $1,700 damage.

Patrolman Gary Swain reported the autos damaged were on the Jack Martin Used Car sales lot at 4100 Orlando Drive.

Martin told police he found the damage when he arrived at the lot to open for business yesterday. Police said Martin could offer no explanation or motive why someone would want to damage the autos.

Detective J.A. Cash today said a case that at first was believed to have involved a juvenile con game has been marked closed after a one-day investigation and classified unfounded.

Police started a probe yesterday after 13 juvenile boys reported they had paid a man a total of $22.85 to use a park-riding yard at Seventh St. and Elm Ave., adjacent to a public school.

Cash said the juveniles will get their money back and es- tablished that investigation showed that there had been a misunderstanding and that the money had been collected by the man for hats for a proposed sandlot baseball team. Cash said the proposed team was in no way connected to the school or to the city recreation program.

County Jail today without bond after being arrested last night on two charges each of involuntary sexual battery and false imprisonment.

Seminole sheriff's deputies and Orange County authorities arrested Richard Edward Walker, 23, of 1919 Carrigan Ave., Winter Park, on Orange County circuit court warrants.

Altamonte Springs police detective James Pary arrested an Altamonte man last night on two Brevard County warrants charging grand larceny.

County jail records indicated Chris H. Koskinas, 49, of 549 Orange St., Altamonte Springs, posted $10,000 bond on the charges and was released from jail. Jail records listed Koskinas as a motel operator.

A 20-year-old laborer was arrested early today and charged with driving while under the influence of alcohol and possession of what police believe is marijuana.

Officers said Kent Harold Brown of 7818 Plantation Drive was stopped on SR 436 because his car was "weaving from lane to lane." A search of the car, police said, turned up a "plastic baggy" of what police believe is marijuana.

The bag's contents will be sent for analysis to the Regional Crime Lab in Sanford.

Donald Cusic, of Jacksonville, reported to deputies that a .45 caliber automatic pistol, holster and ammunition was stolen from his car last night while it was parked at Quality Inn, SR-434 and I-4, Longwood.

In other theft and burglary reports, Ralph L. Lane, of Orlando, told deputies someone entered his auto while it was parked at 101 Wymore Road, Altamonte Springs, and took a citizens band radio and 15 stereo tapes, total value $250.

Gaylord E. Attenbury, of Oviedo Route One, reported tools valued at $356 were stolen from a carport at his residence, according to a report filed by deputy Archie Freeman.

HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

For Thursday, May 15, 1975

ARIES (March 21-April 19) A situation having a direct influence upon family resources is shaping up beneficially. Some of the reasons are not yet visible.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You're going to have some good news to share with an enthusiastic friend, who'll be as happy as you are.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your financial prospects appear very promising today. Be on the lookout for positive moves to help your career.

CANCER (June 21-July 21) Those in your peer group will look to you for leadership today. Step out in front. Be the drum major!

LEO (July 22-Aug. 22) You're very effective today if you function as the power-behind-the-throne. Pull the strings, but don't be too obvious.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You will be making a very important contact with whom you should develop a rapport. Later, he will win very large in your plans.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Real progress can be made today regarding a major career goal. Concentrate in this area. Put forth your best effort.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)

You can easily awaken an interest in your present plans. Lay them on to key individuals whose co-operation you need.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your work at this time will pay more handsome dividends than usual. If the boss asks you to take on his pet project, don't hesitate.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Much of value can be accomplished today if you ally yourself with the proper team-mate — one who works well and whose aims match yours.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You'll feel your best today if you do things which require some physical exertion. A good time to pick up that mild exercise program.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You have added charisma today. Others will be eager to be in your company and to do things to make your life more pleasant.

YOUR BIRTHDAY
May 15, 1975

Your social life will perk up considerably this year. And you're likely to play a leadership role in club or organizational activity.

Sanford Man Innocent Of Check Forgery Charge

By BOB LLOYD
Herald Staff Writer

A circuit court jury found a 41-year-old Sanford man innocent yesterday in a one-day trial on a charge that he had uttered a forged check.

