Woman attacked by dogs

A 74-year old Chuluota woman was attacked by a pit bull and a rottweiler while riding her three-wheeled bicycle through Lake Mills Park on Sunday morning.

The dogs allegedly knocked her from her bicycle and bit her several times, animal control officials said this morning.

According to Frank Kirk, acting animal control officer, the dogs, which have no previous record of biting, but the county has a file on them because the owner had failed to keep them confined to her property.

Kirk said that the owner of the dogs, Debbie Cathey of Chuluota, has released the dogs to animal control where they will be quarantined for 10 days to be sure they do not have rabies.

They will then be destroyed, Kirk said.

Kirk said that the owner had been cited for failing to keep her dogs either leashed or penned up in September 1991, but there had been no other complaints filed with their department.

Kirk said, however, that it is not unusual to see dogs running loose in that rural area of Seminole County.

"We get calls out to that area all the time," Kirk said, "but we've only had the one call on these particular animals."

Information about the woman's condition was unavailable this morning.

Landscaping plans viewed

SANFORD — Sanford-area residents may view proposed landscaping plans for the final link of the Seminole County expressway between U.S. Highway 17-92 and Interstate 4 Tuesday evening. Visitors may comment on the proposal and make recommendations for improvement.

The viewing will be held at Second Shiloh Missionary Baptist Church, 2061 Airport Boulevard from 5 p.m. until 8 p.m. The church is located north of County Road 46-A.

Included in the landscaping plans is road designers' answer to concerns of residents of Hidden Lake who opposed a southern move of the expressway this summer. Residents said the move would eliminate many of the trees that would have screened their homes from the roadway. Designers have moved a drainage pond and added landscaping features in an effort to reduce the visual impacts.

Correction

In a Nov. 4 story regarding the Golden Age Games Social Reception some of the restaurants and caterers who donated samples of their food for the function were unintentionally omitted.

Those businesses who gave food were Park Avenue Caterers, 45's of DeBary, Mr. Bill's North Carolina Barbecue, Christa's and Buck's Restaurant and Catering.

In addition, Seminole Florist also donated palms to be used for the opening ceremonies and for the social reception.

Museum expansion

Work begins on Sanford archive

By WICK PFERPAUF
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The major expansion project for the Sanford Museum is ready to begin today.

"We would have started the actual work during this past week," said museum curator Alicia Clarke, "but the people connected with the Golden Age Games need to use the area near the museum, so the start of the work was held up until this week."

Cooper Construction is the prime contractor for the job. Cooper workers began putting up the safety fence Friday afternoon.

Completion is expected by late spring of 1993. Clarke said the construction costs will amount to $1.5 million.

Sanford part of heritage trail

By WICK PFERPAUF
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Sanford is one of 10 cities in the state that will be included in the Florida Black Heritage Trail. The trail is a 100-mile route that will highlight the state's African American history and culture.

Tonight, the Florida Preservation Board will ask the City Commission to approve the placement of signs designating the trail at the Lake Mary Trail, Page 2A.

City still mulls school land buy

SANFORD — Discussion continues on the possibility of the city purchasing school land property. The matter is scheduled for this afternoon's Sanford City Commission workshop meeting at 4:30. It is not included on the agenda for the regular meeting beginning Oct. 26, Page 6A.

Man found murdered

By WICK PFERPAUF
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — A man identified as Mark Edward Marsh, 20, of Sanford, was shot to death in Sanford Friday night. He was found next to S. Park Ave., along the side of the street just north of 25th Street.

Police reports indicate his last known local address was listed as 414 Rooster Court in Sanford.

According to Sanford Police Chief Steve Harriett, "a passing officer was flagged down about 20 minutes after midnight early Saturday morning, and told there was a man laying along the road." He continued, "When the officer arrived, he found the man had been shot in the mid-left chest with a shotgun."

Although the body was taken to Central Florida

Regional Hospital, Harriett said he was already dead at the scene.

Harriett said it appeared as though the shooting had occurred just moments before the police arrived.

"We don't believe the motive was robbery," he said, "because the man still had all of his ID cards and some money in his pocket when our officers got to the scene."

"As they were investigating the scene," Harriett said, "several people stopped and reported seeing the man earlier in the evening, walking north on Park Avenue, but no one reported noticing anything suspicious."

Harriett would not speculate on the reason for the murder. "We are investigating the murder now," he said, "but at the moment, we don't have much to work on."

Autopsy reports were not available this morning.

Chief's job down to 5 hopefuls

By WICK PFERPAUF
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — The list of candidates for the Lake Mary Police Chief job continues to diminish. From 51 applications, only five are left.

The latest list was trimmed from 13, who had been narrowed down from the original group, and given to a selection committee headed by Sanford Police Chief Steve Harriett.

At the time, three local men, and acting Lake Mary Police Chief Sam Belfiore were all on the list. In the five remaining, only one local name remains.

Belfiore did not make it through the committee's interviewing process.

City Manager John Litton has submitted the list with the final five candidates to the members of the City Commission. In his memorandum he commented, "While the screening committee's role was subjective, I felt it appropriate to add his (Belfiore's) name to the list of finalists based upon his years of experience with the Lake Mary Police Department."

Litton continued, "He declined his inclusion on the final list however, for reasons related to his respect for the process and those law enforcement professionals who served on the committee."

The five remaining applicants still in consideration are as follows:

• Gorman Schulis: Former Orange County undersheriff, and currently serving as Deputy Sheriff in Seminole County, with 21 years law enforcement experience.

• Richard Beary: Currently serving as Deputy Dept. director for the City of Altamonte Springs Police Department, 15 years law enforcement experience.

• Lionel Cote: Currently serving as Chief of Police in Satellite Beach, 29 years law enforcement experience.

• Edward Overman: Currently serving as a Commander in the Altamonte Springs Police Dept., 18 years law enforcement experience.

• William Lutz: Current Deputy Chief of Police for the Orlando Police Dept., 25 years law enforcement experience.

Two other local area officers were also cut from the final list. They included Steve Harrelson, a teacher at Seminole Community College, who retired from the Orlando Police Dept. as a lieutenant after 20 years of service, and Rocky Ford, a patrol commander with the Seminole County Sheriff's Dept.

Litton said he has assured Capt. Belfiore that his position with the Lake Mary Police Dept. will be reinstated.

'Heartless Award' goes to state HRS

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The Florida Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services is the worst child-support collection agency in the nation according to a national support payment advocacy organization.

ACES, the Association for Children for Enforcement of Support Inc., issued HRS a "Heartless Award" last week for poor services. No states were given "Golden Heart" awards for the best agency this year, but several states were noted for using private collection agencies, computerized tracking and an employer reporting program to chase delinquent child support payers.

HRS responded angrily to the announcement made Thursday.

"We don't feel that way," said Melanie Mowry, HRS spokesman. "The federal government doesn't feel that way. Two years ago, ACES gave us the Golden Heart award as the most improved child support enforcement agency. They are totally off-base."

