U.S. Is Reported As Ready To Join Move To Persuade Japan

Ambassador Dawes Declares Things Are Moving Fast After Conference In Paris

PARIS, Nov. 19.—(A.P.)—United States Ambassador Dawes, who has been conferring with leaders of the League of Nations council, talked today with Dr. Alfred Sze, Chinese member, and it was reported that the United States was ready to join in a concerted international move to get Japan to withdraw its troops from Manchuria. "Things are moving fast," said Dawes after Dr. Sze left the hotel but declined to amplify the statement.

(By The Associated Press) Dispatches from Tientsin to London said Japan's army began formal occupation of the city at 10:00 A. M. today. Yesterday's fighting in which the Japanese were first reported to have captured Tientsin apparently took place only as far as the Tientsin station from which they began moving into the city last night.

Negro Confesses To Killing Another In New York Town

Bolitary confinement in absolute darkness for a period of slightly more than two hours proved to be the match for the conscience of Joseph Harrington, young negro confined at the Seminole County Prison Farm on a 90-day charge of beating his way on a train.

Bolitary confinement brought to light from the darkness of a mind which, according to Paul Higgins, warden of the prison, has been "queer" for several days, the startling confession that he killed a negro over a dice game in a suburb of New York City last June.

Bolitary confinement in the dark-ness had caused the negro to admit to what he had done in the room in which he was held. He confessed to the murder of a negro, and he had the confession in a book which he had written, and he had the confession in a book which he had written, and he had the confession in a book which he had written.

Women To Attend Term Club Meet Here

Members of the Oviedo Agricultural Club will be the guests of the Oviedo Agricultural Club at a meeting to be held at the Oviedo School tonight.

HUNTERS ARE READY FOR 1ST DAY OF SEASON

Nimrods Are Busy Today Getting All Set For Opening Friday; 294 Licenses Issued

While conflicting reports have been circulated as to whether Seminole County is this year the "hunter's paradise" it usually is, there is little doubt that the nearly 300 residents of this county who have purchased county hunting licenses since Nov. 1, have but one thought in mind tonight. That is, getting out into the woods as soon as possible.

Sanford's streets today were crowded with the last-minute shopper seeking hunting equipment, and Sanford hardware and sporting goods stores reported a fine business, with every hunter declaring himself more than anxious to get under way when the clock strikes 12:00 o'clock tomorrow.

County Judge James G. Sharon said that at noon 294 county residents had been issued licenses.

Real Estate Sales Indicate Activity In Past Few Days

Real estate sales in Sanford and Seminole County during the past few days as reported to the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce find three Sanford residents making sizable additions to their property holdings here.

Dr. C. W. Baker has purchased 32 acres of land near Sanford on the old Orlando road, and has a crew of men at work clearing it for the erection of a modern dairy. He is planning to locate there. This tract was sold some weeks ago by the Sanford Realty and Mortgage Co.

J. K. Vaughan, planter and owner of Sanford, has purchased 10 acres of land on the new State Road No. 3, between Sanford and Orlando, and is raising a supply of Seminole County vegetables for Central Florida, and already it is attracting considerable attention.

F. D. Rhebert, of Sanford, has recently purchased 35 acres of land to add to his holdings of Seminole County farming land. The tract is located within the City limits, and was sold by the Sanford Realty and Mortgage Co.

Trade Body Committee Is Forming Plans For Big Benefit Performance

Together with Joe L. Marquette, manager of the Milnes Theater, the committee today announced that Thanksgiving Eve has been selected for the local performance.

Next Wednesday night, starting at 10:15 o'clock, a benefit performance comprising a feature picture and several reels of "shorts" and last minute news flashes, will be offered the Sanford Chamber going public. Ina Claire, famous Broadway stage star will be seen in her latest production "Robbery," a comedy-drama of married life, as the feature attraction, with Mr. Marquette appearing in being to Sanford as an added feature a motion picture which will feature more than 50 prominent stars in a burlesque or motion picture.

The committee will be turned over to the local unemployment relief committee.

Bandits Rob Bank At Tampa Shores

TAMPA, Nov. 19.—(A.P.)—Two masked bandits drove to the Bank of Tampa Shores today, held up the cashier and took all available cash. The exact amount has not been determined. Immediately nearby persons had no inkling of the robbery until the cashier with his hands tied behind him ran into the street shouting "Stop them." The two robbers sped away in a roadster toward Tampa where a crowd of onlookers watched for a view of their whereabouts.

