SANFORD - The arrows were in the air early Saturday morning when 23 stalwart archers opened the competition to the 23rd Annual Golden Age Games - the nation's oldest and grandest senior sports event.

The games are being held at a number of sites in or near Sanford - the bowling this year shifting to Orange City, the first time for any of the activities crossing the St. John's River to Volusia County. Bowling required a new site when Bowl America Lanes closed in Sanford this May.

There's a Senior Expo from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Sunday at the Sanford Civic Center, and the Opening Ceremonies and lighting of the torch at the same site at 1 p.m.

The week-long festival of fitness and fun concludes with Track & Field competition and the horseshoes finals on Saturday, Nov. 8.

As many as 1,000 will compete in events ranging from shuffleboard to swimming, billiards to bench pressing. Some folks will play cribbage, others will paddle canoes. Some will dance, others throw the discus.

Warren Phillips, 62, is coming from Panama to throw the javelin and run in five races. Vern Mattson, 77, is coming from Essex, Vt. to compete in track and Brian McGrath, 83, is coming from Ontario, Canada to be in the cycling races.

Dave "The Barber" Dretfuerat, 57, will come but a few blocks from his shop at 105 Palmetto, to enter two golf events and the basketball shooting contest. He'll leave the scissors and combs in the shop long enough to add a few ribbon medals to his collection.

Oviedo archer Richard Deuyour, a gold medal winner in the 60-64 men's compound finger division, tries today for the gold in the 65-69 group.

"Archery is on the rise," he said with certain delight. "America's taking this sport seriously again - we won the Gold Medal in the Olympics and

Residents ask for high school accreditation

By MARIA OREM

SANFORD - The accreditation of Crooms Academy is the desire of at least 872 people who signed a petition last weekend.

Following notice of a special work session of the Seminole County Board to discuss the school's accreditation, Edward Blacksheare, former principal of the Sanford school from 1964 to 1980, joined the effort to reinstate the school's accreditation, lost in 1986. A member of the Crooms School Advisory Council, Blacksheare learned of this fact following the recent graduation of high school students at the school.

"There are those who feel very proud of the accomplishments at Crooms," he said. "Through regular accreditation, it is vital to the community to reestablish the legacy of the past performance of graduates."

Originally opened in 1926 in Sanford, Crooms served all

LAKE MARY - An incumbent candidate for a city commission seat has accused her opponent of lying in campaign literature.

Shella Sawyer cites four items contained in a brochure mailed to Lake Mary voters, by Al Crump, as being incorrect and offensive. The items refer to her voting record on the issues of economic incentive proposed property taxes, funding of active parks and a traffic signal for Lake Mary Elementary.

Crump said some information he received was apparently inaccurate. He said he personally did not check the accuracy facts printed in his brochure. "A couple of mistakes have come forth and I apologize."

"If my opponent wants to win," Sawyer said, "he'd best get his facts straight, stand on his position on the issues and not misrepresent my votes taken on the commission, as

Casselberry adds cop to patrol duty

CASSELBERRY - The Casselberry Police Department recently received a grant from the Bureau of Justice Assistance, U.S. Department of Justice. "Our reason was to get more community policing," said Dan Kolassa, grants administrator for the Casselberry Police Department. "We needed more on patrol."

The grant provides $30,000 over a two year period to place an additional road officer in the ongoing effort to reduce crime provide for enhanced police responsiveness and promote improved public safety. The $30,000 will be used for salary and benefits for the employee chosen. There is a limitation of one grant per jurisdiction. The City of Casselberry will provide some matching funds to the federal grant. According to Kolassa, Casselberry puts 10% as matching funds; that is an additional $3,000 each year.

The grant is guaranteed over two years. Once the period is up, the particular department

Visitors' facility to grace entrance of state forest

By SHARI BRODIE

CHULUOTA - A classic "Florida Cracker" style administrative headquarters and visitors facility will soon be built at the Snowhill Road entrance to the Little Big Econ State Forest.

The 2,700 square foot office has been designed to provide a base of operation for the Division of Forestry staff currently managing the state forest from the fire tower on State Road 419 in Chuluota, as well as a visitor center. The complex will afford better public access to the river through a road system and loop parking area for canoe launching. The office will include a conference room that will accommodate 30 people and public restrooms.

The vernacular architectural style was chosen to reflect the "surrounding community's rich history evolved from old cattle ranching families," according to Borrelli & Assoc., the architectural design firm.

State Forest Ranger Mike Martin said bids have been solicited for the building of the complex and a contract should be awarded within a month. Groundbreaking should follow soon after.

Protected land near the forest recently grew by 3,458 acres, when the St. Johns River Water Management District Governing Board purchased a parcel of the Yarborough Ranch, at the confluence of the St. Johns and Econlockhatchee rivers, east of the forest.

The purchase sets up a conservation easement on seven miles of the Econ River and two miles of the St. Johns River.

The land purchase allows for a canoe landing on the Econ River, at a point known as Culpepper Bend. The district plans to erect an inclement weather shelter and a picnic area for a public park that will only be accessible from the river.

The current total forest acreage of 4,980 acres was acquired OVIDO - The headwaters of two tributaries that feed the Econlockhatchee River are located on property that may soon be developed into 1,032 single family homes and this has Mike Rich seeing red.

Rich heads up a group of homeowners associations and private citizens that want to see managed development of rural lands in the Oviedo and Chuluota area. The name of the group is C-RED, Coalition for Responsible Econ Development.

Rich and C-RED are currently fighting the future land use change proposed for what residents of the area know as Flying Seminole Ranch.

Richland Properties proposes to build River Oaks, a planned unit development which will include 1,032 homes built in five phases, a 25-acre school site and 6.5 acres for commercial development. The building will be done on 470 of the 727 acres, with a dwelling

S.C.C. film series

The S.C.C. film series continues with its exciting diversity of classic and contemporary films, either by Mexican filmmakers or based on Mexican culture. All films are free and are shown in the Fine Arts Concert Hall. Next in the series is Maria Candelaria, to be shown on Wednesday, Nov. 5, with two showings, one at noon and the other at 7:30 p.m. Described by the Museum of Modern Art as the "Gone with the Wind" of Mexico, the 1943 film was heralded the coming of age of the Mexican cinema. In the film, director Emilio Fernandez has created his own puppet-like world, a world of villains, irrational people, and good people who become heroes. It is the story of one woman's search to free herself of the stigma of her mother's past. The film received the Palme d'Or at the 1946 Cannes Film Festival. Cinematography by Gabriel Figueroa, considered one of the best in the history of Mexican cinema. The film is in black and white. It is in Spanish with English subtitles. The film is not rated.

Gaudnek at U.C.F.

Made in Florida, a colorful exhibition of post-pop art by Walter Gaudnek, reincarnations of masterpieces by Matisse and Gauguin, will be on display at the U.C.F. library during November. There will be a reception for the artist Friday, Nov. 7, at 6 p.m. in the library lobby. At the reception, Gaudnek will announce his new website where students can access samples of his work. For more information, call (407) 823-2676.

What does Sanford taste like?

BY DAVID FRAZIER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Napkins? Check. Forks? Check. Knives? Check. 810? No, then snap to it or you'll be left behind for the next "A Taste of Sanford" coming to the area Saturday, Nov. 8.

This celebration of local cuisine will be available to patrons for only $10 admission. Area restaurants will be displaying and sampling their cuisine from 4 p.m. to 7 p.m. at the Sanford Civic Center main hall.

Last year, "A Taste of Sanford" was put on by Rivership Romance. The venue changed to allow more people to come to the event and it is easier to set up said Jennifer Singelsen, program manager for Sanford Man Street, Inc. "This [venue] will allow people to come and go," said Singelsen. The money received from this year's "Taste" will go towards holiday activities downtown.

In addition to the food, there will be a cash bar and there will also be a live jazz band. The food for "Taste" will be judged by select dignitaries. There will also be a surprise judge according to Singelsen.

Participating restaurants include: Bbee's Home Cooking, Willow Tree Cafe, Rose Cottage

Tea Room, We Three Girls Gourmet Cafe, Mama Willie's Cafe, Papa John's Pizza, Angelo's Pizzeria, Gator Landing, Rib Ranch, Rowdy Rusty's Wings, Steak & Shake, Rivership Romance, Wolfy's, Main Street MarketPlace, Golden Lamb Restaurant, Marina Hotel and Conference Center, El Pootro Mexican, 3-D's Restaurant and Bakery and Bob's Subs.

Get ready for a Great Day in the Country

BY DAVID FRAZIER
Herald Staff Writer

OVIEDO - There is one annual sign that Oviedo has not parted with its hometown image. The 24th annual Great Day in the Country arts and crafts festival is set for Saturday, Nov. 8, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The event is sponsored by the GFWC Oviedo Women's Club. The group which was founded in 1908 has been presenting Great Day in the Country to promote the arts and to fund many community organizations, charities and projects. Over 300 exhibitors are expected to compete for awards and ribbons, and sell their arts and crafts at the show.

Some of the highlights of this year's Great Day are: free admission, free parking, activities for the children, live entertainment, food and drinks, a student art fest, a country store, fresh vegetables, a bean soup mix, service organization exhibits, merchant display booths and cash awards and ribbons.

Great Day in the Country does give its proceeds to community recipients. Those that will receive monies are: scholarships, school bands, Canine Companions, Oviedo Police and Fire, NJROTC, Hacienda Girls Ranch, school media centers, Seminole County Library (East Branch), Back to Nature, Habitat for Humanity, Special Olympics, ROCK Camp, Seminole Humane Society and Memorial Building. Last year's fund-raising event enabled $18,000 in donations to be fed back to the community. An estimated 40,000 people were in attendance at last year's event.

The site for Great Day in the Country is at Lawton Grove Park and the Lawton Elementary School grounds in downtown Oviedo at the corner of State Road 426 and Lake Jessup Avenue. There will be free shuttle service to the event from Oviedo High School. For more information, call (407) 365-9420.

LAKE MARY - The Lake Mary's Woman's Club is getting ready for their 10th Annual Italian Feast. The feast, scheduled for Saturday, Nov. 8 from 4:30 to 7:30 p.m. at the Community Building in Lake Mary, is only $5 for adults, $3 for children 3 to 10 and free for children 2 and under. You can buy your tickets from any Woman's Club member or at the door.

The feast will feature a Christmas craft show and a raffle. The proceeds from the event benefit the club's annual scholarship fund. This year, for the first time, the club will be selling Lake Mary car tags for just $8. The colorful tags feature the city's seal.

The club will once again be participating in Olde Lake Mary Holidays. The celebration is scheduled for Saturday, Dec. 6 from 5:30 to 8 p.m. at Lake Mary City Hall. The Woman's Club will be giving out free cookies and drinks to anyone donating non-perishable food items for the Safehouse of Seminole County.

Part of 110 years of faithful service

How All Souls Church will celebrate All Soul's Day

By RUBB WHITE
Herald Staff Writer

Sunday is All Souls' Day, a day Roman Catholics remember and pray for the faithfully departed. It is of special significance to those who worship at All Souls Catholic Church in Sanford.

Father Richard W. Trout, the pastor at All Souls, will celebrate a 5 p.m. Mass at All Souls Cemetery on Sunday.

The Mass is part of a year-long observance of the parish's 110 years of faithful service.

Father Trout began a recent homily by asking that everyone who had been a member of All Souls five years or less be seated. "In 1992, Fr. Tom Burns was our pastor, Norbert Durey was our bishop, John Paul II was our pope."

All those fairly new to the parish, sat down. Next, he asked members of

All Souls 10 years or less to be seated. "In 1987 Fr. Lyle Darnen was our pastor, Thomas Grady was our bishop, John Paul II was our pope."

A good number more sat.

Everyone a member of All Souls 20 years or less... "In 1977 Fr. Bill Ennis was our pastor, Thomas Grady was our bishop, John Paul I and John Paul II were our popes."

A few more were seated.

The pastor went on to 30 years or less, 40 years, 50 years, 60 years and so on until no one was left standing.

"Everyone a member of All Souls 90 years or less - be seated. In 1911, Patrick Bresnahan became our first pastor, St. Pius X was our pope."

In 1897, Father Trout said, the parish had no pastor, and there were only four parishes in Central Florida. Leo XIII was pope.

In 1887, he said that Bishop

Father Richard W. Trout

John Moore, Bishop of St. Augustine, purchased a half city block in Sanford for the new mission of All Souls and that on July 4 that year the cornerstone was laid for the All Souls Church.

This - 110 years ago.

Five years before that, Father Michael McPaul, used to travel to Sanford from Maitland to conduct Mass. He served at the time as pastor of the Church of the Nativity of the Blessed Virgin Mary in Maitland.

