Lake Mary Delays Babcock Corp. Annex

By J. RICHARDS
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — An overflow of city hall activity Tuesday night when council voted to table consideration of a planned unit development two hours earlier than it had been expected to come up for discussion.

The proposed annexation extends from U.S. 17-92 north across SR 427 and up to the city limits running parallel to SR 15. The firm intends to build 950 apartments and homes.

Some residents disputed this, however. "Yes, I think it was planned," said Suzanne Savage of Tracy Drive, a Sanford insurance specialist. "You can't tell me they didn't have it all planned to put it (the PUD proposal) aside."

Mayor Margie Hess said at the meeting she did not expect the proposal to come up again in city business until after this year's council elections in November.

She declined to speculate on any prior planning, but added she thought it strange Hargadon was not at the meeting. "I believe he has been at every meeting we've ever discussed the matter," Mrs. Hess said.

Franklin Ramsauer, a Babcock representative who attended the meeting but was outside the council meeting room at the time the vote was taken to table the proposal said he had no prior knowledge of the action.

Witnesses this week include former Altamonte fireman Don Harkins, presently with the county fire administrator's

Some inspections, but said he did so because Harkins was a volunteer fireman, and not on the city payroll. "I told Siegfried to stop voters from harassing property owners."

Siegfried and Kaiser, now Seminole County Fire Administrator, have told The Herald that Siegfried ordered them to waive fire code regulations in favor of builders and developers.

In earlier interviews with The Herald, Siegfried said a survey carried out this year on Floyd's orders showed that virtually all multi-story buildings built during Siegfried's tenure are in "substantial violation" of the fire codes.

This week, the commission gave Building Official Don Flippin permission to explore a possible "carte blanche" of laymen, experts and county officials to oversee the building industry.

Existing boards would be retained for expert advice, but consumer protection by appeal to the county commission would be built into ordinances, the details, chief state attorney commission indicated.

Mike Hattaway, "but we are not talking about carte blanche."

The commission then approved Harkins' request to be allowed to shift units within planned tracts in order to save trees.

Huskey also raised a question on his voluntary school donation offer of 16 acres of land he valued at $250,000, saying his deadline expired

May 28 and that the school board had not contacted him in the sixth month prior to this original offer.

Today, School Supt. Bud Laver said he had been working with County Planner Roger Neiswander, and that the school board felt Huskey's voluntary commitment of $200 per condominium unit and $300 per single family unit was more desirable than the land.

Robert Vinton Lassiter, of 620 Crestview Drive, is in Orange County Jail without bond on charges of grand larceny, conspiracy, and probation violation.

Seminole County vice squad agents said the case nearly went away when the planned "drug-bust" moved into Orange County.

"We contacted the Orange County Sheriff's department and they arrested him in a Maitland parking lot," Seminole Sgt. R. C. Parker said.

Lassiter is on probation for a recent stolen property conviction, Parker said.

Perjury Trial

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Frank Cocchiaro, once considered to be a high-ranking member of organized crime in New Jersey, has gone on trial in federal court here on charges of lying to the Internal Revenue Service about the ownership of two cars he used six and seven years ago.

The government contends that Cocchiaro signed sworn statements for the IRS in 1967 and 1968 that he owned no automobiles, when in fact he owned different luxury cars in each of the years.

Defense attorney Cohn said in his opening statement to the jury that Cocchiaro did not lie in the statements to the IRS because the cars were owned by and registered to Cocchiaro's father, Rosario.

Nixon Staff Due Cuts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House, in a move Republicans called a slap at President Nixon, has voted to cut the number of top-paid positions on the White House staff.

Supporters of the bill, approved Tuesday by an unrecorded vote, said they were concerned about the increasing number of White House aides and the salary framework, takes his case to the Senate today.

The House bill also subjects the president's entertainment and travel allowances to audit of the General Accounting Office, an arm of Congress.

Nixon To Sign New NATO Pact

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — President Nixon pauses today in his "journey for peace" to the Moscow summit to sign the new Atlantic Alliance Treaty Organization and confer with the leaders of America's chief European allies.

"Without the alliance, it is doubtful that detente with the Soviet Union would have begun, and without a continuing strong alliance, it is doubtful if the detente would continue," Nixon said on his arrival Tuesday night in the Belgian capital.

The declaration approved last week at the spring meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization formalizes a pledge that the United States will consult NATO's 14 other members before taking out new policies.

After the signing by Nixon and heads of the other allied governments, the American President was to brief his allies about his Moscow trip at a closed session and then hold individual conferences with West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt, British Prime Minister Harold Wilson and Italian Premier Mariano Rumor.

Nixon in his arrival remarks said his presence at NATO headquarters during his visit to the Middle East and Moscow "symbolizes the central role that the Atlantic Alliance plays in pursuing our goal of a lasting peace in the world."

The President and Mrs. Nixon remain in Brussels until Thursday, when they fly to the Soviet capital for the third annual meeting between Nixon and Soviet Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev.

The Soviet-American summit is expected to produce a partial ban on underground nuclear weapon tests and an agreement in principle to further restrain fast-moving nuclear arms technology.

But a senior official in the President's party told newsmen during the trip across the Atlantic it was "impossible" for a pact limiting offensive nuclear weapons to emerge from this round of Nixon-Brezhnev talks.

The official said Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger may have to make a later trip to Moscow to keep the momentum going. But he also left open the possibility that Nixon and Brezhnev would narrow their differences sufficiently to enable them to draw up treaty guidelines for their delegations at the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks in Geneva.

The first Nixon-Brezhnev summit in 1972 produced an interim agreement limiting some offensive nuclear weapons for five years and ending some defense systems programs. One of the principal differences between the two governments in the current round involves what consideration to give warheads with multiple missiles.

Answering pretrial arguments that the break-in was justified as a special case to preserve national security, Geisel said: "Whatever accommodation is required between the guarantees of the Fourth Amendment and the conduct of foreign affairs, it cannot justify a casual, ill-defined assignment to White House aides and part-time employees granting them an uncontrolled discretion to select, enter and search the homes and offices of innocent American citizens without a warrant."

Thus, Geisel has ruled out a defense based on the origins and motives of the plumbers, special White House investigative unit established to plug news leaks.

Nonetheless, the principal defendant is Ehrlichman, who, in August 1971, approved a covert operation against Fielding "if it is not traceable."

The second defendant is G. Gordon Liddy, 43, the silent partner in the break-in, who is under multiple jail sentences for the original Watergate break-in and contempt charges for refusal to testify before a grand jury.

The others are Bernard L. Barker, 57, and Eugenio R. Martinez, 51, members of the anti-Castro Cuban community of Miami. According to Dr. Fielding, they were spotted by Spanish-speaking cleaning people in his modern office building in downtown Beverly Hills during the early morning hours of the day of the break-in.

The burglars found nothing useful.

The four plumbers defendants are charged specifically with plotting the break-in "without legal process, probable cause, search warrant or other lawful authority."

Almost simultaneously, Ellsberg was identified as the source of the Pentagon Papers, a highly classified study of the origins of the Vietnam War, in part written by Ellsberg in his role as a Pentagon analyst.

Colson, originally indicted for the Fielding break-in, pleaded guilty to another felony charge in the Ellsberg case, and has been sentenced to one to three years in prison.

Boy, 4, Survives Bullet In Heart

TORRANCE, Calif. (AP) — The 4-year-old boy's heart and breathing had stopped and doctors working to revive him estimated his chances for survival were "no more than one to two in 100."

But on Tuesday, one week after he accidentally shot himself, William Horton asked a Harbor General Hospital nurse, "When can I go home?"

The 25 caliber bullet pierced William's torso, ripped through his intestines and lodged in his back. Dr. Michael Peter, a senior resident in surgery who helped save the boy, told a news conference that a gunshot wound which penetrates the aorta is usually fatal. The aorta is the artery through which blood flows from the heart into the body.

Peter said the chances of a person surviving the injury would be certainly no more than one to two in 100 and quite likely much less.

Peter said William's brain lacked oxygen for about 15 to 20 minutes, possibly "as long as 25 minutes," and this condition for longer than eight minutes can result in permanent brain damage. Children seem to tolerate this condition for longer periods than adults, he said.

Doctors stopped the blood flow, administered cardiac massage and William's heart-beat began again. In three hours of surgery, doctors cut out the injured portion of the aorta, sewed the two remaining ends together and then repaired the seven holes in the intestines.

Ex-Sanford Mayor Gatchell Seeks DeLand Manager Post

David Gatchell, 49, a former Seminole County commissioner and Sanford mayor and city commissioner described himself as a "high-fisted budgeteer" while being interviewed for the post of DeLand city manager.

"I have never yet given a budget to a commission that was not balanced," Gatchell said, "and I have never yet given a budget to a commission that did not increase."

Gatchell is a Stetson University graduate with a degree in business administration and has a long record of service in elective office and public management.

He is at present city manager of Deerfield Beach, a Broward County city of 25,000 residents and a $6.8 million annual budget. Prior to that he was city manager at Delray Beach from 1965 to 1970, and at Fernandina Beach from 1963 to 1965.

When asked about DeLand's unbalanced garbage and trash collection budget Gatchell commented, "If the choice were between cutting back service or increasing collection fees, there would be no choice. I would not cut back service."

He believes supplementing garbage collection and trash with general fund monies if that is what is necessary to keep the city clean," Gatchell explained. However, in Deerfield Beach a dual system of rear yard garbage collection and curbside trash service is operated as an interprise fund, as it is in DeLand. The budget, however, is three times that of DeLand for a city with twice the population of DeLand.

Gatchell said the astronomical growth of the Gold Coast area was forcing him and other managers to look northward for less hectic positions.

Gatchell's salary in Deerfield is $26,998, plus contributions to a deferred income program, compared with the $17,500 to $20,000 which has been the range selected by the DeLand City Commission. Gatchell, who is the sixth applicant to be interviewed, did not say what salary he would accept if offered the DeLand position.

Ellsberg Break-In Jury Selection Begins

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jury selection begins today in the trial of former White House domestic affairs chief John D. Ehrlichman and three other accused of illegally attempting to gather psychiatric information about Daniel Ellsberg.

The case stems from the Sept. 3, 1971, break-in at the office of Ellsberg's psychiatrist by the so-called White House plumbers. Ellsberg had leaked the Pentagon Papers to the media. U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell has said the question before the jury in the trial will be simple: Did the defendants plot to violate the Fourth Amendment rights of the psychiatrist, Dr. Lewis Fielding of Beverly Hills, Calif.?

The Fourth Amendment of the Constitution prohibits searches by government agents without a properly-issued warrant.

Answering pretrial arguments that the break-in was justified as a special case to preserve national security, Geisel said: "Whatever accommodation is required between the guarantees of the Fourth Amendment and the conduct of foreign affairs, it cannot justify a casual, ill-defined assignment to White House aides and part-time employees granting them an uncontrolled discretion to select, enter and search the homes and offices of innocent American citizens without a warrant."

Thus, Geisel has ruled out a defense based on the origins and motives of the plumbers, special White House investigative unit established to plug news leaks.

Nonetheless, the principal defendant is Ehrlichman, who, in August 1971, approved a covert operation against Fielding "if it is not traceable."

The second defendant is G. Gordon Liddy, 43, the silent partner in the break-in, who is under multiple jail sentences for the original Watergate break-in and contempt charges for refusal to testify before a grand jury.

