CHAPTER 8
Priscilla had been told with her that in a New York office, you don't want to get involved in any controversy. She had been especially told to be a good girl. Priscilla's friend, Rita, who was a writer, had called her to claim the mysterious mansion which she had inherited. Priscilla had decided to keep the mansion because she was sure it was haunted. She had seen strange men come out at night and a tall man from the entrance gates to the broad steps. Priscilla had seen a ghost in the garden. Rita had said, "It looks just as if it did the first time I saw it, and folks say it's looked the same for fifty years. Course the shades used to be up, and grass and weeds were cut."
"It's the looniest-looking place I ever saw," said Priscilla. "Even a ghost would be lonesome there."
Mr. Todd led the way up the creaking steps and unlocked the heavy door. It was dim and cool inside and smelled of mold and dust, mice and rotting wood. He raised a few shades, opened shutters, revealing a thick, brownish coating of dust over everything. Curtains hung, fragile and brittle with dust. There was a square piano with most of the ivory missing. All the furniture was heavy, stately, very beautiful. Priscilla was thinking that rooms could not be found for it in a modern home. Chandeliers which had held candles in long-gone days were dusty and fly-specked; upholstery was faded and worn. There was a huge grandfather clock, old albums, pictures.

They opened drawers, discovering heavy dull silver, good china, yellowed linens.
Rita said, "Let's look around this time, Priscilla. Then decide what you should do with it. There's no use trying to decide right now. Some of these pieces will bring a lot of money."
They spent almost an hour going from room to room, upstairs and down, and when they were down again, Mr. Todd said briskly, "I'll just lock up. When you decide what you're going to do, we'll come back. You can be thinking about it."
"We won't take any more of your time Mr. Todd," Rita said apologetically. "Leave the key with us and we'll look around a little more. I saw a sign down the street advertising antiques. They might be interested in some of these things."
Mr. Todd's hesitation was so apparent that Rita was sure he didn't want them to have the key. He turned it over reluctantly, suggesting that they drop it at his office, to which Rita made no reply. She did ask if he could send someone to cut the grass and clean the grounds and give the place a better appearance before putting it on the market.
They were still there an hour later when Mr. Todd returned. His voice was worried. "I talked to several boys, but they all turned me down. Word has got around that the place is haunted and it's going to be hard to get any of them to work here."
"Then how can we get the place cleaned up?"
"I'll keep looking. Frankly," he hesitated, "if you take my advice, you'll not bother about it. Won't really make any difference when it comes to a sale."
Mr. Todd had been gone only a few minutes when a boy of about fourteen came to the door. He had met Mr. Todd. He said that he would be willing to work outside but wouldn't clean inside, "because I was haunted."

Priscilla laughed, which was a mistake. The boy said evenly, "That's nothing to laugh about."
"That's right," Rita said in a friendly voice. "But we don't know much about such things. Won't you tell us why it's haunted?"
The boy shifted from one foot to the other, his eyes moving over the gaudy old house. "Don't know 'zactly why. It jerks 'round in one of those windows upstairs. And people hear voices, whisperin' like."
Priscilla said, "I'll surely accept the first offer. The place is giving me the creeps."
"Power of suggestion," Rita said. "I wouldn't say sell it because it's haunted, but sell because it's the only sensible thing to do. Let's decide what you want to do with the furniture, or better still, who can take the whole thing over to Mr. Todd to handle with some real estate firm?"
They were preparing to lock the door when Rita said, "Wait a minute. I'm not sure that I locked the back door."
She went back, found the door locked, and had turned to go when she saw a roll of bills on the floor—new, crisp, and shiny. Wonderingly she picked the roll up and examined it. Twenty-five twenty-dollar bills under a rubber band. Had Mr. Todd dropped it there? If so, and he had indeed, he certainly must be upset by now. She would have to telephone him.
"Look, Priscilla, did you drop this?"
Priscilla looked at the roll of bills and gasped. "Heavens, no! I never carry that much cash. Where did it come from?"
"I found it on the floor by the back door. I wonder why we didn't see it before."
Priscilla giggled. "Well, if the place is haunted with greenbacks, maybe I'd better not sell after all."
"Mr. Todd must have dropped it."
"He must have. How else would it have got there? That's new money—and no one's been inside for a long time, he said. How much is it?"
"Twenty-five twenty-dollar bills."
"Glory be!" Priscilla exclaimed. "Rita, what if Mr. Todd says it isn't his?"
"It has to be his; there's no other explanation. Let's go and telephone him."

TV Outstrips Radio In Revenue In '56

WASHINGTON—The Federal Communications Commission revealed in its annual report that four of every five city homes and half the nation's farm houses have television sets.
Altogether there were 160 million TVs or radios in operation in 1955 but TV far outstripped radio in revenue gains. TV networks and stations earned a total of 744 million dollars last year—an increase of 25.6 percent over 1954—while radio showed a 3 percent gain for a total of 453 million dollars.

UHF The Big Problem

The commission said the problem of ultra-high frequency television continues to nag the TV industry and the FCC. It said the financially-weak UHF was the only dark spot in the otherwise booming TV picture.
In the main UHF was hampered by the fact that very high frequency VHF stations had first crack at the advertisers dollar. The VHF stations, on 12 channels from bands 2 to 13, continue to hold their advantage of being first on the air with commercial TV. Advertisers, faced with the fact that only about 30 percent of the nation's 39 million TV sets are equipped to receive UHF, have continued to pour their dollars into VHF.

Problems Under Study

The commission said it still is studying the problems involved, including a plan to switch all the nation's telecasting eventually to the upper 70 UHF channels. It admitted present VHF channels were jammed while many of the UHF bands have gone begging because of the competitive problem.

It Said It Had Set Three Goals For Commercial Television

It said it had set three goals for commercial television but had attained only one. With 80 percent of the nation's television sets within the range of at least one station its first goal of bringing TV to all of America is just about realized.

Out-Going Kiwanis President Praises Members, Activities

Kiwanis Club members yesterday, at their noon luncheon meeting, heard the president report on the activities of the club's 23 committees.

A. L. Wilson, the out-going president said "I am personally proud of the high calibre programs we have had throughout the year."

Predominant in the president's year-end report was the work done by the Sanford Kiwanis club for underprivileged children and the boys and girls committee. Both committees, according to Wilson's 13-page summary, spent several thousand dollars to carry out their agenda.

Other committees included in the huge report were: the Key Club, Vocational Guidance, Agriculture and Conservation, Public Affairs, Support of Churches, Kiwanis Education, Social and Sunshine, Public Relations, Music Committee, House Committee Boy Scout Committee, Attendance, Historian, New Club Building, Marianna Plan, Classification and Membership, Reception, Inter Club Relations, and Finance and Projects.

Wilson called special attention to the work of the Finance and Projects Committee which had spearheaded the Kissimmee Minstrel from which over $500 was realized for the underprivileged children's committee as was the annual Kiwanis Football Game which netted $688.42.