It is believed that he offered Mass at a place known as Doyle's Hall in Sanford.

In 1886, Father Felix P. Swernbergh began coming to Sanford from Orlando to offer Mass.

Father Bresnahan was the first pastor of the church, serving from April 1911 to April 1915.

In 1931, All Souls Church burned to the ground, and though they had to sacrifice a great deal because of the Depression, parishioners sacrificed a great deal more and built the present church with their own hands. The construction lasted until 1937 and cost the parishioners $28,000. Until the church was completed, services were conducted in a two-story building that Father Bresnahan had built.

"OK," Father Trout said to conclude his homily, "how we are so much like our ancestors. Look at what they have given us and back to the Lord."

"What now will we give back to the Lord?"

unit density of 3.5 per acre.

Rich said this type of development will have a devastating effect on the future land use decisions made with regard to land adjacent to Flying Seminole Ranch, in Seminole County and can have a negative affect to on the health of the tributaries that run directly into the Econ River.

"This is an attack on unprotected tributaries," Rich said. "If you want to keep the river healthy, you've got to protect these tributaries."

Flying Seminole Ranch is located off State Road 419, east and north of the confluence of the Little and Big Econ rivers. The river enters the Little Big Econ State Forest just north of 419. Through the efforts of Florida State Rep. Bob Starks, the river was designated an "Outstanding Florida Water" several years ago.

Flying Seminole Ranch is located on an air strip and glider port for more than a decade. It closed in 1987. According to Rich, environmental surveys of the land show that 35 percent of the 727 acres contain wetlands. One of the battles that Rich is fighting is to prove that the property contains "Rare Upland Habitat" which would exclude another 150 to 200 acres of buildable land. The ranch is home to sandhill cranes and gopher tortoise, both protected species, and indigo snake and gopher frogs.

The city of Oviedo approved the land use change last year and it was denied by the Florida Department of Community Affairs. The city and the FDCA have agreed to a stipulated settlement agreement, which will be presented in a public hearing on Monday, Nov. 3 at the Oviedo City Council chambers. The city will also present the development agreement and the conceptual development plan.

Rich has challenged the city on the basis that allowing a development of this size is in "excess of demonstrated need" for the projected population in the year 2010, the date used in future planning. He said that the setbacks and densities proposed are not compatible surrounding lands. Five and 10 acre lots surround the ranch property on three sides. The River Oaks PUD would place 1/8 acre lots next to the 5-acre lots. State law requires a minimum of three acre lot next to five acre lots.

A professional consultant by trade, Rich calls himself a "community public interest watchdog." A resident of Chuluota since 1979, most of his fights have been for environmental protection. He was part of the team successful in the protection of the "Geneva Bubble," a freshwater aquifer in east Seminole County. C-Red was formed in the summer of 1996, after the land use change was approved by the Oviedo City Council.

Rich would like to see the city follow ordinances set up by the county to protect the wetlands that feed the Econ River. That would reduce density to one acre lots with appropriate buffers, 300 to 500 homes. He said he will take the city to court. "We want a judges opinion."

Rich wants more community involvement on this issue similar to the public outcry on the recent adult entertainment sites identified in Chuluota.

"Porno is the tip of the iceberg," he said. "If this development is allowed it will set a precedent that will be hard to fight in the future."

The Oviedo City Hall is located at 400 Alexandria Blvd., off of State Road 434. The items related to the development of Flying Seminole Ranch are the fourth, fifth and sixth items under the quasi-legislative/judicial proceedings portion. The meeting begins at 7 p.m.

well as my credibility."

In his brochure, Crump said that Sawyer opposed supporting economic incentives for ATAT. Sawyer voted in favor of the incentive package for ATAT's relocation to Lake Mary in 1995, but voted against other incentives for BellSouth, HTE and GE Capital.

Crump also said that Sawyer opposed the funding of a traffic light on Lake Mary Boulevard at Fourth Street and the entrance to Lake Mary Elementary School. Minutes of the July 10, 1997 Lake Mary City Commission meeting show that the vote was unanimous.

On the issue of property taxes, Crump's brochure said "this year's budget forecasts a property tax increase of 18.9 percent for next year." Crump got his information from the five year revenue projection on the general fund summary on the proposed budget that commissioners recently passed. The projection shows an increase of the millage rate from 3.7648 in fiscal year 1998, to 4.4044 in fiscal year 1999. Sawyer said that the five year projection is approved by the commission but the actual millage rate is set each year based on the needs of the city at that time.

Crump also said that the incumbent opposed the Lake Mary Sports Complex. Sawyer said that she supported the building of the active park, which was funded by the Parks and Parkway bond issue adopted by voters in 1991. She said she was not on the commission at that time and as a citizen, she was opposed to the funding of the burial of power lines and the beautification of Lake Mary Boulevard, which was also contained in that bond issue.

"I take offense to the lies," Sawyer said. Crump apologized for the errors and he did not mean to personally attack his opponent.

Crump is opposing Sawyer for Seat 4 on the Lake Mary City Commission. The election is Tuesday, from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m., at Lake Mary City Hall, 100 N. Country Club Rd.

Also on the ballot is the four-way race for seat 2 held by incumbent George Dureya. He is opposed by Jeff Deen, Trudy Meyer and Michael Wierzbowski.

Sheriff can make them understand

Sheriff Don Eslinger will address the Law Enforcement Options Committee Tuesday. That's the group charged with making recommendations to city commissioners regarding the Sanford Police Department.

A recent independent consultant's study found the department seriously flawed, leaving three choices for commissioners: fix what's wrong, employ the sheriff's services to take over some functions, or disband the department, and empower the Sheriff's Office as the city's police agency.

The sheriff hasn't pushed his services on Sanford, but has been graciously standing by, ready if asked for help. And we believe the sheriff is good for his word.

But we encourage him to look beyond political correctness when he addresses this committee Tuesday. Make members understand that some things must change. Eslinger's office can play a critical role in that change.

We encourage the sheriff to share with committee members exactly what services he can provide, and how much those services will cost the city. Sanford has the highest crime rate in Seminole County, and it makes sense that some help with, for example, crime scene investigations and added manpower in dispatch, would benefit the city's residents.

The Sanford Herald believes that if anyone can make the committee understand the intricacies of law enforcement and some of the solutions to Sanford's problems, Sheriff Don Eslinger can.

Keep big development out

I can not believe that there are people in Sanford who want to destroy the beautiful river front area of Ft. Mellon Park to put up a hotel, etc. that will benefit outside interests, while taking away a favorite area that most of us Sanford residents enjoy year round. It is used for many events and there is no other area that comes close in replacing it.

Why are you trying to turn Sanford into a tourist town, when most of us living here want it to be a family town and to keep its small town qualities? Why can't you work to improve what we have such as the island area and blocks of uncut grass on empty lots around town? We do not need or want yet another hotel built by outside northern interests who do not have any vested interests in Sanford. They are looking for profit. Is profit worth us losing our park? Look elsewhere! The Mayfair Inn flopped and so did the Holiday Inn.

Sanford is making great strides with a lovely historic district and a lively downtown area--part of the town's attraction is the lovely wide open view of the lake. No one I know wants this hotel complex or anything else that turns us into a touristy Roale O'Grady, type atmosphere. I hope others will speak up if it's not already too late. How sad outside interests are taking precedent with our city leaders...not to mention other decisions they are making of late. Voting is not that far away.

Quality of life in Sanford

We are writing you as concerned citizens of Seminole County (23 years) and as property owners within the Sanford city limits (19 years). As fourth generation Floridians we are accustomed to observing growth first hand and hearing about it from our ancestors...some good and some not so good. The cause for this letter is to address the latter.

We moved to our present location on East Twin Lake in 1979 (you may know us as the Christmas tree farm). We knew that in time developments would eventually surround us, and up until recently, we have been very pleased with the quality and quantity of single family homes like ours that surround us on two sides. We have good stable neighbors in both Kaywood to our east and across the street in the Hills of Lake Mary to our south. As you know, this is one of the last remaining areas of Sanford in which to build quality single family homes. So it is with alarm that we observe plans for a high density apartment complex to be situated almost dead center between these two developments.

We can only assume that the Seminole County planners who designated our property, the Doudney property adjacent to our west side and the Southward property where in our opinion, even though it may decrease our property value, we feel these three properties, including our own, should continue in the long established density of the

A country devoted to nation and people

How do I describe my political self? Not that it's anyone's business. I'm not running for a public office, but I don't mind answering the question. I would say that I am a fiscal conservative, but my values and philosophy are built upon my background and the values taught to me by my family.

What does that mean? It means that I believe in a balanced budget. It also means that I believe that an individual has a responsibility to his or her nation as long as that nation is built upon a strong value system that believes that it also has responsibilities to its citizens.

In other words, a public servant must be able to serve his country while serving the individual needs of its citizens.

I do not believe it is possible for a nation to survive if its citizens are not completely devoted to the nation and the government of that nation and is not devoted to its citizens. Let me give you two examples of what I am talking about.

I believe it is disgraceful that our elderly citizens, who can no longer care for themselves, may have to live their final days under the worst of conditions primarily based upon their income or that of family members.

I believe that we, all of us, as a nation, should shoulder the cost of taking care of the elderly. That we should provide the best medical services and housing possible. That this responsibility falls upon all of us and we cannot expect in today's world that all families are prepared, or able, to give all that is needed.

Unfortunately, there are choices that must be made by families. How do they pay for college and how do they provide for grandparents who can no longer care for themselves? It's not an easy task and families are often destroyed both emotionally and financially.

Fiscally, I believe it is possible for us to care for our elderly if we really want to shoulder this responsibility. First, we have not attacked fraud in Medicare and other services. If we made a serious attempt to reform

Think about this,
Seminole County

ERNEST NATTON II

Ernest Natton II is a veteran member of numerous government boards and is a civic activist in the interest of good government.

Medicare and include in the Medicare system, medical care and housing for our elderly, we could.

The fraud in Medicare is overwhelming and it has virtually been ignored. It is estimated at about 40 billion dollars a year. We constantly attack the system with little effort to reform it. It seems to me that our priorities are not in order. Before we increase the costs, by making those receiving the services pay more, we ought to make a diligent effort to correct the problems and eliminate the fraud.

Some will say that this is a cost that the nation cannot or is not obligated to bear. It is true that we are not obligated to take on this responsibility. This is where the conflict begins and the difficult decisions must be made. How can we be fiscally responsible, preserve our values and serve our citizens. It's not easy, but if we cannot succeed in doing all three we will fail eventually as a nation.

Our children, how have we neglected them? We know for example, that the majority of crimes committed by children 12 years and older are committed before their parents or parent comes home from work. Yet, we dismiss these children from school earlier than ever before. It is quite clear to me that in the interest of the children's education and their welfare that they should be in school for a much longer period. I cannot believe that we don't see the effects of children being home many hours before their parents and the correlation between children getting into trouble and the period of unsupervised time.

I would rather see them in school studying, doing homework, supervised until at least 3:30 to 4:00 FIVE DAYS A WEEK WITHOUT HOMEWORK. This is really a solution to many problems and it's being ignored by our educational system and our representatives in government.

If our children were in school longer and the educational system overhauled, there is no reason that they should not be better educated, safe, and little time for them to get into trouble. It would also give some relief to parents. My reason for eliminating homework is because if children are in school for a longer period, I do not believe it is necessary and also, because it allows both parents and children more time together in the evening. The idea that most parents are able to assist their children with homework today is a fable. The examples I have given I believe, are both fiscally possible and reasonable solutions to these issues.

If any nation is to survive, I believe it must have a heart. Just as an individual must have a heart to survive. The balance between fiscal responsibility and the values of Christianity and other religions must be a part of the decisions we make. Most importantly we cannot put aside our personal values, our religious beliefs, when making policy. If we do that we are nothing. Our nation will have no foundation.

To debate these issues does not mean that we are not trying. It does not mean that we do not have wonderful teachers and devoted administrators. It does not mean that we do not have people in government who do not care. It means that we need to consider reforms, new approaches, options, that there is much we can do to improve. It does mean that we need leadership with vision.

Liberal to me is imposing a tax before you get your house in fiscal order. I believe it should be the opposite.

Most importantly--that you are devoted to the welfare of both the nation and the people.

Artist Ed Tyson was inspired by recent events covered in the Sanford Herald.

Who will chair School Board, Seminole County commission?

Who wants to be chairman? In November, both the County Commission and the School Board will re-organize and elect a chairman--or chairwoman as the case may be. Maybe! Everyone remembers last year's County Commission fiasco where no one could garner a majority of the votes and the office went empty for a month.

