BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY IN HIM WE LIVE.—That they should seek the Lord.—For in him we live, and move, and have our being.—Acts 17:28.

HOSPITAL
A little lad today will keep A quiet tryst; he soon will sleep In dreams; I pray he may not feel The sharp bite of the searching steel.

He is so very young; he knows The mystery of death; he goes With level eyes, Guard him today . . .

This hour . . . dear God . . . I kneel . . . I pray.
By Wilfred J. Funk.

The choir of most of impartial political observers seems to be Owen D. Young for secretary of the state, and Owen D. Young for secretary of treasury.

Britain hails the bicycle boom as a means of increasing the health of the nation through exercise.
What we need in this country is a bicycle boom to increase the health of the pocket book.

When Trubus Davison, Republican candidate for lieutenant governor of New York, heard the results of the election, he said, "Well I guess that's over the damn." Could he have meant the Hoover Dam, or the People's Dam?

During the month of September there were 35,293,266 pairs of shoes manufactured in America, the largest number during any month in the past three years, which may indicate that America is coming out of the depression, or that automobiles are wearing out.

Germany's order against nudist colonies has met with determined opposition. Threatened with arrest, some 200,000 members of the club replied, "You may arrest us, but if you do, we will follow your pollen through the streets of Berlin, willingly, but nude!" It is reasonably safe to say that no arrest will be made.

In Lake Mary, Frank Evans, recently returned from a trip through the West, exhibits a physiological phenomenon in the cattle business.
The stuffed neck of a calf supports two heads as truly identical and perfect as two peas in a pod. We have seen two calves turn many a head, but we never before saw one calf turn two heads.

Some of the international problems remaining to be solved at the present time include the recognition of Soviet Russia, the World Court, ratification of the St. Lawrence seaway treaty, independence of the Philippines, war debts, disarmament, and the establishment of silver as a means of exchange.
What happens on these various questions will control to a large extent our prosperity.

In condemning big business, it is interesting to note that most colleges and universities, open to the public, have their investments tied up in big business. Seventy-four percent of all the endowments of all the universities in the country are invested in public utilities, $125,000,000; railroads, $100,000,000; banks and insurance companies, $9,000,000; other industries, $87,000,000; foreign bonds, $1,000,000; U. S. municipal bonds, $5,000,000; and so forth.

Henry Long, who in his speeches for Roosevelt advocated a general confiscation and redistribution of wealth, should study the imposing list of Democratic campaign contributors, which includes this country's foremost railroad magnate, Arthur Currier James, and such other sons of wealth as Bernard Baruch, who contributed $41,000
during the month of September, and Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, Vincent Astor, Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, Eleanor Patterson, Charles Hamilton Sabin and William K. Vanderbilt.

Dave Sholtz goes into office as governor of Florida with the greatest popular following of any executive in this state within our memory. Nominally in a field of ten experienced politicians, he emerged in the first primary ahead of all of them except the former governor, John Martin, whom he trailed by a few thousand votes. In the second primary, Sholtz defeated Martin by over seventy thousand votes. In last week's election he demonstrated that he has lost none of his popularity when he was swept into office with an 85,000 majority.

Going into office with this overwhelming endorsement of the people will prove of invaluable assistance to Mr. Sholtz in the troublesome days to come. No other single contributing factor makes for greater success in politics than a stable government blessed with the support of a comfortable majority of the people. Where the margin is close, where the opponents are nearly equal to the supporters, where there exists a feeling that the election was stolen, or that a single campaign lie probably altered the natural will of the people, no government can rule with the firmness and decisiveness so essential to accomplishment.

Mr. Sholtz, in taking up the reins of government in January, need have no fear that any isolated measure of his may boomerang to his destruction. He will be the governor of all the people, in the truest sense of the word, not of any special group or interest. If some bill is presented to him for signing which in the interest of the common good, nevertheless incurs the animosity of a special group, he is free to act for all the people, since he can say to any clique or faction, "I appreciate your support, but I would have been elected without it."

In retrospect, the campaign, both during the primary and since, does seem to have produced some pledges difficult of fulfillment. We have no doubt that the platform of Mr. Sholtz was devised in utmost sincerity with every confident and conscientious hope of carrying it out, but the fact remains that recommending measures and signing bills cannot of themselves secure desired results. There is that great body of conflicting emotions and extra sessions, known as the Legislature, to deal with. What may happen in this assembly to the best intentions in the world, not even the ghosts can say.

