Many Seek Expense Account Oasis

By FRED DANING, United Press Staff Correspondent NEW YORK (UP)—Many a corporation has sought relief from the heat of taxation by seeking the shade of an expense account oasis.

It remains for our tax collectors to police the oasis and adjust the shade.

In examining expense accounts, the government tries to separate personal and business expenses. It's not easy, especially in the category of "travel and entertainment," otherwise known as "T and E." Some examples:

—An aircraft company in California owns a plane and a yacht. Company officers use the plane for week-end hunting trips. The yacht is used for company-sponsored fishing trips.

—A company assigns a deserving executive to a branch office conveniently located at a resort such as Miami Beach. He spends the winter there. Turns out the branch office is a myth. The vacation isn't.

—A company pays for an executive's country club membership, gives him a home to live in, or pays his athletic club dues.

Diner's Card Absent
Many companies supply their executives with membership cards in the Diner's Club, a post-war master credit plan now serving more than 500,000 members. Tax agents recently discovered four Diner's Club members who met for lunch every day and rotated the check, charging it off to business. This abuse of a legitimate service is what the tax collectors try to stop.

No figures are available on just how much money is deducted each year for "T and E." One study of a medium-size corporation revealed that about one-fourth of 1 per cent of its expenses fell under this category.

According to the Tax Foundation, $8,600,000 individual tax returns were filed in 1956, along with $96,000 corporate tax returns, for a total of $9,400,000. Of this total, 4,300,000 returns were examined by the government and 2,400,000 taxpayers were called in to talk things over.

Whipping Extra Revenue
The government picked up an additional $1,100,000,000 from these audits.

You get some idea of how much money is tied up in "T and E" in a tax agent estimate that about one-half of all people called in to prove deductions have suspicious-looking "T and E" totals. "There must be a business purpose for the expenses you deduct," said this official. "At the same time," he added, "corporations have a wide range of judgment as to what expenses are calculated to advance the business. The government has no right to tell them how to spend their money.

"I doubt if we'll ever reach a satisfactory solution to the problem," he concluded.

The porpoise looks like a chimney, fat pig, but it can travel at speeds up to 30 miles an hour and make right angle turns at high speed.

FOUR MORE FOUR
LAUREL, Md. (AP)—Veteran jockey Steve Brooks hoisted home four winners at Laurel including both ends of a $27.30 daily double. Brooks scored on Lampi $4.60 and Bubbles Pick $7.80 for the double and Darker user $6.00 and Yellow $4.20.

More than seven million barrels of crude oil are produced daily.

FIFTH DEADLOCK
DARTMOUTH, N. H. (AP)—When Dartmouth and Yale played to a 14-14 tie in New Haven, Conn., Saturday, it marked the fifth deadlock between the two schools in football in their long and colorful series.

The first Atlantic cable was completed Aug. 1, 1858; it failed Sept. 1, 1858.

15,000 Jam Streets To See Yule Parade

At least 15,000 people jammed the streets of Sanford yesterday to watch the Jaycee-Merchants Association Christmas Parade. It seemed as if people from every direction waited to see this year's appearance of Santa Claus in Sanford for they came from the north, south, east and west. Yesterday's parade has been acclaimed the finest ever presented in Sanford. With streets lined from the beginning of the parade route to the very end the crowds grew bigger as time for the start of the parade grew near. Many children and adults began arriving downtown as early as 2 o'clock to get good locations from which they could see the parade to an advantage. More than two miles long, the parade took over an hour to move through downtown Sanford and 15 blocks. Children and adults taking part in the first part of the parade were downtown in time to see the last half. Judges were viewing the parade from First Street and Magnolia Avenue where the reviewing stand was located. Every available parking facility on streets off the line of march was jammed with automobiles. Cars were parked for blocks around in every direction from the center of the city. Parade Marshall Herbert Stenstrom started the parade off with a blast from sirens and the first step from the starting point was exactly at 4 p. m. Heading the line of march were Police Chief Roy G. Williams, Florida Highway Patrolman Olan Garrett, Deputy Sheriff A. E. Evans, and cars carrying city commissioners, county commissioners and President Clifford McKibbin and Manager John Kridler of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce.

Roborn Jr. and Merchants Association President Frances Roumillat. Assistant Parade Marshalls were in charge of every parade section. There were 13 sections with bands and floats spaced evenly throughout the long pre-Christmas extravaganza. Leading the parade with martial Christmas music was the Seminole High School Band preceded by prancing majorettes dressed as Santa's reindeer with "Rudolph" in the lead. The Sanford Naval Air Station was well represented in yesterday's annual event. The colors were carried by a Marine Corps color guard, followed by Marine Corps and Navy marching units. Floats, this year, drew a tremendous applause from the thousands of adults and children lining the parade route. They were more colorful, more expressive, and certainly far more attractive than they had ever been. Brownie Scouts and Boy Scouts were represented in the parade with marching units. Boy Scouts also furnished the manpower to pull the small floats decorated by the 13 bands taking part in the gigantic Christmas Parade. In addition to the Seminole High School band, majorettes and Pep Club, there were bands representing DeLand High School, Seabreeze of Daytona, Sanford Junior High School, Winter Park High School, Leesburg High School, Lyman High School, Mount Dora High School, Florida Military Academy, and Apopka High School. Also taking part in the parade were bands from Crooms Academy and from the Apopka Colored High School. Up and down the route of the parade, Jaycees sold gay colored balloons. Even before the parade was half over, Balloon Chairman Bob McKee announced that all of the balloons had been sold. Proceeds from the balloon sales will go to a fund which will provide Lutheran Haven children with shopping tour money, when they buy gifts for one another. From every side, yesterday, came praises for the excellence of the annual Jaycee parade. "It's the finest we've ever had" said one mother as she watched the parade come to an end. Children, adults, businessmen and ladies all heaped glowing compliments on the fine appearance of this year's big Christmas Parade event. Winners in the competition between floats had not been announced early this afternoon. However, as a part of today's Sanford-Seminole County Junior Chamber of Commerce noon-luncheon meeting, awards will be presented to float winners.

Former Resident Dies In Georgia
The Rev. E. C. Cowan, 76, former Sanford resident, died yesterday at his home in Douglasville, Ga. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. E. C. Cowan; nine children, 14 grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren. E. C. Cowan Jr. and the late R. T. Cowan of Sanford are two of his sons. E. C. Cowan III, Edna Cowan, and R. T. Cowan of Sanford are grand-children. Funeral services are set for tomorrow at 2 p. m. in Douglasville with T. Cowan Whitley Funeral Home in charge. Burial will be in Atlanta, Ga.

Public Relations Based On Sincerity
"Everybody has to be on the team," A. W. "Woody" Webber, District Manager for Southern Bell Telephone Company, told the Sanford Kiwanis Club at its noon meeting yesterday. Speaking on "Public Relations," Webber pointed out that those who deal with the public, whether behind the scenes or those who meet personally the customers, should be trained. "Any employee is considered an expert on his job," he said, "but it is also equally important that we know some of the things about people we deal with. In any business, our service is good only if the customer thinks it is good," the Telephone Company executive said. "Public relations is based on sincerity," Webber pointed out, "and we make our living making other people do things." Webber explained that it's easy to say "we have a public relations program" and added that "it's work". Some say it is too expensive, others feel that it is too complicated. But Webber emphasized that the "best public relations tool is a smile."

Public Relations Based On Sincerity

Leading off his man-to-man talk about public relations, Webber explained the phenomenal growth in Florida and the percentages of increase in population. "In order for us to capitalize on this influx of people it behooves us to make people want to deal with us. The best public relations is 90 per cent doing a good job and 10 per cent talking about it," he said. "Let's keep on doing those successful things we have done until we have reached all the people." The heart of any public relations program "is to treat everybody like they were somebody and not like they were just anybody," said Webber. In other words, he said, "Follow the Golden Rule." Webber was introduced by Bob Sheddler, Manager in Sanford for Southern Bell Telephone Company. Visitors at yesterday's Kiwanis club meeting included Jim Borard, Paul B. Wood of DeBary, John Tucker, Southern Bell Telephone Co., Jim Garrett, Judge Vassar Carlton, George Johnson, Gray Brewer, and Ray Mengle of St. Cloud.

16-Year-Old Driver Crashes Into Train At Paola Crossing

A 16-year-old motorist last night crashed into an Atlantic Coast Line freight train at a crossing in Paola at approximately 6:30. Edward Thomas, whose address was given at the scene as Wilson Corner, was taken to Seminole Memorial Hospital by a passing motorist. He suffered minor bruises, a cut knee and had several front teeth knocked out. Constable J. Q. "Slim" Galloway who investigated the crash, said that the youth saw the train but his brakes wouldn't hold. The automobile, a 1941 Ford, was a total loss. The ACL freight train, headed east toward Sanford, was struck at about the center of the train. Alton Gunter was conductor for the ACL. No damage was reported to the train. The passing motorist was identified by Constable Galloway as Clifford Harrell of Paola.

