Times Nears Deadline For Firing 3,500 Employees

LONDON (UPI)- Officials of the London Times and union negotiators today worked against their second "final deadline" in a week, struggling to reach a new contract agreement by Sunday afternoon to save the famed 194-year-old newspaper.
But The Times, shut down since Nov. 30, 1978, following a series of wildcat strikes protesting introduction of new technology, said it had no plans to go out of business if the talks failed.

The Times management announced Friday that unless agreement were reached with the National Graphic Association, the largest print union, by 4 p.m. (11 a.m. EDT) Sunday, it would fire all its 3,000 unionized employees except journalists.

Casselberry Youth, 16, Killed In Accident NATION

A 16-year-old Casselberry youth was dead on arrival at Winter Park Memorial Hospital early Saturday morning after his car hit a power pole on a curve at state Route 426 in unincorporated Seminole County.

Kenneth Scott Willingham, 1033 Crystal Bowl Circle,
Casselberry, was declared dead on arrival at 12:25 a.m. Seminole County sheriff deputies who arrived on the accident scene at 11:56 p.m. said Willingham's 1971 car was completely destroyed. Between 100 and 150 feet east of Mickler Road, a power pole was found with a 25 to 30 foot section knocked out. About 60 feet west of the pole, Willingham was lying on his stomach unconscious and bleeding internally. The Seminole County Fire Department and Herndon Ambulance Service responded. Willingham received some first aid from passerbys.

According to the sheriff's deputy's report Willingham lost control of the car on the curve east of Mickler Road.

Security Guard Confesses To Hillside Strangler Slayings

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A security guard who always wanted to be a policeman Friday confessed to the Hillside Strangler slayings and, in a bargain for his life, fingered his cousin as an accomplice in slaying 10 of the 13 young female victims.

Moments after Kenneth Bianchi tearfully admitted murdering two girls in Bellingham, Wash., the 28-year-old defendant pleaded guilty Friday to five of the 13 Los Angeles-area killings and agreed to testify against his Bianchi's plea of guilty in the Bellingham case was in exchange for a promise that Washington authorities would not seek the death penalty against him. He was sentenced to two consecutive life terms for those killings.

Ford Firm On Not Running

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Gerald R. Ford has just about closed the door on his running for the White House next year. Ford said Friday he has made a "firm decision" not to run and asked his supporters to choose one of the 10 men actively seeking the Republican nomination. "I have no intention of entering, or permitting anyone else to enter my name in any of the upcoming primaries, nor will I be a personal contestant to any state con-

Suspected Killer

Nabbed In Orlando

ORLANDO, Fig. (UPI) — An ex-convict, accused of killing a honeymoning couple in Mississippi and then sending authorities taunting postcards from Florida, is behind bars again because of a pack of cigars and two cans of beer.

Kenneth William Wheat, 40, was arrested Friday after an employee of a Winn-Dixie supermarket caught him shoplifting the beer and cigars.

An Orlando police spokes woman said Wheat was handled routinely as a potty thief on a misdemeanor charge until a teletype report came back from Mississippi, indicating he was a fugitive.

Cuba's Fidel Castro: It's A Familiar Echo

It is among the more striking ironies of our time that Cuba's Fidel Castro finds himself the unelected chairman of that loose Third World coalition known s the 'non-aligned movement.' The irony is only lightly diluted by the fact that Castro owes his pretentious title to mere protocol — in this case, the movement's practice of bestowing the chairmanship on the host of its most recent summit

Fidel Castro is anything but unaligned. In his 20 years as prime minister, and the president of Cuba, Castro has hardly uttered a single word at variance with the foreign policy of his Soviet patrons. He is, as Winston Churchill remarked of Mussolini's servility to Hitler, "the merest utensil of his master's will."

But however bogus Castro's credentials as a prono-aligned' leader, his chairmanship of the movement does carry certain useful political benefits. Not the least of these is the opportunity to pose as spokesman for the 93 nations that consider or proclaim themselves to be non-aligned. It was in this guise that Cuba's Communist dictator addressed the United Nations General assembly recently.

What he said was unremarkable as standard Marxist-Leninist cant.

He denounced the Western democracies general and the United States in particular fo 'exploiting' the Third World. He railed against Zionism and imperialism. And he called for a "new world order" based on "justice, equity, and peace." It was both vintage Castro and altogether indistinguishable from the kind of boilerplate churned out by Kremlin propagandists.

It must also be said that much of this struck responsive chord in those Third World delegates eager to believe that the West is somehow responsible for the backwardness of their own countries. While this is no doubt a comforting notion for representatives of governments that have failed miserably to develop their economies.

been less enthusiasm for Castro had applauding delegates stopped to think about which Third World countries provide the best models for economic Certainly Castro's own country is an example of what to avoid. Keeping Cuba's economy afloat requires $6 million per day in Soviet aid. And those Third World states that have pursued Cuban-style socialism have been notably unsuccessful. Algeria, Mozambique, Tanzania, Angola, Vietnam and North Korea, for example, are remarkable not only for their political oppression but as abject economic failures as well.

The truth that Castro cannot acknowledge is that economic progress in the Third World, as elsewhere, is closely related to the incentives provided by a market economy and a willingness to encourage foreign investment. Thus, nations such as Taiwan, South Korea, Singapore, Costa Rica, Venezula and Kenya provide developmental examples that others in the Third World would do well to emulate.

Castro's incendiary rhetoric may rate rave reviews at the United Nations, but it will never pave roads build schools and create jobs in underprivileged coutries.