Another source of revenue was from the work done during the Second Annual Mayfair Inn PGA Tournament. This money was also placed in the underprivileged children's fund.

"This is your report, your activities, and credit goes to you," said Wilson as he started his summary of the 13 pages of material gathered on the work of the nearly two dozen committees.

"I want to put in a word of appreciation for Ralph Smith. He is just what a Club president needs," said Wilson. He also paid tribute to each member of the Sanford Kiwanis Club and their wonderful support.

"This has been a rich and wonderful experience," A. L. Wilson said, "and I want you to join me in the support of the club and its officers during the coming year."

"It is certainly a tribute to Al Wilson that he can give such a report," said Ed Shinkolop, the incoming president for 1957 who presided at yesterday's meeting.

Jack Thieme, a member of the club, said "You were a good president and it wasn't easy done—you did a magnificent job throughout the year."

Much Progress Seen For Sanford In '57

Building Boom Is Expected

By J. MARION HARMAN Jr.

Prospects for the biggest year in Sanford's history look good, according to plans and proposals already announced.

The building boom, regardless of predictions for the coming year, will no doubt highlight the eventful year ahead to make Sanford one of the fastest growing cities in the State of Florida.

Topping the news in Sanford's continued economic progress is the home building outlook. One builder, starting 75 homes in the Sanford area, will go well over the million dollar mark in building and home sales. Other contractors and building will bring Sanford's home expansion program to over the two million dollar mark for the coming year in new homes alone.

Should the proposed docks and terminals for Sanford's waterfront become a reality in 1957, which is entirely possible with interests centered in creating a shipping and industrial area adjacent to the lake front, building estimates will be increased over a quarter of a million dollars. Additional industrial building in the area surrounding the docks and terminals would bring the total to a sky high figure.

Important to the entire Sanford picture is the city's capital improvement program which is estimated now at a near half million dollars. This will include the erection of a Sanford Civic Center, a new Negro swimming pool, the second Sanford fire station, and the proposed boat basin at the bandshell. Arguably, the equipment boats the total of the overall program to the half million dollar mark.

Already in the planning stage, with the issuance of revenue certificates approved by the city's fiscal agent, is the proposed sewage treatment plant. The building of the additional sewage treatment plant as a part of the city-wide water and sewer program has been a "must" item on the agenda of the Board of Sanford City Commissioners.

A street improvement program, in the talking stage among city commissioners, can lift the total of city improvements another 40 to 50 thousand dollars if plans are consummated.

Another boost in building and improvements is possible in the employing of a planning engineer-consultant to lay long-range plans for the city of Sanford's growth. The setting of commercial and industrial zones as well as the outlining of necessary streets and improvements for future growth can well mean additional construction plans in both the downtown and fringe areas of the city.

An industrial building, not yet announced, will also increase the total of building permits to be issued in 1957.

Increasing the population as well as increasing the city's potential income for 1957 are the plans to expand the Sanford Naval Air Station. Additional personnel for the local Navy Base has been announced as well as the possibilities for expansion.

The New Year will no doubt top the 1956 total of retail spending, home building, commercial expansion, and industrial progress of the City.

The outlook for 1957 will, more than likely, include additional taxes. That is foreseen on the county level as well as the city level. However, the addition of new taxes, whatever the millage set, will continue to keep Sanford and Seminole County in the "low bracket" in comparison to cities and counties throughout the state.

The prospects for the election of Sanford's Mayor in forthcoming city elections will not change its economic picture for Sanford. If anything, the new manner in naming the top city commissioner or serving in an honorary capacity should enhance the city's future growth.

Also, the annexation of fringe areas into the city, which could be done within 1957, would in all probability help reduce the possibilities of added taxes in framing the 1957-58 budget for city operation.

1 Killed, 13 Hurt In Plant Explosion

NEWNAN, Ga. — A smelter in an aluminum extrusion plant exploded here today, killing one person and injuring 13 others, several of them critically.

Company officials said three other workers who were reported missing were located "up town" hours after the blast.

One worker was reported to have been thrown 100 feet by the explosion which shattered a large one-story frame building of the William L. Bonnell Co. The man was found beside a nearby railroad track. He was one of those in critical condition.

Police Chief J. P. Askew personally directed the search for victims in the shambles of the building. The search was made more difficult because the roof collapsed on top of the wreckage. Ten of the injured were Negroes.

Most of the nearly one-score of employees believed on duty were Negroes. Nine of the injured were Negro and three were white. It was reported, five were given first aid treatment and released.

Fire Under Control

Firemen brought a resulting flash fire under control within about an hour and a half. The explosion rocked a wide area and temporarily put electric service out of commission in this West Georgia city.

One charred body was recovered from the ruins shortly after the fire was brought under control. The plant manufactured aluminum extrusion process.

The cause of the explosion was not determined immediately but Askew theorized that someone accidentally threw a piece of metal or other substance into the smelter. Witnesses said the multi-million-dollar plant appeared to be almost a total loss.

Advisors Leave To Make Survey On Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON — An advisory committee to President Eisenhower departs today on an around-the-world trip to make a first-hand check on the multi-billion dollar U. S. foreign aid program.

After returning from the seven-week, 22,000-mile survey, the committee will make recommendations to Mr. Eisenhower on the future of foreign aid. This report could lead to a general overhauling of the program for helping American's friends abroad.

The committee, known as the President's Citizen Advisors on the Mutual Security Program, is headed by Benjamin F. Fairless, former board chairman of United States Steel Corp.

Departing with him on the trip were three other committee members—Dr. Colgate W. Darden Jr., president of the University of Virginia; John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers; and Jesse W. Tapp, board chairman of the Bank of America.

Highway Will Be 4-Laned In Effort To Curb Accidents

ST. PETERSBURG — State Road Board member Al Rogers said today that the 14 miles of U. S. Highway 19 between Clearwater and Tarpon Springs, the site of four deaths and 16 injuries in the last five days, would be four-laned next year in an effort to reduce the toll on the "dangerous" roadway.

From Dec. 23-26, four accidents on the 14 mile stretch have resulted in four deaths and 16 serious injuries. The latest mishap was Wednesday night when four persons were injured in a two-car crash.

The relatively short stretch of highway is considered a "death trap" because of the 14 intersections of U. S. 19 and other state and county roads.

Rogers said a four-lane highway with a median strip between north and southbound lanes would have prevented most, if not all, of the holiday crashes.

Army Will Draft 14,000 In February

WASHINGTON — The Defense Department announced today that 14,000 men will be drafted in February for the Army.

That represents a cut of 3,000 men from draft calls for the preceding four months.

The Defense Department said the lower draft call for February reflects higher enlistments in the active and reserve forces that traditionally take place in January and February.

The February call will bring to 2,166,450 the number of men drafted since the outbreak of the Korean War.

The 14,000-man draft call is in September. Since then draft calls have been running at a rate of 17,000 men monthly.

