Strife-Plagued Demos Turning To Stevenson

Convention Approves Ambiguous Rule To Keep Southerners From Bolting Party

By JACK BELL.
CONVENTION HILL, Chicago (Special)—Democrat turned today toward Dixie-quoter Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois for the nomination made which might dispel the lowering threat of a Dixie walkout.

Stevenson friends professed to find a possible presidential nominee who could draw the string of a wound opening defeat for political Southern Democrats in the convention. The shouting during the early hours of the convention was a "loyalty" rule. "Ambiguous" in language and subject to almost any kind of interpretation, the rule would affect that delegates must give assurance they will extol every "honorable means" to see that the convention's presidential and vice-presidential nominees get on their state's ballot.

It was shown down the throats of protesting Dixie delegations that Blair Moody of Michigan, newspaperman turned politician, would put them in the position of violating their state laws of party organization instructions.

made other commitments. The vice president said that leaders of certain big state delegations who had been egging him on to run had "found it expedient to withdraw their support."

There wasn't too much doubt in anyone's mind that these delegations were moving toward Stevenson. Even New York's 46-vote group, the bulk of which has been committed to W. Averell Harriman, showed signs of wavering.

This put Stevenson under more and more compulsion so far as the nomination is concerned. He has said he wants only to run for re-election as governor of Illinois and has urged delegates not to put him in nomination.

But when he signed off for a few hours sleep early today, he referred newsmen to Matthew 28:30 which says: "O, my Father, if it be possible, let this cup pass from me. Nevertheless, not as I will but as Thou wilt."

The Stevenson boom had a spontaneous air but it gave some politicians the impression that there was more behind it than met the eye.

Sen. Guy Gillette of Iowa, a diehard Barkley supporter, said he knew what was going on because a dozen button-holing Democrats had been around to see him about the possibility of dropping up some Stevenson votes among Iowa's 21 "attempts is being made to stampede this convention for Stevenson, but I don't think it will be cleared."

Other veteran party leaders had different ideas. Sen. Clinton Anderson of New Mexico told a reporter: "I think Stevenson's name is going in the pot and he is coming out the winner."

ever, would offer two men who have said repeatedly they aren't interested in the job for which they were campaigning.

In all this topsy-turvy jockeying, the wishes of President Truman remained unknown. It began to look, in some respects, as if Mr. Truman might become the forgotten man of the convention, so far as the nomination is concerned.

He had made his weight felt, however, in the adoption of the Moody proposal. He would be heard from, many delegates thought, if the convention did go down the line for a strong civil rights plank.

But Secretary of Agriculture Brannan told a reporter he doesn't believe Mr. Truman's views on the nominee will be made known to the President's scheduled arrival here Thursday to take over the Missouri delegate seat warmed by an alternate, Thomas J. Gavin, Kansas.

The nomination battle might be all over at that point. In fact, there was some talk of Stevenson as a first-ballot winner.

Stevenson has favored by a wide margin from the now divided day when Chief Justice Fred Vinson made it known he wouldn't step off the Supreme Court, the Illinois governor has been about as expected at the convention. His President's support as he has about accepting the nomination.

If he has in run, Stevenson's friends said he wants no entanglements with the Truman administration or with the big city leaders.

Despite this attitude, close friends said Mr. Truman isn't mad at Stevenson. One of them added that "the President isn't mad at anybody."

McKinney, who talked by phone with the President Sunday, said he thinks Mr. Truman is satisfied that things are going along about as expected at the convention. He said he doesn't believe Mr. Truman will indicate any choice for the nomination unless a deadlock develops.

Jacksonville Journal Cameraman, Reporter Asked To Leave

JACKSONVILLE (AP)—City Councilman James C. Merrill smashed a Jacksonville Journal photographer's camera at a Council committee session Monday and ordered a Journal reporter from the meeting.

Just trying to send the bill to me and see what happens," Merrill told Photographer Jim Chester after he slammed the equipment to the floor.

Merrill is president of the Merrill Stevens Dry Dock and Repair Co. large shipyard facility on the St. Johns River here.

The value of the ruined photographic equipment was fixed at $303 by Chester.

The camera smashing incident came when Chester prepared to take a picture soon after the Council members went into session.

"I don't want my picture taken," Merrill said.

Journal Reporter Charles Meisler told Chester to point the camera away from Merrill. Chester refused to carry out Meisler's instructions and Merrill then said he didn't want any pictures taken.

Meisler snapped off anyway on instructions from Meisler. Merrill rose, strode forward, grasped the camera and dashed it to the floor. Chester picked up the ruined camera and left the room. Merrill then said he didn't want any pictures taken.

It appears that Kefauver will be eliminated. Since last night's small expression, the Florida delegation has yet not caucused. However, about 3:30 a.m. this morning I went over to the Morrison Hotel where the delegation is staying and talked with several of them as they came in from the convention.

Here are some comments of delegates and alternates. Mrs. C. H. Taylor, Jr. of 4th district, "We don't go home and crawl under the bed. The surely stepped us in the face." Mrs. Thelma Sheffield, St. Petersburg, vice-chairman, State Democratic Executive Committee, "It seems to me that the proponents of the amendment were high-handed—and although this may help the candidacy of Senator Kefauver whom I am supporting—I don't like railing against anyone who is the engineer."

Two Test Runs On Highway 1 Reveal Improvement Need

Tallahassee On Two recent time-test runs down U. S. 1 from Jacksonville to Miami definitely show the need for more highway facilities along the route.

TALLAHASSEE (AP)—Two recent time-test runs down U. S. 1 from Jacksonville to Miami definitely show the need for more highway facilities along the route.

The firm—Parsons, Brinckerhoff Hall and McDonald—said the first 200-mile run took more than nine hours and the second more than 10 hours. The engineers estimated the trip could be made in six hours by observing maximum speed limits without any traffic delays and without normal conditions.

The firm in the third installment of its 8-chapter report on the state's future highway needs, still made no direct reference to a toll turnpike between Jacksonville and Miami, although the survey was ordered by the State Road Department primarily to determine the feasibility of an East Coast turnpike.

The report said heaviest passenger car traffic is along the East Coast between Miami and Jacksonville but that truck traffic generated by the West Coast region in the vicinity of Tampa and St. Petersburg approximately equals that generated by Miami and other southeastern regions.

The engineers also said Orlando, Ocala and the Plant City-Haines City areas "are large generators of passenger and truck traffic."

The final chapter of the engineers' report is due July 25.

Alfred McKeithan, chairman of the Road Department, said the board will meet here July 25 to make its own report and recommendations on the engineering firm's findings.

picked by the National Convention. Russell told reporters afterward that it was too early to estimate what had taken place. But the handwriting, to many, was on the wall.

With the presidential nomination seemingly headed for Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois, Russell was mentioned as a possible vice-presidential running mate.

