Facing Minimum 14-Year Jail Term

Turner Schemes Bring Felony Conviction

From Staff and Wire Reports

Former Seminole County supersalesman Glenn Turner, whose multi-million-dollar self-motivation businesses have been investigated frequently, has been convicted in Phoenix of felony charges and is awaiting a prison sentence.

Turner's business partner, Edward G. Rector, also formerly of Seminole County, was convicted of the same charges.

Turner, 52, and Rector, 56, both of the Goldenrod area, face a minimum of 14 years in prison when they are sentenced Aug. 13 by Judge Bernard Dougherty. They were allowed to remain free without bond, pending sentencing in Phoenix.

A Maricopa County Superior Court

jury Tuesday convicted Turner of one count of conspiracy, nine counts of fraud and nine counts of promoting a pyramid scheme in connection with his company, Challenge Inc.

Assistant Arizona attorneys general Jeffrey Woodburn and Barnett Lotstein, who prosecuted the case, claimed Challenge was modeled after "Dare To Be Great," Turner's self-motivation business which folded in 1975 amid legal battles with the Internal Revenue Service and investors. Turner pleaded guilty to misdemeanor charges of federal mail fraud in Florida in 1975 in connection with that program. Recruits to the Chailenge program were told falsely that they could make between $1,500 and $3,000 a month without investing any of their own money, prosecutors said. In fact, they said, the program was set up so salespeople had to buy a $5,000 packet. The scheme operated in Arizona in 1979 and 1980.

Turner told the jury his sole motivation for Challenge was to help people gain self-confidence and realize anyone can be successful. He said buyers were

Governor Starts Wrecking

For Expressway

As Governor Bob Martinez donned a hardhat, climbed into a crane and shifted the controls to a wrecker ball, a marching band played and the protests of a women about to lose her home were drowned out. The occasion was Wednesday's buildingbreaking ceremony staged to kick off building extension of the East-West Expressway.

At Martinez' command the wrecker ball struck the wall of an abandoned ABC Liquor Store on East Highway 50, starting the process that will remove the building from the path of pro-

Next in line for the wreking ball will be the home of Omega Zackman, 8901 Mishawaka Avenue, Orlando. She carried a sign that read: "Do you call progress taking away peoples American Dream 'Home' without just compensation?"

Martinez looked the other way. "I tried to talk to him (Martinez) about it but he wouldn't talk to me," said Zackman, 38. "I wouldn't mind if I was getting a fair price for my home but he (Martinez) said that Zackman sald she bought her home in 1984 for $69,900 and it was "appraised at $70,000" at that time. She has been offered $70,500, an amount she finds unacceptable.

For Heathrow

Landing AAA 'Coup'

By Ted Carter Herald Staff Writer

Wednesday's announcement that the American Automobile Association would be relocating its national headquarters to a $50 million building in Heathrow International Business Center near Lake Mary gave cause for high spirited back slapping and champagne popping at the center.

Landing the giant automobile ciub was a coup in the truest sense, said Jim Tills, spokesman for HIBC. "We're elated."

That Heathrow's selection came after an intense look at 87 metropolitan areas in the U.S. made the victory all the sweeter for Heathrow developer Jeno Paulucci and other officials of the emerging business center.

Paulucci, in a statement Wednesday afternoon. said: "The choice of Heathrow is strong testimony for this community, for Heathrow International Business Center and for the growth potential of central Seminole County. We welcome AAA with open arms and thank them for their confidence."

H. Gordon Wyllie, chairman of Heathrow land development, likened it to pro football's ultimate achievement. "We feel like we've won our first Super Bowl," he said.

The company, which has an annual payroll of $14 million, plans to begin moving its 650-person work force from Falls Church, Va., to HIBC in the summer of 1989, and start full operations in a new 300,000 square-feet building by the fall. according to Richard Hebert, AAA's managing director of public affairs. He said relocation of an additional 120 administrative employees at the AAA Florida east coast affiliate in Miami also is planned.

The number of people hired locally will largely depend on how many present employees decide not to relocate, Hebert said.

"Certainly we expect there will be some local people hired. We'll know more once we know how many people want to move now. We don't expect to know until early 1989."

Employees slated for relocation range from stock clerks to the chief executive officer, according to the AAA spokesman.

Construction on the 39-acre Heathrow tract. said Hebert, is scheduled to start this fall.

Established in New York City in 1902, the Automobile Association of America's business activities range from full travel assistance to its 27.6 million members to a full spectrum of insurance coverage, including home, health, life and automobile coverage. Though incorporated,

Should North Be Indicted?

NEW YORK (UPI) - For 50 cents a call, Americans can "vote" on whether Lt. Col. Oliver North should be indicted for his role in the Iran arms scandal, a national polling service said.

The tele-vote began at noon wednesday and is to run through July 21. Callers may dial one of two telephone numbers to register their vote, National TeleSurvey said.

Those who believe North should be indicted can express their opinion by calling 1-900-720-0010. A call to 1-900-720-0011 will automatically register a vote against North's possible indictment.

Avenue. -Brad Church County Turns Down Request To Help Black Businesses

By Ted Carter Herald Staff Writer

A joint public-private effort to boost opportunities for black-owned businesses will have to get along without financial help from Seminole County government. County commissioners Tuesday, on a

4.0 vote, turned down a request to contribute $25,000 to the Black Business Investment Fund (BBIF) of Central Florida Inc., a project aimed at providing loans and guarantees of loans to qualified black-owned businesses. Nine Central Florida financial institutions as well as the citles of Orlando and Orange County have agreed to contribute money. But Seminole County's governing body sees the project as having too narrow of a target.

Commissioner Bob Sturm, who made the motion against the contribution, said he would have looked more favorably on the business-aid effort had it set sights on a wider segment of the community. "I personally don't feel we should be using general fund tax dollars unless it serves of all of the community," said Sturm, whose motion received the backing of Chairman Fred Streetman and commissioners Barbara Christensen and Bill Kirchhoff. Commissioner Sandra Glenn was away at the a national association of countles meeting in Indiana.

At first it seemed Sturm's motion would not receive a second. For a few moments after the motion, the commissioners sat stlently. Finally, Streetman handed the chairman's gavel to Kirchhoff and gave the second.

The BBIF began in 1985, after the state Legislature agreed to provide $5

But Who's At The Helm?

Poindexter Claims Responsibility

WASHINGTON (UPI) - John Poindexter's State George Shultz, Defense Secretary Caspar testimony that he - not President Reagan decided to divert money to the Contras from secret U.S. arms sales to Iran pleased the White House but raised significant questions about whose hand is on the helm of national security.

Democrats and Republicans alike on the congressional committees probing the president's worst crisis were troubled to hear Poindexter, the Navy officer who resigned as Reagan's national security adviser when the scandal erupted, claim responsibility for the diversion in his first public testimony to them.

Lawmakers said they were disturbed to hear that a non-elected official whose appointment is not confirmed by Congress could have made such a pivotal policy decision without telling his boss, the president of the United States.

Their questions about the decision-making process - and subsequent efforts to cover it up are expected to produce sharp questioning for Poindexter through Monday at the Iran-Contra

Similar pointed questions will come later for Attorney General Edwin Meese, Secretary of Weinberger and former White House chief of staff Donald Regan as the House and Senate panels drive to wrap up their public proceedings by early August.

Poindexter, summoned for a second round of testimony today, answered what had become the biggest question of the hearings in almost a conversational tone Wednesday, saying he still thinks Reagan would have approved the diversion to keep the Contra rebels alive while Congress had cut off military aid to them.

But the pipe-puffing rear admiral said he kept the president in the dark throughout last year in an effort to protect him from political disaster. "I made a very deliberate decision not to ask the president so that I could insulate him from the decision and provide some future deniability for him if it ever leaked out," Poindexter said.

"The buck stops here with me." Only Lt. Col. Oliver North, the National Security Council aide fired at the same time Poindexter resigned Nov. 25, shared his knowl-

Tax Critics Back In Court

From Staff And Wire Reports Opponents of the new consumer services tax are back in court, undaunted by a Florida Supreme Court advisory opinion concluding the levy is sound. Circuit Judge Charles Miner was to conduct a hearing today on a motion by two Tallahassee attorneys to force the Department of Revenue to hold any taxes collected on legal fees in reserve in case they must be refunded later.

Florida Bar lawyer Barry Richard predicted Wednesday that Miner would broaden the scope of the hearing, which was scheduled some time ago, in light of Tuesday's advisory opinion by the high court.

Richard expected Miner to establish a timetable for resolving lawsuits already filed or likely to be filed in the immediate future that attack what is the first comprehensive tax on services in the United States.

The Supreme Court's advisory opinion is not binding, although it is expected to influence Miner and other state judges. However, Richard and other lawyers assaulting the tax believe they must proceed through state courts before they can get into federal court, where they hope to have the levy declared unconstitutional. Sen. Richard H. Langley, R-Clermont, said he wasn't surprised by the high court's ruling. He had fought the tax and said he expected the court's initial advisory ruling to uphold it. But he predicted the federal courts would be asked to examine the tax on various constitutional questions such as those affecting free speech as they relate to an advertising tax. Suits already have been filed in circuit court by lawyers Douglas Abruzzo and Doug Moster, the bar and the Florida Academy of Trial Lawyers. They were largely put on hold, howev-

Cool Air Blows O'er Eastern U.S.

By United Press International

Showers and thunderstorms sprung up along a stationary weather front that reached into the Southeast early today, unleashing isolated heavy rains and high winds in scattered sections of the central and eastern United States.

Isolated showers and thundershowers lingered over the Ohio Valley, and a few showers and thundershowers dotted Missouri, northern Minnesota and the Rio Grande Valley. The storms produced more than a half inch of rain at Lexington, Ky., late Wednesday and early today. An evening thunderstorm in northeastern Montana unleashed winds that gusted to 70 mph at Wolf Point.

A cold front that moved off the Atlantic Coast Wednesday brought unseasonably cool weather to much of the nation east of the Rockies. The cool air mass produced 15 record lows in Texas, Nebraska, Kansas, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio, Kentucky, West Virginia and Maryland.

More than 40 record low temperature marks have been notched since Saturday from Idaho to Maryland.

Wednesday's record lows included 37 degrees at Hougton Lake, Mich., 39 in Alpena, Mich., 52 in Charleston, W.Va., and 59 in Baltimore. Early today, the mercury dipped to 44 degrees in Alpena to set another record low.

By contrast, the high for the nation Wednesday was 122 degrees at Death Valley, Calif. Elsewhere in the Southwest, Tucson, Ariz., recorded its 39th consecutive day of 100-degree heat Wednesday when thermometers read 101. In the upper Midwest, one state faces serious trouble because of the record spring and summer warm spell that preceded the July cooling of the last few days.

A Wisconsin agriculture official warned that farmers in drought-stricken northern areas are in need of at least 7.5 million bates of hay, but some help already is on the way. Alabama Gov. Guy Hunt said in Montgomery he will personally help out Midwestern farmers, who gave Alabama ranchers hay during last year's Southeast drought, including those in northern Wisconsin.

"I've got 40 acres myself that I'll be glad to send them." Hunt said.

Wisconsin Gov. Tommy Thompson has already declared 10 countles in a state of emergency, making them eligible for federal aid.