The others are Bernard L. Barker, 57, and Eugenio R. Martinez, 51, members of the anti-Castro Cuban community of Miami. According to Dr. Fielding, they were spotted by Spanish-speaking cleaning people in his modern office building in downtown Beverly Hills during the early morning hours of the day of the break-in.

The burglars found nothing useful.

The four plumbers defendants are charged specifically with plotting the break-in "without legal process, probable cause, search warrant or other lawful authority."

Almost simultaneously, Ellsberg was identified as the source of the Pentagon Papers, a highly classified study of the origins of the Vietnam War, in part written by Ellsberg in his role as a Pentagon analyst.

Colson, originally indicted for the Fielding break-in, pleaded guilty to another felony charge in the Ellsberg case, and has been sentenced to one to three years in prison.

Calley Due Hyperactive Children 'Over-Drugged': Doctor

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP) — About twice as many children are being given drugs for hyperactivity as should be, says an Ohio researcher.

He says the drugs are administered for the benefit of teachers and parents who simply want to control unruly children.

The researcher, Dr. Herbert E. Rie, told said Tuesday at the American Medical Association's annual meeting that the use of drugs to control hyperactive children is "over-the-top."

"It is my impression that the physician often relies upon parental or school complaints as the primary basis for his diagnosis of hyperactivity," Rie said. "Kids whom people don't tolerate for many reasons are given this label."

Editorial Even The Courts Having Trouble

The courts are having almost as much trouble as the legislative and executive branches of government these days.

The courts frequently appear to be just as puzzled by the problems that beset us mere mortals. Most of us who have children have spent years wrestling with the question of obscenity in our private lives without a great deal of success.

Now the Supreme Court finds itself in the same thick. Last year the court in effect lobbed the ball back into the public's side of the net with a ruling that community standards rather than national standards would be used to test obscenity.

No one seemed to know just exactly what that meant — least of all the court which earlier this week seemed to have opened the question of what geographical range is to be covered by the term "community standards." Justice William Rehnquist in attempting to explain the court's thinking on another case said: "The Constitution does not require that jurisdictions be instructed in state obscenity cases to apply the standards of a hypothetical state-wide community. A state may choose to define an obscenity offense in terms of 'contemporary community standards' without further specification or . . . it may choose to define the standards in more precise geographic terms."

The court, which must be looking for some nice uncomplicated anti-rust suits to hear during its next session, got itself into this mess by ruling on the one hand that the movie, "Carnal Knowledge" was not obscene but an illustrated version of a government report on obscenity was.

The picture of nine old men who have made it to the very top of the legal profession sitting around watching dirty movies and reading dirty magazines and then attempting to decide what is obscene and what isn't boggles the mind.

While we're on the subject of the courts, Atty. Gen. William Saxbe hinted in a speech the other day that he may be more attuned to the public's mood than most people holding high political office.

The attorney general, who has a habit of shooting from the hip (which isn't always possible) told a meeting of the National Association of Attorneys General: "It is hardly reassuring when one man goes to prison for years for that while another man involved in a conspiracy to steal our freedom is in and out of jail in the wink of an eye."

That's exactly what's bothering a lot of people about the justice being handed out in the Watergate proceedings. It serves the cause of justice in that country where a man who has held high political office confesses to a felony and then hears himself praised as an outstanding citizen who receives the minimum sentence possible and even has the right to work on the wrist suspended. It is particularly galling when young men who stick up a gas station or a candy store for money to support their families find themselves sentenced to "5 to 10" in the state pen.

But then while collar crime has never received the attention it deserves in the United States. If you make enough money to make cheating on your income tax worthwhile, getting caught need not be a matter of grave concern. A state lawyer will either beat the rap or failing that, make a deal with the prosecutor which will cost you a little of the money you stole and, at the worst, get you a couple of years in one of the federal prison systems' "country clubs."

The same is true when we're reading the attorney general's announcement of a nationwide campaign by the Justice Department to reduce (reduce?) the theft of stocks and bonds and eliminate their use by criminals. He said estimates of the amount of stolen and counterfeit securities range as high as $50 billion a year.

Why a new campaign? Theft and counterfeiting have become illegal since man stopped walking on all fours. And wasn't the Justice Department supposed to be conducting a nationwide investigation several years ago when it was learned that half the brokerage houses on Wall Street had no idea where their stock certificates might be found?

Oh, well, who wants to talk about stealing stocks when "crime on the streets" sounds so much better in campaign speeches.

Dear Sir:

Much is being said about the new Financial Disclosure Law passed by the legislature and signed by the Governor. As one of the original co-sponsors of HB3418 I feel I should offer some clarification to what is being said and try to stop some of the misunderstanding of this important legislation.

Many officials are concerned about the time to file annual reports on their income and assets. The effective date of the law is July 1, 1974 and only those who are candidates after that date will file a report before now May, 1975. Those who now hold office or are serving on appointed boards or committees covered by the law will not report until next May, 1975. Only those who run for office or are appointed to office after July 1, 1974 would file a report prior to next spring. The deadline for candidates to file this summer will be noon August 2, 1974 based on July 23rd as the last day to qualify for the state 1974 elections.

Those of course, would be the officers of state and county government who would then file within 10 days after closing of qualifying for their respective races. Someone who is appointed to a board or authority after July 1, 1974 will have 30 days after that appointment to file a financial disclosure statement. The forms to be used must be prepared by the Ethics Commission which was appointed by the Governor, the Senate President and Speaker of the House this week. When the forms become available the Secretary of State will forward them to all persons who have indicated that they will be a candidate for election in 1974 or to persons who have actually filed as a candidate on or after July 9, 1974.

Those elected officials who do not intend to run for re-election or any other elected office in 1974 will be required to file a final disclosure statement prior to May 15, 1975.

Now permit me to outline briefly what the FINANCIAL DISCLOSURE LAW DOES REQUIRE:

(1) The disclosure of all income of a candidate and public official by SOURCE. This list must include all income that constitutes 10 per cent or more of a person's gross income. You DO NOT list the actual amounts of the income, or the actual percentage of the total. The listing excludes dividends or interest, moneys received from guardianship, alimony, child support, retirement, or disability compensation and other compensation derived from any level of government. The person reporting shall list such sources in descending order of importance with the largest source first.

(2) The disclosure of major clients of business or professional firms, of which the public official is a member, for example a client who provides the firm with 15 per cent or more of the firm's income.

(3) Each public official or candidate must disclose any interest in excess of 10 per cent which he owns in any chartered banks, savings and loan associations, small loan companies, alcohol and apertuous liquor business, whether retail or wholesale, pari-mutual wagering companies, utility companies, cemetery companies, insurance companies, mortgage or title insurance companies, credit unions and any entity controlled by the public service commission or granted a franchise to operate by a municipal or county government.

(4) Any public official or candidate who represents another person before any governmental agency at his own level of government must disclose the agencies before which he appears, and the name of the client whom he represents. This requirement also applies to partners and business associates of public officials.

(5) Each public official or candidate must disclose any debt on which he received a preferential rate of interest and every debt which in sum equals more than his net worth.

(6) Also required to be disclosed is a list of the total assets of each public official or candidate listed in order of size. No dollar amount or percentage is required. Each asset must be listed by type, location, and address or legal description. EXCLUDED from this listing of assets are any that are less than 15 per cent of the total, the private residence, vacation home, and any out of state property.

A current certified financial statement, along with the most recent Federal Income Tax return, may be filed in lieu of all of the preceding items except number (4).

I personally want to URGE all members of boards, city and county officials that have considered not offering again for public office or even resigning now to wait until we see the actual forms that will be prepared by the Ethics Commission. The information to be provided should not take more than a few minutes to list. I had offered an amendment to the bill during the House debate that would have extended the effective date for city and county officials for one more year but unfortunately that was soundly defeated.

There has been some criticism that the legislature RUSHED this bill thru in the final hours of the session and did not understand what the law calls for. Obviously these people don't read your newspaper, because detailed reports were carried of the many days of debate that took place on this bill. The Speaker of the House even commented that his time in the legislature no other piece of legislation had been given so much time for debate on the floor of the house and in committee. Please permit me to outline the basic history of time devoted to HB3418. April 17, 1974 The select committee on standards and conduct reported this bill favorably. April 23, 1974 the bill was passed by a vote of 98 to 22 and was certified to the Senate. The Senate Committee on Governmental Operations then held its hearings on the bill and on May 23 reported it favorably. May 29 The Senate passed the amended bill 34 to 6. Then began the several days of debate between the House and Senate and a conference committee being appointed to work on the bill. On May 31 the final passage of the Financial Disclosure Law in the Senate was by a margin of 28 to 6 and in the House by a vote of 98 to 16. Surely this must indicate that this law was not passed without extensive study and debate by both houses.

To quote a recent area newspaper editorial that exactly expresses my sentiments, "If you don't have anything to hide, then why be concerned with what you've got. I'm proud of my few assets...earned honestly and have no objection to filing the financial disclosure statements now or any other time. If I am to be entrusted with public responsibility I should be willing to answer for it."

Sincerely,
Vince Fechtel

AMERICAN MORALITY TODAY

By DICK COWEN
The Herald Services

The writer is a reporter for the Call-Chronicle Newspapers of Allentown, Pa. (NEA) — Pennsylvania has had plenty of activity, in and out of courts, regarding alleged pornography.

But relatively little of it seems to revolve around the 1973 Supreme Court decision on "community standards" for determining what is allegedly obscene.

Rather, much of it has involved what a Dauphin County (Harrisburg) judge called a "war of the most serious dimensions" among operators of adult book stores.

Over the last 18 months, it's gotten into dynamite and guns, an alleged plot to dynamite one adult book store, actual bombings of two and an unexplained fire at a fourth.

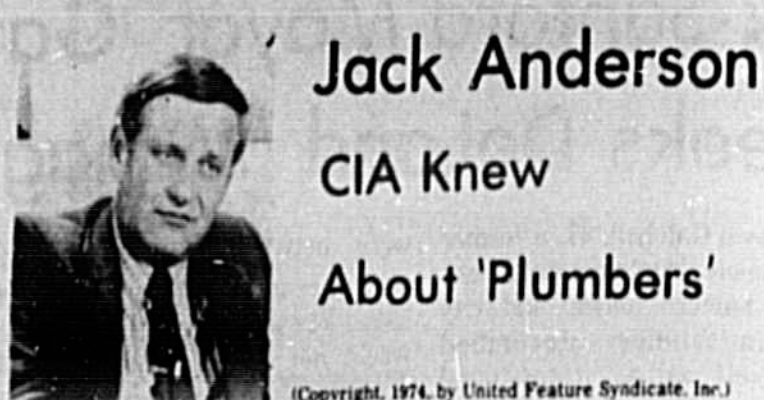

Further, the operator of a chain of adult book stores has been charged with killing a Scranton man to kill a competitor.

A Dauphin County judge issued a temporary injunction closing all four adult book stores in that county because, in his view, the threat of violence posed a danger to the welfare of the citizens of the county.

On the calmer scene: —Pennsylvania adopted a new Criminal Code on June 4, 1973, just before the House passed its "community standards" guidelines of the Supreme Court.

A Pennsylvania Justice Department spokesman says the code's section on obscenity pretty well meets the high court's subsequent ruling. One exception: It permits injunctions prior to court hearings to determine whether the material is obscene.

