

BUCHANAN History's most lavish.
WASHINGTON Man of few words.
GRANT Where the jewels were.
JOHNSON "Jest plain folks."

How America Had A Ball

By Jerry Klein
WASHINGTON (NEA) — The ghosts of George Washington wearing black velvet and diamonds, Woodrow Wilson forbidding an inaugural ball as "frivolous" and William Henry Harrison killing himself delivering an 8,000-word-long inaugural address, all will be among the invisible audience at the Capitol Jan. 20.

As Lyndon Johnson is sworn in as their successor to the nation's highest office they may reflect how dramatically inaugurations have changed.

Washington may admit LBJ for deviating to break custom and wear a plain business suit for the ceremony. The father of his country never felt comfortable in the fancy dress and varnished shoes his advisers felt dignity required, but apparently Washington tried to make up for this flamboyance by giving the shortest inaugural address, just 134 words.

On Wednesday evening some 20,000 persons are expected to attend a series of inaugural balls, a tradition begun by James Madison in 1809 (when only 400 turned up). His predecessor, Jefferson, had disapproved of a ball because it "smacked of royalty."

Similar celebrations were ruled out by Franklin Roosevelt, Hoover, Coolidge, Harding and Wilson, perhaps sensing America's coming involvement in war, said such a ball would be "somewhat frivolous in the face of the solemn responsibility assumed in taking office as president."

President Johnson's inaugural speech will probably follow his "jest plain folks" style and be of moderate length. It took about an hour for Harrison to get off the 8,578 words prepared for him by Daniel Webster enough time for him to get chilled and die of pneumonia within the month.

Inaugural addresses have varied in quality as well as quantity, of course. The one Abraham Lincoln delivered at his second swearing-in ("with malice toward none") has become a classic of spoken literature, though it was one of the shortest: just 688 words. John F. Kennedy's, too, will probably bulk important in history.

But Harding's speech was so full of "incomprehensible polysyllables" that literary critic H. L. Mencken said it possessed the "style of a rhinoceros liberating himself by main strength from a lake of boiling molasses." Harding had "tortured" the American language, charged Mencken, and put it "to cruel and unusual uses."

Inaugural speeches have been used to set the tone and thrust of the new administration. But strangely, there were four chief executives who delivered no addresses at all.

Johnson and Arthur were vice presidents who succeeded to the higher office through death. But since none was elected in his own right, none ever got the chance to make an inaugural speech.

It will be some time before the total bill for the 1965 inauguration comes in, but no doubt it will run into the hundreds of thousands. Just to erect reviewing stands around the White House cost about $100,000 these days. Though when Zachary Taylor was sworn in they cost $200 and the carpenters were glad to be earning $1.50 a day.

This inaugural crowd will no doubt be well behaved. Yet the White House reception given for Lincoln was so disorderly it seemed that "a regiment of troops had been quartered there with permission to forage."

The public was so unruly following Jackson's swearing-in that they left the White House virtually in tatters. At Terward, Jackson and his vice president, John Calhoun, had trouble finding enough unbroken china on which to have dinner.

At Ulysses S. Grant's inaugural reception, jewels were stolen from ladies' gowns and the guests' clothing was mixed up that next morning so some 800 "frantic" people were still milling around trying to locate their hats and coats.

One of the most lavish banquets ever to follow a presidential inauguration was laid for James Buchanan. A special building was erected for the party, 235 feet long, decorated in red, white and blue.

Inside was served a banquet including 400 gallons of oysters, 500 quarts of chicken salad, 1,200 quarts of ice cream, 500 quarts of jelly, 60 saddle of mutton, four saddles of venison, 75 hams and 125 tongues.

The event, it is said, was long remembered.

REBEL QUARTET will appear under the sponsorship of the Anchor Club of Seminole High School at 8 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 21, in the SHS auditorium. Tickets may be obtained from any club member, Touchton's, Roumillat and Anderson's and June Brown's beauty salon.

VA Will Close 14 Hospitals

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Veterans Administration (VA) advised lawmakers it will close 14 hospitals and 17 regional offices across the country. It estimated the saving at $125 million a year.

Hospitals to be closed were picked on the basis of low patient demand, difficult staffing, and outmoded structures, the VA said.

Functions of regional offices on the list for closing are to be transferred to the nearest other available VA offices.

Target date for all closings is June 30.

Hospitals to be closed are at Bath, N. Y.; Castle Point, N. Y.; Clinton, Iowa; Dwight, Ill.; Fort Bayard, N. M.; Grand Junction, Colo.; Lincoln, Neb.; McKinney, Tex.; Miles City, Mont.; Rutland Heights, Mass.; Sunmount, N. Y.; Thomasville, Ga.; White City, Ore.; and the Tuberculosis Division at Brecksville, Ohio.

Cut Your Own Taxes - 9

By Ray De Crane
Newspaper Enterprise Assn. Many taxes formerly deductible on the annual income tax return were eliminated by the 1964 Revenue Act. These are the tax on cigarettes and alcoholic beverages and fees paid for auto license tags and drivers' licenses.

The Treasury Department also has reviewed the sales tax allowance charts in the 38 states having state, county or city sales taxes. For each state Internal Revenue Service now has a chart showing the optional amount of sales tax which may be deducted without any proof being required. These automatic allowances are based upon total income and the number of persons in the family.

In most of the states the sales tax allowances for 1964 returns are not as liberal as those permitted in former years. There is this saving grace: Unlike the experience of past years IRS will now permit taxpayers who purchased an automobile in 1964 to add on to the allowance in the state schedule for sales tax the actual amount of state sales tax paid on an auto purchase.

This probably will mean that the taxpayer who buys a car every year or two will have in the aggregate a higher allowance for sales tax than formerly. Those who buy a car no more often than every three years will have a smaller deduction.

Also deductible in the tax column are real estate taxes (but do not include special assessments for roads or sewers), state and local gasoline taxes, state and local income taxes and personal property taxes which many states have on investments and revenue-producing securities.

It is well to remember that NO federal taxes such as those charged on transportation, utilities, admissions and the various excise taxes are deductible.

Here is the gas tax for the various states:

5 cents—Illinois, Kansas, Missouri, Texas, Wyoming.
 5½ cents—Massachusetts.
 6 cents—Arizona, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, District of Columbia, Idaho, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, Minnesota, Montana, Nevada, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, North Dakota, Oregon, South Dakota, Utah, Wisconsin.

6½ cents—Arkansas, Georgia, Vermont.

6.58 cents—Oklahoma.
 7 cents—Alabama, California, Florida, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maine, Mississippi, Nebraska, New Hampshire, North Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia, West Virginia.

7½ cents—Washington.

8 cents—Alaska.

Maryland was 6 cents to June 1, 1964, 7 cents thereafter.

A Clock Watcher who has hop-scotched around the state has nothing but praise for this city's mailmen. He's telling all who will listen how courteous they are. "Everyone I pass offers a warm greeting," he reports.

Another Clock Watcher has a canary that can sing but just won't. She decided that it was pretty lonesome staying home alone during the day, what with her Mister off to work. She also decided that if the canary wouldn't sing, she'd get another. A call was placed to a place that has canaries. They'd make a swap, it was agreed. Minutes after the phone was hung up, the canary began to sing, and sing, and sing. And the Clock Watcher was near tears. But the canary has to go; the deal is made.

Here's a thought-provoker: What is the very first thing you remember and how old were you?

Items which can't be purchased in Sanford: A woman's blue-velvet robe (large size); a hammock; a pair of slippers; men's casuals, a canary.

Seldom has a Chamber of Commerce shown such energy as that of the one representing Seminole County. Committee chairman were called to report on these projects the other night. Just one person out of a maze of committees was absent. And he sent his sincere regrets saying it was mandatory that he be elsewhere. With attitudes such as this, the county has got to grow.

Like roast beef? What doesn't? Then visit the American Legion Post Home off Highway 17-82 Monday night for a feast. Starts at 7 with a brief business meeting and entertainment to follow.

When bids were opened at the school board meeting Thursday for "sneezing guards," Dr. "Dub" Epps quipped: "I thought a sneezing guard was a handkerchief." He was enlightened to the fact that a sneezing guard is a glass which protects food in the lunchroom from germs sprayed around by "sniffly" youngsters.

When the school board meets with the local legislative delegation on Feb. 2 they will request that the minimum limit for bus riders be reduced from two miles to a mile-and-a-half.

If Don Bales is approved by the Governor to fill the vacancy on the school board, this will leave a vacancy on the board of trustees. There is some talk of possibly doing away with school trustees or making them a part of the board — many counties already have done this. Reason for having trustees was mainly to administer the school tax districts — a practice which is no longer followed. Any change, however, would require legislative action.

If all the people who are still writing 1964 on checks and letters were stretched end to end they'd reach from here to 1966.

Complaint department: Postmaster Cecile Heard, referring to the "gag" picture in The Herald about the "don't walk on the grass" sign on the post office lawn, queried: "What do you mean—saying I've got sandspurs in my lawn?"

The staff of "Smoke Signals," the Seminole High school newspaper, gave half the profits of their Christmas issue to the Judy Kinnaird Fund, reports Mrs. Thelma Lewis, faculty advisor. This along with a $14 contribution from the Future Farmers made the tidy sum of $60 to help with the little Geneva girl's hospital bills.

Juni in January weather continues in this area and few people seem to mind. Some farming interests would like a chilly spell, though, to help mature their crops.

U.S., Canada May Drop Auto Tariffs

Leaders Eye Formation Of Common Mart

By Alvin Spivak
JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (UPI) — President Johnson was back at his hill country ranch today for an informal meeting with Canadian Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson and probable accord on a "little common market" in automobiles.

An agreement going away with Canadian and American tariffs on automobiles and parts for new autos was expected to emerge from Johnson's talks with Pearson at the LBJ spread today and Saturday.

Pearson and his wife were scheduled to arrive at the ranch late this afternoon to join President and Mrs. Johnson. The Chief Executive and First Lady got there shortly before midnight (CST) after a three-hour jet flight from Andrews Air Force Base, Md. to Bergstrom AFB, Tex. They flew by helicopter from Bergstrom to the ranch, 65 miles away.

Before leaving Washington, the Johnsons threw a surprise party at the White House for retired Commerce Secretary Luther H. Hodges. It was attended by members of the cabinet and other high officials and their wives.

The President and his wife then flew from the White House to Andrews AFB by helicopter, accompanied by staff aides to assist in the Pearson talks and in work this weekend on Johnson's address for his Jan. 20 inauguration.

Pearson has been vacationing in Florida and he is meeting with Johnson on the way back to Canada. They last met on Sept. 16 when they flew in Pearson's Jet Star over the Columbia River Basin, from Great Falls, Mont., to Vancouver, British Columbia.

At the International Peace Arch on the Canadian-American border, they signed the Columbia River treaty setting up a joint project for development of that area's power and other resources. Negotiators have completed work on the pact abolishing auto tariffs between the two countries, which would have to be followed up by congressional action because the present trade law permits the President to cut tariffs in half but not to abolish them.

Woman Suicides Viet Nam-style

COLUMBIA, Mo. (UPI) — The daughter of a "university professor, described as beset by personal problems, drenched herself with gasoline in a lonely barn, struck a match, and erupted in flames in a Viet Nam-style torch suicide Thursday.

Police hunted today for a mysterious telephone upstater who warned them "Head of time that Ann Atherton, 26, was planning to kill herself."

"He said he'd read about it in the paper and if she did and if she didn't, he'd see her tomorrow," said police Capt. J. C. Smith.

Miss Atherton's charred body was found in an abandoned barn on the west edge of Columbia.

She was the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Lewis Atherton. He is a history professor at the University of Missouri.

ETV Antenna Inspection Set Jan. 28

By Dottie Anstln
School board officials reviewed final plans for installation of ETV reception antennas at Seminole County elementary and junior high schools at their meeting Thursday afternoon and set Jan. 28 for an inspection tour.

In other business, the board signed agreements with the Orange County School Board to participate in the use of its visual aids library. Under terms of the agreement the local board is supplying the salary of a film librarian who will handle the films used by local schools.

Bids for lunchroom supplies including "sneezing guards" (glass to protect food) were turned over to Mrs. Charlotte Whitmore, school lunchroom superintendent, for study and recommendation.

Plans for additions of five classrooms at South Seminole Elementary and Altamonte Springs schools were to be sent to the state for approval this week.

Funds left over from materials used at Crooms High School will be used to widen the entrance road leading to South Seminole Elementary and Junior High schools to facilitate bus service, the board reported.

The matter of suitable land on which to build a maintenance shop and bus garage was discussed and members decided to look for a new piece of property as "municipal" owned by the board is within an M-1 industrial zone.

Walter Teague, school administrative aide, told the board that several instances of school vandalism were reported during the recent holidays and schools requested permission to remove stolen items from their inventories.

Altamonte Chief Takes New Job

By Donna Estes
Altamonte Police Chief Russ Milne has resigned to accept the position of Police Chief in South Daytona at a considerable increase in salary.

The resignation was submitted Thursday in Altamonte Springs Mayor W. Lawrence Swafford who made the announcement today. No replacement for Milne was named at this time.

Headlights remained on virtually all of this morning as a steady drizzle and heavy overcast kept the area in pre-dawn condition.

An outbreak of accidents kept sheriff's deputies and the Florida Highway Patrol hopping around the county. Most of them were said to be minor.

Harney Water System 'Go'

By JoAnn Hays
A water valve was turned and one-half miles of distribution lines to serve the 71 residences to send a flow of fresh tomatoes, and, according to F. water for the first time in his Sieg Holmes, association president, the system is designed to handle any general increase of demand with possible expansion up to 100 per cent.

The action by W. T. Shaddick, state director of Farmers Home Administration and special guest of the Lake Harney Water Association for the year began Jan. 31, 1964, with application, engineering and installation work on the $40,000 distribution work on the $40,000 system.

Sheriff Praises City Policemen

Sheriff J. L. Hobby has given high praise to Police Chief Roy G. Williams and his men for the help given in controlling traffic during the inaugural ball Jan. 7.

"The spirit of cooperation was outstanding and was reflected in the way your men handled any assignment given them," Hobby said in his letter to the chief.

"Without your assistance, this could have possibly been one of the greatest traffic jams in the history of our county," the letter added.

The sheriff pledged continued cooperation between the two departments.

Brain Damage Puts Churchill Near Death

LONDON (UPI) — Sir Winston Churchill, Britain's venerable 90-year-old elder statesman, has suffered a cerebral thrombosis, his physician said today.

A medical bulletin signed by Lord Moran, his physician, said Churchill not only suffered the thrombosis but also is seriously ill with a circulatory weakness that followed a cold.

The aged statesman, who was 90 on Nov. 30, was stricken at his home in London's fashionable Hyde Park Gate section.

"After a cold Sir Winston has a developed circulatory weakness and there has been a cerebral thrombosis," the bulletin was signed by Lord Moran and Lord Brain, two of Britain's most distinguished medical men.

A cerebral thrombosis is the formation of a blood clot that prevents circulation of blood in a blocked area of brain tissue.

Lord Moran, who is 82 himself, has been Sir Winston's physician for many years. Lord Moran is an authority on diseases of the brain and the nervous system.

A medical specialist asked to comment on the bulletin said: "The phrase 'circulatory weakness' is disturbing. It can mean Sir Winston's condition is very serious. The cerebral thrombosis means a clot in one of the arteries of the brain."

Lord Moran, who saved Sir Winston's life when he was stricken with pneumonia during one of the World War II Big Three meetings, read the bulletin from a slip of paper as he stood on the doorstep of the Churchill town house at 28 Hyde Park Gate.

He refused to expand on the wording of the bulletin itself. Churchill has been susceptible to colds all his life, and even the slightest one is treated as serious, especially in view of his advanced age.

Sub-zero Wave Hits Northeast

United Press International
The most severe cold wave of the season sent temperatures falling far below zero in New England today while a snow-storm made driving hazardous throughout the Midwest.

Temperatures plummeted to 15 below in New England after sundown Thursday and were expected to sink to 25 to 30 degrees below through interior New England and upstate New York by daybreak.