Airline Unmasks Reservation Scalper

MIAMI — National Airlines today unmasked a "reservations scalper"—a woman clerk who had turned over 75 tickets under fictitious names to a bartender for resale to hard-pressed travelers at premium rates.

The woman clerk, Mariya Anderson, will not be tried, police said, because she turned state's evidence. The Dade County solicitor's office ordered the arrest of Harry Weiss, 40-year-old bartender.

Angus Stephens Jr., chief criminal prosecutor, said Miss Anderson, who had been a National Airlines clerk for three years, was fired Wednesday.

He said Weiss will be tried in court of crimes on a misdemeanor of conspiracy to violate the statute governing the sale of tickets on common carriers.

A. Lee Plays For Mayfair Inn Guests

In probably her last appearance in Sanford, Miss Allyson Lee, versatile 12-year-old pianist held a Mayfair Inn audience spellbound last night throughout her 30-minute concert which included both classical and boogie-woogie selections.

Adults and children alike gave Miss Lee a thunderous ovation following each number she played.

Selections chosen by the youthful pianist for last night's concert included Butterfly, Impromptu, her own arrangement of Trees and Autumn Leaves, Ave Maria and The Lord's Prayer.

For the young people, predominant in last night's Mayfair Inn audience, she played Klitten on the Keys and Boogie Woogie.

Round after round of applause greeted Miss Lee as she concluded her concert with the Boogie Woogie selection as is her usual custom in public appearances.

Holiday Death Toll Shows Great Need For Road Program

ALBANY, N. Y. — The need for pushing at top speed the national super-highway program was tragically underlined by the huge traffic fatality toll over the Christmas weekend, program Director Bettram Tallamy said today.

Tallamy said studies had shown that the fatality rate on the scientifically engineered new expressways are somewhere around half of the national average.

"The saving in life, personal injury and property damage that will result from development of a fine new highway system will be very great indeed," Tallamy said. "The terrible loss of life during the past week points up the urgent necessity for expediting the super-highway program."

Tallamy, who goes to Washington next month to coordinate the $1 billion dollar project through all 48 states, noted that so many accidents occur on the arterial routes in and around big cities. He said the new program would have special attention in improving those routes as well as the far-flung ribbons of interstate highways.

Safety officials have predicted the new highways will save the lives of some 3,500 persons a year.

Conning The News

BY VIRGINIA CONN

Christmas is over, the house is a mess, and we are exhausted. But everyone is happy tonight, and Christmas night is always a special family time, when tired children play with their toys before fond parents, equally tired.

Sunday evening Bill and Betty Hazlett entertained about sixty guests when they had open house. Betty had especially delicious tidbits to eat, including turkey and ham in home made rolls. And Betty herself was most charming and Christmasy in a darling red cotton dress. Among the group attending were seen Betty and Chuck McBratnie, Betty and Bill Lemos, Muriel and Rocky Giddens, Retta and Paul Speltz, Pat and Dave Todd, Shirley and Jim Bass, Helen and Bob Pugh, Sam and Bobbie Thompson, Abe and Margaret Feenell, Tom and George Waters, Lita and Pete Peterson, Tom and Dornell Kiline, Ruth and Joe Tully, Millie and Bill Thomas, Betty and Frank Johnson (packing tomorrow to leave for good, but not forever, we hope), Kay King, Ruth and Bill Barron, Skip and Ernie Horrell, Betty Hillner (Al was expected in that night from Olathe), Bette and John Miller, Hazel Rowell, and Tom Blackburn and his parents, Captain and Mrs. Paul Blackburn of La Jolla, Calif. These delightful people, incidentally had Christmas dinner with us Christmas Eve, and all I can say is, it's a shame California is so far away.

The same night Betty and Jim Guy had a number in for cocktails. As usual, Betty's house was beautifully decorated. Silver palm fronds and poinsettias graced the table, and a large white and gold surrounded by gilded grapes was particularly memorable. Attending were (in Part), Tom and his friends, Jack and Cary Stribling, Jack's mother and sister who are down for the holidays, Betty and Doc Linker, Dr. Boyce, Bill and encountered discourtesy or disinterest. To me the nicest Christmas present our merchants could have, besides a day off, would be to know that we of the Navy are more than just pleased with the service we receive here, and doubly appreciate the many friends we have made solely through business dealings. It is far better to remain relatively small and have your customers trust you, then to expand to the point where indifference makes these same people wary of your transactions. In other words, we like the salesclerk to recognize us, and we are touched by their concern when they find we are new. What town is it that brags about being the friendliest little city in America? What ever it is they should turn the honor over to Sanford.

The clerks and managers of each store in Sanford should know how much their attitude of helpfulness and friendliness means to the Navy's family of stationed here. In the local stores, a stranger is welcomed and given special attention. Now any one in business knows that this is good policy but how many have we known who bothered to take the time to acquaint themselves with some one who might be just passing by? The spirit of co-operation and welcome is noticeable far more in Sanford than in any town I have ever known (and this is Jimmy Conn speaking now), and while sometimes we may complain because the selection we may wish is lacking, I have yet to hear anyone say that they had

Garden Gate

By LOIS SLOAN—Inara Circle The Sanford Garden Club of Florida Federation of Garden Clubs.

With the beginning of the new year our gardens are blooming with azaleas and camellias. These acid-loving shrubs will need twice as much water, but do not water on top; use a soaker or water at the base of the plants. Keep a heavy mulch of pine needles, oak leaves, or straw, rather than peat, which has a tendency to "cake" and dry out.

There are many things to be done in the garden in January, including the planting or transplanting of flowering trees. Holes should be dug half again as large as the root system of the tree being moved. Use well-rotted compost of leaves and animal manure to fill the surplus area, and use a layer of good top soil on top and around the roots. Transplant at the original depth. Heavy mulch around the transplants will conserve moisture and tend to keep out the cold.

Some experts consider January to be the best month in which to plant roses, since the bushes will not sprout until the danger of frost is over. Water the bushes at least once a week, unless there is adequate rainfall. Be sure to follow the directions of rose growers in the preparation of the rose beds.

Gladioli bulbs may be planted every two weeks until warm weather to have a succession of bloom later. To reduce the possibility of disease, treat the bulbs with Lysol or mercury solution before planting. Other bulbs to be planted now include: asteranthus, alstromeria, amaryllis, gloriosa, hyacinth, monthbetta rannunculus, sprekellet tuberosa, and watonisa.

Summer flowering shrubs, such as Crapemyrtle and Vitex, will produce large blossom heads if tip pruning is done in January.

Chrysanthemum beds should be prepared this month by covering the area to be planted with oak leaves to a depth of three inches. Then add two inches of well-rotted animal manure, and turn soil to a depth of ten inches. Age bed three weeks before planting.

