Hostage Execution Can't Be Confirmed

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — The Islamic Jihad terrorist group announced the execution of U.S. Embassy official William Buckley in a statement published today by a respected Beirut newspaper, but the claim could not be confirmed.

The authoritative An Nahar newspaper reported the Muslim terrorist group said it killed Buckley early today to avenge Israel's air strike Tuesday on the Palestine Liberation Organization headquarters in Tunisia.

In Washington, White House spokesman Larry Speakes said: "We've seen the news reports (of the execution) but we have no independent confirmation."

A spokesman for the U.S. Embassy in Beirut said the mission also was unable to confirm the report. Lebanese police have not found Buckley's body.

In a separate development, the New York Times today quoted a British writer saying Steven Donahue of Hollywood, Fla., was being held against his will in Beirut by the Rahme family, a Christian rightist group.

The abduction was related to a book Donahue had been working on about the narcotics trade in Lebanon, according to British writer Anthony Haden-Guest, who said he had been held with Donahue but was recently released.

The State Department said today it could not confirm Donahue's status or his whereabouts but said, "Our understanding is that this is not a political situation and is in no way comparable to that of the six American hostages."

Under the headline "Islamic Jihad: We Executed Buckley," the Beirut newspaper quoted a statement by the shadowy group, saying Buckley would be executed after An Nahar was published early today.

A native of Medford, Mass., Buckley, was the embassy's chief political officer.

"We warn the American and Israeli governments from carrying out any retaliation because they will pay dearly in Lebanon, Washington and the world," the statement said.

Buckley, 57, reportedly a bachelor with few family ties, was abducted in West Beirut March 16, 1984. If the Islamic Jihad claim is confirmed, he would be the first of six Americans still held hostage in Lebanon to be killed by his captors.

Jobless Rate Up To 7.1 Percent

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's jobless rate rose slightly in September, to 7.1 percent, fueled by the biggest one-month loss of manufacturing jobs since the 1981-82 recession and a major increase in black unemployment, the Labor Department said today.

The increase in unemployment, the first since January, was one-tenth of a percentage point above the August rate, which was the lowest since April 1980.

But a record 107.5 million people were working in September, an increase of 370,000 over the previous month.

The gain was offset by the loss of 110,000 factory jobs — the biggest one-month decline since November 1982, the low-point of the 1981-1982 recession.

2 Salfi Rulings Shot Down

By Deane Jordan
Herald Staff Writer

Two sentences issued by Seminole Circuit Judge Dominick J. Salfi were reversed Thursday by the 5th District Court of Appeal.

In one case, a rehearing was ordered for a Sanford man who was sentenced to 28 months for peddling marijuana. The sentence was reversed because, in the higher court's opinion, Salfi improperly increased the sentence beyond state sentencing guidelines of one year or less. The man was released from Dinsmore Community Correctional Center near Jacksonville Aug. 1 after serving about a year.

The other sentence, 12 years given an Altamonte Springs man for cocaine trafficking, was tossed out and the defendant ordered freed because Altamonte Springs police conducted an illegal search in the case.

The accused in that case, Jeffrey Scott Lang, was still being held today in the Lake Correctional Institute in Clermont. Lang cannot be retried, but the State Attorney's office can decide to ask the Florida Supreme Court to review the case.

Judge Salfi said today he was not too concerned about the reversal on the marijuana-selling sentence because the same appellate court in August supported his sentence in the case. He said after the Aug. 16 confirmation the accused requested a rehearing, and on the rehearing one justice changed his mind thus shifting the majority against the sentence. Salfi said the various

...no basis to consider attitude or prior record at sentencing, appeal court says.

Judge Salfi

reasons a judge can use to increase or decrease sentences are still being examined since the state sentencing guidelines have only been in effect a couple of years and such shifts in appellate opinion can be expected.

Salfi said he preferred not to comment in the drug trafficking case just in case the state decides to ask the state Supreme Court to review the appellate court decision.

In the marijuana-selling case, the high court said Salfi made three errors when he sentenced Gregory Lawson Vance, 28, of 1010 Holly Ave. Vance was arrested by undercover agents in Feb. 23, 1984. They had approached him and said they wanted to buy less than an ounce of marijuana for $20. Vance produced four "nickel bags" of pot and took the $20, records show. He then drove from the scene, at 12th St. and Holly Ave., and was stopped by police on

Vice-President To Be On Hand As Sanford Firm Seals Pact To Build Helicopters In China

Vice President George Bush is expected to be on hand when officers of a Sanford firm meet Chinese officials in Guangzhou, China, to finalize plans to help build a helicopter plant there.

Troy Simmons, vice president for sales for Orlando Helicopter Airways, Inc., based at the Sanford Airport, said a contract with Guangzhou Tool Manufacturing Company of Guangzhou, China to build a helicopter manufacturing plant there was imminent and that the final signing would take place Oct. 28. Simmons said Bush has agreed to be on hand for the "ceremonial signing" of the 20-year multi-million dollar contract on Oct. 16.

According to David Ryder, officer in charge of advance appointments for Vice President Bush in the White House, Bush will travel overseas from Oct. 10 to Oct. 19 including a five day tour of China and Bush will be in Guangzhou on Oct. 16. Ryder said the vice president is in China to visit manufacturing facilities with an emphasis on joint venture operations between America and China.

A 10-member delegation of business and political leaders from Guangzhou toured the Sanford helicopter facility and the city July 1.

Orlando Helicopter is the first Central Florida company to sign a joint venture contract with China, according to Orlando attorney James Bacchus who toured the China with Orlando mayor Bill Frederick. Besides his legal career Bacchus was also a federal trade negotiator from 1979-1981.

A 25,000 square-foot factory for construction of the helicopters is being planned and is scheduled to be operational in about three years. Company President Fred Clark said OHA will retain 60 percent of the interest in the new company and the Chinese

Bond Issue Aimed At Crowded Schools

By Jim Bearls
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County's school facilities have been strained to the breaking point and only passage of a proposed $100 million bond issue on Oct. 22 can save the school board from scrambling to find empty rooms for its children, according to Karen Coleman, school board spokesman.

Mrs. Coleman spoke on the topic before a breakfast meeting of the Lake Mary Chamber of Commerce.

The proposed bond issue will be financed by borrowing the money from a private source and then repaying it with property tax money collected over the next 20 years, she said. The current property tax rate (for capital outlay projects) of $1.50 per $1,000 assessed property value would remain in effect until 1990 when an estimated additional $1.00 to $1.50 per assessed $1,000 property value would then be levied on property taxes for the remaining 15 years of the bond. She said the school board borrowed $1 million last year to build 20 portable classrooms, for use around the county, and still owes money on that loan.

Mrs. Coleman said the steering committee for the bond issue, chaired by Larry Strickler, Longwood, is hard at work preparing advertising, printing bumper stickers and attending public forums addressing school building needs. She said her office, located in the school board building, 1211 Mellonville Ave., Sanford, has information packets for school officials, parents groups or just interested individuals that detail the "crisis in the schools of Seminole County."

The League of Women Voters of Seminole, the Seminole County PTA and the Seminole Education Association have publicly endorsed the bond issue.

"Our kids tested higher on junior level college entrance exams this year than they ever have before, higher than state, regional or national levels," Mrs. Coleman said. "We have one of the finest school systems in this part of the country and we need to keep it going."

She said the Seminole County school system is the eleventh largest school system in the state with 40,000 children enrolled.

Mrs. Coleman said Superintendent of Schools Robert Hughes and school board Vice-Chairman Jean Bryant returned yesterday from a White

Fund To Aid Starving Horses

A trust fund has been established to aid the 26 starving race horses at the New Smyrna-Edgewater Humane Society in Volusia County, according to Mary Schmidt, the organizer of the "Save the Horses" effort.

Mrs. Schmidt and her husband Ted are thoroughbred race horse owners and stable their horses at Tusawilla in Seminole County. The fund has been set up at Barnett Bank of Central Florida, 2601 W. State Road 434, Longwood, 32779. The bank's phone number is 646-3481.

"There are so many people calling the humane society office in New Smyrna Beach that horse lovers around Central Florida can't get through to help, it's amazing the outpouring of support for these animals," Mrs. Schmidt said. "We went over this morning (Thursday) and took 150 pounds of grain and 10 bales of hay and we couldn't believe the condition of the horses or the crowd of people gathered to help. Many people want to give food to the horses but they don't know what to buy, that's why my husband and myself want to start the fund."

Mrs. Schmidt said her husband estimated it will take at least six to eight months to get the horses healthy again and that several may die before they can be saved. She said they recently moved here from Illinois and have been in thoroughbred track racing for several years.

"I have never seen anything like it in my life," Mrs. Schmidt said. "We went over this morning with food and you just wouldn't believe how sick and emaciated they really are and not just older horses but there are so many colts and mares in foal it is horrible, just horrible. We want to do

Students Lose A Homework Excuse

REDDING, Calif. (UPI) — Students at Sequoia Junior High School have lost a traditional excuse for failure to do their homework — forgotten books.

This year the school has supplied its 550 students with duplicate textbooks — one to keep at home and another that stays in the classroom. At the same time the school did away with hallway lockers.

The unique arrangement has eliminated excuses students use to get out of doing homework, says Principal Jim Weaver.

Also gone are pushing and shoving in crowded hallways, confusion over lost locks and forgotten combinations and loss of instruction time by going back and forth to lockers, he said.

The school day is 5 minutes shorter with no loss of teaching time, he said.

Weaver said he decided to buy a separate set of textbooks for classrooms at a cost of $4,000 rather than refurbish and repaint school lockers for $10,000. Wear and tear on books is also saved because students "don't have to lug any books back and forth each day," he said.

NATION IN BRIEF

Reagan Not Impressed With Gorbachev Missile Offer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan doesn't think much of Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev's announcement that the Soviet Union has pulled back some of its SS-20 missiles aimed at Europe, because the weapons are on wheels.

"To simply drive them into the Ural Mountains or someplace else and then say they're not a threat to Europe makes no sense because they could drive them back any time they want to turn on the gas," Reagan said Thursday.

The president, who was eager to engage the Soviet leader in the escalating public relations skirmish leading up to their Nov. 19-20 summit in Geneva, Switzerland, gloated a bit over Gorbachev's remarks in Paris that he was pulling back the medium-range missiles.

The presence of those missiles caused the United States to install its own in Europe and led to a Soviet walkout on arms talks almost two years ago.

"It would be nice to hope that they may have gotten religion," he said in a question-and-answer session with reporters Thursday while he took a tour of the Ivory soap factory near Cincinnati.

'Star Wars' Laser Hits Target

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Research for President Reagan's proposed "Star Wars" anti-missile defense has scored a success — a ground-based laser beam tracked a rocket in space, the Pentagon says.

The experiment with the low-powered beam was conducted Sept. 27 but it was disclosed by the Pentagon Thursday only after Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger mentioned some of the details in a Philadelphia speech.

The Terrier-Malemute sounding rocket was launched from the Navy Pacific Missile Range Facility in Hawaii and it was tracked by a 4-Watt Argon-ion laser beam fired from the Air Force Maui Optical Site in Maui, a Pentagon statement said. The beam was visible in space.

Argon, which is visible in the night spectrum, appears in the atmosphere and is used in electric light bulbs. A sounding rocket generally is used to return data from the atmosphere beyond. It was not destroyed by the beam, a Pentagon spokeswoman said.

A similar laser beam was bounced off a mirror aboard an orbiting space shuttle June 17 but that was described as a pointing and tracking experiment. Unlike the latest test, the beam was not adjusted for atmospheric distortion.

Schools Differ On AIDS Policies

United Press International

New Jersey health officials, calling AIDS "the most preventable adult disease," ordered a school to admit an infected child, but officials in other states were more cautious in dealing with students suffering from AIDS.

A Maryland county official announced Thursday a temporary policy to remove teachers or students with AIDS from classes, and an attorney for a Kokomo, Ind., boy stricken with AIDS said his client had suffered a setback in his fight to attend public school.

In New York, where the admission of a 7-year-old girl suffering from AIDS sparked a school boycott in September, a judge criticized school officials for failing to formulate an AIDS policy before allowing the girl to attend class.

New Jersey's policy was announced Thursday by the state health commissioner, who ruled a Plainfield girl with AIDS and a Warren County boy who may have been exposed to the disease must be admitted to school today.

Shuttle Orbits In Strict Secrecy

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — The hushed-up crew of the new shuttle Atlantis sailed into a second day in orbit today, working in strict secrecy and with apparent success on a flight to reportedly launch two military communications satellites.

With NASA following a tight-lipped Air Force policy restricting comment when it comes to military shuttle flights, little was known about the progress of the mission, the 21st shuttle voyage in four years but only the second fully classified American manned spaceflight.

While Atlantis's payload is an official secret, various sources and the Federation of American Scientists say it includes two third-generation defense communications satellites, called DSCS 3, mounted atop a single solid rocket booster in the shuttle's payload bay.

The $75 million satellites are built to withstand some of the effects of a nuclear attack and are capable of resisting enemy jamming that otherwise could disrupt military communications. They also feature a single-channel radio transponder to relay presidential orders to nuclear forces during emergencies.

Following standard shuttle practice, satellites are launched as early as possible during a mission to allow time to correct any problems that might develop.

Atlantis, the fourth and final member of NASA's shuttle fleet, took off with a splash of flame and a deep-throated roar at 11:16 a.m. EDT Thursday and quickly raced into orbit.

To keep the Russians in the dark as long as possible about the shuttle's orbital path, NASA did not reveal the exact launch time until nine minutes before blastoff.

The $1.1 billion spaceship is manned by Air Force Col. Karol Bobko, commander; Air Force Lt. Col. Ronald Grabe, co-pilot; Army Col. Robert Stewart; Marine Maj. David Hillmers, and Air Force Maj. William Palles, a computer expert and a member of an elite cadre of military shuttle fliers.

Five hours after liftoff, a NASA spokeswoman read a terse, one-sentence statement approved by the Air Force on the status of the shuttle and its crew.

"On the maiden voyage of the space shuttle Atlantis, the crew is doing well and all systems on board the orbiter are performing satisfactorily," the statement said.

Unless an emergency develops, that was the final formal NASA statement expected until the landing time is announced 24 hours before touchdown at Edwards Air Force Base in California's Mojave Desert.

The duration of the flight is classified, but it is expected to last about five days.