Council OK Seen Likely

By Donna Estes
The Longwood City Council Thursday night heard David and Richard Joyce, of Casselberry, present plans for a proposed stock car race track estimated to cost $100,000.

The track would be located in the western section of the city on the Haines property on Sandlino Springs Drive.

The proposed speedway would be constructed on 48 acres adjacent to the highway. The Joyce brothers stated that plans call for a banked oval one-quarter mile asphalt track to cover 12 to 14 acres of the property and a 160-by-50 foot concrete grandstand with approximately 1,500 seating capacity in addition to steel bleachers.

The entire racing and grandstand area would be fenced in with a 10-12 foot high plywood or metal fence.

Mayor David Wentworth and the council indicated they would approve the proposal after the legal description of the property involved is checked for zoning.

In other business Council Chairman David Carlson announced committee appointments to be B. L. Helms and B. H. Ferrell, buildings, parks and grounds; Ferrell and Helms, finance; Percy White and Carl Lommel, water; Lommel and Helms, streets; Lommel and White, fire department. First councilman named for each committee will serve as chairman.

It was decided that henceforth all complaints are to be filled out on special forms and referred to the proper committee.

Council agreed that it would operate as far as possible under a formal agenda, beginning with the February meeting, to give members time to investigate items before coming to decisions. Items will be placed on the agenda by Friday preceding the meeting.

It was voted to readvertise for bids to be submitted by Feb. 4, 8 p.m., for resurfacing Highland, Evergreen and Marvin Avenues. Motion was adopted to open Reiter Avenue from Oak as far as possible and Lakeview from Church to Orange.

It was agreed that plans be drawn up for erection of new toilet facilities and a storage room at the city park.

Councilman Percy White had a motion read by the chairman that the dog ordinance be amended to require that all dogs in the city be on leash or in kennels. Action was postponed until information can be sought from other communities in the area on how similar problems are handled.

Date and time of next meeting was not announced.

Forgetting Is Important

How often we have wanted to learn to remember. Perhaps many of you who read this will be reminded of a book you bought that promised to help you remember. You may have gone so far as to take a course with the idea in mind that you would not have to work so hard in learning a trade, telling a story or remembering a name.

forgetting cannot be emphasized too much. I have not heard of a book being written on the art of forgetting a subject. Maybe someone should enter this unique, important and undeveloped field!

Perhaps you recall, at this point, an incident in your life which has caused you much grief and which could have been deleted if you had exercised the ability to forget.

How often one will find that not being able to forget causes him to want to "get even" with one who has treated him wrong. A scene from a program of Amos and Andy illustrates the futility of "an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth attitude." In one scene Andy complained about the "Kingfish" slapping him on the chest when he wanted to emphasize some point. Andy said, "I is fixed for him now. I put a stick of dynamite in my vest pocket and the next time he slaps me, he's going to get his hand blown off." Andy forgot that in the process he would get his heart blown out.

Baptist Study Course Planned In Lake Mary

By Frances Wester
Beginning the week of Jan. 18, the First Baptist Church of Lake Mary will conduct a study course with classes starting at 7 p.m. each day. The adult book on "Deuteronomy" will be taught by Rev. V. C. By Jane Casselberry
The WCS of Casselberry Community Methodist Church will recognize new members who have been received into the organization during the past year at the general meeting to be held at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday in Weaver Hall. Mrs. Phillip Casber, president, has called an executive board meeting for 1 p.m. prior to the meeting to discuss new projects. The program will be presented by Mrs. Marvin McClain who will use as her theme, "A New Purpose for a New Year." Refreshments will be served following the meeting by the hostess committee consisting of Mrs. Thomas Gullickson, Mrs. Harry McPeak, Mrs. Paul Knight and Mrs. James Johnson.

New Officers

The Junior High MYF of Grace Methodist Church has announced new officers to be Regina Murray, president; Patsy Thompson, vice president; Karen Williams, secretary and Lynn Fehd, treasurer.

Rev. Stevens Installed New Pastor Of Lake Mary Church

By Frances Wester
An impressive service of installation was held at Community Presbyterian Church in Lake Mary Sunday at 3 p.m. when Rev. Atlee F. Stevens was installed as new pastor of the church. The Commission participating in this service included Elder J. Boyde DeLoach, moderator, from New Smyrna Beach; Rev. Charles W. Bates, stated clerk of North Florida Presbytery, from Titusville; Rev. Lucian W. Scott, retired former pastor of this church, from Winter Park. Rev. James M. Thompson, pastor emeritus of the Lake Mary church; Rev. James B. McGaffin, from Glenwood; Rev. Thomas Barton, stated supply of Community Presbyterian Church of Lake Mary, from Winter Garden; and Rev. Leonard S. Hogenboom, from Weirsdale. Rev. Scott gave the invocation. The scripture was read by Rev. Thompson. Rev. Hogenboom delivered the sermon. During the installation, the constitutional questions were asked by Elder DeLoach.

The charge to the pastor was given by Rev. McGaffin, and the charge to the congregation by Rev. Barton. The installation prayer was given by Rev. Bates. Rev. Stevens pronounced the benediction. A reception in honor of Rev. and Mrs. Stevens was held immediately following the service of installation in the educational building for every one attending, hosted by the church officers. Rev. Stevens' former pastorate was in Flagler Beach before accepting call to the Lake Mary church.

Ann Trawick Leaves Jan. 31 For Seminar

By Jane Casselberry
Seventeen-year-old Ann Trawick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Trawick of Forest Avenue, Altamonte Springs, is excited over the prospect of attending the United Nations Washington Seminar during the first week in February. She is being sponsored by the Senior Methodist Youth Fellowship of the Casselberry Community Methodist Church. She holds the office of treasurer in the MYF group. Ann, a senior at Lyman High

ANN TRAWICK
School and a student council chaplain, has been busy writing an essay of more than 1,500 words on the organization of the UN as a prerequisite for the trip. She will leave from Jacksonville by jet for New York City with 34 other young people from the Florida Methodist Conference on the morning of Jan. 31. The group will receive briefings before sitting in on sessions at the United Nations where they will be allowed to interview delegates from various countries. On Wednesday they will proceed to Washington where they are looking forward to interviews with Florida's senators and congressmen and visiting Congress while it is in session. They also will meet members of the Supreme Court and attend a prayer service scheduled at the Lincoln Memorial. One of the most intriguing parts of their Washington tour will be a visit to the Russian Embassy.

Asked about her trip, Ann said she expects to learn a lot about the UN and the United States Government and is thrilled at the prospect of seeing so many new and interesting places. Included with the children will be English peas, potato salad, cole slaw, hot biscuits, butter, cake, coffee and special drinks for the children. Tickets are available from any members of the auxiliary or may be purchased at the door. Reservations and arrangements for delivery service may be made by calling Rev. F. Ruth Grant. Assisting Mrs. McDaniel with the dinner will be Mrs. Thomas Arty and Mrs. Evelyn McLeary.

Attends Retreat
Rev. Delores O'Connell, pastor of Casselberry Community Methodist Church, attended the Spiritual Life Retreat held Thursday at the Monte Verde Methodist Church for Methodist ministers in the Orlando District. He served as song leader at the meeting.

Baptists Adopt Record Budget In Longwood

By Donna Estes
The First Baptist Church of Longwood this week adopted a record budget of $33,300 for the coming year. Sunday is the beginning of a Forward Campaign for encouraging and enlisting membership in the Stewardship of Giving through Tithing.

Last year the church adopted a record budget over previous years and over subscribed it by $3,000. Total gifts for 1963 were in excess of $29,500 and represented a 41 per cent increase over the previous year. This year's budget will provide for a full time secretary and a debt retirement, making up the major portion of the increase. In addition to completing the new educational unit in the next few weeks, the church also plans to purchase a new piano for the auditorium to match the present organ.

Church Airlift Aids Algiers

U.S. Protestant churches Monday airlifted to Algiers the first part of a total shipment of 500 large tents for homeless earthquake victims of M'Sila, an inland city over 100 miles southeast of Algiers stricken by a series of quakes Jan. 1-3. A cargo capacity of 138 tents left John F. Kennedy Airport at 5 p.m. and arrived in Algiers at 5:30 p.m. Tuesday (Algiers time). Each tent will shelter 12 homeless. Desperately in need of emergency shelter are 25,000 inhabitants of the older, poorer section of M'Sila whose mud brick houses collapsed. The modern part of town with its sturdier buildings was left intact.

The churches, through Church World Service, their overseas relief and rehabilitation agency, are underwriting the cost of the $13,000 airlift. CCSA (Christian Committee for Service in Algeria) asked Church World Service to secure the tents at the specific request of the Algerian government. The purchase price of $42,500 will be reimbursed by Algerian authorities. Dr. E. Stanley Jones, missionary to India and the East for more than 50 years, will conduct a Spiritual Life Mission at Winter Park Methodist Church, 125 N. Interlachen Avenue, beginning Sunday and continuing through next Friday. He will be speaker at both services, 8:30 and 11 a.m. Sunday, and for evening services at 7:30 from Sunday through Friday. Next Thursday at 10 a.m. he will lead a special service for women only. Dr. Jones went to India as a missionary in 1907 and through the years developed many missions, founded schools and built a theological seminary in India, supporting much of this work through his own efforts. His first book, "The Christ of the Indian Road," written as a report of his early years of service, became an immediate best seller. Since, he has written 22 other books, one every other year. In his evangelistic work about the world, he reports that he has increasingly felt the need for the churches to unite, believing that "A Un-

They're tossing Florida all over America

From Duluth to Darien, crisp and green, these salad makin's owe their color and flavor to the Florida sun. Florida supplies a healthy percentage of the goodness in salad bowls across the country. Over 50% of the nation's green peppers, for example. Other important Florida-grown salad staples include tomatoes, celery, lettuce, romaine, cucumbers, escarole and chicory. (And that's just salads.) Furthermore, since winter is just another growing season in the Sunshine State, Florida provides an even greater proportion of these important foods for cold-weather antipastos. And, thanks to Florida's modern transportation network, these crops reach customers in northern markets within 24 hours of harvesting!

The Florida sun keeps business and industry green, too. The tax climate — both business and individual — is as favorable as the weather... and the source of dependable, low-cost electric power is as bountiful as the sunlight. So if you and your firm are looking for growing space, think of Florida. You'll be in good company. From tomatoes to transistors, business takes to Florida. So does the manpower that business needs, from unskilled to executive. So do growing families, like yours.

And you won't even have to wait 24 hours for a garden-fresh salad.

Catholic Pastor To Conduct Program For Women's Club

By Donna Estes

A total of 196 pounds, had been sent to New York for the "Sisters' shipment" for the Bishops Clothing Drive.

Mrs. Summers, spiritual development chairman, urged the women to attend the Catholic Information Classes which are open to all interested persons and are planned by Father Keane beginning Thursday, Jan. 21, at 8 p.m. at the social hall. She also announced that this Sunday will be the monthly Women's Club Communion Sunday.

Mrs. Orland Fox, ways and means chairman, presented plans for a March Grand Ball and that Mrs. George Stone, president, will be in charge of the event. Mrs. Stone will be in charge of the ball, which will be held at the social hall on Wednesday, Feb. 24, at 8 p.m.

Mrs. Stanley, chairman of the church's social committee, announced that the next social will be a special gathering.

English Estates PTO To Build Bicycle Path

By Jane Cassberry

Complaints of unsafe conditions caused by traffic on a dirt road leading from the Oxford Road entrance to English Estates Elementary School prompted authorization at a PTO meeting Tuesday night for the president, Tom Moses, to spend up to $100 to build a bicycle path.

A committee also was appointed to get street rights installed at the main entrance to the school.

Principal M. E. Raby, speaking on the grading system, said that too much emphasis is placed on grades and children do not really need report cards to motivate them but they are used to satisfy the parents.

Children should be taught according to their ability to learn and proceed according to their ability, he added.

Children are given extensive testing and are expected to proceed according to their ability as indicated in the test results.

City School Supervisor E. J. Maceo will be the speaker at the Feb. 22 meeting of the PTO and a standing committee will be elected.

On Feb. 22, 30 p.m. there will be a covered dish dinner for PTO members in the school cafeteria to raise funds. Those attending will be asked to contribute a covered dish and a dollar.

Johnson Avoids Religious Controversy

By Louis Cassely

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson has come up with a new formula for avoiding religious controversy over federal aid to education.

His solution is to keep federal aid funds under the administrative control of public educational authorities, but require that they be used in a way that will benefit all the poor children of a community, including those who attend parochial schools.

The practical effect of the formula will be to encourage so-called "shared time" arrangements, under which parochial school students attend public schools for part of each day.

