

PEACE TREATY IS SIGNED BETWEEN U.S. AND GERMANY AUSTRIA ALSO COMES IN

CEREMONY WAS NOT ESPECIALLY FORMAL

TECHNICAL WAR BROUGHT TO END

To Close Today Altho' the Real War Stopped in 1918—Germans to Sign at 5 P. M.

(By The Associated Press) VIENNA, Aug. 25.—The treaty of peace between the United States and Austria was signed here yesterday afternoon.

The terms of the treaty are being withheld for the present by the foreign affairs committee of the parliament.

The ceremony of signature was devoid of formality. Mr. Frazier, accompanied by Secretary Shoecraft, arrived at the foreign office at 12:57 o'clock in the afternoon. They went immediately to the chancellor's bureau, where they were received by Chancellor Schober, and a few other officials. The document was in readiness and was signed at once.

A brief and informal exchange of congratulations followed, Mr. Frazier saying the occasion marked a vital step in the restoration of peace, and expressing the hope that it would have a great moral as well as material effect upon Austria. Chancellor Schober, with ill-concealed emotion voiced deep gratification upon the restoration of relations with the United States.

BERLIN, Aug. 25.—The peace treaty, bringing to an end the technical state of war between the United States and Germany will be signed at 5 o'clock this evening, it was officially announced.

Disaster Brings Regrets From Official Circles and the Many Friends

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—Expressions of deep regret were voiced by government officials without exception over the explosion of the giant dirigible ZR-2 with the heavy loss of American and British lives. Pride in the acquisition of the new queen of the air and hopes of tremendous development in military and commercial aeronautics had lent interest to the proposed trans-Atlantic flight of the British-built air cruiser even beyond that which it normally would have aroused.

Latest advices to the navy department indicated that of the seventeen members of the hand-picked American crew on board during the test, only one, Quartermaster Norman O. Walker, of Commerce, Texas, had survived. London dispatches, however, put the American loss at seventeen, declaring "every American on board" was lost.

"It is a terrible thing," was the sad comment of Secretary Denby as he received cable dispatches giving details of the catastrophe.

Mr. Denby immediately forwarded to the British air ministry a message expressing the sympathy of the navy department.

"The navy department of the United States extends to the air ministry and the British navy deepest sympathy in the appalling disaster to the ZR-2." The message said: "We hope our ready reports will prove exaggerated as to loss of life."

Far from being discouraged by the disaster, naval aviation officials immediately prepared to seek authority for construction of a new ship of the ZR-2 type in the United States.

"We will carry on; build and operate as many ZR-2's as may be authorized by congress," Admiral William A. Moffet, chief of the naval bureau of aeronautics, said last night, "so that these brave men may not have lost their lives in vain."

Other aviation officers, while greatly distressed, declared they had not lost faith in rigid airships. They pointed out that Germany had built and successfully operated 140 ships of similar design, many with only slight loss carrying capacity, while English constructors had turned out sixteen.

The only serious accidents recorded against these, so far as naval files indicate, was the wreck of an early German Zeppelin over Lake Constance before the war, and the smashing of the British R-34 when she ran afoul of her hangar.

OF THE GIANT DIRIGIBLE ZR-2 THAT COLLAPSED OVER HULL, ENGLAND, YESTERDAY

GIVE UP HOPE OF ANY MORE SURVIVORS BEING FOUND IN WRECK

Navigating Officer Lieut. A. H. Wann Says Most of the Crew Were Killed in the Explosion Which Followed Buckling and Snapping of Girders

(By The Associated Press) HULL, England, Aug. 25.—(By the Associated Press)—Divers began today at dawn to explore the fire twisted wreck of the ZR-2. Only one American, Norma Walker, and four British, survived the disaster. All hope that there might be other survivors was given up during the night. The wreckage fell in the river only two hundred feet from the shore and six carriages in which most of the airship personnel were riding, sank immediately to the bottom of the Humber river. The men would have little chance of escape after the dirigible struck the water. The body of Lieut. Charles Little, American officer, is at the hospital where he died of burns. The body of Lieut. Marcus Easterly was at the morgue. Harbor officials today expressed the doubt that many of the bodies would be recovered unless they were held fast in the wreckage or were imprisoned in the gondolas as it is feared the tide and the swift current would carry them away.

