Crowd demands Hardy resign

LONGWOOD — City Commissioner Hank Hardy, charged with driving under the influence of alcohol following his arrest on Oct. 3, gave no response to a standing room only crowd demanding his resignation from office. The demand that he leave his elected post stemmed from racial comments attributed to him at the time he was being booked at the Altamonte Springs police department.

Government still in jeopardy

WASHINGTON — It was unclear if the GOP members would offer the House Republicans finishing touches on a deficit reduction package as an alternative to proposals drafted by House Democrats and Senate Republicans, but none of the proposals appeared to have the support for congressional passage to keep the federal government operating past midnight Friday.

St. Lucia wants you

SANFORD — Volunteers willing to help in setting up the Dec. 8 St. Lucia Festival are urged to attend an organizational meeting Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce building, 400 E. First St.

Workers as well as chairpersons are still needed in many areas of the city-wide festival, and representatives of area clubs as well as interested individuals are invited to participate.

Energy crisis hits home

TALLAHASSEE — Think the Midwest crisis is putting the pinch on your utility bills? Well, you haven't seen a thing.

Shirley Jean Shaw, 59, of Tallahassee, got a $2.4 million utility bill this month for her three-bedroom house, which usually runs up a bill of about $100 a month.

But it wasn't the gulf crisis that caused her bill to shoot up 240,000 percent.

Brenda Tanner, citizens-relations officer with the city of Tallahassee, said the error occurred because of a glitch in the computer system. She said it affected service charges for about 15 customers, but only three or four of the bills were mailed out.

Shaw's $2.4 million bill is much smaller than the highest error she can recall, a $7 million bill sent to an Atlanta real-estate company in 1987.

Bug danger grows

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Danger is buzzing around the heads of people in the Sanford area, especially Midway, officials warned Monday.

All seven chickens at the Midway Fire Station, east of Sanford, used to monitor for St. Louis encephalitis have tested positive for the disease, a finding health officials say increases the risk someone in the Midway area could be bitten by a disease-carrying mosquito.

Meanwhile, there is growing concern about the risk of catching the disease after a 58-year-old Brevard County woman died of encephalitis during the weekend.

The Midway finding is the highest indication yet of the encephalitis virus in the monitored chickens since the disease was first detected in Seminole County at a Longwood site in July. By Monday, despite the death elsewhere in the state of the first victim of the disease, in Seminole County there have been no reported cases of encephalitis in humans since the "scare" began this summer.

"We're in a state of epidemiological alert," said Dr. Jorg Deju, director of the Seminole County Public Health Unit. "We're doing everything that can be done. There is a higher risk for them at this point so the potential is greater that someone could become infected."

Deju said hospitals are being directed to watch out for suspected cases of the disease. Deju said St. Louis encephalitis, which is an inflammation of the brain tissue, is spread from infected wildlife to humans and domestic animals by mosquitoes.

Deju said the county has increased spraying in Midway and this weekend, began treating stagnant water in the area with a larvac-killing material.

Deju urged people to wear long-sleeved and long-legged clothing, avoid after-dark outside activities.

Melbourne woman first in Florida to die from encephalitis infection

United Press International

MELBOURNE — A 58-year-old grandmother who had been comatose for two months has died, becoming the state's first encephalitis fatality, the state health department reported Monday.

Alvena Patton of West Melbourne died at Holmes Regional Medical Center on Saturday, the hospital reported.

She was admitted Aug. 18 and lapsed into a coma Aug. 21, said Ernie Durfee with the state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services.

Her widower, Harry Patton, said his wife was in a coma for four weeks before doctors were able to confirm she was an encephalitis victim, however, he said they had suspected the virus.

Patton said before his wife lost consciousness, she became disoriented.

There might be room for garbage

United Press International

TAMPA — An environmental engineer with a fondness for garbage is trying to speed decomposition at landfills by pumping trash heaps full of air and water, a method that could revolutionize waste disposal.

"I like to play in garbage," said Richard Stessel, an environmental engineer at the University of South Florida.

"Garbage is the most complicated material in the world. Because it has everything in it. Everything we have becomes garbage some day."

The problem with modern landfills is that heavy plastic liners encase the waste, sealing out the air and water that make trash break down, he said. As a result, garbage remains virtually unchanged for generations.

In a study at the University of Arizona in Tucson, workers dug up 20-year-old trash at a landfill and found newspapers with legible print and banana peels still intact.

The state requires liners to keep chemicals from leaking out of the fill and into ground water.

But by pumping air and water through the landfill, Stessel said, trash can fully decompose within five years. What is left can be mined for recyclable ingredients such as metals or glass, cutting existing landfill volume up to 70 percent.

Stessel is in the middle of a yearlong experiment to test the theory. He took three pipes, each 10 feet long and 18 inches in diameter, stood them on end and filled them with trash to serve as model landfills.

A pump sends measured amounts of air into each pipe, while water recirculates through the system.

But people might be crowded out

United Press International

GAINESVILLE — Florida's population will increase by 10 to 20 percent per decade unless high land prices or a deteriorating quality of life offset the draw of year-round sunshine, an economic study predicted Monday.

The state could end the century in the same situation California now finds itself, with sky-high land prices that discourage new residents from moving in to enjoy the climate.

Or it may discourage new residents by allowing its quality of life to slip to unacceptable levels, according to "The Economy of Florida."

The 414-page compilation of economic predictions for the next decade was published by the University of Florida's Bureau of Economic and Business Research. It includes chapters on all aspects of the state's economy, from population growth to education and tourism.

Florida's population will continue to increase, but not at the 34 percent that marked the 1980s, wrote UF economics Professor Stan Smith.

The population grew by 3.3 million people in the last decade. Smith expects the growth rate will slow to about 20 percent in the 90s and 10.8 percent per decade by 2020.

Among the reasons that fewer people will move to Florida is that births declined in the United States during the early years of the Depression. That means fewer people will be retiring in the 1990s, Smith wrote.

Halloween trick-treat risk noted

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — Florida's chief health officer urged communities Monday to hold Halloween activities in the afternoon instead of the evening to reduce children's risk of exposure to mosquitoes carrying encephalitis.

"Moving the trick-or-treat hours is a prudent precaution in light of the current increase in the number of St. Louis encephalitis cases," said Dr. Charles Mahan, Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services deputy secretary for health and state health officer.

34 confirmed cases of St. Louis encephalitis occurred in 15 central and south Florida counties. HRS encouraged communities statewide to avoid trick-or-treating and outdoor parties in the evening.

"We're asking the public to continue taking reasonable precautions until this year's mosquito population is eradicated," Mahan said. "Time and cooler weather are the only factors that will end this dilemma."

The HRS has advised people to wear protective clothing and use mosquito repellent if they must be outside between 6:30 p.m. and 8 a.m., when the mosquitoes that carry the disease are most active.

Although mosquito eradication efforts have been increased, recent heavy rains could prolong the mosquito threat until cooler, drier weather comes, Mahan said.

The St. Louis encephalitis virus is spread by the culex nigropalpus mosquito, which picks up the virus by feeding on infected birds.

The virus causes an infection of the brain.

Tampa pipeline repairs nearly complete

CLEARWATER — Repairs to the Tampa Bay area's largest pipeline are expected to be finished Tuesday, and the emergency lawn-watering ban imposed when the pipeline burst Oct. 3 could be lifted by the week's end.

But area water officials said the deteriorating, 17-mile-long pipeline is primed to blow again, creating a potential threat to nearby houses, power lines and sections of highway in Pasco County.

This week the water agency will begin posting warning signs along the pipe's path, which cuts southeast from the Cross Bar Ranch and Cypress Creek well fields through Land O' Lakes and Odessa and ends at the Pasco-Pinellas border.

Officials say that although the 7-foot-wide pipe is buried, another rupture could blow debris 40 to 50 feet in all directions.

Elections supervisor investigated

BROOKSVILLE — State Attorney Brad King will ask a grand jury to make a final decision on the results of his investigation into Hernando County Supervisor of Elections Dianne Hysell's travel expenses.

King's inquiry began Sept. 13 after The Tampa Tribune reported Hysell had claimed more than $5,000 in travel expenses and nearly 16,000 miles on her personal automobile during the past year.

Those miles included mileage commuting to and from work and hundreds of miles that Hysell said she could not explain.

The records also show she billed the county for personal long distance calls and received reimbursement for a personal trip in the county.

