JOSEPH POLTORAK ON TRICYCLE

His 'Cycle' Runs On Wooden Wheels

"I call this my energy saver," says Joseph A. Poltorak of his wooden tricycle. Poltorak, 75, and his wife, Julia, vacationing from Michigan in Florida since November, had some time on their hands. The filled his with building the tricycle

"in between fishing, raining and my wife's shopping." The retired inventor estimates that it took him "about 250 hours" to build the trike, but hastily adds that is only an educated guess.

Despite his efforts to make the tricycle without any metal at all Poltorak had to concede on one item - the valve stems on the tires are metal, but they are hidden within the scrub oak

"I just couldn't find tires without stems," he says with a grin and a hang-dog shrug of his

"He just couldn't find wooden valve stems," shouts a neighbor. Poltorak seems to be surrounded by his neighbors from 12 Oaks Campground every time he goes riding on the trike which is several times a day unless the fish are biting. "I catch fish every time I go fishing," says Poltorak. "That's because I only go when the fish life. I watch the barometer," he adds, but he hesitates, obviously not willing to give away too many

With a twist of subject matter as deft as his turnings on wood, Poltorak leaves fishing and returns to conversation about the

"I have eight grandchildren," he says, "so I'm not building trikes for them. I also have one great-grandchild," he adds proudly. .The success of his tricycle has pleased Poltorak, but he says he has another project going - one he isn't ready to talk about yet. The trike, says Poltorak, is held together with wooden pegs, and runs on people power and Vaseline, which is inserted in grease areas which are then closed with little wooden plugs plugs which are even held in with wooden "cotter pins."

Being old enough to retire doesn't bother Poltorak at all. "I remember Haley's Comet," he says, "when I was five years old. My father held me up and showed it to me. He said, 'Joe, when you get to be 80 you'll get to see it

"I remember it like it was yesterday. I sure am looking forward to seeing it again."

A circuit court jury has acquitted a Sanford teenager accused of manslaughter in the Dec. 11 stabbing death of another teenager. Kirk Douglas Jackson, 16, of 1503 W. 11th St., held in custody since the death of David Conrad Wright, 16, was freed Wednesday night when the four-woman, two-man jury returned the verdict of innocent after deliberating a half-hour

Jackson told the jury that he had $4.50 in his pocket Dec. 11 when he spotted a "guy tiptoeing up behind me" near a garbage dumpster as he walked in the darkened 1000 block of Oleander Avenue on Sanford's west side. "He had both arms extended," Jackson testified, "and he had a straw hat pulled down and a red bandanna over his face." Jackson said the shadowy figure said, "Give me all your money" and he replied, "Go home man, quit playing." He said the man then stuck a gun in his neck "and said it was a

Mrs. Smith went to the stabbing scene and told police who came to the house and arrested Jackson, who gave them the pocket

The "gun" was taken to the jury room by jurors when they deliberated Wednesday. It was an inoperable air pistol that looked like a .45-caliber automatic pistol.

Police didn't find a straw hat or a red bandanna in a search of the stabbing scene. Roger Sermons, who testified about seeing two figures and hearing them arguing and struggling in the street in front of his residence, said he didn't see a hat.

"If one of them had been wearing a hat, I believe I'd have seen it," he said. Sermons said it was too dark for him to have seen a bandanna over anyone's face.

Other teenagers testified that Jackson had been "flashing" the knife earlier that day at a basketball court. He said he'd shown it around but denied he'd threatened anyone with the knife.

Jackson testified he knew Wright but didn't know Wright was the person he'd stabbed until police told him six hours after Keith Whitney identified the air pistol as his and said Wright had borrowed the broken gun less than an hour before his death.

"He said he just wanted to hold it until tomorrow morning," Whitney told the jury. After the verdict the court asked Jackson, a tall, slim-built youth, if he wanted his pocketknife back. He said no, and the court ordered the knife and a pair of homemade metal "knuckles" found by police in the dead youth's pants pocket

The Fireman Union: A Dead Non-Issue

Seminole County firefighters, by a whopping 48-3 vote, have shown county government they don't want a firemen's union. The final tally was released this morning by County Administrator Roger Neiswender. It includes votes by the third shift, which was absent when Wednesday's 38-3 vote was "We have concluded there is no union organization going on, and we will continue to deal directly with all fire personnel," Dealing directly means firemen can be put back in for a 5 per cent raise. County commissioners Tuesday deleted a proposed firemen's raise because legal counsel advised it might be construed as an unfair labor

"I'm very pleased with the guys," Fire Chief Gary Kaiser said. Both Kaiser and Neiswender said firemen had no intention of

But the county administrator said county officials had to "believe it" because of rumors and two newspaper articles.

