Sanford Firm Disputes Charges Of Misleading Ads

By Charles Cobb
Herald Staff Writer

Sanford-based Rush-Hampton Industries, Inc. has strongly denied allegations by the Federal Trade Commission that the company uses "false and misleading" advertising to promote its Ecologizer indoor air cleaner.

In a complaint filed Wednesday, the FTC charged that the manufacturer has "been falsely advertising that the device gets rid of such indoor air pollution as formaldehyde gas, tobacco smoke, dust and pollen."

Rush-Hampton executives responded the same day announcing at a press conference that the charges are the result of zealots on the FTC staff who are out to reverse the pro-business stance of the FTC management and the Reagan administration.

Thursday, an FTC spokesperson told the Evening Herald the entire five-member FTC board of commissioners voted in favor of issuing the complaint against Rush-Hampton. Only two of the members were appointed by the Reagan administration said Judith Wilkenfeld, a staff attorney with the FTC in Washington, D.C.

Rush-Hampton, which employs 400 persons at its Sanford facility, markets the household indoor air cleaner, which it calls the CA/90 Series 2000 Ecologizer, for a retail price of "under $15," according to Charles R. Evans, executive vice president of the firm. Nearly six million of the devices have been sold worldwide since 1975.

Mrs. Wilkenfeld said the FTC staff's year-and-a-half investigation of Rush-Hampton was "fair, impartial and conducted with thoroughness and caution."

The FTC complaint said one Rush-Hampton print ad claimed that with the Ecologizer "in a closed 18-foot by 14-foot room, the air will be completely recirculated, filtered and freshened every 33 minutes."

The FTC charged the device does not eliminate formaldehyde, gas, tobacco smoke, pollen and dust from household air.

The complaint said "tests by both the company (Rush-Hampton) and an independent laboratory show the appliance at best can remove no more than five percent of formaldehyde gas and cannot eliminate pollen or dust from indoor air."

The FTC also said "independent tests determined the Ecologizer can remove at best only 15 percent of tobacco smoke from indoor air."

And the FTC charged none of the tests uphold Rush-Hampton's air recirculation claim.

Charles R. Evans, Rush-Hampton executive vice president, said the company is "pleased to see the

Hot Sweltering Livestock In Peril

The persistent hot weather and high humidity which has plagued Seminole County for the past week has struck a stunning blow at a local dairy farmer and at beef and egg production farms.

The heat, described by the owner of the largest egg production farm in Seminole, Feathers Nest of Geneva, "as the worst five or six days in a long time," has left in its wake, a drop of 20 percent in milk production in the county and "at least" a 10 percent reduction in egg production.

And it's going to get worse unless a break in the heat is seen.

If the hot weather continues without abatement, dairy and beef producers as well as egg producers look for their animals to get sick and die.

Mrs. Betty Schlusemeyer, who owns and operates Feathers Nest, a farm of 60,000 chickens, about 30 percent of the commercial egg producers in the county, said production is off at least 10 percent and the mortality rate of the chickens has doubled in the past week.

"The prolonged heat is more than they can take," she said.

Mrs. Schlusemeyer, who also has extensive herds of beef cattle, said the cows are really suffering from the heat.

She said earlier in the week, she and a crew tried to bring in one herd of 400 cows and calves grazing over acreage on her property but after working 18 hours doing what could normally be done in four hours, they quit.

"It's too hot for anything or anybody," she said, adding the effort was to gather the cows and calves for market.

"If a cow is any part hereford or English, it can't take the prolonged heat," she said. Of the roundup, she said the "poor horses would only work 10 minutes at a time and the dogs couldn't stand it either."

"I found myself going back to the house to get into the air-conditioning. We finally cancelled the work for another time," Mrs. Schlusemeyer said.

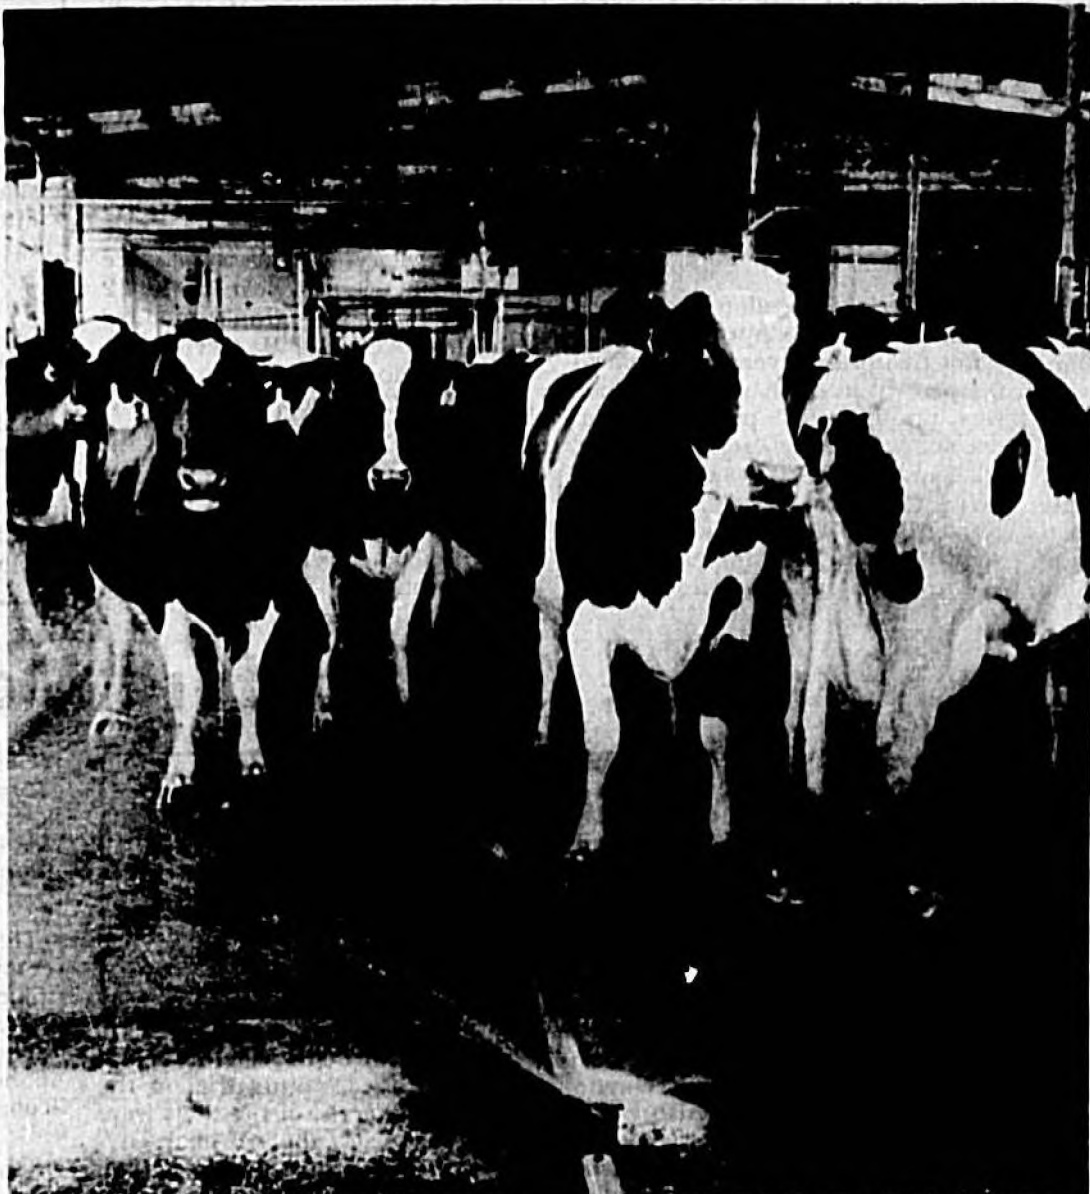

Joe B. Baker of Sanford, the only dairy farmer in the county, said milk production at his farm is off by 20 percent over the past week.

"The heat and humidity is what does it. We need it to cool off and we need the humidity to drop," Baker said, adding dairy cows don't like it when the temperature gets into the 90's.

He said the prolonged heat causes stress on the cows. "They lay out in the fields panting. They don't eat right and it affects the milk production," he said.

When dairy cows don't eat right and are under stress from the heat, Baker said they develop colds, general infections, foot rot and other common cow illnesses.

When the cows are taken into the barns in the early evening, they are cooled off

Dairy cows suffering from the prolonged heat wave get a cooling from sprinklers at the Joe B. Baker farm in Sanford. The under shower serves the other purpose of cleaning the animals before milking. Baker has seen a 20 percent drop in milk production over the past week because of the heat.

through a method of running water under them and sprinkling water on top of them. "We run a sprinkler in the barn," Baker said.

Explaining that the average dairy cow weigh 1,300 pounds, drink about 15 gallons of water a day and eat about 50 pounds of feed, Baker said during the heat wave the cows' water consumption has gone up drastically.

With temperatures in the 90's, the cows each are drinking about 30 gallons of water per day, he said.

Mrs. Schlusemeyer said with her herds of cattle spread out over acreage, it is too difficult to drive them to the river for water to cool off.

The hot weather very definitely has an effect on farm animals, said Frank Jasa, county agricultural agent.

"It affects the yield and amount of milk dairy cows produce. It's difficult to get a high butter fat content during very hot weather and most dairy farmers provide extra shade for their cattle," Jasa said.

"With beef cattle it is much harder anytime it is this hot. They don't graze as well. They hide out in the shade and the rancher is hit with higher production costs."

Of the county's dairy industry, Jasa said Joe Baker "is it."

"He closed down for about a year and then went back into the business on a smaller scale."

Jasa said the main animals that suffer problems during extremely hot weather are poultry. Even though the chickens are in open buildings, when the temperature is high outside, it is higher in the buildings and the poultry suffer from stress.

"There is also the situation that if you have two days of hot weather, maybe the birds are all right, but after a third day, each additional day makes it worse."

Jasa said there are currently four big egg production farms in the county and a fifth farm that raises pullets to young birds to replace older layers. He estimated there are about 200,000 laying chickens in Seminole.

Mrs. Schlusemeyer says chickens stop eating during a prolonged heat wave and egg production drops off.

She said egg production at her farm is off by nine to 10 cases (there are 260 eggs to a case) per day.

"Chickens are pretty hardy. They either produce or die," said Mrs. Schlusemeyer, who has been in the egg business for 20 years. She started out with the old Ralston Purina Co.

"What we want and need is cooler weather and lower humidity," Mrs. Schlusemeyer said and Baker agreed. "Both must come down." —Donna Estes

Budget Breaks A Million

Lake Mary Gives First Nod To Tax Hike

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

The Lake Mary City Commission tentatively approved a tax rate for the 1983-84 fiscal year of $4.76 per $1,000 assessed valuation, up 61 cents per $1,000, an increase of 14.7 percent.