American People Should Count Many Blessings As '57 Nears

Another New Year is almost here. In the spirit of humility, as we approach a brand new span of months to be known as 1957, the American people should count their blessings, the greatest of which is freedom, as they think of the slavery and helplessness of hundreds of millions of individuals in other parts of the world.

Before we sit down to go over the list of New Year Resolutions it is time to remember some of the things which make life worth living here:

- The right to go to the church of our choice.
 - The right to read any newspaper, magazine or book we choose.
 - The right of choice in a free market.
 - The right to congregate with out relatives and friends without fear.
 - The right to travel when and where we please over three million square miles of country without asking anyone's permission.
 - And countless other rights too numerous to mention.
- Last but not least we should be thankful for each New Year when friends gather round the festive boards with their pungent scent of evergreen decorations; the quiet and peacefulness of the outdoors compared with the rush of a business day; the sound of church bells in the distance; and the

Poets

America is not over gifted with good poets. They occur, among our many millions, with about the frequency of diamonds in gravel. This thought is prompted by a glance over the Pulitzer prizes awarded for poetry since 1922. The glance back, in turn, was prompted by stories about an exhibition of manuscripts and other items marking the 40th anniversary of Pulitzer awards in literature and journalism.

The poetry award has been made 88 times. But three poets—Robert Frost, Edwin Arlington Robinson and Archibald MacLeish—have each won it more than once. MacLeish received the award twice, Robinson three times. Frost won top honors four times—in 1924, 1931, 1937 and 1943.

Playwrights, also, are a rare species. Robert E. Sherrard and Eugene O'Neill each won the drama prize three times. Thornton Wilder—who also is a winner in the novel category—and Tennessee Williams each won it twice. Among novelists, only Booth Tarkington—won a prize twice; in every other year, a new winner cropped up. But not so with poets. They are the rare birds.

Maybe sometime the sociologists will tell us why that is so.

Premier Enlai To Visit Moscow

By WHITMAN BARROW
United Press Staff Correspondent
MOSCOW (U.S. Communist Chinese Premier Chou Enlai, fresh from a tour of neutral and pro-Western Asian countries, will visit Moscow next month to help "strengthen peace," the Kremlin announced today.

The announcement said Russia extended the invitation. It gave no indication of just when or how long Chou would stay in Moscow. Chou was last here in February 1950, when he and Mao Tse-tung, the Chinese chief of state, signed a Chinese-Soviet mutual aid pact.

The Soviet announcement said Chou would pay a "friendly visit" for the purpose of "strengthening peace."

There were indications that the conference between Chou and Soviet leaders would herald important developments.

Observers pointed to two facts:

1. The Soviet central Communist party committee held meetings last week. None of its decisions has been disclosed.

2. Chou now is concluding a tour of Southeast Asia, including visits to neutral India and Burma and pro-Western Pakistan.

Sources in Karachi, where Chou wound up talks with Pakistan leaders today said he will move to release the 10 American civilians still held prisoner in China in an attempt to better Chinese-American relations.

Western sources have predicted a major communist diplomatic offensive shaping up for the Asian area.

It was recalled that Chou conferred with Indian Premier Jawaharlal Nehru just before Nehru left for his current visit to the United States. Nehru is believed to have relayed to President Eisenhower Chou's stand on various international matters.

There is apparently no prospect of an early solution to the urban automobile parking problem. It is too much to hope that some genius will soon devise a uniform plan that would be suitable for all towns and cities.

The nearest approach to a panacea for this virtually universal ailment of American population centers is off-street parking. Usually this is not easily accomplished, but the results have been satisfactory in most communities that have tried it out.

Here in Sanford, the off-street parking ordinance has corrected many of the ills of parking in the residential and fringe areas. A control of building permits which do not provide home and commercial house off-street parking are turned down or resubmitted to meet the specified requirements.

However, in the commercial areas—such as the established downtown shopping district in Sanford—evidence that off-street parking is working is found in a survey report of the International City Managers Association. About 60 per cent of 1,137 cities of more than 10,000 population were found to be owning and operating one or more off-street parking lots. This was an increase of four per cent in a year.

In many instances, parking fees pay the cost of purchase and maintenance. Virtually every urban locality has sites for parking lots near the central business area. For towns and cities with curb space filled to overflowing with cars, off-street parking is obviously worth considering.

Downtown Sanford can become an attractive mecca for shoppers if unsightly vacant property can be turned into modern parking facilities for visitors from the surrounding area as well as our own local homeowners who shop downtown.

With the coming parallel parking program initiated by the City of Sanford, the problems of parking won't become acute but the addition of parking facilities would ease the complaints of "I can't park there," which will be prevalent.

Business Failures

Business failures are beginning to level off and settle back to normal again. According to "Impact," a review of economic trends and their impact on business, business failures increased to 270 in the December 6 week from 254 in the preceding week.

The review outlines the fact that the business failure toll was up sharply from the 219 last year and 228 in 1954.

The rosy side of the failures came in the announcement that the total "remained nine per cent below the pre-war level of 297 in the comparable week of 1930."

With a greater surge of assistance from the Small Business Administration, even these failures would be reduced tremendously and the entire economic picture would brighten.

Take It Easy In Winter

By HERMAN H. BUNDSEN, M.D.

YOU don't have to shovel snow enough why you should take it to make extra demands on your heart during winter weather, particularly if you are past 40. Just about everything you do outside during the winter months requires more effort than it does during the rest of the year.

Winter Hazards

Your clothing is bulkier and heavier. It's more difficult to get your breath when walking against a brisk wind. And you instinctively hold yourself tense when walking on slippery streets.

All of these things mean extra work, extra strain, on your heart. Naturally, this extra strain makes your heart beat faster. Even without such additional strain, your heart must pump harder in cold weather in order to circulate the blood around your body.

If it is any wonder then that the months of December through March bring more deaths from heart disease than any other time of the year?

January, incidentally, is the peak of the heart attack season. All of which should be reason enough to take it easy in winter.

As soon as you feel yourself becoming tired, go back into the house, take off your wraps, sit down and relax.

If you develop a severe pain in the chest under the breast bone, call your doctor right away. It might be a signal that you have already done more than you should.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q. A. I understand a person with AB type blood can receive heart disease from a person of another type. Is this true?

A. Answer: Yes, this is true. However, this should only be done in an emergency.

STUTTGART, Germany (AP)—Specialist Third Class Harold W. Tucker, son of Walter Tucker, Altamonte Springs, recently was graduated from the Seventh Army Aviation Training Center in Germany.

Specialist Tucker completed the center's non-commissioned officer operations course which trained him in the operation and control of landing strip fields.

Farmers To Get Over $750 Million

By GAYLORD P. GODWIN
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (U.S. — The Agriculture Department has earmarked $750 million for payments to farmers who take surplus crops out of production under the soil bank program next year.

The department also announced that nearly 2 million acres in the Midwest "dust bowl" had been damaged by wind as of Dec. 1 and that another 29 million acres was in condition to blow.