But there was a strong contender as to whether the Southerner, who has fought so hard against the sectional label, would be acceptable to the so-called liberal wing of the party.

And Russell himself has said he does not want to run for vice president.

Russell said he deeply regretted that Vice President Alben Barkley had taken himself out of the race for presidential nomination.

Russell said in a statement that "the Democratic Party is a party of labor but we do not propose to make it a labor party." Barkley had said he dropped out because of opposition by union leaders.

The Georgian said that "the great pathos in Barkley's statement of withdrawal is a challenge to the integrity of the Democratic Party."

Although Russell has said repeatedly he would not take the vice presidency, many Georgians and others were believed to be bringing pressure to get him to accept the post, if offered.

The convention could elect to go along without the South if it does, numerous leaders have warned of the popularity of Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, the Republican nominee, below the Mason-Dixon Line.

Russell, however, voted he would remain with his party. He said that, with the withdrawal by Barkley, he hoped to pick up votes in both Kentucky and Delaware where the vice president had strong support.

CONVENTION HIGHLIGHTS

By VOLTE WILLIAMS, JR.

CHICAGO (Special)—On the ninth floor of the Conrad Hilton Hotel, there isn't the excitement that prevailed until yesterday. This floor houses the campaign headquarters of Senator Richard Russell, and it now is apparent to nearly all his supporters that this is not his year to receive the nomination.

There are many factors involved in this, but the most prominent is the reluctance on the part of many of his supporters and advisors to subscribe to the "party loyalty oath" or "insurance oath," as it is now called. Although the V. Williams Jr. Senator issued a statement early last night that he is not withdrawing most observers feel that this was done to control his pledged delegates, with the possibility of swinging them to a candidate acceptable to the South.

The Florida delegation held a caucus yesterday and decided not to subscribe to the assurance oath. In an interview with Senator Holland today, he advised that while the oath was in keeping with present Florida law that he was opposed to it on the basis of principle; that he felt the convention, or rather the left-wing element which was in control, had no right to add additional requirements to the qualifications of duly elected delegates.

Many of Florida's delegates are now convinced that Governor Adolf Stevenson and Illinois are the presidential candidates for the Democratic Party. The principal question now seems to be, "Who will be running mate?" There are several names being mentioned.

Survey Made By Jeffries Is Released

Crime Situation In Sanford, Public Opinion Poll Are Discussed In Report

A synopsis of Part One of the "Jeffries Report" resulting from a survey and a half month survey of the City of Sanford, by Walter S. Jeffries Agency, municipal consultants, was released today by Mayor William H. Stempert showing results of a public opinion poll in the City of Sanford, need for reorganization in the City government, and the extent of gambling rackets in Seminole County. Additional releases covering the report are expected later.

The Jeffries Agency has been making surveys of municipalities all over the United States for over twenty-five years, Mayor Stempert said. They were recommended highly by such cities as Orlando, Miami Beach and Ft. Lauderdale. As one official stated "they were thoroughly satisfied and feel the recommendations have saved many times the cost of the report. We have had them twice and would hire them again if needed."

The Citizens Advisory Committee which worked with and recommended to the City Commission the "Jeffries Report" are as follows: James L. Ingle, General J. C. Hutchinson, Martin Blumstein, Rev. J. E. McKinley, Judge Douglas Stenstrom, Dr. W. P. Brooks, Jr., Roy Holler, Rev. A. G. Melnick and Rev. H. L. Zimmerman.

The Jeffries report is divided into two parts. The first part includes the "Introductory Comment," "Analysis Municipal Government," "Cross Sectional Poll of Public Opinion," "Crime Situation," and "Division of Police" and the second part deals with the "Traffic Situation," "General Recommendations," "Citizens Assistance" and "Summary of Survey Coverage."

This is Part One of the condensed report of the facts pertinent to the "Jeffries Report" which shows the problems confronting the Commission and the citizens of Sanford. The Commission with the help of all the citizens is planning to launch a campaign to clean up the city and the elimination of evils, Mayor Stempert said.

The survey was conducted in the City of Sanford by Walter S. Jeffries, Sr. and is commonly referred to as the "Jeffries Report." It was submitted to the City Commission on June 30 following an intensive survey and analysis of the City government and public opinion covering a period of four and one half months.

The City government of Sanford is said in the report to be badly in need of reorganization and five years behind the times with respect to the growth of the community. This is attributed largely to the failure of former City Commissions to appreciate that the business of the city government is big business and as a consequence their adoption of a miserly attitude toward the employment of modern scientific methods of administration.

The need for coordinating the various departments of the City government under a competent City Manager is emphasized and the establishment of a central purchasing agency and the employment of a qualified purchasing agent with proper requisitioning procedure is recommended. The tendency of the various departments of the City to become separate autonomous groups answerable only to the City Commission is condemned.

Convention Refuses To Oust Shivers Texas Delegation; HST Still Mum On His Choice

President's Choice May Not Be Known Until Gavin Votes On First Ballot

Stevenson Waves To Delegates

WASHINGTON — President Truman kept his choice of a Democratic presidential nominee a secret today—at least in Washington. Presidential Secretary Joseph Short said he "knew of no plan" for Mr. Truman to make known his preference of a nominee today and added "and that goes for tomorrow and the next day."

He made his comment in an announcement that the President's usual Thursday news conference would not be held for the fourth straight week. He said the President would devote the time to a "give 'em hell" speech for the Democratic convention.

Short wouldn't even verify as verbatim by Sen. Jennings (D-Mo.) that Mr. Truman had indicated in a telephone conversation Tuesday he would let the Missouri delegation know his nominee choice sometime today.

Short also declined to comment on any of the various reports from Chicago to the effect that Mr. Truman is convinced that Gov. Adlai Stevenson will win the nomination. Apparently any word of a formal endorsement of a candidate by the President will come from Chicago, not here. The President has said that his preference will be known after the delegate, Thomas J. Gavin, casts his vote on the first ballot.

The President kept up to the minute on convention proceedings through press association reports and his own television set. But there was every indication that he was several jumps ahead on every turn through telephone reports from his personal contact men at the convention.

Wherever there was a smoldering rumor, a Truman spokesman said to be in the thick of the smoke.

Mr. Truman has said repeatedly that he proposed to have his choice made known by his alternate who the latter casts his vote on the first ballot.

Honoring and Mr. Truman's first choice, given to Gavin in a letter, as no longer the man he now plans to endorse.

The Missouri Workers' president telegraphed Sam Caddy, a member of his union and a Kentucky delegate, asking:

Why cannot the able Kentucky delegation support the able Missouri delegate Barkley so that the people may express their will and the common interests be served?

Caddy was talking about putting up Barkley's name but there appeared to be a question whether Kentucky delegation leaders Sen. Earl Clements and Gov. Lawrence Wetherby would go along with the Missouri delegation.