King said the grand jury will have to decide whether Hysell broke any laws.

Audit shows Head Start deficit

JACKSONVILLE — A preliminary audit of the 10-county northeast Florida Head Start operation shows it has a $110,000 deficit.

The audit says the federally funded program failed to follow basic accounting principles, but it does not say where the missing money went.

The shortfall, which will have to be made up, will strain the resources of the $3.7 million-a-year operation and is jeopardizing the release of $600,000 from the federal government for program expansion, Head Start officials said.

The program provides meals, health care and introduction to learning skills to 1,400 underprivileged kids from ages 3 to 5. The program covers Duval, St. Johns, Nassau, Bradford, Baker, Union, Suwannee, Hamilton, Columbia and Lafayette counties.

Volusia warrant issued for skinheads

DAYTONA BEACH — Law enforcement officials in Volusia County have issued arrest warrants for three members of a suspected skinhead group.

The suspects are accused of holding a fellow member's head under water after finding out he is Jewish, said Volusia County beach Ranger Tammy Caruso.

The 17-year-old Ocala boy told authorities that four or five members of his skinhead group kicked him, then dunked his head under water several times just north of the Daytona Beach boardwalk about 2 a.m. Oct. 7.

The boy, whose lungs had filled with water, was found by a passing beach ranger. He was taken to Monroe County Regional Medical Center in Ocala, where he was treated for a fractured cheekbone and cuts.

He also developed mild pneumonia, Caruso said.

Hospital officials said that during his hospital stay, the boy reported receiving a threatening phone call.

Police are seeking Mike Dobbins, 18, and another youth from Orlando that police would not identify because he is a minor. Police are also seeking Francis Mercuri, 20, of Daytona Beach.

Tampa teacher accused of smuggling

ORLANDO — U.S. Customs agents say they have the evidence to prove that a 31-year-old part-time Tampa teacher tried to smuggle a pound of heroin through Orlando International Airport.

But they say they had to put Maduwuba Ibekwe in the hospital for four days to get it.

Federal agents say Ibekwe swallowed several pellets of heroin wrapped in electrical tape before he flew to Orlando last week on a KLM flight from Amsterdam.

According to a U.S. Customs Service report, inspectors became suspicious when he couldn't produce any of the food listed on a declaration form when he entered the country. He then told inspectors he wanted to revise the list.

Ibekwe was then hauled off to a private interview room and searched. Inspector Ron Dorr found three pellets in Ibekwe's pants, and agents took him to Orlando Regional Medical Center where they watched him around the clock until the evidence appeared.

Atlantis, Columbia readied for tests

By WILLIAM HARWOOD
UPI Science Writer

CAPE CANAVERAL — Engineers are gearing up to fuel the shuttle Atlantis next week in a critical test to find out if the ship is leak free and ready for launch around Nov. 10 on a long-delayed military flight, officials said Monday.

Engineers plan to pump a half-million gallons of liquid oxygen and liquid hydrogen rocket fuel aboard Atlantis's external tank around Oct. 24 to make sure a leak that grounded the ship in July has been eliminated.

While the leak involved the shuttle's hydrogen system, oxygen will be pumped aboard as well to make sure no critical propellant lines were damaged earlier this month when a 9-foot, 70-pound beam fell through Atlantis's engine room in an embarrassing mishap.

If all goes well, Atlantis and its five-man crew should be ready for launch around Nov. 10, three days or so later than had been planned before the beam incident, officials said Monday. A firm date will be set after a two-day flight readiness review Oct. 29 and 30.

But as usual with such military flights, the exact launch time will not be revealed until nine minutes before liftoff and no details will be released about the ship's classified cargo.

The shuttle Discovery, meanwhile, bolted to the top of a NASA 747 jumbo jet, was expected to land at the Kennedy Space Center early Tuesday after a two-day cross-country flight from Edwards Air Force Base, Calif.

Discovery glided to a smooth California landing last Wednesday to close out a successful four-day mission. Officials said the shuttle came through its launch and landing in excellent condition and that no problems were anticipated readying the ship for its next flight in February.

NASA's third shuttle, Columbia, remains grounded because of an elusive engine room hydrogen leak blamed in part for scuttling three launch attempts in May and September.

Protection for panthers threatened

United Press International

ORLANDO — The rare Florida panther may lose endangered species protection because research indicates many of the cats may not be purebred.

The Endangered Species Act protects only purebred animals, but an article published Monday in National Geographic Research indicates that several of Florida's surviving panther population may be crossbreeds.

Genetic testing by veterinarian Melody Roelke with the Florida Panther Project and Stephen J. O'Brien of the National Cancer Institute found that all the Florida panthers living in the Everglades carried a foreign, rare gene found only in big cats from Chile and Brazil.

In contrast, only two of 24 Florida panthers found in Big Cypress carried that foreign gene.

Roelke had discovered the possible crossbreeding in 1986 when she tracked panthers across the Everglades and found that none had the trademark kinked tail or fur cowlick.

"That was pretty strange," O'Brien said. "So we decided to find out what was going on."

They then went to the laboratory and discovered the foreign strand of DNA.

Roelke and O'Brien suggest the cats carrying that gene are the descendants of Florida panthers who had been crossbred with South American cats.

Officer leaves Tampa hospital after shooting

United Press International

TAMPA — A Tampa police officer who was shot in the head while leaving a lounge where he was working off-duty was released from Tampa General Hospital Monday.

Daniel David Lyons, 29, was struck in the back of the head about 3 a.m. Sunday when a bullet slammed through the rear window of his car and tore through the head rest.

Lyons remained alert, and drove back to the New Lounge, where he and two other off-duty police officers were working as private security. Three on-duty officers also were present.

GENEVA — Kyle Considerer, 13, returned to his home yesterday evening after spending several months at the Shriners Hospital in Philadelphia recovering from a broken neck suffered this summer.

Ed Lewis, the boy's uncle, who had attempted a fundraising stunt by sitting on top of a fire truck sitting in the front yard as Kyle returned. Also on hand for the homecoming were members of the family and a host of well-wishers and supporters.

Lewis, a former firefighter, owns the fire truck. "It was built in 1949 to save lives," he said, "and it's still helping others in 1990."

Lewis sat on top of the ladder for 73.5 hours over the weekend of Sept. 7-9.

"It's hard to say how much I actually raised while I was on that ladder," he reported, "but the total amount we raised with that, plus other donations, came to $20,000."

Lewis admitted, however, the amount would not go very far in helping with the boy's rehabilitation. "When I started the drive," he said, "we had a goal of $40,000 but now we've found out that it's going to take a great deal more over the next five years. We'll be needing a special lift, a specially built electric wheelchair, and many other

Window sleeper arrested

SANFORD — A man found sleeping in a window at 1916 W. 13th St., Sanford, has been arrested by Sanford police.

Police said the owner of the property told them Daniel Bradshaw, 29, 144 Academy Manor, Sanford, didn't have permission to be there. Bradshaw had reportedly been involved in a disturbance there and had been warned earlier not to trespass. Bradshaw was arrested at 11:14 p.m. Monday on a charge of trespassing.

Gun found under bed

SANFORD — A Seminole County sheriff's deputy reports finding and confiscating a .22-caliber revolver from under a bed in Room 138 of Cesare's Palace Motel, 3200 S. Orlando Drive, Sanford.

The deputy reported he was suspicious of Colleen M. Dailey, 31, who kept entering and exiting that room at about 3 a.m. today. Dailey reportedly said she and her boyfriend had checked into the room, but the boyfriend left during an argument. The deputy checked out the room "for officer safety," and reported finding the gun. Dailey said it wasn't hers, but might belong to her boyfriend.

Seminole County DUI arrests

SANFORD — The following person faces a charge of driving under the influence of alcohol (DUI) in Seminole County:

● Leonard Hensley, 27, 1805 W. 25th St., Sanford, was arrested at 1:21 a.m. today after his vehicle hit a power pole on U.S. Highway 17-92, Sanford. He was also charged with careless driving.

Hardy apologizes, refuses to quit

By WOK PFEIPAUF
Herald staff writer

LONGWOOD — A standing room only crowd heard a demand that City Commissioner Hank Hardy resign from office last night, but they never heard Hardy's response. He said later he would not resign.

Hardy has been charged with driving under the influence of alcohol following his arrest in the early morning hours of Oct. 3., but the demand that he leave his elected post stemmed from racial comments attributed to him at the time he was being booked at the Altamonte Springs police department.

