HUSTLING HEINIE KNOWS HOW

WASHINGTON, D. C. (AP)—Henry Heine's baseball, first base coach of the Washington Senators, can be seen before each game teaching the younger players the finer points of the game.

During his major league career from 1906 to 1927, he hit .375. In 1928 he batted .378 but was named out of the championship by one percentage point.

Crimson Tide Coach Dies From Ailment

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP)—Frank Thomas, the stocky, soft-spoken man who coached Alabama to one of football's most spectacular records, died last night.

Death resulted from a heart ailment which forced him to give up coaching in 1947 and to surrender his duties as athletic director in early 1952.

He had reentered a Tuscaloosa hospital 10 days ago.

Thomas believed that football games were won on the playing field and not in dressing rooms.

He refused to try to pep up his teams with emotional appeals during halftimes, but was a stickler for detail and hard work in practices and for all-out effort during a game.

His policy paid off. During his 15 years as boss of the Crimson Tide, Thomas saw his teams win 113 games, lose 21 and tie 7.

He carried teams to three Rose Bowl games and to Cotton, Orange and Sugar Bowl appearances. His record record was 4-2.

Perhaps his most famous team was that of 1950, one of his four or five undefeated squads. This powerhouse featured the passing combination of Dixie Howell to Don Hutson and good Stanford and its crushing ground attack 29-12 on Jan. 1, 1951.

Thomas, who was 53, often said that victory was his greatest football thrill as a coach or player.

Born in Muncie, Ind., Thomas graduated from the Indiana State Normal at Terre Haute, Ind., where he was playing at Western State Normal College, Kalamazoo, Mich., and at Notre Dame, where he was quarterback under the immortal Knute Rockne in 1920-22.

Upon graduating from Notre Dame he went to Georgia as a back field coach in 1923. Two years later he became head coach at Chattanooga, returned to Georgia in 1928 and remained there until 1931 when he took over at Alabama.

His teams won three Southeastern Conference titles and tied for a fourth. Alabama's record from 1933 through 1953 of 93 victories, 17 losses and 7 ties was the best in the nation.

positions to the Communist proposals on Indochina peace were the provisions for Communist-style elections without international supervision, recognition of the Communist-backed regimes of Indochina and lack of military guarantees to back up the armistice.

Although the Western delegates agreed there must be full discussion of the detailed armistice proposals, some of them already were talking about writing the Geneva conference off as a complete failure on both Indochina and Korea.

The French-sponsored government of Viet Nam, largest of the three Indochinese states, was reported working on a third peace plan that may differ sharply from that of either the French or the Communists.

In addition to other provisions, the Viet Nam delegation has indicated it would ask for complete independence of the three Indochinese states of Indochina—Viet Nam, Laos and Cambodia—now classified by France as associated states within the French Union.

The French say the states are already independent or are approaching that status. Many Vietnamese say the French still hold the power in key fields.

A Vietnamese spokesman said yesterday France's three proposals are not aimed at partition of Indochina. Viet Nam views this as a form of surrender.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—Willie Keeler, the remarkable little man who courted the sage advice to "hit where they ain't" to baseball lore, stood only 5 feet 4 and weighed but 140 pounds, yet he was large enough to post a batting average of .345 during his 19 years' outfielding in the big leagues.

Johnny Evers, member of the famous Tinker to Evers to Chance double-play combination, was even smaller than Willie, though, if you want to judge them on weight alone. The pugnacious second baseman carried only 135 pounds on his 5 feet 9 inches and 18-year span and was by far the thickest athlete yet to be incarcerated in the Baseball Hall of Fame at Cooperstown.

The largest member of that select company appears to have been the famous Adrian (Cap) Anson, who weighed in at 220 pounds while infielding and managing, mostly for the Chicago Cubs, from 1876 to 1897. Babe Ruth is listed at a mere 215, along with Uncle Willert Robinson, but many admirers of the pair will contend they were given a short count.

The three tallest superstars among the 64 superstars whose plaques adorn the walls of the baseball shrine were Dizzy Dean, Lefty Bob Grove and Cy Young, all pitchers and all measuring 6 feet 3. The late Herb Pennock, one of the greatest of the left-handers, weighed 165 pounds and was much the lightest of the most eminent group of pitchers in the hall. He and Young had the longest careers in the big show, 22 years each.

If there's anything to be learned from these facts and figures culled from a handsome pamphlet prepared by Sam Keefer, custodian of the Cooperstown gallery, it seems to be that there's no such animal as an average ballplayer. One notes from the chart, though, that they average a good deal larger these days than they did around the turn of the century. Rabbit Maranville's 5 feet 5 and 145 pounds would not have been considered unusually small 40 or 50 years ago, and Paul Waner's 5 feet 8½ would have made him quite a big feller.

It comes as no great surprise to learn that a player named Ty Cobb posted the highest lifetime batting average among the immortals, .367, but it was news to this writer that the revered Connie Mack set the lowest mark with a blazing .249 and powered only four homers during his 11 years behind the plate.

According to Justice Department authorities, the difficulty stems from language requiring union officials to certify only that they are not Communists at the time of filing. They say an official with Red connections could resign from the Communist party to take the oath, then rejoin the next day.

These officials said they hoped the union dissolution weapon would impel Red-dominated labor organizations to purge themselves.

President Blasts Action Of Officer In Providing McCarthy FBI Data

Tells News Conference Free World Should Not Write Off Indochina

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today called it reprehensible for any Army intelligence officer to have supplied confidential FBI data to Sen. McCarthy without authorization.

The President also told his news conference, in a comment on the international scene, that the free world ought not to write off Indochina.

At the outset of the conference, a reporter told the President that Sen. McCarthy had testified last week that an Army intelligence officer supplied him with classified FBI material.

The newsmen went on to say that Atty. Gen. Brown later said the material should not be made public. Eisenhower then was asked to comment on the "propriety" of the Army intelligence officer's delivery of such data to McCarthy without authorization.

The President recalled that he said at his news conference last week he was thinking of taking a vacation from replies to questions dealing with McCarthy.

He added he was not going to comment on the aspect of the question as it related to McCarthy. The President then went on to discuss the principle of the situation raised by the reporter's question.