Public Meeting Slated Dec. 12 At Civic Assn.

The DeBary Planning Board has arranged for a public meeting to be held in the Civic Association Building at 7:30 p. m. on Dec. 12. The West Volusia Hospital Authority bill was rejected by the voters, so at the special session of the State Legislature, a new Hospital Bill was passed, subject to referendum on Dec. 17. At this meeting called for Dec. 12, Lee Maxwell will explain the New Bill and answer questions. All DeBary voters are urged to attend.

Wednesday Proves Day Of Frustration For U.S. In Space Competition

Flames Destroy Second Floor Of Dwelling

A fire which started just as yesterday afternoon's Christmas Parade got underway destroyed the upper part of a multiple dwelling in the Goldsboro area. The dwelling, at 1304 Williams Ave., was badly burned on the second floor and extensive water damage on the first floor of the house occupied by Jewel Jones. A fire department spokesman said that a defective kerosene cookstove started the blaze which took two hours to completely bring under control. At 3:48 p. m. Tuesday the Sanford Fire Department, answered an alarm at 1324 Mellonville Ave. They found an overheated kerosene heater but no fire damage was reported.

CAPE CANAVERAL (UP)—The day during which the United States was to enter competition with Russia for supremacy of space ended on the same note it began. It was a day of frustration, delay and embarrassment for the nation that first put man into the sky in powered flight.

Navy and other government spokesmen said the failure to rocket the answer to Russia's Sputnik into space was not "altogether unexpected." At mid-day Wednesday, however, officials said they anticipated "little difficulty" in launching the Navy's Vanguard bearing the tiny, artificial moon. Difficulty and delay developed a minute immediately when the countdown began. The countdown is a minute final check of virtually every screw holding the towering rocket together. Deadline Pushed Back The firing originally was scheduled for 8 a. m. Wednesday. The first delay pushed that target hour to between 10 a. m. and noon. From then until midnight one postponement after another developed until there was no time left to get the satellite into space or the second-month anniversary of Russia's first successful Sputnik launching. There were two major delays and a series of minor difficulties. In each case, something went wrong to interrupt the countdown. Just what the various troubles were was not announced immediately. During the countdown, the rocket is put in readiness step-by-step. If something goes wrong, the launching crew must back up. Sometimes it must start all over again. Details of the Vanguard's countdown filled 23 pages of schoolboy-sized writing paper. From delay to delay, this nation's top rocket and satellite minds worked feverishly. Newsmen on Scene In contrast to their frantic activity, a battery of newsmen representing the country's press, radio and television kept a different—but just as frustrating—watch. Mostly, they huddled together four miles from the point where the sleek rocket pointed straight upward. They built bonfires as protection against a chill night wind and tropical insects. They poised over typewriters and cameras, ready to write about and record on film the birth-flight of the 3 1/4 pound artificial moon that was to seek an orbit up where Russia's two satellites—one weighing half a ton—swirled silently. At 9:25 p. m. another interruption was announced. At that point the countdown still had 55 minutes to go. When 11 p. m. passed the countdown had not been re-started, and it thus became impossible for the American moon to get off the ground on the scheduled day.

Memorial Library's Open House Tomorrow

At 4:30 p. m. on Friday, citizens of Sanford and Seminole County will be formally welcomed to the Open House of the General Henry Shelton Sanford Memorial Library at 320 East First St. in Fort Mellon Park. The beautiful building, with its shrubbery arranged by the Sanford Garden Club, is in front of Lake Carola. The latter is named for Mrs. Carola Sanford Dow, the youngest daughter of General Sanford. Chairman Frank Evans has talked with Mrs. Dow by telephone and she states she will not be able to be at the reception on account of illness. She attended the dedication of the building in February. Dr. J. Bernard Root will introduce the library visitors to the receiving line, which is to consist of President and Mrs. Frank Evans, Vice President and Mrs. Randall Chase, Chairman of the Board of Managers General J. C. Hutchinson and Mrs. Hutchinson, Mayor and Mrs. David M. Gatchel, Chairman of the Board of County Commissioners Fred A. Dyson and Mrs. Dyson, Secretary B. F. Whittier Jr. and Mrs. Whittier, and Treasurer Robert W. Deane. Hosts and hostesses represent the Board of Managers of the Library, the Daughters of the American Revolution, the Woman's Club and the Sanford Garden Club. They consist of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Key, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Roumillat Sr., Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Pope, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Leffer Sr., Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Dawson, Mrs. Fred Williams, Mrs. H. M. Papworth, Attorney Fred R. Wilson, Mrs. Ann Y. Farmer, Mrs. Fred Ganas, and Fred Ensminger.

Shopping Days Tell Christmas FROM what dish has plum pudding evolved? were gradually added. The hotel was built in 1910. From the original building, the present building was built in 1920.

AFL-CIO Federation Starts 3rd Year Today

By WILLIAM J. EATON United Press Staff Correspondent ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (UP)—The AFL-CIO begins its third year today apparently united on throwing out its largest affiliate, the Teamsters Union, on corruption charges. About 1,200 delegates opened the federation's second convention this morning. The vast majority seemed willing to follow AFL-CIO President George Meany's advice to expel the teamsters. Meany said Wednesday he would not advocate expulsion of the 1,500,000-member truck union if James R. Hoffa, major target of AFL-CIO corruption charges, would step aside as president-elect. Hoffa, now on trial on wiretapping charges in New York and defending a Washington court action to void his election has repeatedly refused to resign despite threats of ouster of his union. The convention plans to vote on the teamsters' expulsion Friday afternoon. Three Unions Face Ouster Three other unions—possibly four—were tagged for ouster by the convention. Meany said that two of the unions on the road to reform had taken a turn for the worse. He identified them as the United Textile Workers, with 42,000 members, and the Distillery Workers, with 25,000. The 29-man Executive Council, suspended the Textile Union. Meany charged that two former officers who resigned under fire on corruption charges were still on the payroll as of last week. He referred to Anthony F. Valante and Lloyd Klensert, former president and secretary-treasurer, respectively. Merger Still Incomplete Despite the near-united front on corruption, the AFL-CIO was far from merged on the state and local level. AFL and CIO groups in 15 states and hundreds of communities had failed to merge by today's deadline. However, the Executive Council Wednesday granted an indefinite extension of the deadline set at the time of the original AFL-CIO merger two years ago, saying it wanted to try to bring about voluntary mergers of state and local groups. The still-feuding state organizations include most of the nation's highly industrialized areas. They were New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Michigan, Wisconsin, California, Florida, Oklahoma, Idaho and Kentucky.

Christmas Carol Sing Scheduled Sunday Afternoon

A Christmas Carol Sing will be featured at Sanford's First Baptist Church, Park Ave. at Sixth St., Sunday afternoon, Dec. 8, from 3 to 4 o'clock. All who like to sing new carols as well as the old familiar ones are invited to attend. While congregational singing will be the main feature of the hour, choirs from neighboring churches will highlight the program.

W. L. Selig will direct the Church Chorus of the Geneva First Baptist Church in singing Notta's "Hail, O Bless Redeemer." The Youth Choir of Longwood First Baptist Church under Mrs. B. R. Gray's direction, sings "Star of the East" by Kennedy. Mrs. Guy Bishop directs the Carol and ConCord Choirs of First Baptist Church of Sanford in singing "Shine, Shine Over All the World" and "Cantique de Noel." The Male Quartet from First Church sings the familiar "I Came Upon A Midnight Clear." The Elder Springs Baptist Church Youth Choir under Mrs. Tony Wade's direction will present "I Heard the Bells on Christmas Day."

"The Lady in Red", a crescent arrangement of red carnations, croton leaves and cedar in an unusual brass chalice, won for Mrs. Ralph Dean the tri-color ribbon for artistic arrangements at the annual Sanford Garden Club flower show which opened yesterday at the Mayfair Inn. The tri-color winner for horticulture was won by Mrs. J. M. Fabey for her collection of dwarf trees. The diminutive trees drew much attention from those attending the show.

The Award of Distinction, a ribbon new this year, was awarded to Mrs. George Harden for composition in her beautiful interpretation of "Serenity". Interesting to note is that Mrs. Harden was chosen as "Miss Serenity" of the Sanford Garden Club, and modeled as such in the fashion show.

Sweepstakes winners were Mrs. R. F. Robison in artistic arrangements and Mrs. Helen Winquist in horticulture.

The Dirt Gardeners won the Award of Distinction for their unusual tree of silver banana leaves, palm and grapes.