But a local mother and organizer of ACES, Lynette Romano-Stainer, Debbie Brooks-Kantor and Gerry Reynolds

County to air golf course acquisition

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Seminole County staffers are recommending commissioners not pursue the $4.5 million acquisition of Winter Springs Golf Club because it would not pay for itself.

An analysis performed by county financial advisor Gary Akers determined the county would have to subsidize purchase debt of the course in the amount of more than $85,000 yearly at the proposed purchase price of $4.8 million. The price would have to be lowered to $3.8 million to break even, Akers determined.

Commissioners will review the analysis at a 10:30 a.m. worksession Tuesday in Room 3000 of the County Services Building.

In August, commissioners asked county staff to determine whether purchase of Winter Springs Golf Club was feasible. Tom Blanford, representing Winter Springs owners, in September 1991 offering the course, clubhouse and about six acres of property. Since then, the county Parks and Recreation Advisory Board considered the cost of the county building its own duffer park.

Grand theft charged

Eugene Harold Scheuer, 37, 5984 Jody Way, Orlando was charged with grand theft when he was arrested by Sanford Police on Friday.

Police said that on Thursday they were dispatched to the area of 212 Park Ave. in Sanford where they found a car that had been reported stolen on Nov. 2.

Police reported that the 1988 Lincoln Towncar was parked at the curb and that Scheuer was in it.

Police said that Scheuer "willingly admitted to taking the vehicle and not returning it."

He was taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Center. Bond had not yet been set.

Retail theft charged

Reginald "Regi" Karl Bookman, 23, 812 Locust Ave., Sanford, was charged with retail theft when he was arrested by Sanford Police on Saturday.

Police said Bookman tried to take a small, yellow and blue, raincoat from the Family Dollar store, 413 First St., Sanford.

He was transported to the John E. Polk Correctional Center where he was held on $100 bond.

Battery, resisting arrest charged

Larry Jean Pryor, 29, whose last known address was the Rescue Mission in Sanford, was charged with battery and resisting arrest without violence when he was arrested by Sanford Police on Friday.

Police said Pryor battered Thomas English in the face with his fists, then picked him up and threw him over a fence.

Police said that when they approached Pryor he attempted to flee. Police said they caught him, but he tried to prevent officers from handcuffing him.

He was transported to the John E. Polk Correctional Center where he was held on $500 bond.

Warrant arrest

Ralph Edward Broomfield, 49, 1025 Pine Hollow Pt., Longwood, was charged with failure to appear in court for arraignment on charges of driving under the influence.

He was held at the John E. Polk Correctional Center on $5,000 bond.

Woman charged with drunk driving

Tosca Andrea DeGraaff, 19, 701 Sandpiper Cir., Longwood, was charged with driving under the influence when she was arrested by Altamonte Springs Police on Saturday at State Road 436 and Maitland.

Traffic accident leads to charges

Steven Douglas Daniels, 25, 195 Vista Oak Dr., Longwood, was charged with driving under the influence and with careless driving when he was arrested by Altamonte Springs Police on Saturday at 801 State Road 436.

Police said that he was involved in an accident with an unoccupied vehicle in the parking lot at 801 State Road 436.

He was given a field sobriety test, police said, which he failed.

He was taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Center and held on $500 bond.

Veteran's Day

In celebration of Veterans' Day Wednesday, the City of Sanford has proclaimed Nov. 5 through 11 Veterans' Week. From left: Mayor Betty Smith; Russa Germain, grand marshal for the VFW Post 10108 parade and executive officer of the Seminole County Area Veterans Advisory Committee; Capt. John B. Parade float workshop scheduled

St. Lucia Festival to be grand

By MARK PETERMAN
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Organizers promise the annual St. Lucia Festival/Seminole County Christmas Parade will be the biggest ever. The parade will be held in downtown Sanford on Dec. 12.

Co-chairpersons for this year are Althea Parrish and Laine Wood, who have announced the theme for 1992 will be "Ode to World Christmas." Parrish said it will give participants the ease of reworking costumes and float materials that were used in past parades.

"In order to be more convenient for families and children to get to the downtown area," Parrish said, "we will be shifting this year's parade to 7 p.m."

The parade will be led by the woman selected to be St. Lucia, followed by local dignitaries. It will conclude with the annual appearance of Santa Claus to usher in the holiday season.

In order to assist persons wishing to participate in the parade, a workshop will be held at the Monroe Harbour Marina, Tuesday, Dec. 10 at 7 p.m. It will focus on construction, use of materials, design, and other aspects of float preparation.

Staff members from Walt Disney World will be the instructors. The workshop is free, and printed materials on how to build floats will be available.

First, second and third place trophies will be awarded to participants in the parade. The parade will include marching units, bands, floats, and a parade float workshop by close of business, Friday, Dec. 4. Festival headquarters is the First Street Gallery, 203 E. First Street in downtown Sanford.

No advance registration is required for the float building workshop tomorrow night. Participants are asked to be at the Monroe Harbour Marina complex beginning at 7 p.m.

For further information on the workshop or the parade, contact St. Lucia Headquarters, at 323-9178.

Gunman kills 6 before turning gun on self

By The Associated Press

MORRO BAY, Calif. — A man known around town as "Crazy Jim" hunted down and killed six people — apparently in revenge for being evicted from a house and barred from a card club — then shot himself to death.

Lynwood Drake III, 43, killed himself Sunday while authorities were talking by phone to a woman he took hostage. The hostage was not seriously hurt.

The slayings were "very thought out, very intentional," police Sgt. Greg Beuer said. "He fully intended on killing some people Saturday night and did it in a very methodical way."

Drake first went to a Morro Bay house with a pistol, killing Norman Metcalfe, 37, and Danny Clark, 32, and wounding a third man. At a house nearby, 80-year-old Andrew Zatzko was shot to death in front of his live-in companion.

Zatzko had recently evicted Drake from a rental home and Metcalfe, a former roommate of Drake's, testified against Drake at the court proceeding, Beuer said.

Drake's anger may have been intensified by the departure of his common-law wife and her infant daughter last month, Beuer said.

"He said, 'If I lose this place my wife is going to go home and take the girl with her,'" said Lee Brodhers, Zatzko's lawyer in the eviction case.

Single-gender school bus stops arrested by DOE

There is no rest for the wicked goes the old saying and, nowadays, the politically correct aren't getting much nap time either.

The latest outrage that has prompted a response from the anti-discrimination cops is the horrendous practice of designating separate school bus stops for boys and girls in Pinellas County.

The designated gender bus stops have helped reduce overcrowding on buses and, more recently, reduced sexual harassment. However, the nefarious practice has caught the investigative eye of the U.S. Department of Education's Office of Civil Rights. The DOE's Atlanta office has sent out its investigators. Good thing the bureaucrats don't have serious things to worry about.

However, not waiting for the gender cops from Atlanta, the local school system has raced into action.

"Designating bus stops by gender is a violation of Title 9," according to Solomon Stephens, assistant superintendent for equal opportunity, in Pinellas County. Title 9 is the federal law prohibiting discrimination in educational programs on the basis of sex.