Most of the British and American members of the crew of the dirigible were killed by the explosion which followed the buckling and snapping of girders amidship, declared Flight Lieut. A. H. Wann, in command of the craft as navigating officer at the time of the disaster in a statement to the Associated Press today. Wann said the ship had run beautifully at sixty knots an hour and he had reduced the speed to fifty when there came a violent cracking sound. He thought several girders had broken.

Lieut. Hoyt, of Clearwater, Fla., Unaccounted For

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—Navy was advised from London today that apparently the only American survivor from the ZR-2 is Norma Walker. Of the three Floridians who were to have been in the crew on the proposed flight across the Atlantic, Lieut. Henry Hoyt, of Clearwater, was the only one aboard the dirigible at the time of the accident. He is listed as unaccounted for.

LONDON, Aug. 25.—American and British victims of the disaster to the ZR-2 will be accorded a great public funeral, probably in London. The air ministry had the project under advisement and an announcement regarding it is expected anytime. Meanwhile all England is giving expression to its deep feeling of mourning for the victims and sympathy for those bereaved. The foremost among the expressions of condolence was one from King George to Air Marshal Trenchard at the air ministry. As the dirigible was still British property, not having yet been turned over to American authorities, all investigations of the calamity will be supervised by the British air ministry.

HULL, Aug. 25.—Sixteen officers and men of the United States navy and twenty-seven officers and men of the British navy met death yesterday in the collapse of the great dirigible ZR-2 over the city of Hull. All but one of the Americans on board the ill-fated craft perished, as far as could be ascertained by midnight last night. Only five men of the forty-nine who were making the trial trip in the dirigible prior to the vessel being turned over to the United States navy are known to have been saved.

The American officers who started the trip included Commander Louis H. Maxfield, Lieut. Commander Emory Coll, Lieut. Henry W. Hoyt, Lieut. Marcus H. Easterly, Lieut.-Commander Valentine N. Heg and Lieut. Chas. G. Little.

The British losses include the famous air veteran, Brigadier-General E. M. Maitland, and all the other officers on board, except Lieut. A. H. Swann, the commander of the ZR-2. Starting from Howden Tuesday morning on a test flight to Pulham the big aircraft had been afloat for thirty-four hours, at times in bad weather, and was returning to the Pulham airfield at the time of the disaster, which constitutes the most terrible of its kind in peace times.

While the ship was flying at about 1,000 feet over Hull spectators saw the ZR-2 seemingly buckle amidships, and plunge downward over the city and into the Humber river. One theory of the cause of the disaster is that while the ship's rudders were being tested the giant craft took a sharp turn, which caused her frame-work to buckle and that the explosion of a gasoline tank completed the tragedy of the air. The actual cause, however, may never be known. A rumor had been afloat for some days that the ZR-2 was structurally weak, but this was stoutly denied by all in authority.

FIRE AT CHAIR PLANT. HIGH POINT, N. C., Aug. 25.—The finishing plant of the Thomasville Chair Co., at Thomasville, was destroyed by fire according to a message received here. Several hundred chairs stored in the building, a wooden structure, were destroyed. The loss is estimated at $25,000.

Ku Klux Klan Speaks

Regarding the Anonymous Letter Writer and Runs True to Form

The following letter was received by the Herald this morning and we are glad to reproduce it as it follows out our former explanation in the fullest:

August 23rd, 1921.

Mr. R. J. Holly, Editor Sanford Herald. Dear Sir: I just read in today's Herald an article concerning an anonymous letter sent your paper and purporting to be sent by Ku Klux Klan.

Seminole County being within the territory covered by my Klan, I feel it incumbent upon me to explain briefly regarding the Klan. I will appreciate you giving this letter publicity through your paper in fairness to us.

