President Signs Bill For Military Construction Jobs

President Eisenhower this morning signed the appropriation bill for military construction.

The bill includes the nearly 7-million dollars for expansion at the Sanford Naval Air Station.

Captain Robert W. Jackson, commanding officer of the local Navy Station, this morning said "I am delighted to know that the present program at the Sanford Naval Air Station is being assisted by this larger appropriation."

There are 18 Florida Navy expansion programs for which appropriations were made and 11 Air Force appropriations for expansion in Florida.

Only two of the 29 programs drew larger appropriations than the local Naval Air Station.

Captain Jackson, when hearing of the Presidential approval of the appropriation, said that $32,000 had just been received for additional improvements at the NAS. However, this amount is separate from the nearly $7-million in funds.

"This year," Captain Jackson reported, "The Sanford Naval Air Station has been allotted over $1-million for operating expenses. This, he said, is the first time operation amounts have gone over the one-million dollar mark."

COTTON BOWL COMES OF AGE

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—The Cotton Bowl will come of age on Jan. 1, 1957. That will be the 21st birthday for the New Year's Day Football classic sponsored annually in Dallas by the Southwest Conference.

MOTHER PLAYS STEADY GOLF

DENVER (AP)—After Mrs. Emmett Heitler, former Colorado women's golf champion, won the Denver Metropolitan Invitation this year, she told a reporter: "I'm the mother of five children, that's why I'm such a steady player. Nothing bothers me."

Two Bills Hold Key To Close

TALLAHASSEE (AP)—Two controversial bills today held the key to whether the Legislature will adjourn its special session in mid-week or stay on for the legal limit of 30 days.

One would set up a committee to investigate the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) and other organizations, and the other would provide for local option on setting up a private school system to preserve racial segregation.

Both bills came up before the House Rules Committee at 11 a. m. this morning. Should they win clearance there, they will go before the Special Segregation Committee which set a hearing for 3 p. m.

If the rules committee should reject them as being outside the scope of Gov. Collins' special session call, a hot floor fight likely will result on the proposition of getting the two-thirds vote necessary for consideration.

The investigation bill cleared the Senate with only one dissenting vote and was sent to the rules committee by House Speaker Ted David.

It would set up an interim committee of three senators and four House members with subpoena power and a $50,000 appropriation to investigate any organization or persons whose activities are inimical to the interest of the state or violate state law or could lead to violence. The NAACP is not mentioned by name, but Sen. Dewey Johnson of Quincy, one of the introducers, said he knew of no other group it would fit.

Some House members said, however, that the language of the bill appeared to be too broad and might open the way for a "witch hunt."

The private school bill packs the punch that might create a controversy. Education forces are prepared to wage a real fight to prevent doing away with the public school system.

Rep. Premias P. Pratt of Monticello has proposed an emergency amendment to set up a local option plan for a private school system in areas threatened with integration.

The Special Segregation Committee is slated to consider proposals for an interposition resolution and prohibiting state, county and city officers from taking part in boycotts.

The House and Senate Judiciary committees will hold a joint public hearing today on an administration bill designed to prevent out of state mail order buyers of real estate from being billed by false advertising.

The bill provides stiff penalties ranging up to five years in prison and $100,000 fine for false and misleading advertising by real estate promoters.

The governor's five-phase segregation program is in shape for final Senate action and except for the real estate and 60-mile highway speed limit bills, his emergency program either has cleared the Legislature or needs only routine action to go through.

The speed limit law drew strong opposition and the administration may abandon it.

So far no segregation proposal outside the program drawn up by the Fabianaki committee has cleared the Legislature. Collins said members of the Fabianaki committee feel that additional action might "weaken the legal efficacy of the program they have recommended" since the courts might construe the program as a whole in determining constitutionality.

The House goes into session at 1 p. m. and the Senate will reconvene three hours later.

Chiefs Club To Launch Big Membership Drive

Officers were elected and by-laws adopted at the first meeting of the Seminole Chiefs Club, an organization of citizens which will create interest and promote enthusiasm for local high school athletic programs.

John Schirard was named president of the newly formed club with Thomas Stringer elected to the post of vice-president and John Keeling as secretary-treasurer.

George Touhy, who exceed the proceedings during the organization meeting, pointed out that the important citizens group was one that would include the heading up of a city-wide membership drive.

Primarily to promote and encourage interest and enthusiasm in the Seminole High School athletic program which would include football, basketball and baseball as well as the other athletic ventures of the school, the by-laws adopted at Friday night's meeting stated the objects of the club shall be "to aid and encourage competitive interscholastic athletics at Seminole High School; and through properly supervised athletic sports develop the sportsmanship, honesty and integrity, as well as the physical well being of Seminole High School students."

Dues for membership in the organization were set at five dollars per year. However, first dues were a plan whereby members would have paid a higher membership fee for individuals and families in which they would receive admission to the various sports activities of the school.

The latter plan was not adopted. The Executive Committee of the Seminole Chiefs Club will be composed of the officers of the organization, the Seminole High School Principal, and the Seminole High School Athletic Director.

It was pointed out at Friday night's meeting which was held in the commissioners room of the Sanford City Hall, that frequent meetings of the organization would be held in order to boost enthusiasm in high school sports.

Memberships in the organization began to pour in to the secretary-treasurer following the adjournment of the meeting at 10 o'clock.

Both the president and the secretary-treasurer were immediately installed in their office and took over the business of the evening. Schirard said "I will call another meeting in the immediate future so that a membership drive can be conducted as quickly as possible."

Athletic Director Fred Ganas told the meeting of high school sports enthusiasm that receipts from sports activities at Seminole High School last year came to approximately $7,500. However, he said that the School Board budgeted nothing for athletics at the school in the way of travel, equipment and other expenses involved in athletic competition. "We're about $700 in the hole," he said.

Principal Andy Brecken of Seminole High School explained that "in order to operate the high school program we need about $10,000. In the past we've received approximately $9,500 and paid out more."