But, City Treasurer Madeleine Minns and Mayor Walter Sorenson emphasized that while the proposed tax rate must be set at this time, it may not be the one ultimately approved by the city commission.

Mrs. Minns and Sorenson said the rate, tentatively approved at this time can be reduced after budget workshops and public hearings slated for September, but cannot be increased.

Public hearings are scheduled for Sept. 15 and 29 and workshops are scheduled for July 28 and Aug. 11. All four meetings will be held at 7:30 p.m.

In the proposed budget to the commission, Mrs. Minns and Sorenson said that while the city levied a tax rate of $4.15 cents per $1,000 during the current year, County Property Appraiser Bill Suber estimates the city would have to levy a rate of $4.41 in the new year to bring in the same amount of property tax revenue in the new year beginning Oct. 1 without taking into account new constructions.

Which new construction is included, if the city levied the same rate as the current year, $4.15, it would receive about $14,501 more from property taxes in the new year.

At a $4.41 rate, the city would receive $34,751 more and at the $4.76 rate, it will receive $62,561 more from property taxes.

Property tax income to the city in the new year, under the $4.76 rate, will rise from $313,000 to $375,561.

The overall budget, as proposed by the mayor and treasurer, is up by $159,231, from $867,689 to $1,026,920, an increase of 15.5 percent.

General fund expenditures are rising by $93,218, or 13.7 percent, from $678,972 to $772,190.

Meanwhile, expenditures and revenues in the utility department are slated to rise $72,550 or 41.3 percent from $175,565 to $248,115.

The proposed budget anticipates building permit fees will quintuple with new growth and uses the same growth factor of five in increased electrical and plumbing permit fees. A 12 percent increase in traffic fines is anticipated from $40,000 to $45,000 in the new year.

Despite the expected growth, however, no increase in revenues is shown from electric power franchise fees at $75,000, nor in the cable television franchise fees at $4,500.

The budget includes some $24,000 in raises for city employees, but the raises will be selective and not "across the board" for all employees. Also included is a $12,000 payment on a new 1,250 gallon per minute pumper for the fire department, a contingency of $20,000 in the central services account and a new patrol car for the police department.

Windfall Sends UCF After Students

The University of Central Florida is looking for students.

The school received an unexpected $2.1 million in state funds this year which will allow for a 1,600 boost in enrollment this fall. The state lifted UCF's 11,000 enrollment cap when additional funds became available.

Prospective students are urged to submit applications for enrollment as soon as possible, according to UCF Admissions Director John Bush.

Bush said UCF will not lower its requirements in order to find the additional students.

In order to be eligible for consideration, a student who is entering college for the first time must have a 2.6 grade point average for all classes since ninth grade and have scored a 900 on the SAT test or a 21 on the ACT test.

Transfer students with less than 60 semester hours must have a 2.6 average and meet other freshman entrance requirements. A junior or senior transfer must have an overall 2.0 average with a 2.0 minimum at the most recent school attended.

Additional information can be obtained from the UCF Admissions Office.

Prices Up A Smidgen

Consumer prices in June rose a minute 0.2 percent, held in check in large part by falling food and fuel costs. If the pattern continues, the inflation rate for the year will be only 2.9 percent. See story on page 2A.

Give El Salvador Money, McCollum Says

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

Last of two parts

The country of El Salvador needs money, seeds, fertilizer, munitions, helicopters.

"They don't want or need our military."

"They do need enough money and resources to pay and equip their own soldiers, all volunteers, from 17 to 25 years old. The Salvadoran government needs to be able to give their volunteer army, uniforms, food and pay of $25 to $30 per month.

"They've got more volunteers than they can take," U.S. Rep. Bill McCollum, R-Altamonte Springs, reported after he returned to Florida and then went on to Washington after a 2½ day intensive tour of El Salvador early this week.

The congressman's opinion is that the military government of the Central American nation of El Salvador can win its battles with an estimated 5,000 to 6,000 rebels who have been attacking in hit and run fashion around the country which is about the size of the U.S. state of Massachusetts.

By mid-week, McCollum was preparing a formal report to President Reagan on what he had seen and learned during his tour and what his recommendations are.

El Salvador needs money as quickly as possible, McCollum said, noting there is no money flowing into the country now.

"American banks don't want to put money down there."

President Reagan has asked for $50 million and $110 million for aid to El Salvador.

"When one looks at some of the other places where the federal government puts money, I think the problem in El Salvador would be solved with this money. The embassy there also believes this. I feel this can be done," McCollum said.

"However, if the debate continues going in Congress, the matter can only get worse and the opportunity we have now will evaporate," the congressman said.

Turning his attention to the displaced farmers from the farm areas of the country who are in in displaced persons' camps and desire only to go back to their farms to work, McCollum said the loans would not only provide funds for the military, but also for economic development, management expertise, seeds, fertilizers.

Currently their major crops are coffee, sugar and cotton, but the farms and farmers are capable of raising all kinds of things, McCollum said.

"The bottom line is the need to get the farmers back to the farms and the need to supply sufficient resources to do that," he said.

There are about 36,000 men in uniform in El Salvador, McCollum said and about 22,000 of them are in the armed services. The military, he said needs about 60,000 total, and could probably can use about 30,000 more in combat roles.

McCollum said the rule of thumb, according to military experts, is that a government needs about 10 military persons for each guerilla soldier.

Rep. Bill McCollum

'They don't want or need our military.'

The congressman said Gen. Vides-Casanova, El Salvador's defense minister told him there are about 50 key bridges in the country and about 200 power transmission towers. El Salvador is a producer of hydroelectric power,

But the Salvadoran army does not have the strength now to guard all the transmission towers.

"If I decided to place two of my men on eight hour shifts at every key target, I would use up to 60 percent of my Army," McCollum said Gen. Vides-Casanova told him.

"El Salvador can equip and train 15 of their own countrymen for what it costs us in the United States to train and equip one Marine," McCollum said.

The congressman who represents all of Seminole County and parts of Orange and Lake counties said from information he gained on his fact finding tour, the people do not support the rebels.

"The rebels get their food from Nicaragua and by coercing it out of the locals. The farmers don't like those guys, who tell them, 'We're going to shoot you if stay on the farm,'" McCollum said.

McCollum said the El Salvador government must clear out an area and take the rebels' supply lines. "The rebels hit and run and make propaganda. They sabotage hydroelectric plants and raise hell."

"El Salvador's armed forces has to be large enough to be everywhere and sufficient in size so they won't be worked out and so that their troops won't be killed by ambush."

And the only place they can look to for financial assistance is the United States, the congressman said.

Savaging The President

Militant feminists have given notice that they will go to any length to remove President Reagan from the White House. The recent savaging of Mr. Reagan by members of the National Women's Political Caucus was only the latest vindictive outburst against him.

The campaign began moving a few weeks ago when Judy Goldsmith, president of the National Organization for Women, described Mr. Reagan as a "disaster for women." She shrilly asserted that he wants to send women back to the 19th century and pledged NOW to unseat him.

Not to be outdone by the hyperbole of a sister extremist, Kathy Wilson, NWPC chairwoman, declared that Mr. Reagan is "dangerous" to women. Wilson, who calls herself a Republican, asserted that the president is not even qualified to seek the GOP nomination for a second term.

What has Ronald Reagan done to deserve this abuse? In the eyes of the extreme feminists, his major sins are his opposition to the Equal Rights Amendment and abortion-on-demand.

But well-meaning persons of both sexes are unable to agree on ERA and abortion. There is no overwhelming national consensus of these issues and intelligent arguments abound on both sides. How Mr. Reagan's stand makes him "dangerous" to women defies logic.

In both word and deed, the president hardly has behaved like a man who would relegate women to second-class citizenship. He has appointed the first female justice of the U.S. Supreme Court. He has named women to three Cabinet level positions. And he has a consistent record of strongly supporting equal economic opportunity.

Although voter surveys have found that fewer women than men support Mr. Reagan, the pollsters do not attribute the "gender gap" to ERA or abortion. Instead, the pollsters have found that women are more concerned about Mr. Reagan's economic and national security policies.

As the primary beneficiaries of programs such as food stamps and Aid to Families with Dependent Children, women unquestionably have felt the federal assistance cutbacks that have been required to curb inflation and bring federal spending under control. But much of the female antipathy to Mr. Reagan should dissipate as women partake of the benefits of the advancing economic recovery.

Moreover, as the national security debate continues, more women as well as men ought to recognize that the United States requires a strong defense to deter aggression and ensure peace.

Unfortunately, the militant feminists' hysterical focus on the divisive social issues of ERA and abortion detracts attention from the economy and defense. Ironically, only a secure nation with a healthy economy can produce a climate in which equal rights for both sexes can flourish.

Even if Mr. Reagan were to endorse ERA and abortion-on-demand, it is unlikely that the feminist extremists would drop their bitter campaign against him. There is sufficient evidence to conclude that they would oppose a conservative of either sex regardless of the candidate's positions on feminist issues.

Although NWPC has never before endorsed a presidential candidate, Kathy Wilson revealed that her organization will endorse a Democrat if Mr. Reagan seeks a second term. Indeed, the enthusiastic reception given five Democratic presidential candidates recently by NWPC was more akin to a Democratic love-feast than a convention of a supposedly non-partisan organization.

The militant feminists arrogantly claim to speak for American women. But this is belied by the fact that Mr. Reagan had opposed the ERA and abortion in 1980 when he received nearly half of the female vote in defeating an incumbent president. Current polls of women in general give him an approval rating of 40 percent or more. Some polls of women likely to vote give him an approval rating higher than 50 percent.

The militant leaders of NOW and the National Women's Political Caucus do a disservice to the feminist movement in their blatantly partisan and unfair attacks on President Reagan. The views of these extremists have been repudiated repeatedly at the polls. Fortunately, there are good reasons to believe that they will be repudiated again.

By Diane Petryk

In this age of one major 'gap' after another, one of the widest has proven to be the doctor-patient communication gap.

When it comes to prescription medicines, the gap becomes a gorge: Research has shown that patients take their medications improperly up to 50 percent of the time.

Sometimes this is because patients ask too few questions or are unaware of what questions to ask. But doctors share some of the blame by not taking the time to give the explanations necessary — in a manner that is clear and easily understood — or by being or seeming unapproachable for questioning.

Two surveys commissioned by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration have shown:

- Nearly 70 percent of consumers surveyed reported they were not told by their doctor about possible side effects of medication prescribed and precautions they should take.
- Only 2 to 4 percent reported asking questions about their prescriptions while in the physician's office.

- Doctors said they feel patients are satisfied with the information they have received.
- Pharmacists think patients should ask more questions. They report that consumers question them on about one out of every three prescriptions they fill.

