Stripped to essentials, we supposed it could be called the Nude Deal.

Socialists Vote To Resist War By AK Means—headline. Peace at any price. Where have we heard that before?

(According to Roger Babson's nationwide poll, President Roosevelt won a smashing victory over the No-Deal.

Plants Arming for Steel War, Pinchot insists—headline. It looks as if it might be a case of being up against the cold steel.

As we see it, it isn't so important whether you spend 75 percent of what you earn as it is whether you earn 75 percent of what you spend.

The state liquor profits are still "falling below Pinchot hopes."

Evidently we aren't drinking enough to suit Mr. Pinchot. Philadelphia Inquirer.

The Miami News says that an Idaho man is trying to trade his wife for a farm. That must be one of the results of the government's farm relief program.

We start with a clean slate, says Henry Fletcher, new chairman of the GOP. And a clean slate for the Republican party after all the dirt has been connected with it.

Government officials have decided to abandon price fixing. Next year high school boys could have told them that the "honor system" is expecting too much of 120,000,000 people.

One of the questions asked Long by policemen during recent examinations was: "What is the difference between communism and fascism?" One of them answered that "one begins with a 'c' and the other with an 'f.'" What would you say?

According to F. P. A. people are different. One man may feel that he can push over the Empire State Building with his little finger, and another may think that to tie a shoelace is beyond a superman's power. We imagine a good many Empire State pushers have turned into shoelace ties since Tuesday's election.

Over $228,000,000 would have been called a good deal of money. Now, it is government "small change." The day when the country swooped at the thought of spending $200,000,000 to build the Panama Canal seems primitive.

Arthur Brisbane, $228,000,000 is a good deal of money these days. But nobody objects as long as it's being spent. It's paying it back that they want like.

James M'Mullin, a newspaper correspondent, brings out something on the NRA that Darwin didn't think about. Says M'Mullin, "A certain company employed 100 men at $7 a week in the pre-code days. Came the Blue Eagle—doubling the minimum wage. So the concern installed new machines and now hires only 100 men at the $14 rate. The company claimed this was necessary as a matter of survival. But you can see how it helps re-employment."

There are more ways than one of spending money for relief. For instance, you can appoint a committee to see what ought to be done about relief. Or you can appoint the money for the purpose of taking a census of the unemployed to find out how many are needed. Our House in Washington passed a bill the other day providing $100 million dollars ($100,000,000) to take a census of the unemployed. One good thing about it, the bill provides that the census be taken before the money is spent.

A Wise Move

Probably the wisest thing which has happened in the NRA headquarters was the decision to abandon the policy of raising and controlling prices in thousands of businesses, big and little, scattered all over the United States. Even if price-fixing were enforceable, and it is not, there is considerable doubt as to its beneficial effects upon society as a whole.

Manifestly cut-throat competition is ruinous to business, and when this ruinous applies to a large number of businesses, its effects upon the people themselves becomes harmful. But not all low prices constitute cut-throat competition. Frequently low prices are the result of greater efficiency, smaller capital investments, reduced overhead. The public is entitled to the benefits of such savings. Cut-throat competition begins only where goods are sold at an actual loss for the sole purpose of taking business away from a competitor.

In its price-fixing policies the NRA has not been content with the elimination of cut-throat competition, it has attempted to raise prices to the point where every business could make a profit. In doing this it has necessarily been compelled to raise them so high that the more efficiently operated businesses, if there were no loss in consumption, would have made exorbitant profits.

As might have been expected, consumer resistance quickly developed. The public simply would not pay the higher prices expected of it. Business men were instantly confronted with the alternative of forfeiting sales or of "chiseling." Plainly if sales were forfeited, the public suffered, not only because those who were financially able to buy were compelled to pay higher prices, but also because many were not able to buy at all and had to do without the things they really desired.

Under such circumstances most business men would object to "chisel." They are anxious to sell at the lower prices and the public is anxious to buy at those prices. Only the government and its hastily and ill advised order intervenes. Since this is so, it soon becomes necessary for the government to find some means of enforcing its orders. As everyone knows, enforcement of the NRA codes, both as regards prices and labor provisions has proved woefully inadequate.

