The present sugar shortage should awaken the people of Florida to the fact that right here in our own state we have thousands of acres of good sugar land as any country can boast...

Just a few years ago, one of the big packers established a packing plant near Jacksonville, when Florida rained practically no legs. Since then several new plants have been established...

CARY HARDEE SPOKE HERE Candidate For Governor Has Large Crowd Knt To Hear Him Cary Hardee candidate for governor and the man who his friends say is the leading man for governor spoke here last night to a large crowd at the corner of First street and Park avenue. Hon J. J. Dickinson introduced the speaker and for about one hour the speaker held the attention of the crowd and made a clear and manly address casting no slur on anyone and throwing no mud although he paid his respects to Dr. Hulley and Hon. Van Sweringen the other candidates for governor but he only mentioned them because they had been "mentioned" him all over the state and calling attention to his campaign expenses and other points in his armour supposed to be weak.

Mr. Hardee struck the crowd as being straightforward and clean cut business man and he seemed to make a big hit here with all whom he met and with all that heard him.

Senator Fletcher will speak tonight at the same place on the street and in case of rain he will speak in the court house.

Resolution of Respect Whereas, Our Heavenly Father in His Infinite Wisdom has seen fit to call our fellow member, Dr. J. W. Nixon of Chululuta, from his earthly duties to his final reward, and

Whereas, he was a member of this body and held in the highest respect and esteem by all who knew him, and

Whereas, our departed brother has lived long among us and by his faithful adherence to duty devolving on him in his profession, being ever ready to minister unto the sick and afflicted, and

Whereas, by his many acts of kindness and strict attention to business and devotion of high ideals of good citizenship he had gained the friendship and respect of all who knew him,

THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED IN MEETING ASSEMBLED, that the Orange County Medical Society hereby extends to his family our heartfelt sympathy in their bereavement in the loss of the late lamented Doctor Nixon and would bid the family have hope, in that he has just passed into a better life, as a just reward for his faithfulness.

Source of Tears. "Where do tears come from?" In each eye there is a small duct called the tear duct. This little gland is constantly making tears and washing the eye. The eye "winkers" are the brushes that wash the particles of dirt away from the delicate portions of the eye. When we cry the tear gland "works overtime" sending one tear chasing another, like rain drops on the window pane.

CARRANZA IS OUT

Former Mexican President Fugitive In His Own Country

Mexico City (via Dallas Tex.) May 12.—The Carranza government evacuated Mexico City Friday morning and the advanced forces of the revolutionists led by Gen. Pablo Gonzalez entered the capital the same afternoon.

Gen. Alvaro Obregon followed Sunday morning at the head of 10,000 troops.

General Obregon, interviewed by an Associated Press representative at Tacubaya, a suburb of Mexico City, declared that Mexican revolutionist officers had been given strict orders to prevent bloodshed as far as possible. He said the Liberal Constitutionalists leaders plan to set up a government to be guided along constitutional methods. The rebel leader said it was also planned to hold free elections and to adopt a friendly policy toward the United States.

Carranza government officials were forced to abandon the city when they learned that 10,000 revolutionist troops were marching on the town. Less than 10,000 troops at the capital are reported to have remained loyal to the Carranza government.

Gen. Jacinto Trevino left Mexico City Sunday night at 10 o'clock for Apizaco in the state of Puebla, stating he would endeavor "to save the life of President Carranza."

The presidential train was reported surrounded by the forces of Gen. Reyes Marquez. Fighting between the troops accompanying the fleeing president and revolutionary soldiers was reported as having been raging for some time. According to reports reaching here, 300 Carranzistas had already been killed.

It was feared that the 600 survivors in the Carranza party, who were reported to have twenty machine guns, would be overwhelmed and Carranza and other members of his administration, including several generals would become victims of their attackers.

Couriers arriving Sunday night from Puebla City brought word that trains carrying Carranza government officials were halted between Apam and Apizaco, and that fighting was going on southeast of Apizaco.

All reports available here seemed to indicate Gen. Guadalupe Sanchez had joined the revolutionary movement, either occupying Vera Cruz or had surrounded that port. This would effectively block Carranza's escape by way of Vera Cruz should he succeed in reaching there.

RAST IS CLEARED

Supreme Court Hold That Tax Collector Is Not Guilty.

Tallahassee, May 11.—The supreme court yesterday afternoon reversed the judgement of the criminal court of record for Duval county in the case of J. W. Rast, plaintiff in error, vs. the State of Florida, defendant in error, in which case Rast former tax collector of Duval county, was convicted of embezzling more than $100,000 of state and county tax money. The opinion is by Judge Ellis, all the justices concurring. James H. Bunch and William A. Hallows of Jacksonville represented Rast, while attorney-general Swearingen and Assistant Attorney-General Gillis represented the state.

The opinion holds that in a tax collector's office where such customs prevail as any clerk, deputy or employe of the collector who by reason of his employment receives in his possession in due course of the transactions of the office any money for state or county taxes and should convert the same to his own use or secrets or withhold the same with intention to convert it to his own use, such employe, clerk or deputy would undoubtedly be amenable to punishment under the provisions of section 3317, general statutes of Florida, and the culpability of such clerk or deputy would not be transferred to his employer or imputed to him in the absence of guilty knowledge on his part.