A fashion show was presented at 1 p. m. by Mary-Etheridge, 7:30 p. m. last night John Powell of Ormond Beach enthralled the large audience with his collection of exotic birds. Mr. Powell has taught his birds many tricks, including rolling over, displaying their wings and talking. One of the mynah birds, named Elvis Presly, sings "Hound Dog", and calls himself by name.

Another fashion show will be presented tonight at 7:30. One of the door prizes, donated by A. F. Ramsay, was won by Mrs. J. R. Hoolahan.

A number of plants have been donated by Sanford florists for the door prizes, which are awarded several times during the day and night.

Christian Church Congregational Meet Is Dec. 11

The annual congregational business meeting of the First Christian Church will be held next Wednesday, Dec. 11, beginning with a pot-luck supper at 6 p. m. Board chairman Clyde E. Feathers will preside. Annual reports will be heard and new elders, deacons, deaconesses and trustees will be elected. A budget for the year ahead is to be adopted.

The official board met Tuesday and voted to recommend to the congregation the adoption of a budget of $10,500 for 1938. Chandler Vail, property committee chairman, reported on the treatment of the sanctuary for the extermination of termites, on the tuning of the organ, and on the enlargement of the main church parking lot. The board voted to have a member of the board of the Florida Christian Missionary Society speak here in January in the interest of the program of establishing new churches in the state.

A payment of $1500 toward the reduction of the debt on the newly acquired education building was authorized. Chairman Feathers said application for the rezoning of the new property from R-1-A to R-1 had been made. W. H. Young, worship committee chairman, announced the church ushers short course to be held at the Alliance Church, Jan. 26-27.

The Christian Youth Fellowships of the local church and the East Orlando Christian Church will have a Bible Quiz contest and a Volley Ball game here Sunday, 2:30 p. m. The questions in the quiz will be confined to the Book of Acts.

Kiwanis Officers, Directors To Set New Committees

Mayor David Gatchel, president of the Sanford Kiwanis Club for 1937, called for a meeting of all officers and directors of the club to set up committees for the new year.

Mayor Gatchel also set up a meeting for Monday night, Dec. 16 for a club organization conference. Club officers, officers and committee chairmen are to meet to set up the 1938 Sanford Kiwanis Club program.

Ed Shindler, Kiwanis Club president, announced the appointment of Ed Kirschhoff as the Division Chairman of the Inter-Club Committee.

A Ladies Night will be held next week on Thursday, Dec. 12 at the Mayfair Inn beginning at 7:30 p. m. Ed Lane is in charge of the Kiwanis Club Ladies Night arrangements.

Schooling At SOKC Starts Last Night

LONGWOOD—Schooling got off to a fast start at the Sanford-Orlando Kennel Club last night with such stars as Happy Steve, Bone Shook Up, and Jello Miss turning in eye catching performances.

Twenty-nine more qualifying races are on tap tonight starting at 7:30 as preparations continue for the grand opening of the winter season on Saturday, Dec. 4.

Racing Secretary R. C. Williamson is busy looking over scores of championship greyhounds to determine the field for the featured inaugural handicap opening night. He says the Sanford-Orlando track has by far the best class of greyhounds in its history.

'SAVOIE SCORES TWO

All Mr. Average American Knows About Pressure Groups Today

The average American is intelligent and can be trusted. He believes in justice and fair play. He is generous and considerate of others. Nevertheless, there is much scheming, and great exercise of pressure upon government to obtain an almost infinite variety of favors from federal, state and local governments.

Mr. Average American knows that pressure groups are obtaining these favors. Unless he joins such groups he fears that the wealth of the country will be thus drained away and he will be left stranded high and dry. Therefore, he feels obliged to join one or more pressure groups in an effort to get his share of the swag. He is motivated largely by the instincts of self-protection and survival. He sees many getting handouts and realizes that he is being taxed to help pay for them. Why, therefore, should he not receive his share? He sees strong labor unions getting increased wages which makes the prices he must pay higher and he feels that the only way to protect himself is to join the procession and share in the increase.

He sees some getting tariff protection that enables them to charge higher prices and wonders why he is not entitled to some favor of that kind. He sees many different kinds of subsidies being passed around and feels entitled to his cut. He knows that many draw substantial Social Security checks every month for which they have paid in but a tiny fraction of the amount received so he feels justified in taking anything he can get. He looks at bureaucrats occupying soft jobs with but little labor involved and realizing that such practices increase the cost of living for him he begins to think about ways of joining the "gravy train."

When government has the say regarding wages, prices, subsidies and handouts, most of us easily slip into the habit of appealing to it for favors. Otherwise one feels isolated and fears he will not be able to maintain his position. This leads to pressure groups all along the line, forcing government to hand out more and more to the groups exercising the most pressure.

Today we have 87 million people drawing monthly checks from the government. After deducting duplications and making allowance for a third or more of our entire population, how long will the others be satisfied to be on the paying end only? More and more of them will demand a place in the receiving line.

The only remedy for the situation is to deprive government of all power to take money from some and give it to others — in other words, all power of intervention in the economic activities of the people. Until the people agree themselves to do that, the pulling and tugging with one another for bigger handouts from government will go on until our country has bankrupted itself.

"Thou shalt not covet" and "thou shalt not steal" remain basic to freedom, self-government and prosperity.

$51 Billion Is Not Enough!

The federal highway program is supposed to provide 41,000 miles of roads over a 18-year period at a cost of $51 billion. But now, according to a growing body of evidence, it begins to appear that even that incredible sum of money isn't big enough for the job. One of the metropolitan newspapers says: "Some authorities think the present appropriation will pay for only half the new roads we need."

Certainly, here in Florida we see the great need for good highways and a dependable highway system to serve every community in an efficient manner.

It is interesting to relate this king-sized problem to something that is going on in the states. In Illinois, Wisconsin and Texas, for instance, determined efforts were made to lift truck weight limits to the startling figure of 72,000 pounds. The Illinois and Wisconsin legislatures did pass such bills, but in both cases they were vetoed by the state governors, on advice of highway authorities. In Texas the bill passed the House but died in the Senate — when, reportedly, members began "hearing from the folks back home."

Wisconsin's Governor Thomson, in explaining his veto, said: "Probably not more than 10 per cent of our Class A highways are constructed to carry such loads." The cost of such superhighways is unbelievably high. So is the cost of maintenance. And they are definitely not needed by private cars and by the trucks of moderate size, which make up the vast majority of the traffic.

Souring road costs are commonly blamed on inflation. This is a factor, but not the only by any means. The oversize trucks constitute one of the principal reasons. That's why more and more people in and out of government, are coming to believe that it is time to review our methods of raising road money — and to share the costs on a more equitable basis than is the case today.

A governor advises his state to plan for the future. Doing so will make regrets less likely when the future becomes the past.

These are times when it is difficult, though necessary, for nations to keep feet firmly on the ground and eyes steadily on the sky.

Foreign News Commentary

By CHARLES M. McCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent
Western Europe is recovering from a period of acute anxiety caused by the illness of West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer. While President Eisenhower's slight interest made him the center of interest in the United States, Western Germany and Western Europe generally were pretty nearly as worried over Adenauer's attack of influenza.

Eisenhower's illness caused a lot of discussion in both the United States and Europe whether it might not be a good idea for him to retire in favor of Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

There were no such suggestions in the case of Adenauer. Though he is crowding 62 years of age, Adenauer is regarded as much as any one person can be as West Europe's indispensable man.

Eisenhower at the NATO meeting— if necessary — in the White House. Eisenhower has been building up Nixon as the American heir presumptive for several years. Adenauer Without An Heir Adenauer has stubbornly refused to build up a political heir, despite persistent urging. It is true that on Oct. 31 Adenauer named Economics Minister Ludwig Erhard to be his vice chancellor. But he did it only because the West German constitution requires him to name a deputy leader. He went out of his way to make it known that he did not regard Erhard as really being in the No. 2 spot, either in government leadership or in the leadership of the Christian Democratic Party.

In the eight years since Adenauer has been chancellor, West Germany with a population of 51 million has become the most prosperous and potentially the most powerful European nation outside of Russia. And Adenauer is indisputably West Europe's strongest man.

But the possibility that Adenauer might not be able to attend was regarded by many people in Europe as even more serious. Adenauer went to bed last week with what was first thought to be a cold. It developed into influenza. It was recalled that he stands head and shoulders over all other West European leaders. Above all, it was recalled that Adenauer has no political heir. Vice President Nixon was at hand in Washington to replace Ei-

Florida Story Teller—The farmers out in Minnesota—near Fergus Falls, that is—will long remember the recent visit of Congressman Billy Matthews. The occasion was a three day hearing of the Family Farm Subcommittee of the Agriculture Committee. They'll remember "Mr. Billy" because of the stories he told at the many luncheons and dinners that the local farm groups staged for the visiting dignitaries from Washington.