ROOSEVELT AND SMITH TALK OVER STATE FINANCES

But Refuse To Reveal What Else Was Discussed At Meeting

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—(A.P.)—While reporters wined outside the sidewalks of New York, two famous political crons had lunch together yesterday, and smiling and inscrutable, went their separate ways.

Said the guest, former Governor Alfred B. Smith: "We talked state finance. Let's see, that makes four words—state, finance, that's all."

Said the host, Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt: "You newspapermen will have to get out when Al arrives. There just isn't room in one house for you and Al and me. Al's voice is fairly penetrating, you know, and so I must."

Local Motorcade Will Go To Geneva To Attend Events

Seminole County's first motorcade of the season will form at the City Hall Monday morning at 9:00 o'clock, and move promptly to Geneva where residents of that town will be entertaining in honor of Seminole County and Geneva Citizens Day.

An elaborate program of speaking, demonstrations, and sports events has been arranged by the committee in charge of the event. Beginning at 10:30 o'clock on the church grounds in the heart of the town, notable citrus and agricultural leaders of Florida will speak on problems of the industry. Demonstrations on the best methods of citrus culture will also be conducted.

At noon there will be an old-fashioned basket picnic, and an additional speaking program, closing at about 3 o'clock. Everyone is invited to participate in this motorcade, citrus meeting and basket picnic, each to provide his own transportation and basket lunch.

Three committees of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce are sponsoring this annual county-wide day. There are: The Agricultural Committee, headed by Alex H. Johnson, chairman, and F. F. ## JOHN MARTIN TO MAKE RACE FOR GOVERNOR

States His Platform Would Be To Take This State Out Of Mire Of Depression

JACKSONVILLE, Nov. 19.—(A.P.)—Former Gov. John W. Martin last night formally announced his candidacy for governor in the Democratic primaries next year.

In a brief statement the former chief executive said his platform would be to "take this state out of the clutches of depression, where it now finds itself, and to abolish the useless, wasteful and unproductive bureaus of taxation that have been piled upon the people."

Mr. Martin announced that he would begin an active campaign shortly after the first of the year. He said he would speak in behalf of his candidacy in every county and in virtually every city and town in the state.

The former governor served Florida in Tallahassee from 1925 to 1929. Before that he had been mayor of Jacksonville for three terms.

Mr. Martin made his announcement after having been informed by persons all over the state to re-enter the political field after a retirement of three years. He said he had been reluctant to enter politics again, hoping "that some candidate would announce with a policy and the courage to put that policy into effect."

The former chief executive recently returned from visits to the West and East Coasts and West Florida, where he was urged by thousands of friends and supporters to make a run for governor.

They have expressed the opinion, Mr. Martin said, "that never before has Florida so needed a governor who has courage, can

Einstein Expounds Upon New Theories Combining Electricity, Gravitation

BERLIN, Nov. 19.—(A.P.)—Dr. Albert Einstein yesterday expounded his new theory, which combines the laws of gravitation and electricity in a workable formula, and cleared the atmosphere of mystery on a "fifty dimension" riddle which has puzzled the thinking of a learned gathering of the father of relativity theory.

Using an elevator as a homely example he explained that acceleration and gravity have the same effect. "When an elevator starts you think if you have no other means of calculation on the idea that it was impossible for space to have two independent properties.

THURGOOD GREETED ROCKEFELLER AT ORMOND STATION

ORMOND, Nov. 19.—(A.P.)—Cheerful and well expressing his optimism for the future, Thurgood Thurgood, and Mr. Rockefeller, John D. Rockefeller Sr., were greeted at Ormond station yesterday by Thurgood Thurgood.

He entered eagerly into the routine of his seaside house, "The Casamento," and planned to play golf today "if the greens are good."

Mr. Rockefeller delighted in sending a ball bounding down the fairway and one of his first questions was: "How are the greens?"

"I just play a few holes now," he said, "but it's a good game."

A considerable crowd met the exiled multimillionaire at the little station here. They called out greetings and Mr. Rockefeller shook hands along an entire line, with a staid, dignified, workmanlike, and a friendly word for each.

