Accused fake cop arrested

SANFORD — One of six men arrested earlier this year as "fake cop" robbers in Seminole County and free on bond, was arrested again last night in connection with the theft of cash from an Orange County doctor's office.

Jerry Dale Goss, 29, of 711 Meadow St., Sanford, was charged by Sanford police with possession of stolen property and having an open container of alcohol. Arrested along with him on the same charges at 11:34 p.m. Tuesday on Celery Avenue, Sanford, was Norman Lee Wingate, 26, of Mailland. Wingate's truck was stopped by police because it had an unassigned license tag.

The earlier charges against Goss and five other accused accomplices include armed robbery, false imprisonment and impersonating a police officer. Goss and three accused gang members were arrested by Seminole County sheriff's deputies Jan. 26. Two other men have been arrested since then in connection with the same crimes, records show.

The gang is accused of for more than one year operating in Central Florida, by forcing their way into the homes of victims they robbed, while posing as police. The victims were often bound and terrorized during the robberies, investigators said.

Lake Mary development OK'd

LAKE MARY — Approximately 40 acres of woods located south of Broadmoor Street and west of First Road has been approved for development into a single-family subdivision.

A request by Mary Wolff, property owner, to rezone the area from A-1 (agriculture) to R-1AA (residential) was granted by the city commission.

The area is bordered to the north and east by Seminole Community College, and to the south and west by residential areas.

Volunteer selected a 'Point of Light'

By NICK PPRIFAUF

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — A 17-year-old Lyman High School student is heading for Washington, D.C., today at the invitation of President Bush, who has been chosen as one of the president's "points of light."

Katie Donihl of Altamonte Springs has been invited to the White House to witness the signing of the Americans with Disabilities Act into law in ceremonies to be held on the South Lawn.

The Act covers issues of employment, transportation and telecommunications. It is being called a "civil rights action" for the disabled. Those who have played key roles in creating the legislation will also take part in the ceremony.

In January, Donihl learned that she had been chosen as the 36th of President Bush's thousand points of light for her work with disabled children. She has worked for the past two years as a volunteer at Rachel Pace Therapeutic Riding Academy in Longwood.

"I help the children ride horses," she said. "Sometimes I lead the horses, sometimes I walk beside them. It helps the children realize they can gain control and gives them more confidence."

Donihl's father Tim, a retired Navy Commander, will be going with her to Washington. He recently became Executive Director of the Volunteer Center.

Katie is one of several hundred young Central Florida volunteers who will be honored September 22 at Sea World, as part of the Volunteer Center's annual Ambassador Awards.

Following her graduation from Lyman, she plans to attend Florida State University and major in either Law or Psychology. "I don't know which one yet," she said. "I just want to major in something that will help people."

Child support collections leap here

By J. MARK GARFIELD
Herald staff writer

TALLAHASSEE — Collections of delinquent child-support payments in Seminole County have increased by one-third during the past year as a crackdown on deadbeat dads increases.

Statewide, collections have nearly tripled through aggressive enforcement, including the use of "wanted posters," Gov. Bob Martinez announced Tuesday.

Child support can mean the difference between a square meal or going hungry, between a decent home or substandard housing, between a happy childhood or one of bitterness.

-Gov. Bob Martinez

Maryanne Morse, clerk of Seminole County courts, said property liens has proven to be the most effective way of getting fathers to begin paying their support payments. "People just don't want a lien placed on their property," Morse said. Morse said as of June 30 of this year, $14.5 million in child support payments were collected in the county. By June 30, 1989, $11.2 million payments had been collected.

The Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services increased collections of child support to $211 million in the fiscal year that ended June 30. The figure compares to $81 million in collections the year before Martinez took office.

Those efforts did more than pro-

Property owner offers deal for Sanford mall road

By NICK PPRIFAUF
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — There are still a number of stumbling blocks to cross over before the proposed Seminole Mall could become a reality, but Viola H. Kastner, 4950 W. State Road 46A, wants to make a deal.

In a letter submitted to Sanford Mayor Bettye Smith, Kastner has offered to "convey at no cost to the taxpayers of Seminole County, the right-of-way necessary for the proposed future northern extension of Rhinehart Road."

Rhinehart Road presently lies between Lake Mary Boulevard and State Road 46A, and is wholly within the Lake Mary city limits. It has been required that before the Seminole Mall can be opened, Rhinehart must be extended northward to become a southern access to the complex.

Kastner, however, says that before she gives the right-of-way away, she wants to be assured that her ability to use her property adjacent to the road is not jeopardized in the future. She is requesting a rezoning of the property through which the Rhinehart extension would go, from A1 Agricultural, to Planned Development. There are actually two parcels of land involved, one consists of slightly over 37 acres to the north of State Road 46A. The other involves 80 acres immediately south of State Road 46.

Kastner has not submitted a specific proposal for the development, but said she has contracted

Conserve power, electric utility asks customers

From staff reports

SANFORD — As temperatures continue to climb, Florida Power & Light Company, anticipating a record demand for summer electricity use today and possibly Thursday, asks customers to conserve power.

The plea for voluntary conservation, especially during the afternoon hours, was made in a press release issued this morning.

The temperature in Sanford yesterday reached a scorching 94 degrees before a violent afternoon rainstorm, with winds gusting up to 58 mph, accompanied by lightning and thunder, downed some trees as it swept through northeast Seminole County.

The University of Florida Agricultural Research and Education Center on Celery Avenue in Sanford, recorded .15 inches of rainfall Tuesday.

Sanford and Lake Mary police report they received no calls pertaining to storm damage Tuesday.

Voluntary conservation, coupled with FPL's plans to implement pre-arranged programs to reduce business and residential demand, should provide FPL with adequate power reserves to meet customers' needs, the press release said.

However, with temperatures expected to be in the mid 90's again today, the possibility exists that more severe demand reduction measures may be required if electricity use rises higher than expected or the unplanned loss of FPL generating units occur.

The previous peak summer demand of 13,425 megawatts was set Aug. 7, 1989 and similar use is

Embryos at center of custody battle

MILTON — Frozen embryos under lock and key at a clinic in Gulf Breeze are at the center of a rare custody battle in a Santa Rosa County divorce case, according to court records.

Circuit Judge George Lowery has given both sides one month to file memorandums. He will then make a decision on whether Wanda Jenkins or Jerome Jenkins will get the frozen embryos.

Court records show the two were married in 1971 and have no children. But eggs from Mrs. Jenkins were fertilized in November by a paid donor. The embryos, or fertilized eggs, are at a fertility clinic in Gulf Breeze.

Clemency move cheers right-to-die group

EUGENE, Ore. — A national right-to-die group Tuesday welcomed a move by a Florida prosecutor to seek clemency for an 81-year-old Florida man serving a life prison term for the "mercy killing" of his ailing wife.

Former prosecutor Kelly Hancock said this week he wants to free Rowell Gilbert, who must serve 25 years before he is eligible for parole. Hancock said he was prosecuting the crime, not the man, when he argued the case almost five years ago.

Gilbert shot his wife Emily twice in the head as she lay on a sofa at their Sea Ranch Lakes condominium in March 1985. She was suffering from Alzheimer's disease and osteoporosis.

Woman surprised her cats are destroyed

MILTON — A woman who left her two cats with health officials last week thinking they would only be observed for rabies was surprised to find out they had been killed and their heads sent to a lab for testing.

Elizabeth Foss said Tuesday that she asked the Santa Rosa County Health Department for help after she found a bat, later found to be rabid, in her yard last week.

She took the cats to the health department last Thursday and said she told workers she was not sure the cats had been exposed, but wanted them to be observed as a precaution.

When her daughter went to pick up the cats to take them to a veterinarian the next day, she found out they had been killed and their heads had been sent to a lab for testing.

"I knew if somebody had been bit, or if the cats had been bit by something rabid, they would have to be destroyed," said Foss, who insisted the cats had not been bitten.

FPL asks customers to cut back usage

MIAMI — Florida Power & Light Co. officials, anticipating a record demand for electricity, asked customers Tuesday to voluntarily conserve power for two days, especially during the afternoon.

Voluntary conservation along with plans by the utility to implement programs to reduce business and residential demand should give FPL adequate power reserves. More severe demand reductions may be necessary if electricity use rises higher than anticipated or a generation unit goes down, officials said.

The record for summer use was 13,425 megawatts on Aug. 7 and authorities expect similar use Wednesday because of continued hot summer weather. Since three of the utility's 31 major generating units are out of service for repairs, FPL has only a narrow margin of power production to fill high demand, they said.

One porno charge remains

FORT LAUDERDALE — A circuit judge dropped all but one child pornography possession charge Tuesday against a former daycare center owner accused of having thousands of nude photographs of children in his home.

Changing a state appeals court ruling, Circuit Judge Robert Tyson dismissed 28 of the 29 counts of possession of child pornography facing John W. "Jack" Shaver, former owner of the Rainbow Learning Center.

Tyson dismissed the charges based upon a ruling June 13 by the 4th District Court of Appeals that a defendant could not be charged with multiple counts of possession of child pornography arising from a single transaction.

Prosecutors have 15 days to appeal Tyson's ruling. Shaver, 56, had entered innocent pleas on all 29 counts. He was placed for a short time at a state mental hospital after a failed suicide attempt but is free on $70,000 bond.

Astronauts, cosmonauts cooperate

HOUSTON — The astronauts and cosmonauts who participated in a U.S.-Russian space rendezvous 15 years ago called Tuesday for future space cooperation between the two countries.