It is held that the audit of Tax Collector Rast's books by the assistant state auditor may well have showed a shortage for which Rast was civilly liable, "but" says the court in rendering its opinion today, "when the state undertakes to prove that the defendant embezzled the sum of money represented by that balance, the evidence used by the state auditor in the statement of the account is not sufficient. It must be shown that the duplicate tax receipts or copies were duplicates or copies of receipts issued by the defendant."

Memories of Mother's Day

The years roll on—the days pass by. The months, the weeks, and minutes fly; As clouds are drifting in the sky, We try the knot of time to tie. The only pause in times long past Is when we dream of days long past. And thoughts bare memories sweet and dear To weary hearts that need such cheer We gaze on Ocean's swelling waves And think of friends in childhood days We think of voices which have spoken In every happy school room joke.

We see our professor in blue With eyes turned down on text books too. Those days our sorrows were but few, When grief—real grief—we never knew.

Now in our home pass through each room We know the number of each spoon, Each knife, each fork and every plate.

And miss the face that comes in later, We see the blushing rose of morn Beside the gate in dew adorned; The ivy creeping o'er the fence And there the daisies' heads were bent;

O'er old black cat, and puppy dog; The neighbor's cow, his horse, his hog.

Beside the door were large oak trees With Spanish moss draped o'er their leaves. The sun shown through upon the brown And withered leaves which clothed the ground.

At eventide the moon's bright face Came peeping through dear Nature's lace, And o'er Earth's face the chilling breeze

Came whistling through the wildwood leaves.

We think of home, of mother true, And of our dear sweet father too; But tear drops from my eyes do fall My mother left home long ago. When memories make me this recall I do not welcome them at all. My father's bright and happy home Is desolate, so now I roam

O'er mountain path, or through dark dell

To only hear death's tolling knell. The birds' sweet songs are muckeries now

To lonely heart and care worn brow. The sun it seems to shine no more With brightness as it shown before. No matter where my spirit strays The imagine of dear mother stays To plead again that word of prayer That some day I shall meet her there.

I pause a while—I meditate, While with my hand this flower take Now I place, this very hour,— On my breast this humble flower And as I down upon it gaze I think of mother in her grave; Then raise my head, push back my hair,

And speak to God in silent prayer; Dear Lord, she's passed from Earth away;

She left this son—don't let him stray And Lord, Thou creator of man; Teach me Thy Holy Book to scan; That some day in Thy brighter land I may beside my mother stand.

CLAIR CAMERON.

LYNCH BUYS EVENING PAPER

Jacksonville, Fla., May 12.—The Florida Metropolis, Jacksonville afternoon paper, has been sold to S. A. Lynch, president of the S. A. Lynch Enterprises, according to an announcement made yesterday by W. R. Carter and Rufus A. Russell owners of the property.

The consideration was not made public.

Mr. Carter, as editor, and Mr. Russell, as business manager, retire from the newspaper field after thirty-three years of active service.

Mr. Lynch was in Atlanta yesterday, but is due here in a few days when it is expected an announcement will be made with reference to the policy of the paper under his control.

Besides the theatres in Jacksonville, Mr. Lynch's enterprises control theatres in practically every city of any importance in the South, as well as a number of midwest cities and in Texas.

Mr. Lynch's achievements in the motion picture and theatrical field have been phenomenal, and he will bring to his newspaper enterprise the same energy, virility and business acumen that have made his amusement ventures so successful.

The new owner of the Florida Metropolis is a public spirited citizen, and as the controlling head of a newspaper he will be found in the forefront of every movement launched for the welfare of the city, state and nation.

Weather And Crop Conditions In Florida For The Week Ending May 11, 1920

Temperature. The temperature averaged somewhat cooler than usual, being especially low during the last days of the week.

Precipitation. Rains were frequent in portions of the north and central divisions, and heavy over an extended portion, some stations reporting amounts in excess of 2 inches. Rains were especially beneficial on the southeast coast, where a deficiency over small areas prevailed for some time. Some weekly totals were: Pensacola, 2.7; Jacksonville, 1.5; Switzerland, 2.0; Satsuma Heights, 2.1; Lynn, 1.0; Orange City, 2.0; Orlando, 2.3; Georgiana, 1.9; Miami 2.9, and Crescent City 3.0 inches.

Condition of Crops. Rains were locally heavy in the several divisions and owing to the previous wet condition of the soil they were unfavorable, especially on low lands in the several divisions, except the south. And even there the diggings of Irish potatoes, which is going on in a moderate way, was delayed to some extent. Corn is smaller than usual for the season, and it made but little progress during the week, except on uplands; as a whole, however, the crop is in fair to good condition. The chopping of cotton was delayed; some complaint of grass; the stand is mostly poor. The planting of sweet potatoes had begun. Tobacco made good progress. More sunshine and moderately high temperatures are needed in all divisions.

Over-Education a Peril?

Have you ever read what Renan said of over-education? Well, here it is: "A great danger impends because the accumulation of knowledge and power is unlimited, while the human intellect does not expand. There is reason to fear that the human brain may collapse under its own burden; that there may come a moment when its very progress spells its ultimate decadence. It will be like an equation that carries its limits within its own statements."—Los Angeles Times.