He said that in a case where an individual officer gives away classified information, it is reprehensible.

Eisenhower said that was especially so in the case of security material which must be kept secret.

The President said that when enlisted men enter the armed forces they take an oath to obey the regulations and their superiors.

Eisenhower then asked whether we are to assume that an enlisted man can adopt one kind of loyalty and an officer another kind.

Answering his own question, the President called that perfectly ridiculous.

He added that whenever we get to that kind of a situation with armed services, we had better disband them.

Later in the news conference, the President said in reply to another question he did not know whether any investigation was being made to try to locate the intelligence officer who McCarthy said provided him with the FBI data. The Army has said it is conducting such an investigation.

Incident On Cohn Is Related

WASHINGTON (AP)—Army Council

for John G. Adams swore today that Cohn exploded "This is war" when Cohn was barred from a secret radar laboratory at Ft. Monmouth, N.J. last Oct. 20.

Telling of the incident from the other side of the McCarthy-Adams feud, Adams said:

"He became extremely upset. He said 'This is war,' and 'We'll really investigate this place now.'"

He said "They let Communists into this place but they keep me out completely and we're barred by Adams from the work."

Adams was supporting the Army's contention that Cohn, 27, was an unqualified consultant to the secretariat's investigations against the Army.

The Army charges also that Cohn used the subcommittee's power in seeking preferential Army treatment for Pvt. G. David Schine, wealthy New Yorker who was an unpaid consultant to the subcommittee before he was drafted last fall.

It is H. Jenkins, special counsel for the inquiry into the row, asked whether Cohn had said at Ft. Monmouth that he had access to FBI files.

He didn't say that to me but he said that to other persons, Adams replied.

Leading up to his story of the Monmouth incident, Adams testified:

"I was under instructions from Secretary Stevens to cooperate completely and wholeheartedly with the McCarthy subcommittee's investigation of alleged subversion at Ft. Monmouth. The McCarthy camp contends Secretary Stevens gave Adams the assignment of trying to halt the inquiry."

McCarthy once told him G. David Schine was "not much use" to the McCarthy subcommittee and McCarthy hoped Schine would be drafted, Adams said as he recalled this conversation with McCarthy took place about Oct. 11 during a subway ride in New York City. He said Mrs. McCarthy also was present.

The hearings processed at the capital, there were references to them during President Eisenhower's news conference.

County P-TA Group Installs Officers

A general meeting of the Seminole County Council of P-TA, met last night to install new council officers for the year 1954-55.

Mrs. W. F. Giles was installed as president, Mrs. J. B. Johnson as vice president, Mrs. Margaret Wagner as secretary, Mrs. Brock as treasurer, and Mrs. Douglas and Stewart Gatchel as principal aides.

The meeting which was held at the Sanford High School, was attended by Mrs. D. Hale Jackson, P-TA district vice president who installed the new officers.

BID ON CONTRACTS

Other apparent low bids for city contracts in the extensive program to improve the city's water and sewerage facilities were entered by the Lee Construction Company of Sanford for storm drainage improvements, $2,212,250; a supplying and installing of engine-driven electric generator at the well field, with accessories, $19,600.

Slavery Trial Is Resumed In Alabama

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Trial of three white brothers on charges of holding Negro farm hands in slavery resumed today after similar perjury indictments of three others were dismissed by a federal court.

Those against whom the charges still are pending are Oscar Edwin Dial, 31; Fred N. Dial, 25; and Grady Dial, 28, brothers who operate a large farm west of Livingston, Ala., near the Mississippi line.

U. S. Dist. Judge Seymour H. Lynne dismissed cases against Robert Dial, 44, brother of the other three, and two cousins, Arthur Arnold Dial, 47, and Lindsay Wynyard Dial, 43.

The court took the action on recommendation of U. S. Dist. Atty. Frank Johnson Jr. who said he felt the evidence insufficient to convict the three.

All were indicted by a federal grand jury last fall on charges of paying fines of Negro prisoners in nearby jails in Alabama and Mississippi, holding the Negroes in servitude on their farms and beating them if they attempted to escape.

Bond Bids To Be Opened Tonight

Bids for Sanford's sewer revenue bonds will be opened at City Hall tonight at 8 p.m., according to City Manager Warren Knowles, who stated that the engineers involved in the project will have their tabulations prepared on contract bids.

A total of $1,175,000 in city bonds has been authorized for sale by the City Council.

It is expected that possible cuts in the sewer and water program will be presented by engineers and the City Manager. This cut is necessitated by construction bids which were $200,000 higher than anticipated by the council.

Jacksonville engineer Robert M. Anas has spent the entire day poring over design plans to find parts that may be cut.

Knowles today said that engineers had presented construction cuts in high places in Wynwood and the Mayfair sections of Sanford.

Rocket-Powered Guided Missile For Combat In Air Is Revealed

WASHINGTON (AP)—A rocket-powered supersonic guided missile system, designed to be used from airplanes against airplanes, was announced by the Defense Department last night.

The weapon, known as the Sparrow I, is "fully maneuverable at supersonic speeds, yet light and compact enough to be carried in multiple units by fighter-type jet aircraft," the announcement said.

The Defense Department called the Sparrow a "guided missile system" rather than a guided missile system, apparently implying that it is more than a missile.

The Navy announced it is training ship and shore personnel for use of the Sparrow by carrier based jet aircraft both in the Atlantic and the Pacific fleets.

The Navy described the missile types as "systems capable of accurate control when the missile is fired from a speeding jet plane."

Grand Jury Charges Miami Beach Police With Neglect Of Duty

THESE FIVE DALLAS DISTRICT COURT judges have been allocated $150,000,000 in aid from President Eisenhower of a relief fund.

Ex-Captain Gets Much Of Blame Report Names Various Crimes

MIAMI (AP)—A Dade County grand jury in a final report yesterday charged Miami Beach police with "culpable negligence" for failing to break up widespread prostitution, gambling and pick-pocketing.

Much of the blame, the jury said, should be placed on Capt. Charles W. Pierce, who recently after being acquitted on charges of receiving bribes.

That investigation disclosed that Pierce had been virtually in charge of the police department in several important functions, the report said.

It also reported: "Evidence has been presented that well-known pickpockets have been and are operating in Miami Beach. The officer in charge of this detail during the past few years has been Detective Earl...