—Gov. Milton Shapp on March 1 vetoed a new "tough" anti-pornography bill. "It would be virtually impossible to enforce a bill more certain than this," Shapp said. As worked, it could bar minors from all book stores, Shapp said.

CIA Knew
About 'Plumbers'

WASHINGTON—CIA front man Robert Bennett, son of veteran Sen. Wallace Bennett, R-Utah, has conceded that he knew a White House burglary-jugging team was on the prowl in advance of the celebrated Watergate break-in.

A secret memorandum, written by his CIA case officer, states that the senator's son withheld vital information from the authorities.

In an interview with my associate Les Whitten, Bennett acknowledged he knew at least three days before the Watergate burglary that White House aide E. Howard Hunt and his second-story crew had plotted to break into the campaign headquarters of Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., and bug the place.

Instead of reporting the conspiracy to the police, Bennett kept his mouth shut. He also confided to his CIA contact that he had held back information for the original Watergate prosecutors when they later questioned him about the Watergate break-in.

Had Bennett informed the police of the plot to bust into McGovern headquarters, as the law requires, the subsequent Watergate caper would have been aborted and the course of history might have been changed.

This episode is another link in the mysterious CIA involvement in Watergate. We uncovered the first piece of the puzzle as early as April 7, 1973, when we reported that the CIA had "ordered its agents not to talk to the FBI about the explosive Watergate case." Thereafter, we published several reports about the CIA and Watergate, but the full story still hasn't been told.

The CIA used Bennett's public relations firm, Mullen and Gregory, as a spy front. On its payroll was none other than Howard Hunt, the Watergate conspirator, who came to the firm from the CIA and later moved over to the White House.

Bennett's nephew referred a Brigham Young University student, named Thomas Gregory, to Hunt who recruited the young man as a political spy. Gregory infiltrated into the campaigns of the President's two chief Democratic rivals—first, Sen. Edmund Muskie's staff, then Sen. George McGovern's staff.

But Gregory, a conscientious Mormon, became uneasy about his undercover work. He spoke to his bishop about it, who was concerned about the ethics of the job.

Then Gregory went back to Bennett and explained his misgivings. As Bennett related it, Gregory had been told by Hunt to work late one night at McGovern headquarters and leave a door open so the White House burglars could sneak in.

Gregory informed Bennett that Hunt was "reporting to someone higher up." Hunt's White House connections impressed young Gregory. Bennett said he also felt Hunt would do nothing illegal because "he had a full-time lawyer advising him." The lawyer, it turned out, was Hunt's co-conspirator, G. Gordon Liddy.

Bennett said he advised Gregory "to get out." The troubled student gave Bennett a letter of resignation to deliver to Hunt. Two days later, the Hunt-Liddy team broke into the Watergate.

Bennett was called in for questioning six times by the original Watergate prosecutors. He held back Gregory's vital information out of loyalty to the youth, Bennett claims.

But the prosecutors traced Bennett's long-distance telephone call to Gregory. When Bennett learned this, he called the prosecutors and said: "Look, you've found Tommy. I'll tell you about Tommy."

This helped the prosecutors to break the Watergate case. PENTAGON PUPPET: Once again, we have caught Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La., playing Charlie McCarthy to the Pentagon's Edgar Bergen. Perched upon the Defense Department's knee, he opens his mouth and the military speaks.

A month ago, we reported that Hebert, the imperious chairman of the House Armed Service Committee, had presented to the House a report on military aid to Saigon which was copied, virtually word for word, from Pentagon testimony.

—Early this year, "Deep Throat" began runs in places like Johnson, Reading and downtown Philadelphia with hardly a ripple. But officials in Potomac, produced by the Holy Name Society, arrested that theater operator for showing the film. The charges were dropped after the operator "voluntarily" agreed to withdraw the film.

—In Upper Merion Township (suburban Philadelphia), the local police chief with an eye to "community standards" invited 20 selected residents to view and judge material set from an adult book store.

Other residents were angered that they hadn't been consulted. So the chief held a second viewing of the evidence in the township building. About 350 people showed up.

—Perhaps a dozen counties in Eastern Pennsylvania have unresolved criminal cases against clerks or owners of adult book stores for the sale of alleged obscene materials. Some date back several years.

There seems to be something of a pattern to the cases — pretrial defense motions challenging the criminal complaints — a lengthy trial — upon conviction, defense motions for a new trial — months (sometimes more than a year) to transcribe the notes of testimony — further time to prepare legal arguments, and on and on.

FLORIDA TODAY

Tropical Storm

MIAMI (AP) — Forecasters kept a wary eye today on a depression off Mexico's Yucatan Peninsula which threatened to strengthen into the season's first tropical storm.

A reconnaissance plane was scheduled to check the disturbance later in the day.

The National Hurricane Center reported winds of 30 to 35 miles an hour Tuesday, just below the threshold for a tropical storm.

Another low pressure system that battered the Mid-Atlantic Coast with gale force winds was weakening today as it moved out to open sea, forecasters said.

The low pressure system, which dumped large amounts of rain on Florida before heading up the coast, was located 100 miles southeast of Cape Hatteras, N.C., at midnight Tuesday.

Fair Hearing Denied

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — The Florida Supreme Court has denied a hearing on political gadfly Jim Fair's request that Secretary of State Richard Stone and Senate President Mallory Horn be required to stay in office until successors are picked in the Nov. 5 general elections.

"I was very disappointed, but expected it," Fair said after the Tuesday ruling. He said he would take it to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Stone and Horn are candidates for the Democratic nomination to the U.S. Senate. Fair claims that under Florida's "reign-of-terror" law, both men should stay in office until successors are picked in the Nov. 5 general elections.

Stone has said he will resign on July 8. Horn has said he'll resign July 1.

Dickinson Probe Continues

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — A federal grand jury probing the financial affairs of state Comptroller Fred O. Dickinson was scheduled to resume hearings today.

The panel heard three hours of testimony Tuesday from George Allen, a Fort Myers attorney connected with two banks in Collier County.

Allen told reporters after his appearance that he was not a target of the investigation. He said he doesn't remember ever meeting Dickinson.

Allen, who accompanied Naples banker Mamie Tooke during an appearance before the grand jury last month, tried unsuccessfully at that time to wrest control of a camera from a television reporter.

He calmly answered reporters' questions Tuesday. The grand jury, which has met for 26 days, has indicted two of Dickinson's close associates on charges of perjury.

Lighthouse SOS Fails

ISLAMORADO, Fla. (AP) — Three men stranded on a small reef tried unsuccessfully for two nights to summon help by flashing SOS signals from a lighthouse, officials report.

The men were finally spotted by a Coast Guard search plane Tuesday and were reported hungry and thirsty but in good condition.

They told authorities they had broken a wire to the 100-foot high Carysfort Reef Light and for two nights had used the lighthouse to flash SOS signals without success.

"I don't see how the ships missed it," a Coast Guard spokesman said Tuesday.

The men said they became marooned in the lighthouse Sunday when the 14-foot boat they had rented for diving and fishing broke loose and drifted away.

The Coast Guard began a search Sunday night when the men were reported missing by a relative.

Subpoena Authority

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — A state appeals court says state administrative boards lack authority to issue subpoenas for investigations without specifying the nature of the inquiry.

In a 3-1 opinion, 1st District Court of Appeal said Tuesday that the state Board of Dentistry did not have the power to subpoena a Fort Lauderdale News reporter to appear before it without stating why she was being called.

The high court also said the reporter could not be threatened with a contempt citation if she didn't appear.

The court said the Dentistry Board had subpoenaed Barbara Greenberg after she wrote an article the board felt libeled the board. She learned that information only when her attorney asked the board's attorney why the subpoena had been served, the court said.

Askew Signs $4.5 Billion Budget Bill

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Gov. Reubin Askew has signed the $4.52 billion state appropriations bill without a single change — the first time such a measure has been approved without part of it being vetoed since 1969.

The bill, signed Tuesday, lists all state agencies and the number of jobs and amount of money for each. Some $1.23 billion of the money will come from general revenue, $1.913 billion from trust funds and $75.2 million from federal revenue sharing.

Don Price, Askew's press secretary, said every budget Askew also signed into law since 1969 has had at least some parts deleted under the governor's item-veto power.

Askew had talked about deleting his $10,000-a-year salary increase, Price said, but decided not to after being told it would jeopardize his entire salary as well as that of other Cabinet officers.

The budget also provides $1,000-a-year pay raises for the six

Cabinet officers. The raises do not go into effect until Jan. 1, 1975.

The governor now gets $40,000 a year. Cabinet officers get $38,000.

The bill includes $64 million for interstate highway construction, $1.02 billion for lower education, $348 million for the state university system and $146 million for junior colleges.

Askew also signed into law bills to give student-government leaders at state universities power over student activity-fee spending.

That law will also allow students to charge tuition with credit cards.

Also signed into law by Askew was a bill requiring state agencies to conduct their rule-making procedures in public.

The bill establishes a joint legislative commission to review rules adopted by state agencies. It also creates an office of hearing examiners who would mediate disputes over agency rules and have the power to overturn challenged rules.

A summary of the new law by Miami lawyer Arthur England, Askew's former consumer adviser, said it has "far greater implications for the operation of Florida's state government than most people in this state have yet realized."

He said the hearing examiners will replace the practice by which agencies employ act both as advocates before and advisors to their employer agency.

Under the new law agencies will no longer be able to "delay or withhold decisions whenever the decision-making process would prove to be embarrassing or controversial," England said.

Also signed into law by Askew were bills that: —Award $75,000 in compensation to Jesse Daniels of Daytona Beach, a retarded man who was committed to a state mental hospital for 14 years for a rape he apparently did not commit. —Increase from seven to 18 the amount of numbers or digits allowed on so-called "prestige" license tags — such a way that persons in wheelchairs cannot enter. —Prohibit retail businesses from obstructing entrances to

Jax Sailor Coming Home To Die Of Cancer: Mom

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Tim Nunley will be coming home soon because his cancer-ridden body can't take much more treatment, his mother says she's been told by doctors at the Bethesda, Md., Navy Hospital.

"A doctor told me he will have his last chemo-therapy treatment Thursday," Mrs. Robert Nunley said. "They are giving him a drug that destroys the liver, and he runs a fever up to 106 degrees with the drug. "A vein in his right arm has hardened and he's extremely depressed," she added. "He wants to come home."

Mrs. Nunley said the Navy is also planning to discharge her 19-year-old son, a Firearm Apprentice who was on sick leave about a dozen times at three bases before doctors discovered his body was riddled with tumors.

Mrs. Nunley said the family has retained an attorney, Carl E. McFee of Norton, Va., to try to sue the federal government.