The assistant superintendent for equal opportunity? That title says a lot about waste and stupidity in education. Is there so much discrimination in St. Petersburg that the school system needs a full-time superintendent to weed it out? Assistant superintendent for equal opportunity? Is that really a full-time, 40-hour-a-week, 50-weeks-a-year job? What exactly does he do when there are no discriminatory school bus stops to be changed?

How is a classic case where stupidity has overwhelmed common sense. Anti-discrimination laws were originally passed because there was discrimination against women. Noted law schools and medical schools did not allow women in. Even if females found a good law or medical school open to them, they were often harassed by old-line establishment males who did not want to see the professions changed. In school systems, an unwritten law allowed only men to seek administrative posts. These were legitimate grievances that took legal redress.

But single-gender school bus stops?

Volunteer for education

The local control for education needs all of us to become more involved. We not only must input our opinions, but we must also become an active partner and assist the system.

Our voting helps keep the school board members aware of us but our volunteerism will make them take us seriously. (By keeping track of our volunteer time shows them we mean business.)

By volunteering and working within the school system, you not only show the school board that you are concerned, but the student gets the attention he/she needs and the teacher get the help and support that the state will not give.

At Seminole High School, we need many more volunteers than the parent group can come up with (and this is just one school). All the schools in the Sanford area need volunteers. Whether you have kids in school or not, all these kids affect our future so affect their future by volunteering.

Please call the school of your choice and ask for the person who works with Dividenda. We need volunteers for everything. Right now, we have a Seminole High School math teacher asking for help with her fourth and sixth period math classes and she says, "It doesn't matter how much math you know, I need help!"

The last of the McCarthy-style trials

In January 1987, agents of the Immigration and Naturalization Service, accompanied by members of the FBI, arrested eight Palestinian aliens and one Kenyan woman in Los Angeles. Some of the arrests were at dawn, with guns drawn. One of those taken into custody later that day, a student, was hauled away in the middle of an exam. Another, Khader Hamide, who has been in the United States since 1971, was due to get his citizenship papers the week he was arrested.

Shackled hand and foot, the "terrorists" — as the INS called them — were charged with associating with an organization, the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine, that advocates the "doctrines of world communism." Under the language of the McCarran-Walter Act at the time, this kind of advocacy was reason for deportation proceedings. At first, the prisoners were denied bail as risks to national security.

The FBI had conducted a lengthy investigation of these "terrorists." One FBI agent had moved into an apartment next door to Khader Hamide and his wife, Julie Mungal, to get the subversive goods on those two.

The result? In testimony before the Senate Committee on Intelligence in 1987, FBI Director William Webster said: "The individuals who were arrested in California had not been found to have engaged themselves in terroristic activities." They were arrested, Webster continued, "because they are alleged to be members of a worldwide communist organization. ... In this particular case, if these individuals had been United States citizens, there would not have been a basis for their arrest."

American citizens, the director of the FBI acknowledged, have the First Amendment right to advocate ideas, even those propagated by the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine. (The people arrested, it should be noted, had denied membership in the PFLP.)

But there was "evidence" of their link to that organization, which has indeed committed certain acts of terrorism. The defendants had in their possession — not guns — but magazines, including the PFLP's Democratic Palestine. In them were articles calling for an independent Palestinian state. It is a PFLP view, which is also held by some Israelis as a way to keep Israel a Jewish state. The defendants had distributed these magazines. The publications were legal and could be found in the Library of Congress.

Eventually, the charges of being handmaidens of world communism were dropped against most of the defendants who then had to deal only with technicalities concerning their visas. But the remaining two — Khader Hamide and Michel Shehadeh — were still on the INS's priority list for deportation.

Meanwhile, in 1990, Congress amended the Immigration laws, removing the provisions of the McCarran-Walter Act that forbade immigrants from advocating world communism or other such pernicious political doctrines. They too were to have free speech rights here. Under the new statute, deportation can take place if it is shown that immigrants are "engaging in terrorist activity." Not engaging in spreading ideas, but actually involved in terrorism.

The Justice Department — the ultimate prosecutor in this case — has not allowed the new law to lessen its determination to prove that these two defendants are "terrorists."

Some of the arrests were at dawn, with guns drawn.

Time for last goodbye to old Dixie

The presidential election of Nov. 3 was "the night they put old Dixie down." That may sound like nonsense, given the fact that the winning ticket of Bill Clinton of Arkansas and Al Gore of Tennessee was Southern born and bred. It probably sounds even sillier when put up against the fact that Ross Perot is a Southerner and George Bush sometimes pretended to be one.

But it isn't. Place of origin was all but irrelevant to the way the voters viewed the candidates or the way the candidates campaigned. As Al Gore put it early on the morning of Nov. 4, sectionalism was buried with the Democrats' victory. What he might have added was that the Old South of reality and caricature has been on its last legs for almost two decades.

Viewed only in the terms defined by the vice president-elect, the day is over when questions can or will be raised on regional grounds alone about the fitness or electability of a white Southerner running for president. The implicit veto, lifted with Jimmy Carter's election, has been shattered with this one. Almost equally important, the myth of the solid South, Democratic or Republican, has been discredited as well. The day of political lockstep is over in fact and theory.

Look at it from the perspective of Electoral College math alone. President-elect Clinton, Arkansas, was elected primarily because New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Illinois and California went for him decisively. Clinton and Gore were elected not because of the South, but almost despite it. But though the South gave an Electoral College majority to George Bush, the popular vote outcome was just about a draw from Virginia to Texas.

Compare that to Jimmy Carter's triumph in 1976. His close margin of victory depended heavily on Southern votes. The Georgian was a "Southern" candidate. His triumph was seen as a "Southern" triumph, a breakthrough that redeemed a region shut out of the White House for most of the 110 years since the Civil War.

Actually, there had been others before Carter. Lyndon Johnson from Texas, one of the 11 states of the Old Confederacy, and Woodrow Wilson, the former governor of New Jersey, was Southern-born as well. Both, however, were national figures when they ran for president. Though Johnson was acutely sensitive to real and perceived slights from the Eastern establishment because of his origins and education, his detractors tended to stress his personal rather than his regional defects. Wilson, who never forgot his Southern roots, was better known to the voters as a college professor who had once run Princeton University, also in New Jersey. Only Jimmy Carter was elected as a man whose public persona was inescapably Southern.

Clinton and Gore are not of a piece with Carter, Johnson or Wilson. Proudly Southern and partners on the first all-Southern ticket in national party history, they neither stress nor run from their roots. They wear their Southernness as comfortably as an old pair of jeans. Indefinable as Southerners of familiar stereotype, they are not Bubba, not Sen. Clegborn, not Faulknerian and not redneck racist. Nor are they yuppies, a term that should be retired from the national dialogue.

What they are is among the best of their New South generation and representative of it, which in 1992 means representative of the best of their contemporaries across the nation. Their cohort of white Southern politicians arrived toward the end of the civil rights revolution, benefited from it and helped to consolidate its gains, but were not defined by it, either in support or opposition.