Wednesday afternoon highs hit only the 70s and 80s throughout the eastern half of the country. Sixty-degree readings were more common from the Great Lakes across the northern Appalachians. Grand Rapids, Mich., made It only as high as 58 degrees Wednesday, the coolest temerperature ever for the month of July.

The cooler air Wednesday triggered showers and thunderstorms from southern Texas across the central and eastern Gulf Coast region and toward the Great Lakes, the National Weather Service said.

In the Midwest, a tornado leveled a hog shed at Thomasboro. Ill. Other twisters were reported at Donavan, Ill., and near Kentland, Ind., Clinton, Ind., and Logansport, Ind. There were no reports of damage or injuries.

Local Report

The high temperature Wednesday in Sanford was 90 degrees and the overnight low was 71 degrees as reported by the University of Florida Agricultural Research and Education Center, Celery Avenue. There was .06 inches of rainfall recorded. Partly cloudy today with expected high in the low to middle 90s and a 50 percent chance of afternoon showers.

Area Forecast

Tonight...partly cloudy. Low in the low to mid 70s. Light southwest wind. Friday...variable cloudiness. A 50 percent chance of mainly afternoon thunderstorms. High in the low 90s. Wind southwest 5 to 10 mph.

Extended Forecast

Stupid? Yes Criminal? No

Chrysler Chairman Lee lacocca has apologized for his company's practice of selling as new cars whose odometers had been disconnected during overnight test drives, calling it "dumb" and in some instances "stupid." It was a good move on lacocca's part that goes a long way toward removing the cloud over Chrysler's credibility. The federal prosecutor in St. Louis who obtained criminal indictments against the company and two of its executives should now consider backing off. too, Stupid, yes, Criminal, no.

The federal indictment concerned a Chrysler quality-assurance program in which some employees drove cars home overnight, an average of 40 miles, to test for defects and other possible problems. Disconnecting the odometer during this time appears to violate a section of the Motor Vehicle Information and Cost Savings Act that says "No person shall disconnect, reset or alter or cause to be disconnected, reset or altered the odometer of any motor vehicle with intent to change the number of miles indicated thereon."

Chrysler also is accused of criminal fraud because it didn't inform consumers that some of the cars were damaged during the test drives and were restored to factory condition and shipped as new.

Chrysler acknowledges the practice but says the law was aimed at used car sales representatives who turn back odometers to misrepresent the safety and reliability of a car. In the past, the federal government has sought civil penalties against numerous dealers and leasing companies and referred other cases to the states for enforcement.

It's also doubtful the company and executives knowingly tried to deceive customers. Chrysler's legal counsel apparently had advised the company that the program was within the law, and the company did not cover up its practice.

What this case required was publicity, not prosecution. If the U.S. attorney had publicly questioned the practice and warned consumers, the sheer embarrassment would have forced Chrysler to act anyway.

Without solid evidence of a cover-up or intentional wrongdoing, the Feds have better things to do than prosecute Chrysler on criminal charges in this case. Iacocca's apology, and the heavy expense of an advertising campaign to restore Chrysler's image, is punishment enough. Jail terms for the executives involved strikes us as heavy-handed.

Stamp's Approval

The year 1987 may be remembered in part for the U.S. Postal Service's issuance of two extraordinary sets of stamps. First, there's the popular 50-stamp set of American Wildlife Stamps released in June. The colorful, artful panes — which represent the geographic and biological diversity of our native wildlife — may be the handsomest collection of stamps ever. Look at them long enough and you can almost feel the new fallen snow, taste the great outdoors, hear the calls of the wild.

The Postal Service also has issued a "Special Occasions Booklet" of stamps whose trademark is greetings: Get Well! Happy Birthday! Love You, Mom! Love You, Dad! Congratulations! Thank You! Get Well! Best Wishes! and Keep in Touch!

Philatelists, and others, no doubt will be smiling at these welcome additions to postage stamp legacy. The Postal Service deserves a stamp of approval for its aesthetically pleasing and utilitarian creations.

A Few Small, Sane Voices In The Desert

AMMAN. Jordan — Visiting here again after 12 years. I am overwhelmed by the tragedy of the unresolved, long-smoldering Arab-Israeli dispute. But a thoughtful visitor who listens to the views of Jordan's King Hussein will recognize that here is a voice of sanity that is all too rare in the Middle East.

At the heart of the Arab-Israeli conflict are the Palestinian refugees and descendants who, in 1948, fied from their homes in what is now Israel. A second wave of Palestinians were also displaced by the 1967 war.

A million Palestinian refugees live in Jordan — the largest number found in any Middle Eastern country. Another half-million Palestinians reside here who are not officially registered as refugees, and another 1 million Palestinians live in the West Bank, occupied by Israel since 1967.

The question is what can be done to provide a homeland for these displaced Palestinians along with others living in Lebanon and throughout the Middle Fast unless they succeed in channating each other. The extremists on each side are filled with memories of historical claims and grievances that justify their unwillingness to compromise with the hated enemy.

That question can never be resolved by hard-liners in either Israel or the Arab world —

The philosopher George Santayana observed years ago that those who do not remember history are condemned to repeat it. But in this case, I think the two sides would do well to pay less attention to historical grievances and give more consideration to present realities. That is the spirit in which King Hussein presses his case for peace in the Middle East.

I first met the king 30 years ago when I came here as a freshman member of Congress. He was then 22 years old and had already served for five years as the Jordanian king. He is now the longest-serving monarch in the world, and is married to an American-born woman, the former Lisa Halaby.

King Hussein and Queen Noor, as she is now called, had a dinner for our little delegation (which included my former Senate colleague. Charles Percy of Illinois). He again spoke with refreshing candor and reason. The king recognizes the right of Israel to live at peace as an independent Jewish state within secure borders. He also believes that the Palestinians are entitled to a homeland, but he proposes that this be done in a confederation with Jordan. The proposed Palestinian entity would embrace the West Bank and the Gaza area held by Israel stoce the 1967 war.

King Hussein, because of his long, friendly relationship with the United States and his respected role in the Middle East has gained for both hamself and his country a stature far beyond what one would expect of a state with less than 3 million people.

The American government has taken much the same position as Hussein in recent years. Even some elements within the Palestine Liberation Organization support this formula as the most practical resolution of the Arab-Israeli

A former head of security and intelligence for the PLO — General Atallah Atallah, who asked to meet with Sen. Percy and me — claims that many Palestinians are tired of the violence that has frequently characterized PLO tactics.

WILLIAM RUSHER

You Can't Have It Both Ways

Contrary to what my conservative friends sometimes assert, the Constitution does not vest management of U.S. foreign policy in the president of the United States. It does give him the power to appoint ambassadors (by and with the advice and consent of the Senate) and to make treaties (two-thirds of the senators present concurring), but the power to declare war is reserved to the Congress. For the rest, the Constitution is silent on the subject of foreign policy.

Presidents have assumed the power to conduct U.S. foreign policy for much the same reason that the Supreme Court assumed the power (likewise unspecified in the Constitution) to declare a law unconstitutional: namely, because there seemed no other practical way to handle the matter.

From time immemorial, it has been necessary for governments to know more than they tell, conduct negotiations in secret, take actions that were either not known at all or not traceable to them, and make plans that were not immediately exposed to the light of day. Since these things manifestly cannot be done with the necessary confidentiality through legislative processes involving 535 members of Congress, the job has fallen to the successive presidents, together with their staffs and appropriate members of their Cabinets.

The assent of Congress to major presidential initiatives in the field of foreign policy has usually been assured only by virtue of the happy coincidence that the president's party also generally controlled the Congress.

But for two decades now the American people have been playing a highly dangerous game: giving the presidency to a Republican, while leaving the Democrats in control of Congress. This evidently strikes the voters as clever - their own little contribution to the separation of powers, as it were. But it has the deadly consequence of requiring Republican presidents to obtain, for their most delicate and confidential foreign policy initiatives, the prior approval of congressional leaders whose deepest instincts are to thwart, embarrass and defeat them.

Not Just Charisma

To hear one side of the story. Oliver North is so popular because he is a) handsome, b) articulate, c) heroic, d) a good actor, e) bemedaled. () charismatic, g) faithful to his wife. Of course, it is said, this popularity doesn't really mean much because everyone understands that Ollie broke the law. ran a private foreign policy, lied to the Congress and was the tool of an administration that, in its zeal to fund the bad guys in Nicaragua. conspired to trample on the Constitution. Thus, it is maintained. Ollie is just a charming parenthesis in a sordid political firestorm.

This view is an insult to the American people.

American people.

Americans don't fall for charisma without content. They are not taken in by the first pretty face that blows them a kiss. If they did, you'd have history books recounting the deeds of President George Romney, President John Lindsay and President Gary Hart. Quite to the contrary, Americans tend to invest with charisma those with whom they agree

Surely, Ollie North was one Impressive witness. But beneath that, what we saw was a display of public support for certain root values. There are first some values deriving from the still-undigested lump concerning Vietnam. Peddling "the lessons of Vietnam" has become sort of a cottage industry in America, and the various lessons put forth often contradict one another. But, I would suggest, at least two lessons would be granted very heavy support: We don't like losing, and we don't like pulling the plug on people we've helped. North's testimony played to those ideas; indeed. North's own experience in Vietnam seared those ideas into his own consciousness. So when he told the committee that we stood the risk of losing again to Soviet-backed troops and abandoning friends, tens of millions of Americans nodded their heads.

Americans also agreed with the predicate of North's justification for the use of covert action: that it's a nasty world out there, and the Soviets are the folks who make it so nasty. Now, that is not to say that Americans believe that the executive branch can disobey the law. That, after all, is what much of the hearings are about: were laws broken and, if they were, were the circumstances so harsh, or the violations so minimal, as to make the breaches of law acceptable?

North's attack on the Congress also fell on a fertile field. In recent years, it has become clear that the Congress has been the vehicle to dilute, and even halt, any assertive American foreign policy. Insofar as such congressional micromanagement makes America appear to be an ill-coordinated geopolitical wimp, it diminishes us. North knows that.

North also calls forth what scholars of American civilization call "American exceptionalism." That means we think that we stand for something very decent and special, and we have a role to play in promoting and extending our values.

Atlantic Threatens Beaches

By Elizabeth Rissi

CHATHAM. Mass. (UPI) — Residents of Cape Cod's most easterly point, who watched the Atlantic's fury sever a protective finger of land, fear the ocean's ferocious force may also soon savage their homes and businesses.

Nauset Spit — formerly a 9-mile long barrier beach attached to the mainland and running roughly parallel to the coast about 1,000 yards offshore — was split in two by unusually high tides during a fierce storm Jan. 2.

Since then, the gateway to the Atlantic has steadily widened, allowing ocean waves into the harbor, raising and lowering tides, shaking up shellfish beds and causing erosion that could destroy millions of dollars worth of prime real estate.

"The night it happened it was probably 75 yards (wide) maximum," said Coast Guard Petty Officer 2nd Class Greg Blakeslee.
"Now it's at least three-quarters of a

John Kenyon, a 17-year resident of Chatham, says he and other locals generally stop by several times a week to check on the progress of the new inlet, which they call "the breakthrough."

"We had two Northeasters (vicious ocean storms) and after the first one we could see the water starting to come over the sand," Kenyon said. "After the second, it just broke through. The next morning almost everyone in town came down here to see it."

