Steroids linked to teen's death
 ASHTABULA, Ohio — The death of a 17-year-old high school football player during a fall practice has been tentatively linked to a history of anabolic steroid use, the county coroner ruled.
 Ashtabula County Coroner Robert A. Malinowski said Tuesday that Ashtabula High School student Benjamin Ramirez's death Oct. 31 was likely a result of his use of anabolic steroids, which many athletes use in the belief that it will enhance their performance in sports.
 "We feel strongly that (steroids) played a role in Ramirez's death," Malinowski said.

Woman robs bank ... again
 ZION, Ill. — A 19-year-old woman held up a suburban Chicago bank for the second time Tuesday, then led police on a high-speed chase with her 4-month-old son in the back seat of her car, police said.
 Tammy L. Richberg was captured when police rammed into the back of her car in Waukegan, about 30 miles north of Chicago. The baby was uninjured.
 Police said it was the second time Richberg held up the First Bank of America in unincorporated Lake County. The pair of robberies netted the young mother a total $42,000.

 LONDON — The lead investigator in Britain's second aviation disaster in 18 days said one of the Boeing 737's engines was damaged by fire and the other quit before the new aircraft crashed north of London, killing 44 people.
 NBC News quoted U.S. government sources Tuesday as saying the pilots knew they had a problem in one engine but turned off the wrong one, causing the crash Sunday of the commuter flight from London's Heathrow Airport to Belfast, Northern Ireland, with 126 people aboard.

Lady 'Noles scalp Oviedo
 SANFORD — Coach John McNamara says the Seminole High girls basketball team is about 50 percent of the way towards being as good as it can be. If that's true, there are quite a few opponents who will be nursing some serious wounds the remainder of the 1988-89 season.
 Sheri Reddicks drilled in 23 points and grabbed 17 rebounds and Adrian Hillman had a superb all-around game as the Lady 'Noles rolled to a 60-38 Seminole Athletic Conference victory over Oviedo's Lady Lions Tuesday night before 221 fans at Bill Fleming Memorial Gymnasium.

Gas tax: Maybe, maybe not

Governor won't push for hike, but might not veto one either

United Press International
 TALLAHASSEE — Gov. Bob Martinez on Tuesday once again said he would not push for an increased gasoline tax to build new roads, but declined to say whether he would veto any increase legislators may come up with.
 Martinez told House Speaker Tom Gustafson he would not seek a tax hike after Gustafson once again said he was getting mixed signals on the governor's plans.
 Gustafson said last week that private sector engineers told him Secretary of Transportation, Kaye Henderson was trying to drum up support for an increase.
 "Kaye Henderson does not prepare the governor's budget," Martinez said. "Therefore there can't be any mixed signals when the governor says there will be no new taxes."
 But Martinez would not say how he would react if lawmakers, spurred by a cash crunch slowing down the Department of Transportation's road-building plans, pass a gas tax increase.

 Senate Democratic Leader Jack Gordon, D-Miami Beach, said later Tuesday he feared Martinez wanted to let the Democratic-controlled Legislature take the initiative on taxes — and the blame if there was a voter backlash.
 "I don't think the Democratic senators will support a gas tax increase unless it becomes a Republican initiative from the governor," Gordon said. "Then we would certainly consider it."
 "If (Martinez) really believes that the state has problems that can be overcome with more funds, he needs to be forthright that this is what we need to do."
 Martinez said it was too early to discuss vetoing any legislation coming out of this spring's session.

Kelley wins stay on cost of documents

By J. MARK BARFIELD

SANFORD — Seminole County Commissioner Jennifer Kelley on Tuesday won a two-week delay from commissioners on whether she should pay several thousand dollars in copying costs for information she requested last month.
 Commissioners voted 3-2 to allow her to complete a review of what specific information she wanted and to determine the cost to duplicate the information from county files.
 Although Kelley originally had stated in a memo to County Manager Ken Hooper on Dec. 19 she wanted the information to "become better informed on the myriad of issues facing the county and to understand the background" of county issues, Kelley said Tuesday night she wanted the information to build a database library for public use.
 Kelley said the computer library would give any person a central location to research issues.
 Kelley and commissioners Pat Warren and Sandra Glenn voted in favor of the requested delay. Commissioners Bob Sturm and Fred Streetman voted against it, saying

County okays plan to pave subdivision road

SANFORD — In a move that could set a precedent for other projects, Seminole County commissioners decided on a split vote Tuesday to move ahead with a plan to pave the 31-year-old Lake Mills Shores subdivision near Chuluota under a shared-cost plan by the end of this year.

 Commissioners, however did not approve a plan to have the lot owners pay for materials and the county pay for design and construction of the three miles of roadway, fearing a costly precedent.
 "We're going to open a Pandora's box for 10 or 12 more of these," said Commissioner Bob Sturm. Sturm said he has similar, unpaved subdivisions in his commission district and there are several other in the county.

 County engineer Jerry McCollum said Lake Mills Shores, platted in 1957 for 220 lots, was the largest unpaved subdivision in the county. McCollum said county development rules at the Airport terminal will get facelift

By LAURA L. SULLIVAN

SANFORD — The Sanford Airport Authority came one step closer yesterday to bringing air carrier service in for a landing at Sanford Regional Airport.
 The authority approved a contract to refurbish an existing terminal to accommodate air carrier and cargo service. The contract was awarded to McKee Construction Company for its low bid of $197,411. The refurbishment project will begin within 15 days, and will take 45 days to complete, authority Director Mack LaZenby said.
 The authority approved a joint participation agreement with Florida Department of Transportation for the purchase of aircraft rescue and firefighting equipment. DOT awarded the authority a $30,000 grant toward the purchase of two such units estimated at $600,000.
 Because the airport must have a rescue unit in order to be certified for carrier service, the city of Sanford in December agreed to lease a unit to the airport.
 LaZenby said he expects to receive Federal Aviation Administration

Overcrowded prisons may force revamped guidelines

United Press International
 TALLAHASSEE — The Senate Corrections committee was told Tuesday the Legislature should reverse tougher sentencing guidelines approved last year to reserve more of the state's prison space for violent offenders.
 Last year's reforms mean prison terms for inmates who would have received probation, but were blamed by experts for sending more non-violent criminals to overcrowded prisons, forcing the early release of more dangerous inmates.
 Ken Connor of the Justice Task Force said the law was passed "without any idea whether the prisoner popping out the door is a Charles Colson, a Charles Street or a Charles Manson."
 Street is accused of murdering two Metro-Dade police officers following his release from prison last November. Colson was a Watergate conspirator who later founded the Justice Fellowship, of which the Justice Task Force is an offshoot.
 Florida has released thousands of inmates in recent years to remain within population limits established by a federal judge.
 Sen. Larry Plummer, D-Miami, chairman of the Corrections, Probation and Parole committee, proposed looking at increasing taxes on tobacco and dipping into the state's "rainy day" contingency fund to help solve Florida's problem.
 "Do we need a rain coat more than we need a solution to our corrections problem?" Plummer asked.
 Gov. Bob Martinez is expected to propose the construction of additional prison beds this year, but is against any tax increases.
 Even if the state builds 9,000 new beds this year, officials still would be forced to grant early release to some 30,000 inmates in the 1990-1991 budget year, said Amanda Cannon of the corrections committee staff.
 Cannon said California tried to solve its overcrowding problems by building more prisons, only to

Shopping plaza seized in drug raid

HIALEAH — Federal drug agents have seized a $250,000 shopping center complete with a pet shop, a jewelry store, a beeper shop and — last but not least — a flower shop that allegedly doubled as a crack cocaine lab, authorities said Tuesday.

The two-story, eight-store Serra Shopping Plaza housed a major drug laboratory and owner Jose Serra is accused of being the ring leader. Serra also used the facility for other criminal activities, according to an indictment that names him and 10 others as defendants.

"Undercover detectives made a purchase of a machine gun with a silencer, discovered plans for a contract murder and bought fraudulent birth certificates and a Social Security card, said Hialeah police detective Victor Anchipolovsky.

He said police still are investigating at least two other murders and "other criminal activity based on information gained through the undercover contacts." He would not comment further on the murders.

The 18-month investigation was started when neighbors became concerned about the amount of traffic at the center. The probe was nicknamed "aqualung" because of Serra's habit of walking out to his balcony to get air as he directed his workers, authorities said.

Military pay freeze irks congressman

PENSACOLA — Florida Congressman Earl Hutto is not happy President Reagan's budget proposal has a one-year freeze on the cost of living adjustment for military and civil service retirees.

Hutto was in the Florida Panhandle this week visiting military installations. But a spokesman in his office said Tuesday that the congressman opposes any cost of living freeze for the retirees.

"We have made a commitment to these people and I don't believe we can turn our backs on them and break our word," said Hutto.

"Congress and the president promised that our military and civilian retirees would be treated in the same manner as Social Security recipients and other groups, and that means no reduction in their COLAs," he said.

Snow 'boosted' in Panhandle

PENSACOLA BEACH — It will be snowing in northwest Florida at the end of the month. That's not a weather prediction, but what tourism officials plan for Pensacola Beach's "Snowfest."

Last year officials from the beach community on a barrier island south of Pensacola trucked in 25 tons of snow for the event. It drew some 20,000 to the island.

But this year a snow machine will be rigged up at the fishing pier so snow can be made on the spot. A ramp will be covered with the white stuff to produce a 100-foot slide.

Officials said the machine will make 40 tons to 50 tons of snow. The Jan. 28 snowfest is designed to attract people to the beach during the slow winter period.

Mediator vows Eastern settlement

MIAMI — The chairman of the National Mediation Board pledged Tuesday to continue his efforts to bring Eastern Airlines and its largest union together, despite the failure of the most recent attempt at bargaining.

The brief announcement by NMB Chairman Walter Wallace — the first since Wallace abruptly halted a special round of talks begun Friday — indicates a willingness by the board to convene another such session, said William Gill, the board's assistant executive director.

Contract talks between Eastern and the International Association of Machinists began October 1987 and have been supervised by a federal mediator since January 1988.

Although Eastern and others have lobbied the board to declare an impasse in the talks, and thus set a 30-day deadline for agreement, the board so far has been unwilling to do so. The short statement released Tuesday by Wallace in Washington indicated no change in that position.

Cabinet rejects early turtle protection

TALLAHASSEE — Gov. Bob Martinez and the Cabinet refused Tuesday to move up a proposed deadline for installing protection devices on shrimpers' nets, despite concerns a delay could bring a turtle species closer to extinction.

Attorney General Bob Butterworth asked Martinez and the other Cabinet members to have the Marine Fisheries Commission hold an emergency meeting and move up the installation deadline of turtle excluder devices — TEDs — by about three weeks.

TEDs are considered the best way to prevent sea turtles from becoming trapped and drowning in shrimpers' nets, wildlife experts say.

Senate leader blasts governor

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — Senate Democratic leader Jack Gordon said Tuesday he opposes Gov. Bob Martinez's plan to require each department of state government to periodically justify its continued existence.

In a letter to Sen. Curt Kiser, R-Palm Harbor, the sponsor of the governor's plan, Gordon called the initiative an attempt to shirk the executive branch's responsibility to submit balanced budgets.

"Frankly, Curt, I am tired of having spent the last eight years listening to the Republican president blame Congress for failure to balance the budget when he failed to submit a balanced budget in any of those eight years," Gordon wrote.

"Your proposed bill looks to me like a similar attempt by our Republican governor to avoid responsibility for both the budgets that he has recommended and the final appropriations bill that he signed."

Martinez has said his proposed "sunset" review and zero-based budgeting for state agencies would promote government efficiency.

Gordon said Martinez has 67 staffers in his budget office plus another 50 to monitor state spending — more than three times the number of legislative budget staffers.

"If he can't get the savings out of his budget staff, he ought to get a new budget staff, or we ought to get a new governor," Gordon said.

Gordon also blamed the Department of Transportation's budget shortfall, estimated at $800 million over the next six years, on the Republican state and federal administrations.

Transportation Secretary Kaye Henderson has said the shortfall is the product of increased efficiency that has cut in half the time needed to build roads and that projects will only be delayed, not scrapped.

Gordon said the efficiencies were the product of Democratic legislation and that the delays would not be necessary if Martinez had not threatened to veto proposed driver license fee increases last year.

Fifth Lotto winner claims prize

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — The last of five winners in the New Year's Eve Lotto drawing who split a $31.5 million jackpot claimed his prize Tuesday, said Lottery Secretary Rebecca Paul.

"We got lucky," said Lehman E. Ward, 78, a retired accountant who lives with his wife, Hazel, in West Palm Beach. Ward contacted lottery officials by telephone Tuesday and told them he was turning in the winning ticket.

The Wards moved to Florida from Ohio

14 years ago. They said they purchased the winning ticket, which is worth $315,200 before taxes annually for the next 20 years, at a supermarket in Lake Park.

"I just picked the numbers at random," Ward said.

"I told him not to check the tickets that night," said Hazel Ward, 70. She said she told her husband, "If you get lucky, you won't get any sleep."

Lehman Ward said in addition to traveling, he and his wife planned to share their wealth.

"I have four children, 11 grandchildren and one great-grandchild," he said. "So some of this will be for them, too."

Hazel Ward said the couple waited 10 days to file their claim because "my husband is a very careful man."

The winning numbers that produced the five-way jackpot split were 20-30-40-42-44-49. Lotto players have to match six numbers from 1 to 49 to win the grand prize.

No one picked the correct six winning numbers in last week's Lotto drawing, so this week's jackpot has been raised to $18 million.

Parent's face jail over daughter's eviction

United Press International

ZEPHYRHILLS — Pasco Circuit Judge Wayne L. Cobb has upheld deed restrictions barring children under 15 from living in an area subdivision, but is critical of residents trying to force a family with a girl almost that age to move.

Beverly and Thomas Elmer live in a double-wide mobile home in the subdivision with their daughter Staci Lynn, who will be 15 in April. Two other residents filed suit last year seeking to force them to move, saying they were acting on behalf of all of the family's mostly elderly neighbors.

Cobb upheld the deed restriction Friday and ordered the Elmers jailed for 10 days if Staci, or the entire family, is not gone from the subdivision by Jan. 20.

Cobb said Mrs. Elmer, a real estate saleswoman, should have known better than to risk violation of deed restrictions. "I think she probably asked for a lot of her own grief," Cobb said of Mrs. Elmer.

But he also had harsh words for the other residents of the subdivision who seek to force the girl from the area.

"They must be scum," Cobb said. "It's incomprehensible, a bunch of people who don't want youngsters around. I don't understand why anybody, period, would want to live in a place that didn't allow kids."

Cobb said Monday federal Fair Housing Act Amendments banning age discrimination in housing probably will nullify deed restrictions like those in the Elmers' neighborhood, but they don't take effect until March.

