

WHEELS OF INDUSTRY PROMISE TO MOVE IN CITY OF SANFORD

SMALLER FACTORIES HERE AND MORE OF THEM COMING

Among the new industries of Sanford that mean much to the city are the new broom and fibre factory, the boat works and basin and the grist mill where Sanford corn can be made into meal and grits. These three institutions have recently started work here and all three of them will have weekly payrolls to go into the coffers of the merchants. The small factories and more of them are wanted in Sanford and everything possible should be done to induce them to come here and to remain after they have been located here. There is a great opportunity here just now for a canning and preserve works and the Board of Trade will make a strong effort to locate one here in the spring.

The small factories are the town builders and all that we have here should receive the encouragement of the citizens. Sanford is ideally located for a manufacturing center and there is no reason why our machine shops should not be working on war contracts at this time.

DEATH OF C. R. WALKER

One of the Most Prominent Citizens of Sanford Passes Away on Sunday Morning

While the church bells were calling to worship Sunday morning the spirit of C. R. Walker winged its flight to Heaven.

The news of his death which occurred at nine o'clock was a shock to his countless friends who were unaware of the fact that he had been under a physician's care for several weeks. He was afflicted with valvular trouble of the heart and while there was little hope of his recovery none but his closest friends were apprised of the fact and he continued to be the same genial, hearty optimist in the last few months that he has been all his life and never complained or gave his friends any inkling of the fact that he was ill, death coming to him swiftly and painlessly while he was in the bathroom of his home Sunday morning.

Those who knew C. R. Walker best know that he met death calmly and with a happy smile, for he was a true Christian in every sense of the word and followed the teachings of Christ in his everyday life and by precept and example accepted him in the sight of all men.

Without doubt Charlie Walker was one of Sanford's best citizens. Some men are progressive, some are religious, some are cheerful and optimistic, some are big hearted and kind and charitable, some are leaders of men and interested in every public movement, some are orators, but few combine all of these traits bound up with common sense and yet this was C. R. Walker for he was a combination of all these traits and was a phenomenal man filling a niche in the life of Sanford that will be hard to supplant for years to come as there are few Walkers in this everyday life.

Coming to Sanford some thirty years ago C. R. Walker was city clerk and agent for the South Florida Plant System that afterward became the A. C. L. He left the railroad service to engage in farming and the fish and produce business and built up a good trade from which he retired about six months ago to enter the Mahoney-Walker Co. of this city.

Although a busy man with his own affairs Mr. Walker was never too busy to leave his office on a mission of charity, on a mission for the good of the city or for his fellow-man. His entire life seemed to be devoted to deeds of kindness and he was always even tempered and smiling when the clouds were darkest and his proverbial optimism never faltered and his abiding faith in Sanford never changed.

While Mr. Walker held the respect and esteem of hundreds in this city and county and was a leader among men he never wanted office and the only elective office held by him was that of member of the local school board, a work in which his heart and mind and talents were given for many years during which time our schools attained a high position among those of Florida.

Mr. Walker was an active member of the boards of trade of Sanford from his first introduction to Sanford and continued until his death, being vice president of the Sanford Board of Trade and one of the governors and this body will miss him most where his wise counsel, his regular attendance, his willingness to serve made him an invaluable member and his death will be a distinct loss to the Board of Trade.

In his work for the Board of Trade and the city his splendid fight for the Inland Waterways stands out as a monument to his memory. He was a member of the committee on waterways and made it his life work traveling over Florida attending meetings and also attending many meetings in other states extolling the virtues of the St. Johns river as the Inland Waterway through Florida and also assailing other waterways through the state.

Mr. Walker often stated in open meetings that he had a vision of the future greatness of Sanford and of all Florida and he did, for no man could have such perfect faith without a vision. There was probably no man in the state of Florida that had such a faith in the future of the state and his work on the waterways and other measures will live after him and his vision will be seen by others and some day this great work will be finished and the good work of C. R. Walker and his conferees will be recognized.

Sketch of His Life

Charles Robins Walker was born at Richview, Illinois, April 2, 1857. As early as 1883 he came to Sanford, passing the Christmas Day of that year on the river between Jacksonville and this place. At that time the only railroad here was a narrow gauge running to Kissimmee. Mr. Walker came to fill the position of station agent, holding the place when soon after the road was built between Jacksonville and Sanford, and for sixteen years. He used to tell of the coming into the office in the early years of a small boy who said: "Mister, I want a narrow gauge ticket to Kissimmee." "I am sorry," was the reply, "but we have none now. The road was broad-gauged last night"—which happened to be strictly true. The boy was completely non-plussed until the agent's friendly word set him at rest. His unvarying courtesy and efficiency in the position he held so long are still remembered and spoken of.