About 25,000 acres of wheat have been hurt, the department said, with about one-third of the damage in Kansas — the nation's top wheat producing state.

The money targeted for soil bank payments next year will go to farmers who do not plant their full allotment of cotton, corn, rice, tobacco and wheat. The aim is to cut down price-depressing surpluses and their drain on the Treasury.

The allocation is $63,000 above the 750 million dollars set by the soil bank law for any year's operation. Department officials said the excess will be used to take care of "slippage" — money that may be committed, but which will not be used because not all agreements will be carried out.

The national allocation for soil bank payments by commodities was: cotton, $217,500,000; corn, $217,500,000; rice, $14,000,000; tobacco, $4,000,000; winter and spring wheat, $67,000,000.

The department also announced it is establishing maximums on the amount of acreage of a particular crop that an individual farmer can place in the acreage reserve.

It also said there will be no minimum acreage limitations on the amount of land that may be entered in the program except for those already in effect for 1957 wheat.

The department already had announced that more than 187 million acres of winter wheat have been enrolled in the soil bank. The goal for all basic crops in the 1957 soil bank is 80 to 85 million acres. The 1956 soil bank included slightly more than 13 million acres.

If soap and warm water fail to remove that type stain, try making a simple cleaning solution. Shave half a bar of naphthalene laundry soap into a quart of warm water. Add 2 tablespoons of borax. Apply it with a cloth and wash off. This will usually work, unless neglect has given the stain a head start. A mild abrasive cleanser may be used. Rub it lightly with a coarse cloth and use plenty of water to remove it.

YOU'RE TELLING ME!

By WILLIAM CURT
Central Press Writer

THE LIBRARY of Indiana University has just acquired a highly valuable copy of the lost memoirs of King James II of England. But they won't prove half as interesting as the diary of one of his subjects, an obscure fellow known as Samuel Pepys.

Pepys' name was (and is) pronounced "Peeper"—a perfect moniker, for he was a champion key-hole peeper.

Sam was such an intractable gossip, he not only blabbed about his friends' indiscretions but also told of his own dires.

To his other accomplishments, Pepys added that of being an outstanding tospot. The record of his college career at Cambridge reveals he got a terrific bawling out for being "scandalously over-romantic in drink."

Sam was quite a ladies' man. He dearly loved to write about romances—chiefly his own.

Pepys was tossed into the stool on several occasions. However, his only crime was being on the wrong side of the current political fence.

Samuel Pepys wrote down everything he saw, thought or did in his diary which was intended just for his own eyes. Postscript, though, played him a dirty trick. His stuff was published 125 years ago—and now the world knows all about him.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CURT

JACK KOFOED'S book, "Moon Over Miami," is a graphic account of the transformation of Miami in a little over fifty years from a sleepy village to a fabulous metropolis. There wasn't even a trolley car there until 1903. "The first one ran along Flagler Street," recalls Kofoed, "and adhered to no rigid schedule. If a lady waved her parasol, the accommodating motorman would back up four blocks to take her aboard. He'd also stop the car as long as ten minutes, smoking his pipe placidly while another rider did her morning shopping. About once every ten blocks, the car went off the tracks, and all the male passengers would have to get out to help the crew lift it back on to the rails."

"When George Merrick was building Coral Gables," writes Jack, "he paid William Jennings Bryan $100,000 a year to help sell his land and Spanish architecture. And, leaving nothing to chance, he also hired belly-wiggling Gilda Gray as a se-publisher."

Soviet Government Is Worried

By CHARLES H. MCCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent
The announcement that Chou Enlai is to visit Moscow shows clearly how worried the Soviet government is over its present situation.

It is evident that the invitation to the Chinese Communist leader to go to Russia was both unexpected and urgent.

Chou was in Pakistan, in the middle of a highly successful tour of East Asian countries, when the Moscow invitation reached him.

To Visit Nehru
As the result Chou will interrupt his tour. He plans to go to India to confer with Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, then fly to Peking for consultation with his Red Chinese cabinet colleagues, and continue on to Russia, arriving on Jan. 7.

From Moscow, it is announced, Chou will go to Warsaw to visit "Trostki" Polish Communist leader Wladyslaw Gomulka.

This visit, too, is unexpected and certainly significant.

Air Force Planning To Move Operation School Next Spring

It is uncertain whether Communist extended his invitation on his own initiative — possibly without consulting Russia — or whether he acted in cooperation with the Soviet government.

Gomulka is steering Poland skillfully on a difficult course. As the result of the Polish revolt, he has won a great measure of independence from Russian domination. He is now trying to keep the aroused Polish people from anti-Russian outbreaks.

It is possible that Russia wants Chou to talk to Gomulka in order to keep him in line.

But it must be remembered that at the time of the Polish revolt, Chou expressed his approval of Gomulka's bid for independent Communism.

When Chou later supported Russian intervention in Hungary, he sent a secret message to Gomulka emphasizing that this did not mean a change in his attitude toward Poland.

Chou visited India before Prime Minister Nehru went to the United States to see President Eisenhower.

While he was in India Chou made an attempt to keep secret his opinion that, while he publicly approved the Soviet intervention in Hungary, he believed that Russia had tarnished its own prestige and had harmed world Communism by its brutality.

It seems certain that the Russians want to fix up their relations with Red China and try to keep Chou from making any statements which are critical of Russian policy.

Plumbing fixture experts warn that kitchen laundry room or bathroom basins not be used as receptacles for photographic developing solutions because stains will result, often impossible to remove.

The announcement said the Bilco location was selected because of the availability of more economical and efficient facilities on an established Air Force base. The school has been in operation in a leased resort hotel here since June 1951.

SOUTHERN PINES, N. C. (U.S. — The Air Force plans to move its air-ground operations school here to Keesler AFB, Miss., early next spring.

The announcement was the third time that plans to move the school to Mississippi had been disclosed. Each previous time the plans were being protested.

Municipal official J. Ervin Jr. (D-NC) plans a last-ditch petition to the Air Force asking that the school be kept here. Rep. C. B. Dean (D-NC), a leader in previous fights, was defeated for re-election this year.

The move was announced by the headquarters of the Tactical Air Command at Langley AFB, Va. The TAC operates the school to provide orientation and instruction in doctrine, tactics and techniques of joint air-ground operations for key personnel of the armed forces.

Brig. Gen. Daniel W. Jenkins, commandant of the school, and more than 100 officers and enlisted personnel will make the move to the school's new home at Bilco, Miss.

Fewer Voters Go To Polls This Year

WASHINGTON (U.S. — President Eisenhower defeated Democrat Adlai Stevenson in the presidential election last month by a record vote of 35,262,336 to 26,000,087, according to final official returns.

However, the final official returns also showed that despite the record vote, a larger percentage of potential voters stayed away from the polls than in 1952.

Final returns certified by secretaries of state in all 48 states became available last week when Rhode Island completed counting its absentee ballots.