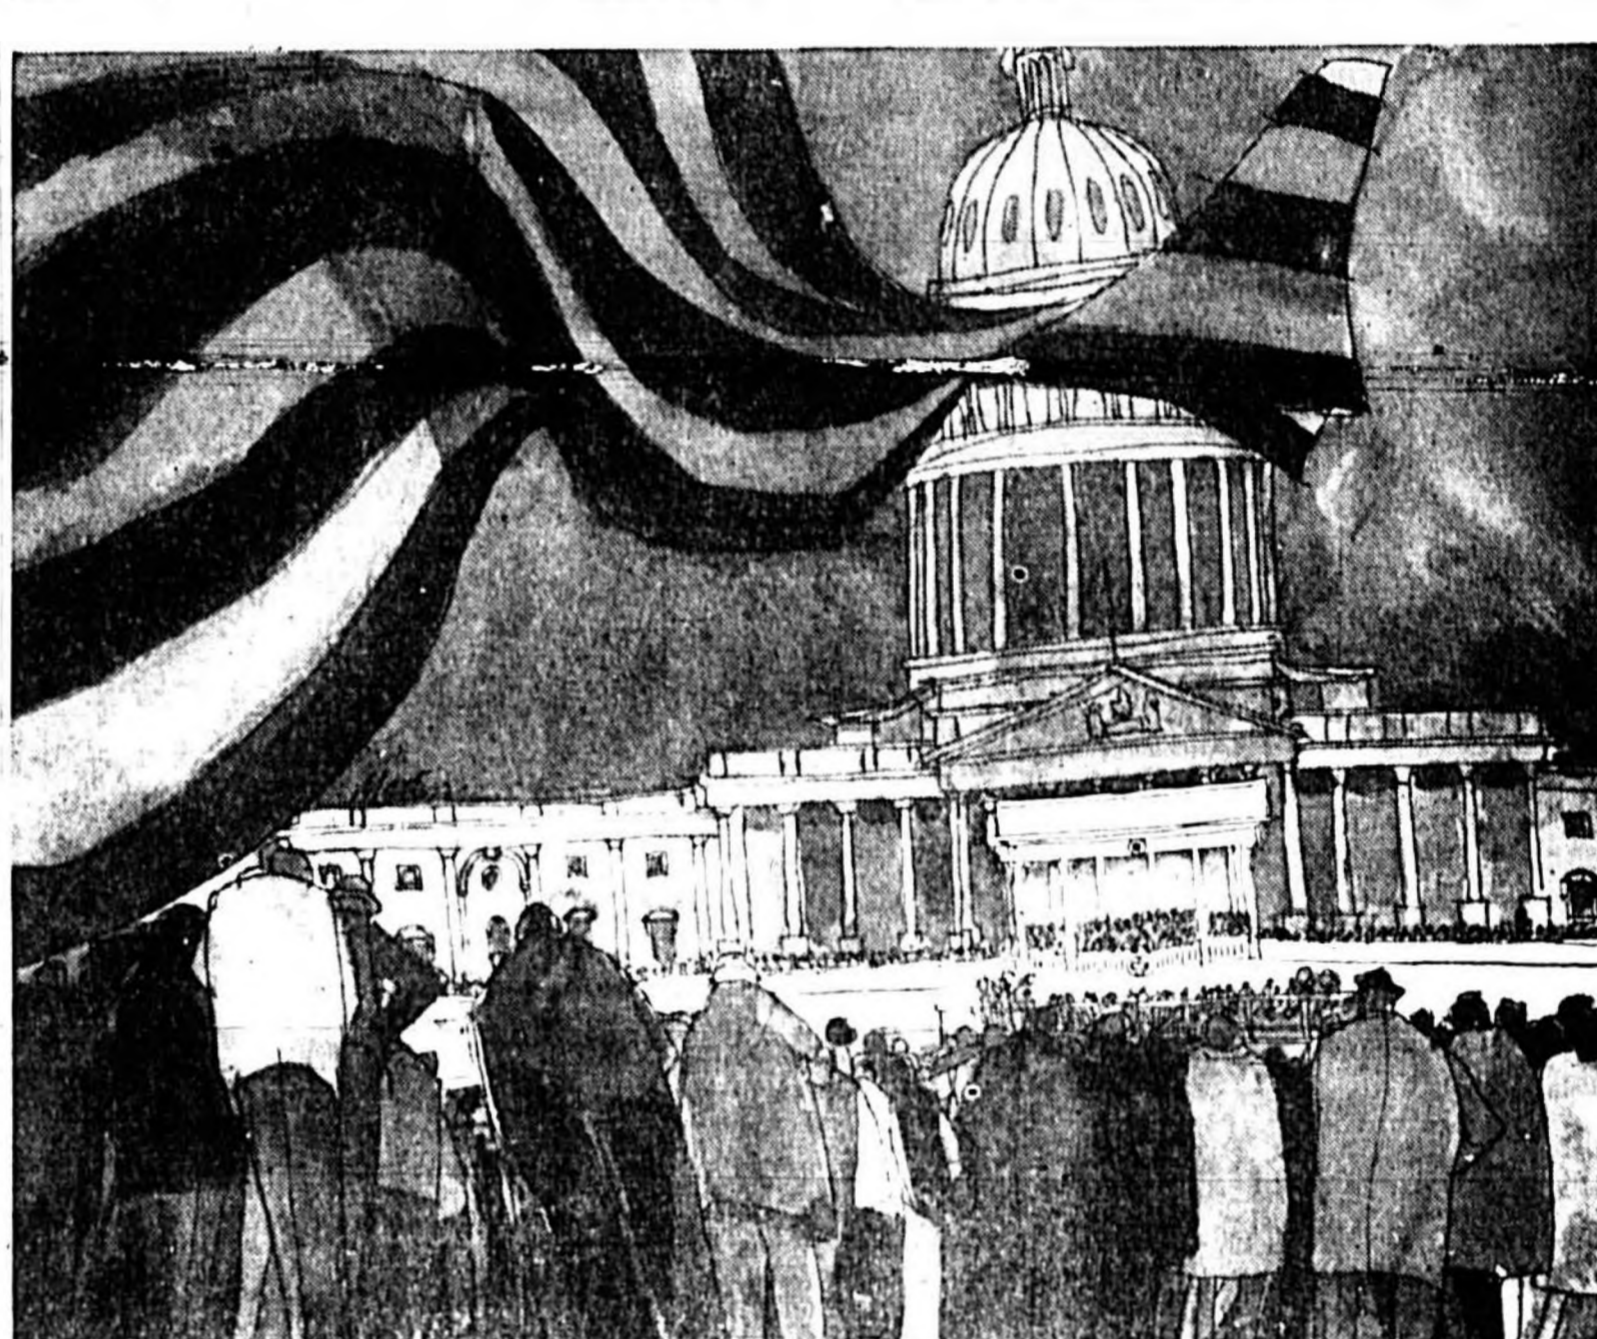

Shared time programs are already in operation in about 200 school districts across the nation.

The usual plan is for a child to attend a church-related school for courses such as religion, history, literature and civics—which have a high ideological content—and attend a public school for such relatively neutral courses as science, math and foreign languages.

Catholic and Protestant leaders previously have indicated a willingness to experiment with the shared time concept as a possible way out of the deadlock over including parochial schools in a direct federal aid program.

Protestants have opposed direct aid to parochial schools federal aid program that did not benefit the one-eighth of America's children in parochial schools as well as those in public schools.

Catholics have opposed any congressional action on church-state separation.

Between you'n me

By MURRAY OLDERMAN
Sports Editor
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

LOS ANGELES (NEA) — Mrs. Jim Fregoli has a problem. It's the same one Mrs. Arnold Palmer has. It's called "How to Live in a Corporate Society, or which one of these guys is really my husband."

Just as Arnold Palmer, the golfer, has his 25 laundries and multiple miniature golf courses and shirts and sundries, so Jim Fregoli, the baseball player, has himself split up in nine different ways.

The difference is that while Palmer is making his in the middle age of 35 (athletic-wise) Fregoli is off and running at 22. He'd be the Italian Sammy Glick, except that he doesn't really run over people. He doesn't have to.

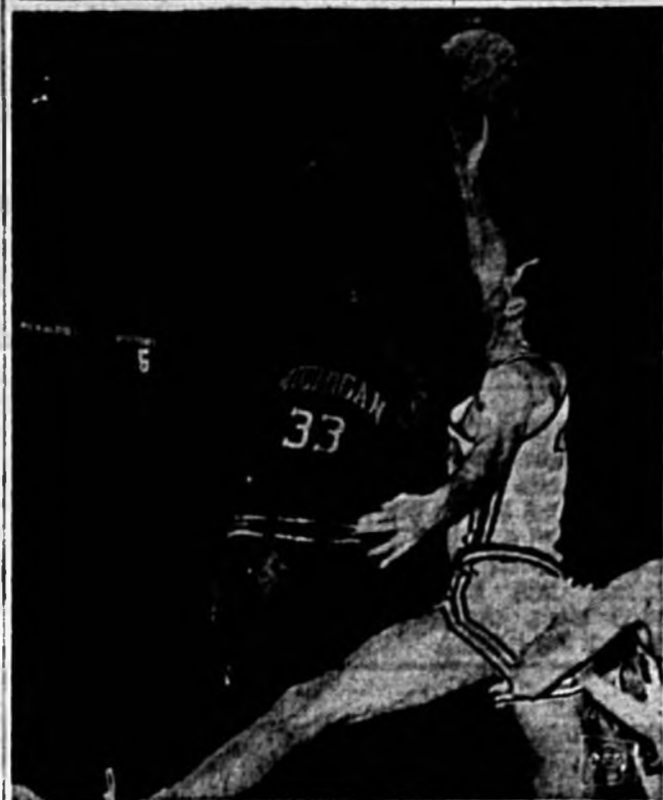

This night he was dabbling make-up on his handsome face with one of those sponges dipped in powder, and every long strand of black hair was just in place so Jim could look pretty for the people who get his televised sports message over a local Los Angeles station.

"Soon as I talk to my accountant," he said, his green eyes looking earnest, "I'm going to incorporate for next year."

"No one," said one of the publicists of the Los Angeles Angels, "will ever have to run a benefit for that young man." Fregoli is a shortstop for the Angels.

This is what the Fregoli business complex includes: Partnership in the S & T Construction Co.; vice-presidency in Chocolate (the West Coast version of Yogi Berra's Yoo Hoo); selling cars for a guy named Ular, insurance sales ("It's a new kind," explained Jim); limited partnership in the Angel Development Co., which encompasses a 13-unit apartment house where Jim lives and which he manages. He also makes two or three speeches a week—at a fee, of course—has his television sports show and will go through an actors' training

'Hounds Host Second Place DeLand 'Dogs

By Jim Beechus
Herald Sports Writer

Lyman High School's Greyhounds put their Orange Belt Conference lead on the line tonight when they play host to second place DeLand Bulldogs.

The Greyhounds and Bulldogs will tangle at the Longwood gym starting at 8.

Lyman has won all four of its OBC contests and lost all four of the non-conference games played. DeLand sports a better overall record of 7-2 but one of the losses was an OBC clash with the Kissimmee Cowboys.

A loss by Lyman would put them in a tie for the lead and it is reported that DeLand could be expected to go on to win the title. However, a Greyhound victory would put them in a solid position to grab the title.

Coach Dick Copeland says he's looking for the hardest game of the year but has high hopes his charges will meet the test. Lyman has won a reputation of winning games by "squeaker scores."

The spirited Lyman quintet will enter the game as the underdog team.

Starters for the Greyhounds will be high-scoring Joe Asher (136 points) and Mike Sterling, guards; Ed Long and Gene Winkelman, forwards; and Dave Mattis, center.

The Jayvees will clash in a preliminary event starting at 6:30 p. m. The baby Greyhounds sport a 5-8 record.

She's Set, OB's Cook Join To Pay $908

Royal Regatta was the morning line favorite to win tonight's featured 10th race at the Sanford-Kennel Club.

The Orville Moses veteran has scored in two of three starts this season in battling her way from grade C to featuring competition. In her first grade A she finished sixth.

The fast-finishing little 53-pounder should get lots of competition from Frank Seich's Glory Trans whose racing tactics are just the opposite.

Glory Trans is a fast starter who has been the early leader in every race she has run. Her record includes a

Another big perfecta came in Thursday night in the featured 10th race when She's Set and O. B.'s Cook combined for a 4-6 ticket worth $908.70.

Joe Gerard's Kissmetell, an odds-on favorite to win the race, got a poor start on the set track and was never in it.

Groover, Demmy Pace Action

It was Red Groover and Jim Demmy's night to shine as they paced their respective teams.

Wall Plumbing and Ben Ward Realty in the Businessmen's League at Jet Lanes. Red pounded out a fine 222/532 while helping Wall Plumbing to a two and two split with H.H. Products "A" team and Tim was consistent with a 212/559 in Ben Ward Realty's three game decision over Mason's Men. Henry Tamm rolled a 214/504 for the top spot on Mason's team.

Pinecrest Liggert Resall team continue their fine rolling as they won a three point verdict over the H.H. Products "B" team with Jim Husard setting the pace with a 204/513 series. Harold Drier was the hero for H.H. Products "B" team with a nice 208/502 series. Lance Crackers won a three game victory over the front-running Auto-nutting team to help tighten up the league race.

Glass-Met grabbed a three point win from the WTRR boys as Gene Belque and Doug Owens co-starred for the Glass-Met team with 179/516 and 197/558, respectively. GH Luck set the pace for WTRR with a good 192/538 series. Buddy Noel provided the spark for Dick's Appliance in a two game split with Ron-Sun as he belted out a 190/508 series. Ray Robinson was the "leader of the pack" in Rex Liquor's three game romp over the Atlantic Coast Lint team. Another fine series was turned in by Dick Scintalar as he rolled 178/509 for the H.H. Products "A" team.

Combes Hopes Illini Carbon Copy In Happier Ending This Season

By Sandy Padwa

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Harry Combes, the Illinois basketball coach, reminds you of the corner candy store owner whose shop has just been invaded by a dozen 5-year-olds.

He doesn't know where to turn or what to protect first. So he just sort of stands there horrified, waiting for something to happen.

Combes reacts that way to the Big Ten basketball race. A year ago, he watched his team streak to a 10-3 record before collapsing completely in league play with five straight losses.

This season has begun the same way. The Illini have earned national ranking, their out-of-conference record is excellent and again they're one of the Big Ten favorites.

"Sure, we've got a good club," Combes said, "but so does Michigan so does Indiana, and Minnesota, and Purdue, and . . ."

In other words, Harry is saying he's worried. A collapse like last season's isn't easy to forget, especially when the opposition is even tougher.

A year ago, the people connected with Illinois basketball attributed the abrupt dive to lack of experience and a poorly balanced schedule which had the team on the road just when it started losing.

Pearsons Top Shuffleboarders

The Orlando team of Bob and Adele Pearson won top honors in the Celery City Shuffleboard Tournament held here Wednesday and Thursday on the local courts.

They defeated the runner-up team of Col. F. E. and Olga Dunagay of Peabody by scores of 78-51; 82-77; and 77-50.

Nearly 250 players were on hand for the tourney sponsored by the Sanford Tourist and Shuffleboard Club.

The Dunagays entered the finals after having taken the measure of Don and Mable Riddle of Umatilla, 81-59; 8-78; 78-69.

A rundown of events Thursday shows:

Quarter finals—Don and Mable Riddle defeated Ethel and Lyle Wood of Mount Dora, 78-50; 40-76; 77-53.

Dunagays defeated Fat Hill and Al Smith of Orlando, 64-82; 81-49; 80-64.

Bob and Adele Pearson of Orlando defeated Ed and Hannah Webb of Mainland by forfeit.

"Naturally what happened last year is still in our minds," said Skip Thoren, Illinois center and leading scorer. "We just reached an early peak and went downhill after that."

"That's right," says Tal Brody, the smooth 6-2 guard from Trenton, N.J. "We were doing fine until we played Indiana. They beat us in a real important game early in the conference season and after that the spirit sort of went out."

"This year there is a difference, though. Maybe it's Skip. Last season they pushed him around quite a bit when we were on offense and defensively they just bullied him."

"But he put on more weight over the summer (he's 6-8, 232) and now they're finding out he's not so easy to move any more."

Thoren's statistics prove that much. He's been averaging 21.5 points a game and 15.3 in rebounding.

Brody, meanwhile, has been scoring a 16.8 pace and Don Freeman, a tremendous jumper for someone just 6-2, has been averaging 15 a game from his forward spot.

Boyd-Redmon, another forward, is around the 18-point mark.

All that scoring has meant a wonderful beginning for the Illini, but maybe that's why Harry Combes is so worried.

Hazel Durzo Holds On Lead

Hazel Durzo held on to a four stroke lead after second round play in the Kader Tournament at Mayfair Country Club.

Moving into second place was Jo McDaniel with Marian Cox a close third. Final round will be played this coming week.

Jo McDaniel took Class A honors in the weekly "Tea to Green" tournament. Class B winner was Susy Dickey and Peggy Billups took Class C.

Nine-hole tournament winner was Lorraine Miller.

Race Betting Hits $3 Million

NEW YORK (UPI) — Betting and attendance at the nation's thoroughbred race tracks during 1964 reached new highs of $3,046,257,515 and 34,065,142 persons, a United Press International survey revealed today.

The betting total topped the 1963 total of $2,825,038,003 by $221,219,510 while attendance increased by 1,854,760 from 36,210,382.

It was the 11th straight year in which betting increased and the eighth in a row for an upswing in attendance.

Business School 2nd Term Opens Jan. 25

Seminole County Business School will begin its second semester registration Jan. 25, Mrs. P. H. Love, head of the business education department, announced today.

Hours of registration for day classes are 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. and 6 to 9 p.m. for night classes.

"Actually, business students may enroll for classes at any time during the year with the exception of the shorthand and IBM keypunch classes," Mrs. Love noted.

The IBM keypunch class is limited to six students and applicants must pass a test to qualify for instruction. Tests will be given at the time of registration, Mrs. Love said.

"Students are recommended for positions as soon as they are qualified, as we are in constant contact with local business and industry," said Mrs. Love.

"For the past several years we have been unable to apply enough workers to meet the demand," she added.

Instruction at the business school is under the direction of the Seminole County Board of Public Instruction and the only charges are a nominal registration fee and the cost of books, with the exception of the IBM keypunch course.

Other courses include typing, shorthand, bookkeeping, business law, business English, office practice and office machines.

Stock Prices Hike Pictured To Continue

Wall Street Chatter
NEW YORK (UPI)—Bache & Co. says that in view of the fact that earnings per share are for the most part reasonably in line with the price of stocks and few excesses are present in the market, the rise in stock prices is likely to continue for the foreseeable future.

However, Bache says "we would not be surprised to see the market hesitate before it attempts to move to another new all time high."

E. F. Hutton & Co. comments that "with most technical measurements now giving favorable readings, the current rally could carry further and possibly even test the industrial highs over the next few sessions." But the brokerage firm says monetary and labor uncertainties still lurk in the background and "an overextension of commitments should be avoided."

Thomson & McKinnon writes that the stock market has been "nowhere near as confident as the business managers whose equities it represents." The Wall Street firm says that a "sizeable amount of speculative funds" could come into the market at the first sign of solid action in any number of quality favorites.

Economist Elliot Janeway says he feels steel stocks have been "oversold." He says this condition may last "a bit longer" but that the prospects for the steel issues "may be brightening behind the clouds." Janeway comments that the steel business is much better than Wall Street has yet made allowances for.

