Lake Mary, Longwood Fall Elections Top Voter Interest

By Richard Whittaker And Jane Casselberry

Five Seminole cities will hold fall municipal elections, but Lake Mary and Longwood will probably have the edge on voter interest following controversies that have surrounded their commissions for months.

Lake Mary's election will come first, in September. Longwood, Casselberry, Springs follow suit with the conventional November balloting.

Seminole County may join in with a special election on the penny sales tax question. Nov. 3 has been tentatively set for a voter decision but balloting is conditioned on county authorization by the commission. A public hearing has been scheduled for September

In Lake Mary, unlike last year when two city commissioners were elected without opposition, this year's Sept. 1 city election will see 10 candidates looking to fill one of the three open seats on the commission. Referendum questions concerning city charter amendments for a stronger city manager form of government and changing the city election date will also be on the Commissioners in Lake Mary are elected for two year terms. The pay for the position is $290 a month.

Last year the city had no elections because Paul Tremel was unopposed in his bid for a second two year term as a commissioner. John Percy was also elected to the commission unopposed when incumbant E. Russell Megonegal decided not to run for re-election. Megonegal had served on the commission for four years.

In the 1985 Lake Mary election 434 voters out of the 1.981 registered in the city turned out for a race that saw Charlie Webster defeat A. R. Jore for seat one on the commission. Lake Mary City Clerk Carol Edwards said the voter participation equaled. about 21.9 percent of the city's electorate for the election.

In the race for seat one this year Webster will face Randall Morris and Raymond G. Fox in his first re-election bid.

Morris is a marketing consultant and Fox is a retired naval officer with a small auto parts business in Lake Mary.

Three candidates will try to win commission seat three away from Arthur "Buzz" Petsos. The suspended commissioner is running for reelection in spite of the fact he's still awaiting trial on charges See ELECTIONS, page 5 A

Attempted Murder Charged In Knifing

A Sanford man was in stable condition in critical care today with knife wounds. The man accused of attacking him was being held without bond, charged with attempted murder. Sanford police reported James Herman Mitchell, 35, of 2100 E. 21st St., was stabbed four times, after having been beaten with a club fashioned from a tree branch. Arrested in the attack was Walter Lee

Brooks Jr., 28, of 6041/2 S. Laurel Ave., #6. Sanford, a Sanford sanitation department worker. He was nabbed on west Third Street at S. Laurel Avenue, three blocks from

Maple Ave., at about 9:35 p.m. Sunday and Brooks was arrested about 15 minutes later, a police

Heat's Grip Unabated

Power Use Records Set

By Herald Staff Writers

A flery orange sun burning through Sanford's morning haze signaled another sweltering session today as heat-wave temperatures continue to forge into the record-breaking range.

The high upper-90s temperatures have set power use records besides challenging 20-yearold daily heat records and warming up to the all-time Central Florida high of 103 degrees set in 1921. The Sanford Regional Airport tower in Sanford recorded 98 degrees Sunday and 99 Saturday. Today's forecast calls for temperatures In the upper 90s and a chance of afternoon thunderstorms. The heat is being caused by a dome of high pressure over Florida, according to the National Weather Service

A spokesman said while the official atmospheric temperature was 99, that temperature was exceeded in many Central Florida areas, particularly those densely populated or places with a lot of asphalt about. As an example, the Empire Bank on Airport Boulevard in Sanford showed a reading of 104 degrees around 4 p.m.

In Sanford, a spokesman for Central Florida Regional Hospital said there was one reported illness induced by the severe heat over the weekend. An 81-year-old man was admitted apparently suffering from heat exhaustion.

The spokesman said Joseph Shantz, of 229 Delespine St., DeBary, was responding to treatment and is listed in good condition at the hospital. Shantz was outside hanging laundry when he reportedly began feeling sick.

Ronald Thomas, supervisor at the Good Samaritan Home in Sanford reported no problems among the home's residents. He said the staff is keeping the elderly in the air conditioned home as much as possible and giving them lots of

With Penny Tax, Longwood Would Add Buildings, Parks Waller told the commission

By Jane Casselberry Herald Staff Writer

New municipal buildings and park facilities are on Longwood's list of public projects that would be funded by the one-cent local option sales tax if it is passed by county voters Nov. 3.

Listed in the resolution for items to be stipulated on the ballot were purchase of lend and construction of a civic center, a public works complex, a city hall and a fire station and park land and facilities. The resolution passed unanimously at a special meeting Thursday.

All of the items are on the city's five-year capital improve-

Lawmaker Vows Minority School Bill

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) - A black House member furious over the state university system's alow progress in hiring black administrators says he will sponsor legislation making university presidents personally accountable for hiring minorities.

Rep. Alonzo Reddick, D-Oriando, said he plans to in-troduce a bill for the 1988 legislative session next spring.

Heat Sets Record; Storm Fizzles Out

Staff and Wire Reports

If the warm, damp feelings experienced in recent days is getting you down, think snow. Or better, think about all last winter when you were bragging about central Florida weather. Yes, a new record was set for the 24-hour period ending at 8 a.m. today: a high of 99 degrees, breaking the old record of 98 degrees set in 1960. The low was 75 degrees in Sanford and 78 degrees at the Orlando International Airport.

Today shouldn't be that hot with winds coming from the north, northwest and the humidity down a little. Still, there are chances for a late afternoon shower.

Folks up in Jacksonville were hurt with a high reading of 101 degrees Sunday, highest in the state. Only rainfall recorded in Florida was at Tampa, Miami and Ft. Lauderdale.

A tropical depression brought rain and gusty winds along the Gulf Coast today but caused no damage, while thunderstorms that produced tornadoes in Detroit and Pennsylvania thrashed the East Coast and the Ohio Valley.

The tropical depression was expected to weaken as it moved inland, and "there is no Indication of further intensification (of the storm)," a forecaster at the National Hurricane Center in Miami said. "A lot of the showers and thundershowers have already moved ashore," he said late Sunday.

The weather service canceled tropical storm warnings for the Gulf Coast at 6 a.m. EDT today.

The storm was expected to produce up to five inches of rain and pack wind gusts of 50 mph in southwestern Louisiana and along the eastern coast of Texas, the weather service said.

"There are continuous. heavy winds, but the worst was probably over by (Sunday) evening," said Bob Case, a forecaster at the hurricane center.

No serious damage was reported. High winds and choppy seas triggered by the system apparently threw a woman overboard from her sailboat into the Gulf of Mexico about 180 miles south of Galveston. Tex.s. Sunday morning. The woman remained missing Sundar tht, Coast Guard officials said.

A line of showers and thunderstorms was developing early today along a cold front stretching from upper Ohio Valley through the Tennessee Valley and from Arkansas to Texas, the weather service said.

Wet weather was also forecast along the Eastern Seaboard from the mid Atlantic Coast through New England.

A tornado touched down Sunday in western Pennsylvania, flipping a camper and tearing the roof off a mobile home. Both structures were unoccupied, and no injuries were reported when the twister struck at Cherryhill.

In Philadelphia, lightning cracked a gasoline tank at the Chevron refinery near the Philadelphia International Airport and touched off a five-alarm fire that was burning out of control early today, officials said.

The fire erupted during heavy thunderstorms late Sunday and shortly after midnight a flith alarm was called, fire officials said. The 4.2 million gallon tank contained about 1.05 million gallons of gasoline and gasoline derivatives.

Local Report

The high temperature Sunday in Sanford was 99 degrees and the overnight low was 75 degrees as reported by the University of Florida Agricultural Research and Education Center. Celery Avenue. There was no rainfall recorded. Mostly sunny today with expected high in the low to middle 90s and a 30 percent chance of afternoon showers.

Governor Asked To Support Medical Malpractice Amendment

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) - A powerful Senate leader wants Gov. Bob Martinez to consider a constitutional amendment to override objections by the Florida Supreme Court on restrictions for medical malpractice lawsuits.

Sen. Dempsey Barron of Panama City, former Senate President and co-chairman of a task force advising Martinez and the Legislature, asked Martinez to consider the proposed amendment during a meeting Friday.

The governor did not make a commitment, but listened to the idea along with a host of other options intended to reduce skyhigh malpractice insurance rates that have triggered a boycott by physicians in Dade and Broward countles of hospital emergency rooms.

Martinez will meet with Barron again today and also with House Insurance Chairman Carl Ogden of Jacksonville. who is the other chairman of the special task force.

Auto Inspection Support Grows

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) - As Florida's air pollution worsens, support for a return to at least limited automobile inspections grows.

State motor vehicle inspections were halted by then-Gov. Bob Graham and the Legislature in 1981 after complaints about the long lines at inspection stations and reports skeptical that the program made the highways safer.

But support for a limited return of the checks is gaining strength. The 1987 Legislature created a commission to determine whether inspections for air emissions are appropriate and report to the 1988 Legislature.

Sen. Curt Kiser, R-Palm Harbor, is expected to serve as chairman of the study commission created by legislators Kiser said checks to find air pollution are the top priority now, but legislators could decide to order a return to safety inspections as well if a good enough case can be made.

Yankee Lake Exception On County Agenda

By Ted Carter Merald Staff Writer

Trying to persuade a majority of Seminole County commissioners not to pursue building a sewer treatment plant on the county's Yankee Lake property by all bets is an exercise in futility.

But knowing this has not made sewer project opponent Art Davis any less anxious to have the matter aired during Tuesday night's county commission public hearings.

Davis has secured a place on the 7 p.m. hearing agenda through an appeal of the special exception the board of adjustment granted the county on June 15. The special exception removed zoning obstacles to building the plant on 2.876 acres of agriculture zoned land west of Sanford and one mile east of the Wekiva River. The county bought the land in 1985 for $7.5 million from developer Jeno Paulucci, whose sale agreement with the county calls for his residential developments to receive a substantial amount of capacity in the Yankee Lake rounding agriculture zoning. plant.