Scientists oppose temporary solutions like jettles or seawalls to minimize erosion, which has increased dramatically since ocean waves began crashing into the harbor.

"You just can't control nature." he said. "You might put up a wall that would protect my property or your property but have a negative effect on someone else's."

Those feelings are not shared by many of Kenyon's neighbors, who see the breakthrough as a threat to their beaches, homes and businesses.

Scientists say the breach, though disconcerting to some local residents, is necessary in the life cycle of Nauset Spit.

JACK ANDERSON

Is Kemp Hanging Out With Wrong Crowd?

By Jack Anderson And Joseph Spear

WASHINGTON — As Gary Hart learned to his sorrow, presidential candidates are judged by the company they keep. Given the intense scrutiny now accorded to all the 1988 hopefuls, Rep. Jack Kemp. R-N.Y., the impeccably conservative candidate, may become an unwitting victim of association.

Kemp's anti-communist credentials are beyond reproach. But his ideological zeal has led him to champion a controversial group called the Anti-Bolshevik Bloc of Nations, or ABN. Historians have linked some of its members to pro-Nazi organizations in Europe during World War II.

ABN leaders deny the charge. They claim that Eastern European exiles among its membership fought against Soviet expansion, but not alongside Hitler's troops — a claimed feat of logistics that leaves military historians dubious. ABN was formed at the conclusion of the war by exiles from a variety of East Bloc nations.

Heedless of possible embarrassment. Kemp has repeatedly voiced his support for the anti-communist group. "You deserve our praise and admiration for promoting the cause of liberty for all those struggling under the burden of communist totalitarianism." Kemp wrote in a message read at the ABN's annual meeting in Toronto last November. He has sent similar messages to other ABN meetings.

Kemp may not have known about the background of some of the ABN delegates when he wrote such fulsome praise. One, for example, was Ivan Docheff, a founder of the Anti-Bolshevik Bloc of Nations, who was the wartime leader of the anti-communist Bulgarian National Legion. The legion has been described as "fascist" by the Bulgarian National Committee, an exile group based in Washington.

Docheff also published a newspaper during the war that featured a Nazi swastika on its masthead. He was sentenced to death in absentia by the postwar communist Bulgarian government for alleged pro-Hitler activities.

Docheff says he was a member of Bulgaria's anti-communist resistance, never a Nazi. "We resisted communist infiltration into our country." Docheff told Canadian journalist Howard Goldenthal last November.

According to Docheff, Bulgaria was never allied with Hitler in World War II, but merely allowed German troops to march through on their way to fight the Soviets in neighboring Romania. However, the fact is that Bulgaria declared war on Britain and the United States (though not the Soviet Union).

Docheff, who now lives in New York, said he has recently concentrated on helping elect Republicans to office. He has served on the GOP's ethnic-oriented Heritage Council, he said. The Council's executive director, Radi Slavoff, said that Docheff had not been on the council in "many years" and was not "a positive element."

Other ABN founders, including its late chairman. Yaroslav Stetsko, have been accused of collaboration with the Nazis against the Soviets in the Ukraine. Historian Charles Allen, a specialist in Nazi collaborators, and others, have linked Stetsko and several additional Ukrainian ABN founders to the Nazis.

The Ukrainian Congress Committee, an exile group affiliated with various anti-communist organizations here, whemently denies that exiles like Stetsko had any Nazi connection. The Congress claims that Hitler actually had Ukrainian nationalists imprisoned and that the SS secretly ordered their liquidation.

Upon Stetsko's death. Kemp paid a special tribute to him in the Congressional Record. A Kemp aide. Mary Brunette, told our associate Corky Johnson that the congressman supports the ABN goal of liberation from Soviet domination. but "certainly does not support anything that is anti-Semitic."

In 1984, Kemp's political organization. Campaign for Prosperity, received an illegal $1,000 donation from a Canadian, Stephen B. Roman, according to Federal Election Commission records. Roman heads the Slovak World Congress, which was founded by former officials of the Nazi puppet state of Slovakia.

Campaign contributions from non-U.S. citizens are illegal. A Kemp campaign official said acceptance of the Roman contribution was an error, and that the money was returned after our initial inquiry.

Roman was in Canada during the wartime rule of Slovakia by Father Joseph Tiso, who was executed in 1947 by the Czechoslovak government as a war criminal. In 1945, Roman coauthored a petition criticizing the arrest of Tiso and other Slovakian officials, saying they had acted under "duress and brute German occupational force." Roman did not return repeated telephone calls.

Typhoon Thelma Lashes Korea; At Least 33 Dead, 77 Missing

SEOUL, South Korea (UPI) - Typhoon Thelma battered South Korea, killing at least 33 people and leaving 77 missing and more than 6,600 homeless, before weakening into a tropical storm today over the Japan Sea, authorities

The typhoon skirted along Korea's southern island of Cheju late Wednesday and blew into the Japan Sea through the Korea Strait between Japan and Korea early today, the Central Weather Bureau said.

The latest official tabulation by the government Counter-Disaster Center in Seoul said 33 people were confirmed dead. 77 reported missing and 22 injured. More than 6,600 people were left homeless, according to the

Among those reported missing were 64 crewmen on three fishing boats that sank in rough seas, officials said.

Fourteen other vessels were damaged by the typhoon, and more than 1,700 houses were either flooded or destroyed, officials said.

Marcos Charged In Civil Case

MANILA. Philippines (UPI) - The government filed its "most important" civil case against deposed ruler Ferdinand Marcos and his family today, charging they "plundered, extorted and embezzled" some $10 billion worth of funds and property during their 20-year rule.

The case - the second of some 45 civil cases the government expects to file in an attempt to recover the Marcoses alleged ill-gotten wealth — was filed in a special anti-graft court in Manila.

Seven defendants were named in the case - Marcos and his wife Imelda, their son Ferdinand Marcos Jr., their daughters Imee and Irene and son-in-laws Tomas Manotoc and Gregorio Araneta III.

In the charge sheet presented before the three-judge Sandiganbayan court, the commission accused the Marcos family of "theft of public funds, plunder of the nation's wealth, extortion, blackmail, bribery, embezzlement and other acts of corruption, betrayal of public trust and brazen abuse of power."

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Within hours of the government announcing a special inspection of Delta Air Lines because of a string of recent safety incidents, across the country two Delta jets that took off less an hour apart were forced to turn back with mechanical problems.

Both planes returned safely to Los Angeles International Airport Wednesday, authorities said, but the ill-timed incidents threw a sharp spotlight on the inspection announced just hours before by the Federal Aviation Administration.

In Los Angeles Wednesday. Delta flight 1762, a Boeing 737 with 61 passengers bound for Mazatlan. Mexico, took off without incident at 10:15 a.m. PDT, said airline spokesman Vince Durocher. Well into the flight, the crew discovered a control panel malfunction and the pilot turned back to Los Angeles, where the plane landed at 11:30 a.m. The panel was fixed, but the flight was canceled.

Flight 1558, a Boeing 727 with 146 passengers, left at 11:13 a.m. for Salt Lake City and had reached an altitude of 4,000 feet when crew and passengers experienced ear discomfort because of air pressure air problems, Durocher

The department said Wednesday the two Cubans are not being expelled, but the communist government of Fidel Castro is being called on to withdraw them by July 25. One of the Cuban diplomats said he did not know whether his government would comply.

Bork Assets Reveal Apartments

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Supreme Court nominee Robert Bork lists current assets of more than than $280,000 and has been involved in apartment investments across the country, financial disclosure forms reveal.

Bork has in recent years sold off his interests in the projects, including a former partnership in an Indianapolis development. Robert Harmon, president of Harmon Envicon, the company that put together the Lake of Four Seasons partnership that owned the Willow Lake Apartments in Indianapolis, said Tuesday the project had gone to hell, with a lot of minorities moving in and not paying their rents."

He said Bork, named to replace retiring Justice Lewis Powell, invested in the project in 1979, and kept that investment until the company sold the project six years later. He said the project had been mostly white but that local economic conditions worsened and low-income blacks and other minorities began to move in around 1983.

We sold it in 1985, just to get out of it." Harmon said. "That whole area began going to hell with the closing of a plant, and just kept getting worse."

Despite what he described as the area's deterioration, Harmon said the project had been sold at a profit. He said he understands the project has since "improved," but that his firm and Bork no longer have any connection with it. He said the apartments are adjacent to a canal and are in good condition. The problem, he said, was not with the apartments running down but with the tenants' behavior.

Bork's accountant. George Allen, said Wednesday that Bork as a limited partner in various real estate investments had no role in decisions to sell Willow Lake or other properties. That decision, he said, would have been up to a smaller group of general

An Indianapolis Star article in May on Willow Lake quoted the new management as saying the project was poorly managed when they took over in the summer of 1985. Occupancy rates were low, grounds were weed infested, maintenance had fallen behind, eight units had been stripped because of plumbing problems and parts shortages and the club house had been gutted by fire, the article said.

Bork's latest financial disclosure form. filed May 15, also lists an interest in another real estate partnership, Sherman Arms Apartments. in Raleigh. N.C. Harmon described it as blue-collar, and said that, too. had been sold.

Although both projects have been sold. Bork lists capital gains income of between $2,500 and $5,000 for the Indianapolis project, and $1.000 to $2.500 for Sherman Arms on his 1987 filing.

The form, which federal judges are required to file yearly, also shows Bork has more than $250,000 in a pension trust fund in his name and between $1,000 and $5,000 in a bank account. He lists his personal worth between $281,000 and $355,000. The forms only require judges to list approximate values of their investments and income.

Bork, 60, nominated by President Reagan July 1, has come under severe criticism from civil rights and women's groups for his conservative views. If confirmed by the Senate, which begins hearings Sept. 15. Bork could give the court a conservative 5-4 majority.

Because of that, the nomination fight will be bitter and civil rights and women's group have already organized campaigns to op-pose him. Senate Judiciary Committee Chairman Sen. Joseph Biden. D Del., a presidential candidate, has also come out against the nomination.

In the five years he was required to file the forms as a U.S. Court of Appeals judge for the District of Columbia, Bork had a series of partnership investments in apartment projects in several states, all made through Berg-Harmon Associates, formerly known as Berg Harquell Capital Corp., of Secaucus.

The firm recently changed its name again to Harmon Envicon, after Southmark Corp., bought one-half interest in the firm in June.

Southmark is based in Dallas and is a financial services concern whose main business is sale of real estate and real estate investment products. The company also develops and manages real estate and is one of the nation's largest managers of healthcare facilities for older people, and has extensive resort community developments and hotel properties.

Bork's past investments included Phoenix-Rivercrest Associates, Atlanta: Van Antwerp Apartments Co., Rochester, N.Y., and Summers Whitehurst. Neither Harmon nor Allen. Bork's accountant, could recall the location of the Summers Whitehurst project which Bork's forms indicate was sold by 1984.

The Atlanta development was described by Harmon as upper income, with the others all "lower middle class to upper middle class blue-collar."

Constitution's 200th Anniversary Feted

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Senators and representatives, bound for Philadelphia today on a special morning train, were seeking their roots in Independence Hall. the red brick building where America's founding fathers wrote the Constitution 200 summers ago.