Attending Friday night's initial meeting of the Seminole Chiefs Club were: John Krider, Floyd Palmer, Mr. and Mrs. Fred McMurray, Fred Ganas, George Touhy, Fred Murray, M. L. Roberts Jr., M. R. Strickland, Briley Odham, John Kader, B. L. Perkins Jr., Mr. and Mrs. John Schirard, Dr. John Morgan, Dr. A. W. Epps Jr., Dr. John W. Epps, Andy Brecken, Bill Brumley, T. V. Motte, Henry Jamason, Lee Adams, Joel Field, John Keeling, Floyd Cooper, W. W. Tyre and Bill Fleming.

Oviedo Pool Site Part Of Well-Known Resident's Estate

By MARIAN JONES
OVIEDO — The Oviedo Swimming Pool, known as Sweetwater Park, is a part of the Theodore L. Meade estate and was given to the town to be used as a park.

Mr. and Mrs. Meade lived many years in a home not too far from the site of the pool. Mr. Meade was famous as an archivist and collector, including the one that bloomed at midnight only, many times. His lovely collection of china and many other antiques he proudly showed to his friends who called.

Mrs. Meade was dead when I came to Oviedo 26 years ago, but Mr. Meade was a grand old man. He was Boy Scout leader for many years and many of his Scouts now are living in Oviedo and some in Orlando or Sanford.

Meade Gardens in Orlando is named for this lover of flowers. He is also buried in Orlando where we attended his funeral. I can also remember when we had a birthday party at our house for our mother, in the form of a kid party. Mr. Meade, up in years then, came and played drop the handkerchief, etc. as spy as anyone.

About 30 years ago it was decided to try to put a swimming pool at this location. Bob King and Bette Jones were on the committee to raise funds, which subsequently meant Bob's wife, Mae and I were on that committee. Mae and I walked the leather off a good pair of shoes raising that money, but the results have been well worth the effort we put out.

Three-Car Collision Blocks 17-92 Traffic

Traffic on Highway 17-92 south of Sanford from 26th to 27th Streets was blocked this morning for three-quarters of an hour as wreckage from a three-car collision was cleared.

The accident, which occurred at 11:18 a. m. just south of Today's Restaurant at 27th St., involved three automobiles, one traveling north and two traveling south.

The driver of a 1950 Packard convertible, Glenn Morris, 31-year-old Negro of 1119 Locust Ave., is reported to have told bystanders that "I blacked out and don't know what happened."

The Negro received a severe gash just above his left eye. However, he said that he was not thrown from his car.

Morris, according to the driver of the first car that was hit, headed for his car while he was attempting a left turn and had come to a complete standstill near the intersection of 17-92 and 27th St.

C. F. Holloway, driving a 1950 Ford, was the first car that the Packard convertible smashed into. Holloway, of 1308 Locust Ave., said that he was not badly hurt even though he was on crutches from a previous unrelated accident.

The impact from the crash threw Holloway's car in to an oncoming 1956 Chevrolet Station Wagon being driven by Edward H. Schiefel of Daisy, Tenn. Schiefel said "I was traveling not more than 20 miles per hour, if that, when the collision occurred."

Chauffeur's Driving License Act Is Cleared In Ruling

The Attorney General's office has issued a ruling to clarify the 1955 legislative act defining who is required to have a chauffeur's driving license.

Under provisions of the law, the Attorney General said that any person who drives a motor vehicle in excess of 8,000 pounds gross weight must have a chauffeur's license whether he does or does not own the vehicle.

The law applies to private chauffeurs, instructors of driving schools, ambulance, school bus or wrecker drivers even though the operator is not specifically hired to drive but driving a vehicle is part of his duty.

The law exempts an owner who transports produce to market whether he grows the commodity or buys it from others for resale, the Attorney General said.