GOP Tries To Tie Balanced Budget To Debt Ceiling

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congressional Republicans and President Reagan are rallying around a plan to balance the federal budget by fiscal year 1991 and say they want to pass it with a bill to lift the debt ceiling to $2 trillion.

Treasury Secretary James Baker, in a new letter to Congress, underscored the necessity of increasing the federal borrowing authority — now at $1.8 trillion — by Monday to keep government checks from bouncing, including Social Security payments and unemployment compensation.

The Senate began debate on the debt bill Thursday but recessed without completing action. Aides said Reagan planned to discuss the budget proposal today with some members of Congress.

The budget-balancing plan by Sens. Phillip Gramm, R-Texas, Warren Rudman, R-N.H., and Ernest Hollings, D-S.C., would put a gradually decreasing cap on the annual deficits in each of the next six years.

If the limits were violated, the measure calls for reductions in all government programs except Social Security. It also would permit unspecified tax increases.

At the White House, chief of staff Donald Regan confirmed Reagan's support.

"Yes, we're for it," he said.

Elderly Unwelcome Under Revised Medicare

CHICAGO (UPI) — Congressional efforts to standardize and reduce the cost of Medicare by setting fixed fees for specific ailments make many of the elderly unwelcome patients, especially in emergency rooms, researchers said today.

Dr. Eric Munoz and colleagues at the Long Island Jewish Medical Center said Thursday Medicare's "prospective pay system" has made it unprofitable to treat many patients because of increased costs to hospitals.

Consequently, Munoz said, "These people are definitely going to be unwelcome."

"It used to be a Medicare person would walk into the emergency room and bring $20,000 with them," Munoz said in a telephone interview. "Now, all of a sudden, with the (new) system, they're costing the same $20,000, but Medicare is only reimbursing the hospital $10,000, so (the hospital) just lost 10 Gs. and they're not too happy about it."

Under the prospective pay system, hospitals get a fixed fee depending on the ailment treated.

Munoz said the new system does not adequately consider the extra expense of emergency treatment, which accounts for one-third of Medicare admissions, or the increased cost of caring for more severely ill patients.

Munoz and the others, reporting in the Journal of the American Medical Association, compared the amount of federal money the Long Island Jewish Medical Center was reimbursed for certain patients to the actual cost of treating those patients.

In 1984, the hospital treated 1,784 Medicare patients on an emergency basis and was reimbursed an average of $7,733 per patient, down from $8,273 the previous year. At the same time, the cost of treating those patients increased from $7,616 to $9,710 each.

As a result, Munoz said, the hospital lost more than $3.5 million on treating Medicare patients on an emergency basis in 1984.

Munoz said the losses were caused in part because the money allotted to treat certain illnesses is low, but also because "emergency admissions are more expensive for the same disease."

Congress enacted the new program to reduce hospital waste and Munoz says he does not disagree — in principle.

"I think it's a reasonable mechanism to attempt, whether it works is another thing," he said.

company will retain the other 40 percent.

Bush tentatively will visit OHA facilities at the Sanford Airport in November, Simmons said.

Guangzhou is a sprawling metropolis of 3.5 million people and was formerly known as Canton before their cultural revolution several years ago.

It has been confirmed that the city of Guangzhou, the Guangzhou Tool Co. and OHA will form a joint venture to share in the manufacture of helicopters and the new company will be called Guangzhou/Orlando Helicopters Ltd., according to Simmons.

"The Chinese factory will be an extension of what we do at our plant here only on a larger scale," Simmons said. "Every helicopter sold benefits this area and its economy. In the early stages of contract negotiations we had a clause put in the contract that forbids the Chinese from reintroducing the helicopters in the United States. We think this contract can do nothing but help this area economically. The more choppers we sell, the more jobs there will be at our factory for Sanford residents."

Simmons said the Sikorsky-55 helicopters are rebuilt from government surplus parts. They are sold for about $230,000 and are capable of hauling up to 10 passengers and 2,000 pounds of cargo. He said the Chinese are especially interested in them because they operate on either gasoline or aviation fuel.

"The Sikorsky S-55 'Bearcat' is the only commercial helicopter in the world that is approved by the Federal Aviation Administration for use with either fuel," Simmons said. That and the fact that this copter is also the only one that uses a wet/dry spray system for agricultural use makes this an ideal vehicle for the Chinese and it costs a fraction of what the same model would cost new. They want them for commercial enterprise, tourism, transportation and agriculture. I think this is going to be a long term relationship," Simmons said.

He said Clark vice president Brad Clark and himself would represent the company at the signing in Guangzhou.

County Pricing Weed-Eating Fish For Lake Mills Clean-Up

A weed-eating fish, called a triploid, should make Lake Mills a nicer place for boating, swimming and skiing, according to county commissioners who asked for bids on the project early in September.

Commissioners are expected to approve one of those bids for chemical treatment of the weeds in Lake Mills and stocking the lake with triploid at Tuesday's meeting. The triploid is a vegetarian fish with a life expectancy of 8 to 12 years.

"Normally, if you get a good fish population established the fish keep the weeds under control" without the necessity of repeated chemical application to the weeds, Commissioner Sandra Glenn said.

Even though chemicals may not need to be added, more fish may be needed in the future because the triploid don't reproduce, Mrs. Glenn said.

The weed control venture is a joint operation between homeowners in the area who brought the problem to the attention of commissioners and the county. Before the state gets involved in the weed control public access to the lake is required, Mrs. Glenn said. The county requires participation from homeowners in the area before it will donate money to the project, she added.

The county is scheduled to donate either 40 percent of the project cost or $5,000, whichever is less, Mrs. Glenn said. State involvement includes approval of chemicals being applied to the weeds and stipulating the number of fish that should be put in the lake.

"If you have too many fish in there they eat all the vegetation and destroy the ecosystem of the lake," Mrs. Glenn said.

Commissioners are looking at several bids on the project and it is not yet known when the chemical application will occur or when the lake will be stocked. Lake Mills is off S.R. 419 near Chuluota.

In another action commissioners approved on-going agreements with eight community service agencies totaling $343,233.

The agencies and the amounts they are slated to receive from the county include the Grove Counseling Center, a drug rehabilitation center, $34,304; We Care, Inc., a problem counseling center, $7,000; Christian Enterprises, Inc., a temporary shelter for youth, $10,000; Retired Senior Volunteer Program, a program for elderly who want to volunteer their services, $25,000; Federation of Senior Citizens, $35,000;

Legal Aid Society, which provides legal services for the indigent (these are not taxpayer funds), $36,000; Seminole Community Mental Health Center, $168,929; and Community Coordinated Child Care, for care of indigent children, $37,000.

"These are non-profit or community service organizations that have pledged a certain amount of community service in Seminole County to get these funds," Mrs. Glenn said. "They fulfill a community need, they have convinced us of that, and that's why we put taxpayer's dollars into them."

Court: 'Saturday Night Special' Makers Liable For Injuries, Deaths Weapons Cause

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (UPI) — Maryland's highest court has ruled the makers and sellers of "Saturday Night Special" pistols are liable for injuries and deaths the weapons cause in the hands of criminals.

Attorney Howard Siegel, who filed suit against a West German gun maker for a supermarket manager wounded in a 1981 robbery, said Thursday the ruling by Maryland's Court of Appeals was the first of its kind in the nation.

"We conclude that it is entirely consistent with public policy to hold the manufacturers and marketers of Saturday Night Special handguns strictly liable to innocent persons who suffer gunshot injuries from the criminal use of their products," Judge John Eldridge wrote for the seven-member court.

Eldridge said the court's unanimous ruling was warranted "in light of the ever-growing number of deaths and injuries due to such handguns being used in criminal activity."

Olen J. Kelley, a 37-year-old supermarket manager shot with a "Saturday Night Special" during a holdup, filed a multi-million dollar damage suit against the Rohm Gesellschaft Co. of West Germany in U.S. District Court in Baltimore.

The federal court had asked Maryland's highest court to first rule on the liability issue in the state before it considered Kelley's damage suit.

The case now returns to federal court.

PLO Official Says Israeli Jets Refueled At NATO Sea Base

TUNIS, Tunisia (UPI) — A Palestine Liberation Organization official said Israeli fighter jets refueled at a NATO base in the Mediterranean Sea during their raid on the PLO headquarters in Tunisia that killed at least 73 people.

Salah Khalaf, a top assistant to PLO chairman Yasser Arafat, said Thursday the alleged stop at a NATO base proved the United States was involved in the raid Tuesday in the Tunis suburb of Borj Cedra.

Khalaf refused to say at which NATO base the eight Israeli F-15 jets refueled during their 3,000-mile round trip from Israel to the northern African nation.

Tunisian officials charged the U.S. 6th Fleet, stationed in the Mediterranean Sea, was aware of the Israeli raid before it occurred but did not inform Tunisia, one of America's closest Arab allies.

The State Department has denied the allegations, but officials said they were studying whether the U.S.-made jets were used illegally by Israel, which contends its planes refueled in flight for the attack.

Soviet Embassy Evacuated

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — The Soviet Embassy evacuated some of its staff and their families today, fearing attacks by Muslim extremists who executed one of the four Soviet officials they kidnapped this week, diplomatic sources said.

Witnesses said about 70 Soviets — mainly women and some non-essential staff members — drove out of Beirut for Damascus, Syria, and state-run Beirut radio later put the number at 135.

The evacuation came as Soviet officials and Lebanese authorities coordinated efforts to find the three kidnapped officials and Muslim militiamen beefed up security at the Soviet Embassy.

The body of embassy counselor Arkady Katkov, 32, was found in west Beirut Wednesday, raising fears about the safety of the other hostages — commercial attache Valery Mirikov, embassy physician Dr. Nikolai Sverski and attache Oleg Spirin.

The four were seized from two embassy cars in mostly Muslim west Beirut on Monday. A statement issued Wednesday night by the kidnappers — who claim to be the Khald Islamic Brigade of the Islamic Liberation Organization — warned to three remaining hostages would be killed if pro-Syrian militias did not end their assault on Muslim fundamentalists holding the northern port city of Tripoli.

Fighting Slows; Peace Plan Ok'd

TRIPOLI, Lebanon (UPI) — Fighting between rival pro-Syrian and Muslim fundamentalist militiamen eased in Tripoli today after representatives of the two sides meeting in Syria signed a plan to end nearly three weeks of fighting, officials and radio reports said.

Sumit Voice of the Nation and Christian Voice of Lebanon radios said fighting was confined to the front lines in the early hours today and residential areas were quiet.

The lull in the Tripoli fighting came as a Syrian official announced a 10-point peace plan that included a cease-fire that went into effect early today.

The Syrian official said Sheikh Saeed Shubani, leader of Tripoli's Muslim fundamentalist Tawheed movement, signed the accord with representatives of the pro-Syrian Arab Democratic Party and its leftist Lebanese allies.

Man Who Tried To Tip Topless Dancer With Cocaine Pleads Guilty To Possession

A man who tried to tip topless dancers with cocaine has pleaded guilty to possession of cocaine. He was one of six persons whose cases were heard recently in Seminole Circuit Court.

L. Trette Weeks, 31, of Orlando, entered the plea before Circuit Judge Robert B. McGregor who set sentencing for Nov. 5. Weeks could receive up to a year in the county jail.

Weeks was arrested after Seminole County sheriff's deputies responded to a complaint around 3:35 a.m., Feb. 17, at the House of Babes, U.S. Highway, 17-92, Fern Park. The deputies were told a patron had offered women cocaine as tips. The man was taken outside and searched, court records show.

A vial containing cocaine was found in the man's pants pocket, the report said.

In other court action two Sanford residents have pleaded guilty to possession of Valium without a prescription.

Vdenetta Ilene Roman, 20, and Roy E. Plenge, 34, both of 2801 Knudsen Drive, entered the pleas before McGregor who set Nov. 5 for the sentencing. Each could receive up to a year in the county jail.

—Bengamin Burrell Highsmith, 42, of DeLand, arrested Aug. 5, 1984, after he reportedly threatened three people on foot with a rifle then chased them in his truck. He followed them until they ran into the Sanford police station, according to court records. No injuries were reported nor was the cause of the incident. Highsmith pleaded guilty to aggravated assault with an automobile and can receive up to a year in the county jail when sentenced Nov. 5 by McGregor.

—Lawrence Shepherd Fortney, 29, of Orlando, arrested June 21 after he reportedly tried to tip cocaine to employees at the House of Babes, Fern Park. When deputies asked him to step outside the bar, he was holding his hand in his pocket and the lawmen asked to see what, if anything, was in his hand. He showed them a plastic bag containing cocaine, court records show.

Fortney pleaded no contest to possession of a controlled substance and can receive up to a year in the county jail when sentenced Nov. 27 by Circuit Judge Kenneth M. Leffler.

—Matthew Howell Napier, 20, of 328 Ruth Blvd., Longwood, arrested on burglary-related charges April 3. He pleaded guilty to burglary and grand theft and could receive up to a year in the county jail when sentenced Oct. 25 by Circuit Judge Dominick J. Salfi. Napier was linked to burglaries in Lake Mary, records show.

—Jeffery Darrell Gilliard, 22, of 40 N. Second St., Winter Springs, arrested in June following the pawing of a stolen gold chain, pleaded guilty to grand theft. He was accused of stealing two gold chains with a total value of $1,380. He reportedly pawned one of the chains June 7 then bought it back the next day. He could receive up to a year in the county jail when sentenced Oct. 22 by Leffler.

Former Nun Named Supreme Court Justice

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Gov. Bob Graham has appointed appeal Judge Rosemary Barkett, a former Catholic nun and school teacher with a background in family law, as the first woman justice on the state Supreme Court.

Barkett, who said she is not sure if she qualifies as a feminist, joked that the main difference between herself and her male colleagues will be her wardrobe.

"You worry about what you're going to wear to the interview," she told reporters. "Men don't worry about if they ran their pantyhose."

But Barkett added: "It's hard not to have any thoughts about being the first woman (on the court). It adds a sense of responsibility to the position, I think."

"You are what you are because of your experience and personal perspective," Barkett said. "I suppose that women view things differently than men do. Other than that I don't see how it has any effect."

Graham insisted Barkett's gender was incidental to his decision to appoint her.

"I think you would demean Rosemary Barkett if you infer it was something other than her personal and judicial qualifications that led to her appointment," Graham said.