Chiles, Gurney Fail To List Free Rooms

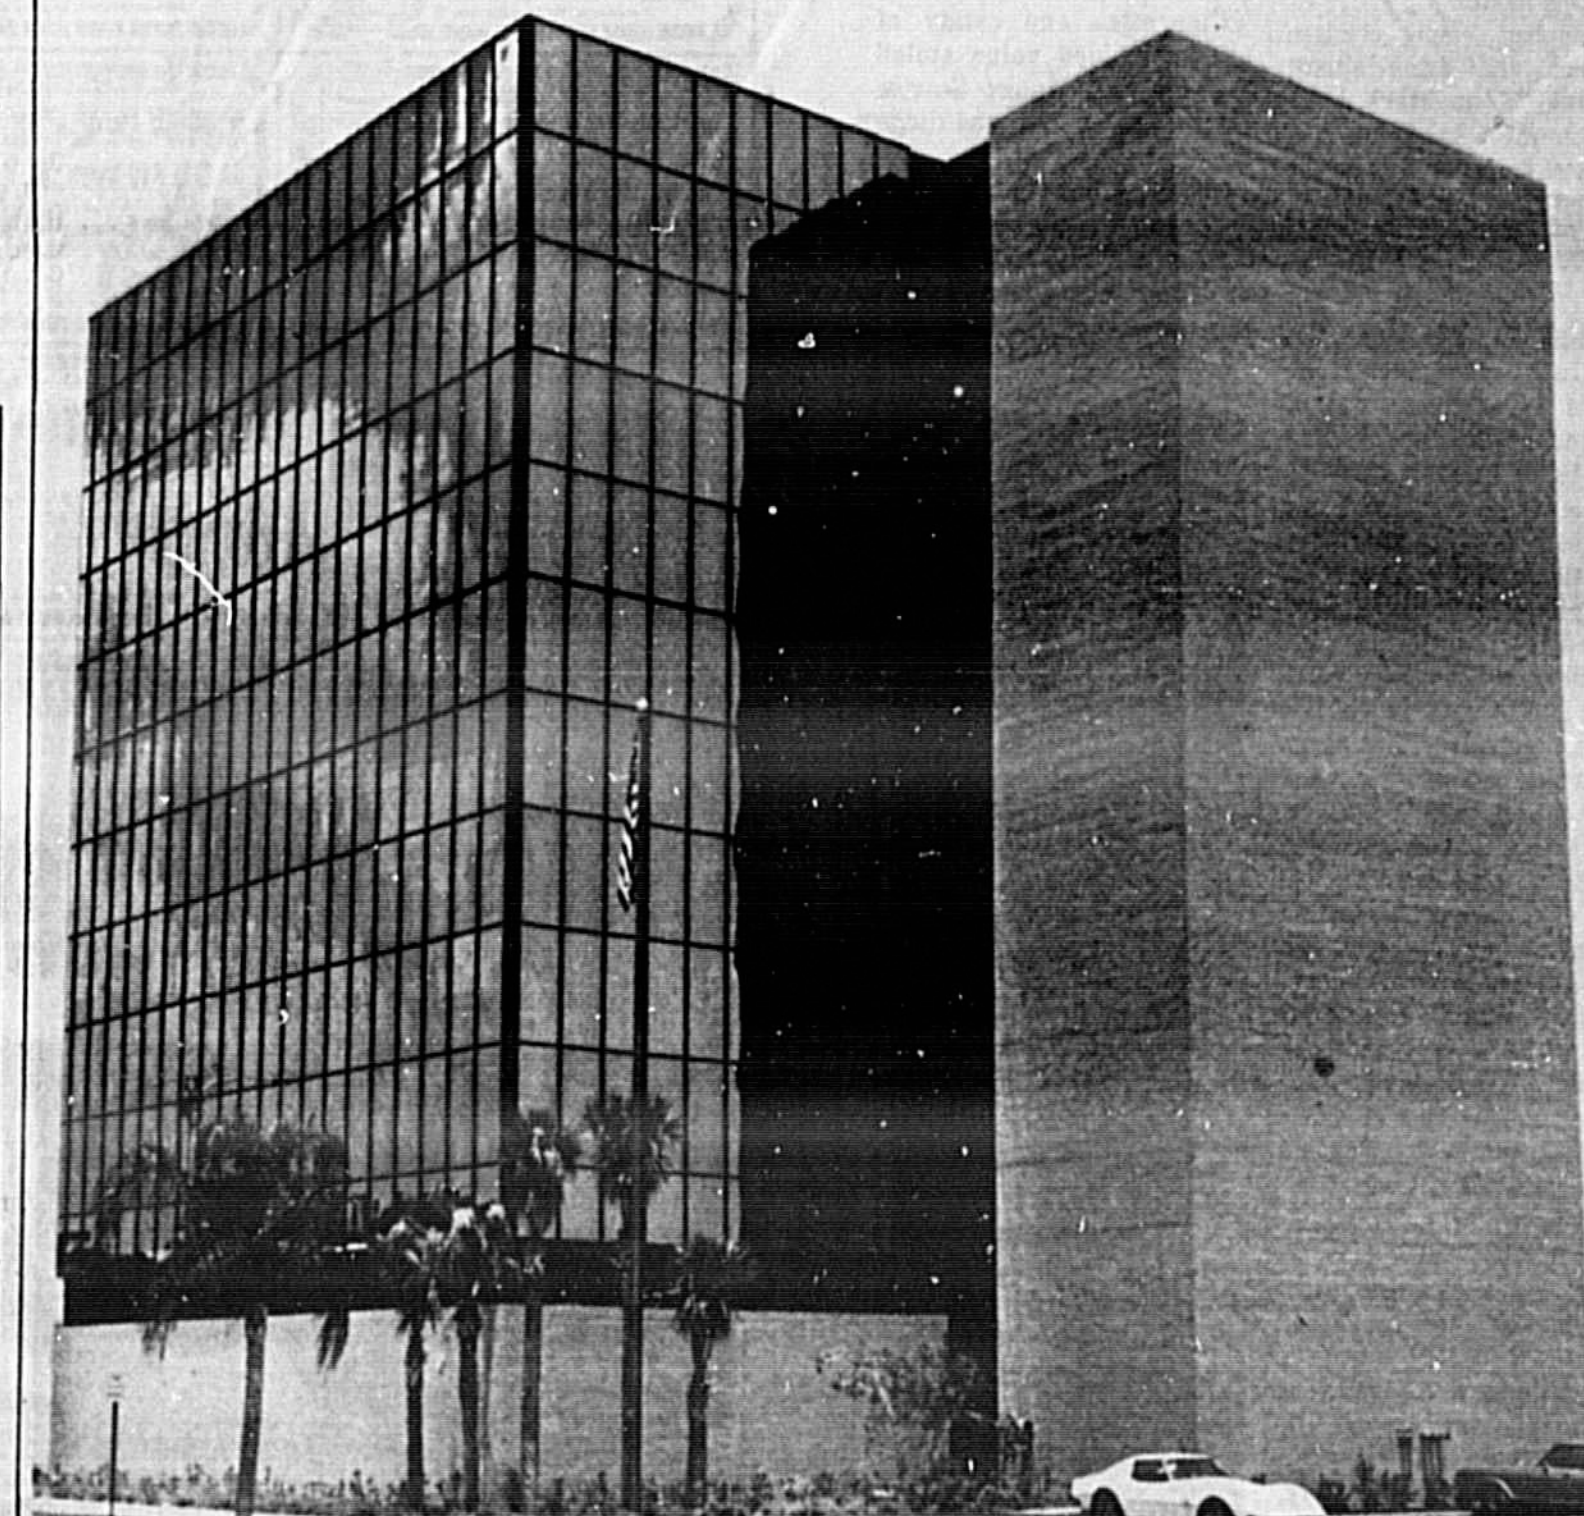

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Sens. Lawton Chiles, D-Fla., and Edward Gurney, R-Fla., have accepted free hotel rooms without filing reports under the state gift law, the Gainesville Sun says.

The paper said in a story this week that Chiles admitted that he accepted free rooms. Gurney refused to discuss the matter when contacted by Roland Page, the Sun's Washington reporter, but his accommodations were confirmed by a hotel owner, the newspaper said.

Atty. Gen. Robert Shevin issued an opinion June 12 saying that free lodgings are a gift in the sense of the law and should be reported under the law, which requires public officials to list gifts worth more than $25.

Gov. Reubin Askew, who accepted free hotel rooms regularly throughout his first term, said before Shevin's opinion that he would pay for his accommodations in the future, either with campaign funds or political trips or from a $7,500 appropriation on state-business trips.

Chiles told the Sun that he will report any free rooms he accepts in the future. He said he would push for a Senate ap-

State Agencies Fail To Inform The Public

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — The staffs employed by a number of state agencies to inform the public about what's going on appear to be falling down on the job.

For example, there was no announcement by the Department of Natural Resources of the death of veteran state geologist Robert Vernon, who died suddenly in Tallahassee last week.

Perhaps the most noted expert in state government on Florida's underground and offshore oil resources, Vernon held one of the top jobs in the department. His death certainly was newsworthy.

The Division of Retardation, meanwhile, avoided public mention of an outbreak of hepatitis at its Sunland Training Center in Miami.

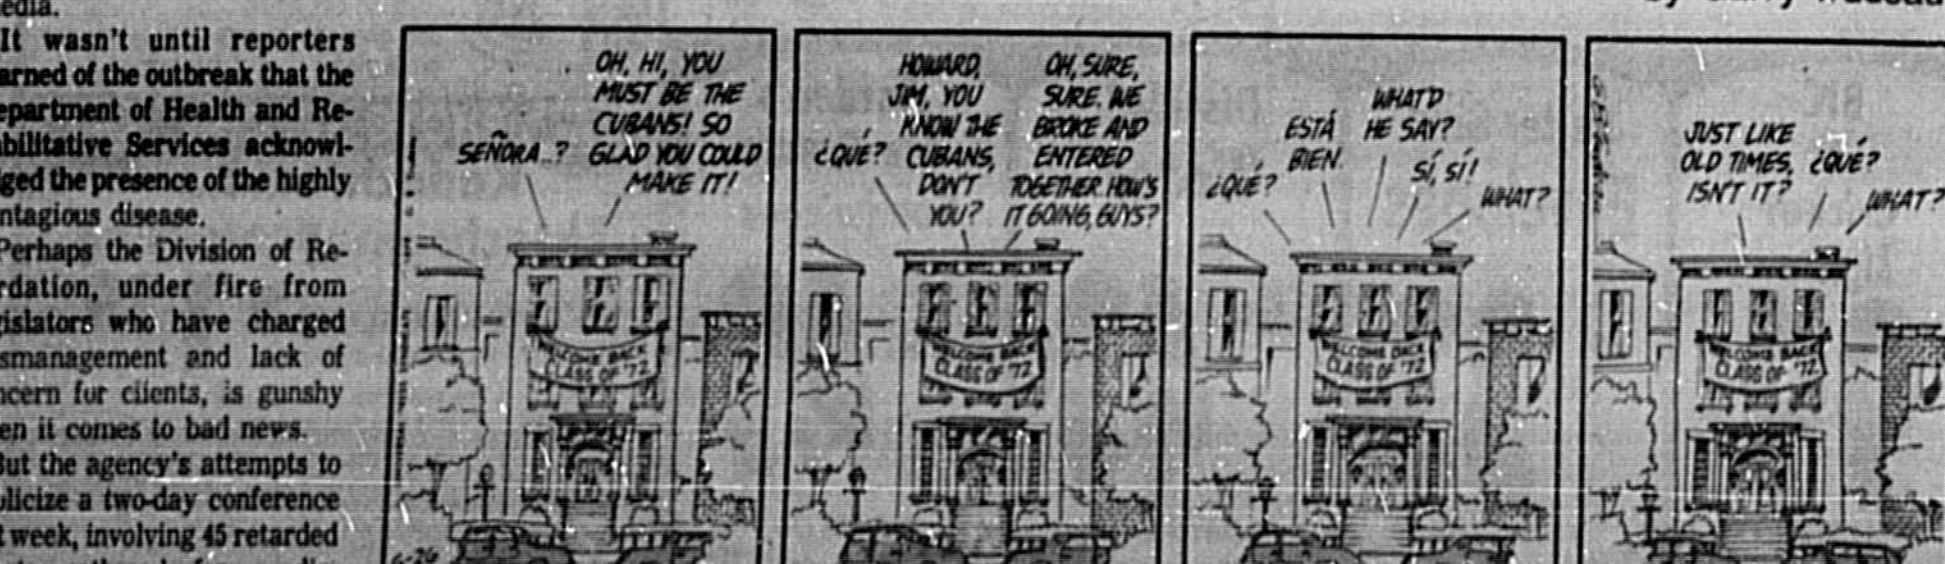

Although more than a dozen retarded children and Sunland employees have come down with hepatitis at the Miami center since March, Retardation officials neglected the easiest and possibly most effective way of notifying parents and others of the disease—through the news media.