The GOLDEN WITCH

By ZOLA ROSS

CHAPTER FOURTEEN
 "WATTLIN," Meg Beaumont said irritably, "reminds me of my former boss 'Snowflake' McCloud. He was a real character. We hear of everything from wars to epidemics."
 "That, yes," Meg was contemptuous. "But everything waits. Ships and cargo and matters wait for me to get to the way and you wait. Every body waits for the war that will or won't come. Some folks stow about whether or not the streets will be suggested. Wars stopped because people are using the city. I say 'we're all in this.' The muscles tightened along her jaw. "I'm waiting too. We're all—oh, call it 'wait-and-see'."
 Throughout December Michael acknowledged the woman's far-seeing. The street grading was halted by law suits, with no construction at present. The rain leaked the town with child monotony; war talk was lively in every bar and was even mentioned twice on the radio. Michael listened to men who wanted "no war," "no war," "no war," like Barclay Linden who wanted the country to "mind his own business."
 "We'd do better to feed our own starving citizens in Dawson. There's nothing as a hundred dollars a barrel and there's little to be had at any price."
 Jason listened, increased his efforts to get more flour, shipped some to Skagway and Fort Wrangel. Desperation might bring the humans over passes or sea to obtain flour. Barclay Linden had new orders in Wrangel and Skagway, was planning a spring invasion of Dawson. Certainly he now owned three Seattle hotels, at least two of those hotels in the Yonderland. Michael, without proof, believed Barclay Linden was his brother.
 Beatrice Chinsom called on Meg but did not mention a tea. Michael heard from Charlotte that Beatrice did not feel a milliner was exactly the kind of woman for whom you gave a tea. Prompted, however, by a vague obligation to Randall Davidson's position, Beatrice did invite Meg to be her guest at a local performance at Seattle. Michael, amused, agreed to escort Meg, who slightly taken aback to find that Barclay Linden was to be out of town and that Ryerson was invited to the party. For Charlotte's convenience? The suggestion bothered Michael more than he cared to admit.
 Meg's appearance on the night of the entertainment surprised him. Accustomed to her plain skirts and waists, he hardly knew her in blue velvet. Jenny, Matilda and Gretchen made up a cheering section. "You look so different. I hardly know you, Meg," Jenny sighed.
 Meg flipped the creamy lace that fitted about her throat. Her long gold earrings bounced against her cheek. Gold threads across her breast and sleeves accentuated the rounded softness of her bosom.
 "This finery is mean vanity," she admitted. "The old maid at a Beatrice Chinsom hasn't written Father I look like a goose girl!"
 Michael laughed and felt more comfortable about Meg. She wasn't always the conquering businesswoman; tonight she was purely feminine.
 He gauged the success of her clothes later when Charlotte's eyes narrowed and she gave Meg the thoughtful appraisal she seldom donated another woman. Charlotte herself was striking in a green gown lined with red satin and trimmed with silver lace. Michael suspected he could evaluate women's clothes better than most men in town. Charlotte had educated him early.
 When the play was over, the Chinsoms entertained their guests at the Denby Hotel. Meg was enchanted with it. The two-block trolley trip up the steep hill was an old story to the other members of the party, but Meg had never taken it.
 "It looks like a medieval castle," she declared, when they were out the trolley, up the steps and crossing the wide veranda. The word "Denby" worked out on the terrace lawn called forth other exclamations.
 Charlotte looked bored but the men liked Meg's open enthusiasm. Even James Chinsom was a bit cool to his wife's remarks about the superiority of Boston hotels.
 "I hope Seattle never regresses this," Meg exclaimed when they made the return trip on the trolley.
 "But the grading would be good for business," Charlotte was sweet. "You'd like that, Mrs. Beaumont."
 "Naturally," Meg raised her eyebrows. Michael was certain she recognized Charlotte's thrust as an attempt to route her to the leader-man's entrance. "And so I'll your husband." Meg's glance drifted casually across Ryerson, as if she had momentarily forgotten that Charlotte's husband was not present. Seeing Charlotte flash angrily, Michael could barely restrain a chuckle.
 He and she separated in the Cox hall.
 "Good evening, Meg," she slipped out her gloves, her face serene. "My father knew what he was doing."
 "Your father?"
 "Certainly. He put Mrs. Chinsom up to this. He is always subtle. He hoped I'd like Mrs. Chinsom's world as well I'd come back to Illinois."
 Michael heard the bitter note in her voice, wondered if Randall Davidson had guessed correctly.
 "And are you going?" He knew from his own experience that seeing through an opponent didn't promise victory. Hadn't this been true with Charlotte and him for years?
 "I am not going!" Her lip curled.
 "Mrs. Chinsom asked me to be a tea next week. I refused. She won't ask me again." She turned and hurried up the stairs.
 Michael looked after her thoughtfully. He had a notion that Meg's clarity of vision wasn't particularly comfortable to possess.
 He was not really surprised when Charlotte appeared in his office the next afternoon. He was alone, for Ellen had gone to the bank at his regular time—a time, he reminded himself, that Charlotte knew well.
 Charlotte greeted him with a smile, disposed herself graciously in the most comfortable chair and looked about her. "Still not catering to luxury, Michael? Pose or principle?"
 "Perhaps a flat wallet," he eyed her warily. She was after something.
 Her lips parted. "Barclay says you could make a fortune if you liked."
 "What do I want with money?" Her eyes flashed, reminding him that his lack of money had cost him another week. Michael. Have tea with me tomorrow?"
 "No."
 "About four o'clock, Michael." Her confidence was a smiling cap. He wondered why she pursued him. It amounted to that—didn't it?—although he had illusions that she wanted him permanently. All women possessed vanity, a need for conquest. In Charlotte it was a fever, a fever that never burned out her greater desire for money and position.
 "Charlotte," Michael said abruptly, "that's all of it. It's all."
 "Why, Michael," she said. "The door is always open."

Rhee Says U. N. Troops In Korea Need New Weapons

SEOUL (U.S.)—President Syngman Rhee says the U.N. troops in Korea need new and modern weapons.
 Such weapons are banned to both sides by terms of the three-year-old Korean armistice, but the U.N. Command has seized the Communists of bringing hundreds of jet warplanes and other new weapons into North Korea.
 "I might say that the Republic of Korea is not the only country concerned with favoring correcting the imbalance resulting from violations of the armistice," Rhee said during an hour-long visit at his hilltop mansion, which is still draped with camouflage nets put up in the war.
 He did not indicate whether he feels U.N. troops should have atomic weapons. South Korean military spokesmen have charged that the Red armies have atomic cannon and possibly other nuclear weapons.
 Rhee apparently referred to modern tanks and other ground weapons plus aircraft far more deadly than those in service here. Many weapons used by the U.N. forces here are so obsolete American troop replacements must be retrained with equipment no longer available in the United States.
 There has been speculation that the U.N. Command would demand revision of the armistice to permit modernization of U. N. Command firepower.
 "It is true that friendly countries which have modern weapons are discussing reducing their armed forces," Rhee said, "but some of them are also discussing admitting Red China, an aggressor, into the United Nations. And peaceful coexistence is submission."

 "We must be sure no realignment of military strength is interpreted as a belief that the danger to the free world has lessened."

Group Should Be Formed To Push Suggestion Of New Airport Site

There is more interest in a suggested plan to move the Orlando Airport from its present location to a point half-way between Sanford and Orlando than appears on the surface.

However, to make such a plan feasible and workable, those who are aware of the many advantages for the change in location should make their thoughts known so that a concentrated effort could be made in an effort to improve the transportation situation into Central Florida.

We understand that there is a tract of land available for an airport of size necessary to serve the needs of Central Florida and to bring modern transportation facilities within the reach of a greater population using air travel for their quick contact with the nation. With the unprecedented demand for property within Seminole County and at the rate of growth now being felt in the Seminole County area, those seeing the need for expansion of the air travel services should soon make some move to acquire these suitable lands.

It is said, and we hope that such growth of air services is actually in progress, that there are as many as seven airlines which could, if space for landing strips could be made available, use this more central location.

Imagination could run rampant, perhaps, if one would stop to add up the number of people, the amount of air freight, and the additional services that would be provided if this planned move could be brought to a final conclusion.

Certainly, we realize that it would take tremendous amount of money, and unprecedented amount of cooperation, and a meeting of minds to successfully bring to realization the moving of the airport that should rightfully serve more and more people as well as hundreds of additional business organizations.