Based on this information, the National Council on Patient Information and Education has undertaken a national campaign to encourage patients to ask more questions while in the doctor's office. Key among them, they advise, are:

- What is the name of the drug and what is it supposed to do?
- How and when do I take the drug — and for how long?
- What foods, drinks, other medications and activities should I avoid while taking the drug?
- Are there any side effects and what do I do if they occur?
- Is there any written information I can take with me?

If your doctor seems reluctant or too busy to answer these simple questions, persevere. You have a right to the answers.

Occasionally a doctor will act offended if you pose questions about prescribed medication or treatment. Such a reaction is a clue that it's time to switch doctors. A doctor who knows what he is doing will not be offended by questions. He knows it is in the patient's best interest to be well-informed. The "doctor knows best" pat-on-the-hand Dr. Welby approach isn't much better. It presupposes that the doctor is infallible and removes from the patient responsibility for his or her own life. Ideally, the physician should take time to give complete explanations with every prescribed medication or course of action. That is the doctors' responsibility; it is dangerous to let them abdicate it.

Conversely, it is the patients' responsibility to describe as completely and accurately as possible all observed symptoms and answer all medical questions as accurately as possible to assist in the diagnosis so the proper medication or treatment is prescribed.

The doctor-patient communication gap can be narrowed — with a little effort on both sides.

Obesity Is Fine — In Mice

By Patricia McCormack
UPI Health Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Diet books, health counselors and fashion proclaim that thin is in. But experiments with mice show fat seems to fight cancer.

Scientists in Pennsylvania injected lean and obese mice with skin cancer cells, and found the fat animals developed tumors more slowly than their skinnier counterparts.

The rotund mice also developed far fewer lung tumors, formed by offshoots of the skin cancer, than skinny ones.

Records from the Framingham, Mass., heart study show resistance to cancer sometimes shows up in obese humans as well, said Dr. John Kreider, who headed the Pennsylvania study.

Do not be misled, however. No one is advocating that you put on weight to reduce your chances of getting cancer.

"Despite the preliminary findings, I don't want people to think obesity is beneficial," Kreider said. "It shortens life."

Kreider and associates, reporting in the journal "Science," said one reason for the difference between mouse groups could be that the immune systems of obese mice respond more strongly against cancer cells.

Other factors could include hormonal and metabolic differences between the fat and lean mice.

Kreider said scientists in subsequent studies will try to define all the factors and figure out how they work.

The research was conducted at the Hershey Medical Center of the Pennsylvania State University and at Temple University in Philadelphia.

The pattern in humans as recorded in Framingham, one of the largest and longest heart studies, was as follows:

- Malignancies occur less often in obese men than in the general population. Data indicate death rates due to cancer decrease as body weight increases in men 40 to 69 years of age.

- Obese women show an increased incidence of breast cancer after menopause but the reverse is true for younger women.

- In both men and women, follow-ups of individuals who are initially free of disease indicates those who later develop malignancy weighed less at original screening than similar people who do not get cancer.

Obesity places a strain on the heart, lungs and blood vessels and along with other factors is believed to contribute to cardiovascular disease, including strokes and high blood pressure.

In the first of two experiments on mice, animals were given skin cancer cell injections at 10 to 11 months of age. In the second, mice got the injections at age 4 to 7 months. The obese had their genes tinkered with to make them plump.

France: Back To NATO 'Orientation'

As irritating as any Parisian waiters, French leaders tend to thumb their noses at the United States and NATO, from which France huffily withdrew in 1966. But behind the scenes, President Francois Mitterrand has been cooperating with NATO much more closely than any of his recent predecessors.

In fact, White House and Pentagon officials are clucking excitedly over what they already refer to as "France's return to NATO." That's certainly jumping the gun a bit, but there are strong indications that the French under Mitterrand are willing to shoulder a greater share of Western Europe's defense burden, and to discuss ways they can integrate with the NATO command.

There are even some who forecast the day not far away when many NATO documents will no longer have to be classified secret for fear the French would be offended to learn that their forces are taken for granted as part of

WILLIAM RUSHER

Reporters Out Of Hand

Reporters are born with the taint of Original Sin like the rest of us, but have traditionally been taught to repress or at any rate conceal their prejudices and report the news with as little bias as possible. This presents relatively few problems to a cub covering night court, but in the case of Washington political reporters it can result in severe attacks of the bends and squeezes. Plenty of them succumbed to the charm of John Kennedy, and pulled their punches to spare him; plenty of others grew to detest Richard Nixon, and devoted their best efforts to bringing about his downfall.

Add to this the truly formidable clout that national distribution and (above all) television have conferred on a handful of senior journalistic personalities, and you have all the makings of Trouble with a capital "T."

Meanwhile, over in another part of the forest, there has always existed a quite different sort of figure known as a "commentator." The model here is the late Walter Lippmann, who helped found The New Republic, then became a newspaper editorial writer, and wound up as a syndicated columnist in about 250 papers. Lippmann, who never covered so much as a strawberry festival in his life, enjoyed to the full his reputation as an adviser to presidents, and discreetly counseled several of them on proposed speech texts.

None of the tendencies thus far discussed got seriously out of hand until the mid-1960s, when the Washington media moved, more or less collectively, into political opposition to the series of presidents that began with Lyndon Johnson. Many of the principal political reporters in Washington — men and women who, up to that point, had at least maintained a pretense of objectivity — began lacing their copy so heavily with opinion that uneasy editors took to labeling it "analysis," rather than running it as straight news. (I never tire of recalling how one of the Washington Post's leading political "reporters" introduced himself to someone in my hearing: "Chalmers Roberts," he drawled, "against Nixon before Watergate.")

Eventually, some of these "reporters" cast their masks aside and began writing bylined political columns, a la Lippmann. Others moved into television and started sounding off there — in effect, as TV equivalents of the columnists in the print media. Many did both. Some, like Dave Broder and Robert Novak, still combine a considerable amount of old-fashioned reportage with their "opinion journalism." Others, like Anthony Lewis, lean more heavily on pure opinion.

But George Will — like Bill Buckley and, I might add, myself — was never a reporter at all. He became a political commentator in 1974 in response to a widely-felt need for specimens of that breed clearly to the right of anything that could be found hanging around the news rooms of The New York Times and The Washington Post, and he has no obligation to observe the quite unnecessary and thoroughly hollow pretensions to objectivity that still cling, like a bad cologne, to some of his colleagues. Perhaps all of us in the "commentator" category have sinned occasionally by performing reportorial functions (e.g. doing interviews), but if we have crossed the line it was first thoroughly blurred by "reporters" headed our way.

But I am bound to say that I think the condemnations currently raining down on poor Will for helping to coach Ronald Reagan for his 1980 debate with Jimmy Carter are thoroughly unjustified. His critics are confusing the roles of a reporter and a commentator — not surprisingly, considering how often these are mingled, and jumbled, in Washington today.

ANTHONY HARRIGAN Internees Shouldn't Be Paid

In wartime, governments of free nations are forced to take action that in peacetime would strike citizens as extra-constitutional. Such was the case with the removal of Japanese-Americans from their homes on the Pacific coast in the period immediately following the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor more than four decades ago.

Given the necessity, there is no reason why the United States should now compensate surviving internees, as the Commission on Wartime Relocation and Internment of Civilians has recommended. The commission, appointed by President Jimmy Carter, has called for $1.5 billion in compensation to surviving internees.

John J. McCloy, President Roosevelt's assistant Secretary of War, has rightly condemned the Commission report, saying that the recommendations "are contrary to the interests of many thousands of American citizens who suffered heavily from the war and who have never been adequately compensated for their sufferings and losses."

Indeed Mr. McCloy, who held high government posts under several administrations, said the commission itself should be investigated for "its character, the manner and conduct of its hearings, and the lobby which stimulated its proceedings." U.S. Rep. Dan Lungren of California, the only member of Congress on the commission, also was the only member to oppose compensation.

Going back into history to provide compensation is a practice that cannot be justified. Would the commission favor compensation for black Americans who suffered cruel injustice or the descendants of Southerners who were exposed to Gen. Sherman's form of total war? Clearly, such matters belong to history.

In any case, the Roosevelt administration's action was justified in the face of an unprecedented national crisis. As Mr. McCloy stated, the attack on Pearl Harbor "one of the most serious violations of international law in modern history, constituted full justification for Roosevelt's relocation order." It was approved by the U.S. Supreme Court and Earl Warren, then Governor of California and later the liberal Chief Justice of the United States.

Young Americans can't begin to understand the very real threat felt by Americans on Dec. 7, 1941. The Japanese struck American territory and destroyed much of the U.S. fleet. Later, they would seize the Aleutian Islands off Alaska. A Japanese submarine would shell a West Coast oil facility. There was very good reason to believe that the Imperial Japanese Navy would attack West Coast cities. Had the U.S. aircraft carriers been sunk in the Battle of Midway, such an attack undoubtedly would have taken place. The West Coast was dangerously exposed. The country couldn't afford a major security threat or the possibility of such a threat.

BERRY'S WORLD

"I think we can fix this one up in no time. Get me some chewing gum and baling wire."

Miss Rogers, B.A. Anonick Repeat Vows

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Anonick

Susan D. Rogers and Bruce Alan Anonick are announcing their marriage today. They were married May 28, at 10 a.m. at the Palmetto Avenue Baptist Church, Sanford. The Rev. Raymond Crocker performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Raymon Rogers, 2524 Narcissus Ave., Sanford. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Anonick, 978 Chippendale St., Deltona.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose for her vows a formal gown fashioned along the empire silhouette with a stand-up lace collar, ruffle-trimmed lace yoke and lace-trimmed full illusion sleeves. The full skirt softly cascaded into a chapel-length train. Her veil of illusion was secured to a headpiece enhanced with lace and seed pearls. She carried a formal cascade of orchids, miniature carnations, baby's breath and fern.

Joan Rogers attended her sister-in-law as matron of honor. She wore an apricot colored gown and carried a bouquet of peach roses with baby's breath and fern. Cathy Crocker was the bridesmaid. Her gown and flowers were identical to the honor attendant's.

James Paulus served the bridegroom as best man. Usher-groomsmen were John Lucas, Dave Lucas and Richard Sawicz.

A reception followed the ceremony in the church fellowship hall.

After a wedding trip to Daytona Beach Shores the newlyweds are making their home in Sanford while awaiting the completion of their home in Deltona. Both are employed by Ellis Bank of Northeast Florida.

Ornamental Shade Trees 'Show Off' In Summer

During the past couple weeks we have received several inquiries regarding the identification of trees or shrubs that appear to be "attention-getters." One of these that is currently putting on quite a show is the Peltohorum tree,

Frank J. Jaso

County Extension Director
323-2500
Ext. 182

more commonly known as a yellow poinciana.

Several specimens of this tree can be observed throughout the county, particularly in the Sanford area. It is a fine ornamental shade tree with a large graceful spreading canopy which is crowned with lovely yellow flowers during the summer.