"Judge Barkett stands on a record of humanitarian service, legal talent and professionalism and judicial demeanor which speaks for her considerable qualifications," he said.

Barkett, 46, is a resident of Lake Park, Fla., but was born in Mexico of Syrian immigrants. She was naturalized as a citizen of the United States in 1958.

She became a Catholic nun at age 17 and taught school from 1960 to 1968 at St. Augustine, Fla. She later taught briefly in Miami and in the public schools in Michigan.

After leaving the order she studied law at the University of Florida and became a lawyer in 1970.

She said she holds reservations about the death penalty, which the Catholic church teaches is morally wrong, but added, "I don't see any conflict between any beliefs I have and any responsibility I would have as a judge. There is the judicial perspective and the personal perspective."

Graham appointed Barkett as a circuit court judge in 1979 and made her an appeal court judge in 1984. She served as chief judge when on the circuit bench.

All three judges nominated for the high court were from the 4th District Court of Appeal. The others were Judges Gavin Letts and Harry Lee Anstead.

Barkett will replace James Alderman who resigned from the Supreme Court in August to join the Orlando law firm of Swann and Haddock.

On the District Court of Appeal Barkett is paid $67,093 a year. She will be paid $74,347 on the Supreme Court.

Although she was the first woman appointed to the 4th Circuit Court of Appeal, she was not the first woman appeals judge. Four other women preceded her in other districts.

Gorbachev: Powers Need 'Common Sense' Relations

PARIS (UPI) — Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev, appealing for closer ties and improved dialogue with the West, called today for a new era of "common sense" in relations between the world's great powers.

"We can build a new and better world and improve the international situation if this is to our mutual benefit," Gorbachev said at an unusual joint news conference with French President Francois Mitterrand.

"The realities of today's world are such that in all of the differences of our political systems, ideology, traditions... we definitely must seek the path to a better world that would be characterized by dialogue, mutual understanding, trust," Gorbachev said.

"The present situation in the world is at such a stage of its development where we have to make real decisions, first by those nations whose international weight is great," he said, listing specifically the United States, Soviet Union, France, Britain and "other countries."

"We consider we need a lot of common sense and must learn to live in the real world," said the Soviet leader, who in two days of talks with Mitterrand has spelled out his offer to the United States of a 50 percent mutual reduction in strategic weapons in exchange for a ban on the space-based "Star Wars" defense system.

"We still have the same political systems that we had and each one has its ideology and we have the same political views that we had before," Gorbachev said of his talks with Mitterrand.

Laser Treatment Successful For Diabetics With Eye Trouble

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — A researcher at Washington University says a new laser technique is nearly 100 percent effective in reversing a previously untreatable loss of vision among diabetics.

The technique, called "modified grid," was presented Wednesday by Dr. R. Joseph Olk, assistant professor of ophthalmology at the university's School of Medicine, at the annual meeting of the American Academy of Ophthalmology in San Francisco.

The treatment, which is done in a doctor's office, takes about 15 minutes and is painless, Olk said. Many patients require two or three treatments. The initial laser therapy session costs about $1,000, he said.

After a treatment, the patient is sent home with no restrictions and is asked to return four months later for an examination.

Olk said his research proves that laser therapy can eliminate macular edema, a buildup of fluid in a tiny part of the retina most responsible for visual keenness. The therapy in many cases improves vision impaired by the condition, he added.

"In eyes with diffuse diabetic macular edema, the treatment significantly improves visual acuity, both at 12 and 24 months," Olk said. "What's more, eyes that are not treated have significantly worse visual acuity at 12 and 24 months, compared to treated eyes."

Of the 5 million to 10 million diabetics in the United States, about 50,000 are legally blind. Many people suffering from diabetes have impaired vision because of hemorrhaging within the eye and retinal detachment. Most diabetics who lose vision suffer from macular edema, Olk said.

Research results published in 1976 showed laser therapy called "pan retinal photocoagulation" can reduce by more than 50 percent the incidence of severe visual loss caused by a condition known as proliferative retinopathy. But those findings did not address macular edema, which affects a much larger number of diabetic patients.

Olk conducted a three-year clinical trial of a type of laser treatment using the "modified grid" method. The 92-patient study was conducted at Washington University and Barnes Hospital, both in St. Louis.

Nearly half the patients got the laser treatment and the visual results were compared with those eyes were untreated. The two groups were compared over 12- and 24-month follow-up periods.

Of 160 eyes studied, 82 were assigned to treatment and 78 were observed as controls. Macular edema was reduced in all 82 treated eyes, but there was no spontaneous reduction of fluid in any eyes of the control group.

Drug Insanity

Although the Reagan administration began a frontal attack on the narcotics threat in 1982, there was no high-profile generalissimo coordinating national and international drug strategy until Edwin Meese III, the new U.S. Attorney General, assumed leadership a few months ago.

As chairman of the National Drug Enforcement Policy Board, he commands 1,000 FBI agents who specialize in drug investigations and work with agents of the Drug Enforcement Administration as part of the Organized Crime Drug Enforcement Task Force program in 13 regions of the country.

Americans, alarmed over the nation's failure to curb drug abuse, are heartened by the attorney general's purposefulness and energy in mobilizing national resources against what has become the chief internal threat to the United States.

Drug abuse is already a national calamity. The facts are mind-boggling. According to the House Select Committee on Narcotics Abuse and Control, "more than 20 million Americans use marijuana regularly; approximately 8 million to 20 million are regular cocaine users; about 500,000 are regular heroin addicts; a million are regular users of hallucinogens; and 6 million people abuse prescription drugs."

It is shocking to realize that cocaine is now the "drug of choice" for middle-class America ... growing "addition in our society," according to Dr. Arnold Washon of New York City, a leading U.S. authority on cocaine. It has escalated to epidemic proportions, afflicting famous athletes, doctors, lawyers, professional leaders, blue-collar workers, and one in five high school students. Millions of Americans aged 24 to 40 who smoked marijuana during their younger years in the '60s and '70s now use cocaine.

Here we have a correlation between the earlier, widespread use of marijuana and the subsequent expanding addiction to cocaine, a far more dangerous drug. In truth, cocaine can be a killer. Emergency-room admissions associated with cocaine tripled between 1981-1984 and the number of deaths associated with cocaine also tripled.

The geopolitical aspects of drug trafficking that Mr. Meese referred to recently have been spelled out by Secretary of State George P. Shultz. Particularly worrisome is the complicity of some communist governments in the drug trade, "notably Cuba, Bulgaria and Nicaragua." Cuba, Secretary Shultz said, "uses drug smugglers to funnel arms to communist insurgents and terrorists."

The money Americans are spending for illegal drugs is incredible. The retail value of drugs supplied to the illicit U.S. market doubled from about $50 billion in 1978 to $100 billion now. Domestically produced marijuana alone accounts for $14 billion; it is said to be the nation's leading cash crop.

Nearly 30 percent of the marijuana and 38 percent of the heroin used in the United States come from Mexico and an estimated 30 percent of the cocaine consumed north of the border passes through Mexico from South America. Only last month, Mr. Meese was able to conclude certain affirmative arrangements in Mexico City that promise results in choking off at least some of the drug traffic through Mexico.

The attorney general's reference to the drug abuse epidemic as a potential "national disaster" is undeniable. Drug abuse on the present scale is already sapping the moral and physical vigor of this country. Unless the spread of drugs is drastically reduced and unless there is a vigorous effort to educate young Americans about the almost-certain tragedy invited by drug use, the United States will be sapped and even crippled by millions of drug delinquents. We Americans must halt this national insanity lest we drift into the same moral decay that nearly always characterized those nations in history before they perished.

Erecting Trade Barriers Is No Answer

WASHINGTON — There is good reason to question the justification for the protectionist hysteria now running through Congress, and even greater reason to fear the disastrous consequences that a wave of protectionism would have on the U.S. economy.

The answer to the trade deficit isn't keeping the competition out, but becoming more aggressively competitive overseas.

Lawmakers returned from the August recess saying that the huge $150 million trade deficit was a chief topic of concern among constituents — triggering increased pressures to enact tariff barriers against imported goods. At last count, more than 300 trade bills — covering everything from shoes to textiles — have been introduced in Congress.

But my own survey of Capitol Hill suggests that the latest rash of trade hysteria is more the result of pressure from key business interests than are frustrated by their inability to hold their own against foreign competition. This appears to be the view of political and public-opinion experts as well.

Public-opinion polls on trade issues yield murky results: They reveal deep concern about the trade deficit, but show little evidence that consumers want their purchasing choices denied them by erecting new import barriers.

The remark by a Tennessee man to Wall Street Journal reporter Art Pine echoes many Americans' sentiments about imports: "You know, they don't force us to buy these things," he said. "People buy them because they want to."

Nevertheless, congressional Democrats are starved for an offensive issue they can use in next year's congressional elections. With unemployment down to less than 7 percent, inflation at a near standstill, interest rates declining and the economy showing signs of taking off again, they don't have many choices. Democratic leaders think the ballooning trade deficit could work to their advantage. But will it?

President Reagan's attack last week against unfair trade practices essentially defended free-trade policies, but it was calculated to defuse the issue on Capitol Hill. And — for the moment, anyway — it may have eased the pressure to enact sweeping protectionist legislation.

Wood Stoves Polluters

By Gayle Young
UPI Science Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Wood burning stoves produce a significant amount of air pollution and are becoming a health hazard in some parts of the country, according to a study from an independent scientific research group.

"People are worried about air pollution in the air but they think of wood burning stoves as being natural, and therefore harmless," said Elizabeth Whelan, director of the American Council on Science and Health. "That's simply not the case."

Burning wood spews more than a hundred different chemicals into the air, including carbon monoxide and possible cancer-causing substances, according to the council's report, which states wood stoves are directly linked to the decline of air quality in many communities in the Southwest and Massachusetts.

Wood burning stoves produce 550 times more carbon monoxide than heating with oil and 1,000 times more carbon monoxide than gas heat — although those two heating sources produce more sulfur than wood, the report states. Carbon monoxide is a toxic but colorless and odorless gas also present in car exhaust.

Despite their pollution potential, wood burning stoves have never been more popular. In the last decade some 8 million new wood stoves were purchased by American consumers and, in New England alone, the number of homes with wood stoves has doubled from 1976 to 1981, the report states.

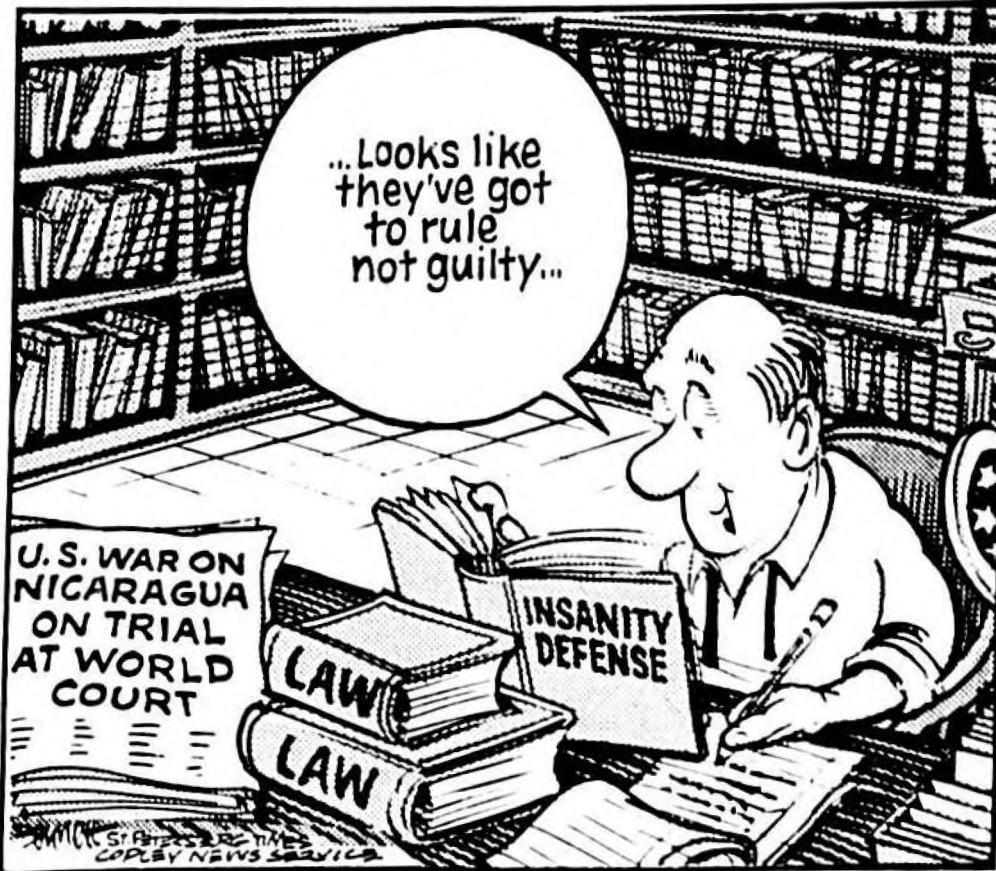

Although burning wood comprises only 3 percent of all energy used in the United States, some communities have set limits on the use of wood stoves and Colorado and Oregon have mandated emission controls, said Whelan.

"It's not a major health hazard, but it is an irritant," she said. "What we are talking about is smoke, which can be very uncomfortable and dangerous to people with respiratory problems."

She said wood smoke and cigarette smoke are similar, but the chances of getting lung cancer from air laden with wood smoke is slight because most people breathe in wood smoke through their nose.

"Cigarettes cause cancer because they are inhaled through the mouth and bypass the nose's complex screening," she said. "Cigarettes and wood stove smoke have a lot of the same chemicals, but one is much more dangerous than the other."

Whelan said chemicals in wood smoke come from the combustion of the wood, not from the wood itself, although some wood is treated with chemical preservatives that can also be emitted into the air.

Back To Melting Pot

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Listen to Miami Mayor Maurice Ferre describe with pride how many Hispanic residents of his city manage to spend their entire lives in this country while remaining totally immersed in another culture.

"You can be born here in a Cuban hospital, be baptized by a Cuban priest, buy all your food from a Cuban grocer, take your insurance from a Cuban bank.

"You can get all the news in Spanish — read the Spanish daily paper, watch Spanish television, listen to Spanish radio. You can go through life without having to speak English at all."