Progressives in a region trying to find its bearings after one of the most far-reaching social revolutions in American history, they are nevertheless not liberals of the old school. Equally clearly, they are not conservatives of whatever variety. Freed from the embrace of a once rigid history, they and their region have rewritten the future as something more than a straight-line extension of its past.

Which is what Al Gore said in a few simple, direct words in the Democrats' hour of triumph. What also needs to be said is that Newt Gingrich of Georgia, the Republican whip in the House of Representatives who survived to goad the Democrats anew, and Melvin Watt of North Carolina, a newly elected black congressman, are also exemplars of this new New South. Gingrich is a no-holds barred conservative, but racism is not included in his political arsenal, and Gingrich's suburban electoral base is the kind of district that will feed Southern Republicanism's future growth. Watt is a trailblazer in multiple ways, but he will arrive in Washington with black counterparts from every Southern state except Arkansas. Vibrantly two-party and politically multiracial, the South is either indistinguishably American or, in matters of race, well ahead of the national curve.

The person who writes these words, a Southerner by birth, heritage and choice, is unabashedly proud of the way his section of the country has evolved.

The presidential election of Nov. 3 was the night they put old Dixie down.

Medicare horrors don't seem to stop

WASHINGTON — Camilla Bourque learned first-hand how macabre the methods of Medicare can be.

Bourque's late husband, Phillip, had always been able to function independently despite the amputation of both his legs. But a bout of congestive heart failure and emphysema made it impossible for him simply to lift himself from a chair and into his prosthetic legs. His doctors suggested a seatlift chair.

His Medicare insurance carrier overruled his physicians — for reasons that raise questions about how rational the rationing of Medicare care is for the nation's elderly. Medicare officials say they furnish such seatlift chairs, but only if the patient suffers from a disease of the legs. As a double amputee, Phillip Bourque, 75, was out of luck.

Gale Swiech is a 42-year-old sufferer of spina bifida, a spinal defect requiring intensive at-home care from her 72-year-old father. Her Medicare carrier refused to pay for the $400-per-month dressing for an infectious wound on Swiech's hip that doctors say is chronic and needs to be redressed twice daily. Her case is under appeal by a local Medicare advocacy group.

"It's like seniors are being put through bureaucratic water torture just to secure their rights under Medicare," Rep. Ron Wyden, D-Ore., told our associate Jan Moller. "It's pretty clear there are enormous holes in the federal government's oversight" into private insurance companies that handle Medicare claims.

Also under fire is the Health Care Financing Administration — the agency that pays the bills for Medicare. As a keystone of President-elect Bill Clinton's domestic agenda, the $117 billion Medicare program, serving the nation's 35 million elderly and disabled, is expected to receive renewed scrutiny. The House Select Committee on Aging plans hearings when Congress reconvenes in January, and has been unearthing a trove of tragic stories.

Some of the hearings will focus on whether the HCFA has been laggard in policing insurance carriers, causing a rash of underpayments and wrongful denials. By failing to punish carriers who wrongfully deny or underpay claims, some believe the indifference has been the way the Bush administration has found "a back door" way to cut Medicare.

"Thousands of our clients call Medicare and get no response," says Diane Archer of the Medicare Beneficiaries Defense Fund. "The program is a never-ending nightmare for beneficiaries and health-care providers. The simplest problem can take a patient's lifetime to correct. As a result, many problems never get resolved."

Examples of needy elderly getting the runaround are at near epidemic levels, according to Medicare activists, and are far from the exception. Some other cases dug up during the Aging Committee probe also show how mindless the Medicare maze can be.

When a 66-year-old California woman was diagnosed with Cardio-Pulmonary Obstructive Disease, her physician prescribed an electric machine that distributes medication through a breathing device, which retails for a mere $119. The Medicare carrier, however, would not pay for the purchase of the machine. Instead it told the patient to rent the machine for $43.86 a month. Given that this patient has had the breathing device for 37 months, Medicare has doled out more than $1,215.82 instead of the $119.

In other words, Medicare could have paid for 10 machines.

As a double amputee, Phillip Bourque, 75, was out of luck.

of the Seminole County ACES chapter agrees with the assessment. "We have a lot of problems," said Gerry Reynolds, Seminole County ACES coordinator. "Paperwork is not processed in a timely manner. Sometimes files are lost. When that happens, the person has to start all over again and fill out a lot of paperwork."

When there's no place left to turn, HRS is the last hope many single parents have of collecting child support payments from "deadbeat dads" or "deadbeat moms," said Reynolds.

"Most people go to HRS because they can't afford an attorney," said Reynolds.

Reynolds said she was divorced two years ago and she was awarded custody of four children, now at ages 4, 6, 7, and 12. Her ex-husband used to earn about $70,000 a year at a local auto dealership, but made infrequent payments on her $1,600 a month support. As a result, Reynolds said the man now owes her about $30,000.

The man has since begun another job and has declared a much lower salary, Reynolds said.

Reynolds said HRS paperwork processing is slow. After an estranged parent becomes delinquent, it may take the agency three to four months to turn the matter over to an attorney to handle. If the delinquent person lives out of state, it may take a year or more, she said.

Also, Reynolds said under the present system, the attorney represents HRS before a hearing officer, not the parent seeking payment.

"You can't even talk to 'em in a hearing," said Reynolds. "You have to talk to your case worker and they pass something on if they want to."

Reynolds had critical words about court clerks, who if ordered, collect payments and send them on to the recipient. Reynolds said the clerk's paperwork process if confusing and sometimes doesn't reflect the amount owed by the deadbeat parent.

Maryanne Morse, clerk of Seminole County courts, said that what they're required to do under state laws. A judgement of arrearages serves to establish a delinquent amount, regardless of future delinquent payments, she said. As a result, one amount on one document may not accurately show the amount owed to date, she said.

"That's what I said when I first saw this laborious process," said Morse. "Why don't we just do it all on one sheet? But it's got to be kept separate under law. We can't do anything about that."

Morse said a $5.25 fee is collected from each child support payment which will be used to plan a statewide support payment computer network in an effort to track delinquent supporters.

Reynolds said she hopes the ACES "award" will force HRS to toughen their enforcement of deadbeats. "Child support doesn't get the attention it should in the state of Florida," said Reynolds.

The Seminole County chapter of ACES will meet tonight at the Central Library Branch, 315 N. Oxford Road, behind Builder's Square, in Caseberry. The meeting, which opens to the public, begins at 7 p.m.

approximately $400,000. The project actually had $515,000 for the total expense. "The rest of the money will be used for architectural and other expenses," Clarke explained.

Money for the enlargement included $100,000 from the City of Sanford, $130,000 from the Seminole County Tourist Development Council, $25,000 from the Sanford Historical Society, and $240,000 from the estate of S.O. Chase, Jr.

Clarke described the construction. "The new history museum will surround the present city museum at 530 E. First Street, and will include a lobby, meeting room with kitchen, offices, and collections storage," she said.