These flowers are bright yellow and are in upright clusters a foot or more long. The flower clusters form at the tips of the branches, thus creating a mass of blooms above the foliage. The bloom is followed by broad flat pods, from 2 to 4 inches long.

The Peltohorum is a fast growing tree reaching a height of 30 to 40 feet. It prefers dry soils, but is quite adaptable.

It is a deciduous tree, meaning that it sheds its leaves during the winter. These leaves during the summer are fine, dark green and feathery. The shedding of leaves could be a drawback but is not nearly as messy as the golden raintree which is much more common.

This tree has no serious pests. It is, however, somewhat sensitive to cold and not available at most nurseries. Still, it is one of the most attractive trees suited to this area.

Another rather showy plant that is getting attention this summer has a tongue-twister name — Thryallis. This plant is one of our more cold-hardy, colorful low-growing shrubs. It deserves more consideration in our landscape than it now has. Maybe someone will come up with an easy common name for it and make it more popular.

The thryallis is a small shrub that may reach a height of 5 or 6 feet. The leaves are two inches in length and have a grayish-green color. During cold winters they will have a reddish cast. The flowers are yellow and about 3/4 of an inch across. They are produced in clusters from late spring through fall.

Thryallis prefers a well-drained soil and a sunny location for optimum growth. Because of its low height, thryallis is a very satisfactory plant for foundation use. It is also attractive in mass plantings or in combination with other low-growing plants. The plant does not produce dense growth, but may become a bit leggy instead. This can be corrected by pruning which is followed by rapid regrowth.

Few troublesome pests bother this plant. The common ones are nematodes and mites. Kelthane is one of the most effective materials for mite control.

Both the peltohorum and thryallis are very showy plants that should be considered in our Central Florida landscapes.

All Extension programs are open to all regardless of race, color, sex or national origin.

Church Youth Group Off To Beach Outing

The youth group of the Chuluota First Assembly of God church will be leaving bright and early Saturday for an outing to Cocoa Beach. According to the Youth Pastor, Sammy Rowling, the group plans to leave at 8:30 a.m. and everyone is to bring a sack lunch. Soft drinks and transportation will be provided for $3 per person.

For more information, call the church office, 365-3004.

Betty Lansford has been enjoying the visit of her two daughters, Rita O'Neal and Shirley Kinkade from Oklahoma this week. The girls brought Betty's grandchildren Ryan and Jennifer O'Neal and Clark Kinkade, too.

The family has been to Circus World, Florida Festival, Kennedy Space Center and even got to spend a few days at the "World's Most Famous Beach" — Daytona.

Betty is probably thinking it will be much too quiet when Rita returns to her husband, Lewie, in

Lou Childers

Pauls Valley, Okla., and when Shirley returns to Oklahoma City where she is the sales and banquet coordinator at the Holiday Inn.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Starkey Sr., have been "house sitting" while son and daughter-in-law Frank and Sheila are off to the mountains of North Carolina for a vacation. The Junior Starkeys and their daughters, Chrissy and Tina, enjoy all the outdoor activities including hiking, which they plan while in Carolina.

Happy, happy birthday to Dallas

Childers on Saturday, July 23.

Good news for lovers of gospel music. Two back-to-back concerts will be held in the near future at the Sanford Civic Center. The first is sponsored by the International Bible Institute & Seminary in Plymouth and will be held Saturday, July 30 beginning at 7:30 p.m. Featured will be The Christianaires from Orlando and Central Florida's own Sons of Song and two soloists, Dan Tyler and Olin Duckett. There will be no admission charge, but a free will offering will be taken.

The next weekend on Friday, Aug. 5 at 7:30 p.m., the stage will host B.J. (Johnson) Jenkins from Mississippi. The Messengers from the First Baptist Church of Oviedo, and the Sons of Song. Admission to this sing is $3 at the door, and group rates of 10 or more will be $2.50 in advance. You may pick up advance tickets at the Orangewood Feed and Tack in Oviedo, or call 365-3498 for further information.

Florida School Substance Abuse Studies Set

The second annual Florida School of Substance Abuse Studies is scheduled for Aug. 7-11. The school will be held at Rollins College, Winter Park. Information about registration may be obtained from Teddy M. Kemp, Director, RPM Systems, 6290 Beach Blvd., Jacksonville, 32216. Phone: (904) 725-6203.

This year's school will include an Occupational Programming Track. A comprehensive program has been planned for both the beginning professional and the "seasoned veteran."

Featured speakers will include James T. Wrich, Director of Employee Assistance Programming for United Airlines; Dr. Paul Roman, EAP researcher and author, Tulane University; and Don Godwin, Chief, Occupational Programs Branch, NIAAA.

Seminars will be conducted on every major component of an effective EAP: policies and procedure development, correcting performance problems, constructive confrontation, supervisory training, employee orientation, maximizing community resources, and program evaluation.

In addition, a number of seminars will focus on developing/improving basic knowledge and skills in occupational programming. Topics include: Organizational Assessment, Consulting techniques, "Labor's view of EAP," the evolution of Employee Assistance Programming, and a special plenary session on "EAP: facts and fiction."

Couples Can Benefit From 5 Marriage Tips

DEAR ABBY: After you published 10 tips for brides on how to have a successful marriage, a man requested 10 tips on how to be a good husband, and you accommodated him.

Dear Abby

A few years ago, I clipped the enclosed "Five Tips for a Happy Marriage" — author unknown. I hope you think they're worth sharing.

JULIE IN LONG BEACH

DEAR JULIE: I do. And here they are:

1. Look not for perfection in your mate. You will not find it and it's just as well. Living with a saint could be very tiresome.
2. Let your love be stronger than your hate or anger.
3. Learn the wisdom of compromise, for it is better to bend a little than to break.
4. Believe the best rather than the worst. People have a way of living up or down to your opinion of them.
5. Remember that true friendship is the basis of any lasting relationship. The person you choose to marry is deserving of the courtesies and kindnesses you bestow on your friends.

P.S. I am almost reluctant to ask the author to come forward. Lately when I have published an unsigned piece and asked the author to come forward, an alarming number of people have claimed authorship. This is baffling and discouraging. Whatever happened to integrity?

DEAR ABBY: It's surprising how few people know that infants cry during airplane take-offs and landings because they are in severe pain due to the change in air pressure.

Adults know enough to swallow to clear the passage of the eustachian tube, but infants do not. If mothers would encourage infants to nurse (or suck on something — even a finger), it would alleviate the pain. Some flight attendants suggest this to passengers when they board with infants. I wish all would.

CONCERNED M.D.

DEAR CONCERNED: Thanks for a helpful tip.

DEAR ABBY: My sister and I want to know if our brother is "James David Collins, the third." Our grandfather's name was James Edward Collins, and his grandfather was James Andrew Collins. Our father is Dennis James Collins.

Is our brother correct in thinking that he is a "third"? Or is our mother correct in thinking he is not? Abby, please spell out in your column when a man is a second and third. We are all in disagreement here.

PERPLEXED APLENTY

DEAR PERPLEXED: If John Charles Jones is named after his father, who is John Charles Jones, Jr., he would be John Charles Jones III.

A child named after his cousin, uncle or grandfather would be "the second." Again, the identical name must be used. Your mother is correct. Your brother is not "the third." Neither is he the first to be confused by this rule.

DEAR ABBY: Recently my parents, who live in another state, came for a visit, and I have been upset since they left.

I have two children, a daughter, 18, and a son, 13. Lately they have been playing little games with each other. They try to see who can give the other one the biggest hickey. They also wrestle each other on the bed quite a bit.

My mother was appalled and said I had better do something quick since this type of behavior is not normal between a brother and sister. I never thought a thing about it until my mother got so "appalled" and put those terrible thoughts in my head. I just thought it was a part of growing up, and, after all, this is a new generation.

Nevertheless I am now upset. Please give me your opinion. We both read your column.

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: Many brothers and sisters roughhouse in the spirit of playfulness during adolescence. But at 18, your daughter is a young woman, and as such she would be well-advised to skip the hickies and wrestling on the bed with her kid brother.

Every teen-ager should know the truth about drugs, sex and how to be happy. For Abby's booklet, send $2 and a long, stamped (37 cents), self-addressed envelope to: Abby, Teen Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.

Mays: I Came All The Way From Anchorage

NEW YORK (UPI) — Willie Mays has a question. Aren't there two sides to every story?

What about his side? His critics are throwing all sorts of rocks at him because they feel he behaved boorishly at RFK Stadium in Washington Monday when he arrived there for the Old Timers' Crackerjack Classic and was shocked to find out he wasn't in the starting lineup.

For stalking out in a huff the way he did, Mays, easily the most exciting player of his generation, is being portrayed as a spoiled, self-centered little boy who picked up his bat and ball and went home upon discovering they wouldn't let him play by his rules.

Willie tries to make it sound as if all the knocks on him don't matter. But they do. They hurt him. He gives that away himself by many of the things he says.

"I read in one paper where they said I was a crybaby," says the 52-year-old Hall of Famer, still so fondly remembered by many as the Giants' Say Hey Kid. "I'm not a crybaby. I never cried about anything in baseball. Did you see me cry because I had to come all the way from Alaska just to be there for this Old Timers' game? That's right, I came from Anchorage, Alaska. I could've gone straight home to San Francisco, but I said I'd be in Washington for the game and I kept my word. I didn't come all that way just to sit on the bench."

Mays has heard and seen much of the criticism of him that followed the powder he took in Washington.

"They say I'm too old to play baseball," he says. "I agree. I know I can't play it anymore. I'm not in condition to do all those things you have to do, but when the fans expect it of you, what do you do, just sit there and disappoint them? I know I'm heavier, I don't swing the bat like I used to and I don't have the rhythm. But I think people still want to see me play and as long as they do I'm gonna try."

The game in Washington was limited to five innings because many of the participants had some trouble playing even two, and it benefited the Association of Professional Ball Players of America, which helps ill and indigent former players.

"That's the only reason I came so far to play in the game," says Mays. "It's a very worthy cause."

He is one of the directors of the association. Last year, the first one the game was played, organizers of the contest advertised Mays would show up and he didn't. Nonetheless, they invited him again this year but said they didn't hear from him. That was why they didn't expect him.

Mays, however, insists they were notified he would appear by Billy Weinberger, his employer at Bally Park Place Hotel and Casino in Atlantic City.

"About a month ago, Mr. Weinberger called me and said he had just gotten a call and he thought I should go to the Old Timers' game in Washington," Mays says. "He said he thought it would be good for baseball and good for me. I said fine, I'd be there."

Mays also has a public relations job with the Ogden Corporation. His boss there, Bill Whitaker, asked him to go to Anchorage, Alaska, last week to help out with some work for the company in conjunction with Little League youngsters. Mays did that. He was in Anchorage three days from last Thursday through Saturday and then left to fulfill another PR assignment in Baltimore the night before the game in Washington. Joe DiMaggio and John Unlath also were on hand for that one.