What Ferre doesn't mention is that Hispanic elementary and secondary school students can be taught exclusively in Spanish during their entire 12 years in Miami's public schools under the guise of receiving a "bilingual education."

Our is a nation proud of its "melting pot" tradition, but until recently the one element uniting its millions of people of disparate heritage has been its common language — English.

As a task force of the Twentieth Century Fund noted two years ago, "anyone living in the United States who is unable to speak English cannot fully participate in our society, its culture, its politics."

Throughout the first two centuries of this country's existence, waves of immigrants from scores of nations readily adapted to that reality by becoming proficient in English as well as in their native Dutch, German, French, Italian, Polish or Chinese.

Many Hispanics who have come to this country in recent decades, however, have been considerably more resistant to assimilation. Unlike earlier immigrants and refugees committed to establishing this country as a permanent new home for themselves (and often their extended families), substantial numbers of Hispanics anticipate eventually returning to Puerto Rico, Cuba, Mexico or other Latin American nations.

Others are separatists who envision establishing Spanish-speaking enclaves in this country similar to what the French-speaking residents of Quebec have carved out in Canada.

A federal law in 1968 and a Supreme Court decision in 1974 required all local school districts to provide bilingual assistance to all children whose native language was not English.

That reform was needed because in many communities the traditional method of teaching English as a second language was a disgraceful procedure euphemistically known to educators as "submersion."

Leaks Often True

By Helen Thomas
UPI White House Reporter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The first thing you learn about news leaks in government circles, particularly at the White House, is that they are usually true.

The second thing you learn is that they evoke outrage in presidents or aides who did not do the leaking.

Most of the leaks are deliberate and purposeful, emanating most often from government officials who are in the know.

President Reagan expressed his anger this week over the spate of reports last week that he was going to oust Health and Human Services Secretary Margaret Heckler from the Cabinet and offer her the post of U.S. Ambassador to Ireland.

On Monday, Reagan twice publicly chided reporters for the "leaks" and said he did not know how to shut them off.

Later in the day, when asked about the imminent firing of Heckler, he said:

"There has never been any thought in my mind of firing Margaret Heckler."

"I don't know where all these stories come from," he said.

Questioned further, he said, "It will all be explained soon. You have been given a great deal of misinformation."

Then Reagan told reporters, "I know I can't shut off the leaks, but you ought to be more astute at recognizing whether the leaks are true or not."

Heckler came to the White House that afternoon and during a 40-minute session in the Oval Office, Reagan more or less gave her her walking papers and asked her whether she would like to be the ambassador to Dublin.

Access to the president is not so great as to be able to ask the president after the Heckler meeting what was untrue about the reports.

Last weekend, one or more administration officials leaked details of the 50 percent nuclear arms cut proposal that Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze presented to Reagan.

The outline of the proposal was given to the news magazines, The Washington Post and The New York Times, among others.

There was some unhappiness in the upper echelon of the White House when the 50 percent Soviet proposed cut in arms was revealed. At the same time, there was a realization that it had to come from inside. No one is the worse for knowing what the proposal is, and that there will be a lot of hard bargaining in the days, weeks, months and perhaps years.

There were some indications that the White House may have feared that the Kremlin got the jump in the U.S.-U.S.S.R. public relations battle now under way in advance of the summit meeting between President Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev in Geneva in November, with the publicity surrounding Moscow's proposal.

Spokesman Larry Speakes complained that whoever did the leaking was not "authorized" to do so.

At the same time, there was no quibbling with the information. In fact, after the reports were out, Speakes suggested reporters read the newspapers where the proposal was revealed, but cautioned them to "look closely" at the Soviet proposal.

It goes with the turf to be unhappy about so-called leaks. But top Reagan aides are often the purveyors of information that is attributed to a "senior American official."

Sometimes leaks are planted to nudge a reluctant official to quit before they are shoved. But sometimes they don't take the hint and then it befalls a president to deliver the bad news, and no president likes to do that.

Fund Transfer Probably Illegal

By Jack Anderson
and
Dale van Atta

WASHINGTON — The desperate attempt of a sinking federal agency to stay afloat by switching funds from one appropriation to another was not only improper but probably illegal, according to an internal legal opinion that was withheld from the public.

The opinion was written last July by Harry R. Van Cleve, general counsel of the General Accounting Office. The memo was not released with a GAO report made public at about that time, but our associate Donald Goldberg obtained a copy of the eight-page opinion.

The agency involved in the monetary fast shuffle was the Federal Crop Insurance Corp., which was created in 1938 to protect farmers from such natural disasters as drought and flood. After more than 40 years operating in the black, the FCIC has run up a deficit of more than $860 million in the past five years.

As we reported last April, FCIC officials had adopted one expedient after another to keep from going broke. We pointed out one questionable, last-ditch measure in particular: the transfer of $50 million in administrative funds to the almost-empty pool of money available to pay off outstanding insurance claims from farmers. The farmers had paid their premiums and were entitled to compensation for their lost crops, but the corporation had no money to pay them. So it borrowed from its administrative funds.

Lawyer Van Cleve took a dim view of the corporation's Peter-Paul robbery, which had been authorized by the Agriculture Department. Noting that the insurance payoff fund contained only $18 million last March to deal with some $85 million in farmers' claims, Van Cleve confirmed that the department transferred $50 million to the fund from FCIC's $200 million appropriation for administrative and operating expenses.

"The department describes the situation as an extraordinary emergency," the GAO counsel wrote. But he was unimpressed by this explanation. "It is well-settled that in the absence of statutory authority, transfers from one appropriation to another are prohibited," Van Cleve wrote.

The only loophole in this rule, he added, is that up to 7 percent of a particular congressional appropriation can be juggled into another account — but only to cover "miscellaneous" expenses. And the law defines such an expense as "a small appropriation for the minor and unimportant disbursements incidental to any great business, which cannot well be foreseen and which it would be useless to specify more accurately." Van Cleve said the law "was used improperly," but he gave the FCIC and Agriculture a break. He could have pointed out that the expense of paying off insurance claims is hardly "incidental" to an insurance corporation that was set up to do just that. This would have meant the entire $50 million transfer was illegal.

Instead, Van Cleve based his opinion strictly on the percentages. He noted that "the amounts transferred and received represented substantial proportions" of the two appropriations involved, and specifically that the $50 million "exceeded 7 percent" of the $200 million administrative appropriation.

Therefore, he ruled, "the department is obligated to transfer back ... that part of the amount ... that exceeded 7 percent of the $200 million appropriated, i.e., $36 million."

The Perils of FCIC continue. Where will it get the $36 million? Stay tuned.

Orlandoan Held As Suspect In Fronton Fight

A 34-year-old Orlando man, who allegedly slashed another Orlando man's face with a piece of glass during a dispute at the Jai Alai Fronton in Fern Park, has been charged with aggravated battery and throwing a deadly missile.

The injured man, Bienfait Ferdinand, 32, was treated at Florida Hospital Altamonte Springs, following the fight which occurred at about 10 p.m. Wednesday. It took 50 stitches to close the five-inch slash on his cheek, a sheriff's report said.

The suspect was turned over to sheriff's deputies by Jai Alai security officers. The suspect reportedly said he "was sick of people getting in my way." He allegedly took a bottle from his pocket, then hit Ferdinand with it. The bottle broke and the suspect allegedly picked up a piece of glass and slashed the victim's face, the report said.

Leroy Boyd was held in lieu of $8,000 bond in the case.

CHEEK SHOT

A man, who allegedly shot another man in the buttock when the injured man reportedly tried to disarm him on Sept. 11, was charged Wednesday with attempted murder.

The suspect was arrested at 9:10 a.m. after he came to the Seminole County Sheriff's Department for questioning, a sheriff's report said.

The shooting reportedly occurred at the Cool Breeze Bar at Midway, after the victim, who was not named in the arrest report, reportedly tried to disarm the suspect who was threatening two other men with a handgun, the report said.

After several shots were fired into the ground the victim told deputies, he let the suspect go and as the man fled a final shot was fired hitting the victim in the right buttock. He was treated at Central Florida Regional Hospital in Sanford, the report said.

Dennis Williams, 34, of 2590 Crawford St., Sanford, has been charged in the case. He was being held in lieu of $10,000 bond.

GUN THREAT ARREST

A man, who reportedly followed an employee of Long John Silvers, State Road 436, Altamonte Springs, to work and allegedly brandished a handgun and threatened the man because he claimed the man had made a "gesture" toward him when both were driving in Apopka, has been arrested.

Ernest T. Ivey, 19, of 413 E. 8th St., Apopka, told Altamonte Springs police the suspect entered the restaurant, brandished the gun and made threats. When police arrived at about 4:30 p.m. Wednesday the suspect was outside near a car and at first denied having a gun, then later handed over a .32-caliber handgun from his vehicle, police reported.

The gun was loaded, but the suspect denied making threats with the weapon, a police report said.

Darryl Landell Rutland, 22, of 607 Washington Ave., Apopka, has been charged with carrying a concealed firearm. He has been released on $5,000 bond and is scheduled to appear in court Oct. 21.

SPOTTED AT VEHICLES

An 18-year-old Apopka man, who was confronted by an Altamonte Spring couple who told police they saw him near their vehicles in their driveway at about midnight Wednesday, was nabbed near the scene and charged with loitering and prowling and possession of less than 20 grams of marijuana.

Joel R. Hawkins and Kathy Murray told police the man fled north on Little Wekiva Circle, after Hawkins confronted him and took the keys to his car, a police report said.

Police caught a suspect who was walking on Little Wekiva Circle and he was reportedly identified by Hawkins and Ms. Murray, the report said. In a search a small quantity of marijuana was reportedly found in the suspect's pocket.

Brett M. Gilbert of 3519 Jamiso Drive was being held in lieu of $500 bond in the case.

Thomas John Llinas, 28, of 185 N. Forest Lake Drive, Altamonte Springs, told sheriff's deputies the keys may have been in his 1981 Isuzu pickup truck when it was stolen on Monday or Tuesday. The truck is valued at $5,000.

Peter Clark, 55, of Sanford, owner of A. R. Clark Builders, 2461 Cherry Laurel Drive, told sheriff's deputies a $400 stained glass window was stolen from a home being built at 2050 Springs Landing Blvd., Longwood, on Sept. 1 or 2. He reported the theft on Tuesday.

TV SET STOLEN

Between 8 a.m. and 5:50 p.m. Friday a man entered 149-C Springwood Circle, Longwood, and took a television and a stereo valued at $302.

David Michael Walen, 33, of 1011 Semoran North Apartments, Winter Park, was arrested at his home Friday afternoon and charged with burglary and grand theft in connection with the case. Walen is being held in lieu of $5,000 bond.

FELON FIREARMS

A convicted felon who allegedly bought at least three firearms from Seminole County gun dealers who reported the sales to Seminole County sheriff's deputies has been charged with possession of a firearm by a convicted felon.

IN BRIEF

AIDS Is A Big Problem In Florida's Prison System

STARKE (UPI) — New statistics brought to light in a federal lawsuit show Florida's prison system has the highest incidence of AIDS among inmates in the Southeast and one of the highest in the nation.

Of the state's 28,000 inmates in 28 state institutions, 26 have been diagnosed with acquired immune deficiency syndrome. Of those, 18 have died in the past two years, Dr. John Metheny, director of the state's prison hospital at the Lake Butler Medical and Reception Center, said Thursday.

"Among Florida prisoners, paranoia and hysteria reigns," Metheny said.

But officials said prisoners are not the only people who fear the ravages of the deadly disease.

"The guards have a certain amount of apprehension about being AIDS victims too," said Dr. Al Raymond, one of 14 physicians at the facility. "It's a difficult situation for everyone because there is so little known about the disease."

Judge: Disconnect Life Support

MIAMI (UPI) — A brain-dead girl who has been comatose since Aug. 25 can be removed from a life support system at Mount Sinai Medical Center despite objections by her family, a judge says.

But Judge Mario Goderich stayed his order for 10 days to allow time for an appeal. In the emotional hearing, the third since the hospital filed suit to turn off life-support machinery, doctors and neurosurgeons Thursday testified that Kathy Noriega, 17, suffered irreversible brain damage and had no chance of regaining consciousness.

Collingwood Dies At 68

NEW YORK (UPI) — Veteran newsman Charles Collingwood, who covered national and international events for CBS News for 41 years and won numerous honors, has died of cancer. He was 68.

Collingwood, who died Thursday at Lenox Hill Hospital in Manhattan, had undergone surgery for cancer of the colon in December 1984. Doctors at the time reported prospects for his recovery were very good.

Collingwood was fresh out of Oxford University, where he had studied on a Rhodes scholarship, when he joined United Press, now United Press International, in 1939. Two years later CBS broadcaster Edward R. Murrow persuaded Collingwood to leave U.P. and join the CBS London bureau.

At that time, Murrow had won recognition for his dramatic broadcasts from London during the battle of Britain and he trained his recruit in the art of stand-up reporting into a microphone.

...Schools

House reception hosted by Secretary of Education William J. Bennett and President Ronald Reagan honoring the top 281 public and private secondary schools in the nation. Lyman High School in Longwood was selected as being a "model of excellence" and will receive a flag honoring the occasion.

Citing an exploding population, favorable business climate and rising birth rate, Mrs. Coleman called the strained teaching facilities and low teacher salaries, "pitiful."

"We have been impacted by growth until we (school board) have been forced to take money from capital outlay (construction) and put it in the general fund (daily expenses). All this bond money will go for construction of a centralized warehouse facility site, 50 acres for a new high school and remodeling 40 of our 41 existing schools," Mrs. Coleman said.

"A strong school system needs a strong commitment to education from its citizens if those citizens' children are to enjoy the fruits of that system," she added.

...Salfi

11th St. at U.S. Highway 17-92 in Sanford. Officers reported finding additional marijuana and drug paraphernalia in his car when it was searched.

At a sentencing hearing Aug. 23, 1984, Vance irked Salfi because he would not admit guilt even though he had been found guilty by jury July 3. Salfi then cited Vance's attitude when he issued the sentence, records show.

The appeal court said Salfi had no legal basis to consider Vance's attitude at the time of sentencing. The court also said Salfi cited Vance's habit of drug abuse and criminal records as other reasons to give Vance a stiffer sentence than the guidelines recommended.