A "clearance rate," the percent of arrests made per crime reported, was also given by Polk. The sheriff's department had a 22.8 per cent rate. County police agencies reported the following rates: Altamonte Springs—28.8, Sanford—19.2, Longwood—24.5, Casselberry—18.7, Winter Springs—21.1, Lake Mary—3, and Oviedo—28.9.

Funding For The Olympics

The United States Olympic Committee finds itself in a unique position. It is the only national Olympic committee in the world which receives no direct funding from its government.

Every other nation which participates in the Olympics, whether we are talking about the communist dictatorships or the democracies of Western Europe, provides funds to its national Olympic committee. With the 1980 Olympic games now just around the corner, the question of whether the government should provide some form of financial support to our Olympic athletes

The Seminole Employment Economic Development Corp. (SEEDCO) request to lease three additional offices at the Sanford Airport was approved by the Airport Authority this week, according to Marvin Greenstein, assistant to J.S. Cleveland, airport manager. Greenstein said under the new arrangement, SEEDCO will lease not only the second floor in Building 1 at the airport but also three offices on the first floor. A SEEDCO spokesman said the additional office space will be used to expand the organization's programs which include sponsoring minority businesses and industries designed to employ the unemployed and the under-

SEEDCO will be paying the authority a total of $5,265 arrangement, Greenstein said.

ANSWER: First, let me get you to thinking along the right track. If you dwell on how old you are, you may depressingly retire from life's challenges and settle into a rocking chair the rest of your days. So, instead, consider yourself as being 80 years YOUNG, as someone who has God's abundant life bursting within you.

By GEOFFREY POUNDS Herald Staff Writer This was a year of promise for Sanford, but also one of caution. There is promise for the downtown now that the city commission has approved a major rehabilitation project. For backers of that project, commit-ment by the city commission to fund the street and sidewalk improvement portion of the plan represented a victory after a four-year struggle. The coming year is one of industrial promise. Chamber of Commerce of-ficials say they are receiving more inquiries from businessmen interested in relocating in the metropolitan Orlando area than they have in years. Chamber director Jack Horner said he expects a new industrial park will be built somewhere on Route 46 west of town within five years. This summer, the Keller

Aluminum Plant opened the doors to its new production facility on Cornwall Road. The plant will occupy 15,000 square feet and employ 20 workers.

At the sirport, all available space has been leased to small industries and businesses. The airport industrial park includes firms that make products ranging from highway culverts to teak wood items. There are more than 600 employees at the airport park and the annual payroll exceeds $7.5 million. The total combined revenue of all industrial park activities and associated products has been put at more than $27 million.

While: the city of Sanford's population growth has remained static over the past five years — remaining at about 25,000 — the growth of neighboring cities in Seminole County has climbed markedly. Since 1970, the county population has risen from under 90,000 to close to 150,000. There is promise the city will share in the ancillary effects of that growth. But there is caution in the promise of growth. City Manager Warren E. Knowless said the rising costs of energy and spiraling inflation could pose a puzzle to city finances. Sanford is one of the few municipalities where the tax rate has been steadily lowered. From 1974 to 1978, the rate fell from $8.47 to $6.90 per $1,000 of assessed valuation. That trend ended this year when the city commission was forced into seeking a small tax hike. The fire and police departments experienced pain of different sorts this year. The termination of a police chief and a dispute over union action temporarily disrupted the police department. At the fire department the pain was personal. Downtown Library Harbors A Wealth Of Memorabilia building which now serves as the north Seminole Branch of the county library.

Herald Staff Writer

Etched over the 62-year old red brick building at 230 E First St. are the words "Sanford Public Library." At each side of the double front door are concrete columns and flanking the front steps to the building are two old round-globed street lights. The old building houses not only volumes containing the mysteries of knowledge but also treasures from Seminole County and Sanford's past and donated items from

Yet the days the building serves as a library may be numbered. Studies conducted by county staff members and others in the field say the building is too small to house the number of volumes necessary to serve the population; the branch library, they say, should be in a more central location and in a more modern facility. The present building was acquired by the city for use as a library in late 1963 as a gift from the U.S. General Services Administration. The gift included a reverter clause requiring that the building be maintained as a public library for 20 years, until 1983, or ownership will revert to the federal government. The City leased the building for $1 a year to the county as a branch library in 1975. At the same time, the city's collection of 39,000 books and other mementos were turned over to the county. The lease is up next year, and the county is considering moving the library to new quarters. Originally, the building was constructed in 1917 as a post office during the early days of World War I. Unlike most buildings in this area of Central Florida, it has a basement. Special features include tunnels within the walls of the basement which lead to observation points on the first floor and the attic area and even in the restroom on the second floor.

In those days when great sums of money went through post offices for the purchase of money orders, the structures were built in a fashion to permit postal inspectors to observe everything that went on for security

Also considered as a factor in the construction was the fact that robbers often chose post offices as a place to

The hardwood flooring, in the attic area, is only one of the treasures there. Among the other treasures stored on dusty shelves are hundreds of old Victor Talking Machine records, some dating from 1906; very old copies of the Florida Geologic Survey; volumes of "The Earth and its Inhabitants" with publication dates from 1891; the World's Art published in 1876; "America: Crises of Our History", especially printed in 1925 for patrons; National Geographics, especially bound and dating from 1910.

Also in a corner is a long pole used for many years to open the tall windows in the building. And it is in the ement that the tunnels begin and end. The first floor has two skylights. The restroom on the first floor also has brass fittings on the percelain fixtures.

Heat is provided by steam.

