SANFORD - The owner wants to demolish the old Chase & Cobuilding at 200 Oak Avenue. The Sanford Historic Preservation Board however, has said no.

The next step will be brought up this evening when the Sanford City Commission will be asked to overturn the board's decision. The matter won't be discussed without a fight, Board member Jerry Mills plans to express his opinion on the matter to the commissioners.

Soviet salior defects

three Soviet Northern Fleet ships visiting this North Florida Navy base has defected, officials said. The sailor, whose name was not released, turned himself over to the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service in Jacksonville and asked for permission to remain in this country, officials said Saturday.

A State Department spokesman said no decision has been made on the sailor's case.

INS notified the State Department and the FBI about the Soviet's request, but representatives of both agencies said they had few details about the case. INS officials couldn't be reached for comment Sunday. Calls to the Jacksonville office were answered by a recorded message.

Radioactive waste causing pollution

TAMPA - Gypsum stacks where state health officials have permitted disposal of hundreds of tons of low-level radioactive waste have been singled out by environmental officials as a source of groundwater pollution. The sah-gray stacks of gypsum, a slightly radioactive byproduct of Central Florida's fertiliser industry, rise from the industrial landscape in parts of Hillsborough and Polk counties. Records at the state Department of Environmental Regula-tion show that the stacks have been a source of water pollution in the area.

"I was not aware of this information," said Mary Clark, chief of the office of radiation control in the Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services, which has allowed the burial of added radioactive materials in the stacks.

The area's nine phosphate fertiliser manufacturers acknowl-edge burying debris such as radium waste cleaned from fertilizer plant filters and pipes, but say it poses no greater danger than the gypourn itself.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE School funds formula challenged

sociated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE - The formula used to divvy up billions of dollars among Florida schools is faced with challenges on two fronta: a fight over property taxes in one county and a victory over impact fees in another.

Late last month, a circuit judge upheid a lawsuit filed by the Sarasota School Board and ruled that the state was usurping the board's authority to set the rate of taxation. Earlier this spring, the state Supreme Court issued a precedent-setting decision that upbeld an impact fee on new residential development for school construction in St. Johns County.

ort the local school "Both car "Both cases support the local school boards' right under the (state) Constitution to levy millage for support of education." Frank Darden, associate director of the Florida School Boards Association, said Friday.

The Sarasota case, however, is broader in its scope, he said. "This is the first time I'm aware of that such a bold statement has been made by a court," Darden said.

The state plans to file an appeal of that order Monday with the 2nd District Court of Appeal, possibly requesting that the issue be passed immediately on to the state Supreme Court, according to Joseph Mellichamp, senior assistant attorney gencral.

On Tuesday, Mellichamp's office will have to go to trial court to fight an identical lawsuit filed last week in Alachua County.

The state seems to agree about the potential impact of the initial ruling in the Sarasota case. Its request for rehearing in Sarasota cited "the statewide impact" of the decision.

College graduation down for black men

FORT LAUDERDALE - AL though more black men than ever are attending Florida public universities, fewer are graduatng. a newspaper reported Sun-

In 1986, 563 earned bachelor's degrees from the state, while in 1990, only 520 did, reported the Sun-Sentinel of Port Lauderdale. Among all races and genders of college students, only black men experienced such a downturn, according to university system

According to university system figures. Educators speculate that the explanation may be a combina-tion of factors: high schools that do not academically prepare them for college, feelings of isolation in predominantly white colleges and the rising costs of tuition and student housing.

"Many come from black neighborhoods and go to institutions that are the other way around," said Newton Moore, coordinator of precollegiate programs at Florida Interna-tional University in Miami.

"Look at how many black faculty or minorities and what do you see? Not many. That can make a black student feel uncomfortable. There is no role model to inspire that student."

ome black men say the road radiation is paved in racism. Curtis Hankerson, a graduate student at FIU and the first in his family to earn a college degree, said he had cagerly entered college but almost left when he encountered racist comments from professors. "Last spring, I had a professor say in class that blacks are racist, but I didn't challenge him." Hankerson said. "I knew if I challenged him. my grades would suffer. As a black man. you have to learn when to speak and when not to.'

Bennie Osborne, assistant director of equal opportunity programs at FIU, said professors ield a lot of power over studentr.

"When you are the only black in class and a professor says something derogatory about your race and you report him, he knows it was you," Osborne said. "Now, you must deal with issues of retaliation. You either swallow your pride and take it. or you switch majors or quit school."

For those who do finish college, the rewards are great. College-educated black men post median annual earnings of $28,288 compared to $18,356 for those with only a high school

School won't solve demand for space

FORT MYERS - Florida's much-in-demand 10th state university won't make much of a dent in the demand for enroliment space in a crowded system, educators say.