This year is an election year--and that makes the selection all the more interesting. The conventional wisdom is that if you are running for office--you absolutely don't want to be the chairman. After all, the chairman is the contact point with the media if anything bad happens. One scandal and you are in the paper, on TV and inevitably linked with whatever happened. If the grand jury returns indictments after the FBI investigation of the county Road Department, one does not want to be on national TV trying to defend the county while running for re-election.

When the school system releases the school choice decisions next spring, there are going to be unhappy constituents--even if 90 percent of the students get their first choice as the superintendent promises. The chairperson of the School Board is not only going to have to deal with the parental uproar on that one, but when the FCAT tests are released and the anticipated low scores show that the county hasn't been providing a relevant education to some 66,000 Seminole County children, the chair will be in the news--negatively. It is hard to run a re-election campaign with lots of negative publicity--especially if your opponent can point to your record as having caused any of it. As a result, what sometimes happens is that

The spirit of volunteerism

We here at "Special People" have discussed many times before how much a disabled person's (or any person's for that matter,) life is enhanced by volunteering some time to their community.

Volunteering not only helps someone else out, but gives the volunteer a greater sense of self worth.

Volunteering is the subject matter for this week and next week's "Special People". The recently created "Seminole Reads" Program that is part of the VISTA - Volunteers In Service Training Organization, was established in Seminole County in June of 1997. It is a program that places volunteers in public schools.

It's part of a five-county group that helps students from kindergarten to third grade levels, to better develop their reading skills. The "Seminole Reads" Program is part of the national effort "America Reads" which was kicked off in 1996 by President Bill Clinton and General Colin Powell.

VISTA asks for a commitment of at least 30 minutes a week, hopefully a volunteer or tutor can give more time if possible. Started with a grant by R.S.V.P. (The Retired Senior's Volunteer Program), VISTA is located at Seminole Community College, 100 Weldon Blvd. in Sanford, housed in the R.S.V.P. building. Shellane Babb is the Vista leader. For more information call VISTA at 323-4440.

"Seminole Reads" has about 20 volunteers or tutors in the Goldsboro, Hamilton Midway elementary schools who started a bit earlier than other schools. They have already reported a definite decline in discipline problems, while reading scores have gone up; and Pine Crest Elementary. Each school has an assigned VISTA volunteer.

Ms. Williams Morgan has a degree in Human Resource Management. Before getting her position, she researched children's literacy on the internet. What she found was that children who did not read at least a third grade level are more likely to drop out of school, may not be able to get and hold meaningful jobs, and are more likely to cause discipline problems.

Ms. Morgan also feels her program, as well as good reading skills, addresses illiteracy, crime and poverty. She also went on to say that the disabled, or anyone else for that matter, can expand their lives and horizons through volunteerism by being with other people and sharing their talents with the world.

The goal is to have about 100 tutors in Seminole County at the end of the school year, June of 1998. Kids in the reading program are average students who have not absorbed everything. The only thing a person really needs is a willingness to help a child and transportation to the school.

The story behind naming Orlando Sanford Airport

To be sure, there continues to be much controversy over Sanford Airport's new name...Orlando Sanford Airport. As a seven-year member of the Sanford Airport Authority, I thought I should try to explain why the name was changed and why I continue to support the new name...Orlando Sanford Airport.

I was appointed to the board partly because I am a general aviation pilot, knew the Airport and I was a local businessman who had an interest in promoting good clean business in Sanford and North Seminole County.

Seven years ago we were fortunate to find some funding for a new terminal building. This funding was for an "International Arrivals Building". We took the funding and built a small International Terminal Building. This is where the story begins.

With the building came a Customs and Immigration official. I remember calling him the "Maytag Man" since we had no international passengers and he had nothing to do. We went from trade show to trade show trying to drum up some business. Our advertising materials read, "Central Florida Regional Airport, Orlando's OTHER Airport". Very few people came to us for any information.

By and by, a group emerged and approached the Board with a concept of becoming a world class LEISURE HOLIDAY airport. The idea was very intriguing to me because that meant limited flights carrying a large amount of people and helped us not to compete with the big airport to the south for SCHEDULED domestic service. Also, we could be of tremendous service to millions of holiday travelers. Let's face it. Tourists (of which I am one several times a year) sometimes get mistreated in the international sections of large domestic airports. If you have ever landed behind several planes at JFK from Europe, LAX from the Pacific or MIAMI from South America or the Caribbean, you know what I mean. It can take hours to get out of the airport.

Lots of potential. A leisure passenger concept, a limited number of daily arrivals with lots of passengers (customers) given a great warm Sanford welcome and lots of new jobs for Sanford and North Seminole County. A win/win/win/win situation if I ever saw one.

Early on we were told that the Airport needed a new, more dynamic image if we were going to market more effectively and get any real business. Part of our "re-imagining" included the name change to ORLANDO SANFORD AIRPORT.

At the very next trade show we had long lines of tourist companies wanting to know everything about this new airport destination in Orlando. They didn't want any information about some peripheral airfield outside the Orlando area. This is a most important point! After leaving that show I was convinced more than ever that we did the right thing by changing our airport's name.

There are still some who would want to re-name us again to SANFORD ORLANDO AIR-PORT. Why, I cannot say. Every one of our major partners, Britannia, Leisure, Airtrous and Monarch has said it would be a great mistake to allow ourselves to look peripheral as the name implies. Do you really think of Washington, D.C. when you hear of Baltimore Washington Airport? Every consultant I have asked also said it would be a mistake.

ORLANDO SANFORD is to Orlando what Chicago Midway and Chicago O'Hare are to Chicago. Orlando Sanford is to Orlando what London Heathrow, London Gatwick and London Luton are to London. Orlando Sanford is to Orlando what Washington Dulles and Washington National are to Washington, D.C. There are countless other examples. Orlando is a world-wide icon. We need to capitalize on it!

Those who love Sanford, as I do, will recognize the progress we have made as we blend into the larger metro area while maintaining our own small town identity. ORLANDO SANFORD AIRPORT desperately wants to cooperate in a regional effort with the transportation demands that a growing tourist destination like ours brings. To change our name and lessen the image of our strategic location would be retrogressive and not in the best interest of Sanford and North Seminole County surrounding area, i.e. Low Density Residential. Of course we need apartments in Seminole County to house the many people who will be servicing our explosive growth, but usually a well thought out community will separate their finer homes with a buffer of condominiums, then perhaps duplexes and eventually apartments on the outskirts, closer to the malls and other infrastructure transit facilities need.

Therefore, it is with humbleness, that we ask the city of Sanford to turn down any requests for increasing dwelling density in this beautiful area of Sanford. These out-of-town developers do not live here like you and I. They will not experience a decrease in the quality of their neighborhood like you and I. No...they will simply transfer big profits to their hometown bank, add another site location to their slick paper brochures and never look back. Please don't let this happen!

We look forward to the continuing articles in the Sanford Herald detailing the many efforts to improve our community. We do not believe that ours is a "weak city commission", under Larry Dale's thumb as another newspaper depicted in its editorial of September 17. We all have our priorities and we put our future neighborhood and trust in you, commissioners.

In closing, we thank our city officials for all their past efforts on behalf of our many tax paying citizens. We realize your hours are long and your enumeration short for all that you do. But as Albert Schweitzer said, "There is nothing higher than human service. To work for the common good is the highest creed."

the people who are running for re-election get together and make sure that someone who is not running or who isn't up for re-election gets the job. Those are the people who have nothing to lose, or at least two years to repair the damage. If there are three members up for re-election, then it's simple to elect one of the two who are not running—whether they like it or not. If it is the two member election cycle, then the job to elect someone else is together...mind games sometimes are played to convince one of the three that they really want the job.

If you are beginning to get the picture that being chairman is not always an honor, you are right. Each elected official needs to decide whether the timing is right before accepting the nomination. That timing includes whether or not there are any dark clouds in the government's sky, whether your opponent is going to use your campaign committee against you if it is heavy with people who appear before you, or are suppliers of money essentially whether you can muster a three vote majority to get something done instead of looking like an ineffective captain at the helm of a rudderless ship.

The School Board has not dealt recently with the chair question in a campaign year. Contested elections of any kind on the School Board have still been low keyed and outshined by other contests for the County Commission or constitutional offices. Only since the switch to partisan in 1996 have elections become a little bit more visible. A campaign fund in the 1996 election over $15,000 was unheard of. Many were less than $10,000. This year may be the exception.

Sandy Robinson has been the chairman for a number of years. Her campaign staff of Ray Valdes and Dennis Dolger are veteran, experienced campaigners who will leave no rock unturned to assure that their candidate has enough money to win.

Jeanne Morris needs the chair to be visible—even if the school system is falling down around her.

Dr. Kuhn could be a choice—much like 4 years ago—because she's retiring. However, if the rumors about her running for Bob Stark's legislative seat are true, a running year as the chair won't help.

Don't count on the new guys getting much of a chance. Fullong has publicly stated that he will nominate Sandy Robinson. There's not much chance that the people running for re-election are going to let a critic like me set the agenda for a year when they are campaigning, so I am going to second the Robinson nomination. If Robinson votes for herself—it's a done deal...if she doesn't—how could she convince the voters that she is the best person when she won't even vote for herself to lead the Board?

To give you an example of the stakes on the County Commission side, the Warren Campaign spent over $175,000 in a losing cause in 1996. Commission Chair Dick Van der Weide had an early $54,000 in campaign funds in 1996. He qualified without opposition. Randy Morris and Win Adams are the people on the hot seat this year with opposition already announced. Morris hasn't even opened a campaign account yet. If he's not a player in the campaign for re-election, then he won't be a player for the chair either. Adams needs a miracle—any miracle—to survive his re-election run.

I believe Morris won't be given the chance to get re-elected, as chair even though Adams has announced early that he will support Morris. Van der Weide and Maloy won't support him. Van der Weide already has a full plate so count him out. Maloy is such a dark horse that his children are learning to read using his favorite story—National Velvet.

That leaves Darryl McLain in the catbird seat...if he decides to take the job. It's his for the taking.

Predictions—Robinson and McLain.

Red Bug rules at Halloween

By JEFF BERLINICK
Herald Staff Writer

All of the kids at Red Bug Elementary know the Red Bug rules.

Some kids who prepared for Halloween also know that Red Bug Rules!

Students in Vicki Harrington's art classes expressed their creativity by creating pumpkin characters selected from literature figures. Some of the designs included "Grumpy Grumpy Hobgoblin Sprite," "Willow Ghost," "By the Light of the Halloween Moon" and "Graveyard Ghost."

The pumpkin characters were sculpted with a variety of textures, materials, colors and fabrics to bring life to the figures.

Harrington said the kids were self-guided during their work and the pumpkins were appropriately displayed on Halloween in the media center.

Da Bomb hears all...

Da Bomb wonders why schools keep having mandatory pep rallies. One pep rally per season is great, but packing students into gyms like sardines isn't the most comfortable thing in the world.

After having been to a buncha homecomings over the past few years, nothing has ever impressed Da Bomb like the French Club float at the Lake Mary High parade this week. The students should be proud.

It's cool to root for your teams but some things are gettin' outta hand. That goes for some Lake Brantley volleyball supporters. Then again, Lyman wasn't exactly nice to Brantley earlier this year. Da Bomb sez, cool down. This is high school volleyball, not Civil War.

How 'bout that Oviedo Homecoming Parade this week? Da Bomb sez good job.

Aren't all y'all glad that there are religious fanatics organizing boycotts to get Howard Stern off the air? Da Bomb sez anyone who follows their boycotts is as narrow-minded as the religious fanatics behind the movement. Howard rules!

SAT's: It all comes down to two hours

By COURTNEY LEFFEW
Herald Correspondent

It's the test that divides the best students from the average ones.

For many high school students, Saturday mornings in October mean waking up at around 6:30 A.M. to get ready for a test that will determine their college direction. As the students head out the door, a quick check to make sure they have two number 2 pencils, a calculator which has to be approved by the SAT College Board, and the admissions ticket. Everything they have ever learned in the last 13 years of school has to be applied now.

The problem students face is trying to remember information from years ago when some have a hard time remembering last Friday night.

Once the student arrives at the test center, that's when the real stress starts to build and the sweat begins. After the test is handed out and everyone in the room is working at an extremely faster pace, many students have that sudden feeling of panic and emptiness.

The brain begins overloading, trying to remember formulas, analogies, and punctuation rules.