Ample Parking At Ranch House

Ample parking, both for the customer and his car, are featured at the new Ranch House Restaurant on Hwy. 17-92, just south of the Sanford city limits.

The gracious, softly-lighted interior of the Ranch House seats 74 persons at booths and tables, all comfortably upholstered in modern washable fabrics in matching colors. Graceful matchstick draperies accent the wide windows and the Ranch House theme is carried out in the wagon-wheel chandeliers which shed a warm golden glow over the interior.

Hot Springs National Park, in Arkansas, is a federally owned health resort.

SIX MORE STUDENTS trained in the operation of the IBM Keypunch machine have completed the 90 hour course at the Seminole County Business School. The national shortage of personnel to operate these machines also applies locally. Seated is Rebecca Richardson and standing are Elizabeth Wood, Jan Treckman, Judi Lewis, Dorothy Thomas and Ardys David. New classes at the school begin Jan. 25. (Herald Photo)

'Hard Time' Pictured For LBJ Foreign Policy

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Congress is likely to give President Johnson and his foreign aid bill a harder time over policy than over dollars this year.

Key Democrats are confident they have the votes to give Johnson virtually all of the nearly $3.4 billion he seeks.

What they can't predict is how the legislators will react to such items as:
—The President's request for an unlimited authorization for aid to South Viet Nam.
—The recent outburst of

Fresh Pastries Are Featured

Home-baked pies and cakes made fresh daily are a specialty of the new Ranch House, opening in Sanford today on Hwy. 17-92, just south of the city.

Concocted with fine ingredients from special recipes by Baker Carl Herold, the assortment of delicacies include five whipped cream pies—Key lime, coconut, chocolate chip, banana and rum.

In season there are delicious fresh strawberry and fresh blueberry pies, and pleased customers testify that they have never tasted berry pies that retain the freshness of the fruit any better than these.

In addition to the above mentioned pastries there is also a Boston cream pie that delights the jaded palate.

Rich, delicious chocolate layer cake, coconut layer cake, cheese cake and strawberry short cake complete the delectable bakery menu and we can predict that first time customers will be returning again and again to sample each one, since it is so hard to choose between them.

anti-Americanism in some of the countries receiving U. S. aid.
Johnson sent his foreign aid message to Capitol Hill Thursday. On-the-record reaction was about as expected—Democrats generally approved and Republicans generally had reservations.

60 Million-To-1 Birth Recorded By English Wife

CHESTERFIELD, England (UPI)—Doctors today reported the birth of a boy who developed in his mother's abdominal cavity instead of the womb.

Chances of such a birth were placed at 60 million to one.

The mother was identified as Mrs. Cythia Longson, 26, of nearby Brimington.

The infant weighed 4 pounds 6 ounces at birth eight days ago.

Doctors said such births are normally fatal to both mother and baby. They said there have been only 500 cases recorded in the Western world and that only about 50 of those infants survived.

The Longson baby was expected next month. The mother was rushed to Scarasdale Hospital when she developed stomach pains.

The baby, named Hayley, has been placed in an incubator. Mrs. Longson is recovering satisfactorily from the delivery operation.

The father, Ronald, 28, a truck driver, was on the road when the baby was born.

The Portland vase is a rare and beautiful burial urn found near Rome in the 16th century.

The $1.7 billion asked for military aid and the $2.2 billion requested for economic assistance added up to the lowest aid budget submitted since the program began 18 years ago.

Last year Johnson also sent a "bare bones" request and Congress responded accordingly.

Instead of the customary lopping off of huge sums, Congress voted a $3.5 billion authorization (or spending ceiling) and an appropriation only $250 million less than that.

This year Johnson's exact request was for $3,380,370,000, halfway between the $3,516,700,000 asked last year and the $3,250,000,000 which was finally appropriated by Congress.

The new funds would be for fiscal 1966, which begins July 1.

Chairman Thomas E. Morgan (D-Pa.), of the House foreign affairs committee, is expected to begin authorization hearings shortly. He wants to bring the bill to the House floor by the middle of April.

With even bigger Democratic majorities than last year, the committee and the House are expected to approve a $3.4 billion authorization, or very close to it.

Business Briefs

Comet, Lincoln, Mercury Sales Show Increase

JACKSONVILLE (Sp.)—Record sales of Lincoln-Mercury division cars during 1964 in the Ford Motor Company division's Jacksonville district were reported today by George P. Montagnet, district sales manager.

The biggest increase was in Comet sales, with 10,233 units during the year 16 per cent higher than during 1963, the previous record year. In addition, combined Comet and Mercury sales of 14,537 surpassed the old record of 1963 by seven per cent.

Sales of the luxury Lincoln Continental also were at record levels, with 2,190 units, an 11 per cent increase over the record established in 1963.

December sales also established records to close the year. Comet sales of 767 were four per cent higher and combined Comet-Mercury sales of 1,295 were 27 per cent higher than the respective December records set the year before. In addition, December Mercury sales were the highest since 1956.

Ranch House Opening Today

The newest restaurant in the Florida chain of Ranch Houses is holding its grand opening in Sanford today.

The local eatery, fourth in the past year in Central Florida, is located just south of the city on Hwy 17-92.

Already becoming famous for fast service, excellent cuisine and reasonable prices, the Ranch Houses are owned by a trio of enterprising young Greek's who grew up together in Buffalo, N. Y.

After other members of the family came to Florida and opened business in the Miami-Ft. Lauderdale area, the three young men followed, worked in the south Florida restaurants of the chain and then moved on north to the Central Florida area to set up their own Ranch Houses.

C. J. Yianilos, president, Peter Lanaris, treasurer and James T. Argeros, secretary credit the instant success of their restaurants to hard work, good food which has been carefully chosen and fast, efficient service.

One of the most important staff members is Carl Herold, a German baker who makes all the rich pies for the Ranch Houses of Central Florida. These delicate concoctions have rapidly gained delighted recognition from area diners. In addition to those sold at the restaurant by the alert, diners may also order one, or more, to take home.

Besides the home-baked pies, equally delicious cakes and rolls are made fresh each day for the Ranch House patrons.

Steaks are choice, hand-picked and none are frozen. Hamburgers are ground fresh and all foods are supplied from a central commissary, which is quick to bolster supplies to any of the four area restaurants if business is heavy and stocks begin to run low.

All of the attractive Ranch House buildings are constructed on a standard plan for the most economical operation. General contractor for the Sanford restaurant, newest of the chain, was A. K. Shoemaker, Jr.

The comfortable, softly-lit booths and counters seat 74 people and each store has 16 employees. All food is prepared right up front on a charcoal grill in plain sight of the customers.

The Ranch House partners, Argeros, Lanaris and Yianilos expressed themselves as being impressed and pleased with the success of their venture.

Customers who have sampled the cuisine, atmosphere and service express themselves as being pleased, too.

Language Of Pearls

By Helen Hennessy,
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Women's Editor

Unless you happen to have a pearl-bearing oyster stashed away as a pet, chances are your milky necklace is not the real thing. But, cheer up. Hardly anyone's is.

So stop eating oyster stew with rigid concentration. And, anyway, the beauty of today's simulated pearls rivals the real thing.

Year after year, pearls reign as queen of the jewel box because they are fashionably right on everything from sweaters to formal.

Choosing the right size, shape and length can, however, be a confusing task.

A famous manufacturer of fine simulated pearls (Vendome Couturier Jewelry) suggests this guide to the language of pearls.

There are six lengths. The choker necklace hugs the neck. The standard falls just below the collarbone. Princess length ends where the bustline begins. Matinee pearls drop anywhere from one to two inches below the bustline. Opera length comes to the hips and can be looped, knotted or given full play. Last, the pearl rope, longer than opera length, is particularly good for a tall woman.

If your neck is less than swanlike, don't wear a choker. The princess or matinee lengths are best for you.

If you're lucky enough to have a long neck, wear a choker or standard length. But if you wear a long necklace, loop it once or twice, starting at the throat.

A long necklace should be tapered for a slimming look. Do this by knotting the necklace to give a tassel effect.

Pearls generally come in four different shapes: spherical, baroque (nugget), button (slightly domed with a flat base) and seed (scarcely larger than a pinhead). But most fine quality man-made pearls are spherical. This contour conforms to the shape of genuine pearls.

These suggestions should be helpful, but let your mirror be your final guide — and be sure it's full-length glass.

Chic Chat:

"I entertain at home a lot because good baby sitters are hard to come by. I'd like to buy a couple of long skirts for this purpose. Should they come to the floor?" — Dorothy B.

Dear Dorothy B.: — No. Ankle length is better looking and a lot more practical. And even newer is the just-below-the-calf hemline. Both new lengths are smart looking. There's no need to sweep the floors with your skirt or to take a chance on tripping with a laden tray in your hands.

Please send your fashion problems to Helen Hennessy in care of this paper. While she cannot answer each letter personally, letters of general interest will be answered in this column.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Where is a girl supposed to sit when she is on a date with a boy who drives a car with bucket seats? Would it be proper for her to sit in the middle, between the two bucket seats so she won't be so far away from her date? Supposing the gear shift is between the two seats? Please answer in the paper because I know other girls who have the same problem.

NOT CLOSE ENOUGH

DEAR NOT: The girl sits in the bucket seat BE-SIDE the driver. The problem of distance between the girl and her date is a mere drop in the bucket compared to those she'll run into if she tries to occupy the "no girl's land" between the seats. Sit where you belong. He can't drive forever.

DEAR ABBY: I am 26 and the mother of four children. When I married (six years ago) I weighed 118 pounds, and wore a size 12 dress. I am five feet six and everyone used to compliment me on my figure. Today I wear a size 18 1/2 dress, and the last time I had the courage to get on a scale I weighed 188 pounds. I don't have to tell you how ashamed of myself I am. I have gone on every diet I've heard of and I've even tried to smoke, but it makes me sick. I just don't have the will power to stick with a diet. I've heard there is a club people join to help them lose weight. It's supposed to be something like Alcoholics Anonymous. People help each other. I need inspiration and encouragement from others who have the same problem. Or doesn't that work, either?

FAT AND DISGUSTED

DEAR FAT: Nothing "works" unless you are willing to work at making it work. "TOPS" (Take Off Pounds Sensibly) is one of the most prominent clubs. Write to their headquarters at 2306 S. Howell Ave., Milwaukee 7, Wisconsin, for information about their chapters in other cities. Good luck.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter was raised in a good Christian home but you would never know it from the way she has acted since she was 14. She is 22 now and is going through her third divorce. She could never keep a husband because she was so crazy about men. And the lower they were, the better she liked them.

She is under a doctor's care now and the doctor told me my daughter runs with bums because of a "VITAMIN DEFICIENCY." Is this possible?

CAN'T BELIEVE IT

DEAR CAN'T: Your daughter's deficiency strikes me as more moral than physical, but maybe the doctor is right. After he fills her full of vitamins, you'll find out.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "WAITING FOR TOMMY": He seems more interested in having a ball than in having a ball and chain. Give up.

If You Believe She Lies ...

By Mrs. Marjell Lawrence,
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: I baby-sit for my two grand-children when my son and his wife go out. The boy seldom gives me trouble but the girl lies. She puts out her light at 10 o'clock as her parents want me to tell her to do, but as soon as she thinks I'm back downstairs she switches it on again to read. Though I have caught her several times with the light showing under her door, she turns it off when she hears me coming and denies that she's had it on.

ANSWER: Wasn't it hard enough to raise your own children without taking on the moral education of your son's? If you really believe that this child is a serious liar, don't you think you should tell her parents — and let them worry about it?

If you don't believe this, how about treating her like a little more openness of your own instead of tip-toeing up and downstairs and generally lurking about? How about opening her door and saying: "What are we going to do about this reading after bedtime? Are you going to force me to ask your parents to remove the bulb from your lamp when they go out at night — or are you going to keep it turned out the way they expect you to do?"

As it is you've joined her in her little game of deceit by sneaking about to catch her in disobedience without her knowledge just as she tries to sneak in post-bedtime reading without your knowledge. What she needs is your open and unreserved declaration that her lie hasn't fooled you.

Unless we deliver this unreserved openness to a child who has lied to us, we can't expect him to be open with us. Children lie to us for the same reason we lie to ourselves or to others.

A girl presents us with the image of a good obedient child who wouldn't dream of reading when she's supposed to be asleep because she thinks we can't stand the real, deficient child she actually is. We do the same thing when we lie. We present to ourselves or others an image of ourselves as people who never forget telephone messages, whose kindness is always disinterested and who poses no deficiencies. If we understand that fear of our real selves is what compels us to lie, we can recognize the same fear in the lying child. We make it unnecessary to lie to us by our open and unreserved acceptance of the deficiency the child is afraid to confess.

'65 Look: Casual

By Jerry Sheehan
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK (NEA) — Another year stretches before us. What can the clothing-conscious man look forward to?

Beginning at the top, the trend in hats this year will be toward the printed felt in check, herringbone and plaid patterns. Up close they have a distinct sporty flavor, but at a distance they blend into an almost solid color. Also continuing in popularity will be the suede and brushed pigskin numbers.

Look, too, for a different type of suit style — the shaped suit. The shoulders will be slightly squared, but not in gangster fashion. The chest will be fuller, the waistline slightly diminished and hips tapered. The advantage of the shaped suit is that it makes most of us look slimmer.

Sweaters are continuing big in a rainbow of colors. Look, especially for sweater-sock combinations — where the socks pick up the texture or design from the sweater. Very sporty and very good-looking.

The foulard breast-pocket handkerchief is developing into an important trend. For business wear every attractive color and pattern is being seen these days. If you have been wearing a white linen handkerchief a square or pointed, the advice is use it for blowing, not for showing. A bright touch which will be more in evidence this year is colorful linings inside jackets. Guys seem to like them. Slacks will continue in their tapered look. The iridescent will be as big this year as they were in '64. Look also for white slacks for the summer. Budget more for your cleaning bills in '65.

With the increasing popularity of tweeds and tweed-type suits and sports garb there will be a revival of heavier and more rugged footwear. Brushed leather shoes are selling like mad around the country. Hand-stitched shoes are also coming on strong.

The look, briefly, for 1965 is colorful, relaxed and brawny.

Jacoby On Bridge By Oswald Jacoby

In a recent International Match Point match at the Valley View Studio in Dallas, Tex., I took one North-South pair five rounds of bidding to reach a very good six diamond contract. South won the first spade in dummy, led a trump to his ace and a second trump back to dummy's king.

At this point, there was no play left for the contract, but South gave it the old college try. He led the queen of clubs from dummy and if East had covered with the king, South would have been able to finesse against West's ten and get rid of his losing spade, but East held up his king. If South had known about the 4-1 diamond break before he led trumps, he could have made the hand by attacking clubs at trick two, but South made the normal play by assuming diamonds would split 3-2.

The six-diamond contract had been eminently correct, since all it depended on was a reasonable trump break, but to add insult to injury, the opposing North-South pair reached the inferior contract of six hearts and made it.

At that table, South won the first spade in dummy and promptly led the queen of clubs. There was no way to make the heart slam if the club finesse was going to lose.

The queen of clubs was allowed to hold, whereupon South drew trumps and cashed his ace of clubs. Then he played the ace of diamonds and a second diamond to dummy's queen.

His next play was the nine of clubs. East had to play his king, whereupon South returned to dummy with the king of diamonds and discarded one of his two losers on the jack of clubs.

Old Music Stand

By Polly Cramer,
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

DEAR POLLY — I like Frances' idea of using a clipboard for a book holder but I can go one better. I read a my own music stand with two clip clothepins to hold the book open and attached to the stand and read while my hands are busy knitting.

JULIA

GIRLS — That is getting double mileage out of every minute, isn't it? — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — I read about the lady who asked how to keep her trailer walls looking beautiful and you tell that trailer dealer to go soak his head. Each time she cleans her walls with furniture oil or wax she will build up a film and after a few such cleanings her walls will dull. To clean her woodwork quickly and get it squeaky clean she should use one gallon water, one half cup vinegar, and one cup paraffin oil. If this oil is not available use the same amount of all-purpose cedar furniture polish. Put this in a metal container so it can be kept warm. Do not use it cold. Wash off your woodwork with this and dry with a soft cloth and there will be no streaks or polishing to do. It is surprising how much good will come off. This is also good on natural finish wood cabinets, as it cuts grease. This formula was given to me years ago by a trailer factory man. We lived in our trailer for 10 years and the wood was as beautiful when we moved as when we bought the trailer. So I know it works. If one fries a lot of food this cleaning should be done every six months, if not, once a year is sufficient.