In September, 1888, Mr. Walker returned to Richview Ill. to be married to Sarah Reed Wilgus, the devoted wife who survives him. Of their children, Charles Raymond, the eldest, died; Clifford Levi and Claire Henrietta are well known young people of our community. Mr. Walker's father, aged eighty-eight passed last winter here, still vigorous and now living in Illinois. Two brothers, one of whom is visiting in California, and three sisters survive him.

Charles R. Walker's Christian life has always been pronounced. He lived his faith, carrying out into every line of activity his religious principles. His conscientiousness was a marked characteristic. One of the charter members of the Congregational church of Sanford, organized in 1889, he stood frankly for his convictions in his unswerving loyalty to the work of his church. He shared not only in its Sunday but also in its mid-week meetings. For over twenty years he served as treasurer of the church, and for the last five years, or since the passing of Mr. Ensminger, faithful and efficient co-worker, has been the Sunday school superintendent. His growth in faith and goodness and love kept pace with his years.

Funeral Services

The funeral services will occur from the Congregational church Wednesday afternoon at 3:45 and will be in charge of the Masons.

Reginald Holly left Saturday morning for Marion, Alabama to enter the Army & Navy College.

REORGANIZE SCHOOL OPEN WESLEY BIBLE CLASS RED CROSS WITH LARGE FEDERATION TO MEET FOR SANFORD ATTENDANCE IN CONVENTION HERE

BRANCH ORGANIZATION WILL BECOME CHAPTER

Next Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the Woman's Club, Oak avenue, a full Red Cross meeting will convene for the purpose of re-organization. We are at present a branch of the North Florida Chapter and the re-organization is for the purpose of establishing our own Chapter for individual movement and operation under the auspices of the General Headquarters. It is urged that every member be present and also those who wish to become members. A complete re-election of officers will be had as well as new committee formation. Your chairman wishes to take this opportunity of thanking the people for the loyal support given to this worthy cause and urges upon you to continue the same loyal support with added vigor that we may do our bit. We appreciate fully sacrifices already made but our country needs a continuance and it is our duty to respond. Since many individual homes are now represented at the front, our work will take on a more personal character and will appeal to those who heretofore felt only a general interest.

As this will be my last official meeting with you, I shall personally appreciate a large attendance, not alone from Sanford but from the other towns who have so loyally cooperated with us in this work.

T. A. Neal,
Chairman.

EMERGENCY FOOD SURVEY

C. M. Berry in Charge of Most Important Office

County Agent C. M. Berry has been appointed by the U. S. Government to conduct the War Emergency Food Survey in Sanford; for the coming week, Sanford is one of the three towns of Florida of less than 10,000 inhabitants in which this survey is to be made. A like survey is being made in every state of the Union simultaneously and by this means the amount of food in the hands of families and the daily consumption of food by families will be gauged and action thereon taken by Mr. Hoover.

The daily record for the next week of the food consumed by twenty-five families in Sanford will be carefully kept and tabulated and the Sanford women who have responded to this call are to be highly commended for their patriotism in accepting and acting upon this emergency demand by the United States government. Those who have responded to this call are as follows: Mesdames John Diekins, Henry Wight, Jas. Moughton, L. P. Hagan, Roy Symes, Puleston, Sr., L. R. Phillips, W. W. Abernathy, J. K. Mettinger, S. B. Puleston, Joe Harold, William Peavynhouse, Joseph Whitner, W. C. DeCoursey, Frederick Cooper, John Meisch, Henry McLaughlin, Walter Hand, W. P. Carter, J. N. Robson, W. P. Fields, O. J. Packard, Alex Vaughan, Ed. Putnam.

LABOR DAY GREAT DAY

All Day Picnic at Woodland Park

Labor Day was a great day for those who could leave their business and get out to Woodland Park. There was a big fish fry and with well filled baskets and cold drinks made plenty to eat.

The cool water of the pool and the various amusements were enjoyed by old and young alike and it is safe to assert that no Labor Day celebration has given the participants more genuine pleasure than yesterday. Woodland Park is one of the finest picnic grounds in this part of the state and always attracts the crowds.

Commissioners Meet Today

The board of county commissioners is in meeting today, all members being present.

The many friends of Miss Mabel Bowler of Jacksonville are glad to see her in Sanford. She will be the guest of friends and relatives for several weeks.

TEACHERS AND SCHOLARS READY FOR THE WORK

Sanford city schools opened yesterday and despite the fact that it was a legal holiday there was a record breaking attendance.

At the High School the opening exercises were greatly enjoyed by the pupils and patrons and words of encouragement were spoken by Supt. T. W. Lawson, P. P. Forster, B. F. Whitner, S. Runge and Prof. Connor, the teacher of Mathematics, and many others.