Hank Hardy

Early in the evening, Turner Clayton Jr., president of the Seminole County branch of the NAACP, read a letter he had submitted to them calling for the resignation.

Clayton said of Hardy, "His conduct in making racial slurs toward a black officer of the Altamonte Springs P.D. was not only uncalled for, but a slap in the face to all black citizens. We, as a people, cannot allow or tolerate racial discrimination of any kind to exist in our government."

In response, Hardy said, "I made statements to one individual, and I apologize for it. Everyone wants to judge me on the basis of it, but it was just one individual and I

It was just one individual and I apologize. I can't do more than say I'm sorry."

apologize. I can't do more than say I'm sorry."

Hardy said he had even looked up the word "racism" in the dictionary. "Something is wrong," he said, "if I made a comment to an individual that I can't apologize for. I ask that I be judged strictly on my record as a commissioner."

Clayton gave no reaction to Hardy's apology, but requested permission to show a video tape obtained from Altamonte Springs police, showing Hardy being booked.

Commissioner Adrienne Perry then asked to be allowed to read a prepared statement. She said she had already viewed the tape, and pointed out several Hardy comments contained in it.

"I've remained silent on this," she said, "but I was wrong to pretend harmony existed in this situation. Mr. Hardy is not deserving of my support or respect. When something doesn't go his way, he pouts and reacts negatively."

Although several members of the audience spoke out on whether or not the video tape should be shown, the commissioners and city attorney opted to see it, and Mayor Gene Farach, having been told of some foul language used by Hardy on the tape, ordered all children out of the chambers prior to the showing.

As the tape was being set up, Hardy left the dais through a rear door and did not return for the remainder of the meeting.

At the conclusion of the viewing, a half dozen citizens spoke on the matter, with their comments ranging from a demand for Hardy's removal to words of caution that too many people are letting emotion get in the way.

Commissioner Rex Anderson called it an "ethical problem," and asked for the city attorney's opinion.

Frank Kruppenbacher explained that, in his opinion, Hardy had not violated any state laws or city charter, and the commission could not legally remove him from office. He suggested, however, that the city had several choices — to let the matter stand with no further action, to publicly condemn Hardy's remarks, or to request Hardy's resignation. He added that if Hardy refused to resign, there was nothing the city could do about it at this time.

Following further comments by members of the commission, Deputy Mayor Jeff Morton made the motion that the crowd seemed to be waiting for, to condemn Hardy for his remarks and behavior, and that the commission ask that Hardy tender his resignation.

On voice vote, the motion passed unanimously, and was greeted by an outbreak of applause by the audience.

Later, Hardy told members of the press that while he felt obligated to give a public apology for his remarks, he did not know what he would do regarding the future. "But for now," he said, "I am not going to step down from the commission."

West resigns from authority post under fire

United Press International

ORLANDO — B.J. West, the political pal appointed by Gov. Bob Martinez to the Orlando-Orange County Expressway Authority, resigned as chairman of that board Monday, three days after she was indicted on theft and misconduct charges.

In a two-sentence letter to Martinez, West, 50, wrote she was stepping down "to avoid allowing the unfounded allegations made against me (from) interfering with the vital work of the authority."

An Orange County grand jury indicted West Friday on charges of grand theft and official misconduct.

She is accused of falsely claiming on time sheets that she was working for the state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services during 25 days she was away on authority work or campaigning for Martinez.

West, who also is accused of falsifying travel vouchers, is paid $48,340 a year to raise private funds for HRS' child organ transplant program, a pet project of Martinez. She is credited with raising $440,000 for the agency since she was hired in 1987.

Martinez appointed West to the Orlando-Orange County board in 1987, one year after she helped raise money for his first gubernatorial bid. She also has helped raise funds for his current re-election bid.

The expressway authority is a state board whose members are appointed by the governor. It oversees a 60-mile toll freeway system in Orange County.

At a morning news conference in Tallahassee, Martinez said he had not called for West's resignation.

"Wrong is wrong," he said. However, he suggested West had been unfairly singled out for prosecution.

"If it means that every time that (expense) vouchers are inaccurate that a person be indicted, that may make for a very busy schedule," he said.

His campaign manager, J.M. "Mac" Stipanovich, was less subtle. He accused Democrat Lawson Lamar, the Orange-Osceola county state attorney, of going after West because of her ties to Martinez.

West did not return phone calls. In a statement issued through her attorney last week, she said the charges were unfounded.

Zapping new TV rules

Dear Mr. President,
My sister and I heard from our social studies teacher that a bunch of people who call themselves the Congress gave you new rules for kids' TV shows, and that you have to sign your name to the rules if you want everybody to obey them. We're only kids, but we don't get how the rules will make TV better.

What our teacher told us was that the Congress-people decided kids should see only 12 minutes of commercials an hour on school days and 10 and one-half minutes on weekends (when Mom sleeps in). Right now, our teacher said, kids' shows have 14 minutes of commercials an hour and 11 or 12 on weekends.

My sister's better in math than me and she says that's only a couple of minutes less an hour. Big deal. Anyway, if the Congress think the commercials are bad, they oughta see the shows! Car wrecks, explosions, mutants, slime — total yuck. Do the grownups want us to watch less commercials so we can see more of this gross stuff?

Our teacher said we all have freedom of speech (well, at least when Mom's not around) and that TV has a bunch of speaking, so TV has freedom of speech, too. That means the people who make the laws can't tell TV what to show. That sounds like a good idea, because if the Congress-people were in charge of TV, they'd probably show themselves all the time, giving a bunch of boring speeches and stuff.

The teacher also told us that when the president thinks new rules are bad or stupid, he can do something to them called a veto, and then the rules disappear. That's awesome. Hey, we just remembered, that's what Mom says she's doing when she turns off the TV and hides the clicker.

She says she's vetoing TV for a while. She also says she doesn't need any help making up her mind from somebody called Uncle Sam, thank you.

So what we wanted to know is, can you get us another clicker, Mr. President?
Just wondering.

Live from federal court

We hear the same arguments against television in the federal courtroom that we heard before when it was proposed to televise proceedings in the state courts, in the Congress and in the Legislature.

That is, we hear that the cameras will cause grandstanding by participants in the proceedings, which is certainly a possibility. We have seen courtrooms in which there was grandstanding, even in the absence of cameras. The presence of a jury alone is enough to provoke some grandstanding. Even the robed judges themselves are guilty of it on occasion. We name no names and point no fingers. But we question whether the presence of cameras would have any radical or long-lasting effect.

We hear further that cameras would disrupt proceedings, especially in small courtrooms. But the cameras are small now and getting smaller. They can be as unobtrusive as a tape recorder, if correctly managed. The achievable goal is for their presence to be forgotten or ignored.

The federal courts are conservative to the point of being hidebound. If you will, and we like that. But the judges don't wear wigs or silver-laced shoes. There has been change — we like to think it has been progress — in these changing times.

Sure, there is no precedent, but then John Marshall had no idea that television would ever be invented. It is just a way to make a public trial truly public. In our electronic age, the person with the camera has just as much right to a courtroom seat as the person with a pencil and notebook.

A trial isn't really public if TV is excluded, and there is no reason why the U.S. Supreme Court should not consent to having its sessions carried on C-Span.

All that is coming, but first we must deal with the final objections from the age of ink wells, quill pens and blotting sand.

Have we seen Bush's act before?

The George Bush presidency has already earned a nickname: Let's call it "Nixon, the Sequel."

No, Bush is not corrupt. But once again we are saddled with a Republican president fascinated with foreign affairs while largely indifferent to the principles or details of domestic policy.

Once again we have a supposedly anti-tax, anti-big-government conservative surrendering at the first chance to his political enemies and approving plans that will permanently increase Washington's girth.

Like Nixon before him, Bush has revealed himself as a daring entrepreneur abroad — the fabled opening to China comes to mind in the first case; Panama and the Persian Gulf in the second — but a limp pushover at home.

Yet at least Nixon had a good excuse for his obsession with foreign affairs: He inherited the Vietnam War, and he spent his entire presidency withdrawing America from that morass. In truth, though, domestic policy had never intrigued Nixon. He built his career on anti-communism and on honing the image that he knew the world more thoroughly than his competitors.