This test is what the college admission personnel look for and decide if a stu-

Business

Business

Joyanna Agency, Steve Schick and Casey Lane are the new owners of Cafe Sorrento in Lake Mary. The cafe, the oldest restaurant in downtown Lake Mary, will continue to serve Italian favorites.

Mike Haynes, assistant manager at the Sanford Wal-Mart, presented a check for $248 to Dede Schaffner, coordinator of community involvement for Seminole County schools for the Back to School Fair.

Loans fit capital business needs

At some point in the life of every small business additional capital is required. This need can take many forms such as bridge financing to fill a large contract or order. Sometimes it is the simple need to increase sales space or inventory. Very few businesses throw off enough cash to internally finance their growth.

Small Business
Wayne Hardy

Once you have identified your need, the hunt for money begins. The first step is usually your local bank where you have a checking account. Here is where the first of many mistakes occur. First and foremost you have to understand the mind set of a bank. Banks are not entrepreneurial risk takers, they do not want to be your partner in risk. In the most simple terms, the risk that they manage is the difference between what they pay for money and what they charge to loan it. That difference, in sufficient volume, and spread over a large number of clients will provide the return to the banks shareholders they desire.

The margin they manage doesn't allow the bank to make unsecured loans. So seen from that viewpoint imagine the reaction to a business owner who arrives with no written plan and very little security. Image as the advertisement say is everything. Your sales job begins the minute you approach the bank.

The bank's main concern first and foremost, is your ability to repay the loan within the proposed terms. This carries over in the bank's attitude toward your growth projections and your assumptions that a sales increase will carry the payments. They have to consider the fact that your projections might be incorrect and what that means toward repayment of the loan.

Repayment factors in very heavily in the lending decision. Your personal credit history and that of the business will be examined to discover your attitude and uses of credit. The security you offer will be examined to determine if it will protect the bank from losses. The hardest thing for many well meaning people to accept is that you will not receive a loan for just a good idea.

In most business start up loans, the bank is going to look and see if you have any cash of your own invested. Remember what I said, they are not risk takers, so therefore they are not going to provide the only funding. Many banks will not touch a proposal that doesn't contain at 30 percent of the owners money. This money must stay in the deal until the bank is repaid. That means you can't borrow it from family and pay it back as soon as you get your loan. If you do that, it is fraud and a band has redress against you.

You must prepare very carefully and plan your strategy to fund your business. Banks are in the business of making loans and will respond to solid proposals. Outside consultants abound to assist you in preparing your request. You can perform the same tasks yourself. The Small Business Center assists businesses with funding proposals all the time.

Tanning business celebrates, graduates earn certificates

From Staff Reports

November marks the 10th anniversary of Transformations. Along with tanning, Transformations has three medical weight loss centers under the direction of Linda Parker. Parker, a registered nurse has been a pioneer of the weight loss industry. When the Phen-Fen scare came into focus recently, the local news sought her out for advice. Talk radio stations also interviewed Parker. Transformations is located in The Oaks shopping center in Lake Mary.

Parker's Transformations Tanning Studio, located in the Lake Mary Center, announced its most recent graduates from the Association of Sun Education. Samantha Barnwell and Regina Ryan have received their certificates. Ryan and Barnwell were required to take a 200 question written test on U.V. light theory, State and local laws, sanitation/sterilization, skin theory and tanning equipment operations.

Tanning tips from Samantha Barnwell

1. Your lips contain melanin, use lip S.P.F. (at least a 15) to prevent chapping and burning.
2. Reduce sun exposure time when you experience signs of over exposure, such as itching or redness.
3. Remove cosmetics before tanning.
4. The best time to tan is after you exercise when the blood is closest to the skin.

Tanning Tips from Regina Ryan

1. If you are not one to exercise a lot like Samantha, tan after you shower when the skin is exfoliated. You will reach a high level of color also this way.

2. Moisturizing is the key to healthy tanning. Tanning equipment and natural sunlight dry out our skin. Keep your skin very moist before and after you tan to maximize your tan and combat aging and wrinkling.

3. Use tanning products which will provide your skin with the necessary ingredients to produce melanin.

4. There are so many products on the market. Transformations only carries the finest products to help you break through your tanning plateau. Come by and try a few. We have samples available.

Each staff member at Transformations has completed the Sun Education Certification Program.

Disposal of hazardous waste

Special to the Herald

Many communities are exploring options to help their residents collect and safely recycle or dispose of common household products that in larger quantities would be considered hazardous wastes. Services are now available to assist communities in developing and implementing collection programs for these household hazardous wastes.

A number of common products used in the home contain ingredients that are regulated as hazardous by the U. S. Environmental Protection Agency. These include oil-based and latex paints, paint thinners, used motor oil, antifreeze, batteries, chemical strippers, garden chemicals, fluorescent light bulbs and many other everyday products.

Safety-Kleen Corp., which has a branch service center in Orlando, recently initiated a Community Services Program to help public officials set up such programs for their residents.

Safety-Kleen offers communities a number of options, according to Ray Zimmerman. The company's "basic collection program" covers specific, common waste items such as used oil and oil filters, antifreeze and household paint. Other items may be included on a limited and pre-determined basis.

A second option is a "comprehensive collection" program. With this option, there are virtually no limitations on the types of wastes that residents can bring to the collection site.

A third option is available for communities that have well-established waste collection programs and permanent collection sites. Safety-Kleen provides cost-efficient transportation and processing services for such communities under its "contracted collection" program.

Homecoming '97: Lake Mary High

It was One Enchanted Evening as the theme for the Lake Mary Homecoming. Although the football game got tornadoed-out Friday, the students celebrated with a dance Saturday at the school and held a well-attended parade on Wednesday. The dance culminated a week of festivities.

Oviedo wasn't as lucky with its Homecoming parade Friday as it poured, but everybody had a good time, udent has want it takes to go to that university.

SAT

Who is to say that only smart students can pass the SAT test? Who is to say that students with a score of 1,200 are college bound and others can not make it?

A student with outstanding school involvement, a good GPA, and community activities can be college-bound also. There are many students that cannot handle the pressure of a stressful, three-hour, timed test.

The experience in whole does not teach students anything, does not help students, and, if anything, just makes their self-esteem decrease.

That kind of intense, overwhelming pressure is painful and not beneficial when they are trying to concentrate on a test that will decide the college a student will be attending next fall.

Many students have all the requirements for getting into a university except for the SAT test scores.

Why should colleges have the right to choose if a student is meant to attend their university by test scores? There is much more to going to college than passing a standardized exam. Some colleges may be passing over some wonderful students because of these requirements.

Many professors will explain that standard tests do not measure a person's intelligence, it only sees how a student can handle answering questions in a quick amount of time.

Some students also learn different tricks and ways to pass the test, instead of actually grasping the knowledge. Students spend their time watching helpful videos, reading trick books about passing the SAT and spending money going to SAT prep classes.

A student should not be penalized for not being able to receive a high score on the SAT test.

Sometimes the best students are the average ones. Too bad some colleges will never meet those students.

A Trick for that Halloween

SCARY NIGHT
Cornstalks and scarecrows, pumpkins, all aglow, skeletons, black cats everywhere you go!

Vampires lurking, spiders in a web, this would be a good night to go to bed!

With less than a month overhead, are seen the letters of my dear friends!

black students in the county until 1970 when the school came under a federal desegregation order. The school closed from 1980-83 when students were moved to Seminole High School. It reopened in 1984 and by 1986 began serving as an alternative secondary school for students experiencing difficulties in mainstream schools. Crooms also offers special programs such as Teenage Parent Program (TAPP) which is funded largely through grants. There are 31 portable classrooms on the campus of the school which serves about 500 students in grades 6 to 12. This year, Crooms graduated its first 23 students in 37 years.

During his tenure, Blacksheare said Crooms was fully accredited by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools and that in what he and the other members of SAC are striving for.

Blacksheare said he can't understand why the school board isn't pushing to get Crooms accredited. However, he said, knowing human nature its probably because of funding.

According to John Pavelchak, director of finance for the school district, total expenditures for the year for each student at Crooms was $6,489 versus $4,193 for students in the county's other high schools. That figure is based on a formula incorporating state and local funds. Crooms receives a larger amount of state funding for its special programs.

Blacksheare said he questioned what exactly that number represented because the funding formula was complicated and other factors could be involved.

Juanita Harold, a former Seminole County teacher for 41 years and also Blacksheare's secretary, said the school should remain academic as prescribed in federal guidelines. Referring to the recent graduates at Crooms, Harold said some of those students did not get into the college of their choice because Crooms was not accredited.

"We want it to be like the other schools in Seminole County," Harold said. In addition, she said many in the community feel the school board is trying to close the school.

Harold said she was a 1944 graduate of Crooms and there are many other Crooms graduates across the country such as lawyers, doctors and legislators in prominent positions.

"Crooms is a part of our history," she said. Harold said she feels the kids at Crooms are not properly encouraged and although the school is currently headed in the right direction, it still needs full accreditation.

At the school board work session Tuesday, several members of the community spoke of the need to accredit Crooms.

"Why can't it be the same as other high schools," said SAC vice chairman Robert Hilary. Hilary accused the board of beating around the bush, saying that if there were no money involved they would push for accreditation.

"You just don't want to put money into the black neighborhood," Hilary said.

Theresa Anderson, the mother of a Crooms student, said she wanted her daughter to experience things like the prom and school pictures like at regular high schools.

"Accreditation is key," said SAC member Willy King.

"All kids would rather have a traditional diploma," said Crooms Principal Hardy Blake.

Tom Marcy, director of secondary education for the school district, related SAC's concerns about accreditation to board members, the consensus of which agreed to pursue further information.

Marcy said for accreditation to occur certain standards may need to be adjusted and some additional books and facilities would probably need to be added. There may be a school audit required, however, he said he does not foresee any major items. Marcy said the process "would take some time."

The board will hold another work session. For more information, call 320-0000.

Crump's assertion is misleading

In response to your endorsement of Al Crump for Lake Mary City Commission, I believe the voters should be aware that Mr. Crump has been quoted to accuse anyone who is against Lake Mary's Economic Incentive Policy is for higher taxes.

Whether misinformed or mistaken, Mr. Crump's assertion is, at the very least, misleading. Opposing the concept of cash payments to corporations (a key aspect of Lake Mary's program) does not guarantee higher taxes any more than supporting it guarantees that taxes won't go up!

For this assertion to be correct, one must also believe that growth is paying for itself in Central Florida. Why then, according to a recently released report by Seminole Tax Watchers, does county debt stand at nearly $300 million, or about $2,800 per family of four? Isn't Seminole County one of the fastest growing counties anywhere? Why will it cost some $300 million to address the county's stormwater and drainage mess blamed on growth? Why isn't there a paved road to every Lake Mary household that wants one? Why don't Lynn buses stop in Lake Mary, where our seniors so badly need them? Why are Orange County residents being told they must have an increase in their sales tax? Why are Central Florida toll roads among the most expensive in the country? Why must we have toll roads at all?

Voters should take note that Al Crump believes anyone opposing economic incentives favors higher taxes. It's foolish to draw such a conclusion. Stating it as fact indicates either the shallowness of his understanding of the issues or the depths to which Mr. Crump will stoop to join the "bigger-is-better" government crowd which sees the threat of higher taxes to drum up support for pet projects.

what a boost that was."

Leonard Stone, 91, is returning from Barefoot Bay to compete in 10 events - everything from swimming, track & field to basketball and long-range golf driving. He's fresh from winning a gold medal last week for the 3-mile race/walk in the Claude Pepper Foundation event at Tallahassee. He's the oldest competitor in this year's Golden Age Games.

This summer, Stone won five medals - one gold, three silver and one bronze - in the National Senior Games in Tucson, Ariz. Stone said there were only a handful of age 80 or over competitors. "I pride myself in competing against the 80-year-olds," Stone said. "Sometimes,

I win. Sometimes, I don't. The idea is to try. I love competing."

It takes effort to stay in shape, said Stone who is 6-foot-3, 180 pounds at age 91. "That's a goal in itself - staying in shape. A fellow can't expect to compete at this age unless he has kept himself in decent shape."

Jim Gunster of DeBary has competed 18 years in Golden Age Games and is ready for another go. He's been a gold medalist in golf and bowling. He played a big role on the planning board that brought the bowling events to Deltona Lanes in Orange City.

"The location is good for everyone," said Gunster, 70. "We have a lot of people competing in Volusia County. And we get people from Leesburg, Lake and Marion counties. They come from all over."

Gunster has been busy the past week helping all the Golden Age competitors check in at the Sanford Civic Center.