Inequalities.

"Do you believe in the absolute equality of men?" "I do not," replied the aged sport. "If I did I wouldn't be able to see the sense in any friendly contest, from a prize fight to a checker game."

Lantern Party

One of the prettiest of the many parties given in honor of the High School Seniors, was the lantern party given by Miss Perry Lee Bell, a member of the class, at her home on Celery avenue.

The beautiful lawn was strung with many chinese lanterns, producing a most charming setting for the entertainment.

The boys and girls of the Class and the High School faculty were driven in a hay-truck from Sanford to the scene of the party, where they were welcomed by the hostess and her parents Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Bell, assisted by Mrs. Sam Younts.

After playing many old fashioned games on the lawn, refreshments were served packed in dainty little purple market baskets tied with gold ribbon, these being the class colors.

The refreshments were delicious, consisting of chicken salad, wafers, cheese sandwiches and pickles. The favors were purple and gold roses filled with candies.

Pipe Organ Club Fair

The Pipe Organ Club have changed the place for holding their fair on Saturday. Instead of Central Park the location will be the lawn at the Carnes Hotel between Commercial and First Streets. Fresh vegetables, cooked foods, fancy work and refreshments will be found on the booths.

game of bridge. The table decorations were sweet peas with place cards in sweet pea design. The favors were cunning old-fashioned bouquets in the paper holders, the "flowers" made of gum drops, something really unique and novel in favors. The prizes were lovely hand embroidered vestee and collar and cuff sets in organdy and were won by Mrs. B. W. Hernden and Mrs. E. F. Housholder.

Out of town guests were Mrs. Julius Stryker of Philadelphia, Mrs. C. L. Flitely of Chicago and Mrs. F. J. Gonzales of Miami. Mrs. D. I. Thrasher substituted for an absent member.

Pink and White Card Party

With the charm of harmonious blending of colors and a careful consideration of each perfect detail, the bridge party given last Friday afternoon by Mrs. C. E. Henry, Mrs. H. B. Lewis and Mrs. Fred Walsman at the beautiful home of Mrs. Henry, was one of the attractive events of the week in society circles. Garden and wild flowers in pink and white were mingled in artistic arrangement delightfully pleasing, against a background of ferns and potted plants. The pink shaded lights cast a roseate hue over the gay gathering of pretty women. The color scheme was seen again in the salads and ices and other refreshments. Each slice of white ice-cream revealed a pink heart and the cakes were heart shaped, iced in pink. The favors were especially pretty, pink crepe baskets whose handles were decorated with diamonds, hearts, spades and clubs. Charming in their novelty, and filled with heart candies. Refreshments were served by the Misses Ethel and Florence Henry and Miss May Thrasher wearing girlish evening frocks in pink and white.

The hostesses were assisted by Mrs. W. E. Watson and Mrs. Ernest Housholder. Miss Katherine Wilkie won high score a set of cut glass tea glasses. Second score was made by Mrs. F. E. Roumillat to whom was presented a cut glass candy jar. Mrs. E. D. Mehley was given a fern dish on low score. There were twelve tables with Mrs. G. F. Gonzales of Miami the only out of town guest.

Mrs. Munson Feinders Program at Music Department Meeting

A most enjoyable event in music circles was the program rendered at the studio of Mrs. Fannie Stenbridge Munson, Saturday afternoon, at the Woman's Club. With her usual graceful poise Mrs. Munson delivered a talk on "Sonata and Fugue" that was interpreted by Miss Anna Mason at the piano. It was one of the finest programs ever given by the music department and well merited a large audience. Miss Mason is a talented pupil of the

Sanford Wins Prize

Yesterday afternoon the Country Club was en fete in honor of a big card game arranged by the president and his very efficient house committee. These ladies made the place blossom like a rose with many baskets, vases and stand of roses and spring flowers, and on the wide cool porch, the eleven tables for the game were placed each table being covered with an embroidered cloth. The tally cards were very attractive and the game an unusually good one, many high scores being made, Sanford carrying off the honors, Mrs. G. I. Loucks of that enterprising city had a score of seventeen hundred and seventy-seven, with Orlando a close second in Mrs. Frank Guernsey's score of seven hundred and sixty. Mrs. Loucks was presented with one of the handsomest prizes received this season, a jardiniere of blue wedgewood with large canoes in white, this was big enough to hold a large plant with ease. The five hundred scoring gave Mr. G. I. Edgerton, Jr., the highest reckoning and he received a very handsome silver pencil in a case.

At the conclusion of the game the ladies served a perfectly delicious orange ice and cake, using the card tables for serving.

Several out of town people took part in the game, among these being Mrs. H. M. Papworth of New York, Mrs. Hope of Dunedin, Mrs. M. F. Barnes of Sanford, Mrs. G. I. Loucks Sanford, and Mrs. M. E. Davis, Tampa.

EX-CZAR REAL JOY KILLER

Little Wonder Princess Didn't Enjoy Wearing Ring After Hearing That Gruesome Anecdote.