Bush is equally proud of his expertise and wide experience abroad. As a longtime associate recently told The Washington Post: "He didn't like it (domestic issues) when he first ran for president, he didn't like it when he was vice president and he doesn't much like it now.... All you have to do is spend five minutes talking to him about China and five talking about the budget to know where he's at."

Unfortunately, experience abroad helped neither man in the battle of the budgets. Nixon oversaw a huge expansion of federal authority and bureaucracy during his presidency. Bush has frittered away two years of his term without offering a single serious proposal to bring the deficit under control. And in his only major effort to forge a compromise, he quickly gave up what little leverage he enjoyed by repudiating his "no-new-taxes" pledge.

What can Bush be thinking? Does he really think that a plan including a mealy total of $21 billion in "cuts" next year, out of $1.3 trillion budget, is really a knockout blow to deficit? Isn't he embarrassed that nearly one-fourth of those "cuts" are fraudulent, for the most part because they're really user fees (meaning taxes)?

If Bush really thinks spending is out of control, as he occasionally claims, why doesn't he indicate, at least once, which areas he'd like to attack? There are plenty of potential targets: foreign aid, agricultural subsidies, the defense budget, the Export-Import Bank, the Small Business Administration, the Rural Electrification Administration and a host of other domestic programs. Federal pensions need reform; a variety of federal assets should be sold off; well-heeled retirees should receive only the Social Security benefits they paid in, plus interest, and nothing more.

If Bush won't take the initiative on such matters, how can he expect Congress to do so?

Sadly, Bush would tax the average commuter trying to make house payments and the football fan who sips a few brews during a game rather than restrain a budget that has been growing faster than inflation.

At least Nixon had a good excuse for his obsession with foreign affairs.

Dealing with Ike's other legacy

WASHINGTON — Nobody would have been angrier than Dwight D. Eisenhower at the sorry spectacle in Washington these last few days. The soldier-statesman, who was born 100 years ago this Sunday (Oct. 14), despised disorder and condemned partisan excesses.

But without demeaning the man who led the Allied armies to victory in Africa and Europe in World War II and guided the nation through eight years of peace and prosperity as President in the 1950s, it must be said that the chaos of divided government is part of his legacy, too.

This "great and good man," as Stephen E. Ambrose calls him in his newly published one-volume biography, is meagerly memorialized in the capital. A small bust perches awkwardly above the entrance to the Eisenhower Theater, inside the imposing John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts, totally overshadowed by the heroic Kennedy head that dominates the promenade.

But Eisenhower's monuments are elsewhere, even if they do not bear his name. The St. Lawrence Seaway, which opened a fourth canal and brought the world's trade to the Middle West, is part of his legacy. So is the Interstate Highway System, the greatest public-works investment in the last 50 years.

Along with the GI Bill, which educated and housed Eisenhower's fellow veterans, the Interstate System has proved to be by far the most important economic-development strategy of the federal government.

Beyond these domestic landmarks, Eisenhower ended the war in Korea, rejected American involvement in Vietnam and abandoned the NATO alliance in the ongoing Cold War struggle with the Soviet Union. At the same time, he kept the lid on Pentagon spending, giving his personal prestige and hard-earned experience against the influence of what he called "the military-industrial complex."

All this makes it easy to understand why Eisenhower was the most popular American of his era and why his contributions are increasingly praised by historians of the 20th century.

But it also is true that Eisenhower contributed, albeit unwittingly, to the political problem which has eroded the credibility and capacity of American government in the three decades since he left the White House: the pattern of divided government.

The Spans are striking. In the 40 years before Eisenhower's first election in 1952, the voters gave the President supportive majorities of his own party in both the House and Senate for all but six years. Since then, the scorecard reads 34 years of divided government and only 14 years of one-party control.

Many factors have contributed to that remarkable and devastating reversal of form. The decline of party organizations, the rise of television, the growing independence of voters all have played a part. But it was Eisenhower who gave a moral sanction to this rampant ticket-splitting, who planted and nurtured the notion that the President was somehow separate from the rest of the political-governmental system.

He came into politics on a different plane, as the liberator of Europe, the man who had defeated Hitler's armies. His prestige was so high — and his partisanship so well-inked — that Democrats hoped to recruit him as their presidential nominee. He was a national figure, not a party leader.

In 1952, his popularity, public opinion, and the Korean War and weariness with 30 years of Democratic rule gave Republicans control of the White House and Congress. But two years later, the Democrats regained their majorities in the House and Senate — and the fatal era of divided government began.

At first, it did not seem very damaging. Eisenhower had easy rapport with the Texans who led the Democrats in Congress — House Speaker Sam Rayburn and Senate Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson. He had started his military service in Texas and was stationed there on Pearl Harbor Day. Johnson and Rayburn supported him fully on foreign policy and had few fundamental differences with his domestic priorities.

Eisenhower had a modest domestic agenda, and as Harvard's Mark A. Peterson points out in his newly published book, "Legislating Together," he operated largely by forging agreements with the congressional leaders and then mobilizing public opinion behind his plans. "When President Eisenhower took to television or radio in support of his limited number of initiatives, his success was overwhelming," Peterson writes.

No such success has been achieved by the more partisan Presidents — Richard Nixon, Gerald Ford, Ronald Reagan and now George Bush — who have attempted to function in a divided government since Eisenhower's time. Bush shares more values with Eisenhower than with any of his other predecessors, but the ravages of 40 years of mostly divided government make it impossible for him to operate the way Eisenhower did.

Eisenhower contributed... to the pattern of divided government.

Bomb could undo Iraqi electronics

WASHINGTON — Top U.S. military commanders in the Pentagon and in Saudi Arabia are considering a nuclear option for war with Iraq — not a nuclear bomb to kill people, but a nuclear bomb to knock out all Iraqi electronic equipment.

In the early stages of a war with Iraq, a single, high-altitude detonation of a nuclear bomb would shower the land below with an electronically destructive wave known as electromagnetic pulse, or EMP. If strategically placed, EMP might shut down communications systems, missile-launch systems and any other systems that rely on electronic equipment. The seriousness of the discussions and the careful analysis going on at the Pentagon mark the first time the United States has so extensively studied the use of EMP against any target.

Smaller than the Soviet Union. The use of EMP against Iraq has drawbacks. It is a nuclear weapon with radioactive fallout, and it would set a dangerous and short-sighted precedent. The United States is not eager to be the first to use nuclear weapons in the volatile Middle East, a region that is likely to have its own nuclear arsenal in the next decade.

Another thing holding back the strategists is the fact that EMP may not be precise. U.S. weapons and equipment would have to be at least 100 miles away from the target area, or they could be knocked out too. EMP is no sci-fi fantasy. It is an intense burst of energy that travels at the speed of light and hits electrical circuits with more than 50,000 volts per meter, shattering them out and shutting down all major power facilities.

The effect of EMP was first discovered by American scientists in 1962 when a high-altitude atomic test knocked out street lights and power lines in Hawaii, more than 800 miles away. Hawaii was spared a total blackout because part of its electrical grid was built on an old vacuum-tube concept, and its telephones used electro-mechanical relays. But today most of the world, including Iraq, has been converted to solid-state electronics with micro-circuits that are sensitive to EMP. One expert report we have seen says solid-state circuitry is "a thousand to a million times more easily damaged by an EMP than the older vacuum-tube technology."

U.S. military scientists have tested and tested the effects of EMP in the lab, but most of the tests were geared toward learning the effect on American electronics if the Soviets used EMP as a weapon against the United States. One highly classified Joint Chiefs of Staff report we have seen warned that America's own military communications systems would be so thrown out of whack by EMP that the "ability to execute a coordinated strategic nuclear response to attack could become questionable."

The report said that a single Soviet bomb exploded 250 miles above Omaha, Neb., could start an EMP wave that would cause power blackouts from coast to coast.

The Pentagon has spent billions of dollars hardening the president's "downday plans" and other nuclear command posts against EMP. But the research on EMP as an offensive weapon has lagged far behind that for other weapons, including "Star Wars," chemical lasers and particle beam technology.

That's why, according to our Pentagon sources, the effect of EMP in a war with Iraq is unknown. Nuclear scientists never considered the use of an EMP blast over an area as small as Iraq and Kuwait. Most of the research applies only to a blast over an entire continent.

The U.S. is not eager to be the first to use nuclear weapons in the volatile Middle East.