The judge said he had no choice in his ruling Friday because the Elmers had not complied with an August order by Circuit Judge Maynard F. Swanson to observe the deed restriction, and appearing Friday without an attorney, they did not ask for a rehearing.

Mystery powder knocks out attack dog

United Press International

KEY WEST — A 110-pound Rottweiler who passed out after attacking a trash bag containing 50 pounds of what has become a mysterious white powder was recovering Tuesday as officials worked to determine the identity of the substance.

Monroe County sheriff's deputies suspected the white powder which provoked the canine knockout punch was cocaine, but tests continually have been turning up negative, said sheriff's deputy Becky Herrin. She said lab technicians have ruled out flour and plaster of Paris.

Sacha and her owner, Maria Achatz, 70, were taking a leisurely walk along a private beach at the end of Sugarloaf Boulevard in Key West at about 5 p.m. Sunday when they stumbled onto the plastic trash bag. It was approximately 150 feet from a house called The Mangroves, according to a police report.

The dog suddenly darted toward the bag, attacked it, ripped it open and then emerged with a white snout, the report said. The animal immediately went horizontal in the sand, but Achatz kept her head and contacted a friend who called police.

Sheriff's Deputy Melody Tidwell came to the scene and confiscated the powder, but lab technicians on Tuesday still were having trouble determining what it was. Sheriff's lab technician Tom Zimmer said he would take it elsewhere to be analyzed if necessary.

Herrin said police do not know how the bag got to the beach. She said Sacha was feeling much better.

TALLAHASSEE — A woman allegedly beaten by her former husband says she wants him freed under a new Florida law originally designed to give crime victims a bigger role in determining the outcome of their cases.

request to dismiss charges against Frank McCranie, who has been in the Leon County jail for the past five months.

"Why don't I, as the victim, have a right to say what's rights and what's not right?" McCranie

Woman beaten, raped; man jailed

SANFORD — Sanford police reported that a rape victim who was severely beaten was found behind the Idelsa Food Store, 1506 W. 13th St., Sanford, at about 3:15 p.m. Jan. 4. The woman has reportedly identified a suspect and that brought the arrest of a Sanford man Tuesday.

James Nelson, 68, of 49 William Clark Court, was charged with sexual battery and aggravated battery after he surrendered at the police station at about 7:45 p.m. Bond is $8,000.

Police said they first questioned Nelson in the case Jan. 5, and photographed him. The victim reportedly picked him out in a police photo lineup Monday.

Witnesses had told police that before the rape and beating the victim and Nelson had been seen at Tony's Bar, 1412 W. 13th St.

The woman underwent surgery at Central Florida Regional Hospital, Sanford, because of injuries received in the beating, police said.

Alleged exposure leads to police pursuit

CASSELBERRY — A woman pointed out a man to Casselberry police and said he had just exposed himself to her in the parking lot of Market Square, State Road 436, at about 1 p.m. Tuesday.

Police reported that pursued the man's car as he sped away taking them on a high-speed chase covering several major traffic routes in the city. In some cases the fleeing car crossed over into on-coming traffic lanes and forced evasive action by other drivers, police said. Eventually the car stopped at the Seminole Greyhound Park, Seminola Boulevard. The driver ran into woods where he was captured.

Although the man has not been charged with exposure of sexual organs he has a list of charges including aggravated assault on a policeman with a motor vehicle, grand theft auto, altering a vehicle identification number, altering a vehicle registration, resisting without violence, willful and wanton reckless driving, fleeing to elude police, improper display of a license tag and failure to carry a driver's license. Police determined the car the man was driving had been reported stolen in New York.

He was booked into jail as John Doe, but has been identified as Richard Vernon Merritt, 31, of Orlando.

Woman allegedly beaten over remark

OVIEDO — A woman who reportedly made a hostile remark to a man who spoke to her at Park's Grocery, Avenue B, Oviedo, was hit three times in the head with a pool cue when the man reportedly retaliated, Oviedo police said.

Frank Finney, 43, of 601 Newton St., Oviedo, was arrested at the store at 4 p.m. Tuesday. He is charged with aggravated battery. Police said the victim Mabelle S. Zuczek, 48, of Smiths #6, Boston Alley, Oviedo, was treated for bruises.

Erratic driving leads to cocaine charge

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — A man who was pursued by city police as he allegedly sped and drove erratically from State Road 436 to Orienta Woods Apartments, was charged with possession of cocaine after a police stop.

Anthony Dexter Williams, 18, of 503 Peach Tree Lane, Altamonte Springs, was arrested at 4:08 p.m. Tuesday. Bond is $2,000.

Police said when Williams got out of his car he reached for his pocket, where police in a search found $400. A police dog was called to sniff the car for narcotics and found three pieces of crack cocaine, police said. The dog also sniffed the cash and indicated it had been exposed to narcotics, so the money was confiscated for forfeiture, police said.

Antiques mall burglarized again

SANFORD — Bridges Antiques Mall, State Road 46, west of Sanford was burglarized a second time this week.

Thousands of dollars worth of antiques and collectibles were stolen in the second burglary, according to Seminole County sheriff's deputies. They report the incident occurred between 5 p.m. Monday and 8:30 a.m. Tuesday when the burglar broke locks and hatched a hole in a wall to enter. The electrical power to the building had been shut off, apparently by the burglar at 12:10 a.m.

Convenience store robbed

LONGWOOD — Seminole County sheriff's deputies are investigating a 3 a.m. robbery today of the 7-Eleven, 980 Wekiva Springs Road, Longwood.

The clerk told deputies the robber implied he had a gun under his jacket when he demanded and got about $40 cash. He fled to a waiting car, which another suspect drove from the scene, deputies said.

Man charged with battery on co-worker

CASSELBERRY — A Water Bonnet worker who allegedly attacked another worker who didn't fight back was charged with battery by Seminole County sheriff's deputies.

Raymond Ralph Taylor Jr., 288 Sanlando Springs, Longwood, was arrested at his workplace at 350 N. Lake Howell Road, Casselberry, at about 8:30 a.m. Monday.

He is accused of walking up to Douglas Elliott, 29, of Winter Park, and hitting him with his fists. Elliott and witnesses told sheriff's deputies Elliott was knocked off a stool and thrown into a metal shelf. He didn't fight back and the suspect reportedly told him he was going to beat him again after work. Bond is $500.

Happy birthday, Margaret

Park dedicated to Margaret Wesley

LAKE MARY — Lake Mary resident Margaret Green Wesley received a special present from the city today for her 80th birthday.

At a dedication ceremony this morning, a park off Terry Lane known as Park Place Park to residents, was officially named Margaret Green Wesley Park. Wesley is the author of "Lake Mary's Beginnings and The Roaring Twenties in Lake Mary and Sanford Florida".

"I have mixed feelings. I feel very humble and I feel a great sense of gratitude. I think they have done a lovely thing for the community. They have honored not just myself, but three people because I bear the names of two good men, my past husbands who patiently tolerated and shared my time with the activities of writing and typing and getting the history of Lake Mary printed," Wesley said.

The dedication of the park to Wesley was the brain child of former Commissioner Randall Morris and the commission approved the idea last year at his suggestion.

"When I was researching for the parks advisory board, I discovered that most of the parks in the city were not officially named, or had any name at all," Morris said.

"I had always known that Margaret Wesley was the only person that had made the effort to do a comprehensive study of the history of the origins of Lake Mary. Her altruistic efforts should be recognized and one of the more lovely views of the city parks was selected," Morris said.

Those present at the dedication were Lake Mary Mayor Dick Fess, Morris, Public Works Director Rod Siroupe and several city officials.

"I think that we need to recognize the people who have lived in the area and have contributed consistently to the development of Lake Mary preserving the memories and records of the past," Fess said.

Campsite owner rejects county

By J. MARK BARFIELD

SANFORD — The owner and operator of the Marina Isle Fish Camp on Tuesday withdrew the appeal of the county's refusal to allow another trailer at the camp, contending county has no right to intervene.

"It is our belief (county permission) is not needed," said Michael Gray, attorney for the camp's owner, Eleanor Russell, and operator, Leonard Harold.

The county board of adjustment members in July turned down a request by Russell for a special exemption from the county land code prohibiting mobile homes on agriculturally-zoned land without county permission.

The camp is located on a piece of land surrounded by the St. Johns River and State Road 46.

A complaint was filed against the camp in May because a mobile home was moved to the site and connected to a nearby power pole without county permits. County land management site inspector Jerry Robertson discovered the mobile home had been moved in on May 20.

Marina Isle has already been cited by the county for several state fire code violations. Harrell has paid a $100 fine and corrected the problems.

One problem county inspectors had was in determining what should be on the site. Although mobile home and recreational vehicle parks are not normally allowed on land zoned for agricultural uses, the fish camp had been "grandfathered in" in 1977 when the current land code was adopted by the county. Gray said a fish camp has been on the site since 1962.

County land management director Herb Hardin said aerial photographs taken in 1972 showed no mobile home on the site where the trailer is now.

But Gray said he has testimony from residents and other evidence there was a trailer on the site.

Under grandfathered land uses, no changes other than repairs or replacements can be made to the land without losing the exemption.

Jury selected in trial of '84 Olympic diver

United Press International

TAMPA — A jury of six people, including a man whose daughter is president of a Students Against Drunk Driving chapter, was selected Tuesday in the drunken driving manslaughter trial of former Olympic diver Bruce Kimball.

Kimball, 25, a silver medalist in platform diving at the 1984 Summer Games, is charged with driving his sports car into a crowd of young people while under the influence of alcohol Aug. 1, killing two teenagers. The accident took place on an unlit dead-end street in Brandon, 12 miles east of Tampa.

The last member of the six-person jury chosen was William L. Sherman, 41, a postal worker who spent six years in the Air Force.

Sherman said his daughter headed the SADD chapter at Brandon High School and had had a major influence on his attitude toward consumption of alcohol.

After a bench conference with attorneys, Hillsborough Circuit Judge Harry Lee Coe III asked Sherman if his daughter and family ever discussed the Kimball case. Sherman said they did not, but said the subject of drunken driving often was discussed within his family.

Kimball's attorneys, Lee Fugate and Frank Quesada, both declined to comment on whether the defense had used up its allotment of challenges, but prosecutor John Skye indicated the defense utilized the maximum of seven challenges by the time Sherman sat down for questioning by both sides.

The jury selection process, which began at 8:30 a.m. EST Monday, ended at 5 p.m. Tuesday with the prosecution and defense both agreeing on one alternate in addition to the four-man, two-woman panel that will be sworn in Wednesday.

All members of the jury will be sequestered in a Tampa motel for the trial, which is expected to conclude by the weekend.

K-9 nabs Circle K suspect

Knife-wielding man robs store, threatens couple outside

By SUSAN LODEN
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Police report the swift surrender of a robbery suspect this morning after the man was confronted by a police K-9 in a field near the Circle K on State Road 46, at Persimmon Avenue that had been robbed minutes before.

Sanford Police Chief Steven Harriett said Bruce Johnson, 32, of William Clark Court, Sanford, surrendered as soon as he saw the police dog in the field in the 1800 block of West Third Street, about two blocks from the store. The dog had joined a police manhunt that was ongoing at the scene.

Johnson is charged with armed robbery and aggravated assault.

The assault charge, Harriett said, stems from the robber entering the car of a couple who ignored his demand that they drive him from the scene.

Harriett said the couple, who was parked outside the store, still resisted the demand even when the knife-wielding suspect threatened to kill them. The robber fled on foot and the couple wasn't injured.

During the robbery, Harriett said, the robber also brandished a butcher knife when demanding and getting cash from the register.

When Johnson was captured, the cash was recovered and later, police reported, they found a butcher knife in the field.

Psychiatric hospital closed

United Press International

SARASOTA — State officials have shut down Sarasota County's only emergency psychiatric care facility in the wake of three patient deaths in a three-month period last year.

The Suncoast Mental Health Crisis Stabilization Unit is a 20-patient operation co-located with Sarasota Memorial Hospital but not run by the hospital. It was ordered Tuesday not to accept new patients and the few that remain must be moved out by Jan. 23.

In a 36-page report, the Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services said three 1988 deaths at the facility were found to be representative of overall care at the mental unit.

In July, a man was committed to the facility for threatening to kill his wife or someone close to her.

Stemming the tide of drugs

Growing international cooperation against drug-trafficking promises to become a welcome trend in 1989. Recently, Mexican President, Carlos Salinas de Gortari announced the appointment of drug czar Javier Coello Trejo to fight growing drug production, trafficking, and consumption. Mr. Coello will head a division of about 1,000 police officers dedicated solely to the battle against drugs. They will work in close cooperation with Mexico-based agents of the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration to help stem the non-stop flow of illegal drugs across the U.S.-Mexican border.

Another important new international drive against drug trafficking has been inaugurated in Vienna, where more than 40 countries signed a United Nations convention providing for greater international cooperation to disrupt narcotics rings. More of the 106 countries represented at a month-long conference in the Austrian capital are expected to sign the accord later, adding their weight to the emerging global effort against drug abuse.

The accord enables governments to trace, freeze, and confiscate bank accounts or property of suspected traffickers. When ratified by at least 20 nations, the convention will commit all signatories to the most closely coordinated international effort ever devised to combat the illegal narcotics market.

The importance of international cooperation in this field cannot be overemphasized, because no single nation working alone can have any hope of stemming the flood of illicit drugs. Even a rich and powerful nation such as the United States, which set aside more than $2.5 billion this year to fight the drug war, cannot hope to halt all shipments unilaterally. Such is the wealth and power of the drug barons, and the effectiveness of their distribution networks, that international borders no longer present barriers of major consequence.

U.S. Attorney General Richard Thornburgh described the agreement as a "clear message to those involved in international drug trafficking that there is no safe haven in the world today for their illegal activities."

Obviously, such a Utopian state of affairs has yet to be achieved, but the accord helps clear the way by encouraging cooperation and requiring each government to change its laws to fight drug trafficking.

The agreement calls for the extradition of drug suspects at the request of another country, subject to a number of conditions. In addition, individual countries are given the right to board and search vessels of another country suspected of running drugs.

Even more important, each country is committed to halt the illegal cultivation of drug-producing plants, a move of particular importance to the United States, which is flooded each year by tons of cocaine from Bolivia, Colombia, Peru, and other producers.

The Bush administration should spare neither effort nor influence to make sure as many countries as possible sign this historic agreement. Only the most extensive cooperation will bring about the Vienna vision of the world free of the scourge of drugs.

Kemp a one-man HUD wrecking crew

Sages have often warned us to beware the moral excesses of reformed drunkards, former prostitutes, one-time communists — or transformed conservatives, who suddenly discover the merits of liberalism. Martin Luther King Jr. and Jesus (not necessarily in that order) after being appointed to a soul-saving job.

Jack French Kemp was so giddy when he was introduced as President-elect George Bush's secretary of Housing and Urban Development that he almost reneged on his conservative credentials.