Davis. who filed the appeal soon after the board of adjustment's action, has said repeatedly that killing the project is not his goal. But answers to his questions are, he said.

"If they are going to do this. fine. But tell us how you are going to do it and make it make sense," Davis said in an interview shortly before making his appeal.

The process under which Davis made his appeal allows citizens to call for county commission reconsideration of board of adjustment decisions. A refusal by the county commission to reverse the adjustment board would clear the way for Davis to challenge the zoning exception in circuit court, though Davis has declined to say whether he intends to take the matter to

The board of adjustment in May refused to grant the exception, saying it needed more information before it could fully judge whether the regional plant would be compatible with sur-including a ban on removing vegetation except for percolation ponds, no additional drainage flow into either Yankee Lake or Sulphur Creek and a treatment limit of 10 million gallons a day. The county staff has since urged the commission to change the 40 million galions a day.

For his part, Davis said he has misgivings about the quality of information provided on handling of effluent discharge into a series of rapid infiltration ponds. Davis, who lives across a road that documentation provided thus far does not adequately detail how discharge into the waterways can be prevented.

The county environmental services department has promised there would be no lateral flow of effluent.

The appeal comes just as the county is preparing to begin construction of the first 2.5 the plant, having received St. Johns River Water Management plans for storm water retention, surrounding Yankee Lake.

came with conditions attached. While the approximate $9 million construction project is under way, the county plans to seek permits for managing effluent in a series of rapid infiltration ponds and wetlands dispersement within the nearly 3.000-acre site.

Meanwhile, a special incapacity condition to allow up to vestigation of the county's purhease of the Yankee Lake property started this week under the direction of Duval County State Attorney Ed Austin, who was appointed by Gov. Bob Martinez to look into the legalities of the pruchase. Steve from Yankee Lake, contends Kuntz, one of Austin's top assistants, was in Sanford conducting interviews and setting up an office.

Austin vowed there will be a thorough investigation. "There will be no one who wants to say something about Yankee Lake who we will not talk to." Austin said this week.

County commisioners, when million-gallons-a-day phase of the probe was announced last month, said they welcome the opportunity for an independent District approval of construction look to be taken at the issues

A System Of Forced Retirement

One of the anomalies of last year's tax reform is that it left at least one group still paying marginal tax rates of 50 percent to 100 percent — the working elderly middle class. In effect, it amounts to a system of forced retirement, long before many older Americans are ready to retire.

Under present Social Security law, any retirement-age person who earns more than $6,000 a year (from age 62-64) or $8,160 (for those age 65-69) has to give up $1 in Social Security benefits for every $2 in earnings.

That's a 50-percent marginal tax rate on top of whatever other taxes the elderly worker must pay. Before tax reform, the total marginal rate reached as much as 104 percent for those in the 50-percent income tax bracket.

Federal income tax reform will cut that average by about 7 percentage points. In 1990 the Social Security earnings penalty will fall from 50 percent to 33 percent. But this still will leave those elderly who need or choose to work paying tax rates of well above 50 percent on median incomes.

In a nation where labor shortages are now developing (because of the "birth dearth"), such a penalty makes no sense. We are glad to see that some in Congress agree with the Social Security Administration, which wants to kill it altogether for those from age 65 to SSA estimates that this will increase benefits for approximately one million beneficiary families that now lose some benefits due to earning more than the limit. It also would add about one million new beneficiary families that now get no benefits because their earnings are too high.

Lest you think this is all "rich folks," the median income of those in the first income group is $27,700. The median of the second group is $37,700. Two-thirds of the added benefits of eliminating the test would go to those earning less than $40,000 a year.

In order to offset this surge in benefits, SSA proposes to increase Social Security payments for those who defer retirement, Presently a retiree's benefits are increased 3 percent for every year they wait to retire after age 65. Under the SSA proposal, the increase would be 8 percent. This incentive to delay retirement was scheduled to take place in 1990 anyway under the 1983 Social Security reforms.

The net effect of all this would be to increase Social Security outlays by about $12.3 billion over the next five years, or about $2.5 billion a year. But SSA says $12.2 billion would save about $200 million a year in administrative costs involved in managing the vast complexities in the present earnings itest law.

This sounds like a pretty good deal to us. The administration and Congress doesn't accept SSA's claim that the changes would pay for themselves, but the idea deserves a fair hearing. The present system forces many people to retire from work before they want to. Work is important to many of the elderly. who are living longer. They shouldn't be faced with confiscatory tax for remaining productive.

What Coup? What Junta? What Crisis?

By Arpoid Sawislak UPI Senior Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI) - At the end of the Iran-Contra hearings, Rep. Richard Cheney, the top House Republican on the investigating committees, used part of his summation to suggest that some people had gone overboard in assessing the affair.

"We've heard talk of a grave constitutional crisis, listened to expressions of moral indignation and outrage, and even been treated to talk about a coup in the White House, a junta run by a lieutenant colonel and an admiral," the Wyoming congressman said.

'My own personal view is that there has been far too much apocalyptic rhetoric about these events, most of it unjustified. If there ever was a crisis, which I doubt, it ended before these committees were established. And to the extent that corrective action was required, the president took it unilaterally before our committees had taken a single word of public testimony."

There is substance to what Cheney said, especially if the investigation is compared with the Watergate inquiry a decade ago. This time, no obvious grounds for impeachment of a president were found, and if the object was to 'get'' Ronald Reagan, it was a wasted summer. However, there were some things turned up in this investigation that to some might make many of the ains of Watergate look like high school pranks.

Two examples. 1. Lt. Col. Oliver North testified that he and CIA Director William Casey discussed using some of the money from the arms sales to Iran or similar transactions to finance undercover operations on behalf of U.S. foreign policy goals. These operations would not be subject to the approval or examination of anyone in Congress or the White House.

2. Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger testified that the first he heard of actual U.S.-Iranian negotiations was in a report from a Pentagon intelligence agency. He also found out that he got the report by mistake; the agency had been ordered by the National Security Council staff to keep the secretary of defense, who by law is a member of the NSC, from getting the information.

What North seemed to be talking about in the first example was setting up an organization outside the government to work for the government without the knowledge or control of the government. Any constitutional problems there?

If the arrangement North described sounds like a Robert Ludium or lan Flemuig spy novel. imagine how it must have affected the thousands of borderline paranoids who insist the FBI has wire-tapped their brains. Who's CIRTY DOW? The second item boggles the mind. The Cabinet member who is supposed to control the deadliest arsenal in the history of mankind is denied national security information gathered by his own employes at the order of other employes who also nominally work for him. Any reason for outrage there?

That episode may not sound like the behavior of a junta to Cheney or even Weinberger, but to many people it might appear that somebody was trying to lock Ol Cap outside the palace.

Granting Cheney his concession that there were both mistakes and misdeeds and his point that Reagan moved quickly to clean up the National Security Council staff and its procedures, it doesn't really seem unreasonably alarmist to be uneasy about what was going on at the White House before the Iran-Contra affair blew up last November.

Unleash Claiborne Pell!

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Back during the Korean War, I think it was - or some such "police action" - certain individuals and groups in America were forever calling for the "unleashing" of Chiang Kai-shek.

I don't recall that Sen. Claiborne Pell. D-R.I., was among those making such demands, but I was nevertheless reminded of that period by an article he wrote called "Get Tough With Pakistan."

I can't say the blanket of security imposed between Pakistan and the Senate chamber by Capitol police had anything to do with Pell's sentiments.

Let me just observe that it is fairly easy to "get tough" with another country if you don't have to face that country's riflemen or nuclear

To refresh your memory, Chiang Kai-shek, or Shanghai-shek, as he was called by one of Pell's predecessors as chairman of Senate Foreign Relations Committee, was the Chinese Nationalist leader who was "driven" from the Chinese mainland after World War II.

The Nationalist troops were "neutralized" on Formosa, the Island to which they fled from the communist regime, by U.S. forces during the Korean War; hence, the demands that they be unleashed.

Perhaps this would not have affected the outcome of the fighting in Korea, but "unleashing" has always seemed to me to be a legitimate tactic. Or shortcoming.

I mean, the Contras in Nicaragua were practically crying for men and money to use against the Sandanistas. So the National Security staff responded by unleashing Lt. Col. Oliver North.

If Patrick Buchanan, a former White House communications director who subsequently called for North's pardon, had been unleashed simultaneously, it might have made a difference.

Every Hollywood writer, judging from the titles of two box office smashes this summer, is in a retalitory mood. I refer to "Jaws -The Revenge" and "Revenge of the Nerda I! "

Both, according to some figures I saw, grossed less than 'Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," which was re-released. So maybe motion picture producers learned something from that.

Hollywood might as well have unleashed Mickey Mouse.

Relax, Doomsayers

domestic oil industry, along comes the Persian Gulf crisis and then a riot in Mecca to raise the possibility

Consider this warning statement: "Recent events in the Persian Gulf have demonstrated dramatically the instability of that region as a supplier of free world oil. Already we are approaching the oil import levels of the 1973 crisis We need to put policies in place now that will prevent future crises."

These anxious words were spoken by a member of the National Energy Policy Committee, a group of 11 energy companies that believe in. well, a national energy policy the details of which are curiously undefined. They're convinced the rising tide of oil imports, now roughly one-third of U.S. consumption, must somehow be slowed by decisive government action lest gas-pump lines return someday.

The danger with such gloomy prophecy is not only that it will be proved wrong, although it probably will. It also implies, incorrectly, that "energy independence" can be achieved despite the age and size of most U.S. oil fields. Finally, whether by design or not, such predictions lend credence to congressional calls for oil-import fees and other costly, state-guided measures aimed at freeling us from our imported petroleum fix.

