SEVEN TRAPPED IN TUNNEL WHEN CAVE-IN OCCURS

One Man Is Believed Killed And Six Others Are Listed As Missing; Many Workers Dig Out of Railroad Tube

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 3.—(AP)—Benjamin F. Mosby, fireman, died early today of injuries sustained yesterday in a cave-in of a section of the Chesapeake and Ohio tunnel at Churchhill, which trapped up was forty workmen, engaged in reinforcing its walls. This is the first known death though Tom Mason, engineer, is believed to have been killed when he was caught in the cab of his engine and several green are still unaccounted for. Rescue work, halted for a time last night because of dangerous gases in tunnel, was resumed this morning.

Engineer Tom Mason is believed to have been killed and six negro workmen and missing as the result of the cave-in of the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad tunnel at Churchhill here Friday afternoon, which trapped upwards of two score men engaged in re-inforcing its walls.

Most of the workmen, however, dug themselves out of the fallen earth and crawled to safety, and police officials declared tonight that little hope is held out for any remaining in the tunnel.

Gases drove the rescue workers from the tunnel shortly after nightfall and it was not believed that any who may now be entombed in the passage way, even though they may have jumped beneath flat cars, can survive the poisonous fumes.

The fact that those who escaped were hurried to hospitals or hospitals prevented officials from making any accurate check of the men who were in the tunnel when the slide came.

Engineer Mason is believed to be buried in his locomotive which was completely covered with earth. His fireman, D. F. Mosely, and A. C. Adams, a brakeman, both escaped. They were severely scalded by live steam which poured from the twisted boiler of the engine. C. S. Kalso, another brakeman, was also badly injured.

Moseley's escape is regarded as miraculous. He was in the cab with the engineer when the cave-in occurred and it was said that he got out by getting beneath flat cars buried in the earth. He said he had not seen Mason since the slide began.

Railway rescue crews were assisted in their work by squads of city policemen and firemen. Throngs of spectators kept off by the emergency lines which police threw about the scene stood in the trenches and watched the laborers.

While the relief workers toiled at the western entrance where the cave-in occurred, most of the survivors walked out of the eastern entrance nearly a mile away. This added further to the confusion of detail and check.

KILLED MAN TO SAVE OWN LIFE

COLE ASSERTS RECENT TRADE

Wealthy North Carolina Business Man Takes Stand in Defense of Slaying Former Suitor of Young Daughter

Defendant Weeps As He Tells His Story

Charge That Ormond and His Daughter Lived Together, Refuted by Elderly Parent

ROCKINGHAM, N. C., Oct. 3.—(AP)—Taking the witness stand in his own defense yesterday William B. Cole, wealthy cotton manufacturer, declared he shot W. W. Ormond, "to keep him from killing me and having my family at his mercy."

Cole is on trial for murder in connection with the death of Ormond, a former sweetheart of Elizabeth Cole, the defendant's daughter. Four eye witnesses have testified they saw Cole slay Ormond in the street of Rockingham last Aug. 15.

The trial, which has been in progress three days, was marked Friday by the testimony of Miss Cole, who declared Friday she had discovered Ormond as a suitor. Miss Cole denied allegation by Ormond that there had been improper relations between them. These allegations were contained in letters from Ormond to the young woman's father. It was shortly after receipt of one of these letters that the shooting took place.

Plea Is Self-defense. Cole took the stand after 10 witnesses had testified that the general character of his 24-year-old daughter, Elizabeth, was "wild, lewd, and after Frey Bynum, his personal attorney and confidant, had described their relations during the period the dead man is said to have slandered Elizabeth Cole and threatened her father.

He told a teller from Ormond delivered to him at his office in Rockingham. It was the letter, read to the jury Thursday, containing the remark that Ormond and Miss Cole had lived together as man and wife for "more than a year."

"I must have fainted when I read the slander part. I lost consciousness and when I came to I was in a clammy sweat, took a walk and tried to decide what to do. I then decided to call her."

"When she drove up in the car, dressed in riding clothes, she looked so pure—so sweet. I lost control and cried. The man's voice broke, tears filled his eyes, and he reached in the nation's military establishment, but in this proposed department he said the air service should be left under the army and navy respectively.

Commander Rodgers made only a passing reference to the Shenandoah disaster, saying he could not "see how the navy department, in any way, be responsible for the fact that a good airship, well manned and captained, goes out on a cruise, meets heavy weather and is lost."

Although Commander Rodgers has been selected to succeed Captain A. W. Johnson as assistant naval air chief, he made no mention of the fact in his testimony, merely stating he had recently been assigned to command of the Hawaiian flight and later to special duty to appear before the board.

Palm Beach To Have Another Fine Hotel WEST PALM BEACH, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Palm Beach is to have another magnificent hotel added to its already increasing number of fine hostilities being erected this morning, according to an announced contract which has been awarded by the Southern Florida Realty Corporation for the erection of a $3,500,000 hotel.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Heavy buying orders poured into the stock market from all quarters Friday, bringing about a vigorous rise in prices and swelling the day's trading to 2,968,000 shares, one of the heaviest trading sessions this year. Nearly 30 representative issues mounted to 1925 peak prices in what was described as the broadest market since the peak of the bull movement late last year.