There are, without a doubt, some Orlando and Orange County citizens who would and do favor such a move of the airport facilities so that the larger facility could serve not only Orlando better, but in addition, serve other communities as well.

Labor Peace Packs One-Two Punch

BY SAN DAWSON

NEW YORK (U)—Labor Peace in the steel industry will pack a one-range inflationary promise of a two punch. The first will be a wage-price hike in basic steel. The second will be a surge to the rising tide of the settlement. And it will be a surge to the rising tide of the settlement.

Some view the steel strike as a bitter but corrective pill that contained that each $1 of added cost of steel would be paid by the consumer. As the furnaces have to pay out another $1 to their suppliers for materials and services, the steel distribution pipelines are filled again.

Others look beyond this immediate shot in the arm to the long-range inflationary promise of a wage-price hike in basic steel. During the strike steel prices went up by $5 or $6 a ton in steel. Steel scrap prices jumped $6 a ton. Steel spokesmen have long contended that each $1 of added cost of steel would be paid by the consumer. As the furnaces have to pay out another $1 to their suppliers for materials and services, the steel distribution pipelines are filled again.

Manufacturers and builders faced with higher steel prices, will seek to raise their own prices whenever they can, depending on how much competition they face. If price hiking spreads, increasing the demand for credit and exciting speculation, the Washington money managers are expected to move in and tighten the money supply as a deterrent.

Price hiking at the retail level comes considerably later. Some of the recent price hikes on consumer goods trace their lineage to long past increases in material and labor costs. Assessing the extent of the damage from the strike to the steel companies themselves is complicated by divergent views as to how much business they would have done this summer without for their products.

Interesting Tips From Mail

BY HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (U)—Some things a columnist might never know if he didn't read this mail:

That a non-fattening ice cream cone has been patented.

That during the Middle Ages the tears of a male deer were highly valued as a medicine. Deer were available for rent—but how did they make them cry?

That automatic vending machines are now on the market which will serve a complete meal from soup to nuts.

That 18 million separate calculations are required to make an accurate nationwide weather forecast for 24 hours.

That the Irish and British get more dental decay than the Italians, but an Italian is more likely to develop pyorrhea.

That if all the fluorescent lamps made in America in the last 18 years were wired together they would form a continuous chain of lights that would encircle the earth seven times and extend to the moon and back. This seems like a marvelous idea. Why hasn't it been done?

That in one out of twenty American families who paint their own homes the job is done entirely by the wife—and she uses 25 per cent more paint than is really necessary.

That in Nepal, where women are considered inferior, a wife's meal often consists only of the scraps her husband leaves on his plate.

That in Sweden, which has the highest percentage of car ownership in Europe, every 11th person has an automobile. But in the United States there is more than one vehicle for every three persons.

That although the Soviet Union is three times the size of the United States it has only a fourth more arable land.

That portable bars aren't new. In Turkey during the 17th Century bartenders strolled the streets dispensing liquor from containers made from the entrails of sheep.

That a poll by the Catholic Digest showed 99 per cent of American Negroes favor integration, 4 per cent want the races kept apart 4 per cent expressed no opinion. The same poll showed 74 per cent of Southern whites and 23 per cent of Northern whites opposed to integration.

That conversation in the American home is getting to be more and more strictly for the birds.

That Alexander the Great could go two or three nights without sleep, then sleep 16 hours in a stretch. But if you, too, pride yourself on your ability to do without sleep you might remember one thing—Alexander died at 32.

That singer Frankie Laine advises, "Fun is like insurance. The older you get, the more it costs."

Arrow Hits Republicans Instead

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (U)—That arrow which Harold Stassen aimed at Vice President Nixon went around the corner, circled the block, and came back to hit Republicans in their most sensitive spot: President Eisenhower's health.

Not that Stassen dwelt on Eisenhower's physical condition. He didn't. Nor did the other Republicans who blasted him for urging replacement of Nixon. They play the health subject down. It's the Democrats who make an issue of it.

But Stassen helped them make an issue of it since he focused attention in a sensational way on this problem every voter must face.

If Eisenhower should die, then in voting for his running mate I am choosing a president.

All this was implicit, but unstated, in Stassen's nudge to Nixon to step aside because, he said, an Eisenhower-Nixon ticket would be 6 per cent weaker than a ticket with Eisenhower and Christian A. Herter of Massachusetts.

Since Eisenhower's health is a matter for consideration, here are some questions and answers about the presidency and vice presidency:

1. What happens if Eisenhower should die between the time he's renominated in the Republican August convention and the election day, next Nov. 6?

The Republican National Committee could call another convention. If it had time if not, it could name another presidential candidate or shove the vice presidential candidate into the No. 1 spot and pick another man for vice president.

2. What happens if Eisenhower wins the election Nov. 6 but dies before the Electoral College meets Dec. 17 to cast its ballots formally naming him as the man to take office as president on inauguration day, next Jan. 20?

Nothing like this has ever happened. There's no certain answer. On election day you vote for a state of party electors in each state, not directly for president or vice president.

The winning party's electors on Dec. 17 cast their ballots for the party's presidential and vice presidential candidates. This has become a formality. But there's a catch here. They are not compelled to vote for their party's candidates.

Under the Constitution they are legally free to vote for whom they please, even for a man who was not a candidate at all.

If Eisenhower died between Nov. 6 and Dec. 17 the Republican National Committee would probably ask the Republican electors—if the Republicans won—to elect the vice presidential candidate as president.

Then the committee could designate someone else for vice president and ask the electors to vote for him too. But under the Constitution the electors would be free to suit themselves.

3. What happens if Eisenhower, having won the Nov. 6 election and the Electoral College vote Dec. 17 dies after the latter date but before the Jan. 20 inaugural day for the new president?

The Constitution's 20th Amendment provides that the vice president, approved by the Electoral College, would then automatically take office as the President Jan. 20.

4. What happens if Eisenhower, after winning the election and taking office in January, becomes so disabled he cannot carry out his duties?

More generating power than Israel needs," he said.

Atomic Power May Be Key To Peace

NEW YORK (U)—A Florida engineering college dean said Wednesday development of atomic power in Israel might be a key to world peace.