Only revealed last during this year, $27,000 was taken by pickpockets. The evidence further disclosed that the pickpocket detail knew all the pickpockets by name, but out one conviction was obtained against them during the time Mackey headed the detail.

In head-making, the jury declared, is "prevalent in Miami Beach and throughout Dade County."

The jury also said a widespread "all girl" system of prostitution existed on Miami Beach, with one madam alone having an income of half a million dollars a season through her setup of 50 girls.

It said that operation of bars encouraged these girls to operate on their establishments to increase their business and in some instances the owners or bartenders shared in the fortunes of these girls.

The jury said there were very few arrests or convictions of prostitutes by police officers assigned to this detail and that a past attitude of tolerance toward crime and graft may have caused some of the present conditions.

The grand jury recommended that future police keep a "watch list" on the Miami Beach police department.

Senate Approves Change To Pledge

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate has passed and sent to the House a bill adding the words "under God" to the pledge of allegiance to the flag.

The revised pledge would read: "I pledge allegiance to the flag of the United States of America and to the republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible with liberty and justice for all."

Detroit Student Tells Police How He Slew 4-Year-Old Girl

DETROIT (AP)—An unemotional high school student told police today he fatally beat and slashed a 4-year-old girl, but didn't know why he did it.

Marion Jo Zohrovitz was found yesterday by three playmates in a garage behind her home, her body torn and bleeding. She died in a hospital after doctors fought 48 hours to save her.

Police Lt. Edward Jacques said 15-year-old Terrence De Moss told him he had struck the girl with a 2-by-4 beam, then slashed her.

Jacques said the boy gave no reason for the attack.

De Moss is a juvenile under Michigan law and cannot be charged with a major crime in criminal court unless Probate Court charges it jurisdiction.

Mrs. Doris De Moss, his mother, told police that she knew her son was the murderer, but police at first before she could call them.

In a formal statement in police she said that Terry was fascinated by a newspaper account of the crime. She said that he left for school yesterday morning and came home about 2:30 p.m.

She told police that he went to the bathroom and then to the kitchen, where he tried to clean brown spots off his grey flannel trousers. He told her that a girl had spilled something on a school and she had gotten scolded.

Later, she told police, he went to a show with her and his brother.

When they got back home, she said, Terry grabbed their newspaper and began to read the story of the attack.

Mrs. De Moss said he told her he had been at school, but she threatened to call his teacher.

It was then Mrs. De Moss told police that he broke down and said:

"I don't know why I did it."

Meanwhile, police, acting on a tip from a policeman neighbor, had already headed for the home.

Police said Terry had been treated three times at the Wayne County Child Study Clinic and had been arrested once for breaking and entering.

His mother told police he had suffered treatment when he was 5 and the result was abnormal nervous and would she said the pneumonia had led to what she described as "brain fever."

Marion Jo was one of four children of Morris and Julie Zohrovitz.

Zohrovitz, a truck driver, hurried home at the telephone message from his wife: "Come on home—Mara's been hurt."

He called his daughter "Cookie."

"We moved to this address in January," he said, "because the house we were living in had rats."

With Cookie and the new baby coming on, we were afraid to stay—my God, I wish we had."

Where The Money Goes

If government expenses are to be cut by reducing the number of employees, the place to begin is perhaps not the federal payroll, but that of the states and their subdivisions. The Bureau of the Census reports that federal workers number 111 for every 10,000 persons in the United States, but state and local employees number 261. Curiously enough the highest per capita figure is reached by both the most and the least populous states New York and Nevada both have 420 government workers for each 10,000 of population.

It may be hard to cut the state and city payrolls. There should probably be more police rather than fewer, and certainly there are not enough teachers. Nor are there sufficient inspectors to enforce pure food, trucking and safety laws. It has also become apparent that the number of immigration inspectors should be greatly increased along the Texas and California borders if illegal migrants from Mexico are to be kept out.

Probably those wishing to reduce the costs of government should examine other expenditures than those for workers' pay.

Plot That Failed

After all these years new chapters appear in the epic story of the rise and fall of the Confederacy. One of the most unexpected, not suspected even by specialists deals with the plot of the rebellion in the North, fomented by a Southern agent named Thomas H. Hines. It was hoped to persuade Northern sympathizers with the South, the so-called Copperheads, to rise against the Lincoln administration, while saboteurs burned New York City and seized munitions in Illinois and other Midwestern states. The plot failed, chiefly because the Copperheads, no matter how freely they talked, drew back when it came to action.

Hines' career has now been told in James D. Horan's new book, "Confederate Agent." He took part in Gen. John H. Mor-

Careers Jeopardized

WASHINGTON (AP)—It's probably the best word to describe what is expected now in the Senate hearing on Senator McCarthy's row with Pentagon officials. Secretary of the Army Stevens by a cold decision has made this a finish fight.

McCarthy has tried to minimize the importance of the hearing, calling it a burlesque and a circus. Now that it's due to go on to the bitter end his political life may be at stake.

Stevens was willing to put his public career on the block. He refused to agree to shorten the hearing by letting the whole business disappear from public view once McCarthy had testified.

If he had agreed, witnesses who testified after McCarthy would have done so behind closed doors, with the public, the press and television cameras excluded although a transcript of what they said would have been given out.

Stevens on the receiving end of McCarthy's questions for most of his 14 days on the stand, chose to let the hearings run their full course out in the open.

He took the position that not only McCarthy but the senators' two aides in the case, Roy M. Cohn and Francis P. Carr, should have to face the same kind of cross-examination he did.

This meant, of course, the same treatment for the other two principals on his side of the case, Army Counselor John G. Adams and H. Stuart Hensel, assistant secretary of defense.

So far the cards have all been in McCarthy's hands. It's Stevens who had to answer questions from the seven senators making the investigation, Ray H. Jenkins, their special counsel, and from McCarthy and Cohn.

McCarthy, simply because Stevens was the witness, nailed him to the chair, day after day with questions. Yet, more and more as the days passed, McCarthy has been acting like a man who thought he was surrounded by enemies.

He accused two of the senators—Democrats Symington of Missouri and Jackson of Washington—of trying to obstruct his hunt for communists.