Retention of the New York federal reserve bank's discount rate of 3 1/2 per cent accepted as an indication of the country's sound credit and financial position, aroused speculative enthusiasm to a high pitch and aggressive bullish demonstrations were carried out in a wide variety of standard industrial shares under the leadership of United States Steel.

RODGERS RAPS MITCHELL FOR RECENT TRADE

Flings Challenge To World For Criticism

PN-9 Commander Denies That Flight Arrangements Were Made by 'Non-Flying Men'

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Colonel William Mitchell's charge of "amateur bombing" by "non-flying" officers, by the attempted Hawaiian flight drew a ringing denunciation Friday from Commander John Rodgers, leader of the expedition.

Testifying before the president's air board, Commander Rodgers, without mentioning Mitchell by name, took the opportunity to point out what mistakes were made before or after, I challenge anyone to make a just criticism of that flight."

The PN-9 No. 1 commander also took direct issue with the colonel's assertion that arrangements for the flight were carried out by "non-flying" officers. He said he was given a free hand and full cooperation by the Bureau of Aeronautics in preparing for the trip and that his record would prove he was a competent naval aviator.

"I cannot see," he asserted "how the navy department can be held responsible for the failure of the flight. Everything was done that could be done.

"The secretary of the navy personally visited San Diego and ordered the bureau of Aeronautics to give us everything we asked for. This was done."

After hearing Rodgers, the board adjourned until Monday when it will continue the examination of naval air officers. The recess was taken to permit several board members to leave the city to attend to business matters.

Favors Service Re-organization. Commander Rodgers agreed with the testimony given by seven other air officers in urging a change in the organization of the naval air service as necessary to improve the morale of its personnel. He, however, was at variance with their views in favor of establishing a separate corps in the navy. He said he favored a separate budget and promotion list for the service but did not think such a corps desirable.

The commander advocated creation of a department of National Defense as an ultimate goal to be reached in the nation's military establishment, but in this proposed department he said the air service should be left under the army and navy respectively.

Commander Rodgers made only a passing reference to the Shenandoah disaster, saying he could not "see how the navy department, in any way, be responsible for the fact that a good airship, well manned and captained, goes out on a cruise, meets heavy weather and is lost."

Although Commander Rodgers has been selected to succeed Captain A. W. Johnson as assistant naval air chief, he made no mention of the fact in his testimony, merely stating he had recently been assigned to command of the Hawaiian flight and later to special duty to appear before the board.

Some disappointment over the provisional debt funding plan of France, was expressed in financial circles, but it was not registered in the stock market. Wall street's reaction however was reflected in a sharp break of about ten points in the French franc and new selling of French bonds, which were depressed 1 1/2 to 2 points. Sterling exchange continued to feel the effects of the reduction in the London bank rate, selling around $4.83 11-16, the lowest level since Britain's return to the gold standard.

168 APPLICANTS FILE PAPERS FOR REALTY LICENSE

CITY WILL ERECT NEW PAVILION ON MUNICIPAL DOCK

Applications filed in the office of Judge J. G. Sharon of Seminole county, by real estate brokers and salesmen in Sanford and Seminole county, for licenses under the new state law effective Oct. 1, numbered 168 this morning, according to officials connected with the license bureau, who made the announcement.

Because of delay in the arrival here of application blanks, brokers and salesmen necessarily are operating without licenses and in technical violation of the laws at this time, it is pointed out.

Under the circumstances, council officials said, nothing will be done about it, but they joined in urging dealers to apply at once and get their licenses soon because of the possibility that transactions handled in the meantime may be questioned later.

The law provides it is said, for a delay of 10 days between the filing of an application and the granting of a license so that an opportunity may be given persons who wish to protest the licensing of any broker or salesman because of improper practices.

First Licenses Next Week. Local officers today stated that the first licenses will be issued next week by John D. Jenkins, county tax collector, at which time the 10-day period will have elapsed for some of the earlier applicants.

No further delay in the matter of application blanks is expected at the county offices, Judge Sharon reports, the arrival yesterday of an additional 500 blanks, which, it is declared will be sufficient for the demands of this county.

The attention of local realtors has been directed by the officials to an ambiguous error in the circular issued in interpretation of the new law. Some misunderstanding has resulted, it is said from the substitution of the word "salesman" for broker. According to the corrected application of the requirements, every member of a real estate brokerage concern must file an application for broker's license. Only those employed as salesmen can take out a salesman's license, it is declared.

Must Get Additional Licenses. A number of local concerns will have to make application for additional licenses. (Continued on Page Three)

Sanford Banks Show 60 Per Cent Gain in Last Twelve Months

Deposits of 3 Local Institutions Total $4,711,812.01 When Third Quarter Ends

Resources Amount To $5,219,532.52

Seminole County Bank Leads Institutions With Large Increase

Bank deposits in Sanford for the month of September totaled $4,711,812, according to figures made public today by officers of the three local financial institutions. Comparison of this amount with the figures on file representing the volume of business for the same month in 1924 when deposits amounted to $2,968,408.77, shows a gain of $1,743,403.23 during the year or approximately 60 per cent.