Southwest Florida's university is expected to open in fall 1997 with about 1,500 to 2,000 students.

Enrollment should meet a planned capacity of 9.500 by the end of the decade — at about the time 80,000 students statewide are expected to be knocking on the doors of Florida's universities, wanting in.

Even though the new school won't soak up much of the statewide demand, education officials say its size is the most practical in terms of student demand and cost-efficiency.

"Building a bigger campus in Southwest Florida boils down to one big factor, dollars," said Charles Edwards, a Fort Myers attorney who's chairman of the university system's Board of Regents.

The overwhelming demand for enrollment space was a major force in gaining approval last spring for the state's 10th university to be built at a yet-to-be-decided site in Lee, Collier, Charlotte, Glades or Hendry counties.

ST. PETERSBURG -

Women and hodybuilders say, they've had their breasts and biceps enhanced in a trance by Michael Stivers, but professional groups say his practice shows the need to regulate hypnosis. If anything convinces me we need standards for the practice of hypnotherapy. that's it." James R. Council. a researcher for the American Psychological Association. said of Stivers' claims.

Stivers, a former police officer and professional wrestler also known as "Pretty Boy Behning", scoffed at doubts raised by professional organizations and other experts. "This is not a scam." he said.

Some patients agreed. Carol Bryant said her bust grew 3 inches after eight weeks of hypnosis by Stivers. Cindy, a client who wouldn't give her last name, said she gained more than 2 inches in seven sessions.

"It was so amazing I had to are it three times before I believed it," she said. Tom Toy, 27. a Pinellas County juvenile probation officer, said Stivers helped him swell his biceps one-quarter inch and improve his concentration for the June 1 Mr.

Tampa Bay bodybuilding contest. Toy placed third. "There's no doubt in my mind that it worked," Toy said.

Patients weren't unanimous. A 58-year-old Tampa woman in Stivers' office who wouldn't give her name said her bust measurement grew 3 inches through hypnosis in April, but then shrank 1½ inches.

"Anecdotal statements by the patients do not qualify as evidence," said Michael Nash. president of the American Psychological Association's hypnosis division. "It is too easily contaminated by wishes and fantasies."

Breast measurements vary normally, and change with many factors such as inhaling or exhaling, flexing the month, or sexual arousal. Enlargement through hyp: nosis, if any, is unlikely to last, the APA experts said. Tampa psychologist Michael Stevens agreed with Council that Stivers' practice illustrated a need for regulation.

Florida law says therapeutic hypnotism must be performed by a doctor, dentist, chiropractor or optometrist, or under their supervision, but no state agency is in charge of making sure the standard is met.

"In hypnosis, anybody can basically hang up a shingle," Stevens said.

Stivers, who has offices in St. Petersburg and Largo, has a high school degree and no formal education in health care or psychology. While a police officer, he had a week of hypnosis training for officers at St. Petersburg and a 52-hour course with a private Instructor in Tampa.

MIAMI - Prosecutors Lave to reinstate the manalaughter conviction of a police officer whose shooting of a black motorist led to three nights of race riots in Miami.

The 3rd District Court of Appeals last month ordered a new trial for William Lozano, saying jurors couldn't help but be influenced by the tense atmosphere in the city, and faulting the trial judge for refusing to hold a hearing on the defense's change of venue motion.

The defense argued the Hispanic officer could not get a fair trial at a courthouse a few blocks from the shooting scene because of widespread fears among city officials and the community that an acquittal would trigger another riot.

In a written appeal filed with the state Supreme Court on Friday, prosecutors said the appellate decision "ignores reality and confounds logic."

Under the new law, people with more than $100,000 in taxable income. $200,000 if filing jointly, will be taxed at the 10 percent rate. Those with incomes of more than $200,000, or $400,000 filing jointly, will be taxed at the 11 percent rate.

Shotgun blasts wound man while driving

By J. MARK BARFIELD Hehrald Staff Writer

SANFORD - A Sanford man was recovering from several pellet wounds this morning after he was shot with a shotgun Saturday night while he drove by a group of four men.

It is a quintessentially American business venture. Button-down International Business Machines, the staid corporate giant of Wall Street, teams up with Apple Computer, the highly creative loner from Silicon Valley, to make a better operating system for the next generation of computers.

This extraordinary alliance between two longtime rivals with markedly different corporate cultures could propel computer technologies to new heights in the office and nome during the decade ahead. In the process, the partnership could help the United States maintain its global edge in the highly competitive field of business and personal computers.

The joint venture announced by Apple and IBM is being reviewed by the Justice Department for potential anti-trust implications. But many industry analysts believe the idea would not stifle competition and therefore will get the Justice Department's approval. The new entity created by the two firms will be jointly owned but independently managed.