It is a relatively simple matter for the government to enforce a law which forbids one man to steal from another since the person who is being stolen from objects. Laws which prohibit murder, unobserved as they often are, are comparatively simple to enforce because the government has at least one of the affected parties on its side, that is, the man who was murdered.

But when it comes to enforcing price-fixing, the government finds that BOTH of the affected parties are against it. That is, the man who is doing the buying, naturally wants to buy at the lowest possible price. And the man who is doing the selling evidently is willing to sell at that price, else he would not do so. If the deal is made, it is to the advantage of both parties to keep their mouths shut about it. The only way the government can enforce price-fixing is to have an agent constantly on guard in every place of business in the United States, and then it would have to make sure its agents couldn't be bribed.

Enforcing price-fixing is exactly the same kind of impossibility which the enforcement of prohibition raised. The man who bought the liquor was eager to buy and the man who sold it was eager to sell. The only thing which stood in the way was the government. It was a very simple matter, as everyone knows, to get around that. The liquor was left behind a certain stump. The buyer picked it up when nobody was looking. That was all there was to it. If a federal agent should happen along, the chances were he could be fixed.

So we say that General Johnson has acted wisely in deciding to give up price-fixing. If he will confine the NRA to fundamentals and to the limitations of possibilities, he can accomplish a great deal of good. The abandonment of the price regulations is a long step in the right direction.

The above editorial was written before today's announcement that the NRA had changed its mind and would not drop price-fixing for the time being.

Big Winners

When Windsor Lad romped home to capture the Derby at Epsom Downs the other day, $1,901,854 was won by American holders of sweepstake tickets scattered all over the United States. Big winners included a former Florida girl who realized $151,200 on her ticket. A New Jersey policeman sold a $151,200 ticket just before the race for $6,000. Another big winner was an East Side Junior who will get $75,500.

But the United States as a whole was the loser on this race. In spite of the $1,901,854 of British money which will pour into this country to pay off the winners, more than $2,976,000 was paid out by Americans to buy tickets in the first place. Most of those who bought, lost. Many got back only about as much as they put into it. Only a very few were in the big money.

That it will profit them in the long run is doubtful. Once in a thousand years a person wins $150,000, invests it carefully, and lives comfortably for the rest of his life. Usually the money goes quickly, is dissipated quickly and leaves the winner exactly where he was a few months before.

Worse than that, however, is the likelihood that those who won in this sweepstake will be made by their winnings habitual gamblers. This race has proved to them that they can bet and win. Perhaps they even think they have invented a "system." Very likely they will spend the rest of their lives trying to win again.

And many another sucker who reads about these huge winnings will think what a fool he was not to have bought a ticket. It is so easy to win $150,000. All you have to do is to buy the right ticket and then collect your winnings. What could be simpler? All he knows about is that a few won big money. He does not know of the thousands who lost.

THE BRITISH END THE FARCE

NEW YORK HERALD TRIBUNE

Most reasonable men will probably receive the definite British refusal to continue war debt payments of any sort with a sense of relief. It is even possible that the rumored understanding between Washington and London at the time of the President's uncompromising statement last week was an understanding that precisely this course would be followed. The comedy of the "taken payments" had already been dragged out beyond the point of dignity or usefulness, and far from assisting toward an ultimate agreement was probably only complicating the accounting and prolonging the violent emotions which in both countries have rendered agreement impossible. It was doubtless the soundest course for both governments to state their positions as they saw them, reserve their rights but in the meantime to permit the World War debt situation to remain an ultimate agreement was peacefully to subside into the past, but has so long impeded.

For two or three years now this paper has argued that as a strictly practical matter—regardless of ethics and theoretical economics—the choice before Congress was a choice between taking a sharply reduced payment or paying nothing at all. The British note would appear to bear out the prediction. Congress under two Presidents has refused to cooperate in any effort at downward revision, and the other alternative has now arrived. The debt payments are finished. Again from a strictly practical standpoint, the best for which one now may hope is that they will be quietly in the grave, without further recriminations or explanations; and since the British action is probably better calculated than any other course to achieve this result, it may be welcomed.