Dana Joseph Weil of the college of engineering at the University of Florida, Gainesville, expressed this view upon returning from a three-month tour abroad.

He said atomic power could be used in Israel for processing food and changing salt water into fresh water, thus removing some of the contentious issues between Israel and its Arab neighbors.

Weil said the phosphate in the Negev district contains as much uranium as that found in Florida.

"If this could be used effectively, there would be many times presidential duties?

That's a question. Although Congress has been urged for years to clear up this question, it never has.

When a president is too disabled to carry out his duties, the Constitution says the vice president shall run the country.

But the Constitution isn't clear on who decides when the president is so disabled that the vice president must take over.

There is no question, of course, about what happens if the president dies in office. The vice president becomes president.

Officers Wives Club Stages Morning Coffee For Newcomers

The Officers Wives Club of the S.W.S. held a coffee in the form of a friendly get-together at Jim Spencer's Restaurant on French Ave. Thursday morning.

Arrangements of flowers consisting of small rosebuds, fern and white gladioli by the Driftwood circle of the Garden Club which is a Navy Circle were placed on various tables and benches throughout the private dining room.

Overlaid with a linen cloth, the main table bore a similar arrangement and held two large silver candelabra bearing burning white tapers.

Coffee, tea and fancy cakes were served to the newcomers and guests with Mrs. R. B. Hadden and Mrs. H. E. Lynch pouring.

This coffee was the first activity for the month of July and a shipwreck party is planned for August.

Spotlight On Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD—Still another offspring of a famous star has made the leap into the big time. This time it's James MacArthur, adopted son of Helen Hayes.

Jim, 17 years old and soon to enter Harvard, joins many others in the second or more generation performers club. Among them: Tony Perkins son of Osgood, Pat Wayne John's sprout, John Barrymore Jr., Elizabeth Montgomery daughter of Robert, Robert Dix Richard's son, etc.

Young Jim has rugged good looks, a curly crew cut, a nose that may have seen some battering on the football field and a medium but solid build. Unlike some performers his age, he's a good talker. But that's only natural. His father was the brilliant Charles MacArthur.

Jim's first real role has proven a big step toward prominence as an actor. Previously he had done only a few small parts in summer stock. His only appearance with his mother was on a radio show several years ago.

"Then I got acquainted with Fern Mantilla, who was producing a 'Producer' showcase show my mother was on," Jim recalled. "He was doing a drama called 'Strike a Blow' on TV and asked me to read for it. I didn't get the part."

"Later he went to Hollywood and asked me if I'd like to try out for the part again. It was a free trip to California, so I decided why not?"

He won the role that time. He made a big enough impression so that he was signed to repeat the role in the film version for RKO. It's now called "The Young Stranger," and he co-stars with Kim Hunter and James Daley.

But this doesn't mean that his film career will blow blossoms. "I'm going to college first," said Jim, who will enroll as a freshman at Harvard in September. "I'll finish school before I decide about an acting career. I'd have to finish or my mother would blow a fuse."

Try This One

USING BLUEBERRIES
Next time you bake blueberry muffins, try adding a teaspoon of grated lemon rind to the batter. Or after you have spooned the blueberry muffin batter into the wells of the baking pan, sprinkle it with a tablespoon of sugar mixed with a teaspoon of grated lemon rind.
Want a wonderful Sunday breakfast? Serve blueberry griddle cakes with maple syrup and crisp strips of bacon, pan-fried ham or golden sausage links.
A blueberry sauce will add allure to old-fashioned cottage pudding, vanilla pudding or custard, paper-thin French pancakes or French toast. Serve any of these combinations for dessert.

Baking an open-face blueberry pie. Use the scraps of pastry left from the crust for pretty decoration. Roll out the pastry leavings and then cut out in leaf shape using a cardboard pattern. Put the pastry leaves on a small baking sheet and bake them at the same time as the pie, removing them from the oven when they are golden brown. Arrange the pastry leaves over the pie just before serving. Vanilla ice cream sets well with this pie!

Quick and easy: beat heavy cream until stiff, a little sugar and vanilla to taste, fold in a generous amount of blueberries. Spoon into sherbet glasses and top with macaroon crumbs.
Roll out rich biscuit dough and spread with soft butter. Sprinkle the dough with sweetened blueberries and roll up jelly-roll fashion. Bake, cut into slices and serve warm with cream.
Fill cream puffs with a custard filling into which you have folded blueberries.
Good luncheon salad: fresh pineapple, bananas and blueberries. Serve with crisp greens and cottage cheese.

Casting Business Important Talent

NEW YORK—Have you ever noticed how well cast television dramas are? Brothers so often seem to bear resemblances. Aristocratic old dames seem to have come straight to the studio from Park Avenue. Drunks surely came up from the Bowery.

Quite apart from the great acting talent involved, there is a lesser known but most important talent in the business of casting. The major dramatic shows and all the networks have casting directors, gentlemen who combine phenomenal memory and prodigious patience with a flair for negotiating.

Take Martin Begley, casting director for NBC, a veteran of 33 years in show business. Here's a pleasant fellow who has spent so many hours munching peanuts while watching all the TV dramas on the air that he's had to go on a diet. He also attends all Broadway shows.

When a show's script is set there's a huddle of producer, director and casting director. Each may have different ideas on who should be cast. They iron out their differences, then the casting director obtains the actors and actresses. While Begley's memory for names and talent is enormous, he reinforces it with a careful index filing system.

Among other memory aids Begley possesses a big looseleaf book containing the names of and important statistics concerning 10,000 actors and actresses. They are indexed under fascinating categories. Here are only a few: tall men, tall women, artist-poet types, old blowers, aristocratic old dames, animal imitators, gossip women, fast talkers, drunks, girls for color programs, ditz dames, butlers, baby criers. . . On and on.

Begley recalls being stork for talent only once—though only briefly. Martha Raye wanted a man at least seven feet tall for one of her programs. The only seven-foot actor in Begley's book was employed elsewhere. So Begley got an amateur—a seven-foot college basketball player.