"We'd like to go back and do it again," said Thomas Stafford, who shook hands in space with cosmonaut Alexei Leonov at 3:19 p.m. EDT on July 17, 1975, after his Apollo moon capsule linked up with the Russian Soyuz.

The handshake was the climax of more than three years of work on two continents and highlighted an era of detente between the two nations.

Atlas rocket delayed again

United Press International

CAPE CANAVERAL — The launch of an Atlas 1 rocket carrying a $189 million science satellite to study Earth's invisible magnetic field has been postponed again until today, officials said Tuesday.

Late Tuesday, General Dynamics spokesman Jack Isabel said the aerospace firm will make its fourth launch attempt Wednesday at 3:21 p.m. EDT. He said engineers replaced a faulty electrical switch on the Atlas that prevented the rocket from generating its own power Monday less than 5 minutes before blastoff.

The launch was postponed for the third time in four days Monday just four minutes before the scheduled blastoff when engineers could not switch on the rocket's internal power.

The problem was traced to a faulty "vehicle power changeover switch," which was removed late Monday and replaced Tuesday. Engineers began tests to make sure everything was working properly, said General Dynamics spokesman Jack Isabel.

"Engineers are in the process of validating that new hardware," said Isabel, adding that a decision on when to schedule the next launch attempt was expected late Tuesday.

Before Monday's problems, the 143-foot booster sitting on launch pad 36-B at the Cape Canaveral Air Force Station had already been delayed twice before — Friday because of a helium leak, and Sunday by stormy weather. Mounted inside its protective 14-foot-wide nose cone is the Combined Release and Radiation Effects Satellite, or CRRES, a joint NASA-Defense Department satellite built to study the interaction between the supersonic solar wind, Earth's upper atmosphere and the planet's magnetic field.

CRRES, a solar-powered 3,732-pound satellite built by Ball Corp. of Denver, is equipped with 24 canisters of barium and lithium that will be released into space and detonated over the next year, "painting" the otherwise invisible magnetic field with vast clouds of glowing chemicals.

Program manager Richard Howard said the releases, scheduled to begin in September and continue through next July, should be "very visible" to observers in the United States, creating celestial displays that bear "an uncanny resemblance" to the aurora borealis, or northern lights.

Ariane 4 rocket launched

United Press International

KOUROU, French Guiana — An Ariane 4 rocket successfully boosted two communications satellites into orbit Tuesday, putting the European space program back on track after a February failure that destroyed two Japanese relay stations.

Equipped with four liquid-fueled strap-on boosters for extra power, the 192-foot three-stage rocket thundered to life at 6:25 p.m. EDT and quickly climbed away from its firing stand at the European Space Agency's jungle launch complex on the northern coast of South America.

Perched atop Europe's premier rocket were two communications satellites: TDF-2, a five-channel direct-broadcast television satellite built for Telediffusion de France; and DFS Kopernikus-2, a telecommunications satellite built for the German postal service, Deutsche Bundespost.

Powerful springs gently pushed TDF-2 away from the Ariane third stage about 20 minutes after liftoff into its planned preliminary orbit. DFS Kopernikus-2 followed suit about four minutes later.

Small on-board rockets are scheduled to fire roughly 37 hours after launch to propel the satellites toward their final altitude of 22,300 miles over the equator.

"We're back in operation after what amounts to a 3 1/2-month delay," said Doug Heydon, president of Arianspace Inc. "We're obviously extremely relieved and very happy. I think we have some pleased customers."

The 37th Ariane flight marked a critical milestone for the European Space Agency and Arianspace, the 11-nation European consortium that controls more than 50 percent of the world's commercial launch market.

It was the first mission for Arianspace since an Ariane 4 launched Feb. 22 veered out of control and exploded 101 seconds after liftoff. Lost along with the rocket were two Japanese communications satellites insured for $189.4 million.

The failure later was blamed on a piece of cloth that blocked a critical water supply line needed by one of the four Viking 5 strap-on engines. Water is used by the engines to regulate the mixture of rocket fuel, to control engine chamber pressure and to cool gases used to pressurize the fuel tanks.

With a wad of cloth blocking a water line, the first-stage engine in question lost power 6.2 seconds after ignition.

NASA makes final check

United Press International

CAPE CANAVERAL — Engineers pumped liquid hydrogen rocket fuel this morning back aboard the grounded shuttle Atlantis in a final leak test to clear the spacecraft for launch next month on a long-delayed military flight.

NASA managers were hopeful that work last week to tighten bolts around a critical fuel line flange would eliminate a small hydrogen leak that forced the space agency to ground the shuttle earlier this month.

But if Atlantis failed the leak test, only one flight would be able to get off the ground before a high-priority mission in October.

Mother recounts abuse dead toddler endured

By VICTOR GALVAN
United Press International

FORT MYERS — A man accused of killing his stepson by dunking him headfirst in a toilet for soiling his pants brutally abused the child over several weeks, including beating his genitals and making him carry his own feces in his mouth, the sobbing mother testified Tuesday.

Sheryl Coe, who is serving a 30-year sentence for her part in her son's death, took the stand in Thomas Coe's murder trial and demonstrated how Bradley McGee was repeatedly plunged headfirst into a toilet the day before he died.

In the weeks before his death, McGee was forced to carry feces in his mouth and was beaten about the genitals by her husband, who didn't want him to grow up to be a "faggot," the 21-year-old mother testified.

On July 27, 1989 — the day before McGee died — Thomas Coe was "angry and mad" that the toddler had soiled his pants in the car while the family was driving home from a job interview, Sheryl Coe told the six-man, six woman jury in more than two hours of testimony.

McGee's death two months after being turned over to his parents by the state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services led to the unprecedented conviction of a child welfare worker of child abuse for mishandling the case and prompted the state Legislature to approve more money for the state's child protection system.

Thomas Coe, 23, wiped away a tear as his wife described how he made Bradley stay up all night on one occasion and forced him to pick up his own feces with his mouth and carry it to the toilet.

Thomas Coe's state of mind at the time of the dunking is key to the case, because prosecutor John Aguerro contends Coe, who could face the death penalty if convicted of first-degree murder, was upset over the job interview and took his frustrations out on the child.

The defense contends that Coe simply was trying to potty train the child and did not intend to hurt him.

POLICE BRAWLS

Man accused of battering two

SANFORD — A man accused of twice pointing a gun at a man and threatening to kill him, and then twice allegedly attacking a 17-year-old girl who tried to intervene, has been arrested by Sanford police.

The male victim, Jeffrey Schultz, also told police the suspect poked him in the throat with his fingers. The girl, Tracy Vars, alleges the suspect twice grabbed her by the throat and tried to choke her, police report.

Steven Eugene Meadors, 35, of 128 Mayfair Court, Sanford, was arrested at home, where the incidents occurred, at 11:18 p.m. Tuesday. He is charged with three counts each of aggravated assault and battery. A loaded pistol was confiscated.

Man accused in beating

LONGWOOD — A man who along with another allegedly followed two other men's car into the parking lot of the Winn-Dixie, U.S. Highway 17-92, Longwood, and beat the other men with a stick, has been arrested.

Longwood police report they located the two accused attackers at their houses at about 11:30 p.m. Tuesday, following the attacks. The man who allegedly brandished the stick, John Mark Orr, 23, of 725 Long Dale Ave., Longwood, was charged with aggravated battery and criminal mischief in the case. He is also accused of kicking the victims' car.

Man, three juveniles charged in robbery

SANFORD — City police here report charging Lonnie Cris Fawcett, 19, of Deltona, with robbery, resisting arrest and possession of alcohol by a minor after he and two boys and a girl allegedly stole beer from a Sanford store.

The juveniles were also arrested at about 1:34 p.m. Tuesday, Sanford Police Chief Steven Harriett said today.

The gang is accused of grabbing five 12-packs of beer from the Handy Way, 301 E. 25th Street and pushing the clerk aside to flee at about 1:15 p.m. They were caught in a car on U.S. Highway 17-92 and arrested after Fawcett and one of the boys tried to run away, police said.

Two charged in burglary

SANFORD — Two men, who allegedly tried to pawn an edger stolen in a July 18 burglary to a Sanford house, have been arrested by city police.

The victim, Barbara Hendricks, of Park Place, reportedly identified the stolen item after police recovered it when the suspects allegedly tried to dispose of it at a Sanford pawn shop Tuesday.

Michael Dwayne Parlier, 27, and Ricky Linn Parlier, 24, both of 407 Mattie St., Sanford, are charged with burglary and petty theft in the case. The arrest was made Tuesday in Sanford.

Man accused of theft

SANFORD — A man accused of burglarizing a woman's house when he was moving out in May has been arrested by Sanford police.

Douglas Arthur Gears, 24, of 600 Park Ave. #C, Sanford, was charged with grand theft in the case at 3:15 p.m. Tuesday at the police station. Denise Carr, of 414 Mellonville Ave., #3, Sanford, reported a television and other property was stolen when Gears moved out of her house.

Woman faces charge after accident

SANFORD — The following person faces a charge of driving under the influence in Seminole County:

•Dottie Lou Jarreau, 32, of Orlando, was arrested at 8 p.m. Tuesday after her car was in an accident on Central Street, Oviedo.

Woman reports rape

SANFORD — Seminole County sheriff's deputies report they are investigating allegations by a 33-year-old rural Sanford woman, who said she was raped repeatedly by two men who recently moved into her house. The attacks, she said, occurred from 3:30 a.m. to 10:17 p.m. Tuesday at the woman's house, a sheriff's report said.