Waxing eloquently about not balancing the budget "on the backs of the poor," Kemp managed to squeeze in ideals from everybody except Michael R. Milkin, Jimmy Swaggart and Geraldo Rivera.

Defeated conservative presidential candidates will do anything for a Cabinet appointment. Kemp, however, had the advantage of being an ordained political presence, so it's harder to ascertain what's behind his sudden conversion. One thing is certain: In the next four years, Americans will see and hear a lot of this congenitally ambitious, mop-haired, apple-cheeked ex-quarterback.

The phrase "HUD secretary Jack Kemp" is clearly an oxymoron. It's kind of like saying, "ACLU president George Bush" or "ADA vice-president Ronald Reagan."

Even the studiously objective Congressional Quarterly was unable to overlook the implications of Kemp's chameleonic roll "Without mentioning his past votes," wrote CQ. "Kemp apparently repudiated them at a Dec. 19 press conference with Bush." (In this instance, "apparently" is like being "a little bit" pregnant.)

Kemp's voting record during his 18 years in Congress exposes him as a one-man wrecking crew of HUD programs. In just the last five years, between 1982 and 1987, Kemp voted seven times to gut a total of $8.4 billion of HUD's programs.

If Kemp's positions had prevailed, he would have wiped out almost 40 percent of HUD's 1989 $12.9 billion budget. Never before in history has an unemployed politician been rewarded with an appointment to head an agency that he single-handedly targeted for destruction.

He was a point man for Reagan's success in dismantling HUD's housing-construction subsidy programs: Kemp voted against rehabilitation subsidy programs, repair and modernization programs and, in the unkindest cut of all, voted against a Republican-sponsored, Bush-supported Homeless Assistance Act.

Yet, there the gently graying Wheaties champion stood at Bush's press conference — so handsome of face, so debonair of mien, so sincere of speech — lamenting the "appalling tragedy" of the homeless. (My tears almost drowned me.)

Kemp did vote for the $5.09 billion School Lunch and Child Nutrition Act. But on balance, his record bodes ill for federally supported housing and recalls the prophet Jeremiah's apprehension: "Can the Ethiopian change his skin, or the leopard his spots? So may ye do good that are accustomed to do evil."

Maybe Kemp has changed. And maybe Jeremiah was wrong. But I'm sticking with Jeremiah.

The phrase 'HUD Secretary Jack Kemp' is clearly an oxymoron.

GEORGE F. WILL

As goes information, so goes ability

WASHINGTON — Jay McInerney, the novelist, knows about fashions, being a chronicler, producer and shaper of them. He says drug use is going out of fashion. But the bad news (it is hardly news, it was so predictable) is that unfashionable people are inheriting the whirlwind.

This is especially so regarding crack. "That's strictly a class thing," says McInerney, 33. "I don't see it among anybody I know."

McInerney is quoted in a Washington Post report on the emergence of a "two-tier" drug culture. That is part of a broader phenomenon, the emergence on many fronts of a two-tier society as modern life becomes increasingly regressive, and not merely in monetary terms.

McInerney's "Bright Lights, Big City" is a picaresque tale of a Holden Caulfield of the '80s, a young man with a habit of "hoovering" cocaine. But McInerney reports that the Holdens have cleaned up their acts: "People my age, we've been through the cocaine wars and we've seen it can hurt you and even kill you. It's become unfashionable among the people who made it fashionable. It's really not around much any more."

It's around, not far from the Manhattan haunts of people like McInerney. "People my age, we've..." He means only people of his small social experience. But he is right about "the people who made it fashionable," people like him.

James O. Wilson writes that most of the most dangerous drugs — heroin, cocaine, LSD, for example — have first been used by affluent, educated people. Drug use was promoted by people who considered themselves liberated from deadening restraints (including the law). Such people were intellectual at least in the limited sense that they possessed — or were possessed by — theories, about drugs as keys to peace, self-discovery, self-expression, fulfillment.

When self-discovery turned into self-destruction, these experimenters, "being affluent and educated, had access to treatment programs and support systems that gave them a good chance of finding their way back to normality." But, says Wilson, to people less advantaged, the pursuit of bliss was a one-way path to an abyss.

What began as a clever experiment for affluent Americans quickly became a living nightmare for disadvantaged Americans. Drug use was not spread because drug pushers have forced it on us, but because the apostles of unconstrained self-expression celebrated the value of self-indulgence.

There is a pattern here. It is axiomatic that the rich get richer. They have money to put to work making more money. However, there is a more encompassing axiom: In this information age, the advantaged become more so, and the disadvantaged fall from the back.

Life is increasingly regressive because the benefits of information are distributed disproportionately to those already favored by many advantages. The more certain kinds of information matter, the more unequal society — life — becomes.

In the last quarter-century, since the 1964 Surgeon General's report condemning smoking, it has become clear that the most cost-effective thing government does is disseminate health information. Smoking has become declassé. Alcohol, high blood pressure, red meat, fiber, oat bran, seat belts, safe sex — the list is long. In a broadly educated middle-class country, information about such matters produces behavioral changes on a dramatic scale.

More and more is being learned about the relationship of particular problems, and of "wellness," to particular patterns of behavior. The more such information is available, the more life-chances are improved.

Consider AIDS. It is not a democratic disease, threatening us all equally. It is behaviorally based. It is hard to get and easy to prevent. Easy, that is, if information is heeded, which it is by advantaged people.

That is why apocalyptic talk about a "breakout" of AIDS into the general heterosexual population is wanting. It is being placed by anxiety that society will lose interest in AIDS as it becomes increasingly a disease of marginal, inner-city populations such as intravenous drug users and their sex partners. Such people are caught in the culture of urban poverty precisely because they're inadequately educated and lack the ability to regulate their behavior on the basis of important information.

The meals of the poor are unhealthy not merely because they often are meager, but because they are not prepared by people influenced by information about healthy eating. And so it goes. What has always been true is becoming more broadly important. The more information matters, the more advantages flow to the advantaged. As ever, but increasingly, modern life is regressive.

The benefits of information are distributed disproportionately to those already favored by many advantages.

ARNOLD SAWISLAK

The cost of owing money to ourselves

WASHINGTON — President Reagan's last budget will go to the 101st Congress soon and some observers say it will carry a deficit of "only" $100 billion.

The word only is emphasized because the Gramm-Rudman-Hollings law, passed after federal ink soared past $200 billion a year to force the government to balance its books by 1992, requires the deficit to be down to $110 billion in this budget.

Furthermore, the last official projection of the 1989-90 deficit without spending cuts or new taxes was $135 billion, which meant Reagan had to find $25 billion in savings or new money to obey the law.

Thus, even though many of Reagan's previous budget proposals have been proclaimed "dead on arrival" at Capitol Hill, there is a measure of elation in the prediction that the outgoing president will get his last spending plan a full $10 billion under the Gramm-Rudman wire.

But we taxpayers should be excused if we don't rush cheering into the streets if the Reagan budget really comes in under target.

The deficit, it should be remembered, is not the same as the national debt and as long as it exists doesn't do anything but increase the national debt. The debt will reach $2.8 trillion ($2,800,000,000) sometime this year and won't ever get smaller unless the government ends up with a budget surplus and uses the extra money to pay off some of the debt.

It is often said the national debt is "money owed to ourselves" and is nothing to lose sleepover.

That is not entirely true: the bonds and other securities that the government sells to make up the difference between what it spends and what it receives have been increasingly purchased by foreigners during the Reagan years and have something to do with the United States becoming, for the first time since World War I, a "debtor nation."

But putting aside to whom the national debt is owed, the problem remains that it is not just an amount of money that theoretically will be repaid some day. The national debt costs big money every day and its cost is no more accurately reflected by its stated size than the cost of a house with a 10 percent mortgage is truly reflected by a $100,000 price tag.

In last year's budget, the cost of paying interest on the national debt was close to $200 billion. That is not as much as the defense budget, but it is close to the amount of money that goes out to Social Security recipients each year and more than goes to welfare and all other health and human services activities. It is more money than is spent by the federal government each year on education, housing, space, transportation, veterans' benefits and federal workers' wages combined.

There is wasted money in the federal budget, but most of it is at least intended to buy goods or services for the benefit of the country and its citizens. But interest on the national debt, while it represents income to some Americans, pays only for "rent" on money the government has long since spent in previous budgets. Try to explain that to your kids.

[C]1989 NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.

Last year, the cost of paying interest on the national debt was close to $200 billion.

Stocks open lower

United Press International

NEW YORK — Prices opened slightly lower Wednesday in moderate trading of New York Stock Exchange issues.

The Dow Jones Industrial average, which fell 6.25 Tuesday, was off 0.53 to 2192.68 shortly after the market opened.

Declines edged advances 361-323 among the 1,184 issues crossing the New York Stock Exchange tape. Early turnover amounted to about 7.814,000 shares.

Stock prices fell Tuesday in moderate trading as concern about the possibility of higher interest rates led investors to take profits on gains won in the previous four sessions.

Early in the session, around 10 a.m. EST, buyers pushed the Dow up nearly 5 points, surpassing the 2,200 level. But the rally quickly fizzled, and stock prices drifted at lower levels throughout the rest of the day.

Analysts said the market was struggling to rise above the 2,200 level, a feat it has accomplished during recent sessions but never at the close.

Dollar mixed, gold lower

United Press International

The dollar was mixed in active trading Wednesday on major foreign currency markets. Gold was lower.

Traders in New York said the dollar gained in Europe, despite reports of heavy selling by the West German Bundesbank and possibly other European central banks. The Bundesbank, as usual, refused to comment on its open market actions.

In early New York trading, the dollar was broadly lower against key foreign currencies in moderate trading, as traders yielded to the ongoing West German central bank selling.

Traders in New York reported the Federal Reserve intervened in the foreign exchange market shortly before 9 a.m. EST, selling dollars against West German marks.

Traders also reported the Bank of England reportedly sold pounds for West German marks as the British pound managed gains against the mark.

In earlier trading in Tokyo, the dollar rallied sharply against the Japanese yen, closing 1.25 yen higher at 126.95 yen.

Traders in Japan noted that behind the dollar's rise was dealer confidence that the United States, with its high interest rates, will remain a sound base for foreign investment.

In Europe, the dollar began the day in Frankfurt at 1.839 West German marks, up from 1.8285 marks on Tuesday.

the county should adopt a policy that large-scale requests of copies should be paid by the commissioner seeking it, not the taxpayer.

Kelley said the request was made as a commissioner for the county's benefit, not her own personal use. But Streetman countered, saying she had changed the intent of her original request.

"It is improper to spend money, then call it a county project," Streetman said.

"Aren't you asking the taxpayers to bear your cost?" asked Sturm.

Glenn said she liked the idea of a computer library, but said Kelley has used an improper approach in seeking it.

"I wish this would have come to a work session before it became an issue," Glenn said.

At a work session Tuesday morning, Hooper said 8,100 copies of the 17,500 copies Kelley has already received were made by Kelley employees using the county copy machine and the county should charge Kelley $243 for use of the machine. Another 9,400 copies had been made by Kelley employees using her own machine and paper.

Kelley said the six "Kelley girls" as they were known among county staff, were paid minimum wage and had completed most of the requested duplication in two or three weeks prior to Christmas. She said the girls did not disrupt normal county functioning.

Another 4,000 pages of copies of meeting minutes have been provided by the Seminole County Expressway Authority at a cost of $160, Hooper said. Fifty-seven audio tapes of authority meetings are also available to Kelley at a total cost of $142.50.

Seventeen computer tapes have been provided already to Kelley under a Jan. 5 agreement that she would pay for them at a cost of $242.61 for the tapes and the six hours of supervision required. Hooper said the tapes were given to Kelley Friday, but the county has not been paid yet and the decision whether Kelley should pay for them has been delayed for two weeks.

Hooper had stalled until Tuesday in producing Kelley's request for all county vendors for the last 18 years.

Betsy Leonard, county purchasing director, said it would take two employees working 40 hours a week for two months to review all 56,000 purchase orders that have been issued in that time and copy the ones sought by Kelley. That request will cost Kelley up to $12,000 for the labor and materials.

Hooper said Kelley is also reviewing the list of nearly 80 county committees created by commissioners since 1970 to see which ones she wants. She had originally requested copies of meeting minutes and member lists for all of them.

Another 240 tapes, at an estimated contract cost of $600, has not been produced, Hooper said.

"Every effort has been made to this point to provide the information," Hooper said. Kelley had charged last month Hooper was trying to stonewall her efforts to collect the information by claiming it was a large, time-consuming and costly task.

Court Clerk Marianne Morse said Tuesday morning she'll charge either Kelley or the county $73,439 for all the copies and microfilm requested by Kelley in December if she wants them all. Another $5,537 in copies and tapes were provided free by former clerk David Berrien and Morse said she wouldn't charge for those.

Morse said Kelley was reviewing the available information from the clerk's office and might not seek the entire original amount requested. Morse said the costs were set by state statutes and she could not vary them, although she would seek a legal opinion as to whether Kelley can copy the materials herself on her own equipment.

Hooper recommended commissioners adopt a new policy requiring commissioners seeking large amounts of general information pay for it themselves. Requests of specific information in preparation for an item to be considered by the full commission will be provided at no cost to the commissioner.

With commissioners' adoption of the policy, Kelley would be required to pay $160 for the expressway authority copies she's already received and $243 for the 8,100 copies made on the county machine. Hooper said he recommended a three cents-per-page charge for those copies because Kelley used her own paper. The public is required to pay four cents per page for copies from the county.

Paving

time allowed large subdivisions without requiring them to have paved roads. McCollum said county crews frequently have to grade the Lake Mills Shores roads, which wash out during normal rainstorms.

Lake Mills resident Peggy Beck said some people have had to stay in motels because roads in front of their homes were flooded so bad they couldn't get to their houses. She said recently a woman in labor had to walk for a block to get to transportation to the hospital because the road in front of her home was impassable due to flooding.

"It's not fair to have a permit to build a house and not have a road to get to it," Beck said.

Under a new shared-cost funding method being explored by the county, McCollum recommended commissioners pay for the in-house design and contracted construction of the paving and drainage improvements, at a cost of about $640,000. The 148 lot owners would share the remaining $320,000 cost of the materials for the paving.

Under the proposal, each lot owner would pay $1,252 for the work, plus an additional $168 for a driveway pipe. McCollum said the amount was acceptable to all but one of the 46 homeowners at a recent homeowners association meeting. He said the usual county method of requiring the lotowners to share all the costs was too expensive for such a large area.

But Sturm and commissioner Fred Streetman both opposed the plan, saying it could prove to be too costly.

tion certification by Feb. 1. Negotiations with carriers are underway with that date in mind, he said.

In addition to rescue services, LaZebny said, the airport must add fencing, an emergency plan and other equipment in order to be certified.