The important fact is that Great Britain will make no further payments. It is hardly necessary to go beyond that into the ethical and economic arguments upon which the decision is supported. The British case is familiar; it is in some respects a very strong one, even though one may still wonder whether it really goes to the bottom of the intricate and imperfectly understood economic forces concerned. To argue the technical inability of the existing politico-economic system to effect these capital transfers is, perhaps, to thrust a dagger more deeply into the heart of that system than the British always realize. For the moment, however, it is beside the point. The system of international exchange has been so completely dislocated that for the time being it certainly could not stand the resumption of war debt payments on any considerable scale without setting in motion a working international economy is successfully rebuilt on some scale may again become practical; if so, the governments may reopen the question. In the meanwhile, the best advice all around is to forget it.

Economy League Played In Talk By Legion Head

"The movement is spreading into our colleges and schools, into our churches and social organizations, even into official government circles, as shown by recent startling events."

He explained the Legion plan of "universal service in time of war," declaring that those who are misled into believing disarmament can end wars may well subscribe to this universal service as a preventive of war.

"Certainly, if the government of the United States should say upon the declaration of war, that every element, every resource, capital labor, transportation and industry, as well as man power, must give equal service, and with profit to none, there would be no available plain money-grabbing among individuals or groups who create war for the purpose of enhancing bank accounts."

"Also with this principle enacted into the basic law of our land, it would be notification to the world that the United States stood for defense. And no nation, or group of nations, would seek a fight with us when that is established."

4 Lions Claw Worker At Zoo Into Bits

WHIPPSNADE, Eng. June 9.—(AP)—While a crowd of horrified spectators looked on, four lions in an open air zoo yesterday killed a zoo employe who had gone into their pit to recover a visitor's hat.

The owner of the hat and several others who tried to save the victim, Stanley Lewis, Stenson, were driven back by the lions, two of which were eventually killed by keepers before they could recover Stenson's body.

Billions Of Bugs Add Destruction In Drought Area

per and chinch bug crops. In hot, dry weather the farmer is unprotected by this natural ally.

Last October entomologists of the Department of Agriculture warned that chinch bug damage this year threatened to be the worst since 1887. They are seeing their predictions borne out.

Mild winter weather was favorable to survival of the chinch bug. Mortality rate of the pest was only 1 to 3 percent in some states.

Only one-sixth of an inch long when matured, this little black insect is one of the most destructive of all native pests and has made sporadic raids upon small grains such as barley, millet, wheat, rye, oats and corn since 1785.

Wintering in a protective cover of stubble, it feeds on the small grains and then migrates in favoring hot, dry weather to the more succulent green corn nearby.

The farmer's only defense at this stage is to plow dusty furrows across the line of march as a temporary defense. The ditches then can be fortified with crescent or coal tar and provided with traps—post holes dug at intervals in the trench.

The most serious infestation in Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and Illinois, and to a lesser extent in Nebraska, Iowa, Indiana, Ohio, Michigan, Wisconsin, and Minnesota.

The hot, dry weather has brought reports of early migration particularly in Illinois and Iowa, but soon, entomologists say, the movement will be in full swing.

The grasshopper invasion is assuming proportions far more serious than last year when the infestation was the worst since the 80's.

Already the government has bought and shipped 31,000 tons of grasshopper bait to the infested areas. Altogether 70,000 tons, in 3500 carloads, will be distributed.

Spreading of the poison is at its height in Nebraska and South Dakota. More than one-half the allotments have been sent to North Dakota, Montana, Minnesota, Wyoming, Wisconsin. In addition, allotments have been made to Nevada, Arizona, Colorado, Utah and Kansas.

Both the bait and oil are shipped to local associations of farmers organized by state grasshopper and chinch bug committees to superintend the storage and distribution of supplies to individual farmers.

At this time of year it is possible to scatter the bait along the edge of fields to stop the advance of most species of hoppers from the fence rows where they have wintered. But the lesser migratory grasshoppers, numerous in the infestations of this year and last, do not winter exclusively in these protected spots and it is necessary to scatter bait over the entire field to reach them.