Total resources of the banks in this city at the close of business, Sept. 30, amounted to $5,219,532.52. It was shown in information announced at the same time today, that the total resources of $1,964,770.97, or approximately 63 per cent, since on the same date in 1924 the total resources of the local institution totaled $3,555,982.55.

Keen satisfaction is felt in local financial circles, over the results shown in this survey, it is stated. A 60 per cent increase in banking business in one year is a record to which any community can point with justifiable pride, according to those in close touch with the subject. Due, it is declared, to the rapid growth and enterprise displayed in and by Sanford, the reflection in the local financial institutions is said to be the source of great optimism among business men and others in the community.

According to the figures released here today, the Seminole County Bank shows the greatest gain among the local banks for the period. Deposits at this institution of Sept. 30, 1924 were $1,077,169 while on the same date of this year the total is noted as $2,047,858. The increase of $970,689 is shown as being approximately nearly 100 per cent greater for the year. Resources at this banking house increased nearly as much it is shown when the statement of 1924, $1,295,194, is compared to that of 1925, which amounted to $2,238,783.

Report of deposits at the First National Bank of this city show $1,400,806.07 on Oct. 1, 1924 and $2,100,600.04 on the same date of this year. The difference of $709,794.47 represents an increase of approximately 50 per cent at this institution for the year. It is shown. Resources increased during the 12 month period it is said.

Business at the Sanford Bank and Trust Company, organized in July, 1924, jumped approximately 40 per cent in the volume of business transacted from Oct. 1, 1924 to Oct. 1, 1925, comparative figures made public at the institution today show. Deposits there on the date indicated last year amounted to $904,470, as against $559,819.02 reported on the books this month. Resources on Oct. 1, 1924 were $577,507.04, and are shown to have increased during the year to $628,120.64.

Comparative tabulation of the deposits of all three banks in the city, showing figures for the month of September of 1924 and 1925, are here given. Seminole County Bank, 1924, $1,077,169; 1925, $2,047,858. First National Bank, 1924, $1,400,806.07; 1925, $2,100,600.04. Sanford Bank and Trust Company, 1924, $904,470; 1925, $559,819.02.

Resources at the close of September business for the two years at a glance are shown as follows: Seminole County Bank, 1924, $1,295,194; 1925, $2,238,783. First National Bank, $1,682,351.51; 1925, $2,352,928.92. Sanford Bank and Trust Company, 1924, $577,507.04; 1925, $628,120.64.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—(AP)—A solemn warning by Elihu Root that "controversies and quarrels between nations are certain to come" and that "the agreements not to have these things happen are futile," was sounded today in his paper on codification, presented by Representative Theodore Burton to the Inter-Parliamentary Unions Conference here.

The paper's author, recognized by conferees as one of the world's outstanding authorities on international affairs, held that codification had a special importance at this time because of the necessity of enlarging the service rendered by the permanent court of international justice.

This court was one of a group of judicial institutions with the league of nations and the Hague Court of Arbitration which the writer said, "promised to facilitate preservation of peace to a degree never before attained."

Tampa Children, Shot By Brother, Dying TAMPA, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Violet, aged four, and Arthur, aged two, children of Mr. and Mrs. Will Nobles of West Tampa were shot by their older brother, Norbert, while they were at their home today, when their parents were away. The wounded children are not expected to live. The girl, still conscious in a local hospital, said Norbert shot her "because he thought he had got mad." Her father said it was an accident. BEER KING AND HIS ASSOCIATE JAILED IN CONTEMPT CASE

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Terrence Dragan, beer baron, was committed to the De Kalb county jail at Saymore, and his partner, Frank Lane, to the Du Page jail at Wheaton Friday by Judge Wilkerson at the close of the contempt proceedings in federal court.

It would shock all sense of propriety to return them to the Cook county jail, the court said in explanation of the order, "said while the court has authority to hold them in a contempt proceeding it has no power to parole them or release them on bail."

The court made it clear he was holding them as government witnesses and not as prisoners. Nine other defendants were released on bail pending decision in the case.

This decision is almost certain to commit former jailers behind the bars, it is believed here. District Attorney Olson said:

"This is the most important trial and investigation ever conducted by a court or justice. The government believes it has proved guilty every one of the defendants now before the court."

"Having established that the Cook county jail is honeycombed with official graft and corruption, the federal government believes adequate penalties should be enforced."

"If sworn public officials on the inside working in conjunction with powerful political corruptionists on the outside can open the prison doors to criminals at will and get away with it, then all courts, both federal and state, may as well close their doors."

Englishman, III, Weds California Girl in Sanford While On Way Home

Weddings as a general rule, are not a matter of interest to more than a close circle of friends of the contracting parties, but the attention of the general public has been drawn to a marriage solemnized recently at the office of County Judge J. G. Sharon, at the court house.

Romance and a courtship carried on across a continent, ill health and advised travel, a desire for companionship during the long lonely stretches of a length sea voyage, and a woman's pity and love culminated last Saturday, when Frank Adams, a native of England, and a recent resident of St. Petersburg, and Mrs. Clara E. Wickware, who gave her address as California, were united by a civil ceremony at the justice's office here by Mrs. Cassandra Schultz.