Price of new homes in Lake Mary double those built now in Sanford

By NICK PEPINAW
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — The average new home planned for construction in Lake Mary is almost twice the value of the average new home in Sanford, according to the most recent building permit statistics from the cities.

Seventeen single family residential building permits were issued during June by the City of Sanford, with a total dollar value of $1,008,428, or an average value of $59,319.29 per house.

Lake Mary on the other hand, with approximately one sixth the population of Sanford, according to 1988 population estimates, issued fourteen building permits during June for single family residences, with a total value of $1,490,864, an average per home value of $106,490.29.

The City of Longwood reported issuing only 2 permits which were for single family modular homes, at an average value of $20,180.

The issuance of building permits in Sanford is down considerably from this time last year, although the average value is up. As of the end of June, 1989, Sanford had issued 67 permits, compared to 103 for the same period last year. The 103 permits in during the first six months of 1989 had an average per house value of only $35,452.

The majority of new building permits taken out in Sanford were for new single family dwellings in the Brynhaven subdivision, off Sanford Avenue just south of Sonora.

SANFORD — Assistant principals were appointed to schools in Sanford, Lake Mary and Longwood at last night's school board meeting.

James Buckman will become an assistant principal at Sanford Middle School, 1700 French Ave. in Sanford. He was awarded a 10 month contract which begins on Aug. 10.

Walter Morgan will be an assistant principal with a 10 month contract at Greenwood Lakes Middle School, 801 Lake Park Dr. in Lake Mary beginning on Aug. 10.

On Aug. 1 Wolfgang Halbig will begin his duties as an assistant principal with an 11 month contract at Lyman High School, 1141 S.E. Lake Ave. in Longwood.

Buckman is currently a seventh grade life sciences teacher at South Seminole Middle School, 101 S. Winter Park Drive in Casselberry. He has also taught physical education at South Seminole and Milwee Middle School, 1725 C.R. 427 in Longwood.

At Milwee, Buckman also served as dean of students and as an assistant principal. In addition, he has coached freshman football and varsity soccer at Lyman High School and taught physical education at Red Bug Elementary School, 4000 Red Bug Rd. in Casselberry.

He has worked in the Seminole County school district since 1975.

Morgan, currently dean of students at Seminole High School, 2701 Georgia Ave. in Sanford, also serves as the school's activity director.

A math and science teacher by trade, Morgan has taught eight grade math at Greenwood Lakes Middle School, pre-algebra, algebra, geometry, biology and physics at Lake Mary High School, 655 Longwood-Lake Mary High School in Lake Mary and seventh grade science at Sanford Middle School.

He has also coached swimming and soccer at Lake Mary High School and swimming at Seminole High School.

He has worked in the Seminole County school district since 1981.

Halbig, currently dean of students at Lake Brantley High School 991 Sand Lake Rd. in Altamonte Springs, also serves as a coach and teacher at the school.

He has been in the Seminole County school system since 1986, but also served one year from 1973 to 1974.

In the interim, he spent one year as a state trooper with the Florida Highway Patrol.

Post office renovation put on hold

By NICK PEPINAW

SANFORD — Planned reconstruction of the postal box area of the post office downtown have been placed on hold.

Postmaster Fred Rader said, "I received a phone call from the Project Director in Tampa telling me that when the contractors came in to remove the post boxes, tell them not to do anything." Rader added, "As of right now, I don't know when anything will be done and it may be quite some time before I'll know about it."

Westoff Construction of Lakeland originally planned to close the entire postal box area, remove all of the boxes at one time, and construct three alcoves to handle all new post boxes that are still under construction.

Vocational education under new direction

By VICKI DeBORNIER
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Last night the Seminole County School Board approved the appointment of Robert A. Falatte to the post of consultant and coordinator of the vocational and technical programs.

Falatte's promotion follows a month after the Lena M. "Betty" Hogle was named the director of vocational and technical education. Hogle previously held the position to which Falatte was appointed last night.

Currently, Falatte is the chairman of the business department at Lyman High School, 1141 S.E. Lake Ave. in Longwood.

He has also taught economics, American government, American history, world history, geography, typing, business management and law, as well as coordinator of cooperative and diversified education since coming to the Seminole County school district five years ago.

Falatte has a bachelors degree from Ball State Teaching College in Muncie, Indiana with a double major in social science and business education. He also has a masters degree in administration and supervision from Indiana University at Bloomington.

Under the guidance of Hogle and Falatte, it is hoped that the Seminole County career and vocational programs, already considered among the best in the state, will continue to improve and, according to Hogle, "be able to offer the best guidance and education to all who chose vocational careers."

Hogle said that it is the responsibility of the school district to prepare all its students for either college or employment. She said her department has made a commitment to be sure that all students who are not college bound will have the appropriate education to move successfully into the work force upon graduation.

The Seminole County school district will receive $38,666 from the state this year to plan the curriculum, develop new and revise old curricula and purchase new equipment in anticipation of $300,000 state grant that will be used to set up a pilot program involving vocational education beginning at the elementary level.

Benefits of trees

It's common knowledge by now that planting trees is a good way to improve air quality. But the benefits also may extend in the other direction.

Trees might be helpful in reducing water pollution, according to Louis Licht, a University of Iowa environmental engineering researcher.

Growing things in general and trees in particular help cleanse the air of some undesirable substances. Trees consume carbon dioxide, for instance, which in excess is a component of the smog that covers some cities.

Carbon dioxide also is a contributor to the greenhouse effect, which scientists say will cause the Earth's average temperature to warm and its climate to change. Greenhouse gases trap the heat of the sun in the atmosphere and will not allow it to radiate into space.

The idea of trees helping to combat water pollution is something new. Licht said that fast-growing poplar trees planted 5 feet deep near streams and rivers can intercept most nitrates that flow from fertilized farmland. Nitrate pollution from farm chemicals is becoming a problem in some areas.

The trees offer an extra bonus, he said. They help control erosion of soil by wind and water. And streamside groves of trees are pleasant to look at, too.

The benefits of trees to the environment are already widely known. If Licht is correct, then tree-planting, particularly by farmers concerned with good stewardship of their land and water resources, becomes an even more attractive proposition.

Remember Old Glory

While making calls in Debarry the other day, I was in the office of KINGS LAKE Mobile Home Park and was reading their community bulletin and came upon the enclosed article about our flag.

Some of the feelings expressed in this article are the same as I have felt for some time and maybe some of your readers may agree. Even though this was for the Fourth of July, what makes the difference? Possibly you would run this in a future issue of the Herald, for the benefit of those who feel as I do:

Some people call me Old Glory, others call me the Star Spangled Banner, but whatever they call me, I am your Flag, the Flag of the United States of America...Something has been bothering me so I thought I might talk it over with you...because it is about you and me.

I remember some time ago people lined up on both sides of the street to watch the parade and naturally I was leading every parade, proudly waving in the breeze, when your daddy saw me coming he immediately removed his hat and placed it against his left shoulder so that the hand was directly over his heart...remember

And you, I remember you. Standing there straight as a soldier. You didn't have a hat, but you were giving the right salute. Remember little sister Not to be outdone, she was saluting the same as you with her right hand over heart...remember What happened I'm still the same old flag. Oh, I have a few more Stars since you were a boy. A lot more blood has been shed since those parades of long ago.

But now I don't feel as proud as I used to. When I come down your street you just stand there with your hands in your pockets and I may get a small glance and then you look away. Then I see the children running around and shouting...they don't seem to know who I am...I saw one man take his hat off and then look around, he didn't see anybody else with theirs off so he quickly put his back on.

Is it a sin to be patriotic anymore Have you forgotten what I stand for and where I've been...Anzio, Guadalcanal, Korea and Vietnam. Take a look at the Memorial Honor Rolls sometimes, of those who never came back to keep this Republic free...One Nation under God...when you salute, you are actually saluting them.

Well, it won't be long until I'll be coming down your street again. So, when you see me, stand straight, place your right hand over your heart...and I'll salute you, by waving back...and I'll know that...

YOU REMEMBERED

Now a quasi-quota to beat quotas

It is said that there should be no "single issue litmus test" in selecting and confirming a successor to Supreme Court Justice William Brennan.

That is mindless. When an issue reaches transcendent importance it should be litmused. Would anyone argue that anti-slavery or anti-segregation should not be litmus tests?

There is now one such issue. It is not abortion. That has pretty well been settled. The liberals won in the way that conservatives insisted upon. Abortion is back in the state legislatures, where the will of the public is emerging. On balance, in the vast majority of states, abortion will be legal and subject to moderate restrictions. Even if Roe v. Wade is overturned, roughly the same process will ensue.

The litmus issue of our judicial moment is quotas. Readers of this space know the author is an optimist. Withal, if one issue threatens the well-being of this nation, it is race, and that issue is exacerbated by quotas. The quota situation reminds one of the Vietnam War line about "destroying the village in order to save it."

Until recently, the situation was looking better. The court had rolled back some runaway affirmative action. Some non-conservative blacks courageously announced that quotas were harmful. It was 1990. Proponents had always said quotas were a remedy of limited duration.

But then two things happened which, combined, are scary. In a 5-4 Brennan-driven decision, the court backed the Federal Communications Commission's right to grant racial preferences in awarding certain licenses to broadcasters. In addition, the court broke astonishing new ground, proclaiming that Congress could pass laws that discriminate racially if the Congress sees an "important governmental objective" being served.

(Segregation?) That was followed by the astounding vote of every single Democrat in the Senate in favor of the "Civil Rights Act of 1990," a law that can push corporations into quota hiring. The bill may still be diluted. But the message, in a party plagued by the perception of special-interest influence, is clear. Senate Democrats have shown again they will buckle under to the civil rights lobby.

