MOHAMMED VI QUILTS JOB ABOUT ELEVEN THIS MORN ACCORDING TO RUSSIANS

WHO SEEM TO BE IN DIRECT CONNECTION WITH HEADS OF TURKISH AFFAIRS— GREAT BRITAIN AND FRANCE AGREE TURKS SHALL NOT OCCUPY THRACE

LONDON, Oct. 7.—A report that Sultan Mohammed VI of Turkey, abdicated at 10:55 this morning was received early this afternoon by the Russian delegation here in a wireless dispatch from Moscow. There was no confirmation of report, but Moscow is believed to be in close communication with Constantinople.

PARIS, Oct. 7.—Great Britain and France, represented by Foreign Secretary Curzon and Premier Poincare have agreed in principle that the troops of the Turkish Nationals shall be allowed to occupy Thrace only after conclusion of peace treaty.

PARIS, Oct. 7.—Viscount Curzon, the British Foreign Secretary following another conference this morning with Premier Poincare, told the Associated Press that he and Poincare had agreed in principle on the new instructions to be sent allied delegates at Mudania.

MUDANIA, Oct. 7.—Sessions of conference here were resumed at 10 o'clock this morning. Owing to the lateness of the afternoon the British instructions from home to formal session was not last evening, but Allied general conferred late into the night.

LONDON, Oct. 7.—Ten thousand Greek troops have been concentrated in Thessaly district, Eastern Thrace, which is under the control of the French cavalry, says a Central News dispatch from Constantinople. Greek officers reported to have distributed arms to some of population of Thrace, telling them to repulse the Turks.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 7.—The Kemalists, in an ultimatum to the Allies yesterday, demanded the occupation of Thrace by 20,000 troops yesterday afternoon, but later extended the time limit to 10 o'clock yesterday evening. Ismet Pasha, the Turkish Nationalist representative in Mudania, definitely rejected yesterday afternoon the allied proposal for the occupation of Thrace by the 100,000 allied troops. He also declined the establishment of allied control commissions in Thrace. The Turkish demand was for immediate occupation of Thrace without foreign control. Italy has ordered General Monibelli, its representative at the Mudania conference to support the Turkish claims.

PARIS, Oct. 7.—M. Poincare, the French premier, last night refused to accept the proposal of Premier Poincare that the Allies should dispatch Greek troops to occupy Thrace.

LONDON, Oct. 7.—Dispatches received last night give an even graver aspect to the Near Eastern situation than that earlier in the day. The Kemalists are insisting on the right to the occupation of Eastern Thrace, and have given the allies a final ultimatum last evening. The Allies refused to accept the proposal for the occupation of Thrace by 20,000 allied troops, and apparently the Kemalists are standing by the proposal.

The situation seems now to depend on the British cabinet reply to the report of the French General Harrington, who is expected to be anxiously awaited in Constantinople. It is expected that Harrington would ask of the Turkish extension of the time limit for the occupation of Thrace until the end of the month. In the meantime, General Harrington had conferred with the other allied representatives back to Mudania in the hope of settling the conference.

The French ambassador, M. Franklin-Bouillon, who accompanied the French delegates to Mudania, is interpreted in official circles here as a bad sign, as he is regarded as supporting the views of Mustapha Kemal Pasha, the Turkish Nationalist leader, although it is not known definitely whether the French government actually is backing him in his attitude.

In the meantime, the British are assembling strong forces, both naval and military, in the Chanak region of Asiatic Turkey. A confirmed report reached London yesterday that Leon Trotsky, the Russian minister, had reached Yalta, in the Crimea, supposedly on his way to Angora.

BLOOD AND SAND AT PRINCESS WELL ADVERTISED

O. P. Herndon manager of the Princess Theatre believes in advertising and when he gets a big picture he goes after publicity in the right way and that right way is through the newspapers. Yesterday and today he has Blood and Sand at the Princess and he had printed and distributed through the Daily Herald a four page illustrated edition telling all about the big picture and giving half tone pictures of all the principals and the scenes. This was one of the biggest advertising schemes put on by a motion picture house anywhere and shows that Mr. Herndon believes in advertising, that advertising pays and that he intends not only to get the best pictures but he intends to let the public know when he has these pictures. The pictures and the advertising cost money but the Princess will have them. Rudolph Valentino is in the principal role in this picture at the Princess tonight.