"Someone put out a hand, with palm upturned for one of the famous dimes. Mr. Rockefeller looked and laughed.

"The reporter have suggested I take up a collection this time," he said with a twinkle in his eye. He does not distribute dimes at the train.

"Oh, I'm glad to be here," remarked Mr. Rockefeller as he stepped from the train. "It was quite a trip," he added with a sigh, then (Continued on Page Five)

RUSSIAN WOMEN ARE NOW USING SILK STOCKINGS

MOSCOW, Nov. 19.—(A.P.)—Women of Soviet Russia no longer may be said to be silk stockings-less.

Although silk stockings are difficult to obtain, and continue to be the most sought after article of clothing, they nevertheless are available at a price. That is true evidence of the fact that women of the proletarian class slowly but surely are dressing better.

It would be erroneous to say they have reached the stage where (Continued on Page Six)

Mr. Brackin arrived here this morning, and while visiting the Chamber of Commerce office in an effort to locate a home for himself and family, told Karl Lehmann, secretary of the trade body, that he anticipated leading the 100 per cent support of himself and his firm in any activity tending to the betterment of Sanford and Seminole County.

The Sanford Coca Cola Bottling Co. is one of the active local concerns which is annually paying considerable taxes on property owned in this city. Its East First Street plant is one of the most substantial buildings in the city.

Sanford-To-Sea Road Link To Be Re-Built

Word was received in Sanford today that the Volusia County Commissioners recently authorized the use of county convicts and county funds expended on construction of an important link in the Sanford-to-the-Sea highway in eastern Volusia County. When completed this new road will reduce the distance from Sanford to New Smyrna by about five miles.

The road, also known as the Semansula cut-off, is being constructed by the county, since the bids entered were found to be too high. Persons traveling the present Sanford-New Smyrna road will recall that as the settlement known as Semansula nears, a roadbed now overgrown with weeds and small trees, extends to the east. This roadbed is cleared, graded, and covered with a suitable material so as to provide a short-cut to New Smyrna for all residents of southeastern Volusia county, as persons crossing the Bridge near here, headed for New Smyrna.

CITY AIRPORT IS SCENE OF MUCH ACTIVITY LATELY

Construction On New Field Is Assuming Definite Proportion

Sanford persons who have heard reports from various sources relating to Sanford's new 176 acre airport and the progress of construction would receive an agreeable surprise were they to pay a brief visit to the field, located at Hinderville, and spend a few minutes time inspecting the activity which, from the scope and magnitude of present plans, should attend the field daily after it is opened.

A Sanford Herald reporter visited the scene late yesterday and saw what was once a low, flat, pine and palmetto stubbed area of land which contained vast pools of stagnant water, now a wide open field, rapidly being drained, where dozens of white and colored laborers were busy at various tasks which will hurry the job's completion.

All the stubby trees and palmettos have been removed from the entire tract of land, and more than half of it has been grubbed, and plowed, while workmen are busy removing small stumps and weeds from the southern portion of the field. All about are piles of lumber which the City salvaged from the two wooden buildings recently dismantled at Palmiste Avenue and Second Street, and great slabs of concrete which as one time formed sidewalks and curbing in Sanford Manor subdivision which is now the airport site.

County Engineer Tony Piteford and his surveying instruments are today engaged in laying out a proposed parking area and drainage ditch which will parallel the field on the Sanford Avenue side. All curbing will be relaid at the edge of the field to form the border lines for the automobile parking area and the field.

Dozens of carpenters are rapidly completing the repair and re-arrangement of the huge arch, which will be used as an office, home for the field's attendant, rest room for visiting airmen, and general headquarters. The entire top of the arch has been transformed into an observation platform, partially covered, which gives a clear view of the entire field and the various approaches leading to it.

All large trees within a radius of one block of the new field are being cut down to allow a clear avenue into the field from every direction. Present plans call for the construction of an 80 foot and sand dunes about 100 feet in diameter to be placed in the center of the field as the main landing point. From that circle four runways will be constructed, each nearly a quarter of a mile long, and extending in the direction of prevailing Florida winds.

As soon as the airway headquarters is completed, workmen will at once begin the construction of an 80 by 100 foot hangar to be built immediately south of the airway. This hangar is being built by private interests, but will become the property of the City within a few years under the terms of a contract soon to be drawn up. It is understood that local airplane owners contemplate erecting hangars of their own, all of which will be placed on the western boundary line of the field.

