OSOTA-Union Rift May End Bus Service

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

A dispute that began a year ago between the Orange-Seminole Occoala Transportation Authority (OSOTA) and the Amalgamated Transit Union could wind up ending bus service in Seminole County.

Because of the dispute last year when striking OSOTA bus drivers, who were union members, were replaced by new employees who walked across the picket line, the union has gone to the U.S. Department of Labor challenging a $600,000 operating grant to the authority and the money is being held up, according to Pat Hamric, authority general manager.

Hamric said he and other OSOTA personnel will be meeting with Department of Labor representatives in Washington next Tuesday. He said today he is "cautiously optimistic" the conference will result in the money being released by that federal department after facts in the matter are explained.

Hamric said after new employees were hired to replace the strikers last year, OSOTA on June 29 notified the union it would no longer be recognized as a bargaining agent for the new drivers. He said OSOTA offered to abide by a vote of the employees on the matter, but the union did not call for a vote.

He said the union now is insisting to the Department of Labor that it still represents the employees and is urging the federal agency to hold up the money.

Meanwhile, the Seminole County Commission representative on the authority, Commissioner Bill Kirchoff said he will explain to his colleagues on the commission next Tuesday that several alternatives are available on the bus service. The budgeted funding for the authority will be exhausted by May 1 if the federal money is not released by then, Kirchoff said.

"If the federal money does cease, we will have to re-evaluate what we are going to do," Kirchoff said, detailing the alternatives available to Seminole County. "We will have to decide whether to discontinue service altogether, whether we will institute the service on a limited basis — for example in the early morning and late afternoon hours for working people dependent upon the transportation," Kirchoff said.

It will depend a lot on Orange County, he said. Orange County is to decide next week what measures it will take if the federal money is not released.

Seminole County currently has four bus lines in service, Kirchoff explained, adding one of those bus services is an Orange County one extending into South Seminole County. The other three — two in Sanford and one in the south end — are funded by Seminole County on a 50-50 matching funds basis with Seminole County paying $2,000 annually and the federal government contributing an identical amount.

