consideration of the bill.:

The Senate overrode bi-partisan pleas for economy by King and Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg (R Mich), who warned against mounting Federal deficits.

"I predict there will be a deficit of at least $2,000,000,000 and perhaps between $3,000,000,000 and $4,000,000,000 next year," King said.

Roosevelt Okeys WPA Project For Drainage Ditch

President Reoreveit has just signed a WPA project providing for the construction of a six-mile dra'nage ditch from Mecca, Hammock to Lake Jessup, according to information received by The Herald today from Washington.

The project calls for a total expenditure of over $12,000 with a Federal contribution of $9,496.

Italy's Poet-Warrior

If Gabriele D'Annunzio had written a testimonial few days ago on how he managed to live to the ripe old age of 75, he probably would have said, "I attribute my success to the fact that I always ate heartily, drank heavly, and loved long and well."

For that is what he did. If the French motto is "Nothing to Excess," the Italian motto must be "Nothing in Moderation," for D'Annunzio was a glutton for punishment in everything he did, and he was the idol of his

It is difficult for us to think of a poet as being a valiant warrior. Yet D'Annunzio was both. In fact he was one of the few Italian officers who came out of the World War with his reputation undiminished,

He fought as he wrote, without inhibitions. He threw his whole heart and soul into what he was doing regardless of consequences. He had no more fear of death than he had of public opinion or of what the intelligensia might think of his literary work.

Had he been a little younger at the end of the World War, Mussolini would probably still be a sergeant in the Italian army and D'Annunzio would have been showering bombs on defenseless Ethiopians and making Englishmen quake in their boots.

For at the time he led his march on Flume and established the first post war precedent for breaking treaties and seizing neighboring territory, he was himself known as Il Duce, and was certainly more popular than Mussolini has ever been then or since.

and furiously. He had had an eye and he had lived fast and furiously. He had had an eye and out in the World War, but even more damaging had been his frequent loves and his numerous excesses in the wine cellar. He thought he was going to die 16 years ago and made elaborate preparations for it.

But somehow he hung on and on until finally he must have thought he had been too wicked to die for notions of suicide took hold of him and attendants had to watch him carefully to prevent him from taking his own life. Needless to say his last years must have been a nightmare.

But at last a cerebral hemorrhage saved him.

The Accident Problem

Last year in the United States approximately 40,000 men, women, and children were killed in highway accidents. About half the number were pedestrians. More than a million people were injured. Property losses were estimated in excess of a billion and a quarter dollars. Perhaps these gray stones, rolled These are facts familiar to everyone.

"Most readers," says the Rotarian Magazine, "have seen the 'highway horror' articles, often gruesomely illustrated, calculated to reduce accidents by arousing revulsion and fear. Under the hindly, blue eye of young Dr. W. M. Dawson, the dogs are being bred in an effort to discover how animals inherit schallenge.

Thora's a sheep fold handy be-cause one of the more intelligent things dogs do is to herd sheep. Dawson not only is testing these dogs for heep-herding. He'll test their paps, and their pup's

The dogs go through six tests. When they're four months old they learn to lead on a leash. Some do it right away. Some rould rather lick Dawson's boots Second, Dawson takes them to see some sheep to see if they show any interest. Some don't like old Beno. a chow, who's bored with sheep but sets all excited about pigs.

Then Dawson trains the pups to all down when he blows his whistle once and to stand up and come to him when he blows it twice.