Since Barkley's withdrawal, convention leaders have cast the vice president in a harmonious role. He is on the program to address the convention tonight.

Over the reports that Barkley was taking the attitude he could best serve the party now by doing what he could to prevent the party from splitting, a member of the camp of Sen. Richard Russell of Georgia said Barkley had been asked to make the nominating speech for Russell but was expected to decline because of his position.

In a statement Tuesday night, Lewis blasted at AFL and CIO leaders for declaring they could not support Barkley owing to his age. He is 74.

Adlai Stevenson waves to delegates at the Democratic convention in Chicago. He is expected to announce his preference for a presidential nominee today.

Friendship Grows Between Georgia, Florida Delegates

THE FRIENDSHIP BETWEEN Georgia and Florida delegates at the Democratic convention in Chicago is growing.

Demos Move Toward Compromise Planks For Harmony Platform

EDWIN B. HARRISON, Democrat, in a surprising display of harmony, planned to move their new platform today. It contains a compromise "right right" plank.

While there always is a chance for a good fight at any national Democratic convention, a coalition of moderate Dixie-Vanier leaders appeared to be in control at this session.

The tentative drafts of two key planks, foreign policy and labor, were handed to reporters Tuesday night as the platform architects applied final shape and polish to their handiwork.

Rep. John W. McCormack of Massachusetts, platform chairman, kept the 19-member drafting committee working until dawn, before a series of voice votes and then applause signalled agreement on the compromise.

McCormack had asked his 108 member full committee by most at 9:30 a.m. EST to go over the draft word by word. He decided it advisable to delay the session until 7 p.m. because the convention would not be ready to consider the platform until tonight.

Such closed-door maneuvering and a conference at 1 p.m. with Chairman Frank M. Roosevelt, the Democratic National Committee president, the final agreement on the draft.

It is believed that McKinney made a special appeal to Lehman for party harmony and compromise to avoid any party-splitting battle at the convention.

"This is a real step forward," Lehman told reporters who had been kept at a distance from the

Slump Schedule Is Given Setback By Steel Strike

Predicted Depression Believed Put Off By Delay In Orders

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—The steel strike is stretching out the time table for the long-feared post-defense slump.
Even a quick truce in Korea, with its almost inevitable letdown in zeal for speedy rearmament, probably wouldn't offset this effect on timing by the strike.
Armsmen spending was slated to reach its peak late this year. Now the President's Council of Economic Advisers indicates the slackening off in the flow of government funds won't come until late next year.
The program of spending didn't go as fast as first planned. And from now on the strike may slow it down further. Even a Korean truce wouldn't make much difference.

True, so much of the industrial boom is traced to the defense program that a truce and letdown might ultimately take a lot of zip out of the economy.
Immediate effect of a truce, however, might be slight, because so much of the armament program has already been set and is in the works.
The steel strike's real drag on the economy will be later this year in the civilian field. And its indirect effects seem sure to carry over into next year.
After the strike ends, it will take two to four weeks for the steel industry to regain its old pace. Armament and defense-supporting industries will get first call on the steel.
Civilian goods makers will sit at the second table. Even—Washington insists—if the Reds stop stalling in Korea and sign a truce.
Steel users have had seven weeks now in which to use up their inventories of the metal. Many can see the bottom of the barrel.
And with shoppers showing more buying interest in things made of metal, gadgets aren't the glut on the market they once were. Steel users, therefore, should be agrément funds won't come until late next year.
And the steel mills—once they start up again—could be assured of selling all they can make for months ahead.

Alger Hiss Appeal For Another Trial Is Denied By Court

NEW YORK (AP)—Alger Hiss' appeal for a third trial based largely on his contention that he was a victim of forgery by typewriter was denied Tuesday in Federal District Court.
Of the convicted perjurer's motion Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard wrote in his opinion:
"There is no newly discovered evidence which would justify the conclusion that, if it were presented to a jury it would probably result in a verdict of acquittal."
Hiss, 47, once high State Department official, was convicted at his second trial in January, 1950. An initial trial the previous year ended with the jury deadlocked. He now is serving a 5-year term at Lewisburg, Pa., Federal Prison.
The indictment against Hiss said he lied to a federal grand jury when he testified he never saw State Department secrets to Whitaker Chambers, a former Communist spy ring courier, before World War II.
At his sentencing 2½ years ago, Hiss told Goddard that he was confident "that in the future all the facts will be brought out to show how Whitaker Chambers was able to carry out forgery by typewriter."
Last January months after Hiss had gone to prison and the U. S. Supreme Court had declined to review the case, Hiss' attorneys made the bid for the new trial on grounds of the allegedly faked typewriter and other "new evidence."
Goddard said Tuesday that the Hiss attorneys had submitted no proof to support the "defendant's" supposition that Chambers constructed the alleged duplicate characters in the Hiss letters, or that it was done for him by some Communist friends.

Politics Is Man's Game, Writes Mrs. Peelle As She Observes Convention

(Editors note: "Politics is a man's game," concludes Trellis Mae Peelle, America's average wife, in a letter home to her husband about the National Donkey Serenade.)
By HAL BOYLE
CHICAGO (AP)—Dearest Wilbur, if I learn nothing else from the Democratic National Convention, I at least have learned this—politics is really for men. Women had better stick to matrimony, where the rewards are sure and they can be certain of at least one man's ear.
Yes, politics is for men. And men deserve politics—the heartless beasts.
I am boiling mad at all these Democrats today for the way they behaved during Ladies' Day at Convention Hall. If I had my way I'd have every woman in America boycotted (or should I say girlcotted?) both the Republican and Democratic Parties, and form a new political party—the "For Women Only Party."
Since there are one million more voting women than men in the United States, how would all the dirty, nasty, old, cigar-chewing, dog-eat-dog, elephant politicians like that? They and their silly old notions of masculine superiority! I guess I had better begin from the beginning, honey. Anyway, politics conventions are now like baseball parks. They have a "Ladies Day" just to prove they recognize the existence of two sexes.
The leading female politicians are invited to speak. And Tuesday afternoon the donkey delegates heard—or, I might say, should have heard—Perle Mesta, minister to Luxembourg, Eugenie A. Anderson, ambassador to Denmark and Georgia Neese Clark, treasurer of the United States.
These ladies just looked simply lovely. I would hate to say how much they must have spent on new hair-dos and gowns. It was the big moment of four years for them—a kind of middle-aged junior prom. And they had worked hard on their speeches and had really interesting things to say—all about how women should take a more active part in politics.
What happened? The ladies in the gallery applauded nicely. But the men delegates on the floor? They acted more like real donkeys than delegates. You would have thought they were all married to each lady speaker—the way they refused to listen. They just roamed around the floor, laughing and scratching their heads and eating hot dogs. Simply disgusting, Wilbur.
Tuesday night Mrs. India Edwards, the vice chairman of the Democratic National Committee, was so angry she bawled them out. She threatened to go and sit down in baseball parks. They have a "La-since they went right on laughing and scratching and eating hot dogs, she just stood there. Now I hope she is nominated vice president and elected. She'll make those men senators listen later!