Someone should tell the doomsayers to relax. Although the level of imports is disturbing, the oil crises of the past 15 years should have taught us a thing or two. For starters, the petroleum market is exceedingly tough to manipulate

Just when you thought taxpayers over the long term. A commodity had escaped a bailout of the cartel such as OPEC harbors the seeds of its own destruction, in part because someone always turns greedy and cheats.

Secondly, demand for oil has proved extremely sensitive to price so sensitive, in fact, that worldwide consumption today roughly equals what it was 10 years ago. A recent report by Alfred Humphries, an oil industry analyst with Hanifen Imhoff Inc., notes one result of stagnant consumption: Producing nations right now could pump 25 percent more oil than they do, a sure sign that grossly higher prices aren't austainable.

"In our view," Humphries writes. "oil markets, like most commodity markets, are still glutted and will remain so for years." He doesn't foresee "oil's halcyon days" returning in this century.

Even if Humphries is wrong, most of the best prospects for major. non-Middle Eastern discoveries lie outside the United States - in parts of Africa, South America and elsewhere. Eighty percent of all oil wells in history have been drilled in America's lower 48 states. Large future discoveries in those states should never be ruled out, but their likelihood is definitely slim.

Fortunately, the Reagan administration already boasts a sensible energy policy. It promotes exploration in those areas with the most attractive potential, nunely parts of Alaska and the outer continental shelf. How can people seriously talk of a more comprehensive policy when Congress hasn't agreed to go along even with these obvious first steps?

Knockout Time For Teeth

By Gayle Young UPI Science Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) - One wild pitch from a baseball or one misjudged turn of a skateboard can result in a fast trip to the dentist, with a tooth knocked out or knocked loose.

"Summer is a busy time for kids and sports so we see a lot of this sort of thing," said Dr. Joseph Maggio, president-elect of the American Association of Endodontists in

"It's also becoming more and more common as kids get involved in organized sports," he said. "We have more kids doing things like playing hockey and riding dirt

Both children and adults can lose teeth from a bad blow to the face. endodontists say, but it is more common in children.

Fortunately, it is also easier to save a tooth lost by a child than one lost by an adult.

"Adult teeth that are replaced are rejected at a higher rate than childrens'." Maggio said.

But teeth that have been knocked from their sockets, in both children and adults, can be saved if they are kept moist and replaced within 30 minutes, doctors say.

People are most likely to lose their front, top teeth because they are the most exposed teeth in the face.

"When you fall on your face with nothing to stop you, your front teeth hit first, after your nose," Maggio said. "It's like a bumper of a car."

Doctors say a tooth that has been knocked out should be immediately cleaned off with water and, if possible, placed back into the socket from which it came.

"The critical factor in saving a tooth is the time it's out of the mouth," said Dr. Joseph Tensa, chairman of the department of endodonics at Tufts University School of Dental Medicine in

"We prefer it be placed back in the socket, but if that's impossible. it can also be placed in the cheek pocket or under the tongue," Tensa said. "And if not that, put it in a gaine of milk or water."

Tensa said the root of the tooth is covered with fine ligaments that keep it attached to gum and bone. When the tooth dries out, these fine ligaments are destroyed and are

JACK ANDERSON

Tough Anti-Communist Filipino Murdered

By Jack Anderson And Dale Van Atta

WASHINGTON - The assassination of a key member of Philippine President Corazon Aquino's cabinet last week - believed to be the work of a communist hit team - may finally have pulled the blinders off the president on the dangers of dealing with the communists.

It is a tragic irony that the murdered secretary, Jaime Ferrer, privately considered his president naive in her attempts to win over the communist rebels by negotiations. He confided this to Dale Van Atta during an interview in his Manila office last December.

Ferrer didn't want to be quoted publicly on his opinion - and he certainly had no desire to have his own violent death to be the possible proof of his belief. At the time, Aquino was negotiating a ceasefire with the communists. Ferrer, 70, had been an anti-Japanese guerrilla in World War II: he thought Aquino's release of communist leaders from jail in February 1986.

and her subsequent negotiations with them were a fatally flawed

Ferrer had the kind of rock-solid integrity that no president wants to be deprived of. The overriding principle of his politics was free and honest elections - an often quixotic pole star for a politician in the Philippines.

Initially a supporter of fellow wartime guerrilla leader Ferdinand Marcos, Ferrer became a Cabinet aide in 1966, during the first Marcos administration, and then served as chairman of the elections commission from 1968 to 1972. He told us he and Marcos had many arguments over the issue of clean elections, and these confrontations led to his disenchantment with Marcos. Ferrer finally quit in 1972. despairing of ever getting the president's support for an honest electoral process.

Ferrer's dedication to democracy goes back a long time. In 1949, he was dismayed when Jose Laurel (father of the current vice president, Salvador Laurel) lost the presidency in a blatantly corrupt election.

"It was a time when they said the birds and the bees voted," Ferrer recalled in the interview. "I thought something must be done about the election."

So he and other honored World War II veterans spearheaded the formation of the National Movement for Free Elections (NAMFREL), and Ferrer was elected the first national coordinator. The result was encouraging: a clean election in November 1951. "We had won," Ferrer said. "We had maintained that there could not be any democracy without clean elections."

In NAMFREL's early stages, and continuing into the 1960s, Ferrer was aided by two successive U.S. embassy officers. Both were later identified as CIA agents, which Ferrer told us he had not known when he was dealing with them. But Philippine leftists later used his unwitting CIA connection to try to discredit him. In 1984, 12 years after his break with Marcos, Ferrer finally joined the official opposition, winning a parliamentary seat as a member of the Democratic Party. He remained a party official until his death.

It was the descendant of Ferrer's old NAMFREL organization that exposed the widespread fraud in the 1986 election and ignited the popular movement that eventually brought Cory Aquino to power. Last November, he was appointed secretary of local governments, and embarked on a program to purge incompetent and corrupt local officials. That was his "primary concern," he told us.

His secondary concern — and the one that may have triggered his assassination - was his espousal of a network of anti-communist militias in areas where the communist New People's Army operated.

His murder will surely incline President Aquino to take tougher measures against the communists. The old soldier would have approved.

The charges stem from an incident in which he allegedly entered a business he once owned and took coffee filters. plastic bags and bread.

A spokesman for the State Attorney's office said Petsos is scheduled for trial on Aug. 17.

Challenging Petsos are insurance salesman David M. Cruise. Certified Public Accountant George F. Duryea and Penny Gunn, a part-time school teacher with Seminole County.

The three candidates for seat five will not face an incumbent because Commissoner Kenneth King decided not to seek reelection. King said he wants to spend more time with his family and concentrating on his position as chairman of the biology department at Seminole Community College.

Linda H. Beckham, H. Richard Joslin and Thomas K. Mahoney are vying to take King's place on the commission. Beckham owns a construction business in Lake Mary with her husband Harry. and Joslin is an insurance ad-Juster in Orlando, Mahoney works for Cardinal Industries.

Lake Mary residents will have an opportunity for a closeup look at the commission hopefuls at a "Meet the Candidates Night" beginning at 7:30 p.m. Aug. 25 at the Community Improvement Association building, 260 North Country Club Road, Lake Mary.

The event is being sponsored by the Lake Mary Chamber of Commerce. The Seminole League of Women Voters will conduct the meeting.

The referendum questions on the ballot in September were unanimously approved by the commission on July 23, after months of debate over their exact wording. The referendum will offer Lake Mary citizens the opportunity to revise their charter, shifting the responsibility of the day to day running of the city from the mayor to the city manager.

The other issue voters will be asked to decide is whether the city should change its election day to the first Tuesday after the first Monday of Nov. every year. This date would coincide with that of the state elections.

Economic Outlook 'Clouded

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The nation's economy is skating on thin ice and "cracks are beginning to appear," Democrats on the Joint Economic Committee said in a midyear economic report released today.

Most notably, the country's trade deficit and its continued status as a debtor nation threaten to undermine its economic health, the report said.

"In order for the United States to restore its creditor status. today's deficits will have to be transformed into trade surpluses," it said.

Reducing the trade deficit is not enough, the report said, since the United States will have to run a trade surplus simply to keep its debt to other nations from growing.

The Democrats also warned that if foreign countries cut off or Joan Harrell, of the reduce additional credit, the country could suffer a major economic contraction.

"Either foreign investors will continue to lend us money, adding to our future obligations. or the foreign lending will stop, forcing a severe adjustment, the report said.

"At midyear, the outlook for improved growth remains clouded and cracks are starting to appear in the ice," the report said.

The Democrats said the Reagan administration is doing little to create increased internal growth that will reduce the external debt problem.

They called for dedicating budget resources to improving the skill of the nation's workforce, rebuilding the country's physical infrastructure, increasing federal programs that do statistical studies of the economy and promoting technological research and development.

The report stands in stark year report issued last week, which applieded 59 months of economic recovery and expansion.

"Like 'Old Man River' the economy just keeps rolling along," the Republican report

Secretary Caspar Weinberger says U.S. warships escorting Kuwaiti tankers through the Persian Gulf today are "not there to provoke anybody" and confirms that franian mines were found in the waterway. Weinberger, appearing on CBS's "Face the Nation" Sunday, also proclaimed that U.S. allies are quietly supporting the intensified Navy presence in the gulf and he blasted Iranian claims the United States is to blame for last week's rioting by Iranians in the Moslem holy city of Mecca, Saudi Arabia. More than 400 people died in the rioting with Saudi

"We're not there to provoke anybody," Weinberger said of U.S. escorts of Kuwaiti oil tankers flying the American flag, and he accused the Iranians of "typical, hysterical foamings of the mouth.