Fraud pretrial hearing reset for mystery pilot Root Crowded

By VICTOR GALVAN
United Press International

CLEARWATER — A man who achieved notoriety last year when he crashed his plane in the Atlantic after flying 1,000 miles on automatic pilot will probably strike a deal with prosecutors before his scheduled Jan. 23 trial on unrelated fraud charges, officials said Monday.

Thomas Root, 37, and three others are accused of bilking nearly $3 million from about 200 Floridians who thought they were investing in FM radio license applications pending before the Federal Communications Commission.

"Right now we don't have an agreement," said state prosecutor Melanie Ann Hines after a 25-minute pretrial hearing at the Pinellas County Criminal Courthouse in Clearwater. "However, it is unlikely he will go to trial."

Root's public defender, Nora McClure, said she had met with Hines about a possible plea agreement, and that a deal was possible by early next month. Neither Hines nor McClure would give details of the meetings.

Pinellas County Circuit Judge Mark McGarry scheduled another pretrial hearing Nov. 9, and tentatively scheduled the trial for Jan. 23. Root did not attend the hearing.

Root, of Alexandria, Va., crashed his single-engine Cessna into the Atlantic off the Bahamas July 13, 1989, after a bizarre six-hour, 1,000-mile flight that started near Washington.

Root claimed he was unconscious during most of the flight, and that the plane was flown on automatic pilot. He also claimed that a pistol he had in a glove compartment went off during the crash and shot him in the stomach.

McGarry had suggested an earlier pretrial hearing than Nov. 9, but McClure requested that the pretrial hearing be later so her client could travel to Clearwater at reduced airfare.

Carl W. Hurlbous of Landover, Md.; Ralph M. Savage of Phoenix City, Ala.; and Eugene B. White of Columbus, Ga., also were charged in the case. Hines has described Savage, a church pastor in Columbus, as the ringleader of the fraud scheme.

White is still behind bars on $100,000 bond. Savage and Hurlbous posted bonds of $150,000.

Florida will have to improve its education system and keep its environment clean if it wants to continue to attract new residents and business, said Dave Denlow, interim director of the bureau.

"By standard measures, such as graduation rates and test scores, Florida's education system is abysmal," Denlow said. "For many professionals, as well as for many employers, the chief deterrent to living in Florida is the low quality of elementary and secondary education."

Denlow suggested extending Florida's sales tax to services would be the best way to pay for maintaining Florida's infrastructure. But he admitted such a move was politically unacceptable and unlikely to occur.

"We're hoping this book will further stimulate debate and provide some different perspectives about the major issues confronting Florida," Denlow said.

Conserving natural resources and protecting the environment are also prime concerns of Floridians, Denlow said, adding that the state's reliance on regulation as a means of protecting the environment is impractical.

"The best way to ration gasoline proved to be letting the market set its price," Denlow said. "and the best way to ration

"Policies affecting education, the environment, revenues and expenditures and other aspects of life will move Florida toward this future or one less worthy of its potential."

CheckRobot fires president, reports $8 million in losses

United Press International

DEERFIELD BEACH — Directors of CheckRobot Inc., a developer of automated checkout machines for supermarkets, sacked the company's top executive and reported an annual loss of $6.6 million, CheckRobot said Monday.

Charles J. Beech had served as president and chief executive officer of the company since March 1989.

"The board reluctantly took this action based upon its belief that a change in leadership at this time would be in the best interest of the company," Chairman Alfred W. Vitale said in a statement.

Richard W. Honerkamp, the chief financial officer, declined to elaborate, although he said the firing was not triggered by concern over the pace of sales. "It was a whole host of things," he said.

Scott Sloan, a company vice president, will continue to oversee marketing, sales and customer relations.

Honerkamp said the company has placed its checkout machines in 13 major grocery store chains under sale or lease agreements.

"We're working very diligently with each and every one of those chains to get them to commit to multiple stores," he said.

The machines allow customers to tally their own bills using laser scanners before paying central cashiers.

Beech was named to the top job after Marco Holdings, an investment group based in Memphis, Tenn., invested $5 million in CheckRobot. Beech was a principal of Marco Holdings.

A Swiss investment company — OmniCorp International B.V. — later became CheckRobot's largest shareholder by buying the minority stake held by Sensormatic Electronic Corp. of Deerfield Beach.

Those who suffer such symptoms within 21 days of being bitten by a mosquito are advised to see a doctor or contact the county Public Health Unit.

There is no cure for the disease. For most healthy adults, the symptoms disappear in about five days. But very young children and the elderly are most at risk for complications, which can include coma and death.

Garbage

The garbage-filled pipes work better for the experiment because researchers can alter the amounts of air and water to find the most effective mixture.

If the method proves successful on a larger scale, landfills could be divided into dozens of sections, each about the size of a tennis court, which could be pumped full of air and water, and used repeatedly as volume reduces.

Wilson's project was inspired by Collier County's search for a cheaper way to get rid of its trash.

An incinerator was too costly, so Bob Fahay, the county's solid waste director, eased the crunch on landfill space by digging up cans, glass, paper and plastic jugs that could be sold to recycling companies.

Stessel's study, funded by a $100,000 grant from the Ford Foundation, goes a step further.

Solid waste officials across the nation are watching his work. Some cautioned that unearthing asbestos and other hazardous wastes could pose a risk. Using too much water could also allow hazardous waste to overflow and seep into ground water.

Wilson Hughes, co-director of the Arizona project, said the technology could be prohibitively expensive. But as landfill space becomes more scarce, Hughes said, the price might look more attractive.

"You're always going to need landfills. There's always going to be stuff you can't do anything with," he said.

sort of thing," he said.

A total of 34 cases of encephalitis have been confirmed in Florida, with 25 more cases suspected, pending the outcome of a second test. That was an increase of four suspected cases since Friday, said Stephen Kindland, an epidemiologist with Tallahassee.

Encephalitis is a virus transmitted by mosquitoes. Victims suffer headaches and fever and usually nothing more serious than that, but the virus can be deadly to the very young, very old or those in a weakened condition.

admitted to the hospital Aug. 18, said Stephen Kindland, spokesman for the Florida Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services. Kindland said the woman had other complications which may have weakened her bodily defenses.

There have been no reported cases of encephalitis in Seminole County though there have been 34 cases statewide in 15 Central Florida counties, Kindland said.

In September, an 80-year-old man showed indications of encephalitis, but he died before a second test could confirm the results, said Dr. Rod Cardiff, director of the St. Lucie County Public Health Unit. The final results won't be known for another two to three weeks, Cardiff said.

and to use personal pesticides.

Deju also suggested parents not allow trick or treaters to stay out past about 6:30 p.m. on Halloween Oct. 31.

"The main thing is prevention," Deju said.

Seminole County Commissioner Jennifer Kelley, whose commission district includes Midway and Sanford, said she has ordered samples of a chemical agent that prevents mosquito larvae from developing from its Dallas manufacturer.

Kelley said Arshad Ali, the "blind mosquito" researcher at the Sanford Agricultural Research and Education Center, had planned to test the product in Midway, but she may ask Ali to test a portion of the order in Midway.

"That really worries me," Kelley said Monday on learning of the chicken test results. "Not only for the people of Midway, but for the people living near the airport. They have a lot of standing water around there too."

Deju said the mosquito that can carry the encephalitis disease, Culex nigripalpus, can roam one to two miles. But Deju said Sanford residents shouldn't be concerned about mosquitoes from Midway because of Sanford's active mosquito-spraying program.

Sanford city administrator Frank Falcon said the city has been spraying for mosquitoes regularly throughout the summer and recently began concentrated treatment of stagnant ponds.

Saturday, a 58-year-old West Melbourne woman became the first person in Florida to die from encephalitis, but Deju said deaths occur in very few of the people who come down with the symptoms. Deju said most people develop antibodies, natural bodily defenses, to the viral disease when they become infected and never develop the symptoms.

Deju said about 10 percent of the few people who do develop the symptoms will die. The symptoms include a 100-degree temperature, disorientation, confusion, delirium, lethargy or in extreme cases, a coma.

The woman who died in Brevard County lapsed into a coma three days after she was

Bush favors Senate plan

GOP plan ready, 'heavy' on cuts

By BUD NEWMAN
United Press International

WASHINGTON — House Republicans put the finishing touches on a deficit reduction package, but it was unclear if the GOP members would offer it as an alternative to proposals drafted by House Democrats and Senate Republicans.