Olha Lee Booth, of 816 W. Third St., had told the jury, "I've got nothing to hide. I'd never forge any checks. And I wouldn't have cashed those two checks at the grocery store if I had known they'd been forged."

Booth said he was arrested nearly a year after he'd cashed the checks, allegedly payment to him for working for a contractor. He told the jury he didn't know who let the checks on the mantelpiece at his residence but that it had been common in the past for the employer to put his paychecks in his home while he was working out of town.

While cross-examining the defendant, Assistant State Atty. Claude Van Hook was warned, out of the presence of the jury, by Circuit Judge Clarence T. Johnson Jr. that he was "flirting with a mistress."

Van Hook had asked Booth if he had ever been convicted of a crime. Booth answered "yes" — three times for driving while intoxicated and once for contempt of court.

"What about a petty larceny conviction? You were arrested for that too, weren't you?" Van Hook asked and the judge quickly sent the jurors from the courtroom.

"You, of all people Mr. Van Hook," Judge Johnson told the prosecutor, reminding him it isn't legal to question a defendant further than the number of prior convictions.

"If you're trying to make a bad case look good and trying to make me declare a mistrial, I'm the court admonished. Van Hook apologized and said that wasn't his intent.

In other circuit court action yesterday, Circuit Judge David U. Strawn sentenced Rocky Ray Darnell, 20, of Sanford, to 30 years in prison for the robbery of a food store in Lake Mary.

Elvis Howard Webster, a 27-year-old Georgia man who said he'd been in Sanford four days when the store was robbed Feb.

24, earlier pleaded guilty to attempted accessory after the fact of robbery in the case. He testified at Darnell's trial that he and Darnell waited in a car behind the store while a juvenile robbed the store.

Webster was sentenced yesterday to six months in county jail, less credit for 77 days he's been in jail since his arrest. He had faced a possible maximum one-year jail sentence on the plea.

Assistant State Atty. Bill Heffernan told Judge Strawn at sentencing that there had been lengthy and involved plea bargaining in Webster's case. "His services to the state as a witness aren't complete," Heffernan said. "He is still needed in other cases in this as well as other counties."

Defense attorney Ned Julian Jr. said he understands Webster will be transferred to Volusia County to testify in pending cases there against three other persons.

Lake Mary To Reject Land Bid

LAKE MARY — The City Council tonight is expected to turn down a request from the City of Sanford for jurisdiction over 300 acres of land, now claimed by both cities.

Sanford made the request in recent weeks after Attorney General Robert Shavin ruled the inclusion of the tract in Lake Mary's charter, passed by the legislature, superseded Sanford's annexation of the parcel by ordinance.

Sanford has indicated it may go to court over the issue, unless Lake Mary voluntarily gives up the property.

Also included on the agenda for tonight's 7:30 council meeting are:

- Second reading of an amended budget to indicate the increase in the general operating budget to $238,000 from $187,000.
- Second reading of an ordinance amending the criminal code.
- Second reading of an ordinance giving Council authority to condemn buildings.
- The county's proposal to pay for the costs of a county-wide drainage study.
- A request for an ordinance on bid procedures.

Brown Sweeps Top Seminole Sport Awards

By TOM KEYSER
Herald Sports Editor

Seminole High School said good-bye to a coach, and the coach answered the farewell with a wish for the future.

After an unscheduled presentation Tuesday of a plaque to outgoing football coach Claude Woodruff at the SIS 18th annual All-Sports Banquet, Woodruff said, "God speed ahead."

Earlier, during presentation of the football awards after Woodruff received the largest ovation of the night, he said, "If you take this ball club and keep teaching them right from wrong, this club is going to do something."

"The problem in the past hasn't been the size of the kid, it's been the attitude of the kid. These kids have the right attitude."

"They're different from the kids you've had in the past."

Seminole High School was plagued with racial and discipline problems in past years. But the attitude of the sports-banquet, which was held at the Sanford Civic Center, was all-problems behind and full-speed ahead.

More than 40 awards were presented, and Randy Brown received the two most prestigious.

Brown, who lettered in two sports and has a 3.3 academic average, was presented the Terry Cordell Memorial Trophy and the Whitey McClucas Trophy.