One of the favorites at the Games the last 15 years won't be able to compete this year. DeBary resident Peg Richards, who'll be 105 years young in January, can't make the Games. "She'll be missed," said Lisa Jones, the event chairman. "Peg's been a wonderful part of the Golden Age Games."

Richards on Friday offered this advice to those who are competing: "Just follow your dreams."

can reapply for an extension.

This new hire will allow the department to augment our existing 'Community Oriented Policing' concept to further efforts in establishing viable crime prevention programs that foster cooperation between our community residents and law enforcement personnel," said Casselberry Police Chief Durbin Gatch.

The new position is expected to be filled from a list of available candidates within 90 days.

In August, the department used $28,000 in federal grant funds, and $2,900 in matching city funds, to purchase high tech equipment. The largest expenditure was made on a Solar Mobile Traffic Monitor designed to facilitate police efforts in promoting speed limit compliance. These monitoring devices allow motorists to see their speed from 1,100 feet away. It also lets them know that they are being watched. The device also doubles as a traffic counter recording traffic volume, speed, length and vehicle type.

The department also purchased five gasoline powered generators. The generators are used in the case of powering any of the city's critical intersections' traffic signals during severe weather, natural disasters or major power outages. The department was also able to secure an 8 by 12-foot tandem trailer to keep and transport the generators. The trailer is also capable of transporting three of the department's Harley motorcycles for special assignments.

The remaining monies went to purchase five traffic radar quired through a joint effort by SJRWMD, the State of Florida Department of Agriculture and Consumer Affairs, Division of Forestry, Seminole County and CARL - Conservation And Recreation Lands program. Efforts are ongoing to acquire more land that will eventually connect to the recently purchased property. The overall project will one day cover 15,540 acres. Seven miles of the Econ River are within state forest boundaries.

There are 12 miles of hiking, biking and equestrian trails in the forest. A trail system the river, lies at the end of a 300-foot boardwalk built by the forest service last year.

Other activities in the forest include bird watching, picnicking and nature study. Primitive camping is allowed with a special use permit.

There are a wide variety of resident and migratory birds and waterfowl that use the forest. These include sandhill cranes, roseate spoonbills, bald eagles ospreys and hawks. There are also sightings of deer and turkey.

The Little Big Econ State Forest is one of 34 forests in Florida. The system encompasses more than 600,000 acres.

The addition of the office complex at the Little Big Econ will showcase one of the DOP's missions, Martin said, to "present a true picture of the importance of Florida's forests and promote the renewal of these resources through education and public information."

To get to the state forest, take State Road 48 East, to Geneva. Turn left on to County Road 438 and veer left at the fork, onto Snowhill Road. The forest, signposted, will be on the right.

Sportswriting is not always champagne and roses

SANFORD It's usually fun to be a sports-writer. Ninety-nine percent of the time, we talk to the winners, the ones who just got a date with the best-looking cheerleader for catching the winning touchdown pass or hitting the game-winning basket.

Sometimes, there are the girls' basketball players who win by 800 points without getting a hair out of place or even a female soccer player with mud all over her face but who scored three goals on the night.

There is a lot of fun in talking to a Lake Brantley baseball player, a Lyman lacrosse player, a Seminole football player or a Lake Mary girls' basketball player. They are the winners who strut around campus in their cool jackets, passing bulletin boards with their own names in headlines.

But when you are a sportswriter, it isn't always fun. Sometimes you deal with a team that can't get it untracked.

Sometimes the wins aren't there and you have to find a nice way to write about yet another loss.

That was the feeling I had last year when I saw a good man, Ernie McPherson, then the coach of the Seminole football team, walk off the field as the losses mounted and his players kept dreaming that maybe, just maybe, next week all that practice would pay off.

Coch Mac isn't at Seminole anymore but I'll never forget him shouting out, "We work too hard," before the Tribe won its first game last season.

That's the feeling I get with the Lake Mary football team. Last night, I went to Lake Mary for Homecoming against one of the best teams in the state, Jacksonville White. It was an obvious mismatch, one team undefeated and basically using the game as a tune-up for the state playoffs against a Rams' team that has looked good at times, awful at others, just looking to break into the win column in the midst of a nine-game losing streak.

That's when being a sportswriter is hard. It's fun to talk to the winners. They always have a happy answer as their girlfriends and parents hang on their arms and Gatorade drips from the hair of their coaches.

It's not quite so much fun to walk up to a Coach Mac or a Doug Peters after a loss that extends another losing streak.

Try asking a Lake Mary football player after another loss exactly what happened.

It's not easy, especially when you see tears coming from a 6-foot-5, 290 pound lineman in his senior season who is just trying to get that one last win, a win he'll be able to remember for the rest of his life as he moves on knowing he'll never wear shoulder pads again.

You should see the way the Rams practice. The intensity is still there. It is a team that hasn't quit.

I happened to be a judge at the Lake Mary Homecoming parade the other day. I expected a morbid scene. I mean, after all, how can people get excited about Homecoming when the team is 0-7?

Still, the parents and students lined up as the floats and players went by.

The Pop Warner Rams watched the truck carrying the Lake Mary football team as if they were the Dallas Cowboys.

I remember the smiles on the face of the players as they wore their uniform shirts with pride. It should have occurred to anyone watching that the Lake Mary football team isn't 0-7 as much as it is undefeated in the lessons of life. Even if there is a player on the team that sees 0-7 and lost a step in his intensity, that doesn't mean he's a loser or the Rams are losers. They are high school kids trying to have fun.

Some never will play football again. Others will suit up at a university next fall. Colleges notice whether the team is 7-0 or 0-7.

I got some calls from so-called "fans" wondering why Lake Mary was playing such a good team for Homecoming. I also imagine a lot of people were happy to see last night's game canceled for tornado warnings, glad to see Lake Mary not on the end of a lopsided score.

Just last week, I got a call from some silly

Seminole spoils Oviedo's Homecoming

By TONY DeBORNER

OVIDEO As someone who supposedly knows such things once said, it's not quantity, but quality that counts.

Seminole High School's football team, all of 30 players strong, provided another piece of evidence in support of that claim, laying a 38-12 spanking on the home-standing Oviedo Lions Friday night at Oviedo's John Courier Field.

The Fighting Seminoles came into the Seminole Athletic Conference clash even more short-handed than their short roster might suggest -- fullback Joe Knight sat out Friday night's game with a strained left medial collateral ligament.

Tribe coach Jim Worthington turned to sophomore Clarence Latimer, who had been on the

Newcomers raise expectations at SCC

By DEAN SMITH
Herald Sports Editor

SANFORD A new era in women's basketball will open play in Sanford this coming Tuesday night.

For the past several seasons, the Lady Raiders from Seminole Community College have been working very hard to establish a tradition of winning and academic excellence and to attract fan support from the local community.

Now after two years of advancing all the way to the Region VIII Championships (state tournament), and a great recruiting year, the Raiders are looking for bigger things.

And at the head of these "bigger things" is 7-foot-0 freshman Jaana Kotova from Tallinn, Estonia.

Kotova is only the second seven-footer in SCC history, the other being Lea Britton from Lyman High School back in the mid-70's. She is taller than anyone playing in either of the new women's professional basketball leagues, which should bring a lot of attention to the local junior college.

"Jaana may be two or three years away from meeting her maximum potential," said SCC head coach Ken Patrick, who will be starting his third season at the helm of the Raiders. "However, she will be a force inside. She has an excellent shooting touch...and range. Her only 'challenge' is, she is too nice!"

But Kotova is far from the only new talent on the team.

The player who may be the best (triumphing) player is Daria Kudryvtseva, a 5-foot-7 shooting guard from St. Petersburg, Russia.

Daria is a "big time" player from the Russian National Team," said Patrick. "She is one of the hardest workers I have ever recruited and she has mastered the 'four' point shot in a recent jamboree, she was three-of-six, and all of them were from way past the three-point line. She has the skills of a college senior at 17-years-old. Her goal is the WNBA (Women's National Basketball Association) and I put my money on her making it."

Patrick also has brought in a pair of forwards from Sweden in 5-foot-11 sophomore Izzy Medhanie (Stockholm) and 5-foot-10 freshman Therese Westergren (Lidingo).

All of the Raiders' talent is not from overseas either as Patrick has signed some impressive local talent. Among them are:

• Maggie Reedy, a guard who helped lead Lake Mary High School to the state finals last year.

• Jennifer Sweeney, a 6-foot-2 forward who scored 17 points and pulled down six rebounds per game last year while earning first-team All-State honors at Cocoa Beach High School last year.
See SCC, Page 2B

Anternee "Penny" Hardaway (above) scored 31 points, pulled down eight rebounds and had three assists, while Rony Seikaly (No. 4, left) had 28 points and 11 rebounds, but their efforts were not enough as the Magic lost their season opener 105-99 to the Atlanta Hawks Friday night at the Orlando Arena. The Magic now go on the road to play the Boston Celtics, which upset the Chicago Bulls Friday night, tomorrow (Sunday) at 7 p.m. The game can be seen locally on WKCF 18.

Magic falls in season opener

By DAVID FRAZIER
Herald Staff Writer

ORLANDO If the Orlando Magic would have played as good as FAMU's band Friday night, there could have been two reasons to sound trumpets at the Orlando Arena.

The Magic dropped their home opener Friday night to the visiting Atlanta Hawks, 105-99.

The Magic never led throughout the whole game. And their woes started in the first quarter where the interior defense fell apart.

The Hawks scored on the Magic 22-10 in the paint. By the end of the game it had improved but the Hawks had already stitched a cushion for themselves and the confidence was swinging their way. The Hawks ended the first quarter leading the Magic 30-18.

Rony Seikaly proved to be a help on offense as he led all scorers after the first half with 21 points. Even though Penny Hardaway ended the game with 31, Seikaly gave new Magic head coach Chuck Daly some answer to the problems he is facing on offense.

Hardaway, playing on a knee bothered by tendinitis, said "I'm going to have to score 25 to 30 a night for us even to have a chance (to win) because we're still out of rhythm offensively and defensively we're going to have to step it up on the double."

Hardaway said that part of his team's problem might have been attributed to getting used to their new teammate Mark Price, who was recently acquired from the Golden State Warriors in exchange for guard Brian Shaw and forward David Vaughn.

The Hawks scoring was evenly distributed with Steve Smith scoring 22 and a healthy 20 points Seminole junior varsity team. Lattimer responded with 152 yards rushing on 27 carries and four touchdowns.

"Joe couldn't play tonight, so someone had to step up," said Worthington. "In fact, the whole team stepped it up tonight. It seems like we're getting back to that peak of execution where we were the first few weeks of the season."

"We keep improving each week. That's all we can ask."

As a team, the Seminoles rushed 54 times for 291 yards. While two of the Tribe's touchdowns were set up by Oviedo turnovers, Seminole had three touchdown drives of 60 yards or more each taking a minimum of 10 plays.

After building a 17-12 lead in the first half, the Seminoles blanked the Lions 21-0 in the second half, limiting Oviedo to 15 offensive plays over the final two quarters.

With his Seminole squad facing a 5A-District 5 championship-deciding game against state-ranked Mainland next Thursday, Worthington was thoroughly pleased with his team's performance.

"Playing a strong team like Oviedo before having to play Mainland next week definitely helps us," said Worthington. "They (the Lions) played Mainland tough before losing a couple of weeks ago. And we came out tonight and dominated the line of scrimmage, so we feel good about our chances against Mainland."

Beyond that, Worthington was glad to see that the 'Noles showed definite signs of improvement over their performances the last several weeks.

"We're 7-1, but we really haven't been playing that well recently," Worthington said. "We're starting to get back to the level of play where we were earlier in the season."

"I think we thought that we could play with Mainland before tonight. But now I believe that they believe they can beat Mainland. Beating a good team like Oviedo like this cemented that in their minds."

Perhaps the most interesting contest of the evening was an administrative one concerning when or if the game was going to be played.

Oviedo, which was celebrating its homecoming, wanted to postpone the game to Saturday afternoon because of the severe weather that moved through the area around 8 p.m. Friday. Worthington was having none of that.

"Our most important game of the season is next Thursday at Mainland," said Worthington. "We're already facing a short week because we're playing on Thursday. I want to make sure we're ready to play Mainland. There was no way we were going to play Saturday."

As it turned out, the start of the game was pushed back about 30 minutes. While the rain stopped completely before the end of the first quarter, the damage had been done -- what was expected to be a large crowd for a homecoming game between the teams with the best records in Seminole County was reduced to a little more than a handful.

While Seminole is guaranteed a berth in the Class 5A state playoffs regardless of Thursday's outcome, Oviedo has to rebound from Friday night's thrashing and get ready for its game with Lake Brantley next Friday -- the winner of that contest advances to the playoffs as the 6A-District 3 runner-up.