According to Mrs. Schultz, to whom the strange story was told, the couple met in St. Petersburg last winter. Mr. Adams had been engaged in business in the Sunshine City for some time previous to his acquaintance with Mrs. Wickware, who had gone to St. Petersburg on account of her health. The friendship deepened during the months they were together in the Florida city. In holding Mrs. Wickware returned to her home on the Pacific Coast.

Health Begins to Decline. During the past summer, Mr. Adams' health, which had not been good for some time, declined rapidly, and a few weeks ago, upon the advice of his physician, he decided to return to his native land. Constant correspondence with the woman, who had shown an interest in him during the previous winter, had served to enhance the position she held in his regard.

Time had served to deepen Mrs. Wickware's feelings for the tall foreigner, it is said, and when she was acquainted with the circumstances, and asked to accompany the lonely man on the trip as his wife, she readily consented.

Arrangements were completed, and they greeted each other again in Orlando one week ago. Coming to Sanford, the ceremony was performed by Mrs. Schultz. It was after coming to Sanford, the couple went directly to the court house.

In our Tampa office yesterday, when this astounding news was made public, spirited bidding began for property just North, and profits of thousands of dollars were offered to many fortunate owners.

SEALS INCREASE; BECOME MENACE TO FISHERMEN

Multiplying Animals in Pacific Northwest Constitute Danger of Extermination To Fishing Business

OLYMPIA, Wash., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Hair seals have increased in recent years to such numbers that they are becoming a serious menace to the salmon fishing industry in the Northwest.

Senators and congressmen, hardly necessary to say, have found places in these bureaus very handy to use out to political henchmen and henchwomen.

At present the only checks on the operations of the few professional hunters who pursue them for the $3 bounty offered by the state and the occasional forays of local sportsmen.

STEWART'S WASHINGTON LETTER

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Senator Curtis has succeeded finally in throwing a real scare into the Washington bureaucracies.

Now, however, comes Curtis with the announcement that he intends to introduce a bill giving blanket authority to the president to do all the executive reorganizing, consolidating, readjusting and reducing as he sees fit.

While the original method of hunting seals was to approach them from the shore at low tide and shoot them with a heavy rifle of buck not, the use of semi-speed boat by sportsmen has added zest to the chase.

POULTRY DISEASES DISCUSSED
 After a short recess, Chairman
 Purdy presented Dr. A. D. Sanders of University of Florida addressing the institute in detail on "Pouleach poultry man to exercise great care in raising poultry as preven-precautions such as good drainage of poultry yards, too much moisture breeds disease; ventilation without drafts is essential; cleanliness of poultry and poultry houses vitally necessary; regular disinfection of poultry runs and houses to eliminate mites, etc.

 set a pencil point on the paper, determined to go to the settlement pencil dropped midway be-said, and the pair came here.

SEALS INCREASE; BECOME MENACE TO FISHERMEN

Multiplying Animals in Pacific Northwest Constitute Danger of Extinction To Fishing Business

OLYMPIA, Wash., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Hair seals have increased in recent years to such numbers that they are becoming a serious menace to the salmon fishing industry in the Northwest. As a means of getting rid of the menace, Arthur B. Einarson, formerly with the Washington state fisheries department, has suggested that the aid of American sportsmen be enlisted in a drive against the animals. Sportsmen, he declares, would find seal hunting a game worthy of their skill and one which would enable them to fill in July and August when the season on big game is closed in most localities.

Seals, found in large numbers on the beaches at low tide, hookerily prey on fish, and since the seals take heavy toll of this food fish. Feeding tests have shown that an adult seal requires about 20 pounds of fish for a meal.

At present the only checks on the increase of the seals are the operations of the few professional hunters who pursue them for the $3 bounty offered by the state and the occasional forays of local sportsmen. In view of these facts, unless the state wishes to subsidize the extermination, the most logical solution of the problem lies in soliciting the aid of interested sportsmen, Mr. Einarson declared. The sport is a very keen one and requires skill and returns a greater thrill than anything we have with

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Senator Curtis has succeeded finally in throwing a real scare into the Washington bureaucrats.

Talk about abolishing some of them, consolidating others, cutting down their personnel to a business basis and eliminating a lot of the waste that most of them have been responsible for has been going on ever since the war. It hasn't worried them much. So long as congressional action was necessary to trim them in size and reduce them in number, it was pretty clear to the bureaucrats that their lives, as well as to others, that they were in little danger.

Senators and congressmen, hardly necessary to say, have found places in these bureaus very handy to pass out to political henchmen and henchwomen. Naturally they don't like to see an end put to this patronage. For one thing, losing it will crowd them in future. For another thing, each little bureaucrat who's job is abolished will blame his particular congressman for it, and so will his friends, and it may make a difference to the congressman himself when the next election day rolls around.

In a general way a majority of the exception of big game hunting. The seal is a voracious animal and persecution leads to extreme weariness on their part. The fact that there is such an element of chance in seal hunting discourages any great effort to exterminate them by professional seal hunters. While the original method of hunting seals was to approach them from the shore at low tide and shoot them with a heavy rifle of buck root, the use of semi-speed boat by sportsmen has added zest to the chase.