He turned on a fellow Republican on the committee, a man he himself had nominated to be there, Sen. Dwyerhak of Idaho, and told him he was sorry he had chosen him.

He repeatedly insinuated Stevens was lying and belittled the secretary's intelligence. Twice he accused Joseph N. Welch, counsel to Stevens and Adams, of breaking agreements which Welch said never existed.

And he tried to humiliate Hensel, who hadn't said a word, by suggesting that Army officers sitting near him were lending him a change he didn't deserve and should move away.

gan's raid through Kentucky and Ohio, was captured with Morgan, but managed to escape, taking his general along. After the war he became chief justice of Kentucky. His associates also achieved distinction, one as adjutant general of Kentucky, another as president of two railroads. Clearly they were men of parts and character, not riff-raff.

Besides Northern unwillingness to rise, another factor that defeated Hines was the under-cover work of Felix Stidger, a dry-goods clerk who became an effective federal agent. As in recent subversive plots, the best preventive work was done by counter-spies, not by noisy investigations.

Highlights of the program include discussion and inspection tours of research plots on (1) corn earworm control, (2) insecticide residues, (3) cheated iron work with 17 vegetables, (4) fertility levels celery and sweet corn, (5) nematode-celery relationships, (6) anhydrous ammonia fertilization, (7) a new method of fumigating garden and seedbeds, (8) tomato varieties and a new fruit-set compound, (9) blight-resistant celery, and (10) onion variety trials.

We solicit your ideas and fair criticism of any existing conditions, city-wide, state and national, comment, or criticism of individuals, public officials, groups or organizations, but be temperate, fair and truthful. No personalities. The length of your letter depends upon the importance of what you have to say. Mr. Editor
Sanford Herald
Sanford, Florida

Dear Editor:
In behalf of the Central Florida Chapter of Crippled Children Association I want to thank you for the Sanford Atlantic National Bank and publicly given for the Easter Seal Drive. I have always appreciated the efforts of The Sanford Herald in supporting worthwhile projects and you certainly went all the way in helping us for which we have our deepest gratitude. We are confident that we have reached more people this year than in any year past and have told our message of the services offered the exceptional children of Central Florida.

I would like at this time to express my appreciation to the Board of Commissioners of Seminole County, Florida, for their generous check given to Forest Park School, and to the Kiwanis Club, the Sanford Atlantic National Bank, and the Florida State Bank for sponsoring children to Camp for the Future Nurses of America, that sponsored our Easter Lily Drive on the streets of Sanford on Saturday, April 17, when $15.89 was collected.

Although it does not come under the Easter Seal Drive, it shows that our Superintendent of Public Instruction, R. T. Millwee, and W. A. Teague, of transportation, and the Board of Trustees of Schools of Seminole County, of which John Hrumley is chairman, for having the vision and seeing the need of our exceptional children and having purchased a new school bus to transport our Easter Lily Drive School in Orlando.

And last but not least to the many, many people who contributed so generously for Easter Seals mailed in them, making the grand total of $241.00. It is up to the Association and Forest Park School in Orlando.

One thing the administration can be sure of, so long as McCarthy is forced to spend all his time at the hearing, he won't have time to bang away at the administration from other directions, as he did in the past.

Yet Stevens had to consider, before rejecting them, some good reasons for bringing the television hearings to a halt.

He and his aides could have come back to their appointed tasks in the Army. McCarthy and the other seven senators could have gone on to other work.

And the Republican party, which faces the congressional elections in the fall, might have been benefited by a quick end to the inquiry. This prolonged spectacle of a strictly Republican family fight can hardly be helping the party.

Park School to establish, develop and maintain the many services which our exceptional children need. As a director of both I want to express my deep appreciation to each and every one who has helped in this drive.

The happiness and hope provided exceptional children through Easter Seal Funds cannot be explained in a letter such as this. I can only say that the sight of Easter Seals at work is so heart-warming that through the eyes of a volunteer who has been backstage the Easter Seal campaign is indeed a happy one.

Sincerely yours,
Mrs. Harold Appleby
Chairman
Easter Seal Drive,
Seminole County

I wish to thank you for the wonderful publicity that you gave us for the Navy Appreciation Day. It is our pleasure and honor to have you here in Sanford and I know that the citizens are enjoying your paper each day. You certainly did your part in making Navy Appreciation Day a great success.

Wishing you every good wish.
Sincerely yours,
Edward J. Lane
General Chairman

Police Hunting Gang Escapee

City police are today hunting a prisoner who yesterday escaped from the City road along with the group was clearing weeds from roads in rural Goldsboro.

Nathaniel Wapley, who several weeks ago was arrested by Det. Lt. Jack Hickson and Officer W. R. Congrave on a drunken driving charge was tried in city court and sentenced to serving 60 days or paying $100. He slipped away from the work gang while the attention of Leslie Paggett, guard, was occupied elsewhere.

The escapee is described as a Negro, 5'10" tall, 135 pounds in weight, with brown eyes and black hair. The escapee is not considered dangerous, but caution in approaching the man is urged by Chief of Police Roy Williams.

Three Automobiles Involved In Mishap

The Pig 'n' Whistle parking lot at 23th St. and Park Ave. was the scene of a three-car crash last night in which a Sanford woman, thrown from her vehicle, suffered head injuries.

Ellis Stevens of Sanford who was driving a light delivery truck, pulled out of the restaurant's parking lot in front of a 1941 Willys sedan driven by Ida Mae LaFlore, Sanford, who was driving north on Park Ave. and was forced to swerve into the lot to avoid a collision.

The door of the Willys then flew open and the sudden turn threw Miss LaFlore from the car which ran out of control for approximately 30 feet and smashed into a parked 1931 Mercury owned by Charles H. Newman, Sanford.

Miss LaFlore was thrown from her car and was taken to Fernald-Loughton Hospital for treatment of head injuries received when she fell on the paved lot, and has not yet regained consciousness.

The Rev. J. W. Marshall, recently of Wildwood, is the new pastor of the Assembly of God Church, filling the vacancy left by the Rev. Harold Bullock.

The new minister and his family all are Canadian citizens, having been in the United States about two years. The pastor spent about four years in the Canadian army during World War II.