The following day, Mays got to the ballpark just as the other players finished meeting with officials, who filled them in about some of the conditions under which the game would be played. There would be no stealing and frequent substitutions.

"They said I was late getting to park, but I don't think I was," Mays says. "I got to the clubhouse about 5:20 just as the players were coming out. I got into my uniform right away, then came out and took batting practice with the rest of the guys. I did all the interviews. I went all the way down the line on the field signing autographs. I felt I did a helluva lot before the game even started."

Mays did, but since he had not been present for the pre-game meeting and since those running the contest weren't sure he'd even be there, his name wasn't among the National League starters. Monte Irvin, his old roommate with the New York Giants, was listed to start in left field. Hank Aaron in center and Ralph Kiner in right.

During batting practice, Mays delighted the crowd of 31,160 by hitting a "home run" into the left field seats, which weren't much more than 260 feet or so away, and he drew perhaps the loudest ovation of the evening when he was introduced with all the other players before the five-inning game.

"I had to force myself to swing at the ball during batting practice," he says. "My body wasn't into anything. I just didn't feel right. It probably had to do with all the traveling I'd done without getting too much rest."

Altamonte Adds District Titles

Harris, Waxler Crash Homers As Seniors Rip Winter Garden

By Chris Flster
Herald Sports Writer

EUSTIS — Manufacturing runs was not a problem for the Altamonte Senior League All-Stars here Thursday night. The runs were being produced at an assembly line pace as Altamonte rolled over Winter Garden, 15-2, to claim the District 14 Senior League title.

Altamonte now advances to the sectional championship game this Monday at 4 p.m. in Inverness. Altamonte will play the winner of District 1 (Panhandle area). The winner of the sectional title goes on to the state tournament.

"I told the guys on the way up here tonight that the road to Inverness goes through Eustis," Altamonte manager Clayton Garrison said. "We were a little tight in the first inning, but we came back and hit the ball and really put it to them (Winter Garden)."

Neil Harris, pitching with three days rest, allowed only three hits in five innings to pick up the victory for Altamonte. Harris struck out eight and walked only one and helped his own cause by going 3 for 4 at the plate including a two-run homer and a double.

After a scoreless first inning, Altamonte came up with five runs on three hits in the bottom of the second off Winter Garden's Chris Baker. With one out, and Mark Coffey on first base, Harris ripped a double to left center to put runners on second and third. Andy Dunn then hit a hard grounder to the shortstop, Scott Moorman, but Harris flashed in front Moorman who lost sight of the ball long enough for it to get by him into left field, allowing both Coffey and Harris to score. Dunn then stole second and Mike "Pooh Bear" Pinckes drew a walk. One out later, T.J. Scaletta was hit by a pitch to load the bases. John Bane followed by drilling a two-run single to left center as Altamonte took a 4-0 lead. Altamonte made it 5-0 when Bass, the 10th hitter in the inning, walked with the bases loaded.

Winter Garden threatened for the first time in the top of the third, but came up empty. Earl Wilson drew a walk to lead off the inning and he went to second on Scott Cabrices' groundout. With two outs, Paul Daughy looped a single to right, the first hit off Harris, but Winter Garden was turned away when Wilson was gunned down at the plate by right fielder Chris Waxler.

After making the key defensive play in the top of the third, Waxler came back with some offensive fireworks in the bottom of the third. Harris led off the inning by drawing a walk off Winter Garden's Gary Thomas, who came on in relief of Baker. Dunn followed with a single and Pinckes then drew a walk to load the bases. Waxler then stepped up and blasted a grand-slam homer over the left center field fence as Altamonte, with one blow, increased its lead from 5-0 to 9-0.

Altamonte tacked on four more runs in the bottom of the fourth to put the game out of reach, 13-0. With one out, Coffey reached on an error and Harris followed by clouting his two-run homer for a 11-0 Altamonte lead. Dunn then drew a walk. Pinckes singled and Waxler walked to load the bases. Pinch hitter Kenny Chappelaine followed by drawing a walk to force in one run and Tim Smith walked to force in the fourth run of the inning.

Winter Garden got on the board for the first time with a pair of runs in the top of the fifth. With one out, Moorman singled off the right field fence and Wilson followed with a two-run homer to right.

Altamonte added two more runs in the bottom of the fifth to take a 15-2 lead. With one out, Harris single to left and stole second. Pinckes followed with a RBI single and he went to second on the throw to the plate. Waxler then singled in Pinckes for his fifth RBI of the game.

Smith hurled the last two innings for Altamonte and he shut Winter Garden down on two hits to preserve the victory for Harris. Behind Harris' three-hit performance, Pinckes, Bane, Dunn and Waxler had a pair of hits each for Altamonte.

Mustangs Open At Tampa Tonight

Ricky Eckstein (right) is one of the big reasons the Seminole Mustangs are in the World Series at Tampa tonight. Manager Ed Suggs' team breezed through the district last weekend at the Seminole Pony Baseball Complex to join Town & Country, North Tampa and Hialeah in tonight's opening round of the double-elimination tournament.

Eckstein or righthander Jamie Moeny will open on the mound tonight. Each did well in the district sweep. Eckstein is also a smooth-fielding shortstop. "It'll depend on who we play as to who starts on the mound," said Suggs Wednesday. "If we play Hialeah, I'll probably go with Eckstein. Against the other two, it'll be Moeny."

Juniors' 10-Run Explosion Paves Way For 18-4 Romp

District Baseball

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

WINTER GARDEN — There are several ways a good team can annihilate a bad team. It can nickel-and-dime it to death, scoring several runs an inning en route to a rout. Or, it can put the opposition away with one thunderous blow — an inning of incessant pounding of single, after single, after single.

Altamonte's Junior League All-Stars, who have pretty much had their own way most of this tournament, chose option two here Thursday night. Manager Frank Messina's multi-talented crew rang up 10 runs in the third inning on its way to an 18-4 slaughter over Winter Garden for the District 14 championship.

This Monday, Altamonte returns to the scene of the demolition to partake in the sectional tournament. Winners from three other sections will participate, with the winner going to the state tournament, also in Winter Garden.

Altamonte's win was so easy, it had the fans calling for Winter Garden to throw in the towel after the lead grew to 18-3 after five innings. Oviado, which somehow hung a 2-1 loss on this bunch, did so after falling behind 11-0 Tuesday night after five innings. While winning four of five tournament games, the Juniors have outscored the opposition, 56-7.

It followed a similar pattern Thursday. Winter Garden starter Nixon Reeves set down the side in order in the first, something that wouldn't happen again until the final inning. Winter Garden then pushed across a run against Altamonte starter Cory Prom with a fielder's choice and Andri Clark's double to left.

Messina was reluctant to start Prom, who pitched with three days rest and was suffering from a sore arm on Tuesday. "He (Prom) didn't throw any Wednesday," said Messina. "And he said he was all right, but you don't know if he was just saying that because he wanted to pitch so badly."

Whatever, Prom had no trouble after the first, shutting down Winter Garden over the next three innings before turning the controls over to hard-throwing lefthander Zac Maddox. Prom, also a lefty, struck out five in his four-inning stint and walked four. He gave up two of the home team's four hits mustered on the night. Maddox picked up the win since Prom only went four innings.

Altamonte's bats, meanwhile, began cracking in the second. Matt Messina reached on an error and stole second. Ernest Martinez walked, but Prom flew out to left. Jimmy Waring then dropped a nice bunt on which Reeves tossed the ball over the first baseman's head for a single and an error. Messina scored easily and Martinez chugged home behind him for a 2-1 lead.

Altamonte went crazy in the third, sending 14 batters to the plate and chasing Reeves from the mound in favor of righthander Clark. With one out, Eric Martinez rapped a single to right and stole second. Chris Brock, who led Altamonte with three hits and three stolen bases, sent Martinez to third when he reached on an error, then stole second. Messina promptly singled home the first run and Ernest Martinez walked to load the bases.

Prom, who is also swinging a hot bat, roped a base hit to left center to plate two more for a 5-1 lead and chase Reeves. Clark walked Waring to reload the bases and catcher Randy Green ripped a single to right center to bring home two more for a 7-1 bulge.

Jeff Hagen drew another free pass and Matt Lange, batting for the second time, walked to force in another run. Eric Martinez followed with his second hit of the inning — a liner to right field — for another pair and a 10-1 lead. Martinez stole second and Brock whistled a liner between the pitcher's legs for a single and two more runs. Clark regrouped to strike out the final two hitters, but the damage was done and Altamonte held a 12-1 lead.

For the remaining four innings, Altamonte tried to stay interested. It put one run on the board in the fourth, then sent 10 players to the plate while piling up five more in the fifth.

Pinch hitter Greg Ebbert singled to start the fifth and moved to third when Brock hammered a double to right center. Messina walked to load the bags, and Eric Birle looped an infield single to score Ebbert. Prom drove in his third run of the night with a healthy fly to left field, and after Waring moved the runner to third, pinch hitter Scott Stiles singled home another. Hagen then walked and when Maddox reached on an error two more scored for an 18-1 advantage.

Maddox had some control problems which led to two Winter Garden runs in the five and one more in the seventh. He gave up just two hits and struck out five, but walked six.

"With Anthony (Laszic, broken wrist) out, we're going to need all the pitching we can get," said Messina. "I thought Prom and Maddox both pitched well. Considering the circumstances (18-1 lead), it was a tough time to pitch for Zac. Heck, everybody wanted to go home."

And they finally did — with a district trophy.

Indians Scalp 5 Opponents En Route To National ASA Berth

After entering this week's Metro Tournament with a dull tomahawk against Conway (12-3 loss), Seminole's Indians scalped five straight opponents to capture the 12 and under tournament and a berth in the National ASA (Amateur Softball Association) Tournament at Pine Bluff, Ark. on Aug. 11-14.

Seminole's Hawks, who needed just one win over the Indians in the final two games, lost both by 3-1 and 10-3 margins respectively.

The Indians parlayed the strong pitching of Kristen Bates and defense of Shannon Kennedy along with the strong hitting of Sanford's big three — Lu Lu Chisholm, Patrell Pinkney and Trina Shuler. Bates walked just eight batters during the six games while Kennedy hauled in 20 fly balls in left field and threw out two runners attempting to advance. Chisholm, who returned from vacation in time for the second game, had 10 hits in 20 at bats. Shuler was 8 for 17 while Pinkney was 8 for 17.

Here's a rundown of the six games:

Conway 12, Indians 3
Seminole committed eight errors to open the door for a seven-run Conway third inning to pave the way for the win. Shortstop Tracy Brandenburg had a single and a triple for the Indians while Tonya Colvin and Kennedy each stroked a single.

Indians 13, Walsey Ward 1
Chisholm returned with style with a perfect 5 for 5 performance which included a double and a triple and Bates allowed just three hits as the Indians hammered Walsey Ward. Kosha Kennon and Shuler also had two hits apiece.