The bait is spread at the rate of 10 to 20 pounds to the acre. Bait spreaders soon learn the trick of throwing the mixture in the wind with a snap of the wrist that causes the bait to fall in small flakes convenient for grasshopper jaws. If it fell in lumps, the bait would prove tempting to birds, too.

The National Conference of Jews and Christians sponsors "Brotherhood day" to "bring Jews, Roman Catholics and Protestants into harmonious support of the country's best interests."

Ministers Ask Sholtz Not To Give Schools Liquor Revenue

(Continued From Page One) unintentional but nevertheless actual inducement to repeal which makes this shift in fund allocation contingent upon the availability of an equal amount of liquor revenue for the treasury.

"Our churches, we believe will join us in commending your expressed interest in the schools and likewise in condemning your implication that liquor revenue is ever acceptable to thoughtful citizens."

"After repeal millions of dollars would be diverted from the tills of legitimate business to the cash drawer of the saloon," to replace a one cent per gallon gasoline tax in the treasury.

"The Los Angeles Times has trenchantly stated our position of liquor revenue."

"Even if the whole cost of government could be paid by a tax on intoxicants, what profit would it bring to the man in the street? Who paid the liquor taxes in the days before prohibition? It is true that the distillers, brewers, and saloon keepers wrote the checks, but who supplied the money, to make those checks good? The individual drinker paid every penny of the liquor taxes, at what cost all who knew America in prohibition days remember only too well. Is such a budget balancing desirable?"

"This shift in fund allocation combined with the liquor revenue plan proposes to help the children of our state. In reality it would coin misery. Children cannot profit along with the liquor interests, unscrupulous politicians, and the gangsters."

"We sincerely request your consideration of the possibility that the people of Florida are daily more indignant at the present illegal return of the liquor traffic, with all its attendant evils."

"Your Honor, by autumn our citizens may decide that the proposed legal return of the liquor traffic is a tool's bargain in finance and a Judas leech in morals."

"We urge that the state look elsewhere than to the return of the liquor traffic for its revenue."

"Furthermore, we protest that your proposed plan of 'shift to fund allocation' for school betterment seems to hinge on repeal meaning the voter to obtain better schools at the cost of repeal."

"We shall work for better schools and also for the continued outlawry of strong drink."

Dr. Harry Woodruff To Wed Miss Rivers

Arresting the interest of a wide circle of friends both here and in other parts of the state is the announcement of the engagement and forthcoming marriage of Miss Elizabeth Rivers of Leesburg, Georgia, to Dr. Harry Woodruff of this city.

The announcement was made at a surprise party given yesterday afternoon by Mrs. A. A. Hixson, aunt of the bride, at her home in Leesburg. The guests, composed of the engagement at the ten hour hour and the bride's friends on each place were found to hold the announcement, "Genevieve and Harry July."

He received his M.D. from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill in 1925. He is currently a member of the faculty at the Florida State College for Women at Tallahassee. He has been teaching at Leesburg for the past few years.

Children's Program To Be Given At Church

"Sunday School by Bagie" by Helen L. Wilcox, a special Children's Day Program, will be presented at the Congregational Church. The program is divided into three parts and a large number of members of the church will participate in each part.

Scene I represents a home-steaders' cabin in the West, 50 miles from the nearest church or Sunday School and portrays the amazement of the children when they hear for the first time from the Church School Extension Worker the story of the Christ. The family Bible had been lost more than 50 years when the pioneers were fording a stream on their way to their new home.

The cast of characters is as follows: Mr. Todd, the Sunday School worker, Harold Powers; Peter Hewitt, a farmer, David Van Ness; Mrs. Hewitt, Mrs. Gladys Van Ness; Madam Hewitt, Susan Goodale; Elizabeth Hewitt, Mary Miller Vihlen; and William Hewitt, Charles Thurston.

Scene II, a room in a small house in a coal-mining camp in the mountains, shows the rapid change in living conditions in the family after the arrival of a Sunday School organizer.