The justices of the appeal court, located in Daytona Beach, said a person's drug habit cannot be used as a reason to extend a person's prison time. The court also said Salfi improperly took Vance's criminal record into consideration because his records had already been considered in fitting his case into sentencing guidelines.

A judge can increase or decrease a sentence, the justices wrote, but only with clear and compelling reasons in writing.

In the second case, the high court ordered Lang, 36, of Apt. 40, 100 Douglas Road, released from the Lake Correctional Institute where he was serving a 12-year sentence for trafficking in cocaine. The recommended sentence was 4½ to 5½ years. The release was based on an illegal search and seizure of evidence. During hearings last year before sentencing, Salfi denied a motion by Lang to disallow the drugs from being entered into evidence on the basis they had been illegally seized.

Jeffrey Scott Lang ...he'll go free due to illegal search ruling.

Lang, a self-employed construction worker, was arrested Sept. 14, 1983, on charges of trafficking in cocaine, possession of Qualudes, marijuana and drug paraphernalia, all with a street value of about $1.5 million.

His arrest followed the accidental opening of a secured storage locker at Seminole Business and Storage Center, 520 N. State Road 434. Accounts of how the drugs were found after the accidental opening vary and the justices apparently believed Lang.

Police said they got a tip there were drugs they got a search warrant and in the locker found a large rifle safe containing the contraband drugs and $55,000 in wads of $100-bills.

Lang and workers at the business, however, gave a this account:

A worker was ordered to open the lockers of people delinquent in paying rent and to inventory the contents. The worker, instead of opening a locker next to Lang's, opened Lang's by mistake. The worker saw nothing unusual in the storage locker, but was afraid the tenant might be angry so he asked his supervisor what to do. He was told to call the police and let them inventory the material so there would be no one accused of theft. Once inside the storage bin, the officer reportedly noticed a white powder. He got a search warrant and then opened the safe.

Lang appealed his conviction and sentence saying the worker and the police should not have entered the storage bin. He said the police had no search warrant when they entered the bin, thus the evidence was obtained illegally.

The high court agreed and has ruled the drugs, three pounds of cocaine, 5,000 Qualudes, and several bags of semolina marijuana, could not be admitted into evidence against Lang. They ordered his release.

Lang pleaded guilty to the trafficking and drug possession in April 1984.

Also to be resolved is whether the city of Altamonte Springs loses legal claim to the $55,000 seized in the bust.

...Horses

Mrs. Schmidt said her husband estimated it will take at least six to eight months to get the horses healthy again and that several may die before they can be saved. She said they recently moved here from Illinois and have been in thoroughbred track racing for several years.

"I have never seen anything like it in my life," Mrs. Schmidt said. "We went over this morning with food and you just wouldn't believe how sick and emaciated they really are and not just older horses but there are so many colts and mares in foal it is horrible, just horrible."

We want to do something to get them back on their feet."

The horses are from the Misty Meadows Farms horse farm in New Smyrna Beach and were seized by Volusia County deputy sheriffs Tuesday.

Owner of the breeding farm, John Ketchian, of Daytona Beach, said some of the harness racers were scheduled to race this weekend and he saw nothing wrong with their condition.

"I was planning to start giving my horses hay this week to get those who should be racing ready for the season. When they are doing nothing, they can live on grass. But when we're ready to prepare them to race, we give them more food," Ketchian said.

Seminole, Rams Collide Tonight

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

Lake Mary High School may be on Longwood-Lake Mary road but the heart of its football team lives right here in Sanford. Slotback Ray Hartsfield, running back John Curry and wide receiver Byron Washington are the three gamebreakers which make the Rams' offense explode.

Lake Mary coach Harry Nelson, however, takes exception with the residency of his three standouts. "Two of them (Hartsfield and Washington) have been part of our program for three years and Curry's been here two," Nelson said. "I'd have to say they're from Lake Mary."

All three live in the Airport Boulevard, Lincoln Heights and Academy Manor areas which is used for supplying Lake Mary with minority students as part of the 1970 desegregation law.

Regardless of residency, all three can turn what looks like a simple play into a quick six points. "They have quick-score capability," Seminole coach Dave Mosure said. He said all would have to be held in check if Seminole Athletic Conference play at Lake Mary's stadium. Kickoff is 8 p.m.

Tonight's battle is a non-district encounter but it will figure in the SAC standings. Elsewhere, four district battles shape up as Lyman hosts DeLand, Oviedo travels to New Smyrna Beach, Lake Howell entertains No. 4 Apopka and Lake Brantley hosts Winter Park.

The Seminole-Lake Mary clash is the third meeting of the rivalry. Lake Mary won two years ago, 34-19. Last year, the Rams pulled out a 7-0 victory. Lake Mary comes into the game with a 1-1 mark, losing to Apopka and beating DeLand. Seminole has lost three straight to Titusville Astronaut, Titusville High and Lake Howell.

Seminole's tough early schedule has been its biggest problem. After getting thumped by Astronaut, the Tribe turned in two pretty good performances against Titusville (20-13) and Lake Howell (14-12).

Mosure said he expects to run into three of the most-skilled players Seminole has encountered in Hartsfield, Curry and Washington. While those three comprise the Rams' heart, quarterback Shane Letterio supplies the soul. The heady junior assumed the position when Mike Schmit decided not to play and is coming off a superb 243-yard, two-touchdown performance against DeLand two weeks ago.

"They have some big-play people," Mosure said Thursday. "They're got more speed than we do at skill positions. And a lot more experience."

"Hartsfield and Washington are gamebreakers. Anytime Hartsfield touches the ball, he has capacity to score from any position on the field. He can turn the 5 to 10 yard pass into a 50-yard completion. Our secondary has to be aware of where he is at all times."

Mosure is said Letterio is dangerous because of his quickness and accuracy. "We have to stop Letterio from rolling out," Mosure said. "He's quick and anytime a kid can roll out, he's dangerous. He's accurate with the percentage passes."

Lake Mary Teachers And Seminole Wives: Where's Loyalty Lie?

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

Lake Mary High teachers and Seminole High coaches' wives. Where does the loyalty lie? With whom do you side — students and faculty or husband and coach?

That's quite a dilemma any time Seminole and Lake Mary compete. But tonight it is magnified as the two county rivals — Seminole and Lake Mary — square off in Seminole Athletic Conference football at Lake Mary High School.

It's a time of decision for Connie Mosure, Martha Posey and Linda Beathard. All three are instructors at Lake Mary with husbands affiliated with the Seminole football program.

Connie is the wife of head Seminole football coach Dave Mosure. Linda is the wife of Seminole defensive line coach Roger Beathard. Martha is the wife of Seminole athletic director Jerry Posey, who coached the Tribe for the past 10 years.

So what will it be ladies: Are you going to be true to your school or are you going to try to hold your marriage together?

Before the ladies could answer, however, one Harry "Mr. Outrageous" Nelson, interjected his conjections. Nelson, the head Lake Mary football coach, promptly declared that all three would be true to their school and cheer for the Rams tonight.

"Connie Mosure hates her husband this week," Nelson roared. "She just gave me a big kiss and wished me good luck." Connie is a dance instructor at Lake Mary and is the backbone of the fabulous Marionettes.

Nelson, who teaches across the hall from Martha Posey, said he has assurances from Martha and Linda Beathard that they will be cheering for the Rams. He said marriage vows do not cross school rivalry lines. Martha and Linda both teach in the business department.

Jerry Posey, who has coached against Nelson on several occasions, said not to take Nelson's word as the gospel. "Oh, Harry likes to talk," Jerry Posey said. "I think Martha will remain a Seminole. When it involves Lake Mary and Seminole she has some loyalty both ways, though."

Posey said one thing did have him checking his wife's orange and white. "She said she was going to sit on the Lake Mary side for a little while," he said. "I don't know about that."

Martha did confirm that she would, indeed, sit on the Lake Mary side for one half but she would spend the second half on the Seminole side. "I want all of my students to do well but I have made it clear to all of them that I have to keep my marriage together," Martha said. "I've been married 24 years. I want it to stay that way."

Martha, nevertheless, won't get off the fence when she was asked whom she wanted to win. She took a middle-of-the-field approach. "May the better team win," she said. "Maybe I should sit under the goal post."

While Martha Posey is sitting under the goal post, Linda Beathard said she has no decision as to where her loyalty lies — with Seminole.

"I told my students that I only have to put up with them for an hour a day," Linda said. "I have to put up with my husband a lot more."

"I'll wear my red and grey to school Friday but when the sun goes down, I'll change into my Seminole colors."

Connie Mosure, meanwhile, never even hesitated when asked where her loyalty lies. "I've already told the kids and I don't care if you print it or not," she said. "I want us (the Lake Mary band and Marionettes) to win the halftime and I want Seminole to win the game. Dave and those kids have worked real hard and they deserve it."

Connie said she was in a similar position in the Miami area. Her husband was coaching at South Miami and she was teaching at Coral Gables. "I was always for South Miami," she said. "And South Miami finally did beat Coral Gables. It was really something. I hope it can happen again."

And what about the alleged kiss planted on Nelson? "No way. You know Harry Nelson," Connie said. "He's been avoiding me all day (Thursday). He knows who I want to win."

Lyman Staves Off Lady Seminole Upset Bid

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer

Seminole High was one game away from derailing Lyman's volleyball success Thursday night. But the Lady Greyhounds used their experience to get back on track and went on to claim an 8-15, 15-8, 15-8 victory over the inspired Lady Seminoles in Seminole Athletic Conference action at Seminole High.

Lyman ran its record to 9-0 with the win and 3-0 in the SAC. The Lady Greyhounds host Oviedo in a key conference match Monday night.

"Seminole played a strong game," Lyman coach Karen Newman said. "They gave us the best competition we've had in the conference."

Volleyball

Seminole, the first team this season to take a game from Lyman, now stands at 2-3 overall and 0-3 in the SAC. The Lady Seminoles have a non-conference match against Trinity Prep Monday at home.

"We had one whole game of aggressiveness," Seminole coach Beth Corso said. "Now we have to stick to that and be more consistent."

The hard serving of Sheri Peterson and Jackie Farr gave Lyman fits in the opening game Thursday.

Peterson, a junior, opened the match by serving eight straight points. Six of the eight serves were not returned and the other two points came on spikes by Cindy Hogan and Farr.

Lyman came back within 8-4 on Dawn Boyesen's serve with an ace and a dink by Boyesen leading the way.

The Lady Greyhounds closed within 8-6 as Tami Foss served two points, but Seminole got the two back on Aretha Riggins' serve. Hogan provided both of those points, one on a spike and the second on a block as Seminole took a 10-6 lead.

Lyman made it 10-8 on Donna Ball's serve but Seminole got it back and Peterson drilled two more serves that the Lyman defense couldn't handle for a 12-8 Seminole lead. Lyman had the serve three more times but couldn't score and Peterson got it back on a hit by Peterson. Farr, a senior, then came on and served the final three points, with the last two coming on aces.

"Our serving really helped us out," Corso said. "Sheri (Peterson) and Jackie (Farr) served really well. Jackie had a fantastic match all around."

Newman agreed that Seminole's serving was the key to the first game.

"They're serves were hard and effective," she said. "We're not used to that kind of serve. The girls were attacking it like they would any serve. They weren't

Third-Down Breakdowns Have Buccaneer Fans In Hives

After watching the Tampa Bay Bucs blow another one Sunday, I figured out what their problem is. Third down.

Offensively, the Bucs can gain 8 or 9 yards on the first two plays and then still fail to pick up a first down. Usually, it's a sweep in which the runner is caught behind the line of scrimmage or an incomplete short pass in which Steve Deberg tries to throw to a receiver covered by five defenders.

Sometimes it's a holding penalty in which, after the ref announces it to the stadium crowd and the TV audience, the guilty player just shrugs and says, who me?

Defensively, Tampa Bay can hold the opposing offense to a couple yards or no gain at all on first and second down, but then, the opposition always seems to come through on third down. Whether it's third and five or third and 25, the chance of the offense to get a first down on the Bucs is about 50 percent better than the NFL average.

Tampa, which is 0-4, also seems to have trouble putting anything together after halftime. James Wilder is good for 100 yards a game rushing, but he's also good for one fumble a game inside the opponents' 20-yard line, usually in the second half.

***
"How can you look yourself in the mirror?" a future ex-friend of mine said after my mediocre 5-5 record for last week's games.

Well, I can't. That's because I broke my mirror out of frustration after watching the pitiful performance by the Tampa Bay Bucs Sunday.

For the season, the Fearless Fister Forecast stands at a not-so-fabulous 15-14-1. Here's a look at this week's games:

SEMINOLE AT LAKE MARY

Inexperience has been the Tribe's downfall in the early going of the '85 season. But Seminole gained experience over the first three weeks against some powerful opponents. That, along with the enthusiasm over this natural rivalry, should make it close. Lake Mary had a week off to heal some nagging injuries and should be at its best. Lake Mary's Sanford connection of Ray Hartsfield, Byron Washington and John Curry and Sheldon Richards will pave the way. Rams by 6

DELAND AT LYMAN

After ending "The Streak" with a convincing victory over Lake Brantley a week ago, the Greyhounds will continue to go forward. DeLand is 0-3 after being thumped by Oviedo Forest last week. The Bulldogs are susceptible to the pass and Lyman has a strong-armed QB in John Burton. Lyman's balanced attack, with running back Robert Thomas leading the ground game, will give the 'Hounds their second straight. Lyman by 7

OVIEDO AT NEW SMYRNA

After a tough loss to Seabreeze two weeks ago, Oviedo's Lions return to District 4A-5 action against 0-3 New Smyrna Beach. Andrew Smith gained 93 yards against a strong Seabreeze defense and should lead the way again. Lions by 12

APOPKA AT LAKE HOWELL

Apopka's Blue Darters don't rebuild, they reload. The Darters seem to graduate a number of standouts to colleges each year only to have another successful season the following year. Like Apopka, Lake Howell has burst out to a 3-0 record. The Silver Hawks are keyed by a tough defense and the rugged running of Mark Schnitker. Apopka's defense has been hard to crack and that should make the difference. Apopka by 10

WINTER PARK AT BRANTLEY

Whoever loses this game will be practically out of contention for the District 5A-5 title. Both have 0-1 district records. Bad weather or bad luck has seemed to have latched on to Lake Brantley's Patriots this season. It has rained all three weeks. Brantley has had injuries to key players and it has committed turnovers in crucial situations. Winter Park figures to stay in the district race a while longer. Winter Park by 19

FLORIDA AT LSU

Probation-bitten Florida has nothing better to do than wreak havoc on the rest of the Southeastern Conference. Unfortunately, unless you have season tickets to their games, the only way to see the Gators do it is late-night, tape-delay TV broadcasts. Gators by 15

MIAMI AT EAST CAROLINA

For the past few years, East Carolina has flirted with victory against some top-notch teams. The Pirates are pretty strong and may have a few surprises in store for the Hurricanes. Miami, coming off a drubbing of Boston College, won't be ready for their either. In the upset of the week — ECU by 6

SW TEXAS STATE AT UCF

As long as UCF's Knights are playing at home (Orlando Stadium) they will have a chance to win. And the Knights play at home eight times in '85. UCF by 7

BEARS AT BUCS

You've heard the expression, "I went to a fight and a hockey game broke out." Or, here's a new one, "I went to a wrestling match and a wrestling match broke out." Well, I heard about these Tampa Bay fans who went to see the Bucs play and just plain broke out (like in hives). Bears by 17

Cards Win; Cubs Are Next

In a fitting conclusion to the 1985 baseball season, the Chicago Cubs, last year's National League East champion, will play a key role in the outcome of this year's pennant race.