Neiswender stressed the point that firemen "They just indicated there isn't a desire to join the International Association of Firefighters," Neiswender added. At a Wednesday meeting called by county officials, firemen indicated they had no intention of joining a firemen's union.

Clinton, Mass., has occupied center news stage during the past few days as the site of President Carter's first "meet-the-people" venture, and as the "average

But at least one dissenting voice to that characterization is Mrs. Barbara Solitro of Markham Woods Road, Longwood. Mrs. Solitro, who was born, grew up and went to school in Clinton, insists the town, about the size of Sanford, is not average at all.

"It's mostly a factory town and most of the people are employed in the factories," she says, adding that the town area of Clinton is much like Sanford's downtown. Little shopping centers are located around the

Mrs. Solitro first left Clinton in 1959, returning after her marriage for one year in 1967 with her children while her husband was in the military service. She spent several days there last October. Her parents moved from the community two years ago, but she still has aunts, uncles, Clinton is heavily Democrat, she says, and most think the Kennedy family can do anything. "I was not a Kennedy person and not a Democrat and felt \ ost like a traitor there," Mrs. Solitro adds.

Clinton has two main roads, High Street which ... the center of town where the stores are located and Main Street, one block off which leads outside town, she says.

Gunman Kills Himself;

Hostages Freed Unharmed

SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO (AP) gunman, fleeing a botched robbery attempt and vowing never to be taken alive, shot and killed himself early today after holding a man and woman hostage for 14 hours, police said.

Police Chief Jim Datzman said he had been notified by a local hospital that Michael Guile, 31, died at 4:09 a.m. PST, slightly more than an hour after he shot himself in the chest.

His two hostages were freed unharmed. Sheriff John McDonald had said the gunman agreed to surrender but asked for a few minutes alone. A short time later, he said, a single shot rang out and the woman hostage, Pauline Gomez, told officers Guile was on the kitchen

Cuban-Mafia Probe Likely

WASHINGTON (AP) - A reputed underworld chief's refusal to say whether he knew in advance that President John F. Kennedy would be assassinated may launch a new congressional investigation into the longdebated Cuban-Mafia connection with the murder. But the House Assassinations Committee's grilling of Santo Trafficante on Wednesday shed no light on how much evidence the panel has to support that connection. The 62-year-old former Cuban gambling czar pleaded his rights under the Fifth and other amendments more than a dozen times to questions.

Carter Tax Plan Bogs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The two members or Congress with the greatest say about the nation's tax laws seem headed toward a showdown over how best to help American businesses fight unemployment. Neither Sen. Russell B. Long, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, nor Rep. Al Ullman, who eads the House Ways and Means Committee, has embraced the White House proposal.

Quebec Ends Inflation Board

QUEBEC (AP) - Quebec's anti-inflation board has been abolished effective today. Finance Minister Jacques Parizeau announced Wednesday that the cabinet had decided to repeal the law before its scheduled expiration at the end of 1978.

Parizeau had threatened to abolish the law if municipalities locked in wage disputes with their police forces refused to ignore board

Kiwanis Hear Orlando Mayor

Orlando's taxpayers shouldn't have to underwrite the entire cost of a proposed arena-convention center in downtown Orlando. that city's mayor told a Kiwanis luncheon Wednesday. "We're trying to mend our fences with the (Orange) county commissioners," Orlando Mayor Carl T. Langford said.

Mayor Langford was accompanied by Orlando Public Safety Director Howard P. McClain, who detailed attempts to build a downtown Orlando arena-convention center. Efforts began with a 1962 referendum on spending $1.6 million to build an auditorium in Orlando, McClain said. "A long series of studies" on the issue preceded a 1974 referendum, which failed by a 2-to-1 margin, the public safety director told the Kiwanians.

In 1975, the Central City Neighborhood Development Board, a citizen group, began efforts to revive the project. That group established a team to study the project. The team proposed last year a $35.5 million revenue bond issue for a facility, but the group found the cost would be higher than anticipated revenues

"It will not fly as a private investment," McClain said. The Orlando City Council has decided public funds would be needed to

A convention center would not be in competition with hotels and resorts south of Orlando, McClain said, and such a facility might help the deteriorating central city tax base of Orlando. "It would be nice to have the arena near the convention center." said McClain, but it is not a necessity.

Following discussion of the arena-convention center, the Kiwanians viewed a 12-minute, narrated slide presentation on Orlando International Airport's plans for a new jetport. The new terminal will cost $80-$100 million. Environmental efforts connected with the new jetport include the proposed planting of over 2.5 million trees, according to the slide presentation prepared by Orlando Public Safety Photo Center. - MARK

Action Reports

Thieves and burglars took an odd assortment of articles Wednesday, according to Seminole sheriff's reports.