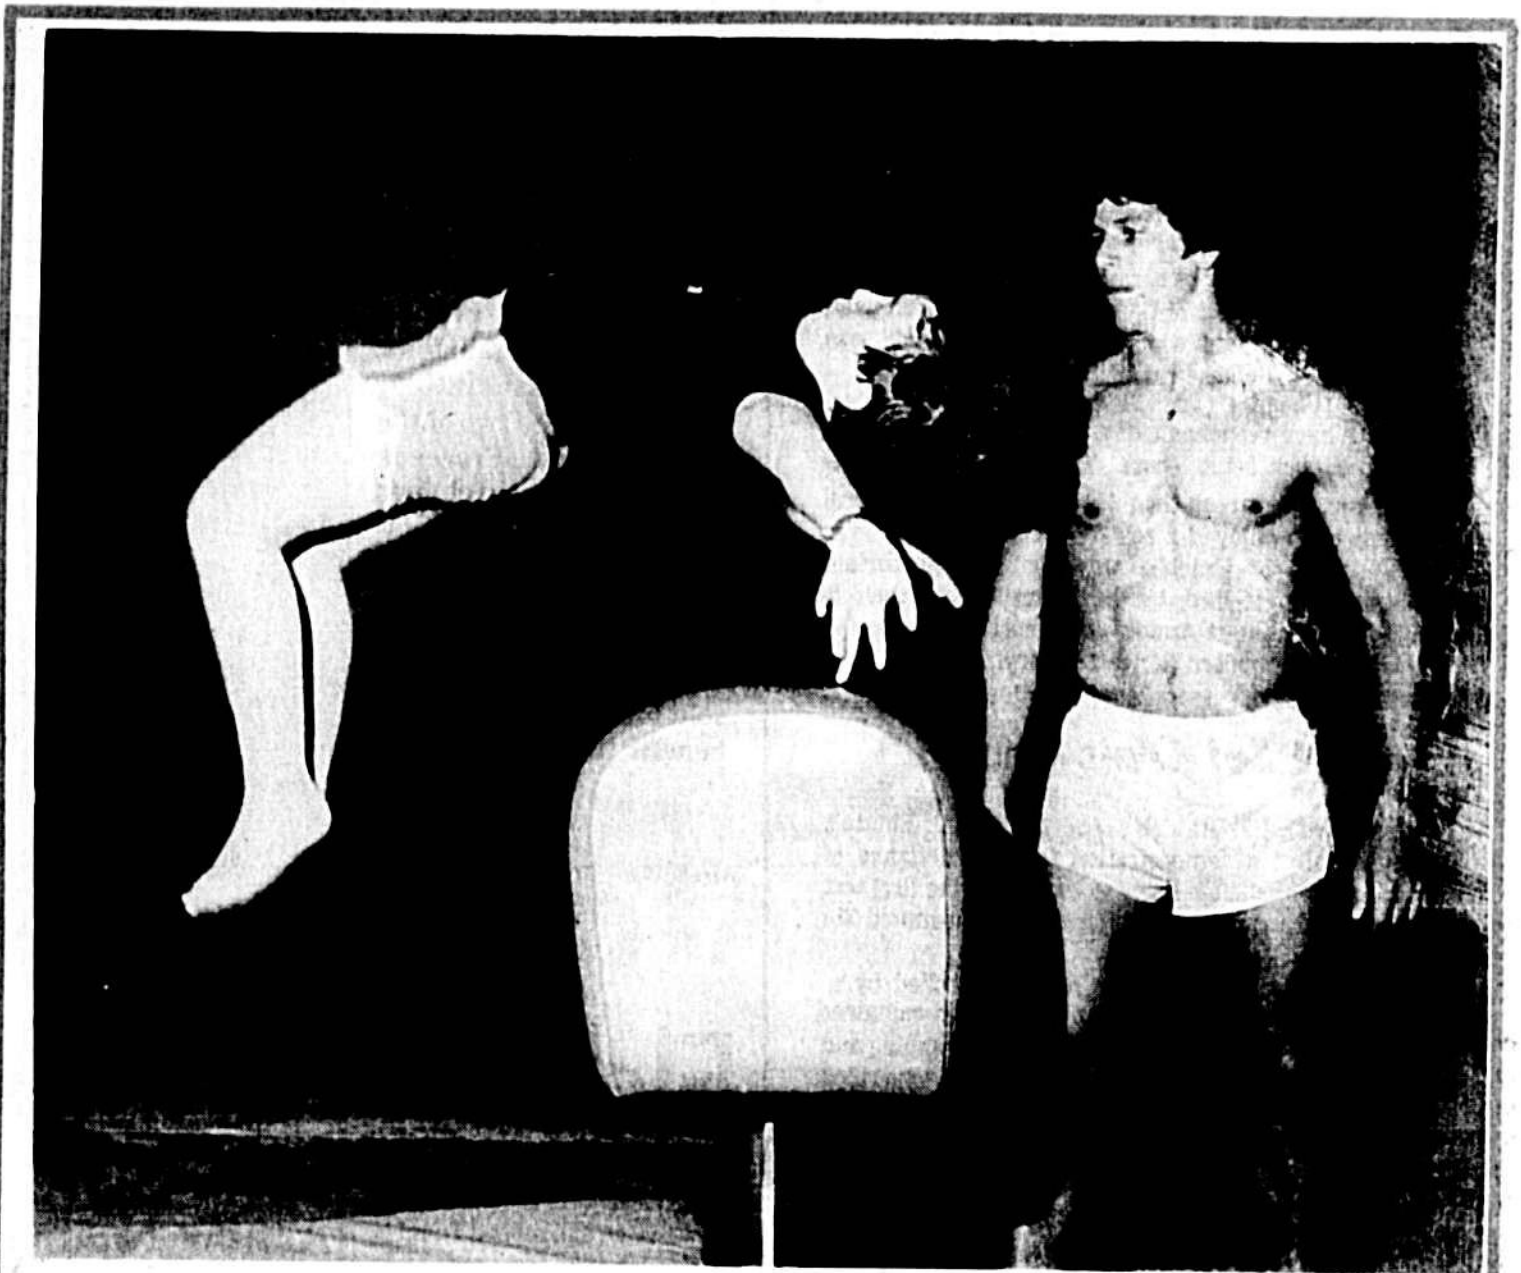

Kirchoff said he will inform his colleagues on the county commission of the situation next Tuesday and "ask them what they want to do." He said after the Seminole commission and Orange commission separate meetings, OSOTA is to meet and make a decision.

"Hopefully the problem will be resolved by May 1. If not the federal money will be cut off," Kirchoff said.

Bus service has been provided to the south end of the county for the past four years by the Authority. The Sanford service began on Dec. 4, 1978. During the Christmas season the service was well-received by patrons in the Sanford area that service was expanded from five days to six days per week.

The Seminole County bus runs have charged 50 cents with special rates during certain times to senior citizens.

Recently, the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce committee expressed concern that only about 150 persons in the Sanford area are riding the buses each day.

PRACTICE FOR SUNDAY

Mark West coaches as Andy Grooms does a vault in preparation for Sunday's presentation of Sanford Salutes Our Gymnasts. About 30 members of the Sanford Gymnastic Association Inc. will perform beginning at 2 p.m. at the Sanford Civic Center. The demonstration, sponsored by the Sanford Area Chamber of Commerce, is free and open to the public. The group hopes to raise donations to purchase equipment and pay travel expenses to state meets. Performing gymnasts will range in age from seven to adults.

Power Blackout Sweeps State, Parts Of Seminole

A power outage which blacked out much of south Florida sent creeping darkness into portions of Seminole and Volusia counties early this morning.

Scott Burns of the Sanford Florida Power and Light Company office said about 2,000 homes in the Sanford area were without electricity for 15 minutes just after midnight when the Colony Avenue substation on Highway 46 shut down. No emergencies were reported during the blackout by area law enforcement officials.

About 17,400 Florida Power Corporation customers between Orlando and Deland were without power for periods of four minutes up to an hour as a result of the outage, an FPC spokesman said.

There are nine power substations in the Orlando-Deland area that were affected, Tracy Smith of the FPC office in St. Petersburg said this morning. "The shutdown of the stations occurred at 11:57 p.m. and power was restored gradually," Smith said.

Smith said the power stations shut down automatically when the transmission lines experienced a low frequency situation. He said the problem was caused by a dust and salt spray buildup on the insulators of high power transmission lines which caused electricity to begin spilling down the poles and shorting out the lines.

When the transmission lines shorted, three FPL generating plants at Turkey Point in south Dade County had nowhere to send their electricity and, Smith said, the Turkey Point nuclear plant is shut down for refueling.

Broward and other counties were affected immediately by the blackout, which spread northward darkening homes like a moving shadow. In Fort Lauderdale and West Palm Beach power was out for an hour and emergency switchboards were activated at police stations along the Gold Coast.

But, Not Mayor Floyd Seminole Council Aims To Appoint Energy Panel

Delegates to the Council of Local Governments in Seminole County agreed Wednesday night to go back to their respective governmental units seeking recommendations for appointments to a new committee being formed by the county commission on energy.

But, one delegate — Mayor Norman Floyd of Altamonte Springs — said he has no intention of recommending anyone for the post. "The committee would be a duplication to expand the energy crisis hoop-de-doo," he said.

"I'm not going to name anyone to run up and down the street to harass service station owners," Floyd said.

The county commission, this week, agreed to name a committee on energy — a fuel allocation committee — to act only in case of an energy emergency, after receiving a mandate for the committee from Gov. Bob Graham's office.