The Rev. and Mrs. Marshall have two boys, Billy, 6, and Lester, 7.

Joan Foster, Bride

By Alice Ross Colver

Like any young couple ardently in love, Joan Foster and Todd Hunter are eager to wed. But Todd has not yet been placed in his chosen profession of teaching, and the little money which Joan carries by writing, is not enough to maintain a home.

CHAPTER TWO
A SILENCE fell for a moment in the conversation between Joan and her mother. In it Joan heard a pair of robins filling the air with their twilight chirping. Luc's y bird's chirping for them to worry about but a few seconds.

"Which they can always find," she said aloud.

"What on earth are you talking about?"

Joan laughed and explained. "I guess it's still too cold to eat out here tonight, isn't it?" she asked, changing the subject.

"Well, it's too cold for Gram, anyway. And I wouldn't like to leave her alone at meal time the way she is now. She misses Gramp, you know. Still I'm sure she's not sorry that we slipped away so quickly. He couldn't endure being displeas. He'd have hated to spend the rest of his life on crutches or in a wheel chair. Eucumonia is, indeed, a friend of old people, as the doctors say."

Joan nodded.

"Well," Mrs. Foster said, rising now. "I must get back to the kitchen. I have a meat loaf in the oven."

"Oh, good. Todd loves a meat loaf. But can't Annie watch it?"

"You forget. This isn't Annie's day."

"Oh, yes. You have her only twice a week now, don't you? I do keep forgetting."

"Yes, she was getting too old to work full time. And I had to economize. I planned a six-thirty dinner. Will Todd be here by then?"

"Yes, Mum. It's an early night. Can't I help you?"

"No, thank you. You set the table before you went out this afternoon. By the way, did you find anything?"

Joan shook her head. "I walked miles, too. I should have taken Todd's jalopy. No, I didn't find a thing except that room rentals are almost as expensive as apartments. Everybody sees a chance to go, so they're going. Anybody I decide that sharing a bath and a kitchen with people you don't know too well isn't an attractive prospect. I've about given up the idea of living in one room."

"Well, something will work out. The furniture was a way of taking care of itself. I've discovered." And Joan smiled.

Mrs. Foster smiled reassuringly down on her daughter before going inside.

Left alone, Joan's thoughts returned to the evening on the boat when she and Todd had planned for a June wedding. It had not seemed unreasonable then. They had agreed that he would surely have a job lined up by that time.

But what, actually, had happened? Todd had spent the winter in study at Columbia University, commuting there daily to continue the work for his doctorate which had been interrupted in Switzerland by his illness. Columbia had accepted his foreign record for the first term, but he had learned he could not possibly complete the requirements there for his Ph.D. by the end of the semester in June. He would have to put in this summer and another full year, and after that he would have to write a thesis and pass his examination. He would be halfway to his goal, though, by this coming September, and he had believed that with his Master's degree (which he had received before going abroad) and almost two years of advanced study toward the higher degree, he would have no trouble finding a position. Then, later on, perhaps in a year or two, he would finish his doctorate. But this would not be until he had saved up some money for more study and had acquired some experience in teaching.

Having worked out the plan to his satisfaction, he had enrolled in February, quite confidently, in the agency conducted by Columbia to secure teaching jobs for their own students. He had also entered his name in an agency in Philadelphia and in one in New York City, as well. Not content with that, he had obtained a list of colleges, junior colleges and preparatory schools between Maine and Virginia and as far west as Illinois, and had written a form letter to each of them, in which he had given a resume of his background and education, three character references, and information as to where the transcript of his college and foreign study could be secured. At the end of the letter he had asked if there would be an opening in the coming fall for a teaching position in German and, if so, would the authorities kindly consider him? Joan had typed these form letters for him, all one hundred and fifty of them.

Todd had had the courtesy of replies to more than four-fifths of his inquiries. Almost all of them commended him on his background, which was declared "rich." But almost unanimously the colleges had said that there would be "no vacancy on their teaching staffs" or that they preferred "a" engage some one with teaching experience" or that their German department was "shrinking rather than enlarging." They would be glad, however, to put his name in their active files in the event that something opened up later in the year.

"How do you like that?" Todd had said nastily to Joan. "Why are their German departments shrinking? Some of the most famous philosophers and thinkers in German history have been German! I think that's crazy!"

The Columbia agency had given him the answer. He was told there that college students were taking up the study of Chinese or Russian or some Middle Eastern language rather than German. That interest in German had never been revived since the first World War. That Spanish had taken its place then and still held greater popularity. And, finally, that German scholars, from Europe, filled many openings in the institutions of higher learning now.

The preparatory schools had not been any more encouraging. Their chief objection was to the fact that Todd planned to be married. "We have no accommodations for married teachers," they wrote. "Our dormitories with the boys' dorms, over, some had no German departments at all; some, like the colleges, expected no teaching vacancies; and a few were planning to do away with the language since there is so little demand for it."

In the end, only about six schools had so much as requested an interview. And Todd discovered during his appointments with the different deans at these six that one school was looking for a teacher, not for this coming fall, but for the following one. Another took interest in him upon learning that he was a graduate of a high school rather than of a well-known preparatory school where he might have a student following. Two schools wrote him that another prospect, interviewed later, and was engaged, and two informed him that, after all, their own instructors had decided to remain.

Some few letters were tracking in, but enough rejections had accumulated to make Todd and Joan feel pretty grim and dejected.

Lake Mary Church Hammond Organ Is Dedicated Sunday

The Lake Mary Presbyterian Church dedicated its new Hammond Organ Sunday afternoon with an appropriate Vesper Service. The initial portion of the program consisted of organ selections played by an Orlando organist, William F. Braine and included "O Rest in the Lord" by Mendelssohn, sung by the choir director, Walter J. Piper.

The Rev. James M. Thompson, former pastor of the church made the invocation and the Rev. L. W. Scott, present pastor read the scriptures and made the dedicatory prayer. During the service, the 32 different members and organists contributing to the organ, which was purchased and paid for in less than 30 days were thanked by the church. Through remarks of the pastor and the chairman of the organ committee, Walter J. Piper.