Part of the flooring is hardwood and part marble. A large steel safe carrying an emblem of the United States occupies a place of honor. The combination of the lock on the solid steel door was removed some years ago. Inside the first door are double steel doors. It's ironic that the library's small safe is kept in the old safe along with

In the library office are a set of books of St. Nichola stories beginning with the first volume published in 1887.
Also on those shelves are confederate military history books and copies of the books by a Sanford author "Ezekial", the stories of the travels of a young black boy

In a corner in the public portion of the building stands a commemorating the work and workers of the Sanford Library Association since the founding of this city and especially the interest and faithful service of Mrs. Minnie E. Key, who died Dec. 23, 1923. The brass plate was part of the city's old library at Oak Avenue and Fifth Street, before it was moved to the old post office building in 1994.

For a time the plate held a place of honor in the current library. But it was too heavy to be retained there.

The story of a library in Sanford began in 1878 when Mrs. Henry Shelton Sanford, wife of the founder of the city, get a room, a few books and paid library. The project died a natural death and in the years following rooms were obtained and the old books brought out repeatedly In 1889 the subject of a library was discussed again but

In 1891 it was brought before the "Wednesday Club" for discussion and Mrs. John Dickens and Mrs. A.M. deForrest were appointed a committee to raise funds. Soon $250 was raised and a few books were purchased. There was very little money during the years afterwards due to the freeze of 1886. The library at this time was located in a vacant store on First Street. The old books and donations made up the library.

Rummage sales were held and suppers given. Mrs.

Dunn was the first librarian who served without pay. Mrs.

deForrest was president and she was succeeded by C.R. The library was moved to Magnolia Avenue next to the movie theater. Mrs. Minnie E. Key, Mrs. May Dickens and Mrs. Frank gave their services. The library was then moved to Fifth Street and Oak Avenue in 1924.

The library opened on Jan. 19, 1924 with Mrs. Lawrence

Call Her Sanford's Goodwill Ambassador

By GEOFFREY POUNDS Herald Staff Writer

Sunday, Oct. 21, 1979 Thursday, Oct. 25, 1979

Officially she's called Sanford's goodwill ambassador, but her civic activities extend far beyond promoting the city to outsiders.

Martha Yancey is an activist as well as a diplomat. The pert 57-year-old blonde can be seen at virtually every city commission meeting where she's a lobbyist for one cause or another. Her latest effort involves persuading the commissioners to construct a sign outside the civic center so community residents will know what events are taking

She serves as Sanford's delegate to the Tri-County Urbanized Transportation Study. She has been on the board of directors of the Sanford Ballet Guild and the mutual concert series. She is also public affairs officer for the Women's Club. When she is not involved in club or chamber of commerce work, Martha might be found at a nursing home visiting with a lonely shut-in or pushing a wheel-chaired invalid for a welcome stroll in the sun. "I'm very interested in city affairs. It's

There needs to be something done to keep she was five. She adopted the Central Florida the young people from leaving the city, she claims. Fourteen percent of the city's population is retired, she says, and it is inlifestyle, but retained the Georgia accent. She married Ned Yancey, a school teacher in Sanford. He Has Odd View Of Progress--Asynesia

S.B. "Jim" Crowe, 77, has what may be seen by some as an odd view of progress. He uses an asynesia scale. "Asynesia is the Greek word for stupidness. I am the founder of the Fund for Elimination of Asynesia." Crowe said proudly in an in-

The retired fish camp operator and construction worker now lives at 713 Bevier Road. Much of his time is spent with his unique

"Actually, Sanford rates fairly high. I'd say the officials here do reasonably well," he said, referring to city operations. Crowe notes that Sanford is one of the few crease services to the public without increasing the number of municipal workers. That sort of accomplishment scores highly with asynesia watchers. "I know some of the federal money we've gotten over the years has helped the city and the area grow, and that's good. But it's also good they haven't gone too far.

"You can call me an old moss back, but I'm firmly convinced we don't need a big bureaucratic camel sticking his nose in our tent," says Crowe.

Crowe was a hero to some and a villain to others several years back when he assumed an outspoken role against the proposed $38 million St. John's-Indian River canal. He said in retrospect the opponents have been vindicated. Had the canal been built, there would have been ecological damage that would have marred any economic benefits, he contended. Progress for the environment, he said. sometimes means leaving it along.

In January, Crowe was elected president of the local chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP). He said the association is the lobbying arm of the 12 senior citizen organizations operating in Sanford.

The number of senior citizens organizations in Sanford is a benefit to those over 55, he said. The availability of social activities and support services — from dances to transportation — is something the city can take pride in, he

He said the senior citizens in Sanford use their support network wisely in coordinating services with other civic groups. He said the new "Heart Park" along Lake Monroe is a good example. The AARP was among the first five groups to join in the successful fundraising effort, he said.

Crowe lived in Georgia, Louisiana and Missouri before returning to stay in Sanford in 1945. Since he came back, he said, the biggest advance has been in the prevailing attitude. "Today there is not the closed corporation mentality that prevailed when I started my business here. That's a good thing in terms of potential growth.

"It used to be things were controlled by a few insiders. People who wanted to come into town weren't encouraged. That has been reversed," he said.

Creating a climate where outside investors are not encouraged, he said, might be considered close to asynesia.

'Twas A Routine Year, But...