It wasn't until reporters learned of the outbreak that the Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services acknowledged the presence of the highly contagious disease.

Perhaps the Division of Retardation, under fire from legislators who have charged mismanagement and lack of concern for clients, is gunshy when it comes to bad news.

But the agency's attempts to publicize a two-day conference last week, involving 46 retarded clients gathered for a dis-

Astro 'Wind Aid' Tops Philly

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer
The wind was just right for Steve Renko. The sudden breezes that Larry Dierker felt were caused by the baseballs whizzing past him.

"Renko is a great breaking ball pitcher when the wind is blowing from right field to left as it was tonight," said Montreal Manager Gene Mauch after Renko hurled a one-hitter that gave the Expos a 5-0 victory over Philadelphia.

Dierker also had a one-hitter Tuesday night—for six innings. Then Cincinnati's Cesar Geronimo slugged a leadoff homer in the seventh and Johnny Bench and Dan Driscoll drove in runs that wrecked Houston, giving the Reds a 3-2 victory over Dierker and the Astros.

In Tuesday's other National League games, New York beat Chicago 5-1, San Diego defeated San Francisco 3-1, Los Angeles edged Atlanta 3-1 and St. Louis outlasted Pittsburgh 8-7.

"This has got to be my best game so far since I've been here," underdog Renko, who wound up with the third one-hitter of his six-year career in the majors.

The other two came a month apart, against San Francisco and Philadelphia in 1971.

He gave up only a one-out sixth-inning single by Dave Cash, a pitch punched into right field. "I jammed him with it. He didn't hit that well."

Reds 3, Astros 2
Joe Morgan, who had singled in the first inning, drew his second walk of the game after Geromino's belt, and Bench scored him, bunting a double to right field. Driscoll then singled Bench home.

Mets 5, Cubs 1
Jerry Kosman pitched a four-hitter and Ed Kranepool gave him the big hit he needed, a three-run homer in the third inning, to lead the Mets past the Cubs.

Padres 3, Giants 1
Dave Rader's error at the plate let San Diego's first run in the seventh inning, then Bobby Tolan singled home two more to send the Giants down to their 16th loss in 19 games.

Dodgers 2, Braves 1
Steve Garvey and Ron Cey singled home ninth-inning runs to shove Los Angeles over the Braves. The victory went to Mike Marshall, the hard-working reliever who has won the Dodgers' last four triumphs to boost his record to 8-3.

Cards 8, Pirates 7
Ken Reitz singled in the eighth inning, with Tyson doubling him home, then Lou Brock singled Tyson in with the winner, overcoming a four-run Pittsburgh burst in the top of the inning and pushing the Cards to victory. Philadelphia as well—and into first place in the East by one slim percentage point.

American League scores: Chicago 10, Kansas City 9 in 12 innings; Texas 7, Minnesota 3; Detroit 2, Baltimore 0, and Oakland 6, California 1. Rain washed out Cleveland at New York and Milwaukee at Boston.

Bobby Soxers, Newsmen Trail Teen Tennis Idol

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—At age 18, Bjorn Borg of Sweden travels the world as a modern Magellan—and he travels with a harem and an army.

The harem—a band of giggling, autograph-hunting teenage girls—is kept at arm's length.

"It's amazing this kid can stay as level-headed as he is," said a tennis-playing friend. "The pressure on him is something you wouldn't believe."

Young Bjorn, seeking to add Wimbledon to the Italian and French titles he won earlier this year, is a national idol in Sweden and the heart-throb of the teeny-bop set.

The army that pursues him is a cordon of newsmen, radio and television crews and photographers who dog his footsteps from Stockholm to Dallas, London to Paris, New York to Rome. There are around 30 or 40.

there will be a mass exodus and a lot of open seats around Wimbledon.

But Bjorn didn't lose, so everybody's still around.

Bobby-soxers crowd every portal at Wimbledon, waiting for their blond-haired hero to emerge. When he plays, they cheer wildly. They pursue him like a pack of hungry hounds.

"It doesn't bother me too much," Bjorn says. "Actually, I don't think it's as bad as last year. When I am on the court and people are cheering, it makes me want to play better."

"But there is a problem of privacy."

Bjorn, who rose to international stardom here last year, doesn't live in one of the two tennis hotels, where players are given special rates and most congregate. He has special quarters, chaperoned by Lennart Bergelin, balding former Swedish Davis Cup ace.

"Bjorn doesn't go much for social life," says Borg's tutor. "He is very dedicated. He works hard on his game. He spends a great deal of time practicing."

"When he has played, he likes to go out for a quiet meal and return to his room to watch TV."

Just turned 18, he is working on his driver's license. He delights in driving Bergelin's Saab to the courts.

British newspapers have tried to stir up a romance between Borg and Helena Anliot, a Stockholm junior player, with whom he often is seen.

"Ridiculous," said Bjorn's friend. "Borg has one love right now—tennis. Everything else is incidental."

"My girls must have rest," invited Mrs. Everl, chaperoning daughters Chris, who has won the Italian and French championships so far this year, and 16-year-old Jeanne. "Ideally, it's at least 10 hours a night for a championship like Wimbledon, a good 10 hours."

But many other players are not so fortunate.

The stars say they are tired from an exhausting schedule of too much tennis and too little practice on fast grass courts.

Ump, Detroit Give Orioles 'Night Off'

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer
Like American League umpires, umpire Russ Goetz had trouble handling Oriole pitcher Mike Cuellar. But unlike the hitters, Goetz knocked him out of a game.

It wasn't easy. Cuellar, the screwball-throwing left-hander, was gunning for his 10th straight victory when he ran into his own wildness and then the long arm of the law.

Cuellar walked Jim Northrup to force in Detroit's second run in the third inning. Only Cuellar didn't see the same way home plate umpire Goetz did.

"I told him he couldn't see nothing," said Cuellar.

Goetz told Cuellar he couldn't see the game anymore—at least as an active participant. He booked Cuellar out of the game.

Goetz, who has called 17 seasons of major league ball, also tossed out of the game—

Rangers 7, Twins 3
Rookie Mike Hargrave singled home the go-ahead run in the fourth inning and doubled home another in a three-run sixth to give Ferguson Jenkins and Texas a victory.

White Sox 16, Royals 9 12 in.

Bill Melton slugged a home run in a four-run sixth inning, then broke a tie with a run-scoring grand slam in the 12th, giving Chicago its victory over Kansas City.

A's 6, Angels 1
Jim "Catfish" Hunter scattered nine hits to gain his 10th victory of the season.

National League results: Montreal 5, Philadelphia 0; St. Louis 8, Pittsburgh 7; Cincinnati 3, Houston 2; Los Angeles 2, Atlanta 1; New York 5, Chicago 1, San Francisco 1.

Evert Family Strategy: To Get Plenty of Sleep

WASHINGTON (AP)—National Football League owners and players meet at the bargaining table again today in an effort to get some movement in their contract talks, something they haven't been able to do since the players' union made its demands last March 16.

After a six-hour, often-heated session Tuesday, federal mediator James Scarce said he was trying to be optimistic "but there are tremendous differences between the parties."

No compromise was reached during the meeting on any of the 83 demands made by the NFL Players Association, an indication there will be a strike next Monday.

John Thompson, executive director of the NFL Management Council, the owners' bargaining agent, said: "We're still optimistic that we can avoid trouble before it really counts—and that's early in July."

The San Diego Chargers open their training camp July 3, first of the 26 NFL teams to call their players together. The first game scheduled is the July 26 nationally televised exhibition between the Super Bowl champion Miami Dolphins and the College All-Stars in Chicago.

Tuesday's meeting was the first since talks broke down June 13 in New York and was called by Scarce. Another is scheduled for Thursday. The mediator said he would like to keep the two sides together through the weekend if there is any hope for resolution.

Thompson said the owners brought to Tuesday's meeting several new offers in the areas of insurance and pen-

WFL Lid Lifter Expected To Boost Ticket Sales

By ANDY LIPPMAN
AP Sports Writer
Buying a World Football League season ticket is a little like buying a pigskin in a poke.

But with the July 10 starting date for the new league drawing nearer, the prospect that fans will end up holding an empty bag grows less.

And as the league gains credence, it also gains sales. The Honolulu Hawaiians say they have sold nearly 1,000 season tickets and hope to boost the figure to 12,000-15,000.

The Houston Texans also say they have sold about 5,000 season tickets and about 80 per cent of the 16,000 tickets sold for the Detroit Wheels' first home game has come in the past three weeks "since we announced our schedule," said Brian Reikel, team promotion manager.

Larry Hatfield, president of the California Sun, reports he is "pleasantly surprised" by the 17,511 season tickets sold through June 18, while officials of the Memphis Southern report they are pleased by the 5,000 season tickets sold in four weeks.

The Jacksonville Sharks have had to cope with some of the league's early traumas; when the Florida Blazers moved to Orlando from Virginia, the Sharks refunded money to 5,000 persons of the 18,000 who had bought tickets to see the Sharks.

Owner Fran Monaco says Sharks ticket sales have approached 18,000. They will play in the 70,000-seat Gator Bowl.

Meanwhile, the Blazers have sold about 1,500 season tickets so far for the 17,912-seat Tangerine Bowl.

Twilley Asks All Star Boycott Lift

MIAMI (AP)—Miami Dolphins wide receiver Howard Twilley has urged the National Football League Players Association to reconsider talk of boycotting the College All-Stars game July 28.

In a letter to association officers and teammates on the Super Bowl champion team, Twilley suggested that boycotting the game in the event of a players' strike won't increase pressure on team owners.

Stars and the winner of the Super Bowl is an annual Chicago event, sponsored by the Chicago Tribune for charity.

"I don't understand what the players are going to accomplish by not playing the College All-Star game," Twilley said. "There is no financial benefit to the owners. The only people who will benefit financially are the players who participate and the charities."

Unlike the owners, the Dolphins players stand to lose a great deal if they boycott the game, Twilley said. "This involves one-fourteenth of a guy's salary, which in most cases is substantial."

"We shouldn't be asked to make any more sacrifice than anyone else."

He said the Dolphins could start training next month as scheduled, play the All-Star game, and still be able to join the strike before the first preseason game.