Every year thousands of hopeful youngsters from all sections of the country come to New York and knock on NBC's door for acting jobs. The most talented are given auditions. And the most talented in auditions are filed for possible future roles. But these hopeful youngsters worry Begley.

Future Roles

"For every one who succeeds," he says, "thousands are knocking themselves out against a stone wall. Naturally we need and always shall need new talent. But does a good high school baseball player try to sign up with the Yankees? He needs seasoning. So

Do young would-be actors

future would be actors. My advice would be to get training—in summer stock or anywhere possible. If you have talent it's bound to be recognized eventually."

Try and Stop Me
By BENNETT CERF

A DETROIT Athletic Club member reports that while motor racing home from Florida, he was held up by traffic in a tiny Southern town long enough to see a slight misunderstanding between the driver of an ancient jalopy and the constable. The driver essayed a U-turn on the narrow, already congested main street. The constable hollered "Stop! You can't do that!" The driver yelled, "I think I can." He did, too. The constable was speechless.

Little Kathy had no way of knowing, of course, that the mongrel pup who followed her home on day was a female. She loved the dog so that her parents couldn't find it in their hearts to call the S.P.C.A. Kathy had her moment of triumph some weeks later when she came home from school and found her dog being pursued playfully by every male mutt in the neighborhood. "How do you like that, Mom?" she inquired proudly. "Our dog is just a natural-born leader."

Gobel Is Working Hot Movie Stage

HOLLYWOOD — Lonesome George Gobel just doesn't have time to get lonesome any more. The "Lonesome" tag is a hold-over from George's days as a hill-billy singer on radio. He still hangs onto it for sentimental reasons, but it hasn't applied to his own life for the past two years.

Right now, when most TV stars are in other parts of the world getting refreshed for the fall channel wars, George is working over a hot movie stage. He is making for RKO "I Married a Woman." He also sacrificed his summer vacation last year to make "The Birds and the Bees."

George had a whole week between the end of his TV season and the start of the movie. So how did he spend it? By playing a night club date at Lake Tahoe. Reservations for the entire engagement were sold out before he even arrived there.

An able told George he would have all of three weeks between the end of the picture and the start of the new TV season. "Don't you believe it," the comedian replied skeptically. "Something will come up. Of that you can be sure."

Strangely enough, he didn't seem too upset by it. Usually he is moaning and groaning about the time he has lost off the golf course, but he confessed, "I like making pictures. I get a big kick out of it."

He added that he was enjoying his work with his co-star, England's most famous body since the Rolls Royce—Diana Dors. And not for the reason you wisecrack think, either. "This girl is a really fine performer," George enthused. "She's going to fool a lot of people by proving she is a good comedienne."

Commission Approves City Manager's Capital Improvement Program

Perkins Is Named As Head Of DCT Advisory Group

Representatives of Sanford Civic Clubs formed the advisory committee of the Diversified Cooperative Training program last night at its initial meeting in the board room of the Educational Building Commercial Ave.

Representatives from the Business and Professional Women's Club, Pilot Club, Rotary Club, Kiwanis Club, Lions Club, and the Sanford Merchants Association heard the complete outline of the DCT program at Seminole High School which will be instituted this year.

B. L. Perkins Jr., President of the Sanford Merchants Association was named chairman of the Advisory Committee.

Rayburn T. Milwee, Seminole County Superintendent of Public Instruction introduced the Coordinator of the DCT program, Louis J. Girard, and gave the civic club representatives an outline of the essential values to the community, school, and individuals of the Diversified Cooperative Training program.

Girard presented a description of the Advisory Committee, its operation, purpose and values while, at the same time, giving a background picture of the entire program which will begin operation at Seminole High School at the beginning of the school year.

Highlighting the meeting was a report of the coordinator as he gave an overall picture of all that had been accomplished up to date. The forming of the Advisory Committee rounded out the organizational part of the program and gave impetus to the selection of employers and trainees who will take part in the first and initial program for Seminole County and Sanford.

Also on the advisory committee for the DCT program will be a representative of the Seminole County Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce. R. F. Cooper will represent the Board of Trustees of the Seminole County School system.

Andy Bracken, principal of Seminole High School, immediately prior to a question and answer period at last night's organizational meeting of the DCT Advisory Committee gave representatives the "school's viewpoint" on the DCT program.

Fred Murray, Adult and Vocational Education Director for Seminole County invited the representatives to the office of the coordinator.

The next meeting of the DCT Advisory Committee will be held after the first of the year for the purpose of a coordinator's mid-year report. Individual members of the coordinator will work with the coordinator in carrying out the program.

TRIGG COUNTY GOES BUGGY
CADIZ, Ky. — Trigg County has gone slightly buggy, but no one's worried.
County agent Keith S. Venable said 10,000 ladybugs were shipped here in gallon jugs from Dobbin, Calif. Venable said the bugs would be used to combat plant lice on tobacco.

The Board of Sanford City Commissioners last night approved the Capital Improvement Program presented by City Manager Warren E. Knowles and put into motion the planning and exploring of various projects proposed in the written presentation.

At a special meeting of the commissioners, called for the purpose of studying the program, several items were eliminated by proposing that the requested improvements be added to the annual budget, while other projects were delayed until further study could be made.

As a prelude to the study of the Capital Improvement Program, Mayor F. D. Scott told the Board of Commissioners "You can invite people to come to town with an attractive structure." However, the Mayor qualified his statement with "All up and down First St. people have told me that now is not the time to reduce taxes — some even old me that we should try to reduce our indebtedness."

Mayor Scott left off the discussion with "I am now willing to go along with the improvement program."

Every member of the Board of Commissioners commented on the tax structure of the city, the improvement program, and the attraction to Sanford of tourists and visitors.

Commissioner Earl Higginbotham stated "We have a smaller millage than most of them," as he spoke (Continued On Page Eight)

St. Johns Called Big-Bass Spot

"The Fabulous St. Johns Bass" is the subject of an article written by Jason Lucas which appears in the August issue of "Sports Afield."

"A question about it, lurking in this subtropical lush river are many bass that would break the world's record," said Lucas as he wrote extensively about the big bass along the St. Johns.