Mayor, city of Sanford The 1978-79 fiscal year was more or less routine in so far as city government was concerned, there was some good happenings and

The most serious thing that happened during the year was the tragic fire that occurred on Aug. 1, 1979, at Second Street and Magnolia Avenue. The loss of a young man's life is always sad and touches the heart of everyone, particularly when that loss is in the line of duty. I.t. Bill Price was a highly respected firefighter. He will be missed by the city of Sanford and the Sanford Fire

In City Administration we have made changes, we now have women working as laborers in our city crews, we have switched from the county landfill for solid waste disposal to a private landfill. This change has reduced disposal expenses by about 40 percent and allowed us to maintain our current garbage collection fees in the face of rising fuel cost. Early in the fiscal year in a dooperative program with various department heads, they were asked to provide their own transportation on a reimburseable basis. This has been a savings to the city. However, because of the increase in gasoline costs this program is presently under review and allowances may have to be increased.

For the coming year city taxes were increased from 6.90 mills to 7.06 mills, an increase of .18 mills. Although the budget was balanced at 6.90 mills the commission felt the increase was necessary because of the size of the contingency fund account.

A contingency fund is money set aside for the unexpected. We have recently had a good example of when that money could be used. Had Hurricane David moved inland around Palm Beach as expected and not gone up the coast as it did, it would have cost the city considerably more to clean up the debris. The funds for additional equipment use, fuel and overtime would have come from contingency. In the years that I have been at City hall we have had smaller funds, but it seems to me that those years were more this and other reasons the taxes were increased with all of that increase going into the contingency fund account. There has been much improvement in the appearance of the downtown area. Isn't it amazing how a little paint applied in just the right way will dress up an old brick building? The city has approved the conceptual plans for a downtown mall, but it has not been determined how this improvement will be financed. The property owners and the Greater Sanford Development Corporation should be congratulated on what they have done on their

Tax Millage Down Again!

Controversy Prevails In '79

By WARREN E. (PETE) JNOWLES

The past 12 months for the City of Sanford will be remembered mostly as "that period of controversy" with the conclusion of a police union action; termination of a police chief; initiation of a Double Taxation Panel; the start of a local option Public Employees Relation Commission, and the creation of a liaison commissioner for the police department. This was a trying period because of constant media attention to the solution of problems. It was misleading the public because it was the effort to solve these problems openly that created the media coverage. Lost within the coverage of headlines was the fact that Sanford continued a 13-year record of continuously lowering its tax millage and the unusual program of reducing the number of

It will be a time to rethink the primary services of a city and for the public willing to pay for as versus those services they would like to have government and to do without some of the nice extra services we have grown to expect. Port Authority A Reality After Six Years' Planning

In 1965 the Florida Legislature created, by special act, the Seminole County Port Authority within a realtively short period," the spokesman (SCOPA) to manage and operate the then proposed Port of Sanford. Six years later the 120-acre facility officially was delivered to the authority after approximately four years of planning and two years of

(HUD) bond issue as well as an Economic Development Administration grant, consisted of the order to effect the greatest dollar savings. dredging of a nine-acre slip to a mean depth of 12 foot dock warehouse and the building of more than 450 feet of wharves.

Today, more than 147,000 square feet of industrial, warehouse and office space are constructed and occupied, along with a ultramodern three and one-half million gallon petroleum storage depot. These facilities house a diversity of businesses, from subsidiaries of large national companies to "mom and pop" industries - most of them utilizing or having the potential to use the barge berthing facilities.

SCOPA is governed by a seven-member board of directors, six of whom are appointed by the Seminole County Board of Commissioners for four year terms. The seventh is a commission liaison member, appointed for a one-year term. This board serves the citizens of Seminole County without financial renumeration, and classically has been composed of leaders of community, business and industry. Currently, representatives of banking, education, industry, business, finance and sales are represented on the board. The daily operation of the authority is managed by a paid administrator.

One of the most outstanding assets of the Port of Sanford is its location — having three major modes of transportation available at its doorstep. Located at the western tip of Lake Monroe, the port is the Waterway, giving direct barge access through Jacksonville (130 miles) to the Atlantic Intercoastal commodities directly from Sanford to any eastern and A&B Signs, Inc.

The Seminole County Sheriff's Department after years of operating out of cramped office space in the old jail adjacent to the courthouse in Sanford and two other sites, moved its administrative offices in mid-summer to the three-story Building 310 at the Sanford

For the first time in many years, the department's administrative functions are contained under one roof. At the same time, construction was continuing at the new jail complex at Five Points. Being constructed with some $4 million in federal money plus another $1 million in local funds, the complex is expected to be sufficient in size for some years to come.

The jail construction is scheduled for completion in January and Sheriff John Polk plans to have it in operation by March, after a training program is completed for department personnel who will work at the new has been re-elected two times since, never had been involved in politics prior to his own first campaign. Before becoming sheriff, he served for "10 years, three months and nine days" as a member of the Florida Highway

A big asset in the new administrative offices, he said, will be the enlarged indentification section and photo lab. "The department has come along way and I give credit to the employees. Whether in government or private industry employees can make or break," he said.

Polk's department has 196 full-time employees, 32 of them employed in the jail and 164 who work out of the administrative of-

Polk first got the idea of leasing Building 310 in 1974 after the voters turned down in referendum a proposed bond issue to build a new jail. He hoped to use the building for a jail facility. The plan was approved by the state, but the county and the Sanford Airport Authority could not agree on a lease.