But I suppose the men delegates finally got ashamed of their lack of civility. Because when Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt was introduced as "the first lady of the world" they cheered her more than they did anybody else at the convention.
"They ought to," whispered my new friend, the dubious delegate from Texas. "Half the people here got jobs from her husband."
What I would like to do is to organize the women here and have them hiss and boo every time a man gets up to speak. A man will never listen to a woman—but nothing drives him crazier than finding out a woman won't listen to him. Even a Democratic politician could not stand that.
Well, Wilbur, I should be coming home soon. It looks like Stevenson is in. I just saw a third discarded coonskin hat hanging from an ash can.
A big hug and kiss from your very own
Trellis Mae
P.S. Send more money. I'm going to get a semi-poodle haircut. Mrs. Roosevelt looked stunning in hers. X—X—X—X

CAN you imagine parking a car as easily as you steer it on a straight-away?
You twirl the steering wheel with one hand—turn the front wheels until you get the last inch of advantage from Buick's short "turning radius"—spot the car in a tight spot at the curb—or swing out when the car parked in front of you seems impossibly close.
For this alone a lot of people—especially women—are saying that Buick's Power Steering is the biggest advance since Dynaflo Drive.
But you're going to find out something more as you pile up the miles.
You're going to feel the same confident and thrilling sense of command you have always felt in a Buick, because Power Steering only goes into action when extra effort is needed to turn the wheels.
You're going to find that your front wheels track just as they always have—that they automatically swing back on course, after you've made a turn, when you ease your grip on the steering wheel.
You're also going to find that Power Steering takes over when your front wheels hit loose dirt or sand—road irregularities and chuckholes—and smooths down their jerk or tug on the wheel in your hands.
All this adds to the ease and pleasure of driving. But it adds to the safety, too.

because, in the rare event of a blowout, Power Steering helps you keep control. There's no sudden and violent jerk ever when this helping hand's on the job.
Add to this the level-gaited serenity of Buick's Million Dollar Ride—the "rarin' to go" exuberance of its Fireball 8 Engine—the spread-out room, the luxurious fabrics—the way this great performer can turn up its nose at gas stations—and there's only one smart thing for you to do:
Drop in—or pick up your phone—and arrange to give this marvel a tryout. Even the price says, Better buy Buick now.

Democratic Leaders Pressing For Stevenson's Nomination

Efforts Are Made To Patch Up Quarrel Between North And South Over Pledge

By JACK BELL
CONVENTION HALL, Chicago
The Democratic convention achieved a new air of harmony today under White House signal calling and party veterans pressed for a Stevenson nomination which would seal a North-South union for the November election.

Intervention by President Truman's staff had calmed the on-again North-South battle over a "loyalty pledge."

There were signs, too, that Mr. Truman might give his open blessing to Gov. Adlai Stevenson for the presidential nomination before the convention gets around tonight to calling the roll of states for nominees.

Secretary of Interior Oscar Chapman, who has been a Truman emissary at the convention, had a breakfast conference with the Illinois governor.

They met in the apartment of Edward McDougal, a friend of the governor.

It was learned that Chapman proposed the meeting.

As to the convention machinery, it was clear the party wheelers were back in the driver's seat and out to name the ticket.

But if Russell proves more reluctant to become a second-place runner than Stevenson was to top the ticket, either Sen. John Sparkman of Alabama or Sen. William Fulbright of Arkansas might be substituted for him.

This potential lineup emphasized a complete reversal of the trend which saw rampaging Northern Democrats who like to style themselves as "liberals" take convention control temporarily and try to shove down Dixie throats a party "loyalty rule."

The Northerners were thrown out a loss Tuesday night in a compromise—reportedly effected through White House influence—under which Dixie delegations unwilling to sign the loyalty oath could walk serenely around it and still participate fully in the convention.

The Northerners were thrown for ground when the convention's Credentials Committee voted 36 to 13 to seat a Texas delegation and 33 to 17 to seat a Mississippi group which had carried anti-Truman labels into the convention.

The Northerners lost the ball on down when convention platform drafters came up with a compromise version of a civil rights plank—not yet spelled out publicly.

They could regain the initiative only by a floor fight which looked unpromising. This fight would come today on the platform.

The upshot of all the back-stage maneuvering seemed to indicate that hard-headed party wheelers like Jacob M. Arvey of Illinois and Lawrence C. Lawrence of Pennsylvania had won a gigantic game of bluff.

This game, played through the traditional smoke-filled hotel rooms and the cruddy hallways of this Convention Hall, involved an effort by a Northern coalition of the party's bright and mostly young men to force through an "out-Fair Deal candidate and platform."

This group included Sens. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, Bill Bradley of Michigan and Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, W. Averil Harriman and Rep. Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. of New York and Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan.

They bluffed that they were willing to have Southern delegations take a walk—with all the general election trouble that could cause—to get what they call a "liberal" candidate and platform.

But with the help of the Southern delegations who refused any advance loyalty pledge until they see the nominee and the platform, the Arveys and the Lawrence seemed to have convinced most delegates that the only way the Democrats can win is to keep the South solid in the party column.

Strangely enough, their victory seemed to have been accomplished through the indirect intervention of President Truman—who has been calling for all-out endorsement of his Fair Deal program and for a strong civil rights plank.

Moody told a reporter that as a result of a telephone call from Charles Murphy, the President's legal counsel, he had agreed to add a proviso to the loyalty rule adopted by the convention in a voice vote at a stormy after-noon session Tuesday.

This rule provided that delegation chairmen must certify that their members would vote for getting the names of the convention's presidential and vice presidential nominees on the November ballots in their states.

To this Moody added the provision that no delegate would be forced to sign the pledge if it ran against his state's laws or party organization rules.

Georgia, Louisiana, South Carolina and Virginia delegations had refused to sign up because they said their states had made provision to decide later what to do about the national nominees. Heads of the delegations announced they were sitting tight, dazed the convention to throw them out.

Moody contended the original intent was to prevent the Northerners regarded it as a compromise in their favor.