The attendance at the High School of 114 is very gratifying to the school officials and it is hoped that all of them will keep up with their studies and remain until the end of the term, as the High School is the place where so many become tired and discouraged and seek the marts of trade or the farm or the colleges rather than press forward and graduate.

There were appropriate exercises at the Grammar School and the primary schools and the teachers and patrons gave the children short talks on the schools and the value of an education. At the Grammar School Dr. Hyman was present and talked to the children and teachers. The Grammar School has 339 enrolled which is very gratifying to the teachers, although some of them are apt to be overworked with the large classes.

The primary schools have a total attendance of 230, demonstrating that there are plenty of youngsters coming on all the time and getting ready for the grammar and high school.

REFRES FOR HOME GUARDS

Will Be Furnished Only On Certain Conditions

Washington, D. C., Sept. 3.—Advices from Senator Fletcher are to the effect that the Secretary of War has promulgated certain special regulations to govern the use of rifles and ammunition to Home Guard organizations. Of special interest is the fact that the regulations limit the use for certain specific purposes. Only Home Guards having the character of state police or constabulary or Home Guards organized under the direction of the several states which are actually rendering Guard service by way of protecting property of the United States, property in course of manufacture for the United States, and means of transportation including rights of way of railroads, bridges, etc., may receive equipment. In order that any equipment may be procured for the Home Guards of Florida, application must be made by the Governor to the Chief of Ordnance at Washington, which application must set forth the places where the guards are engaged in protecting the United States' property, etc., the total number of Guards and the number actually engaged for guard duty at any one time. The government must be assured that the Guards will be subject to the commands of the Governor and that they are receiving regular military instruction.

Senator Fletcher advises that he was informed at the War Department that the law controlling the issue of equipment has been interpreted to mean that no issue may be made to Home Guard organizations other than those subject to the direction of the Governor of the state of Florida. Further, that the limited amount of equipment available for issue to Home Guards will prevent issue to be made to any other organizations than those engaged in guarding property of the nature herein described.

It is suggested that those organizations engaged in guard duty of the nature described should confer with the Governor of the state who will have control of any limited supplies that may be allotted to him for the use of the Home Guards of Florida.

War News Summary

The Germans are knocking virtually at the gate of Riga, and with the Russians apparently unable to withstand their advance.

The great port and arsenal on the Baltic and the head of the railway line running to Petrograd is beset on three sides by the enemy on the west in the Lake Babit region, on the southwest near Mitau and on the southeast along the eastern bank of the Dvina River, a craft fifteen miles distant from the city.

In the latter region the Germans, after a heavy bombardment, won the Uxkull bridgehead, famed as the scene of sanguinary encounters and crossed the Dvina river. There they shaped their course northward along the waterway toward Riga, with the Russians counter attacking but unable to hold them.

Some twenty miles southwest of Riga, along the railway line running from Mitau to the seaport the Germans have begun a new offensive. Here a big battle is in progress, but in whose favor it is going has not yet been made evident by the Russian and German official communications. Neither is anything contained in them concerning the operations near Lake Babit where the Germans were last reported standing, about twelve miles west of Riga.

Preparation evidently was made last week in raids by airplanes on warships and military works in the Gulf of Riga and by the manoeuvres of German torpedo boat destroyers, submarines and mine sweeping trawlers in adjacent waters for the new offensive against Riga, but whether the attack is being carried out synchronously by sea has not become apparent.

While the capture of Riga would be of great strategic value to the Germans in controlling the entrance to the Gulf of Finland at the head of which stands Petrograd it would not necessarily place the capital in jeopardy for it lies overland 300 miles as the crow flies from Riga and 360 miles by rail.

In southern Moldavia the Russians fighting near Fokshani in conjunction with the Rumanians, evidently have ceased their desertions and again are facing the enemy. Here, according to Berlin they have delivered heavy counter attacks against Field Marshal von Mackensen's forces. Near Braila, southwest of Galatz, on the Danube, the Germans were repulsed in an attack on the Russian positions.

On the Italian front Gen. Cadorna's forces have extended their gains on the Brestovizza plateau, on the slopes of Monte San-Gabriele and east of Gorizia, and have taken additional prisoners and war stores. Five Italian airplanes have flown from the Italian front over Vienna and dropped pamphlets telling the Austrians of the victory of the Italians from Tolmino to the sea.

In Belgium the British big guns are continuing to bombard violently the German positions, evidently preparing the way for another smash. The infantry activity here and also to the south in France is mainly in the nature of raiding operations. Heavy artillery duels also are in progress along the Aisne, in Champagne and in the Verdun sector.

ahead by buying a piece of business property. The building that is now on the property will be moved off and the land will be held as an investment or for the future requirements of the city.