The Ku Klux Klan has not, and will not, send anybody any written notice with authority of the Klan, and should anyone, either a member or an outsider send a notice under this cloak, I will assure you that such party found guilty of this contemptible work, will receive prompt and deserving action by us. I will further state that all necessary notices given from my Klan are given PERSONALLY. I find this method highly effective and seldom if ever leaves any doubt in the mind of any man receiving our attention, as to whether or not the K. K. K. or some outsider with a personal grudge has called.

We are organized on the highest principals of American Ideals, a man MUST be 100% American to be a Klansman. We are here to assist the officers of the law in its enforcement, we do not discriminate against a man because of his color or creed. Every man, be he white or black, as long as he is a law-abiding citizen, will be respected by us.

The high moral requirements of this order assure us that we get the pick of the men in any community. I have had the high honor to be selected as leader of Dixie Klan No. 31, and I am extremely proud to say I have under me a body of men, that are REAL men and we are organized to assist the officers of the law to take care of any trouble that may arise.

I wish to congratulate you, Mr. Holly, upon your article above referred to in today's Herald, and will regret very much if I am unable to locate the author of the letter sent you.

As Klansmen we serve without any remuneration, and at considerable risk at times, solely for the purpose of protecting the homes, morals and laws of this county, and before the good people of Seminole County condemn us, I ask them to withhold any hasty decision until it is shown that some of the work credited to us, is the work of our enemies, of whom we have accumulated quite a few through our endeavors for your protection.

WE WERE HERE YESTERDAY; WE ARE HERE TODAY, AND WE WILL BE HERE TOMORROW.

Yours very truly, EXALTED CYCLOPS, Dixie Klan No. 31.

That "starvation in the south" story sounds strange to the people of Florida.

That new Suwannee Special train ought to be a winner, although we understand it does not go anywhere near the Suwannee river.

Up in Baker county the moonshiners become so peeved at arrests that they shoot up the town. We have noticed that they get very bold even when left alone.

President Harding need not fear the criticism of members of his own party. Even Democrats criticize their president—when they get the chance. It only comes now and then.

The Sanford Trade Extension is getting fine results in many ways, and every business man of Sanford should take an active interest in this movement that means so much to Sanford.

Everybody out for the big time tomorrow night when a prominent Sanford couple will get married on the steps of the court house and there will be a big street dance and general good time.

Now is the time to clean up and brush up and put your homes and yards in good condition for the visitors are already coming to Florida and next month will see many of them coming here.

Lakeland has placed a ban on jay walking. Good thing. The driver of a car cannot tell just what a jay walker is about to do when he starts crossing a street—and hardly anyone knows what some of the drivers will do at the same time so there you are.

The editor of the Herald is working on a patent device that will take people across the street in an airship, thus saving them the trouble of getting out from under the wheels of the cars and the drivers the trouble of picking out the pieces of anatomy from the works of the car next morning.

The slacker list continues to come to the Herald office and is really a waste of good paper as we do not intend to publish any of it. The lists, in the first place, are incorrect, and in the second place, the war is over and those who went seem to have received but little praise for going, and are now almost forgotten, and those who did not go—well, what is the use of saying anything about it.

More lives were lost in the interest of science when those brave men gave up their lives yesterday on the ZR-2. And again we would like to remind the government that warships, airships, and all other war material are costing a lot of money and lives, and all for naught as measured in terms of peace. If the U. S. would cut down two battleships a year we could have good roads across the continent built with this money that is now absolutely wasted.

The real Ku Klux Klan writes a letter to the Herald today and it is published on the front page of this issue as we wish to give it as much prominence as we gave the so-called Ku Klux letter on Tuesday. The letter today follows out the idea expressed by the Herald in regard to the aims and ideals of the Ku Klux Klan. The editor of the Herald is not a member of the Klan, but knows that the real Klan writes no anonymous letters, makes no idle threats, interferes with no man's legitimate business, makes no war on respectable citizens of any color, and upholds the law against those who would tear it down. At least that was our idea of the Klan and the letter tends to strengthen the belief. And we also wish to state that the incident is closed as far as the Herald is concerned and no more anonymous letters will be published unless the party interferes with our business.