We are inclined to believe, however, that the administration of Mr. Sholtz will be judged not so much by whether he gave us $5.00 license tags, or a three cent gasoline tax, and withal free school books, but rather by the sum total of his administrative acts and their effect upon the average citizen. If, after four years at Tallahassee, it can truly be said that taxes in general have been reduced, that governmental costs have been curtailed, that increased efficiency in various departments, bureaus, and commissions has resulted in greater service to the people at smaller cost, and that from these measures a majority of the people, composed as it is of just average citizens, have benefited, then Mr. Sholtz need have no fear of the hobgoblins of broken campaign pledges or the devastating mud-slinging of any future political campaigners.

Mr. Sholtz has an almost unexcelled opportunity to make good, and we look forward hopefully to his successful administration.

The Digest Makes Good

The amazing accuracy with which the Literary Digest continues to forecast elections is rapidly leading us to the point, we fear, when elections themselves will be entirely unnecessary, and the presidency itself will hinge upon the Digest poll. In spite of unusual conditions this year which might have resulted in a complete upset of early predictions, the Digest emerged with a higher degree of accuracy than in either the 1924 or 1928 elections.

Based on slightly incomplete returns, which when complete should not alter percentages, the figures show that this year's poll was 98.85 percent correct in its prediction of the popular vote and 99.6 percent correct in its forecast of the electoral vote. While part of this accuracy resulted from errors which cancelled each other, the results are nevertheless little short of amazing. The Digest Poll predicted that Roosevelt would carry Pennsylvania and Delaware whereas in the election they went to Hoover. But the Digest also predicted that Massachusetts, Rhode Island and New Jersey would be Republican whereas in the official count they were Democratic.

Dr. William Woods, editor of the Digest, was not willing, however, to admit that the Digest went completely wrong even in these states. "In spite of their seeming vote for Hoover," he declared, "the 'Digest' predicted that Roosevelt would carry Massachusetts, Rhode Island, and probably New Jersey on the basis of the 1928 poll . . . so the forecast went wrong on only Pennsylvania and Delaware, two states out of forty-eight."

Dr. Woods was in a quandary as to the cause for the mistake in Pennsylvania. "I can't understand," he insisted, "how we could have been so far wrong in that state. The suggestion that we may have approached a majority of Democrats in that state, as we did Republicans in Massachusetts and New Jersey (through the system of sending votes only to persons listed in telephone directories and auto license tag bureaus), may be the solution."

However chagrined Dr. Woods may be as a result of Pennsylvania's mystifying behavior, he is to be congratulated on the fine degree of accuracy maintained by the poll as a whole. We have no doubt that in years to come the Digest Poll will be almost as official as the election day returns.

SANFORD, TWENTY YEARS AGO

Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Gonzalez were host and hostess at a very pleasant card party Thursday evening. The ladies' prize, a very pretty picture was won by Mrs. A. P. Connelly. Mr. O. W. Brady made the highest score among the gentlemen and won a deck of cards. Guests were: Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Brady, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Whitner, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Herndon, Mrs. A. P. Connelly, Mrs. Samuel Puleston, and Miss Ruth Butler.

Mrs. B. F. Coney, of Brunswick, Ga., with her little son, Burford, is visiting her father and mother, Capt. and Mrs. P. M. Elder, at their country home near Sanford.

Mrs. J. C. Bennett returned home last Tuesday evening from Christiansburg, Va., where she has been spending the past three months.

Mrs. George R. Waldron has been appointed to represent the Wednesday Club as delegate to the State Federation of Women's Clubs which will hold its annual meeting at West Palm Beach beginning Tuesday morning. Mrs. J. W. Dickins, president of the Welaka Club, and Mrs. H. L. DeFarent, delegate, will represent the Welaka Club at the convention.

More than a thousand southern women, members of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, journeyed to Arlington national cemetery Tuesday to lay the cornerstone of a monument to the Confederate soldiers buried there. The monument, looming beside the great stupa shafts erected to the memory of Union soldiers, is designated as a lasting evidence that the north and the south are permanently united.