Biggest uproar, according to Committee members who were there, came when he told this one: "The Republicans are trying to prove that they are on your side. That's like what happened in New Orleans one time. It was during the Mardi Gras. One man who was out to celebrate the big event was dressed in a bright red devil's costume complete with horns and tall and pitch fork. After several hours of celebrating with the help of a whiskey jug—the fellow became pretty drunk. He thought he had better find a spot to sit down and relax and in his search he wandered into a colored church where a revival meeting was going on. Right in the middle of his sermon, the preacher looked up to see this bright red devil come in the main door of the church. He didn't wait to take a second look. He took off. And all of his congregation took off after him. In a few moments, every single person had cleared out except one big fat woman—and she had become stuck in one of the side doors and couldn't move. In all the rush, the man in the

Presidency Not Bad Job At All

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower's bouncy recovery from a mild stroke probably makes it all right to mention the fact that this business about the presidency being a man-killing job is mostly hokum.

Six presidents have died in office, three of them by gunshot. The average age was 60 years, slightly close to the alleged three score and ten. The survival age after leaving office is around 14 years, as of now.

The man-killer myth is founded partly on the self-plethly of some presidents during and after their terms of office. Your correspondent began observing presidents closely when Calvin Coolidge was in office and had a peek or two at Woodrow Wilson before that. He has seen presidents who were having fun and playing and plain working stiff have had bad days and weeks. Some of them die comparatively young.

FDR Needed Rest
FDR didn't look so good toward the last, but he was full of boom clear through his second term. Mr. Big was around considerably longer than most and sought a fourth nomination when he would have been better advised to seek hospital rest.

Counting the pay, the loose hours and fringe benefits, the presidency is not a bad job at all. Plenty of selfless patriots always are eying the White House. There isn't one among them who would be likely to grab for a job which really killed.

Presidents are not the only public officials who get to feeling sorry for themselves. Members of Congress get the blues, especially Senators, being generally older. Sometimes, when a Senator passes on you would think he had been taking all of his meals at his desk, and sleeping on it, to boot, to hear his colleagues tell it.

There hasn't been so much of that since Sen. Royal S. Copeland (D-N.Y.) departed. Copeland was a medical doctor. It was his custom to sound off considerably back in the 20's and 30's when a colleague died. It always was overwork, although in some instances it easily could have been bootleg liquor, over-eating or other over-indulgence.

A former Republican governor of Pennsylvania suggested to your correspondent in London, Eng., on Aug. 3, 1923 that the death of Warren Gamaliel Harding the previous day probably could be attributed to bad whiskey. There is no evidence, however, that Harding ever had to cope with really bad hooch.

Copeland Could Act
Copeland held always that it was overwork that killed senators.

MUCH QUOTED story in New York's busy garment district of late concerns the middle-aged manufacturer who confided to a caddy at luncheon, "I had the funniest dream last night. I dreamed that I awoke suddenly, dressed without waking my wife, and went down to Coney Island, where I took ride after ride on the roller coaster."

"I had a dream, too," recalled the caddy, "and what a dream it was! First, a gorgeous girl walked in and threw her arms around me, and right behind her was another who followed suit. Now what could I do with both those beauts at the same time?"

The first manufacturer was deeply hurt. "A fine friend," he said reproachfully. "With such dolls there, why didn't you call me up?"

"I did! I did!" his friend assured him hastily. "But your wife said you were at Coney Island."

Note this fool-proof suggestion for insuring a successful vacation: "Take half the clothes you figured on—and twice the money."

Engaged To Wed In December

OVIEDO—Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Edward Partin have announced the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Shirley Ann, to Harvey Joe Slayton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Polk Decatur Slayton, of Goldenrod. The wedding will be an event of December.

Miss Partin is the granddaughter of Mrs. Blanche Bond on her maternal side, and of the late P. E. Bond, Mr. and Mrs. Bond, former residents of Oviedo, came from McHenry, Miss. originally. Mrs. Blanche Bond is now residing at New Smyrna Beach.

On her paternal side she is the granddaughter of Mrs. Blanche Partin of this city and of the late Chester Partin. The Partins are one of the pioneer families of this community.

This is Miss Partin's senior year at the Oviedo High School, where she has been quite active in the school activities. The bridegroom-elect is a graduate of the Oviedo High School, later attending the University of Florida. He is now connected with the Martin Company, of Orlando.

He is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. John Henry Dodd, of Hinton, West Virginia. His grandmother is the former Mary Carolyn Bragg. His paternal grandparents were

Teen Code Subject
Of P-TA Discussion

The Seminole High School P. T. A. enjoyed a lively discussion Tuesday night, featuring six of the High School students. The subject was a "Teen Code" and whether or not there is a need for one in Sanford. The parents asked pertinent questions of the students.

The evening concluded with the decision on the part of students and parents to draw up a liveable and workable set of goals for behavior.

The parents will meet Friday evening, December 6 from 7:30 until 9:30 P. M. in the Glee Club. There they will formulate their own ideas in a special "study group". Interested parents are welcome to come and express their opinions.

Methodist Class
Enjoys Xmas Party

McKinley Hall was beautifully decorated with Brazilian Pepper plants, red and white poinsettias, Tuesday night when the Daughters of Wesley Sunday School Class of the First Methodist Church held their Christmas party. The stage was centered with a small white tree bearing blue lights. Red candles were placed at vantage spots throughout the room.

Hostesses were Mrs. Brodie Williams, Mrs. Charles Meriwether, Mrs. Claude Herndon, Mrs. Marguerite Paul, Miss Versa Woodcock, Miss Aline Chapman, Mrs. R. F. Robinson, Mrs. J. R. Anderson, Mrs. A. C. Rector, and Mrs. M. L. Wright.

Following a short business meeting, Mrs. Paul, devotional chairman, read the Christmas story, followed by prayer.

Year books were distributed. A Christmas donation was made to the Boys Ranch at Palatka.

The birthday bank was enriched by Mrs. M. L. Wright, Mrs. J. H. Anderson, Miss Aline Chapman, Mrs. A. B. Stevens, Mrs. R. G. Hickson, Miss Versa Woodcock, and Mrs. R. F. Robinson.

Dr. and Mrs. Rutland, Miss Elsie Bowman and Miss Gene Nunnally were guests of the class. Miss Nunnally and Miss Bowman presented a beautiful musical program, followed by the group singing Christmas carols.

Gifts were exchanged by class members, and presented to the Rutlands. The hostesses served refreshments to Miss V. Woodcock, Mrs. Anderson, Miss Aline Chapman, Mrs. Robinson, Mrs. C. M. Conning The News

By VIRGINIA CONN, Society Editor

First off, let me say that the Sanford Christmas parade was most impressive—and properly appreciated. Had no idea so many people lived in all of Seminole County. The floats took a great deal of thought and work. Those who missed the parade missed a treat. But very few could have stayed at home.

Christmas spirit is beginning to be felt, in spite of oneself. The Sanford Garden Club flower show, which opened today, was a shining example. The elaborate little Christmas trees which adorned the coffee tables in the lobby sparkled with red, silver and gold. The trees were decorated by the Garden Club circles.

The ballroom of the Mayfair Inn has been transformed. Have to hand it to Frank Mebane for the clever way he has handled a difficult decorating job. The red and white circus marquees cover the small windows cleverly. The walls have all been painted white. The drop which separates the ball room is of the same red and white stripe. Centered as it is at the moment with the gilt bird cage, surrounded with some of the loveliest arrangements possible, this room is really breathtaking.

Comments on the fashion show—in quick passing—Ruth Lee is just as lovely as her mother-in-law. Ouida, has always said. Overheard from a Sanford traveler that the clothes shown were far more attractive than those she had just seen on a trip to Miami!

Don't miss the fashion show tonight (Thursday)—you may have just enough time to make it—7:30 P. M. is the time. Also you should see the flowers, plants and trees. Good-night—

Blind Woman Is
Head Of Council

By GAY PAULEY

United Press Women's Editor
NEW YORK (UP) — Mildred Weisenfeld is a woman going blind and knows it.

But instead of sitting back feeling sorry for herself and the trick mother nature played on her, she is working to prevent others from entering a life of darkness.

"We spend 150 million dollars a year on the care and aid for the blind," she said. "No one begrudges that, certainly. But medical science generally is agreed that 70 per cent of blindness could be prevented."

Organizes Blindness Fight
This is where Miss Weisenfeld's project comes in. She organized and is director of the National Council to Combat Blindness. Its one purpose: to raise money for research in prevention of sight loss.

"Fight for sight" began in 1946 and now has leagues in all five New York boroughs, in Westchester County, N. Y., in New Jersey, Philadelphia and Miami.