Don't deprive yourself and your family of the benefits and pleasures to be gained by making yourself a part of your community. ERT TRUE BY CONDO THERE'S A WORLD OF TRUTH IN THAT — IF YOU LEAVE OUT THE LAST WORD.

WOMAN, AND I WON'T LEAVE YOU THE LAST WORD!!!

WOMAN, AND I WON'T LEAVE YOU THE LAST WORD!!!

Probably a Pessimist

How often have we heard some poor disgruntled soul cry out at the injustice of fate because it may have been his chance to be born in an unknown village far from the hub of humanity? How often has the young lawyer in the small town wailed, "Oh, if I but had the opportunities which come to those in the big city?" How many a tear has the village belle shed because in her out-of-the-way lover's lane no Prince Charming has ever yet shown himself?

Inwardly, with self-pity, they see themselves restricted by the limitations of environment. They fancy themselves "more sinned against than sinning." Doubtless they sob to themselves those lines of Thomas Gray:

Full many a gem of purest ray serene
The dark unfathomed caves of ocean bear;
Full many a flower is born to blush unseen,
And waste its sweetness on the desert air.

But in all probability theirs is not such a case. They are not "a gem of purest ray serene" else they would attain success anyway. Occasionally, perhaps, such a gem does lie unseen; but almost certainly, sooner or later, someone will discover it and lay it on a table where all may see. If not, there must be a flaw in the gem.

We are more inclined to believe that the sentiment expressed by Dr. John Paxton in the following lines is a truer one than is that contained in the verses of the famous poet: A man can't be hid. He may be a peddler in the mountains, but the world will find him out to make him a king of finance. He may be carrying cabbages from Long Island, when the world will demand that he shall run the railways of the continent. He may be a groceryman on the canal, when the country shall come to him in his career of usefulness. So that there comes a time finally when all the green barrels of petroleum in the land suggest but two names and one great company.

Do your work well every day, that is all. You do not need to worry about the fame, which will surely come to you if you are better than anyone else. No matter how circumscribed your environment may be, if you are a chauffeur, drive your car better than anybody else in town; if you are a bookkeeper, keep your books more orderly than anybody else's you know of; if you are a doctor know your medicine, and cure more cases than any other doctor in the medical journal. Sooner or later the world will find you out and you will become great.

Remember what Emerson has written:

If a man has good corn, or wood, or boards, or pigs to sell, or can make better chairs or knives, crucibles, or church organs than anybody else, you will find a broad, hard-beaten road to his house, though it be in the woods. And if a man knows the law, people will find it out, though he live in a pine shanty, and resort to him. And if a man can pipe or sing, so as to wrap the prisoned soul in an elysium; or can paint landscape, and convey into oils and ochers all the enchantments of spring or autumn; or can liberate or intoxicate all people who hear him with delicious songs and verses, 'tis certain that the secret cannot be kept; the first witness tells it to a second, and men go by fives and tens and fifties to his door.

So the disgruntled old duffer who says he didn't have a chance because he was born and raised in a small town, is probably nothing more than a chronic pessimist. Don't pay any attention to him. Go ahead and do your job every day to the best of your ability and you'll reach the top all right.

Driving While Drunk

In one of our exchanges we noticed the other day an editorial which read in part: "No man who is found guilty of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor should ever be permitted to operate a car again." The exchange happened to be the Providence News which went on to say that the ever increasing number of automobiles in Rhode Island "puts squarely up to the General Assembly the duty of passing legislation that will eliminate the hazard of reckless and incompetent driving."

We had no sooner finished that article than we picked up another paper in which we read of that distressing accident in Miami last week. A large automobile bus carrying tourists back to Georgia crashed into a tree. One man was killed, another seriously wounded, and many others injured.

Later it developed that the driver was under the influence of liquor when the accident occurred and a warrant was issued for his arrest. He has been charged with manslaughter, and that is as far as we are able to go with this story today. What his penalty will be it is hard to say, but there can be little doubt in anyone's mind what it should be. Judicial and executive departments in this country are in the habit of functioning too late. Their duty should be to prevent such occurrences as this. The driver had been drinking liquor. Where did he get liquor in a country which has the Eighteenth Amendment? How did he happen to be driving a car while drunk, in a state which has laws forbidding that very thing?

Why didn't policemen apprehend him while he was buying liquor, or when he was driving the bus while drunk before the accident occurred? Why did they wait until a man had been killed to enforce the laws of the land?

MY FAVORITE STORIES

By IRVIN S. COBB

When not engaged in reciting "Casey at the Bat" by request, De Wolf Hopper, in his lighter hours, delights in telling a certain yarn. It is his favorite story—incidentally it is a favorite of mine. As Hopper tells it a Christmas entertainment was being planned in a remote Nevada town. The affair was to take place at the church, and the local Sunday school superintendent, a mild and gentle man with a temperamental Adam's apple and an aggravated habit of wearing white string ties one week and black ones the next, had charge. By the eleventh hour it looked as though the manager of the show must depend exclusively upon home talent in making up the bill. But late in the afternoon of Christmas eve, as though directed by Providence, a shabby freight train carrying a passenger instrument case under his arm. He sought out the superintendent, introduced himself—modestly—as a distinguished musician on tour and volunteered to take part in the night's program. Delighted at having enlisted a visiting star from out of the East, the superintendent assigned him the place of honor.