Appearing before Weinberger on the news program was Said Rajaie Khorassani, Iran's ambassador to the United Nations, who said Iran had seeded the gulf with mines as "a part of our defensive line" but had not recently put them in the path of U.S. warships escorting Kuwaiti tankers.

Weinberger said recent U.S. mine-sweeping efforts following the mining of the supertanker Bridgeton July 24 have turned up "mines that Iran possesses."

He also said, "Rumors that our allies are not behind us are not correct.

"We are getting a substantial amount of help from our ailed friends in the area," he said, although he declined to elaborate,

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Defense saying that would "convey information to an enemy who is not all that rational."

Iran recently completed four days of naval maneuvers in the gulf, called Operation Martyrdom, and touted its fleet of speed boats as ready for suicide missions against U.S. ships. Khorassani said, "They are not all suicide-oriented boats" and denied Iran engages in terrorism.

In a stepped-up anti-America campaign, Iran also has pledged to stage attacks against U.S. targets around the world and within U.S.

"To call what we do for our defense 'terrorism' is a very nasty way of explaining it," Khorassani said, calling the U.S. role in the region "very irrational" and "very explosive."

Weinberger countered that the Iranians themselves "were responsible for the carnage at Mecca," and said the stronger U.S. presence in the gulf is guarding against an increased Iranian threat to Western interests and protecting "non-belligerent" Kuwaiti shipping.

'The Iranians are not rational," he said. "They break every code in the world. They do that whether you have your might on display or you

He indicated the United States may ask for a U.N. arms embargo resolution to strengthen a U.N. cease-fire resolution passed last month that called for the end to the 7-year-old war between Iran and Iraq.

With an embargo resolution, Weinberger said, the volatile situation in the gulf "could improve significantly.

Peace Accord Hailed

SAO PAULO, Brazil (UPI) - Eight Latin American foreign ministers said a new Central American peace agreement signed last week in Guatemala City is a "decisive step" toward ending conflicts in the region.

They also said any other peace proposals - including the one floated last week by President Reagan – were for the moment unnecessary.

But Vice President George Bush said Sunday the Central American leaders were placing too much faith in Nicaraguan President Daniel Ortega. He added, however, "I hope that this peace plan overcomes some of our reservations."

Theforeign ministers, who met for five hours Sunday in the first session of talks scheduled to last through Tuesday; urged "all nations with interest in the region" to collaborate in the peace process.

The officials represented the Contadora group of Mexico. Venezuela, Colombia and Panama, which for four years has sought to mediate conflicts in Central America, and a group of supporting countries made up of Brazil, Argentina, Peru and Uruguay.

They said the Central American accord was "a decisive step almed at ending the costly and prolonged conflicts that afflict the region. setting down a solid basis for overcoming them."

They applauded the "clear demonstration of political will for peace" reflected by the pact, saying its existence rendered irrelevant other proposals - including Reagan's.

"It would be imprudent to turn our eyes toward the proposals of other countries now," said Venezuelan Foreign Minister Simon Alberto Consalvi. The agreement, signed Friday by the presidents of Nicaragua, El Salvador, Hondurse, Guatemala and Costa Rica, reaffirmed the principles of 'security, selfdetermination, democracy and development," the foreign ministers said.

The Guatemala accord calls for a regional cease-fire, amnesty for insurgents laying down arms, abolition of rebel sanctuaries in neighboring countries, and moves toward greater democracy.

It also demands an end to outside support of rebel groups, mainly the U.S.-backed Contras fighting the Nicaraguan government and the Marxist-led Farabundo Marti National Liberation Front in El Salvador.

But Bush said, "We are not going to leave the Contras twisting in the wind wondering whether they are going to be done in by a reacr plun.

"We are great supporters of the Contras," he said, adding the United States may still

Unassuming Nelson Putts Past Wadkins

PALM BEACH GARDENS (UPI) - Larry Nelson, who hadn't received the acclaim that usually goes with winning major golf championships, figures people will pay him more attention now that he has three to his credit.

Nelson, who turns 40 next month, added his second PGA Championship to his 1983 U.S. Open title Sunday when he beat Lanny Wadkins on the first hole of a sudden-death playoff.

"I don't know how many have won three majors in this decade," said Nelson, who won his first PGA crown in 1981. "Not many. But I'm not concerned about that. I'm just happy to go out and do my job, play as well as I can."

Nelson, who carned $150,000 with his latest victory, started Sunday's play three strokes off the lead but caught up by shooting even-par 72 while the people who had been in front of him were plagued by windblown bogcys.

He wound up the regulation 72 holes in 1-under 287, as did Wadkins, who shot 73. Nelson won the championship when he sank an 8-foot par putt on the first playoff hole and Wadkins missed a 6-footer.

"I just hoped I read it the way I thought it would go," Nelson said. "I've played with Lanny (in Ryder Cup action) more than I've played against him. I knew I had to make that putt and I was surprised when he missed his.

"It's been awhile," said Nelson, who hadn't won previously since the 1984 Walt Disney World Classic. "This is a nice way to come back. I can look forward to the next four or five years." Nelson said he told his two sons, who followed him around the golf course Sunday, that he thought 1-under would be good enough to win. "When I saw the wind, I thought even par would do It." For Wadkins, the 1977 PGA champion, it was the third second-place finish in the prestigious event in the past seven years.

"I'm tired of collecting silver medals instead of gold.' Wadkins said jokingly. "But the check (for $90,000) will help a little bit."

Wadkins said he knew he had a fight on his hands when he wound up in the playoff with ing, but when he's in the hunt he's a heck of a competitior," Wadkins said. "We're good friends and I have all the respect in the world for his golf game.

"I played today on guts and determination," said Wadkins, who had two double bogeys. "I didn't feel my game was under control. Due to the wind and firm greens, it was hard to get the ball close to the hole. I just ground it out."

Until Scott Hoch three-putted from 8 feet on the final hole, it looked like he would make it a three-way playoff.

Hoch, posting five birdies in a six-hole span, vaulted out of the pack with a 3-under 69 that enabled him to tie third-round co-leader D. A. Weibring (76) at even-par 288.

"I went to the practice range (before starting his round) and

"Larry is quiet and unassum-g. but when he's in the hunt Hoch. "I was ready to go home. "But I played exceptionally well on the incoming nine until the flasco on the green at No. 18."

Mark McCumber (77). the other third-round co-leader, and Don Pooley (72) tied for fifth at 289 and Bobby Wadkins (77) and Ben Crenshaw (74) were at "The scores were so high because the wind changed 180 degrees from the first three days and because the rough was so treacherous." Nelson said. "It made it hard to hit over all the water out there. Most of the time, you had to pitch back out on the fairway to avoid getting into worse trouble."

Sunday's second-place check boosted Lanny Wadkin's career earnings past the $3 million mark. Nelson is still $114.000 shy of $2 million.

"It's been all downhill for me since I won the '83 Open I was 36 at the time and thinking about doing other things. I spent the last few years being involved in business (building supplies and golf courses but decided this year to come back out and play golf again.

"I said I would not quit until I became a winner again," said Nelson. "But just because I won this tournament does not mean I'm thinking about quitting. You may have to put up with me until I'm 50."

Two-time PGA champion Ray Floyd was only two shots off the lead starting Sunday's play but wound up six back after posting an 80-293. Defending champion Bob Tway was never a factor this year, winding up at 12-over 300. Five-time winner Jack Nicklaus was at 296.

2nd 79 Beaches Norman

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (UPI) - Greg Norman says he will discard the leisurely approach.

One year after a second-place finish at the PGA Championship in Toledo, Ohio, The Great White Shark floundered around the 7,002-yard PGA National Golf Club course like a beached whale Sunday, shooting a second straight 5-over-par 79 to finish the PGA Championship at 309. That's 21-over-par, folks, or three strokes more than finalround playing partner Arnold Palmer.

"Arnold beat me like a drum out there," sald Norman after a 41 on the back nine that included five bogeys and much experimenting. "I'm gonna play non-stop from now on. I'll play the next four weeks, take a week off, play four weeks, then take another week off. Things will turn around, I'm sure of that."

Before Thursday's first round. Norman was sure he would play well. He said he was relaxed and refreshed from a light playing schedule. When your swing goes bad, so does your judgment: the Tour's leading money winner in 1986 is a confused man a year

"I drove the ball badly this week, hit it in the rough and didn't putt well ... that's how you get to 21-over," said Norman, 32, who led all four majors last year heading into the final round. "I'm not concerned. though. I'll keep persevering and I'll come out of it. Maybe I tried too hard this week. You can cook your eggs for three minutes, but if you cook it five minutes, it comes out too hard.'

Despite his shabby performance here. Norman has played well in spots this season. After tying for fourth at the Tournament Players Championship, he lost a Masters playoff when Larry Mize holed from 50 yards out. The U.S. Open (tle for 51st) proved disappointing and the British Open also was discouraging as Norman finished at 7-over 291. Norman took additional time off from the Tour and thought he would come to the PGA Championship with renew-

"The biggest mistake I made was playing in only three tournaments in eight weeks and they're three majors," he said. "My momentum is off. Before the Masters, I had already played well at the TPC, so I had some momentum." Norman's inconsistency this year has been attributed to his vast business interests. He receives hundreds of letters from fans each week and he tries to answer each note personally during his stops back home in Orlando.

CHI CHI ROLLS ON

CONCORD, Mass. (UPI) — Chi Chi Rodriguez fired a 5-underpar 67 and finished with a tournament-record 198 Sunday to successfully defend his title at the Digital Seniors Classic.

Rodriguez finished eight shots ahead of Orville Moody, who finished the $250,000 tournament in second place. The eight-shot gap represents the largest margin of victory on the senior tour this year. Rodriguez, the tour's leading money winner in 1987, received $37,500 for his victory at the Nashawtuc Country Club.