In other steps toward landing carrier service for the airport, the authority:

• Approved month-to-month leasing of security equipment needed for passenger service, including X-ray machines and metal detectors.

• Approved a contract to relocate Airline Avenue was approved yesterday. The authority accepted the low bid of $168,083.70 from Hewitt Contracting Company Inc. The work, scheduled to begin within 30 days, will accommodate additional T-hangers, executive hangars and other aviation equipment.

• Approved a consideration for hiring a part-time air traffic controller. The airport staff, which now has five full-time air traffic controllers, needs to expand if additional operations are taken on, LaZebny said.

Henderson told the House Committee on Highway Safety and Construction that DOT has greatly improved its efficiency over the past two years and is close to using up its cash reserves. That "cash crunch" means DOT would need $700 million over the next five years to keep up with its planned projects.

Henderson said DOT had long known the crunch was coming, but did not think DOT's output would catch up with its cash reserves until late this year. Henderson said he has not asked anyone to lobby for an increase on his behalf, and that any such proposed hike would have to come from Martinez' office, not DOT.

Henderson said the budget request he submitted for the 1989-90 fiscal year would be no higher than DOT's current $2.3 billion budget.

find itself mired in debt without solving the overcrowding problem. Inmates today serve an average 35 percent of their sentences, compared to 52 percent two years ago. Last year's reforms will mean an increase of 73 percent in the number of offenders sent to prison, meaning felons could end up serving even less time, Cannon said. The committee is expected to consider a number of bills restricting early release programs for more dangerous inmates.

It also will consider shifting inmates to community control, house arrest, electronic monitoring programs.

Skilers found dead after blizzard

BEND, Ore. — Two people were found dead on a cross-country ski trail in central Oregon Tuesday, less than a day after a blizzard dumped 24 inches of snow on the area in 14 hours, authorities said.

The bodies were found by a cross-country skier in an area known as Dutchman's Flat, about 20 miles west of Bend, according to Jeff Lokting, marketing and communications manager at the nearby Mt. Bachelor ski resort.

Lokting said the bodies, which were covered with snow, were found when another skier saw a blanket protruding from the snow and went over to pull it out.

A dispatcher at the Deschutes County Sheriff's Office confirmed that two people had been found in the area, but she declined to release the names until relatives had been notified.

The bodies were found just outside Mt. Bachelor, which has both downhill and cross-country skiing, Lokting said.

Giuliani resigns; 'open' to mayoral bid

NEW YORK — In closing the book on his celebrated career as a federal prosecutor, Rudolph Giuliani said he would not "shut the door on the possibility of running for mayor" against controversial incumbent Ed Koch.

Giuliani, who gained national fame prosecuting New York mobsters, political grafters and Wall Street crooks, made official Tuesday what he has been saying for weeks — he will leave office at the end of January.

But the Republican remained coy about his future career plans and a possible challenge to three-term Democratic mayor Koch.

"I have not shut the door on the possibility of running for mayor," said Giuliani, frequently compared to Thomas E. Dewey, the man who held the same federal job 50 years ago, was elected New York's governor and who lost in a presidential bid against Harry Truman.

Giuliani stressed that he remains committed to public service, but he ruled out accepting a post in Washington, explaining that he wants to remain in New York where his wife, Donna Hanover, is a news anchor on WPIX-TV.

Officers reassigned after Marine's death

CAMP LEJEUNE, N.C. — Two top-ranking officers of the Marine battalion that accidentally left one of its soldiers to die in the 120-degree heat of the Mojave Desert last August were reassigned Tuesday after a review of the investigation into the death.

Lt. Col. E.J. Robeson, commander of the 3rd Battalion, 2nd Marine Regiment, and executive officer Maj. T.L. Holm will be relieved of their duties and reassigned to other jobs within the division, a Camp Lejeune spokesman said late Tuesday.

The reassignments are a result of the disappearance and death of Lance Cpl. Jason J. Rother of Minneapolis.

No disciplinary action is being considered against Robeson or Holm, Marine officials said.

The remains of Rother were discovered last month about two miles from the point where he was last seen during a three-day training exercise at Twentynine Palms, Calif., in August.

Rother, 19, stationed at Camp Lejeune, was placed as a road guide in the desert, but troops apparently neglected to pick him up at the conclusion of his duties. He was reported missing 40 hours later, but searchers found no sign of him, a Marine investigation said.

Lumber unions call strike in two states

PORTLAND, Ore. — Unions representing 4,700 lumber workers Tuesday called a strike at Roseburg Forest Products mills in southern Oregon and northern California to begin Wednesday morning.

Brad Whit, spokesman for the Western Council of Industrial Workers in Portland, said the strike was prompted by a company decision to impose a new contract that reduces wages immediately by an average of $1 per hour and eliminates a $1,400 signing bonus that had been previously offered.

Bill Hubbell, president of the International Woodworkers of America, said the unions jointly decided to strike Roseburg operations at 12 locations in the two states.

The Western Council represents about 3,800 workers and the IWA about 900 at plants in Anderson, Mt. Shasta, Red Bluff, Redding, and Weed, Calif., and in Coquille, Dillard, Dixonville, Goshen, North Bend, Riddle and Roseburg, Oregon.

Roseburg Forest Products is the only major wood products company that has failed to reach a new contract agreement with the unions, which struck a dozen firms last summer, idling up to 8,500 workers.

The unions and the company had been negotiating off and on for months and an impasse was declared after a Jan. 5 meeting.

Solar flares to play havoc on Earth

BOULDER, Colo. — Several major solar flares are occurring on the sun, which could lead to disturbances in power transmissions and communications on Earth over the next week, scientists at the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration said Tuesday.

An X-category flare, which exhibits the most intense flaring and indicates a large active sunspot region on the sun, was observed at 4 p.m. EST, NOAA spokesman William J. Brennan said.

During the last few days, two flares of this magnitude have been observed. The sunspot region is expected to produce additional X-class flares in the coming weeks, Brennan said.

These flares can cause effects on Earth such as disturbances in electrical power transmission systems, pipelines and long-line telephone networks, as well as interference with some kinds of radio communications and broadcasts.

Ex-Navy man charged with spying

United Press International

NORFOLK, Va. — The material a former sailor allegedly tried to sell to the Soviets was "sensitive, anti-submarine information" that undercover federal agents apparently intercepted before any of it leaked out, FBI officials said.

Craig Kunkle, a former petty officer, was arrested Tuesday and charged with espionage for allegedly trying to pass the classified material about U.S. anti-submarine warfare capabilities to a foreign government.

"We count this as a major success of the FBI," said Irvin Wells, special agent in charge of the bureau's Norfolk office. Wells praised undercover agents and Navy investigators for foiling Kunkle's alleged spying activities.

"We count this as a major success of the FBI"

—FBI agent Irvin Wells

"We have interdicted his effort to pass secrets to the Soviets," Wells said.

Wells would not elaborate on the exact nature of the information Kunkle was alleged to have been interested in passing to the Soviet Union, saying, "I can only tell you that it was sensitive, anti-submarine information."

Kunkle never transmitted the classified information he allegedly gathered during his Navy service, Wells said, adding, "There is no indication that he was acting other than alone."

Kunkle, 39, a Virginia Beach security guard who spent 12 years in the Navy, was arrested about 12:30 p.m. EST at a Williamsburg motel as he met with two FBI undercover agents, Wells said.

Kunkle, who served in anti-submarine units in the Atlantic and Pacific fleets, was charged with espionage in the gathering or delivering of defense information to aid a foreign government and with the disclosure of classified information. If convicted, he could face a maximum penalty of life in prison.

Kunkle is married to a woman enlisted in the Navy, Wells said. The wife, whose name is believed to be Suzanne, is not believed to be involved in the spying, Wells said, but he cautioned that authorities had not ruled out such an involvement.

Chuck Steinmetz, an FBI spokesman in Washington, said Kunkle left the military under clouded circumstances in October 1985, but unrelated to security matters.

"Mr. Kunkle was, in fact, discharged after his 12 years of enlisted service and this discharge was quite 'under less than honorable conditions,'" Steinmetz said. "It occurred on Oct. 4, 1985."

A federal law enforcement source told United Press International that Kunkle was discharged for multiple incidents involving indecent exposure.

Bankers accused of costing taxpayers billions

United Press International

WASHINGTON — Members of the House Banking Committee accused the Federal Home Loan Bank Board Tuesday of costing taxpayers untold billions of dollars and making the rich even richer in panic sales of failed savings and loans.

But controversial Bank Board Chairman Danny Wall, and members Roger Martin and Lawrence White, rejected the chorus of complaints. They said they saved taxpayers at least $5 billion in December by selling troubled savings and loan industry.

The bank board gave away billions in tax breaks and other subsidies to the new owners, in part, because the Federal Savings and Loan Deposit Corp., which insures thrift depositors, is itself technically insolvent.

Seated near carts that were overflowing with stacks of documents detailing the ownership transfers or liquidations, Wall said the board had met its responsibility in stabilizing the troubled savings and loan industry.

"We have stopped the hemorrhage in the thrift industry," Wall said.

But there was a barrage of criticism over the board's overall handling of more than 200 insolvent institutions last year. Lawmakers and other critics were especially concerned about the flurry of 75 thrift deals in December, as investors and the bank board rushed to beat a Jan. 1 deadline on tax breaks.

The critics also have complained that new owners and investors were, in some cases, not qualified to run thrifts and that their investments were relatively small compared to the value of the assets they purchased. In some cases the bank board provided guarantees to investors that, if the economy goes sour, could cost the Treasury billions of dollars.

"This allows the rich to get richer," Rep. Jim Leach, R-Iowa, told the bank board members. "If it works, the investor makes a killing."

Koop: Anti-smoking effort is saving million of lives

United Press International

WASHINGTON — Surgeon General C. Everett Koop applauded the social trend against smoking for saving millions of lives but said Tuesday stepped-up efforts are needed to dissuade children, women and minorities from cigarettes. "The ashtray is following the spittoon into oblivion," said Koop in a massive review of the 25 years since the first surgeon general's report linking smoking to cancer. "With this evolving social milieu, the population has been giving up smoking in increasing numbers," he said. "Nearly half of all living adults who ever smoked have quit. "The most impressive decline in smoking has occurred among men. Smoking prevalence among men has fallen from 50 percent in 1965 to 32 percent in 1987. These changes represent nothing less than a revolution in behavior."

Koop labeled the national anti-smoking campaign as "a major public health success" with "few parallels" because without the 1964 report by Dr. Luther Terry, there would have been 91 million American smokers between the ages of 15 to 84 years in 1985, instead of 58 million. "It was accomplished despite the addictive nature of tobacco and the powerful economic forces promoting its use," he said. Koop's report said: • Smoking among adults decreased from 40 percent in 1965 to 29 percent in 1987. • Between 1964 and 1985, about 750,000 smoking-related deaths were avoided or postponed as a result of decisions to quit smoking or not to start. Another 2.1 million lives will be saved between 1986 and the year 2000 for the same reasons. The average life expectancy gained for every postponed death was 21 years. • As of mid-1988, 42 states and more than 320 communities had adopted laws or regulations restricting smoking in public places and an estimated one-half of large businesses have an anti-smoking policy for workers.

Bush's help asked on nuclear defense spending

United Press International

WASHINGTON — A key lawmaker urged President-elect George Bush Wednesday to work with Congress on a proposal to stabilize strategic nuclear defense spending with a 10-year plan that could stop the squeeze on such systems. "A new administration is taking office, perhaps for eight years. Now is the time for Democrats and Republicans, White House and Congress, to put all the weapons systems into the pot, take a long, 10-year view, work the tradeoffs and build a strategic consensus" rather than fight over the weapons in the halls of Congress, said House Armed Services Committee Chairman Les Aspin, D-Wis. Aspin detailed his proposal in remarks prepared for a National Press Club luncheon. Such a consensus, Aspin said, might allow both the construction of the administration-backed rail-mobile MX missile with its 10 warheads and the so-called "Midgetman" missile that many congressional Democrats support. The Midgetman is a one-warhead, mobile missile. The competing systems have been at the heart of a controversy that for the last eight years has seen little done to enhance the survivability of U.S. land-based missiles. Specifically, Aspin proposed tossing all strategic programs into a "pot" of both programs and money. In 1989, some $31 billion is being spent on the programs, and he said it should be held constant for 10 years, adjusting only for inflation. A longer-term view of the programs, he said, would permit trade-offs in timing among the programs, and their procurement and operating costs. Strategic programs are considered to include the land-based missiles, submarines and their missiles, and intercontinental range bombers, which now include the B-52 and B-1B and soon will include the B-2 stealth bomber. Congress last year kept both missile programs alive into the coming Bush administration, an example of how competing programs can each prevent the other from advancing. Aspin said a strategic consensus is possible because Bush is not a Washington outsider, and those who surround him have Washington experience. Democrats realize they cannot grab the White House just yet, and Republicans cannot grab control of Congress. He also said surprises by Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev have added uncertainty to superpower relations. And, he said, "I'm betting on bipartisanship for a very practical reason. We can expect only a flat defense budget and the strategic program of the Bush administration simply won't fit. Something has to be done and confrontation isn't likely to accomplish it."

Aspin warned that "bipartisanship can't survive a battle as big as the federal budget."

Abu Nidal tops terrorist list

United Press International

WASHINGTON — The United States named the Abu Nidal group as "the most dangerous terrorist organization in existence" in a new Pentagon publication Tuesday and said Libyan terrorism appears to be on the rise. Meanwhile, a defense official, who spoke only on the condition that he not be identified, said Iran's state-sponsored terrorism "over the past number of years" has been more dangerous and threatening to Washington than Libya's. The 131-page book, "Terrorist Group Profiles," lists all of the terrorist organizations in the world, contains background on the groups and leaders, and cites the crimes the U.S. government believes they committed. "The release (of the report) at this time has nothing to do with the current situation in the Middle East," Assistant Secretary of Defense Charles Whitehouse cautioned reporters at a Pentagon briefing. The book, he said, is a compilation of "open source material" that has been "confirmed by classified sources" in U.S. intelligence.

1985 that killed 16 people and injured 60. Most recently, the book said, it carried out the May 1988 attack in Khartoum on the Acropole Hotel and Sudan Club where eight people were killed and 21 wounded, including five Americans. "If you look at the history of Abu Nidal attacks and the indiscriminate nature of the casualties, that's what makes him — in our eyes — more lethal," the anonymous defense official said. It is "a very lethal, dangerous group." The publication listed Iran, Afghanistan and Libya as "among the most notorious state sponsors of terrorism," and said that in addition to giving Abu Nidal's group a base of operation, "there are other signs that Libyan involvement in terrorism may be again on the rise." Referring to the Libyans, the defense official said, "We've seen much more contact, proselytizing if you will, with groups in far-flung places in Europe."