Characters in the second scene are as follows: Mrs. Stephens, the hostess, Mrs. Milton Ogle; Mr. Gorska, superintendent of the Sunday School, Sidney Vihlen; Mr. Long, student summer worker, Harry Witte, Jr.; Stella, a young teacher, Miss Melva Lundquist; Mr. Warren, superintendent of the camp, Varner Schaefer; "Bole", Miss Helen Hixson, a boy, Ralph Walker.

The interior of a one room school house in the mountains of North Carolina is the setting for Scene III, which shows a group of children gathered at the meeting place, some being delayed by trivial matters of the house. The scene closes with a song service in which all join with eagerness.

Characters are: Miss Patterson, Miss Early, college girls, Mrs. Henry Witte, Jr., and Mrs. Theodosia Powers; Mr. Cole, a teacher, Edman, Charles Gantt; Mrs. Blake, Clyde Stinson; Mrs. Blake, Mrs. Collins; Mrs. Pitkin, Tom MacMillan; Marie Parker, a girl of 17; Miss Norma Wolff; Minnie Paine, a girl of 19; Miss Lola Wolff; Mrs. Paine, Minnie's mother; Miss Mary Robinson; Arla Blake, Miss Ethel Root; Evelyn Blake, Miss Emmelie Thurston; Bobby Blake, Gerald Louising; Bill Blake, Herbert Thurston; Sally Pitkin; Miss Frances Collins; Joe Pitkin; Charles Vining; Gussie Pitkin; Miss Edna Collins; and Mack Cole, Ralph Louising.

Word received here today from Miss Lucille Bols, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Miss Esther Margaret Hansen Is Married To Rev. Stewart H. Long

One of the most important events of the season at Daytona Beach and one of great interest locally was the wedding last night of Miss Esther Margaret Hansen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Hansen of Daytona Beach, to the Rev. Stewart Henderson Long of Murphy, N. C., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Long of this city. The ceremony was performed at 8:00 P. M. at the First Presbyterian Church at Daytona Beach by Dr. John E. Abbott, assisted by Dr. Lyon, pastor of the church, before a large gathering of friends and relatives.

Green and white were the colors chosen for decorations in the large church. The improvised altarway, made of white trellises entwined with white asters, carnations, and asparagus fern, had quantities of small electric lights intermingled with the ferns. On each side of the arch were large candelabras bearing lighted candles and beyond them were pedestals holding of call lilies and ferns. Forming an attractive background for these decorations were the quantities of palms, shrubs, and other greenery brightened by a profusion of white flowers.

As the guests were assembling soft violin and organ music were played and immediately before the ceremony Mrs. Moore of Daytona Beach sang "Because" and Mrs. Owens of Ormond Beach sang "At Last." The wedding party entered the church to the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March and departed to Mendelssohn's recessional. Mrs. Charles T. Henderson served as organist.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, had her sister, Mrs. Ellen Niles of New York City as matron of honor, and Miss Beula Griffith of DeLand, and Mrs. George Dyer of Daytona Beach as bridesmaids. Jess Long, Jr. of Atlanta served as best man for his brother while Pete Hansen and George Dyer of Daytona Beach and Rodman Lehman of this city were groomsmen and Sport Long of Sanford and Roy Hansen were ushers.

Heavy ivory satin was the material chosen by the bride for her wedding gown. Fashioned with a very high neckline and modded waist, it had a long full skirt which fell in soft folds into a train. The dress also had long, tight-fitting sleeves and no trimming. Her bride all cap was of handmade Denmark lace to which was fashioned a long tulle veil. She carried a large shabby bouquet of call lilies and valley lilies.

The groom, seen by the matron of honor and bridesmaids, wore a suit of white cloth with high necklines in the front marked by short capes of pleated ruffles of the same material. A low decollete was achieved in the back by a cool arrangement. They all carried bouquets of call lilies and ferns.

Mrs. Hansen selected for the occasion a gold colored printed chiffon with which she wore a corsage of yellow roses and yucciphilia. Mrs. Long appeared in a green printed chiffon made with a long full skirt. Her corsage was of pink tulips and yucciphilia.

