National Gas Use

WASHINGTON (AP) - The nation's gasoline consumptica last week was only five per cent below potential demand, a significant improvement from the 15 to 20 per cent shortage reported since January, the Federal Energy Office says.

In its weekly analysis of the petroleum situation, the FEO said Friday that the apparent weekly demand for gasoline rose by more than 18 per cent, with daily demand rising by one million barrels to an average 6,453,000

San Francisco Strike Ends

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - San Francisco is getting back to normal after the longest city employes' strike in its history, a nine-day walkout by 10,000 workers that shut down all public transportation. However, a strike by half the city's 5,000 public school teachers is still on. The Municipal Railway, which serves 350,000 daily riders, got its famous cable cars, buses and streetcars operating Friday evening after both sides approved a settlement that will add some $10 million to the city's annual budget. The striking Service Employes International Union voted 750-241 to ratify a pact roviding a dental plan for employes but not their dependents and an across-theboard wage increase of $45 a month July 1 with an additional $10 next Jan. 1. The average wage is currently $850.

Black Convention

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) - Delegates to the National Black Political Convention today begin discussions on organizing for political power after hearing a call by Mayor Maynard Jackson of Atlanta to stop "fussing and stabbing at each other." The mayor delivered the keynote address Friday night at the formal opening session. He said blacks could join the chorus for Nixon impeachment or resignation, but that until they could influence the Mississippi and Georgia state legislatures their protests would have the same affect as spitting into a hurricane.

Danish Plane Fire

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) - The death toll from a fire that broke out on board a Danish airliner as it taxied toward takeoff at Tehran airport stands at 16, according to Iran's Civil Aviation Department.

The department said 80 persons were rescued from the plane in Friday's accident. But the Danish Foreign Ministry in Copenhagen said its embassy in Tehran reported 81 survivors among the 96 persons aboard. Medical officials said 47 persons were injured, some in critical condition with burns.

The plane, a Caravelle, was carrying vacationers returning to Copenhagen from New Delhi after a two-week tour of the Far East. No Americans were reported

4 Die In Ireland

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) - Four persons have been killed in a new round of violence in Northern reland that security sources say could be the prelude to a truce. The sources laid most of the blame for the deaths on the Irish Republican Army, which is fighting to oust Britain from the province. The sources said some IRA members think there is a chance for a truce deal with Britain's new Labor government and the violence could amount to a show of strength before talks. The deaths Friday raised to at least 972 the number of persons killed in sectarian fighting in Ulster since August 1969.

Cambodia Fighting

PHNOM PENH (AP) - Sharp fighting flared for the second successive day near the provincial town of Takeo as insurgent forces challenged the government's grip on the area, the Cambodian military command reported today. Khmer Rouge forces troops attacked government positions east and south of Takeo, 39 miles south of Phnom Penh, army sources said. Military sources said that over the past two months government troops had been expanding their zone of control around the town, but insurgent forces recently have been making new attacks. North of the capital, sources said insurgents attacked government positions on Highway 5 south of the isolated town of Oudong, forcing them to pull back. Oudong is 27 miles north of Phnom Penh.

nounced Friday by Communist party leader Leonid Brezhnev in Alma Ata, the capital of Kazakhstan. Brezhnev said 35 illion rubles — about $46.2 billion would be spent on the project in 1976-1980, appearing to indicate a five-year program. But the Communist party daily's account of his speech revealed a far more ambitious project spanning 15 years.

Elaberating on Brezhnev's report, a Soviet spokesman said the new program wee project in 1973-elepment of 7 million acres of crop land and 44 million acres of rich grazing and fodder lands.

Deficit Spending Reigns In Washington

COPLEY NEWS

The Keyhesian theory that dencit government spending can ward off recession without causing inflation clearly remains in the saddle in Washington. President Nixon's $304.4 billion budget for 1974-75 carries $9.4 billion in red ink. It has gone to Congress with assurances from the White House that if the energy crisis deals a worse blow to the American economy than is now anticipated, the deficit will have to be even bigger if we are to offset rising unemployment.