So: The court says the Congress may legislate racial preferences. The Senate says it is afraid not to.

Quotas were always bad policy. They flouted the central American precept: advance by merit. But the new American demography transforms bad policy into looming disaster. Blacks are no longer the one predominant minority. New (and healthy) immigration has brought in Hispanics, Asians, Moslems and non-U.S. blacks. Eastern Europeans and Russians are on their way. Will each group have a quota? If they do, or if they don't, won't we have bitterness and chaos?

Quotas are passionate stuff. Many blacks have been inflamed by activist leaders who say anti-quotas is racism. Ex-Klanman David Duke uses it to galvanize his Louisiana race for the U.S. Senate. On college campuses, quotas set race against race.

The post-Brennan court must settle it. The list of potential nominees available to President Bush is of high quality.

Quotas were always bad policy.

Confessions of a phonephobic

BOSTON — I am standing in the lobby of a large office building when the man beside me starts talking into his briefcase. The fellow looks buttoned up and rational, so I assume if he is hearing voices, they are real ones. There is a phone in his briefcase.

I am sitting at a red light in traffic, when the car beside me starts ringing. The driver picks up the receiver and begins a now-common routine. She steers her car with one hand and her business with the other.

I am somewhat over Connecticut on a one-hour shuttle from Boston to New York when my companion sticks his credit card into the chair before us and calls his office to find out if there are any messages. At 22,000 feet, he leaves a phone message in Boston about where to forward his phone messages in New York.

Once upon a time, a sitcom hero named Maxwell Smart used to talk into his shoe and we laughed. But somewhere along the line, the hi-tech gadgetry of the spy films got transformed into the tools of everyday trade.

Today there are people within reach of a phone every moment of their lives except takeoff, landing and a long tunnel ride. The work world is now an interlocking network of communications and messages, a proliferation of phones, a great babbling overkill of touch-tone technology.

We live from call-waiting to call-forwarding, from answering machines to voice mail. We are surrounded by cellular phones and portable phones. We even have a little pocket phone to form a "personal communications network."

In theory, this population explosion of phones and their fax-similes has sprung into being to offer mobility and freedom from the office. Indeed, people who take phones to the gym, the restaurant, even the bathroom, swear by the freedom they gain with this telephone tether.

But watching my colleagues-on-call, I have become convinced that this network is a tie that binds more and more people to work.

The executives who go to the beach with a towel and a telephone aren't liberated from the office: They are only on work release. The cellular commuters haven't changed the work environment, they have turned every environment into workspace. The new touchable class reminds me of parolees let out of jail after being collared by a tracking device.

I admit to being somewhat phonephobic. One of the great pleasures of life is being out of touch. If I were to devise a home voice mail, it would say: Touch 1 if this is a life-threatening emergency. Touch 2 if you are a family member with a flat tire on a dark corner. Touch 3 if you are a junk-phone call and would like to be immolated.

But even by normal standards, we've gone too far. In the work world, we are increasingly seduced by the notion of how efficient it is to be in constant contact with each other. In fact, the phone in all its forms has become a kind of endless meeting that entices us to spend more time communicating than producing. And the operative phrase is "more time."

The Bureau of Labor says that Americans are working longer hours than we used to. Twenty million or so have bumped the workweek over the 49-hour mark. There are no figures that tell us how many of those hours are spent leaving messages for people who left messages to call. Nor do we know how much time is spent responding to questions that we're only asked because of the availability of the instant information gratification system.

In the constant-contact future, it's easy to see an insidious expansion of work and a more insidious extension of the workplace. In the industrial age, the factory foreman controlled his workers from 9 to 5. In the information age, workers are always available.

Today it is possible to begin work with the first commuting mile on a cellular phone, continue it through a lunch accompanied by a "personal communications network" and end with a bedtime chat into your briefcase.

In 24-hour contact, we haven't missed a thing. Except of course the time for rumination, the solitude and space for the work we call thinking.

For years the pitch of the telephone company was "Reach Out and Touch Someone." Now we're all tied up, workers of the world united by the touchtone, and we need a new slogan. How about this one: "Let My People Off the Hook."

But even by normal standards, we've gone too far.

Calcutta not good side of communism

WASHINGTON — As the tide of communism recedes around the world, the hammer and sickle are still flying high above Calcutta, the capital of the West Bengal state in India.

Last month at the polls, in what U.S. officials in Calcutta call a "classic mockery of free elections," the Communist Party retained power for another five years.

Calcutta is no jewel in the crown of communism. If Ronald Reagan ever needed a definition for the "evils" of communism, he could simply have pointed to Calcutta.

The filth, the squalor, the chaos leave the impression that the city is reeling from an earthquake. But it is far from Calcutta, home to the world's homeless. This is a city where it is common to read newspaper accounts of people who sell their own kidneys or sell their 8-year-old sons on the black market to be horse jockeys in the Middle East.

Our associate Jim Lynch traveled to Calcutta when the election results were still buzzing through the city. Protest rallies held up traffic and police shelled neighborhoods with tear gas to dampen the partisan ardor.

A drive through Calcutta betrays the failure of the communist regime. A dozen people lie head to toe in the fetal position on the crumbling curb at a busy intersection. Arms and legs protrude from beneath tattered tarps that pass for shelter. Across the street a billboard advertises a bank loan that could be "THE KEY TO YOUR DREAM HOME."

Crippled beggars hobble to the cab window and wave their hands that lack a full complement of fingers. A city bus is sardined full of riders with another dozen clinging to the roof.

Almost nothing looks new in Calcutta. The cars resemble old Checker cabs. The soot-covered buildings desperately need paint or a bath. Taxi tires show frayed rubber. If the passenger points to a bald tire in alarm, the driver responds, "No problem."

Everything, including bricks, is carried on the heads of people, making one think that U.S. aid to India should begin with wheelbarrows. One of the few new-looking buildings in Calcutta is the Grand Hotel, a place where Westerners stay and can shut out the scenes of the street. The masses of the city will never set foot inside. A few nights' rest at the Grand costs more than most people in the city of 12 million will see in a year. The city has attracted humanitarians, but never enough to make a dent in the poverty. Mother Theresa is the die-hard. Turn down a particular alley in Calcutta and you will see her name scrawled in inch-high fading letters on the wall of the Missionaries of Charity center. A nun will come to the door and lead anyone to see Mother Theresa if she is in. She tries to see all outsiders who want to meet her because the poor of Calcutta need all the friends they can get. Calcutta has been on the slide since 1911 when India moved its capital from there to New Delhi. Yet the poverty here is nothing compared to that in the surrounding nations. Down-and-out Calcutta is considered the oasis in a desert of poverty stretching through neighboring Burma, Bangladesh and Nepal, three of the world's poorest nations. For many, Calcutta is the city of hope. The real hopelessness in Calcutta is a colossal challenge for any government, especially one with few resources and archaic methods. It won't escape Calcutta's attention that communism is being tossed out like yesterday's newspaper all over Eastern Europe. It is likely that the hammers and sickles tattooed on the walls of downtown Calcutta will be painted over in anger before the next election in 1995.

Crippled beggars hobble to the cab and wave hands that lack fingers.

with the Orlando engineering firm Ivey Bennett Harris & Walls Inc. to draw the plans. City commissioners will first consider the proposal Aug. 13.

Because Kastner required Seminole County to receive 25 percent of the new road's capacity for her development before she would give the land to the county needed for the extension, county commissioners nearly delayed the extension project

Tuesday night. But after receiving a request from Kastner to delay their decision, commissioners agreed and delayed their action until Sept. 11.

Kastner is mother of county commissioner Jennifer Kelley's former husband, Douglas Kelley. Before the Kelley's were divorced, Jennifer Kelley was criticized for voting to approve the extension of Rhinehart Road because it would increase the value of her mother-in-law's property.

In her letter to the city, Kastner said she wanted to get city approval for the development prior to deciding the road land to the county by Sept. 1.

Reasoning applications have been submitted to the City of Sanford for both pieces of property. The City Commission received copies of the proposal prior to its Monday night meeting, but no action had been taken by Planning and Zoning, and the letter was received only days prior to the meeting, no action was taken.

NAACP awards banquet set

By ERIC STEPHAN
Herald staff writer

LONGWOOD — Lillian Miles

Lewis, wife of U. S. Congressman John Lewis of Atlanta, will be the featured guest speaker this Saturday night at the annual Freedom Fund Awards Banquet sponsored by the Seminole County branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Victoria Smith, banquet chairperson for the event said "Mrs. Lewis has extensive credentials. She is Director of External Affairs for the Office of Research and Sponsored Programs at Clark Atlanta University, she is a writer, she has traveled extensively throughout Africa, especially in Kenya, Zambia and Ethiopia, and has a great deal of professional experience in conducting conferences dealing with African Americans."

Among the evening's highlights will be the presentation of the Earl Williams Memorial Award, given annually to a member of the Seminole County branch who has been judged an outstanding contributor to the community and the branch. Additional awards will be given to selected members of the community for their community service work.

The banquet will be held at the Quality Inn North, Interstate 4 at State Road 434 in Longwood beginning at 7 p.m. this Saturday. The event is open to the public with tickets available at the door for $25.

Boating accidents can turn into unsolved mysteries for Coast Guard

By DEANNE WOODEN
United Press International

MIAMI — "Coming in, this is the Southern Cross, we have an emergency...."

Those eleven words recorded by Coast Guard Rescue at Phipps Island, S.C., on the night of April 18 launched a massive two-day search off the coast between Savannah, Ga., and Charleston, S.C., for a vessel no one could describe, with an unknown number of crew and passengers.