Written in May, according to the article's explanation, Lucas said that he had been fishing the St. Johns for over a month and preface his remarks with the statement that "The St. Johns has always been the world's most fabulous big-bass spot, and still is."

Lucas explains in his story of The Fabulous St. Johns Bass the reason why he believed that bass here are the "biggest in the world."

Ardent fishermen should read Lucas' article which describes the river and the best spots for luring the big bass to the end of a line.

"The St. Johns has such fabulous bass fishing simply because it's by far the most fertile larger body of bass water in the world," states the writer for Sports Afield.

Lucas describes the type of tackle to use for the "bring in" of the big ones, the effectiveness of lures, and tips on the use of the fly rod.

Sports Afield and the writer, Jason Lucas become big boosters for the St. Johns and its renowned fishing waters.

De Bary Cub Scouts Receive Awards In Rites Sunday

By MARY FOWLER

An authentic tepee flamed bright colors out on Sunset Drive of De Bary Sunday afternoon, the focal point of an excited group of young men, plus families carrying baskets of goodies and substantial supper rations. Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Stumpf Jr. were hosts to the Cub Scouts and father Will Neider brought his own wigwam. A camp fire burned merrily through the celebration and when it died down slowly at sunset there were fitting rites observed by the Scout officials, giving awards to the young braves as they at solemnly on the blankets and each arose to accept his honor.

William Blakemore Jr. received a gold and a silver arrow; Patrick Nolte both wolf and bear badges as did Ralph Stumpf III; Ellsworth Lawton was taken in, with ceremonies, as a new bobcat; Richard Nolte as an apprentice bob cat; Richard Gurchardt had a shower of arrows, three gold and three silver; Edward Redman, a bear badge, a gold and two silver arrows.

As they fondled with pride these testimonials to their summer activities, Howard Smith of Orlando, the Scouting commissioner for this district, presented their new charter and asserted that he was happy to state that this is the first 100 per cent banner award he has given for the Boys Life subscriptions and that it is unique in his history as commissioner.

Possibly den three who hosted for soft drinks was the highlight, for they could sample their wares at will. All reported a most hilarious and rewarding night of picnicking.

Roadblocks Tighter Around Fruit Fly Infestation Centers

MIAMI — Rings of roadblocks were tightened today around three centers of fruit fly infestations but they were removed from Palm Beach, Broward and most of Dade counties.

Spokesmen for the state plant board said heavy aerial spraying had killed 99 per cent of the flies from Miami to West Palm Beach. Roadblocks set up to take fruit from cars leaving that area were removed.

The three main centers of infestation are now Pinellas County, Fort Myers, and Homestead, said Robert T. Rathbone, U. S. Department of Agriculture spokesman.

He said the three areas will be placed behind roadblocks to keep the pest confined to them and to prevent new flies from being brought into the Miami to West Palm Beach area.

Roadblocks will be placed on U.S. 1 and U.S. 27 south of Miami and already are in operation on U.S. 41 and State Road 82 near Everglades City and on U.S. 80 between Alva and Ocala.

Rotarians Hear Safety Talk

If Seminole County maintains for the next five months the same ratio as it did during the first six months of 1956, its record of highway accidents and fatalities will show some improvement over that of 1955, was the statement of "Chuck" Saunders, Safety Education Director of the Florida Highway Patrol to the members of the Sanford Rotary Club at its regular weekly meeting yesterday noon at the Yacht Club.

Saunders, well informed on the subject he was discussing, stated that last year, state-wide, there were 978 killed; 25,682 hospitalized with an economic loss of over eight million dollars. The number of accidents approximated 72,000. In Seminole County, last year, he stated that the total number of accidents reported were 357, with nine killed and 165 injured. For the first six months of this year, there were three people killed in 38 accidents involving injuries and 71 other accidents reported. Saunders expressed the hope that each Rotarian would personally assume the responsibility of reporting road violations. He said that every citizen had the right, in fact, it was the duty of law-abiding citizens to cause the apprehension of drunken drivers, particularly, who were endangering life and limb.

In answering questions put by some of the members of the club, Saunders stated excessively slow moving vehicles that impeded the normal flow of traffic were guilty of a law violation. He discussed the financial responsibility law and many other items of interest and importance. His talk was regarded as one of the best ever presented and he received an enthusiastic round of applause at its conclusion.

Myron "Mike" Beck, in charge of the day's program, did the honors in introducing the speaker while Dr. Charles L. Persons, club president, was in charge of the meeting which included songs by Charlie Morrison with Harry Kudell at the piano. The Rev. Lucian W. Scott pronounced the invocation.

The House Resolutions Committee, one of two committees to which the measure was reported by Speaker Ted David, approved the bill by a 4-0 vote.

There was no discussion. No meeting of the Appropriations Committee, which also must clear the bill, has been set by Chairman James Moody of Hillsborough County.

The measure would create a committee of three senators and four House members with authority to investigate any person or group whose activities are conducive to violence, which violate state law, or are detrimental to the state. The committee would have subpoena powers and a $50,000 appropriation.

Senate Declines To Okay Hobby's Suspension

Committee Okays Bill To Investigate NAACP

TALLAHASSEE (AP)—Florida legislators seeking to force through a tougher segregation program budget a determined move for adjournment of the 9-day-old special session at 3 p. m. today.

The Senate passed the adjournment resolution unanimously late yesterday after completing action on the final three bills asked by Gov. Collins to head off integration by legal means.

Six other proposals, including an interposition resolution and a local option private school bill, were sidetracked to a House subcommittee despite a statement by Atty. Gen. Ervin that he administration program was "merely a stopgap."

Referral of the bills to a subcommittee of the Committee on Education and Internal Affairs aroused speculation the measures might have been relegated to their death to avoid floor action on them.

However, Rep. Prentice P. Pruitt of Jefferson County, who introduced the interposition resolution and private school proposal, served notice he would attempt to force the measures out if the proposals were not given quick action.

Rep. Lacy Mahon of Duval County, chairman of the House committee, announced he would name the subcommittee this morning.

The Senate-adopted bill to set up a joint interim committee to investigate the National Assn. for Advancement of Colored People cleared another House hurdle today.