There might be some comfort to many Americans in the idea that a well-heeled Uncle Sam stands ready to cushion the impact of a downturn in business. There is no comfort at all, however, in looking at the budget from the standpoint of prudent fiscal policy. Uncle Sam is simply not as rich as the budget makes him out

The federal government has operated in the red in 13 of the last 15 years, amassing deficits that will total $153.4 billion if the deficit in the new budget holds at the projected figure. Those deficits have run up the national debt to $486.4 billion so far, and the new deficit will push it to $508 billion — half a trillion dollars.

Since the economist Lord Keynes also held that a government should help check inflation by budgeting for a surplus when the economy is "overheated," we are inclined to summon him back from the grave for some further advice. What do we do when recession indicators seem to call for a budget deficit, while the inflation rate would call for a budget surplus? President Nixon and his advisers hope to chart a middle course providing enough budgetary pump-priming to reduce unemployment but not enough to

We would have more faith in this budget philosophy if either the President or Congress could project with more certainly how the current energy crisis might affect tax revenues and government costs. When Mr. Nixon tried to fight inflation last year by impounding ap-

It is significant that 90 per cent of the nearly $30 billion in increased spending in the President's new budget is considered "uncontrollable" - items rising automatically under previous legislation. The defense budget. for instance, is rising by $6.2 billion, but nearly all of the increase will go to meeting higher pay scales already approved and to offset inflation. The military's fuel bill alone will increase by nearly a half-billion dollars next year. Another $15 billion of uncontrolled increased spending goes into health, welfare and Social Security accurate means of forecasting economic trends. Ideally, they should have. For many years, however, Congress has been painting itself into a corner with politically sacrosanct programs which reduce flexibility in the budget. The energy crisis and increases in prices of food and raw materials on a worldwide scale have reduced economic forecasting to a guessing game. We can hope the theory behind the 1974-75 budget is not based on economic theories which, like Lord Keynes himself, belong to another era.

U. S. Wooing African Nation

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON-Despite the deliberate slaughter of thousands of tribal rivals by the Burundi government, the Nixon Administration has quietly started normalizing relations with the central African state.

The thaw coincides with the discovery of vast nickel deposits in Burundi, worth an estimated $14 billion. Until this past January, the United States pursued a policy of "minimal relations" with Burundi. But since the nickel strike, agents representing U.S. corporations have swarmed into the tiny nation and overnight the repressive Burundi government has become a courted friend. The Administration's sudden change of attitude toward Burundi is spelled out in classified State Department documents.

A recent State Department memorandum to the White House, written by top official Thomas Pickering, now ambassador to Jordan, argued that "normalizaton" of official relations would provide "opportunities for American corporations that are interested in exploiting the major new mineral discovery."

American businessmen also smell oil in Burundi. As Pickering put it, the resumption of U.S. aid and cultural programs might also earn "concessions for American companies who believe there may be hydrocarbon deposits (oil) on the eastern shore of Lake Tanganyika... "In view of the foregoing," concluded Pickering, "the Department requests NSC (National Security Council) concurrence in the normalization of relations with Burundi." The White House responded in a secret memo, dated January 29, 2974, from Maj. Gen. Brent Scowcroft, who is Henry Kissinger's chief deputy in the White House: "President Nixon has authorized Department of State to begin the normalization of

The new Burundi policy, which some State Department insiders irreverently refer to as "nickel politics," restores official U.S. blessings to a government which, over the past two years, has engaged in mass genocide on a scale the world has not seen since Adolf Hitler tried to wipe out the Jews during World War II. Beginning in early May 1972, the ruling Tutsi tribe undertook the systematic slaughter of their ethnic rivals, the Hutus, who outnumber the tall, statuesque Tutsis by more than six to one. The Tutsis literally went crazy with revenge after an attempted Hutu coup and used bullets, bulldozers and sledgehammers to massacre the Hutus. By late 1973, over 200,000 Hutus were dead; another 100,000 had been driven into exile. Last June, we reported that the State Department had engaged in diplomatic dawdling while the blood flowed. Instead of issuing a public protest, the United States chose "quiet diplomatic pressure," which failed utterly to alleviate the carnage. In an airgram to Washington, dated March 20, 1973, American Ambassador to Burundi Robert L. Yost reported that "a very high degree of antagonism and suspicion continues between the Yost assured Washington, however, that the Tutsi rulers had decided "not to proceed further with organized killing." This was a change, Yost claimed, which was due in part to "the strong proval of the U.S. government of the events of last year (The "events" is a term which frequently turns up in the Burundi papers and is apparently a diplomatic euphemism for the

Yost recommended resuming normal relations. He bolstered his argument in a confidential "action paper" which he filed from Burundi on January 11, 1974. Among the new "U.S. policy objectives" he listed was this one:

"To promote viable U.S. investment. This has assumed particular importance with the appearance of a UN survey report indicating the possible presence in Burundi of one of the world's major nickel deposits."