The Terry Cordell Memorial Trophy was awarded in honor of Terry Cordell, who was a leader of the SIS graduating class of 1953 and later became the 16th American to die in Vietnam.

"He was true All-American, all-Seminole County and all-SIS," said 1963 Seminole graduate Robert Morris. "He was a supporter of everything the school had."

Cordell then attended the Citadel and was one of the first American military advisers sent to Vietnam.

"He became the 14th to give his life for what he considered the cause of freedom. He has his life for this country, a belief and an ideal."

Moments later, Seminole High School Principal Don Reynolds presented what he said was "the greatest honor any kid can receive in high school" — the Whitey McClucas Trophy, which is symbolic of Seminole High School's most outstanding athlete.

No sooner had Brown settled in his seat after receiving the Terry Cordell Memorial Trophy, he was on his feet again to receive the Whitey McClucas Trophy.

More than 40 awards were presented in 12 sports and cheerleading. The cheerleaders' awards overflowed with sincerity and spirit.

Mark Whigham became the fourth brother to receive the Peter Schaal Award, which is the oldest most valuable player award in the country. It is awarded to the outstanding football player.

"The theme of the banquet was echoed by every coach and speaker.

Master of Ceremonies and Booster Club President Fred Good said the Booster Club goal is 2,000 members, advertising on the fence at the football stadium and paying off the stadium.

"We built a $200,000 or $250,000 stadium for $145,000 or $150,000," Good said. "And we can all be proud of that."

Peter Schaal passed out SIS bumper stickers to, among others, incoming football coach Jerry Posey.

Reynolds said, "My motto next year is to give up television and take up kids."

Finally, guest speaker Jim Deery, who spent 11 years in professional baseball, said, "What is it that makes these kids run another lap, shoot extra baskets, lift a little more weight, or swim that extra lap? We wonder."

"I want you parents to go home and think about that. Watch these kids, encourage them, help them anyway you can."

"Most of us have done our part, we've done our bit. Now it's up to the kids. There's no doubt we're turning it over to some pretty good hands."

Then the large crowd left the civic center and got the horns long dresses and cuffs of trowsers wet in the rain that had fallen during the banquet.

U.S. Team, Merrick Prepare For Meets

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Musclemen AI Hall says the visit to the People's Republic of China by a U.S. track and field team will be similar to the first trip behind the Soviet Union's Iron Curtain in 1958. "We don't know exactly what to expect," the 40-year-old hammer thrower from Manchester, N.H., said. "When we went to Russia we knew pretty well how strong they were because we had seen them in the 1952 and 1956 Olympics. But that was all we knew. "We didn't know how we would be treated... We thought we probably would be watched all the time and restricted in many ways. "We were greatly surprised. We found that we could roam as we pleased, hop on a subway or take a taxi. The people seemed interested in us and happy we were there. "I think the China trip will be the same. We don't look for anything negative. I think we will find surprises, and all the surprises will be on the positive side."

Hall is the elder statesman of the 64-member American squad—41 men and 23 women—who departed by air Monday for Hong Kong, traveling from there by train May 16 to the land of 900 million Chinese. They will compete against the Chinese in an Olympic type program in three cities — May 18-19 in Canton, May 23-24 in Shanghai and May 27-28 in Peking. It will be a friendly rivalry with no scores kept, but affording an exchange of techniques and ideas between athletes of the two countries. The U.S. team includes 11 former Olympians and 30 members who are current or past national titleholders. The 245 pound Hall and Willie White, 35, sprinter and long jumper, are the team veterans, both dating their Olympic experience back to the 1956 games in Melbourne, Australia. Don Merrick of Seminole Junior College, who is one of three sprinters on the team, will run the 100-meter dash and compete on the 400-meter relay team.