A major objective of the partnership is to combine IBM's strengths in marketing and business computers with Apple's userfriendly software for home computers.

The companies plan to make it easier for Apple's popular Macintosh system to exchange information and communicate with IBM systems used widely by large corporations. At present, the two systems are not compatible. By integrating them, the computers produced by either IBM or Apple could be used to work together, thereby appealing to more customers than either company could on its own.

Be gentle with 'decent' smokers

As I passed the two women standing on the back steps of the building where I work, hastily puffing on their cigarettes so they could finish before their break was over, I realized I was probably having "inappropriate" feelings, as the new pop psychology vernacular goes. I guessed I should have been relieved that none of us would have to be breathing their smoke. anymore, now that we have a "no smoking" policy. Our work clothes would no longer carry policy. Our work clothes would no longer carry home the scent of cigarette amoke to infect the other things hanging in our closets, and my long hair wouldn't waft their smoke's dusty stink toward my nose every time I turned my head. Instead, I feit a little pity for them — both nice women, women I like. They looked sort of lost, out of place, anachronisms from a bygone ers when amoking was a social rite and joy. They'd breen amoking was a social rite and joy. They'd been amoking was a social rite and joy. They'd been amoking at their deaks for years, smoking as they answered their phones, amoking as they drank their coffee, smoking as they typed. They hadn't changed, the rest of us did, and they are no longer welcome in our midst in the same way they used to be.

If you've never smoked, and especially if you've long had to endure the pestilence of inconsiderate smokers, it must seem strange that someone should feel pity for someone who made you so uncomfortable. And I totally agree with "no-smoking-in-the-building" rules because not only is smoking offensive to non-smokers, we now know it's dan-and the work they did. My brother, who has smoked since he was gerous to breathe econd-hand smoke.

Yet I also un-derstand the social importance of a habit like smoking. especially after it's practiced hour after hour, day after day, year after year. My parents were smokers. many of my older relatives were smokers, my brother is still a smoker. I believe they saw their smoking as as much a part of their identities as the clothes they chose. the cars they drove the child we were into adulthood.

A group of smokers in my city have organized to fight the city's proposed "no smoking" ordinance. I wonder if their vehement assertions of their entitlement to amoke in public places is as much a concern with their "rights" as it is a wish not to be rejected; not to be cast out for something they consider so much a part of their self-images

I hope it won't be long until smoking is just naturally considered something one does only in places where there is no one who objects - at home, in personal cars, in smoking lounges. But as someone who grew up with parents who were smokers and has cherished relatives and friends who smoke, I'd be more comfortable with a gentler approach to our reproach.

We all have the right to refuse to be amoked around, and there will always be boors who can't take a hint. I, for one, am just a little tired of the Holy Crunade against basically decent people who need only a gentle nudge to take it to the porch.

Amarillo in tough spot over bombs

WASHINGTON - Some residents of the Texas panhandle city of Amarilio believe they have been victims of "high stakes blackmail" conducted by the Energy Department, which is searching for new places to build nuclear bombs.

By ,1993, the Energy Department must decide how to consolidate a current nuclear weapons complex, which is made up of 13 plants in 12 states. The fragmentation was once deemed necessary to prevent a crippling strike at any given plant. Now several are slated to close while others will expand their current functions.

The Pantex plant at Amarillo, where weapons are sent for final assembly, was counted as an svsicm. Ibm work stations will de ca using programs written for an Apple computer. In future versions of its Macintosh, Apple will use IBM microprocessors. Powerful new computer chips produced by Motorola will round out the cooperative effort.

Together, IBM and Apple account for about 40 percent of the U.S. computer industry. By pooling their talents, the two American giants should spur innovation in everything from software to sales strategies. Their strategic alliance should speed the development of new technologies and help the American computer industry remain the world's leader.

A fundamental truth

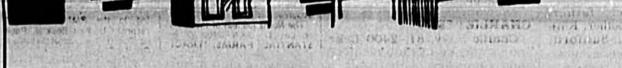

The just-concluded inquiry into the Dec. 3 collision of two Northwest Airlines planes at the Detroit airport contained a useful reminder, not just to those in the transportation business, but to everyone.

The National Transportation Safety Board found that, while a thick fog and poor surface markings and lights contributed to the fatal crash, the major cause was human error mistakes by a pilot and first officer on one of the planes, by a controller in the control tower, and by several others. Mostly, people just didn't keep their minds focused on their jobs, the NTSB said.

Modern airliners are jammed with computers, communications gear and other wonders of the Space Age. This high-tech equipment is essential to safe, efficient air travel. But when all is said and done. computers are no more reliable than the people who flip their switches and punch their keyboards.