Indians 5, Conway 2
The Indians avenged their only defeat of the tournament by scoring three runs in the sixth to snap a 2-2 deadlock. Chisholm punched two hits to lead th attack. She and Tracy Brandenburg gave the Indians an early 2-0 lead in the first by singling and scoring on an error.

Girls' Softball

Kristen Bates

Patrell Pinkney

Indians 11, West Orange

Pinkney slammed two triples and a double as the Indians scored early and often to subdue West Orange. The 14-hit attack resulted in an early 11-1 lead which also featured a double and two singles by Shuler and two hits each by Brandenburg and Kennedy.

Indians 3, Hawks 1
Bates turned in a stellar performance in the first meeting of these two rivals, allowing just two hits and two walks as the Indians struck for three tallies in the first inning. Chisholm reached on an error, Tracy Brandenburg walked, Shuler reached on another bool and Pinkney singled to produce the three runs. The Indians could muster just five singles as Tammy Lazsac also collected a single.

Indians 10, Hawks 3
The Indians broke out the bats for Wednesday's championship game, erasing a 1-0 Hawk lead with two runs in their half of the first inning. Shuler singled and scored on a triple by Pinkney who then came in on Kennedy's double. The Hawks bounced back with two in the top of the fifth for a 3-2 edge, but the Indians went on the warpath with four runs in the bottom of the frame and four more in the sixth to cement the championship.

"We played well after the opening loss," said Brandenburg. "We're looking forward to testing the ability of the other teams in the country."

The Indians, who pulled out of the Seminole Softball Club, Inc., are an independent organization and need donations to make the trip to Arkansas. Any businesses or individuals who would like to contribute can do so by calling Rick Steinke at 869-8538. Receipts will be furnished for the tax deductible donation, said Brandenburg.

Morrison's Single Tips Dodgers; Molitor Leads Brewers Past Sox

White's Decision Delights NCAA

United Press International
 Jim Morrison lit a fire under the Pittsburgh Pirates Thursday night.

Morrison, the versatile utility infielder, singled in two runs with two out in the bottom of the ninth inning to give the Pirates a 5-4 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers in Pittsburgh. It was the first-place Bucs' 10th win in their last 11 games and 23rd in the last 31.

"We're playing well right now," Morrison said. "We've been coming from behind. You're going to think about the (Eastern Division) pennant when you're in first place. I don't see any reason for us to let down now. We're getting good pinch hitting. The guys are hitting homers, we're getting good pitching and everyone is contributing."

In the ninth, Lee Mazzilli was safe when shortstop Bill Russell overthrew first base for an error. Two outs later, Bill Madlock singled off Steve Howe, 3-5, to left field for his 1,500th career hit. Jason Thompson walked, loading the bases. Morrison then singled to left to score Mazzilli and Madlock.

"We threw everything but the kitchen sink at them, but Morrison got the base hit," said Pittsburgh Manager Chuck Tanner. "Morrison is a quality ballplayer. I told him in spring training I was going to play him more, and he's making a contribution. There's no room for him to be a regular here, but he could play regularly."

The winner was Kent Tekulve, 5-2. In a game delayed 30 minutes because of rain, Los Angeles starter Fernando Valenzuela of the Dodgers went 7 1/3 and struck out nine. Pittsburgh starter Don Robinson gave up four runs, three earned, in 5 1/3 innings.

Rick Monday's leadoff homer in the sixth gave Los Angeles a 3-1 advantage. Steve Yeager doubled one out later and Russell doubled him home to make it 4-1.

Cubs 3, Giants 2
 At Chicago, Tom Verzer and Jody Davis belted solo homers to back the combined five-hit pitching of Dick Ruthven and Lee Smith for the Cubs. Verzer hit his first NL home run and first in the majors since July 1980 in the third inning and Davis added his 17th of the year in the fourth.

Expos 9, Astros 4
 At Montreal, Al Oliver keyed a six-run fifth-inning with a two-run single for the Expos. Montreal batted around in the fifth against Houston starter Nolan Ryan, 9-3, to help Bill Gullickson, 8-10, coast to his sixth complete game of the season. Ryan struck out two to raise his career total to 3,585, two behind Philadelphia's Steve Carlton for first place on the all-time list. Tim Lincecum was 0 for 4 with a run scored for Montreal.

Reds 6, Mets 1
 At Cincinnati, Nick Esasky slammed a two-run homer and Duane Walker doubled in two runs to lead the Reds in a game marked by 19 walks. Mike Torrez, 5-12, walked 10 in 3 1/3 innings and set the Mets' all-time record for most walks issued by one pitcher in a game.

Phillies 10, Braves 6
 At Atlanta, Bob Dernier went 5-for-5 with three RBI and Pete Rose drove in three runs to help John Denny maintain his hex over the Braves. Denny, 9-5, hurled 5 2/3 innings in improving to 7-0 lifetime against Atlanta. With the score tied 3-3 in the fifth, Mike Schmidt drilled his 19th home run for the Phillies. Chris Chambliss hit his 13th for Atlanta.

Padres 4, Cardinals 3
 At St. Louis, Terry Kennedy drove in three runs with a double and a sacrifice fly and Mark Thurmond and Luis DelCorral combined on a four-hit for San Diego.

Brewers 7, White Sox 6
 If Paul Molitor ever writes a novel, he better skip the plot and go right to the ending.

"There were a lot of things I didn't do right tonight," Molitor said Thursday night after capping a three-run eighth inning with an RBI double that gave the Milwaukee Brewers a comeback 7-6 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

"I was hoping I would get a chance to redeem myself and I'm glad I got a chance to drive in the winning run," continued Molitor, who struck out three times and hit into a double play in his four previous at-bats.

With Milwaukee trailing 6-4, Ted Simmons, Ben Oglivie, and Rick Manning singled to make it 6-5. Oglivie scored on a wild pitch by White Sox reliever Juan Agosto, 1-2. After Dennis Lamp entered and hit Jim Gantner with a pitch, Molitor doubled down the left-field line.

"That last time at bat I was just trying to stay out of the double play," said Molitor. "I didn't feel any pressure. You get 600 chances a year in this game, so you know you'll always have an opportunity to come back and do something."

"I was fighting myself all night tonight. The double was a good ending to a terrible night."

Pete Ladd, who pitched the eighth in relief of Moose Haas, earned the victory to raise his record to 2-2. Jim Slaton recorded his fourth save. Milwaukee has won 10 of its last 11 games.

"Agosto was struggling, so I wanted to get Lamp in there to try and get the double play," said Chicago Manager Tony Larussa. "It just didn't work out. It's frustrating. We should have won this game."

Chicago took a 6-4 lead with three runs in the eighth. Julio Cruz led off with a single and stole second. Rudy Lamp singled in Cruz, stole second and scored on Carlton Fisk's single. Fisk took second on the throw home, stole third and scored on Greg Luzinski's sacrifice fly to right.

Milwaukee assumed a 1-0 lead in the first when Robin Yount, with the first of his three doubles, drove in Charlie Moore. The White Sox tied it 1-1 in the fourth when Carlton Fisk led off with his 16th home run. Chicago scored two runs in the sixth when Luzinski hit his 16th home run, with Greg Walker aboard.

The Kansas City-New York and Minnesota-Cleveland games were postponed by rain.

Rangers 3, Blue Jays 2
 At Arlington, Texas, Frank Tanana tossed a five-hitter for his first complete game of the season and Larry Parrish had four hits to lead the Rangers. Tanana, 4-2, struck out five and walked one in helping Texas to only its third triumph in its last 11 games. Jim Gott fell to 5-8.

Tigers 5-2, Angels 1-3
 At Anaheim, Calif., Alan Trammell stroked a two-run homer in the fifth and Larry Herndon added a solo blast in the eighth in the opener for the Tigers. Howard Bailey, 5-2, won in his first start since May 27, 1981. In the nightcap, Reggie Jackson belted a double and an RBI single, snapping Dave Rozema's 10-game winning streak.

Red Sox 14, Mariners 13
 At Seattle, left fielder Steve Henderson dropped a line drive off the bat of Tony Armas with two out in the 10th, allowing the go-ahead run to score. Ed Vande Berg, 2-3, was the loser. John Henry Johnson, the fourth Boston pitcher, raised his record to 2-1. Bob Stanley worked the 10th for the 19th save.

A's 9, Orioles 7
 At Oakland, Calif., Rickey Henderson scored on Rick Peters' sacrifice fly and Davey Lopes added a home run in the eighth for the A's. Dave Beard, 3-3, the fourth Oakland pitcher, picked up the victory. Tom Burgmeier pitched the ninth for his fourth save. Dan Morogello, 0-1, was the loser.

SPORTS IN BRIEF

Lake Mary Will Host Olympic Basketball Camp
 Ken Patrick, Florida's AAU/Jr. Olympics Girls' Basketball Director, has announced the dates for the Lady Sunshine AAU/Jr. Olympics Girls' Basketball Team Camp to be held at Lake Mary High School, August 1-5.

Each participant will be assigned to a team that will play at least two games a day and the girls will receive instruction in fundamentals and team strategy. Participants must be high school students entering the ninth grade or included students.

Coaches participating will include Lake Mary's Bill Moore and Bob Wagner, University of Georgia's Assistant Carol Chason Higginbottom, and other selected high school and college coaches.

The cost is $75 for day campers which includes lunch. For additional information contact Ken Patrick, 321-0872, or Bill Moore at Lake Mary High, 323-2110.

Blues May Go To Ornest
 CHICAGO (UPI) — When Harry Ornest was growing up in his native Edmonton, he recalled the voice of Foster Hewitt, the great hockey play-by-play commentator.

"It made me not only want to become an NHL player, but eventually own my own team," Ornest recalled.

The 60-year-old Ornest came close to realizing his boyhood dream Thursday when he and a group of investors were conditionally awarded the St. Louis Blues franchise.

After a four-hour meeting of the NHL's 20-member Board of Governors, league president John Ziegler announced Ornest, now a Beverly Hills, Calif., businessman, and his group would buy the franchise from the league at a price of $12 million.

Embryos Transferred

TORRANCE, Calif. (UPI)—Two infertile women are pregnant with embryos that were transferred from other women through a technique that could produce the first babies to have no genetic connection with their mothers, a British medical journal said today.

Lancet reported that a team of physicians from Harbor-UCLA Medical Center in Torrance has been successful in directly transferring a developing embryo from one woman to another.

The technique is similar to one used successfully for a decade in cattle. The team is headed by Dr. John E. Buster, who said the new technique will be an alternative for infertile couples who are willing to accept a donated embryo.

At least one doctor has criticized the technique as impractical.

"Most patients do not want another person's egg," said Dr. Richard Marrs, of the USC School of Medicine. Marrs started the first successful in-vitro (test tube) fertilization program in Southern California.