LA's Hooton Tosses Two-Hit Gem

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Even though the Chicago Cubs have the best winning percentage in the major leagues, Burt Hooton says he would rather be with the Los Angeles Dodgers. The rejuvenated Hooton, obtained by the Dodgers from the Cubs on May 2 after a dismal start this season, showed his gratitude toward his new club Tuesday night, allowing only two hits in pitching Los Angeles to a 5-0 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals. Hooton was ecstatic over his sparkling performance and the confidence the Dodgers have shown in him. "As soon as I got here (with the Dodgers), I had a reversal of attitude," he said. "Maybe the Cubs have a winning attitude now (they finished in last place in 1974, but now lead the National League East with a 9-9 record), and I admire what they're doing, but it just really didn't sink in with me. The thing is it's a whole new start." While Hooton was shaking the Cardinals, Jerry Reuss of the Pittsburgh Pirates and rookie Tom Underwood of the Philadelphia Phillies also were pitching shutouts. Reuss stopped the San Diego Padres 2-0 on three hits and Underwood handuffed the Cincinnati Reds 4-0 on six hits. Elsewhere in the National League, the Cubs edged the Houston Astros 2-1, the Atlanta Braves whipped the Montreal Expos 3-1, and the San Francisco Giants and New York Mets were rained out.

Ryan Slings Angels To Win Over Yanks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Nolan Ryan pitched nine innings, Jim Bibby pitched five and Ken Holtzman faced only one batter but all came away with victories Tuesday night. Ryan pitched six hitless innings and finished with his sixth career two-hitter in the California Angels' 3-0 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers. Bibby allowed singles to the first two batters and then knocked off the next 15 in the Texas Rangers' 5-0 triumph over the Milwaukee Brewers which was called in the fifth inning because of rain. Elsewhere in the American League, the Baltimore Orioles edged the Chicago White Sox 3-2, the Kansas City Royals ousted the Detroit Tigers 8-7 and the Cleveland Indians nipped the Minnesota Twins 3-2. Ryan flirted with a record-breaking fourth career no-hitter until Bobby Bonds broke the spell with a friendly single in the seventh, the Yankees' only clean hit. Ryan, who joined Oakland's Vida Blue and Don Sutton of Los Angeles as the only sevens game winners in the majors, struck out seven and walked five.

erley shut off a seventh-inning Minnesota rally and Cleveland capitalized on a unique bunt double to defeat the Twins. Jack Brobauer laid down a hard bunt past pitcher Vic Albury attempting to sacrifice in the third inning. Minnesota second baseman Rod Carew overran the bunt and Brobauer sprinted to second for a double with Charlie Spikes, who had walked, going to third. Frank Duffy doubled to give the Indians a 2-0 lead.

Unbeaten Steve Stone, with ninth-inning relief from Oscar Zamora, won his fifth game. The Cubs scored their first run in the third inning on a balk by Houston pitcher Doug Koenig, then broke a 1-1 tie in the eighth on Bill Madlock's single, a walk, a wild pitch by Koenig and a passed ball by Mill May. Braves 3, Astros 1

'Write To Read' A Great Idea

By JEAN PATTISON
Women's Editor

It started out as a good idea which two Sanford educators wanted to share with their fellow teachers. But in just two years it's grown into a time and energy consuming publishing business.

"Write To Read" is the good idea: Mrs. Charlotte Geyer and Mrs. Kate Nash (assisted by their husbands David and Finley) are the part-time publishers. Fulltime, Mrs. Geyer is Coordinator for Secondary Language Arts for the Seminole County School Administration. Mrs. Nash teaches Sanford Middle School students who have specific learning disabilities and is also a reading specialist.

Mrs. Geyer first got the idea for "Write To Read" a program designed to teach reading through use of the typewriter — when she was visiting Mrs. Nash's classroom. She noticed how much the children enjoyed using the typewriters lying at the back of the classroom. Mrs. Nash allowed the students to pick out letters and words on the machines, but had not developed any specific structured program using the typewriters.

The image of those absorbed little faces and childish fingers painstakingly but with pleasure, lapping away at the keys, remained with Mrs. Geyer for days after her visit to the remedial reading classroom.

The seed of her idea had been planted. Soon it began to germinate. Experimenting at home, she worked out a system of color-coding the fingers of each hand to correspond with the keys each finger should strike. She then color-coded words and sentences.