The composition of the committee suggested by Graham's office are representatives of the various segments of the energy industry such as power companies, fuel distributors, wholesalers and retailers and government. The commission agreed a representative from the Council of Local Governments, which has as its members six of the seven cities in the county and the county commission, would designate one member of the committee.

Floyd said, however, he is a member of a regional energy committee which is also supposed to go into action during an energy emergency and a local committee would be a duplication. He added that instructions from Tallahassee on the functions of the committee doesn't know what it is supposed to do and has not been successful in trying to find out from service station owners what their monthly fuel allocations are. That information is available from distributors, Floyd said, adding the committee in his opinion are a "farce."

"The county requested that we (the county commission) name the committee," said County Commissioner Sandra Glenn, chairman of the council of governments.

The delegates are to submit their recommendations for the appointment at the May 2 meeting in Sanford with one person selected from those nominated.

Sanford Considered As Possible Site For Proposed Handicapped Workshop

By SHARON CARBARCO
Herald Staff Writer

A non-profit organization hopes to establish a workshop in Seminole County for physically disabled and mentally retarded adults and has selected Sanford as a possible site.

Patrick Murray, director of the Kathleen Anderson Comprehensive Work Center Inc., said he knows of 200 adults in the county who would be served by the workshop. Sixty percent of the adults reside in the Sanford area, Murray said.

To accomplish this goal, Murray said the organization will approach the Seminole County Board of Commissioners and the school board for funds to supplement various state and federal grants it plans to apply for. Funds also will be sought from private organizations such as the Central Florida Funds bookkeeper whose task is to gain community support for the workshop.

Without the community's support, the chances of the workshop becoming a reality are nil, Murray said. There are various grants available from both state and federal sources as well as United Fund and United Cerebral Palsy but a prerequisite to apply is proof the community wants the facility, Murray said.

"Unless the community can establish it is serious about the project by coming up with initial matching funds and a workable premise these grants will not be available," Murray said.

The Seminole County school board did offer to lease the new closed Lake Monroe Elementary School for $1 per year to the organization, Murray said. But the building is too large, in severe disrepair and is located on the northern most perimeter of the county which would hinder transportation.

Murray said he found several possible sites in Sanford or just south of the city that would be suitable for the workshop.

"We know there are various premises available like old deserted warehouses that someone might be willing to lease or donate to us," Murray said. "We would get volunteers to renovate the facility for use."

Once the workshop has been established, Murray hopes to begin with 40 adults and eventually expand to 60 or more within one year of opening.

The workshop program would not duplicate any existing services now available for the mentally or physically handicapped adults, Murray said.

For the past two years, a committee of school board members, Rosenwald School officials, parents of retarded children and interested citizens has been meeting in an effort to identify the needs of the handicapped, Murray said. The workshop idea in Seminole County was their conclusion.

"The workshop program would take these people out of their homes five days a week and place them for productivity," Murray said.

The U.S. Navy Needs More Ships

One need look no further than recent headlines to augment the already persuasive case for the larger U.S. Navy required to safeguard this country's interests overseas.

The fall of a pro-Western government in Iran, a buildup of Soviet arms and Cuban troops in nearby South Yemen, the Soviet-Cuban military presence in Ethiopia and increased Soviet arms shipments to Iraq all constitute a growing menace to the West's oil lifeline through the Persian Gulf and the Arabian Sea.

But to reinforce the Indian Ocean squadron, the Navy would have to divert ships from either the 6th Fleet in the Mediterranean or the 7th Fleet in the Western Pacific. Both fleets are already stretched thin.

And now that the Soviets have begun using Cam Ranh Bay in southern Vietnam as a port facility for warships based 2,500 miles to the north at Vladivostok, pressure on the U.S. 7th Fleet is dramatically increased.

Moreover, a permanent Soviet naval presence at Cam Ranh Bay would pose a potential threat to the Malacca Strait, the strategic choke point between the Western Pacific and the Indian Ocean.

At the moment, the U.S. aircraft carrier Constellation and five surface escort vessels are steaming in the Arabian Sea as a show of support for Saudi Arabia's nervous, pro-Western government.

They know he was asking for trouble - and Capitol Hill Republicans quickly gave it to him with unified howls of "double standard" and "cover-up."

Bill seemed genuinely startled and perplexed by the press's move from the political community and in the press here. To his credit, he acted quickly to repair the damage, drafting a charter which gives special counsel Curran virtually all of the power and authority the Watergate special prosecutors previously enjoyed.

Had the attorney general been around Washington - rather than Atlanta - five or six years ago, he would never have made such a mistake to begin with.

What all this means is that the United States Navy needs more ships and it needs them quickly. Because the Carter administration has not yet seen fit to recommend an appropriate expansion of the fleet, we can only hope that Congress will examine the Navy's present difficulties and draw the logical conclusions as it considers the fiscal year-1980 defense budget.

Profits Necessary

When the report was published that business profits had soared in the last quarter of last year, the reaction was shock and dismay.

"Catastrophe" was the word used by the president's inflation fighter, Alfred Kahn. Not because profits were necessarily too high but because the report would make it difficult to persuade labor unions to hold down their demands for higher wages.

Some depressing observations can be made, although we don't expect them to be accepted at face value by everyone.

There is nothing inherently evil in profits. It is the fact that keeps wheels of our capitalist system turning. A firm that doesn't make a profit cannot afford to increase wages or buy the machinery that makes labor more productive.

The fact that profits were higher last year than the year before proves nothing in the absence of information as to the level of profits last year, which may have been low, normal or high.

Some consumer buying in late 1979 caused profits to revolt but the economy today presents a mixed picture - showing evidence of weakness as well as strength.

The effort to control inflation is in everyone's best interest, and no amount of arm waving or finger pointing will excuse any one of us or any group of us from the responsibility for exercising restraint in his own actions and his own demands upon the economy.