Exhibit areas will include the Chase Gallery of Sanford history, a temporary exhibit gallery, and the Henry Shelton Sanford Memorial Library and Museum with its collections related to the life and times of the city's namesake.

"The focal point of the Mediterranean Revival facade," she said, "will be four columns with caryatid capitals, in recognition of Sanford's years as 'Caryatid Capital of the World.'"

"Upon entering the front door," Clarke continued, "visitors will come immediately upon a spacious lobby designed around the Neo-classic facade of the Henry Shelton Sanford Memorial Library and Museum."

In addition to the construction project, the city parks staff is designing new landscaping for the Fort Mellon Park area, which will include an educational garden with native plants and an historic tree grove.

The architectural design was completed by Burke, Miles & Mills and Associates of Winter Park. Construction will be handled by M.A. Connor Construction Co. of Orlando.

"During construction, the museum staff will be operating from the Recreation and Parks Department at the Sanford City Hall, and will continue to be available to assist with research."

Lake Mary

IN BRIEF

Cooking for the holidays

"Easy and Elegant Holiday Entertainment," is the theme of the cooking demonstration to be featured at the Heathrow Women's Club membership luncheon meeting Nov. 9, according to Dr. Dorothy Purdy, program chairwoman.

The meeting will take place at Doro's International Restaurant, 951 Greenwood Blvd.

Members and guests will enjoy their choice of four luncheon entrees and a dessert.

A post luncheon demonstration of easy and elegantly prepared foods will start at 12:15 p.m., and will include ideas for holiday entertaining. The luncheon fee is $11.

Chamber plans 'Blue Moon Ball'

The Greater Lake Mary/Heathrow Chamber of Commerce will present the "Blue Moon Ball: A formal commitment to education..." on Saturday, Nov. 14, at the Sheraton Orlando North from 7 p.m. to midnight.

The chamber has taken a step forward to support the education of eight schools within the area by hosting this event, a formal dinner dance featuring the Orlando Society Orchestra with the Big Band Sound.

The event is $60 per person with corporate tables available for 10 at $600. Black tie optional.

CALENDAR

Camera club monthly meetings

The Seminole Lake Mary Camera Club's next meeting is scheduled for Wednesday, Nov. 11.

Peter Schrujer, head of photography at Creadle School of Art, will present a program of "Documentary and Historical Preservation." Schrujer has held one man exhibits in Europe and the U.S.

One of his numerous grants from the government to help promote learning included "Migrant Life in Black and White," a photoessay.

The club meets the second Wednesday every month in Old Lake Mary City Hall, 158 N. Country Club Rd. at 7:30 p.m. For more information, call Grace at 321-4723 or Dick at 332-7649.

Club takes the lead

L.E.A.D.S. to Success, a newly formed club to share business connections, will meet 7:30 a.m. Wednesday at Pebble Creek Apartments clubhouse, 780 Creekwater Terrace, Lake Mary. One of the focal points of the meeting is to exchange business cards. Only one member of a particular type of business or profession is allowed to join.

For more information, contact Marcia Kurtze 646-0609.

Rotary meets early

Rotary Club of Lake Mary meets Thursday mornings, 8 to 9 a.m. at the Timaeuan Country Club, on Rinehart Road. Contact Paul Osborne, president, at 321-4764.

Sunbelt Daylily Club meets the first Sunday of the month at 2 p.m. through April at the Old City Hall, Highway 15A near Lake Mary Boulevard, Lake Mary.

The club educates members on daylily growing through slide shows, guest speakers and trips to daylily gardens. A May flower show and plant sale is planned. There are no club dues.

Call 886-3196 for more information.

Let us know what's going on

The Sanford Herald welcomes announcements about social activities and club news for publication in the Lake Mary pages each Monday. There is no charge.

1. All items should be typed or written legibly and include the name of a person who can be contacted and a daytime phone number.

2. The deadline is 11 a.m. Thursday before publication.

Fantasy Night becomes a reality

LAKE MARY HEATHROW

SARABECA ROSIER

On Friday, Oct. 23, the Greater Lake Mary/Heathrow Chamber of Commerce presented its second annual Fantasy Night, at Timaeuan Country Club. From 7 p.m. until 8:45 p.m. they held their silent auction and wine tasting.

The auction with Tom Sackett, auctioneer, ran from approximately 8:45 to 9:15 p.m. And from 9:30 until 11:30 p.m., the late night buffet and entertainment was provided by "The Secret Agent Band."

The club was packed and everyone seemed to be enjoying the event to the fullest.

Special thanks go to Timaeuan Golf and Country Club, Bell South Mobility, United Telephone, Christo's, Galleria, Shells, Too-Jays, Orient IV, Candlelight Liquors, AAA, Barnett Bank, Arlbe International, Gio's Interiors, Mr Print, Safeguard Business Systems and Select Properties.

Also, Siegel's Clothing, The Eyes Have It Optical, The Pace Group, United Chambers Insurance, Tom Sackett and the Sheriff's Departments.

And a big thanks to Ginger Black, chairperson of events; Steve Tauzer, co-chairman of events; Carol Bryant, Diane Parker, Lynn Hanson, Paul Rice, Ginny Coombs, Bill Blackburn, Judy Rankin, Lori Bein and their committees, and "all those businesses for their donations." A lot of hard work went into this event and it showed.

Street of Dreams

From 7-8 p.m. cocktails and hors d'oeuvres were served to the guests of the Street of Dreams Night at Alauqua.

People helped themselves to succulent and tasty morsels in abundance such as Gator meatloaf at the table of Caterer Tom Williams, as well as items from the Gold Lion, The Outback and Amigos restaurants, and others. There were large, fresh and delicious peeled shrimp with sauce and caviar, lobster salad and much, much more. Other areas along the Street of Dreams had Lakeridge Wines of Clermont, wonderful coffee from the Sweetwater Coffee Company and the local Paradise Cafe of Altamonte Springs on State Road 434.

The Street of Dreams event is produced by Street of Dreams, Inc., a privately held company headquartered in Woodville, Wash. Each of the shows attracts thousands of visitors and have become popular annual housing events.

Eight homes were on display by the following builders: J.C. Brown Development Company; South Grominger Homes; Dave Brewer Homes, Inc.; Jones-Clayton Construction; R.J. Thomas Construction Inc.; Jackson Watson Homes; Maroon Development, Inc. and Stein & Davis, Inc. The homes ranged in size from 4,646 to 6,000 square footage. The prices ranged from $824,000 to $950,000.

The "Street of Dreams" will be open to the public for a nominal admission fee. Call 444-0150 for times, dates and further information.

Students and parents enjoy themselves during School Lunch Week.

Parents lunch with children

Oct. 19-23 was National School Lunch Week and parents were invited to join their child or children for lunch. In some cases a schedule for each grade and daily menu were sent home in advance, along with specific lunch times for classes. If parents were unable to attend on the designated day, they were invited to attend on any other day they found convenient. This involved kindergarten through fifth grade.

LOCALLY

Girls basketball at SHS

SANFORD — Seminole High School's Bill Fleming Memorial Gymnasium will be the site for Seminole Athletic Conference Girls' Basketball Jamboree tomorrow night.