Their journey marks the anniversary of the "Great Compromise" that broke a weeks-old impasse in 1787 over the structure of the federal government by calling for creation of a two-house Congress giving states equal representation in one branch and population-based representation in the other.

"We are coming back to Philadelphia in 1987." said House of Representatives historian Raymond Smock. "to pay homage to the document that has shaped our nation and to commemorate the historic conception of Congress."

delegates to the Federal Convention. which included George Washington. Benjamin Franklin and James Madison.

Small states challenged large states for weeks, pressing for equal representation in the new Congress instead of the proportional representation advocated by those with more substantial populations.

Their "Great Compromise." also known as the "Connecticut Com-promise" proposed by Connecticut delegate Roger Sherman, a self-taught lawyer and judge, combined the two competing plans to call for a bicameral legislature.

The basic outlines of that plan were accepted July 16 and written into the final version of the Constitution approved by the convention two months later.

This afternoon's ceremonies, introduced by the Army Band and a costumed town crier, were to center on speeches by House and Senate leaders meeting first in a joint session and then in two separate gatherings - about the historical significance of the compromise that created Congress.

COLUMBIA, S.C. (UPI) - A federal judge appointed an examiner to check PTL's financial dealings, but declined to act on an move to name Jim and Tammy Faye Bakker and the PTL's "lifetime partners" creditors of the ininistry.

Columbia attorney William E.S. Robinson was appointed an independent examiner Wednesday to investigate money transfers in the ministry for possible fraudulent or illegal transactions.

But U.S. Bankruptcy Court Judge Rufus Reynolds, at a brief hearing, would not act on an attempt to draw the Bakkers and the ministry's "lifetime partners" into the Chapter 11 proceedings, a move new PTL chairman Jerry Falwell said would be ruinous.

"The issue (today) was whether an examiner would be appointed," said Ryan Hovis, an attorney for the Bakkers. 'Whether the Bakkers are creditors was not the issue in this case. I'm sure sooner or later they (PTL) will raise the issue or Reynolds gave Robinson until Oct. 1 to complete his investigation and until Oct. 10 to file a report with the court.

devise a reorganization plan in the first 120 days under Chapter 11, but creditors and others may offer their own plans after that. Reynolds revealed he had made two visits to Heritage USA, PTL's Christian theme park at

Geneva Residents Hostile Towards Sanford Water Plan

Simmons explained to a crowd of about 50 Geneva area residents Tuesday night the city's plans to buy 2,200 acres of land just northeast of Lake Jesup for a possible wastewater discharge the Geneva Community Center expressed hostility to the plan and a few stayed after the meeting to discuss the possibility of hiring an attorney to fight

The Sanford City Commission is proceeding with a plan to purchase the property by Sept. 1. Monday night the Commission approved up to $4.5 million worth of bond anticipation notes to purchase the property. A hearing on the land purchase is scheduled for July

Simmons' asserted that the treated waste water would only be applied on the area if not all of the city's effluent could be used within the city on parks and private yards and airport land: that if applied, it would only be at a rate which would be used by plants or evaporated and not run off; and that the water would not contain any dangerous chemicals or organic material. Some residents refused to believe the plan would not harm the Geneva area and Lake Jesup.

A familiar complaint that the area is becoming a dumping ground for cities' waste products was often voiced. Some people sald they cannot believe that some of the wastewater wouldn't run off, especially in wet weather, and end up in Lake Jesup or the St Johns River. polluting them.

Simmons' protestations that even if some of the water ran off. it would not harm the environment, fell largely on deaf

Timmons explained that sludge from the waste treatment would be applied to airport land but some Geneva residents said they suspect that when the airport land could no longer handle the sludge output, it would be dumped on the land the city plans to purchase.

Simmons said there are no plans to do that. Even'if there are some day, he said the city would have to obtain numerous permits from county, state and federal authorities only after Sanford City Engineer Bill assuring them that all safety and environmental regulations had been met.

Some people at the meeting sald Sanford's record in protecting the environment was not very good, considering what the city had done to Lake Monroe in Many of the crowd gathered in the past. Simmons said the state of Lake Monroe was not getting any worse now because of city policy. He explained that the reason the city had to find an area to put its treated waste wateris because the Department of Environmental Regulation has prohibited Sanford from dumping anything, even clean water. In Lake Monroe after 1989.

The city expects to pay about $3.5 million for the property. The Commission's action Monday night would authorize the notes, to be paid off with what is left of the existing $25 million sewer bond Issue. About $8 milliom remains from the $25 million.

City Manager Frank Faison said since the land purchase was not anticipated when the $25 million in bonds were sold, the city probably will not be able to complete all its planned sewer projects with what is left. He said the city will most likely have to go to the bond market and sell additional bonds, possibly as soon as this fall, in order to have the money to complete all planned projects

COMING EVENTS Sanford Faces Budget Paring

By Brad Church Herald Staff Writer

City Manager Frank Faison is faced with cutting $208,558 from the estimated $17.67 million 1987-88 city budget to bring it in line with the recently received estimates of revenues from the county auditor and the

A hearing on the tentative budget is set on Sept. 14. 7 p.m., in the commission chambers at City Hall.

Henry Tamm Jr., city finance director, says the difference in Faison's estimated figures and the newest figures is due to a decrease in state funds the city is expected to receive in the next fiscal year.

The county auditor's estimate of property taxes was higher than the estimated budget figure because of increased property valuacreased state funding for the city which more than makes up for the increase in local property values.

Tamm says the state estimates the 2-cent cigarette tax revenues for Sanford will be $120,000 for the next fiscal year, which is $13,195 less than Falson pegged those revenues in the estimated budget. The state estimates that state revenue sharing will total $995,437, which is $5,437 more than Faison estimated. However, the biggest impact on the estimated city budget is the state's estimates of what the city's share of the half-cent sales tax will be, including the new sales tax on services.

The aggregate of all the new figures.

including the higher property tax figures and the state figures, is a net decrease of 8208.558.

Tam explains that the city commission cannot raise millage levies from those announced in the original estimated budget. It can only cut services to meet the reduced figure.

Tam said it is possible the city may yet receive a revised estimate from the state. Last year a set of revised figures was received in September. He points out that everyone, cities and the state, is operating in the dark in trying to estimate the revenue from sales tax since the tax was approved on services effective July 1. With no past experience to draw on, estimates of sales tax revenue are more of an educated guess than in previous years.

Lake Mary Mulls New Salary Scale

Norris has recommended the city switch its method of establishing annual salary increases for its employees and develop new salary ranges for use in calculating merit pay

Meeting with the city personnel committee Monday. Norris suggested new salary ranges that he said will give more flexibility in deciding annual increases for an employee

All city employees are to recieve a 3.7 percent raise effective this coming Oct 1, if the city commission approves the proposed budget for the 1987-1988 fiscal year. Norris said he wants the commission to adopt a new plan that will base the amount of employee pay adjustments on the annual cost of living index, which is set by the federal government, and the amount of salaries being made by employees of other counties and cities (outside Seminole County) in Florida.

A Lake Mary ordinance now provides that the percentage for city pay adjustments may be computed by using the Gross National Product with implicit price deflaters as a measure of keeping salaries in line with inflation.

"It is my opinion that the Consumer Price Index is more of an Indicator of inflation than the GNP with implicit price deflaters," Norris said.

The percentage of pay increases by employees in Seminole County cities would not be used as a guide in computing raises for Lake Mary personnel in the new system because Norris feels they are too high. "This is an affluent county and salaries are higher here, except in Lake Mary." Norris

Norris feels that Lake Mary employees salaries will come into line with those of other cities in the state if his suggestion for the new system is approved by the city commission. He said however, that the position of city manager is

Lake Mary City Manager Bob exempt from his suggested method of adjusting pay. Norris said he couldn't have put the plan together if he had included the city manager position in it. Lake Mary now evaluates its employees once a year in Oct. deciding then whether to give a merit increase, based on the individuals job perfomance during the past year. Norris said the city manager and department heads have been locked into giving out merit increases in increments of 3. 6 and 9 percent in the past.

"Right now if I want to give an employee a merit increase I have to give him a minimum of 3 percent," Norris said, "But what If I want to give that person only a 1 or 2 percent raise." Norris added the city's merit increases ranged from 0 to 6 percent this year. "Nobody received a 9 percent pay adjustment." he

The salary schedule Norris suggested to the committee has nine pay grades such as the one now in use by the city, but gives an employee the oportunity to earn as much as 50 percent of the starting salary of the grade in merit increases. For instance, If a person were hired under Norris' salary schedule as a secretary in in the pay grade of 4, that person would have a starting salary of $13,842.

In cost of living and merit pay increases the employee could earn up to 50 percent of the starting salary while in the pay grade of 4, which is $20,764.

The proposed schedule calls for a difference of 10 percent between each of the 9 individual pay grades. The range of starting salaries for city employees would begin at $10,400 for grade 1 and ends at $22,293 for grade 9.

Norris said he will meet with the committee next Monday at 7 a.m. to discuss the suggestion further.

"What happens to the recommendation will be decided by whatever action the personell committee wants to take,' Norris said.

Lebanon Bombings Kill 8

BEIRUT. Lebanon (UPI) -Two car bomb explosions ripped through Syriancontrolled sections of Lebanon, killing at least eight people and wounding 54 others, including four Syrian soldiers.

The bombings in northern and eastern Lebanon Wednesday were apparently a continuation of a campaign aimed at sabotaging Syria's military role in Lebanon.

No group has claimed reaponaibility for the two blasts. The explosions brought to nine the number of car bombings in Lebanon this year, six of them targeted at Syrian troops deployed in Moslem west Beirut Feb. 22 in an effort to restore law and order.

Syrian troops immediately cordoned off the area and banned reporters and cameramen from approaching the site of the blast.

In eastern Lebanon's Bekaa valley, explosives packed in a car went off in the vegetable market of the city of Baalbeck. 52 miles northeast of Beirut. police sources said.

They said one woman was killed and four Syrian soldiers. including a lieutenant, were wounded in the blast, which caused extensive damage to nearby buildings.

The two blasts were apparently aimed at undermining Syria's military role in Lebanon. At least 13 others have been killed in similar explosions that targeted Syrian posts this year.

Commission Hopes To Reopen Redfish Fishery Temporarily

Many salt water fishermen have awaited anxiously for information on the redfish closure. Summer and fall is the prime time to catch this hard-fighting fish, and many good fishing days are slipping by while the Marine Fisheries Commission draws up proposals for Gov. Bob Martinez and his cabinet.

Salt water anglers will be elated to know that the commission is proposing to reopen the redfish fishery Oct. 1-Dec. 31 this year as a temporary measure intended to provide maximum protection to redfish populations this fall, while allowing some limited harvest.

In order to meet the recommendations of the governor and cabinet, a full review of redfish biology and management is underway. However, this study will not be completed until a long-term solution can be accomplished.

During this period, recreational fishermen would be allowed to harvest one redfish daily per person, and commercial fishermen could harvest five redfish daily per boat. In addition, harvest of redfish larger than 27 inches in length would be prohibited.