ANGLE-WALTERS Watergate Legacy: A Reminder

WASHINGTON (NEA) - No matter how long they're here, President Carter and his Georgians will apparently never understand the deep and ineradicable scars which Watergate left upon the Washington "establishment."

Attorney-General Griffin Bell merely proved the point anew with his bungling bid to defuse the politically sensitive investigation of Carter's peanut business by the appointment of a "special counsel."

Even Democrats sympathetic to the president were astonished when Bell initially tried to limit the powers delegated to his chosen counsel, Republican attorney Paul J. Curran on New York, although only Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd had the courage to voice such criticism openly.

They knew he was asking for trouble - and Capitol Hill Republicans quickly gave it to him with unified howls of "double standard" and "cover-up."

Bill seemed genuinely startled and perplexed by the press's move from the political community and in the press here. To his credit, he acted quickly to repair the damage, drafting a charter which gives special counsel Curran virtually all of the power and authority the Watergate special prosecutors previously enjoyed.

Vance, Javits Tried To Hide Oil Snafus

WASHINGTON - The scare word today in Washington is "oil." It's a word that has the petroleum industry shuddering, locking files and shredding their papers nervously.

The gist of the report - that technical problems and possible political instability cast doubt on the Saudi's ability to increase production significantly - is actually nothing new. More than five years ago, we revealed that some "important" oil exporting countries offered to maintain the integrity of the report.

Javits 'actively stalled the report,' according to our sources investigating it at various stages by quibbling over the degree of detail it should include about oil production. Opposing his position, other members on the subcommittee sought to maintain the integrity of the report.

Source described it as a "barbaric struggle." Several drill reports were drawn up, but none could meet the dramatically increased requirements of the continuing facilities.

Memorable, Secretary of State Vance was concerned with the foreign policy implications of the report. Obviously, if the Saudis will not be able to increase production of oil, it would be a disaster to the United States to take steps to secure a consistent supply of oil from other sources.

Vance had been described as "apprehensive" about the subcommittee's report. Yet significantly, neither he nor Javits have departed the report's findings. They simply feel the American public should not be given the facts about a situation that could have a drastic effect on our supply of oil and gasoline - and the price we pay for them.

But Vance, more concerned about embarrassing the Saudis than about re-thinking our foreign policy, argued that the report should be suppressed. For weeks he pressured Carter not to make the damaged report public. He cited an "important" oil negotiating conference after one another. Finally, Carter was warned that the Egyptian-Israeli peace treaty might be jeopardized if the report were released.

VIEWPOINT Getting SSA Help By Phone

Here's a federal agency averaging 54,284 phone calls daily. That may sound like someone is burning up the wires. Well, you are.

The phone calls go to the Social Security Administration's Teleservice. SSA says it is delighted to find them.

SSA began setting up Teleservice a decade ago, first in Washington, next in Los Angeles (which now has the nation's single biggest Teleservice center). Today there are 31 Teleservice centers, in most major metropolitan areas.

Robert P. Bynum, an acting deputy commissioner of SSA, says 92 to 95 percent of all people getting checks from SSA are within Teleservice range, meaning they can phone without paying a toll. Since more than 38 million people get SSA-processed checks - Supplemental Security Income (SSI) and Black lung benefits in addition to retirement, disability and survivors benefits - that means a lot of folks can get questions answered on the phone, free.

It's an approach that's applicable at any community hospital in the U.S., he said. "You don't need the millions of dollars a major medical center like Johns Hopkins has to make it work."

In a recent group therapy session, young and old arthritis sufferers were joined by spouses for a discussion of the disease's impact on the family.

Giants Spoil Opener For Seaver, McNamara

By United Press International
Opening Day became a dismal failure for the Cincinnati Reds Wednesday when three-time Cy Young Award-winner Tom Seaver was over the Reds in the season opener.

"Seaver was supposed to get out of your system down in spring training," said Seaver, who struggled to a 16-1 record last season.

The big inning for San Francisco began with singles by Mike Ivey, who also homered, and Marc Hill. Seaver's throwing error allowed Ivey to score and one out later, Bill North's infield out scored Hill.

Seaver wouldn't mind if he never saw it again.
In Wednesday's other game, Larry Cox belted a two-run homer and Leon Roberts snapped a 3-2 tie with a two-run blast in the sixth inning, giving Seattle a 5-4 victory over California in the American League season opener.

Prosser Ford, Flagship Bank Also Win George's Waltzes Past Atlantic

George's managed just two hits Wednesday, but combined them with a dozen walks to produce a 14-1 win over the Atlanta Braves in the Sanford Little American League. Both teams were 1-0 going into the contest.

George's scored three runs in the first and two each in the second and third to jump in front 7-0. Atlantic Bank cut the margin to three runs with two in the fourth and two in the fifth, but George's scored six fifth-inning runs on just one hit and put the game on ice.

Details Of Hoffa Murder Revealed

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Former Teamsters President James R. Hoffa was bashed in the head with a baseball bat, 35-year-old Hoffa was shot in the back by a man in a Detroit restaurant parking lot in July 1975. No trace of his body has been found.

At the time of his disappearance, Hoffa was seeking to regain control of the Teamsters union from president Frank Fitzsimmons, who took over the helm when Hoffa was sent to federal prison in 1967 for mail fraud and jury tampering.

It was in Lewisburg prison that Allen met and became friendly with Hoffa. Allen turned FBI informer after being arrested last summer in New Jersey while allegedly operating a synthetic drug factory.

Panel Rejects Test Delay

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — The Legislature seems determined to stand by a law forcing this year's high school seniors to pass the functional literacy test to get a diploma.

A House education subcommittee passed the APA exemption bill later Wednesday. Tampa Sen. Pat Frank sought the three-year delay, but the APA bill hits the floor, but a segregated, dual school system.