OPERATING A DAILY PAPER.

Several of our friends complimented us yesterday on getting out an extra telling all about the big dirigible ZR-2 going down and the many Americans on board the newest air ship and those who were intending to bring this gigantic dirigible to this country. We intend to give our readers the news at all times. We get out extras to give the transient public a shot at the very latest news right off the press, to give the newsboys a chance to make some extra pocket change and last but not best of all to let them yell on the street and let the world know that Sanford has a real daily paper. We don't know how other people feel about this trifling matter but when you can hear a newsboy yell about his home daily and especially when he is selling extras telling about something that has just happened it makes you think you are living in a real city. And the Daily Herald can always be depended upon to give you all the news right from the wires. We have the exclusive right to the wires of the Associated Press, the greatest news gathering agency in the world and this has been demonstrated time and again. For instance the Herald had the cable of the accident to the dirigible yesterday only a few hours after the accident happened and not even the larger dailies that get here at night had the complete story as given by the Sanford Herald. The morning papers, of course, had nothing about it as it happened yesterday morning after the morning dailies were published. This story was given to the Herald readers at least six hours before they could possibly get it from any other source and we are just that far ahead of any other publication that comes to your city. That is one of the benefits of having a daily paper of your own. And then in connection with the world news we give you all the state news fresh from the wires and all the city and county news right now and this latter part of the paper you cannot and never will get from any paper except your own little Sanford Daily. We are not saying this boastfully but in the spirit in which we started the daily—the idea of doing something for Sanford—that has been our sole idea since we started the Herald many years ago. No other motive has ever actuated our thoughts, guided our pen, controlled our movements.

We are only calling your attention to these facts lest you forget. Sanford has a real daily paper and as the city grows it will grow with it and always be just a few minutes ahead of—well, we might say of the sheriff—but we really mean ahead of the times.

HEALTH IN FLORIDA.

Florida's death rate, according to the latest figures, is 11.6 per thousand and for its white population, this being considerably below the average for the United States, and almost as low as the lowest.

These figures are gratifying, as they stand, but they are even more so as a suggestion of what might be. For there are several things to consider in connection with the vital statistics of this state. Florida is naturally the healthiest state in the union. This conclusion is supported by general principles, that is to say, the general conditions which makes for health, and by an analysis of the mortality figures in the light of special conditions existing. We have a low death rate in spite of our carelessness in a dozen different ways. A large percentage of the sickness occurring each year could be prevented.

Take malaria, which is responsible perhaps for more of our annual mortality than the figures show. We know exactly how to prevent this disease. The mosquito is the sole carrier of malaria germs, and where the mosquito is destroyed or fenced out there can be no malaria. In the meantime, the comfort and pleasure of life is greatly enhanced by freedom from this pest. Again, those two complaints of which we hear so much, pellagra and hookworm, are doubtless responsible for a few deaths each year, and both of them are easily preventable. In common with other states, we subscribe many victims each year to typhoid fever. They are vicarious and gratuitous sacrifices. Typhoid fever is preventable and it is a reflection upon the community whenever a case originates therein. There are other diseases, "enteric" the doctors would pronounce them, due to improper diet and disregard of climatic limitations. Every one of these cases could be prevented. The list might be enlarged ad libitum. But the point is, when you deduct from the number of deaths each year those which could have been prevented by common sense and the observance of known rules, the residue would leave Florida with the lowest death rate, by far, of any state in the union. The truth is that we are so favorably situated with regard to health and the control of diseases of every kind that, with proper attention to hygiene, and destruction of insect pests, which, by the way, are hardly as troublesome in the south as in some portions of the north, we could present the world with an example of healthfulness that would be the eighth wonder.—Lakeland Telegram.