Provisions of the redfish rule previously in effect (prior to the existing closure to all harvest of redfish in state waters) would also apply, including a minimum size limit of 18 inches, a prohibition on the use of treble hooks while fishing with natural balt, a requirement that redfish be landed in a whole condition, and a prohibition on snatch

The Marine Fisheries Commission also voted to designate redfish as a "restricted species," which would require fishermen harvesting redfish above the recreational bag limit to have a special endorsement on their saltwater products license.

At the end of the special scason, all harvest of redfish would again be prohibited until further action takes place, pending completion and approval on a long-term management plan.

The commission will hold a final public hearing on these proposals Aug. 12 in Tampa, and expects to take the rule to the Governor and Cabinet for approval on Sept. 9.

SHUPE'S SCOOP: Redfish are gregarious and usually always travel in schools. Always concentrate in an area that one redfish has been caught and you will usually connect with more.

Raines Relishes All-Star Acclaim

By Sam Cook Herald Sports Editor

Tim Raines summed up his All-Star Game performance in three words.

"I'm damn bad," he laughed via long-distance telephone from his Montreal condominium Wednesday

One could understand Raines' elation and self-satisfaction.

In a game which showcased major league baseball's best. Raines was head and shoulders above the rest with two singles and a two-run triple in the 13th inning which provided the National League with a 2-0 victory over the American League at the Oakland Coliscum Tuesday night in the 58th All-Star

The 3 for 3 performance earned the 27-year-old Montreal Expo outfielder the All-Star Game's most valuable player award and the Miller Lite MVP.

Since he won the award, Raines has been the focus of radio and television from coast to coast. That familiar Sanford "mug" keeps popping into view on Headline News, CNN and ESPN.

More importantly for Raines, it ended a string of six All-Star Games appearances (seven at-bats) where he had falled to get a hit. Tuesday's appearance was his Baseball seven consecutive since breaking into the major leagues in 1981.

Raines, who entered the game in the sixth inning, said he benefitted from a late appearance. "(Bret) Saberhagen and (Jack) Morris were dealing in those first few innings and (Scott) Langston was really throwing the ball," he said.

Pitchers especially dominated the early going since California's lateafternoon shadows made it difficult on the hitters. "When I got to bat, the shadows were all the way out to left field," Raines said. "It didn't bother anyone then."

Raines responded in the ninth inning by driving a 3-2 Dave Righetti fastball into center field for his first hit in the mid-season classic. "Righetti was having trouble with his slider, so I knew he'd try to throw the gas by me," Raines said. "It helped to bat right-handed the first time

Righetti then picked Raines off first. but Mark McGwire's throw to second was wild, enabling the ex-Seminole High School swifty to race to third base.

"I figured I could steal second even if he picked me off," Raines said. "I had a good jump and then I ran in front of the shortstop (Tony Fernandez), so he (McGwire) would have to throw it to the other side of the base.

"When I saw the shortstop reach for it and it go by him, I just went en to third base." he added.

Raines was stranded at third, though, when Juan Samuel hit a medium-deep fly ball to Dwight Evans. Raines thought better of trying to tag and score. He was right: Evans gunned a perfect one-hop throw to the plate. Jeffrey Leonard then struck out to end the inning.

"I've been following Dwight's career and I know what a strong arm he has." Raines said. "With Just one out, there was no sense in going."

The National League's defending batting champion said he began thinking about the MVP award after he slapped his second hit - an 11th-inning single. "I thought it would be between me and Evans (two hits) and maybe (Dave) Winfield. He already had a double and the way he's been swinging the bat was capable of hitting one out." Raines said. "Of course, when I got that triple, I thought I had a pretty good chance."

Raines' game-winner came against Jay

Howell. He jumped on an outside corner fastball and stroked it to left center. As it rolled to the wall, he raced to third as Ossic Virgii and Hubic Brooks easily scored for a 2-0 lead.

Raines pointed to his ninth-inning single as the difference between this year's game and his six previous appearances. "That first hit was the key," he said. "I have always been nervous in All-Star Games. That hit relaxed me. Then, I treated it as a regular game."

Although the MVP will always be a cherished moment, Raines said it does not take top priority with his thrills in baseball. "It's funny, some things that you have nothing to show for are what you are most proud of," he said. "The batting title was probably my biggest thrill, but just putting on a major-league uniform for the first time was exciting.

"When I hit two home runs in a game that was a big thrill. The MVP will be something I always remember, though."

Raines had said he was going to stop the game and get the ball after his first hit. "I had planned to, but I didn't know if they would give it to me," he said. "But I got the ball after that triple. That was the important one."

Important enough to make Raines the "Star among Stars" Tuesday night.

American Right-Hander Strikes Out 6 Of 9, Crain Drills 3-Run Homer

WINTER SPRINGS - Prior to the start of Wednesday night's opening-round game in the Pony District Bronco baseball Tournament. American League manager Jim Withrow was hoping that his team would "swing through the ball better."

As it turned out, the Americans' did just what Withrow was hoping for as they pounded out 15 hits en route to a 15-1 six-inning triumph over West Seminole before 101 fans at the Five Points Complex.

The victory advances the Americans into Friday night's championship game. The Americans' will take on the winner of tonight's West Seminole-Seminole National contest that is scheduled for 7.

Last week, the Americans' edged the Nationals', 2-1, in a best-of-three series. If the Nationals' win tonight, the two clubs will meet again in a best-of-three series.

"I can think of a lot of other teams that I'd

Nationals' coach Bob Carr said that he'd love the chance to take on Withrow's squad again. "That series was probably the best that I have ever seen," Carr sald. "I'd sure like to get another chance at them."

Americans' pitcher Matt Freeman, who stands 5-foot-10 and weighs 165 pounds, simply overpowered West Seminole in the three innings that he worked. Freeman started the game and struck out six out of the nine batters that he faced. Only three West Seminole players made contact with the ball as Freeman didn't give up a hit.

"I'm pretty pleased with the way that I am pitching." Freeman said. "During the regular season. I had some control problems but

Corey Goochee, Black, Matt Jacques, and Charlie Chapman each registered a pair of hits for the Americans. Freeman, Jason Crain, and Bobby Amos also had one hit

The Americans' used a seven run two-out rally to take the lead for good in the top of the first. The big blow came when Crain, a right-handed hitter, went with loser Sean Goldstein's pitch and drove it over the right-field fence for a three-run homer.

"They just made some serious mental errors," Seminole manager Tom Friesner said about his team. The inning did not end there, however, for Steve "Squeaky" Shelman singled to left field. Jeff Livernois then reached base by error to score Sheiman. Terry All but one of the Americans' starters "Downtown" Brown followed

Seminole scored one run in the bottom of the inning to cut West Seminole's lead to 5-3. Twiggs reached base on an error by shortstop Livernols and eventually scored on a wild pitch.

The game was a pitcher's duel from the outset in more ways than one. West Seminole starter Livernois delivered the first pitch of the game and smacked B.J. Calapa square in the back. The pitch set the mood for the rest of the game - there was no love to be lost between these two teams and their fans.

Calapa stole second on the next pitch to set up an early scoring opportunity for Seminole. Newell then fouled off three pitches before sending a Livernois fastball whirling over the left-center field fence for a two-run homer. Seminole had a 2-0 lead at the end of the first.

"I was a little surprised (with Czachowski sald. "Jeff (Livernois) was a little up tight."

The next four innings went by scoreless as both Newell and Livernois took control of the game. Hard-throwing Livernois was relieved by Shelman, a to Abreu for the force to end the breaking ball pitcher, in the fourth, which confused

AL: 3 Get 5-Game Suspensions - Randolph To Undergo 'Scope'

NEW YORK (UPI) - Kansas City's Danny Jackson and Willie Wilson and Cleveland's Brett Butler were suspended five games apiece by the American League Wednesday for their part in two brawls between the teams earlier this month.

Jackson, a pitcher, and Butler, an outfielder, both informed AL officials that they would appeal the suspensions, which were to have taken effect Thursday. Wilson, an outfielder, did not indicate if he planned an appeal.

By filing an appeal, the players can continue to play until a hearing is held. League spokeswoman Phyllia Merhige said hearings would be scheduled when the players are next in New York.

The suspensions were believed to be the longest League President Bobby Brown has handed down since be became president in January 1984, Merhige said.

Indians spokesman Rick Minch said the club had no comment on the suspensions. In other news, the New York Yankees Wednesday placed

All-Star second baseman Willie Randolph on the 21-day disabled list with torn cartilage in his left knee. Randolph, hitting .309 with 47 RBI, will undergo arthroscopic surgery Friday at New York University Hospital and is expected to be out for four weeks. Randolph started in Tuesday night's All-Star Game in Oakland, Calif., playing three innings.

UNC Star Faces Murder Charge

UPPER MARLBORO, Md. (UPI) - North Carolina star tailback Derrick Fenner, who faces murder charges in connection with a drug-related slaying in May, has been released from jail on $100,000 bond, his attorney said.

Fenner, who will go to trial on the charges Oct. 26, was remanded to the custody of his family in Oxon Hill, Md., Wednesday, said attorney Joel Worsthil.

"Family and friends managed to raise enough money to get him out," Worsthil said. "We're all glad bond was able to be made."

Fenner, the Atlantic Coast Conference's leading rusher last year, is charged in the shooting death of 19-year-old Marcellus Leach on May 23 in Hyattsville, Md. Police believe the shootout between two groups involved a conflict over drug trafficking turf. A 17-year-old bystander was shot in the leg.

Raiders' Linebacker Arrested

RANCHO PALOS VERDES, Calif. (UPI) - Los Angeles Raiders linebacker Jerry Robinson was arrested early today on suspicion of driving under the influence of drugs and felony possession of cocaine and codeine, deputies sald.

Robinson, 30, was stopped at 1:30 a.m. after he drove his gray Mercedes Benz through flares laid out by deputies at the scene of a traffic accident at Crenshaw Boulevard and Indian Peak Road, near his home in Rancho Palos Verdes, Deputy Pete Fosselman said.

On the car's center console deputies found five chunks of rock cocaine and codeine tablets for which Robinson had no prescription. Fosselman said.

Espinoza: Title Took Too Long

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) - Louie Espinoza came away from his successful WBA junior featherweight title defense angry with himself for letting it take too long.

Espinoza, fighting before his hometown crowd, retained the 122-pound crown Wednesday night with a 15th-round technical knockout of Venezuela's Manuel Vilchez but said he was upset because he "saved so much" for the late

"I felt strong, but I was a little disappointed because I saved up too much in the middle rounds, when I should have pressed," Espinoza said after the bout.

The Chase Continues

During the second half of the season, the American League will feature chases of three legendary numbers in baseball in addition to the usual pennant races.

Oakland rookie first baseman Mark McGwire, Boston third baseman Wade Boggs and Kansas City pitcher Bret Saberhagen were all members of the AL's losing All-Star team Tuesday night. Starting today, their teams return to action that counts and they will resume pursuit of the numbers 61, .400 and 30. McGwire has done much to fuel debate about a livelier baseball by hitting 33 homers. McGwire. who was questionable to even make the Athletics' regular-season roster, has fans computing his pace compared with Roger Maris' 1961 season, when the New York Yankee outfielder hit a major-league record 61 homers. Boggs, who never hit more than eight homers in a season, has surprised many with his 17 first-half homers. Boggs, a lifetime .352 hitter entering this season, has surprised few with his .375 average, even sparking thoughts that just maybe he could be the first .400 hitter since Ted

Williams hit .406 in 1941. Saberhagen has rebounded from a 7-12 1986 to go 15-3, putting the right-hander in position to become the first 30-game winner since Denny McClain won 31 in 1968.