The exam was given for the first time in October 1975. Some 117,000 high school juniors were tested and 37 percent failed. Of those failures, 78 percent were blacks.

Hundreds Of Couples Repeat The Same Three Complaints Marriage In Slump May Also Be A MESS

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — If you and your mate spend Sunday afternoons sipping each other but you want to do and en don't do anything, you are in the midst of what marriage counselors call a Marital Environment (ump Syndrome, or EESS).

Robert P. Travis and his wife Patricia work together as marriage counselors in the Department of Psychology at the University of Alabama in Birmingham. They said they developed the concept of MESS after hearing hundreds of couples repeat the same three complaints that they don't spend enough time with each other, don't communicate, and don't enjoy sex.

"This came up often that we began thinking about that Marital Environment Slump Syndrome," said Travis. "Everybody had a relationship before they married, and something happens to that relationship when people get married."

Before they get married, couples talk, touch, laugh and find ways to spend more time together, said Mrs. Travis. But often they get bored and frustrated with each other after they're married "because they stop doing those behaviors that made them want to be together for a lifetime," she said.

"The myth is 'We're married now. We don't do those things anymore,'" said Travis. "We're saying you can't take the relationship for granted."

They wrote an article on the problem which appeared in the March issue of "Cosmopolitan," and their book entitled "Vitalizing Intimacy in Marriage" is due for publication in July. They concluded that couples need not fall into a slump, Travis said they suggest that couples begin by setting aside a time each week to talk about each other instead of what he called "the maintenance issues" of bills, children and the daily routine.

"The only way to break that habit is to practice being on a here and now basis — to talk about their desires and wants," he said.

"Once couples do that," said Mrs. Travis, "they say once a week is not enough." She said a good way for couples to talk is to begin sentences with an honest "I" instead of an accusing or questioning "you." For example, she said a wife might ask her husband, "Do you think we should invite the Smiths over?" when she really means "I don't want the Smiths over."

She said emphasizing the "I" isn't as selfish as it might sound.

"In a sense it's selfish, but it's more selfish to expect your partner to second guess" what you want, she said.

Travis said they also counsel couples not to separate their "sex life" from the rest of their life.

"What we try to do is talk about intimacy as opposed to sex," he said. Couples fall into the habit of thinking every gesture of affection is a signal to perform, he said. They begin to feel obligation instead of anticipation, he said.

"There's a different kind of need, a desire for much more than just getting along," she said.

At any rate, couples keep trying, he said. Travis quoted a study saying 95 percent of all Americans are or will be married in their lifetimes.

Ballet Guild dancers board bus for a touring performance.

BGS Given Red Carpet Treatment

The 17 dancers forming Ballet Guild of Sanford-Seminole (BGS) attracted a full house and were given the red-carpet treatment when they performed at the Brooksville Civic Auditorium.

Everything went off real well," according to Pat Scott, a Board of Directors member and production manager.

The Central Florida Choral joined Ballet Guild in the Brooksville "An Evening of Dance and Lyrics," the same concert presented last month in Sanford.

Traveling by bus to Brooksville for the third year, the dancers wear plum colored leotards with matching cover-up skirts.

Mothers accompanying the dancers were Mrs. Scott, Barbara Brown, Sheila Roberts, Martha Orwig, Jackie Pearson, Ruth Kniffin, Sue Murphy, Judy Moore and Charlotte Garrett.

Among the others attending (not including the production staff) were Mildred Caskey and Genevieve Richardson, board members; Valerie Weid, BGS artistic director; and Loretta Rosak, BGS associate artistic director who choreographed the performance.

The first such tour SCC made, in June of 1977, was such a huge success that many persons had to be turned away after the limit of 40 persons was reached. This year's group will be limited to the first 40 persons who sign up.

An added advantage will be departure from Orlando instead of Tampa, and an extra city will be visited: Acapulco. The trip will include a stay in Mexico City, Tuxco and Acapulco, with first class hotel accommodations.

Medicine Can Cause Ringing In The Ears

DEAR DR. LAMB - Can you tell me if there is anything I can do for ringing in the ears? They also sound like birds chirping all the time. I have had this problem for several years. I take various kinds of medicine and I think some of them may be the cause. DEAR READER - Welcome to the club. Well over 30 million adults in the United States have similar symptoms. Go see an ear specialist for an examination. A couple of years ago there were a limited number of things that could be done for people with this problem. Now there are some things that can help. People who have noises in the ear associated with hearing loss often benefit from proper fitting with a hearing aid. Incidentally, some people have hearing loss and don't know it because the loss doesn't involve the loss of sounds used for normal conversation. People who have no hearing defect can have the sounds masked, in your case, masking the chirping. Little devices that chirp like a hearing aid can be attached to the ear to provide a continuous broad spectrum noise that is not nearly so irritating. This external noise, rather than making matters worse, helps because it masks the annoying sound. Very good results have been reported with this device, called a tinnitus masker. I am sending you The Health Letter number 124, Help For Tinnitus, Noise Or Ringing Of The Ears. It will discuss this common problem in more detail for you and will give you more information about the new methods of management that have provided relief for a large number of people. You should realize that this annoying problem is a symptom. It can be a number of different factors, one of which is medicine. Simple aspirin cause the problem in some people. Of course, if it is something specific like your doctor can determine cause and correct it for you. Otherwise, take heart, there are some methods available that could provide you the relief you're seeking. DEAR DR. LAMB - I'm your column about cirrhosis of the liver. I have been told that I have cirrhosis of the liver, but have never even tasted alcoholic beverages and I nor have I ever smoked. DEAR READER - As you know, cirrhosis of the liver means scarring of the liver. This scarring occurs because of previous injury or damage to the liver. There are many ways that the liver can be injured, even as a result of right heart failure. Fluid accumulates in the liver, stretches it, and results in injuries. Also, a liver can be injured from variety of toxins, infections and from disorders of the formation and drainage bile. About 60 percent of all cases of cirrhosis of the liver are caused from the excess use of alcohol. That means about 40 percent of people with cirrhosis of the liver have it for some other reason. Obviously you fall in the 40 percent category.