Flying an airplane - in fact, doing almost any sort of job - eventually comes down to basics: human beings putting first things first, paying attention to what they're doing.

Rid housing projects of guns

The clashing of constitutional rights echoes constitutional right to bear arms. That's the nightly throughout the crowded public housing projects of our cities. It is the sound of gunfire.

And while lawyers are debating our right to bear arms vs. our right to live without bullets whizzing by, innocent residents are caught in the deadly crossfire. Some die: some are merely wounded. Sometimes we read about them, usually in a news brief on the inside pages of our daily paper.

Dateline Chicago: A boy is blinded by stray gunfire. a girl is shot on a playground.

Baltimore: A 6-year-old girl walks into a drug gang's gun war and dies.

Washington: A stray shot kills a young mother behind the wheel of her station wagon. as her three children sit in the back seat.

Now this, just the other day, out of New York City: 14-year-old Julio Millan Jr. is playing with his pet Chihuahua, on his bed in his room, which was decorated with his Little League trophies. On the street below, a resident of the East River Houses project becomes angry and begins firing his semiautomatic pistol. One round flies through the fourth-floor window and strikes Julio in the hcad.

There is also news of lawyers leaping to respond: In Chicago, public housing lawyers are trying to stop this senseless killing - and in Washington, the National Rifle Association's lawyers are trying to stop the Chicago officials from succeeding. So far, it's a standoff, a Lawfight at the OK Corral that is being anxiously watched by housing officials in other cities.

The controversy began when the NRA suddenly opened fire this year on the Chicago Public Housing Authority's Operation Clean Sweep. The inspection and confiscation effort had been underway without complaint since 1988 to enforce a 20-year-old provision of its leases banning all firearms from the public housing units. Inside Chicago's public housing projects, which are perhaps the most crimeridden in the nation. 71 people were murdered last year, most of them by guns. This year's rate is soaring horribly higher - 43 murders through May alone, despite the best efforts of enforcement officials. Residents of Chicago's projects cheered the erackdown and confiscation effort.

CHA was denying project residents their Letters are subject to editing.

group's traditional Second Amendment line. one that has been opposed by experts including former Chief Justice Warren Burger and retired Judge Robert Bork, who say the Founding Fathers merely intended to guarantee states the right to arm their militia.

In a bit of a trick shot, the NRA also said the 13th Amendment that abolished slavery and the badges of slavery also works here: the NRA said a ban on guns for public housing tenants "will have a disproportionate impact on persons of African heritage." (Then again. those 71 murders in Chicago's projects also had a "disproporflonate impact on persons of African heritage.") wounded.

"In a crazy way, we've wound up on the side of the NRA," says New York City housing spokesman Val Coleman. "In New York, we simply won't do it (ban all guns from the projects) because it would make a public housing resident a second class citizen."

Perhaps. But it would also give New York's public housing tenants a first-class chance at a life of security in their own homes.

LETTERS TO EDITOR

Comes now the NRA. In a letter dated May 8. Letters to the editor are welcome. All letters must the NRA's deputy general counsel. Robert be signed, include the address of the writer and a Dowlut, fired his first legal salvo at Chicago daytime telephone number. Letters should be on housing officials. The NRA argued that the a single subject and be as brief as possible.

divided, with the Chamber of Commerce and city officiala welcoming the expansion and a strangebedfellows coalition of ranchers, farmers and peaceniks saying no.

Amarillo activists say that the Energy Department is promising the town a carrot of prosperity if the town agrees to accept a bigger plant. But the agency is also swinging the stick of retribution by threatening to close the existing operations in Amarillo if the town decides against expansion.

For years, the government's bomb-building business has remained under classified wraps, leaving a $100 billion legacy of environmental damage. Still, when the opportunity to expand Pantex first arose last winter. Amarillo was anxious to fight for. not against, the plant, believing it would be a financial godsend. But second thoughts sceped in after local residents began sifting through the potential dangers and the Energy Department's shoddy safety record.

Pantex was one of five existing weapons facilities that were asked to submit bids for expansion. The Energy Department also invited cities without existing plants to submit proposals, but nobody bit. Since the department didn't want any messy opposition, community support was one of the chief criteria in the selection process. The government assured Amarillo that it would make a "short list" if the town mustered obvious enthusiasm for the expansion. Nobody told the city fathers that there was no long list.

Bowing to the Energy Department's desires. Pantex proponents lobbied with the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce and others to produce a bid that showed local residents backing the expansion by a 4-to-1 margin. Many residents were slow to realize that plutonium wasn't the typical pork-barrel project - that the fertile lands of northwest Texas were at stake.