Can't Get It Together

GOV. ADLAI STEVENSON

Well-bred, well-read Adlai Ewing Stevenson. Born Feb. 3, 1900, at Los Angeles. . . . Five foot, nine, solidly-built Illinois governor since 1949. . . . Balding, oval face, ready grin. . . . Boyhood ambition was to be newspaperman. . . . Was assistant managing editor family-owned Bloomington, Ill., newspaper. . . . But always cherished idea of political career. . . . Graduated, nameake Grover Cleveland's vice president. . . . Educated at Chicago, Princeton. . . . Speaks in fashionable eastern Chicago, who didn't like governor's mansion life. . . . Three sons, 13 to 21, away at school. . . . Never remarried. . . . Likes country week-ends. . . . Bourbon on the rocks. . . . Louis sister, Mrs. Ernest L. Love, Bloomington, Ill., Southern Pines, N. C., has served as governor's hostess. . . . Rich sense of humor, used to refuse to speak. . . . Table job seriously, not himself. . . . Works 17 hours a day at being governor.

once was felt in this case, there didn't seem to be much left for him to do in the nomination race except to endorse Stevenson. Sen. Thomas Hennings of Missouri said he expected some word from Mr. Truman later in the day.

In its present temper, the convention seemed unlikely to be swayed very far by a presidential nod to any of the other candidates. This might be indicative of what is in store for future Presidents under similar circumstances, since they will be limited to two terms hereafter.

Evidence built up that Mr. Truman had decided to favor Vice President Barkley, who withdrew from the race dramatically after labor leaders told him he was too old at 74 to make the race. Barkley, who lashed out at liberal same leaders, gets a chance to all the convention tonight how it ought to set about winning the November election.

President John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers blasted his fellow labor leaders for forcing Barkley out of the race, securing a pledge of engaging in "small time political intrigues."

Stevenson was regarded as nearer the presidential nomination than ever before, if only for the reason that it had been indicated Mr. Truman's influence would not be scale-tipping.

Mr. Truman originally favored Stevenson but the Illinois governor was reported cool toward any administration endorsement.

Stevenson, widely advertised as available for a draft despite his repeated protests that he is running out of coal toward any administration endorsement.

Illinois rallied up 46 of its 60 votes for him, with 11 votes unrecorded because the holders were missing from the caucus.

New Jersey delegates promised him 23½ votes, Indiana delegates said he could have 17 of their 36 votes, former Sen. Franklin D. Roosevelt predicted most of Michigan's 40 will be for Stevenson on an early-if not the first—ballot.

This lineup, added to Pennsylvania and other support for the Illinois governor, led Kefauver and Harriman conferring separately in an effort to spark a Stevenson move.

The latest Associated Press tabulation of delegate showed:

Kefauver 24½
Stevenson 12½
Harriman 12½
Other 21½
Uncommitted 30

Needed to nominate: 41½
Although no arrangements were tentatively made, the Syracuse senator would vote with the backing of the Harriman group, but there was a large measure of doubt whether he could throw any worthwhile strength to the Truman. And Harriman was maintaining he is in the race to the end.

Aiming a barb at Arvey, back-stage manager of the draft-Stevenson drive, Kefauver told a reporter: "I don't think any head is going to be turned in a vain effort to get the nomination."

Moody, who sat in on the conference of the two candidates, was talking of a possible "no" vote for Stevenson, but he said he would not be committed.

Although Mr. Truman's influence

The Korean GI Bill which President Truman recently signed into law will make available to every veteran who serves two years soon and after June 27, 1950, a total of $3000 to $4000 in cash benefits providing he utilizes all the benefits offered him under this Bill. Education and training benefits, mustering-out pay and unemployment benefits are all included in the new bill, which is similar to the World War II GI Bill.

Mustering-out payments are retroactive and many men at NAAS are eligible if they were discharged or discharged and re-enrolled within the specified period. Only White House members were the first two men aboard the station to receive their mustering-out pay under the new Bill but the station Personnel Office and Disbursing Office have kept busy handling the claims of many more men eligible for the payment.

Robert J. Small and James Brewster Ricketts, Jr. were re-enrolled to include July 1953 in the naval reserve yesterday after completing their tour of duty aboard the station. Bob Small will be going back to his hometown of Northampton, Mass. Jim has decided to return to his studies at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in Cambridge, Mass.

Floyd E. Gisham and Miss Patricia Williams have set the date of Aug. 1 for the ceremony which will unite the couple in the holy bonds of matrimony. The exchanging of vows will take place in the Eastern Baptist Church at 7:00 p.m. Miss Williams is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Williams of Osteen and she is presently employed by the Southern Bell Telephone Company here in Sanford. Floyd is a third class personnelman presently performing duties in the station Personnel Office. He hails from Florence, Ala.

Guy W. Sapp has stored away his naval uniform as he left NAAS yesterday with an honorable discharge from the USN. Guy intends to remain here in Sanford with his wife, Shirley, and their two month old daughter, Guynelle Shirley.

Abraham R. Singletary, Claude D. Lee Jr. and Raymond E. Pettit all left the station today under three sets of orders completely different in nature. Abraham will be traveling cross-country to San Francisco where he will receive further assignments to see duty while Claude will be on his way to his home town, which home will be in the state of Maryland. Ray Pettit will journey to the New England states of Rhode Island for a nine week course in the Class "A" Storvenger's School at Newport, R.I. Upon completion of his studies there, Ray is scheduled to report back to Sanford to resume his regular duties here at NAAS.

"Blues" that make the "News" at NAAS will be getting ready their best set of "Whites" this week for the monthly Captain's Personnel Inspection, which will be held on Thursday morning. Along with a clean, white uniform, a haircut and extra-shining shoes shines are on the list of musts for the inspection. It would be a shame if it rained Saturday, wouldn't it, now??

STOCK DISEASE FOUND
JACKSONVILLE (AP) — Ten cases of a serious and often fatal disease have been found among horses and mules in four Northeast Florida counties, the Florida State Board of Health said Tuesday.

The board said a vaccination campaign has been started to combat the disease, eastern equine encephalitis, which has been discovered in Panama, Duval, St. Johns and Alachua counties.

Dr. James E. Satterday, Health Board veterinarian, said the disease is primarily found in horses and mules but it can be transmitted to people through mosquitoes, and other biting insects which feed off infected stock, then bite humans.

The disease is commonly called "blind staggers" because of the animals' peculiar behavior. Vaccination is the best preventive, Dr. Satterday said.

TODAY'S BIBLE VERSE

Nature makes no mistakes. The infinite has plans we do not understand. The foolishness of God is wiser than men.—1 Cor. 1: 25.

The Herald is glad to join in welcoming Thomas Lemon to Sanford and to wish him the best of success in his new duties as city manager.

Walter Lippmann, an old liberal, brings what seems to us the most stinging indictment against the present Administration. "The biggest fact about the government today," he says, "is that the men at the top have lost the power to decide and to direct even in the great questions." It is from the essential and very fundamental incompetence of the Administration that all the corruption and policy failures proceed.

An eight year old girl is reported by the Chief of Police to have confessed to helping her mother sell and distribute lottery tickets in a Cuba racket. Brought up in such an environment how can one expect her ever to become a good and law-abiding citizen. People who buy tickets from such a girl are helping to contribute to the delinquency of a minor just as much as her parents are and should be just as ashamed of themselves.