Alice Tramell, Carl Kalota United In Gainesville Rites

Alice Long Tramell and Carl Kalota were married March 17 at Holy Trinity Episcopal Church, Gainesville. Rev. Earle C. Page of Gainesville, performed the 4 p.m. double ring ceremony. The bride is the daughter of the late Major Joe R. Tramell and the late Alice B. Tramell, formerly of Sanford. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Kalota of Coconut Grove, Miami. Given in marriage by her uncle, Frederick E. Gehan, the bride chose for her vows a candlelight satin gown with a lace overlay, fashioned along the empire silhouette. Her fingertip veil of candlelight tulle was secured to a Juliette cap. She carried a bouquet of white daisies and ivy centered with a detachable corsage. Susan R. Tramell of Gainesville, attended her sister as maid of honor. She wore an ice blue satin gown, empire styled, with lace cap sleeves. She carried a bouquet of blue and white daisies showered with baby's breath and streamers, and wore a spray of baby's breath in her hair. Benjamin Kalota of Pierson, served his brother as best man. Ushers were Joe B. Tramell and Fred H. Tramell, brothers of the bride, Joseph A. Montserrat, Robert C. Lovcy, Mitchell Rotberg and William Goodwin. A reception at the church parish hall followed the ceremony. After a wedding trip to New Orleans, the newlyweds are making their home at Gainesville where the bride is completing a BS in Recreational Therapy and the bridegroom is finishing an ME in Aero-Space Engineering, both at the University of Florida. He will be commissioned an ensign in the U.S. Navy in June.

CHINESE AUCTION

What Could 62-Year-Old Have To Fascinate Son?

DEAR ABBY: I've often read your column about to my husband and we'd both have a good laugh at some of those outlandish letters. We even suspected you made some of them up, but we're not laughing (or suspecting) anymore. Our handsome, 28-year-old lawyer son (I'll call him Ray) has fallen in love with a 62-year-old widow. Can you believe it? Well, neither could we. At first we thought Ray was being kind to an older lady but he told us that he was in love with her. She's a nice-looking woman (for her age) stylish and refined, but with so many young, beautiful girls after Ray, we can't understand what she wants with this old lady. (She's not rich either.) My husband thinks Ray should see a psychiatrist. What can we do to bring him to his senses? And what on earth could a 62-year-old woman have that our son finds so fascinating? UPSET IN BALTIMORE DEAR UPSET: You can (and should) do nothing. Your son has the right to make his own choices. What the woman has that Ray finds so fascinating doesn't matter. He's apparently "found it."

DEAR ABBY: Easter is coming up soon, and I hope you don't do what you did last Christmas-time when you asked your readers to remember those "poor souls" who live alone, and invite them to a family dinner. Please spare me from those holiday get-togethers. The kids are fighting and screaming and the adults are worse. Most of them are boozers with a staccato. The TV is blaring at full volume with nobody watching. Everybody is talking and nobody is saying anything. DEAR ABBY: I am 45 and Ralph is 56. We have been married for four years. This is the second marriage for both of us. I have three children by my first husband. Ralph is an executive and a big stockholder with a very important company. He works 12 hours a day, six days a week, and some weeks he works seven. He is obsessed with his business. You would think the business would fall apart if he didn't do everything himself. Although we have a lovely home, we have practically no social life. I have tried every way I know to get Ralph to relax, but he doesn't know how and he won't learn. 'HOV' Lanes To Seminole? May Save Gasoline

By SHARON CARRASCO
Herald Staff Writer

The Florida Department of Transportation (DOT) is attempting to encourage car-pooling which could lead to decreasing gasoline consumption for Seminole County.

What the DOT is proposing is the creation of high occupancy vehicle lanes along I-4 from U.S. 192 (SR 100) in Ocoosa County to SR 434 in Seminole County.

The theory is, according to DOT spokesmen, such high occupancy lanes would be reserved during certain peak hours of travel of those private vehicles carrying two or more passengers. What DOT is hoping, that department's officials say, is that those private cars' passengers will be car owners themselves who will have left their automobiles at home. This, the officials reason, will save gasoline consumption otherwise needed by the vehicles that would have taken to roads by those who become part of the car pool.

The high occupancy vehicle lanes would be installed on the far left lanes of the highway in the east and west directions.

"Motorists using these special lanes will not be allowed to travel beyond the 55-mile-per-hour speed limit," said W. G. Gray, DOT spokesman.