"When we're talking about Libyan terrorism on the rise in that book, we're talking over the past year — after a relative decline in the wake of" the U.S. bombing of Libya in April 1986, he said. "The Abu Nidal Organization is the most dangerous terrorist organization in existence, and its area of operations is one of the most extensive," the publication states. The Libyan-based Palestinian group is cited for machine gun and grenade attacks on the Rome and Vienna airports in

Soviets may not meet Afghan deadline

MOSCOW — Deputy Foreign Minister Yuli Vorontsov warned Tuesday it is no longer certain the Soviet Union will meet the Feb. 15 deadline for withdrawing its remaining 50,000 troops from Afghanistan.

However, western diplomats in New Delhi reported Tuesday the pullout suspended late last year will resume Sunday — a month before the deadline imposed by a peace accord signed in Geneva last April.

Reversing past statements by Soviet officials, Vorontsov, who recently returned to Moscow after meeting with U.S.-backed Moslem rebels in Pakistan and Iran, said the Soviet Union is no longer locked into the Feb. 15 deadline.

Vorontsov also accused the United States of abandoning the peace accord and helping force suspension of the troop withdrawal by continuing to supply arms to Moslem rebels trying to topple the Soviet-backed Afghan regime.

"We do not see from the United States any indications of its genuine desire to work toward an Afghan settlement," said Vorontsov, who is also the Soviet ambassador to Afghanistan.

In Washington, White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said the United States had no official word on a pullout delay, saying, "We still expect them to meet the deadline."

11 die in Philippine fighting

BACOLOD, Philippines — Communist guerrillas tossed a grenade at a government patrol in the central island of Negros, sparking a series of battles that left 11 people dead, the military said Wednesday.

The military said the clashes began Tuesday morning when guerrillas of the New People's Army hurled a grenade at a constabulary patrol in E.B. Magalong town and then opened fire. Three rebels were killed and four soldiers were wounded in the encounter.

Later in the afternoon, the two groups battled again in two areas in the outskirts of the town, leaving three rebels, four soldiers and a civilian dead.

The military also said a 35-year-old farmer was killed and three others were wounded when guerrillas raided a village in the nearby island of Cebu last week. The rebels fled with a water buffalo, three horses and other items.

Moscow site of emergency landing

MOSCOW — A Pan American Airways jet en route from Frankfurt, West Germany, to New Delhi, India, with 341 people aboard made an emergency landing at Moscow's Sheremetyevo airport Wednesday after one of its four engines malfunctioned, an airport official said.

One of the Boeing 747's engines was shut down after a drop in oil pressure, and the craft was diverted to Moscow, landing safely at about 2 a.m. Moscow time, the official said.

A replacement aircraft for the 341 passengers was being flown in from West Germany, a Pan Am official said.

Central American summit may be held

MANAGUA, Nicaragua — President Daniel Ortega said Tuesday night that he has reluctantly agreed to reschedule a summit meeting of Central American presidents for after the Jan. 20 inauguration of President-elect George Bush.

Ortega said he and other regional leaders had failed to change the mind of Costa Rican President Oscar Arias, who demanded that the summit scheduled for Jan. 15-16 in El Salvador be postponed until Bush's Central American policy becomes clear.

A preliminary meeting in Managua of diplomats from five countries that will take part in the summit was called off Tuesday after the presidents decided to accept Arias's suggestion.

Ortega said there was a risk the Central American peace process "will lose credibility" because of the postponement, but said Nicaragua would push for the summit to be held as soon as possible.

"The most probable date would be the last two weeks of February," Ortega said.

Ortega criticized Arias's suggestion to wait for Bush to define his Central American policy, saying, "If you don't go out and set the policy, you run the risk that he (Bush) will come and dictate it you."

Ortega, Arias, Jose Napoleon Duarte of El Salvador, Jose Azcona of Honduras and Vinicio Cerezo of Guatemala were scheduled to discuss the faltering Central American peace plan to which all agreed in August 1987.

Singapore won't return to Rose Parade

SINGAPORE — Tourism officials announced Wednesday that Singapore is pulling out of next year's Tournament of Roses Parade in Pasadena, Calif., after failing to land any award for the second consecutive year.

Singapore's entry in the Jan. 1 floral spectacular this year was a mechanically-operated dragon that puffed smoke marking 1989 as the Lunar Year of the Dragon.

Singapore began participating in 1983 and won an award every year for the first five. In 1986 a float featuring a giant monkey god garnered the top prize, the Sweepstakes Award.

Watched by thousands of spectators along Colorado Boulevard in Pasadena as well as a worldwide television audience of 350 million, the extravaganza has been viewed as a good publicity opportunity for its entrants from all over the world.

"Singapore has had very good mileage, but we are adopting new marketing strategies," said Dawn Ow, spokeswoman for the Tourist Promotion Board.

Ow acknowledged that his budget was lower this year than previously but declined to reveal the actual amount.

To save on costs, dancers on the Singapore float this year were hired in California and not flown in, as in past years, from Singapore.

Panda inbreeding may threaten species

BEIJING — The giant panda, already facing extinction in its native land, has been forced into a cycle of inbreeding that could soon lead the species to an evolutionary dead end, a top Chinese zoologist warned Wednesday.

Small bands of giant pandas in China's central mountain regions have been separated, leading to increased inbreeding and the "deterioration of the species," Pan Wenshi, a panda expert at Beijing University, told the semi-official China News Service.

The zoologist suggested a program to move male pandas in the wild from group to group. In order to ensure a more varied genetic mix.

Fewer than 1,000 pandas survive in the wild, scattered in groups of fewer than 50 pandas each across 12 mountainous preserves in China's rugged Sichuan, Gansu and Shaanxi provinces.

The small bands are highly vulnerable to extinction from food shortages, disease, poaching and loss of habitat due to expansion of farming areas by Chinese peasants.

Pan said that in the Qinling Mountains, which cross central Shaanxi and Sichuan provinces, five groups of pandas inhabit areas separated by dense mountain forests. While four of the groups can interact and freely exchange mates, the fifth group has been cut off from the rest.

"According to genetic theory, the pandas in this area will all be cousins within 80 years," he said.

Oil workers may cut supply due to union leader's arrest

United Press International

MEXICO CITY — Thousands of oil workers threatened to cut off Mexico's gasoline supply after their union leader was arrested for illegal possession of firearms as part of what the government said was a conspiracy to undermine national security.

Joaquin Hernandez Galicia was arrested Tuesday in a raid on his home that sparked a gun battle between police and the union leader's bodyguards. One police agent was killed.

Following the arrest, thousands of the union leader's supporters protested in the oil city of Francisco Madero in northeastern Mexico and in the capital, and oil workers threatened to cut off the nation's gasoline supply.

Long lines of cars formed at gasoline stations in the capital late Tuesday and the government deployed troops at key petroleum installations across the country and at the headquarters of the oil workers union.

Attorney General Enrique Alvarez del Castillo said Tuesday night that 35 people had been arrested on a variety of charges, including possessing illegal weapons.

Alvarez said Hernandez, leader of the powerful union of workers of the state-run oil company Petroleos Mexicanos, known as PEMEX, was arrested at his home in Madero, 200 miles northeast of Mexico City.

He said the arrests were made after a monthlong investigation.

A spokesman for Alvarez told United Press International that the government ordered the leaders arrested because "they planned to paralyze the headquarters of PEMEX and work against the whole national economy. It is a well-orchestrated conspiracy that attempted to undermine national security."

Alvarez said Hernandez, also known as "La Quina," and 18 other oil industry labor leaders were arrested Tuesday morning in Madero and Mexico City, and the remaining 16 were arrested in the afternoon.

He said the arrested oil union leaders included Jose Sosa Martinez, former secretary-general of the National Revolutionary Union of Petroleum Workers of the Mexican Republic.

One police agent, identified as Gerardo Antonio Zamora Arriola, was killed by union bodyguards during the arrests, Alvarez said.

Police said other officers were wounded, but did not say how many.

Officials said Hernandez was taken by military plane to Santa Lucia military base in Mexico City.

In Mexico City, some 20,000 Hernandez supporters marched in front of the National Palace to protest the arrests and vowed to remain in the downtown Zocalo plaza until their leaders were freed.

"There will be no gasoline tomorrow unless 'La Quina' is freed," the protesters shouted.

Tuesday night, oil workers had stopped work at at least two Pemex refineries and threatened to cut off oil and gasoline supplies if their leaders were not freed.

In Mexico City, most gas stations closed early amid panic buying by worried motorists. Long lines, many of more than 50 cars, formed at the few stations remaining open.

Hernandez is no longer an official of the union but is widely believed to remain in control of the labor organization he has led for 30 years. He is a member of the ruling Institutional Revolutionary Party, or PRI, but is not considered an ally of its 1988 presidential candidate.

One engine shut down before 737 crashed

United Press International

LONDON — The lead investigator in Britain's second aviation disaster in 13 days said one of the Boeing 737's engines was damaged by fire and the other quit before the new aircraft crashed north of London, killing 44 people.

NBC News quoted U.S. government sources Tuesday as saying the pilots knew they had a problem in one engine but turned off the wrong one, causing the crash Sunday of the commuter flight from London's Heathrow Airport to Belfast, Northern Ireland, with 126 people aboard.

The sources told NBC that an analysis of the flight data recorder and cockpit voice recorder from the jet, which monitored which engines were on at a given time and what the pilots were saying, showed that an alarm sounded 15 minutes after leaving Heathrow indicating engine problems and one engine began vibrating.

The pilots radioed flight controllers and said they were shutting down the right engine, the sources told NBC. But evidence from survivors and the wreckage indicated only the left engine was malfunctioning.

After shutting off the right engine, the pilots told controllers the situation was under control and then flew for another 19 minutes, unaware they were using only the bad engine.

The U.S. sources said that just before the crash, the crew apparently realized what they had done and tried to restart the right engine, which could have carried the Boeing 737-400 to safety.

Ed Trimble, head of the Transport Ministry's Air Accidents Investigation Branch, had said investigators were still trying to determine why the right engine was switched off.

The investigators Tuesday questioned the pilot of British Midland Airways Flight 92, Capt. Kevin Hunt, who remained hospitalized in serious condition but no details of the session were released.

A total of 44 people died aboard the 12-week-old aircraft when it slammed into an embankment of Britain's main north-south highway and within sight of the runway lights of the East Midlands Airport as Hunt struggled to land the craft.

There were 82 survivors from the crash in Kegworth, 110 miles north of London, 74 of whom remained hospitalized.

The accident came after Britain's worst air disaster in which a smuggled bomb exploded and downed a Pan Am Boeing 747 Dec. 21 onto the Scottish village of Lockerbie, killing all 259 people aboard and 11 more on the ground.

Ten minutes into the flight Sunday, Hunt reported the left engine was on fire, and an emergency landing was ordered at East Midlands Airport. But the pilot said the second engine failed before the jet could reach the airstrip.

Transport Ministry spokesman Paul McKie said, "It won't become apparent until the strip down, as to why the right engine shut off. We won't know until the beginning of next week."

Trimble said even though the flight recorder had been recovered, the engines would have to be extracted from the wreckage before a more thorough check could be conducted.

The engines were jointly manufactured by General Electric and Snecma, a French company.

Plastic explosive used in Pan Am jet downing

United Press International

LONDON — Semtex, known to be in the hands of terrorists, "very probably" was the hard-to-detect plastic explosive that downed Pan Am Flight 103 last month over Scotland, killing 270 people, Britain's top transportation official said.

Transport Ministry Secretary Paul Channon also told Parliament Tuesday the bomb was planted in the No. 1 cargo and baggage hold just in front of the aircraft's wing.

However, Channon said "it is too early to say yet where the article containing the explosive originated."

"Signs of the use of a high-performance plastic explosive, which was very probably, but not certainly Semtex, point to some well-organized and well-supplied terrorist group," he said, without elaborating.

Semtex is an explosive made by Czechoslovakia, and is known to be in the hands of terrorist groups in many countries. It is difficult to detect because it is odorless and nearly impossible to spot with the X-rays routinely used in airport security checks.

Channon said a team of Czech explosives experts were to arrive Wednesday in Britain to assist with the investigation of the Dec. 21 explosion and downing of the Pan Am Boeing 747, which killed 259 passengers and crew, as well as 11 residents of Lockerbie, Scotland.

Channon refused to speculate about how the bomb had been placed aboard the trans-Atlantic flight bound for New York.

Arabs stall closing statement at toxic weapons conference

United Press International

PARIS — A demand by Libya and other Arab states that nuclear arsenals be destroyed along with chemical weapons stockpiles stalled efforts to formulate a closing statement by 145 nations attending a conference on toxic weapons.

The Arab nations, led by Libya, Iraq and Syria, argued Tuesday that it was unfair to renounce chemical weapons, or the "poor man's atom bomb," without calling for the destruction of nuclear arms.

The demand stalled efforts to hammer out a closing statement before the conference ends Wednesday, and delegates expressed fears over a U.S. military attack against an alleged chemical weapons plant in Libya.

The United States, France and other nations possessing nuclear arsenals oppose the linkage between nuclear and chemical weapons.

"I think it was anticipated the countries identified as having chemical weapons would take that position. It is disappointing," White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said in Washington.

Yugoslavians march to protest economic conditions

United Press International

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia — About 40,000 workers and students marched Tuesday in the southern republic of Montenegro, demanding food, jobs and the resignation of leaders unable to cope with Yugoslavia's worst economic crisis in decades.

Witnesses said the protesters gathered in front of the republic's parliament building in the Montenegro capital of Titograd and chanted such slogans as "We want resignations," "People are starving," and "We want bread and work."

It was the first mass protest in Yugoslavia since Prime Minister Branko Mikulic's government collapsed last month because of its failure to halt the economic crisis.

It also resembled the massive anti-government demonstrations of last October that resulted in 15 injuries, 35 arrests, a 15-day police alert to prevent riots and the resignation of the republic's government.

Officials said there were no incidents in the latest protest. "The demonstrations are peaceful. There has been no violence," Dragan Ilic, the assistant information minister of the republic, said in a telephone interview from Titograd.

Members of the organizing committee of this protest rally submitted their demands for the resignation of the local Montenegrin leaders as well as of those representing Montenegro in top Yugoslav federal bodies. Ilic said.

A caretaker government is still in office in the republic and a new Cabinet is expected to be elected this month.

About 1,500 workers in Titograd's Radoje Dakic construction machines factory began Tuesday's movement. They went on strike at 7 a.m. to protest economic conditions and one hour later began marching to the Montenegrin parliament building in downtown Titograd.

They were joined by tens of thousands of workers from other factories and offices and university students who skipped their classes, witnesses said. The crowd was estimated at 40,000.

Members of the rally's organizing committee said they want the resignation of government and Communist Party leaders as they originally asked in street demonstrations last Oct. 7-8.