General Scowcroft cautioned us against publishing excerpts from the incriminating documents. "This is sensitive material." he said, affecting U.S. relations with Burundi. However, we believe the public is entitled to know that the U.S. for the sake of corporate concessions is courting a nation guilty of genocide.

Scowcroft said he saw nothing wrong with promoting U.S. corporate interests. "That is a function of our embassies over-

The general also contended: "I think your emphasis on the nickel is not correct. The thrust of the policy change is that, at the time of the fratracide, we cut back our relations. We continued that for quite some time. Then the embassy reported that Burundi had gotten the message and that our policy had had the ap-

FORT PIERCE, Fla. (AP) - It took a jury 15 minutes to decide on the death penalty for Tennessee prison escapee James Adams after first convicting him on a murder charge in the death of a rancher. Adams, 35, identified in St. Lucie County Circuit Court as an escapee from a 99-year term at the Tennessee State Penitentiary at Nashville, was convicted Friday in the death of Edgar Brown, a former deputy sheriff. "Mr. Brown's killer is still on the street," Adams said after the verdict. Under Florida's death penalty law, he gets a mandatory appeal to the state Supreme Court. Testimony indicated that Brown was killed with a fireplace poker after surprising a prowler in his home near here last November

Ball Deceit Charged

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) - Jacksonville millionaire Ed Ball deceived the U.S. Corps of Engineers in getting approval for a fence across the Wakulla River, a conservationist charged Friday.

Tom Morrill, a free-lance writer and part-time poetry teacher, is pushing for a rehearing of a Corps decision allowing Ball to keep the fence at his Wakulla Springs Wildlife Refuge. He said Ball's application for approval of the fence, erected in 1966 or 1967, failedhto mention a 1973 attorney general's opinion saying property owners along the river were subject to state law governing submerged land.

Purse Taken, Woman Dies

MIAMI BEACH (AP) - Miami Beach police say a 65year-old woman critically injured when thrown to the ground by a purse snatcher has died. Police said Dora Ableman died Thursday. PARIS (AP)-"O to be a frog, my lads and live aloof

Bad news from the bulrushes: A world crisis in frog production that croaked the business in France is now eddying eastward from Kopli to Babadag to Al Favyun.

Blame it all on pollution and cuisses de grenouilles

Unlike last year's Swiss cheese shortage in which it was whispered that a possible way out lay in making the holes larger, there is no interest in breeding up the species

But the frog scarcity in Europe is a genuinely ugly squiggle on a global graph of ecological atrocities. France

now accounts for only one or two per cent of the frogs it consumes. Over a 20-year period, the ponds in Burgundy and the swamps in the Vendee region of western France have become so fouled with chemicals that neither the frogs nor the insects they live on can survive, and at-

I will be more than happy to give due credit to Mr. Aaron upon the momentous occasion of his historic home runs. He deserves it. Our readers deserve to know about it. But no one deserves to have to read and reread what everyone and his brother has to say about it. I will make one concession. If our readers would like to respond for a short period of time - say one week - as to what they think of the Hank Aaron story, feel free to do so. Please keep it short and maybe we can

It's late September and as usual we have a torrid pennant race going on in major league baseball. The New York Giants are holding a six percentage point lead over the Chicago Cubs as they battle down to the wire for the National League Championship The Giants have a superior battery in Christy Mathewson and Roger Bresnahan. The Cubs have a prolific double-play conbination with Joe Tinker at short stop, John Evers at second base, and "The Peerless Leader," Frank Chance at first base. Today is Sept. 23 and the NL leaders are meeting head-on at a point in the season where every game is crucial. Jack Pfeister and Mathewson are the mound opponents today. After a long afternoon of excellent pitching, there are two outs in the bottom of the ninth and the score is even, 1-1. There are two men on and Al Bridwell comes up as the Giants last hope in the 9th. Moose McCormick is on third and Fred Merkle is on first as Pfeister delivers to Bridwell. Al singles to