The voice, apparently feminine, is strong. It is followed by an abrupt silence. No noise is heard in the background. No location is transmitted.

The Southern Cross dilemma highlights the difficulties facing Coast Guard search and rescue teams charged with responding to mayday signals in one of the most active boating areas in the nation — the 7th Coast Guard District which includes the southern half of the Atlantic coastline.

Complicating any search effort are the powerful Gulf Stream — that brings strong currents close to the Southeast coastline and is capable of carrying small boats great distances — the lack of investment by boatowners in radio and other signaling devices and boater inexperience.

These factors end up costing hundreds of boaters their lives and taxpayers millions of dollars each year.

In the case of the Southern Cross, there was more than a mayday signal. There were two reported sightings of red emergency flares by vessels in the vicinity. The Coast Guard began a night search immediately.

Planes, helicopters and boats crisscrossing the search area spotted debris, including a recently snapped 30-foot mast and life ring that had emblazoned across it "Southern Sian" — after a little linguistic legwork it was discovered that "Sian" means "cross" in Gaelic. No survivors were found. No lifeboat. Nothing to indicate what happened to the vessel. There are no reports of a missing or overdue boat named the Southern Cross in Europe or the United States. No dock or harbor master can be found in the Caribbean who dealt with the Southern Cross.

"It was the biggest mystery we've had," Coast Guard spokesman said.

Was it a hoax? Coast Guard officials who handle distress calls every day on their 12-hour shifts think the voice on the radio transmission belonged to someone in an emergency.

Without any more information, it is impossible to estimate how many people may have been on the boat. The Coast Guard saved about 2,000 lives last year, 500 were lost, hundreds more were listed as missing.

"There are hundreds of boats on any given weekend leaving south Florida for Bimini or the Bermuda Triangle or Freeport (Bahamas) or just out on one-day fishing trips," said Lt. Commander Gordon Garrett. "Because of the good weather year round we have a lot of traffic."

"We are fortunate in a way that we have such a strong drug interdiction effort here because that gives us more planes more resources to launch during a search," he said.

Two-day searches can cost taxpayers $100,000 or more. Their success usually depends on how prepared the crew of the boat in trouble is.

"Do they have an EPIRB (electronic beacon)? Do they have flares and enough of them? Do they have a handheld, waterproof VHF or some form of communication? If you do, great then we can find you," Garrett said.

EPIRBs, which cost from $400 to $2,500, send out electronic signals that are either picked up by ground-based stations or satellites and relayed to the nearest rescue station. The signal alerts the Coast Guard to the emergency and gives it a location.

"It's a Cadillac. It's incredibly reliable," Garrett said. "If you can get into a boat, you can afford safety."

EPIRBs may make it easier to find an accident, but boaters also have to be prepared to survive in the water.

Coast Guard officials estimate that most of the missing boaters survived whatever incident placed them in peril, only to be claimed by the sea hours or days later. After five days in the water, survival chances are considered poor. Boaters with a raft, emergency rations and a seawater converter increase their chances of surviving.

"You have people go out for what you think would be the simplest offshore day fishing trip, but because they are not ready, they turn it into near tragedy and sometimes a tragedy," Garrett said.

Currently, there are no state or federal laws requiring pleasure craft to carry EPIRBs, though commercial vessels must. The Coast Guard also recommends carrying handheld, two-way VHF radios, flares, fishing gear and immersion suits.

"Rescue is very satisfying and very ulcer producing. But people do take totally unnecessary risks and that's how we earn our living," Garrett said.

Boating activity remains steady in south Florida throughout most of the year, but does pick up slightly in May at the start of summer.

Power

expected today because of the continued hot weather. Three of FPL's 31 major generating units that are out of service for repairs has left the utility with a narrow margin of power production to fill high demand. Efforts are under way to return the units to service as quickly as possible.

Conservation measures will help lessen the possibility of widespread electric power shortages in the event of any unforeseen developments.

Adjust thermostat settings for air conditioning to 78 degrees or more, if health permits; keep temperature setting constant until notified that the energy shortage has passed.

Close curtains and blinds to help insulate homes and building against cooling loss.

Avoid using room air conditioners; turn them off when leaving the room or home.

Reduce the use of all non-essential electric appliances, such as dishwashers and clothes dryers, especially during the late afternoon and early evening.

Turn off all non-essential lighting and electric appliances, such as pool pumps and sprinkler pumps.

Check to see that battery-operated radios and flashlights are available should they be needed.

If someone in the home is dependent on electric-powered life sustaining medical equipment, check backup facilities.

Keep tuned to radio or television for further announcements.

vide money for children. Martinez said during a news conference.

"It also relieves the state of having to make the payments for the support of that child that the parent ought to be making," he said.

Martinez said the crackdown has helped move 6,000 families off public assistance.

"Child support can mean the difference between a square meal or going hungry, the difference between a decent home or substandard housing, the difference between a happy childhood or one of bitterness," Martinez said.

Officials attributed the improvement to tougher enforcement, including plastering the pictures of flagrant child support deadbeats on "Most Wanted" posters across the state.

Fourteen people so listed have been found or turned themselves in to settle their arrears, officials said.

The state has also been airing public service announcements advertising the toll free hotline for reporting child support arrears, 1-800-822-KIDS.

The state collected nearly $94 million by attaching wages, $22 million from federal income tax checks, $1.8 million from unemployment compensation checks and $120,000 in Florida Lottery winnings last year.

The state has also been reporting deadbeats to credit agencies, jeopardizing their ability to borrow money, and attaching liens to homes, cars and other personal property to prevent their sale, said Bob Johnson, chief of enforcement for HRS.

Parents who can afford to pay child support but refuse face jail terms, Johnson said.

Grand Romance official quashes land rumors

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Speculation has been rife about the reasons behind the purchase, of 2 1/4 acres of lakefront property in Sanford, by the owners of the rivership Grand Romance, home based at the Sanford Marina.

Some speculate there may be a new motel, others say it could be a new docking area. Apparently however, the rumors just don't hold water.

Nanci S. Yuronia, President of Grand Romance, Inc., 433 N. Palmetto Avenue in Sanford, said, "We have no plans whatever for that property at the present time. We like being located in Sanford and we want to stay here. We saw an opportunity to make a major move and buy the property, so we did." She added, "This kind of property doesn't become available every day."

The land is located on the south side of West Seminole Boulevard, between the Sailpointe Apartments and the Veterans of Foreign Wars log cabin. Yuronia said the total purchase price was $315,000, which included a $200,000 mortgage. The property was purchased through Resolution Trust Corporation, receiver for Texas based Gill Savings Association, with the mortgage held by Herman and Dorothy Weist of Louisville, Kentucky.

"The way Sanford is growing," said Yuronia, "there has really been an increase in the number of boats and ships at the Sanford Marina complex, so you never know when holding onto property like that will come in handy."

School board grants OK to tentative spending plan

By VICKI DeBORMIER
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — As expected, the Seminole County school board last night approved the first draft of their $295.7 million 1990-91 budget for advertising. Implementation of the status quo budget calls for a 27 percent tax increase for Seminole County homeowners.

A two mill tax increase will be used primarily to finance the construction of two elementary schools, one west of Sanford and the other in Oviedo. Nearly $14.2 million of the $16 million tax increase expected to raise will be used to build the new schools, the remainder will be used to complete construction on various other projects and to purchase land for future school sites.

The new schools, which were approved in the first stages at last night's meeting, will open in the fall of 1991.

The board agreed last night to approve the reuse of site plans and blue prints of Wilson Elementary School, 985 Orange Blvd. in Sanford and Stenstrom Elementary School, 1800 Alafaya Woods Blvd. in Oviedo for the new schools.

The average Seminole County homeowner will see their tax bill increase $2.12 for every $1,000 of taxable assessed property values from $7.99 to $10.17.

Though there is about a 5.6 percent increase in the overall amount of the budget, there are few additions.

In addition to the two new schools, the proposed budget includes an optional seventh period day for high school students in Seminole County.

Following advertising of the budget, there will be the first of two public hearings on the matter next Tuesday evening, July 31 at 7 p.m.

Without question or discussion, the board unanimously approved the tentative budget that had been presented to them during a work session last Thursday.

The board had said there would be a two mill increase in the budget this year if a $519 billion bond issue failed to win voter approval in February. The referendum was not passed.

Belt tightening is being done across the board by the district, which has frozen all equipment and office purchases and which will hire only one district-level employee during the coming year (a state-mandated secretary to handle the fingerprinting of all new employees and the certification paperwork for all substitute teachers).

The crunch will be felt by the students who will see a five cent increase in their lunch prices due to increased milk prices and declining federal subsidies.

County sets new tax rate

From staff report

SANFORD — Seminole County commissioners established a tentative property tax rate Tuesday that is about 23 percent higher than last year's rate.

A public hearing will be held Sept. 11 at 7 p.m. to give the public an opportunity to comment on the increase, the largest county tax hike in 10 years. The rate can be lowered, but not increased without individually notifying all homeowners.

Faced with declining revenues, increased expenses, state requirements and a call for increased spending for children's programs, commissioners reluctantly agreed to increase the tax rate from $4.55 paid by residents last year to $5.60. The owner of a $75,000 home with a $25,000 homestead exemption will pay $280 in county taxes, $52.50 more than last year.

Unincorporated residents will see only a slight increase in the taxes they pay for fire protection and road upkeep. Last year's rate of $3.10, which was paid in addition to the $4.55, will increase to about $3.15, about $2.50 more than last year. The increase will help the county begin adding a third man.

