In a motion picture, "Fine Manners," which many Sanford eople will recall, is found the ever-recurrent theme of the inevitably unsuccessful attempt of certain persons to fashion others into pliant and negative reflections of their own personalities. Orchid Murphy, a Bowery born chorus girl, is subjected to this remolding process by her fastidious Manager fiance who tries with the aid of his social-register aunt, a American Reliter drab but formidable dowager, to create a conventionally come back? Make This Christmas A GLAD ONE

Not quite two months remain before the Christmas holidays will be here. There are many things you may wish to do this season. There are many articles you may want to give. You will look to the merchants of your town to have on hand large stocks of quality Christmas merchandise. They'll have it, too.

Just a suggestion that we wish to make: You can assist your merchant this season by prompt payment of your bills, some of which may be overdue now. You can help him to help you. He is not going to fail you at Christmas time, you will not fail him now. Close up all those slow accounts.

The above is offered merely as one neighbor to another---and that's what we are.

Thank you