Ex-Czar Ferdinand of Bulgaria always had a great fondness for rings, and his delicate, tapering fingers usually were loaded with rare jewels. A Russian princess who was a guest of Ferdinand at a dinner in Sophia once admired especially a ring that he wore—a pearl surrounded by rubies.

"That ring pleases you?" asked Ferdinand, who had noticed her interest in it. And then, in the haughty tone which was his wont, he added: "A tear encircled by drops of blood. Permit me to put it on your finger."

Leaving toward her, he continued, nonchalantly:

"It is a gift that has just been sent to me by one of the most notorious bandits on the Bulgarian frontier, a truly remarkable man. He it is who holds the record for the number of hands he has cut off his victims. I have no doubt that he got this ring from a finger just as charming as yours."

"But don't be disturbed, madame. This ring which I have the honor of offering you was given to me without the finger."

The princess never knew whether the czar was serious or whether he was trying to confuse her. She never wore the ring.

QUEEN GAVE NAME TO CITY

Marinette, Wis., Took Appellation From Granddaughter of Noted Menominee Indian Chief.

Marinette, Wis., known as the "Queen City," is named after Queen Marinette, who was the daughter of Bartholomew Chevalier, whose wife was an Indian woman, daughter of Wabeshish, a noted Menominee chief. Marinette, who came to the Menominee river as Miss Farnsworth, was a woman of great shrewdness and intelligence, kind-hearted, generous and much respected by the Indians.

The queen's house was the first frame house on the Menominee river. The building was within the blockish erected by Louis Chappes, surrounded by a fine garden and an orchard. Apple trees planted by Queen Marinette are growing in the yard. Marinette's son, John B. Jacobs, had a trading post on the river just across the road and a little west of Marinette's house. He was interested in boats and owned and ran the steamer Queen City, for many years.

Queen Marinette died in 1863, when seventy-three years old. Her descendants are still living, being residents of Marinette, Green Bay and South Dakota.

A Business Letter.

The following was written to a St. Louis business man by one of his employees:

"Mr. John Doe:

"Dear Sir—I will kindly write you a few lines. Mr. Doe I will explain this proposition to you in a good and square way. Everything is so high now and it looks like everything is going up yet. The question is this. I stayed with this firm so long now almost four years and I don't want to leave this firm except I have to. I wanted to be right in every way. Mr. Doe I wanted ask you first. I bin offered to me here late-ly $25.00 a week and straight time. For a well educated clerk, Mr. Doe I don't think that is too much for a man what knows the business like I do. I'm certly willing to stay with this firm if you think you pay me $25.00 and straight time per week. I'm always at the job rain or shine except I'm sick or have to say off, and I don't mind the work either. I do anything what comes to my hand and I will not ask you any more for a race. So I will close forever.

"Yours truly,"

Mr. Haberdasher.

The evening meal was almost over and the table conversation had turned to a discussion of high prices.

"I know a haberdasher on Pennsylvania street that is selling his stock at half price," volunteered a young member of the family.

"Your uncle knows that man real well," said grandmother, between sips of tea.

"What man are you speaking of?" queried mother, a bit puzzled.

"Why, that Mr. Haberdasher," returned grandmother, with an air of innocence.

Grandmother is still to be convinced that Mr. Haberdasher is not his name for hadn't she read it with her own eyes, some place up over the door?—Indianapolis News.

Extent of Tobacco Industry.

More than $1,500,000,000 a year is the value of tobacco products manufactured in the United States. More than a million and a half acres of land are devoted to the growing of the "weed." On the manufacturing side the government estimate of the capital invested in 1914 was $303,840,000 which was a low figure even then and is greatly exceeded now. The number of wage earners in manufacture in that year was 178,872, and their annual earnings $77,850,000. There are many ramifications of the industry, including the making of cigarette paper and tin foil containers for cigarettes and cigar boxes. Altogether the dollars invested in and around the tobacco business are a huge sum.

TRACE MEXICAN RACE TO CHINA

Recent Discoveries Bear Out Tradition That Chinese Once Peopled Country.

MAY SOLVE ANCIENT PUZZLE

Hieroglyphics Found on Foundation Stones of Pyramids at San Juan Teotihuacan Indicate Primitive Migration From Orient.

Mexico City.—Hieroglyphics recently discovered on the foundation stones of the pyramids of San Juan Teotihuacan, 27 miles northeast of Mexico City, may solve the problem which has perplexed historians and archeologists for centuries as to the true origin of the Mexican nation. These strange carvings are said by some authorities to be Chinese, thus tending to bear out the old tradition that in the dim past wandering tribes from China crossed to the new continent, settled within the present boundaries of Mexico and became the progenitors of the race which now dominates this republic.

So interesting are the recent discoveries that the bureau of anthropology has been instructed to conduct a vigorous research, and in this connection Fong Tsiang Kuang, charge d'affaires of the Chinese legation in Mexico, visited the pyramids and stated that the hieroglyphics were similar in many respects to certain symbols now in use by the Chinese. He declared the words "sun," "city" and "eye" were clearly depleted. Mexican anthropologists who have interested themselves in the discovery have declined to pass final judgment until further excavations are made and more evidence obtained.