After forcing Oviedo to punt on its first series,

* Stacy Thompson - a 5-foot-8 guard who averaged 20 points per game for Spruce Creek High School and was named the Volusia County Player of the Year last year.

* Chunita Lee - a 5-foot-10 forward from Titusville who was the Cape Coast Conference Player of the Year.

* Jennifer Sweeney - a 6-foot-2 forward from Cocoa Beach.

* Crystal Tanner - a 5-foot-5 guard from Westville who is a tenacious defensive player.

Add in returning players Gemma Riley (a 5-foot-6 guard from Tampa who is extremely quick and had some big games for SCC last year as the back-up point guard) and Winsome Clark (a 5-foot-7 guard from the Bronx, New York who had some big scoring games for the Raiders last year in limited action) and you have the nucleus of a potentially excellent team.

But despite the obvious talent, this is still a young and inexperienced team.

"We have the potential to return to the Region VII Championships in March," said Patrick. "However that is in the hands of the players. It has to be THEIR GOAL."

Local fans can get their first look at the 1997-98 Raiders this Tuesday as SCC opens its season with a 6 p.m. matchup with Manatee Community College from Bradenton. Their is no charge to attend the games, which are played at the SCC Health and Education Center.

After home opener, the Raiders will travel to Central Florida Community College in Ocala to play Brevard (North Carolina) College at 6 p.m. on Friday (Nov. 7) and Wesleyan (Ill.) College at noon on Saturday before returning home to play St. Petersburg Community College on Tuesday, November 11, Hillsborough Community College from Tampa on Thursday, November 13 (both at 6 p.m.) and Miami-Dade Community College at Kendall on Sunday, November 16th at 2 p.m.

In addition to the strong Mid-Florida Conference schedule that begins in January, the Raiders will host the Health-

South Classic on November 21-22 that will feature Central Florida Community College (ranked third in the National Poll) against Gulf Coast Community College (ranked No. 2 in the state pre-season poll behind CPCC) and SCC against always strong Palm Beach Community College.

Other impressive games on the schedule include the Canadian National Team coming to Sanford on December 30th and the Raiders traveling to Pensacola Junior College on December 7th.

How does Patrick feel the Raiders will do this year?

"As I said earlier, predictions are a team thing," said Patrick. "It mostly depends on the goals the team sets and the effort they are willing to put forth. The talent of the players is as good as we have ever had, so I'm optimistic."

"My goal for a successful season will be to equal or better our ninth place national standing academically in junior colleges. That will mean graduation...and that's what this is all about. Maybe one more goal...helping Valencia Community College realize its grave mistake in axing athletics. There are more and more opportunities in the 'Business of Sports' than ever before. We are helping to train people to prepare for those lucrative jobs."

coming off the bench from Alan Henderson. Point guard Mookie Blaylock delivered the ball 13 times for the Hawks.

Dikembe Mutombo supplied the rebounding charge for the Hawks with 12 total and 10 coming off the defensive end. The disparity with rebounding was enough to concern Daly as the battle of the boards was won by the Hawks 43-29.

The Magic were able to tie the score three times in the second half but never could pull ahead as the Hawks maintained their composure and pulled away from the Magic within the last three minutes.

"They took it to us," said Daly. "They out executed us. They took the game away."

IN BRIEF

Youth hoop registration
SANFORD - The Sanford Recreation Department, through Winning Ways Basketball Academy at Sanford, is now offering youth basketball to children in grades Kindergarten through 12.

For the first time the Recreation Department will offer two divisions: a Recreation Division and a Prime Time Division, and will also allow players to register individually or as a team.

The Recreation Division will be for grades kindergarten through eighth, while the Prime

Time Division will consist of a Blue Division and White Division, a High School Division and a Girls' Division for players in grades six through eighth.

Registrations will be accepted at the Downtown Youth Center in the Lower Level of Sanford City Hall.

Among the important dates to remember will be:

Friday, November 14 - coaches clinic at Sanford Middle School at 7 p.m.

Saturday, November 15 - Player Placement at Sanford Middle School at 9 a.m.

December 1-5 - Jamboree at Sanford Middle School.

December 6 - regular season games begin at Sanford Middle School.

Seminole mounted a 92-yard, 16-play drive culminating in Dean Howard's 1-yard touchdown run. The Lions countered with a drive that led to Jamie Scott's 14-yard scoring dash. But Oviedo failed on the extra point, leaving the Tribe up 7-6.

A fumbled punt led to the Tribe's second touchdown. Lattimer's first, at 2:16 of the second quarter. Jason Armstrong, who converted the extra points, kicked a 38-yard field goal for Seminole a minute later.

Oviedo sliced into the lead just before halftime as Scott sprinted 64 yards for a touchdown as time expired. The Lions' attempt for the two-point conversion failed.

That was as close as Oviedo got; Seminole (7-1, 3-1 SAC) scored three of the four times it had the ball -- on runs of 2, 8, and 1 yard by Lattime -- before running out the clock with its fourth series.

Howard contributed 94 yards to the Seminole rushing attack. Tim Raines Jr. added 37 yards on four carries. Quarterback Garrett Goldsmith completed three of six passes, all to Erick Smith, for 44 yards.

Providing the bulk of the offense for the Lions (5-3, 3-1 SAC) were Scott (111 yards on nine carries), Kevin Quinter (seven rushes for 33 yards), quarterback Josh Cullen (4-for-8 passing, 44 yards), and Jorge Munroe (two catches, 17 yards).

What's Up in the NFL 1997... Week 10

SANFORD - Welcome back football fans. It's Week Ten and we've got a lot to talk about.

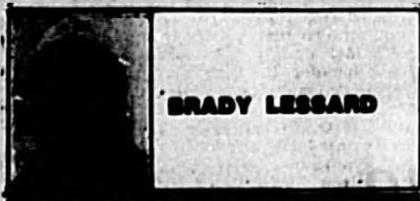

First and foremost, I think it is important to note that my patented LOCK OF THE WEEK came through with no problem last week as the Tennessee Oilers thrashed the Arizona Cardinals on the road. As promised, the Oilers, as underdogs, had the game put away by the second quarter in route to a 45-14 victory.

This raises my season LOCK record to an impressive 8-1. I hesitate to "toot my own horn," but I have never heard of anyone that has delivered on such a regular basis. My satisfaction however is not dependent on the receipt of accolades, but the knowledge that I am helping my readers understand, and "invest" in the N.F.L. with confidence.

As we look around Florida, the Sunshine State came up with a big goose egg as the Dolphins, Jaguars, and Bucs fell to defeat last week.

The Dolphins proved their mediocrity as they allowed the worst offense in the League to overcome a 15 point deficit with less than eight minutes to go in the game. Jimmy Johnson has a real problem. This team is not incredibly young or cheap, this being the case, they are years away from being contenders.

The Jaguars had their game won with some good breaks early. The Steelers had key early turnovers that the Jags were able to capitalize on, but still failed to get the win. It's impossible to stress just how important that game was, but towards the end of the season fans will look back at this one in disgust.

Now to the Bucs. What happened to the Boys by the Bay is still a mystery to this writer. After a 5-0 start, they finally looked like they may have what it takes to play at the next level. They have lost their last three, and many have dropped the team like bad habits. I have not, and the three game winning streak they will start tomorrow puts them back in the driver's seat.

BUFFALO (-2)
VS MIAMI

The Bills' defense looked awesome against the high-powered offense of the Broncos last week, and the Dolphins defense looked terrible in their loss to the Bears.

This rivalry always means one thing...do not bet the game. Bills 23, Dolphins 17.

MINNESOTA (-1)
VS NEW ENGLAND

I wasn't surprised at all that the Packers beat the Patriots last week. The Packers finally have all cylinders running and the Patsies were their first victim. I know the Vikings aren't great, but they are at home. Vikings 24, Patriots 17.

CINCINNATI (EVEN)
VS SAN DIEGO

Another heartbreaking loss for the Bengals last week has left this team in a quandary. Blake has done all he can to keep this team competitive, but without a defense, this is a futile effort.

Finally they got a team that has even more problems than themselves. Take Blake. Bengals 24, Chargers 23.

NEW YORK (-5) VS BALTIMORE

When will the Ravens get some respect? They beat a very good Redskins team last week, and end up as underdogs to the Jets? That's just not right.

Vinny Testaverde will come in (throwing the ball, while the Jets will concentrate on the run, the classic struggle between the Yin and the Yang. I'll take the Yang every time. Ravens 23, Jets 21.

ATLANTA (-3)
VS ST. LOUIS

The Rams are another team that can't seem to get the respect they may or may not deserve.

The Falcons play tough at home, but a friend of mine in Vegas claims that there is a trend clearly stating the Rams are a great bet. I'm not so sure. Falcons 23, Rams 20.

TAMPA BAY (-4)
AT INDIANAPOLIS

The Bucs are in desperate need of a win to get back on track. The Colts are in desperate need of the season ending early. They are terrible, there is nothing else to it. Bucs 28, Colts 19.

SAN FRANCISCO (-8) VS DALLAS

The Cowboys stink, the Niners are great. It does not take a rocket scientist to determine that if you are planning to bet this game take the Niners.

Last week's loss to the Eagles may be it for Barry "Bartender" Switzer. My hat goes off to Steve Young, he's a man's man. Niners 28, Cowboys 19.

DENVER (-9)
VS SEATTLE

My Seahawks are continuing to shock everybody as they have climbed to 5-3. The Broncos are looking to blow somebody out, but Seattle is not an easy target.

Take the points in this one, I could even see the Seahawks doing the unthinkable...beating Denver at Denver. Broncos 32, Seahawks 20.

TENNESSEE (NO LINE) VS JACKSONVILLE

The Oilers did me right last week as they came through as my LOCK selection. The Jaguars won't be an easy next victim, but they will be a victim.

The Oilers, as I've been saying all along, are a much better team than most people think. I'm not sure what the reason is for no line being announced, but it should be close to even. Take the Oilers. Oilers 29, Jaguars 20.

KANSAS CITY (-3) VS PITTSBURGH

The Chiefs are looking pretty good, and they are tough at home, but the Steelers look like they are finally full strength.

Granted Kordell Stewart has a long way to go, but his speed will be too much for the Chiefs defense to contain. Steelers 23, Chiefs 19.

Each week I issue what I consider to be the best pick against the spread in the schedule.

My patented LOCK OF THE WEEK selections have returned winners eight out of nine weeks this year, and will most likely continue to do the same.

Tomorrow I'm going with the CINCINNATI BENGALS (-1) OVER THE SAN DIEGO CHARGERS. The Bengals are due for a big win, and have so much talent on offense that even a decent defense would send this team to the playoffs.

woman (gutsy, she refused to give her name), asking me when I was going to write a story about what was wrong with the Lake Mary football team and all the problems it was experiencing.

Oce, I should have told her, why don't you call 60 Minutes and have Mike Wallace show up at the door to the school and do a Pulitzer Prize-winning expose.

That sure will prove something, won't it?
The problems are simply that it is a young team that hasn't meshed. It hasn't stopped trying and a game against Ed White looked as Homecoming and some irrational fans got upset at the thought of another loss.
But I'll bet the players wanted a shot at Ed White. If the effort is there, losing can be a noble cause, and a win would have made Homecoming perfect.

Don't look at the win-loss records. Look at the desire and the dreams of a bunch of kids too young to vote. That's high school football.

Being a sportswriter isn't always fun, but there are just as many winners on Lake Mary as there are on any other team and that's the ultimate story.

Last Second Shot: The Lake Mary girls' volleyball team was simply unbeatable the other night. They were Nolan Ryan throwing a perfect game. Emmitt Smith running for five touchdowns. Michael Jordan doing anything. A perfect hook from Ali.

NEW SMYRNA SPEEDWAY
OCTOBER 25, 1997
33RD ANNUAL GOVERNOR'S CUP LATE MODEL CHAMPION-

Jones honored as SAFWA Officer of the Year for 1997

SANFORD - The Southeastern Association of Fish and Wildlife Agencies recognized Wildlife Officer H. Danton Jones as the 1997 Officer of the Year during its annual meeting. Jones, who also is Florida's Officer of the Year, captured the honor October 7 during a conference in Oklahoma City. The committee of law enforcement chiefs voted unanimously for him.

OUTDOORS
JIM SHUPE

Jones said attending the conference was reward enough.
"I wasn't concerned with winning or losing. I was happy being among the top officers. I think it's a high honor to be among other state agency officers who are considered the best. I had no idea I would be selected," he said.