DR. WALKER PREACHES AT FORMER CHURCH IN WEST VIRGINIA.

The following from the Huntington, West Virginia Herald, will be interesting to the many friends of Dr. Walker, in this city:

Dr. S. W. Walker, former pastor of Johnson Memorial church, again stood upon his once familiar pulpit Sunday morning and preached to his former congregation a sermon upon the power of the Holy Ghost. His discourses, delivered with virile directness and simplicity, apparently deeply stirred an audience that filled the large auditorium of the church edifice and overflowed into the gallery above.

No cure, or hope for remedy, for the ills that threaten the world, is seen by Dr. Walker in conference, social service daddling, get-together luncheons, and the like. He would have the church cleave a straight course through all piled-up obstacles by simple recourse to the Holy Spirit that, he pointed out, has been promised when it is right sought.

It was what is generally termed an "old-fashioned sermon" the congregation at Johnson Memorial heard. Dr. Walker took his text from the Bible, as is customary, but not stopping there, took his citations and references as proof of his statements also from the Bible, and his illustrations mostly from the scriptures. "And ye shall have power after that the Holy Ghost is come upon you," he chose as his text, using a part of the eighth verse, first chapter of Acts.

The real and enormous potency of possession of the Holy Ghost is amply evidenced by the strides made by the little Christian church during the hundred years after the death and resurrection of Jesus Christ, asserted Dr. Walker. He painted the difficulties with which the little organization found itself surrounded, and strove to give an idea of the almost incomprehensible advances that were made, advances that could be laid to no other source.

"If the power that was on the early church could be brought to descend upon our church now, it would be so tremendous a thing that every obstacle would give way before it," he declared.

The greatest challenge of the ages, said Dr. Walker, has been flung in the face of the church today. And it is a fact, he asserted, that the church so far has not met it capably, despite conferences of its leaders and much planning and effort.

Ministers themselves came in for a scathing rebuke from the speaker. "Our great preachers are discouraging upon Bolshevism and social reform and kindred subjects," said Dr. Walker. "A sermon based solely upon the Bible is a rare thing.

"What that is spiritual can you expect from a church like that? "Jesus said, 'When I come ye shall have power.' He did not promise power in lectures and pamphlets and luncheons."

The church is missing its opportunity, he said, for the present trend of the world's thought is toward the unseen, not the seen. Evidence of this is plentiful—citing the awakened interest in invisible forces and referring to Sir Oliver Lodge's recent assertions.

"Skin-deep, preacher-made religion will never stack up successfully against the present drifting," asserted Dr. Walker. The kind that emanates directly from the Holy Ghost he sees as the only hope.

"You say revivals are not successful any more," he flung. "Well, they are not. And no wonder; the spirit is not with us.

"Go home, get down on your knees and ask God to give you the Holy Spirit. Only when you ask it, will it come, and when it does no act or void will be filled. "The power of the Holy Ghost will transform anyone, it will transform any home, it will transform any church."

Dr. John S. Jenkins pastor of Johnson Memorial sat with Dr. Walker in the pulpit and presented the former leader of the congregation with a few words in which he told of his pleasure at welcoming him back.

Before beginning his sermon, Dr. Walker expressed his own pleasure at being again in Huntington and addressing the congregation of Johnson Memorial.

"I love this people, as I never loved any other," he declared.

Following the service, many lingered to greet their former pastor.

WEATHER AND CROP CONDITIONS IN FLORIDA FOR THE WEEK ENDING AUGUST 23RD

Temperature: The temperature averaged above the seasonal, especially in the north and west, where the excess was about 3 degrees daily. Mid-day temperatures were well up in the 90's, exceeding 100 degrees at several stations.

Precipitation: As a whole, the week gave insufficient rainfall, although there were locally heavy amounts on a few days at some stations. The lack of moisture is pressing over considerable portions of the lower central and southern divisions, although nearby localities were favored by moderate to ample rains. The greatest total reported for the week was 1.77 inches at Jacksonville; the other regular stations receiving much less than usual.