The field's area is bounded on the west by Sanford Avenue, on the east by the Atlantic Coast Line railroad tracks, on the north by the dirt road leading from Sanford Avenue to the Silver Lake section, and on the south by the railroad tracks passing near Rodgers Station and crossing Sanford Avenue.

Congress Leaders Seeking Means Of Increasing Taxes

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—(A.P.)—Congressional leaders yesterday set about the disagreeable business of determining who shall pay the increased taxes in necessary to wipe out another billion dollar treasury deficit this year.

House Speaker Charles G. Dyer, in a speech yesterday, called for a "re-arrangement" of the tax system, and urged that the burden of the new taxes be placed on the wealthy.

Japs Take Capital Of Manchuria And Near Soviet Sphere

(Continued from Page One) distance storming through Lanchow which is about a mile and a half from the walled city of Taitshar, then pressed on to the capital itself.

Japanese officials said the main objective of the offensive was to scatter General Mah's forces and remove the possibility he may continue as a threat in the future. Mah's army scattered in all directions as the Japanese crossed the Chinese Eastern Railway and on the last stages of the advance there was little or no resistance.

The Chinese commander was reported to have fled northward with several thousand of his soldiers using trains of the Chinese Eastern Railway.

Three factors put a brake yesterday on attempts of the League of Nations to make peace between China and Japan. Fear was expressed in Paris that if the League fails to uphold Japan's demand that China recognize the validity of existing treaties, the precedent might affect agitation against the treaty of Versailles.

In addition, there were indications the United States was relaxing its firm stand for Japanese evacuation of Manchuria, and that Russia might not remain aloof if the League fails to halt the Japanese advance.

In Tokyo military authorities pressed the cabinet for additional reinforcements for Manchurian service.

General Mah Chan-Shan, Chinese commander, turned down Japan's peace proposals and set forth conditions of his own. Meanwhile he held to his position in the Nonni area. Minor activity was reported from the field.

Snow fell on the Nonni front where the two main forces of Chinese and Japanese troops face each other. All northern Manchuria is in the grip of winter, and from the plains of Siberia come biting winds. Soldiers in the field are without shelter. There are no trees at the points where troops are billeted.

Tientsin learned of renewed bombing and reconnoitering activity in the Chinese Eastern railway area on the part of Japanese.

MUKDEN, Manchuria, Nov. 11.—(A.P.)—The Japanese authorities intend to wait until Nov. 25 before taking action against General Mah Chan-Shan, Chinese commander in the Nonni area, it was learned yesterday.

This was made clear after a reply had been received from General Mah to the demands made by the Japanese as their conditions of peace. In those demands the general was given 10 days, expiring Nov. 25, to comply.

The Chinese general's answer, delivered to the Japanese military commission at Harbin, is considered by the Japanese to be tantamount to rejection. General Mah offered:

To evacuate the district south of Taitshar, provided the Japanese first evacuate the Nonni area. In withdrawing from the region south of Taitshar it was to be understood that General Mah retained the liberty to send Heilungkiang troops as bandit suppression patrols into the area thus evacuated.

He asked that the Japanese army guarantee that the army of Chan Peng be refused permission to use the Taonan-Anganhei railway and in the event such guarantee was given he undertook not to obstruct the operation of the road.

This reply answered Japanese demands that General Mah be the first one to withdraw.

FIERY MARINE GIVES STORY OF CRIME WAR

He found his opening wedge, he said, when bandits shot a crippled child. Then eyes for blood went up from 2,000,000 throats. When the police shot the two men and they were found to have come to their death because of resistance to arrest there was for the police force nothing but approbation.

Then, Butler said, he felt free to declare open season on bandits. Within two weeks 10 were killed. "Nothing discourages bandits like being shot," the speaker said. "For some reason bandits don't like to be shot."

Being shot by policemen offered even less glory he said and within a short time the bandits had left Philadelphia. When Butler left Philadelphia he said that there were 2,800 vacant buildings in the tenderloin district. That turned his real estate men against him.

Ministers repudiated his activities because he refused to stop boys from playing baseball in vacant lots on Sundays, but seemed to feel that closing the 119 golf courses was not necessary. "That's because the wealthy men who played golf also paid their salaries," the General concluded.