Illustrating the looseness with which our federal government is operated, the Administration has authority to spend some $157 billion dollars during the current fiscal year, but does not expect to spend, probably would not be able to spend, more than $80 billions. However, if you give a man twice as much as you expect him to spend, you cannot expect too much from him by way of judicious spending. The money burns in his pocket, and the chances are he will find some way to get rid of it.

Senator Kefauver is the most popular candidate for Democratic presidential nominee, a poll conducted by the Princeton Research Service reveals. He gets 41 percent of the total, Senator Russell 17 percent and Stevenson 13 percent, for the three first places. It is not hard to recognize Kefauver's popularity, but it is difficult to understand it. Aside from his coonskin cap and his bicycle that is too small for him he has no particular qualification whatever for the presidency except that he is against crime. That is important, to be sure. But aren't we all?

We know our readers have been enjoying the articles straight from the convention floor by Volie Williams, Jr. Seminole County representative, who with Brailley Odham is attending the Democratic convention as an observer from this city. We are particularly glad to have someone at this critical convention who can give us the straight inside dope and who is known and trusted by Seminole County people. There are going to be many different versions of this convention presented to the public as the truth during the next few months, and perhaps the next year. It is helpful to have the point of view of someone we know personally.

Northern columnist and one-time New Dealer, Raymond Moley, proposed a good, although unacceptable, suggestion to the Republican Party when he proposed that their platform include the words, "The Republican Party after 87 years realizes that it cannot get legislation enacted to thrust federal force upon the Southern states. It is hereby resolved that those states are solving the problem by themselves. It will therefore try to spare votes by abstaining from the nomination of any candidate who would be a threat to the maintenance of the status quo in the South."

Hope From Rubbish Heap

Most writing is done in the privacy of concentration and silence. Alone in a room or isolated in a crowded office, the scrivener sits in seclusion with his reader. As words string out across the page the author never guesses who's watching, following each sentence, thrilling, scoffing, laughing or crying with him.

Least aware of her readers was a little Jewish girl hiding in an Amsterdam warehouse attic two years while Nazis scoured the streets looking for her. They found her hide-away in 1944 and carried her off to the death pits of a concentration camp. She died there and her friends came to search the warehouse. They found her hand-written diary in a pile of rubbish. Recently published, it has now reached its third printing.

Anne Frank would be 23 years old today, possibly married, probably unknown. Because she whiled away the days and months and years of isolation writing her diary, only to be caught and killed at 16, she may well become immortal.

We have the memoirs of the generals, the war criminals, the presidents and prime ministers. They crowd the shelves of libraries and bookshops. They list facts, figures, battles, victories and retreats. But love, pain, fear, hope for the future in a dark, swirling world is seldom to be found. The ponderous acts and trilogies will not often be read except as reference sources. But the wistful tale of Anne Frank will capture readers for many years to come.

Convention Humorist

Fans of the late showman and humorist Will Rogers are eagerly awaiting the release of the movie based on his life. In the movie Rogers will be played by his son, Will Rogers, Jr., who bears an amazing resemblance to his father.

It seems particularly appropriate to release the Will Rogers picture during an election year for Rogers wrote some of his funniest columns on the subject of American politics. For many years he attended the political conventions of both parties and the pomposness of politicians made them easy targets for his sense of humor. He once maintained that he went to sleep with some 22 delegates pledged to his own candidacy but woke up to find that they had been stolen.

Will Rogers began his public career as a rodeo cowboy and his tricks with a lariat and his easy-going manner soon won him the affection of the American people. His wit was always sharp but never cruel. In election years many of his remarks will be quoted by speakers who wish to begin their remarks by providing audiences with a chuckle.

With all our faults we Americans have always had the ability to laugh at ourselves. Will Rogers had the keen eyes which could see what was funny and the amiable ability to point these things out without being offensive.

Record Improvement

The first phonographic device patented by Thomas Edison on July 31, 1877, provided a crude and unsatisfactory way to reproduce the human voice. Recordings were made by indentations on a sheet of tinfoil which when played back gave a whining, screechy approximation of the sounds that had been recorded.

Edison was a persistent man and he worked many years before he perfected the phonograph. Subsequent improvements on his invention have produced machines which faithfully reproduce the tone and the quality of the sounds put on records. Today we can enjoy music played by masters or hear the words of statesmen long dead simply by turning on record players. All of this resulted from the perseverance of one of the world's greatest inventors.

If Edison were to return today and hear the wails of some of the more popular singers and the raucous lack of harmony of some recorded music, the Wizard of Menlo Park might wonder why he went to all that trouble. His first crude effort would have served just as well for some of the records produced today. Others would undoubtedly delight him.

Similar positions in other cities.

Although the report indicates that Sanford has failed to take advantage of all its opportunities for growth and development, considerable progress is noted in recent years and a population of 25,000 is predicted within ten years, with the figures rising to 35,000 by 1972. Suitable provision for the future growth of the City is recommended in all projects currently undertaken.

The City Hall building itself is reported to be entirely adequate for the next ten years though some changes in interior arrangements are urged. Some revision of the City Charter is recommended and a codification of all City ordinances. A permanent inventory of City equipment and supplies is also advocated, as well as an overall audit by an accredited out of state auditing firm.

Public Opinion Poll

A cross sectional poll of public opinion conducted daily throughout the period of the survey indicated that 88% of Sanford people are against organized crime and in favor of consistent and efficient law enforcement. Some 98 percent are strongly opposed to the sale of liquor to minors and 89 percent condemn bootlegging while 87 percent are against horses and dog track gambling. 96 percent registered against permitting minors to gamble on pinball machines.

Ninety-two percent expressed themselves as in favor of a new addition to the fire station while 77 percent favored new fire fighting equipment. Eighty-seven percent are in favor of the new Municipal Baseball Stadium while 84 percent would like to see a full time recreational director employed by the City. Ninety percent support the employment of qualified and competent city manager.