IN BRIEF

RECREATION

Almost Anything Goes returns

SANFORD — The Sanford Recreation Department will sponsor the second Sanford Almost Anything Goes Competition on Saturday, Aug. 8, at Port Mellon Park.

The event is based on the old television show of the same name and will consist of teams competing in fun Olympic-style events.

Competition will start at 9 a.m. and will consist of 10 events. Each team will have eight people (four male, four female) with one member being designated as the captain.

It is recommended that all members of each team be dressed alike to identify their teams. Company teams are encouraged to enter.

Trophies will be awarded to the individuals of the first, second and third place teams. Certificates of participation will be presented to all others.

Entry fee is $25 per team. All entries must be postmarked or delivered to the Recreation Office on the first floor of City Hall on or before Aug. 13. Due to a limit on the number of teams, those postmarked or received earliest will be considered first.

For more information, contact Jim Adams at 330-5697.

SOFTBALL

Women's softball washed out

SANFORD — The Sanford Recreation Department Tuesday Night Women's Slowpitch Softball League tripleheader was cancelled because of wet grounds at Chase Park.

The games will be rescheduled for a later date.

Next week's schedule has Seko Air Freight playing Harcar Aluminum Products at 6:30 p.m., the Honey Bees squaring off with Enaley, Incorporated (Seminole High) at 7:30 p.m. and In Home Medical facing league-leading and undefeated Thermocarbon at 8:30 p.m.

Train the ump

ORLANDO — Want to umpire? The City of Orlando will be conducting a free training clinic on August 4 and 5 at the Orlando Recreation Bureau. Part-time evening positions are available for scorekeepers, umpires, field supervisors, etc. to staff 24 softball fields in Metro Orlando. For additional information on umpire certification and reservations, contact Patty at 849-2848.

YOUTH BASEBALL

Baseball class scheduled

SANFORD — The Florida Baseball School will conduct a five-day Summer Baseball Class on August 6-10 for boys ages 9-12 and 13-and-over. Class each day will start at 9 a.m. and last through 12:30 p.m.

The class will include classroom instruction as well as field practice on all baseball fundamentals. Cost for the class is $125, which will include a drink and snack each class day. For more information, contact Wea Rinker at Sanford Memorial Stadium or call 323-1046.

Perkins welcomes competition

TAMPA — The acquisition of veteran running back Gary Anderson, a strong draft and the signing of several key Plan B free agents has created an unaccustomed level of competition on the Tampa Bay Buccaneers, Coach Ray Perkins said Tuesday.

Perkins, 14-33 over his three years in Tampa, is encouraged about the quality of talent on the Buccaneer roster. He terms Anderson "a special player," and has singled out Plan B defensive backs Rodney Rice and Evan Cooper for their work over the first three days of practice. Top draft choice Keith McCants, penciled in at right outside linebacker, and seventh-round pick Donnie Gardner, a hulking defensive end, have also impressed Perkins.

Shula may change strategy

MIAMI — Coach Don Shula said Tuesday he might change his strategy in preseason games this year, requiring more use of Dan Marino with only a little more exposure of the quarterback to injury.

"In the last few years after his big year in 1984, we have cut down on his preseason exposure," Shula said. "We've tried to have a plan. In the past few years, it's been the equivalent of one full game over the preseason, a quarter at a time."

"This year, we might make it a longer stint." Shula for years has been trying to make the Dolphins' running game a factor again. But last year it was as ineffective as ever, as Miami ranked next to the last in the NFL in rushing offense with 1,330 yards — an average of only 83 yards a game.

State tourney a win away

By TONY BOGGERMAN

OVIDEO — On Tuesday night, it was Mike Duncan's turn to be the hero.

Playing for the Oviedo Junior League All-Stars, Duncan was involved in the three crucial plays that helped lift Oviedo to a 15-8 win over Arlington in the Section I Tournament being played at Oviedo Little League.

Oviedo is now just one win away from the state championship tournament. Tonight at 7 p.m., Arlington will play Eglin Air Force Base (which eliminated Crystal River 12-3) for the right to face Oviedo in the finals. Tonight's winner would have to beat Oviedo twice to win the sectional title.

Duncan got started Tuesday by snuffing Arlington's first-inning rally. With two out, Arlington's Asa Cargill drew a walk. When Curt Cooper ripped a double off the left field fence,

Minutes later, with Brian King on first with a lead-off walk, Duncan took a high fastball into the trees beyond the left field fence to give Oviedo a lead it would not relinquish. He later added a two-run double and a two-run single.

Finally, when Arlington was trying to rally in the seventh inning, Duncan came in and struck out the final batter to seal the victory.

It was both Duncan's first home run of the summer and his first pitching performance in All-Star competition.

"That's what's nice about this team," said

Oviedo coach Rich DiTore. "Every player has stepped forward and been a hero for us at one time or another. It was Mike's turn tonight."

Not that he did it alone. Winning pitcher Todd Bellhorn was 4 for 5 with a double, four RBI and two runs scored while King was 3 for 4 with three runs scored. Combined with Mark Metcalf's 2-for-2 performance, the first four hitters in the Oviedo lineup were 13 for 16 with 13 RBI and nine runs scored.

Arlington's only offensive weapon was patience on Tuesday night, drawing 18 walks from Bellhorn and King, who came on in the sixth inning. Five of Arlington's six runs were forced in by bases-loaded walks.

It got so bad, DiTore told Bellhorn to intentionally throw a wild pitch with two out and the bases loaded in the fifth inning. On the Senior boys can't make curfew

By DEAN SMITH
 Herald sports writer

DELTONA — The last couple of years, Oviedo High School's football team has earned the nickname "Cardiac Kids" for their penchant of falling behind, then coming back.

This year's Oviedo Senior League All-Star baseball team appears to have developed that same nervewracking habit.

In the opening game of the Section I Senior Little League Baseball Tournament at Deltona's Van Park, Oviedo fell behind 6-0 before rallying for a 9-8, eight-inning victory over Highlands from Jacksonville in a game that took two days to complete.

The game had started Monday night but because of rain delays, was suspended at 11 p.m. in the seventh inning with the score tied 6-6. Little League rules state that no inning may begin after 11 p.m.

In Tuesday night's regularly scheduled game, Oviedo fell behind Emerald Coast (from the Destin-Pensacola area) 5-0 after three innings. But they had started to mount a comeback, scoring two runs in the fourth inning when that game was stopped by the curfew.

Oviedo and Emerald Coast will play the last three innings of the game starting at 7 p.m. today, the loser taking on Highlands in an elimination game at 8 p.m. Highlands remained alive by eliminating Hernando 13-8 Tuesday.

The winner of the Oviedo-Emerald Coast game will play Thursday at 7 p.m. against the winner of tonight's 8 p.m. game.

When Monday's game resumed on Tuesday, Highlands looked like it might hand Oviedo its first loss in tournament play when it scored two runs in the top of the eighth inning.

But Matt Pipken started the winning rally for Oviedo with a double. Drew Jackson followed with a walk and Jamie Jackson singled to score Pipken. Curtis Livingston then hit a grounder that the Highlands first baseman booted. Drew Jackson scoring all the way from second. Jamie Jackson, who ended up on third, scored the winning run on Jay Busee's suicide squeeze.

Getting the hits for Oviedo were Jamie Jackson and Andy Taylor (one double and one single each), Livingston (two singles), Scott Hagge and Pipken (one double each) and Drew Jackson, Busee and Tim Slavik (one single each).

For the Highlands, James Menchan was 4 for 5 with a home run and a double.

Down time

Oviedo's Senior League All-Stars (above) had plenty of time to kill Tuesday night. After they completed their extra-inning, come-from-behind win over Highlands, the Oviedo Seniors had to wait almost three hours before they took the field in their second-round game against Emerald Coast. Scott Hagge (right) started the second game for Oviedo and was relieved by Drew Jackson in the second inning. But they only got four innings in before the 11 p.m. curfew forced that game to be suspended.

Softball Majors face elimination; Seniors out

From staff reports

CRYSTAL RIVER — Both the Oviedo Major and Senior League Fastpitch Softball All-Star teams suffered defeat in their respective Section I tournaments Tuesday night at Crystal River's Bicentennial Park.

The Majors (for ages 11 and 12) were handed a 29-10 setback by Orange Park, knocking them into tonight's 7 p.m. losers' bracket final against Tri-County (from the Panhandle). A win tonight would earn Oviedo a rematch with Orange Park on Thursday night.

Mandy Starling was 2 for 2 with three runs scored to lead Oviedo's attack. Kerry Tracy, Rebecca Venezia and Tonya Bellamy each added one hit. Bellamy also scored two runs.

Michelle Field was the starting pitcher for Oviedo.

working three innings. Tracy pitched the fourth inning while Starling pitched the last two innings.

Earlier in the evening, the Oviedo Seniors' season came to an end in a 25-3 rout at the hands of Tri-County.

Things were going fairly well for Oviedo in the early going, starting pitcher Anne Elliott striking out six in the first three innings as Tri-County built a 3-0 lead.

But then the roof fell in as Tri-County scored 22 runs in their last three at-bats, including eight in the fifth inning and nine in the sixth.

Providing the offense for Oviedo were Elliott (1 for 3 with a run scored), Heather Sirpan (1 for 2) and Whitney White and Amy Fessenden (each with a run scored).

Adcock looks good despite losing two to Bellemeade

From staff reports

DAYTONA BEACH — Adcock Roofing had a rare opportunity to discover the strengths and weaknesses as well as gauge its improvement over the summer in a non-league doubleheader against tough Daytona Beach-Bellemeade (29-3).