Phil Niekro will bring his fluttering knuckleball to Toronto in an attempt to help the Blue Jays capture the National League East Division. The Jays acquired Niekro from Cleveland for a minor league outfielder.

Niekro Switches Dugouts

CLEVELAND (UPI) - Knuckleballer Phil Niekro switched dugouts Sunday and exchanged his postmortem views of 1987 for postseason optimism.

The 24-year major-league veteran was traded from the American League East's last-place Cleveland Indians to the first-place Toronto Blue Jays. Niekro has won 318 major-league games without ever appearing in a World Series.

Niekro, 7-11 with a 5.89 ERA for the Indians this year, may pitch for the Blue Jays as soon as Thursday in Toronto against Chicago. He ranks 11th on the all-time victory list, but the closest he ever has come to the World Series was in 1969 and 1982, when Atlanta lost in the National League playoffs.

'My ambition is always to be in a World Series." Niekro said. 'I said I wouldn't go to just any ballclub. If I pitched six shutouts for this club in Cleveland, it wouldn't make any difference in the standings. Toronto certainly has a better chance than we do. They have a better chance than a lot of clubs. They have a strong organization over there." Niekro joins a starting rotation composed of Dave Stieb, Jim Clancy, Jimmy Key and John Cerutti. Jose Nunez will return to the bullpen, probably for middle relief. The Blue Jays will have to make a roster move Monday.

"I just hope I can go over there and pitch the way they hope I can." Niekro said. "Any ballplayer would be excited. I've felt good all year. I haven't pitched as well as I'd like to and my stats are not as good as I'd like.

"I wasn't surprised that something happened. I've pitched well against Toronto and I've pitched well in Toronto's park."

To land Niekro, the Blue Jays traded minor-league outfielder Dairyt Landrum. Indians Sculor Vice President Dan O'Brien told Niekro of the trade during Sunday's game, which Toronto won

Greenville Hopes Magic Thrives At Junior Region

One of the first things the Greenville, S.C. team did upon its arrival to Central Florida was visit Walt Disney World's Magic Kingdom. It was a pretty appropriate stop for a team that has pulled off more than a little magic en route to the Little League Baseball Junior Southern Region Tournament.

Greenville, along with San Antonio Northwest, Bristol, Tenn., and Florida State champlon Windermere will compete in the Southern Region Tournament beginning Tuesday night at the Eastmonte Recreation Complex in Altamonte Springs. The pairings will be determined today.

Tuesday's first game is at 5:05 p.m. followed by the nightcap at 35. There will be two more games on Wednesday, one on Thursday and the championship on Friday. A second championship game, if necessary, will be played Saturday. The winner of the region gets a berth in the Junior World Series which starts Aug. 17 at Taylor, Mich.

On two occasions in tournament play this summer, Greenville has had to battle through the losers' bracket after losing its first game. The South Carolina representatives have played 16 games and won 14 of

"It's been a very long, difficult route to Southern Region for us." Greenville manager Don

Brown said Sunday night. "We've had a struggle in just about every game we've played."

Greenville lost its very first game in tournament play, in the South Carolina Upper State Tournament. Greenville then won eight games in a row to win the Upper State title, then took two from Shaw for the state championship.

Brown's squad then traveled to Richmond. Va., for the Southern Region Division 4. Tournament where Greenville again lost its opener, 4-3 to North Carolina. Greenville came back the same day to defeat Virginia, 6-4, then, the next day. climinated West Virginia in a wild one, 14-13. After a threehour contest against West Virginia the day before. Greenville then had to come back and win twice against North Carolina. Greenville took the first game, 10-8, then held on for a 5.4 victory in game two for the championship.

"We're hoping being in so many pressure games will be of some benefit to us." Brown said. "One of the best charactersities of this team is we don't give up and we keep fighting back if we're down.'

The starting lineup for the Greenville Junior All-Stars includes second baseman. outsielder Cliss Hembree, lest fielder Nathan Broome, center fielder Brian Cole, pitcher-shortstop Brad Dill, pitchershortstop Scott Erwin, third baseman Trey Hodges, catcher-outsielder Josh Hutson, first baseman Brian Lazar and seqond baseman-outfielder Cary

Bench strength is provided by outfielders Billy Linderman. Brandon Brown, Ricky Campbell and catcher-outfielder Sean Chapman. Brown's assi coaches are Ed Hutson and Mike

Along with having the knack for coming back, the Greenville team also has some previous Southern Region Tournament experience as eight of the members of this year's team played on last year's Major Division all-stars that qualified for Southern Region.

"We have two good pitchers who mix it up well with good speed," Brown sald. "And our third and fourth pitchers get the ball over the plate. We're hitting about .310 as a team with three good long-ball hitters. And we're a very solid defensive team."

Rain Threatens Lendl-McEnroe Final

STRATTON, VI. (UPI) - Rain was forecast for today in the Vermont mountains, threatening the resumption of the Ivan Lendl-John McEnroe matchup In Ken Flach and Robert Seguso. the singles finals of the $315,000 Volvo International.

McEnroe held a 7-6 (7-3), 1-4 advantage over Lendl on Sunday before play was suspended due to rain.

The match was scheduled to resume this morning, and the doubles finals will also be played. Play is scheduled to start at 10 a.m. EDT. The doublet pairing is No. 1 seeds raul Annacone and Christo van Rensburg against second-seeded Tennis Lendl, the top seed and defending champion, began play against McEnroe, seeded tourth, at 12:40 p.m. EDT. Light sprinkles caused a pair of twominute interruptions after three games of the second set: play was suspended after Lendl held serve in the fifth game.

The match was officially postponed until today #1 5:30 p.m. Sunday, after tournament referee Sean Sloane halted play at 1:49 p.m. and the players left expected.

the court at 2:08 p.m. when the light rain showed no sign of ceasing.

McEnroe, believing the match should have been suspended sooner, asked chair umpire Richard Kaufman, "Why don't you just give him the set? In the meantime I've lost a break and two chances (to break Lendl's serve)."

When asked by Kaufman to wait another two minutes. McEnroe responded, "Why? So I can lose my serve again?"

Sloane raid that because McEnroe was losing the second set, his complaints were

Politics Tarnishes USA's Gold Rush

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) - Politics has tarnished the gold at the Pan American Games.

A gold rush by the United States on the opening day of competition at the Pan American Games was tempered Sunday by an ugly incident involving some anti-Castro Cubans and members of the Cuban baseball entourage.

The incident, triggered by the Cuban American National Foundation, prompted police to increase security around the Cuban athletes. CANF, which set up an office in Indianapolis in an effort to persuade Cuban athletes to defect to the United States, has harrassed the Cuban delegation since the Games opened Saturday.

Several of Cuba's teams will be. competing today, including the baseball team which meets

Puerto Rico at 8 p.m. EST. "Because of today's demonstration it has raised our awareness of plans for this group to be disruptive," Indiana police

"We are convinced this was not an isolated incident, we are going to have to be more keenly aware of the Cuban foundation and we believe they will be present wherever the Cubans play.'

Sunday's confrontation began when about 25 people carrying signs protesting the government of Fidel Castro met Cuban players as they entered Bush Stadium to prepare for a game against Netherlands Antilles.

Inside the stadium, hecklers, wearing shirts imprinted with the words "Cuban American National Foundation", hurled a stream of profanities at Cuban spectators and one heckler threw over the Cuban dugout leaflets urging the players to Cuba third-base coach Jose Miguel Pineda picked up the papers, tore some in half and threw them back.

After the game, police broke up a fight between two men and others. One man not involved in the fight was pushed to the ground when the shoving began. police said.

The man was treated by paramedics and taken away by ambulance. A spokesman at the media trailer said he was told the man may have suffered a heart attack.

Cuba's problem cast a shadow over the day's athletic achievements, which was dominated by the United States. The United States won 35 medals, including 18 gold.

The United States earned 10 gold medals in canoe and kayak. four in swimming and one in diving, two in roller skating and one in cycling. The U.S. baseball and basketball teams also registered comeback victories.

However, three U.S. athletes suffered injuries, the most serious to sprinter Mark chief Paul Annee said late Sun- a shoving match between two Witherspoon, who had to be removed from the track on a stretcher with a severely pulled right hamstring after injuring himself in a semifinal heat of the 100 meters. Witherspoon, of Spring, Texas, is out of the Games and may not be healed in time for the World Championships in Rome at the end of the month.

Basketball players Jeff Lebo and Fennis Dembo also were injured in the U.S. squad's 91-63 victory over Panama but both are expected to play today against Argentina.

Kelly McCormick, a silver medalist at the 1984 Olympics. edged teammate Megan Neyer for a 1-2 U.S. sweep of the women's 3-meter springboard. becoming the first woman to champion. Her mother, Pat McCormick, was the 1955 Pan who attended Ohio State and lives in Columbus. Ohio, scored 562.77 points to beat Never, 25, from Boca Raton.

U.S. swimmers collected four gold, three silver and two bronze medals in five events. The only gold to escape went to Silvia Poll, a 16-year-old, 6-foot-2 blonde from tiny Costa Rica. Her victory, a silver in the relays. and Ronald Lanzoni's silver in the marathon tripled in one day Costa Rica's total medal output in the 36-year history of the Games.

Giants To Win

Roger Craig predicted Sunday his San Francisco Glants will win the National League West.