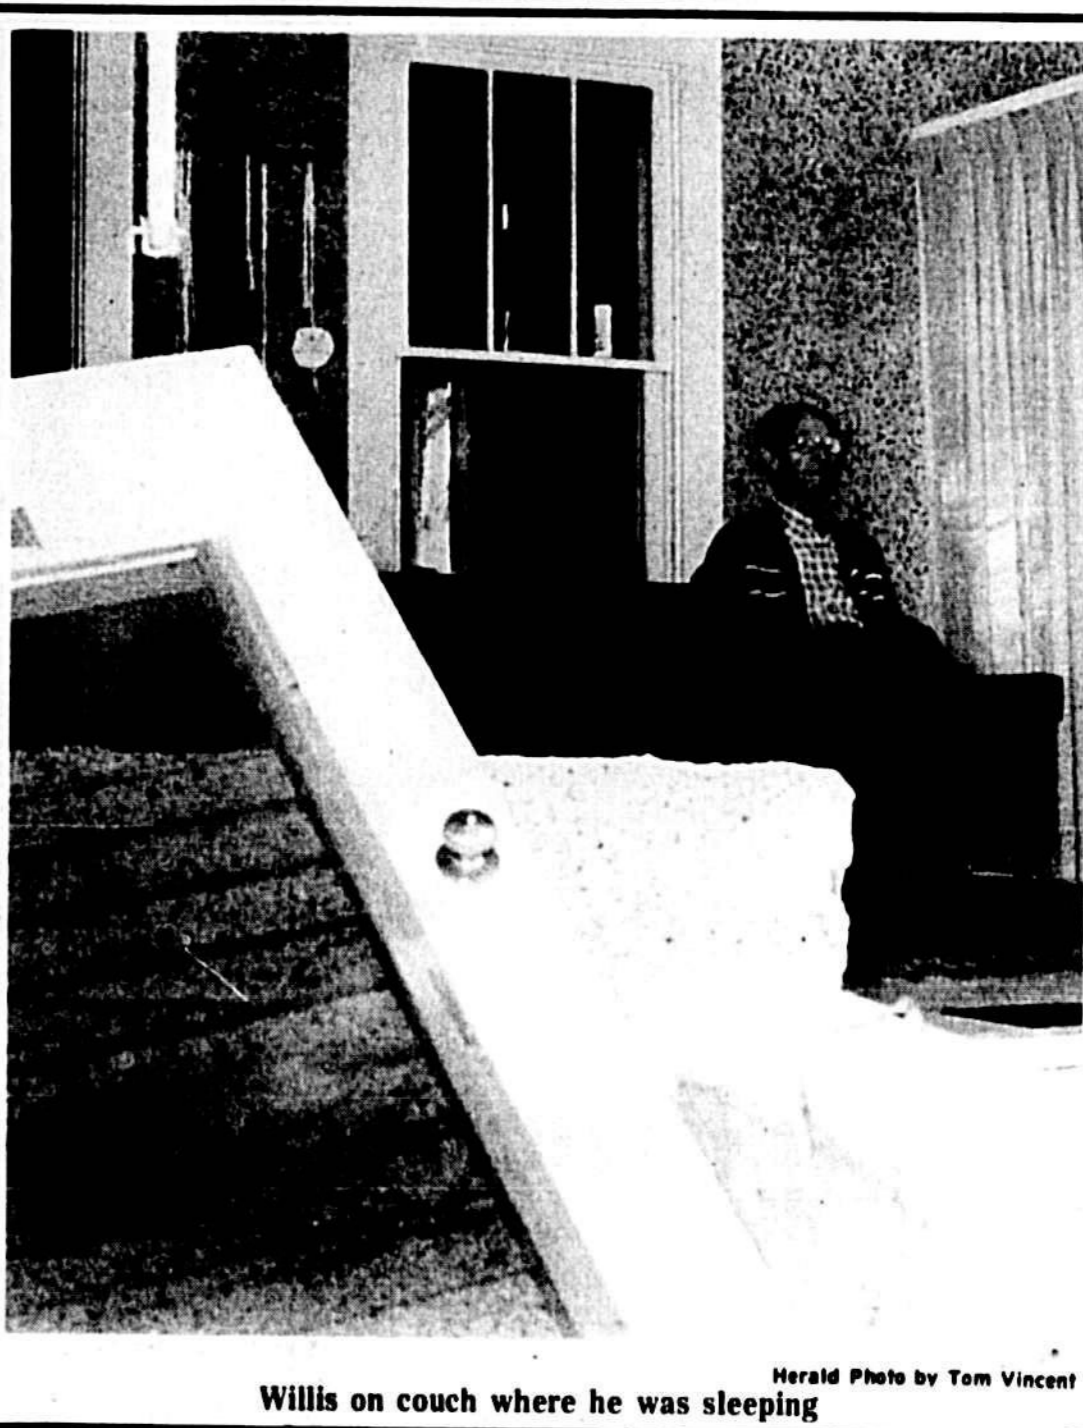

The incentive for using these lanes is they are less crowded," said Gray, who is the district project development and environment engineer.

Initial implementation of the high occupancy vehicle lanes can be accomplished at a minimum cost, Gray said.

This would require striping off the lanes for identification and the installation of signs to alert motorists, Gray said.

Woody Price, Seminole County planner, said today the plans for the high occupancy vehicle lanes is a "significant departure" from previous information from the DOT.

"There has been some discussion that the two new lanes on I-4 currently under construction in Orange County might be designated for this purpose, but now the DOT apparently is including those designated type

He's Rudely Awakened

Eighty-year-old Bill Willis' afternoon nap ended with a bang at 4:30 p.m. Thursday when a car driven by a Sanford juvenile spun out of control, crossed the curb and smashed through the front porch of Willis' home at 312 E. 25th St. The car stopped just five feet from the couch on which Willis was sleeping.

"I never saw what happened," said Willis, who was unharmed in the incident. "The door fell in and the car was right there."

Sanford police said the juvenile driving the car has been cited for careless driving. Neither he, nor the passenger in his car, were injured.

Police said the 1971 Mustang involved in the crash was headed westbound on 25th Street at a high rate of speed when the driver lost control. The car did a complete spin and struck the Willis house on the north side of the street.

One witness said the juvenile's car appeared to be racing with another when the accident occurred. Police said there was another car traveling at a high rate of speed next to the Mustang, but that car was not involved in the accident.

The passenger in the car of the juvenile denied the pair was racing at the time of the crash. He said the accident was caused by "the slick wet pavement."

Willis said he had returned from a shopping trip and had just fallen asleep on the porch before the accident awakened him. When the car struck the home, it knocked down a light pole, damaged the cement base in the porch and completely caved in the door and a portion of the adjacent wall.

Damage estimates were not immediately available. — GEOFFREY FOUNDS lanes into Seminole County to SR 434," Price said.