The new jail facility, Polk said, specifically was designed to solve problems encountered at the old jail, particularly after the disastrous jail fire of several years ago. The new jail will have exercise-recreation facilities for inmates and space for visitations. The prisoners will come out one pod at a time for cafeteria dinner. Courtroom space has also been set aside, making it possible for judges to have first appearances of prisoners at the jail. There will be an attorney-client conference room. "There is also talk that traffic court may be held at the jail, and possibly arraignments," Polk said. Inmates will be classified and segregated according to whether they are pre-trial, posttrial, charged with misdemeanors or felonies. "We will not be putting a first offender in with a hardened criminal," the sheriff said. "There will also be cells to isolate a prisoner until he is classified and placed in the general population at the jail," he said. There will be a doctor's and nurse's offices. The cells will be single person cells with each pod having room for 64 inmates. Each pod is to be broken into four sections with 16 persons each and each section will be independent of the other. Climate control of the sections will not be connected to each other. All doors will be electronically controlled with the capability of key by-pass and the facility will be equipped with sprinklers and smoke detectors, the Sheriff said.

Legislative topics ranging from property tax reform and branch banking to solar research and motion picture promotion will be considered by the Florida Legislature during the special December session or during the regular 1980 session next April. This is the prediction of Seminole County's four legislators — Sens. John Vogt, D- Cocoa Beach, and Clark Maxwell Jr., R-Melbourne, and Reps. Robert Hattaway, D-Altamonte Sorings, and Bobby Brantley, R-Longwood. "The biggest issue that will affect Seminole important throughout the state," said A member of the governor's tax reform commission, Maxwell said the committee is considering for recommendation to the special session bills limiting expenditures by noth state and local government; shifting to the state 75 percent of the responsibility for financing public education, and a constitutional amendment for the March, 1980 ballot raising homestead exemptions from

County is not unique to Seminole, but rather

$5,000 to $25,000. In addition, Maxwell said, the governor's education committee will be recommending for action during the regular session bills to change the existing formula for financing capital improvements for public education by the state to get money to the areas of greatest

In addition to major tax code reform during the special session, Hattaway anticipates sales taxes will be raised one cent or gasoline tax will be increased by one cent. "Gasoline is being conserved," Hattaway said, "and the road program statewide is going to suffer. We have to find a way of olving the road financing problem so we can get federal dollars." The legislator pointed out that the state, despite the increases in cost of gasoline to the motoring public is receiving the same number of dollars from taxes from this source s during years past, while costs are Hattaway said a special energy committee has been named by Speaker of the House Hyatt Brown to find new sources of energy for the state. He noted that a hill was passed during the 1979 session to allow construction of a "slurry line," much like the natural gas source or purified locally. "It's a way to stabilize our energy costs. The slurry line would be exactly the same type line as in Florida, already bringing in gas from Texas," he said. Hattaway said boilers existing now at power plants could be modified to use coal at a cost that could be afforded.

Other legislation which Hattaway said he will sponsor during the 1980 session is a bill to allow news reporters to not only look at voting records but also to copy information from those records. Currently the records are public and may be reviewed, but no information from those records may be copied. Hattaway sponsored the bill in the last session and it was approved by the house but not taken up in the Senate.

Hattaway also is sponsoring legislation to switch responsibility from the county commission to the elections supervisor to select polling places and an amusement-carnival

Meanwhile, Brantley has drafted legislation to: allow the news media to release the names of juveniles accused of felony type offenses; put a cap on state spending; to create an independent commission to reapportion the state after the 1980 census; reform the unemployment compensation law to permit reimbursement to cities of unemployment compensation paid by those cities to the state through error; to amend the law setting the duties of the Council to Promote the Motion Picture Industry in Florida, seeking to create an advisory council of 19 members to assist film companies in gaining permits and cooperation from local and state government and private sector groups.

Vogt said a variety of legislation will be considered in the 1980 session and much of its will affect Seminole County.

rises, the industrial future for Seminole County looks bright. According to figures from the Industrial Development Authority of Seminole County, leaning on Department of Commerce studies, a number of local companies will be boosting employment in the year ahead. Specifically, 10 companies in the area are planning to increase the number of employed from 741 people to 1.106.

This increase alone, not counting increases by any other companies in the county, would mean the following added to Seminole County's economy: -Personal income of $7,687,120. -Bank deposits of $3,575,400.

-Retail sales of $4,186,650. Members of almost every other segment of the county's economy also are predicting a good year for Seminole, citing northerners moving here every day to escape fuel and weather problems as well as higher taxes and to find a place to settle with a good climate and good recreational facilities.

A great many of those moving in, it is said are young persons with families.

Restaurant managers, builders and real estate people are optimistic in predictions about the county's economic health. They cite several additional factors: -New people from the north and midwest, with cash, moving here to escape high energy costs. -New people locating their businesses here for the same reasons.

-Apartment dwellers buying homes to escape high rents. -New companies, particularly light industry, moving here because of a generally cleaner environment. -The growth of the Orlando area, which has had a growth effect on Seminole. Stromberg-Carlson, the county's biggest industry will be expanding its floor space and expects to make an additional $25 million in sales next year.

And the I-4 Industrial Park is growing. So, regardless of what has been happening in other parts of the U.S., Seminole, with a good labor force, a good water supply, and plenty of room for growth, has all of the factors needed for a healthy economy in the future. —

Canadians Acquire Chase & Co. Assets

By DONNA ESTES

Most of the assets of Chase & Co. are being purchased by Reichhold Limited, a Canadian corporation, through its United States subsidiary, Canadyne Corp. for "in

The 60 stockholders of the 95-year-old Sanford based Chase & Co. approved the sale by 3-1. Closing for the purchase is scheduled for Sept. 28.