Mildred Weisenfeld, now 34, was a girl growing up in Brooklyn when doctors discovered she was suffering from a progressive degeneration of the retina.

Mildred Weisenfeld, now 34, was a girl growing up in Brooklyn when doctors discovered she was suffering from a progressive degeneration of the retina.

"They think it started after I had the measles," she said. "But I remember it coming to me sharply that something was wrong when one day I couldn't aim a softball. Twelve years ago, the drastic changes began. . . It wasn't long until I couldn't get around by myself. Blindness took over."

Just Dark Blue
Miss Weisenfeld now has about two per cent vision. I was a "dark blue" to her, as we talked in her office.

"People say how well adjusted I am," she said. "That's so much rubbish. A blind person never gets over the deep frustration. . . and the more he broadens his horizons the more he misses sight."

"But we learn to live with it

Lake Mary

By ETTIE JANE KROGH

LAKE MARY—Linda Green called Monday afternoon to tell about the 4-H Club meeting held that same afternoon. The girls met at the school and elected a new vice president, Jeannine Humphry, and a new reporter Linda Green. Each girl brought her sewing box and showed the rest of the group what sewing she had accomplished. The 13 girls present draw names for the coming Christmas party. I want to thank Linda for calling. It took only a minute of her time and I'm sure we all like to know what our children are doing in their extra-curricular activities.

The Executive committee of the P-TA met Monday at the school to make final plans for the school float in the coming parade. Mrs. W. C. Hopkins, president said that there would be no December meeting because school is out for Christmas vacation on Dec. 18. The annual school program in which all the children take part will be at 8 p. m. on Dec. 17. That is a Tuesday night, so plan to attend. The children and the teachers all work so hard to present a good program, I'm sure that this year will be another huge success.

Circle No. 1 of the PWO will meet Tuesday (Dec. 10) at the home of Mrs. J. M. Thompson. Mrs. Donald Kirker, chairman, stated that the study Christ the Church and Race will again be studied.

The Misses Clara and Edith Spears arrived Monday from their summer home in Ohio. The Spears Sisters have a winter home on Lake Mary. We are all glad to have them back for another winter with us.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace Fennell who have a farm on the west side of town spent Friday and Saturday with their son-in-law and daughter Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Morris in Bradenton.

Mr. and Mrs. William Thorne Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. John McLaughlin spent Sunday afternoon in Orlando.

Mrs. Bessie Saunders, who is here visiting with friends from her home in Jacksonville, spent Monday night with Mrs. Robbins. She plans to leave Wednesday by bus for Jacksonville.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Smith and Wayne Smith spent a few days last week in Key West.

LAKE MARY—I have a correction to make. Instead of calling Alice Kirker for transportation for the circle No. 1 PWO meeting at the home of Mrs. Bill Cook. Her number is FA 1152. It has been suggested since the meeting is at the Thompson home on the east end of Lake Mary all those who would like to meet at the church and everyone drive out together. That's Circle No. 1 Tuesday, Dec. 10 at 8 p. m. at the James M. Thompson home.

Don't forget the monthly meeting of the Lake Mary Home Demonstration. It will be on Dec. 10 at 10:30. There will be a covered dish luncheon at noon. Miss Myrtle Wilson will give a demonstration using Florida foliage as Christmas decorations. Mrs. Don Drubaker will speak on the coming High Fever Folies. The ladies are planning a bake sale to be held Monday, Dec. 16 in front of the Post Office.

Sheriff and Mrs. J. L. Hobby are the proud parents of a son born Wednesday morning at Seaboard Memorial Hospital. The big boy weighed 9 lb. 12 oz. The Hobby's have a daughter Mary Grace who is a student at Wesleyan in Macon, Ga., Judson Luther II is five years old and Lela Ann is four.

The executive board of the PWO met Tuesday evening at the Community Presbyterian Church. Envelopes for giving for the coming year were given to the circle chairmen and various projects were discussed. There will be no association meeting in December. There has been a change in the date, just for this month, of Circle No. 2. This circle will meet at the home of Mrs. James M. Thompson on Monday Dec. 16. Note the change in the day Monday. Mary Cook just called since I began this and said that if anyone dates transportation to the meet at the church at 7:45 and there will be someone to pick them up.

Rochell and Paul Whitney and their son have arrived to spend

Temperature May Rise Even When You're Well

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

YOU may have a temperature of 100 degrees and still be perfectly healthy. While increased temperature often is the first signal of an illness, sometimes it may mean only that you have undertaken something a bit too strenuously, are greatly angered or have eaten too much.

Temperature Fluctuates

Like your heart rate and blood pressure, your body temperature may fluctuate during the course of everyday activities. A temporary rise to 100 degrees is not too uncommon and generally is nothing to worry about. If a high temperature persists, however, it's another story. Just to be safe, a 100 degree fever means you should summon the doctor and get to bed.

Strenuous Activity

Usual cause for a temporary hike in the body temperature is strenuous activity such as that experienced in athletic games. But emotional outbursts sometimes are to blame, too. Whether these lead to physical exertion, or merely the stifling of your anger, your temperature is likely to mount. You not only get "hot under the collar"; you literally get hot all over.

Heavy Eating

Even eating a heavy meal is apt to boost your temperature. Now, of course, everyone doesn't have the same "normal" temperature of 98.6 degrees. For various individuals, it may be a little higher or a little lower, on the average, and still be considered perfectly normal. As I have advised previously, you should take the temperature of all members of your family while they are healthy. Then you'll be able to tell just how much above their particular normal reading their temperature is when they become ill. This might help the doctor a great deal in his diagnosis.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

R. B.: Is there any way birthmarks can be removed other than by surgery?

Answer: The application of carbon dioxide or dry ice is sometimes helpful in removing birthmarks. Such procedure should, of course, be carried out only by a physician.

Geneva News

Tom Tom

It seems that the forthcoming "Christmas Ball" sponsored by the Key Club is going to revolutionize that old game of dating. A lot of new couples are scheduled to glide down the dance floor at the Mayfair. One pair that we particularly think is going to be the "it" pair of that evening is Dickie Rountree and Frances Strickland. They were the first to get their reservations in, and don't you think they make a perfect couple?

We've heard that a certain sophomore girl was actually playing Blackjack, but don't get excited. Mr. Bracken, it wasn't during school of course, in this case we'll be like the juvenile courts and refuse to divulge her name, but what a lead for an extortionist!

Henry Morgan can be seen nowadays smiling his way through Latin. After a three-week vacation in the seclusion of his room with a bronchial ailment to keep him company, all we can say is that we're glad to have you back, Henry, and, on those six weeks tests, good luck, brave lad!

Say, boys, there's a cute little blonde from Michigan that just arrived last week—How about showing some Southern hospitality? I think her name is Bobbie, or something like that. Angelo Compain has vowed not to write another date for Smoke Signals. After his embarrassing misadventure last week concerning the important dates for this week, who could blame him?

Linda Rossman is always running around with an armful of books but Lyn can't find a few minutes for a guy every now and then? Cecil Dandridge is quite the man when it comes to football. How are you doing with Frances S. Cecil?

One of you freshman girls ought to trap that sweet little Cliff Able. He's a nice fellow. Carol Fleming have we told you that we think you're a swell gal, quite a dancer too. Al Collins are you still journeying to New Smyrna for excitement? Sure wish you would date some of our SHS girls.

Just wish everyone could have been at the dance Big Sid played for last Friday night. Sid your music was heavenly as always. Tell us Carol Herman do you like anyone special now? Anyone we know? Bill Alfred bet Mrs. Allen wishes her whole sixth period grammar class would take part in class activities the way you do. Boy, you're good in grammar.

Students Of Week

By Delores Bailey
There are two students of the week this week because there are so many new students at Seminole High School. This week's new students are Jeanie Warmack and Michael Baly.

Jeanie Warmack moved to Sanford this past summer from McAllen, Tex., where she attended McAllen High. She is a Senior at SHS and is eighteen-years-old. When I asked Jeanie how she liked Seminole High and what she thought of our school spirit and the students, she said, "I like the school just fine, 'cause my studies are easier. The spirit is wonderful. Everyone is very friendly and I'm all for Red Day!"

Jeanie loves to go swimming, but her favorite pastime is listening to records. "My One Sin", by the Four Coins, is her favorite song. Welcome Jeanie!

Another new student at Seminole High School is Michael Baly. Michael just recently moved to Sanford from Highlands, N. C., where he attended Highlands High as a Junior. Michael is seventeen.