Among the out-of-town guests at the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Long of this city, Mrs. T. L. Long, Mrs. Mary Worthington, and Bill Worthington of Montgomery, Ala.; Mrs. T. H. Robertson, Mrs. T. H. Robertson, Jr., and Miss Mary Fletcher Robertson of Fayetteville, Ala.; Mrs. Mirell of College Park, Ga.; Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Lehman, Dr. and Mrs. E. D. Browne, Mrs. L. I. Enos, Mrs. Ralph A. Smith, and Harry Brownlee of this city.

The Rev. and Mrs. Long left after the ceremony for a short honeymoon after which they will go to Murphy, N. C. to make their future home.

Miss Hansen lived the greater part of her life in DeLand but has

Feds Will Play Two Games At Kissimmee On Sunday; Yowell Is Batting Leader

CENTRAL FLORIDA LEAGUE

SANFORD	4	3	.563

Manager Sid Rive's Sanford Cal-lyfeds will go to Kissimmee shortly before noon tomorrow to make ready for a double-header which they will play against Manager Sam Storry's Kissimmee Kow-boys.

The twin bill is brought about because the opening game of the season was rained out at Kissim- mee. The first tilt tomorrow will start at 2:00 o'clock and it will go nine innings. The second game will be a seven inning affair.

Manager Rive stated today that Lefty Joe Sparkman will pitch the first game and that Elmer Mattair, the Osteen boy, will hurl the abbreviated tilt.

Sparkman has won two games this season. Tomorrow he will tangle with Larry Chubb of Winder Park, and a mound duel is in prospect. Sparkman's ability with the bat is expected to come in handy also. He really won the Feds' 3 to 2 victory over Vero Beach here Thursday with that ringing single into left that tied the score.

VOICE OF THE NIGHT

Milane

Mattair did a fine job in his first start of the season here some days ago when he beat Kissimmee despite a ninth inning rally which looked bad for Sanford for a time.

When the Feds go into action they will do so as a second place club which has a batting average of .195, probably the lowest ever held by a Sanford team. Official averages released this morning show that the Cocoa Indians are the leading batters by seven points. They are hitting at a .242 clip, with the Kissimmee Kow-boys in second place with a .236 mark. Sanford is third with .195, and Vero Beach is last with .236.

The official averages further reveal that the Kissimmee Kow-boys are the prize hard-kick team of the league. They have lost five straight games in which they made more earned runs than did the teams which defeated them. That's unusual in any kind of baseball.

The Cocoa Indians will travel to Vero Beach to play the Jaycees in what promises to be a pair of hotly battled games. Cocoa and Vero Beach are natural bean enemies, and the fans are bitter in their comment of home and visiting players. With the Indians in first place, and the Jaycees would like nothing better than to knock them off for two games. With Goodrich and Hershey Harris doing the hurling, there is a large possibility that the victors will come in.

Next Thursday, the Feds will travel to Vero Beach and the Cocoa Indians will play at Kissimmee and on the following Sunday, Cocoa comes to Sanford and Vero plays at Kissimmee.

Official batting averages for the first six games, show that Morris Yowell, the Kissimmee second baseman, is the league's leading hitter. This youngster has smacked out one hit in 10 tries, and he appears to be getting better as he goes along. His average is .471, and with that mark he leads Co-ley Goodrich of Vero Beach by .37 points.

Eddie Harrell of Cocoa is third and Buddy Hopkins, also of Cocoa, is fifth. The Feds leading batter is Bud Abbott who might have been higher had he not gone hitless in six tries here. Thursday Bogus Owens is the only other Fed batter who is in the select 10 best batters in the league.

FILM FLICKERS

By GLADYS M. WILLIAMS

George Arliss, who has given the screen many unusual things in the way of characterization, enjoys a new experience in his latest picture, "The House of Rothschild," which is the current feature attraction at the Milane Theatre on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, June 10th, 11th and 12th. Here, indeed, is a picture of which Hollywood may be justly proud. It deals with historical facts—the ambitions, intrigues, jealousies and hatreds of men and nations.