The rules are not that different from regular typing exercises, except each set of letters makes a word, and students are required to read the words before they type them," Mrs. Geyer explained. "It's important that nothing amucks of remedial reading. This way the older student develops a better self-concept if he feels he is engaged in the adult activity of typing. Also, the multi-sensory activities of touch, feel and sight involved in typing are good for students who have learning disabilities," Mrs. Geyer continued.

There is no pressure for speed or accuracy; students work at their own pace and are permitted to move onto a second exercise as soon as they are satisfied with their performance in the first.

Soon, her idea was being put into practice in Mrs. Nash's classes, and working so well, the women decided to publish their program.

They now became the students, learning something new about the printing and publishing business every day. Mrs. Geyer's son-in-law, an attorney by profession, ironed out the legalities of self-publishing for them, and her husband, David, a former draftsman, worked on their layouts. Mrs. Nash roped in her husband, Finley, at the distribution end of the small family business.

The result of their combined labors is a sturdy laminated book with self-contained easle so students can prop it up alongside their typewriters. "It was a matter of pride that the book be a quality product, although we could have produced it more cheaply by skipping the laminating and by printing on both sides of the pages," said Mrs. Geyer.

They contracted a Disney World artist to create a character as narrator of the book — they wanted a "cartoonish" boy who would appeal to children but be acceptable to adults as well, and they insisted upon a boy to avoid the concept that typing is "girls' work."

So "Will Work" — with his impish freckles and winning grin — shows the students with a minimum of words how to use a typewriter and how to make them read words and later, sentences.

"Basically, the system is for children with reading problems," Mrs. Nash explained. "However, advanced students and even adults are using it."

"I have students in my class were totally unmotivated before we tried this system. They'd been turned off to reading for two or three years, but suddenly they were excited about it."

"It's a great behavior modifier and has good carry-over into other areas, even into athletics, because it develops eye-hand coordination and also gives students practice following directions. Even after a whole year of Write To Read, they're not bored with it."

The women have also developed a set of "vowel they have plans for expanding the system further.

The "Write To Read" method improve reading skills without manual instructions for reading Florida and in 10 other states since its publication late last summer. It also has a place in the George Washington University reading laboratory and Mrs. Geyer learned recently a graduate is eager to do his doctoral dissertation on her "good idea."

Banker Judges Chicken Cook-Out

What does a banker know about cooking chicken? Well, in the case of Dorothy Williamson, marketing manager for the Sanford Atlantic National Bank, she knows a good deal.

For Dorothy majored in home economics at Florida State University and taught the subject in a Brevard County High School for three years and then as a home service representative for Florida Power and Light Co in the Sanford area before she joined the bank in March last year.

Dorothy Williamson — banker and home economist.

So when it came to finding qualified judges for the Florida Chicken Cooking Contest, to be staged in the Winter Park Mall May 21 and 22, Dorothy was an obvious choice.

Other judges include William R. Buret, owner of Maison et Jardin Restaurant; Anne Hagg of Tupperware; Linda Loman, Orange County Extension Home Economist; Anne Maynard of Florida Power Corp., and several radio and television personalities and newspaper food editors.

The 10 Florida residents competing for a shot at the National Chicken Cooking Contest in San Antonio, Tex. on July 9 are: Gloria Bruckart, Palms Harbor; Beverly Crumney, Miami; Martha Hendley, Ocala; Janet Johnson, Ft. Lauderdale; Dot Jones, Orlando; Helen Mize, Lakeland; Dawn Mull, Jacksonville; Miriam Peetre, May 22.

Tallahassee; Rae Tedden, Kissimmee; and Catherine Selby of Christmas. The grand prizes at the national contest total $25,000. State finalists also win the all-expense paid trip to San Antonio, a $100 cash award, a trophy and a year's supply of co-sponsor products.

The recipes to be prepared by the ten contestants include: Oriental Oven Barbecue Chicken, Chicken Foster, Apple Pie Chicken, Artichoke Chicken Salad, Do's Kicky Chicken, Delicious Fried Chicken, Chicken Sticks, Super-Chicken, Florida Chicken and Zippy Sunday Salad.