Using the new technique, the UCLA researchers have completed transfers with five women, two of whom are currently pregnant, both in the first trimester.

The technique is distinctly different from the in-vitro procedure that produced the first so-called test tube baby in 1978.

To produce a test tube pregnancy in a woman who for some anatomical reason cannot have a normal pregnancy, doctors surgically remove the egg or ovum, fertilize it in a dish (vitro) with the sperm of the husband and then implant it in the womb of a donor mother who has the baby.

In the transfer technique, a female donor is artificially fertilized with the sperm of the infertile recipient's husband. A few days later the embryo is washed out of the donor mother and transferred into the womb of the infertile woman.

The procedure requires no surgery and is done in a doctor's office.

The Roles Of Salt, Potassium Explained

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have heard so much about salt being bad for you. But I've never heard why. Also I've heard a lot about needing potassium, but why? Is there a relationship between sodium and potassium?

What should I do about my diet to be sure I don't get too much sodium or not enough potassium?

DEAR READER — A healthy body is very capable of eliminating the sodium you don't need. It is also quite efficient at retaining the sodium your body needs. We all do need sodium, despite some clever TV commercials.

You need a minimum of 200 milligrams of sodium a day. And you can get that without adding salt to your food because common unprocessed foods such as milk, meat and other components of a well-balanced diet contain sodium.

If your body retains sodium, it retains water to maintain the proper concentration of sodium to water in your body. That means retained sodium causes swelling, as in premenstrual tension or in various medical disorders such as congestive heart failure, liver disease and kidney disease.

Retention of sodium may also increase your blood pressure. So diuretics are used to wash out sodium because they cause your body to eliminate water. This, in turn, lowers pressure. Not enough sodium can cause muscle cramps and in extreme situations even a kidney shutdown.

Your body is not as efficient at conserving potassium and you lose it through your kidneys even if you are on a low potassium intake so you need to be sure and get enough. Your kidneys will get rid of what you don't need. Potassium is essential to enzyme function to release energy from your food so your cells can function. It is essential to growth and chemically hooking together amino acids to form body proteins. It is essential to your body's energy system.

Food processing does affect potassium and sodium content of foods. I have included the potassium and sodium content of common foods in my discussion of Salt: Your Vital Sodium and Potassium Balance. The Health Letter 10-12, which I am sending you.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My brother has been told that he has a venous hum and nothing can be done for it. It is in the left side of his neck. It is getting so bad that he has to put his fingers on the vessel in his neck before he can hear. What is this and what can be done about it?

DEAR READER — It is a continuous sound believed to be caused by an increased flow of blood in the veins in the neck area. It is, as you have described it, best heard while sitting up and can be stopped by compressing the side of the neck. Usually it is seen without any heart disease and may be ignored.

The problem is your brother cannot ignore it because of its intensity and effect on his hearing. With that much of a problem, he might see a cardiologist. Perhaps an X-ray of the venous system using a dye injection or catheterization studies can identify any problem that exists. Sometimes the hum is caused by extra or abnormal routing of veins (anomalous pulmonary venous drainage into the superior vena caval system).

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Instead of being your own person today, there's a possibility you might yield to peer pressure and do things which you would rather not.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Size up conditions very carefully today so that you don't become involved in competitive situations where the odds are stacked against you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) An idea you feel strongly about might not be held in equal esteem by someone you hoped it would. Don't let this arouse your anger.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If you are involved in a joint venture today, have a clear-cut understanding initially that each will have to pay for his own mistakes if any are made.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Keep a cool head at all times today. If you make decisions out of spite or anger they will only cause additional problems.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You are not apt to work well under pressure today, so if you have tasks which have to be performed, don't let them pile up.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) There's a chance you could encounter someone at a social gathering today who awakens your animosity. Don't say anything you'll later regret.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Try not to set rigid rules for the family to abide by today. They're not apt to be obeyed, but they could get everyone uptight.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Give acquaintances the benefit of the doubt today. If you come on too strong and act like you know it all, it could provoke a dispute.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) It may be best to do without today, rather than to commit yourself to debit spending or long-term loans. Buy only what you can afford.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Making concessions may prove difficult for you today, but it will be to your advantage. Be reasonable if you expect others to behave likewise.

that contract. The rest divided about evenly between those who made the contract on the nose and those who made an overtrick.

How did anyone manage to go down? Let's assume a jack of hearts opening lead. If South is a pessimist, he will assume that East has no high cards at all. After winning the opening lead, South will play ace of spades followed by a spade toward dummy.

East will be in with the king, lead his singleton diamond and get to ruff a diamond with his last trump. The ace of clubs will be the setting trick.

How did declarers make just four? They won the heart in dummy, led a spade, finessed the queen and then laid down the ace to lose the trump king and two aces.

How did they make the overtrick? They started the same way, but noted the fall of the seven from West on the first spade. Then they returned to dummy by leading a second heart, led the jack of spades to pickle West's 10 and East's king and lost just the two aces.

Travel Mexico Is Your Best Bet This Summer

By Katherine Burkett
Herald Correspondent

Because of the strength of the dollar in foreign markets, world travel is on the hearts and in the minds of many Central Floridians. While some travelers are choosing Europe as their summer vacation haven, many are opting to visit faraway places with very different cultures.

The most celebrated bargain this summer is Mexico. The peso is at an all-time low, giving American travelers the chance to bask in the sun at tourist resorts then hit the markets for early-bird Christmas shopping, both at bargain prices.

"You can inspect the Indian ruins on the Yucatan and the Aztec ruins, go to one town where there are 365 churches - one for every day of the year, visit elaborate health spas, or go salt and fresh water fishing," says Sanford travel agent Edmond Weber. "Or if you like the big city environment, there's Mexico City with fabulous restaurants and a museum of anthropology - one of the most outstanding museums in the western hemisphere."

Longwood travel agent Jean Marroletti cites Acapulco as one of Mexico's most popular tourist resorts, but Weber says that any traveler can be satisfied in Mexico - he says that he can even arrange for you to join an archeological dig on the Yucatan peninsula.

Cancun is a current favorite, says Longwood travel agent Linda Painton, because of the beach and resort facilities. She says there are bargains galore in the area, and the hotels are very inexpensive.

According to UPI, a hotel in Cancun runs $49 for three nights and four days with hotels in Cozumel running $59 for the same time. Acapulco can match, and even better, these rates, $29 for four days at an accredited hotel, a rate that can be found at some hotels in Mexico City.

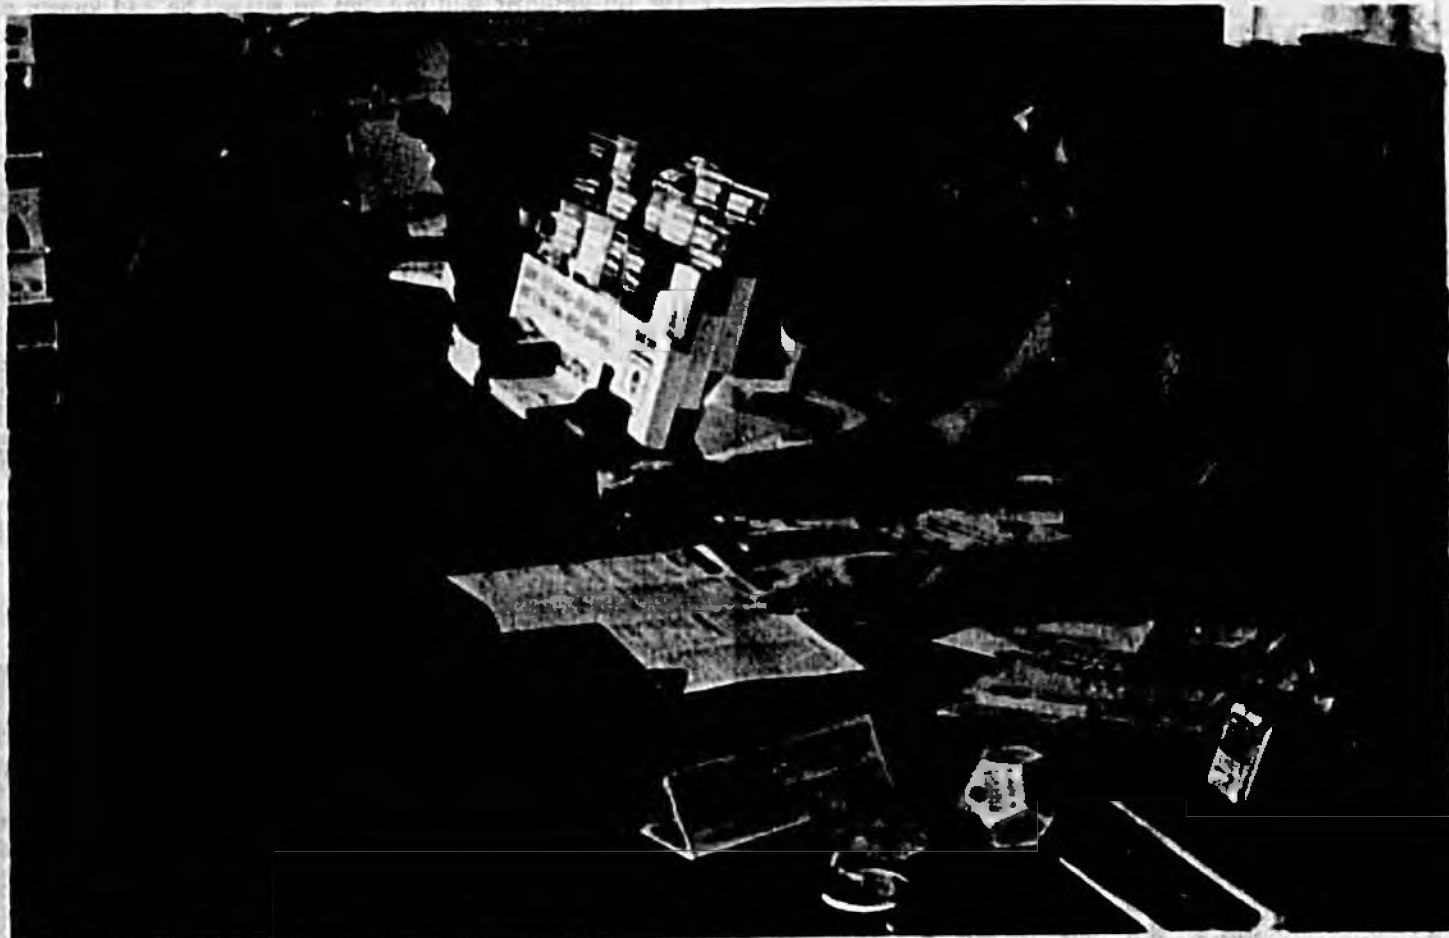

Painton says that hotels are sometimes overbooked, so it is a good idea to book in advance with a hotel or tour group that guarantees hotel space or promises to find you comparable lodgings if your original destination has no spaces available.