He pointed out County Engineer Bill Bush and Senior County Planner Laura Firtel are representing Seminole County at a meeting of the technical advisory committee of the Orlando Urban Area Transportation Study (OUATS) today, gaining further information on the concept.

"OUATS in turn reports to the Metropolitan Planning Organization composed of persons appointed by the governor. Seminole has three representatives on that organization — County Commissioners Dick Williams, Sandra Glenn and Bill Kirkhoff," Price said.

"This concept could have considerable impact on Seminole County residents. We will be formulating information obtained by Miss Firtel and Bush and making our recommendations to the county commission in a week to 10 days," Price said, declining to give his views on the plans at this time. Price said the county learned of the DOT plans only Thursday.

Although DOT officials said today they are not certain just when the high occupancy lanes would be installed along I-4, nor whether the lanes will be started at the Ocoosa County end or SR 434 end, Gray predicted some parts of the new lanes would be installed by the end of the year.

Uncertain as to how much public information needs to be issued on the proposal, the DOT has scheduled a press conference for 10 a.m. April 16 at its Deland office.

DOT has been studying the high occupancy vehicle lanes in parts of Miami and California, Gray said. The Central Florida area which consists of 13 counties is here of these types of lanes, he said.

Transportation officials will request $40,000 to finance a public information campaign for residents in the three county area where the high occupancy vehicle lanes will be installed, Gray said.

While preliminary plans call for the lanes to be used by private vehicles only, the DOT has not yet discounted their use by buses or other large-passenger vehicles, Gray said.

Florida Gets Tough Over Drugs

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Legislation mandating tough minimum prison sentences for drug smugglers sailed through the House today to the desk of Gov. Bob Graham who said he will sign it at noon.

"We're putting out a pretty strong word to drug smugglers that if you sell drugs in Florida, we're going to get to you," Rep. Bob Crawford, chairman of the House Criminal Justice Committee said.

It was the first bill to pass the 1979 session, which convened Tuesday. Its smooth sailing and quick passage set a record for law and order legislation.

In the entire passage, it picked up only two "no" votes. Graham, embarrassed and angered by a CBS news show in January calling Florida "the drug capital of the world," made the bill one of his top priorities. The "tough" law-makery is dramatic in its impact by making it the first bill to clear the Legislature and doing it the first week.

The 1184 vote followed a break from tradition since the House passed the measure the same day it was debated on the floor.

"Today, we have an opportunity to drop a bombshell in the middle of drug smuggling in Florida and in the United States," Crawford said.

Crawford, D-Winter Haven, said the bill requiring sentences of three to 25 years in prison and fines up to $500,000 for trafficking in large amounts of marijuana, cocaine and heroin will enable prosecutors to get to the higher-ups in smuggling rings.

The bill (SB3) passed with little debate.

Besides the minimum sentences, the bill (SB 3) sets fines ranging from $25,000 to $500,000, and tracks a proposal Gov. Bob Graham made last month to help clamp down on drug imports.

A key provision in the bill allows judges and prosecutors to reward cooperative smugglers by reducing their sentences if they turn state's evidence against those who bank roll drug rings.

Sen. Jack Gordon, D-Miami Beach, tried to stall the bill, saying it will only make drug smuggling more profitable.

"It's not going to be controlled. We're just wasting taxpayers' money and making profits for organized crime."

Joining Gordon on the losing side was Sen. Ken Myers, D-Miami.

Law enforcement officials say the illegal drug trade earns smugglers $5 billion a year. They estimate most of the marijuana imported into the United States comes through Florida because of its miles of coastline and proximity to South America.

In other legislative action Thursday: —The House Appropriations Committee passed and sent to the floor legislation (HB 1000) transferring the licensing and discipline functions of professional boards to a Department of Professional Regulation

The Crossings At Lake Mary

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

The Crossings, Florida Land Co.'s $300 million planned unit development (PUD), located southeast of I-4 and Lake Mary Boulevard, will open its clubhouse and recreational facilities on April 22, according to Ken Cristol, marketing manager for the subsidiary of Florida Gas Co.

The PUD, which laid dormant from 1974 when initial planning began, will last summer when Florida Residential Communities and Old-American Homes of Florida Inc. opened model home centers, is scheduled to complete construction of 5,101 housing units and other amenities at the 1,400-acre site by 1985, Cristol said. The project at the edge of Lake Mary, will be Seminole County's third largest PUD.

When construction is completed the development will have about 18,000 residents and be a self-contained community about the current size of Altamonte Springs. The community's central water and sewer systems have already been constructed.

Cristol said plans call for construction of 1,300 single-family homes on 480 acres, 2,400 townhouses, patio and cluster homes on 270 acres and 1,400 apartments and condominiums in addition to 73 acres of office-commercial; 44 acres of roadways; 66 acres of school sites and 253 acres of parks and open spaces.

The new Lake Mary High School, set for opening in December, 1980 with 2,100 students, is to be built within the Crossings. The Lake Mary school will be Seminole's sixth high school. The development was formerly known as Greenwood Lakes.

Cristol said homes currently built in the PUD or under construction there are in the $50,000 and $60,000 price range.

The "Club at the Crossings" opening April 22, includes a main club building with a colored restaurant service, junior Olympic swimming pool, health club facilities and three tennis courts, Cristol said.

Contract signing is expected next week, Cristol said, with the Levitt Corp. to purchase for construction of 108 housing units a 33-acre semi-developed site within the Crossings. The Levitt property will be one quarter mile east of Lake Emma Road.

A Levitt Co. spokesman said construction on production homes for the Crossings site and four single-family home

UN(SCRAMBLING) THE MESS

Workers along State Road 427 near Baker's Dairy clean up the egg cartons which fell from the back of Pinebreeze Company driver Walter Hugh's truck at 7:45 a.m. this morning. Seminole County Sheriff's deputies said they stopped Hugh and informed him he was losing his cargo. Hugh said he did not realize the eggs were falling from his truck.