Key Club Christmas Ball Set Dec. 18

The formal announcement of the Key Club's Christmas Ball was made in the morning bulletin last week. Since then corsages have been ruled out of the affair. Other than that the dance is strictly formal. The dance will be held on Wednesday, Dec. 18 at the Mayfair—unless I've goofed again. There's no excuse for not having a date; you still have almost two weeks to get yourself one. Admission will be $1.50 each couple with reservations, $1 if you belong to the Lonely Hearts Club and come stag. So remember, have your reservations made early. I take the reservation, along with the admission. (I get to keep the reservations; goody, goody!) We'll see you at the Mayfair, on Wednesday, Dec. 18, with dinner jackets and formal, for the Christmas Ball, sponsored by the Key Club.

Problem Corner

Dear Readers, If you will notice, the above title has been changed from Advice to Lovelorn to the Problem Corner. Its purpose has always been to help anyone with any type problem. Get busy gang and write in anything that might be troubling you. If something is important to you it may be just as important to many others. Please get on the ball and put all problems in the little orange box. Thank You.

Perfect Pairs

By Claudia Warmack
Have you ever noticed a couple of people who "go together"? Here are some couples I think were made for each other: Terry Tresser—Betty Johnson, Tony Getman—Sandy Anderson, Alex McKibbin—Sandra Kader, Sidney Viblen—Frances Strickland, Al Collins—Rickey Cox, Pete Nash—Linda Humphrey, Richard Phagan—Kathy Carlos, Pat Donahoe—Bonnie Soffer, Bruce McMurray—Marty Boyd, Larry Davis—Myrna Wilson, Max Finch—Carol Crimm, Larry McDaniels—Eve Dossey, Ruddy Vaughn—Eileen Myers, Glenn Utt—Vickie Ferguson. If any of this conflicts with current steady-daters, please remember that all this is only my opinion!

Death In Jungle

By Ralph Ray
Below is an example of an assignment in our creative writing class. The assignment was to portray the struggle and eventual death of a person in conflict with nature. There were several purposes for the assignment. One reason was that many of the students were "bogged-down" in their writing of their 3000-5000 word short stories. This assignment relieved the tedium by giving them something new to work on. However, more important, this was an exercise in transition, that is, the moving of a character through a short but violent struggle without losing the comprehension of the reader—one of the most difficult problems in writing anything. If the writer leaves gaps which the reader must fill in, it is poor writing.

It might be well to note here that we are not trying to make professional authors of these students. We are merely trying to make them feel "at ease" in this method of communication so that their thoughts can readily be put in writing in a clear and logical manner. This facility of writing is a necessity for good college work. The example below is not intended to be compared with professional work. However, it was written with considerable more ease, and it shows much better organization than the student's first struggling attempts to write a one-page theme. We feel that we are progressing.

Death In Jungle

for some time, and now he had almost reached his destination. Looking at the sluggish, peaceful river, he paid little attention to the path ahead of him. Suddenly, with a jolt, a flash of pain went through his foot. When he tried to put his foot up, John saw that it was caught in a steel trap. He realized that the pressure he was applying on his foot by standing was only making the pain greater, so he sat on the soft grass which grew by the side of the path. When he tried to pull his foot up, it was a new trap and the springs were very tight. John was a strong man, used to rugged outdoor life, so he was not uneasy about his ability to open the trap. With a tremendous effort he grasped the sides of the trap and began pulling it open. The jaws of the trap opened slowly, almost wide enough to release his foot. Suddenly a sharp, stinging pain in his hand made him jerk. Unconsciously John let the jaws of the trap slip from his fingers. Above the clanging noise of the trap snapping closed could be heard the sharp crack as the bones in his foot broke. When John had partially recovered from the shocking pain that throbbled through his foot, he looked to see what had caused the stinging sensation on his hand. His hand was covered with ugly red welts. Then John saw that he was sitting on top of the biggest ant bed that he had ever seen. Glancing over his body, he saw that the ants had covered nearly all his clothes. Now he began to be cognizant of the horrible, racking stings on his whole body. Following his first impulse, he jumped to run away. But John had forgotten momentarily about his foot. As he tried to jump, the pain that seared up through his leg was unbearable. John, beginning to panic, screamed for help until his throat was raw. Every time he moved the pain in his foot became unbearable. The trap was heavy, and was chained to a nearby tree. And John had now covered his entire body so that his skin was a solid mass of black ants and big red welts. John couldn't decide which was worse, the pain from the stinging ants or the throbbing of his broken foot. He looked down at his foot. It was swelling rapidly and was now almost twice its normal size. He couldn't remember anything that had hurt as badly as his foot did now. His leg was becoming numb with pain. He tried to analyze his predicament clearly—as clearly as possible in his state of mind. He was almost three miles from his cabin and ten miles from his nearest neighbor. There were no natives in this part of the jungle, so he could eliminate that possibility of escape. John could think of no one who might be near enough to hear him and bring help. Then the terrorizing thought began to enter his mind that no one would come. He tried to be optimistic and not think about the possibilities of dying alone here in the jungle. He was positive that he had never seen so many ants in his life before. They were all over him, and he had scratched his face and arms until they were raw and bleeding. It was almost noon now, and the sun shone mercilessly. John was in a small clearing and there was no shade at all. He had become delirious and was mumbling about how cool and refreshing the river looked. It was torture to be so close to water and not be able to reach it. He was so thirsty, and his throat was parched from screaming. He thought about how good a little drink would taste. Then, gradually, he lapsed into a state of unconsciousness. No longer did the sting of ants and the pain of his foot affect him. These things couldn't affect John any more. Later on in the afternoon, the sun disappeared behind a cloud, and a cooling shower fell. The rain brought relief, for a while, from the intense heat of the sun. Everything in the jungle became cool again—even John, who once had been a warm living creature.

DEATH IN THE JUNGLE

By Sandra Lee
The sun was very hot as John walked along the faint path by the river. Vegetation grew very rapidly here in the Amazon River Valley, and it seemed to John that it had been only last week that he had chopped down the bushes and vines and cleared a path. With him John had his rod and reel and rusty tackle box. He knew a good place down the river where he could always catch some fish. The jungle was steaming hot, and John's khaki shirt, which was wet with perspiration, clung to his body. It wasn't yet nine o'clock, but already the heat was almost unbearable. However, John was used to the heat, and so it didn't bother him too much. He was anticipating a relaxing day of fishing, and already he was thinking how good fresh fish would taste for supper. He walked very briskly because his fishing spot was almost three miles away. He had been walking

Thespians Will Give The Valiant

By Delores Bailey
The Thespian Club of Seminole High School, Chapter 958, is under the direction of Mrs. Boyd Coleman. Thespians is a national non-secret organization functioning in the interest of the theatre and dramatic arts, including lighting, staging, costuming, acting, and other phases of dramatic endeavor. It is open to all those who are interested and have accumulated a number of credits in stage work. Our Thespian chapter of over 15 members will present a play, "The Valiant" in the early part of next year. Parts will be cast on Dec. 10.

Thespian initiation, a pompous and elegant ceremony, will be held in the first part of 1958. This initiation is scheduled to be held in the SHS Auditorium, so be prepared for a delightful presentation then. Everyone who is in the Thespian in one form or another. After all, the backstage work is as important as the acting. In the production of a play. Without the director, producer, prompter, and stagehands, to mention a few, there would be no play. Of course, to be in Thespian is to take dances and speech as one of the electives. If you are interested in trying out for this club next year, take either Speech I, Dramatics I or Speech II-Drama, Dec II (for Seniors) next year. You won't regret it; you see, "Life is a stage, and all the people in it are the players."

OPEN THE COKE and START THE FUN!

Hear ye! Hear ye! Holiday good times are coming up with guests a-plenty and parties galore. And what's wanted in the refreshment line? Why, plenty of ice-cold Coke, of course. The sparkling pleasure, the bright little lift of Coca-Cola, makes everyone enjoy the party more. The best-loved sparkling drink in all the world... that's Cokel!

PARTY IDEAS: With flowers and bows, here's a new buffet-way to serve your ice-cold bottles of Coke. Tie a perky little red bow around the neck of each bottle and stick a tiny hutton chrysanthemum or a bit of holly through the bow. Set your holiday-ray bottles out on a tray and let guests help themselves to the good taste of Coca-Cola.

Curtis Becoming Rich By Playing 2nd To Superstars

By VERNON SCOTT
United Press Hollywood Writer

Curtis, his curly hair turning gray, is 31 and losing his pretty boy reputation. The critics agree he's come a long way since the days at Universal - International when he, like Piper Laurie across the desert in sex and sand quickies.

"It began when Burt Lancaster asked me to work with him in 'Trapeze.' He took a big chance, but it paid off."

"We got together again in 'Sweet Smell of Success' and that came through like gang busters, too. Then I co-starred with Kirk in 'The Vikings,' and now Sinatra in 'Kings Go Forth.'"