The Florida Poultry Federation and the Florida Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services arranged the contest with the assistance of the National Broiler Council, the contest's sponsor, and the makers of Ac'cent flavor enhancer and Mazola corn oil.

Runaways Call Tollfree Number

DEAR ABBY: Because I read in your column about that tollfree number, which allows runaway kids to call to let their parents know they are O.K., I re-established contact with my parents, went home and had the most wonderful Easter in my life. (I'm a 17-year-old boy who dropped out of school and hit the road 15 months ago.)

Will you please run that item again, Abby?

DEAR LUCKY: With pleasure: Runaways, dial 1-800-231-6946. An operator will telephone your parents anywhere in the U.S. and convey a message from you. ("I'm alive, don't worry about me" is typical.)

There will be no lecturing or counseling. Your call will not be traced, and the only question asked of you will be: "Do you need anything?" If you do, you'll be told where you can obtain it for free. No attempt will be made to bring you home, regardless of your age.

Runaways, please forget the past and call that tollfree number now. Let somebody know that you are alive. You will sleep better tonight, and so will they.

P.S. This wonderful program originated in Texas and has been adopted by 37 states! It's staffed by volunteers, including some grateful runaways who have come home.

DEAR ABBY: If you had a choice, would you rather have your kids hooked on drugs or alcohol? Please be honest.

BERKELEY SOPH DEAR SOPH: If I had a choice, I'd rather have them hooked on nothing! Why assume kids have to be hooked on SOMETHING?

He is otherwise normal. Do you think I have a problem? WONDERING DEAR WONDERING: Yes. But the problem is with you, not him. Needlepointing is wonderfully relaxing. It calms the nerves, occupies restless hands, beats smoking and gives one a sense of real accomplishment. And neither sex has a monopoly on that!

By CECILY BROWNSTONE

Associated Press Food Editor
A Long Island, N. Y., cook has been making a delicious spiced noodle pudding for, as she says, "more years than I like to remember." When she puts it together she often varies the spicing and she never measures. Sometimes she adds cinnamon and nutmeg; sometimes just allspice; other times she uses apple-pie or pumpkin-pie spice. Nevertheless the following recipe for her pudding calls for cinnamon and nutmeg in exact amounts. That's because her daughter, determined to capture Mom's famous recipe and pass it along to me, stood beside her and measured the spices with standard measuring spoons before her mother dumped them into the pudding she was making.

This spiced noodle pudding, from Jewish cuisine, was a big hit when it was tried in my test kitchen. The contributor of the recipe tells me that in orthodox Jewish families it might be served, after a hearty vegetable soup or salad, at a "dairy" lunch or Sunday night supper; but that Jewish families who do not observe orthodox dietary rules (they forbid eating dairy foods and meat at the same meal) might serve the pudding with sliced cold turkey and a salad. After hearing that I served it with roast chicken (uncooked and hot), a cooked green vegetable and a salad; I skipped offering dessert because the pudding is sweet and has apple in it. If you try this interesting recipe, you may want to use one of these menu suggestions.

RIBO'S SPICED NOODLE PUDDING
4 eggs
16 ounces creamed cottage cheese
1 cup commercial sour cream
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
3 teaspoons cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract
2 cups diced pared apple
1 cup raisins
8 ounces medium-wide egg noodles, slightly undercooked and drained
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1/2 cup cornflake crumbs
1/2 cup silvared blanched almonds
Extra commercial sour cream
In a large mixing bowl beat eggs lightly; add cottage cheese, sour cream, sugar, salt, cinnamon, nutmeg and vanilla; beat gently — just until ingredients are evenly distributed. Add apples, raisins and noodles; stir together well. Pour into a buttered shallow baking dish (about 12 by 8 by 2 inches). In a small skillet or saucepan, melt butter; off heat, stir in crumbs and almonds; sprinkle over noodle mixture. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until topping is golden — about 35 to 40 minutes. Let stand at room temperature for at least 10 minutes before serving; or let stand longer but serve while still quite warm. (Texture will look curdly when pudding is taken out of oven, but pay no attention to this; it will not affect the eating quality; texture will look less curdly after pudding stands a short while.) Pass extra sour cream as a topping — a pint may not be too much for this amount of pudding. Makes 8 to 12 servings.