Although present management will continue, the name of the new corporation will be changed to Sunniland Corp. Lee Moore, president and general manager of Chase & Co. said the Chase & Co. firm has been using the "Sunniland" label on its fertilizer products for years. The only assets being retained by Chase & Co. are an orange grove in Seminole County, a sugar farm and a farm in Zellwood, said Moore.

George L. Hagen, president of Reichhold Ltd., announced the agreement to purchase today, noting the assets being purchased include not only those of the Sanford and Ft. Myers operation but also those in connection with the manufacture and sale of agricultural chemicals and distribution of building materials. Chase and Co., established in 1884, manufactures and sells a broad line of chemical fertilizers for agriculture and for the lawn and garden market in Florida. It also distributes roofing materials to a large number of roofing contractors throughout Florida. The acquisition gives added strength to Canadyne's earlier acquisition of Woolfolk Chemical Works of Fort Valley, Ga. in 1977 and Florida Seed and Feed of Ocala

Robert T. O'Shaughnessy, vice president of administration for Reichhold, said today Moore will continue as general manager and will be vice president of the new Sunniland Corp. Moore has been on the board of directors of Chase for more than 20 years and has been employed by Chase for 15 years. Moore said negotiations on the sale had been on-going Both Moore and O'Shaughnessy declined to reveal the purchase price. Stockholders said, however, it is in O'Shaughnessy said Reichhold's philosophy is decen-tralized management. "It will be up to Lee Moore and his management staff to set new goals for the organization and to meet them. We will not be setting goals for Sunniland." O'Shaughnessy said. "We have found that people who do the work set higher goals than we would." "All of our companies are quite autonomous," he said.

"There will be no change in key people, employment or in what the company is doing," O'Shaughnessy said, "bu there may be some additional products." He said the organization will grow a little faster with the infusion of new capital -- "whatever is needed to provide a faster growth rate." The Reichhold firm was founded in 1959 in Canada. In 1969, sales of $21 million were recorded and sales in 1979 are expected to total $291 million. Originally the Canadian firm manufactured synthetic resins. In 1968 it diversified into printing and in 1973 bought Sears Limited in Canada.

Sears sells printing equipment and supplies and broadened into agricultural chemicals and gas. In 1977 it began its acquisition program in the United States. It also has interests in oil and gas in Louisiana. Five weeks ago, it acquired a chemical and manufacturing exchange in Texas and two weeks ago Seed and Feed in Ocala.

Your Business!

HIGHWAY — SANFORD IS adjacent to Interstate Highway 4 (I-4) which provides direct or connecting access to Orlando (direct); Tampa/St. Petersburg (direct); Miami / Ft. Lauderdale and West Palm Beach (via Sunshine State Parkway); Jacksonville (via 1.95); Atlanta (via 1.75); Jacksonville (via 1-95); Atlanta (via 1-75); and Mobile and New Orleans (via 1-75 and 1-10). 37 major firms provide trucking service in the area. Both U.P.S. and bus freight are RAIL - SANFORD IS a major depot for the Seaboard Coastline Railroad providing service on nine trains daily to markets in all major U.S. cities. Passenger service is available on Amtrak. Sanford is also uniquely served by Auto-Train to Washington, D.C.

AIR — SANFORD IS the location of the Sanford Central Florida Airport. This superior general aviation facility provides all required aircraft services. Air cargo and charter service is available. Orlando International Jetport, which provides major airline passenger and air freight service, is located only 35 miles away.

WATER — SANFORD IS situated on the banks of the St. Johns River. This river is nevigable directly to the major port of Jacksonville by barge. All necessary barge facilities are available at the publicity-owned Port of Sanford.

SANFORD IS a community experiencing rapid population growth. In the five year period prior to 1975 Seminole County's population increased

SANFORD IS projected to have continued growth. The city in conjunction with Seminole County expects a 105 percent increase between 1970 and 1980. Forecasts for the 1980 to 1990 period project an increase of 66 percent to 80

SAMFORD IS happy with its growth. The community firmly believes that continued growth means increasing property values, improved community services, a broadened tex base and more jets.

SAMPORD IS part of the Criando Standard Matropolitan Statistical Area (SMSA) which had a civilian labor force of nearly 550,300 workers in February, 1977. Current estimates place Seminate County's portion at 74,660.

FOR INFORMATION CONTACT: INDUSTRIAL

SANFORD IS experiencing tremendous growth in its labor force. In 1967 Seminale County's labor force totaled 17,500 compared with today's 76,500. Conservative projections show a doubling of the labor force by the year 2566.

SANFORD IS located in a center of unusually skilled workers. Plenty of skilled and unskilled labor is available. Assistance in locating your employee need is provided by the local office of Florida Employment.

SANFORD IS an area personally attractive to all types of people, making it easy to attract and retain good, highly skilled workers.

SANFORD IS constantly receiving a stream of vocational-technically trained graduates. In 1976, 1186 skilled workers were graduated in over 30 program areas, as part of a comprehensive education program provided by Seminole Community College.

SANFORD IS capable (in cooperation with state and federal programs) of training workers specifically for your needs both in-plant and oncampus. A federal grant has established a unique program for subsidized training not available to most cities.

SAMFORD IS predominately non-unionized. No work shutdowns due to unions have been recorded in the past 7 years.

AIRPORT — SANFORD IS fortunate to have been the site of a major military air base, which the city has developed into a 1600 acre modern aviation industrial park. All utilities are available including on-site security and fire protection. Two runways (4,000 and 8,000 feet) and all aviation services are available. A rail spur serves the facility. The park is located only 7 miles from 1-4. This is one of the finest general aviation facilities in America.