At the proper moment the pleased promoter in his role of master of ceremonies came forth upon the improvised stage and announced that he had a delightful surprise and a wonderful treat and all that sort of thing for the audience. Prof. Bilbus, a famous clarinet player direct from New York City and at present sojourning temporarily in their midst, would now favor the assembled citizens with a solo. He stepped to one side and from the wings issued the visitor who bowed low in response to the applause and then lifting his instrument to his lips emitted one of the sourest and most dismal of notes. In his shock and disappointment a big miner at the back of the house forgot his proprieties. "Well, the blankety blank!" he exclaimed in a voice which reached beyond the footlights. Quivering with indignation the instructor sprang forward again to the center. "Wait!" he called out. "Who called the clarinet player a blankety blank?" The miner was instantly silent with a counter shot. "Who called the clarinet player a blankety blank?"

As Brisbane Sees It

Democracy of France
Clemenceau at St.
Jeffre Bored by Gray
Abolish New York.

BY ARTHUR BISHOP
(Copyright 1922)

THEY HAVE a real democracy in France, and their best public men, powerful in mind, simple in heart, and truly democratic, are what statesmen in a Republic should be.

ON MONDAY, Clemenceau, who carried the French Government through the most horrible period of the war, well named "The Tiger" for his determined courage, celebrated his 84th birthday.

Where did he celebrate it? In some French palace formerly occupied by Kings and Emperors? No, in a little cabin, such as a prosperous American chauffeur would disdain, on the Vendee Coast, overlooking the wild waters upon which the Basque ancestors of Marshal Foch hunted whales in ancient days.

CLEMENCEAU, 84 years old, is not old. Instead of wasting time contemplating his past glories, Clemenceau is writing a book dealing with "The Conception of God Through the Ages."

The old man realizes that soon he will know, if he knows anything, what the truth is about the various Gods that men have invented or had revealed to them.

HE IS PUTTING his thoughts in order. FREE OF flummery, not concentrated on their own achievements, true Democrats are modern French leaders.

Old Marshall Joffre, working in his garden, in the plain clothes of a French peasant, is annoyed by a request to represent the Academy of Immortals, celebrating the anniversary of the victory of the Marne "Mais Quoi Dons," exclaimed the old fighter. "Is this sort of thing going to take place, every year?"

THERE IS A REAL Democrat Joffre fought the battle and won the victory for his country. That is enough. He doesn't want to be bored by celebrating and hearing himself praised every year.

You won't always find that frame of mind among our eminent statesmen. CAILLAUX REPRESENTING France, suggests that the United States might be content to accept payment in full, over a period of sixty years, of all the money that the United States lent to France, and not charge interest.

THAT INTEREST would run into billions of dollars it is true. But those billions would not be enough to pay what this country owes to France. To her inspiration and genius we owe the mental power of men like Franklin and Jefferson, their contempt for kings, and their leadership that made possible our Revolution in 1776.

Whatever that Revolution was worth to us, we should recognize in our dealings with France.

THE METHODIST Episcopal Church, investigating conditions in New York, announces that the city is on trial, and seriously considers recommending that the whole monstrosity "be wiped out."

"Throughout the great part of the United States," say the Methodist Episcopal authorities, "the people are asking whether they have created a Frankenstein in building the gigantic city?"

IT IS A SERIOUS question, to New York especially. Methodist Episcopalians learn with violent alarm that bad as the theatres have been in New York, "the present season is to be the profane and most immodest in American history."

THAT'S BAD, but church authorities should consider how many things would be wiped out, along with the theatres and the bootleggers, if you wiped out New York.

Columbia College and the University of New York would go. Also the Metropolitan Museum, and the Museum of Natural History.

Those four institutions may in time do more than enough good to counterbalance all the harm that can ever be done by young theatre ladies, inadequately clothed—assuming that New York is as bad as these religious gentlemen think it.

Also consider the eminently respectable concerns that would have to go, should New York take the Sodom and Gomorrah "cure" J. Pierpont Morgan would vanish, with Kuhn, Loeb and Company, Dillon-Read, S. W. Strauss and Company, and with them would go a thousand other names each of which one means big money.

Those institutions do not work in New York only, or even chiefly. They build railroads, houses, factories, finance and make possible enterprises all over the United States.

Have a kind word for New York City, to cut it out of the United States might mean a very serious major operation, dangerous for the patient.

Contemporary Comment

It is a fact well established by our pastor and others that we get part of our hell, if not all of it, right here in this world and we suppose the go-getters in Florida have to keep their coats on the hottest, muggiest, most suffocating days and talk to prominent people about what a delightful breeze there is—Ohio Journal.

THE POACHER

JUST IN PASSING

BY P. J. HOLLY

It is rather difficult these days to tell a golf player from a real estate man—they are dressing so much alike. Joe Marenette says the only difference is that the real estate man has blue eyes.

Well, my friend, the real estate man, will not have to pay that high license. They will be put under bond to the city of Sanford and this will help some—the city of Sanford probably. At any rate they have been put under bond along with the bank robbers and other folks.