Team highs and lows:

New York (3 ahead) — Opens second half with All-Star second baseman Willie Randolph on 21-day DL with torn knee cartilage. Can Paul Zuvella and Bobby Meacham replace Randolph (.309, 47 RBI)? Have added left-hander Steve Trout from Cubs.

Toronto (3 back) - AL-leading staff ERA of 3.70. Rotation is taking shape, with Dave Stieb showing earlier form. George Bell (29 homers, 76 RBI) is having an MVP-type season. West

Minnesota (2 up) — If Twins hold on, Kirby Puckett (.337, 116 hits, 55 runs, 14 homers) is an MVP front-runner. Frank Viola (8-6, 2.96 ERA) is anchoring staff. Rookie Manager Tom Kelly's team needs Jeff Reardon (17 saves) to be a full-time "Terminator."

Kansas City (2 back) - How much will Bo Jackson's decision to play football as a "hobby" after the season hurt? Starting rotation is division's best. Can George Brett stay healthy?

Oakland (2 back) — Maybe a last hurrah for Reggie Jackson. The young hitting talent is there, headed by McGwire and Jose Canseco. Will a questionable staff that includes Dave Stewart and Joaquin Andujar hold up down stretch?

Cardinals In Command

The National League will open the second half of the season looking much as it did last year, with one team dominating the NL East and the

NL West wide open. The St. Louis Cardinals hold a nine-game lead in the East, while in the West, eight games separate the top five teams. The season resumes today with a full schedule after the All-Star break. The Cardinals, like the Mets in 1966, must collapse to avert capturing their second title in three years. The Cincinnati Reds, seeking their first title since 1979, are 2 1/2 games ahe 1 in the West but Houston and San Francisco expect to give the Reds trouble.

Here is a second-half outlook for teams in the National League:

St. Louis (1st place) — The Cardinals, who won nine of 10 before the break, will soon welcome back John Tudor (broken leg) to the rotation but will be without Danny Cox (broken foot) for at least a month. St. Louis is deep enough to withstand Cox's absence, but an injury to a front-line player, particularly Jack Clark, would weaken the Cardinals considerably.

Montreal (2nd place, 9 back) — The Expos lack depth in the starting rotation and a bullpen stopper. A trade for a pitcher seems unlikely because Montreal has little to deal.

New York (3rd place, 9 1/2 back) - The Mets have not played consistently all season and need a nice winning streak to get back in contention. Pitching will determine how well the Meta do.

Chicago (4th place, 10 back) - The Cubs practically conceded any chance for the pennant by trading Steve Trout to the Yankees.

Cincinnati (1st place) — The Reds needed the break after losing six of their seven games and second baseman Ron Oester (knee injury). The loss of Oester could prove devastating but if the Reds can hang on until his return, they have enough pitching and hitting to win.

Houston (2nd place, 2 1/2 back) - The ineffectiveness of Bob Knepper (3-10) has been detrimental to the pitching staff, placing a heavier burden on Mike Scott. The Astros still are in excellent position to repeat but it will be a

San Francisco (3rd place, 3 back) - The Giants miss the production from Mike Krukow (1-6), but they too have enough to take the division. The acquisition of Dave Dravecky gives San Francisco a quality starter. Candy Maldonado (broken finger) returns for the second half.

Gomez Misses First Clay Court Final Since '82

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — For the first time since 1982, Andres Gomez will not play in the finals of the U.S. Open Clay Court Tennis Championships.

Gomez, the defending champion who is ranked eighth in the world, was the highest of seven seeded players eliminated Wednesday during second-round action at the Indianapolis Sports Center.

Gomez, who also won in 1984 and finished second in 1985 and 1983, was eliminated by South African Gary Muller, 6-4, 4-6, 6-4. Muller's long volley game disrupted second-seeded Gomez, backhand winners by Muller to end the match.

"I went out expecting to give a good show. But win? No," said Muller, who called it the greatest victory of his life. He is ranked 151st in the world.

A rain delay of 2 1/2 hours did not interrupt the match, but it did make the surfact slower and Muller said that was to his advantage.

"I was fortunate for the rain. I don't play that well on clay. After the rain, the courts didn't have that much extra material on them. It helped that I was Sweden, ranked No. 2 in the playing on a slower, harder court," he said. "I didn't think he played unbelievably well and I was serving strongly."

The upset of Gomez was symbolic of the tournament's ending era. The event will leave Indianapolis next season after 18 years for an undetermined site. Organizers will replace the clay surface with asphalt and rename world, won his opening match, defeating Leif Shiras of Milwaukee 6-1, 7-5.

The upset victims included sixth-seed Tarik Benhabiles of Great Britain, who was beaten eliminated No. 15 Todd Witsken 7-5, 6-1, by Jimmy Brown of Largo, Fla. France's Thierry Tulasne, the No. 7 seed, fell to Czechoslovakia's Libor Pimek. 6-1, 2-6, 6-0, while ninth seed Jay Berger of Plantation, Fla., was eliminated by Miami's Blaine Willenborg. 6-7 (7-4). 7-5.

Two other seeded Americans lost, leaving No. 15 Andre Agassi of Las Vegas, Nev., the only rated U.S. player in the final 16. No. 13 Mel Purcell of Atlanta lost 3-6. 6-1. 6-4. to Argentina's Javier Frana while another Argentine, Christian Miniussi. of Carmel, Ind., 3-6, 6-3, 6-1.

The highest seeded American. No. 8 Jimmy Arias, was upset in the tournament's longest match. Arias failed to convert seven match points and lost 6-7 (7-5) 6-4, 11-9 to rookie Richey Reneberg of Houston. Tiebreakers are not used in the final set at the tournament.

"When you have so many match points, it weighs on your mind." Arias said. "I was thinking about it too much. By the last few match points, I was choking because I had so many and I was hitting them out."

Reneberg, who won the NCAA championship earlier this year as a player for Southern Methodist, turned professional only last month. He lost to Ivan Lendi in a third round match at Wimbledon. "When he had the match points. I kind of went for broke," Reneberg said. "I just happened to win all the match points. He is a great player. I felt all the pressure was on him."

Anderson Makes Waves

DURHAM, N.C. (UPI) - For a young lady who came to the Olympic Festival with few expectations, 17-year-old California swimmer Sarah Anderson has been making a lot of waves.

Anderson, a 5-foot-9, 130-pound blonde from Riverside has won four gold medals in two nights and may have a chance in tonight's final swimming competition to snag a record total of six since she'll be racing in the 400 freestyle and might compete in the 4x100.

Tuesday, she won the 200-meter freestyle and was a member of the winning 800 freestyle relay team. Wednesday, she won the 800 freestyle and anchored the winning 400 freestyle team.

"I'm really pleased," said Anderson, who will be a freshman this fall at California-Berkeley. "I came in to the Festival not even expecting to place very well here.

"I don't know the answer," she added. "I got here and got caught up in all the excitement of the Festival. I guess I really psyched myself up to swim here.

"I just found out that I'm the only one here with four golds and I'm really having trouble believing it." Anderson said. "I would have gone home satisfied just swimming my best times ever. I didn't expect all this. My coach decided to put me in the relay after I finished the 800 and I felt a little tired and drained until I saw that we were in the lead then I just went for it."

Nadine Takai, Hawaii, was tied with Anderson at three golds before sitting out the women's 400.

While Sitz kept Altamonte's offense quiet, Apopka threatened again in the sixth. Ryan reached on one of only two Altamonte errors in the game to lead off and Brian Storey went in to pinch run. Elliott then struck out Warzocha and, on the third strike. Storey was cut down trying to steal second as catcher Cornelius Cotton made the throw and Abreu made a nice dig and tag for the second out. That turned out to be a big double play as pinch hitter Mike Streicher followed with a single to left that might have scored Storey if he had successfully stolen second.

After Sitz, who struck out 12 and walked three, set down Altamonte in the top of the seventh, Apopka had another threat taken away by Altamonte's defense in the bottom half. Thompson made a diving stop of a hot shot by Stegall and gunned to Johnston for the first out. Speranza then reached on an error and, with two outs, Black hit a soft liner toward right field but Dangel made a nice leaping catch to rob Black of a base hit and end the inning.

Altamonte, held to four hits in the first seven innings, then broke the tie with a run on four hits in the top of the eighth. Cotton reached on a bunt single to start the inning and stole second but he was thrown out at the plate trying to score on Elliott's single. After Sitz got the second out, Thompson laced an 0-1 pitch into left fleld for a base hit and Elliott scored without a play at the plate for a 2-1 lead. John Durrant followed with his second hit of the game but Sitz got out of the inning without any further damage.

"He (Sitz) was really tough but I knew we could get to him," Thompson, who was 2 for 3 in the game, said. "But it was defense that really won the game

Apopka made the Altamonte fans hold their breath one last time in the bottom of the eighth but, once again, the defense came to the rescue. Elliott walked the leadoff man in the inning but then struck out Warzocha for the first out. Buffum then launched a pitch to deep center field that looked like it had a chance to go out of the park but Jaillet raced back and made the grab against the fence for what turned out to be the biggest out of the game.

"When he (Buffum) hit it I thought I would have a chance to catch it," Jaillet said. "I could feel the fence when I made the catch.'

Elliott then got pinch hitter Todd Hayes to hit a grounder to Abreu who flipped to Dangel for the force at second and the final

"I was real proud of Mike (Elliott)," Pihakis said. "I was thinking about taking him out in the eighth but he said he wanted to stay in. He did a good job and defense just played tremendous

"This is a great Apopka team that we beat tonight," Pihakis added. "And I believe we'll be seeing them again."

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) - Cris Carter, the Ohio State wide receiver who ascended to all-America status as a sophomore and broke virtually every school pass-receiving by the end of his junior year, has been thrown off the Buckeyes on the eve of his senior season.

Carter, who for months had denied involvement with New York agent Norby Walters, was declared permanently incligible Wednesday by OSU Athletic Director Rick Bay for accepting money from Walters and signing a representation contract with his firm, World Sports and Entertainment of New York. Both actions are violations of NCAA rules.

"There had been a lot of rumors over the last several months relative to Cris's eligibility," Bay said in making the announcement at a Wednesday news conference. "But, until last weekend, they were only that as far as we were concerned in the athletic department.

Casselberry No-Hits Nationals —

Herald Sports Editor CASSELBERRY - No team likes to be on the receiving end of a no-hitter. It is a frustrating and embarrassing situation.

The anguish and red faces, however, were few around the Altamonte Major National League All-Stars' dugout Wednesday night. They were no-hit by Casselberry all right, but they had one big reason to ease the pain.

Despite no-hit hurling from Jason White and Brad Norburg. Altamonte took advantage of 14 walks and three hit batsmen to post a 7-0 Little League Baseball District 14 Division II Area I Major victory over Casselberry before 91 fans at Wirz Park.

puts Altamonte into good position. It will now await the survivor of a three-way Oviedo. Eustis and Casselberry battle. The survivor would have to beat Altamonte Saturday (7 p.m. at Altamonte) and Sunday to advance to the district final.