Similar causes for dissatisfaction grew around Butler's regime as cop. Everything culminated in a final glorious burst of humor on the part of Butler, misinterpreted by an investigating Englishman sent over by Lord Northcliffe to see how prohibition was working in the United States.

Nearing the close of his career as cop, Butler was unable to restrain his sense of humor. He told the Englishman, who had no humor at all, of the new system started in Philadelphia. For the citizens there were three kinds of buttons. Those wearing the red buttons could commit murder, get away with anything. Those wearing the blue buttons could afford only the blue buttons did not have as much freedom. The ones whose pocket books went no further than the white buttons were only able to park in front of fire plugs and the people who didn't have any buttons at all couldn't get away with anything.

Unfortunately the Englishman told it to a group of reporters and box-car letters informed the mayor of the new system. Butler was advised at 11:20 that he must be out of the city at 12 A. M. He wasn't even allowed to ride home in the police car.

In an aside from the Philadelphia experience Butler remarked that Al Capone was not tried because of his unlawful activities. "He was sentenced because he failed to pay the government's split on his illegal money."

WINS SPEAKING HONORS

by the Jaycees in the evening. Present were Tucker, Smith, E. K. Gwynn, president of the Orlando C. of C., City Commissioner Geo. Nash, Preston Ayres, Brantley Burcham, Marion Davis and W. M. Glenn.

Women Of Russia Compose One-Third Of All Its Workers

(Continued from Page One) employed in industry increased in government statistics from 2,853,900 in October, 1920, to 2,800,000 a year later. The situation of 1,000,000 more by the end of this year is contemplated bringing the proportion of women industrial workers to 42.2 percent by 1932.

The vast number of women otherwise employed, such as office employees and farm hands, is not included in the statistics.

Not only are these women better educated, intelligent, ranchists, miners and factory hands of all sorts, but they operate tractors, drive trucks and do stove-dove work. Not even the ranks of the red army and police are closed to them. In higher places there are hundreds of women executives, department heads, judges and deputies as well as doctors and advocates.

The inducements to women are equal wages, hours and privileges with men, long vacations with full pay before and after childbirth and, for those with families, nurseries and kindergartens for their children and communal dining rooms and laundries for themselves and husbands.

Most of them say they like it. The great majority now have more money to spend. They have more time for amusements, study and recreation and their children are given advantages which many never could have afforded otherwise.

This contrasts with former times, not so far in the past, when most of the working women of Russia were on the farm. Industry attracted great numbers to large centers but they soon returned to the villages because of unequal wages, long working hours, inadequate facilities for raising children and unaffordable housing conditions.

Women life, as it is known abroad, however, virtually has been submerged in soviet Russia under the banner of socialism. All modern dwellings have the community dining rooms, kitchens and other conveniences for these instances. A few have individual home-making facilities. Under the "five-day week" in numerous cases husbands and wives in industry have different days off and rarely are together, except for a few hours in the evening.

In Spain, Colombia, the European countries, the Columbia Valley will and the business are plentiful and growing fast.

Advertising Department

The Sanford Herald, Sanford, Fla. Gentlemen:

This is to extend to you our appreciation and thanks for your cooperation during our recent 40th Birthday Sale. We are convinced that the extraordinary success of this sale may be attributed directly to the regular practice of offering merchandise at reduced prices and making the matter known through the medium of The Sanford Herald.

We would like to quote, as an example, Peppercorn sheets which were advertised in The Herald at a very attractive price. Before the end of this week we had sold over fifty dozen.

We have advertised in many newspapers to the South and have never found a newspaper or any other advertising medium which brings the quick response obtained through our advertising in The Sanford Herald.

Yours very truly,

MARKET PREDICTS Prosperous Season Over Entire State

(Continued from Page One) reflecting an apparent confidence that better days are ahead, in their busy preparations for an active winter season. "I feel that this state will know one of its best years this winter season," Mr. Marshall said. "The Florida is now attracting the attention of the solid, middle-class folk of the North who, seeking some relief from financial worries, are investing as to the costs of living in Florida as compared to the North. I think the entire state will benefit by the influx of such people."

ROOSEVELT AND SMITH TALK OVER STATE FINANCES