The 18-year veteran of the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission (OFC) is known for his professionalism and thoroughness on the job.

Col. Robert Edwards, director of the OFC's Law Enforcement Division, said, "Throughout his career, Officer Jones has set a standard of conduct which reflects motivation, versatility, and ethical value. He is a credit to our agency and his actions demonstrate a strong commitment to making a difference as a wildlife officer. We are very fortunate to have him as a part of our team."

The 47-year-old Jones graduated from the OFC's Law Enforcement Training Academy in 1979. He has worked as a police officer in both the civilian and military communities. Jones has spent most of his career patrolling central Florida, primarily at Ocala National Forest, east Marion County and Volusia County, where he patrolled the St. Johns River.

"Officer Jones has been very successful in combining sound law enforcement techniques with excellent public relations skills," Edwards said.

The wildlife officer said he is fortunate to have one of the best jobs ever created.

"Being recognized for your accomplishments makes you feel like you make a difference," he said. "I am proud to represent my agency and the state."

The Vietnam veteran spends his free time working with disabled veterans and the local Veterans of Foreign Wars post. He gets veterans involved in community activities, such as Project Eagle and fishing derbies. He also is an advocate of protecting native American burial mounds and historical sites.

Jones and his wife, Angela, live in Sparr with their twin children, Christopher and Brittany.

SHUPE'S SCOOP
WILDLIFE OFFICERS ARE OFTEN UNAPPRECIATED. THEY ARE RESPONSIBLE FOR COVERING TREMENDOUS TERRITORIES. AND THERE IS A DISTURBING TREND TOWARDS THEM FACING VIOLENCE AT THE HANDS OF VIOLATORS IN THE LINE OF DUTY.

FISHING FORECAST

Expect bass action to be better with the cooler weather. High waters, however, have made fish more difficult to locate. During periods of high water, I prefer to fish areas with distinct boundaries. In flooded areas, bass are scattered and hard to pattern. For the remainder of this year, large shiners will produce the majority of bass over eight pounds. The river from Puzzle Lake south to Lake Winder is a good area to find lunker bass.

Sebastian Inlet is featuring good action with snook to 20 pounds. Large live shrimp fished with a plain lead head jig is a hard combination to beat for sure action. Also expect small snapper, redfish, flounder, jack crevalle and a few trout.

Captain Jack at Port Canaveral reports that high seas have kept most boats in Port. King mackerel are still roaming A Reef and Pelican Flats. Dolphin and Wahoo are scattered. Inside the Port, flounder and sheepshead are providing steady action. Trout and redfish are rated as fair on the flats of the Banana and Indian Rivers.

Big sheepshead and bluefish are the main attraction at Ponce Inlet. Live shrimp and fiddler crabs are favorite sheepshead baits, while bluefish will hit just about anything. In fact, it is hard to find a lure or bait they won't attack. Drum, redfish, and jack crevalle are also present around the rocks. Trout and redfish are rated as good in Moquito Lagoon.

Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission Auxiliary Check Stations

OCALA - In an effort to more conveniently serve hunters using the Ocala and Lake George wildlife management areas (WMA's), the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission (OFC) will provide 12 auxiliary deer check stations in addition to the check stations known as North and South Hunt.

All deer taken from Ocala or Lake George WMA shall be checked and tagged at a check station prior to being dismembered or transported out of the hunt area. By checking their deer through one of the stations, hunters greatly assist biologists by providing information that helps them manage deer populations.

During the general gun (Nov. 8-23 at Lake George WMA; and Nov. 8-Jan 4 at Ocala WMA) seasons, auxiliary check stations will be operated in conjunction with private businesses at:

- OCALA WMA
- * The 88 Store - FR 88, south of CR 318
- * Advantage Sports Center - NE SR 19, Salt Springs
- * Kelly's Country Store - NE CR 314, Scrambletown
- * Harvey's Sporting Goods - NE CR 314A, Lynne
- * Forest Hills Grocery - CR 42, Forest Hills
- * Eureka General Store - CR 316, Eureka
- * Paisley Variety Store - CR 42 East, Paisley
- * Country Store - Panther Road and CR 445
- * Nuby's Texaco - SR 40 and CR 314
- LAKE GEORGE WMA
- * Pine Island Campground & Marina - Lake George Drive, Seville
- * South Moon Fish Camp - South Moon Road, Astor
- * Speedway 7 to 11 - Junction of SR 11 and SR 40, DeLeon Springs
- North Hunt check station will be open in November from 8th-30th. During December and January it will be open only on Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays. North Hunt is located on CR 316 at FR 88.
- South Hunt is located at Big Scrub Campground on FR 588 and FR 573.

Billy B. and Shirley Ryan 50 years ago

Shirley C. and Billy B. Ryan observed their 50th wedding anniversary on Oct. 30. However, the popular Sanford couple will celebrate with a family reunion on Nov. 8 at the same church in which they were married, North Highlands Presbyterian Church, Hueytown, Ala. in 1947. Dr. Edward Ramage was the officiating clergyman.

Family and friends from Florida, Louisiana and Alabama will arrive to join in the festivities. This gathering will mark the third time the couple have exchanged wedding vows - with each other, that is. They also reaffirmed their vows on their 25th wedding anniversary at the First Baptist Church with Dr. Jay Cosmato, church pastor at the time, officiating.

The couple have three sons: Billy Jr., Robertsdale, Ala.; Ronald, Deltona; and Richard, Sanford. There are four grandchildren.

A veteran of World War II, Billy served 21 years in the U.S. Navy and retired as Senior Chief at Sanford Naval Air Station in 1968. His second career was with Metropolitan Insurance for 10 years and later as superintendent of maintenance for the First Baptist Church in Sanford. He serves on the board of directors for Pine Ridge Club Condominiums on Airport Boulevard. Billy enjoys fishing, golf and travel. The family has lived on Guam, Hawaii, California and other parts of call during Billy's tour of duty.

"Music has been my whole life," Shirley said. She has been singing in the choir of the First Baptist Church for more than 30 years. She was in charge of entertainment for the Glowing Embers of the church, directed a choir at SNAS and arranges entertainment for the Pine Ridge Club. She is also a former employee of Kempke Music in Longwood.

The Ryans have had a very happy life together, and yes, they would marry each other again - which they will prove on Nov. 8 when the say "I do" once more.

THE ROYERS CELEBRATE GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY

When Gertrude and Donald D. Royer celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on July 10, they informed their two children that that did not want any form of formal observance. However, they celebrated with a daughter and her family, Connie and Mike Smith, at the Steak and Ale in Maitland, and with their other daughter and family, Colleen and Joe Waldrop in Tennessee.

The Royers were married July 10, 1947 in Chattanooga, Tenn. and settled in Sanford in 1959. They are well-known in the Central Florida area. Donald was in the Purina business in Waynesboro, Va. when the family moved to Florida. He owned Burger King on U.S. 17-92 in Sanford for about 10 years, and owned and developed the highway property across the street. He also built Burger King on 17-92 in Casselberry which he later sold.

The couple made their home in Sanford for a number of years where they raised their daughters. They were members of the First Presbyterian Church of Sanford and Donald was a member of the local Jaycees.

Gertrude helped her husband in his business ventures and took care of the family. Since their retirement, the Royers have traveled all over the United States and have been on 15 cruises, Connie said. They make their home in Maitland and have a summer home near Asheville, N.C.

Connie said her family loves Florida and has no desire for foreign travel. They are a very close-knit family and enjoy each other. "We're pretty basic," Connie said. "Laid back and old-fashioned."

Bentley, author and historian, signs books at reception

The Central Florida Chapter of the International Black Women's Congress and The Sanford Housing Authority hosted a reception and book-signing in honor of author and community leader and historian, Altermese Smith Bentley.

An evening of historical facts was given as over 50 citizens and book lovers gathered to listen to Sanford's great historian. She enlightened the audience with pertinent information written in the three books she authored. Namely "Georgetown, The History of a Black Neighborhood", "History of First South Florida Missionary Baptist Association, 1865-1968", and "A Comprehensive History of the Progressive Missionary and Educational Baptist State Convention of Florida, Inc."

paid tribute to their father on his 63rd birthday. Born Oct. 27, 1914 in Eatonton, Georgia, Scott celebrated the natal day at a Sunday dinner held at Quincy's. His birthday was shared with his children, 25 grands, 7 great-grands and 11 guests including special friend, Myley Griffen.

The children are: L. A. Scott,

Lake Monroe; Maybell S. King, Halley, New York; Earnest Annie S. Williams; Katie S. Robinson, Lake Monroe; Alvenia S. Brown, Syracuse, New York; Robert Scott; Gloria S. Cummings; Johnnie; Connie S. Brown; Edwin Scott, Lake Monroe who all dedicated a poem to their dad entitled, "To Dad." "For all of the hugs you gave us and all of the love you shared, For every little sacrifice that showed just how much you cared, For all of the adventures that helped to make us grow, For all of the things you let us do and for sometimes saying, "NO". You have a place in our hearts that no one else can fill. And Dad, we hope you know you always will. Sending you warm wishes as you celebrate this day, you know, in thought and memory, you're never far away...And you're especially thought of when your birthday's here. And you're wished a world of happiness each day throughout the year."

WORLD PRAYER DAY

The missionary department of New Mt. Calvary Missionary Baptist Church located at 1115 West 12th St., will observe National Baptist World Day of Prayer on Monday, Nov. 3 at 7:00 p.m.

The theme "Experiencing Peace Through Prayer" from Isaiah 26:3 says "Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace, whose mind is stayed on thee; because he trusteth in thee." Sister Geraldine Jackson is president of the mission and Rev. Ricky Scott is pastor.

Hobbies of the Week

Wood-working accents, art brighten craftsman's home

By SUBAN WENNER
Herald Staff Writer

Charles Stroenider considers himself "a good, Christian, everyday man who loves the Lord," and his wood-working and painting talent shows that God has been truly good. His dual hobby has brightened his Sanford home and added beautiful accents to his wife, Dorothea's addition paintings.

He credits his wood-working to a love that he has labored with "all my life" yet he admits that he began to get serious about it some 20 to 30 years ago. He said, "God has been good to me. I've stayed in good shape and am still alert at 83. I just enjoy my wood-working but the lumber is so expensive and I don't have a shop to do it here so I've slowed down a bit."

Many of his past wood efforts are displayed in his home. He cited that he does "mostly cabinet work" but one of his prized claims was a bed frame and a chest. "I made the bed frame to match a butler's desk that my wife got," he said. "I wanted the bed, desk and chest to match so I made a chest too."

Tall glass and wood cabinets separate the living room from the hot tub room and large and heavy corner hutch sits proudly in the hot tub room, both made by Stroenider's skilled hands. Although, the true accent to the room is the 3-foot high by approximately four to five foot across, mill and small pond that he crafted.

All are a big order from the small lamps that he shared that he began his work with but each piece is a masterpiece. "I did make a lot of other things too," he said. "I made footstools and a cedar chest with cherry wood on the outside and one half inch of cedar on the inside."

Of all his endeavors Stroenider said that he is most proud of his spinning wheels. "I made a spinning wheel or flax wheel," he said. "It was quite ticklish and a delicate operation. One lady paid $200 for one I made. I have repaired a number of things like that for people. One I repaired had two-thirds of the spinning wheel missing. I repaired the spools and the pedestal that holds the spools."

Stroenider cited that his favorite woods are oak, cherry and walnut. The "specialty work" is an all time favorite of projects, spinning wheels and more.

He has much time too that he has made frames for his other hobby of painting. Many of the frames and paintings are also hung throughout his home.

The start of his painting began in 1943. "I had a fellow that worked for me that was an artist," he said. "He told me that as good as I drew that I should try painting. He said he would come over and show me. I started that night. It settles my nerves. I just go totally blank when I'm painting and it really relieves the stress."

Landscapes, from around his former home in Tennessee that he and his wife built, can be seen throughout his home as well as a few scenes from Georgia. Several mills such as the Mabry Mill in North Carolina and the Licklog Mill in Georgia and more are a part of the decor.

In his spare time Stroenider enjoys golf. He is a former member of the Lions Club and scouting from his days in Orange County.

He and his wife, Dorothea, have been married for 29 years. They share three children, Ronald, Roger and Bonnie, six grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

The couple are members of Upsala Community Church. He collects tithes there and helps in any way possible.

Grindle advises women to handle own investments

"Women are not as likely to manage their own retirement or investment plans, but they should," Art Grindle told members of the Lake Mary Woman's Club.

Now in his third career, Grindle got his start as a car salesman. He then became a politician. (A friend jokingly told Grindle he was the only person he knew who actually moved up in their career by becoming a politician.) Art is now a financial educator. He came to the club's October meeting to conduct a mini-workshop in investing.