At this rate, they may dominate Receiving their third and fourth strong starting performances of the weekend, the Giants swept the Reds 3-2 and series sweep. "Pitching is the answer," the Giants manager said. "Pitching will be the key down the stretch and we have the best pitching. That means we're going to win

5-2, completing a four-game

Mike Krukow allowed five hits over 8 1.3 innings in the opener and Kelly Downs went eight strong innings and squeezed home a run in the nightcap. Mike LaCoss and Atlee Hammaker pitched complete games earlier in the series, leaving the bullpen fewer than two innings of work during the four-game

"I've never felt any better than I feel now about this ballclub," Craig said. "We've got Candy (Maldonado) back and we are on a roll and only one game out. That's what you call hummmm·baby."

By notching their eighth straight home triumph - all against National League division leaders Cincinnati and St. Louis - the Giants charged within one game of the first-place Reds in the West.

Piniella's Mild Reply: 'Get On With Season'

DETROIT (UPI) - New York Yankees Manager Lou Pintella made a mild three-paragraph response Sunday to team owner George Steinbrenner's critical statement on Piniella and expressed a desire to "just get on with the baseball season."

"In response to Mr. Steinbrenner's statement," Piniella said in a printed response to Steinbrenner's rambling page-plus Saturday statement, "Enough has been said about too many things that concern absolutely nobody except the members of this organization. However, I must say I disagree with many of the aspects of Mr. Steinbrenner's comments and the players know that.

"Having said that, this is a 'family matter' and should be kept private The players and coaches have busted their butts all season long and will continue to do so. These players represent Yankee tradition and I'm proud of them.

"Enough said." Piniella's statement concluded. "Let's just play baseball."

"Good," Yankees outfielder Dave Winfield said, "let's go play. You guys should let it rest. If we can get back to playing ball,

Steinbrenner made a series of accusations against Piniella on Saturday, bringing renewed intensity to a clash between owner and manager that has simmered all season. Steinbrenner closed his statement, which was issued before the third game of a four-game series against Detroit, with a vow to leave his club alone for the remainder of the season. The Yankee owner said he is keeping October open for his club's appearance in the World Series, which carries with it the implication that if Piniella doesn't manage New York past the playoffs he will be fired.

'Homer Dome' Helps Twins Pad West Lead

United Press International By displaying dominance at home essential to capturing a pennant, the Minnesota Twins are pulling away from the competition in the West. Kent Hrbek, Tom Brunansky.

Tim Laudner and Gary Gaetti belted home runs Sunday to power the Twins to a 7-5 victory over the Oakland Athletics for asweep of the four-game series between the teams who began the weekend tied.

The Twins are 37-16 in the Metrodome this season and, not coincidentally, lead the AL West by 3 1/2 games over the California Angels. Oakland is four games behind. "I have no answer," said

Hrbek on Minnesota's home record. "Maybe it's the fans. I don't know if the other team can't see the ball well or what. I just know we like to play here."

Winner Bert Blyleven, 11-9. scattered seven hits and three runs over six innings. Jeff Reardon pitched two innings for his 23rd save.

Streaky Zimmerman Fires 66 To Take Shortened Henredon

HIGH POINT, N.C. (UPI) - Beth Zimmerman admits her golf game is at times streaky.

But her game was anything but streaky Sunday as she completed a 6-under-par 66 to gain a three-stroke victory in the rain-shortened $300,000 Henredon Classic.

Zimmerman won her first tournament this year in 21 starts by finishing with a 10-under 206. Nancy Lopez (68 Sunday), Laurie Rinker (69) and Beth Daniel (70) finished at 209.

The victory means a $45,000 check and an upswing in Zimmerman's play. "I came out this year burned out. I was tired," said Zimmerman, who collected six birdies, including three on the last four holes. "But I feel my game is really turning "Putting-wise, I am streaky. But heck, I'd rather be streaky than not a good putter at all. I've made a few wins off of being streaky. Zimmerman was one stroke back of the leaders at 4-under entering the final round at the Willow Creek Golf Club. Her 66 tied for the best round in the three-day tournament. Pirates Check Raines' HR Bat

PITTSBURGH (UPI) - Montreal Expos Manager Buck Rodgers and Pittsburgh Pirates Manager Jim Leyland each challenged bats used to hit home runs Saturday night, and both teams played the game under protest.

As permitted by Thursday's ruling by Natonal League President A. Bartlett Giamatti, teams are permitted to request one bat per game be impounded for examination. The bats are sent to the league offices where they are x-rayed for evidence of tampering. The profusion of home runs this year has led to speculation batters are loading their bats with cork or other distance-enhancing materials.

Rodgers asked the umpires to take for inspection the bat of R.J. Reynolds following his fifth home run of the season. in the fourth inning off Bryn Smith. The homer was Reynolds' first since June 24, also against the Expos.

After Tim Raines hit a two-run homer in the sixth off Doug Drabek, the Pirates immediately asked the bat be taken for inspection.

Piquet Captures Hungarian Prix

BUDAPEST, Hungary (UPI) - Nelson Piquet benefitted from his teammate and main rival Nigel Mansell's late misfortune Sunday to win the Hungarian Formula One Grand Prix and strengthen his lead in the world champlonship standings.

Mansell of Britain, starting from the pole position, led for 70 of the 76 laps in his Williams. But he was forced to withdraw with a lost rear-wheel nut while holding a 13-second lead.

Piquet of Brazil moved to the front to score his second consecutive Grand Prix victory. He won the West German Grand Prix two weeks ago, also thanks to late retirements. It also was Piquet's second straight victory at the Hungaroring, where he won the inaugural Hungarian Grand Prix last year. Piquet completed the 189 1-2-mile race in 1 hour, 59 minutes, 26.793 seconds — an average of 95.314 mph.

Dispatch: Johnson In Drug Deal

COLUMBUS. Ohio (UPI) - Pete Johnson, a former Ohio State University football star during the 1970s who went on to play in the NFL, has been implicated in a drug deal, the Columbus Dispatch reported Sunday.

Ronald Anderson, a Columbus optician arrested in February on cocaine charges, has promised to testify that Johnson supplied 14 ounces of cocaine that Anderson tried to sell to an informant. Sources, who asked not to be identified, told the Columbus Dispatch that Anderson made the promise as part of a plea agreement.

Young Knocks Out Pryor's Bid

SUNRISE (UPI) — Former Junior welterweight champion Aaron Pryor suffered the first loss of his career Saturday when Bobby Joe Young knocked him out 29 seconds into the seventh round.

The fight was Pryor's comback attempt after a two-year absence from the ring.

A left-hook to the ear knocked Pryor down. After he attempted to get up, he went down on one knee and made the sign of the cross. Referee Bernie Soto then stopped the

Dils Directs Rams, 28-27

LONDON (UPI) - Second-string quarterback Steve Dils directed a 21-point fourth quarter Sunday that helped the Los Angeles Rams edge the Denver Broncos 28-27 in the second American Bowl at Wembley Stadium - normally the venue for soccer's showpiece games.

The lead changed hands six times, with the outcome finally being settled when Charles White ran 4 vards for a touchdown with 28 seconds left and Mike Lansford kicked the extra point to give the Rams a 28-27 lead. White, a former Heisman Trophy winner and the backup to NFL rushing champ Eric Dickerson, carried six times for 51 yards and two touchdowns.

"I don't get to see that much playing time with Everett as our starter, so this game was as important to me as any regular-season game." Dils said. "I was pleased to be able to step in and guide the team through an excellent perfor-

The exhibition game was the first for both teams. Chicago beat Dallas 17-6 last season in the first American Bowl.

WILMINGTON, Ohio (UPI) - The Cincinnati Bengals said they have prepared themselves to start the season without six-time Pro Bowl tackle Anthony Munoz, the Cincinnati Enquirer reported Sunday.

"We made our best proposal and apparently fell far, far short," Bengals Assistant General Manager Mike Brown was quoted by the newspaper.

The club offered Munoz $500,000 a year Friday, but his agent, Howard Slusher, rejected the deal and countered with two offers. The first requests $656,250 a year (average) over four years; the second asks for $633,333 a year over three years. Each deal includes a lucrative package of incentives worth an additional $100,000 a year.

"Right now, I don't expect he'll sign until into the regular season, if at all," Brown said Saturday. "We're going to sit now. This was our best offer to get him in (camp) and prepare him for the regular season."

Munoz, entering his eighth NFL season out of Southern Cal, played out his option year last season and is a free agent. He has not been in training camp. The 6-foot-8 280-pounder has been one of the league's dominant offensive linemen since entering the NFL as a first-round draft choice.

ROCHESTER, Mich. (UPI) - Wide receiver Mark Nichols, who sat out the entire 1986 season with a knee injury, expects to contribute to the Detroit Lions this year.

Nichols says his knee is fully recovered from December 1985 surgery.

"It gets a little sore from time to time, but nothing unusual," said Nichols, who played collegiately at San Jose State.

Nichols' two best seasons were the two before his knee surgery. He caught 70 passes for 1,336 yards and five touchdowns in 1984 and 1985. Nichols expects to be a more integral part of the Lions' offense in 1987.

"It's hard to do what I can do when the ball doesn't come to me," Nichols said. "Hopefully this year, I can get more passes thrown to me and be able to do what I know I'm capable of doing.

ORCHARD PARK, N.Y. — First-round draft pick Shane Conlan has agreed to contract terms with the Buffalo Bills, the club announced Sunday.

Conlan, 23, a star linebacker on Penn State's national championship team last year, was expected to sign the contract Sunday night and first players who played begin practicing with the Bills Monday, team spokesman Dave Senko said.

Conlan, the eighth player chosen in April's NFL draft, has been a holdout since training camp opened July 23. He has agreed to sign a series of one-year contracts, the financial terms of which had not been disclosed, Senko said.

The announcement comes one day after the Bills issued an ultimatum to Conlan - sign by 5 p.m. Saturday or have his offer trimmed.