The official totals showed Mr. Eisenhower stopped Stevenson's second try for the White House by a landslide margin of 9,252,249 votes.

He captured 57.38 per cent of the popular vote, compared with his showing of 46.4 per cent in 1952. In setting a new presidential vote-getting record, he polled 1,644,984 more votes than the 33,617,352 he gathered in defeating Stevenson four years ago.

The grand total of all valid votes also set a new record of 62,118,938, compared with the previous high of 61,551,919 in 1952. Minor party and scattered votes accounted for 507,613 votes.

In the Nov. 6 election Stevenson won 41.80 per cent of the total vote. States Rights candidate T. Coleman Andrews received 0.28 per cent. Other scattered minor candidates got a total of 0.53 per cent.

Revolver To Be Awarded At Chiefs Club Meet Tonight

The Seminole Chiefs Club meeting tonight at 7:30 at Seminole High School will feature the awarding of the 30 Smith and Western revolver donated to the Seminole club by Sheriff J. Luther Mobley for use in paying for the football uniforms of the two junior high schools.

Wished for by many local athletes minded citizens for years, the junior high school football team saw its realization after the formation of the Seminole Chiefs Club.

In response from the requests of the Seminole High School athletic department, the Seminole Chiefs took the uniforming of the junior high school boys for rigorous competitive sports, particularly football, as its project.

Within a month after the Seminole Chiefs were requested to take action on the matter, the junior high schools were uniformed with 50 uniforms under a bid let to a local concern, Hill Implement Co.

Before the end of the past football season the junior high teams made their public debut in Memorial Stadium in a thrilling contest that amazed everyone attending. The game ended in a 0-0 deadlock.

The proceeds from the game went toward payment of the uniforms and the Seminole Chiefs had already donated $300 to the event. In all, the entire uniforming cost close to $2,000, and the purchase was made possible through the generous effort and untiring terms by a civic minded representative of Hill Implement Co., Bobby Newman.

After the game, the Seminole Chiefs began a donation drive to go toward the financing of the junior high football project. Tonight the drive will be completed and the awarding will be held.

"We will also discuss plans for an auction to be held in February," W. W. Tyre, chairman of the Junior High School Football Project Committee, said this morning. "But right now we'll be pleased with a large turnout tonight for the awarding."

Sanders Wants To Be Great Tourney Player

By Hugh Ansley Sports Editor
If you're wondering what it's like to turn professional in the golfing world, Doug Sanders, the 23 year old youth from Cedar-town, Ga., will serve as a good study. Doug, coached to a high degree of polish by Andy Bracken, presently principal of Seminole High and formerly a coach at the University of Florida.

turned pro for the second annual $15,000 PGA Mayfair Inn Open. Doug, the keenest competitor this writer has ever seen, began caddy'ing at the early and impressive age of six. When he was in his early teens, he would play golf for a nickel stake and a person witnessing the round would think young Sanders' life was at stake.

Being associated with the tops in the golfing world, Doug early acquired the winning—and the losing—spirit, and the joviality that is necessary for both.

By the time Doug was 17, he had completed in two tournaments. He had an unorthodox swing and he needed a lot of work on judging distances. He worked hard that year; he already had decided he wanted to be a great golfer. Sanders eyed the National J. C. Championship—he wanted it—the look it, and heads above all others. Doug had achieved national recognition before he had finished high school.

After high school Doug went to the University of Florida, and under the guiding influence of Andy Bracken his competitive spirit was championed and Doug began to play tournament calibre golf. Doug played the U of F team to unprecedented victories in 1955, winning every collegiate championship that existed in the South.

After college Doug started following the tour. He became affiliated with insurance companies in Canada and the United States. In Canada he took the Canadian Open.

Doug Sanders was married the 21st of Dec. to a hometown girl in Cedar-town. Had he had his six month tenure up for professional golf, he would have taken home some of Horace Stoneham's (the man who pays the Mayfair Inn open checks) money.

Why did Doug turn pro? "I want to find out, working as hard as I can, how well I can do with the rest of the fellows in the PGA tour. This is the only way I can do it—Play, practice, and give it all I can. I still have that ambition to become a great tournament player, but I don't want to play forever. I want to settle down and have a family someday. I don't want to wait too long before we start having kids," he said.

The thrill, the sensation, of keen competition makes the difference with Doug even in the choice of his clubs. Doug prefers the long irons because, "I get a better feel, better sensation out of long irons. They're more satisfying than wedges," he remarked.

NASCAR Sanction Granted For Gold Cup Race Sunday

TITUSVILLE, Fla.—(Special)—What should shape up as one of the most colorful auto races in the southland is scheduled for Sunday, December 30, when the newly-formed Brevard Enterprises, Inc., opens activities with the Indian River Gold Cup Race. Official National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing sanction for Stock Car Auto Racing will be raced over the 1-1/2 mile Titusville-Cocoa Speedway. The Speedway has been laid out on the site of the Titusville-Cocoa Airport, and the race, listed for 74 laps around the course, will have the earmarks of an outstanding road race such as staged at the famed "Road America" course in Elkhart Lake, Wisconsin.

Brevard Enterprises, Inc., was founded by a family of Titusville businessmen, William Waldron, Sr., and his sons, Bill Jr., and John. The corporation plans a series of major races under NASCAR sanction.

The first venture comes at an opportune time with Florida bursting with sports activity as the New Year approaches. The Gold Cup football game will be played in Jacksonville the preceding Saturday, with the Orange Bowl contest in Miami the following Tuesday or New Year's Day. Titusville is located on the main route going south from Jacksonville to Miami.

It also comes at a time of year when many of the top drivers will welcome the setting as well as a chance to cut in on the prize money which will total $4,000.00, with first place being worth $850.00, including special accessory awards.

The event will be one of the first in NASCAR's 1957 calendar, and is expected to draw the top drivers like Buck Baker, National Champion from Charlotte, N. C.; Speedy Thompson, also of Charlotte; Lee Petty, former National Champ from Randolman, N. C.; Tim Flock, twice National Champ from Atlanta; Jim Paschal, Fireball Roberts, Billy Myers, Ralph Moody, Marvin Panich, Joe Eubanks, Paul Goldsmith and many others of the top-rankers.

The Waldrons are making extensive plans in laying out the course, protection being supplied by a system of telephone poles, sandbags, and other equipment. There will be seating for approximately 1,000 fans, but the spacious area easily can accommodate 15,000, with the majority likely to take their places along the more exciting turns as usual at road races.

Time trials for the big race are scheduled from noon to 2:00 P. M. Sunday with feature race time at 3:00 P. M. Tickets will be on sale shortly with seats unobscured in advance $2.50, and those at the gate $3.00.

Casares '56 Yards Gained Champion

PHILADELPHIA — Rick Casares, well-known Floridian and Seminole Park Raceway attraction partner, who is the bulldozing fullback of the Chicago Bears and the fourth player in National Football League history to gain 1,000 yards by rushing in a single season, became the 1956 champion. Casares' 1,126 yards stood up as the Baltimore Colts and Washington Redskins ended the regular season this past weekend, one week after the Bears' back finished his schedule.