Old Pros Try Western Golf Layout

OAK BROOK, Ill. (AP)—A new course and a couple of old champions are the key attractions in the $200,000 Western Open golf tournament.

Billy Casper, 43, and Arnold Palmer, 41, are the oldest masters heading the 14-man field for Thursday's start of this, one of the oldest, most venerable of the tour stops.

The new course is the 7,002-yard, par-71 ultralong layout at the Butler National Golf Club in the Chicago suburb, which is the pros are tackling for the first time.

It will be the permanent site for the Western, which has skipped from place to place since its inception in 1909.

"The toughest was Winged Foot, site of the U.S. Open two weeks ago.

He said about 70 per cent of season tickets have been sold to companies in blocks of four to 17,511 season tickets sold through June 18, while officials of the Memphis Southern report they are pleased by the 5,000 season tickets sold in four weeks.

The Jacksonville Sharks have had to cope with some of the league's early traumas; when the Florida Blazers moved to Orlando from Virginia, the Sharks refunded money to 5,000 persons of the 18,000 who had bought tickets to see the Sharks.

Kuechenberg Signs
MIAMI (AP)—Bob Kuechenberg has come to terms and signed a new contract with the World Champion Miami Dolphins, team officials say.

The veteran offensive left guard had been negotiating with the team for several weeks before signing the new pact Tuesday.

Terms of the contract were not disclosed.

His signing left only three Dolphins still unsigned and under the option year of their contracts.

Blazers Get Hilton
HARRISONBURG, Va. (AP)—The Florida Blazers have announced that nine-year National Football League veteran tight end John Hilton has signed a contract with the World Football League club.

Hilton, 6-foot-5, played five years with the Pittsburgh Steelers before being traded to the Green Bay Packers in 1970. He also played for Detroit.

Terms of the contract were not disclosed.

The Blazers also announced Tuesday they have placed rookie tight end Ken Taylor of North Carolina on waivers dropping their roster to 55.

The Blazers must be down to 35 players and a seven-man reserve squad by their opening game with Hawaii on July 10.

Hammond A Shark
DELAND, Fla. (AP)—With three quarterbacks injured, the Jacksonville Sharks of the World Football League have persuaded Kim Hammond to leave his Daytona Beach law firm and take the field.

Eddie McAshan has his arm in a sling with a bruised shoulder, John Sufa has three broken ribs, and Reggie Oliver has a back injury, leaving Ray Stephenson as the only healthy quarterback.

Since the July 10 opener with the New York Stars is little more than two weeks away, Hammond said "Realistically, I have to think of myself as a backup quarterback. I can't feel that I can get the full grasp to become the No. 1 quarterback anytime in the near future."

But he said he will devote virtually full time to the Sharks and his legal business only occasionally through the season.

Hammond graduated from Florida State University in 1968. He spent one season with the Miami Dolphins and two with the New England Patriots but played very little before giving up football to go into law.

Swim Invasion
MIAMI (AP)—The University of Miami is hoping they can keep alive a British swimming invasion.

In 1972, U.M. recruited David Wilkie of Scotland, a breaststroker who won a silver medal in the 100-meter at the Olympics. The following year, Sean Maher was brought from England to swim for the Hurricane team.

Last week, another English breaststroker, Paul Naisby, was signed by the Miami team. And the school is trying to bring over countryman Neil Dexter, a freestyler.

Wilkie says the University of Miami has become a haven for British swimmers because academic requirements aren't as stiff as at home.

"A lot of them (British swimmers) want to go to universities, but it's very hard," he said. "You can't swim and go to university at the same time."

LITTLE LEAGUE

A possible three-way tie for first half championship of the Sanford Senior League began its first whitening session when Badcock took a 4-3 decision over Chase in 14th inning on an extended game putting pressure on Tupperware and Police, who both met in separate games at Pinehurst Park tonight.

Dandy Brown, who came in to pitch the final five innings of the game that had been halted earlier in the season due to curfew, did a superlative job of relief work for George Simkanich.

The pitching duel between four hurlers—two on each side—was deadlocked in the third inning at one run each and then in the 10th inning when Chase came back to knot the score at two-all after Badcock had pushed across a solo run in the top half of that frame.

However, Chase was unable to master winning pitcher Randy Brown, who took over for George Simkanich in the 10th inning.

Brown, who fanned 11 batters and walked two while giving up one hit, had two singles, with Simkanich adding another and both Danny Boyd and Benny Mills collecting singles. Clark Gallagher had a double to round out the winners' hitting.

George Hoffman and Bobby Truane marked the mound for the losers. Hoffman, who gave up six hits in 12 innings struck out 11 and walked two, while Truane was charged with the loss, working the final two frames.

Hoffman doubled and Curtis Wolf and Nick Mergo both singled for the Chase hitting. Badcock took a short-lived 1-0 lead in the top of the second, but Chase matched that in the eighth round of their scheduled 10-round heavyweight fight Tuesday night.

Norton pounded Kirkman's jaw with left and rights throughout the seventh round and as the bell sounded Kirkman was flat on his back. He was there no step behind.

There were at least one knock-down in the fight, although Kirkman slipped briefly to his knees in the third round.

Dear Abby

Someone Needs To See Counselor By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I can't believe I'm actually writing a letter to Dear Abby! Wow, what a carry trip! I know you're not "God," but you say a lot in a few words and your answers make sense, so here goes:

I'm a 34-year-old married woman with two kids and a million problems. The biggest is my marriage. It's going downhill fast.

My husband and I fight all the time. We've got money problems, in-law problems, he's right, and I say he spends too much time with "the boys" and not enough with me and the kids. (He's a sports freak.) We can't even discuss our problems without ending up in a fight. The only thing we've got going for us is sex. That's terrific, but you can't stay in bed all the time.

Don't tell me we need "counseling." He'd never go. And I can't afford a shrink, so forget that.

All right, Abby, you've got all the answers. Answer this one: MISERABLE

DEAR MIS: The answer I have for you, you won't like. You need professional counseling. (Friends are a waste of time. They tell you only what they think you want to hear.) You say your husband won't go? Well, go alone. If you learn how to handle your husband, you will know more than you know now. And with luck, you can get him to go later.

If you need a shrink and can't afford one, your Family Service or Welfare Department can provide that at a price you CAN afford. Now get going, and let me hear from you in 30 days.

DEAR ABBY: I was a very happily married woman until I went to this mild reader. She told me that my husband was on drugs and also that he was unfaithful to me.

I asked my husband about this and he denied it. I want to believe my husband because we have two kids and I don't want to break up my marriage.

Abby, why would that mild reader say something like that if it wasn't true?

I don't know what to believe. Can you help me?

MESSED UP MIND

DEAR MESSED UP: I'd believe my husband. I would also stay away from "mind readers."

POLLY'S POINTERS

New Towels Shed Lint By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY:—What causes new towels to shed lint even after being washed many times? The lint even sticks to one's skin. My towels were gifts at a wedding shower and bought by different people at different places. I cannot take them back to one store. I have seen lint fish in my apartment and wonder if they could be the cause.—MRS. P.

I could not go because I had no one to leave the kids with. I took one vacation without my husband five years ago. I went to Florida for a week to visit my folks, and I took my kids with me. Some vacation!

My husband says: "Just because YOU have to stay home doesn't mean I have to."

ANGRY

DEAR ANGRY: You made your first mistake when you stayed home with the kids while your hubby took to the slopes. They're his kids too, aren't they? The squeaking wheels get the grease, so give him three choices: (1) The whole family takes a vacation together—kids included. (2) You and hubby vacation together and farm the kids out. (3) You and hubby vacation together, and hire somebody to stay with the kids.

DEAR POLLY:—My Pet Peeve is with adults who push their way ahead of children in line at a store or drive-in. I have two small children who often go to the store for me and find this most upsetting.—LOUISE

DEAR POLLY:—I am answering Elaine who wanted to know how to remove built-up soap scum deposits from her washing machine. I recommend one cup vinegar to one gallon hot water. Run this through one half the regular wash cycle, then let stand for about 10 minutes and finish the cycle. For the rinse cycle let the tub fill normally to rinse the vinegar solution away. Some alkaline dissolving detergents also will do the same thing.—WILHELMINA

DEAR POLLY:—Before I start my summer canning and freezing I make a chart to be pasted on the inside of a kitchen cabinet door that lists the fruits and vegetables I will have. Then as I can or freeze them I write on it the number of cans and packages and the date. As I use these things during the year I cross off a number. In the spring when I clean my freezer if I feel I have not kept a correct inventory I put all the older packages in one section so they will be used first. All packages are dated. I use plastic bread bags as a SECOND wrap for all my freezing packages for added protection.—MRS. W.F.

expert will play for the drop. However, all else doesn't have to be equal. Any good player will lead his jack of spades. If West has been taught to cover an honor with an honor on each and every occasion he will clatter up with the king and south will make his contract anyway.

If West sees that this is not the time to cover (it isn't) but goes into a huddle before ducking, South will finesse in the theory that West's huddle meant that he was thinking of covering.

However, if West just plays his six spot unconcernedly, South should rise with dummy's ace. After all, that is a 52 per cent chance. East will show out and another contract will bite the dust.

ARLENE REYNOLDS

Legislators' State Of Health Her Business

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — "When the smoke clears, she's still here. She outlasts us all," says Assemblyman Neil Kelleher of the woman who watches over the state of health at the state capital.

Many legislators have come and gone since Arlene Reynolds was appointed as the legislature's official registered nurse 37 years ago. No assemblyman or senator has served longer.

But the pleasant woman in her crisp, white nurse's uniform seems immune to the passage of time. "I'm too busy with my patients," she says.

Most of the 30 to 50 persons Miss Reynolds attends to daily suffer from minor ailments, but she adds that "you never know what will happen."

Aspirin is the most sought-after commodity, she says, after handing some of the tablets to a legislative aide.

"Toward the end of the session, the legislators get more headaches," Miss Reynolds said. "The sessions get longer and the stress becomes greater. They don't get enough rest. And none of us eats regularly."

She says, however, that most of the legislators are quite healthy. Included in this category is Gov. Malcolm Wilson, who Miss Reynolds says she saw "a couple times" before he became governor.

Though her first-aid station on the third floor of the capital primarily serves legislators, she also administers first aid to legislative correspondents, capital visitors and whoever else is in the building.

"We get colds, viruses, broken ankles, heart attacks — most anything happens here," she said. "If an ailment is serious, then we'll check with the person's family doctor."

Toward the end of last year's session, Kelleher, a Troy, N.Y., Republican, was one of Miss Reynolds' patients. He collapsed from hyperventilation while on the speaker's platform and was administered oxygen by the quick-reacting nurse.

Much of her job involves listening, she says, although she admits that legislators "don't come to me with their legislative problems. The only problems we discuss are health."

But Miss Reynolds' office serves as a refuge from such weighty matters as a $10-billion budget or capital punishment.

And as the session draws toward a close, not coincidentally, a brown cardboard box tucked amid pill bottles also grows fatter.

Miss Reynolds labels it her "penalty box," but some legislators call it the "sin bin." It contains 10-and 15-cent offerings from those visitors whose language oversteps the bounds of propriety.

Recently, one legislator re-lates, an assemblyman steamed into the infirmary after a stormy debate, threw a dollar bill in the box and cut loose.