Greene was anything but mean in giving his speech during induction ceremonies at the Pro Football Hall of Fame. The standout defensive tackle.

who won four Super Bowl rings with Pittsburgh in the 1970s. started and ended his remarks Saturday with three words: "I love it."

Greene was joined on the front steps of the Hall of Fame by fullback Larry Csonka. quarterback Len Dawson, running back John Henry Johnson. center Jim Langer, wide receiver Don Maynard and guard Gene Upshaw. A total of 140 players, team officials and contributors are now enhrined.

After the ceremonies, San Francisco downed Kansas City 20.7 in the Hall of Fame game.

Steelers Coach Chuck Noll presented Greene, the first player he drafted as coach in 1969.

"From the start, Joe Greene came to play," Noll said. "He's always been a winner. He always was sensitive to the people around him."

Dawson, a native of nearby Alliance, Ohio, and an obvious hometown favorite, thanked his presenter, former Kansas City coach Hank Stram.

"Hank's belief in me led to my spending 13 seasons with the Chiefs," Dawson said. "Being here is great and it's terrific."

Stram termed Dawson "a man with honor and style. He had dignity and rare qualities of leadership.'

Csonka and Langer were presented by the man who served as their coach throughout most of their respective careers -Miami's Don Shula.

"Larry was a blood-and-guts player, tough as they come." Shula said. "Jim never backed down. He played every snap to the best of his abilities." Csonka and Langer are the primarily for the Dolphins to be enshrined. Both expressed hope some teammates would soon

"I'd like to see Larry Little and Bob Kuechenberg get elected," sald Csonka, of Stow, Ohio. "We were a family. Langer referred to Miaml's 17-0 season of 1972.

"That was a thrill, but so is being here because it's totally unexpected," he said. "I'd like to see (quarterback) Bob Griese get his due."

Johnson, nominated by the Hall's Old Timers Committee and presented by Pittsburgh owner Art Rooney, said, "I had begun to give up (on getting enshrined), but it finally happened. Finally, I'm getting respect." Maynard, introduced by New York Jets teammate and quarterback Joe Namath, said he wished he could still play.

"The big old dollar sign is incentive," he joked. "When I got to the Super Bowl (III). I was as loose as a goose because 1 knew I'd at least get the winner's share."

Upshaw is the first guard to be elected. Now the executive director of the NFL Players Association, he commented on the Oakland Raiders' controversial move to Los Angeles. "(Team owner) Al Davis said to us. Til take care of matters off the field. You just win," Upshaw said. "I feel fortunate, and that's how I sum up my career."

Trading Light, Dollar Up Gold, Silver Both Lower

By United Press International 1,364.25. The dollar was mostly higher against major foreign currencies changed in London, where it Monday in light trading. The price of gold fell.

In Tokyo, the dollar closed at 151.45 yen, up 0.22 yen from Friday's closing rate of 151.23

Trading was slow with spot turnover totaling $1.847 billion, compared with $2.322 billion Friday.

Dealers said market players refrained from taking large positions for fear of possible further central bank intervention. The dollar's rise reflected the improved employment situation in the United States in July.

The dollar closed at 151.85 yen Friday, the central bank said.

In European trading, the dollar opened mostly higher.

The currency opened higher in Frankfurt at 1.8885 marks, up from Friday's close of 1.8825, in Paris at 6.2942 francs, up from 6.28, In Brussels at 39.42 Belgian francs, from 39.33, and in Milan at 1,368.50 lire, from trading to $7.785.

But the dollar remained unopened at $1.5655 to the pound, and in Amsterdam, where it began the day at 2.1280 Dutch guilders.

It fell slightly in Zurich, opening at 1.5680 Swiss francs compared to Friday's close of 1.5730,

Gold opened lower in Zurich at $459.50 per ounce, down from $463.65, and in London at $459.75 an ounce, from $463.25. The London morning gold fixing was $459.50, off

On the Hong Kong Bullion Exchange, gold closed at $459.05, compared with $457 on Friday.

Silver also fell, opening at $7.75 in Zurich, down from Friday's $8.05, and in London at $7.75, down from $8.025.

In early New York trading, gold was trading at $461.20 an ounce, up $6.60 an ounce from Friday's close. Silver was up 19.5 cents an ounce in early its blessings for having installed air conditioning in the organization's gym two weeks ago, said a spokeswoman. "It's running fine," she said.

The spokeswoman noted the Salvation Army has helped about a dozen people a day pay their utility bills.

"We're always helping at least that many," she said.

Over at the Hillhaven Health Care Center on Mellonville Ave., residents are staying indoors, said Marietta Fenton, director of nursing.

"We're staying inside, so it hasn't bothered us at all." Fenton said. "We'll have no problems as long as our air conditioning is working. We're keeping our fingers crossed."

That the heat is truly on is showing up in the soaring demand for power from the area's two electric companies, Florida Power Corp. and Florida Power & Light Co., both of which set records last week.

David Waldrop, spokesman for Florida Power Corp., which serves 90,000 customers in Seminole County, said today that Saturday's peak demand of 5,080 megawatts established a summer time record. Waldrop said another scorcher could bring a new overall record. surpassing a one-day record set in January this year of 5,087 megawatts. A megawatt is 1 million kilowatts, a kilowatt 1,000 watts.

"If we don't get some relief, we could exceed the January record today," said Waldrop. Saturday's summer record broke Friday's peak demand record of 5.077 megawatts, according to Waldrop.

FP&L's system-wide summer demand record of 12,297 megawatts came Friday between 5 and 6 p.m., breaking a summer record of 11,940 megawatta set Aug. 6. Friday's demand nearly surpassed FP&L's all-time high demand of 12,533 megawatts, which occurred on Jan. 22, 1985. said Terry Newmans, of FP&L's Sanford office. which serves about 21,000 customers in Sanford and Deltona.

No generation problems such as brownouts are expected, said the spokesmen for both utilities. Southern Bell reported no weather related problems.

Public works departments of Altamonte Springs and Casselberry are coping well with the heat and have experienced no significant problems, according to spokesmen for the two cities. Bill Shepherd, of Casselberry's public works department, said work crews are getting to their work sites earlier in the mornings and stopping earlier in the day to do equipment maintenance.

"There's been no problems other than it being quite unpleasant working out there," said Shepherd.

Jack Coffey, of the Altamonte Springs public works department, said work crews are holding up fine. He noted citywide water demand reached eight million gallons Sunday, a level within two million gallons of surpassing a demand record set this April.

The weather also doesn't seem to be affecting tourist traffic coming into the area, according to Nancy Dowling, southeast district sales manager for Amtrak. Dowling said trains are booked solid throughout the month of August and September. "People plan their vactions and take them,"

Dowling said, "I don't think anyone is not going to come to Florida unless the weather is really

The state Department of Transportation reported today it has experienced no problems from

Although the heat has been uncomfortable to mail carriers in the Sanford area the post office reports no incidents of sickness as a result of it.

Kent Plank, supervisor of mails and delivery for the U.S. Post Office in Sanford, said all carriers are being advised to drink plenty of liquids and to wear caps. Plank said postal workers receive a uniform allowance from which they may purchase several different types of hats.

Mail carriers are told to slow down a little if they begin to feel sick out in the field, according to Plank.

'If they (carriers) get to feeling they're going to die of heat prostration or exhaustion out there, we tell them to take a brake and have something to drink," Plank said. He added however, mailmen don't take a break every few minutes just because

"Alot of carriers come back in the evenings and say it was real hot out there today, but that's an inherent part of the job," Plank said.

At the Lake Monroe Bridge boat traffic was down, with the heat apparently keeping people off the lake and the St. Johns River. Bridge tender Dee Jarboe, of Orange City, said she had to open the bridge nine times, down for usual Sunday traffic that can be twice as much. She said boaters are avoiding the mid-day heat and probably venturing out in the evenings.

Jarboe also reported that the bridge broke down Saturady night but the problem was related to the bridge's age not the heat.

The heat is also cutting down on air traffic at the Sanford Regional Airport.

Air traffic controler, Hazel Johnson, of Geneva, said there were 240 take offs and landings at the airport Sunday, a good 75 to 100 less flights than most Sundays. She said the heat during the past few weeks had kept the air traffic down.

Johnson said trainer planes, which do not have air conditioning, get quite hot while sitting on the runway waiting to take off. She said most of the flights occur during the morning and slack off after 10 a.m.

At the Seminole County Humane Society, the animals are taking the weather well, a spokesman said. She said some fans are being used as well as "ice packs." She said frozen containers of water are put in cages and allowed to melt providing cool air for the animals. No problems with animals at the county's Animal Control were reported.

At the Central Florida Zoo, west of Sanford, the animals are faring well, though a little less active than usual, a spokesman said.

However, fish kills could occur in Central Florida's rivers and lakes if the heat does not let up soon, according to Bill Kittrell, a fisheries biologist with the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission. Kittrell said temperatures in the St. Johns River late last week were from 86 to 89 degrees. "That is really high," he said. Water temperatures in the river this time of year normally are in the low 80s.

The high temperatures, he said, are causing drops in oxygen levels. This, said Kittrell, increases the likelihood of fish kills, of which some minor ones have been occurring in Central Florida lakes.

The heat wave also means less productive fishing, said Kittrell, who explained the fish are sluggish and staying in deep holes where oxygen is more plentiful.

part. If the union figures are accurate, the strike is the biggest in South Africa's history, surpassing stoppages involving up to 100,000 miners in 1984 and Strike leader Cyril Ramaphosa, a former student leader who was detained without charge for 16 months in the 1970s, said the strike was called to press demands for a 30 percent wage hike, additional home leave and danger pay.