HOOVER ASKS ROOSEVELT TO DISCUSS DEBT

said, "In proposals from our jobbers of tangible compensation in other forms than direct payment, in expansion of markets for the products of our labor and our farms, and I have stated further that substantial reduction of work armament which will relieve our own and world burdens and dangers has a bearing on this question."

"If negotiations are to be undertaken as requested by these governments, protracted and detailed discussions would be necessary which could not be concluded during my administration. Any negotiation of this question on the basis of the requests of these governments is limited by the resolution of Congress.

"And if there is to be any change in the attitude of Congress, it will be greatly affected by the views of those members who oppose you as their leader and who will properly desire your counsel and advice."

Hoover told Roosevelt he was prepared to deal with the question as far as his power would permit, but added "it must be our common wish to deal with this question in a constructive fashion for the common good of the country."

"I am loath to proceed with recommendations to the Congress," he said, "until I can have an opportunity to confer with you personally at some convenient date in the near future."

Among the "other important questions as to which I think an interchange of views would be in the public interest," the President mentioned this winter's world economic conference.

"The building of world economic stability if of course of the greatest importance in the building up of our recovery," the message said. "As you know, a world economic conference will be held during the course of the coming winter."

"Already two American experts have met with the technical experts of other governments to prepare tentative agenda. While this conference may be begun during my administration, it is certain it will not complete its labors until after you have assumed office."

The telegram termed the disarmament conference parallel with the economic conference, adding "This also has a great economic purpose as well as the advancement of world peace."

Economists See Great Benefits In Debt Changes

tives of the American people recognize this vital and delicate problem as a nonpartisan issue to be settled strictly on its merits in the best interests of the United States.

"That Congress authorize, by the re-creation of the World War foreign debt commission or other wise, such reconsideration and readjustments of the debt-funding agreements as would best advance the interests of American trade and promote American prosperity;

"That Congress extend the moratorium for a sufficient period to give time for these negotiations."

Sloan said of the report, which will be presented to the 700 members of the committee:

"It is high time that this sort of concerted attempt be made to bring to bear on crucial economic problems the results of authoritative, unprejudiced scientific research and opinion."

"The effort in this case takes on added significance from the fact that it has been checked against everyday business experience by the industrialists and business men who have endorsed the findings of the economists."

The report is signed by James W. Angell, Columbia professor;

Are You Hesitating About Buying the Things You Need and Can Really Afford?

Does timidity or fear of criticism keep you from doing a real service to the country and to the unemployed?

IT IS TRUE that many people have been hard hit by the depression and are struggling to make both ends meet. We all know it is difficult for them to make many purchases beyond the bare needs of existence.

You are doing a real service to the country, to the unemployed and to yourself when you purchase the things you need and can afford to buy. Every purchase that you make now—large or small—helps to create work and wages for those less fortunate than yourself.

There are many thousands of men and women, however, who are receiving a fair income and who could be of tremendous help in aiding the business revival. All you need to do is to buy the things you need and can actually afford.

That doesn't mean that you should buy extravagantly, wastefully, or recklessly. It simply means buying what you need when you need it in a normal, natural way.

Have you been hesitating about buying because of timidity or a fear that you might be criticized? Exactly the reverse should be true.

That's the big, broad humanitarian side of it. The bitter side is what it means to your personally to buy the things you need and can afford to purchase now. Never were such purchases available. Never were prices so low.

But price isn't everything. Today, as always, quality is the important thing to look for. It pays to buy standard, line-stamped merchandise from firms you can depend on. You're almost always disappointed when you experiment with some unknown brand just because it is cheap.

From day to day in this newspaper are advertisements featuring many unusual values. Read them and take advantage of the opportunities they offer. The business revival will be speeded up if people will again buy the best necessary things they need and can afford to purchase.

When you buy a new dress or a pair of shoes or a new radio or a new refrigerator or a new car you help to give work and wages to people in many sections of the country. When you have the house repainted, rooms repapered or the roof fixed you directly assist other deserving workmen—perhaps in your very neighborhood.

Nothing you could possibly do for those who need help could be more helpful or resultful than this. Sincere, honest, serving people everywhere would rather have work than charity.