Other leaders for the year were Eddie Brown of the Bears in passing; Billy Wilson of San Francisco in pass receptions; Bobby Layne of Detroit in scoring; Norm A'vn Brocklin of Los Angeles in punting; Sam Baker of Washington in field goals; Ken Konz of Cleveland in punt returns; Tom Wilson of Los Angeles in kickoff returns; and Linton Crow of the Chicago Cardinals in interceptions.

1956 Busy, Safe Year For Aviation

WASHINGTON — The year 1956 will be recorded as one of the safest and busiest in commercial aviation history. Acting Civil Aeronautics Administrator James T. Pyle said Sunday that U. S. airlines hauled 45,860,000 passengers this year. This was 11 per cent more than the previous record of 41,441,000 in 1955.

Domestic scheduled airlines had 0.62 passenger fatalities for every 100 million passenger miles, compared with 0.76 in 1955.

This year's record was even more impressive, Pyle pointed out, since figures include the 184 passengers and crew members lost in the collision over the Grand Canyon during the summer.

Pyle said in international service by American-owned airlines there were no fatal accidents in 1955, four lives were lost.

The irregular, non-scheduled airlines have not had a passenger fatality since Sov. 17, 1955, Pyle reported.

Extreming tired 100 times during eight seasons and lived to be 30 years old.

Around the world look ahead at the news that will make the headlines.

Blockbuster
The Senate investigating subcommittee is quietly getting ready for blockbuster hearings in the early spring on labor racketeering. Investigators have been digging into the background of the New York hoodlums implicated in the acid blinding of labor columnist Victor Riesel. But that phase of the spade work is described as only incidental to the main investigation, which has threads leading to most of the country's major industrial centers.

Times Have Changed
A few years ago it would have been incredible. But you can look for the appointment next spring of a German general as commander in chief of the North Atlantic Treaty ground forces in Central Europe. He's Lt. Gen.

Salt May Have Bearing On High Blood Pressure

By HERMAN H. SCHLESINGER, M.D.

ARE you one of those persons who salt his food even before tasting it? If you are, chances are you might be a good candidate for a certain type of high blood pressure—essential hypertension. Let me emphasize right here that there is no known explanation for essential hypertension.

One of the 126 persons in the first category developed essential hypertension. Forty-three of the 126 in the second classification developed the ailment. But 81 out of 81 persons who salted unadvised food were found to have the disease.

I think the evidence is pretty plain that there is a definite connection here.

J. A.: Is vitamin B-12 of help in treating osteoarthritis?
Answer: Recently it has been shown that, when it is properly used, Vitamin B-12 in large doses does help certain cases of osteoarthritis.

Hungarian Labor Shows Signs Of Getting Tough

Giants Second Highest Taxpayers In City

The New York Giants are the second highest taxpayers in the City of Sanford with investments close to a million dollars, John Krider, Manager of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce, told the Jaycees at their luncheon meeting yesterday.

Krider, an unofficial spokesman for the New York Giants, Seminole County Commissioner-elect, Sanford City Commissioner, and President of the Florida State

Newsman Slip Into Red China; May Be Fined, Imprisoned

WASHINGTON — Three American newsmen who slipped into Red China illegally could face heavy fines, imprisonment and loss of other privileges, government officials said today.

Government legal officers are determining possible legal actions which might be taken against the newsmen. When they do come home, their passports may be seized—an action that could bar any foreign travel for an indefinite period.

Officials told the United Press that no decisions had been made on what course of action, if any, will be followed.

The first newsmen to enter Red China in violation of passport restrictions was William Worth, Negro correspondent for the Baltimore Afro-American. Worth entered Red China the day before Christmas.

Two Newly-Wed Freedom Fighters Begin New Life

CHARLOTTE, N. C. — Two newly-wed Hungarian freedom fighters began a new life without leaving or oppression today and pray "the rest of our countrymen" soon will do likewise.

Geza and Eva Biro—using assumed names to protect relatives still in Hungary—arrived here Wednesday night and set up housekeeping in a small apartment contributed by a well-wisher.

Although neither can speak English, they have received offers of employment and financial assistance. One caller offered Geza a job in a factory and said he would get a promotion as soon as he mastered English.

Geza and Eva were married in a refugee camp in Austria Dec. 20 after a harrowing 38-mile flight on foot from Hungary. The couple fought with the Hungarian patriots until the Russian army crushed the revolt and Geza learned that he was marked for deportation to Siberia.

An Army chaplain gave the couple paper and stamps to write relatives in Charlotte who arranged for their removal here.

Homemade Bomb Is Found In Theater

NEW YORK — A crude homemade bomb wrapped in a red sock was found in a seat at the Paramount Theater in Times Square early today and police said apparently was the work of the "mad bomber" whose explosives have injured 15 persons here since 1940.

Bomb squad detectives using a blast-proof truck swiftly removed the device from the theater which had been emptied an hour earlier following the last show.

Discovery of the bomb was made seven hours after police received a telephone call from a man who said a bomb would go off in the Paramount at 7:35 p. m. Without disturbing the 2,300 theater patrons, police searched the theater but found no trace of a bomb.

But during a more thorough search early this morning, police found the latest weapon, wedged in a 13th row orchestra seat. The seat had been slit, apparently with a knife, and the bomb placed inside.

Weather

Fair and not quite so cold Friday and Saturday.

Tempers Fanned By Crisis

VIENNA — Hungary's restive workers showed renewed signs today of getting tough with the Soviet-imposed Communist Hungarian regime on the eve of an expected government reshuffle.

The workers' tempers were being fanned by the nation's economic crisis which has resulted in widespread unemployment.

Reports from Budapest said considerable interest is being attached to a meeting there today of the Hungarian Writers Association. The association was active in the early stages of the political ferment which preceded the eruption of the freedom revolt Oct. 23.

The Budapest afternoon newspaper Esti Hirlap said the writers will likely discuss the events of the past weeks.

Workers' Voice Demands

Reports reaching Vienna said steelworkers of the Cepeel Island industrial complex laid strong demands before puppet Premier Janos Kadar at a meeting in Budapest Thursday.

Idled workers received another blow from the Red regime. Budapest radio announced food would no longer be provided to workers in the idled factories on (Continued On Page Two)

Top News In Brief

CAMP KILMER, N. J. — Vice President Richard M. Nixon has denied reports that there is a "bottleneck" in the government's relief program for Hungarian refugees.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. — The average U. S. farm has expanded from 215 acres in 1950 to a present size of about 250 acres, the Northwestern National Life Insurance Co. said today.

WASHINGTON — Ambassadors and ministers from Iron Curtain countries—including those from Russia and Hungary—have been invited to be "honored guests" at President Eisenhower's Inaugural Ball next month.