Nevertheless, none of the proposals appeared to have the support for congressional passage, a condition President Bush said must be met before he would sign a temporary funding measure to keep the federal government operating past midnight Friday.

House Republican leader Robert Michel of Illinois said Monday

the House GOP plan relied "heavily" on spending cuts. Asked if it would include new taxes, as the Democratic plan does, Michel said, "It doesn't appear so."

While House Republicans continued their deliberations on the plan, Bush said he and the two top GOP congressional leaders preferred a bipartisan proposal worked out by Senate leaders and approved by the Senate Finance Committee.

Bush, who met Monday with Senate Republican leader Bob Dole of Kansas and Michel, said the three "were pretty much on the same wave length" in preferring the package approved by the committee early Saturday.

The president said while campaigning in Omaha, Neb., that he was attracted to the proposal because it "holds the line on income tax rates and that is worth fighting for, in my view." The Senate panel's plan would not increase income tax rates for the richest Americans, as would the Democratic plan. But it would double the gasoline tax, from the current 9 cents a gallon to 18.5 cents a gallon. The Democratic plan contains no gasoline tax increases.

Bush said last week the plan proposed by Democratic members of the House Ways and Means Committee was unacceptable.

Bush has insisted that a final budget agreement must cut $500 billion from the deficit over five years and that the savings be real and enforceable.

The president has been walking a delicate political line in trying to work with the Democrats who control Congress to get a budget agreement while at the same time criticizing Congress for failing to act.

Senate refuses to sacrifice Stealth despite budget cuts

By STEVE GERSTEL
United Press International

WASHINGTON — The Senate refused to stop production of the multibillion-dollar B-2 stealth bomber, the futuristic warplane designed to penetrate enemy radar and deliver a nuclear payload.

Warned the Soviet Union continues to build its defense system despite the breakdown of its economic system, the Senate rejected Monday by a 50-44 vote a proposal that opponents charged would kill the B-2 program.

Offered by Sen. Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., the proposal would have stopped the program after purchase of six planes, none in the current fiscal year, for flight testing. The Pentagon has envisioned a fleet of 70 B-2s at $65 billion.

The showdown on the B-2 highlighted the Senate's passage, on a 79-18 vote, of the fiscal 1991 defense appropriations bill, which represents the largest single-year reduction in military spending since the Vietnam War.

The $288.2 billion appropriations measure represents $20 billion less than what President Bush asked for at the beginning of the year, and nearly $18 billion below what Congress approved last year.

Left in the bill by rejection of the Leahy amendment was about $5 billion for the acquisition of two B-2s this year, plus components for six more that would be purchased next year. The House voted to cancel the B-2 program, allocating $1.6 billion to complete testing and the difference will have to be worked out by a conference committee.

Defending the high-tech bomber, Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., said, "We're talking about revolutionary technology, a revolutionary plane."

U.S. teachers share Nobel for economics

By PAL BURMAN

STOCKHOLM, Sweden — Three American professors — Harry Markowitz of City University of New York, Merton Miller of the University of Chicago and William Sharpe of Stanford University — received the Nobel economics prize Tuesday for pioneering work in the theory of financial economics.

The professors, who received the award jointly, were the 16th, 17th and 18th Americans to win the Nobel Memorial Prize in Economics from the Royal Swedish Academy of Science since the award was created in 1909.

It was the first time the prize has been given jointly to three people.

Comaneci: Panait was captor, not lover

By FRED LISP
United Press International

NEW YORK — Nadia Comaneci, the gymnast's darling of the 1976 Olympics, said the man who helped her flee Romania last year, far from being her lover, kept her prisoner in the United States, beat her regularly and cheated her of $150,000 in income.

Comaneci said the ordeal lasted three months and took her on a harrowing journey through Florida, California, New York and Canada. She said shortly after arriving in the United States that she was locked in hotel rooms and a Los Angeles apartment and not allowed so much as to answer the phone.

"I was in a free country," she said. "But I was not free."

Comaneci, 29, said she has settled since February in Montreal, where she is planning to become a Canadian citizen, stage gymnastics exhibitions and perhaps enter modeling.

The woman who scored the first perfect 10 in the Olympics said Constantin Panait, the Florida roofer with whom she was romantically linked had taken her earnings from interviews and magazine layouts and returned with his wife to his native Romania.

Comaneci spoke at a ballroom table to a handful of reporters after being honored by the Women's Sports Foundation. Wearing a crisp gray business suit and a white blouse, she said in halting but capable English that this was the first time she has spoken of her travails in America since her perilous escape from Romania on Nov. 28, 1989.

She said she wanted to clear her name after innuendos surrounding her involvement with Panait, the self-employed roofer who helped her flee Romania and soon dominated her life.

Prize nourishes Gorbachev . . .

MOSCOW — A "deeply moved" Mikhail Gorbachev said his selection as the 1990 Nobel Peace Prize recipient reflected the recognition that the world's fate is tied to the fortunes of his perestroika reforms.

"This act inspires us," Gorbachev, 59, said Monday. "It nourishes my position, my mood, my condition — intellectual, emotional and physical — (and conviction) that we are on the right road."

"All those who sincerely support the victory of (perestroika) in our country share in this event," he said.

The Soviet president, the first Communist head of state to win the Nobel Peace Prize, noted that he had been in the running for the award both last year and in 1988.

"First of all, I am deeply moved, as a man, by this decision, and I will not conceal this," Gorbachev said. "I accept this action . . . not in the personal sense, but as an acknowledgment of the great value and enormous meaning of the mission we call perestroika for the fate of the whole world."

. . . but cupboard bare for Muscovites

MOSCOW — Muscovites shrugged indifferently and even reacted with hostility over Mikhail Gorbachev's Nobel Peace Prize, noting the empty store shelves and warning he may face a popular uprising.

"The award comes at a time when his popularity in the country should be high but it is sinking, so I don't think you will find much acclamation," Sonya, an office worker, said Monday in a sentiment echoed by others.

In Pushkin Square, with its usual queue at McDonald's and cluster of activists in front of the Moscow News building, Muscovites dismissed the prestigious award as a reward from the West for favors rendered.

"He deserves it all right in the eyes of the West," said Evgeny Sheludkov, a historian. "But in the Soviet Union he may get a popular uprising."

Aoun awaits fate in embassy

HAZMIYEH, Lebanon — Rebel Christian Gen. Michel Aoun remained holed up in the French Embassy Monday, seeking refuge, while President Elias Hrawi maneuvered to gain custody of Aoun so he could stand trial.

Meanwhile in Christian east Beirut, Syrian troops fortified their positions Monday after overnight clashes broke out between Shiite fundamentalists and Syrian-backed Christian militiamen, killing 16 people, security sources said.

Mike Lapinkas' 28 years of experience yields prompt, honest service at Accurate Appliance Repair.

"Honey, Can You Fix The Washing Machine?"

The old saying is that bad things happen in threes. First the washing machine breaks down, then the dryer and now the stove is malfunctioning.

You can haul all your dirty clothes to the laundromat and go through the hassles of fighting for the use of those overheated, commercial dryers and then rush out to pick up your fast food dinner, or you can call Accurate Appliance Repair.

Mike Lapinkas, of Accurate Appliance Repair, would like to thank Sanford and Lake Mary customers for making our ten years in this area a success. To celebrate, Mike is offering a special discount, with no time limit, for existing or prospective customers. Present our Business Review ad, on Monday, Wednesday or Friday and receive $15 off the service charge.

Mike has been in the appliance repair business for 28 years and has experience on all major brand name appliances. He says he will also buy or remove old appliances.

So if you're tired of waiting in line at a restaurant drive-thru, or scraping through your change for quarters for the laundromat, give Accurate Appliance a call at 322-4296. Mike promises prompt, honest service with no add-ons or hidden charges.

BASKETBALL

Payne, Siemer win hoop title

ORLANDO — Seminole Community College employees Bill Payne and Ed Siemer were members of the Lutheran Brotherhood team that took the Division III championship of the Hoop-It-Up 3-on-3 basketball tournament held in downtown Orlando Saturday and Sunday.

Payne, men's basketball coach at SCC, and Siemer teamed with Luther High School girls coach Craig Swanson and Joel Daunic to go 7-0 in the tournament.

They beat the team of Valencia Community College basketball coach Dave Jones, Slim Denison, Fred Mack and Jim Savage in the semifinals 16-10, the closest score for the quartet in the tournament. They beat 401 K's in the final.