D. Stark and Fred Thomas, of the Thomas National Detective Agency, of Tampa and Will White, one of Thomas' men.

(By The Associated Press) LONDON, Oct. 7.—A sensation has been caused from Andrew Bonar Law, upholding the British government's attitude in the Near Eastern crisis, which has given conspicuous publicity in all London newspapers. Prominent in all circles is held to be equivalent to direct threat of withdrawal of British troops from the Rhine, a move which would come into line with the British policy in the Near East.

In this issue is an editorial on the re-apportionment amendment by the Kissimmee Gazette. It is good and the Herald wants the readers of this paper to read the article carefully. We must make up our minds about these amendments this month and we should get together and find out what is best for South Florida in this matter.

Secretary Donald Cheney has an article in the Bay section in this issue in which he calls attention to the fact that the various counties in the district have been lax on their property tax returns and the great work will have to stop unless the money is forthcoming. Just another plea for the budget system and the 'war' and the property tax the Herald has been talking about for years.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE GROWS

The Sanford Chamber of Commerce is growing every day—growing in numbers, growing in power, growing in its capacity for doing things. The meeting last night at the Hotel Valdez which was the first of a series of night meetings proved to be popular with a large part of the members who have been unable to attend the Friday noonday meetings. It shows that the members are greatly interested in the work of the Chamber of Commerce and they want to attend the meetings but they cannot leave their business at noon. They can leave at night and want to gather around the board and discuss the vital necessities of this city and county. The meeting last night was a purely business meeting. There were no speakers present from a distance. There were no speeches. There were merely reports of the chairman of the committees and good talks from many present who were asked to express themselves about the important questions of the day.

BIRDS FLY SOUTH

Jack Frost is beginning to get in his work up north in Canada. Birds fly south. These migratory birds are a mystery of science. How do they know when to start their journey and how to find their way? Bird migration is a very old habit, an instinct which was developed long ago, and which manifests itself year after year in a uniform manner and without any remarkable degree of irregularity or immediate condensation.

One scientific explanation is that the Great Ice Age when glaciers moved down from the north, drove birds south. When the ice slowly retreated, the birds flew back to their old homes in warm summer, but returned to the ice homes in winter.

They travel in a sort of V formation, one side longer than the other like a broken washboard. Shoot the leader and the formation closes up the next bird in line taking the fallen leader's place.

PROTECT THE FISH AND GAME

The Seminole County Fish and Game Protective Association has done a great work in protecting the fish and game in this county. There is much work to do in the future in passing better laws for fish and game protection and ones that will absolutely prevent any more poisoning or any more hunting for a long period of years. The entire state is becoming aroused to this necessity and the next meeting of the state association will be held at Lakeland upon which the Lakeland Star-Telegram comments as follows: 'The famous Rube Allen, one of the most noted Florida editors, has been in Lakeland since the first of the week making arrangements for an adjourned meeting of the Florida Game and Fish Protective League' in this city next Tuesday, October 10, the session to be held in the Elks' grill, commencing at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. To the Chamber of Commerce has fallen the pleasant duty of planning for some special entertainment, the details of which are to be announced later. This much should be said thus far in advance, that this organization is one of great importance to the state. Its objects should appeal to every man, woman and child because it seeks the perpetuation of animal and marine life, useful to man. It would have the great state of Florida assume control of the fishing industry both in the coastal and the inland waters. Florida's streams should be teeming with game fish of all kinds while the multitude of lakes should yield a supply of food that would insure ample and to spare for all our people at reasonable prices.

Read this and be amazed at what California has accomplished for her people.

'Working without salary for half a century, the various men, who have succeeded each other on the California State Board of Fish and Game Commission, appointed by the governor with the approval of the state senate, and serving at the pleasure of the governor, have established 22 fish hatcheries to maintain forever the supply of fresh and salt water food and game fishes. How many fish have been planted in the streams, lakes, bays and bayous of California it is impossible to estimate even approximately, but from these planted fish in 1920, $19,202,318 was received for canned and packed fish alone, while the value of the fish consumed in its fresh state is placed by the statisticians of the state government at more than $6,000,000 more. This total is approximately four times the total sum spent by the commission on the development of the state's fisheries, since it was established, with an appropriation of $5,000 fifty years ago.