Pyramids Primitive Marks.

The pyramids of San Juan Teotihuacan as well as those in Cholula, in the state of Puebla, are among the oldest marks of primitive habitation to be found in the republic. They stand as colossal monuments to peoples whose history was as obscure to the conquering Spaniards in the sixteenth century as to present-day historians. Because of their general construction, some authorities believe they are the handiwork of the Egyptians, who in some mysterious manner crossed the seas and denoted their places of permanent habitation with these stone and cement structures, which are even larger than the most famous pyramids of Egypt.

The little village of San Juan Teotihuacan, which in the Aztec language means "City of the Gods," was in the early days of Aztec history the scene of extraordinary religious ceremonies. The two pyramids, one dedicated to the sun, the other to the moon, are known to have been the tombs in which hundreds of tribal dignitaries were buried, and excavators have exhumed wrought stone containing human bones, obsidian knives, terra-cotta heads with broad faces and flat noses, fragments of rare pottery and great numbers of arrowheads.

Found Mask of Monarch.

One of the most recent and most valuable discoveries was a jadeite mask of some past monarch with the brow covered with the diadem known to early Mexican history. The pyramid to the sun measures 761 by 721 feet at the base and is 216 feet high; the one to the moon is 511 by 428 feet at the base and is 151 feet high. They both contain numerous chambers, and their several stories are complete temples in swim to the shore they would have a new vision. There are people who seemingly are good folks, but are not worth a copper cent to the community. Sometimes it seems hopeless to try to change such people.

One of my favorite authors says, "A minister's first duty is to bring all the forces of his Church into action for good. His second work is to lead in the conservation of forces for good in his community." This community is to be congratulated upon the growth of the Church which worships in this crowded theatre to night. Forced out of its own building for lack of room, the ushers thought they would be able to accommodate all comers here, but for fifteen minutes they have been turning people from the door. The growth of that Church has been because it has adopted the principals of Jesus Christ as foundation for every action, look, and word; and its minister is not afraid to declare the whole Truth of these principles. Such a church will grow and is invincible to the attacks of all the rest of the world.

My text is found in Ecclesiastes 4:12. "A three fold chord is not easily broken."

I wish to-night to plait a threefold cord. This cord we will liken to the walls of our city. Once platted, once built, it will be invincible to all the attacks of the rest of the world.

Co-operation will be the first strand.

This itself indicates the three fold cord or the cord that is not easily broken. "A house divided cannot stand. United we stand, divided we fall." Where there is unity, there is strength. It is unnecessary for me to argue the need of co-operation to an intelligent audience like the one here this evening. It is well, however, to remind you, that we do not have the co-operation that should be for the advancement of our city. If we would have the City Invincible, our merchants, farmers, railroad men, capitalists and laborers must have a congenial and co-operative in an effort to reach it. Hugh Black says, "We are all bound up in the same bundle. In a very true sense we stand or fall together." Jealousy on the part of individuals or enterprises over the success of the other, is not worthy and should be looked upon with discredit by all worth and well qualified citizens.

Favored by fate? Smiled on by chance? Is that what you think of a winning man? Then stop my friend, another glance And you'll sense the race he ran.

Oh, men by him, as men by you, And all of them striving to win the race, But he, among the very few, Found and stuck to his pace.

Work, hard work, through the long hard hours; Oh, dreaming and planning for more work to do; Plodding along with the hard set shoulders— In such manner fortune grew!

There's work for all, for you—for me— And the chance to make, within each soul, Our selves, our selves, Oh,—then you'll see The reaching of your goal.

Taylor. Justice is the second strand in the three fold cord. For a City to be invincible it must mete out Justice. The personification of Justice is in Christ. We must know Him and His teachings in order to have the spirit, and merit of Justice. We must see that every individual has a chance in life to make good. There are some, however, who cannot stand Justice. When I was a student in high school, this sentence was indelibly impressed upon my mind, "The world owes every man a living and every man owes the world a life worth while." I am ambitious to see every man in Sanford "on his feet". To give to charity does not mean we are being just to the down and out. To promote welfare, advise and inspire the one on poverty to climb to his feet, is an act of justice. We have some hopeless cases who are waiting for an opportunity.

Keller, says in his book, some people are waiting for opportunities like the following

A million dollar legacy from an unknown admirer. A purse containing huge bank roll discovered on way to office. A proposal of marriage from the rich.

Oil under the back yard. Justice must be measured to the rich and the poor as well as to the poor and the meek. To allow the richer in a Cadillac go unpunished and the "skeeter lad" get "10 and costs" is not justice. This is but a simple illustration. You can carry it as high as you please. Justice is a fundamental in the threefold cord that is not easily broken in The Invincible City.

The third strand is friendship. Walt Whitman says the Invincible City is the New City of Friends, where love is seen in the actions, looks and words of all of its people. If we can establish our city on the principal of friendship and brotherly love, then we have platted the cord. In the depth of every life there is the desire for friendship.