CAIRO — The United Nations Salvage Fleet was reported at work clearing the Suez Canal today, and Cairo newspapers said the move meant the Middle East crisis was nearing an end.

BUDAPEST — The Russians have withdrawn three of the 12 to 14 divisions they had in Hungary at the height of last month's rebellion, independent non-Communist sources reported today.

Jaycees Receive U. S. Civic Service Award

The United States Jaycee's Civic Service award, made recently to the Seminole County Junior Chamber of Commerce by the Fourth District Vice President Larry Condit, was in recognition of the local club meeting the requirements of Operation Civic Service conduct on a nationwide basis.

George A. Speer, President of the Seminole County Jaycees said yesterday that the projects "entitling us to this award" and the Jaycees who worked so hard to get it, were:

The Fishing Rodeo, Jack Sewell committee chairman; Fire Prevention Week, with Bob Crumley as committee chairman; Get-Out-The-Vote, with Bill Gramkow as committee chairman; Operation of the Information Booth under the direction of the Board of Directors and Miss Nora Belle Clause; Teen Age Road-E-O, with Bill Lockard as committee chairman; and Christmas activities, with the Christmas parade committee headed by Tom McDonald, the Shopping Tour and Balloon Sales committee headed by Mason Wharton, and the Christmas Lighting Contest Committee headed by John Alexander.

"We all should be proud of the awards we've received and thank all who helped in making it possible to qualify for it," said Speer.

Legislative Council To Consider 65 mph Daytime Speed Limit

JACKSONVILLE — A recommendation to establish a 65-mile-an-hour daytime speed limit and a 55-mile-an-hour night time limit for passenger cars on Florida highways was in the hands of the Legislative Council today.

And unless the council gives its unanimous approval to the proposal, the suggestion will not go to the State Legislature in April for a vote.

The Legislative Council's Safety Committee, which makes preliminary recommendations to the council which in turn hands proposed legislation over to the lawmakers, agreed Thursday that an "absolute" maximum speed limit was needed for the state to cut down the staggering toll of highway deaths.

Set Highway Limits

The committee set the open highway limits at 65 and 55 but put off temporarily any decision on a lower limit for trucks and buses.

The group also agreed to seek a state limit of 30 miles per hour in cities and towns to replace the present 25 miles per hour setup.

Sen. Merrill Barber of Vero Beach, who heads the committee, spoke up for the "absolute" daytime limits, saying "if there ever was a time that the people of Florida and the Legislature were (Continued On Page 10)

News Of Memorial Library, Museum Reaches Belgium

News of the General Henry Shelton Sanford Memorial Library and Museum is beginning to reach into many corners of the globe, particularly in the country which Sanford's founder served.

A letter from Willebroeck, Belgium is proof that the newly built library and museum is already becoming prominent in many circles.

The letter was addressed to The Librarian of the Henry Shelton Sanford Memorial Library, Sanford, Florida, U.S.A.

Already, copies of information about General Sanford which appeared in last year's edition of The Sanford Herald's Mail-away Edition have been mailed to the college student making the inquiry.

The letter was as follows:

Dear Sir,

By means of the Connecticut Historical Society, your address was given to me in order to get some information.

As a student of the Colonial University of Antwerp, I have to make a dissertation, a thesis, concerning Sir H. S. Shelton Sanford, who was a friend of our King Leopold II.

If possible, can I have a good bibliography and eventually a list of works, who can be consulted here in Europe. Further a description of his youth-diplomatic and military period.

As the founder of the way of Sanford's founding by Sir Henry Shelton Sanford.

I dare ask you all this politely, because this way is the only to help a Belgian student, hoping the successful explanation of his difficulties. Very thanks to you.

Very truly yours

Siebens Philips

Appelendckstraat, 176
Willebroeck, Prov. Antwerp
Belgium.

The General Henry Shelton Sanford Memorial Library and Museum is expected to be dedicated and opened during the coming year. Books and museum items are being shipped to Sanford and will arrive in the near future. The library is valued in excess of one million dollars.

Baseball Training To Be Held Here For Teenage Boys

Something new has been added to the Spring Baseball Training picture in Sanford, and it may be one of the first ventures of its kind in the area.

On March 10 next year, 25 high school boys from New York State will arrive in Sanford for ten days of intensive training.

They will be accompanied by a group of parents and the athletic staff of the Hackley School for Boys in Tarrytown, N. Y.

Reservations have been made at the Mayfair Inn for the group of baseball enthusiasts and their parents, and the athletic staff of the school.

The City of Sanford will furnish a baseball diamond at the Memorial Baseball Stadium.

Training of the high school group will be in progress at the same time that the New York Giants Farm System Spring Training Camp will be in operation.

No doubt the youngsters will get some pointers from the staff of coaches, scouts, and former big league players who will be here setting the ten New York Giants Farm System teams in shape for their 1957 season.

Industry, NAS Highlight Report

Industry promotion, Naval Air Station, highways and a look into the future, highlight the first report made by Seminole County Chamber of Commerce Manager John Krider and released today to a Chamber of Commerce members.

At the outset of his report, Krider stated that "while the Chamber of Commerce should pursue its usual activities, industrial promotion is an effort to keep the Naval Air Station in Seminole County should have precedence." This, of course, with a nod from the CoC Board of Directors.

Krider stated that "we have followed every possible industrial lead." Out-of-town contacts with industrial leaders were made with a view to bringing important subcontractors into the county. And visits to plants with plans to expand the area along with which established ties with the Florida Development Commission and its members are among some of the efforts already completed.

The Chamber of Commerce manager stated that an industrial brochure will be published, and an industrial survey by Florida Power & Light Company engineers will be published.

"Competition is keen among Florida cities," admits Krider. "We have no large buildings, nor any funds to construct them, but we do have good industrial sites. But we'll keep trying."

In outlining conferences concerning the Sanford Naval Air Station Krider said in his report that "The Chamber of Commerce will continue to maintain the excellent relations which exist between Naval personnel and citizens of this county."

"Modern highways are essential, especially to the success of the job endeavor," said Krider.

The report includes the announcement that a new map of Sanford and Seminole County will be published, the Legislative and National Affairs Committee has met with James E. Mooney, District Manager of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, and that renovations to the CoC offices are complete.

"The Chamber of Commerce plans to do everything possible in rekindle interest in the Sanford Dock and Terminal, a project of vital importance to the continued development of our area," said Krider in his report.

"We expect to continue promotion of the St. Johns-Indian River Canal; to see a consolidation of all major fund drives into one over-all effort in the nature of a Community Chest; to meet with all committee chairmen and their groups in January; a concentrated effort to secure new members after the first of the year; and to hold the annual meeting of the membership during the first part of the New Year," said Krider in the Sem-O-Grain report.

"I wish to thank all of you for your fine support these first few months. I shall continue to need the help of everyone of you if we are to do the job that is needed here," said Krider.