Another popular way to see Mexico is to take a Caribbean cruise that stops at one of its eastern port cities. Such a cruise, disembarking at Miami, might take you first to Cancun to see Mayan ruins and bask on the beach, then to Cozumel for snorkeling in the beautiful Xel-ha lagoon, with a stop in Key West on the way home.

If a traveler's taste falls more in the realm of the exotic sunny tropics, he or she can book a cruise that stops in the Bahamas or islands of the Caribbean - San Juan, St. Thomas, Nassau, Freeport or Ocho Rios. A cruise is more than just the ports-of-call, it is the sumptuous feasts, the casinos, the night life, the fruity drinks and the chance to meet new faces in a relaxed atmosphere.

The cost of a one-week cruise can run as high as $1,850 per person for the fanciest room in the most popular season, generally late January to April. The other end of the scale runs around $950.

For travelers who have never been on a cruise and for those who are not particular about their itinerary, Norwegian Caribbean Lines has an offer that is sure to please - and to save. The NCL Sea

This could be you, sitting at the desk of your friendly, neighborhood travel agent booking a trip to some faraway, exotic land. The strength of the dollar and the decline of many foreign currencies has made travel abroad cheaper this summer than it has been in a decade. So what are you waiting for? Bon voyage!

Saver is booked at a flat rate of $659 for an inside stateroom and $729 for an outside stateroom.

Reservations are not accepted until four weeks before the cruise. After full payment is received, the NCL confirms the traveler's reservations on a ship and in a cabin of its own choosing.

For travelers wishing to visit a place with a strikingly different culture, China is becoming a popular destination. Closed to western visitors in 1949, the Republic of China just began welcoming tours from Britain in 1972 and from America around 1976-77.

Although China is anxious for visitors to see their culture, they are as yet far behind most countries in accommodations, according to Altamonte Springs travel agent Donald McCaffree. That plus rigid governmental control makes a tour group your best bet on a China vacation, McCaffree says.

The Chinese tourist bureau is so enthusiastic about showing off its country that the tours are generally fast-paced and exhausting. There is a wide variety of tour agendas to choose from, many of them stopping in Hong Kong or Tokyo before venturing into the Republic of China.

In China itself, most tours visit at least one of three major cities - the capital Beijing (Peking), Shanghai or Guangzhou (Canton). Visits to smaller cities and ancient ruins will give travelers even more of a taste of Chinese culture and history.

A trip that is becoming more popular, according to McCaffree, is the great silk route. A tour takes the visitor on Marco Polo's route across the Gobi desert, a trading run that was already thriving 2,000 years ago when Han merchants traded with the Roman Empire.

Another way to see China is to have the Chinese tourist bureau structure a tour around the interests of your group.

A group of teachers, for instance, would visit schools of different areas observe Chinese educational techniques. Doctors might tour offices where acupuncture is practiced and be shown the secrets of some of the traditional Chinese medicinal herbs.

The Middle East is popular because of its appeal to three of the world's largest religions - Christianity, Judaism, and Islam. Egypt's ancient ruins make it an interesting place to visit, but many tourists find it to be rather dirty, says Painton. She says that most travelers wishing to see Egypt book tours.

Australia is offering special package deals to attract tourists, according to Weber. A member of the British Commonwealth, Australia has a culture very similar to ours, but travelers wishing a glimpse

Yes, Zero's No. 1 Son Is Named Joshua

DEAR DICK: Zero Mostel was in basic training about 1942 with my husband. There is a strong resemblance between Zero and Joshua Mostel. Is he Zero's son? I also saw the name Dagne Crane in a book about Hollywood. Is that a real name or just one made up for the movies? If it's real, where does it come from? I read that Dagne is German. I'm a Norake. — D.E.K., Kalamazoo, Mich.

Yes, Joshua Mostel is Zero's son. About the name Dagne,

Andy Williams' show years ago in an Army uniform, announcing that he was joining the Army. I say he was never in the Army. Who is correct? — T.M.M., Elvaston, Ill.

Your mother is the one with the keen memory. On Williams' 1969 Christmas special Alan Osmond appeared in uniform. He had been released from the Army for a day to appear on that show. He served for six months on active duty and then served two more years in the National Guard.

DEAR DICK: I heard that Lacy J. Dalton is from Bloomsburg, Pa. Could you tell me if that is her real name and if she ever sang in the Bloomsburg area? — M.E.A., Trout Run, Pa.

Lacy was born in Bloomsburg with the nice name of Jill Byrem, and did some singing under that name in and around that city, before she moved on to Utah and finally California.

DEAR DICK: My father and I disagree about the man with the low voice who does the current 7-Up commercials. Who is he? Has James Earl Jones ever done a 7-Up ad? — C.Z., Marshfield, Mo.

No, it's not Jones, who hasn't done one. It's the fine dancer/actor, Geoffrey Holder.

DEAR DICK: I have two questions. What is Tony Bennett's real name? Is Peter Jennings of ABC News American or English? — J.F., Gulf Shores, Ala.

Tony Bennett was Anthony Benedetto when he arrived. And Jennings is Canadian.

DEAR DICK: I watch "WKRP in Cincinnati" reruns, and in one of the rooms there is a large collection of bumper stickers. I collect bumper stickers and would like to know what is being done with this collection? If they are still around would it be possible for me to somehow get my hands on them? — T.J.E., Williamsport, Pa.

Too late. And it would probably have been impossible, even if you contacted them before the show was canceled. The stickers were on a wall and that wall has subsequently been repainted and is now part of a set for another show. The set designer told me that he wished he had known of your interest earlier. He said, "Maybe I could have sold him the whole wall."

Concert To Benefit Girl Scouts

The Citrus Council of Girl Scouts, headquartered on Woodcrest Drive in Winter Park, has been selected as the Orlando area charity to benefit from the Maxwell House Give 'Em A Hand concert series which makes a stop at the Orange County Civic Center July 30.

Country music stars Waylon Jennings and Jerry Reed, joined by Jessi Colter and "Cabin Fever", will headline the 8 p.m. concert which is part of a 27-city musical tour benefitting charities throughout the Southeast.

"People who live in Orlando and the surrounding areas can help the Girl Scouts by going to the concert and dropping off empty Maxwell House coffee vacuum packed bags in the specially designed bins at the 10,598-seat Civic Center," said Maxwell House promotion manager Mickey Jardon.

"We will donate $2 to the Girl Scouts for every vacuum bag turned in — up to $10,000," Jardon said.

The Citrus Council of Girl Scouts serves about 11,000 girls and adults in the greater Orlando area.

Tickets are $12 and can be purchased at the civic center box office and selected ticket outlets: Bob Carr Auditorium, Rosie O'Grady's, Fashion Square, Robinson's department stores, Altamonte Mall, and the Infinite Mushroom.

Godfrey's Pad For Sale

By Cindy Adams
NEW YORK — For sale: Arthur Godfrey's 20th floor apartment with wraparound terrace in Manhattan's upper 80's. It looks out on the East River and down on the Mayor's backyard. His estate will take $900,000... Edie Adams will produce an ABC film on the life of her late husband, comedian Ernie Kovacs. She sees Dan Aykroyd — maybe Bill Murray — for the lead... Bart Reynolds is up for the movie "Lone Star." Producer Lester Persky is scouting locations. The film might also include Sigourney Weaver.

 Take a little from Edward R. Murrow's old "Person to Person," a lot from "Entertainment Tonight" reporter Robin Leach, shake it up with names like Roger Moore, Loretta Lynn and Bob Hope and you've got the new TV show "Lifestyles of the Rich and Famous." It'll be four two-hour specials a year and will be syndicated on 175 stations. Look for it in August.

THURSDAY

Officer Lucy Bates (Betty Thomas) isn't happy about the physical and verbal abuse she is taking as an undercover bus driver on NBC's "Hill Street Blues." On Thursday, July 28, "Eugene's Comedy Empire Strikes Back" is rebroadcast.

FRIDAY

This guy is so tough he can smoke a cigar and talk on the phone at the same time. He's Chief Eischeid (Joe Don Baker) and he's on the trail of the "Spanish Eight." They'd better look out when this 1979 "Eischeid" episode is rebroadcast Friday, July 29 on NBC.

of a different way of life can arrange to visit the outback and view the primitive lifestyle of the aborigines.

Africa is an interesting place to visit for tourists wishing a look at colorful peoples and unique animal populations. Picture-taking safaris can be booked to capture on film the flora and fauna of the deep jungle.

South America is popular right now for economic reasons. According to UPI, Brazil is becoming more popular because it is colorful and inexpensive, despite its growing street crime. More travelers are approaching Rio de Janeiro via Salvador de Bahia, an old Colonial capital with beautiful architecture, a jumble of cultures, good music and exotic cuisine.

Peru is another favorite because of its history and archaeology, which UPI claims is fast making it an 'Egypt of the Western Hemisphere.'

India is considered an expensive country to travel to and in, says UPI. It's also considered too hot for most Americans unless they can afford to get to the mountain valley of Kashmir, one of the world's most enchanting resorts where lake living on a beautifully appointed houseboat with servants and chef-prepared meals will run you only about $35 per day.

Cindy's Country Kitchen; Home Style Cooking

Crisp red and white curtains and a bright, homey atmosphere invite hungry diners to Cindy's Country Kitchen, where good home style food is freshly prepared every day.

Formerly the Village Rest Truck Stop, this restaurant is now owned by longtime resident, Harold Tersigni, and Cindy Sweat, who has 13 years in the food business in Florida.

Tersigni explains that the restaurant offers "Sanford style home cooking" from the biscuits and sausage gravy served each morning this month for 99 cents to freshly prepared black-eyed peas, green beans and cornbread for other meals.

Cindy's breakfasts will feature honey and biscuits, creamed chipped beef and there is a daily special of two eggs, home fries, toast and coffee for 99 cents.

A choice of different luncheons are offered every day with specials ranging from $1.95 to $2.95. Each is a complete meal served with beverage. Light lunches, such as chef salads from $1.75 to $1.95, and diet plates of tuna salad or hamburger patty with sliced tomatoes, peaches and cottage cheese are $2.25.

Breakfast is served from 5:30 in the morning when the doors open until 9:30 closing. Luncheon specials are offered from 11:30 until 4 when the dinner hour begins.

Eleven choices are given on the menu for dinner, but additional specials are offered every day. They may be barbecued chicken or ribs, meatloaf or spaghetti with sauce and homemade noodles.

Dinner prices start at $2.95 and include potato, vegetable, salad and dessert.

Although Cindy is head chef at her Country Kitchen, five others assist in the prep work and keep the pots boiling. Tersigni, a businessman who has traveled a great deal and has tasted many different kinds of food, says that he knows what he wants.

"No imitations," he asserts. "Everything is fresh and real...country style cooking is what we emphasize."