While Adcock (Seminole High School's summer baseball program) did lose both games, 5-2 and 9-8, Coach Mike Powers must have been pleased with his team's strong and competitive showing.

In the first game, Adcock jumped to an early lead as Harvey Clinger one-hopped the left field wall for a double and scored on a sacrifice fly by Tony Chavers. But Bellemeade tied the score in the second when Joe Miller singled home David Buez, then went ahead when Joe Rosal scored on Miller's single in the fourth.

ADCOCK ROOFING Game One 010 000 1 — 2 1 1
BELLEMEADE 010 130 0 — 5 10 0
 Morgan, Chavers (6) and Wilbur, Kerns (6), Miller and Brant, WP — Miller, LP — Morgan, 2B — Adcock, Clinger; Bellemeade, Thompson, 3B — Adcock, Henderson, HR — None.

ADCOCK ROOFING Game Two 200 123 0 — 8 8 3
BELLEMEADE 240 000 2 — 9 9 2
 Eltonhead, Chumel (7) and Wilbur, Lee and Brant, WP — Lee, LP — Eltonhead, 2B — Adcock, Gracy; Bellemeade, Lee, 3B — Bellemeade, Galbreath (2) HR — None.

Bellemeade gave itself some breathing room with three runs in the fifth.

Adcock's final run of the game came in the seventh as Britt Henderson tripled and scored on a wild pitch.

In the second game Adcock took a 2-0 lead in the first inning as Demetry Beamon walked and Scott Ferguson got hit by the pitch. Following a double steal, Mike Senecek singled them home.

But Bellemeade went up 3-2 in the bottom of the first. Frank Thompson scored on an error. Joe Golinski came in on a wild pitch and Tom Lee scored on Brandon Galbreath's triple. Galbreath tried to stretch it into an inside-the-park home run, but W.L. Gracy's relay throw from Henderson nailed him at the plate.

It looked like Bellemeade had broken the game wide open when four runs crossed the plate in the second to give Bellemeade a 7-2 lead.

But Adcock came back. In the fourth, Gracy got a run back when he doubled, went to third on a passed ball and scored on a throwing error by the catcher. In the fifth inning, Adcock picked up a pair of gift runs as Henderson and Beamon reached on free passes and both scored on wild pitches.

Eads impressive in Late Model win

Special to the Herald

NEW BMYRNA BEACH — Young Stan Eads drove the Jon Glenn Chevrolet/Kelcey's Pizzeria Camaro to a very impressive victory in the FASCAR-sanctioned 25-lap Late Model feature on Saturday night at New Smyrna Speedway.

"A few weeks ago, we had distributor problems," said Eads. "The following Saturday, a fan blade broke. But now, our streak of bad luck seems to be over. The car handled exceptionally well tonight and the power from our (Koury/Miller-built) engine was awesome."

By the midway point, Stan had extended his lead to a full straightaway. At the finish, Russell was a distant second followed by Joe Middleton, Duke Southard and Granny Tatroe.

Mike Fitch bested the largest field of Florida Modifieds this season to score another win. The event marked the return of the Loachers to New Smyrna Speedway. Kristal — in the Valvoline "Say No to Drugs" Cavalier — and Mike — in the Folger's Coffee Chevy — finished strong second and third, respectively, ahead of Gary Salvatore and David Indiviri.

For the sixth time in a row, Ricky Marshall won the Sprintman feature. But the real battle was for second place as runner-up Jeff Burkett barely held off his brother Ronnie, Jimmy Sills and Mike Kubanek.

In the extra-cash, 30-lap Special, Dave Waddell led the large field of "B" Bombers 'til half-way. At that point, bad luck struck again as engine woes forced him out. Sanford's John Ripley was at the right place at the right time to score another victory.

After a mid-race spin on wet pavement, Bobby Sears came back to score his fourth Mini Stock feature in a row and his 18th of the year.

Rick Johns, in a Monte-Carlo, came out on top of a tough Chevy versus Mopar duel as he bested Dave Savicki's Plymouth Roadrunner at the conclusion of the "A" Bomber final.

Fan Participation Spectator Races winners were Pat Oriend and Jeff Cad.

ORLANDO — Miami visitor Steve Lamb scored an impressive win in Friday night's FASCAR-sanctioned 30-lap Sportsman feature at Orlando Speedway.

Von Crews led the early goings until Jeff Moyer and Ricky Marshall tangled on lap four. At that point, Allen Rhodes — trying to avoid the accident — rammed the front stretch wall, ending his run.

Crews continued to lead as the bumping and banging went on behind him. A mid-race caution, for water on the track, gave Lamb the opportunity he needed, as he out-dragged Crews for a lead he held the rest of the way.

Moyer came from the rear twice to finish a close second while Ronnie Burkett drove a steady race to claim third. Crews came back from a late-race spin to finish fourth, just ahead of Jeff Burkett.

The 25-lap Late Model feature was a cakewalk for Pete Orr. Making his first start in Dick Cornwell's C and C Automotive Chevy Lumina, Orr paced five cars on the first lap, then ran away from the field.

Ed Meredith was a distant second while "Tiger" Tim Fuller returned to FASCAR racing with a strong third place finish. Fourth and fifth were Junior Watson and Duke Southard.

Gary Salvatore defeated a strong field of Florida Modifieds to score his 12th feature win of the Modifieds. David Indiviri was second over Sami Grief, Ricky Wood and Wally Patterson.

The Florida Racing Club Three Quarter Midget feature saw the lead change five times in the first six laps. But when Mark Gimmler got to the front he pulled away to an easy victory. The Singer Island driver was at the wheel of the Larry Dwenger Special out of Greensburg, Ind. "Doc" Carl Doughty was second over Paul Madden.

The crowd-pleasing Mini Stock feature went to Richard Newton, who led a spectacular, close six-car "blanket finish" in his "Sweet Pea" Mercury Capri.

Sleep positions develop by habit

DEAR DR. GOTT: I cannot fall asleep in any position except on my stomach. If I attempt to fall asleep on my back, I will lie awake for hours, yet as soon as I roll over, I immediately fall asleep. How can I break this habit?

DEAR READER: Many people develop the habit of sleeping in a certain position. They simply feel more comfortable; the habit is not unhealthful or hazardous. I've never understood why some doctors recommend certain sleeping positions (for example, that people with back problems not sleep on their stomachs) because once people are asleep they will involuntarily change positions. If they happen to awaken in the "wrong" position, they can become very upset and lose sleep.

I suggest that you disregard your sleeping pattern. You're probably causing yourself unnecessary worry and anxiety by being concerned about sleeping on your stomach. Relax and enjoy your sleep; your body will take care of itself.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Would you provide information on knee-replacement surgery? What is the life expectancy of the prosthesis, and what should influence my decision to have it done?

DEAR READER: The answer to your question is a technical one that depends on the cause of your knee problem. In general, knee replacement is considered when other treatment options have been exhausted.

For example, the pain of arthritis can usually be controlled for years with medicine; replacement is not advised until the joint has degenerated to the point where 1) medicine is no longer effective, and 2) the mechanics of joint movement have deteriorated to produce a distinct handicap. The "when" of surgery is a decision best made by a patient and an orthopedic surgeon working together. Artificial joints have a varying life expectancy. In young, active people, the prostheses wear out more quickly (in a matter of years) than they do in older, more sedentary patients, for whom artificial knees last more or less indefinitely.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

With best defense, South can be held to four spades. East-West does better if East plays in five hearts doubled, down only one if declarer plays the heart suit correctly. But it is sensible for East to plan the bidding so that South can be held to 10 tricks in spades, particularly if vulnerable South will be tempted to bid on when East-West goes to five hearts. This is why East made that strange four-diamond bid. West described a distributional hand with length in both red suits by passing originally and then coming back in with a jump to two no-trump. When North raised to three spades, East might have simply bid four hearts, which he expected to make. But East had that crystal ball available to all players caught up in a competitive bidding contest. Since the opponents held spades, it was rather obvious that South would be bidding to take 10 tricks. That being the case, it was safe for East to make the seemingly bizarre four-diamond bid. The bidding was not over. When South bid four spades, perhaps West would bid five diamonds. No problem — East would still be able to correct to five hearts. When the bidding progressed as in the diagram, East was able to double five spades with at least the knowledge that the defense should achieve its maximum result. Sure enough, the queen of diamonds led allowed the defenders to take all their tricks. East winning the diamond ace and switching to a low heart.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bede Osol
YOUR BIRTHDAY
July 26, 1990

In the year ahead there is a possibility you might get involved in an endeavor larger than anything to which you've become accustomed. It looks like you're ready for the big time.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) The ideas or suggestions of associates might lack your insights today, especially in a matter you have thoroughly analyzed which they haven't. Trust your own judgment. Trying to patch up a broken romance? The Astro-Graph Matchmaker can help you to understand what to do to make the relationship work. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Something opportune might be offered to you in a rather round about way today. It has possibilities, but it's best not to prematurely broadcast this arrangement to others.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Today if you're socializing with business chums, try to keep everything on a "palsy-walsy basis. If you attempt to spring a deal, it might misfire.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your positive perceptions are likely to be more accurate than your negative ones today. Dismiss dark reflections and dwell on thoughts that are hopeful and constructive.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) An acquaintance might alert you to an interesting commercial proposal today. Unfortunately, your informant may not be the one with whom to team up if money is required.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Joint ventures are rather promising today, provided you do most of the work. Rely as little as possible on others, even if they have a share in the endeavor.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) A decision you may make today might be challenged by associates. There's no reason to be unduly concerned if you have the facts to support your position.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Rewards you earn today could come from hard work and services rendered and they may be more impressive than you anticipate. Payoffs aren't likely where you expect something for nothing.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Today you might get involved with a one who is relatively successful. However, don't accept as gospel suggestions given not in this person's realm of expertise.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) If there is a career matter you want to bring to a head today, don't be discouraged by negative developments that appear to indicate failure. Persevere and you'll win.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Most conditions will be trending in your favor today, with the exception of personal finances and business. Both of these realms could have some hazards with which you may have to contend.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Situations where partners are involved could be more of a liability than an asset today. This is one of those times when an extra set of hands could complicate matters.