Yugoslavia is suffering from triple-digit inflation and sharply declining living standards that have sent the nation into its worst economic crisis since recovery began after World War II.

Yugoslavia is also burdened with some $21 billion in debts to Western creditors and unemployment of about 1.2 million people, more than 15 percent of the work force.

Protests over the downward spiral and ethnic unrest shook the nation's federation of six republics last year. According to trade union officials, nearly 400,000 people participated in some 1,800 strikes.

1,000 Cuban troops in Angola set sail by night for home

United Press International

LUANDA, Angola — About 1,000 Cuban troops quietly slipped out of Angola on a Soviet freighter in the night, just hours after the highly publicized departure of 450 soldiers from Luanda airport, witnesses said Wednesday.

The head of a United Nations observer team confirmed the seaborne departure but refused to say how many Cubans were aboard. He said at a news conference that the observer team was obliged to trust the Cuban and Angolan governments to provide accurate figures.

The observer team is charged with verifying the pullout from Angola of some 50,000 Cuban troops under the terms of a U.S.-brokered pact that also requires South Africa to halt military invasions into the country and grant independence to neighboring Namibia.

Authorities put on a spectacular display of marching, dancing and speeches at Tuesday afternoon's symbolic initial withdrawal of 450 Cubans, with soldiers goose-stepping through the streets with flowers in their rifle barrels before thousands of cheering onlookers.

However, there was no announcement of the departure of the additional Cubans who, according to witnesses, were carried in a large truck convoy to the port where they boarded a vessel that went to sea sometime during the night.

Unofficial sources said about 1,000 troops headed home on the Soviet freighter.

Gen. Pericles Ferreira Gomes of Brazil, head of the U.N. observer force, confirmed a number of Cuban soldiers had embarked at the harbor late Tuesday but would not say how many. He said he had been advised of their numbers and had confirmed that the information was accurate.

Ferreira Gomes also said Cuban authorities had advised him they would remove their first 3,000 troops by Sunday, 2½ months ahead of the deadline for completing the first stage of the phased withdrawal. Under the agreement, all 50,000 troops must leave by mid-1991.

The peace agreements, brokered by Assistant Undersecretary of State Chester Crocker and signed in New York Dec. 23, provide for a Cuban withdrawal from Angola in exchange for a South African pull-out from Namibia and independence for Africa's last colony.

Non-aligned nations tone down criticism of U.S.

United Press International

UNITED NATIONS — Non-aligned nations, under pressure by U.N. Security Council members, backed off from their demand that the United States be condemned for the downing of two Libyan jets.

The non-aligned countries instead urged the United Nations Tuesday to "deplore" the destruction of the Libyan MIG-23 jets, and they struck from a resolution they had submitted for a vote by the 15-nation Security Council an accusation that Washington violated the U.N. Charter.

They also removed entirely a provision that urged Washington to refrain from committing any new air attack on Libya or "threats thereof."

Council President Razali Ismail convened the fourth emergency session of the body Tuesday afternoon to hear 10 speakers and adjourned it until Wednesday at 3:30 p.m. EST.

Among the speakers were delegates from Malta, the United Arab Emirates, East Germany and Poland, all of whom criticized the U.S. action and called for a peaceful resolution.

Diplomats said a vote on the modified resolution probably would take place Wednesday when the council resumes its discussions on the incident.

The modified resolution also urged Washington to "suspend" its naval maneuvers off the Libyan coast. It previously called for an end to exercises by the U.S. 6th Fleet.

Libyan Ambassador Ali Treiki told the council that despite calls for a peaceful resolution, "the United States still insisted on carrying out the same policies" in the Mediterranean.

Treiki claimed the 6th Fleet has been ordered to stage air operations closer to the Libyan coast, affecting that country's air traffic.

U.S. Deputy Ambassador Herbert Okun said Treiki's statement was "not credible."

Diplomats could not predict voting positions of the United States and Britain, which had threatened to veto any resolution condemning the air clash.

But they said the toned-down document would prevent at least France from joining the veto vote.

The United States, Britain, France, the Soviet Union and China — the five permanent members of the Security Council — have veto power over resolutions that go against their interest.

It takes nine votes to pass a resolution but a negative vote, or a veto, by one of the permanent members can block its passage.

Finland and Brazil, non-permanent members of the Security Council, had objected to the condemnation and the accusation that Washington violated the U.N. Charter and had demanded a softening in the language, the diplomats said.

West Germany tightens export laws

United Press International

BONN, West Germany — West Germany, reacting to strong pressure from the United States, Tuesday tightened its export laws following U.S. allegations that German companies helped build a chemical weapons plant in Libya.

At its first Cabinet meeting of 1989, the government approved a series of proposals put forth by a working group set up in December to plug loopholes in the West German foreign trade legislation.

The measures include a doubling of the maximum fine for illegal exports of sensitive technology to $550,000. The maximum prison term was raised from three years to five years.

The government imposed tighter customs controls on exports of nuclear and chemical technology and ordered companies dealing in nuclear matters to report regularly on their activities.

Controls on exports of sensitive technology will be extended beyond the East Bloc states, but the government postponed a determination of which other countries would be included on the restricted list.

Economic Minister Helmut Haussmann told a news conference more staff and funds would be made available to scrutinize exports, saying current conditions made it difficult to keep track of an export volume worth $277 billion per year.

Haussmann said the government set up the working committee "following numerous reports about alleged participation by German companies in the production abroad of chemical weapons and illegal exports of nuclear material and nuclear technology components."

The minister said he would go to Washington next month to brief U.S. leaders about the efforts to tighten foreign trade legislation, which the United States has long contended is lax.

Tensions between Bonn and Washington mounted in recent days over U.S. claims that West German companies provided Libya with know-how and equipment to build a chemical weapons plant at Rabta, near Tripoli.

Politicians and media have been particularly stung by the claim that the West Germans helped produce toxic gas because it recalls memories of gas chambers used by Nazis during World War II.

West German authorities say they have no evidence of a West German involvement in building the plant, which Libya says will produce medicine, not toxic gas.

Chancellor Helmut Kohl complained last week to President Reagan about what he perceived U.S. press campaign against his country over unsubstantiated reports. Kohl, while vowing severe action against any West German company implicated in the controversy, urged Washington to provide evidence of its involvement.

But Haussmann said Secretary of State George Shultz, who met with Foreign Minister Hans-Dietrich Genscher at a chemical weapons conference in Paris last Saturday, provided him with more information on the link to the Rabta plant.

West German companies have long been suspected of exporting sensitive military, nuclear and chemical technology to countries that did not sign the Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty and similar international agreements.

The firms have been suspected of supplying equipment for Iraq to produce nerve gas deployed against Iran in the Persian Gulf War, heavy water for atomic production to Israel and Argentina, low-enriched uranium to South Africa and tritium to Pakistan. Several of the suspected companies have been investigated in the past — with little or no apparent result.

The West German move comes amid a world conference in Paris aimed at banning chemical warfare and production of chemical weapons, during which the United States said it had documents showing Libya was building a suspect facility.

Soviets may have snatched secret missile nose cone

United Press International
WASHINGTON — The Soviets may have pulled off a stunning espionage coup in 1987 by snatching the top-secret nose cone of an American nuclear missile, CBS News reported Tuesday.
 CBS said that a draft report from the Defense Intelligence Agency concluded it was "probable" that the Soviets managed to steal the nose cone containing important flight data from an intercontinental ballistic missile fired from Vandenberg Air Force Base in California on July 7, 1987.

 "The top secret nose cone of a long-range U.S. nuclear missile is missing," CBS reported. "U.S. officials suspect the Soviets violated the waters, sneaked in, and made off with the nose cone," the network said in an exclusive report.
 The missile, on a routine test flight across the Pacific, landed in a lagoon in the Kwajalein Islands, CBS said, and all information about the flight was recorded by on-board instruments.

 The flight data was not beamed back to Earth to prevent its interception by agents aboard a Soviet intelligence trawler about 50 miles away, CBS said.
 CBS also reported that on a nearby island, authorities found a Soviet sailor's cap, vodka bottle, can of insect repellent and an electrical junction box bearing Russian markings.

Quayle vacation reportedly paid for by RNC

United Press International
WASHINGTON — Vice President-elect Dan Quayle asked for money from the Republican National Committee to help pay for a Colorado ski vacation, and was given $25,000. The Washington Post reported Wednesday.
 Outgoing RNC Chairman Frank J. Fahrenkopf Jr. told the Post the party "got a request to assist Quayle" from Fred F. Fielding, former White House counsel, who is the transition liaison between the camps of Quayle and President-elect George Bush.
 A Quayle aide requested as much as $65,000 to help pay expenses connected with Quayle's family Christmas vacation in Vail, Colo., and was granted $25,000, party and other officials said.

 The Post said accounts differ as to how much Quayle originally requested for the trip. Quayle ended up taking a scaled-back, 10-day vacation in Vail. The $25,000 approved Dec. 15 for Quayle was described in RNC documents as transition support.
 Fielding and Quayle spokesman David Beckwith said an unidentified aide planning the Vail trip initially estimated the cost at $65,000, but that Quayle ruled out that amount as "totally out of line."
 Quayle instead opted to take steps to cut the cost of the trip, including flying commercial airlines, reducing the size of his entourage and paying personal expenses, the Post said.

Insurance campaign launched

United Press International
WASHINGTON — Consumer advocates in 14 states, emboldened by the success of California's Proposition 103 on insurance reform, announced a campaign Tuesday to lobby legislatures for sweeping industry change.
 Citizen Action, a national federation of consumer organizations and sponsor of the campaign, also called on Congress to repeal the insurance industry's exemption from antitrust laws.
 "The consumer revolt against skyrocketing insurance rates is spreading like wildfire from California to the rest of the nation," Citizen Action Vice President Robert Brandon told a news conference. "This revolt has been provoked by an insurance industry that has gone too far in its pursuit of profit."
 A primary target of the reform movement is property and casualty insurance, particularly automobile insurance, the focus of the Proposition 103 initiative approved by California voters in November.
 The initiative now is being challenged in the courts but if it is upheld, the measure would require a 20 percent reduction in property and casualty insurance rates, including premiums for car insurance. It also would establish an elected insurance commissioner whose approval would be needed for rate increases.

For car insurance, the initiative gives greater discounts to good drivers and requires that less weight be given to a driver's residence in determining the premium.
 The insurance industry fiercely opposes the initiative, arguing that rates are essentially justified and the measure would force many carriers out of California.
 The industry argues that it now is adequately regulated; exemptions from antitrust laws are necessary for its operation, and in the case of auto insurance, higher rates are justified by the rising cost of cars and repairs, medical care and jury liability awards.

Leaders of the new lobbying campaign by Citizen Action and its affiliates in 14 states said voter approval of Proposition 103 demonstrates widespread support for insurance reform, despite the massive industry campaign to defeat the initiative.
 The reform victory in California has sparked similar movements elsewhere, they said.
 "People feel now that there's something that can be done. They feel there is a new spirit of opportunity," said Frank Jackalone, executive director of the Florida Consumers Federation. "Legislators see there is this latent unrest by consumers."

Unlike California, the reform activists will take their case to the state legislatures, lobbying for adoption of some or all of the following measures:

- Automobile insurance rate rollbacks similar to those in Proposition 103
- Line-by-line disclosure of claims data used to justify rate increases
- Establishment of an elected insurance commissioner to better represent the interests of consumers
- A requirement that insurers receive regulatory approval for rate increases greater than a specified amount
- Elimination of state antitrust exemptions for the industry

The types and number of reforms sought in each state vary with the laws and regulations already in effect.
 The 14 states targeted for the campaign are Connecticut, Florida, Illinois, Indiana, Maine, Maryland, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Wisconsin.

Kings add to Lakers' road woes

It has gotten to the point where even the Sacramento Kings are happy to see the Los Angeles Lakers come to town.

Sacramento, which entered with the league's second-worst record, handed the defending NBA champions their eighth straight road loss Tuesday night with a 106-97 triumph.

Undeafated at home but just 8-12 away from the Forum, the Lakers had won 26 of the last 27 meetings with the Kings. Los Angeles, though, could not avert tying the team record for consecutive road losses set in 1974-75.

LaSalle Thompson scored 23 points and grabbed 11 rebounds and Kenny Smith contributed 19 points and a season high 14 assists for Sacramento, which improved to 8-21.

Elsewhere in the NBA, Washington edged Denver 120-117, Chicago defeated Atlanta 104-101, Utah clubbed Miami 92-88 and Portland ripped Seattle 125-109.

Bills spied on Smith

ORCHARD PARK, N.Y. — The Buffalo Bills hired undercover detectives to tail All-Pro defensive end Bruce Smith in November because of his alleged association with drug dealers, the Buffalo News reported Tuesday.

The newspaper said off-duty detectives from the town of Hamburg followed Smith and watched his home for three weeks. The newspaper said except for minor traffic violations, the detectives observed no illegal activity by Smith.

Smith was suspended for the first four weeks of the 1988 season for violating the NFL's drug rules. He returned to finish the season with 11 quarterback sacks, a half sack behind AFC leader Greg Townsend of the Raiders. Last week he was named co-defensive player of the year in the AFC by UPI along with teammate Cornelius Bennett.

Kings skate past Oilers

The Edmonton Oilers just can't seem to shake memories of the Wayne Gretzky trade.

Gretzky and two teammates shipped with him from Edmonton to Los Angeles last summer collaborated on the go-ahead and game-winning goals Tuesday night, leading the Kings to a 5-1 victory over the Oilers.

Mike McSorley gave the Kings a 4-3 lead with 0:51 left in regulation, only to have Edmonton's Glenn Anderson tie the score with 2:16 left. Mike Krushelnyski then rammed in a power-play goal off a pass from Gretzky 2:20 into overtime.

"The trade is old news, but I think it's still important to the players," Los Angeles Coach Robb Florek said. "They have a lot of pride. I'm sure they wanted to beat us because of the trade and because they're behind us in the standings."

Hornets sting Lady Rams

By MARK BLYTHE
Herald sports writer

LAKE MARY — Stephanie Gringer and Jill Geltz led an inspired Bishop Moore team to a 3-1 upset over Lake Mary's Lady Rams Tuesday night in girls soccer action before 101 fans at Lake Mary High School.

The Lady Hornets, ranked fifth in class 3A, improved to 15-4-1 with the victory. Lake Mary, ranked third in class 4A, dropped to 16-2 and will return to action Friday night against Seminole.

"I'm extremely pleased with the play of our defense and how all of the ladies played tonight," Bishop Moore coach Larry Bestinger said. "You're never sure, with the youth on this team, how we're going to play. Tonight we came in and played one of our better games. I was real pleased with the way we attacked in the first half and the way we contained in the second half."

The Lady Hornets scored all three of their goals in the opening half and bunkered in the second half as Lake Mary picked up the intensity.