Will McKinnon of McKinnon & Markwood dared Capt. P. M. Elder to wear golf togs the other day. Said he would donate him an outfit if he would wear it. Cap has never taken a dare yet and he immediately donned the togs and wore them round all day. Not only that but he played me a game of golf and he swung a nasty club. It is a question now just who the joke is on—McKinnon or Elder.

And just now we are working on a plan to have Doc Aldridge put on a suit of golf togs and wear them on First Street. Doc says he is not afraid to wear them but he is afraid of catching cold when he makes a change—if you know what I mean.

Last year I bantered Mayor Lake and F. P. Forster to put on golf suits but up to date they have not appeared in them. If Sanford folks would take up golf in earnest they would not only feel much better but they would go a long way toward entertaining our winter visitors. The folks who come here want to play local people and they feel lonesome if we do not play golf.

So many new lawyers want to practice in Florida that 600 failed to get in under the wire and they will not be allowed to stand the examination. If the other 5,000 get by, it ought to make law come cheaper. Now if they get too thick we can have the city put a high license and a big bond on them and hold them down like the "real estaters."

We should worry about Atlanta and California newspapers attacking our fair state. What does that mean to the state that is growing so fast that not even Atlanta and California can keep up with it. I never worry about what the other fellow says about me. If he keeps absolutely still and says nothing, it is cause for worry.

And then Alabama is said to be very prolific in taking a crack at Florida, forgetting that there is quite a nice piece of money coming into Alabama from Florida projects. But since the last man left in Alabama came to Florida last week we can hardly blame the state for feeling sore.

The next time I go to war it will not be in a submarine, in an airship or in an airplane. After reading of the various accidents that have happened to all of these ships lately it seems that the safest place is right here in Sanford on Lake Monroe,—as a member of Commodore Emory's yacht club.

December approaches and the joys of another election wherein a city commissioner will be elected for another three years. Up to date several patriots have signified their willingness to make the sacrifice but they have not announced openly—only dreamed it.

The job of city commissioner is a big one and getting bigger every day and the man who serves a three year term is doing something for his city and doing it without pay. He gets all the criticism and none of the praises for making Sanford a bigger and better city.

As usual many of my friends have approached me on the subject of making the race but I would not be a candidate for all the money in Sanford subdivisions. And that is why I admire the men who have been city commissioners and city commissioners will be city commissioners in the years to come. They are doing something and unless I could take their place and do better I would not criticize them.

But all these political jobs are there for the asking and all officers are open to competition—therefore, there will probably be some competition when it comes to passing petitions around for those who want to serve the city in the next three years.

The resale of city lots show what Sanford real estate is really worth. Lots that I sold last year for $800 are now bringing as high as $2,500 which is not a bad profit in six months' time. And yet if they had been held all this time by one party they would never have the present price. It takes turning to bring the prices and make real estate popular.

"I" AND "ME"

SAVANNAH MORNING NEWS

The difference between "I" and "we" and between "me" and "us" and between "mine" and "ours" is difference between savagery and civilization and co-operative social life on the one side and a crude sort of misunderstanding of the proposition that takes the extreme path in communism and radical socialism and that sort of thing; it is the same path that leads from selfishness to broader co-operation.

"Mine and thine" understood properly is the basis of the liberty of community life as well as the foundation of the preservation of the necessary individual and personal rights and privileges. In these days the "my" is better advanced more rapidly advanced, more safely and broadly established, and the "our" is properly considered in real co-operation. The Waycross Journal-Herald had a most timely comment along this line some time ago:

If I am going to be a constructive citizen that construction will not be done by "my" way but by "our" way.

I alone cannot build a city. But, I together with a large number of other citizens, can build a city. But to accomplish this I must be willing to make my plans fit in with the plans of others and to help the plans of others fit in.

It is the "we" spirit that builds cities. It has taken the race of man thousands of years, of pain and learning, of blood and sweat and tears, of experiment, of experience, to learn that the way to do one's self real good is to do good for the whole.

SANFORD WOMAN'S CLUB TO BEGIN ITS SEASON OF MANY ACTIVITIES NEXT WEEK WITH ANNUAL MEET

The Sanford Woman's Club will open the club year Wednesday at the regular business meeting at 8 o'clock with Mrs. Henry Wright, the president, presiding. Mrs. William F. Blackman, state president of the Florida Federation of Women's Clubs, will be present for the business meeting and for the reception to the teachers of the Sanford Public Schools which will follow the business meeting. It will be delightful having Mrs. Blackman as she has been a member of this club and is always a welcome guest.

There was given a presentation of the Art Exhibit of the Pen and Brush Club of New York. A series of musical receptions with interesting programs and attractive settings were given. Many visitors were entertained at bridge parties and the Christmas Dance. A spirit of co-operation between the club and city officials was enjoyed which resulted in the passing of legislation authorizing a tax levy of one mill for purposes of city beautification.

There was also a substantial increase in membership.

Raffled Will Debate Orlando Man Sunday

The following notice which appeared Friday in the Orlando Morning Sentinel will be of much interest in Sanford as this is a resumption of a most interesting series of forum meetings which were held last winter.

The Y. M. H. A. offers a debate next Sunday, Oct. 4, at 8:15 p. m. at the Angelbill hotel, on the tenth floor dining room. The subject will be:

Resolved, That the United States should cancel the Allied war debt! Louis Bander, president of the Y. M. H. A., of Orlando, takes the affirmative, and Al Raiffeld, of Sanford, the negative.