CYBILL SHEPHERD

Cybill (Daisy Miller) Shepherd And 'New' Porter

NEW YORK — (NEA) — In Henry James' classic novel, "Daisy Miller," the title character leaves the reader with a vague frustration.

In Daisy a smooth and urbane young lady steeped in a mysterious sexuality, or is she often appears?

One is never quite sure. One often gets that same frustrated feeling after talking at length with model-turned-actress-turned-recording star Cybill Shepherd who recently finished filming "Daisy Miller" under the direction of manager-inventor Peter Bogdanovich.

Sitting high above the noise and grime of Manhattan in the gilded enclaves of the Plaza Hotel, Cybill holds court for the media to promote her debut album.

Many Hollywood authorities' claim "type-casting" has died out. But if anyone can accurately portray Daisy, that dump-smart sort of person most of us have met at least once in our lives, it is Cybill.

She is Daisy Miller. Discussing her album, "Cybill Does It... To Cole Porter," she is cool and aloof. But it is all an act. She rattles off the names of famous operatic performers she says she has admired for years. She always enjoyed the luminaries of La Scala, or has it only recently been pounded into her head by Henry Higgins-Bogdanovich?

Cybill, the All-American beauty who graced the covers of leading fashion magazines a short while ago, has completed an album of never-before-recorded songs by Cole Porter that should change her homogenized image.

Oh, Porter fans will recognize the melodies, all right, but the lyrics? Unbeknown to many Porter devotees, the Depression-era songsmith often wrote duplicate lyrics, one set for public consumption and the other for intimate gatherings.

Even some of Cole's most ardent fans were unaware of their favorite composer's affinity for the risque until a biography was published two years ago containing the lyrics of all his material, blue included.

According to Paramount Records, Bogdanovich hit on the idea of recording an entire album of Porter's coarser work, expletives included, after Cybill presented him with a copy of the biography as a gift.

"It was something to do, I thought it would be fun," he said, sitting beside Cybill in their suite at the Plaza. The director of "The Last Picture Show" and "Paper Moon" adamantly denied, however, that he is a fanatical Porter fan, contradicting much of the P.H. effort to dramatize the album.

"I liked Porter, he was a good writer but I'm certainly not crazy about him," Bogdanovich said in that dry, indifferent tone that changes only when he's very happy or very mad.

"There are plenty of good songwriters around that I like. In fact, I'm planning for Cybill to do another album. This will be of Noel Coward's risque material."

An entire album of warmed-over melodies seasoned only by a few double entendres is a bit weak in these days of raunch rock.

Tutored by a singing coach over the past three years, Cybill's voice lends itself to the difficult and novel phrasing of Porter's unique style. Full and high-pitched, the Shepherd voice can carry a tune fairly well, though perhaps the styling is too coy.

INVENTIVE RECYCLING IDEAS

Recycle Old Makeup Containers

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

When you've used your lipstick, creams, fragrances, dusting powders and the like, what happens to all the pretty containers?

It's a thought that occurred to Valerie Jennings as she sat gazing at the rows of attractive bottles and jars on shelves in her office at Fabergé, the cosmetics company. They just seemed too pretty to be thrown in a dump, she said.

The upshot of her ponderings — after she got permission from all the bosses — was a recycling contest within the company to see who would come up with the brightest ideas for new uses of still good metals, plastics, glass and the like. What they came up with can be applied to almost any cosmetics one might own.

In fact, Valerie was astounded by the little and big suggestions the employees and their families have been sending in to the Art-Eco contest.

"It illustrates you can find some use for just about any little container on the vanity table by giving some thought to its shape and dimensions," Valerie observed.

Some recycled articles are tiny — shiny metal bottle caps upended, with colorful straw flowers, that may be set on a place card for a ladies' luncheon as suggested by one entrant. But then another contrived a long circus train which utilized everything from metal containers as "wheels" to an oval-shaped plastic see-through bath powder container sidetracked with an animal placed in it.

One of the jolliest ideas is wind chimes, which require a minimum of labor, ideal for the girl who has a drawer full of old lipsticks. A number of the cases were strung up to a plastic (dusting powder) top (or use a piece of wood or cardboard). A meat skewer was used to make the little holes at the top of the case through which yarn was strung and attached to the top. A loop on top serves to dangle it from a porch or window for delightful tinkling sounds.

Another idea for those lipsticks is this one: attach them to a wall plaque with a mirror in the center so that they might serve as holders for scarves, men's ties, chains and the like. Nail polish bottles sprayed gold may also be used for the same purpose.

Still another entrant had the man in the family in mind. Lipsticks became fish lures with the addition of a couple of cemented hooks, paint and feathered tails.

A see-through oval plastic top of a package was turned into a wall picture with the addition of backing on which was placed a little straw flower arrangement. Gold braid in a chain stitch was added to the rim where it joined with the backing.

Clear, rigid, plastic boxes initiated a number of ideas. Partitioned, they held various kinds of colorful beans for a kitchen wall decoration. Or their cut-out circles were used with family pictures within. Another entrant put ball-top bottle caps in the holes and used the item for a tic-tac-toe set.

In one instance many plastic boxes were integrated to be used as a desk unit for a variety of things — pencils, pens, paper clips. Others became salt and pepper shakers.

Bottles got some interesting treatment. Some had their necks chopped off to become vases or cordial glasses. Some metal ones became candle holders and others were egg cups. One tall one was decoupage.

An ordinary paper fragrance box with a raised initial pasted on it was filled with sand or some other heavy material and gilded all over to make a handsome paperweight.

The contest's judges will include Cary Grant, Andy Warhol and Peter Max.

Air Force Man Salutes His Wife

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Air Force Sgt. Mark Weiss not only opens doors for his wife, Suzanne, he salutes her. That's because she is an Air Force lieutenant.

Six months after they were married Mark was sworn in. Suzanne had enlisted a month before. Soon they will split up for training, but within a few months they hope to be together at Edward Air Force Base, Calif. — she working as a nurse, he as an aircraft mechanic.

"Our friends are always teasing us about me outranking him, but it doesn't bother us," said Suzanne, 26. She is a registered nurse who has worked on and off at St. James Hospital here for the last three years.

"My mother had been pushing me to join the service ever since I got out of nursing school," she said. Her father, a retired Navy man, lives in Long Beach.

When Mark, 25, of Los Angeles, was graduated from the Northrop Institute of Technology in air frame and power plant mechanics, the prospects for an airlines job looked bleak, he said. Because he had served four years in the Air Force in Germany from 1968 to 1972, re-enlistment seemed a natural solution.

"I was kind of pushing him to join" because of the job security and early retirement, said Suzanne. "And I wanted to be able to work where he was stationed."

The two don't foresee any special problems because of their relative ranks.

"It makes it even better," said Mark. "It can go to her officers' club and she can go to mine." Besides, he plans to become an officer.

Typewriter Cookbooks

Aren't In This School

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Nowadays when too many cookbooks are written by what I call "typewriter cooks" — authors who include recipes without testing them — it's a relief to come to the recently published "Menus for All Occasions" by Julie Dannenbaum (Saturday Review Press-Dutton). Mrs. Dannenbaum directs a large and famed Philadelphia cooking school; her recipes are tried in her school as well as in her own kitchen. In spite of her crammed schedule, she entertains in her own home at least once a week and often has overnight guests so, as she says, "I constantly put my teaching to practical tests."

"Menus for All Occasions" is a great guide for cooks who are interested in providing epicurean dishes when they entertain. The recipes are written with enough detail so that even novices will find the help they

Mushrooms' Many Faces Surprise To The Palate

By TOM HOGE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

It took me years to acquire a taste for mushrooms and then the taste became an obsession. When I took a vacation trip through France a couple of years ago, I devoted most mealtimes to sampling the delightful fungi dishes of that land. They ranged from mushroom omelets for breakfast to country cream for lunch and mushrooms flamed in cognac for supper.

There were many other variations, of course. For instance, there is that magnificent specialty known as Duxelles, named after the Marquis d'Uxelle, an 18th-century nobleman whose chef dreamed up the dish. It consists of chopped mushrooms and shallots or onions slowly cooked in butter until the moisture has evaporated. The preparation is great added to sauces or used as a stuffing for chicken or fish.

The French are said to have been the first to popularize the custom of eating mushrooms raw in salads, dressed with olive oil, wine vinegar and fresh herbs. One tin I visited outside Paris served raw mushrooms with strips of turkey, cheese and tongue, somewhat like our chef's salad.

Americans seem to think the best mushrooms are those with the largest caps. But, unless you want a couple of the small 1 1/2-ounce can of cepes 4 tablespoons butter 1/4 teaspoon salt

- 1/4 teaspoon fresh ground pepper
- 2 shallots or green onions chopped
- 1 clove garlic minced
- 2 tablespoons dried bread crumbs
- 1 ounce cognac

Widow Talks Of Problems

NEW YORK (AP) — Lynn Caine has just had her first book published. The reviews have been laudatory. She has been interviewed, acclaimed, lionized and paraded.

"But the one person I want to share it all with isn't here," she says.

The book is called "Widow," which is what its author has been since her husband, Martin, died of cancer three years ago.

"After he died, I wanted to die," she says of those years filled with "nights of waking up at 4 a.m. in terror," financial panic, "crazy" acts and "outspit" decisions.

The realization that one out of every six women in this country over age 21 is a widow and the hope that her experiences would help others motivated the book, she explains.

"There are seasons of grief," she says. "If you loved your husband you're going to be mourning him the rest of your life. But it softens the grief to know there is a pattern, and you'll not always feel so helpless and trapped."

The book is based on a sort of diary she wrote during those sleepless nights, pouring out her anger at a husband who had "abandoned" her, children whose very existence she resented, and a society in which she lost her identity when she became a widow.

"So much of what I was was contingent on being married to Martin," she points out. "People think of a widow as a poor, bereft, forlorn, frail, helpless creature, a pitiable being. Emotionally it may be as hard when a man loses his wife but socially and economically it's easier."

Mrs. Caine, a petite woman with big hazel eyes and short dark hair, admits she was lucky to have had a job and was able to have continued working during the difficult 14 months of her husband's terminal illness.

"My job was my lifeline and I'm convinced it saved my sanity," she said in her office at a publishing firm, where she is publicity manager. "You must participate in the world as soon as you can. Find stimulating interests or work to get you out of yourself."

"And exercise. Healthy fatigue is good," advises the 5 foot 1, 105 pound advocate of yoga. "Don't depend on tranquilizers, because you'll have to face your grief eventually. If you can't deal with your depression get professional help."

Most important of all, plan ahead from the first day of marriage, warns Mrs. Caine, whose husband had a World War II injury and couldn't get life insurance. She suggests an annual contingency day to discuss wills, investments and the family's financial situation.

Reader Offers Proof Ocean Water Helps Ills

By GEORGE W. CRANE Ph.D., M.D.
CASE A - 69-year-old Charles O. aged 47, is a Florida arthritis sufferer. Dr. Crane, he said, "I have been using ocean water ever since you told how it loosened the frozen right hip of your father-in-law."

"And it has completely banished my arthritis, though I had been a victim for five years."
"As a result, I wish to thank you a thousand fold."
"Just that one helpful idea I obtained from your 'Worry Clinic' is worth far more in actual cash than all my newspaper subscription charges even if I live to be 100."

"I had spent $3,500 on various medicines and hospital treatments to no avail."
"By contrast, now I merely wade out in the Atlantic and fill a couple of plastic jugs with my free medication!"