Billy W. Herring, of 955 Seminole Ave., Altamonte Springs, reported a pickup truck was burglarized and a $150 "cable hound" transmitter unit belonging to Florida Power Corp. was taken. Deputy Randy Pittman said the thief will find the electronic gear useless without another piece of equipment that wasn't taken. SMOKEY STOLEN

The state Division of Forestry reported a $45 Smokey the Bear sign was stolen from the roadside at forestry offices on SR-427, Longwood. Thieves may find "Smokey" a bit hard to conceal. The sign is seven-feet tall, according to sheriff's deputy Ann Henegar. Sanford police reported burglars made off with a $350 portable color television after a break-in at the Mariner's Village apartment of Frankie Sue Waldrop. Patrolman Jack Davis reported that when the burglary was discovered there was a strange, large black dog found inside the residence.

'No Bites' Yet On Steamtown

By MARK WEINBERG Herald Staff Writer

Though Steamtown has received two offers of land in Central Florida, the non-profit foundation's director and treasurer says he has not prepared a final recommendation to Steamtown's board of directors on relocating from Vermont. Steamtown, a living museum of old-time railroad Americana, is seeking a Central Florida location. Steamtown has the world's largest collection of steam locomotives. Robert Barbera, the organization's director and treasurer, met last week with a committee of Downtown Development Corporation to discuss Steamtown's plans.

Barbera will pursue a Central Florida location for Steamtown until March 26, when he will return to snowy Bellows Falls, Vt. Steamtown's current location. Barbera said Steamtown is seeking a donation of 400 acres of land and $5 million to build a permanent facility in Central "There is no place in the United States that has what you've got here - millions of tourists and 365 days a year to operate," Neither land offer is in Seminole County. "We have had no bites in the county," said Barbera, "but I am prepared to look at anything, anywhere at any time." Barbera said Wednesday a corporation has agreed to provide funds to build some of Steamtown's proposed gift shops and restaurants. He said other corporations could be enlisted in the construction effort once a site is designated by Steamtown's board of directors.

School Leaks: 'Informal' Pact Sought

School officials and architects will meet March 25 to try and reach "an informal agreement" to correct severe roof leakage at four Seminole County schools

Time For Action Arrives On Aliens

The Carter administration is picking up where the Ford administration left off in trying to formulate a program to deal with aliens circumventing our immigration laws to seek jobs in the United States.

A report on the problem prepared by a task force of the White House Domestic Council was released shortly before President Ford left office. It remains the best point of departure for any legislative or executive action aimed at dealing with undocumented workers commonly known as Labor Secretary F. Ray Marshall, Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell and Secretary of State Cyrus Vance face the same dilemma as their predecessors in basing acceptable policies on the body of information now in hand about the problem.

Mr. Bell is already on record as favoring the Rodino bill, which would make it illegal for an employer to hire an undocumented alien. It is obvious, however, that legislation of that kind should be part of the solution only if Congress and the administration can answer some of the serious questions raised by the prospect of placing that burden on employers.

Mainly, there is the understandable fear among Mexican-American citizens and aliens with work permits that employers would prefer not to hire them rather than risk the possibility they were lying about their status. But the idea of requiring everyone to carry a government identity card to prove we are eligible to hold a job is a fearful prospect to persons of all origins.

Nor would the Rodino bill alone deal with the fact that undocumented immigrants are filling jobs that unemployed Americans are either unwilling or unable to fill. This raises the issue of whether the present laws restricting the numbers of aliens who can legally work in the United States are realistic, given the composition of our domestic labor force and the terms of our unemployment insurance

Perhaps the easiest item on the agenda is the status of those aliens who entered the United States years ago, have put down roots and would face deportation if new laws and enforcement programs brought their status to light. The law now grants them "amnesty" if they entered the country before 1948 - hardly a realistic date. There is no reason why that date cannot be moved forward to legalize the status of those who have earned a right to stay. The Ford task force recommended a new amnesty date of 1968.

Finally, the recent visit to Washington by President Jose Lopez Portillo may quicken those efforts to treat the problem on both sides of the U.S.-Mexico border. Economic programs that would create more job opportunities in Mexico the source of the greatest number of undocumented workers - provide the ultimate answer to the pressure along the border.

Secretary Marshall says there have been enough studies of the alien problem and it is time for action. We agree, but there must be a careful balancing of the scales to assure that the action is fair to everyone.

Half A Loaf Plan

desegregation in Rhodesia substantially probably will be considered revolutionary by the minority white population, but it is at best half a loaf. And in matters of civil liberties and human reedoms, half a loaf is not better than none.