PORT — SANFORD IS located on the St. Johns River which provides a navigable waterway to Jacksonville and the Intercoastal Waterway. The 120 acre site of the Port of Sanford is located adjacent to I-4 and has a rall spur. The port itself has a 12 foot controlling depth and can handle up to three 200 foot barges simultaneously. Industrial sites and buildings are available with all utilities except natural gas.

HIGHWAY — SANFORD IS home to the privately owned I-4 Industrial Park which is located at the junction of I-4 and State Road 46. Both port and rail facilities are only ½ block away. All utilities are available. Also the Sanford industrial Park within city limits beests excellent facilities with all utilities.

OTHER — SANFORD IS also fortunate to have a number of other excellent industrial altes scattered throughout the area. The altes vary widely in services available, utilities and stages of development.

Herald Staff Writer Seminole County offers attractive and inviting lifestyles to whet the appetites

It's no wonder so many families from the Sanford Naval Air Station days have docked here permanently at retirement after claiming global ports-of-call

An individualistic lifestyle is yours for the asking — from ultra-modern campgrounds and mobile home parks to luxurious split level homes and complexes, in background settings of forever green lush tropical foliage and stately towering trees.

Several colleges and universities are within commuting range. Toward cultural enrichment, Seminole flourishes. A museum-library in Sanford is a living memorial to the city's founder, Gen. Henry S. Sanford. Sanford-Seminole is home base for the Seminole Mutual Concert Association, two ballet companies, several theater troupes, musical groups in all dimensions, and an opera company, among others.

By JIM HAYNES

Herald Sports Editor They call Central Florida "God's Country."

Florida's package of goodies varies from abundant beaches, lakes stocked well with trout, rivers beaming with bass and a natural conservative outdoors which beckons campers.

Recreation and leisure sports are seemingly a way of life here. Yawning golf courses dot the countryside, their often expansive fairways lined with familiar pine trees and well-manicured greens guarded by beach-white sandtraps.

Horse racing, harness racing, dog racing and jai-alai offer pari-mutuel wagering as well as some outstanding spectator sports. Auto racing, regarded as tops in the world — rivaled only by the Indy 500 — is highlighted by the Daytona 500, Firecracker 400 and 12 Hours of Sebring. Each race course is a mere stone's throw from Seminole County.

Our school education system is sound, with particular emphasis put on the secondary phase in athletics. The spectrum of prep sports runs from football, basketball and baseball to all those minor sports like wrestling, soccer, weightlifting, tennis, golf, track and cross-country.

Boats lined up at Lake Monroe prove that form of recreation is popular locally

Soulando Park is site for resting racquetoers who enjoy Seminole County's blossoming sport.

Carved out of thick brush and palmetto bush, the communities of DeBary and Deltona are becoming "home" to more and more young couples in the Central Florida area.

Meanwhile, the city of Lake Mary, lying east of Interstate 4 and west of U.S. 17-92, is one of the lovelier small municipalities in Central Florida.

Boasting a population of nearly 3,000 persons, its city seal reminds that it is the "city of lakes." There are at least 19 lakes in the city which celebrated its sixth birthday as an incorporated area in August.' Lake Mary has about nine square miles within its territorial limits and is a residential community for the most part. The industrial section of the city is confined mostly to the Rinehart Road area.

Phenomenal growth is anticipated in the city in the 1980s decade.

Located in the unincorporated area of Volusia County, both communities have no Mayors... but that doesn't mean the voice of the people goes unheard. Deltona, the first pre-planned community development by the Mackle family, is operated and maintained by its municipal service district (MSD). The MSD authorizes the community to tax itself for needed services like police protection and street lighting.

Officials of the MSD also have the authority to represent the community and its concerns before the Volusia County Board of Commissioners. By the mid-80s, Deltona's population will mushroom from its present 20,000 plus residents to 65,000.

DeBary, in contrast, is barely 30 years old with a population of approximately 5,200. Future growth is imminent with the completion of the DeBary Plantation subdivision, whose luxurious homes will cover some 1,089 acres. DeBary residents never formed an MSD but community affairs are handled through the Public Affairs Council. The council is composed of members of community groups, civic organizations and chamber members. Volusia County voters will be asked, because of the growth, to go to the polls to approve funds for a new elementary school somewhere in the Deltona-Enterprise area. New School For Deltona

Volusia County voters will be asked to pass a bond issue in the near future to provide enough funds to construct a new elementary school somewhere in the Deltona-That's the word from Robert McDermott, assistant superintendent for instruction of Volusia County, who says he's working on the proposal. Students in the communities of DeBary and Deltona attend elementary school in Enterprise, where enrollment last year was 1,160, McDermott said in an interview. "We don't have a great increase in the total number of students in the district, but they are moving around, "

The school is estimated to cost $3 million, and would house about 780 elementary students, he said. In another educational stride this year, McDermott said, students of DeBary and Deltona have an opportunity to enroll in the gifted education program for the first time. A two-teacher team serves students in these communities and Enterprise, DeLand and Orange City.

Deltona and DeBary students who graduate from Enterprise elementary school attend middle school at Deltona Junior High School, and then high school in

A program piloted last year in Ohio, offered this year at Deltona Junior High, is entitled "Skills for Living," McDermott said. The program aims to "help student

The program also helps students define their career goals and accomplish everyday tasks for independent living, such as balancing a checkbook and comparative shopping, he noted.

DeLand High School, which has an enrollment of 2,200, is the largest school in the county, McDermott said.