"Frankly, I want to follow in their footsteps. Maybe some of their talent will rub off on me." Tony is happy to be picking up an adult audience with his second banana gimmick. But he's not brushing off the youngsters who got him started in the first place. "My teenage fans were the ones who took me out of a New York gutter and stuck with me," says Tony. "I don't think they'll object if I become a good actor."

THE CARD OF THANKS

Very often a Card of Thanks in The Sanford Herald meets a need which is difficult to fill in any other way. Not only is it a gracious expression of gratitude to those who have sent floral tributes but also courteously acknowledges the services and kindness of the many to whom a personal note of thanks cannot well be mailed.

THE "IN MEMORIUM" NOTICE

It is the custom of many families in this country to commemorate a bereavement by an "In Memoriam" notice in newspaper classified columns. They find a real voice therein. Preparation of selection of a suitable verse brings back to them tender, pleasant recollections. As Eliza Cook, the English poet has so beautifully expressed it:

"How cruelly sweet are the echoes that start
What memory plays an old tune on the heart."

Most frequently an In Memoriam is inserted on the anniversary of death. However, other dates, which it is felt are equally appropriate or meaningful are also selected. The birthday of the departed, the wedding anniversary, Memorial Day, even Christmas are among other significant occasions chosen.

THE RATE

Cards of Thanks and In Memoriam notices, due to the fact they may run to considerable length, are billed at $1.00 per column inch.

White Talks On U. S. Air Power

Thomas D. White said today that American air power has the Soviet "seeded in from every direction" and the Russian leaders know it.

The Air Force chief of staff also stressed that the strategic Air Command this week was assigned its first intercontinental missile division, presumably comprising

Sharks which have a range of more than 5,000 miles.

In a speech to the National Press Club, the four-star general took notice of Russia's newly-revealed advances in missiles and other weapons, but asserted: "The experts in Russia who are responsible for their great progress must certainly know, however, that they have not yet succeeded in canceling the effectiveness of our own air power."

White said the Air Force took these steps this week in line with the new "sense of urgency" prevailing at the Pentagon:

Transferred its first missile division to the Strategic Air Command. He did not elaborate but it had previously been said the first Bear squadron would be activated this year. The first missile division is at Camp Cooke, Calif.

Transferred from the Research and Development Command to the SAC responsibility for the "initial operational capability phase" of both intercontinental ballistic missile and intermediate range ballistic missile programs. Both moves were taken as a speed-up effort to get ballistic missiles into service.

HMS BOUNTY FOUND OFF PACIFIC ISLE—Skin divers have located the coral-encrusted hull of the notorious mutiny ship, HMS Bounty, which was burned and sunk off the Pacific island of Fittsler by Fletcher Christian and his men in 1790. Here, Lesi Haden, of the National Geographic Magazine, examines copper fittings of the vessel, which lies on the ocean floor. An oarlock and a rudder pintle are visible in the foreground. Haden, credited with the discovery, said the location of the old ship was first pinpointed in January, 1957. (Copyrighted National Geographic Magazine Photo) (UP Telephoto)

Ordered "the entire resources of the giant Air Force depot at San Bernardino, Calif. to be made available as required to support this effort."

White asserted that as far as the Air Force was concerned, in the technological race with Russia there was "neither time nor energy to waste on so-called inter-service rivalry."

His speech, however, seemed to carry some oblique suggestions that the Army and Navy stick to their own last and leave the "indivisible field" of air and space primarily to the Air Force.

He said the Navy has a "back-breaking task" in developing the means to counter the "danger to our security" from the Russian submarine fleet.

He said the Army had an "urgent necessity" to devise new tactics and weapons for surviving nuclear attack while still conducting "ground action."

FARGO, N. D. (AP)—The North Dakota Agricultural College reported farmers across the nation worked an average of 10.7 hours daily this past June, near the height of the growing season compared with 11.2 hours a day in 1955.

J. Davis Tackling TV Comeback

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Comedienne Joan Davis is tackling the most difficult task in show business—a television comeback.

Rubber-faced Joan has signed to star in a new weekly series as the first woman to train and condition for a flight to the moon. Reaching the moon may prove easier than negotiating the rocky comeback trail.

Wally Cox couldn't get off the ground when he attempted to get back on the video beam via "Hiram Holliday." It folded as ignominiously as "Mr. Peepers." Imogene Coca nose-dived when she left Sid Caesar for a show of her own.

This season Joan Caulfield, who disappeared along with "My Favorite Husband," has a wobbly rating in "Sally."

Arden Mac Trumble

Eve Arden also is trying to recapture an audience with "The Eve Arden Show," which hasn't come close to the success of "Our Miss Brooks."

Actors seem to fare better than actresses in the comeback department, as evidenced by Richard Boone's jump from doctor in "Medic" to gun-slinger in "Have Gun, Will Travel."

Joan is optimistic despite the odds.

"It's been three years since she filmed the last of her old series, 'I Married Joan.' Sometimes she sat quietly in her Bel-Air mansion waiting for the right property to come along.

"This is it," she says hopefully. "The first comedy-science fiction show in TV. The humor is based on situations involving me with actual scientific experiments."

Slapstick Helped Joan

"It may get a little rough on me physically, but I'm used to that from my slapstick experiences in the past.

"Space travel and Sputniks are in the news, and our show (NBC) should appeal to all groups and sexes. Throughout the series I'll be accompanied by psychologists, anthropologists and the like, who record my reactions to different and challenging situations."

BERNARD BARUCH says, "If ever there was a true wizard of Wall Street, it was James R. Keene." Keene, known in his day as "The Silver Fox," came to New York from the Pacific Coast in the 1870s, was instrumental in floating the stock that launched the United States Steel corporation; his manipulations, conducted for J. P. Morgan, disposed of a billion dollar issue without upsetting the market—and, indeed, nobody who bought those original steel shares ever had cause to regret it.

Keene was a bull all his life. "You don't see any Fifth Avenue mansions built by bears," he liked to point out. Asked why he continued speculating in stocks after he had amassed a fortune, Keene replied, "Why does a dog chase his thousandth rabbit? All life is a speculation. The spirit of speculation is born with man."

A Masterpiece... Even by Cadillac Standards!

The magnificent Cadillac car for 1958 is, without question, a rare masterpiece in all the things that make a Cadillac... a Cadillac!

Certainly, it has had no precedent insofar as beauty is concerned. In its graceful symmetry of line and in its remarkable look of stature and substance, it is in a class all of its own.

Unquestionably, it is without counterpart by the way of interior elegance. Never before have Fleetwood coachcrafters combined such graciousness and luxury and spaciousness in a single interior design.

And, most assuredly, it has set its own extraordinary pace in modern motor car performance. Its dynamic new engine, its more responsive transmission, and its new air suspension, now available as an extra-cost option, are simply a revelation.

We earnestly hope that you will take the time to see and drive this extraordinary new Cadillac at your earliest possible convenience.

Your Cadillac dealer will be delighted to give you full details on Cadillac's twelve new models, including the incomparable Eldorado Brougham.

Santa Claus Starts On Joy-Bringing Trip Around World Today

FRANKFURT, Germany (UP)—Santa Claus set out today on his annual joy-bringing trip around the world. His trip once more will demonstrate that Christmas comes several times a year, despite the old saying. In Europe there will be four separate Christmas-type observances between now and Jan. 6.

Today, Santa was busy carrying cheer across Holland on a white horse, and lugging a bundle of green twigs around Germany. His duties run through Jan. 6, the day of "Old Christmas" in Spain and Italy. A jet-propelled youngster could really clean-up by being in enough right places at the right time.

Today is St. Nicholas Day, a religious holiday. As a sort of Christmas preview in Germany, Santa Claus distributes bundles of green switches and packets of chocolates and candies to remind children they must behave if they want larger rewards on Christmas Day. Swiss children get the same reminders.

In Bari, Italy, it is a day of religious commemoration in tribute to the first Saint Nicholas, who is buried there. But the religious holiday, and the saint, really had no connection with modern Christmas ceremonies. In Holland, nevertheless, this was the big day. Santa Claus cantered through the streets of Amsterdam on an impressive white horse. His black-moor servant, "Black Piet", followed with a bundle of switches. Dutch children and their parents, who started celebrating with a massive dinner last night, exchanged their presents today. Practical jokers presented their masterpieces after weeks of planning, and shook with deep-bellied Dutch laughter as the recipients unwrapped pencils hidden deep in three-foot long imitation cigarette and herring in canary cages. Santa Takes Breather Tomorrow Santa takes a breather. On Dec. 24 he plunges into the second round—Scandinavia, Austria, Switzerland and Germany again, where presents are opened on Christmas Eve. Although aircraft, helicopters and even Sputniks were being pressed into service in the rest of the world, Finnish children know he drives down from Lapland in a curly-runner sled drawn by Finland's own reindeer. The next day, Dec. 25, Santa makes his rounds of Great Britain, Portugal, and France where he leaves his gifts in wooden homes in front of the fireplace, or on the radiator if fireplaces are lacking. British keeps on celebrating through Dec. 26, which is called "Boxing Day." And finally, on "Old Christmas"—Jan. 6—there's a last round for the weary old man, to Spain and Italy, although in the latter he gets a helping hand.