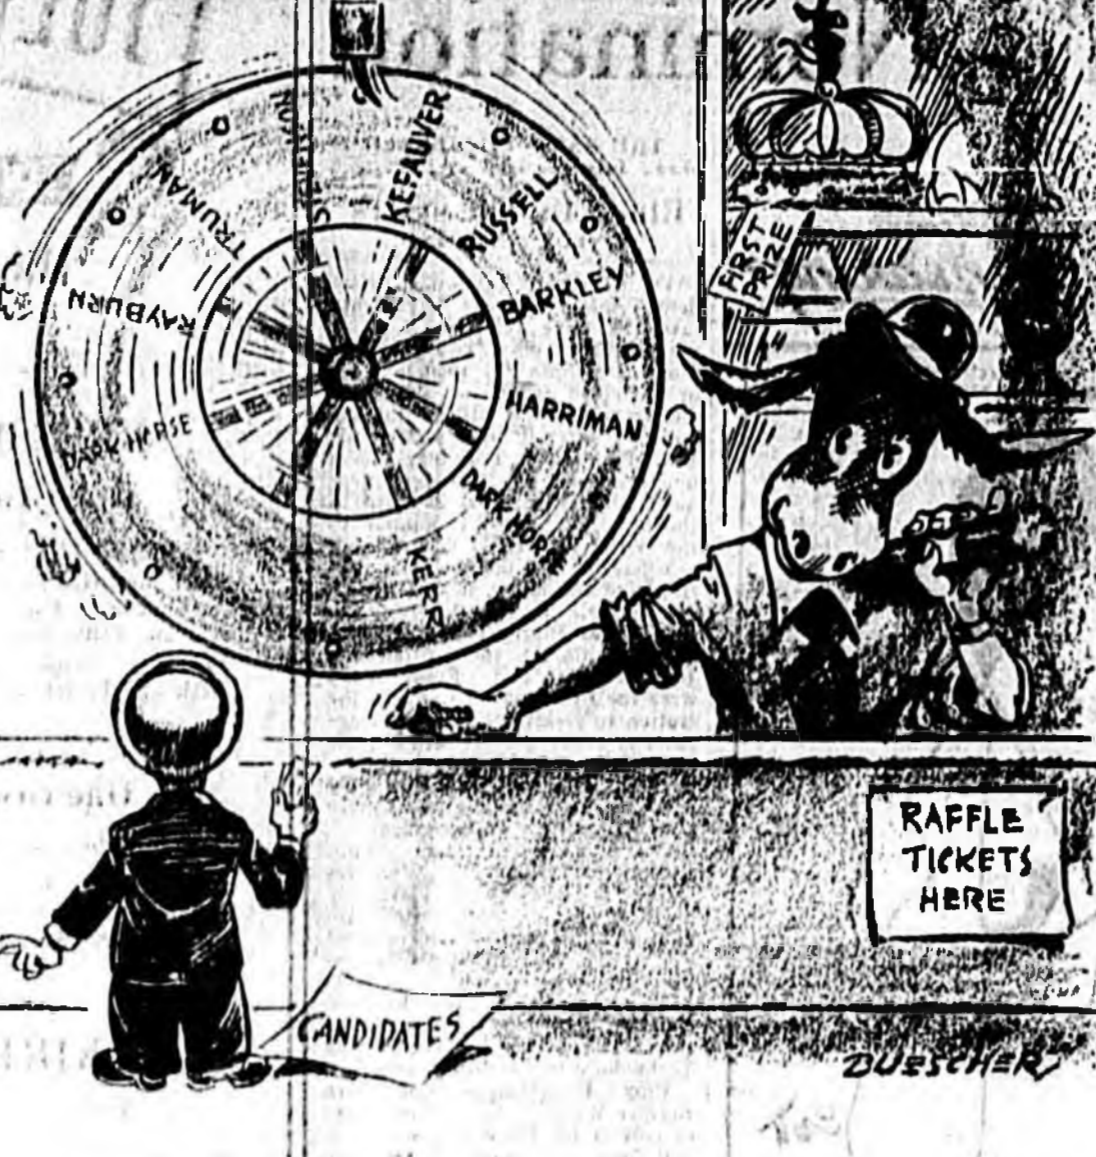

Only 48 percent are in favor of an extension of the City limits, but 83 percent expressed themselves as having confidence in the ability and integrity of the present City Commission.

Fifty-two percent are in favor of whiteway lights in the business district and better illumination generally throughout the City.

Eighty-seven percent favor immediate action to correct the overcrowded condition of the City Jail. Ninety percent favor the installation of a new sewer system and 84 percent favor the installation of a new water system.

Seventy-two percent are in favor of a new engine and water tower for the City and 84 percent favor the installation of a new fire engine.

The 19 Russell delegates over this night and he addressed the Illinois legislative not long ago and stated that in his opinion the question of civil rights was one for the individual states and not for the federal government.

The five delegates supporting Kefauver are not as ready to admit Stevenson will receive the nomination, and it is evident that a strange alliance is being created in a movement to stop Stevenson.

The Moody-Roosevelt-Harriman-Kefauver crowd do not want Illinois' governor to be the candidate, and it is no secret that President Truman is not now favorable to his candidacy. Even so, he is surprised to see Barkley and Russell come out openly for Stevenson.

Jerry W. Carter, Florida national committee man said today, "I am still for Russell for president. I think Kefauver is very much in the picture and I don't think Stevenson has the nomination in the bag." Carter, among others is of the opinion that Russell must be on the ballot, if just as a vice president, if the Democrats are to carry the South in November. However, Russell has stated that he will not accept the vice presidential nomination.

There were several mentioned among the Florida delegates yesterday at the convention hall at Jacksonville. Among them were Kefauver, Secretary of the Interior Oscar Chapman and Senator John Sparkman of Alabama. Senator George Smathers stated, "Between Sparkman, Kefauver and Chapman, I prefer them in just that order, and I would presume most of the Russell people would want Sparkman, since he is from nearby Alabama and has supported Dick Russell for President." Others among the Florida delegates did not agree with Smathers' choices.

There were many conferences going on throughout the day at Convention Hall. Those of us with television sets may have seen a spirited argument between Governor G. Mennen Williams of Michigan and several Florida delegates, including former State Senate President Sam Gideon of Gainesville (taken from Williams, "If you drive these six southern states out of this convention, you'll elect Eisenhower in November.")

"Yesterday was ladies' day at the convention. Addresses were given by Perle Mesta, I. S. Miller to Luxembourg; Mrs. Eugene Anderson, ambassador to Denmark; Mrs. India Edward, vice chairman of the national committee, and one of them, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, received a 17 minute ovation, longer by far than any accorded any previous speaker, man or woman.

"While awaiting the quieting of the tumult, Mrs. Roosevelt stood at the microphone, doing her best to keep a victory smile, but tears glistened in her eyes.

"Late last night, the credentials committee admitted both "regular" delegations from Texas and Mississippi. However, the maverick crowd from Texas had already served notice that it will appear to the convention itself. Several times during the day, I visited the credentials committee meeting on the 3rd floor of the Hilton. They were really working and I am convinced the Florida delegates will support the ruling of the committee.

Oddly enough the Judges picked another entry of Jean Ann's as the second best. It was "Prize" and "Surprise."

In making their choices the judges, Porter Lansing, Miss Zilla Welsh and Mrs. E. J. Moughton, were each given a separate list of names from which to pick. Results of the first caucus revealed that two of the judges favored "Jay" and "Cec" while the other judge had "Prize" and "Surprise." However, the second vote made Jean Ann's "Jay" and "Cec" unanimous.

Mr. Albee expressed his appreciation to all entries and thanked the newspapers for the fine publicity the contest received in the press.

"Sanford and the Junior Chamber received much fine publicity from the contest," he said.