Certain contributions had been made in the nature of memorials and the names of loved ones whose memorialized are engraved on a plaque set on the console of the instrument, as follows, Edmond H. and Alice W. Palmer, parents of Mrs. P. D. Anderson, Florence M. Anderson, late wife of P. D. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. William True, parents of R. E. True and Stella P. Evans, late wife of Frank Evans.

The very splendid program arranged by the director, Mr. Piper and the organist, Mrs. J. M. Thompson, and carried out in large part by friends of the church outside its congregation, was enjoyed by a large audience of Lake Mary friends and others from Enterprise, Orlando and Winter Park.

Flowers for the church had been furnished by Mrs. P. D. Anderson, in memory of her mother, Alice Wright Palmer, as Mrs. Anderson's custom, each Mother's Day.

Chicken Theft Is Unsolved

Sheriff's Deputies today are still in the dark as to who stole 100 fat Rhode Island hens from the County home last Monday night.

Clues at the scene of the robbery indicated that three men had taken part in the crime. Deputies believe a truck was used to transport the loot because of heavy tire tracks found near the scene.

Entry was gained by breaking a chain locking the gate into the chicken yard and tipping a screen from a window of the chicken house.

The robbery was not discovered until the next afternoon giving the thieves time to dispose of the chickens.

DeLand, Seabreeze Collide In Sub-District Opener

Game To Be Played In Memorial Stadium, Seminoles Meet Winner

Group I baseball tournament gets underway today with the Seabreeze Sandcrabs going against the DeLand Bulldogs. The winner of this game will meet the fighting Seminoles in a contest tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Also, on tomorrow's slate will be a game between New Smyrna and Pierson.

All these events will take place at Memorial Stadium. It will be the second time within two weeks that the stadium has been used for tournament games. The first tourney held here was last week, when the Seminoles won the East Florida Conference baseball championship.

Sanford has defeated every team in the tournament at least twice this year with the exception of Pierson. The Seminoles have handed DeLand three straight losses by scores of 3-2, 13-6, and 3-2. The celery eaters have defeated New Smyrna three times by scores of 17-10, 15-3, and 18-7. Seabreeze felt the taste of defeat twice against the Scotties.

If the tournament goes as it is predicted by the experts, Pete Peterson, on the mound, while Seabreeze will throw its latest flash in pitching, Bob Nelson, against the Bulldogs. DeLand has fallen before the Sandcrabs twice in regular season play. In one of those games, Nelson pitched a no hit 2-0 shut out over them. So far, the Bulldogs have compiled a 6-7 record, while Seabreeze has a 7-6 record.

DeLand was edged out of the East Florida Conference tourney by dropping an extra inning 3-2 game to the Seminoles. Also Seabreeze was eliminated from the tourney very early. The Sandcrabs fell victim to one of the biggest upsets of the year, when they were defeated by the New Smyrna team 6-1.

The winner of the Group I tourney will play the winner of either the Group II, III, or IV. All the winners of the Groups will get together and play at the district tournament. The winner of that tourney will go to the state baseball tournament.

Melbourne, Cocoa, Oviedo, and Titusville teams make up the Group II tourney. Winter Gardens, Kissimmee, St. Cloud, Apopka, Winter Park, and Lyman make up the third Group. The fourth group consists of Kustis, Leesburg, Mt. Dora, Groveland, Clermont, and Titusville.

Probable starting lineups:
DeLand—short stop
Hodges—third base
Hays—catcher
Holt—first base
Peterson—pitcher
Farlin—second base
Hunt—center field
Murray—right field
Seabreeze
Weller—second base
Bennet—short stop
Odum—catcher
Forsythe—center field
Nass—third base
Anderson—right field
Panquette—first base
Nelson—pitching

All-Stars Meet Pirates Tomorrow Night In Stadium

Robert Samuel will take his pennant winning champions into Memorial Stadium tomorrow night to battle the Rotary League All-Stars. The game will be played at 7:30 p. m.

The All-Star team will be managed by Bobby Newman and will be made up of players from three of the Rotary League baseball teams. Roy Holler, manager of the Pirates, feels certain his team will be the first team to defeat the All-Stars.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK—Canadian football, the infant terrible of the sports world, has contented itself up to now to filching some of this country's brightest stars from the latter body, which felt it had a sort of divine right to the products of our college foundry.

Now our buddies from beyond the border are preparing to move in on the colleges themselves, with an assist from the National Broadcasting Co. The next yelp of pain you hear will come from the NCAA. On 13 Saturdays next fall the country's television sets will be jumping with Canada's own lively version of the game.

Tom Gallery, NBC's sports in-fighter, has just returned from the north country armed with a contract and wearing a grim smile. Over his office door they had hung a floral greeting which said, "Well done, Tom!" It might have added, "That's showing the so-and-so."

The college group, it perhaps should be explained, took its "Game of the Week" away from Gallery's stable at its meeting on April 23 and awarded it to the rival ABC. Since yet another well-known television firm, Du Mont, holds all rights to National League games, this appeared to have saved the limb of behind Tom. Actually it only served to rouse the former West Coast promoter, and now look.

Starting on Aug. 28, a month before his rivals can swing into action, Gallery will start screening games of the Canadian "Big Four"—Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto and Hamilton. This figures to give the country's fans a good chance to learn and become attracted to "Canadian 12-man football" before there's a rival in the field.

By the time the first college coast-to-coaster comes around, Gallery feels he'll have had audience nailed down, with not a hand-switcher in a roomful. He and his associates, including Lindsey Nelson, who will be expected to explain and describe the game to the American audience, are convinced that the speed of the Canadian game (any time-outs) will have a big appeal.

Additionally, each of the Canadian teams carries up to 10 former college or professional stars from this country. It seems reasonable that many thousands of fans will be anxious to see their heroes in action again.

BEN SOBIEAJ
Atlantic Fleet Singles Champion

Ben Sobieraj Wants To Become Champion

JACKSONVILLE, Fla.—Twice in the last two years has Ben Sobieraj (pronounced "sober-eye") captured the Atlantic Fleet singles tennis championships and set his sights on the All-Navy title.

But due to the exigencies of the Korean Campaign and the quirks of Navy planning as a result, an All-Navy tournament between the Atlantic and Pacific Fleet winners has not been held since 1950.