Note: If the pudding is made ahead or any is leftover, refrigerate it; before serving, cut it into neat portions and place on a heatproof platter or a foil-lined cookie sheet and reheat briefly in a hot oven just until warm — a matter of minutes. In this case the donor of this recipe likes to dot the tips of the portions with butter before reheating, but this is not strictly necessary.

A gifted young woman we know, a brilliant cook, grew up on the south Caribbean island of Curacao. Recently she suggested that American party platters of sliced cold chicken or turkey could benefit on occasion from being served with Caribbean Peanut Butter Sauce rather than with our ever-present cranberry sauce. We tried her suggestion on our niece and her husband and their 18-year-old daughter and 14-year-old son and all four were so enthusiastic about it we have no hesitation in passing it along. If you are planning a simple buffet supper, this may be just the addition you need to keep a cold bird from being dull.

CARIBBEAN PEANUT BUTTER SAUCE
1 cup peanut oil
1 large onion, chopped (1 cup)
Small clove garlic, minced
1 teaspoon sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon ginger
1/2 teaspoon crushed dried red pepper
2 tablespoons soy sauce
4 cup creamy peanut butter
2 chicken bouillon cubes dissolved in 2 cups boiling water
1 tablespoon cornstarch blended with 1/4 cup cold water

In a 2-quart saucepan heat oil; add onion and cook over moderate heat, stirring often, until golden. Add garlic, sugar, salt, ginger, red pepper and soy sauce; cook, stirring, about 2 minutes. Stir in peanut butter, then gradually the bouillon. Turn into an electric blender and whirl to puree — about 1 minute; return to saucepan. Stir in cornstarch mixture; stirring constantly, cook over moderate heat until thickened and boiling. Serve warm or at room temperature as a topping for sliced cold chicken or turkey; delicious too, as a dip for cooked whole snap beans. Store any sauce leftover in refrigerator. May be reheated.

A Special Occasion Calls For A Special Dessert

Corn scramble makes a thrifty meal.

Don't Overcook

Leftover Corn A Thrifty Meal

Fresh fruits and vegetables in season are one of the best buys in the supermarket today. Now is the time when fresh golden corn is in excellent supply. There are a few things to know about fresh corn to get it at its best. One is how to determine the best quality and the other is how to cook corn when you get it home. These two things can make a day and night difference in your enjoyment of fresh corn.

The United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association has good uses for buying corn. In good quality corn, the husk, or outer part, is a fresh green color while the kernels are tender, milky and well filled. They should be plump yet yielding when slight pressure is applied. Corn ears generally should be filled to the tip, with no rows of missing kernels. If you see cobs with kernels that are very soft and very small, you can be quite sure that the corn is too immature.

Corn Scramble

Having applied these tests to fresh corn at market and found the best, the next thing is to cook it well. Many people overcook corn by as much as ten minutes. Corn should be cooked only until the milk in the kernels is set. It takes as little as three to six minutes. If you're lucky, you'll have some ears of corn leftover for the next day. An excellent way to use them is to cut the kernels from the cob and include them in an old-fashioned Corn Scramble made with eggs. It makes a fine, thrifty meal in these high-priced times.

Fresh Corn On The Cob

Fresh corn requires very little cooking, and it is very important to cook it only until the milk in the kernels is set. Most vegetables become softer with longer cooking but corn does not; it becomes firmer or tough when overcooked. Cook only one ear of corn per person at a time. Half fill a large kettle with water, add one teaspoon salt per quart of water, and bring to a boil. Add corn and boil, covered, just until milk in kernels is set, three to six minutes. Remove ears with tongs and serve immediately with butter or favorite sauce. Then begin to cook second batch.