The Judges' report also stated that there were many fine names but some had to be eliminated because they would be too inappropriate as the fawns grew older.

Gadsden County Will Stay Dry, Poll Says

QUINCY — Gadsden County will remain among Florida's dry counties.

Citizens voted overwhelmingly Tuesday to keep the county dry, reaffirming the stand they took in the last previous wet-dry ballot, 12 years ago.

The vote was tight, but the verdict was decisive. Returns from 11 of the 12 precincts gave the dry 5,100 votes against only 1,100 for the wet. The remaining precinct, which has a population of 100, was not counted.

County officials said the vote in 13 precincts showed the voters in favor of continuing the county's present status.

Air Force Officers Are Probing Cause Of Bomber Crash

MARIANNA — Air Force investigators studied the scattered wreckage of a B-47 jet bomber today in an effort to learn what caused it to break up in flight, killing its four crewmen and carrying death to two children playing on the ground.

The officers had no immediate public report of their findings.

Mr. and Mrs. Billy Williams planned funeral services at a nearby rural cemetery Thursday for their children—Peggy Diane, 5, and Rufus, 3—who were fatally burned by flaming fuel that also consumed the house next door to their Tuesday.

MacDill Air Force Base at Tampa, from which the engine bomber was on a training flight, identified the crew members as: Maj. Frederick Ewing, 31, Parkville, Mo., the plane commander; Capt. Oscar W. Von, 28, Beckley, W. Va., co-pilot; Capt. Richard E. Francis, 28, Clay City, Ind., observer; and Capt. James H. Forman, 28, Birmingham, Ala., instructor-observer.

At MacDill Field, Maj. Gen. Frank A. Armstrong, commanding general of the Sixth Air Division, withheld all deductions on the cause of the crash pending findings of a board of the nation's biggest and fastest bombers from the Tampa base in the past three weeks.

Tampa Is Threatened By Warehouse Blaze

TAMPA — Fire swept the Luckenbach Steamship Co. warehouse here today and every available unit in the Tampa fire department joined in a successful effort to prevent flames spreading to the nearby downtown business district.

No immediate report was available on the cause of property loss. The fire department said the sprawling structure was virtually a total loss, but little merchandise was reported stored there now.

Fire Inspector Manuel Onis, struck by a hose out of control, was taken to a hospital with a possible fractured neck. His condition was reported good, but X-rays were being taken to determine his exact injuries.

HIGHLIGHTS

By VOLIE WILLIAMS, JR.

CHICAGO, Ill. (Special)—A contagious excitement is in the air today as the delegates enter the international amphitheatre because this is the day of nomination. There is still considerable speculation among many delegates as to who the nominee will be.

In a conversation with Congressman Hiram Boren yesterday at Convention Hall, and before the vote on the acceptance of the credentials committee report, he stated that in his opinion if the delegates accepted the committee report and sent V. Williams Jr. as the "regular" delegates, Dick Russell would profit more than any other candidate.

Florida Russell supporters are considerably more vocal over the chances of their candidate than they were yesterday. The fact that Virginia, South Carolina and Louisiana have refused to sign the water-tight "assurance oath" has cost Russell considerable support however. It is difficult to understand the position of these three states. If they are interested in the Russell candidacy as they espouse.

It is the opinion of a ranking southern congressman who cannot be quoted that the important thing is to be certain that the party machinery is kept "in the right hands and out of the control of the A.D.A."

The co-chairman of the Alabama delegation, Wilbur Nolen Jr. of Montgomery in an interview with the Sanford Herald late last night said that Alabama would yield its nominating position to "either George or Kennedy." He stated that it was quite likely that a Florida delegate would nominate Dick Russell. Of course, that would help Russell immeasurably. When the Florida delegation was informed of this possibility, they were quite jubilant. And when cause either, because last night was Alben Barkley's night.

To the strains of "My Old Kentucky Home," "Happy Days Are Here Again," "Swanee River," the vice-president was accorded an ovation both before and after he spoke which was so effusive spontaneous that it must have thrilled his heart. He is the "grand old man" of the Democratic Party said some; "Mr. Democrat," said others; and it was evident that every person in attendance was proud to be joined with the party of Alben Barkley.

He had the complete attention of the mammoth audience and was interrupted time after time in his delivery on an entirely extemporaneous address. As he spoke from the heart and not from a piece of paper.

As he was introduced by former Senator Lucas, blue college banners were broken out all over the auditorium on which was printed "Markxy For President," and dodgers were thrown from the balconies shouting, "Barkxy Quits Here," "The dog was Barkxy." At the conclusion of his address, nearly every Democratic senator went to the platform and shook hands with him. Barkley and Hottel were among the first. Douglas hugged him around the neck. Jimmy Roosevelt, Lehman, Magnuson, and Humphrey were others. However, although several attempts were made by friends of both of them, Governor Byrnes of South Carolina refused to go to the platform. The same was true of Senator Harry Byrd of Virginia.

While Kefauver stopped the convention yesterday with his appearance, last night a man and a lady who appeared to be Chinese, came in the box next to ours and sat down, and after about 30 minutes (Continued on Page Three)

Russell's Name Is Put In Nomination At Convention; Stevenson Strength Grows

Louisiana, Carolina Virginia Answer To Rollcall Of States; Split Crisis Looms

By JACK DELL, CONVENTION HALL, Chicago (AP)—The Democratic convention apparently bent on making Adlai Stevenson its presidential nominee rushed toward its big moment today under threat of a possible only North-South fight right at nominating time.

Chairman Sam Rayburn said Louisiana, South Carolina and Virginia would be invited to answer the rollcall of states for nominating speeches.

Since all three have balked at signing a "loyalty" pledge that could precipitate a showdown scrap then and there on whether they would be allowed to cast their votes in the convention.

The fuse to touch it off would be for some delegate to challenge at that point their right to vote.

The convention had started its morning session at 10 a. m. when Rayburn passed this word to newsmen.

Sen. Richard Russell of Georgia, the South's hope and pride, put his name before the convention first.

Alabama, first on the alphabet, yielded to Georgia and venerable Walter George, Senate colleague of Russell, made the nominating speech.

That touched off the expected roaring demonstration with Dixie all to do the honors for its champion.

With the long list of candidates, and attendant nominating speeches and demonstrations, it could be late in the day before the Louisiana-South Carolina-Virginia issue was reached.

Backers of the Stevenson "draft" were trying to make it a bandwagon for him. Some supporters of other candidates conceded the Stevenson crowd were getting a lead, but they weren't conceding he could make it.

Many delegates who had been holding back were hopping to be heard by the Illinois convention.

Both Sen. Russell of Georgia and Rep. Kefauver of Tennessee also were picking up votes from the big bloc of uncommitted delegates and weren't conceding a thing.

Stevenson's supporters also had a security administrator also (Continued on Page Three)