Admission is $2 per person, with press and participating schools' faculty admitted free. Oviedo and Lake Brantley will kick off the action at 6:30 p.m., followed by Oviedo-Lake Howell at 6:55 p.m., Lyman-Lake Howell at 7:20 p.m., Lyman-Lake Mary at 7:45 p.m., Seminole-Lake Mary at 8:10 p.m. and Seminole-Lake Brantley at 8:35 p.m.

Seminole will also be the site of the Lady 'Noles Invitational Tournament next week, Nov. 17-20 and the 21st. Entered is SHS, Mainland, Tavares, Spruce Creek, Lake Brantley, Lake Howell and New Smyrna Beach. Jones was coached but pulled out last week, so Tribe head coach John McNamara is looking for a team to fill the spot.

Local Martial Artists sparkle

ORLANDO — Seminole High School graduates Larry Eason and Anthony Haddock of Menefee's Martial Arts Academy both found success in a pair of karate events this past weekend.

Eason, 25, won the Adult Heavyweight division on points in the FAME Florida State Championships at the Omni Hotel. FAME is the state governing body for martial arts. It was his second win in as many outings on the circuit.

Haddock, 26, won his first full-contact fight by a unanimous decision in the Light-Middleweight division (155 pounds) at the Knockout Karate Central Florida Challenge at the Quality Inn, hosted by ISKA (a governing body of full-contact fighting in Florida).

AROUND THE STATE

Vikings crush Bucs

TAMPA — The Vikings defense didn't get its first shutout, but it did get its two touchdowns.

Carlos Jenkins returned a fumble 22 yards for a touchdown and Chris Doleman returned an interception 27 yards for a score as the Vikings' defense scored twice for the second week in a row in Minnesota's 35-7 win over Tampa Bay.

Roger Craig scored on runs of 1 and 5 yards and Anthony Carter slipped through a crack in Tampa Bay's defense on a 10-yard TD run before Minnesota lost its shutout.

The victory was the sixth in the last seven games for first-place Minnesota (7-2), which completed a sweep of the season series between the NFC Central Division rivals. The Bucs (3-6) have lost five straight after getting off to their best start in 12 years.

AROUND THE NATION

Dolphins pitch shutout

INDIANAPOLIS — The Miami Dolphins, surprised at home by Indianapolis two weeks earlier, used a pair of touchdown passes by Dan Marino and short TD runs by Mark Higgs and Tony Paige to beat the Colts 28-0 Sunday.

It was the Colts' second straight shutout loss since their 31-20 victory at Miami, and it snapped the Dolphins' two game losing streak.

Higgs rushed for 107 yards; Marino hit 22 of 28 passes for 245 yards, including touchdowns to Keith Jackson and Fred Banks in the first half as the Dolphins (7-2) took a 21-0 lead.

The Colts (4-5) crossed midfield only once in the first half and reached the Miami 30 early in the second quarter when Rohn Stark faked a punt and passed 17 yards to Mike Prior. Two plays later, a pass by Jeff George was intercepted by Vestee Jackson, and Indianapolis did not get another first down before halftime.

Nemecek wins Busch title

HICKORY, N.C. — Joe Nemecek survived a wild race Sunday at Hickory Motor Speedway and emerged with the NASCAR Busch Grand National Series championship in the closest finish in series history.

Nemecek spun twice during The Pantry 300, but wrestled his battered Chevrolet to a sixth-place finish, enough to gain a three-point championship over Bobby Labonte.

Labonte, trying to win his second straight title, did everything possible, dominating to lead 234 of the race's 300 laps and winning. However, Nemecek's sixth-place finish was enough under the series point system to clinch.

"Bobby did everything he could do, which was win the race," said Nemecek, of Lakeland, who will win over $100,000 for the title. "I think we deserved it," said the 29-year-old Nemecek. "We bent everything on the race car."

Labonte drove his Chevrolet to a 2.1 second win over Butch Miller in an Oldsmobile. Todd Bodine finished third in a Chevrolet, with pole-sitter Jim Bown fourth in a Buick and Mark Martin fifth in a Ford.

Coach of the Year

Florida Diamond Club honors Seminole's Powers

From Staff Reports

DUNEDIN — Back in 1983, Seminole High School baseball coach Mike Powers had the opportunity to attend the Florida Diamond Club's annual banquet when it was held at Orlando's Court of Flags.

"I had dinner with Davey Johnson and his wife," said Powers. "This is the year before he went off to be the manager of the New York Mets. I remember thinking to myself, 'This is great. I hope I get a chance to attend one of their banquets again in the future.'"

Little did he know.

On Saturday night at the 1992 Florida Diamond Club banquet in Dunedin, Powers was honored as the organization's High School Coach of the Year.

"It was a pretty nice honor, especially when I was picked over the other guys who won state championships," said Powers, who led Seminole to the Class 3A state title. "And one those guys coached a team (Class 1A state champion Miami Westminster) that was ranked No. 1 in the nation (by USA Today)."

"It's a pretty big honor when you're up there with those guys."

The mission of the Florida Diamond Club, which is based in Tampa, is to promote baseball in Florida by "advancing education through the perpetuation of baseball as the national pastime."

To be eligible to be honored by the Florida Diamond Club, which recognizes the accomplishments of players, coaches, administrators, umpires and scouts, an individual must play, coach or live in Florida or be from Florida.

On the Major League level, San Diego Padre third baseman Gary Sheffield was selected the FDC's Player of the Year while Cito Gaston of the Toronto Blue Jays was the Manager of the Year. Tim Wakefield of the Pittsburgh Pirates was the organization's Rookie of the Year.

Ormond Beach's Harry Wendelstadt received the Barney Deary Award, which goes to the Major League Umpire of the Year. Jim Marshall of the New York Mets was selected as the Major League Scout of the Year.

Minor league award winners were Chipper Jones and Mike Piazza (co-players of the year), Sam Miltelle (pitcher of the year), John Pritchard (short season pitcher of the year), John Damon (short season player of the year) and Marc Hill (manager of the year).

Collegiate coaches of the year were Miami's Ron Frazier (Division I), Lelo Prado of defending national champion University of Tampa (Division II), North Florida's Dusty Rhodes (NAIA) and Bing Tyrus of Polk Community College (Junior college).

The Florida Diamond Club's Amateur Player of the Year was pitcher Joe Depastino of Class 4A state champion Sarasota-Riverview High School.

Baptists overtake Catholics

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — Championships are sometimes won on character as much as talent.

Saturday in Sanford Church Softball League Fall Season action at Chase Park, Sanford Central Baptist fell behind Sanford All Souls Catholic 5-1 in the first inning and still trailed 6-5 going into the seventh.

But the Baptist's refused to panic and back-to-back triples by Doug Luce and Mike McCoy started a six-run inning as they bested the Catholics 11-6 to remain a 1/2-game out of first place in the Fellowship Division.