U.S. dispatches warships

By LEE STOKES
United Press International

CAIRO — Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak paid surprise visits to Iraq and Kuwait Tuesday in a bid to defuse rising tension over oil production that apparently prompted Iraq to stage military maneuvers along its border with Kuwait.

"My trip is aimed at resolving the present crisis between Iraq, Kuwait and the United Arab Emirates and clearing the atmosphere," state-owned Cairo Radio quoted Mubarak as saying.

The state radio described Mubarak's talks with Iraqi President Saddam Hussein and Kuwait's emir, Sheikh Jaber al Ahmad al Sabah, as "successful."

The United States ordered two U.S. warships to leave port early for a "short-notice" military exercise now under way with the United Arab Emirates in the tense Persian Gulf, the Pentagon said Tuesday.

There were conflicting reports whether U.S.

ships were on alert status, with Pentagon spokesman Pete Williams all but denying it and Navy Secretary H. Lawrence Garrett at one point confirming it.

The Washington Post reported Tuesday that Iraq, which in the 1970s laid claim to all of Kuwait and was involved in military clashes with the emirate, had massed 30,000 troops on the Iraq-Kuwait border.

Kuwait on Monday was reported to have placed its tiny armed forces on alert, and moved Soviet-made missiles to the strategic islands of Warba and Bubiyan.

U.S. State Department spokeswoman Margaret Tutwiler said in Washington there has been a buildup "on both sides" of the Iraq-Kuwait border but could not give specific numbers.

"The United States is watching the situation closely," Tutwiler said, adding the U.S. Navy has six ships in the Persian Gulf, four frigates, one destroyer and the flagship of the U.S. Middle East force. "We are very concerned, Iraq and others know that there is no place for coercion and intimidation in a civilized world."

The 'Butcher of Baghdad' rattles saber

By LEO BARNES
UPI Chief Correspondent

WASHINGTON — The reckless rhetoric of Iraqi President Saddam Hussein, the self-styled "Sword of the Arabs," again threatens the tenuous peace of the Middle East.

This time he has turned on Kuwait and the United Arab Emirates, threatening violence against the oil-rich but tiny sheikhdoms that helped bankroll Iraq's eight-year war against Iran.

Saddam accuses them of conspiring with the United States to drive down the price of oil by flooding the market.

So expect Iraq, which desperately needs to rebuild its war-ravaged economy, to continue the saber-rattling as OPEC ministers prepare to meet Thursday in Geneva.

Lake Mary seniors briefed

By AMY WILSON
Herald intern

LAKE MARY — If a hurricane rolls through their city, many Lake Mary seniors will know exactly what to do. The Lake Mary Seniors group, which meets every Tuesday at 158 N. Country Club Rd. in the old city hall building, had a special presentation on hurricane preparedness yesterday by Owen Reagan of Florida Power Corp.

"We have so many in our group who have never been in a hurricane, and they live alone," said Alta Ombres, a member and spokesperson for the Senior Center.

The speaker showed slides of hurricane disasters to about 40 seniors, and discussed mainly what they should do when the power goes out. He also gave advice on preparing for a hurricane ahead of time by buying a tracking chart and knowing where the local hurricane shelter is located.

"It was very, very thorough," Ombres said. "He wants us to be alert now, and not wait for the hurricane to strike."

After the presentation, the group presented its director, Polly Stevens, with a cake and party for her 72nd birthday.

"The main thing he told us, is that when you're told to evacuate, you must evacuate because you're breaking the law if you don't," Stevens said.

The seniors meet every Tuesday at 9:30 a.m. for activities including watercolor painting, lap quilting, and bridge, while the fourth Tuesday of each month is reserved for a luncheon and speaker on a topic of interest. They also make hand-painted greeting cards and sell them for $1 each.

"We're a very free-spirited group," Ombres said. "We're there for the benefit of the people."

Ombres also said that Tuesday gatherings are open to any senior citizens in Sanford and Lake Mary. Participants can come as often as they like, and cost is $3 a year.

"There are many people who just come once a month. But we're planning more kinds of classes, like aerobics, crafts, and storytelling, for the fall and we would like more input," Ombres said.

The Lake Mary Senior Center is supported by the Lake Mary Chamber of Commerce. For more information call Alta Ombres at 322-1438.

Glimmer of insight into nominee Souter revealed by record of state's top court

By HENRY J. REBKE
UPI Supreme Court Reporter

WASHINGTON — In June 1986, Supreme Court nominee David Souter voted with the majority in an auto insurance case despite the fact he thought New Hampshire's top court was wrong.

While the case itself was of little importance to those not involved, it offers a key insight into the man who may replace retiring high court Justice William Brennan.

Souter wrote a separate note that said the reason he joined the majority was "stare decisis," a term used to describe the legal principle of following previous court rulings and the mark of a cautious, workmanlike jurist.

Souter, who spent most of Tuesday at the White House preparing for the Senate confirmation process, wrote 191 opinions while a member of the New Hampshire Supreme Court between 1983 and 1990.

But none of Souter's decision's dealt directly with pressing issues of the day, including abortion, affirmative action or church or state disputes.

The nominee has no record of making public speeches or writing law review articles on topical concerns, a practice that fueled opposition to the unsuccessful nomination of Robert Bork to the high court in 1987.

Despite the paucity of such documents, a picture of Souter is emerging.

A review of his opinions shows him to be a judge definitely in the conservative mold who often ruled against criminal defendants.

But his writings have none of the fire of Justice Antonin Scalia and more resemble those of Justice Anthony Kennedy, who was eventually confirmed to the seat that eluded Bork.

A bachelor, the 50-year-old member of the 1st U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals likes to jog and hike the Appalachian Trail, study New Hampshire history and collect books. Souter, who has reported his net worth as $621,000, lived on the family farm in rural Weare, near Concord, is a Harvard and Harvard law school graduate and a Rhodes scholar.

According to White House officials, Souter will meet with Senate leaders of both parties Wednesday and Thursday as the FBI updates the background investigation it conducted for his appeals court seat.

Senate Judiciary Committee Chairman Joseph Biden, D-DeL., has not set a date for the start of hearings but it is likely they will be held in September so that Souter could be confirmed before the Supreme Court session opens on the first Monday in October.

In a Senate speech, Sen. Arlen Specter, R-Pa., a member of the Senate Judiciary Committee, said it would be "inappropriate" for senators to ask Souter his position on abortion although he called it the "most divisive" issue since slavery.

However, on a Supreme Court where the right to abortion has been in jeopardy since a closely decided 1989 case,

Subliminal rock words triggered suicides - expert

United Press International

RENO, Nev. — An expert in subliminal perception testified that hidden messages of "Do it, do it" allegedly inserted on an album by the heavy metal rock group Judas Priest helped trigger the suicides of two young men.

Howard Shevrin, a professor of psychology at the University of Michigan, was a key witness Tuesday in the trial of a product liability suit against Judas Priest and CBS Records in which the parents of the young men claim subliminal messages were mainly responsible for their deaths.

Shevrin said the phrase "Do it," allegedly hidden beneath drum beats on the "Stained Class" album was responsible in part for the deaths of Raymond Belknap and James Vance, who shot themselves in 1985 after listening to the songs for several hours while drinking beer and smoking marijuana.

Shevrin, who said he has been researching subliminal perception since 1956 and was called by the parents as an expert witness, said messages appealing to the subconscious mind can prompt "compulsive reactions."

Bush down to the wire with Supreme Court pick

By NORMAN D. SANDLER
United Press International

WASHINGTON — President Bush went down to the wire with his selection of a Supreme Court nominee, at one point keeping the last two candidates waiting in separate White House offices for his final decision.

In part to deny special-interest groups the chance to "build a public kind of stew for this nomination to be dumped into," Bush decided Monday afternoon to name a nominee by the end of the day.

According to an account provided Tuesday by administration officials, the search was down to two candidates. The only problem: Even Bush was not certain 90 minutes ahead of time which would be his final choice.

Officials said Bush was driven to act in part by concern that a prolonged search would only give interest groups and other interests more time to politicize the process. Convinced early on that he probably would fill at least one high court vacancy in his first term, Bush's advisers had a list of contenders ready in short order.

From the time he learned Friday night of the surprise resignation of liberal William Brennan, Bush was intent to choose a successor as soon as possible.

Within 48 hours, the list had been reduced to three federal appeals court judges: Laurence Silberman of the District of Columbia, David Souter of New Hampshire and Edith Jones of Houston.

By the time Bush concluded a meeting Sunday evening with Vice President Dan Quayle, Attorney General Dick Thornburgh, White House chief of staff John Sununu and White House legal counsel C. Boyden Gray, Silberman was out.

Souter and Jones were summoned to Washington, where Gray on Monday carried out the dirty work of asking about any potential personal embarrassments, a lesson drawn from the case of Douglas Ginsburg, whose nomination was withdrawn.