The tournament was success with over 2,000 spectators showing up for Sunday's finals and over 500 teams entering the tournament.

SOFTBALL

Boardroom Mice squeak by

CASSELBERRY — Oviedo's Boardroom Mice won the battle of the pitching grandma's with a 1-0 victory over Don Covey in Women's Class "C" League action at Red Bug Park Monday night.

The win raises the Mice's record back over the .500 mark at 4-3 and keeps the team in the hunt for the league title.

The game featured pitchers Ruth Tempesta of the Mice and Connie Thomas of Don Covey. Both ladies are grandmothers, according to Mice Coach Mickey Norton.

The only run of the game scored in the bottom of the third. With one out Tempesta, White and Carlock singled to load the bases. After a force out at the plate, Norvell drew bases on balls to force home White with the run.

The Mice had several chances to score more runs but left the bases loaded in the first inning and also had two on with only one out in both the fifth and sixth innings and couldn't score.

Karen Kohn led the way for the Mice with three hits while Terri Mann and Stephanie Nelson both has two hits.

Tempesta and first baseman Linda Lewis both had outstanding defensive games.

Pro Indoor soccer match

ORLANDO — The Orlando Sports Club proudly presents the Tampa Bay Rowdies and the Orlando Stars in a benefit indoor soccer game Friday, Oct. 19 at 8:30 p.m. at The Orlando Sports Club, formerly the Eddie Graham Sports Stadium, located at 2285 North Econlockhatchee Trail.

The game is being organized to show The Orlando Sports Club's support for youth soccer by hosting the indoor match benefitting the area youth soccer teams.

Area teams can find out about a way to raise money for their programs by selling tickets to the event by calling (407) 281-6763 and asking for Tony Andrews or Tracy Bradshaw.

A full evening of indoor soccer is planned. To kick it off will be a match between the Bull and Bush (the best of the British) and the Andinos (the best of the Latins) at 8:30 p.m. The Rowdies and the Stars match-up starts at 8 p.m.

At halftime will be a game between the Under 8's, who will compete for the title "King of the Tots". Also, sponsors of the event will be giving away door prizes and also the check to the soccer leagues that participated in selling tickets.

Special awards will be given to the team and individual selling the most tickets.

Seminoles, Rams win

Seminoles perfect in Class 3A

By PHIL SMITH
 Herald Correspondent

KISSIMMEE — Marie McClanahan had 10 kills and three blocks and Dawn Burke added six kills and one block to power the Sanford Fighting Seminoles to a 9-15, 15-5, 15-11 victory over the Kissimmee-Osceola Kowboys in a 3A-District 8 match Monday evening at Kissimmee.

The Seminoles remain unbeaten against Class 3A competition and only have to defeat Kissimmee-St. Cloud on October 24 to go undefeated in their district and receive the #1 seeding for their district tournament starting on Wednesday, October 31.

"The entire team played real well tonight," said Sanford Coach Beth Corso. "We really played like a team. I'm really happy with our teams' overall performance."

The Fighting Seminoles recorded 11 aces in the match as they also received strong performances from Lynn Guy (25 assists, 14 service points, and four aces), Charlene Guy (seven service points, four aces, three kills, and three blocks), and Heather Pegram (eight service points, three aces).

"Our serving hasn't been with us this year," said Corso. "But we've been improving and tonight we really put it together."

Seminole will be in action again tonight when it travels to Casselberry to take on the Lake Howell Silver Hawks in a Seminole Athletic Conference contest. The junior varsity's will square off at 6 p.m. with the varsity squads scheduled to take the floor at 7 p.m.

In junior varsity action Monday evening, Sanford lost to Kissimmee-Osceola 15-2, 15-2.

Marie McClanahan had 10 kills and three blocks Monday night as the Seminoles High School girls volleyball team defeated Kissimmee-Osceola in three games Monday night to remain undefeated against Class 3A competition. The match was played in Kissimmee.

Lake Mary Boys clinch SAC Title

By PHIL SMITH
 Herald Correspondent

LONGWOOD — The Lake Mary Rams clinched the Seminole Athletic Conference Championship as they defeated the Lyman Greyhounds Monday evening 15-7, 13-15, 15-6, at Lyman High School.

"I'm happy we won the conference championship," said Rams Coach Bill Whalen. "But we're still making mistakes defensively covering the court."

The Rams, now 20-1 overall and 11-0 in the SAC, extended their winning streak to 16 matches as they prepare for the Volleyfest Tournament starting on Friday, October 28 at Lake Mary High.

Lyman falls to 9-4 overall and 7-3 in the conference.

Lake Mary broke open the first game, with the score 3-2, by scoring nine unanswered points as Matt MacDonald (five kills, one block, and nine service points in the match) served four straight points including an ace, Jason Mau (nine assists, nine service points) dished out three assists and served two points, and Brett Marshall (two kills, one block, one dink, and seven service points) served three straight points to give the Rams a 12-2 lead.

Marshall blocked the first point of the game for the Rams in the first game in the best-of-three match.

Lake Mary then went up 10-5 in the second game as Jon Brown (seven kills, four blocks) pounded out two kills and a block, and Matt Bloon (10 assists, nine service points, four kills, and one block) dished out three assists and made a kill.

But Danny Gastl (14 service points, four aces, and six kills) brought Lyman back as he served

SANFORD HERALD PLAYER OF THE WEEK

Davison kicks way into record book

By DEAN SMITH
 Herald sports writer

Geordie Davison hit 40- and 54-yard field goals (the latter a school record), caught three crucial passes for 54 yards and added two extra point conversions as Sanford-Seminole defeated Edgewater 20-7 Friday night. For his performance Davison has been named the Sanford Herald Player of the Week.

All of Davison's pass catches were for first downs and came during scoring drives in the first half.

But the big play of the night came with two seconds left in the half when he nailed a 54-yard field goal that split the uprights and probably would have been good from 60-65 yards.

It was good for him and the organization," said Seminole Coach Emory Blake of the kick. "He gives our offense an added dimension."

Editor's note: Sanford-Seminole's Geordie Davison hit a school record 54-yard field goal and also hit a 40-yarder, two extra points and caught three passes for 54 yards to be named this week's Sanford Herald player of the week.

Other players considered were:

•Lake Mary's Chris Henny, who rushed for 188-yards on 21 carries and one touchdown.

•Lake Brantley's David Sprinkle, who rushed for 106-yards on 18 carries.

•Lake Howell's Thomas Deane, who returned a kick off 73-yards for a touchdown and had two quarterback sacks.

•Lyman's Brian Grayson, who rushed for 88-yards on 18 carries and had several tackles on defense.

•Oviedo's Ervin Alexander, who rushed for 45-yards on 12 carries.

Geordie Davison

Sam Raines had a single and scored two runs as he helped his team, Tim Raines Connection, defeat Auto Body Centers 14-2 for their fifth straight win. Auto Body Centers had beaten TRC to open the season.

TRC knocks Auto Body Centers from ranks of unbeaten

From staff reports

SANFORD — Tim Raines Connection used three big innings to turn a close game into a rout and avenged their only loss of the season with a 14-2 defeat of previously unbeaten Auto Body Centers in the Sanford Recreation Department Monday Night Fall Slowpitch Softball League at Chase Park.

In the other games the Wrecking Crew used a four run fifth inning to beat the Buschweckers 5-3 and the Regulators came from behind to clobber the McClanahan Law Offices A's 19-10.

TRC and Auto Body Centers are both 5-1 on the season while the other four teams are all 2-4.

Next week the A's face TRC at 7:30 p.m. Auto Body Centers face the Wrecking Crew at 7:30 p.m. and the Lyman straight points including three aces to give the Greyhounds a 12-10 lead.

After one complete rotation, Gatti came up to serve with the Greyhounds leading 12-10. He promptly aces the serve, his fourth ace of the game to give Lyman the second game and force a third and deciding game.

"We should have covered the court better than we did. That and some substitutions let them come back in the second game," said Whalen. "Hopefully some of my bench players will play better when we need them."

Share AIDS plight with family

DEAR ABBY: This is for "Suramericano" who wanted to know if he should tell his family that he had tested HIV-positive for the AIDS virus. I cast my vote for a resounding yes!

Our son tested positive nearly three years before he felt any ill effects from the disease. I, his mother, learned about his illness only 23 days before he died. He had lost a little weight — that's all.