"I thought surely someone would come forward and say that this (endorsement) is ridiculous." Bill O'Brien, a local businessman, told our reporter Jan Moller. O'Brien started a watchdog group called Operation Common Sense when he became worried about the lack of information provided to residents concerning safety and health.

Some in Amarillo think they are being asked to bid blindly on the expansion. The Energy Department won't say exactly what the new and expanded Pantex plant will do. But there is a strong possibility that Pantex will have to take over the potentially dangerous plutonium handling and storage formerly done at the Rocky Flats nuclear weapons plant in Colorado.

'Fun Under the Sun' a big hit

Recreation program finds the perfect mix

By LACY DOMEN Herald People Editor

LAKE MARY - Anything can happen if you're a kid involved in the city sponsored "Fun Under the Sun" recreation program in Lake Mary this summer. You can discuss the merits of current movies. Last week, the 60 students 4 to 11 years old voted to rent the movie "Problem Child." They said it gave them ideas.

"I got some ideas from the movie, but I'm not telling 'cause don't want my dad to know," Lisa Litton, 8, daughter of Lake Mary City Manager John Litton said.

"We don't rat on each other," Kendall Litton, 7. Lisa's sister added.

"I might try it where the kid drives his dad's car," Chris Clark, 61/2, sald.

"I already tried that," Stephen Johnson, 61/2, boasted,

"Well, I already saw "Problem Child II, rated PG-13 and a guy barfed," Chris countered.

You can familiarize yourself with local geography.

"Mostly everybody here lives In Lake Mary but I don't. I live in my neighborhood somewhere,' Chrisexplained.

You can create beautiful craft projects. Robin Dvornick, 8, explained projects that include t-shirts, maskmaking, book holders, light switch covers, and baskets filled with potpourri. Other students who especially like making crafts are: Jolea Parrish. 8. Cindy Katerreo, 6, Jeremy Rabun, 91/4, Alex Lockman, 5. Gary Hancock, 9, Andrea Martin, 7. and Timmy Clarke, 8, who uses his creations as gifts for others. Both Jolea and Lisa said their mother puts craft items in boxes and save them.

"My mom puts them in a box and marks it useless," Robbie Heath giggled.

Volunteer donates valuable time

If you've considered volunteering your time to a worthy cause, the Lake Mary Community Building, formely the CIA Building, is the place to be tonight, July 22, 7:30 p.m.

Lake Mary resident Rosella Bonham will speak on "Volunteerism."

Rosella is an avid volunteer from way back.

"I just feel you should give something back to the community in which you work." she said.

Currently president of the Central Florida Chapter of Hadassah, whose members volunteer their time to raise funds in support of quality health care and research. Rosella explained that Hadassah is the research hospital in Israel that treats anyone in need, regardless of race, religious preference or degree of wealth.

Rosella served as District 47 Governor of Toastmasters, presiding over Florida and the Bahamas. She led the district to 'Distinguished Status'.

"I'm proud of that. Only 10 out of 125 districts achieved that status," she said. Rosella is currently the mentor of the Toastmasters Club at Seminole Community College, a position she has filled for four cars.

Also a businesswoman. Rosella and her usband. Tom, who himself volunteers time as a Master Gardener at the Agriculture Center in Sanford, conduct communications seminars through their business, Development 2000.

She is also secretary of the Community improvement Association in Lake Mary. greets terminally ill kids at the airport for Give Kids the World" and is volunteer ditor of her synagogue news bulletin.

City makes final payment on association building

Martin Herald, Sanford, Florida - Monday, July 22, 1991 - 7A

LAKE MARY - The city of Lake Mary has made the final payment to finalize the purchase of the Civic Improvement Association building. The balance of $84,150 was paid on July 12.

In April, 1990, the city, which already owned the 3acre property at 260 N. Country Club Road, agreed to purchase the 4,800 foot structure. The building was originally built through private donations from and obtained by members of the improvement association.

When the city first announced plans to purchase the building, some controversy was noted as a number of CIA members said they would end up paying for the building a second time, by allowing the city to purchase It with tax dollars.

Other members however, supported the sale. The cost of upkeep and maintenance had climbed, and they approved the idea as it would

At the time of the initial purchase, the president of the Civic Improvement Association was Randy Morris, who is now the city's mayor. The current president is Bryan Lowe, who accepted the city's check from John Holland. director of the city's Parks and Recreation Department.

A peek at the future Sanford looks ahead while playing for state berth

By ROBBIE STOCK Herald Correspondent

SANFORD - Many high school baseball players have the ability to play in college and possibly someday the pros. But if no scout or coach ever sees them perform, they'll never get a chance.

That's just one of the reasons why Seminole High School baseball coach Mike Powers transferred his summer-league team to American Legion this season, where the Sanford Post 53 Orioles have an impressive 24-8 mark and are the top seed in this week's district tournament (which begins Tuesday).