ANN

GIRLS — This would be a dull old world without differences of opinion and the right to air them. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — The column is like an old and trusted friend to me. I would really treasure one of those delightful Polly letters.

We have five small grandchildren and every table and mantle shelf was getting cluttered with their pictures. We purchased a 3-by-5-foot piece of perforated hard board and my husband framed it (however, framing is not really necessary). I painted it to match the decor in our family room and hung it over a desk. I framed the pictures of all the babies and with hooks bought for the purpose hooked them on this board. I even have space left for an expected baby. This is quite a conversation piece and I really enjoy the pictures more now that they are all together.

MARY

DEAR POLLY — To make your linens look like new, add a few drops of glycerin to the starch. You will be pleased at how much easier they are to iron and at the resulting nice gloss. I use the same trick on marquisette or voile curtains. The glycerin not only seems to give new life but the things do not seem to get dirty so quickly. — L.M.W.

GIRLS — I added one-fourth teaspoon glycerin to one cup of light cold water starch and the linen looked beautiful. — POLLY

Do you think it is a good idea to brush dry falling hair? Mine is falling and if I dare brush it, it comes out so badly. What should I do? I need a new hair brush if I am to brush, but what kind? — Mrs. H. K.

Brushing stimulates circulation; therefore, for healthy hair, brushing is essential. The hair which comes out on your brush is already "loose hair." Massage your scalp with cosmetic oil, brushing up and out. Shampoo every week. After drying your hair, use the oil on the scalp, not on the brush. Buy a really good hair brush of real bear bristle, not nylon. This is an investment and will do much for your hair. Use a good comb, tortoise shell if possible. Synthetic implements are bad for dry hair, in fact, I think, for any hair!

"I am the guest of honor at a dinner. Should I take the hostess a gift?" — N.

Certainly, such as a book, a small bouquet, a growing plant, a game, or any small and attractive gift. This is the gesture of well-mannered people. If your hostess should have a pet cat, take it a small gift. Bob Barrio, manager of the Friskies Pet Food Research Center, says a cat would be happy with an empty thread spool, or a bit of paper tied in the center so that it swings loosely — or buy it a pretty toy. Your hostess will be grateful.

I am, when people bring a small toy for my pets.

"Is taffeta a good choice for a dress for me? I am sixty. I want it simple in style as I have nice jewelry to wear with it. — Old Girl."

Stop calling yourself "old girl," even in fun. Taffeta is not seen much at the moment, but the brocades are so attractive. Try it; a simple, straight style in brocade is very smart.

We The Women: By Ruth Millett

If you want your husband to look forward to coming home in the evenings ...

When you hear his car in the drive, stop what you are doing long enough to make him feel that his homecoming is a highlight of your day.

If he's in a talkative mood, give him your undivided attention. If he seems preoccupied or tired, let him alone.

If you have news he isn't going to like to hear, don't spring it on him the moment he walks through the door. Bad news will usually get air least until dinner is eaten in peace.

If he's in a bad mood, don't make it easy for him to start an argument or hurt your feelings.

If he has had a good day and is feeling on top of the world climb up there with him.

If he has brought home work to do, find something to do yourself or settle down with a good book so that you won't be tempted to keep interrupting him.

Point out anything you want him to notice, instead of saying accusingly, "You haven't even noticed such and such."

If he wants to listen to a favorite television program don't chatter all the way through it.

Make the dinner hour as pleasant and relaxed a time as you can instead of letting it become rushed and hectic. Just one more thing to be gotten through as quickly as possible.

If you can manage all that, not only your husband look forward to evenings at home but you will look forward to them, too, so it ought to be worth the effort.

Record Shop No 'Old Black Magic'

By Joan Crosby
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK (NEA) — For the first time in 15 years, Billy Daniels is able to make a personal appearance and not be asked to sing "That Old Black Magic."

To accomplish this, he has had to turn dramatic actor, playing in support of Sammy Davis in the Broadway musical "Golden Boy." Billy, whose recording of "That Old Black Magic" has sold more than 6 million copies, plays a sinister Harlem type who sings two of the best songs in the show: "While the City Sleeps" and "This is the Life," a fact obvious to anyone who has heard the Capitol original cast album.

"I'm enjoying the show immensely," Billy said, "but I'm surprised I'm coming across. I had thought of making a movie like this for some time, but I wasn't sure I was equipped for an acting part. Voice-wise, I have no qualms."

After a long and distinguished career as a top night club attraction, Daniels is finding disciplining himself the hardest part of Broadway.

"In a night club, if you feel like cutting your act, you can know the comic will do an extra half-hour. For Broadway, you have to learn how to react."

Billy, who says he is through with night clubs, is enjoying the schedule of Broadway, which allows him time to be with his wife and two daughters, Andrea, 8, and Dominique, 5. He hasn't been in "Golden Boy" long enough to be bored with the routine. "Rigor mortis hasn't set in yet," he said. "But I'm told it will."

Album of the week—"Beatles '65" (Capitol) is a lively excursion with the Liverpoolians, including Ringo and his tonalists. (The last time that statement can be made.) Seven of the eleven songs on the album were written by John Lennon and Paul McCartney, and they are the best tunes by far. The Beatles prove they are still the best of their genre.

De Luxe sets—Capitol has issued some goodies for collectors. "The Hawaii Calls De Luxe Set" consists of three records, with 86 tunes divided into instrumentals, an all-star set, and songs by the late Alfred Apaka. "The Jazz Story" is a five-record set covering the years from 1919 to the present. The Kingston Trio covers "The Folk Era," with 22 of their best-known songs.

Good albums—"I Can See a New Day" (Fete Seeger, Columbia), "In the '30s, in the '40s" (Louis Armstrong, RCA Victor), "Fete's Place" (Fete Fountain, Coral), "The Dave Clark Five, Coast to Coast" (Epic), "Chim Chim Chere and Other Children's Favorites" (Burl Ives, Disneyland), "Cherub" (Teasle O'Shea, Command), and "White Ginger Blossoms" (Honolulu Symphony conducted by George Barant, Decca).

High classical—Prokofiev's witty "The Love For Three Oranges" (Ultraphone) is given a good performance by the Moscow Radio Chorus and Symphony and some fine soloists. Virgil Thomson's "Four Saints in Three Acts" from Gertrude Stein's libretto has been issued by RCA Victor. It is a performance recorded in 1947, and the cast is nearly identical to the original cast. Some glowing music here, and Miss Stein's gibberish is highly staggable. George Szell conducts the Cleveland Symphony (Epic) in Moussorgsky's "Pictures at an Exhibition" (with Ravel's orchestration) and Stravinsky's "Firebird Suite." Single-shots—"Once I Loved" (Joni James, MGM), "I'm Gonna Love You Too" (The Hullyabaloo, Roulette), "Tokyo Melody" (The Glad Singers, Columbia), "Candy Apple Red" (Stan Hitzcock, Epic), "I Want It That Way" (Pat Boone, Dot), "One Little Snowflake" (Mal Terme, Columbia) and "Emily" (Andy Williams, Columbia).

Budgeting Teen Marriage

Teen-age marriage statistics are enough to make any judgy, duddy older than 25 blink. More than 40 per cent of all brides are teenagers and 53 per cent of the girls between 15 and 19 are married. One in seven of these is a mother. Additional figures show that each girl's first husband is only slightly older than she.

Because of their youth and little job experience, the young couples' income is low and could qualify for aid from the President's poverty program in their first years of setting up a home. The average teenager has about $500 a year to spend from allowances and part-time jobs before he marries. Once married, the young couple must learn to budget for two (and soon three) on a low salary. Many are successful. When done well, such budgeting eases the special strain that money worries can put on a marriage.

If you belong to this young married group, you can set up a budget using a living-expense guide supplied by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. It is based on studies of spending by two-person families with an income of under $5,000. It shows what items take a large part of your income and which a smaller part. Once you know how much certain expenses to fit your personal needs and wants.

Here is how income is divided: Nineteen per cent for food; 27 per cent for housing (rent or mortgage payment, utilities, furniture and equipment); 15 per cent for transportation; 10 per cent, income taxes; 9 per cent for fun and personal spending; 8 per cent for clothing; 5 per cent medical care; 4 per cent, personal insurance; 3 per cent, gifts and contributions.

The study reveals there is nothing left for savings but family counselors say a couple establishing a home should not expect to sock away much money in a savings account. There will be some form of savings in life insurance, Social Security and job retirement or pension funds during early marriage years.

If you can save, by all means do.

Parents vs Teachers

By Susan Light,
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

DEAR MRS. LIGHT: Our son, a sophomore in high school, received a failing grade in biology on his last report card. He had never gotten below "C" in anything since first grade, so naturally we were up in arms.

We had been dissatisfied with his science teacher for quite some time, but hadn't done anything about it because our son is like the teenagers in one of your columns. He said if we complained, it would be over his dead body. Well, we checked and found that more than a third of the class had flunked the six-week biology exam. One thing led to another, and finally about 75 parents approached the school board in a body and demanded that this teacher be fired.

The principal defended the teacher and said he was a victim of "harassment." A faculty spokesman talked about the other teacher's resentment of parental interference, and said we were in danger of losing some excellent teachers as a result of our meddling.

Several parents chickened out. The superintendent admitted there had been too many failing grades in this teacher's classes but said he hadn't been able to find anyone to take his place.

No definite action was taken. What do we do now — if anything? — INTERESTED PARENTS

ANSWER: Haven't you done enough already?

Granted, the teacher was probably at fault. The six-week exam possibly wasn't valid, or the instruction that preceded it was inadequate. Perhaps discipline was so poor the teacher couldn't hold the students' attention.

Whatever the difficulty, apparently no one gave the teacher a chance to correct his failings before publicizing them. Every faculty member probably thought, "There but for the grace of God go I."

For future reference, I'll clue you to what most likely will happen: His superiors will watch this man like a hawk. (Where were they before this happened?)

There will be no more failing grades. And the teacher won't be back next year.

You've achieved your goal — for next year's class. In the process you may have ruined a man's career.

Please send your school problems to Susan Light in care of this paper. While she cannot answer each letter personally, letters of general interest will be answered in this column.

The Doctor Says: Go For Broke

By Ralph W. Loew, D. D.,
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

There's a poignant event from 20 years ago that needs to be remembered as we enter another year. The remarkable "little book" "Unwilling Journey" is the telling of one man's personal confrontation with communism. Pastor Gollwitzer was in a Russian prison camp. He had been tortured by the Nazi fanaticism in his own country and now he was delivered into another church service that was to be held in these desolate surroundings, he passed a young man who said, "It is all so meaningless, so senseless."

So Gollwitzer writes, "That was it—not only our faith, but everything in the world was meaningless and everything in the world, even our fate would be filled with meaning through the redeeming hour in which the Eternal Life took upon itself the nature of our poverty. Why did I pass by and leave him leaning against the wall in despair, instead of inviting him into our service?"

"Thinking about it today, I know that herein lies our worst and most frequent failing — that of enjoying the Gospel instead of passing it on, of passing by when a despairing man has lost faith in the Gospel because he has never experienced it personally."

In this time of much cynicism we need a rebirth of vocation. In a time of disaster we know how to rally to a cause and to share magnificently. Now we need to know how to rally in a time of affluence, called by the quality of our faith instead of just by the pressure of danger.

I don't know whether many people really make New Year's resolutions any more. Perhaps they're cynical about the business, not certain that they'll ever keep them anyhow.

Nonetheless, I'm impressed with the earnest people in almost every community who devote themselves to civic programs, philanthropic groups and causes which demand dedication of time and thought.

If this is true, then there's hope in giving this age a sense of vocation. Too many of those old resolutions were just patching up the situation instead of transforming the person. We need this sense of vocation.

It was easy enough for the pastor to remember that despairing man who had found life meaningless. Our problem is that we move so rapidly that we don't see them. Sometimes we don't even recognize the loss in our own lives.

This year will take many of us on "unwilling journeys." The way in which we respond and the quality of faith we share will make the difference. We are here not just to enjoy the Gospel but to share it. We are here not just to enter a year, but to enrich this margin of time.

John Ciardi once said of this age, "We are so afraid of going broke that we are afraid to go for broke." Resolved: To find that redeeming faith that can transform such despair — and go for broke.

Jerry Lewis has one of the rankest roles of his career in the new Technicolor comedy for Paramount, "The Disorderly Orderly," now playing at the Seminole Cinema Theatre.
Jerry plays a hospital orderly whose fumbling backwardness qualifies him more as a mental patient than an attendant in a hospital. He turns the dignified surroundings topsy-turvy when he is turned loose in hospital corridors and wards.
"The Disorderly Orderly" is perhaps the funniest Jerry Lewis comedy to date, and it follows close on the heels of his last hilarious comedy, "The Patsy." In this, his thirty-first motion picture, Lewis is given ample opportunity to display all the facets of his comedic talents which has created a fan following of international proportions.
The film, which re-united Lewis, director-writer Frank Tashlin and producer Paul Jones, is in glorious Technicolor for Paramount release.
Along with Jerry Lewis, the cast of "The Disorderly Orderly" includes such top names as Susan Oliver, Glenda Farrell, Everett Sloane, Karen Sharpe and cameo roles by such outstanding performers as Jack E. Leonard and Barbara Nichols.

"Candid Chatter"

By Doris Williams
Society Editor

EVERY STUDENT ASPIRES to make the Dean's List, but the ones who do are in the minority and thus deserve commendation.

Had the pleasure of chatting with SANDRA HERVISH, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Hervish of Lake Monroe when she was home from Jones College in Jacksonville for the holidays.

During the last quarter, Sandra was selected for the Dean's List for a high standards of excellence in scholastic attainment. To receive this recognition at Jones, a student must have a 93 per cent average or above.

Sandra was graduated from Seminole High School with the class of 1964 and was an average student. At Jones she is secretary of the Student Council, chaplain of Alpha Iota sorority and a staff reporter for "The Crest," school newspaper. She is a secretary science major and desires a secretarial position with the airlines upon graduation.

"Sandy, you're pretty and charming enough to be a hostess, doesn't this field of flying interest you?"

"Well, no ma'am," Sandra replied. "I have an uncle who is an executive with Pan Am, and the prestigious position is too irregular and time consuming." "But you will have world wide flight privileges?"

"Yes ma'am, and I want to fly as a passenger and enjoy it rather than work while I'm flying."

AIRLINES HOSTESSES seem to be quite the vogue these days with so many young ladies seeking a career in this field.

CAROL GREENE, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Irvine Greene, was home this past week-end for the second time since she became a full fledged hostess with National Airlines in November.

Carol was born in Sanford and was graduated from Seminole High School. She attended Florida Southern College and prior to her acceptance by National, was affiliated with First Federal Savings and Loan.

Her ambition as a small child was to become a hostess, and when she discovered she could qualify, applied to several airlines and was accepted by them all. Out of the 150 girls interviewed for her training class, 11 were accepted.

The future hostesses undergo a rigid training program, and have to combine brain power with the "beauty and build" specifications. She received her wings in November and the key to the Electra cockpit. Her class was the original T-Tail-10 and her first flight assignment was on a Boeing 7-27, a heap of a jet.

Carol was stunning in her uniform — a black fitted sheath with a smartly tailored jacket enhanced by the gleaming wings. Her beret and gloves are white kid, complimented with black shoes and bag.

Between flights, Carol is based at Miami and shares a swanky apartment in fashionable Coral Gables with another hostess. She dearly loves her work, which she so capably performs with grace and charm.

portant people she had flown with, Carol replied, "All of National's passengers are important."

Carol did mention some of the celebrities she has met during and between flights who included, Frank Sinatra, Louis Prima, Jack Crosby,

CAROL GREENE

Bob Hope, Robert High, Nelson Rockefeller, Basil Rathbone, and many others.