The story is the history of Europe from the late 1790's to Napoleon's Waterloo. The Rothschild family, particularly Nathan, is emblematic of the influential part the Jewish race played in the making of a new world. In the prelude, dying Mayer Rothschild advises his children that control of money is the weapon with which they can unshackle their fetters, but he instructs them that their money power must be used for peace.

George Arliss is at his best. Loretta Young and Robert Young play a tender Jewish-Gentile romance obligato.

Story, cast and production of this film are superlative. (General.)

HUGH JOHNSON DERIDES NEW GOP PROGRAM

"They don't believe in gold-fish bowls. What they did was to go into a purple alliance and produce a kidnaped herring in a dark can." Johnson said that in his job of settling labor disputes there was no bias toward management.

He blamed both sides in many of the recent labor controversies, condemning equally labor organizations who "unconsciously oversold the meaning of NIRA's famed Section U," and employers who pushed their men into company unions which gave all labor's rights to themselves.

Johnson told his labor audience: "You experienced veterans of the labor movement have a duty to the country and to your heart interest to see that some of the amateur nonsense that is now being threatened shall never be permitted to bear its threatened fruit of blood, destruction, distress and privation."

"We do need, and sadly need—a good clean-cut method of determining without either bad feeling of violence, whether or not a particular union, or particular committee has actually been freely chosen by any group of employees to represent them."

"That is a simple question of fact which any impartial body acting in good faith should be able to determine promptly, accurately and without turmoil."

"There should be some court of appeal. Now that set-up has existed under the code in all the major industries except the steel industry, which has no code. Today the steel industry agreed to do the same thing."

He said he believed the right to strike must remain inviolate while proper settlements of disputes cannot be had.

FERA Will Furnish Labor, Materials To Build Market Here

Immediate Construction Of $75,000 Plant Authorized At Meeting Today

The Federal Emergency Relief Administration today agreed to furnish the labor and material for the immediate construction of a $75,000 Farmers' Wholesale Distributing Market in this city.

The money needed to purchase the material will be borrowed from the FERA and it is to be paid back with the revenue that will be asked of grocers, shippers, and commission merchants who use the market.

Part of the surplus inspection fund of the State Department of Agriculture also will be used to help repay the loan.

The market will be supervised by the State Agricultural Marketing Board, which is composed of Governor Sholtz, Commissioner of Agriculture Nathan Mayo, and State Marketing Commissioner L. M. Rhoads.

Decision to build the plant was reached at a conference in Jacksonville between Jerome A. Connor, state executive of the FERA, Commissioner Mayo, Commissioner Rhoads, and a party of Sanford persons, including Alex R. Johnson, F. F. Jorner, Rex Packard, and George E. Holmes.

During the meeting, evidence was introduced that Governor Sholtz, who had arranged for the building, has given his endorsement to the project, and that the plant will probably be one of three to be built in Florida shortly.

Before Mr. Connor had pledged the support of the FERA, he was told that the City of Sanford would furnish the land for the plant, and his promise to secure FERA money was predicated upon securing the land in this manner.

It was announced that the market will not only be a clearing house for fruits, vegetables, and produce that are expected to be raised in the Central and South Florida points, but it will also be a clearing house for official information as to growing conditions, proper way to prepare crops, and in general, a highly specialized branch of the State Marketing Bureau office at Jacksonville.

It was recalled here this afternoon that the Seminole Agricultural Club as well as the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce has been working quietly in this connection for some weeks.

Commissioners Mayo and Rhoads recently addressed a meeting of the Club, and both gave the plan their hearty approval. The plan, they said, should include a cold storage plant in connection, and the announcement made today said that a cold storage plant will be erected as a part of the market.

Alline, Mrs. Maggie Barnes of Sanford, and Secretary Karl Lehmann of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce; President Mrs. Lyman and Secretary Mrs. Margaret Haines of the Altamonte Springs Chamber of Commerce; and at least four other business and members of the Seminole County organization. Additional Relief Fund Is Poured Into Stricken Area; Wheat Surplus About Ended

Hopkins Announces Apportionment Of Over Million To Five Western States

WASHINGTON, June 11.—(AP)—Additional relief funds poured out to drought-stricken states yesterday as federal officials worked through the week-end on the varied program for alleviating distress.