'It's been an institution in the United States." said Powers of the American Legion. "It's been around forever."

While competing this week against four other squads. Powers hopes his players will see the future of the Orioles - as a member in the Class "A" American Legion program, which is running its district championship along with the Class "B" tournament this week at DeLand's Conrad Teams in Class "B" cannot carry anyone who has graduated high school while a Class "A" squad is allowed to field any players 19 and under. In Class "B," there is only a state tournament to culminate the season. In Class "A." outstanding ballclubs can advance to the American Legion World Series, where scouts of all kinds flock to the nation's best.

"I think it's real important for the kids to have somwehere to play after they graduate." commented Powers. "When I went to the Firecracker Tournament in DeLand, I saw 15 college coaches."

Not only would Powers's graduates have better chances of later success, but competing against older, tougher teams could only improve his returning players.

Also, American Legion ballclubs get to travel more than those in the National American Baseball Federation or other summer leagues. In the past two months, the Orioles have traveled as far north as Gainesville and received a preview of their Volusia County counterparts, whom they will face next spring as Seminole High School. For now, though, the Orioles must concentrate their efforts on the first tournament game. Because they are the top seed, Sanford receives a first-round bye and will play the winner of the Deland-Plerson contest Wednesday at Conrad Park. Game time is 3:30 p.m.

If the Orioles win Wednesday, they will play the winner of Tuesday's Port Orange-Deltona winner on Thursday at 1 p.m. Should Sanford lose on Wednesday, it will play Friday at 4 p.m. at the DeLand Airport Complex.

Sanford was 12.2 versus district competition this summer.

The double-elimination tournament will come to a close Saturday, with either one or two games, starting at 10 a.m. and 4 p.m., deciding the champion.

"Our kids have really had fun this summer." said Powers. "They're looking forward to this tournament.

Powers will be without six players, including three pitchers and his starting catcher, when the See Legion, Page 2B

OVIEDO — Ben Dunemann tossed a complete game six-hitter Saturday night as the Oviedo Junior League All-Stars defeated the Dr. Phillips All-Stars 9-2 to win the District 14 Tournament at the Ovledo Little League Baseball Complex.

Dr. Phillips, which lost 5-4 to Oviedo in 11 innings last Thursday, earned another shot at the locals by defeating Rolling Hills Friday night.

The visitors from Orlando then forced a winner-take-all game by defeating the hosts 17-11 in a rain delayed game Saturday morning. But the final was all Oviedo as it scored three runs in both the first und_encond . innings_and. lod_?.A.

The three modern-day stars, whose careers shadowed one another from the late '60s to the carly '80s, were welcomed by 31 Hall of Famers, the most ever to gather at Cooperstown.

Among the Hall of Famers who returned Sunday were Perry's San Francisco Gianis teammates, Willie Mays, Willie McCovey and Juan Marichal; Jenkins' Chicago Cubs teammates, Ernie Banks and Billy Williams; as well as Joe DiMaggio and Ted Williams

LONG POND, Pa. (AP) - Rusty Wallace knows about being in the right place at the right time.

He narrowly missed a wreck involving 10 cars Sunday and kept running strong in his Pontiac Grand Prix until rain came while he was in first place in the NASCAR Miller Genuine Draft 500. Miller Genuine Draft is Wallace's sponsor.

Wallace's first win at Pocono International Raceway was the 20th of his career, second of the season and first in three months with his first-year Penske Racing leam.

Mark Martin finished second and Geoff Bodine third, both in Fords.

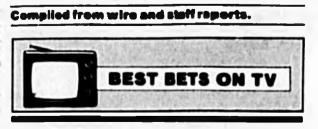

Andretti wins again

TORONTO - When the weather heats up, so does Michael Andretti.

The 28-year-old charger won again Sunday, leading every lap in the Toronto Molson-Indy to earn his fourth victory in the last six races and chip a little off Bobby Rahal's Indy-car point lead.

In the intense heat and humidity that cloaked the 1.78-mile, 11-turn temporary downtown circuit with haze. Andretti was "unapproachable," according to his father and teammate. Mario Andretti, who wound up a distant second.

He wound up beating Mario to the finish line by 15.85 seconds, with Bobby Rahal the only other driver on the lead lap. Scott Pruett was a lap down in fourth, followed another lap back by John Andretti, Mario's nephew.

Girls deserve same opportunities to play as boys

What about the girls?

Good question. What about the girls?

In all the excitement the last couple of weeks about Sanford laying the groundwork for moving its 10, 11 and 12-year-old boys baseball program to Little League Baseball combined with the beginning of the All-Star season, much of the space here has been dedicated to boys, boys, boys.