Thursday's battle was frustrating on both fronts. White, Casselberry's big right-hander, was at his overpowering best - but could not throw strikes. The Nationals, although anxious to swing the bats, were patient enough to watch most of White's 142 pitches sail outside of the strike zone.

"I've never pitched like that, that's the worst ever," a disappointed White, who pitched into the fifth inning, said after the game. "I hadn't really pitched in a month (since the regular season), Baseball and every time I delivered my foot would sink in the mud."

White's first sticky situation came in the first when he walked Danny Anson on five pitches. Anson moved to second on a passed ball and third on Brian Saunders' groundout. White then struck out dangerous Frank Harmer, but walked Marcus Bullock on a 3-2 pitch.

White then hit Chad Kessler and Kyle Eshliman with consecutive pitches in the helmet to force in the first run. Ben Hurst walked on five pitches to plate another tally for a 2-0 lead.

"Jason was nervous," Casselberry manager Bob Bernstein said. "And the mound didn't suit him. But I don't think they were going to hit him.

When he's on, he's very tough to hit."
While White was having trouble finding the plate, Altamonte's Bullock was near-perfect after easing from a first-inning jam. The 12-year-old right-hander harnessed his curveball after the first frame to finish with a three-hitter. Bullock struck out 14, walked one and hit one. He retired the last eight in succession.

Brian Gomes had two hits and Regan Kingsbury had the other.

In the second, Anson drew a one-out walk and moved to third on successive wild pitches. Saunders and Harmer each drew a free pass but White whiffed Bullock for the second out. Kessler, though, walked on a 3-2 pitch to force in Anson for a 3-0 lead.

"We just tried to keep in there and watch the ball," Anson said. "He's (White) is the fastest pitcher I've faced. He just couldn't throw strikes. If he had a curve, he'd really be tough."

In the third, Hurst took a pitch off the helmet and moved up when Mike Lyons walked. Both advanced on a wild pitch. Anson sandwiched a walk between strikeouts before Harmer drew a walk after failing behind 0-2 to push home a run for a 4-0 lead.

Altamonte added a run in the fourth when Kessler drew a walk and eventually scored on an overthrow by the center fielder. In the fifth. Sanders walked and stole two bases before coming home on an error by the catcher. Harmer walked and scored on a wild pitch for the 7-0 final.

West Seminole did not have a great hitting day either, due mostly to Newell's fine pitching.

Oviedo Swamps Eustis

By Scott Sander Herald Sports Writer

After an opening-round loss to the Altamonte Nationals in the District 14 Senior League baseball Tournament, Oviedo manager Jimmy Boston guaranteed that his club would face Altamonte again.

As it turned out, Boston was correct in that assessment as Oviedo pasted Eustis, 20-5, in five innings in the losers' bracket final of the Division II. Area I tourney Wednesday night at the Oviedo Little League Complex.

Oviedo will host Altamonte tonight at 7. Oviedo will have to beat Altamonte twice in order to win the tournament. If Oviedo wins tonight, it will play Altamonte again Friday night. If Altamonte wins, it will advance to sectional play in Deltona.

Hathaway To Continue Hoop Career At Urbana

By Mike Dame Special to the Herald

Moving is never easy, but Steve Hathaway is preparing to relocate in a big way as the 6-foot-5 forward from Seminole High recently signed a basketball scholarship with Urbana (Ohlo) University.

Hathaway, who saw a great deal of playing time as a backup forward and part-time starter for coach Bill Klein's Seminole Athletic Conference champions. averaged five points, 4.2 rebounds and 1.1 blocked shots a game while holding a free-throw percentage of 72.

Hathaway's decision to go to Urbana was not an easy one, for he was also being sought after by other schools a little closer to

"There was a couple of community colleges (Temple Terrace in St. Petersburg and Valencia) around Florida I could go to, but I was looking for a four-year college where I could grow more," he said.

"They said I would go up there and contribute right away," Hathaway said.

Although Hathaway is very anxious to take his talents on the road, he admits that it will be very hard to leave his friends and family in Sanford.

"They're all happy right now." he said, "but when it comes time to leave, it will be kind of hard on everyone. But you've gotta do

Hathaway will also be playing in the same conference as Sanford's Baird brothers - Brent and Brad. The Bairds are attending Cedarville College.

Muirfield Presents New Great Prime Opportunity

MUIRFIELD, Scotland (UPI) -With no player in golf truly dominant and a course known for producing champions, this year's British Open looks like a prime opportunity for a new man to Join the game's greats.

The leading favorites to lift the silver trophy and $120,000 winner's check in the tournament starting Thursday are the familiar names. Two-time winner Seve Ballesteros, three-time loser Bernhard Langer, defending champion Greg Norman and Tom Watson, a victory away from Harry Vardon's record of six titles, are sitting atop the odds lists.

But that reflects the conservatism of local gamblers rather than any particular conviction that one of the "old guard" will beat the 6.963 yards Mulrfield course and his 152

"But you don't know how you're hitting the ball until the wind gets up to 30 or 35 miles an hour. When the wind's not blowing, everybody plays good."

The likelihood is that for part of Thursday, at least, the wind will be blowing, out of the east.

In theory, the experienced players who are familiar with tackling a links course in the worst of the weather should prevail on a course all agree is a demon in bad weather.

But Nicklaus scored the first of his three Open victories here in 1966 and at the time, few "experts" thought he had the right game for links courses.

Right now, Paul Azinger looks a candidate to step on the road to stardom. He tops the U.S. money list, he has three wins on the Tour this season and is showing some of the best form. But he will be making his Open debut at 8:10 a.m. (3:10 EDT), when forecast overnight rain could still be falling.

'Paul Azinger hits a lot of bump and run shots, he hits extremely long also. He hits a ball well. It's very difficult not to lot longer than people give him hit the ball well when the credit for, but he's an awfully good putter, he's got a very good short game," Trevino said.

The blue-chip barometer posted a 15-point decline early in the session, hurt by a sliding dollar and plunging bond prices, all of which occurred on news that the U.S. trade deficit widened to $14.4 billion in May from a $13.32 billion shortfall in April.

"The trade number was the key to the whole day." said Larry Wachtel, analyst at Prudential-Bache Securities Inc. "It set the tone for the currencies, bonds and stock a."

Sidestepping the weakness in bonds and the dollar, stocks managed to regain their balance by late morning. By early afternoon, the Dow was up nearly 15 points, just shy of 2500.

Ohio High Court Vetoes Comparative Negligence

Association of Securities Dealers are representative inter-dealer prices as of mid-morning today. COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) - The Inter-dealer markets change Ohio Supreme Court, attacking a major proposal of an impending civil justice reform bill in the Legislature, said the principle of comparative negligence has no place in product liability cases. in a split decision, the court ruled an appeals court was wrong in reducing the damages awarded to the widow of a man killed in a dump truck accident, simply because the man's negligence was partially responsible for his death.

Last year, the Ohio General Assembly passed a landmark product liability-civil justice reform bill, but it was vetoed by Gov. Richard Celeste, in part because of a provision that would have assigned percentages of blame between victims and businesses in cases where people are injured by faulty products, and adjust damage awards accordingly.

A new reform bill is winding its way through the Legislature now and the final version may ultimately contain some form of comparative negligence in product liability cases.

But the Supreme Court gave notice it does not support auch a principle.

David Bowling of Butler County was killed on April 26, 1980, when the bed of a dump truck descended rapidly and crushed his skull.

The Jury determined that Bowling was contributorily negligent, but that he had not assumed a known risk, and found that Bowling was 30 percent to blame, Hell 40 percent and Sweeney 30 percent.

On appeal, the Butler County Court of Appeals affirmed the jury's verdict, but directed the trial Judge to reduce the damages against Heil to $700,000. The appeals court also held that the Ohio law regarding comparative negligence applies in product liability cases when the victim undertakes a clearly "active" negligent course of action, as opposed to a "passive" failure to discover a defect.

The Supreme Court disagreed, noting that product liability law. arising from a series of Supreme Court decisions, is clearly separate from the laws of contracts and negligence.

edge of the diversion. Poindexter said. Indeed, the Marine was the one who brought the idea to him.

North testified in six days at the hearings beginning last week that all his actions in the affair were approved by his superiors. Poindexter agreed with that, unlike his predecessor as national security adviser, Robert McFarlane.

But Poindexter offered a much larger contradiction than that Wednesday, one that went to the very roots of the foreign policy crisis. Describing a 1985 document, he added to the evidence that Reagan approved the Iran deals as an arms-for-hostages ransom right from the start.

Poindexter testified the president signed a secret "finding" Dec. 5, 1985, that did not - as Reagan has asserted repeatedly - authorize the arms sales to Iran's revolutionary govern-

Because it so explicitly referred to seeking freedom for Americans held by pro-iranian terrorists in Lebanon, Poindexter said he personally destroyed it last fall in another attempt to protect Reagan from "political embarrassment."

The only "finding" Reagan has acknowledged is the Jan. 17, 1986, document in which he authorized the arms sales as part

Reagan watched on television as Poindexter described hiding the diversion, and aides characterized his reaction as mild.

"What's new about that? I've been saying that for seven months," Reagan told reporters when they shouted the news to him at one point.

Most committee members concluded Poindexter told the

"It must be a relief to the American people," sald Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, a staunch Reagan defender in the hearings.

Most agreed, however, the investigation could not stop now because of the questions raised about Reagan's style of delegating affairs to subordinates and the effect on the policies of a nuclear superpower.

Rep. Thomas Foley, D-Wash., said the president's ignorance of primarily as a political overture the diversion is "disturbing. I think that anyone who now thinks that this is over and is no matter of concern doesn't understand this is a most serious problem here, which is, how does national security policy get made in this administration?

"If it's made by a staff officer of the National Security Council without the knowledge or consent of the president, based on his assumptions of what the president would say, I think we have an extraordinarily serious problem," Foley said.

Sen. William Cohen, R-Maine, agreed. "When the buck is supposed to stop, it is supposed to stop at the top and not at a subordinate level," he said.

Poindexter is in no way in the clear for honorably taking "the spears in his chest," as Cohen put it. His lawyer told the committees Wednesday Poindexter is "the prime target" of the criminal investigation by independent prosecutor Lawrence Walsh.

Both Poindexter, 50, and North, 43, had refused for months to testify, citing their Fifth Amendment rights against self-incrimination. They appeared only after receiving limited immunity, which compels testimony under the threat of jail but protects them from prosecution based on any evidence they revealed.

Still, Walsh is expected by many to pursue charges against

"I think it was an incredibly heavy burden for Admiral Poindexter to take on himself," said Sen. Warren Rudman, R-N.H., the former prosecutor who is vice chairman of the Senate committee in the case.

Poindexter was a vice admiral while at the White House. He was demoted March 3 to a two-star rear admiral, upper half, rather than retiring after 29 years of service. He now is a special assistant to the chief of naval operations.

In an April 28 interview, Reagan characterized Poindexter as "an honorable man" and said the former aide may have withheld information because "maybe he thought he was being, in some way, protective of Poindexter testified Wednesday he once was "sorely tempted" to reveal the diversion to Reagan when, on the trip home from the Tokyo economic summit in May 1986, the president asked if he could "do something unilaterally" to keep the Contras fighting Nicaragua's leftist Sandinista government.