Since that first year, the commission has been self-supporting and in 1920, the year for which figures are now available it handled $160,000, every cent of which went for the further advancement of the fishing industry and the greater development of the fish supply of the state.

California if ever has any state government developed for its people an industry which can be compared to practical returns to this, and it is estimated that, with the work of the fish hatcheries now going on and the careful supervision now being given the commercial side of the industry next year's figures will show that the 1921 catch was even more valuable than that of 1920.

We started this commission fifty years ago, with an appropriation of $5,000 today the income of the commission is more than $160,000 annually. We have 22 hatcheries and many stations, and these are being enlarged constantly to meet the ever increasing demands of the sportsmen who love lake and river fishing and the 'hot' crowd. To do this we have kept constantly ahead of the automobile with the pack mule, to insure the anglers plenty of game and trout fish in every stream and lake in the state.

AMENDMENTS TO THE STATE CONSTITUTION

Before the voters at the general election in November will be presented for consideration four amendments to the state constitution. Three of these are pertinent to the entire state—while the fourth concerns, directly, but two counties—Duval and Hillsboro; consequently as regards the appointment of circuit judges the general public will have but little interest. If it shall be actually requisite in those two circuits that added judges be needed for the prompt administration of the law the amendment should carry; yet little has been said regarding that change in the constitution by the press throughout the state.

By every possible means the amendment pertaining to increasing the millage which each school district may assess for itself should pass by a unanimous vote. If the amendment to the constitution regarding this matter can be fully understood by the voters there is little doubt that it will be carried—but there are those who labor under the delusion that to favor the measure means that there will be an increase to ten mills throughout the entire state. To the contrary it is only in isolated cases where anywhere near that increase will be made—and then only for the special school district where it is found necessary to have more than the specified three mills for school purposes. If this amendment carries, as it should, the special districts which have been handicapped by lack of resources and have found it impossible to pay competent teachers for the desired length of term will have the privilege to increase the millage for that purpose to the amount deemed necessary to carry on the work. It may be made four or five mills, or even more, at the option of the voters in that special district—but in no case can it exceed ten mills. Whatever may be the figure selected the millage will have no effect upon other districts. Briefly stated, the carrying of the amendment means that each school district may fix its own millage for the carrying on of the schools; and the people in any district should have that right.

The proposed amendment to section three of article fourteen is simple. Little need be said in its favor because nothing can be brought out against it. It merely provides that salaries of state and county officers shall be paid monthly, when so desired by the incumbent; and every working man, no matter what may be his vocation or occupation, should realize that monthly settlements are far in advance of the plan now in use. There should be no fight against such an amendment—as all will recognize the justness of the measure.

The measure known as the 'Reapportionment Amendment' is one which has been most discussed throughout the state—with the result that the number opposing it increases day by day. One of the pet terms for the measure is 'Passing the Buck Amendment.' It is merely an effort to feel the pulse of the people regarding a measure that has existed since the adoption of the present constitution and has been perpetuated by every legislature for many decades. It is asking for the amendment of a law which has been flagrantly violated by every session of the legislature for many decades. It is asking for the amendment of a law which has been flagrantly violated by every session of the legislature for many decades. It is asking for the amendment of a law which has been flagrantly violated by every session of the legislature for many decades.

Notwithstanding this possible outcome the amendment should be solidly defeated at the coming election. Doubtless it will be. Occasionally throughout the state can be found some ill-informed enthusiast who will be a member of the 1923 legislature laboring with an audience to advance the theory that unless the amendment shall carry there will be no reapportionment and those speakers may be correct. There has been no reapportionment for these many years a fact indicative that the majority of legislators have broken their oaths when they swore to uphold the constitution of the state. There is nothing to show that such men would obey the mandates of the people any quicker than they would obey the Florida constitution. If the majority of the legislators had not proved recreant to their oath Florida would have had, decades ago, a proper reapportionment; and each successive ten years there would have been other legislation to keep up with the many new counties that have been formed.

NOTE TO KILL THE REAPPORTIONMENT AT THE POLLS IN NOVEMBER. THEN VOTE IN AFTER YEARS TO RETIRE IN ALL TIME TO COME THOSE MEMBERS WHO REFUSE TO PARTICIPATE IN A REAPPORTIONMENT THAT WILL BE AS JUST AND AS EQUITABLE AS IT IS POSSIBLE TO FORMULATE. Kissimmee Gazette.