Her greatest thrill came when a local bank president boarded her plane in Miami and boosted her up.

Carol shares a MAMMA MIMI's enthusiasm for culture and the arts, and on this last trip brought home books of famous artists and their works from the Renaissance Period. She was particularly impressed with a tour of the Metropolitan Museum of Arts while in New York recently.

SONI WERNER, a former airline hostess and a friend, MARGE SEGALL from New York City, who was a recent guest of Nona, have been instrumental in assisting many Sanfordites in this fascinating profession. So hats off to all you gals and keep 'em flyin'.

MRS. J. D. WRIGHT JR. (ALICE) displayed unexcelled grace and charm in an informal chat before the Pre-Inaugural Ball Cocktail-Buffer in the Egyptian Room of the Cherry Plaza recently. Alice took time from her busy schedule to pass along interesting tid-bits regarding friend husband's new position, as head of the Florida Industrial Commission.

She revealed that the family is leaving Sanford with mixed emotions and they plan to remain here until school is out.

Alice holds the highest esteem for First Lady Mildred Burns and emphatically stated that Mildred was the loveliest, most charming person she had ever met, and that the association with her was completely tranquilizing.

The petite blonde Alice graciously changed from her street attire in the middle of the afternoon to pose for the photograph in the gown she wore to the Inaugural Ball for Central Florida. During the change she chatted incessantly, in a reserved dignified manner, relating the wonderful and exciting experiences already encountered.

All of her ball gowns were magnificent, and she chose for this one a white candlelight satin (not too revealing, says she), slit in the front, with a jeweled bodice featuring a peplum and belted with a tailored bow in the front.

Highlight of the Inaugural Ball for the Wrights was the presence of three of the Wright offspring, Danny III, Danelle and Alicia, who were accompanied by Ross Wontenay. This quartet was fortunate in having seats on the front row immediately behind the Governor's box, and no doubt had a bigger ball than anyone there.

JOHN RICHARD ELAM, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. (Jennie) Elam is another Sanford student who rates high in the Scholastic brackets. During the last six week's grading period, he made the Dean's List at Gordon Military College, Barnesville, Ga. To qualify for the list, Cadet Elam had a quality point rating of 3.0. So Congratulations, Cadet Elam.

SPEAKING FOR THE HERALD Society Department, it is with deep regret that Julian Stenstrom is flying the coop from us angels. Seems he is signing up with brother Herb in the Real Estate business. Julian is one of the greatest guys this columnist has ever had the pleasure of being in association with, and he holds a magnitude of down to earth philosophy, which he humbly shared daily. Good luck, ole' Buddy, and we'll see you around.

THE GOVERNOR'S BALL created enough excitement to give the patrons an interesting conversation piece for time to come. Two local couples, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Glelow and Dr. and Mrs. Vince Roberts, are doubling up on this inauguration bit and will attend all inaugural festivities in Washington, D. C. as Mr. L.B.L., officially takes command of our country for another four years.

BILL GIBLOW and SUELLA ROBERTS had no sooner hung up ball gowns from the governor's ball than it was time to prepare for the biggest event in this country. Both gals have been busy getting their wardrobes in order as their itinerary is filled with plush parties galore. Will give you all the details up on their return.

Glad we know these fortunate people, who are the only ones from Sanford attending this great historical fete. You'll have fun along with some of the self inflicted punishment an event of this nature entails.

AFTER THE BALL IS OVER—Phewww! We apologize to you people who attended the Governor's Inaugural Ball and were not featured in our picture section. Bill Vincent, Dottie Austin and I were working under adverse conditions in total darkness as stampede victims.

The boss had specified we photograph as many Seminole County ball patrons as possible and graciously allotted us ample space in the newspaper. Many of our pictures did not turn out, so we ended up with space to spare.

The governor promised us a repeat performance next year, so we'll snap you then. A prize winning photograph would no doubt have been one of Bill, Dottie and me about 5 p. m. on the day after the ball. While Bill printed the pictures all night, Dottie and I kept the typewriters clicking. We were discussing the evening, with our literary eyes so protruding that a week's laundry could have been hung on them.

Old Sol had not made his official daily welcome as Bill stood up slowly, removed his lab coat and drawled, "Shoot, I'm not sleepy, the boss are little. Think I'll go out and catch a few before goin' home for breakfast and comin' back to work."

Dottie and I decided to go feed our faces at a local all night restaurant and we literally stumbled in where a few Shore Patrol members, Highway Patrolmen and some "earth people" were dining at that hour. Silverware dropped and faces went blank (with good reason) as if to say "Wonder which side show those freaks escaped from?"

Dottie was still attired in her lovely iridescent blue and white gown which she designed and made, having come on to the office immediately from the Fronton.

It was when I caught a quick glimpse of "yours truly" in a restaurant mirror that I understood the electrical leers from the early diners. I changed from the ball gown before departing back for the office without getting a view of my reflection. I quickly donned orange slacks, orange cardigan sweater, gold fur trimmed lounchee slippers, which definitely were not in any accord what-so-ever with the big orchid and white lacy hair bow and sparkling dangling earrings. What a combo!

After the show, Dottie and I parted with the thoughts of joining Mouspheus for a bit of early morning slud-ey. Upon arriving home, debating as to whether or not make a stretcher case out of me in the inviting bed my pad offered. Decided instead to scrub my bones and head back for the office to assist Fred Van Pelt and get out Monday's Society and then "flake out" for many hours with the work all behind. This is where I made another mistake. (Made one once before.)

We had literally dusted all ball data on Fred's desk for him to lay out for the day's issue when he reported at it a. m. He was slightly up in the air, (flinching the walls and tearing his hair out), when I sauntered in.

"Go home and go to bed! I do NOT need any help! I made ONE simple request from you guys, and I didn't get that!" Fred roared.

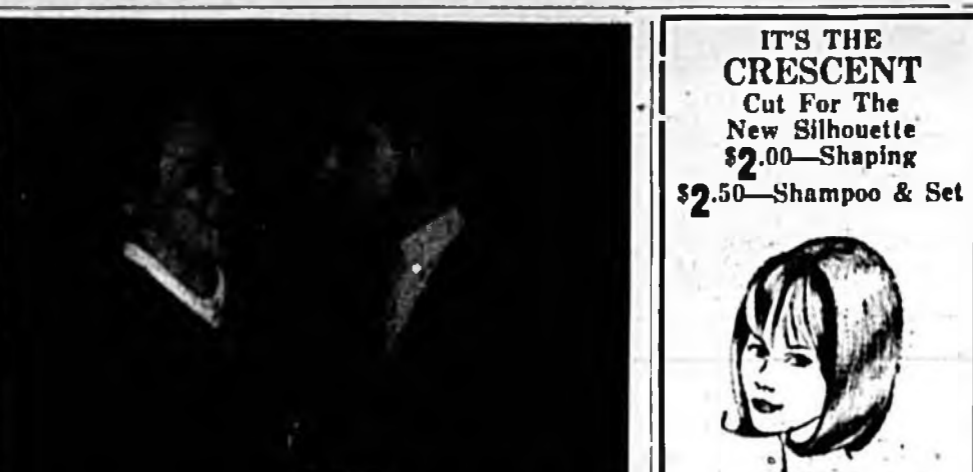

As I diligently tried to explain and complain, Fred was arranging pictures. Thought at one point he was going to rip one of the wire machines from the wall and hurl it at me. He finally read the message that the arrows darting from my beady eyes spelled homicide, so the situation calmed down.

There was an instant when I am sure Fred wanted to slap me on the back, over his knee and administered low enough to effectively produce some loud wails and welps.

Miss Atchison
And Her Father
Home For Visit

By Margaret Cosby
Jacqueline Ann Atchison, a freshman at Florida State University, finished her first trimester and returned to the home of her parents, AT-1 Glenn B. Atchison Sr., and Mrs. Atchison, at 30 North Cortez Ave., North Orlando, in mid-December for the Christmas holidays.

Jacque just recently returned to Tallahassee to start her second trimester. She has definitely decided to major in nursing and not to accept any invitations to pledge any sororities until her sophomore year.

The holidays were especially exciting and delightful for the Atchison family since dad, who had been at Guided Missile School at Virginia Beach, Va., was also home for the holidays before heading out to sea aboard the submarine USS Triton.

Mrs. Atchison declared that her best Christmas present was just having both Glenn Jr. and Sr., Gale and Jacque all home together once again.

Daughters Of Wesley Class
Changes Meeting Schedule

The Daughters of Wesley Sunday School Class of the First Methodist Church held the regular business and social meeting recently in McKinley Hall with Mrs. J. N. Gillon, Mrs. O. E. White, Mrs. A. L. Hardesty and Mrs. T. J. Taylor serving as hostesses.

DeBary Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Petee of Volusia Drive entertained their son, Maurice A. James, from River, Mass., and Mrs. Joseph McCaffrey of Bar Harbor, Me., and Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Fakkey of Ormond Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. John Geerts of Alta Vista celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on Dec. 24.

Mrs. H. Watson of Aqua Vista entertained her son, H. E. Watson Jr., of Indianhead, Md., and her daughter and Mrs. Jo Peck of DeBary entertained guests at a cocktail party Saturday evening at her home on Highway 17-92.

Garden Circles

Camellia Circle
The Camellia Circle met for their January meeting at the home of the president, Mrs. Donald Flamm. The hostess, assisted by Mrs. E. W. Peterson, served coffee and assorted pastries preceding the business session.

The meeting was opened with all repeating the Lord's Prayer. Mrs. Flamm announced that the annual card party of the general club would be held February 23rd at the Woman's Club. The public is cordially invited to attend. There will be many lovely prizes and refreshments will be served.

A series of workshops will be given by Mrs. F. L. Woodruff, III, for circle members and guests. They will be held on January 19, 26, and February 2 from 9:30 to 2:30. Those attending should bring a low flat container, needle point, line material and flowers of one color.

Mrs. Vernon Hardin, Mrs. William Gramkow and Mrs. W. C. Clause Jr., were elected to serve of the nominating committee to secure new officers for the 1965-66 year.

The program consisted of a discussion of schedules for flower shows moderated by Mrs. Woodruff and Mrs. G. Andrew Speer. Mrs. Woodruff explained that the first step is to read your schedule very carefully, if you are unsure of something discuss it with the consultant.

You must use your imagination and think your idea through; it is sometimes helpful to do some research on your subject. The interpretation of your class is important but your design is of utmost importance.

Abstract designs were explained by Mrs. Speer. She stated that an abstract has no center of interest; it must have good balance and flowing lines.

A very interesting question and answer period was held after the discussion.

Members attending were the Meses. Flamm, Peterson, Woodruff, Speer, Hardin, Gramkow, Clause, J. L. Horton Jr., Tom McDonald and Robert Graham Jr.

Mrs. Darwin Shea Honored At Surprise Birthday Party

By Jane Casselberry
Mrs. Darwin Shea was given a surprise birthday party by her husband and a group of friends at her home, 851 N. Triplett Dr., Casselberry, Monday evening.

The honoree's talents in the field of music inspired the lovely and unusual birthday cake made by Mrs. Blynn Reiker, one of the guests. The cake was made in the form of a sixteenth note with pink icing and candles and decorated with two lovely artificial pink roses.

She also received many attractive gifts. The guests were served barbecued chicken, chips 'n' dips, cake, tea, and coffee.

The group enjoyed an evening of games and singing accompanied by the guest of honor at the organ.

Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Reiker, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Pope, Mr. and Mrs. Clare Balmer, Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Werley, Mr. and Mrs. Al Brooks, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Zukowski, Mrs. Donald Montgomery and Mrs. M. C. Duglins.

HAIR SHRINKS
NEW YORK (UPI)—Women who trim their bangs after a shampoo often are puzzled as to why their hair dries so much shorter than planned.

The secret to cutting bangs when the hair is wet, according to hairstylists, is to cut to eyebrow length. Hair shrinks, or "bounces up," as it dries.

DIPPY
Tangy party dip can be made in minutes in an electric blender. Place 1 large cut up chili or sour pickle and 1/4 lemon, cut up, in blender container. Blend for 60 seconds. Add 1 (3 ounce) package of cream cheese and 1 (2 1/2 ounce) can of deviled ham. Blend 10 seconds. Add 2 cups of canned apple sauce and a dash of liquid red pepper sauce. Blend a few seconds more, or until dip is very smooth. Chill before serving. Makes about 3 cups.

Kiddie Fun Day 'Successful'

By Margaret Cosby
The North Orlando Volunteer Fire Department recently sponsored the first in a series of fund raising events to build a fire house with the Kiddie Fun Day which was termed a tremendous success, financially and socially, and was acclaimed by parents and youngsters as providing an entertaining afternoon and evening.

Many expressed the hope that other similar events will be staged in the near future.

Everyone enjoyed the two circus performances given by Scott Brothers Kiddie Festival of Melbourne. Billy Allwell brought gasps from the crowd with his rope swing and ladder acts but they were just part of the thrills. Miss Jane Randall gave an afternoon performance on her horse, Royal Rogue, and her evening performance included a dog act featuring the Canine Cavaliers and little Donkey Brown.

Eddie Frisco brought squeals of delight from young and old alike as his little hot rod car reared and snorted around the ring and the clown's balloon act had the youngsters screaming.

Cotton candy and popcorn were sold and the North Orlando Garden Club sponsored a booth to sell soft drinks, coffee and pastries.

Officials of the fire department have expressed their gratitude for co-operation of the people, the area merchants and organizations and to Scott Brothers for making this first venture a success.

Turtles Wend Tortoise Path

NASSAU, Bahamas (UPI)—The threat to green turtle soup is over.

Measures have been taken to repopulate the dwindling supply of protein-rich green turtles that once were as numerous in the Bahamas and elsewhere in the Caribbean area as were the buffalo on the western plains of the United States.

Thousands of baby green sea turtles—the size of a penny—have been delivered from Costa Rica to hatcheries and beaches in the Bahamas, Mexico, Nicaragua, British Honduras, Virgin Islands and Puerto Rico in an effort to save the species from extinction.

Oris S. Russell, director of the Agricultural and Marine Products Department for the Bahamas, said the shortages of green turtles in the Caribbean were due primarily to the increasing demand for turtle soup, their use as fresh meat for the natives and the devouring of young turtles by barracuda, grouper and sea gulls.

He said the effort to restock the Caribbean with turtles was sponsored jointly by the U. S. Office of Naval Research, the American Museum of Natural History, the University of Florida and the Caribbean Conservation Corp.

The Navy's interest is centered in determining how the turtles, which sometimes migrate more than 1,000 miles from their birthplace, can apparently return to their native beaches after two or three years to lay their eggs.

The beaches to which the baby turtles have been transplanted were selected in part on the basis of records left by Christopher Columbus and other explorers who found them teeming with turtles.

The Navy, which is tagging the baby turtles, has expressed hope they will be fooled into thinking the beaches to which they have been brought are their birthplace. If this happens, when they mature in five or six years they should return to these respective beaches and lay their eggs.

Russell said that in the Bahamas alone some 4,000 baby turtles were delivered to a government-sponsored hatchery at Union Creek, Inagua. These turtles, which may live 200 years and eventually weigh 300 to 400 pounds, will be protected until they are big enough to fend for themselves in the open sea.

University of Florida marine biologist Larry Ogren, who is in charge of the Costa Rican hatchery, described the green turtle as indigenous to the Caribbean. He said that it has been "exploited" by man ever since colonization of the new world and seemed to be dying out.

"These turtles," he said, "supplied early colonists with food. Now they are being shipped to European gourmets for soups. Green sea turtle skin also is in heavy demand in England, where it is made into shoes. The shell is used to make expensive combs."

"I hope that all teachers attend."

Lottie J. Flynt, Homestead, Dies

Mrs. Lottie June Flynt, 44, died at her home in Homestead at 1:30 a.m. Thursday.

Born Dec. 20, 1920, in Asheville, N. C., she had lived in Homestead for the past nine years. She was a member of Patton Baptist Church in Asheville.