The Cubs, mired in fourth place this year after an injury-plagued campaign, conclude the season with a three-game series against the first-place St. Louis Cardinals, beginning tonight. The Cardinals have beaten the Cubs in 12 of 15 games this year. Chicago will pitch Dennis Eckersley tonight while the Redbirds will counter with Bob Forsch.

The Cardinals boosted their lead over New York to two games Thursday night by edging the Mets 4-3, and reduced their magic number for clinching the NL East pennant to two.

New York closes out the season with a three-game series against the Montreal Expos.

"We need two more," St. Louis manager Whitey Herzog said. "They'll (Mets) win three. The Cubs won't lie down. But I feel better."

N.L. Baseball

Vince Coleman had three hits and knocked in two runs at St. Louis to spark the Cardinals' triumph, which snapped a four-game losing streak.

Starter Danny Cox, 18-9, got relief help from Ken Dayley, Todd Worrell, Rick Horton and Jeff Lahti. Lahti retired Gary Carter on a fly to right with the tying run on base for the final out to notch his 19th save.

Rookie starter Rick Aguilera, 10-7, pitched six innings. Keith Hernandez of the Mets went 5-for-5.

The Cardinals took their first lead in the series in the fourth inning on a two-run single by Coleman. Darrell Porter drew a one-out walk, and Ozzie Smith singled him to second. Cox sacrificed, and Coleman sent them home when he lined a 1-2 pitch to left field.

Hernandez pulled the Mets within a run at 3-2 in the fifth with a two-out RBI double. Mookie Wilson singled and went to third when Wally Backman bunted for an out. Hernandez smacked a double down the first-base line for an RBI.

Cubs 13, Pirates 5

At Chicago, Gary Matthews hit a three-run homer in an eight-run sixth inning, and Ron Cey added a three-run blast in the seventh, powering the Cubs to the fifth victory in their last six games. Reliever Jon Perlman got his first major-league victory.

Astros 7, Giants 2

At San Francisco, Phil Garner tripled twice, drove in two runs, and scored twice to lead the Astros to victory. An announced crowd of 1,427 watched the Astros collect seven runs and 13 hits off starter Dave LaPoint, 7-17. Jeff Heathcock, 3-1, permitted seven hits and two runs in seven-plus innings.

Padres 9, Reds 4

At San Diego, Carmelo Martinez drove in four runs, two with his 21st homer of the season, and Tony Gwynn and Graig

Coleman

Eckersley

Nettles each knocked in a pair to lift the Padres to victory.

Phillies 8, Expos 7

At Montreal, Mike Schmidt's three-run homer highlighted an eight-run third inning that gave the Phillies victory, the second in their last 13 games. Shane Rawley worked the first five innings to bring his record to 13-8.

Braves 5, Dodgers 0

At Los Angeles, Dale Murphy's RBI double broke a scoreless tie and triggered a five-run eighth inning that lifted the Braves. Rookie Zane Smith, 9-10, allowed four hits for his second shutout. Brian Holton, 1-1, relieved starter Jerry Reuss in the seventh and took the loss.

Yankees Wrench Within 3

United Press International
Now the New York Yankees have a shot at performing a feat the rival New York Mets could not: snatching a share of first place by sweeping three games from their division's top club.

Led by Ron Guidry's seven-inning, six-hit pitching, the Yankees Thursday night beat the Milwaukee Brewers 3-0 to move within three games of the first-place Toronto Blue Jays in the AL East.

Coupled with the Blue Jays' 2-0 loss to Detroit earlier Thursday night, the victory gave New York a hands-on shot at the division crown, as the two teams brace for a three-game showdown in Toronto that starts tonight.

"We've had our ups and downs, and we're still there," added Willie Randolph, the Yankees' second baseman. "When you believe good things can happen to you, then you keep going. I knew we had to come out tonight and win, and we did. So it's a good sign. Hopefully, we can get to them this weekend."

Guidry, who won his league-leading 22nd game of the year, struck out a season-high 10 batters while walking one. The veteran left-hander, a leading candidate for the AL Cy Young Award, won for the ninth time in his last 11 decisions, and the Yankees kept Toronto's magic number at two.

If the Blue Jays don't win at least one of the three games against New York, they must play Baltimore Monday in a makeup game. The Yankees would also have a makeup game Monday against Detroit at New York.

If the Yankees sweep the Blue Jays, they will have done what the Mets tried and failed to do against the Cardinals. The Mets went to St. Louis Tuesday for a three-game series needing a sweep to tie the Cardinals for first place in the NL East, but St. Louis took the final Thursday night and left the Mets two games back.

"We were counted out so many times," Yankees manager Billy Martin said. "Now we're back."

The Yankees got there by touching Milwaukee starter Tim Lincecum, 1-4, for seven hits and three runs over 7.2 innings.

Rickey Henderson gave New York a 1-0 lead when he led off the first with his 24th homer, and the Yankees added two more in the eighth on Mattingly's two-run single. The hit increased Mattingly's major-league-leading RBI total to 144.

Brian Fisher finished for Guidry, and earned his 14th save.

"They have respect for us," Randolph said of the Blue Jays. "Recently, (Toronto catcher) Ernie Whitte said they didn't want to deal with us this weekend."

"They're gonna come after us too," Randolph added. "They'll be at home, and they'll feel more comfortable. But we're going to go down fighting."

Tigers 2, Blue Jays 0
At Detroit, Tom Brookens lined a two-run triple in the fifth inning, and Walt Terrell pitched a six-hitter to give the Tigers a three-game sweep. Terrell, 15-10, was helped by three double plays, but never gave up more than one hit in an inning. Jim Clancy, 9-6, took the loss.

Royals 4, Angels 1
At Kansas City, Mo., Frank White, Steve Balboni and George Brett homered, and Danny Jackson worked 8 2-3 innings as the Royals took sole possession of first place in the AL West. Jackson, 14-12, was relieved by Dan Quisenberry, who picked up his 36th save. Starter Don Sutton fell to 15-10.

Mariners 5, White Sox 4
At Chicago, Spike Owen drove in three runs, two with his sixth homer, to lead the Mariners. Bob James relieved Gene Nelson in the eighth and fell to 8-7. Seattle starter Billy Swift, 6-10, worked seven innings for the victory, and Edwin Nunez, the third Mariner pitcher, picked up his 16th save.

Red Sox 8-6, Orioles 2-0
At Baltimore, Eddie Murray's two-run double climaxed a five-run eighth inning that lifted the Orioles to the split in the error-filled second game. In the opener, Tony Armas smacked a two-run homer, and Bill Buckner and Mike Easter added run-scoring doubles to lead the Red Sox.

Patriots Have 'Heart-To-Heart,' Will Not Retreat

By Tim Horn
Special to The Herald
Although the Lake Brantley Patriots have started off the season with three consecutive losses and must now face powerful Winter Park tonight at Lake Brantley's Tom Storey Field, head coach Fred Almon said the Patriots will not retreat. Kickoff is 8 p.m.

Football
"We did in the spring," he said. "But here we are 0-3 going up against Winter Park and I still feel real good because of our attitude that we have now."

On defense the Patriots have been led by linebacker Mark Bousquet. Bousquet, a 6-0, 230 pound senior, is among the Seminole County leaders in tackles with 32. He began the year as an offensive lineman but was switched to linebacker when the Lake Brantley defense began suffering from injury problems.

Oviedo Won't Neglect Run Against New Smyrna

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer

Pass defense is one of the weaknesses of New Smyrna Beach's Barracudas, according to Oviedo coach Jack Blanton. His Lions will look for production out of the passing portion of the Run 'N Shoot offense.

But that doesn't mean the running game will be neglected. Not by a long shot.

Not with senior running back Andrew Smith averaging well over 100 yards rushing per game. After opening the season with 183 yards against Lake Brantley, Smith picked up 93 more against a tough Seabreeze defense. Sophomore center Andy Palmer has been opening the holes along with guard Gordon King.

The passing attack is led by junior quarterback John Morrow who has completed 12 of 27 passes for 150 yards in two games. His three top receivers are Mark Stewart, Willie Gatney and Jive Green.

"There are two ways you can stop us," Blanton said. "By forcing us to throw the ball or by dropping back and making us run it. Right now people are trying to make us throw it. That shows you how good Andrew is. And, if they want to stop him before the pass, that's fine. We have 3 or 4 other athletes who want to be part of the offense."

Tonight's game (8 p.m. kickoff) is an important one for the Lions in District 4A-5. Oviedo, 1-1 overall, is 0-1 in the district after losing to Seabreeze two weeks ago. New Smyrna Beach is 0-3 overall and 0-1 in the district. The Barracudas have lost 22 consecutive games.

"You're still in it if you lose one district game," Blanton said. "Because somebody's going to beat somebody on a given night. But, if you lose two, all you can do is play the spoiler's role."

New Smyrna Beach's 22 consecutive setbacks have passed the halfway mark for the state record of 39 in a row by Tampa Bay Tech during its first four years of football.

Football

NSB coach Ted Schilsky said the streak is constantly brought up. "Basically a lack of talent is the problem," he said. "It's not too big of a town and its a retirement town and a vacation town."

"You get a cycle of good and bad players. We have to take what we can get and make the best of it."

Schilsky said he expects a similar game to NSB's battle with St. Cloud, which the Barracudas lost, 13-8. "Oviedo has very similar personnel to Osceola," he said. "Oviedo's a little bit better school and has a much better running back (Andrew Smith)."

The Cudas are starting five sophomores. Quarterback Rodney Chapman is the main threat. "We're playing on emotion," Schilsky said. "We let down against Osceola. We drove to their 16 and then fumbled. Osceola came back length of the field in six plays to win the game."

Blanton said the Barracudas have looked good at times but have made a lot of mistakes.

"I've seen New Smyrna Beach twice and they're not bad even though they've lost three games," he said. "They should have beaten Osceola."

Blanton said New Smyrna runs out of the Power-I and has a sophomore quarterback who runs the option well and has a strong arm. Defensively he said the Cudas have a good line and two good linebackers.

"They stopped Wildwood on the run but not on the pass," Blanton said. "We hope they keep making mistakes like they have been. We may be in trouble if they don't."

Mistakes plagued Oviedo in its loss against Seabreeze as it turned the ball over seven times.

"We had the ball nine times and turned it over seven," Blanton said. "Three times when we were inside their (Seabreeze's) 30. You can't do that and win ballgames."

This is the first meeting between New Smyrna and Oviedo since Blanton has been the coach.

"I really don't know what to expect," he said. "It might be a pretty close game."

Blanton said the Lions are pretty healthy but they lost defensive back Mike Bass to injury in practice Wednesday. Blanton said Bass, the fourth leading tackler on the team, will be out for two weeks.

Bernell Simmons leads the Lions' defense and the county tacklers with 44 total stops in two games. The hard hitting linebacker teams with Tony Collier (27), David Lockwood (25), Jeff Joyce (23) and Jene Hartman (15) to anchor the defense.

Confident Hawks Confront No. 4 Apopka

By Tim Horn
Special to the Herald

After three consecutive wins, coach Mike Biscaglia's Lake Howell Silver Hawks have met and conquered every challenge during this early part of the 1985 prep football season. It has earned them the best start in school history.

Tonight at 8 at Lake Howell Stadium, however, the Silver Hawks will face by far their biggest challenge yet as they play host to the state's fourth-ranked team in Class 5A, the Apopka Blue Darters, in a big District 5A-5 matchup.

"They are a total football team," Biscaglia said of Apopka. "They are tenacious on defense and they have an explosive, dynamic offense. I don't think they have any real weaknesses. We definitely have our hands full."

Like Lake Howell, Apopka is both 1-0 in the district and 3-0 overall. They are loaded with seniors and rival the 1983 Blue Darter squad which went undefeated.

But despite all the talent, experience and past success of Apopka, Biscaglia said his young squad is confident though heading into the contest.

"The kids are enthusiastic," he said. "We are also 3-0 and they feel like they can win it."

Biscaglia said the key to winning is controlling the football and putting points on the scoreboard.

"We need to generate some offense and eat up time on the clock," he said. "If we can score on them we have a chance to win."

"No one has been scoring against them. They have given up just one touchdown in three games. I think it will take three scores for us to win."

Fullback Mark Schmitzer carries the brunt of the offensive load for the Silver Hawks, grinding out big yardage in the process. The 5-11, 190-pound senior leads Seminole County players in rushing with 369 yards on 60 carries and has scored three touchdowns. He should benefit even more with the return of junior speedster Terry Gammons, a fleet-footed halfback who has missed the last two games due to a foot injury.

"Gammons will play," said Biscaglia. "He has practiced all week. He is not 100 percent yet but he should add something to our offense."

Junior quarterback Mark Wainwright continues to display effective leadership while directing the Silver Hawk attack. He is third among Seminole County signal callers in passing yards with 211 and has thrown three touchdown passes to set the pace in that particular category.

All three of Wainwright's touchdown tosses have gone to slotback Bill Wasson, who continues to do it all for the Silver Hawks. Wasson is among the leaders in receptions with six catches and has averaged 13 yards a grab.