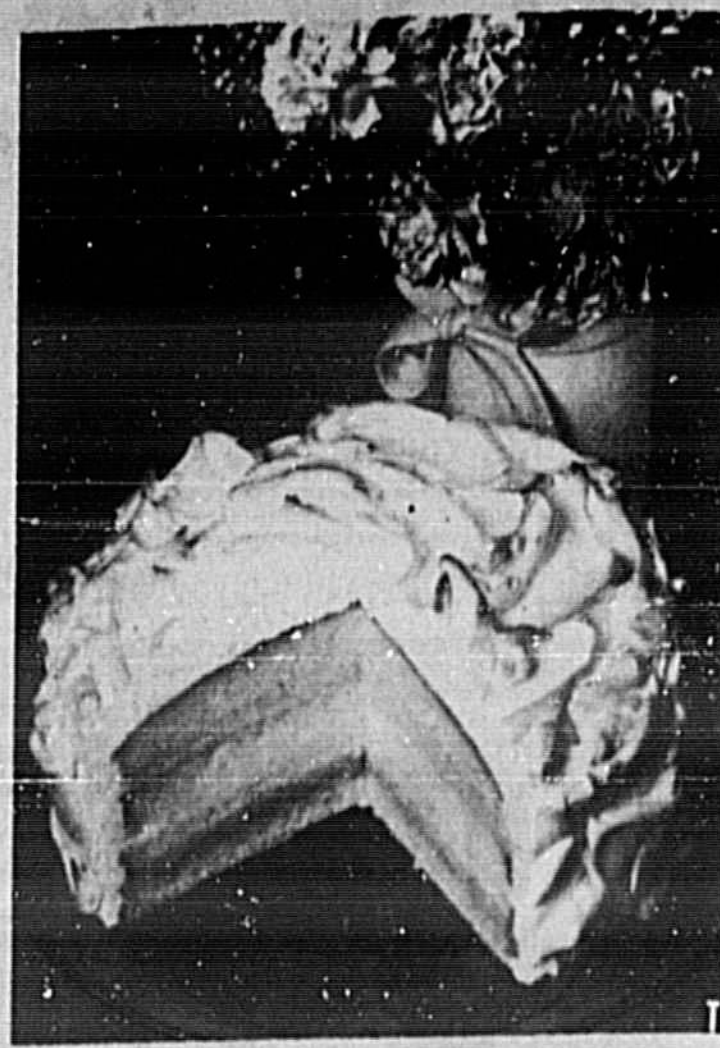

A special occasion calls for a special dessert. Party Pastel Baked Alaska is a new version of the dessert favorite. The day before the party, make the lemon-scented cake using pound cake mix. Fill with a trio of sherbets in pastel hues and frost with meringue. Pop into the freezer. All that's left to do is to brown lightly just before serving. Enjoy!

- Party Pastel Baked Alaska
- 1 (11-ounce) package pound cake mix
  - 1 cup milk
  - 4 eggs, separated
  - 1 tablespoon grated lemon rind
  - 1 teaspoon baking powder
  - 1 cup raspberry sherbet
  - 1 cup orange sherbet
  - 1 cup lime sherbet
  - 1 cup granulated sugar

Grease an 8-inch springform pan; then line bottom with wax paper. Prepare pound cake mix according to package directions, using 1 cup milk and 4 egg yolks in place of eggs and adding lemon rind and baking powder with egg yolks. Pour into prepared pan. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (350 degree F.) about 55 minutes, or until done. Cool in pan 10 minutes; then invert on rack; peel off wax paper; cool completely. Cut horizontally into 4 layers. Spread one layer with raspberry sherbet, one with orange sherbet and one with lime sherbet; place in freezer to firm up; then stack, top with fourth layer. Keep in freezer while preparing meringue. Beat egg whites until soft peaks form; gradually add

Newer Barbecues Can End Disasters

The word "barbecue" is derived from the Spanish or Haitian word "barbacoa" meaning "framework of sticks." This framework, was used for the roasting of a whole animal on an open fire. Fortunately, barbecues have come a long way since the first makeshift stick structures. Newer versions are available in gas or electric models, portable or permanent. Since the temperature is controlled by the cook, the guesswork required with charcoal cooking is eliminated. And when someone is not thoroughly familiar with the cooking process, this infinite temperature control is a blessing that can save many a meal from disaster.