Survivors are her husband, Jack Flynt, of Homestead and a native of Sanford; her father, N. L. Crisp, of Asheville; a brother and two sisters.

Teachers To Meet

Parish Begins Annual Event

By Donna Estes

A special blessing was given by Rev. Hubert J. Reason, pastor, to more than 70 children of St. Mary Magdalen Church, Elder Springs at the church Sunday on the Feast of the Holy Family. It was the first of what is planned to be an annual event.

Children under 18 months were brought to the altar rail first and then a special blessing was given to the children 18 months to seven years old. All of the children were consecrated to the Blessed Virgin Mary.

The ceremonies were followed by Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament.

Educational Film Field Widened By U. S. Aid

By Jesse Bogue
UPI Financial Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) — Broadened federal educational and job retraining programs mean widening market opportunities in the instructional film field, A. L. Blinder believes.

Blinder is president of Esquire, Inc., which, while it takes its name from that of a magazine which was the first and principal product in the operation, has over the years diversified its activities into film making, manufacturing of lighting equipment, and other services. One of its divisions is Coronet Films.

"Standard subjects such as science, language and mathematics have long been taught in schools with the use of educational films," Blinder said. "But now their use is being widened to include a variety of other subjects."

"We already are working on some materials to be used in job retraining and even in the anti-poverty programs in which the federal government is interested."

Blinder said there were three broad areas offering expansion in this field of operations.

"Education in all its phases is one," he said, "because there is an urge for greater knowledge not only in schools but in other areas as well."

"There is the natural population growth to reckon with, and there is the support of government at various levels for training and educational programs."

Vestry To Be Installed

By Donna Estes
The recently elected vestry committee of Christ Episcopal Church, Longwood, will be installed Sunday at the 9:30 a.m. Family Eucharist at the church.

To be installed are Raymond Ball, senior warden; Robert Hamilton, junior warden; Frederick Wyman, treasurer; Tyson Marz, assistant treasurer; Robert Connelly, clerk of the vestry; and J. Thomas Hinson, Charles Pasternack and John Lawrence, vestrymen. Also installed will be A. P. Bowersox as key man.

By Donna Estes
Ten Junior and Royal Ambassador boys of First Baptist Church of Sanlando Springs enjoyed bowling last Saturday with their leaders, Othel Sullivan and H. R. Hamby.

Regular meetings of the group are held Wednesdays at 7:30 p. m. at the church.

College Choir To Sing Here

The Florida Memorial College Choir of St. Augustine will give a Concert Sunday evening in the sanctuary of St. John Baptist Church, Cypress at 10th Street, 7:30 p.m. The public is invited to attend.

This College is Church related and supported by the Baptists of Florida.

Will A Marina Pay Off?

Will a Riverport Marina pay off? Look what a marina did for Fort Lauderdale. Without it, that Broward County community was losing along like Sanford is doing now.

Take a drive down that way some weekend and look at the city now. It's one of the "bustlingest" communities in Florida.

It's growing so fast it's hard for some citizens to keep up with the pace. And that makes them happy.

For instance, the announcement made in Florida Trend magazine this month tells this:

"A new 15-story hotel, costing $5.5

million, is to be built at the Bahia Mar Yachting Center at Fort Lauderdale, according to plans announced by the developer.

"The hotel, to contain 312 rooms, is part of an $8 million redevelopment program planned for Bahia Mar. Groundbreaking is set for April. The date was set to delay work beyond the height of the winter season, to avoid bothering visiting yachtsmen, Bahia Mar President James W. Campbell said."

Will a Riverport Marina pay off? Take a look at Fort Lauderdale.

No Solutions In Sight

The nation's growing freeway network may be easing the travel problems of motorists, but it's aggravating a problem most of us never give a thought to—mowing the grass that grows by the wayside.

What with wide median strips and embankments, plus extensive areas at interchanges, the roadside grass is increasing at the rate of 30 acres per mile of new highway.

All of this has to be mowed, and since highway shoulders are often steeply banked, it can be dangerous as well as difficult.

The Agricultural Engineering Department of the University of Illinois has just completed research into designing safer, more efficient roadside mowers. A description of their work speed, tractor yaw and steer angles with reference to a horizontal 'control line' on the face of the slope, and slip-resisting side force on the tractor."

All this was fed into a computer which dutifully coughed up suggestions for changes in tractor design.

So, as we wend our merry way across the nation, let's remember the unsung highway haircutter and the men who are working to give him the tools to do the job.—D. O.

Thought For Today

I have fought the good fight, I have finished the race, I have kept the faith. — II Timothy 4:7.

Following field tests, a mathematical model of tractor behavior was formulated, "which considered such variables as shoulder slope, tractor success, but I can give you the formula for failure—which is: Try to please everybody. — Herbert Bayard Swope.

Phil Newsom Says

Showdown On Ice?

By Joseph W. Grigg

PARIS (UPI) — The long-feared showdown between President Johnson and French President Charles de Gaulle over an Allied nuclear force appears to have been put on ice—perhaps for good.

French officials are confident there no longer is danger of a confrontation over this in 1965.

In fact, there is growing belief here that the entire project is dead.

Washington's recent announcement that the U. S. State Department's special office in charge of negotiations on an Allied nuclear fleet is being closed down was taken by French officials as final evidence that the nuclear force row that rocked the Atlantic alliance last summer and fall is past.

The dispute exploded after De Gaulle's return from his South American grand tour in October. It was touched off by a series of Washington and Bonn statements indicating the United States was determined, regardless of French objections, to ram through its project for a mixed-manned Allied force of ships (MLF) by the end of 1964.

De Gaulle interpreted these statements as a personal challenge. He feared if the project went through it would perpetuate what he described as "American domination" of Europe's defense.

It was at this point that De Gaulle unleashed vague threats through aides and members of his government that if MLF went into effect, France would quit the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) and denounce the 1963 French-German alliance.

Curiously, De Gaulle's biggest assist came from the new British Labor government.

British Prime Minister Harold Wilson went to Washington in November with a project for a so-called "Allied nuclear force" (ANF) as an alternative to MLF.

This would have watered down to almost unrecognizable proportions the original U. S. plan for a fleet of 25 surface ships with crews of mixed nationalities and equipped with Polaris missiles.

In its place the ANF project would have put part of the British V-bomber force, some nuclear submarines, some land-based missiles and only a very few mixed-manned surface ships.

By tacit general consent the MLF-ANF controversy was kept from becoming a showdown issue at the Paris NATO council of ministers just before Christmas.

When the ministers left for home it was with a vague general agreement that representatives of the United States, Great Britain, West Germany, Italy and the Netherlands should meet somewhere some time this month to see if there is any possibility of marrying up MLF and ANF into a workable project.

But no time or place has yet been set.

French officials now estimate that even if the new talks get underway soon, it would take three to four months before they could hope to achieve results. But by that time West Germany's parliamentary general elections will be close at hand. And it is hardly conceivable here that any major decision on so red-hot an issue could be rammed through with elections impending.

All this studying of the calendar explains the suddenly relaxed attitude of French officials about MLF and ANF. Any decision in 1965 now is considered out of the question.

Political Notebook

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Though the Italian Communists will be crowding over the decisive role they played in electing Italy's new president, Giuseppe Saragat, we should not weigh their importance too heavily.

U. S. specialists on Italy say that the country's Communist party, while still large, is "being contained and whittled down."

Party membership, figured at around one million Italians, is perhaps half what it once was. Since the Communist vote in Italy remains relatively constant at four million, only one in every four voters is today a party member.

The Reds' influence in government, labor, agriculture and other spheres is not spreading.

Playing a major part in such a decision as the Saragat election does, to be sure, lend fresh respectability to the party. Yet some officials here suggest the Italian Communists could wither away from respectability.

Under the guidance of the late Red leader, Palmiro Togliatti, the Italian party — strong nationalist tinge. This was its path to respectability. Gaining participation in local government in many areas, controlling half the nation's organized labor and dominating some farmer co-operatives have not proved unmixing blessings for the Reds.

Their stress on their Italianness has tended to overshadow their strong ideological education. As they have played their "working role" in Italian affairs, they have lost the zest and the look of revolutionaries.

At the local level, operating in alliance with sympathizing Socialists, the Communists have had no real coercive powers to exert over the citizenry. Thus their shared control usually has come to appear little more than a somewhat different kind of political business.

There are no longer any such alliances at the level of Italy's provincial capitals. Pietro Nenni's Socialists joined now in the national center-left governing coalition, have been pulling steadily away from Red ties.

Officials here say the "contained" Italian Communists no longer are attracting first rate leadership material, that the party in consequence is becoming a "dried up bureaucracy."

Various front and youth groups are said to be suffering noticeably as the Italian people closely scrutinize the boxes in Reds.

Communism minus revolutionary intent is a contradiction. For the Reds, their present predicament — one not really eased by their part in the Saragat victory — raises the question: "Where do we go from here?"

Italy's Centrists and moderate leftists clearly hope the answer is that the Communists there will shrink into insignificance before two decades have passed.

For while they are contained well by rival forces, they still represent a threat. They command a potent 25 per cent of the electorate and the national legislature. Some economic or other disaster might catapult them into full power.

The Reds' existence as a major force in Italy is one factor, so experts here say, in compelling the country to undertake the shaky experiment of a center-left coalition.

Nevertheless, considerable hope is held out in the United States that this weak alliance, bent on accomplishing badly needed social reforms, may grow stronger — and in the process assist the ardently desired decline of the Italian Communists.

Letters

The Herald welcomes letters from its readers on public affairs. The writer must use a pen name provided the letter also carries the writer's true name and address. Letters of fewer than 200 words will be given preference. Letters advanced to editors are acceptable provided they do not deal in personalities. Poetry is not published by T. Herald.

Editor, Herald.

Again there has been a very serious accident on the double "S" curve on SR 431 (Forest City Road). Monday morning a truck transporting grove workers overturned on this curve resulting in injury to 23 of the passengers.

How many more accidents will there have to be before the State Road Department does something about the road?

There is very little warning to the motorist approaching the double curve and it seems signs should be erected and something done also to straighten out this dangerous section. The bridge is so narrow down in the hollow that a car and a truck cannot possibly pass at the same time.

Dr. Crane's

Worry Clinic

Terry is on the lookout for collateral aids that will increase his future effectiveness in his chosen field. So try to go that second mile in your preparation for your life work. Remember, social acceptance and deft publicity are desirable even for clergymen and teachers!

CASE U-483: Terry M., aged 20, is a college junior.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "can you offer me a blueprint for success?"

"I am studying to become a clergyman, so I hope to enter the seminary after I graduate and spend 3 more years of advanced study there.

"At present I am on the college debating team. What else would you recommend?"

The top-notch successes in any field, whether business, the professions or agriculture, usually go that Biblical "second mile."

This means that they do more than their competitors.

So I urged Terry to go out for track and win his college letter, for such proof of athletic prowess goes a long way in winning the respect of teenagers.

It also removes some of the subconscious stigma that has too long attached to the clerical field where such dedicated men are often regarded as not muscular athletic males but somewhat "sissy."

We thus need more men like Rev. Bobby Richards the Olympic pole vaulter who attracts standing room only crowds when he preaches.

Being on the debating team is superb training, too, for a preacher's major talent should be oratorical.

"You can't fill a church until you first fill the pulpit," runs an old adage that is still quite appropriate.

And "filling the pulpit" means ORATORY!

You will seldom find poor orators in the leading pulpits. Conversely, you will never find a superb orator in a small pulpit!

Sometimes additional college degrees, plus collegiate titles such as Dean or Presy or Chancellor, plus political and financial "pull" will let a poor speaker remain at the helm of a large university church.

But a talented orator, regardless of his youthful age and lack of "pull" will zoom to the top pulpits rapidly.

Rod Cameron, superb missionary, now in Africa, studied my textbook titled "Applied Psychology" while in college.

So he decided to utilize that "second mile" strategy in his preparation.

On his own time he thus studied ventriloquy. Later, one of his enthusiastic parishioners financed a nice "dummy" (costing about $150).

Now Rod Cameron is famous throughout the Midwest where he preached all last year while back in the states.

For the children would throng around him to hear his "dummy" perform.

He has thus aroused more interest in African missions than anybody I have known except for Dr. Albert Schweitzer.

And over in Africa, Rod Cameron now confounds the hostile Witch Doctors by having his "dummy" speak in their native tongue.

He even astounds the natives by utilizing a huge green artificial python as an additional "dummy." This python then talks to the natives!

So Rod Cameron's intelligent use of ventriloquism not only has proved a great boon to the Church of Christ in the Midwest, but has made him somewhat of a Billy Graham in South Africa.

You pre-seminary students should thus acquire collateral talents that will sway teenagers, as well as oldsters.

And be sure to send for the booklet, "Surefire Public Speaking Strategy," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20c.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20) — Have that talk with partner in a.m. so that you can later put ideas to work immediately that were decided upon. Use care and thought. Be happy with mate tonight. — ANNA HEIN (January 21 to February 19) — Get busy at work that has to be done early in a.m. so that you can be with partners later. Work out new ideas, systems for the future. Co-operation is yours with everyone concerned. — PIECES (February 20 to March 20) — Plan your recreational activities for into the future today and also put special capabilities to work. Get good ideas from your contacts. Know what you are going to do in the new week. — TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) — TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) — TODAY, he or she will be one of those charming persons who will get you into all sorts of advanced activities and understand what they are all about, thereby making a big profit upon reaching maturity in such fields requiring a fine mind. — SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) — Thinking big. Teach not to be fearful with others, where a cheerful smile will accomplish even more, give a fine education.

MONDAY, JANUARY 16, 1966
GENERAL TRENDS
A day when you can be very late at whatever or whoever may seem to be blocking your plans. You would be wise to lose charm and magnetism instead of acting in such manner that others would rather not be close to you. Look into big new ideas but don't put them into action just yet.
ARIES (March 21 to April 19) — While you want to be off on some recreational jaunt, it would be wise to stick to duties ahead of you. Show that you are available. Don't let others force you into doing things you know are not right.
TARBIER (April 20 to May 20) — Try not to lose your temper at home because you think things are not as they should be. Show more kindness to him who may be under more pressure than they can bear. Help them. — LEO (July 22 to August 23) — Gather the information you need instead of being in the dark and you can now advance more quickly. Associates are able to give you backing you need. However, use the quiet right approach.
MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) — Forget whatever occurred during the weekend and begin the week with real enthusiasm so that you are getting nicely replete during the week will depend largely upon what you do today. Take it easy tonight.
LEO (July 22 to August 23) — Have you studied the financial pages lately or conferred with experts in business? This is the best day for all such as that you should be right. — LIBRA (September 22 to October 23) — Plan to party to fine tune. — VIRGO (August 22 to September 21) — Plan to party to fine tune. — SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) — Plan to party to fine tune. — SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) — Plan to party to fine tune.

TV Time show of the night:
8:30-10 p.m. NBC. The Bob Hope Show. Bob's recent 15-day trip to entertain the troops in Korea, Okinawa, Thailand, the Philippines and Viet Nam is reduced to 90 minutes in a very enjoyable show. You will see Janis Paige, Anita Bryant, Anna Maria Alberg, Jerry Colonna, John Bubbles, Les Brown and his band, and special guest star Jill St. John clowning with Hope, dancing with the GIs and singing songs from "Hello, Dolly" to "Silent Night."
7:30-9:30 p.m. CBS. Rawhide. "Joey." Albert Dekker gives an impressive performance as a fanciful old man who seems to bring bad luck wherever he goes. But the character hardly seems to have the makings for a series as Dekker seemed to think a while back. Aside from the star, there are good performances by James Mardock (Mushy) and John Doucette. (7:58-8:30 p.m. NBC, International Showtime. "Jolly Jutland Circus." Don't let the title throw you, this is just another visit to one of the staple sources of this program's material, Copenhagen's Circus Schumann. The football-playing dog act is one of the best and there are some good comedy moments with elephants. The balance of the show is devoted to acrobatics and typical clown comedy.