"But the FDA has warned about the levels of mercury in fish, so a little sea water daily going to poison me?"

No, you don't need worry about poisoning from drinking a few teaspoonful of ocean water daily. Why?

Well, a fish lives in the water 24 hours per day for its entire life, drinking the water daily and eating other marine life that also are residents of the sea.

So that small fish, say a 25 pound specimen, after living in the sea, still doesn't even die from the so-called mercury level. My mother, who recently died at age 96 had been drinking sea water daily for the past 18 years so don't let the FDA "scare propaganda" disturb you. Employ your native "horse sense."

The FDA, like a lot of other Washington bureaus, AMA doctors, in cabots with headlines just to rate headlines.

For there is intense competition at Washington between one bureau vs another.

And in order to be sure Congress passes a boost in the annual appropriations for any

Nixon In Russia For 3rd Summit Talk

MOSCOW (AP) — President Nixon arrived in Moscow today for his third summit meeting with Communist party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev. The President hoped his visit would produce a partial ban on underground nuclear weapons tests and a slowdown on nuclear arms development by the two superpowers.

Brezhnev was at the VIP Vnukovo Airport, decked with (related Story Page 12A)

American and Soviet flags, to welcome the President. Two years ago when Nixon arrived in Moscow for their first summit, Brezhnev did not go to the airport to greet him. His presence today was seen as a sign of regard for the American president.

The President, with Mrs. Nixon on his right, smiled and waved as he walked down the ramp of the blue and white presidential jet under bright, sunny skies. A crowd of about 400 persons was at the airport to greet Nixon.

Nixon first reviewed an honor guard, which hailed him with the cheer, "We wish you with health." He then heard a military band play the Soviet and American national anthems. Then he and his wife shook hands with some persons in the crowd, who were waving small American and Soviet flags.

Brezhnev and Nixon smiled frequently and chatted with each other as they walked through the crowd, and Nixon waved several times to the well-wishers, who included a contingent of the American Embassy.

Nixon then watched a brief military parade, headed into the airport lounge and prepared to motor into the city.

At the President's first Moscow summit, in May 1972, the Soviets accorded Nixon a cool correct welcome and Soviet President Nikolai V. Podgorny was the chief greeter.

Nixon's morning flight to the Soviet capital follows a round of consultations in Brussels Wednesday with American negotiators and the Atlantic Alliance and the ceremonial signing of a declaration pledging wider cooperation within the alliance.

The Moscow summit generally was viewed as a means of maintaining the momentum of the Soviet-American detente launched by Nixon's May 1972 trip to the Soviet capital and fostered by Brezhnev's return visit to the United States last week. No major breakthroughs were expected this time.

Some agreements are reported ready for signing, such as one to expand commercial relations. But these seem mainly designed to show the continuing cooperation between the two countries.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger told a news conference in Brussels Wednesday the summit would not produce a permanent ban on offensive missiles. Until such an agreement is reached, he said, "we are prepared to continue in the arms race as long as we must."

"We will never accept a strategic disadvantage for the United States," he declared.

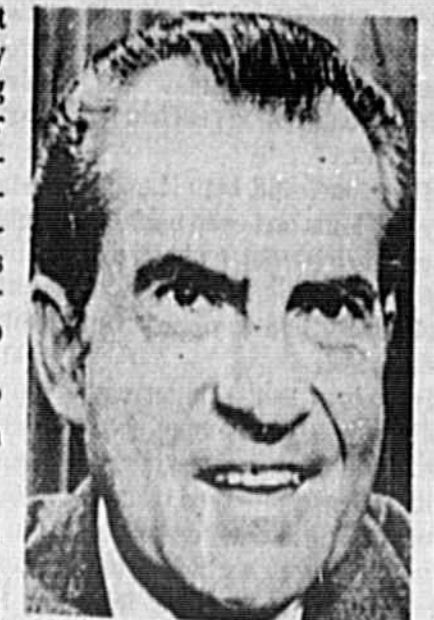

But "we do believe we have an obligation to see how the technological explosion may be moderated."

Kissinger said the Soviet government is "nearly ready" to deploy some missiles carrying multiple warheads. He warned that the next 18 months will be critical for the negotiations to halt proliferation of weapons of mass destruction.

He dismissed as "nonsense" a claim by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., that the administration tried to cover up a loophole in the 1972 nuclear weapons agreement permitting the Soviet Union to put 70 more missiles aboard its submarines than had been anticipated. He said the matter "never reached my desk," and the National Security Council and other agencies "constantly maintain there was no such loophole."

In Washington, Jackson reiterated his cover-up charge. He said a "clarification" agreement with the Soviets to plug the alleged loophole was kept secret from Congress, the secretaries of state and defense in office at the time, the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the Central Intelligence Agency.

"Dr. Kissinger and the President were the only ones who knew," Jackson said.

Storms Rake Central Florida

By JEAN PATTESON
Herald Staff Writer

Violent winds and thunderstorms Wednesday night lashed Central Florida, blowing down two judges' stands at the Seminole Turf Club, Casselberry, injuring two officials and cancelling races tonight while the stands are repaired.

Treated for back and neck injuries at Florida Hospital North and later released, was Henry Miller of Morriston, Fla. William H. Bach of Orlando was treated for minor cuts and abrasions at the scene.

Other damage to facilities included an ice machine blown 500 yards from the cafeteria and benches blown about in the strong winds.

During the same thunderstorm, lightning was blamed for a fire that destroyed a maintenance shop and equipment and a car at Oaklawn Memorial Park near Sanford on SR 46-A at 14.

Rich Grover, owner of the memorial park, said lightning struck near his home about 11:15 p.m. and 30 minutes later the adjacent veterinary maintenance shop was razed.

Lake Mary volunteer firemen saved two trucks, a boat and trailer and a tractor, and kept the fire from spreading to Grover's two-story house.

The fire destroyed a 1970 Cadillac, the frame workshop building, and mowers and cemetery maintenance equipment kept inside, firemen reported.

Grover said a cost estimate of the damage was not available. County authorities reported a downed tree blocked traffic on Howell Branch Road in South Seminole. Storm winds hit the mobile home of Robert Arnal, 809 Royal Palm Drive, Casselberry, tearing off the carport and part of a shed, and in the Spies Avenue section of the county a tree fell across a chain link fence at the home of Hattie Augusta, causing about $300 damage.

During the past four days 6.53 inches of rain have been dumped on Casselberry, while Sanford recorded 5.90 for the same period.

In what Seminole County agricultural extension officer David DeVoll called "the wettest June since 1963," the rainfall for the month of June as of 8 a.m. today was 19.85 in Casselberry and 10.85 in Sanford.

championship games in Sanford until the earliest clear day, said Recreation spokesman Sanford today.

Altamonte School Project Cost Jumps To $800,000

By MARK WEINZ
Herald Staff Writer

The Seminole County School Board has learned it will cost at least $800,000 to upgrade and relocate the Altamonte Elementary School — $200,000 more than the original $600,000 estimate.

The board, over the reservations of Supd. Bud Layer, two million it collected for selling the old Altamonte School site in February, has already been spent.

The board agreed to tap its contingency funds for the $200,000, after Board Member Stuart Culpover warned that trying to spend monies from the recent millage election could generate law suits.

The additional monies to be plumbing, interior repair, electrical wiring and several other items.

The Woodlands Civic Association has been demanding the board bring the quality and aesthetic beauty of the school up to the level of other new schools.

Grand Jury Is Reportedly Probing Gifts To Officials

By CHRIS NELSON
Herald Staff Writer

The Seminole County Grand Jury probe into the regime of former Altamonte Springs Mayor Lawrence Swofford has extended into gifts of money, food, and clothing to city officials, The Herald has learned.

Sources interviewed prior to the grand jury investigation told The Herald the gifts extended beyond the "usual" Christmas liquor to include unmarked envelopes stuffed with cash and truck loads of meat. The liquor was delivered by the case-lodged, the sources said.

The gifts were made by land developers, according to the sources, to both past and present city officials.

Witnesses today included City Councilman Helen Keyser, former city and county building official Joseph Turanchik, who also testified before last Fall's grand jury, and Mr. and Mrs. George Hamrick.

Hamrick, a retired state building official, inspected the Holiday and Ramada Inns on I-4 and 42.

The grand jury is believed to have heard testimony on campaign contributions from area developers and builders, principally Lester Mandell, of the Greater Construction Corp. — a long-time Swofford backer, during Wednesday's session.

Mandell, former owner of the Altamonte Mall site, is a principal in Sanlamco Utilities, with contracts in four Altamonte Springs subdivisions. He has contributed to Swofford's recent mayoralty campaign as well as his unsuccessful 1968 county commission bid.

Other witnesses Wednesday included Mandell's former long-time secretary, Mrs. Lorraine Schrier, wife of Longwood city councilman and former sheriff's deputy Don Schreiner; city developer William Knott; Lester Zimmerman, and clothier Leslie Gibbs.

Testimony last week came principally from past and present city officials who have charged Swofford with ordering them to waive building and fire code regulations for builders and contractors.

According to Fire Chief Tom Siegfried, backed up by former chief Gary Kaiser, and former building official Jack Stowe, Swofford personally ordered them to relax codes, claiming they were too strict.

Swofford denied the charges Wednesday and told The Herald he would waive immunity and testify if called by State Attorney Abbott Herring.

"I have nothing to hide, I've never had anything to hide," said the 20-year political veteran, upon in December by former city policeman Norman Floyd.

Floyd had added to the charges against Swofford, saying he and fellow grand jury witness Justus East, now police chief, discovered 200 of the city's 850 businesses were allowed to operate for up to 10 years during Swofford's tenure without licenses.

Chief State Atty. Investigator Jack Fulenwider today said he spoke with Swofford Wednesday night, but would not reveal if Swofford followed through on his pledge to waive immunity from prosecution.

Swofford earlier Wednesday admitted to The Herald he ordered city firemen to stop "harrassing" builders, but said he told Siegfried to get former firemen Don Harkins off inpection because he was a volunteer, and was never on the city payroll.

Harkins, who testified Wednesday morning, later told The Herald that not only was he on the city payroll for more than a year, but that Siegfried took him off the city payroll when he left.

Harkins is presently chief assistant to Kaiser, now Seminole County Fire Administrator.

200 Nudies Show Lifeguard 'It's To Be A Fun Summer'

VENICE, Calif. (AP) — The lifeguard strolled out of his station 200 yards from the cresting waves, glanced around at about 200 naked men and women and sighed, "Yes, it's going to be a fun summer."

It has been that way all year for Randy Steigley, a guard for six years on the heavily used beach in this Los Angeles district. The guys and gals have been taking off their clothes and sitting on the sand without having that wet thing around you.

"You've always wanted to take your clothes off because it feels so free, but you always had the fear of being snatched up and thrown in jail," he said. "But it's just the greatest feeling to swim without a halter and sit on the sand without having that wet thing around you."

Katie said she gets accosted more than in the past and "sure, there are a few creeps and geeks who just stare, but I just say they've got problems. And there are people who say we'll get raped. Well, there are too many people around here for that to happen."

An attractive 17-year-old girl, also always wanted to take my clothes off at the beach because I like the feeling."

in the belief that it would conform to the standards of a new school," Helen Schnelker of the Woodlands group stated.