Relief Administration Hopkins announced the apportionment of $1,200,000 to five states for use in work relief projects by farmers and city dwellers which will center on water and food conservation.

Nevada received $300,000, Colorado $500,000, Illinois $500,000, Arizona $100,000 and New Mexico $100,000. With the exception of New Mexico the grants, all of which are outright gifts, were the first to be allotted to these states.

Congress will begin consideration today of new relief funds totaling $525,000,000 asked by President Roosevelt in a message which he declared that "unforeseen drought has visited disaster upon a large part of our country."

The funds would be divided as follows: $125,000,000 for human relief and a work program; $75,000,000 for livestock purchase and shipment; $50,000,000 for work camps to give employment for young men from cities and towns in the drought area.

$100,000,000 for buying surplus farm land and re-leasing distressed farm families; $25,000,000 for purchasing seed for next year's crops and lending farmers funds to buy seed.

None of these designations will be followed strictly, however, if Congress follows the President's recommendation that "the authorization should be flexible" to meet (Continued On Page Four)

El Salvador Death Toll Estimated At Over 2000 Persons

Aerial Survey Reveals Horrible Evidence Of Force Of Storm Which Struck Nation

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador, June 11.—(A.P.)—Relief workers today estimated that 2,000 persons are dead in the vicinity of San Salvador alone following last week's disastrous hurricane and rainstorm.

The Salvadoran Air Corps yesterday sent up airplanes to survey the nation. They returned to report death and destruction everywhere.

L. C. Callaway, Pan American Airways airport manager, went along as an observer and made unflattering report of his findings.

He said that government planes stopped messages to all communities where life was still observed asking them to report in to the capital immediately as to the extent of casualties, and the loss in such things.

He saw evidences that whole towns had been destroyed by landslides which started down the side of volcanoes as a result of the rains.

In the Lempa River, he saw the funnel of a river boat, sinking out of the water, and bodies floating around it.

BOSTON, June 11.—(AP)—The entire community of Octopus, Honduras has been wiped out and 500 persons were drowned by flood, a radio report to United Fruit Company headquarters today said. The town is the most westerly in Honduras, and is about 25 miles from Tegucigalpa, Honduras. From Tegucigalpa, Honduras came word also that many lives are believed lost today when heavy rainstorms flooded the Uluza River which has risen 45 feet above normal, and has spread out over the La Lima district.

Government authorities ordered out canoes to rescue the drowned survivors. Tegucigalpa, which had been cut off by the storm, is reasonably normal again with only two citizens drowned. Dispatches from outlying districts show the disaster at Pimental to be appalling.

A large group of persons there fled the town before the onrush of flood waters, and sought refuge on a small hill nearby. They climbed higher and higher as the waters rose but the hill was not sufficiently high to save them. Every person on the hill was drowned.

The coast town La Libertad to La Union was almost hit and the villages were virtually destroyed. The President of the Republic has issued a decree that prices of foodstuffs must remain the same as before the disaster.

Electric power was restored over the week-end in San Salvador. The city has been receiving drinking water again although it is used only two hours daily. (Continued On Page Three)

Williams, Sheafer, Nub Negro Murderer

Hill Thomas, middle-aged negro resident of Winter park who is alleged to have stabbed another negro to death as the result of an argument over a dice game late Saturday night, was arrested while he was walking down Park Avenue at about 2:00 o'clock yesterday morning.

The arrest was made by Chief of Police Roy G. Williams and Officer C. H. Sheafer, who said that Thomas offered only slight resistance when a pistol was trained on him.

Thomas, Chief Williams stated, had an open knife in his hand. He admitted, Chief Williams said, that he stabbed the other negro because of an argument over five cents which belonged to neither man, and he said that he had walked to Sanford from Winter Park in three hours.

Sheriff Harry Hand of Orlando and one of his deputies came to Sanford shortly after the arrest and took the negro into custody. Earlier in the morning they had telephoned a description of the alleged killer to all cities in the area.