Bishop Moore opened the game pressuring and Gringer came up with a one on one attempt with Lake Mary's keeper Tammy Scott. Scott came up with a brilliant save, though, to keep the game scoreless.

Moments later Geltz came up with a steal and made a run across the field before turning and firing a shot. The shot got around Scott and hit off the post before Crisae Snow cleared the ball.

Lake Mary then began to pressure with Donna Rohr and Amy Alexander making some strong runs toward the goal. Rohr had two good shots on goal, one that Bishop Moore keeper Suzy Strazzola came up with a nice save on and the other that went over the goal.

Bishop Moore finally broke the ice when Gringer scored with 15:15 remaining in the first half. Jo-el Fries threw the ball in and Lake Mary defender Annmeleke Stonerock attempted to drop the ball back to Scott. Gringer, though, stepped in front of the pass and rifled a shot past Scott to give Bishop Moore a 1-0 lead.

The Lady Hornets took control of the game

1:20 later when Jill Geltz came up with the team's second goal. Amy Geltz served a corner kick into the middle that Scott got her hands on. A Lake Mary player then bumped Scott and the ball fell to the ground and Jill Geltz tapped the ball into the goal to up the lead to 2-0 with 13:55 to play in the half.

The Lady Hornets took command of the game as they pressured the rest of the half and came up with a goal with 23 seconds remaining. Gringer broke free and sent a shot right by Scott to increase the lead to 3-0.

"This was the best game of Stephanie's (Gringer) career," Bestinger said. "Jill Geltz also had the best game of her career. They came in here and played their hearts out which is very good to see."

Lake Mary pressured the entire second half but could not find the net until Snow took a crossing pass from Rohr and drilled a shot by Strazzola with 11:20 to play.

'Noles thrash Oviedo

By CHRIS FISTER
Herald sports editor

SANFORD — Coach John McNamara says the Seminole High girls basketball team is about 50 percent of the way towards being as good as it can be. If that's true, there are quite a few opponents who will be nursing some serious wounds the remainder of the 1988-89 season.

Sheri Reddicks drilled in 23 points and grabbed 17 rebounds and Adrian Hillsman had a superb all-around game as the Lady Noles rolled to a 60-38 Seminole Athletic Conference victory over Oviedo's Lady Lions Tuesday night before 221 fans at Bill Fleming Memorial Gymnasium.

Seminole ran its record to 9-2 overall and 4-0 in the SAC and the Tribe returns to action tonight at New Smyrna Beach. Oviedo dropped to 6-8 overall and 2-2 in the conference. The Lady Lions play at Lake Brantley Thursday night.

"We're at the point now where we have more good spots than bad," McNamara said. "But we still have a lot of work to do before we get where we want to be."

The Lady 'Noles had some good and bad spots in the first quarter Tuesday night, but still managed to build a 13-3 lead over the sluggish Lady Lions.

Seminole, which had nine turnovers in the quarter, scored the first five points of the game as Kosela Kennon opened the scoring with a three-point play and Chineta Gilchrist then hit a baseline jumper off an assist from Emily Anderson. Oviedo would make it 5-3 before Seminole reeled off the next eight points for a 13-3 advantage.

The Lady 'Noles continued their scoring binge early in the second period, scoring five more points in a row for an 18-3 advantage. Candy Clary then came off the bench and gave Oviedo a bit of a spark as she scored two points and added an assist in a six-point Lady Lion run that trimmed the SHS lead to 18-9. Oviedo was within 10 points late in the half when Hillsman took a pass from Aretha Riggins and dropped in a layup with three seconds left for a 25-13 halftime lead.

Reddicks, Hillsman and Riggins all scored four points in the third period as the Lady 'Noles extended the lead to 15 points. 40-25, Oviedo got no closer than 14 points the rest of the way.

Boomer is NFL's MVP

United Press International

NEW YORK — Cincinnati quarterback Boomer Esiason paused from his Super Bowl preparation Tuesday and returned to his boyhood haunts to accept the National Football League's Most Valuable Player Award.

Esiason, who led the Bengals from last place in the AFC Central last season to the AFC Championship, honored his father during the ceremony at a midtown Manhattan restaurant. The senior Esiason attended the ceremony, along with Boomer's East Islip (N.Y.) High football and baseball coach.

"I never thought a day like this would ever happen to me," Esiason said. "I would like to thank my family for showing up, they have always been there for me. I would like to thank my friends from East Islip, you guys put yourself on the line for me."

Esiason earned 33 percent of the votes from the Pro Football Writers Association to beat out San Francisco running back Roger Craig (19 percent), Philadelphia quarterback Randall Cunningham (15 percent) and Chicago linebacker Mike

Raiders at St. John's

From staff reports

The Seminole Community College men's basketball team begins a two-game road trip tonight as they travel to Palatka to take on St. John's River Community College in a Mid-Florida Conference game. Game time is 7:30 p.m.

The Raiders are coming off a three game home stand in which they scored three wins to improve to 14-5 on the season. SCC is also 2-0 in Mid-Florida Conference play as they take a shot at their third consecutive trip to the State Tournament.

The Raiders have been bolstered by the return of sophomore forward Terry Acox. In three games since gaining eligibility Acox has averaged 16.3 points and 8.3 rebounds. Also in double figure scoring for Seminole is forward Terrell Barnes at 15.4, forward Vincent Emerson 13.5, guard Robert Thomas at 12.3, and forward Richard Brown at 11.4. Brown also had a big week for the Raiders last week as he made 14 of 16 shots from the floor and grabbed 14 rebounds. Brevard sinks Lady Raiders

By DEAN SMITH
Herald correspondent

SANFORD — The Lady Titans of Brevard Community College outscored the Lady Raiders of Seminole Community College 9-2 over the last 4:15 of the first half to break away from a 25-25 tie and take a 34-27 halftime lead and cruised to a 69-56 win before 53 fans Tuesday night at the Health and Physical Education Center on the campus of Seminole Community College.

The loss drops the Lady Raiders to 4-12 on the season as they now must prepare to open their Mid-Florida schedule Thursday at Central Florida Community College of Ocala. Game time is 7:00 p.m. The Lady Raiders also play on the road Saturday night as they travel to Avon Park to take on non-conference foe South Florida Community College in a 5:00 p.m. contest. The win by Brevard ups its record to 8-5 as they prepare for play in the Sun Coast Conference.

Seminole had numerous opportunities to make a contest of it as they had jump shots roll around the rim and come back out and layups and offensive rebounds that just would not drop. They were also their own worst enemy as they turned the ball over constantly and the Lady Titans were more than willing to take advantage of whatever advantage the Lady Raiders gave them.

Seminole was only able to convert on 19 of 72 shots a 26% clip and also grabbed only 26 rebounds. Sophomore guard Kathy Cleveland and Freshman center A.J. Jackson were the only Raiders in double figures as they scored 13 points each. Freshman forward Dana Carr scored nine points and Freshman center Carolyn Kuhl of Lake Howell added seven. Kuhl and Jackson led in rebounding with six and five, respectively. Cleveland, Carr, and Shari Siegreat tied for the team lead in assists with two each.

Brevard shot a respectable 44% from the floor (28-64) and grabbed 34 rebounds. They were led in scoring by forward Tracy Broomfield with 19 points, guard Rhonda Hinole had 17 points, including two 3-pointers, and forward Aquayda Bell added 13 points. Bell, Hinole, and center Belinda Fulton grabbed a game high seven rebounds each.

The Lady Titans jumped out to a 10-4 lead after five minutes of play when Hinole made a long 3-pointer. They pushed the advantage to eight, 20-12, when Broomfield scored on a pass from Jody Peters with nine minutes left in the half. The Lady Raiders then outscored the Lady Titans 11-3 over the next four minutes to tie the game at 23 with five minutes remaining before halftime. Jackson made one of two free throw attempts. Hinole made one free throw for BCC before Jackson scored on a pass from Cheryl Pierce. Cleveland then scored on a layup after a steal at mid-court. Bell scored a layup after grabbing an offensive rebound for BCC. Jackson scored on a layup off a pass from Carr, and another steal by Cleveland resulted in a layup by Siegreat. Seminole finally tied the game when Kelly Grider, a freshman from Lake Howell, hit a jumper off a pass from Cleveland. Hinole put BCC back ahead on an offensive rebound basket but Carr retied it on an offensive rebound layup with 4:15 to play. But that was as close as Seminole would get as BCC scored nine of the next 11 points to take a 34-27 lead into halftime.

After Hinole scored the first basket of the second half to make the score 34-27 SCC took one last run at BCC. Four points by Carr and two by Jackson cut the lead to four, 36-32, with 17:45 to play. But Brevard then scored the next 12 points, keyed by four points and three assists by Hinole, to pull out to a 48-32 lead with 13:00 left and the game for all intents and purposes was over. Brevard's biggest lead came at the 7:06 mark when Bell's two free throws made the score 61-39, a 22 point lead. A late surge by the Lady Raiders made the score a more respectable 13 points at the end.

Hoops: Oviedo at SHS

From staff reports

Seminole High, which has won seven of its last nine games, looks to keep its roll in the Seminole Athletic Conference going tonight when it hosts Oviedo's Lions.

The Lions, 6-7 overall, go in with a 3-0 record in the conference, tied for first place with Lake Mary. Seminole looks to keep its SAC unbeaten streak intact tonight as it returns to action Friday at Lake Mary.

Seminole has gotten consistent efforts during its successful period from point guard Bernard Eady and inside men Robert Moore and Von Eric Small. Kerry Wiggins and Brandon Cash have also performed well lately for SHS while Larry Allen and Earl Williams have played well off the bench.

Oviedo comes in with a record of 6-7 overall and is 0-2 in the SAC. The Lions are led by center Robbie Crager who needs to have a big game against Seminole's inside people. Point guard Danny Phillips has also performed well in recent games.

In other boys basketball action tonight, Lake Mary goes to Daytona Beach Mainland. DeLand is at Lake Howell and Lyman hosts Lake Brantley. The Lake Mary-Mainland contest is a battle between the two favorites in District 4A-9 and a rematch of last year's district final.

In girls hoops, Lyman entertains Lake Brantley and Seminole goes to New Smyrna Beach.

In girls soccer action, one key game is on the SAC slate as Lyman goes to Lake Brantley. Elsewhere, Seminole is at Oviedo and Lake Howell at DeLand. Lake Brantley, 15-2-1 and ranked second in the state, is coming off a pair of narrow victories and also looks to heal some key injuries. Lyman is playing its best soccer of the year and comes off an impressive 3-0 victory over Tampa Leto.

Lake Mary upends Bishop Moore

By MARK BLYTHE
Herald sports writer

Lake Mary's James Nobile knocked in the deciding goal with just under 15 minutes to play to lift the Lake Mary Rams to a 3-2 decision over Bishop Moore Tuesday night at Bishop Moore High School.

The Rams improved to 13-1-2 with the victory and will return to action Thursday at home against Seminole. Bishop Moore fell to 7-5-2.

"We started off well and finished well tonight," Lake Mary coach Larry McCorkle said. "Our middle 40 minutes weren't to good but we were able to come up with the victory."

John Mora opened the scoring with a goal just three minutes into the game when he broke open on the left side of the field. Mora then beat two defenders and carried the ball into the box where he sent a shot that bounced off the post and in to give the Rams a 1-0 lead with 37:01 to play in the opening half.

Mora came up with his second goal 28 minutes into the match when he sent a rebounded shot into the net. Mike Murray made a run down the center of the field and sent in a shot the bounced away from the Hornets keeper. Mora came up with the ball and put it in the upper 90 to increase the lead to 2-0.

Bishop Moore got on the board with a goal with just 23 seconds to play in the half when Tim O'Brien sent a chip shot over the Lake Mary keeper to cut the lead to 2-1.

Bishop Moore evened the score with 26 minutes to play when Tim Scarlatta took a pass from Jim O'Malley and put in a header.

Nobile then hit the final goal on a header off a pass from Murray to give the Rams the victory.

"It wasn't a great performance but we played well in spots," McCorkle said. "We had a lot of younger players in the lineup in the final 20 minutes and they did a real good job in controlling the ball."

OVIDEO 4, SEMINOLE 0

Oviedo came up with four goals in the final 17 minutes to claim a 4-0 Seminole Athletic Conference victory over Seminole Tuesday night at Oviedo High School.

Oviedo improved to 11-5 with the victory and, 5-2 in the conference, will host Lake Brantley Thursday. Seminole fell to 1-7 overall and 1-6 in the SAC and will take on Lake Mary Thursday at Lake Mary.

"Seminole played a real tough game and the score was not indicative of how close the game was played," Oviedo coach Dave Jekanoski said. "Our keeper Jeff Hoffman played an outstanding game. He made a couple of big saves at critical times. He's been playing great since right before the Pizza Hut tournament and hasn't let up."

Tim Waisanen opened the scoring with 16:51 remaining when he took a pass head pass from Rob Mills and sent the shot into the net. That goal opened the floodgates as the Lions were not to be denied.

Oviedo freshman Steve Hoffman then was tripped in the box and Jeff Derosse made good on a penalty kick to up the lead to 2-0 with eight minutes remaining.

Alex Balauddo scored the final two goals, the first on a serve from Griffin with 6:38 to play, and the second on an assist from Waisanen with just 1:32 remaining.

"It was one of those matches where we had trouble scoring," Jekanoski said. "We had the opportunities but they weren't going in. Once we got one, though, things started to come together."

LAKE HOWELL, DELANDO

Lake Howell and DeLand each had their chances to score but neither could get the ball into the net and finished with a 0-0 tie in Seminole Athletic Conference play at DeLand High School.

Lake Howell, 7-3-3, returns to action Thursday at home against Lyman. DeLand, 1-6-2, will take a week off before returning to action Friday against Lyman.

"We played very well. We had a real good team effort which was real nice to see," Lake Howell coach Bill Stevens said. "We had a very positive game, we played as a unit. Didier Menard got a shutout and Jason Logan played a very strong game. Chris and Greg Davis along with Jason Clark all did very well."

Hold the garlic, pass the apron

Mother taught him everything but reasoning for seasoning

By JANE HALE
Herald correspondent

SANFORD — It seems appropriate enough that our Cook of the Week learned his culinary skills from his mother, whose maiden name is Cook. However, he didn't pick up his mother's fondness for garlic in pancakes and orange juice.

Andrew Olfutt Irwin, who is the youth director at First United Methodist Church in Sanford, also is a concert performer who combines music, comedy, and unusual storytelling to present his unusual views of today's ever-changing world and how modern Christians fit into it.

Irwin was born in the Emory University Hospital in Atlanta, Ga. His family moved to Covington, Ga., shortly after his birth.

His mother, Sara Cook Irwin, who goes by the nickname of "Toots," is a very special person in Irwin's life.

"Mom still lives in the house that we moved to and I grew up in," Irwin said. "She worked many years in the Newton County School System as the nurse and was in charge of all the substitute teachers." She has since retired.