The House Resolutions Committee, one of two committees to which the measure was reported by Speaker Ted David, approved the bill by a 4-0 vote.

There was no discussion. No meeting of the Appropriations Committee, which also must clear the bill, has been set by Chairman James Moody of Hillsborough County.

The measure would create a committee of three senators and four House members with authority to investigate any person or group whose activities are conducive to violence, which violate state law, or are detrimental to the state. The committee would have subpoena powers and a $50,000 appropriation.

The NAACP is not mentioned by name but the Senate sponsors said it was the prime target of the bill.

The House Rules Committee rejected the bill as being outside the scope of Gov. Collins' special session call, but the House membership gave it the two-thirds vote required to put it before the chamber for consideration.

Key measure in the program already has been signed into law. It authorizes county school boards to assign pupils to schools to which they are considered best suited.

The three other measures, which now go to the governor, are a teacher assignments bill and measures increasing public powers of the governor and giving the governor the right to make regulations governing use of public facilities.

The Senate accepted House amendments to the three bills yesterday without debate. The bills (Continued On Page Eight)

Action May Reinstate Sheriff

Senator Douglas Stenstrom, in a telephone interview with The Sanford Herald today, shortly after 1 o'clock said that "Under the law the Governor is required to send executive orders of suspension of public officials from office to the Senate at the next regular or special session of the Legislature."

Stenstrom said "In compliance the Governor submitted his order of last December suspending Sheriff J. Luther Hobby from office.

"Approval of such orders by the Senate," said Senator Stenstrom, "constitutes permanent removal for the term to which the official was elected."

Sen. Stenstrom said "The Senate, upon my recommendation as the member whose county was affected, declined to approve the order."

"I would not recommend removal of a public official," Senator Stenstrom told The Sanford Herald this afternoon. "Who has not been convicted of the charges against him, and who has again submitted himself to the people and won a new term of office."

"To do otherwise," said the Senator, "would be not only to ignore the clear mandate of the people, but to deny to the official a principle basic in American Jurisprudence—that a man is innocent until he is proved guilty. This I will not do."

The effect of the action of today's Senate session is to reinstate Sheriff Hobby to the office of Sheriff pending any further development.

Prisoners Protest Work Conditions; Break Own Legs

HUFORD, Ga., — Thirty-six prisoners broke their own legs yesterday in protest against working conditions at Rock Quarry State Prison, the "Little Alcatraz" of the Georgia penal system.

Jack Forrester, state director of corrections, said a prison doctor told him 29 white and seven Negro inmates shattered bones in their legs during an afternoon rest period at a rock quarry where they were working half a mile from the prison.

He said the men placed their legs on rocks and "started whacking away" with the sledge hammers normally used to crush rock at the 34-acre quarry. There were no cries of pain, he said.

Guards watching the 189 prisoners in the fenced-in quarry were taking a rest at the time and said they did not notice what had happened until they ordered the men back to work.

Warden Hubert Smith said the injured men told him after the incident that they felt their wheelbarrows were too heavily loaded and the sun was too hot. Temperatures were reported in the low 90s at the time.

Retiring Agent Recalls Events Of Last 30 Years

Today is C. R. "Charlie" Dawson's last day in the office of Seminole County Agent.

Dawson retires after 30 years service, 27½ of them with Seminole County and 2½ years military service and service at the Experiment Station in Gainesville.

The retiring County Agent this morning was clearing his office of thousands of pages of literature, mimeographed material and keepsakes that had gathered in the Court House office over the years.

Dawson, who is now 62 years old, taught school at Seminole High and was principal at Oviedo High School prior to becoming County Agent, a position he has held continuously for the more than 27 years.

Establishing of the first State-owned Farmers' Market in Sanford and of the Farmers Auction Market on 17-02 are among the hundreds of accomplishments through his tenure as County Agent.

W. Brown Miller, chairman of Seminole County Commissioners recalled that Dawson headed the closing of open and flowing wells in Seminole County and said "I personally closed 82 of them with my own hands and then prevailed on the Board of County Commissioners to make it unlawful to have a flowing well on private property."

Dawson recalled the heyday of celery in Seminole County when at times, he said, as many as 85 celery farmers would gather at the High School for a meeting of an organization then known as the Seminole County Agricultural Association which he served as secretary-treasurer.

The retiring county agent recalls the establishing of the Farm Bureau in Seminole County and of personally establishing the Seminole County Soil Conservation District on August 10, 1945.

"I served with the Cattlemen's Association," said Dawson, "and served on a sub-board of the Nation Board during the War." Dawson recalled meetings held each Saturday afternoon in his office to ration tires, gasoline and other farm equipment needed then.

"I also cooperated with the draft board relative to farm labor," said Dawson.

Going back ever farther, Dawson said that he served with the State Home Guard as a Technical Sergeant.

Dawson served in France during World War I as a 1st Lieutenant in the Infantry and was overseas for 18 months with the 82nd Division where he received a Silver Star for "bravery in action."

Through the years Charlie Dawson has been one of the foreleaders in baseball clubs in Sanford. However, he stated that he did not have an opportunity to play professional ball, even though he felt, at one time, that he could play.

Dawson is a former member of the Kiwanis Club, a member of the Presbyterian Church, and at one time taught a Bible Class at the Oviedo Methodist Church.

Dawson headed the Seminole County "Scrap Drive" during World War II when the local unit was declared "champions." He stated that a million pounds of scrap was gathered here, a fact that was publicized on "Kate Smith's" radio program.

"I don't know what I'm going to do now," Charlie Dawson said. However, he was attired in Bermuda shorts, new sports shoes, and a bright red checked sport shirt. "I'm going to sit on the front porch in a rocking chair," chuckled Dawson and then added that he would probably spend a lot of time with civic work such as the Red Cross and the General Sanford Memorial Library Association.

He concluded his interview with "I'm going to spend a lot of time with my pet project, Wildlife," his amateur radio station over which he talks with radio enthusiasts around the world.

Weather
Partly cloudy today and Wednesday with scattered mostly afternoon thunderstorms; low tonight 70-75.