A defense that continues to come up with the big play has to be given much of the credit for the Silver Hawks quick start. Junior linebacker Jeff Harris is fourth among Seminole County defenders in total tackles with 36 and senior noseguard Jim Nutter is tied for sixth with 32.

Head coach Chip Gierke is in his ninth year at the Apopka helm. He expects a tough test from Lake Howell.

Gierke said his current Apopka team is much like the 1983 team that went undefeated on offense and stronger than the '83 team on defense. Quarterback Keith Ussrey, running backs Mike Lowman and Terry Gammons, Howell's multi-talented back, returns to action tonight against Apopka.

Charles Dowdell and receivers Keith Johnson and John Jackson, all seniors, head the offense.

Lowman and Dowdell have combined for over 500 yards rushing while Ussrey has thrown for over 300 yards.

Lyman Tries For Second Bite Tonight

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

LONGWOOD — DeLand's Bulldogs are bitless for '85. They have encountered three football opponents (Jacksonville Bolles, Lake Mary and Ocala Forest) but have failed to come away with that first taste of victory.

Lyman's Greyhounds, meanwhile, had the same bite-and-drop problem the first two weeks of the football season. They took a pretty good piece out of Boone but came away hungry in the opener. They took a second-half bite at Maitland but were too far behind to catch up.

Last Friday, Lyman finally found something in which it could sink its teeth. The Greyhounds put together their best performance in two years while hanging a 20-10 defeat on Lake Brantley. The win ended a 13-game losing streak.

Which puts Lyman in an unfamiliar position tonight at 8 when the Bulldogs invade Longwood. In this battle of the 'Hounds and Dawgs, Lyman assumes a slight favorite's role because of its 1-2 record as opposed to DeLand's 0-3 mark.

DeLand hasn't gotten much yardage through the airways, so teams have loaded up on prize running backs Deke Harris (#34) and James Taylor (#44). Lyman figures to do the same with linebackers Byron Overstreet (#32 tackle), Vince Campbell (#25) and Scott King (interception and recovery) along with a stellar secondary of Scott Radcliff (3 interceptions), Bobby Decker and Chuck Scheele.

The key to Lyman's turnaround, coincidentally, has been the play of quarterback John Burton.

Carrying the heavy load, though, is junior Robert Thomas. The 'Hounds' double-threat has 184 yards rushing and six catches for 44 yards receiving. Benny Glenn complements Thomas at fullback.

Lyman senior Ralph Philpot leads the county in receiving with eight grabs for 110 yards. Last week wide receiver R.J. Noid snared three passes to make a move into the county top 10. Noid also has six catches to give Lyman three of the county's top eight receivers.

Although DeLand put 24 points on the board last week, the game could be low scoring which would bring the kickers into focus. Both are good. Lyman junior Kelly Green drilled two field goals against Brantley while Bulldog Kevin Roney (#1) has an equally strong leg.

FDA Drug Approvals: Safety Above Speed

Dr. Gott

DEAR DR. GOTT — Why are some drugs approved for use in other countries but not here, and vice versa?

DEAR READER — Before a drug can be marketed in the United States, it must be approved by the Food and Drug Administration. This agency was originally formed to protect the American public from charlatans, snake-oil specialists and unethical food processors. It is a good organization and it does a superb job, in my opinion. If you don't believe me, review the thalidomide tragedy of several years ago, when an FDA scientist stopped the U.S. distribution of a drug that caused horrendous birth defects.

In the process of evaluating a new drug, the FDA has to rely on extensive testing before it permits the compound to be sold. This evaluation can be arduous and take many years. Therein lies a major criticism of the FDA: Some people believe that the long testing process deprives U.S. citizens of new, effective wonder drugs.

In other parts of the world, government authorities are not so picky; they're not so serious about protecting the public. Therefore, new medicines are usually available outside the United States long before they are approved for domestic use. Some critics ask: Why doesn't the FDA use the international testing, instead of insisting on its own brand of investigation? That's a hard question and I'll leave it to the government authorities. However, there is good testing and bad testing. Unfortunately, because of huge potential profits, drug companies are under financial pressure to market compounds as fast as they can be developed. One consequence of this pressure can be sloppy — or even fraudulent — testing. I think the FDA tries very hard to protect us from this sort of thing.

Apparently the FDA has been sensitive to its critics, because it has developed a "priority" list of drugs, like some of the newer antibiotics, which are put through an accelerated evaluation. No system is perfect, and I am sure that FDA officials are the last ones to claim perfection. On the other hand, with drug approval, meticulous experimental analysis is vastly superior to slipshod rubber-stamping. In the long run, we — the American public — will gain far more as a result of stringent drug regulation.

Incidentally, most U.S.-approved drugs are readily available in other countries, but their tradenames may be different.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Can I

develop Candida by eating brewer's yeast?

DEAR READER — Candida is a fungus infection that bears no resemblance to brewer's yeast, which is a nutritious dietary supplement. Candida is more commonly caused by antibiotics. The medicine alters the normal body balance between bacteria and yeasts and permits the yeasts to overgrow.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

A little learning can be a dangerous thing. That truism certainly applies to playing a bridge hand. As for the bidding, I applaud South's choice of final contract. He knew there was a club fit, but he also knew that his diamond suit had no losers. Unfortunately, in attempting to preserve his options in the play, he extended himself too far. Declarer won the spade lead and drew one round of diamonds. He next played to dummy's heart ace and ruffed a heart. He trumped his spade king with dummy's remaining diamond and ruffed another heart. When West showed out, declarer tried to draw trumps, but he and West now had the same trump length. When either defender eventually gets on lead with a club, they will have a good spade to cash.

Although the play of ruffing a second heart could have been right under other circumstances, here it was a luxury that declarer could not afford, since there was a real danger of running out of trumps. Instead, the right approach is to play the ace and king of hearts, and then trump the third heart. When the heart suit fails to divide as hoped for, declarer can then still pick up trumps and play for a 2-2 club division. It is also worth noting that when declarer leads a low club toward dummy's

A-10, West might err if he holds three cards with two honors. In such an instance, splitting his honors would prove fatal to the defense.

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY
OCTOBER 5, 1985
Your possibilities for fulfilling your ambitions in the year ahead look good. However, several goals that you now desire will be replaced by new objectives.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) If you attempt to do something today and fail, don't try to shift the blame to someone else. Excuses won't hold water with associates. Trying to patch up a romance? ## Gardening

Newly Planted Trees, Shrubs Need Lots Of TLC

Now that you've purchased and planted those new trees and shrubs, you need to be especially careful about the treatment they get during the next few critical months. There are several things you need to think about if you, in fact, have just planted some trees and shrubs.

One reason a new plant needs special care is because it doesn't have a strong root system. It takes a few months for a plant to become well-rooted. And, during this period of root development, the plant needs careful and frequent watering. You should water thoroughly, so water moves well down into the root zone. Shallow watering encourages shallow root growth, and makes the plant more subject to drought stress. However, overwatering is bad too, because it can cause the roots to literally drown. The trick is to keep the soil moist, but not saturated. Once the plant is well-established, you can water it normally.

Mulches are important for new plants, because they help conserve moisture, insulate the soil, and add organic material. Pine needles (straw), bark nuggets, and wood chips make good organic mulches for ornamental plants. A two- or three-inch layer of mulch is just about right. Be sure to keep the mulch a few inches away from the plant's trunk. Mulched too close may cause trunk rot.

If you've planted bare-root trees and shrubs, they may need some pruning. This is because the exposed roots are damaged slightly in packing and shipping, and the plants cannot take up water as well as they should. Pruning off some of the top portion of a plant will reduce its need for water. This establishes a balanced relationship between the foliage and the roots. You can remove about one-third of the plant's top. Prune the branches one at a time, so you can be sure you're shortening the plant the same amount all over. If you planted balled-and-burlapped specimens or container-grown plants, you won't have to do such trimming.

In the case of newly planted trees or very large shrubs, you have one more step to protect your investment — staking or guying the trunk for support. These newly planted trees do not have well-established root systems to hold them in place. Strong winds, heavy rains, and even dogs or children can knock over newly set trees.

Depending on the size of the tree, you may need to provide temporary support with stakes or guys. For plants with trunk diameters of three inches or less, you can generally use stakes. For larger trees and shrubs, you'll probably need to use guy wires.

If you choose to use stakes, the trunk diameter will determine the number you'll need. For a plant with a trunk less than two inches, use a single pressure-treated two-by-two wood stake. For a two- to three-inch trunk, you'll need to use two or three stakes. The stakes should be rigid and long enough to stand about two-thirds as high as the tree or shrub.

Put the stakes in during planting. Space them evenly, right next to the soil ball, and drive them about 18 inches into the soil. When you've finished, tie the plant to the stakes with cable or wire. Don't tie the stakes so tightly that the plant has no flexibility. Usually you need tie the tree at one point. This allows for the greatest normal trunk movement.

If you've planted the stakes at the right height, you can usually put the tie about six inches from the top of the stake. To protect the bark of the tree, it's a good idea to cover the wire or cable with a short piece of garden hose or plastic tubing. After one growing season, you can usually remove the stakes.

If you need guy wires instead of stakes, set them up at planting time, too. Start with three or four short anchor stakes, about 12 to 18 inches long. Space these evenly around the tree, and drive them into the soil at an angle about six or eight feet out from the trunk. Run wire or cable from each anchor stake to the tree. Attach all guy wires at one point, about two-thirds of the way up the tree. Again, protect the bark by running the wires through short lengths of garden hose.

If the wires become loose, tighten them by twisting, or use turnbuckles, which are available from any hardware store. You can remove the guy wires when the plants appear to be well established — usually after about a year. In any case, do not leave the wires in place more than one year.

Staking or guying trees and shrubs is just another of the many aids you should use in helping your plants become established. It's not a difficult practice. And, especially in the case of larger trees and shrubs, it can pay real dividends in early protection. By following proper planting practices and with good cultural care, you can get your newly set landscape plants off to a great start. Happy gardening!

Deafness Not A Laughing Matter

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: In a recent column you said that stuttering is the only physical handicap that people laugh at and ridicule. I disagree. People who suffer a hearing loss are also ridiculed. In fact, deafness, especially in older people, has been the focal point of many comedy skits over the years, and always seems to get a laugh.

I have tears in my eyes as I write this. After numerous ear operations, I am now wearing two hearing aids, and have done all I can to hear. Some stutterers are cured, but my hearing will never improve.

Please print this. It might make some people think twice before they say (laughingly), "What's the matter? You deaf or something?"

RIVA IN LOS ANGELES

DEAR RIVA: Amen. Helen Keller, who was both deaf and blind, once said she valued the ability to hear above the ability to see.

DEAR ABBY: I'm in love with a guy I'll call Randy. We want to get married, but my parents are against him and so are all my friends. I went to my church counselor and she is also against him. They all condemn him for his past.

Before Randy met me, he lived with "Lorna" for two years. He told her from the start he had no intentions of marrying her, so she got herself pregnant hoping he would change his mind, but he didn't. She had the baby, and three months later, she purposely got herself pregnant again so Randy would marry her. Instead, he gave her money for an abortion, which she spent on something else and had the baby. Randy was so mad he took off and hasn't seen Lorna since. He's not giving her one dime for child support because he feels she tricked him.

Shortly after Randy left her, he met me. It was love at first sight. He told me the whole truth about himself and even became born-again to prove that he has changed. I believe him, but my parents don't. I need an outside opinion, and you are it. Please advise me.

IN LOVE WITH RANDY

DEAR IN LOVE: First, Lorna did not get herself pregnant. Randy got her pregnant. He may be born-again, but he is clearly unwilling to face up to his prior responsibilities.

Stay with your church counselor until you are able to make a mature decision without seeking opinions from me or anyone else. Good luck. You'll need it.

DEAR ABBY: I just found out that my husband of 20 years had a short fling with his secretary for about a year. When I confronted him, he admitted it, said he was sorry, and it was all over.

However, he refuses to replace her, and they still see each other at the office every day. He says his business would fall apart without her.

Can a man get over a short fling, Abby?

FEELING THREATENED
DEAR FEELING THREATENED: It all depends on how far-flung the fling was. Since he did the flinging, it's up to him to restore your confidence in him. Common sense would dictate "out of sight, out of mind."

I recommend counseling for both of you.

Problems? Write to Abby. For a personal, unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038. All correspondence is confidential.

Boysen had an impressive serving string of her own in game two as the senior standout reeled off eight straight points to open the game. Five of the serves weren't returned and the other three points came on spikes by Kim Forsyth and Kristie Kaiser and a dink by Sheila Mandy.

Seminole got back in the game when Farr served four points, none of which was returned, to cut Lyman's lead to 9-5. The Lady Greyhounds made it 11-5 on Kaiser's serve but Farr came back through the rotation to serve again and brought the Lady Tribe within 11-8.

Foss served a point for a 12-8 lead and, after the teams traded serves for a while, Boysen came back to serve the last three points to even up the match.

Peterson served to open game three but her first one barely ticked the net. Lyman then went on to take an 8-0 lead as Kaiser served eight points. Lyman eventually took an 11-1 lead as Diana Boysen served three points, one on ace.

Seminole fought back within 11-6 on Riggins' serve but Dawn Boysen stopped the rally with a nice dink. Ball then served three points, the second on a spike by Mandy, for a 14-6 lead.

The Lady Tribe regained serve and got within 14-8 on Peterson's serve but Lyman got it back and closed out the match on Dawn Boysen's serve with Mandy's spike providing the final point.

"After the first game, the girls knew what they had to do," Newman said. "Their experience really pulled them through."

BRANTLEY DOWNS LAKE MARY
Lake Brantley's Lady Patriots came back after losing the opening game to claim a 6-15, 15-8, 18-16 victory over Lake Mary's Lady Rams Thursday night in Seminole Athletic Conference action at Lake Mary High.

The win was the first of the season for Brantley which now stands at 1-4 overall and 1-1 in the SAC. Lake Mary fell to 1-6 overall and 0-2 in the conference.

"We had an 8-2 lead in the second game but couldn't do anything after that," Lake Mary assistant Karen Nolan said. "We lost our concentration in the second game. We did come back in the third game to play pretty well but couldn't put it all together."

Nolan, who took over as coach for Cindy Henry who was out of town Thursday, said Misty Duncan, Kathy Hodak and Betsy Perry all played well for the Lady Rams.