8:30-9 p.m. ABC. The Addams Family. "Mother Lurch visits the Addams Family." As a favor to Lurch who's been writing to his mother telling her he was the master of the house, Morticia and Gomez pretend they're servants when mama comes to call. As a reward for their good nature, mama has them fed. With diminutive Ellen Corby playing enormous Ted Cassidy's imperious mother, their relationship is one big slight gag.
9:30-10 p.m. ABC. FDR: "The Making of a Man." Part II. Dramatically effective documentary covering the most decisive influences in the life of FDR. You'll meet Louis Howe, who tried to swing FDR's early career, his mother or who helped shape his character but who learned not to interfere with his political career, etc. Then the polemic attack which interrupted his life but which he refused to let defeat him. You'll see films of FDR learning to walk again and hear Eleanor Roosevelt and others speak of the event. A poignant show, covering much the same ground told in "Sunrise at Campobello."

10-11 p.m. CBS. Slattery's People. "Question: What Did You Do All Day, Mr. Slattery?" This is one of those demand episodes that come up in every series about professional men. It takes an average day in the political life of Slattery and shows him trying his best to cope with an overwhelming number of details. Problems include preventing the extradition of a friend, defeating a censorship bill, helping choose a state poet laureate, saving his life from an assassin's bullet, playing Solomon to a family with a retarded child, etc. Luckily, it's all well done.

10-11 p.m. NBC. Jack Paar Program. (Color) Good, well-rounded show. Paar has a funny opening monologue, touching on such subjects as TV, Elizabeth Taylor's citizenship and American football as viewed by the English. Edie Adams sings "More Than You Know" and then performs "Hey There" in German. Then, both she and Hugh Downs join Jack for some reminiscences about the old "Tonight" show. The show is capped by Bill Cosby's very funny monologue about his childhood.
10-11 p.m. ABC. 12 O'Clock High. "The Albatross." What happens if you're an actor and you've completed 25 missions and your general tries to con you into "just one more." That's the dilemma facing Lieutenant Kane, and he can't say no. His reward? Half his life is burned away. The period of adjustment is horrendous. Robert Drivas is effective as the actor, Janine Gray plays his girl. An hour of compassionate bitterness.

THROUGH THE CENTURIES...

Through cold, snow-covered fields, underneath ice-encrusted trees, the river runs its course.

This brings to mind the Christian Church. It was founded upon the teachings of Jesus who lived His life and did His work unperturbed by the coldness of many of His fellowmen and of the ruling officials. He knew that His work would stand because it was founded upon truth. It not only stood, but has flowed steadily on for centuries. It is still going on today in His churches. If you do not attend church services why not go this coming Sunday, and identify yourself with this steady flow of the best for which life stands?

There is always room in the river for one more drop of water. There is always room in the Church for one more worshipper.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL - ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Frigid Florida Farmers Fight Frost

Vegetables, Citrus Hurt

LAKELAND (UPI) — Frigid Florida farmers who were up all night trying to beat back frost with water and smoking rubber faced severe truck crop damages and some citrus losses today caused by a wayward arctic air mass.

news... BRIEFS

Traffic Toll 9
MIAMI (UPI)—The Highway Patrol said at least nine people were killed in traffic accidents during the third weekend of the new year.

Oranges Ahead
LAKELAND (UPI)—Shipments of fresh oranges, averaging about 700 carloads a week recently, are nearly 1,000 carloads ahead of this time last year.

Yanks Missing
SAIGON (UPI)—Two U. S. Army officers, advisors are believed to be missing in action today in the northwest province of Binh Tuy, 75 miles northeast of Saigon.

Reds Warn U. S.
MOSCOW (UPI)—Russia has warned the United States not to harbor any "illusions" about its willingness to go to the aid of North Viet Nam in the event of widened hostilities in Indo-China.

Cardinal Dies
LYONS, France (UPI) — Cardinal Pierre-Marie Gerlier, highest Roman Catholic authority in France, died Sunday at the age of 85. He bore the title of archbishop of Lyons and primate of the Gauls.

'Disenchanted'
NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Juanita Castro, refugee sister of the Cuban premier, said the Cuban people are becoming disenchanted with her brother's regime. She said 90 per cent of Cuba's remaining residents would welcome a chance to do something about it.

3 Men Lost
BUNNEL (UPI) — Flagler County deputy sheriff searched the cold waters of Crescent Lake today for three men from Jacksonville believed to have drowned while fishing. A boat belonging to the men was found capsized yesterday afternoon, about 30 hours after they left a fishing camp.

Students Found
GAINESVILLE (UPI) — A college couple lost in a cave northwest of here since noon Sunday was found early today by an Alachua County sheriff's department search team. Jane Sniffin, a 21-year-old University of Florida student, and George Miller, 20, a student at Florida State University, became lost while exploring Warren's Cave, about eight miles from here.

Churchill Losing In Fight Against Death

World Prays For Wartime British Chief

LONDON (UPI) — Sir Winston Churchill lost more ground today and slipped peacefully near death. His valiant heart faltered but his will to live persevered.

"Sir Winston had a restless night," a medical bulletin released at 11:50, (6:50 a.m. EST) said. "He is a little weaker but there is nothing further to report."

A British Medical Association spokesman, commenting on the report, said Churchill's illness "appears to be following the normal pattern."

"There is no indication of any great change in Sir Winston's condition," he said.

Physician and long-time friend, said the next bulletin issued at about 8:30 p.m. (3:30 p.m. EST).

FEARS HEIGHTENED
Today's report heightened fears that the end was near. The 90-year-old Churchill's dwindling strength as he lay in a deep coma.

The crowd outside the Churchill residence, which reached a peak of 500 at times over the weekend, had dwindled to about 60 bystanders today.

WIFE AT BEDSIDE
Lady Clementine Churchill remained at Sir Winston's bedside or within call. Other members of the family continued to come and go as they have ever since Sir Winston's grave condition became known.

The wartime prime minister was stricken Friday with a cerebral thrombosis. A medical bulletin issued by Lord Moran, Churchill's physician and longtime friend, Sunday night said:

"After a restless start, Sir Winston has had a peaceful day. But he has lost ground."

An earlier report noted "some irregularity of the pulse." Pressed by newsmen to expand on the bulletin, Lord Moran said simply: "It is not good. There it is."

Final Testing Of Spaceship Set Tuesday

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — Final preparations continuing today for an attempt Tuesday to rocket a two-seater Gemini spaceship on its final unmanned test flight.

Engineers were scheduled to complete the loading of more than 300,000 pounds of propellants into two stages of the rocket in time for the final countdown to start seven hours before the scheduled 9 a. m. EST launch.

Mostly fair but windy weather was forecast for the launch area with partly cloudy skies, 23-mile-an-hour trade winds and six-foot seas expected in the recovery zone 2,150 miles to the southeast.

The flight will be a repeat of a mission that was halted about one second before blastoff last Dec. 9 by a hydraulic leak in the Titan-2 rocket's first stage flight control system.

The 100-foot rocket is expected to boost the fully-equipped capsule 106 miles high and then ram it back toward earth's atmosphere at speeds up to 16,000 mph to build up re-entry temperatures of 1,740 degrees.

The 19-minute sub-orbital hop is designed to test all Gemini's flight systems, its protection against the fiery re-entry heat and its recovery equipment.

A success will clear the way for astronauts Virgil I. Grisson and John W. Young to make a three-orbit voyage in April or May. Space agency officials say a major failure could delay the initial two-man flight by four or five months.

Snow Sweeps Across North

United Press International Record-breaking, bone-chilling cold gripped the heart of Dixie today while a new storm spread fresh snow through the Northeast.

California's were enjoying June in January. Hundreds of thousands of persons streamed to the beaches in mid-80 degree weather.

Community Service Check Pledged By Kiwanians

A blank check will be presented to Mayor J. H. Crapps Wednesday by Bill Fraasa, president of the Sanford Kiwanis Club at ceremonies at the Civic Center at noon.

The check will be for "community services" which the local Kiwanis organization will pledge to its home town as it celebrates the Golden Anniversary Year of Kiwanis International.

A special feature of the luncheon will be a huge birthday cake glowing with 50 candles. Observances of the anniversary celebration will take place throughout the United States this week in the 5,300 Kiwanis clubs in North America, the Far East, the Caribbean and Western Europe.

Sanford Marina Topic Of Talk At Lake Mary

By Frances Wester
Lake Mary Chamber of Commerce will hold a special meeting in the Fire Hall at 8 p. m. Wednesday to hear reports from Sanford City Manager W. E. Knowles on the proposed Riverport Marina development.

Knowles will bring first hand information of the plan as engineers are in town again at this time and he will have their report to make public.

This new proposal of expansion on the waterway will affect the future of Sanford and naturally also affect Lake Mary and other surrounding areas.

Members of the board of directors of the Lake Mary Chamber state that they feel it is "time the community wakes up" and they strongly urge all residents of the general area to attend this meeting which will be informal and open to everyone.

House Demos Decide Posts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House Democrats met today to approve a slate of committee assignments that will underline their better than two-to-one control over the chamber.

The meeting of the 294 Democratic representatives is expected to rally without challenge the assignments made last week by the committee on committees.

Republicans, with a total of 141 committee spots to fill, have not yet decided on assignments.

Lake Mary Chamber of Commerce will hold a special meeting in the Fire Hall at 8 p. m. Wednesday to hear reports from Sanford City Manager W. E. Knowles on the proposed Riverport Marina development.

Knowles will bring first hand information of the plan as engineers are in town again at this time and he will have their report to make public.

This new proposal of expansion on the waterway will affect the future of Sanford and naturally also affect Lake Mary and other surrounding areas.

$2 Million Building Jobs Start At Base

Second of five major construction projects included in the 1965 $2 million construction program at Sanford Naval Air Station was started today with ground breaking ceremonies.

Capt. C. W. Swanson, station commanding officer, and Capt. James O. Mayo, wing commander, had the honor of digging the first shovel of earth for a new hangar and office-shop building complex, a $242,200 construction job.

Strode Construction Company, of Cocoa Beach, is constructing the buildings which will house an entire squadron. The rigid frame, prefabricated steel structures are being built at the southwest edge of the station's aircraft parking apron adjacent to the existing hangars.

Target completion dates are March for the shop and office building and July for the hangar.

Major construction projects approved and funded by Congress last fall in addition to the one launched today include an aircraft parking area, an aircraft maintenance hangar, a facility for checking the power of jet engines, and extension of the base sewerage system.

Work is already underway on the sewerage project. Contracts have not been let for the other jobs.

Major Visits Twice In Day

Not many people are fortunate enough to visit Florida twice in one day and get away from the snow and ice now covering the North.

However, Maj. Leo Butler Jr. and his crew of the Strategic Air Command were able to do just that.

When on a routine flight from Lockbourne AFB, they left Columbus, Ohio, aboard his B47 Jet about 8 o'clock last Friday morning.

In a 15-hour flight they were in Florida, leaving 14 degree temperature and flying into 70 degree temperature at destination.

On returning to Columbus, they found over a foot of snow covering the runway which prevented landing.

Returning to Florida they landed at McCoy AFB to spend the night, until the Columbus runway could be cleared.

Major Butler motored to Sanford and phoned his mother and father, who were having dinner at the Elks Club with Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Butler.

He spent an enjoyable evening with them. He left Sanford at 9 a. m., joined his crew and once again took off for his home base.

Church Building Being Demolished

City crews today began raising the M. E. Trinity Church, Sixth Street and Sanford Avenue, in a special agreement with the church officials.

The building had been condemned some time ago by the city and an agreement was reached whereby the city would do the work for a flat fee.

Beautification Meeting Slated

The program planning committee of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce will meet Friday at 10 a. m. in the Chamber's conference room.

L. K. Thompson, landscape engineer of the Florida State Road Department, will be the speaker. The meeting will be called by A. L. Wilson, planning committee chairman.

Staff Changes Made At Base

Cdr. Warren J. Hoeller, chief staff officer to the commander of Reconnaissance Attack Wing One at Sanford Naval Air Station since 1963, is being transferred Wednesday.

He has been ordered to Baltimore, Md., where he will serve as a Naval Bureau of Weapons representative at Westinghouse.

Cdr. Paul F. Werner, commanding officer of Reconnaissance Attack Squadron Five, until last Saturday, will assume the chief staff officer post.

Cdr. Wallace L. Russell, former RVAH-3 executive officer, moved into the top squadron position. The squadron is now operating in the South China Sea.

Cdr. David E. Dearolph is the new executive officer. Until Commander Werner arrives in Sanford, Cdr. Donald Munday, the last commanding officer of Heavy Attack Squadron Eleven, Detachment Eight, which recently merged with VAH-3, will serve as temporary chief staff officer.

During his tour as chief staff officer, Commander Hoeller witnessed several important achievements. He saw the new RA-5C Vigilante introduced, the Vigilante changed from heavy attack to reconnaissance, and the organization become a world-wide operation.

Prior to becoming the wing's chief staff officer, Commander Hoeller served as a project officer on the A-5A Vigilante aircraft development program and later as VAH-3 executive officer.

He and his wife, the former Miss Frances Hartsel, of Perryville, Mo., reside with their three children at 1104 Cornell Drive.

Commander Werner, one of the first naval officers to fly an RA-5C, served as RVAH-3 executive officer prior to assuming command in 1963.

The Jamestown (N.Y.) native, his wife, the former Mary Anne Emerson, of Virginia Beach, Va., and their two sons, Christian and Claiborne, reside at 122 West Coleman Circle.

Commander Russell, RVAH-3 commanding officer, is a former member of the Wing staff, where he served as operations officer.

He and his wife, the former Miss Kathleen Mead McLaughlin, of Washington, D. C., reside with their three sons, James, John and David, at 204 Ridge Road, Sanford.

A Clock Watcher is disturbed over the actions of one of this city's "finest" and called the newspaper to let it be known. He says an older couple from Ontario, Canada, parked their car downtown to shop and window shop. They got a $3 ticket for having left the car on a yellow line separating the parking zones. Puzzled, they asked Clarence Bower of Tip Top what they did wrong. He explained and they paid the ticket. Bower suggests that maybe a courtesy ticket be issued, especially to those who think enough of Sanford to drive down here from Canada.

Did you attend the Policemen's Ball Saturday at the Mayfair Inn? If you didn't you missed a blast. Good fun, as always.

Annual convention of the National League of Postmasters will be held June 13-15 at the Plantation Hotel in Crystal River. Helping to plan the three-day event is Lake Mary Postmaster Clarence (Cracker) Donaldson, one of the directors in this district, who made the announcement.

The Lake Mary Chamber of Commerce has invited City Manager Pete Knowles to speak to them Wednesday on the pros and cons of the waterfront development program. Meeting will be held in the firehouse at 8 p.m.

Have you heard the rumor that's going around? Seems an almanac weather forecaster who was guest on last week's Jimmy Dean show, (and who says he's "never been wrong") has forecast a blizzard for the Washington (D. C.) area at the same time as the Presidential inauguration. Twenty-one inches of snow, he says. Hmhmhmhm!

Watch for Mayor Jimmy Crapps and City Manager Pete Knowles on a Ch. 2 telecast from Daytona at 1:15 p.m., Tuesday. They'll talk about the Riverport Marina. Understand this is a live show — is the marina a dead issue?

Those Kennedy boys are a hairy-chested bunch — witness the picture of the Honorable Ted on the front of last week's Life. Recalls a similar pic we saw of the late JFK in the same magazine some time ago — at the beach — surrounded by women. Aiy-yi-yi!

The $125,000 raised for the Scholarship Foundation Fund by the recent gubernatorial inaugural balls ain't hay. A sizeable amount of money to help Florida's deserving college students get the education they need. A most successful idea.

The anchor chains going up around the Sanford Naval Academy add a further touch to the nautical atmosphere being created there with the deck guns on the corner and the anchors in the yard. Very impressive.

Incidentally, speaking of the anchors at the Sanford Naval Academy, Midshipmen there have begun a precedent noted on college campuses — that of sneaking out in the middle of the night to paint such landmark with wild colors. Col. H. J. Furman tells us that at Castle Heights — the other McFadden school — the pranksters practice their painting artistry on the cannon there. Saw some paint scrapers busy chipping off the results of their nocturnal prank of the local campus the other day.