Law enforcement officials are beginning to worry about the building number of automobile accidents in the Sanford semi-rural County area. The fifth automobile-train crash in 15 days was reported yesterday afternoon on south Sanford Ave.

Autopsy Shows 'King' Dies Of Suffocation

"King" is dead! The 12-year-old male lion, one of the pets at the Sanford Zoo, was found dead this morning when James Bedenbaugh, assistant Zoo Keeper, made his rounds about 6 o'clock checking the condition of zoo animals. "King" has been in the Sanford Zoo about 10 or 11 years. City Manager Warren E. Knowles said this morning. The huge lion was found lying on the bench in his cage with his head hanging down. An autopsy, performed this morning by a local veterinarian, Dr. L. R. Poe revealed that the lion's death was apparently due to suffocation. Dr. Poe's report to City Manager Warren E. Knowles was "suffocation caused by a hemorrhage into the pleural cavity." City Manager Knowles said that Dr. Poe also found a cancerous type growth on the liver of "King" and specimens have been taken and are being sent off for examination. "He hadn't been dead very long," City Manager Knowles said. At 9 o'clock this morning rigor mortis was just beginning to set in. The city obtained "King" as a real young cub and he had become so tame that the Zoo Keeper, Mrs. Arnold Hood, could walk up to the cage and rub his head. "He was very gentle," the city manager explained. The death of "King" leaves just one lion at the zoo, a female "Queenie."

U. S. Rocket Vanguard Explodes On Ground

CAPE CANAVERAL (UP)—The U. S. effort to launch a satellite into orbit around the earth, a Russian now has two satellites whizzing around the earth. A Massachusetts Institute of Technology scientist said today he expects the Russians to launch a third satellite within a few days. All was thought to be in readiness today for a successful U. S. take-off. An hours-long count-down or final checkoff of part in the Vanguard started at midnight. The most minute care had been taken to make certain it would go this time. A victory would have been a tremendous propaganda triumph and would have once more raised the U. S. scientific team in the eyes of its allies abroad. But when the historic moment came, a tremendous orange ball of flame at the base of the missile, followed by an awesome black cloud of smoke, signalled failure. Hundreds of witnesses Minutes later, pelicans wheeled over the base at Cape Canaveral—the only sign of aerial activity visible to hundreds of newsmen and spectators who had gathered on the beach to witness the event.

AWARDS FOR TOP FLOATS in the Jaycee-Merchants Association Christmas Parade were made yesterday at the Jaycee luncheon meeting. Cdr. E. H. Dohne, Naval Air Station; and Chairman Alexander. (Staff Photo)

Plans Underway Plans are being formulated for the tenth annual Christmas ball of the Seminole County Interfraternity Association. The gay affair will be held Dec. 25 at the Mayfair Inn. Dancing will be to the tunes of Tony Perez and his orchestra. All members of national college fraternities or sororities may receive tickets upon payment of their dues in the Association. Information on this will be published later.

Parade Winners Receive Awards

Awards were presented to winners in the float competition of the Jaycee - Merchants Association Christmas Parade at yesterday's luncheon meeting of the Sanford-Seminole County Junior Chamber of Commerce. Two trophies and five plaques were presented to representatives of the various schools, churches, organizations and businesses who took top place in the float competition. Serving as judges at the Wednesday parade were: Mrs. Lionel A. Arthur, Circuit Judge Volle A. Williams Jr., and Postmaster Joel Williams. In the Church Division the Holy Cross Episcopal Church took top place and received a plaque for their church scene entry. Mason Wharton accepted the plaque for the church. In the Business Division, top place winner was the Odham and Tudor float depicting "Candy Land". Second place was taken by the Sanford Naval Air Station for their float "Santa's Workshop". Accepting the plaque for Odham and Tudor was Art Harris and for the Sanford Naval Air Station was Lt. Cdr. E. H. Dohne. In the Civic and Fraternal Division the Sanford Rotary Club took top place with their entry "Children of the World". Tommy McDonald accepted the plaque. Second place was won by the Sanford Woman's Club for "A Peek at Santa". Mrs. Bill Kirk accepted

Southern Bell Official Speaks At Rotary Club

"Lots of times we stand up when we don't know what we're standing for," A. W. "Woody" Webber, District Manager for Southern Bell Telephone Company told Jaycees yesterday at their noon luncheon meeting. "Most of our business is made up of money, machinery, and people," he said "and people are the most important." Webber spoke yesterday to the Jaycees on "Personnel Problems." "It behooves us to do what we can to motivate people to attain increased sales; easier way to do things; and efficiency," Webber explained. A successful influencer must have a clear idea about what he is trying to communicate, he commented. "We say one thing and the hearer hears another so we must edit our message in order that it will be heard as we mean it," Webber told the Jaycees. Then he commented "A lot of times we can communicate better by turning up the volume a little louder or more often." Citing the tremendous growth in Florida, Webber said, "we're going to have to have more people to do the job—more folks who are qualified to get our share—so we need to think in terms of developing people." Webber warned the young businessmen not to make decisions for people they can make themselves. (Continued on Page 3)

Rotarians To Hear Musical Program At Luncheon Meet

Members of the Sanford Rotary Club, at their regular weekly meeting next Monday noon at the Yacht Club, will witness a demonstration on the Hammond electric chord organ of "Musical Memories". Glen Nelson, the organist, and Roger Gregory, as the narrator, appear through the courtesy of the Cooper-Gregory Music Co. and carry their listeners from the days of a carnival with its steam calliope through memories of violin, cornet, orchestra and band concerts, all played on the Hammond by Nelson. The program, arranged by Charles Morrison, is similar to one staged here recently by Nelson and Gregory, and at times, by Nelson and Holly Keller of the same company, at the Sanford Kiwanis Club, the local Shrine Club and at the Congregational Christian Church. On Tuesday, they will appear before the Pilot Club and on Dec. 17, will do their act at the meeting of the Farm Bureau, here. Wives of Rotarians are invited to hear the program Monday. Morrison stated, this morning.

Sanford NAS Control Tower Is Busy Place

The Control Tower at the Sanford Naval Air Station is about one of the busiest places in Florida. Radio communication to the layman is a mass of words that can only be unscrambled by one who is trained to catch every syllable and every call. Signals burn constantly to keep the control operator informed as to the whereabouts of every plane taking off from the Sanford Naval Air Station. A microphone is constantly at the operators mouth to carry messages to planes coming and going in a continuing stream. Strong beacons signal messages across the field of air strips to planes, trucks, jeeps, and other transportation plying back and forth (taxiing planes onto the take-off strip or readying others for plane flights scheduled practically every minute of the day and night. "Orlando Air Traffic Control clears Seminole One to the Navy Sanford Airport via Victor 267 to Jacksonville, Victor three to Savannah, Victor one eight five to Augusta, Ga., Victor one eight to Atlanta; two zero to Royston, Victor three five to Asheville, N.C. to Savannah, Victor three to Daytona Beach, Victor 152 to Navy Sanford. Maintain 35,000 feet altitude in control area to Savannah, 37,000 feet to Charlotte, 30,000 feet to Navy Sanford." With these words NAS Sanford Tower Control Operator James

Coburn, Air Control Man, Second Class, launched the first Skywarrior bomber of a nine-atriplane bomber stream from Heavy Attack Squadron Five and Eleven last night beginning at 9:35 p. m. These bombers, flown by your next door neighbors in Sanford, simulated bombing attacks on Atlanta, Charlotte and Savannah before returning here to their base. Each bomber can carry more destruction than that wrought by the entire weight of bombs dropped in World War II. Departing at 9:35 p. m. and thereafter at 10 minute intervals, the bombers formed a stream through the sky until the last one returned to Sanford at 1:35 a. m. this morning. While the citizens of Atlanta, Charlotte and Jacksonville slept, the A3D's from Sanford whistled over their heads in the midnight darkness only ten minutes. HATRION Five contributed six A3D's to the bombing stream, and HATRION Eleven three. Lt. Robert Kennedy of VAIL 3 was the Plane Commander in Seminole One that left at 9:35 p. m. on the flight that would cover many of the major cities in southern United States. It was Lt. Cdr. Louis Hoop that piloted Seminole Nine and was last man to touch down in the early morning. Lt. Cdr. Pitton spent the long vigil in the NAS Control Tower to oversee the operation for Heavy