LIONS WIN 8TH STRAIGHT
Cindy Wood's steady play and Stephanie Nelson's offensive punch led the way as Oviedo's Lady Lions won their eighth straight, a 15-5, 15-12 victory over Bishop Moore Thursday night in Orange Belt Conference action at Bishop Moore.

The Lady Lions, who won four matches this week, now stand at 9-1 overall and 6-0 in the Orange Belt. Oviedo returns to Seminole Athletic Conference action Monday night in a key showdown with league-leading Lyman at Lyman High.

"We want to have a good practice tomorrow (Friday), and then see what we can do Monday," Oviedo coach Anita Carlson said.

For the match, Nelson converted on 19 of 22 spikes including 13 of 14 in the second game. Nelson's spikes came off the sets of Kim Verne who Carlson said is getting better with every match.

"Kim (Verne) was making good sets even when the ball wasn't returned well," Carlson said.

While Nelson and Verne were key parts of the offense, Wood turned in a strong defensive showing and served well, too.

"Cindy (Wood) is a real steady player," Carlson said. "She always seems to be in the right spot."

Shownda Wins; Teams Are Tight

Seminole's Shownda Martin wins individual title but team places were tight in the Seminole County Frosh-Soph Cross Country race at Lyman. See Sunday's Evening Herald for results.

Antiquity Sparkles In The Allure of Amber

By Susan Loden
Herald Staff Writer

Scientists and collectors peek at polished amber with the hope of finding a glimpse of the past — an ancient insect or plant frozen in time for 40 million years, give or take a few centuries.

The jewelry buffs wear with pride the usually fragmented insects smothered to death in the tree resin that seeped over and fossilized them into a hardened, orangish-brown crystallized crypt.

The oddity of the fossilized insects and plants, which were effectively embalmed when caught in the gooey resin makes amber jewelry a prize for amber lovers. Dr. Frank Kujaway of the University of Central Florida geology department said. Although some are happy to have just a simple polished piece of the stone, sans fossil.

"A lot of the mystique of amber is you're actually looking at a creature or plant that was once alive many years ago," Sanford amber collector June Gordon said. "Even the trees that produced the sap no longer exist. You looking a history. This was a living thing at one time. It's still here — there's hope!" Amber varies in quality and color. Ms. Gordon's favorite is a light shade she calls "sunshine", because it looks like a bit of sunlight. Her most prized piece contains a complete "extinct fly of some sort. I bought it a long time ago. I couldn't afford it today," Ms. Gordon said.

A clear amber necklace may sell for $150, and the price goes up for pieces with insects or plants included. There are a few bargains to be found Ms. Gordon said, but they are usually dark stone from the Virgin Islands and are of a lesser quality and no fossils to be found inside.

Amber makes a lightweight bauble, Ms. Gordon said, and in her travels and in visits to antiques shows she likes to check on what other amber lovers have in their collections.

Amber buffs like Ms. Gordon abound and the collectors' quest for these bug and foliage bearing bits of stone bugs scientists, because amber also serves the scientific world.

Although rarely found in complete form insects entombed in amber represent the recorded history of their breed.

Amber is present in the western United States. Ku-jaway said, however, the bulk is found in the Baltic region of the Soviet Union and in the Dominican Republic.

The appeal of the stone is ancient and carved amber objects have been found in northern European graves dating from 8,000 B.C. To the ancients amber was nearly as precious as gold. Warm to the touch and taking an electrical charge when rubbed against woolen or silk clothes, amber was believed to have magical properties.

Even today many people around the world believe amber brings good luck and that it has curative powers and prevents disease. The ancients, Ms. Gordon said, burned amber as an offering to the gods.

In the 1730s English poet Alexander Pope lauded amber with:

Pretty! In amber to observe the forms

Of hairs, or straws, or dirt, or grubs or worms!

The things, we know, are neither rich nor rare,

But wonder how the devil they got there.

Romanticism aside, these scraps from the past were caught in the resin flow from the trees of their time without being crushed or distorted as they might have been if buried in mud or sand. Heat and pressure over millions of years polymerized the resin hardening it into a translucent, plastic-like showcase for the organism.

Some have been caught so quickly that in a collection of 130,000 amberized specimens at the Smithsonian Institution three pairs of fossilized fleas have been entombed in the process of copulating and another shows an insect laying eggs, according to Smithsonian writer Thomas Harney.

The Baltic region where amber is dredged from the sea, miners have it comparatively easy and produce about 50 metric tons of jewelry-quality amber a year. But in the Dominican Republic, amber collector and amateur entomologist Jacob Brodzinsky said, it's a different story.

Blasting and bulldozing damage the brittle crude amber, so it is still drawn from open pit mines or hillside tunnels by "pick, shovel, crowbar and sweat," he said.

Once the stone is mined craftsmen shave the rough exterior off the piece, shape it on an emery wheel and polish it to a bright luster, and end product that is easily mimicked in plastic.

Ms. Gordon suggests two simple tests for the amber collector to know if he's buying the real thing: If dropped into saltwater amber will float and plastic will sink, she said. Also you can touch the piece with a hot needle in an area where a mark on the surface will not show. Amber will give off a heavy, sweet resinous odor while plastic will emit an unpleasant acrid smell.

Even insect-bearing amber is occasionally counterfeited and, Brodzinsky said, some fakes are hard to spot. Usually the fakes are made by splitting a piece of amber, placing an insect inside and filling the cavity with epoxy resin and sealing the piece. Often the counterfeiter will try to hide the seam with a wire wrap used to support the piece as a pendant.

But ah, the joy of the real thing — "Even after looking at more than 100,000 fossils, Brodzinsky said, "I still feel a rise of expectation every time I pick up a piece of amber to place under a microscope. And when I find myself looking at a tiny iridescent wasp, a blue-green click beetle or a rare type of gnat, it is a stunning thrill that never fades."

Yes, Emmys Are Fair

Valerie: Cutest Of Them All?

By Val Carew

After watching this year's Emmy Awards, I realized how unfair they are. Val, just how are the winners chosen? — C.C., Baltimore, Md.

The Emmy procedure begins when shows are submitted for consideration. Anyone in the academy can nominate individuals or shows; an actor or actress, for instance, can even nominate him or herself. Blue Ribbon Juries then choose the official nominations from what has been presented to them.

The voting is confined to a member's category: In other words, actors vote for actors, costume designers for costume designers and so forth. The voting may not always seem fair, but it is.

Can you give me the address for Valerie Bertinelli? I think she's the cutest actress around. —K.M.B., Brewster, N.Y.

Letters written to the actress will reach her if you address them to Valerie Bertinelli, c/o Pickwick/Maslanski/Koenigsberg, 8642 Melrose Ave., Los Angeles, CA 90069. If you like Miss Bertinelli so much, make sure you catch her in the upcoming NBC movie "Silent Witness."

When I was visiting southern California recently, I bumped into "Silver Spoons" star Ricky Schroder. He was so nice — I even got an autograph! What did he do before he landed the NBC series? — N.B., Jamestown, N.Y.

When the actor was just three months old, he appeared in a diaper commercial. He followed that spot with nearly 50 other commercials before landing what he considers his first "real" acting job, a co-starring role in the film "The Champ." The 1979 film (a remake of the 1931 classic) starred Jon Voight and Faye Dunaway.

He then starred in "The Earthling" and "The Last Flight of Noah's Ark."

Schroder's other TV credits include "Little Lord Fauntleroy," "There Are Two Kinds of Trouble" and "Something So Right."

Argentine Tango Dancer Returns To Broadway

By Daniel Drosdoff
 UPI Senior Editor

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (UPI) — Juan Carlos Copés thinks he has the formula for reviving the fading tango in his native land.

"Once it's popular abroad, I'm sure it will come back home," he says. Copés returns to Broadway Tuesday for the first time in 23 years as the choreographer and leading male dancer for "Tango Argentino," a 30-person, two-hour show opening for six weeks in the Mark Hellinger Theater.

The Broadway appearance for the all-Argentine troupe, which began touring Europe in the 1983 Autumn Festival in Paris, is a followup on a one-week successful run at the New York City Center last June.

When Copés and co-star Marie Nieves, still his leading lady, last played on Broadway in 1962 it was with mostly U.S. dancers at the Alvin Theater in "New Faces 1962." That performance ran three months.

The new show, directed by Argentine Claudio Segovia and Hector Orezza, gives a history of the tango through dance in a black and white scenario, showing how its style evolved throughout the decades.

One place this show has not appeared is Argentina, birthplace of the tango.

"There isn't enough money in Argentina to support a performance by that large a troupe," says an associate of Copés.

While tango music, a sad, steady beat with melodramatic lyrics, still saturates radio and television stations of Buenos Aires, not many Argentines actually dance it any more.

It takes effort to learn. The footwork must be well placed, the lady firmly led, and the beat carefully followed. The untrained and unpracticed commonly trip over toes, bump into other couples and fall miserably in keeping time.

"It's easy," says the 56-year-old Copés, who at 17 began pursuing a life as a professional dancer and teacher. "Well, easy, but not that easy. I'm sorry to say our youth does not dance the tango any more."

When he first learned the tango, Copés recalls, there was a dance hall "in every neighborhood. I said to myself, 'Boy, I sure would like to be able to dance that. And I've been doing it every since.'"

After its heyday in the 1940s and 1950s, tango dancing in Buenos Aires has been reduced, Copés says, "to about five to seven places in the entire city." Rock is now more popular.

"Our people don't value their own things, they like to import," says Copés.

"The perfume has to be French, the radio has to be Japanese, the music American. The tango is catching on again overseas. In a violent world, people are looking back at the romantic past. When the tango becomes popular overseas, it will return to Argentina, because then it will be imported."

Copés resided in the United States between 1959 and 1965, leading a traveling troupe called "Juan Carlos and his Argentine Revue."

His base was New York. He taught at the Arthur Murray and Fred Astaire dance studios, and made four appearances on the Ed Sullivan show.

Nowadays, Copés alternates between traveling, performing in Buenos Aires nightclubs, and, most recently, teaching beginners.

Twice a week he and other members of his troupe give two-hour tango classes at a cafe called "Volver" (To Return) on Corteses street, in the heart of the theater district.

The team charges $25 a month per student for 16 hours of instruction, barely enough to meet expenses. Anywhere from 10 to 20 students of all ages show up for class, which divide up the dance into six basic steps in a numbering system devised by Copés.

The real thing is a far cry from the fancy, stylized stepping of the professional performers — yet for beginners they are difficult enough.

Copés estimates it takes an average of two months work before a student will be able to back it on a ballroom floor.

"I teach tango because I like it," Copés says. "Especially to the young. I know everybody over 50 was raised on the tango, but it is the younger ones who will keep it going."

Kristy McNichol Is Aging Fast

By Vernon Scott
UPI Hollywood Reporter
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Kristy McNichol, who became America's kid as Buddy Lawrence in the defunct "Family" series, ages from 16 to 35 in a new TV movie and becomes a mother in the bargain.

McNichol began her TV career at 12 as the earnest tomboy in "Family." She is 23 now, sophisticated, adult and pulling her life together after a spate of personal problems, which she dislikes discussing. Unlike many another teenage actress, McNichol worked all the way through her so-called gawky period. Her emergence from the pubescent chrysalis, in fact, became part of her charm.

It was only after she became a young adult that the slender McNichol hit the wall. She didn't work for two years.

"I took some time off because I felt I needed it," McNichol said, sipping a glass of iced tea. Kristy was wearing a semi-spiky mod hairdo, a knobby ecru sweater, white pants and sandals on a hot day in the San Fernando Valley.

She has developed into a pretty, self-assured woman with a ready smile and an open manner.

"I took two years off and didn't do anything. I traveled a little but I stayed home a lot too.

"I wanted to be with me and do things that I felt like doing at the time. I had some growing-up problems three years ago. Everyone goes through them. My problem was trying not to handle them in the public eye. I'd really prefer not to discuss what I went through."

There is no parallel between McNichol and her role as Mary Groda in the two-hour CBS-TV movie, "Love, Mary," to be telecast Oct. 8, in which she ages almost 20 years.

She plays a juvenile delinquent who spends most of her teens in jails, considered by authorities to be incorrigible, illiterate and slightly retarded before it's discovered Mary is a victim of dyslexia.

Freed from reform school, Mary eventually attends college and straightens out her life, becoming the mother of a son and daughter.

The role is a major landmark for McNichol, who played juveniles in such films as "Only When I Laugh," "Little Darlings," "Just The Way You Are," "White Dog" and "The Night The Lights Went Out in Georgia."

"The transition to playing a mother — after being someone's daughter for so long — wasn't difficult," said McNichol who has never been a mother, nor a wife for that matter.

"I baby-sat for a lot of my mother's friends when I was a kid. Sometimes I spent weekends with little children and I felt more like a mother to them than their own mothers. I'm a motherly type when kids are around.

"I worked with six different sets of kids in 'Love, Mary,' which depleted the two children growing up from infants. I really felt maternal when I held the infants in my arms. Working with the older kids reminded me of my own working childhood.

"It was sort of deja vu watching them work only a few hours and then having to study with the tutor. I think it would be fantastic to be a mother some day. But I don't want to make the mistake of having them too young and not being as good a mother as I'd want to be."

McNichol is regularly accosted by well-meaning fans who remember her as Buddy, quick to exclaim how much she is growing up.

"I am grown up," she said. "I'm a woman now. I've been living on my own for five years, sometimes with housemates, sometimes not. I left home to live in my own house when I was 17."

McNichol wears a ring on the third finger of her left hand, a gift from a steady beau. She makes it clear, however, it is not an engagement ring.

"Just as there was a time for me to get away from working long days month after month and find myself, now is the time to get my career shaped up again," she said.

"I've just done a wonderful picture with Alan Pakula, 'Dream Lover.' It will be released in January. I want to learn from good actors and directors and make some interesting movies."

McNichol isn't part of Hollywood's so-called Brat Pack, the group of young actors who work together in teenage or early 20s rites-of-passage films like "The Breakfast Club" or "St. Elmo's Fire."

While she may admire Rob Lowe, Judd Nelson, Allie Sheedy, Molly Ringwald and the others, she is happy she hasn't appeared in those movies.

"I don't want to play roles in which my character painfully goes through the things I've already experienced in real life," she said. "It's time to move onward — and upward."