Many of you have read the story of the boy in Chicago, who lived a distance of five miles from Sunday School. A policeman watched him pass his beat every Sunday morning, through cold and heat, sunshine and rain. He said one morning, "Where are you going, to work?" The boy replied, "I am not going to work. I am going to Sunday School and Church. I am going to Mr. Moody's Sunday School and Church." The policeman said, "Why do you go so far when there are hundreds of Churches between there and where you live?" "Yes Sir," said the boy, "but they love a fellow over there."

That is what a lack of the growth and success of the Baptist Temple in this city. A fellow is loved up there. The same kind of love we make this city the attractive place it should be. If I were a magician and could be waving a wand transform Sanford into what I desired, it would be a moment he a City of Friends where robust love led all the rest. And was seen in the actions, looks, and words of all the people.

The spirit of our city governors should be like a king who before he ascended the throne, declared that he would destroy all of his enemies. Afterwards the people were surprised that he treated them all with kindness and justice. Some of his friends reminded him of what he had said, "And have I not destroyed my enemies?" he asked, "I have changed them into friends."

A minister once preached an eloquent sermon on "Friends in Heaven." A young man hearing it said afterwards, "Please sir, preach on the subject, 'Friends on Earth'. I have been in this city for months and it seems impossible to get acquainted."

When we get in touch with the World's Best Friend, we will find it easy to plait the cord that is not easily broken. He said, "I call you no longer servants, but I have called you friends." When I point you to the feet of Jesus, I feel that I prove my friendship to the people of Sanford. Co-operation, justice and brotherly love are found at His feet. We learn from Him, love, sacrifice, forgiveness. With out these we cannot plait the cord of co-operation, justice and friendship.

When we have friendship with Christ, we will not fear loss in life or in death. The closer the communion with Him, the more invincible our lives and our city. When we completely give ourselves over to His leadership, then, Walt Whitman can cease his dreaming and say, "Sanford, (The City Invincible) To the attacks to the whole of the rest of the earth, Sanford, the New City of Friends: Nothing is greater there than the quality Of robust love—it leads all the rest. It is seen every hour in the actions of the men of that city, And in all their looks and words.

THE MIDDLE AGE

Our youth began with tears and sighs, With seeking what we could not find; Our years were all throes, In eagerness still we whined; Our ears were deaf, our eyes were blind, We sought, and knew not what we sought; We pressed, now we look behind; Life's more amusing than we thought!

Oh, foolish youth, untimely wise! Oh, phantoms of the sickly mind! What content with seas and skies, With rainy clouds and southern wind, With common cares and faces kind, With pains and joys each morning brought? Ah, old and worn, and tired we find Life's more amusing than we thought!

Though youth "turns spectre-thin and dies," To mourn for youth we're not inclined; We set our souls on salmon flies, We whistle where we once repined, Confound the woes of humankind! By heaven we're "well deceived," I wot; Who hum contented and resigned, "Life's more amusing than we thought!"

ENVOY. O mate mecum, worn and lined, Our faces show, but that is naught; Our hearts are young 'neath wrinkled rind; Life's more amusing than we thought. —Andrew Lang.

CROWN FOR SALE

Emblem of Hungarian Monarchy Said to Be on Market.

By Far the Oldest of Existing Regalia in Europe, and is Said on Good Authority to Date Back 1,000 Years.

According to a recent dispatch from Budapest, the government has offered to sell for the sum of 100,000 Swiss francs, normally about $10,000, the famous crown of Hungary known as the crown of St. Stephen. It is a strange fate which has plucked this, the most ancient and revered crown in all Europe, for a possible object of a commercial transaction, and if the offer is really a bona fide one, there are doubtless a good many collectors of ancient and curious relics, both in the United States and Europe, not to mention many famous museums, who would gladly pay the price asked, and much more, for that matter, for the pleasure of owning this almost priceless historic relic.

To those who know something of the history of this famous crown, it seems almost impossible to believe, even if the reported dream of the monarchist group now rampant in Hungary who would put this crown on the job again should not materialize according to schedule, that the people would ever permit this crown to go out of possession of the state, as during the course of centuries a veritable legal and sentimental idolatry, unquenchable in any other country, has developed in Hungary for the crown of St. Stephen.

With the sole exception of the so-called Iron crown of Lombardy, this Hungarian crown is by far the oldest of all existing regalia in Europe. Legend traces back its origin to about the year 1000. It is certain that it existed in the first year of the thirteenth century, and a section of it is probably much older than that.

According to the Hungarian conception, an uncrowned king was no king at all; his decrees had no legal force and resistance to them was constitutional. And, in fact, during the last 200 years there was only one ruler who defied the ancient Magyar traditions centering around the crown of St. Stephen—Joseph II, the enlightened but arbitrary son of Maria Theresa.

The career of the crown of St. Stephen has been distinguished by more romance than any other crown in Europe.

As the story goes, in the year 1000 Pope Sylvester II finished the colossal task of converting the fierce Magyar horsemen to Christianity.

The crown, it is said, was not originally intended for Stephen, but was made on the pope's order for the Polish prince Boleslav, and his holiness was just about dispatching it to him by courier, when one night an angel appeared to the pope in a dream and enjoined him to give the crown to Stephen. Awakening, the holy father gave the crown to the Abbot Asztrik with the words:

"Tell the duke of the Hungarians that while I am merely a successor of the apostles, he is a real apostle himself."