Mr. Smith has asked Parliament to open more opportunities for black purchases of farm and industrial land, and to desegregate hotel bars and some institutions. He would not permit full civil liberties for blacks, let them trade freely or have the same access as whites to medical facilities and homes. It was predictable that the United States, Britain and leaders of surrounding African states would reject the plan, and they

However, there is no denying that the tactically swift Mr. Smith again has taken the initiative on the Rhodesian issue. A Geneva conference on the subject that seemed to be a lively possibility just a few weeks ago is dormant, perhaps even moribund. No other viable alternative is on the table.

The end of the Rhodesian saga is predictable. Eventually the nation will be ruled by black Africans. But unless some constructive alternative to Mr. Smith's internal solution is advanced, that day will be later rather than sooner.

John Evans: He Made Hospital Ends Meet

By JEAN PATTESON Herald Women's Editor

During the 23 years John Evans has served as a trustee at Seminole Memorial Hospital, he has seen it grow from a 72- to 195bed institution. Since his retirement in December, 1976, he says he nisses the challenge of serving on the board, but is relieved to be ee from the financial worries of trying to make ends meet at the

Evans commented at a luncheon held in his honor Tuesday at Lord Chumley's, Altamonte Springs, that he was "fortunate in the quality of board members I served with, and in their good

Looking into the future, Evans predicted that the continued rowth of the hospital would provide a fine medical center for seminole County, "If someone takes the time to compare, he will find Seminole Memorial just as good as others in the area," said

First appointed by Gov. Fuller Warren, Evans has served under ight Florida governors during his time on the board. Appointed 1952 to the first board, Evans served as chairman in 1975-76. In 971, he was absent from the board for one year. One of the high points of his service, said Evans, was seeing the resent hospital built and opened in 1956, replacing the old 15-bed ernald-Laughton Hospital on Oak Avenue. "It was thanks to him (Evans) and others like him, that we're ot in critical financial straits today," commented Hospital Administrator Robert Besserer. "They saw that the hospital kept with the growth of the community and the population it ser-

Evans said that being a county hospital, Seminole Memorial had not emphasized the public relations aspect of its image as much as private hospitals in the area, but Allan Keen, current board chairman, said he had plans to beef up the hospital's public

Keen presented Evans a plaque in recognition of his service to Since relinquishing his duties on the board, Evans said he has been devoting his time to his citrus and vegetable business in

Reds Have Rose Baffled

TAMPA (AP) - "I wish they would just look me straight in the eye and tell me the reason," Pete Rose said. "If I knew the reason, maybe I could deal with it. "I'd much rather somebody tell me, "Pete, you're getting old, you can't cut it any more.' Or say, 'Your arm's bad, you can't throw any more.' Or 'You've slowed up.' "But, no, they just say, 'What you're asking, it's too rich. We Pete Rose is confused. He is disheartened. He is disillusioned.

Seventeen years of dedication and loyalty to the Cincinnati Reds, the only baseball organization he has ever been with. And now they are treating him like a total stranger. The wound obviously cuts deep into the little gut fighter from the other end of town-"Mr. Hustle" himself, "Mr. Cincinnati Red," who more than any other man has symbolized the grit and gristle that has carried the team to four National League pen-nants and two World Series championships in the last seven One of the shocking developments of the spring has been the Reds' failure to sign the scrappy All-Star veteran to a 1977 contract. They have invoked the option clause, meaning Rose remains under contract at the same $200,000 salary he drew in 1976 or with a 20 per cent cut — the club's prerogative. If the contract is not renewed. Rose will be a free agent after the 1977 season. Don't be surprised if he becomes a New York Yankee. He is George Steinbrenner's type of player - all "I'm not trying to hold anybody up," Rose said. "I just want what I deserve. I don't know what Joe Morgan makes and I don't care. I set my figure a week and a half before Joe signed." Morgan, the Reds' second baseman and the National League's Most Valuable Player last season, signed for a reported $1.2 million for three years. Shortstop Dave Concepcion signed this week for five years and $1 million. Catcher Johnny Bench is completing a two-year pact calling for $250,000 a year. Neither Rose nor the Reds management has disclosed what the All-Star third baseman is asking. It is believed in the three-year,

$1.2 million range. Rose, at 35, is a bargain at any price. Baseball should preserve Rose is proud of his record of durability and consistency — 490 consecutive games, 11 of 12 seasons with a better than - 300 average, eight years with 200 hits or more (bettered only by Ty Cobb's nine) and only 119 away from 3,000 hits. Yet he is beginning to recognize that baseball can be a cold, impersonal business and appreciation can fade quickly. "Nobody seems to remember that I have jumped from one position to another - second base to the outfield to third - every time the club needed a boost. In 1975 we were five games below .500 when they moved me to third base. Then we started moving.