"I was sorely tempted to tell him what we had working but I thought better of it and did not," Poindexter said.

The ex-national security adviser said it was North who brought the diversion plan to him after returning from a January 1986 trip to London where, the Marine has sald, Iranian arms middleman Manucher Ghorbanifar suggested it upon failing to bribe North with $1 million to keep U.S. arms flowing to Iran.

"In the end, I thought it was a very good idea and I approved it," Poindexter said. "I made the decision; I felt I had the authority to do it; I thought it was a good idea; I was convinced the president would, in the end, think it was a good idea. But I did not want him to be associated with the decision."

Poindexter said he did not remember seeing any of the five memos North said he sent forward suggesting Reagan be briefed on the diversion. Only one of those memos has been found, and North said he thinks he destroyed the others when he shredded potential evidence as the scandal began unraveling.

Drug Smuggler Says CIA Agent Helped Contras Smuggle Cocaine

WASHINGTON (UPI) - A convicted drug smuggler says he helped the Nicaraguan Contras set up a narcotics trafficking operation to pay for weapons that involved John Hull, alleged CIA liaison to the Contras in Costa Rica and an apparent associate of Lt. Col. Oliver North.

Jorge Morales, 39, a naturalized U.S. citizen from Colombia now in prison in Miami for cocaine smuggling, told a Senate panel Wednesday that Contra leaders in 1984 and 1985 arranged to ship hundreds of kilograms of cocaine from Hull's farm in Costa Rica to the Bahamas and then to Miami.

"It was well-known." that Hull's farm was a transshipment point for narcotics smugglers as far back as 1981, Morales told the Senate subcommittee on terrorism, narcotics and international operations. "It was a fact."

Hull, a resident of Indiana, has been linked to North and the late CIA Director William Casey by Tomas Castillo, CIA station chief in Costa Rica, and by the Tower Commission, the presidential panel that initially investigated the Iran-Contra affair.

Castillo testified in his closed door session with the congressional Iran-Contra committees that in the summer of 1986, North, fired from his National Security Council job for his part in the Iran-Contra scandal, asked him how Hull was. Castillo said North was expressing an interest on the part of President Reagan and that the next day Casey inquired about Hull.

The Tower Commission report showed North's calendar shows he met regularly with Hull in 1984 and 1985.

And Hull also has been described in a Costa Rican court by five witnesses, including Contra leader Eden Pastora, as CIA liaison to the Contras in Costa

Hull has acknowledged that his farm was used as a shipment point for food and medical supplies for the Contras but has denied any involvement with the CIA or with drug trafficking.

Morales testified he helped Contra leaders set up their drug smuggling operation in July 1984 after they promised him they would use CIA contacts to help some solve his legal problems - namely, a March 1984 indictment on drug charges. Morales ultimately was convicted and sentenced to 16 years in prison.

'I agreed to ... help them (the Contras) out," Morales said.

Morales said the Contra narcotics operation involved airplanes carrying weapons down to Central America, presumably to resupply Contra troops, and returning with cargos of drugs.

Subcommittee Chairman John Kerry, D-Mass., acknowledged questions about Morales' credibility and noted that his allegations about CIA involvement in drug smuggling by the Contras had not been verified.

But he said Morales was not the only source telling subcommittee investigators that the Contras turned to drug smuggling to stay financially affoat during the period when Congress cut off further U.S. aid, the prohibition which prompted some of North's most controversial activities.

"This is not the first witness who has made very serious allegations of how a fervor to keep them (the Contras) alive at any cost may have opened up channels of abuse," Kerry said.

DEAR ABBY: Ten months ago my husband and I allowed our housekeeper's boyfriend [I'll call him Steve) to stay in our guesthouse rent-free while he was temporarily unemployed. He stayed for three months, two unemployed and one catching up on his bills.

At the beginning of the fourth month, we suggested that since he was working, he should pay rent. He thought we were asking too much, so he moved into a room about 15 miles from our house. The problem is that now Steve comes over to "visit" our housekeeper (I'll call her Donna) at least five nights a week. He has a key to our house, so he comes here right after work, lets himself in, showers in Donna's bathroom, stays for dinner with her, stays overnight in her room and then has breakfast in our kitchen before he leaves for work in the morning.

I think Steve is taking advantage of our hospitality. My husband says I should keep my mouth shut because if I say anything, Donna might quit, and housekeepers as good as Donna are hard to find.

How can I discreetly tell Donna that Steve is welcome in our home, but not five nights a week, including meals? FARBRENT IN BRENTWOOD

DEAR FARBRENT: You stated it very well. Now rehearse those lines before a mirror a few

I think you've been incredibly generous, so don't be defensive or apologetic. Be specific. Is Steve welcome to stay over once a week? Twice a month? Or not at all? It's your house, so you set the rules.

DEAR ABBY: Our son sent out high school graduation announcements to all our relatives - many live out of town. (We have a large family.) He received some very nice gifts - some checks, too. Maybe you have already guessed what the problem is. He flunked his final examinations for two classes. and he didn't graduate.

He plans to go to summer school and make up the credits he is short, but we aren't sure what we should do about the gifts and checks. Maybe some of your readers have had this happen to them. If so, how did they handle it? And how would you handle it if you had that problem? To be perfectly honest. we knew he was on thin ice, and told him not to be in such a hurry to send out the graduation announcements, but he wouldn't listen.

DEAR ABBY: I work with the noslest man in the world. If he's standing by my desk and happens to see a letter on my desk that interests him, he will bodlly pick it up and read it. He even has the nerve to ask me questins about it. If I say, "Its confidential," he says, "That's OK. I was Just curious."

If I'm on the phone and he walks in, he will signal to me to tell him who I'm talking to. And after I hang up, he'll ask questions pertaining to some of the comments he's overheard.

Abby, this man has absolutely no judgment and no manners. Worse yet, he doesn't think he's doing anything wrong - he just doesn't know better. He's driving me crazy. I have all I can do to keep from being rude to him.

Maybe if you print this, I, and a few other people, will clip it and put it on his desk. Then he might get the message. Thanks.

DEAR HAD IT: Don't rely on anything as subtle as "a few clippings" to change this man's behavior. Unless he signs your paycheck — which he obviously does not - you are under no obligation to answer his questions or tolerate his nosiness. You don't have to be rude. Just be firm. Good luck. (This turkey is getting on my nerves, and I don't even know him!)

Tina Harris, M.W. Brooke Wed In Double Ring Rites

Tina Marie Harris of Sanford. and Michael Wayne Brooke of Osteen, are announcing their marriage taday. They were married March 14, at 3 p.m., at Upsala Presbyterian Church, Sanford. The Rev. Darwin Shea performed the traditional, double ring ceremony.

No Mercury Threat From Teeth Fillings

DEAR DR. GOTT - I recently read two news stories linking mercury poisoning to amalgam fillings in the teeth. Is this true? What tests should be done?

DEAR READER - The amount of mercury in amalgam is small, and it is tightly bound to the other components of the filling. This does not present a health hazard because the mercury does not leach out of the amalgam.

You are probably at greater risk if you work in an occupation that involves the use of mercury. such as a farming/chemical industry. Although many types of seafood contain mercury, the levels have not - in most cases - been shown to be harmful to humans. A simple blood or urine test, ordered by your doctor, will tell you if there is an increased amount of mercury in your body.

DEAR DR. GOTT - Recently I accidently stabbed my palm. I've been experiencing an electriclike shock and pain ever since, although the finger seems numb. Will it heal itself or should I see a doctor?

DEAR READER - The stab wound may have injured a nerve in your palm, or infection may have been introduced into the deep tissue by the penetrating object. Although the situation may heal itself, you should see a doctor to make sure that no treatable or correctable condition is present. Remember to ask about a tetanus booster; it should be given every 10 years to prevent the possibility of contracting this serious disease.

DEAR DR. GOTT - Is it true that cakes and cookies metabolize food more efficiently if they're eaten with every meal? Would elderly people become 42 Opera prince diabetic if they continued to eat in this manner?

DEAR READER - Cakes and cookies do not aid metabolism. They are foods in their own right and contain flour (which is nourishing), refined sugar (which isn't), fats (often cholesterol from butter and eggs) and protein. Therefore, patients with certain medical conditions - such as obesity, diabetes and excess serum cholesterol - have to restrict their intake of cakes and cookies.

Elderly people may tend to, develop a form of diabetes as they age. This is thought to be due to a gradual wearing out of the pancreas, the gland that produces insulin. Hence, older people must be prudent in eating a well-balanced diet.

Although eating cake and cookies will not cause diabetes. it certainly will accelerate a diabetic tendency if one is present already. For this reason, an older person who eats cake and suggested, is certainly running a risk of developing a problem. Furthermore, many older people de elop decreased appetite, lack of interest in food and a tendency to eat what's easiest. Eventually, they might cut down on "real food," virtually live on cake and cookies, and develop malnutrition. That's a bad habit cookies with every meal, as you to get into. Better to reduce baked goods and add more fruit.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

You can go to a lot of trouble to keep the dangerous defender from getting on lead. But it's all for a good cause - guaranteeing that you make your contract. Consider the present layout. A spade is led against three notrump. It seems like a natural play to finesse. But now the "ifs" begin their wail. If East wins the king and returns a diamond, you will very likely have only one diamond stopper. And if the defenders set up their diamond tricks and you subsequently lose a club trick, you will be set.

So you take the spade ace right away. Now how do you play the clubs? If you have to lose a club trick and if you lose it to East, once again a diamond back can cause serious problems. The right strategy after winning dummy's spade ace is to play the club ace and then low from dummy. Should East play low on the second club, you will finesse. You don't mind losing a trick to West, since he will be unable to attack the diamond stopper. And if he wins the club and continues spades, he will establish your ninth trick via the spade suit.

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY JULY 17, 1987

Unusual opportunities to improve your financial position will be popping up from time to time in the year ahead. They will be primarily for your benefit, so if you bring outsiders into the picture, they might not prosper.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Don't pay a heavy price to fulfill your ambitions today. What you think you want might not be worth it. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker set instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Seriously consider more progressive methods today, rather than adhering to routines that are comfortable, but don't have an impressive product rating.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If you feel that someone is trying to put something over on you today in a commercial arrangement, don't hesitate to ask questions. Demand facts and figures.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Keep complaints to yourself today. Your associates will recognize what annoys you and seek ways to alleviate problems if you give them the chance to do so.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't count on others to protect your career interests today. You'll have to be your own watchdog at this time.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec.

21) The aspects indicate that you should be rather lucky today, but perhaps not in the material realm. Don't take gambles that could cost you

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Getting yourself into a tizzy over unexpected disruptions today will solve nothing. A cool head will be required to circumvent obstacles.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) If you discuss a confidential matter today with a pal who can't keep a secret, your friend might disclose it to the very person you're trying to hide it from.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Your financial affairs might be a bit more complicated than usual today. However, if you manage shrewdly, you'll end up in the profit column.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be sure that you and your mate completely agree about expenses today. Neither should dip into the trough without the other's consent.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You may have to deal with someone today with whom you've had differences in the past. The event won't be successful if you nurse a grudge.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) This is not a good day to get involved in the confidential affairs of pals, or to let them poke their noses into yours. Everyone should maintain a distance.