FLORIDA FACTS

The Children's Home Society of Florida has given and cared for 12,195 children during the past 15 years.

The society has three homes. They are in Jacksonville, Pensacola and Miami.

The society now cares for 1,500 children annually while 15 years ago it cared for less than 100 annually.

Last year there were one hundred thousand voluntary contributors who gave approximately $200,000 by mail. Fifteen years ago the society collected $3,700 in one year. It then had only 155 contributors.

Pensacola has passed an ordinance establishing a publicity tax of one mill. It will go into effect Oct. 1. Many other cities over the state have passed similar ordinances and the state legislature has made appropriations for advertising the state.

The new docks at Tampa will be opened Oct. 1. They were started last June. This will greatly relieve freight congestion as there are new warehouses also in connection with the docks, officials state. The first boat will dock on Oct. 5. It will be the S. S. Tampa from New Orleans.

The navy does still however control a portion of land in Santa Rosa county which was acquired by deed from Joseph M. White on April 2, 1832.

By this contract portions of the so called Barolo and the Barrios reservations were also acquired in Escambia county. These lands however, were turned over to the war department by letter of the secretary of the navy on June 30, 1925.

The only land now controlled by the navy in Escambia county is the Pensacola Naval Reservation on which is located the Pensacola Air Station.

The land embraced in this reservation originally belonged to Spain. It became a part of the public domain when the ceding of Florida to the United States.

MI-LADY'S SHOPPE

LETTER

President... The naval school for radio telegraphy at Toulon recently staged an entertainment in which the entrance of Joan of Arc into Toulon was the chief attraction.

Accordeon players have become the kings of jazz in France. Their once ridiculed instruments are now much in demand to furnish a tune to offset the strident notes of the brass instruments.

There is hardly a country fair in France where the accordeon player has not supplied for years a goodly part of the music.

Oxford trousers, as Lady Wilson sees them, are all right in their place, but she doesn't think the legs of English gentlemen the proper place for them.

LONDON LETTER

LONDON, Oct. 3.—(P)—That the problem of employing mechanical contrivances in warfare has not yet been solved and that their use is still to be regarded as on trial is the judgement of Field Marshal Sir William Robertson.

In a review of the manoeuvres written for the Morning Post, Sir William holds that one of the main purposes of the sham campaign in the Wiltshire plain was to test the value of new mechanical transport, and he says the purpose of such transport was not fulfilled.

The operations, the field marshal asserts, did not furnish an adequate test, but as for as they went they showed that the "mechanical" brigades did not reach the objectives any more rapidly than those equipped as formations. The entire question of mechanical contrivances for military purposes requires more thinking than it has yet received.

The so-called "mechanicalized" field artillery brigade is one in which special traction engines called "dragons" are used instead of horses to draw the guns.

Both the labor and socialist parties are calling in the help of the arts—music and the drama, particularly—to assist them to victory in the next general election.

Miles Mallison is to direct the independent labor party dramatic project, and intends to have a central socialist company, professionally paid and continuously on the road, producing plays.

The habit of leaving theatre seats during the intervals of a performance and walking about in the lobbies and foyers, a continental custom hitherto looked down upon in England, is catching on in London.

At a recent first night of a pirandello play the main body of the theater was quite deserted through the intermissions and the foyer was filled with strollers and sitters-out, including many of London's prominent personages.

BERLIN LETTER

BERLIN, Oct. 3.—(P)—Devotees of horse racing were treated to an unusual spectacle here when 80-year-old Anthony Mills, the Nestor of Berlin's drivers in harness races, followed by his six sons, all of whom are drivers with fine records, drove around the arena of the Mariendorf race track.

Statistics show that in post-war Germany a pair of boots or shoes lasts its wearer about 13 months. In 1924 about 61,000,000 pairs of foot wear were manufactured in Germany, about 4,000,000 of which were shipped abroad.

Blonds are out of style this year in Berlin society, and many a Teutonic gretchen with golden tresses, eager to keep pace with the ultra fashionable brunettes.

Long hair is becoming more and more old fashioned for day wear but at evening functions ladies are appearing with artificial curls supplementing their natural tresses.

To keep the ladies, who now frequent the barber shops, much more than formerly, in a good humor, many Berlin tonsorialists are introducing the American system of supplying radio concerts for their customers.

Giving testimony in a divorce suit against a fellow member of the so-called weaker sex is not always advisable.

Statistics show that in post-war Germany a pair of boots or shoes lasts its wearer about 13 months. In 1924 about 61,000,000 pairs of foot wear were manufactured in Germany.

Two fifths of the boots and shoes manufactured were of women, nearly one fourth were men's boots, about a fourth footgear for girls and the remainder for children.

Last year's production of footwear is estimated at 80,000,000 pairs, a large part of which was exported.

The style dictates which prescribe short skirts and sleeveless and low-necked gowns for women are proving a serious menace to the German dye industry.

The amount of cloth that goes into a fashionable gown today is by comparison so slight that the dye trade in such centers as Ludwigs-hafen is as much alarmed as the textile trade.