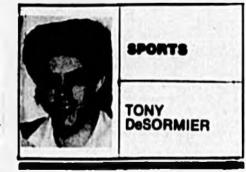

But what about the girls?

For all of its right youth baseball leagues. Seminole County has just three youth softball leagues -Sanford Recreation, Seminole Softball Club and Oviedo Little league.

Doesn't seem hardly fair, does it? Especially in light of the fact that, at the high school level. Seminole County softball teams - primarily Lake Brantley, Lake Mary and Lake Howell - generally meet with more success at the state level than the baseball teams.

One reason for that is that girls' softball in this county is more "team" oriented rather than league oriented. By that, I mean that those girls who wish to play softball in Seminole County have just two options: play in whatever of the three leagues is closest to them or find some traveling team to join.

That's the avenue most of the county's top players follow, joining traveling teams. In recent years, Domino's Pizza and Hot Tuna have teams consisting of high school and younger players.

The only real problem I have is that traveling teams are, almost by definition, exclusionary. If you're going to be asked to play on or expect to try out for and make a traveling team, the chances are very good you're already something of an established player.

Where does that leave young girls just getting started in the sport? Where do they go to learn the basics of the sport in a less competitive, instructional-oriented setting?

Again, the only real options are Sanford, Oviedo and the Seminole Softball Club. And that's just not enough. Even the questionable resolve, that given the same number of boys and girls, less girls will want to play organized sports than boys. I can't believe that ratio extends to eight leagues for boys and three leagues for girls.

I'd be willing to gamble that if some of the leagues spent half the been very succesful independent time establishing a girls' softball program that they invest in the boys' baseball program, they'd find that there are girls in Seminole County who are interested in playing and just need the opport unity.

To a degree, the Sanford Recreation Department found that out this summer. Under recreation supervisor Jim Adams, the Sanford Recreation Department made it a priority this year to breathe life intoa program that had been dormant for nearly three years.

That investment of time and energy led to the formation of not one, but two four-team leagues in Sanford, a Junior League for girls 12-and-Under and a Senior League for girls 15-and-Under.

So successful was the program that the Recreation Department will follow that up with its first evergirls' softball fall league (call 330-5697 for more information).

Currently, Oviedo is the only one of the three Little Leagues in Seminole County that supports a softball program. By comparison, Allamonte Springs has two divisions - American and National - at the Little League (10, 11 and 12) and Senior League (14 and 15) levels but doesn't have a softball program

As a result, much of the load has fallen on the Seminole Softball Club. By and large, that league has been the sole outlet in the county for girls to play softball. To that organization's credit, it's a task that it has done well.

This year, for example, two of the Seminole Softball Club's All-Star teams - the 16-and-Under Falcons and 12-and-Under Hawks - have qualified for two national tournaments each. Both the Falcons and Hawks will play in their respective. divisions of the National Softball Association and American Softball Association national playoffs.

But we still need more. The girls deserve more. We (collectively) talk about the need for additional recreational outlets for our county's youth, but when it comes down to actual planning and building, it seems that what we mean is that we need more leagues and fields for the boys to play on.

Lake Mary is in the process of planning a new recreational facility. Hopefully, those individuals involved in the planning of that facility will also consider the needs and requirements of beginning and maintaining a girls' softball league and not just what is needed to support yet another youth league that would probably be 90 percent DOVS

I know that creating new leagues. is easier said than done and it has its built in collection of headaches. not the least of which is the building of new or sharing of old facilities. Coaches, umpires, etc. . , all are conditions that need to be addressed.

But if we're willing to do it for the boys, certainly the girls deserve no 1085 grounds crew has to be given special mention. Saturday's first game started at 10:30 a.m. But at 11:45 a.m., with Dr. Phillips coming to bat in the top of the fourth inning, the heavens opened up again and flooded the field.

After several phone calls to find another place to play proved futile, Oviedo used an airboat on a trailer to blow the water off the infield after which Diamond Dry was applied to finish the job. The airboat was then taken off the trailer and ran around the outfield to dry the grass.

At 2:12 p.m., play resumed.

Control nematodes before planting

Preparing to plant a fail vege-table garden usually involves some kind of control for nematodes. One option to using the soll fumigant Vapam would be to solarize your soil. This non-chemical control for nematodes uses the sun's energy to heat up the soil to reduce nematode populations.

The procedure for soll solarization involves covering the garden plot with clear plastic for at least 4 weeks, usually during the hottest and sunniest time of the year. In July and August, air and soil temperatures are naturally the highest and day length and the angle at which the sun hits the earth provide maximum solar energy to heat the soil.