Sobieraj, a diminutive, dark-haired, airman storekeeper from St. Louis, is attached to Composite Squadron FIVE of Sanford, and is a member of the Jacksonville Navy-Marine tennis team.

Thus far this season, playing Number One on the Navy team, he is undefeated in college competition, beating the Number One players in team matches against the best of Southeastern United States Universities.

Recently he defeated Al Haram of the University of Miami, 1953 National Junior Indoor singles champion and conqueror of Denmark's Kurt Nielson. Sobieraj also won the Jacksonville Beach Junior Chamber of Commerce Invitational recently.

How To Play The Outfield

By JOE DIMAGGIO
(Written for AP Newsfeatures)
A good outfielder must be able to do four things—hit, run, throw and catch a fly ball.

The center fielder has the most territory to cover. He must cover his own position, part of left field, part of right field and ground behind second base. He need not be the fastest outfielder but should have a good arm. He must be an alert fellow who is able to get the jump on all balls hit his way.

Because most batters are right handers and hit a number of balls to left field, the left fielder is considered the second best outfielder on the team.

Right Field Has Changed
When I was a kid, right field was the place where the less capable outfielder would play, but that's changed today. The right fielder is one who should be able to play the ball off the wall, pretty well because in most parks right field is shallow. He must have a fair arm to make long throws to third or home plate.

An outfielder should be ready to take charge of a ball almost as soon as it is hit. He must get off. He must be on his toes with every pitch. It is unwise to play the outfield in a flat-footed position.

On ground balls hit to the outfield I always believe in charging the ball. That gave me full momentum and made it easier to make a throw. I used to get hit on the arm while charging some ground balls but at least I'd try to have the ball in front of me. It's important to stop a ground ball as soon as possible with men on base. A speedy recovery of a batted ball may prevent one or more important runners from making an extra base.

When trying to catch a fly ball hit in front of you it might be necessary to leave your feet. If so, do it while running at full speed. You can take the fall on your shoulder and roll over. However, I never went in for circus catches. I tried not to fall down or dive for the ball. I always made an effort to bend down to my shoe tops to catch fly balls hit in front of me.

Fellows who have trouble going back for a fly ball should have someone hit long fungoes in practice. In the spring I also believed in having the coaches and pitchers hit ground balls to the outfield. I used to charge them. It helps leg muscles, gets you to the ball sooner and helps your timing in fielding the ball.

Call for the Ball
Always call for the ball when it can be caught by more than one man. The first one calling for the ball usually has the preference. However, this wasn't always the case in Yankee Stadium during parts of 1950 and 1951 when Gene Woodling was playing left field and Hank Bauer right. On days when the Yankees drew big crowds we often had difficulty hearing the outfield calls due to the crowd din.

I also recall a game in Detroit in 1957 when Myril Hoag and yours truly were running at full speed for a ball hit into the right center field hole by Goose Goslin. We both called but neither heard the other with some 40,000 people shouting. It had to be a running catch. Neither of us caught the ball. We collided head on and Hoag went to the hospital. My head must be hard. I stayed in the game. But there we were, practically unconscious on the ground while Goslin circled the bases behind two runners for an inside-the-park home run.

The outfielder closest to the man making the play should call out where the throw should be made. This often is a big help to the man whose first move is to catch the ball.

Playing the Sun Field
Watch the sunfield. You must get accustomed to the ball park before you put sun glasses over your eyes. In Yankee Stadium the ball seemed to play tricks on the outfielders. We never flicked the glasses down until we were sure of the flight of the ball. We waited because of the high upper stands.

I believe that's what happened in the first two games of the 1947 World Series with the Dodgers. Pete Reiser started out as Dodger center fielder and he had a lot of trouble with balls hit to the outfield. My guess is that Pete, a fine ball player, was flicking his glasses over his eyes too soon. It caused him to lose the flight of the ball because of darkness around home plate. Once you put glasses down and try to look into the stands everything seems black.

Throws and Cutoffs
Throwing the ball back to the infield is one of the big things in baseball. Always throw ahead of the runner. Of course, there are times when you can throw behind the runner when you think he has over-run the base. But this takes split second thinking and accurate timing.

Always try to throw the ball on a hop to the base. You can get more accuracy that way and it gives the infielder a better chance to see the ball.

Some fellows believe the short-stop should signal the outfielders on the type of pitch to be made to each batter. I think that is unnecessary. The Yankees never had an outfield signal on a pitched ball.

Backing up an infielder or an outfielder not only looks smart to the people in the stands. It is a smart play! When a runner tries to steal second base, the center fielder should always charge in toward second base. On a poor throw by the catcher the runner often is prevented from taking an extra base when the center fielder backs up. Such a play saves the catcher an error and often prevents a run from scoring.

On throws to first base, the right fielder should back up, and on throws to third base the left fielder should back up.

When a center fielder sees his shortstop or second baseman run over near second base to take a throw, the center fielder should charge in to back up the play.

part-by-part proof...
Plymouth
is your "best buy" in the lowest-price field!

Recently a 1954 Plymouth and current models of the other two best-known low-price cars were taken apart by Plymouth engineers and compared, part by part. Standard "stock" models were used. We've listed some typical findings below.

Plymouth is "best buy" in many ways. Here are just a few!

- Front Wheel Brakes
Plymouth engineers provide two hydraulic brake cylinders in each front wheel to ensure smooth stops without "grabbing." The other two low-price cars have only one.
- Seat Springs
Plymouth uses coil seat springs, for longer lasting support. The "other two" have a zigzag platform type. Also, Plymouth's "springs-on-springs" design adds more comfort.
- Piston Rings
Plymouth has four rings on each piston; the "other two" have three. Result: decreased carbon deposit, more consistent power output, increased oil economy, too!
- Micronic Oil Filter
Standard on most Plymouth models. Keeps straws dirt out of the engine, reducing wear and achieving greater oil economy. Extra cost on the other two low-price cars.

And dozens of other part-by-part comparisons prove Plymouth is your "best buy"! See us today... and get the facts!

Ask us for the big illustrated booklet that shows how Plymouth leads in frame construction... engine design... performance... economy... comfort... safety.