But he said the strike also was a crucial test of strength between the white mine owners and his strongly antigovernment black union, which has grown from 6,000 members in 1984 to 320,000. Bobby Godsell, a spokesman for the Anglo American Corp., one of the raining companies affected by the strik, agreed that the wage issue was a pretext for a showdown.

This trial of strength had to come sometime," he said. "That is what industrial relations is all about. Our first concern is to prevent violence and deaths. Our second concern is to survive and

The strike will have varying degrees of effect at 28 gold mines and 18 collieries that have recognized the NUM as official representative of black workers.

About 200,000 miners are members of the NUM at those than 100,000 members at another 61 mines.

The first 12 hours of the strike were marred by clashes in which at least seven men were injured and 10 detained by police and mine security officers.

The incident occurred a short time before 4 p.m. (8 a.m. EDT) as a second convoy of reflagged Kuwaiti ships and their U.S. Navy escorts were stopped in the gulf on the seaway to Kuwait after a mine was discovered there, the sources said.

They said the mine was found at the Khafji offshore oil field midway between Kuwait and the spot north of Farsi Island where the re-flagged supertanker Bridgeton hit a mine and sustained serious damage July 24.

The convoy of three tankers the Sea Isle City, Ocean City and Gas King — anchored Sunday night off Saudi Arabia's main gulf oil terminal at Ras Tannurah to give the Navy more time to check for mines, the sources said.

All three ships were displaying the U.S. flag as part of President Reagan's plan to protect Kuwaiti shipping from threatened retallatory attacks by Iran for supporting Iraq in the gulf war. which has been on for almost seven years.

In A Bigger Mess Than Wife

DEAR ABBY: "Doug" and I are very much in love. He's 38. I'm 29, and four months pregnant. Doug would marry me in a minute, but he's already married to "Jan." They've been talking about a divorce for over a year. but haven't filed yet. Doug and Jan have two kids. They still live together because it's cheaper and more convenient. Meanwhile, Jan is dating up a storm.

Yesterday, she told Doug that she is pregnant and he's the father. Doug says there is no way in God's world that the baby is his because he hasn't laid a hand on her in a year. He says he's willing to take any kind of test to prove that he is not the baby's father, but in order to find out who the baby's father is, they will have to test half the men in San Diego.

I need to know if Doug is going to get stuck with a kid that isn't his. It's not fair. But how can he get out of it? Jan will lie in court if she has to.

IN A MESS IN SAN DIEGO

DEAR IN: You and Doug are overdue for a long talk - or better yet, a three-way conversation including Jan. (Does Doug really want to leave her? Or is he content with an open marriage in this frightening age of AIDS?)

A woman's husband is presumed to be the father of her child, but if Doug has any doubts about it (in Jan's case) he should see a lawyer. As I see it, unless Doug stands by his moral obligation to you, you are in a bigger mess than his wife. Good luck. You will need it.

DEAR ABBY: Forgive me if I do a little nit-picking. Enclosed is a clipping from your column in which you wrote: "I think he is a troubled man and his behavior should be reported to whomever is his superior."

Abby, "whomeever" is not the object of the preposition "to"; the whole clause is. Thus, the sentence should read: "I think he is a troubled man and his behavior should be reported to whoever is his superior.' "whoever" being the subject of the verb "is."

I usually don't find myself perturbed enough to write letters about the misuse of English appearing in the newspapers. However, I'm sure many readers would say, "If Dear Abby wrote it that way, it must be correct?"

CMS, PORT ORANGE, FLA.

P.S. This clip is from the Daytona Beach News-Journal. Maybe the typesetter took it upon him/herself to do a little editing?

DEAR CMB: I cannot blame the typesetter. (Typesetters do not edit.) So ingrained in my mind is the "to whom," I automatically trusted my car (I voted for myself.)

and used the "to" with "whomever," ignoring the fact that the whole clause was the object of the preposition "to." So, mea culpa to all you English language purists whom I of-

DEAR ABBY: "Outside Looking in" was right. As a stepmother, I would much rather be called "my stepmother" than "my dad's wife." The wicked stepmother image in the Cinderella fairy tale is long gone.

You said (in another letter) that introducing someone as a "third cousin once removed" is a distancing maneuver. By the same token, making the stepmother an attachment of the father ("my father's wife") is also a distancing maneuver. You blew It. Abby.

Miss Simmons, D.L. Brown United In Church Ceremony

Colleen Lavette Simmons of Sanford, and Deon Lenail Brown, also of sanford, were married July 11, at St. Paul Baptist Church, Sanford. The Rev. Amos Jones erformed the doubole ring ceremomy.

Monday, Aug. 10, 1907-18

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Verna Simmons, 2070 Williams Ave., Sanford, and Leonard Simmons, Los Angeles. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip King, 105 Sterling Court. Sanford.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose for her vows a romamtic gown of silk organza fashiond along the Victorian silhouette with long, full sleeves tapering to the wrists. The silk lace bodice, featuring a sheer yoke, was embellished with beaded pearls. The full skirt, caught up at intervals to form ripples of folds in a draped effect and bordered in lacetrimmed ruffles, cascaded to a graceful sweeping chapel train. Her headpiece was a silk hat accented with beaded pearls. She carried a bouquet of pink slik roses interspersed with rose colored flowers and showered with baby's breath, small wedding rings and pink lace ribbon streamers.

Carmen Simmons attended her sister as maid of honor. She wore a long-sleeved pink lace gown with a fitted dropped waist and a silk peacock tall floorlength skirt. She carried a silk flower arrangement in the shape doctors know about it?

DEAR READER - Botulism is a serious form of food poisoning that can affect children and adults alike. It is caused by eating foods that are contaminated by an endotoxin, a poison produced by a class of bacteria called clostridium botulinum.

Botulism does not produce the typical picture of food poisoning, such as stomach upset and fever. Symptoms occur between one and seven days after eating contaminated food that has usually been canned or improperly cooked. Weakness is usually the first sign; this is followed by double vision and difficulty swallowing. Nausca and vomiting occur in less than half of the Cases.

Because the diagnosis is difficult to establish, treatment with antitoxin is often delayed. About two-thirds of cases are fatal. Doctors know about botulism, but the disease is unusual, especially in sporadic forms, and does not come readily to mind when sick infants become infected.

Pediatricians recommend against giving honey in any form to children under age 1 because of the chance that it may contain botulism. Infants seem to be particularly sensitive to botulism in honey.

There is a major distinction between infant botulism and the botulism that adults get. Anytime a baby experiences difficulty in breathing, it is put on a respirator, which is one reason that infant botulism is not as likely to be fatal as is botulism in adults. Infant botulism is slow enough in developing that it can be waylaid by early action with the respirator.

DEAR DR. GOTT - Several years ago I began having heartburn continuously. I started eating a small piece of aloe vera each night and the heartburn quit. Is there a problem with eating aloe vera?

DEAR READER - Not to my 2 Tobacco chew

DEAR DR. GOTT - What is knowledge. However, I think infant botulism, how does one that you should discover the get it and why don't more cause of your heartburn. You may have an ulcer, gastritis or peptic esophagitis, which would require specific treatment more effective than aloe. Because hiatal hernia is a common cause of heartburn, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report on HIATAL HERNIA. Other readers who want a copy of this newsletter should send $1 and their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369, Be sure to ask for the Health Report on Hiatal Hernia.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

North's response to South's one-heart opening bid was pushy. Balanced distribution plus a king and a jack is a little light. Sure enough, the response got a jump to three hearts from opener, and that contract was far from safe. Now place yourself in the South position, try not to look at the East-West hands, and follow along with the defense.

East won the opening lead with the club ace and returned a club. Declarer won the king, ruffed the club jack in dummy and led a low diamond. East played low; West won South's queen with his ace and now played a low spade. Declarer played low from dummy. East won the queen and returned a spade to West's ace. West now smartly led a diamond, and East's king took the setting trick.

Two things should have guided declarer to a better decision when West led a spade. First, East had already shown up with the club ace and surely had the diamond king. (West might have led the diamond king if he held both the ace and the king.) If East also held the spade ace, he might well have opened the bidding. Second, if West held the spade queen, he would be reluctant to lead away from it. since declarer would have to eventually lead the spade suit himself. Another way of viewing the problem is that West might underlead the spade ace, hoping that declarer would misguess, but would be leery about leading away from the queen since that might be the only way for declarer to make a trick holding J-x of spades.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY AUGUST 11, 1987

In the year ahead, you will fare well in ventures or projects that permit you to utilize your creative and artistic instincts. There will be a market for your wares.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Treat the property of others as respectfully as you do your own. If you are careless with a friend's possessions today, it could spell trouble. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker set instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If you and your mate are not in accord on an important issue today, it's best to resolve the matter privately instead of bringing in outsiders to support your positions.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Try to arrange your schedule today so that you can get your most difficult chores out of the way as early as possible. If they're left until last, they won't get done.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Steer clear of financial involvements today that have risky elements. You may fare well at first, but your luck might not hold up in the long run.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec.

21) People with whom you are closely associated may put your patience to the test today. Keep cool, because if you do something rash, you'll regret it.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Your gains will only be temporary if you take advantage of a situation today that benefits you at another's expense. Let your nobler qualities guide you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your earning abilities will be in high gear today, but so will your extravagant whims. Watch out for this.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You must be careful today so that you don't give away secrets that were told to you in confidence. Live up to the trust confidants have in you.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) There's a possibility that an old problem may repeat itself again today. Trade on your experience. and try to handle it better than you did the last time.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Commercial affairs must be handled with extreme skill today. If you are impulsive or behave rashly, it could hurt your GEMINI (May 21-June 20) A commitment that you made recently, which you did not think through as thoroughly as you should have, may have to be honored today. Keep your word.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) A poor attitude today will make tasks you dislike doing even tougher. Think positively if you want your production line to run smoothly.