Thereupon Asztrik delivered the crown to Stephen, who soon afterward was crowned first king of Hungary at Alba Regia. Ever after the rulers of Hungary bore the title "Apostolic King," just as the epithet "Most Christian" was bestowed by the popes on the kings of France and the attribute "Most Catholic" on the kings of Spain.

After the death of Stephen, the crown was used at the successive coronation of 20 kings of the Aspad dynasty, and altogether it has been employed at the coronation of 50 kings during 800 years, being regarded during this entire period as the source and depository of all power in the realm and the supreme symbol of law and constitution.

It is a broad, flat band of gold, whence springs an arch supporting a cross, and is, or was, set with 55 sapphires, 50 rubies, 1 emerald and 135 pearls—Exchange.

Improved Giant Incubator. Holding 10,500 eggs and hatching 3,500 each week, in a space of 8 1/2 feet square is the feat performed by an improved incubator with a growing record of success, according to Popular Mechanics Magazine. The big hatching machine resembles a retailer's refrigerator and is complete in itself.

Two large oil heaters are installed at the rear and a partitioned cross chamber is lined with hot water pipes, with electric fans at the top. The air is forced down around the pipes and up through the egg chambers, adjusted ventilators at the top keeping evaporation at a minimum. By a special arrangement all the eggs can be turned in five minutes. A model of 2,440 egg capacity is also made in similar form.

Glad of It. "Aren't the mills dreadfully slow?" "Yes, but that's an advantage some times."

"Why, this morning I received the Dulmore's card for yesterday's reception."

"So did I. It gave me a really decent excuse for not going."

Overheard. Mrs. Green (relating experience)—"It hurt something awful. The dentist wanted to give me gas, but my husband wouldn't hear of it. You see, he'd been gassed himself in France."

How Squirrels Earn and Continue to Earn Right to Live and Rejoice in Life.

"In creating the squirrel family nature performed one of her most gracious and beneficent acts," writes Arthur F. Rice in an article on "Four-Footed Folk" in Boys' Life. "She made the striped squirrel for the very small boy, the red squirrel for the larger boy and the gray squirrel for the big boy from fifteen to seventy years of age, and threw in flying squirrels and black squirrels and fox squirrels as an evidence of her generous disposition to please everybody. She decorated the stumps and mossy rocks with tiny, beautiful forms and added picturesque life to the rail fences and stone walls with a charming race of busy little creatures whose graceful motions and interesting habits contribute much to the entertainment of all mankind."

"It was in the eternal fitness of things that the squirrels should do something for nature in return for the gift of a joyous existence; so they set about helping her to plant her garden. The chipmunks buried beech nuts and chestnuts and acorns in the ground, and thus did their part in the scheme of scientific forestry. The red squirrels dropped hazelnuts, butternuts, cherry stones and pine cones along the walls and fences and straightway there sprang up along these avenues of squirrel travel fruitful shrubs and luscious trees where other squirrels find a feast, where the birds build their nests and under which the cattle enjoy a grateful shade. So the squirrels earned, and continued to earn the right to live and to rejoice in life."

Graphic Chart Shows That Human Life Appeared Late in the Quaternary Period

A geologist, writing to the Scientific American, describes by means of a graphic chart the comparative lengths of the different periods of the age of the earth. He places the age of the earth arbitrarily at 72,000,000 years, represented by a clock dial of 24 hours—3,000,000 years to each hour.

On the above basis the first six hours of the clock represents Azole time, the earliest conjectural period of the earth's formation—18,000,000 years; the next six hours Eozole and the next eight Paleozole time—18,000,000 and 24,000,000 years, respectively—periods of mineral and vegetable formations. In the next three hours animal life developed—Mesozole time, 9,000,000 years—that is, from the twentieth to the twenty-third hour. Thus the last hour of the 24—3,000,000 years of geologic time—represents Neozole time, which Includes the appearance of human life in the Quaternary period. This last division of the 24 hours, the Quaternary period, is shown as only 10 minutes—in other words, 500,000 years. The existence of human life on the earth, therefore, bears the same relation to the age of the earth as 16 minutes does to 24 hours. But since the period of written history is estimated roughly at only 6,000 years, this last division is not shown on the chart, since it would only be 12 seconds in duration.

Fishing With Axes.

Edwardsville, Ill. — Fishing with axes is a "sport" in Illinois now. In the ponds and lakes around Edwardsville the fish come up close to the frigid coating to get air. They may be seen through the clear ice. The "hunter" strikes the ice just above the fish, which is stunned by the concussion. A hole is then chopped and the fish taken out. Numbers of the catch are obtained every day by this method.

Prints.

"Do you think these socialists will by any chance leave footprints on the sands of time?" "I'm not concerned about their footprints," replied Senator Sorghum. "What we need from them now is a reliable collection of thumb prints."

A Long Way Off.

Jud Tinkins says that if they ever get the single school running half way amicable, maybe he'll begin thinking about trying a soviet.

"Devil's Dozen." The saying "devil's dozen" means the same as "baker's dozen," but the origin differs. It "connotes," as the metaphysicians love to say, 13 loaves of bread instead of 12, and it sprang from the idiotically superstitious attempt to explain the baker's dozen, which also was 13 loaves. This latter practice of giving 13 loaves was due to the drastic penalties in England for shortweighting, and to be safe the baker threw in the extra loaf.