"It is designated as an area vocational center, for it has an extensive education program and training facilities to teach job skills," he said. School-age children of the DeBary and Deltona communities comprise the estimated 32,000 student population

Welcome to Lake Mary, Florida! We're located between the Cities of Longwood to the south, and Sanford, Seminole County seat to the north; geographically in the center of Seminole Lake Mary covers nine square miles and has a population of 3,233 with its own police force and fire department. The tax rate is 2.84 per $1,000 property valuation. The city of Lake Mary employs 16 regular employees and 6 CETA people.

The city is beautiful with its many lakes and trees and wooded areas, truly a rural area, yet a city.

Lake Mary may be reached by traveling north from Orlando on I-4 or U.S. 17-92. The main roads are Lake Mary Boulevard, the connector between I-4 and U.S. 17-92, Country Club Road which connects SR 46-A and SR 427, and Crystal Lake Avenue, connecting SR 46-A and Airport Boulevard. It is within 30 minutes travel time to metropolitan Orlando and 10 minutes from Sanford.

Development is planned, headed by a qualified in the E.M.T. course. The volunteers have their own rescue unit in addition to top firefighting apparatus. More effective fire fighting is possible now because of the installation of new fire hydrants; a part of the city upgrading its water department.

There is one elementary school within the city limits. Students in the upper grades are bused to nearby junior and senior high schools in Seminole Country's public school system.

building department. At present there are 833 single family dwelling units and land is set aside for future residential development.

enrolled in courses there.

Churches in the city are several Baptist churches, Nazarene, Presbyterian and Roman Catholic.

Land is also set aside for industrial and business growth including land for warehouses. There are two national industries located in Lake Mary NCR and Stromberg-Carlson. In addition, there are many shops and small businesses: beauty shops, a barber shop, pizza parlor, service station and body shop, a florist, nurseries, realtor office, 2 dentists, a chiropractor, a drug store, Driftwood Plaza, Phillips 66 with food service and a Country store. Soon to come are Lake Mary High School, Flagship Bank, NUMA Corp. and a proposed shopping center.

Four dispatchers have been added to the nine man police force. New programs, supported by CETA, are crime prevention, youth detention and Development is planned, headed by a qualified college level credit courses are offered and multiplanning and zoning director and all zoning codes level non-credit courses. Currently, officers from both Lake Mary's Police and Fire Departments are

A cute gift for a little girl's biritiday would be to make a "crayen agren." Just cut suf the treditional square agren with ties (adjusted to the size of the child, of course). Make a front pecket the length of the hemmed edge of the agren.

Purchase a box of crayens, whetever size you dealre, though I wouldn't suggest the largest bex that has di.

After seving up the agren with the front pecket, stitch individual sections large enough for each crayen to fit into.

There! You have an unusual crayen "helder" that will hale take a child centant on these "neithing to de" days.

DEAR HELOISE: My mother is a Girl Scout leader, so every time we take a field trip, she has all of us wear our "look-alike" school T-shirts.

On a recent cuting, there were 49 of us all wearing the same shirts.

A stranger remarked to my ded that every place he looked he saw those school shirts coming toward him. They really stand out in a crowd and my parents can keep up with their scouts much easier.

Sanford Youth Sues To Get In USAF

When 20-year-old Ronald (Major) Murray of Sanford was seven years old he suffered major burns to his hands, face, chest and thighs in a fire at his Miami area home which claimed the lives of four younger brothers and sisters.

Young Murray's burns were so severe, as a matter of fact, he reportedly sustained third degree burns over 30 percent of his relatives were determined to work hard to rehabilitate the youth so he could lead an active and normal life. Two prime goals for Murray were graduating from high school and joining the U.S. Air Force over a strong desire to serve his

Murray was attempting to enlist in the Air Force, he, Stubbs, spoke with many "persons in the Air Force or who formerly were in the Air force and they told me the Air Force now has a policy egainst taking anymore blacks. In June, a black army sergeant recruiter came to my home and asked if Murray might enlist in the air force. The sergeant asked me if didn't it seem odd that Murray took his exams in February and he had not been notified yet? He went on to say 'Right now the air force isn't

The air force, however, has a different view of the situation. Air Force Sergeant Charles B. Russell with the Orlando area's recruiting office, said today he is upset that anyone would slur the air force by charging racial discrimination he denies exists. "I know for a fact racial discrimination does not exist among our recruiters. If it did, those recruiters would be fired. We've gone for five years without any complaints, and now this."
Sergeant Russell, who said he is thoroughly acquainted with the Murray case, stressed that the air force's hands are tied. "He (Murray) qualified for the air force through his written tests, mental and moral, and as far as we're concerned, he was also physically capable. However, physical examinations are conducted by and must be approved by the department of defense. In this case, it was their Jacksonville office which handled that aspect of his examination. And it was that office which has permanently disqualified him from entering any part of the armed forces, not just the air force."

Sergeant Russell said the defense department at first turned down Murray based on a doctor's letter describing the youth's physical condition.

"At that point, Mr. Stubbs was beginning to make claims of racial discrimination. So, I advised them to contact their congressman if they wanted to pursue it further." Stubbs said today they did pursue it and contacted U. S. Sen. Richard Stone. "Sen. Stone told me the air force couldn't do that;

and that the rejection was illegal," Stubbs said. Shortly after Sen. Stone got involved, someone in Washington contacted the defense department and ordered them to bring Murray to Jacksonville for a personal physical examination, rather than rely solely on the doctor's letter in deciding to reject letters from various doctors he has obtained to permit him to recruiters. The letters. Stubbs said. confirm Murray is not handicapped despite the huge scars left from his burns.