In the only other game played at Chase, Sanford First United Methodist held onto its lead in the Fellowship Division by clubbing

Raiders soar on balance, defense

By DEAN SMITH
 Herald Sports Writer

SANFORD — It's been a week of firsts for new Seminole Community College men's basketball coach Bernard Merthie.

Last Tuesday he coached his first college game, got his first college coaching win and beat his first ranked team.

Friday night he got his first tournament coaching win and saw his team go over the century mark for the first time as the Raiders crushed Patrick Air Force Base 110-62 in the first round of the Raider Tournament.

And Saturday night at the SCC Health and Physical Education Center Merthie got his first tournament championship as the Raiders were impressive in stopping No. 12 state ranked Brevard Community College, 97-85.

SCC, now 3-0 on the season, will continue a streak of tough games as it takes on three more ranked teams this week. Tuesday night, the Raiders travel to Fort Pierce for a game with the No. 10-ranked Indian River Pioneers. Friday night they go to Fort Lauderdale for a game with No. 11 Broward and Saturday night, they return home for 7:30 p.m. contest with No. 5 Manatee.

SCC continued to show tremendous team balance as all 14 players played in both games with all 14 scoring and rebounding Friday night and 13 of the 14 either scoring □ See SCC, Page 2B

Owners finally gather to decide fate of Giants

By RONALD BLUM
 AP Sports Writer

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. — In a city where baseball begins each spring, the Giants will find out if they have a new start in San Francisco or a new home in St. Petersburg.

Baseball owners began two days of meetings Monday in this sun-drenched desert valley, and they intend to decide whether Bob Lurie sells the Giants to Florida group for $115 million or a San Francisco group for $100 million.

While the outcome of most baseball meetings is known going in, this one was somewhat different. The executive council and the ownership committee are to meet Monday in Scottsdale, where the Giants train each spring, and all owners are to convene Tuesday in a special major league meeting.

"I've never seen a situation quite like this one," deputy commissioner Steve Greenberg said going into the weekend. "I've never, since my time in baseball, seen a situation where there were two offers to consider."

A group headed by Vincent J. Natmoll announced Aug. 7 that it had agreed in principle to a $115 million purchase from Lurie, and intended to move the team to the Florida Suncoast Dome. Lurie said he wouldn't consider other proposals until a vote on the Florida deal, but National League president Bill White decided he would receive a Bay area offer and pass it along to owners for consideration.

A group headed by Safeway Inc. chairman Peter Magowan last month offered $100 million. But it didn't include a definitive proposal to replace windy Candlestick Park. The Los Angeles Dodgers and San Diego Padres are thought to oppose a move, as are the Pittsburgh Pirates. That has led to speculation that a consensus is forming to keep the Giants in California, their home since leaving New York after the 1957 season.

Dodgers owner Peter O'Malley indicated over the weekend that he thought the Giants had enough support from baseball to stay in San Francisco.

Either deal needs 10 of 13 votes in the NL (Lurie won't be allowed to vote) and eight of 14 in the American League.

Bud Selig, owner of the Milwaukee Brewers and head of baseball's executive council, said it hadn't been decided by Sunday whether a recommendation would be made during Monday's meeting.

"The council will have to talk about that and decide," Selig said.

Green winter grass

Ryegrass can provide a dense and attractive lawn

Permanent lawngresses like Bahia and St. Augustine go dormant in the late fall and winter, depending on the weather. These grasses grow very slowly in the cooler months and with the first frost, turn completely brown. Homeowners who want a green lawn this winter should consider overseeding with ryegrass.

Common ryegrass goes by many names including Italian, Oregon, imported, domestic, native and annual rye. Ryegrass is adapted to many soil types and growing conditions and does well in either sun or shade. If seeded heavily and mowed closely, ryegrass can provide a very dense and attractive lawn throughout the winter. Since ryegrass is an annual, it will die out in late spring or early summer depending on the temperature. By the time it dies out, the permanent lawn grass should be actively growing with good green color for the rest of the growing season. Ryegrass is temporary and will need to be reseeded again next winter when the permanent grass goes dormant.

Establishing winter ryegrass is a fairly simple procedure. It is best to wait until the permanent grass is approaching or has reached its dormant period. Seeding time varies from October to December, but usually late November works well in our area.

GARDENING

The permanent lawn should be mowed very close (the ONLY time a close mowing height is recommended) and raked to remove as much of the debris as possible. Broadcast 5 to 15 pounds of fresh, weed-free ryegrass seed per 1,000 square feet of surface and rake slightly to put the seed in contact with the soil. If available, buy fungicide-treated seed. A fertilizer spreader works well to spread the seed. For a more uniform stand of ryegrass, apply the seed in one direction and then at a right angle to the first application. It is not necessary, but if it is possible, top-dress with one-eighth inch of soil to cover the seed.

The trick to establishing ryegrass is proper watering. The developing seed must be kept moist, but not soaking wet for proper germination and growth of seedlings. This may mean frequent, light watering several times a day especially during mid-day. (With water restrictions still in place, check with the St. John's Water Management District before you seed). Water should be applied just to keep seedlings moist. Continue to water frequently until the grass is established (about 3 weeks or the first mow).

Begin to mow when the grass is one to two inches tall. Ryegrass is a fast grower, so maintain this height by weekly mowing throughout the winter. Water when necessary and fertilize frequently to maintain green color. Use a 16-4-8 or a 6-6-8 or similar fertilizer monthly at 1 to 2 pounds per 100 square feet. For more information about growing winter ryegrass, give me a call or drop by the Cooperative Extension Service at the Agriculture Center and ask for Fact Sheet OH-14.

Bram Towers Arts and Crafts Festival

Bram Towers held its annual Arts and Crafts Festival recently. A variety of colorful crafts was on display from small teddy bears to quilts, afghans and fancy needlework. The 2-day event attracted a large crowd of supporters with many having lunch. In the left photo, Ruth Hamilton, 94, shows the oil painting that won her a blue ribbon beside an exhibit of crafts. In right photo,

Modern-day Santa seeks helpers

DEAR ABBY: A few years ago, I bumped into an old friend in a supermarket around holiday time. "What are you doing for Christmas this year?" I asked. He replied, "Every year, the wife and I take the money we would have spent on each other and we give a needy family a Christmas tree, a Christmas dinner with all the trimmings, toys for the kids, and gifts for the entire family."

"Last year, our family had nine children, and it was the first Christmas they had a tree."

I thought it was a great idea and asked if I could help. He then proceeded to help me by finding another family that was down on their luck.

Over the years, this has become my ritual. Many people get depressed around the holidays. I never am, and when people ask me what I want for Christmas, I say, "I'd like for some underprivileged family to have a good Christmas...do you want to help?"

ADVICE

I'm telling this story because all it took was a small seed planted in me to bring happiness to others. There are a lot of people who slip through the cracks, children who don't receive toys from Toys for Tots, children whose names aren't hanging on a Christmas tree in a mall somewhere. I find these people through my church.

You can't believe the warm feeling you get when you walk into a home on Christmas Eve and know that had you not put forth the effort, that family would have had nothing. To me, that's what the Christmas spirit is all about.