It is important to know where all your money is and if the investments you have are appropriate, he said. Brokers sometimes steer women into investments that are tax exempt, simply because they're tax exempt. But if your yield from the tax free investment is less than inflation, you're losing spending power. If you're in the highest tax bracket, tax exempt bonds may be a workable option for you. But if you're in a lower tax bracket, say the 15 percent, you should go with a more aggressive investment.

Another thing women have to watch out for is unprincipled brokers. Some have been known to churn accounts. Churning an account is buying and selling for the sole purpose of making a commission. If you give your broker or agent discretionary power, you are allowing them the opportunity to do just that. (Churning an account is illegal.) Take charge of your own finances and buy and sell only when necessary. And, if you ever think something is wrong with your account, have an outsider take a look at it.

Safe investments aren't always the best. For instance, a certificate of deposit from any bank has such a low return that it's really just a parking place for your money. And if inflation is higher than your return, you could lose spending power.

The most important thing for anyone to remember when investing is not to put all your eggs in one basket. No matter how good a stock may seem, you shouldn't put all your money in just one. If you invest in mutual funds, those funds spread the money among many different stocks, making it less risky. Balanced funds invest money in stocks and bonds. An investment trust is also an option. The trust spreads an investment over hundreds of companies, so if one goes bust, you don't lose everything.

One common mistake that many people make is relying on Social Security which will not cover you adequately for retirement. And it's not tax free.

Depending on your income, up to 85 percent of your Social Security could be taxable. It is vital to have retirement benefits other than Social Security, whether it's an IRA or an investment portfolio.

And while the good news is that more and more people are living to be at least 100 years old, the bad news is that not many of them are financially prepared. Long term care, health care costs and many other unexpected expenses can put large dents in your retirement funds. Make sure you are insured for or have a large enough portfolio to cover the unexpected.

TALENT SHOW, AUCTION NEED YOUR HELP

Cadette Troop 148 in Lake Mary will host a talent show on Saturday, Nov. 15 at 7:00 p.m. at Lake Mary Elementary School. Girl Scout Troops and individual scouts will be performing. There will also be a silent auction to raise money for the troop. Troop 148 is planning a trip to Edith Macy, the Girl Scout National Center in New York. The troop is still looking for donations for the auction. If you or your business would like to help out, call Peggy Wolfe at 327-8207.

member, show Lake Mary city tags which will be on sale at Lake Mary Woman's Club's Italian Feast, scheduled Nov. 8.

On Sunday, the anniversary fellowship service was held at Second Shiloh Baptist Church. The guest speaker was Sister Rosetta Fields and The Rejected Stone Church family with Pastor Benjamin Adams.

Highlighting the anniversary was the crowning of the 1997 Queen Lela Cummings, who serves as financial secretary of Sweet Harmony.

A special thanks goes out to the community for helping to make the 14th anniversary a success. Richardson Vaughn was chairman.

Memos posted about office give worker the wrong sign

DEAR ABBY: I recently transferred to a new office, and I have never seen so many people who are experts on what should or shouldn't be done. They post signs everywhere: "Do Not Move Caffeinated White Coffee Is Brewing." "Do Not Use This Door Except for Emergencies." "Do Not Throw This or That Into the Garbage." "Do Not Use This Ice Tray." etc.

I would never have the gall to put a sign every time someone did something of which I disapproved. Am I wrong to be offended? I come in every day to find that something I have done is not right according to somebody else's rules, and a big sign has been posted saying, "Do Not Do This or That."

These people are not bosses. Why do they think they have the right to make up rules for everyone else to follow?

ADVICE

have nothing to lose, and you could be $1,000 richer.

I cut out your column and sent it to the old friend who borrowed the $1,000 from me more than 30 years ago. A check and a nice letter arrived by return mail!

I hope the lady who wrote you was as lucky as I was. Thank you, Dear Abby. Your column is priceless to follow!

SICK OF SIGNS, BIRMINGHAM, ALA. DEAR NICK (OF NICKS) DUM: You are the newcomer in an office where the style of communication may not be yours, but it is the established style. If the signs are not posted specifically at your desk, don't take them personally — they are probably not intended only for you. They are meant to help the staff learn office procedures without confronting anyone directly and causing hurt feelings.

DEAR ABBY: I am enclosing something I think might give you and your readers a chuckle. By the way, I am nearly 83 years old.

MARIA KIAN SMITH, GRANTS PASS, ORE. DEAR MARIA JOAN SMITH: I agree — it's cute. And regardless of denomination, there's something in it for almost everyone. Read on!

FIRE: WHAT TO DO During a recent ecumenical gathering, a secretary rushed in shouting, "The building is on fire!" The Methodists gathered in the corner and prayed.

The Baptists cried, "Where is the water?" The Quakers quietly praised God for the blessings that fire brings. The Lutherans posted a notice on the door declaring the fire was evil. The Roman Catholics passed the plate to cover the damage. The Jews posted symbols on the doors hoping the fire would pass. The Congregationalists shouted, "Every man for himself!" The Fundamentalists proclaimed, "It's the vengeance of God!" The Episcopalians formed a procession and marched out. The Christian Scientists concluded that there was no fire.

The Presbyterians appointed a chairperson who was to appoint a committee to look into the matter and submit a written report.

The secretary grabbed the fire extinguisher and put the fire out.

DEAR ABBY: I have enjoyed your columns for many years but have never written to you before.

For a long time I have been concerned and embarrassed because someone in my family, whom I love very much, is a habitual liar. No matter what we say or do, he can't stop lying. He has told so many outrageous stories about the family that he has been disowned many times, but then given a second, third, fourth chance, ad infinitum. Please advise on what might help. Please don't print my name or town.

CARING IN SOUTH CAROLINA DEAR CARING: When people lie compulsively, low self-esteem is often the root of the problem. Your family member may need the help of a psychologist to determine the reason for the problem, and determine if destructive compulsions. I have been told that antidepressants are somewhat effective, but the cure is psychotherapy.

Show him this column and offer your support if he agrees to seek professional help. Good luck.

23 RETURN FROM TOUR TO BRANSON An entourage of 23 had the time of their lives on a bus-tour to Branson, Mo. Led by B.J. Swain of Cruises World Tours, one of the tourists, Derry Harris, said, "Oh, we just had the best time."

After leaving Sanford, the group spent the first night in Manchester, Tenn. and the next day visited Elvis Presley's Graceland at Memphis. "The mansion was typical Elvis Presley," Derry said.

Derry raved over all the dazzling productions they saw at Branson including Mel Tillis, Brenda Lee, Bobby Benton, Andy Williams and Wayne Newton. She said her favorite of the eight shows they saw was Shoji Tabuchi, a Japanese violinist who was "wonderful."

Derry continued, "He is outstanding. The stages and lighting were outstanding. The shows he puts on are really awesome."

After a busy, busy schedule, the group boarded the bus for home. "By the time we got back, we were exhausted, Derry laughed. "But everybody had a wonderful time."

Others on the tour included: Hazel Thompson, Frances Galloway, Tommye Johnson, Tiah Walker, Jane Hopkins, Anne Hunter, Ronnie White-side, Patricia Stephens, Harold and Doris Olson, Frank and Phyllis Young, Frank and Helen Sherba, Gertrude Mullen, Mary Shelley and Larry and Irene Greenfield.

OVER-50 CLUB TAKES TRIP TO CAROLINA

About 80 members of Sanford's Over-50 Club have returned from a delightful bus trip to Myrtle Beach, S.C. The tour was hosted by Jim Gunster, club president, and his wife, Marge, through Small World Tours.

"Oh, we had a great trip," Jim said. "...and nice weather."

En route to the famous beach, Peggy Hardin said the group visited historic Charleston — "a beautiful city." She continued, "We saw where the old Navy base used to be."

They also visited the old train depot which has been developed into a tourist reception area.

At Myrtle Beach, the group saw several shows which Peggy said "were outstanding and the theatres were fabulous."

The Sanford tourists went shopping at Barefoot Landing, a large mall featuring unique, standing stores, and dined at several famous fish and crab houses.

Peggy had the opportunity to visit one of the stars, Louie Roberts, vocalist and emcee for one of the shows the tourists saw. Louie, nephew of Frances Roberts and the late A.O. Roberts, sent greetings back to Sanford, Peggy said.

"It was a restful trip," Peggy said. "We didn't rush."

FFWC DISTRICT PRESIDENT VISITS DISTRICT VII

The Florida Federation of Women's Clubs District VII met at the Oviedo Woman's Club for the annual meeting on Oct. 25. District VII director Linda Dennis of Longwood presided over the event. Janet Foley, president of the Oviedo club, gave the welcoming address.

Fifteen clubs from District VII were represented including two other Seminole County Clubs, Sanford Woman's Club and Lake Mary Woman's Club. Jane Denning, immediate past president of the Oviedo club, was elected the new District VII director. She will assume duties from June 1998-2000.

Highlight of the day, according to Libby Prevatt, was the official visit and address from the FFWC president, Ramona Thompson, whose topic was: "Think on These Things."

Bunny Sandlin, first vice president of the FFWC, also a visiting dignitary, spoke on: "The Role of Federation."

Among the 110 FFWC members attending were the following from the OFWC Sanford Woman's Club: Beth Gaines, club president; Dietre Lash, District VII Home Life chairman; Libby Prevatt, District VII Arts chairman; Frances Webster, recording secretary; Betty Jack, first vice president; Ann Howland and Vivian Buck.

CLUBWOMEN WORK FOR SCHOLARSHIP

A number of scholarships will be awarded to area students resulting from the recent Heathrow-Lake Mary Festival of the Arts. For the Sanford Woman's Club's role in helping to man the gates on Oct. 4, a $1,000 scholarship will be awarded by the festival committee to the club's name.

Giving up their Saturday to help make this scholarship possible were the following Sanford Woman's Club members: Libby Prevatt, chairman; Ruth Gaines, Thelma Smith, Dorothy Anthony, Kathy Krasnoff, Donna Adamsen, Helen Ernest, Viola Frank, Karen Richardson (and Roger), Retha Blankenship, DeLores Lash and Joanne Lucas Bourg.

HAPPY ANNIVERSARY

Happy 38th wedding anniversary to Marge and Billy Strawn who were married Nov. 2, 1959 in Sanford. They are the parents of four sons, Tim, Tom, Karl and Keith Strawn, all of Sanford. Their four grandchildren are Kim, Kristin, Trevor and Denim Strawn, also of Sanford.

YOUR BIRTHDAY

Sunday, Nov. 2, 1987

Originality and resourcefulness will be two qualities that will contribute to your success in the year ahead. Do not be afraid to attempt things you've never tried previously.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Be alert for a monetary opportunity of a very unique nature today, because you're not in a cycle that could upgrade your financial circumstances.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Lady Luck is inclined to side with you today where major issues are at stake.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Let your will to produce prevail today, and you might surprise yourself with your accomplishments.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) This is the right time to tackle difficult subjects, because your ability to absorb and catalog information is better than usual today.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Today will be a good day, but not necessarily due to your own efforts.

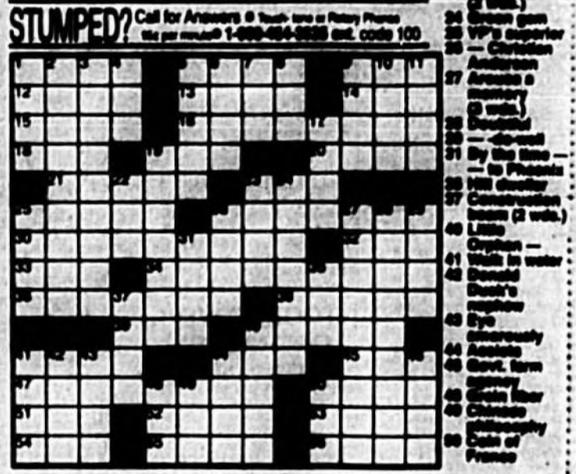

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Your biggest and best breaks today could come through partnership arrangements, especially alliances with friends and social contacts.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) If you must make a choice in your social activities today, select an outlet that will involve you with a group who is lively and young in spirit.

PHILLIP ALDER

You may remember a while ago I mentioned that Charles M. Schulz had featured bridge in four of his Peanuts cartoons. Well, the American Contract Bridge League spotted them too, and devoted the front cover and lead article to Schulz and those cartoons in the July issue of The Bulletin.

open one no-trump. Then East would presumably overcall two spades. South might well jump to three no-trump, and East would probably find the best opening lead!