Condition of Crops: The high percentage of sunshine was favorable for haying, much of which was harvested; and stimulated the opening of cotton bolls, many prematurely. Several bales were marketed during the week; the early planted is opening quite freely on uplands. The corn in the several divisions is being gathered, although the crop in the south was harvested several weeks ago to a large extent. Cane made good progress; also, peanuts, but rain is needed on uplands. Citrus fruits continue to do well, except locally on the lower east coast, where there has not been sufficient rain for some time. As a rule, however, the fruit made good progress; some reports indicate it to be in excellent condition. Sweet potatoes are later this season, due to previous dry weather. The weather was too dry for seed beds and fall truck, especially in the south.

Beckham, who presides at this city's municipal court, has styled himself as a teacher in the movement to better regulate traffic conditions in this city. The immediate curriculum deals with that phase of the city ordinance prohibiting heavy vehicles from traveling on certain streets. Judge Beckham's methods in im-

"Speaking of Women--"

Irvin Cobb points out that feminine shopping does not necessarily imply buying. It means hard work for everyone concerned—but seldom results in a transaction involving money.

As a country minister once declaimed: "King Solomon said, and I partially agree with him..." We only partially agree with Mr. Cobb on this subject.

It is true there are still some aimless shoppers left. But they are in the minority. Today most women—as well as most men—are well-informed buyers, with a sound basis for comparing stores and values. By buying goods of recognized merit they save themselves the throes of old-time "shopping trips" and at the same time get a better and bigger money's worth.

Most women read the advertisements that appear every day in their newspapers. They make a practice of keeping strictly up-to-snuff on new developments, innovations and improvements. They know just where to go for "this" and who in town keeps "that."

When they shop they generally know just what they want, where to find it, and how much to pay. Their knowledge saves them endless trotting, wearisome questioning and haggling.

The advertisements have taken the "hop" out of shopping.

ISN'T THAT WORTH WHILE?

SAW BIG PLOT IN FOOTBALL

Hard to Convince Turkish Authorities That the Game Was Not Revolutionary Camouflage.

It has always been a difficult matter to be a sportsman in Turkey. One Turk, Rehad Bey, tried it with a result well enough to serve as a basis for a detective story.

It appears that the young Turk had organized a football team among his friends, together with some Greeks and Armenians, and began practicing. Shortly thereafter, in the middle of the night, police came to his house and carried him off to Scutari.

The authorities were convinced that they had found a great plot, and that the club must be a secret society. A special messenger was sent for the ball, and that was duly examined and found to be an infernal machine.

After long deliberation the culprit was sent to the higher police authorities in Stamboul, who went through a second long examination and came to the conclusion that the empire had been saved from disintegration by the early discovery of a great plot.

After much careful thought and examination of the evidence of the crime it was decided that there might be nothing in it, but that it must not be committed again.

SALTS FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS

WE EAT TOO MUCH MEAT WHICH CLOGS KIDNEYS, THEN THE BACK HURTS

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine.

Jad Salts is harmless; inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications.

The remarkable thing about a fit is not that the tires stand up under so much punishment, but that the cushions stand up under so much pressure.

CAN ONLY SEE DARK SIDE

Unfortunate Individuals Are Those Who Essay to Make Conversation About the Weather.

The weather is a singularly unfortunate institution. When it is bad it is freely abused; when it is good it becomes an object for profound suspicion. A wet day is an abomination; a fine one is an incipient drought.

Prompt Delivery.

George L. Loft, son of the early magnate and former congressman, created a sensation on the stock exchange recently when he sold a suit of clothes off his back for $30 and made spot delivery.

Doubles Shooting Popular.

Doubles shooting is gaining great popularity among transients of this country. By doubles shooting is meant the release of two targets at the same time one to the left and the other to the right.

Florida's Entry into Union.

One hundred years ago the Stars and Stripes supplanted the flag of Spain in Florida which became a part of the United States.