To Preserve Furs.

Insects dislike pennyroyal; the smell of it destroys some, and drives others away. Take all of pennyroyal, pour some into a saucer, steep it in small pieces of new cotton or wadding, and place where required. It is also well to place some between the mattress, etc. When putting furs aside for the summer, fold carefully, with a little pennyroyal, and then wrap thoroughly in newspapers, gumming down the edges. Place in closely shutting drawers with a little camphor.

MRS. LEEDS NOT ROYAL PRINCESS

Recent Marriage to Christopher of Greece Did Not Give Her That Status.

PRINCE RENOUNCES HIS RANK

American Woman's Only Title Now Is Countess Glueckburg, Official Athens Gazette Says—Similar Cases Recalled.

New York.—Cable dispatches from Athens effectively contradict the assumption that Mrs. William B. Leeds, through her recent marriage to Prince Christopher, youngest brother of former King Constantine of Greece, acquired the status of a princess of the blood and the title of "Royal Highness." The latest issues of the Official Gazette of Athens publish an announcement, by the Hellenic government, in the name of the crown, that Prince Christopher, before he married Mrs. Leeds, was obliged to renounce his rank as a prince of the sovereign house of Greece and his place in the line of succession to the throne. The renunciation automatically erased his name from the official roster of the princes and princesses of the royal house.

Renounces Danish Rank.

Nor was this the only renunciation that the prince was compelled to make in order to obtain the consent of his brother, the present King Alexander, and the consent of the Hellenic government. He was a royal prince of Denmark, and he was obliged to renounce his Danish royal rank and his place in the line of Danish succession. His father, the late King George, assassinated at Salonika in 1912, was a prince of the reigning house of Denmark prior to his election to the throne of Greece. He was so apprehensive as to the tenure of his kingship in Greece that he required the protecting powers, Great Britain, France and Russia, to guarantee him an income of $80,000 a year as long as he lived, and to permit him to retain his royal rank and status in the house of Denmark. All of his sons and grandsons continue, therefore, to rank as princes of Denmark, all except Christopher. The king and government of Denmark agreed to give their consent to the marriage only after this further renunciation.

According to the Official Gazette, the former Prince Christopher was rewarded for the various surrenders of royal rank with the consent of the kings and governments of Greece and Denmark to the union with Mrs. Leeds and with the rank of count in the Danish nobility. His title is now Count Glueckburg, and that is the only title that the former Mrs. Leeds may lay claim to. She is not a princess of either Greece or Denmark, and on her appearance at any monarchical court would have to be content with the title of Countess Glueckburg.

A Similar Case.

A former instance of similar renunciation occurred when Prince Aage of Denmark, eldest son of Prince Waldemar and of Princess Marie of France, married the daughter of Count Calvi di Bergolo, minister plenipotentiary of Italy at Copenhagen. He was not permitted to marry the girl he loved until he surrendered his royal rank and right of succession and had accepted the rank of ordinary noble with the title of Count Rosenbergh.

Still another case was that of Prince Frederick of Schleswig-Holstein, who fell in love with Miss Mary Esther Lee of New York and was not permitted to marry her, as he did in 1864, until he had definitely renounced his status and prerogatives as a prince of the blood. Still another instance was that of Duke Henry Borwin of Mecklenburg-Schwerin, who married the former Miss Elizabeth Pratt of Kingston, N. Y., at Dover, England, in 1911. The marriage was declared invalid in 1913 by the Supreme Court of the Grand Duchy because it was held that the duke had evaded and violated the law of his country by marrying without official sanction.

In all the long list of American women that have married foreigners of rank and title, only one, Miss Alice Helme of New Orleans, ever entered the royal circle. Her first husband was Armand, Duc de Helme, and after his death she became the consort of Albert, prince of Monaco, a ruling sovereign in his own right.

MARINES SHOOT WELL

Make High Record in Range Course Work.

From a shooting standpoint, the year just passed was the most successful in marine corps history, according to advices from marine corps headquarters here. Over 87 per cent of the marines who fired the prescribed range course in 1919 qualified as marksmen or better.

Owing to the many new conditions brought out by the war, a standard course of instruction embodying the most modern methods of small-arms firing is being adopted for future use by the marine corps.

Crown Prince Income $320,000. Decision has been reached by the Holland government that the former crown prince of Germany must pay taxes upon the basis of an annual income of $300,000 for his (normally $250,000). This action was taken despite protest from the crown prince.

Sister's Mother-in-Law.

Toledo, O.—Miss Florence Dewey, forty-three years of age, the daughter of J. N. Dewey, wholesale fish dealer, and William Lindsay, a Milwaukee business man, eighty years of age, were married in Milwaukee the other day. The marriage causes a peculiar relationship to exist in the two families. The new Mrs. Lindsay is a sister of Mrs. Herbert Lindsay, her husband's daughter-in-law. Through her marriage to Lindsay, Mrs. William Lindsay now becomes sister's mother-in-law, while Lindsay is his own son's brother-in-law.