Irwin's father, M.H. Irwin, (or "Bud," as he likes to be called) lives in Gloucester, Va., and is a retired sales representative for the W.W. Granger Company.

Irwin has two sisters older than he is. "They spoiled me so I was really rotten while growing up," Irwin said. "I wouldn't take anything for them because they are priceless."

Irwin's great-great-grandfather fought for the South during the Civil War.

Irwin attended the elementary school and the junior high school in Covington before graduating from Newton County High School. After graduating from high school he drove to Dahlgonega, Ga., to serve as a camp counselor and section leader of the outdoor ministries of the North Georgia Conference of the United Methodist Church.

Irwin attended Georgia College in Milledgeville, Ga., where he studied music and theater. He graduated with a bachelor of science degree in sociology in 1983.

Irwin gives credit to his mother for teaching him to cook. "I remember Mom putting garlic in just about everything that she cooked. She would even put garlic in our pancakes," he laughed.

"One day we even caught her trying to put garlic in our orange juice and she said that the more garlic that we ate the less we would be sick," Irwin said.

The first dish Irwin remembers cooking was fried eggs. "I tried to fry them on my Mattel Thing Maker when I was about six. All I got was a mess."

Irwin says his mother is a fabulous cook and cooks great southern meals. "She used to always bake cakes and pies from scratch," he said. "I used to go into the kitchen and sit while my mom and sisters cooked and I would just watch what they were doing. This is where I really learned to cook, just by watching and then trying the dishes out myself," Irwin said.

Irwin remembered his childhood as a fantastic experience. "I remember playing baseball in the cemetery at night," he said. "We also use to make Tarzan swings out of a thing called kudzu vine and then we'd eat them."

Irwin met his wife, Janet, while at the Kansas City Renaissance Festival where he was performing. Janet works as a creative designer for Tupperware and does layouts for their corporate magazine, Our World.

"I think Janet is the greatest thing that ever happened to me," Irwin said. "I love her very much and I don't know what I would do without her."

The Irwins moved to Florida in 1984.

Currently he works as a concert performer for Industrial Entertainment.

Irwin travels, camps, hikes, eats oranges, collects popcorn boxes, finds out what God wants him to do next, and works for peace and justice.

"My philosophy in life is 'The root word of ignorance is ignore,' Irwin said. "Also, my job is to find things that are absurd and to point them out."

Following are some recipes Irwin enjoys preparing:

Andrew Irwin whisks up some marinade sauce.

ANDY'S GRILLED CHICKEN

- | | |
|--------------------------------|---------------------------|
| 4 skinned chicken breasts | 1 tablespoon garlic |
| | ½ tablespoon oregano |
| Mix for marinade sauce: | ½ teaspoon salt |
| 1 cup olive oil | ¼ teaspoon cayenne pepper |

Marinate the chicken breast for about one hour, then place them on the grill of your smoker or on your barbecue grill. After cooking them for about 10 minutes, place some orange wood that has been soaked on top of the hot coals and let the smoke seep into the chicken.

GRAPES A LA ANDY

- | | |
|------------------------------------|------------------------------|
| 1 cup seedless green or red grapes | 4 to 8 teaspoons brown sugar |
| 8 tablespoons sour cream | |

In a small bowl combine grapes and sour cream. Spoon into serving dishes. Chill slightly. Just before serving sprinkle with brown sugar.

- | | |
|--|--------------------------|
| 10-ounce package cut broccoli frozen in cheese sauce | |
| 1 teaspoon chopped onion | ½ cup seasoned croutons |
| 2 tablespoons milk | 1 teaspoon butter melted |

Heat oven to 350°F. Grease a 2-cup casserole dish. Cook broccoli as directed on package. Place broccoli in prepared casserole dish; add onion, milk and ¼ cup croutons and mix well. Crush remaining croutons and sprinkle on top. Drizzle with melted butter and bake for 20 to 25 minutes at 350°F or until thoroughly heated and bubbly.

Microwaving keeps extra fats from dieters

It's time to put aside those high-calorie recipes we've been enjoying during the holidays. Rather, let's concentrate on a lower-calorie, more nutritious diet using fresh fruits and vegetables, less red meat, and food high in fiber, for our health's sake.

Being moderate in our choices and amounts is by far the safest and easiest way to diet. Pounds will come off slower, but will not come back as is often true of those lost by harsh dieting.

A good diet includes foods from the basic four food groups: Meat, fish, poultry, and legumes, fresh fruits and vegetables, whole grain cereals, and dairy products.

A microwave can be a great help when you are reducing calories. Most recipes can be prepared without additional fats. Nutritional value is maintained because of the short cooking times and the loss due to evaporation.

My favorite microwave beverage that is low in calories and high in flavor is the following tomato juice-based drink. It can be used as a soup or a beverage. Hot drinks seem to be more filling and can be a good

"pick-me-up."

DIETER'S DELIGHT

1 cup water
1 teaspoon instant beef bouillon
Dash of cayenne pepper
1/2 teaspoon summer savory
2 cups tomato juice
Dash of garlic powder
Combine all ingredients in a 2-quart batter bowl. Cover. Microwave on 100 percent power 5-10 minutes or until boiling. Makes 6 3/4 cups, with only 16 calories per serving.

A vegetable soup can be a wonderful dieting aid, especially during the cooler winter days.

MICROWAVE MINISTRONE

1/2 cup celery, thinly sliced
3/4 cup potato, cut in small cubes
1 can tomatoes (16 ounces)

1/2 cup pasta shells or elbows
1/2 cup carrots, thinly sliced
1 cup zucchini, thinly sliced
1/2 pound green beans, cut
1 teaspoon basil leaves
3 cups hot water
2 teaspoons instant beef bouillon, granular
1 tablespoon parsley flakes
In large microwave-safe casserole dish, combine all ingredients. Cover. Microwave on 100 percent power 25-35 minutes, or until vegetables are tender. Stir once or twice. Serves 6, with 25 calories per serving.

Because we have become more conscious about too much red meat in our diets, much more white meat of chicken or turkey has become a mainstay in our diets. The following chicken recipes can be added to your favorite ones. Variety is important when dieting so the dieter does not become bored.

LEMON TARRAGON CHICKEN

1 broiler/fryer, cut in parts
1 cup chicken broth
1 teaspoon salt
2 lemons, thinly sliced and seeded
1 tablespoon tarragon
1/4 teaspoon white pepper
In larger shallow microwave-safe baking dish place half of the lemon slices. Place chicken in a single layer on top of lemons. Pour broth over chicken. Sprinkle with tarragon, salt and pepper. Place remaining lemon slices on top of chicken. Microwave uncovered on 100 percent power for 15-20 minutes or until fork can be inserted with ease.

CHICKEN A LA ORANGE

1/4 cup lemon juice
1/2 cup water
1 teaspoon grated orange peel
2 whole bone-in chicken breasts, halved and skin removed
1 tablespoon soy sauce
1/2 teaspoon garlic powder
4 slices of orange

Fresh chopped celery

In a 2-cup measure, combine lemon juice, soy sauce, water, pepper, garlic powder, and orange peel to make marinade. Microwave at 100 percent power for 1-2 minutes, or until hot. Place chicken and marinade in a plastic bag. Refrigerate for 1-2 hours.

Arrange chicken in a 12-by-8-inch baking dish with meatiest portions to outside. Top with orange slices. Pour marinade over chicken. Cover with wax paper. Microwave at 100 percent power for 13-18 minutes or until meat is tender and no longer pink. Rearrange and baste twice during cooking. Garnish with the chopped parsley. Serve with fluffy rice and a green vegetable.

Arthritis film, speaker slated

SANFORD — "You Only Fail When You Don't Try" will be the inspiring film of an arthritis shown at the Jan. 23 meeting of the Arthritis Foundation, Florida Chapter, Central Branch.

The group meets the monthly from 2-4 p.m. in the classroom at Central Florida Regional Hospital, Sanford.

The videotape depicts how Bill Warren, a 65-year-old retired news photographer, met the grueling physical and emotional challenge of biking solo for 2,000 miles from Casa Grande, Ariz., to Asheville, N.C. Warren accomplished the feat despite having a left knee joint surgically replaced with a prosthetic knee three years earlier.

Through the implant and his own efforts at physical therapy, Warren states in the film that a quality of life was restored to him that he thought was gone forever.

Also, Dr. John Scharffer, orthopaedist, will explore the surgical procedures of total hip and knee replacements in his talk "Worn Arthritis Joints Replaced Surgically."

Kid is far from chivalry incarnate

ADVICE

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I've read, seen and heard many instances of the rudeness of the younger generation, but I'd like to relate an incident that restored my faith in young adults.

My teenage daughter was very proud of her leather bomber jacket she had bought with the money she had saved from babysitting. While standing in the lunch line, she was approached by a high school senior who had spotted the jacket. He had bought one just like it for his girlfriend—and her jacket was missing.

He proceeded to question my daughter about the jacket she had made a mistake, he sends flowers to her classroom. This kid is a natural showman. He should go far in the P.R. business.

doing so little to make him happy and satisfied.

Abby: I would have advised that lady to tell her husband to shape up or ship out. That is what I should have done 40 years ago.

TOO LATE NOW

DEAR TOO LATE: If your husband is still alive, it may not be too late. Get "Love and Sex After 60" (Harper and Row) by Dr. Robert N. Butler, former head of the National Institute on Aging (and Pulitzer Prize recipient for his book, "Why Survive Growing Old in America"). But all the books in the world will not help you unless you look your man straight in the eye and tell him the truth: "I love you, but I can't make love with a clothespin on my nose."

(Problems? Write to Dear Abby. For a personal, unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dear Abby, P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. All correspondence is confidential.)

was wearing and eventually accused her of stealing his girlfriend's jacket. Only when my daughter was in tears in front of the packed lunchroom did the girlfriend appear wearing her "missing" jacket.

The senior of course apologized to my daughter and went even further by having a vase of yellow flowers delivered to her while she was in her afternoon class. Chivalry is not dead!

IMPRESSED

DEAR IMPRESSED: You call this "chivalry"? I call it a grandstand play. First he humiliates a girl publicly—calling her a thief. Then on discovering he

DEAR ABBY: A lady asked, "What do you do with a 28-year-old man who rarely showers, never washes his hair and doesn't own a toothbrush?"

He replied, "Nothing." Well, I was married to a man just like that for 40 years. He was a good provider and a gentle person in all his actions. Even though I hinted often and spoke negatively about other men who never cleaned themselves up, he never got the hint, so I also tried to do "nothing."

I slept on the far side of the bed, feigned sleep and weariness and avoided closeness whenever possible.

I know I hurt his masculine ego many, many times. Poor soul. How I wish I could have said something definite about it instead of living those 40 years in that unhappy situation, and

Juice won't help paralysis

DEAR DR. GOTT: My son, 55, is paralyzed from the chest down from a fall. Would cherry juice help him walk again?

DEAR READER: No, it wouldn't.

When paralysis results from a fall, the cause of disability is nerve damage, usually to the sensitive spinal cord. This structure is the conduit for the nerves that carry signals between the brain and various parts of the body. The spinal cord passes through the hollow centers of the spinal bones (vertebrae), which protect the delicate nervous tissue, in addition to giving the support that allows us to stand erect.

The trauma of a fall or other serious injury often fractures one or more vertebrae. Such a violent event ordinarily causes some nerve malfunction; however, in some cases, the spinal cord is partially severed or ir-reparably damaged. This produces paralysis of muscles below the damaged area.

However, in most instances, some degree of disability remains. Your son appears to have suffered the most extreme form of disability; it is probably permanent.

However, there are resources that could help your son adjust to his handicap. Physiatrists (M.D.s trained in rehabilitation medicine), physical therapists and psychological counselors could be of assistance. With training, braces and special equipment, your son can live a fulfilling life despite his injury.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Can emptying washing machine water onto a vegetable garden be injurious to your health if you eat the produce?

DEAR READER: Washing machine water contains many compounds, such as fabric-softener, phosphates and so forth. Some of these substances may retard growth of plants. However, if you can get your garden to grow despite a diet of dirty water, the produce will be safe to eat. Wash it thoroughly first and put it in the spin cycle.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Befe Osol
YOUR BIRTHDAY
January 12, 1989

Your sphere of influence looks like it is going to increase considerably in the year ahead. In fact, you may be numbered among the big fish in a rather large pond.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You are now in a cycle where your leadership qualities are likely to grow stronger and stronger. Today you may take charge of a situation you would have backed off from previously. Trying to patch up a broken romance? The Astro-Graph Matchmaker can help you to understand what to do to make the relationship work. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You are endowed with a curious mind and adventurous inclinations. Today you might devote some time to exploring an unusual happening that has captured your attention.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Conditions in general are beginning to grow more hopeful at this time, so don't give up on your dream. When you least expect, something good may happen for you out of the blue.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Conditions could be a bit unsettled today where your career is concerned. You may achieve a goal you didn't anticipate and a setback where you thought you had a shoe-in.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your way of doing things today is apt to be a bit more ingenious than the methods suggested by your contemporaries. However, it might take a bit of selling on your behalf to get everyone to go along with you.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If you are prepared to ferret it out, you could be quite lucky at this time in finding a sideline venture that may add to your earnings. Begin by checking to see what friends have going for them now.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Nice people know nice people, so take advantage of any opportunities presented to you by friends at this time to make new contacts. The results should be very gratifying.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Your possibilities for fulfilling ambitious objectives are likely to be better today than they will be tomorrow. Stay on top of these goals, even if you have to put in a little overtime.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Try not to structure your agenda too rigidly today, because the nicest things that might happen to you could be through chance encounters or merely being in the right place at the right time.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Things should have a way of working out to your ultimate benefit today, provided you do not disrupt the natural flow of events. This could be especially true in matters that are meaningful to you financially.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Lots of projects and assignments aren't likely to lessen your productivity today, they could instead enhance it. Being under pressure a bit will stimulate your industriousness.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Be on your toes today because an unexpected shift in circumstances could provide you with one or more profitable opportunities. Lady Luck will be pulling for you in this area.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby
"Be aware of minus points" is the Bols bridge tip of writer Bep Vriend. He is of course referring to high-card points, with the time-honored formula of 4-3-2-1 for A-K-Q-J. The best way of understanding his meaning is to look at today's deal, in which North was oblivious to the advice.

was precise. The king of hearts was followed by a diamond. East took the ace and gave West a ruff. Next came the ace and king of clubs, followed by still another diamond ruff. That was down three, a result particularly bad since East-West could not make four hearts.

The trouble is all avoided if North passes, recognizing that his values are "minus" points, useful in defending against hearts but virtually worthless in support of spades. Give him Q-J in spades and no honors in hearts, for example, and four spades is down only one or two at the most, and four hearts by the opponents makes easily. But then his values would be "plus" points.