Counselor Says Army Does Not Wish To Impede Probe Of Fort

Eminent Doctor Is Flown By French To Dien Bien Phu

HANOI, Indochina (AP) — The French flew one of Indochina's most eminent doctors to Dien Bien Phu today to arrange for speedy release of French Union troops seriously wounded in the long defense of the fallen fortress.

French officials hoped the mass airlift of casualties from the Viet Minh-held valley 175 miles west of Hanoi would start tomorrow. They anticipated it would bring out about 700 men — half of the 1,400 estimated wounded. The Communists agreed at the Geneva conference to release only casualties in the "serious" category.

Dr. Pierre Huard, 62-year-old dean of medicine at the University of Hanoi, headed the group going to Dien Bien Phu by helicopter.

The French anticipated Huard's mission would be quickly successful. French air force observers reported hundreds of coolies already were readying Dien Bien Phu's airstrip to receive the big French transports, filling in the trenches and shell holes which wrecked it during the 56 days of rebel attack.

Huard's party took off from Luang Prabang, the royal Laotian capital 115 miles southwest of Dien Bien Phu. Accompanying him were two French army medical officers.

Drive To Be Held To Improve Boxes

Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield has announced the week beginning May 17 as "Mail Beautification Week."

This will be the sixteenth consecutive campaign to tidy up the official mail receptacles.

Postmaster Joel S. Field is requesting the rural patrons in his area to repair and beautify their mail box equipment and approaches to help lend brightness to the scenic beauty of the highways, roads and drives.

Many boxes which are the highway billboards of the postal service, have become unsightly with rust, unserviceable due to a leaky condition, broken doors or no lids, missing signals, no name, supports being bent or rotted which need replacing, weeds and will grass grown around the supports and approaches, and in many places the ground is rough and full of chuck holes.

Postmaster Field asked the Seminole county patrons to cooperate in improving their mail box equipment during this period, May 17 to 24. He desires that the routes become a source of pride for the patrons, the Post Office Department and the carriers. For those patrons desiring additional information on the proper size and height for their rural boxes, they may gain this information from the postmaster of the rural carrier.

Rites Tomorrow For Mrs. Rowan

Funeral services will be held for Mrs. Beret S. Rowan tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock at the Rowan Funeral Home, with the Rev. A. G. McInnis officiating. Burial will be in Evergreen Cemetery.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Army counsel John G. Adams insisted today the Army had no desire to stop the McCarthy subcommittee's investigation of Ft. Monmouth, although he conceded it was pleased about the prospect of a suspension since last fall.

Adams denied the Army had ever engaged in "trading favors" for Ft. G. David Schum in an effort to get the investigation stopped or "brought to 'appears' Sen. McCarthy.

Adams said any special consideration for Schum's dismissal from the McCarthy subcommittee's purview was essential to its work and that any special deference for McCarthy was a matter of "policy" to avoid "open hostility."

Adams was back in the witness chair at the McCarthy Army hearing for the second day—this time for the cross-examination.

At the outset, he swore Secretary Stevens never instructed him to halt the McCarthy inquiry into alleged security risks at Ft. Monmouth and that he never attempted to stop it.

But he said, as Stevens did earlier, that they wanted the "type of security" needed. Stevens had "authorized" the Army on the head.

Johns To Meet Collins On TV Program Tonight

Johns Doesn't Take Advice

WEST PALM BEACH (AP)—Bringing his campaign to Palm Beach County today, Lelley Collins promised leadership in getting for Florida sound road law enforcement and advertising programs.

Johns last night told a dinner meeting with a group of former supporters of Bradley Otham, who was eliminated in the first Democratic gubernatorial primary May 4.

"I wanted to get on TV with Collins and Bradley during the first primary campaign because I like a good argument. But my friends didn't want me to."

"I overruled my friends this time and will appear with the senator from Leon County."

Johns said he wanted to appear on the television station at Hallandale with Collins "but he didn't."

"I wanted to appear on radio but he didn't."

"I hope he isn't sick tomorrow (Thursday) night. Don't you worry about Charley Johns taking care of himself."

"I know we're going to whip him. We're going to whip him so bad that two years from now we won't have to put up with him running for office."

Earlier in the day Johns had accepted an invitation to appear with Collins on a Miami radio station (WIOD), saying he would be glad to appear anywhere with Sen. Collins. The station said Collins had accepted, but later it was announced that Collins, who is campaigning in Palm Beach County (Continued On Page Four)

World's Leading Atomic Powers Meet At London

LONDON (AP) — The world's five leading atomic powers met in this H-bomb-wary capital today in quest of a pact ending the arms race and outlawing atomic and germ warfare.

There were guarded hints from British and American informants that the Western nations, jointly or individually, might put forward revised proposals in a bid to break the years-long deadlock with Russia on the issues.

The secret talks at the British government's stately Lancaster House are under United Nations auspices. The group is meeting as a sub-committee of the U. N. Disarmament Commission.

Recent disclosures of effects of hydrogen bombs test explosions gave new urgency.

Revelations stemming from U. S. tests in the Pacific touched off a chain reaction of nervousness in many parts of the globe and especially in this crossroads island. This led the Churchill government to propose that a new effort at control should be made in London.

There were no clues to the possible nature of any new Western proposals for disarming or atomic and germ warfare control.

To start the talks, however, the four Western Powers — the United States, Britain, France and Canada — were reported planning to stand on their old position that establishment of reliable enforcement (Continued On Page Four)

Resurfacing Work Started In County

Extensive resurfacing of 40 miles of highway, between Decades and Five Points on the old Sanford Orlando Highway, which began Monday is proceeding full blast today.

Work on the resurfacing of two and one-half miles of State Road 66, west from the Sanford city limits to Monroe Corner is also progressing rapidly, but contract work on this project can give a date of completion.

These two projects are only two of a year-long drive by the county commissioners to "get our roads in shape."

Work will begin soon on the resurfacing of SR 16-V from west Sanford to Paola. Approximately five miles of this road will be resurfaced, according to the commission.

Extensive work on four streets in Temple Terrace, a subdivision north of Winter Park, has been completed and turned over to the County for maintenance by the developers Carrigan and Holland.

MEETING CANCELLED

Tonight's meeting of the City board of adjustment has been canceled because of a lack of business to take up, according to Warren Knowles, city manager.