When he first learned that he tested positive, he told his sister, who was his best friend. He swore her to secrecy because he didn't want to worry me. I could never understand why he had episodes when he would run a high fever, miss a day or two of work, and be fine the next day. He had his own home, so I didn't know the suffering he endured. If only he had told me, perhaps I could have helped him physically and spiritually. He needed no financial help because he was a very successful decorator and had the best insurance available. God took him from us a year ago.

I know that he thought it best that I didn't know, but it hurt me more not knowing. He deprived me of the opportunity to tell him how very proud I was of him and how much

I loved him.

STILL GRIEVING: My readers voted overwhelmingly in favor of telling the family. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: In response to "Suramericano's" letter wondering whether to tell his family that he had tested positive for AIDS, I can offer the viewpoint of a family member who wasn't told until it was too late.

I respect my cousin's right to make this decision, but knowing now that he was gay and died of AIDS doesn't cause me to cherish his memory less. However, many things continue to haunt me — the visits I would have made, the things I might have said, the understanding that was never achieved. Was he ashamed? Or did he think I would be ashamed? Was it really necessary for him and his immediate family to be so isolated during his final ordeal?

My choice as a family member would have been to know the truth (however painful) and to have dealt with it. It would have been far better to have been there, offering words of love, knowing I did everything I could — than to have been shut out.

HURT IN SAN FRANCISCO

DEAR ABBY: Before giving "Suramericano" any advice, I would have to know what kind of relationship he has with his family. If it's anything like mine, I would vote no. Here's my story:

I am a gay male. I've always been a good son and didn't want to live a lie, so when I was 17, I told my parents I was gay, hoping they'd not judge me. Our priest came with me for moral support, explaining that no one chooses his or her sexuality — it is something inborn in all of us. They refused to believe him. Instead they quoted Scripture, labeled me a sinner and told me I was no longer their son.

I envy my gay friends whose parents accept and love them just the way they are. Unfortunately I wasn't that lucky.

Also described as: 100 Laurel Avenue
RE: Case No. 90-181
The Sanford Code Enforcement Board was created by Sanford City Case, Ordinance 1284, as amended, as authorized by Chapter 146, Florida Statutes. The purpose of this Board is to facilitate the enforcement of the code and ordinances in force in the City of Sanford. You have been charged with violating the following Code on your property:
Chapter 14, Section 14-1 Standard Housing Code Section 265: Allowing premises to become dilapidated due to vandalism - damage unrepaired, broken windows, missing or missing pieces, electrical panel destroyed, rotten deck, ripped screens, roofing material falling off, exterior siding, trash, junk, debris, litter and weeds accumulated on premises.
You are hereby notified that a Public Hearing will be conducted in the above-styled case by the Code Enforcement Board of the City of Sanford on the 15th day of November, 1990, at 7:00 p.m. in the City Commission Chambers, Room 117, Sanford City Hall, 300 N. Park Avenue, Sanford, Florida, concerning the above-styled violation. The Board will receive testimony and evidence of said hearing and shall make findings of fact and conclusions of law.
You are hereby ordered to appear before that Board of the hearing to answer the charges and present your side of the case. If you fail to appear, the Board may proceed without you. Should the Board determine that a violation exists, it has the power to issue orders regarding you to bring the violation into compliance including the power to levy fines and create a lien on your property up to $200 for each day the violation continues past the date set for compliance by the Board's Order.
If the violation is not corrected by the time of the hearing or, if prior to the hearing, you come into compliance with the above-styled alleged code violation but the violation recurs prior to the Public Hearing, the hearing will be held on the allegations against you.
If you have questions concerning this matter, please contact the Building Department at (407) 329-2626, 2626B South U.S. Highway 1, Room 205, Sanford, Florida, or immediately thereafter AT THE ABOVE HEARING. YOU MAY NEED A VERBATIM RECORD OF THE PROCEEDINGS. TESTIMONY AND EVIDENCE WHICH WOULD BE HELD BY THE CITY OF SANFORD (P.S. 28-1002).

Consult your surgeon about bowel problem

DEAR DR. GOTT: I had recent hemorrhoid surgery, and about every four to six weeks I become impacted from the surgical scars. I then take magnesium citrate. Are there any long-term effects of using this remedy? Metamucil and stool softeners don't work, and I need help.

DEAR READER: You don't mention how long ago you had hemorrhoid surgery. This information is important because difficult evacuation is common for a few days after hemorrhoidectomy, yet you seem to have had difficulty for several weeks. This is very unusual and suggests that something went wrong with the surgery. Return to your surgeon and request an explanation for your bowel problem.

Impaction — the accumulation of large amounts of fecal material in the lower colon — is an extremely uncomfortable condition because the fecal mass cannot be passed through the anus until it has been manually broken up into smaller pieces.

Impaction is always preceded by constipation. Therefore, you may be able to prevent impaction by treating the constipation with stool softeners/laxative combinations (such as Peri-Colace), a high-fiber diet (with bran and roughage) or a mild laxative (such as magnesium-containing compounds).

Magnesium citrate is safe to use for extended periods, but you would obviously be more comfortable dealing with the primary cause of your constipation. This is where your surgeon's advice would be helpful.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Is there any cure for folliculitis? I'm a 27-year-old single man and have been treated with tetracycline, Accutane and Bactrim. Whenever I stop any medication, the problem recurs again. Can you give me some direction?

DEAR READER: Folliculitis, infection of the skin's pores due to plugging from the oily materi-

 - 3 Excessive (abbr.)

By James Jacoby

It's usually not a good idea to waste your high cards, but West Coast expert Ramp Hiett found a defensive exception to this principle, as he led declarer astray in a three-no-trump contract. West led the eight of clubs and dummy's 10 won the trick. South now guessed to play a diamond back to his 10. He followed with a diamond to dummy's ace and then led the spade jack. When declarer played low from his hand, Hiett won the trick with the ace rather than the queen. West continued with the jack of clubs. Declarer won, played a heart to dummy's king and then took another finesse in the spade suit. After all, since the jack had forced West's ace, East must hold the queen. Surprise! West won the queen of spades and cashed three more club tricks to set the contract. If West wins the first spade trick with the queen, declarer will surely play hearts before playing a second spade. Since hearts split, declarer will take four heart tricks, two clubs and three diamonds to safely make his contract before letting a defender get back in with the ace of spades. Even after West deceptively won the spade ace, if declarer's life depended upon his making the contract, he would surely play three rounds of hearts ending in the dummy. When they split, he would not bother with a second spade finesse, but would simply go up with the king and make 10 tricks. But overtricks are crucial in tournament competition, and it's rare indeed that a player wins a trick with an ace when he could take it with a queen.

YOUR BIRTHDAY
Oct. 17, 1990

The year ahead can be a very rewarding one for you materially, provided you finish that which you start. Don't try to balance several enterprises in the air simultaneously. Focus on the best.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You'll valiantly defend that which you believe to be right today, but make certain, however, you take into consideration other people's viewpoints and not just your own. Libra, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $1.25 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Even though your powers to probe, research and detect will be sharp today, you might still be too negative to take full advantage of what your investigations uncover.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If a friend who assisted you in the past requests a favor from you today, go out of your way to help this person, even if you have to incur expenses in doing so.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Your problems won't be centered on your inability to achieve your objectives today, because attaining goals will come rather easy for you. The hard part will be knowing what to do with your victories.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Being open-minded and friendly today is well and good, yet it would be wise to be cautious regarding who you take into your confidence. Someone you least suspect might betray you.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) It might prove very wise to stay out of the business affairs of friends today and to keep them out of yours. Each could throw a monkey wrench into the other's commercial machinery.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) A partnership arrangement can be productive today, provided you and your counterpart are both on the same wavelength. A harmony of purpose is a must.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your monetary prospects look reasonably encouraging today.

but there is a possibility you might not capitalize on things to your maximum advantage. Don't get careless.

GEMINI (May 21-June 30) Desirable results will be achieved today in situations you personally direct, but the same might not be true in developments where you have to share your authority with another.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Methods and procedures that are effective for you might not work equally well for your associates. Don't do things to please them, make your primary concern getting the job done.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) It might be a trifle difficult for you to concentrate on your mundane assignments today, because your energies may be geared to active friends who are bent upon having fun.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) In order to advance your personal interest today, it might be necessary for you to be a bit bolder and more assertive than usual. However, what works in the world of commerce won't play socially.