Abby, please help me plant some more seeds.

ANONYMOUS IN AUSTIN
DEAR ANONYMOUS: Thank you for a terrific suggestion to pass along to those who have the resources and desire to prove that the spirit of Christmas is still alive and flourishing.

DEAR ABBY: How do you get to know a lovely new daughter-in-law? She is very quiet. She never initiates a conversation, and only answers "yes" or "no."

NEW MOTHER-IN-LAW

DEAR MOTHER-IN-LAW:

She is probably very shy and somewhat intimidated, so it's up to you to initiate a conversation. And when you do, don't ask questions that can be answered with "yes" or "no."

Invite her over to your place, and ask if she wants to go shopping with you — for groceries, clothes or whatever. The more time you spend together, the better acquainted you will be in due time. You don't say whether she has parents in town; if she hasn't, do whatever you can to acquaint her with her new surroundings. Just make her feel accepted and a welcome addition to your family.

DEAR ABBY: My husband never misses your column. He gets the paper first, and you are the first thing he reads. He just loves it when you apologize for making a mistake. He says, "It takes a big person to admit when they were wrong — you should try it sometime, honey."

He really like your column on hugging. He took your advice and started to hug me. He is 6 foot 3 and weighs 260 pounds. I am 5 foot 4 and weigh 115 pounds. He got so carried away with the hugging business, he broke three of my ribs. I am still taped up.

HURTING IN CHEYENNE

DEAR ABBY: I am sick and tired of people who ask, "How much do you pay for that dress (or those shoes — or that purse)?" You would be doing me, and a lot of other people, an enormous favor if you would come with a snappy comeback that would put those nosy people in their place. In other words, is there an acceptable way of saying, "It's none of your business?"

HAD IT IN NASHVILLE

DEAR HAD IT: The best response to a question that you don't care to answer is to counter the impertinent question with another question. Example: "Why do you want to know?"

A reader wrote: "I once had a nosy person ask me, 'How much are your car payments?' I replied, 'Why? Are you offering to make the next payment?' That shut her up in a hurry."

This rule is essentially a glitch rule, in that it corrects technical and clerical errors, and addresses questions raised by the Joint Administrative Procedures Committee. A new section is added which contains fifteen general limiting conditions for permits. These conditions have been used on every permit application issued by the District. The conditions are merely being shifted from the permit application, adopted by reference, into the rule itself. There is no change in the effect on applicants. Specific rule sections amended or adopted are:

49C-42.021, 49C-42.022, 49C-42.023, 49C-42.024, 49C-42.025, 49C-42.026, 49C-42.027, 49C-42.028, 49C-42.029, 49C-42.030, 49C-42.031, 49C-42.032, 49C-42.033, 49C-42.034, 49C-42.035, 49C-42.036, Seek treatment if phobia is severe

DEAR DR. GOTT: I recently read an article in a magazine about social phobia. Can you discuss this and indicate what can be done about it?

DEAR READER: A phobia is an exaggerated fear of something that is ordinarily harmless. People can exhibit phobias to an astounding array of objects and situations, ranging from animals and public places to social situations. Social phobias indicate a persistent fear of situations that expose a person to social scrutiny, such as speaking in public, or apprehension in social interactions.

In general, mild phobias can be disregarded if the unreasonable fear doesn't disrupt one's life. For instance, many of us have slight phobias about flying in airplanes; however, despite our discomfort, we put up with the fear and continue to fly.

In contrast, severe and incapacitating phobias almost always require treatment by professionals. Psychiatrists, psychologists and counselors will frequently assist people in coping with (or overcoming) their phobias. In addition, phenelzine (Nardil), an antidepressant, has been shown to be effective in relieving social phobias. The medicine is available by prescription only.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I suffer from allergies and occasionally have severe attacks. I generally take an over-the-counter antihistamine/decongestant such as Tylenol Cold Medicine, since a less potent substance such as Sudafed doesn't have any effect. My concern is that I am seven months pregnant and am hesitant about ingesting medication. Do I have any alternative?

DEAR READER: Although at this stage of pregnancy your baby has developed completely -- and will merely gain weight until he is born -- you are correct to be

When you are playing a bridge hand, it is pleasing to force an opponent to give you a trick you cannot get by yourself. This, of course, is the essence of an endplay.

Take today's deal, for example. You arrive in six spades. West leads the diamond queen. You win with the ace and lay down the spade ace, East discarding a low diamond. How should you continue?

South opened with a strong, artificial and forcing two clubs. North's two diamonds was a "waiting" response, which is made with either a really bad hand or one with some high cards but no good suit to bid. Three clubs was the so-called double negative, denying any worthwhile values. At this point, South, who was a few dollars down, decided to try to end the evening on a winning note: He took a shot at six spades.

Once the spade king fails to drop, it looks as though you need to find East with the club king. You can get into dummy on the third round of spades, overtaking your three with dummy's five. However, as you see in the diagram, the club finesse loses one down.

Yet the contract is guaranteed. Before you give West the lead with the spade king, you must ensure that he has no safe exit. At trick three, cash the heart ace. Then, take your remaining top diamond. Finally, play a high spade to West's king.

What can West lead now? A heart sets up a winner in the dummy. A diamond concedes a ruff-and-discard. And a club is into your A-Q tenace. Whichever he chooses, you lose no club trick and close out the rubber with a vulnerable slam. (C)1992, NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.

YOUR BIRTHDAY
Nov. 10, 1992

Strive to be better equipped in your chosen field of endeavor than those you'll be competing with in the year ahead. Your key to success will be predicated upon preparation and planning.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) This might not be a good day for you and your mate to make a joint decision regarding an important issue. There's a chance neither of you will exercise the best possible judgment. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Use your common sense today regarding health matters. If there is something you know you shouldn't be eating, drinking or doing, use self-discipline to avoid it.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Be very careful today that you're not caught in the middle of a situation where a friend is using you as a pawn in political maneuvers.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Be on guard where your career is concerned today. There is a possibility a crafty associate might try to take credit for something you recently accomplished.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You might encounter someone today who loves to play one-upmanship games. Don't let this individual catch you in the web, because you could come out second-best.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Manage your resources with extreme care today, especially if someone else is involved in a situation that, by them doing something which might backfire, could cost you personally.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) If most people you're involved with today disagree with your way of doing things, it's time to review your procedures. You might be afflicted with a case of unproductive tunnel vision.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

This is one of those days when others might try to palm their responsibilities off on you. Be cooperative and do your part, but don't be a doormat.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If you get involved in a competitive sport or activity today, you might be tempted to try to make it more exciting by betting on the outcome. This could be an unwise move.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Instead of taking the line of least resistance today, you might be inclined to do things the hard way. Life is tough enough without adding self-imposed penalties.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) In an important exchange of information today, both you and the party you're talking to might be so interested in personal thoughts that you won't listen to one another.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) If someone offers you a business proposal today, don't act on it impulsively, regardless of how good it sounds. This deal could be better for the other guy than it is for you.