Angling Action Slows; Still Good. Time Machine

Action seems to have slowed down somewhat from the torrid pace set last week but local anglers are still coming in with some noteworthy catches. Eustace Russ and his party stayed with the bass fishing, anding 13, one of them a nine pounder. Most were caught on bullhead minnows but the big one fell for a plastic worm. A plastic worm also fooled one weighing eight and a half pounds for Hood Coker. Most of the bream are being caught on mussels in the middle of the river fishing right on the bottom. Another outstanding bream haul was made at the Osteen Bridge Camp Wednesday. Two gentlemen fishing just North of the camp landed 75 in only two-and-one-half hours. Mrs. Paul Johnson at this camp mentioned that some specks are still hitting in the deep water around the bridge Cassie Risner of Lemon Bluff took a nice mixed string of bream and catfish this week but most patrons of the camp are concentrating on shad as witnessed by the following sample of the many reports: Bill Hankins and Bill Flanders, Eustis, 19, the learn of Wiggins and Shoesdaum, Tavares, has 17. For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. DiBona wore a light blue polyester gown with long sleeves, white accessories and a corsage of pink and blue carnations.

The bridegroom's family was unable to attend the wedding due to a recent move to Tuscon, Ariz. The bride's home was the reception site immediately following the ceremony. Arrangements of pink, white and blue carnations were featured on the serving tables, which were overlaid with white lace cloths. The tiered wedding cake was decorated with embossed flowers, tiny wedding bells and a miniature bride and groom. A canopy above the cake was adorned with

Mills Says Nixon 'Out' By November

WASHINGTON (AP) - Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, predicts President Nixon will be out of office by Mills, chairman of the powerful House Ways and Means Committee and vice chairman of the committee looking into the President's taxes, was asked the a telepised interview Santywhether he expects Nixon will be in office by the November election.

"I do not," Mills responded. "By resignation, by impeachment?"
Mills replied: "One or the other, I do not know

Appearing on the CBS program "Face the Nation," Mills said he believes Nixon will come under increasing pressure from within the Republican party because of his tax problems

The Arkansas Democrat told one of newsmen interviewing him:

"I would think that probably you and I both may well be surprised when the vote occurs on the articles of impeachment over the number on the Republican side who may yote for those Mills added: "If he stays in office as President, members of his own party know that they'll lose seats in the House.' Commenting on Nixon's income tax problems, primarily involving a deduction for donation of his vice presidential papers to the National Archives, Mills said:

"There is a possibility if (the investigation) proves that the deduction of the papers given to the archives was improper that there would be fraud on the part of someone."

Thanks to FHP lumphries and the folks at Seminole Junior College, this county's law enforcement agencies are going to be able to send members of their forces to a special Traffic Homocide Investigation school, right here in Sanford at the airport. According to Humphries, this course is tailored after the one which he attended at Northwestern University and will qualify those who successfully complete the 104 hours course as experts at investigating traffic accidents resulting in homocides. This qualification becomes most important whenever one of the presently is called as a witness at a trial and it is determined by the defense hat they are "not" experts. The J.B. Walden family had been hired for $700 by the Atomic Energy Commission to build the shelter near this North Florida town and were promised a $300 bonus if they did the job in 48

The Waldens, including five adults, six teen-agers, and a child, completed the shelter early Sunday in 23 hours and 40 minutes. "The family excavated and piled 50 tons of dirt by shovel," said Creeson Kearny, AEC engineer in charge of the project. "Some of the adults slept only one or two hours during the work." The Waldens built the aboveground shelter with slash pine, bed sheets and plastic covered by two feet of dirt, Kearny said.

In addition to the dirt-covered shelter, the family was also required to construct a latrine and install a home-made pump to oring fresh air into the structure. Kearny said the Waldens were among an unspecified number of families in Colorado, Florida, Tennessee, and Alabama who were being paid to construct temporary fallout shelters as an AEC research project. The project has been funded by a $30,000 grant from the U.S.

Defense Civil Preparedness Agency, Kearney said. A spokesman for the federal agency in Washington said the project did not represent an effort to bring back the family fallout shelter craze of the early 1960s. He said it was an attempt to determine what kinds of shelters could be constructed within one or two days if people had to be moved from metropolitan areas