Before covering the garden. the soil should be well tilled to destroy clode and plant debris which could interfere with unform conduction of heat through the soil and thus protect nematodes from the full effect of the solarization. When the soll is well-tilled and its surface even before the covering is applied.

there can be maximum contact between the plastic and the soll surface with few air pockets to interfere with the heating of the soil by the sun. All other soil preparation such as fertilizing. adjusting the pH and placing irrigation should be completed before the plastic is put in the garden. This will minimize the need to disturb the treated soil before planting.

Raise the center of the garden to form a small crown or peak which will allow water to runoff the plastic instead of puddle. Solarization seems to b: less effective in periods of high rainfall probably because water standing on the plastic absorbs the heat instead of the soil. Soil moisture must be high before the plastic is placed, wet soil conducts heat better than dry soil, therefore, moistening the soil before covering it will provide a deeper treatment. In addition, nematodes are more susceptible to the lethal effects of the heat when they are in moist soil. They may be dormant if in dry soil.

Use clear polyethylene instead of black. Clear plastic produces higher soil temperatures faster than black plastic. Sunlight passes through clear plastic to heat soil directly. Black plastic intercepts the light and the soil is heated primarily by conduction only where the plastic actually touches the soil.

Thin plastic (1 to 2 mil) may permit more sunlight to penetrate to the soil and has been reported to favor more rapid and deeper control of soil-borne fungi than thicker plastic (6 mil). However, equal control was eventually obtained with both thicknesses and thicker plastic is less likely to tear.

if she would just ask. Sometimes when we talk, I say something

Leave the tarp in place until you are ready to plant. It has no detrimental effect on the aoil so leaving it on will only prolong the treatment period and reduce the possibility of recontamina-tion before planting. When you are ready to plant, it may be possible to remove the plastic so that it may be reused (especially if 6 mil was used).

When planting the garden, be careful to avoid bringing contaminated plants or untreated soil into the treated area. Do not till or otherwise disturb the treated soil if possible. Deep tillage can bring up soil from depths that were not adequately heated and contaminate the crop root zone.

For more information about soil solarization, just give me a call or drop by the Agriculture Center for our free brochure. Use of brand names in this article is for educational purposes only and not meant as endorsement of any product.

DEAR ABBIT: As a first-time mother, I want to give our child the best. Since Nicholas is now 19 months old, he will soon be spending more time with his paternal grandparents. They crave all the time they can get with him, and he loves them dearly. It would also give my husband and me a much-needed break if Nicky could spend weekends and vacations with his grandparents.

The problem is their grammar. it is atrocious! The double negatives, the "ain'ts." the sloppy way they speak ("It's gonna rain Sa-erdee"), etc., just drive me batty! I don't want Nicky to speak that way. And suppose he picks up incorrect grammar from his grandparents - am I to say. "Your grandparents are yards, yet she calls me on the phone intermittently all day long - just to chat. I wouldn't mind if she called once for a brief conversation, but she often calls three to four and even five times a day, just to ask me what I'm doing. close and loving relationship with his grandparents will be of greater value to Nicky than any protection you can give him against exposure to sloppy

AL PROPER ADDRESS TO ADD.

Is laser surgery effective for treating hemorrholds?

DEAR DR. OUTT: Is the laser method for removing hemorthoids as painless as it has been tescribed on the TV shows? 1 have a problem with hemorrhoids, and I am not sure which method to consider.

DEAR BRADER: No method of hemoryhold removal is entirely painless because all the techniques alter living tissue that is supplied by nerves. For many people, laser treatment, which congulates the hemorrhoids, is perfectly satisfactory. I suggest you discuss your concerns with an MD who can advise you which method is right for you. For example, ligation (tying off) or surgical removal might be of more benefit to you, depending on the severity and location of your hemorrhoids. In general, be skeptical about television claims; they usually make things sound too easy.

DEAR DR. GOTT: 1 have a nagging cough I attribute to my bronchitis because my husband is a chain amolar. Someone told me about Bronkaids so I took them at a frantic pace. After almost a month in the hospital, because of a galloping pulse and damage from the medication. I am now home with a nitro patch and umpteen pills to control the situation. Some good came from the problem because my husband now smokes on the porch, but I am trying to warn people not to be their own physician and take medication without a doctor's approval.

DEAR READER: Over-the-counter medicines often contain compounds that can cause symptoms and side effects, especially if the medi-cines are taken too liberally or in inappropriate ways. For instance, the product you mention - Bronkaid tablets - contain ephedrine (which can cause overstimulation, nervousness, rapid pulse and urinary retention) and theophylline to com-mon cause of nauses and vomiting). Bronkaids are used for relief of bronchial asthma. not for the reason you mention: cturer recommends the ma no more than five tablets in any 24-hour period.