OCTOBER WILL WITNESS BIG MEETING IN SANFORD

Sanford will have the honor of entertaining one of the largest conventions of the state on October 9th, 10th and 11th when the Wesley Bible Class Federation meets in the city. It will be remembered that this convention was announced for Sanford last year when a large delegation of the Sanford class visited the 1916 convention at Ocala and brought home the prize.

It is expected that 500 men will attend this convention as fully 400 classes are to be represented. The territory covered by the convention includes every Methodist church in Florida east of the Suwannee river. The local class has completed its convention organization and every committee is now earnestly at work getting ready to accommodate the visitors and make the convention a success in every way. The people of Sanford are requested to use every effort to help along the work of these committees.

At a recent business meeting of the class the following committees were announced by H. H. Peabody, president of the class:

- Finance—R. H. Bronson, F. B. Adams, D. C. Marlowe.
- Banners and Decorations—J. K. Mettinger, O. J. Pope, R. M. Mason, E. F. Housholder.
- Advertising—W. M. Haynes, R. H. Bronson, Z. B. Ratliff.
- Entertainment—E. A. Douglass, F. P. Forster, E. T. Woodruff.
- Reception—Forrest Lake, W. M. Rothamly, S. O. Shinholer, C. C. Cobb, G. W. Spencer, A. R. Chippland, W. W. Abernathy, W. P. Fields, L. R. Phillips, W. M. Haynes, R. H. Bronson, Z. B. Ratliff, J. K. Mettinger, O. J. Pope, R. M. Mason, E. F. Housholder, F. B. Adams, D. C. Marlowe, E. A. Douglass, F. P. Forster, E. T. Woodruff, and every member of the class.

Many prominent speakers will be present during the convention and as the meetings are open to all the Sanford people will have an opportunity of hearing such men as Dr. Therell of Albany and Dr. Quinlan of Ft. Valley, both of whom are well and widely known throughout the south.

From a cold business standpoint this convention will leave many dollars in Sanford as every delegate pays his own expenses while in the city. Announcement will be made later regarding provisions for rooms and meals for those who do not care to stop at hotels.

City Council Meets

City council of the city of Sanford, Fla., met on August 20 in regular session at 7:30 p. m. Present, G. H. Dinges, president pro tem and Councilmen F. L. Miller, Jno. Adams, R. A. Newman and Roy Symes. Absent, W. W. Abernathy and B. W. Herndon.

Minutes of last regular meeting read and adopted.

Mr. Calder of the Clyde-Line Steamship Co., came before the council and stated that the company would beautify their part of the bulkhead in consideration of the assessment being reduced to $10,000.00.

Mr. Herring came before the council, representing citizens residing on west side of Sanford and made complaints in regard to fertilizer factories being erected in their midst. On motion carried, same was referred to building committee for attention.

Mr. Laing came before the council and asked that Lots in Fla. Land & Col. Co. Sub-Div. be reduced. Said request was denied.

Mr. Woods came before the council and asked that certain changes be made in agreement between the City of Sanford and Mr. Woods in regards to boat basin. On motion of John Adams, seconded by R. A. Newman said request was granted.

Among The Theatres

"The Fatal Ring"
Introduces Pearl White in one of the most wonderful serials ever written.

This thrilling, exciting, entertaining and pleasing serial begins Saturday, September 1st at the Star Theatre in addition to a 5-act Bluebird feature without any extra charge.

Pearl White, the famous Pathé star, who is to appear at the Star Theatre in the first episode of her new serial "The Fatal Ring" has her own recipe for the elixir of youth. "Adventure, peril, mystery, romance and a little love, mixed in the proper proportions will do the trick," she says.

"You will notice," added Miss White smilingly, "that I have made Sarah Bernhardt's whole recipe—love—just a minor portion of mine. I believe in a flavor of romance, and I think I speak advisably because there is nothing so cloying as so-called love when you get too much of it. Is it not so?"

When it comes to adventure and mystery, Miss White is, of course, an authority. Her exploits in the films have thrilled millions of movie fans since she ran the whole gamut of peril as "Pauline" in the "Perils of Pauline."

"You may laud peace, quiet and simple life all you please," said Miss White, "but when I am mentally fagged and inclined to think life a drab affair after all, give me half a day's excitement in front of a camera man and sunshine in my middle name.

"You know Ponce de Leon, whom we all read about in our school days, came over looking for the spring of youth. He didn't find it, but if you remember, he didn't die young. Why? Because in the search through the wilds of Florida his days were filled with adventure and the elixir he was hunting was right in his grasp all the time.

The mystery of a Violet Diamond is thrillingly portrayed in the first episode of Pathe's new serial, "The Fatal Ring" in which Pearl White is to be seen at the Star Theatre.

TEMPERANCE NOTES

(By the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union.)

THE LIQUOR TRAFFIC AND THE FARMER.
Nation-wide prohibition would be a great benefit to the farmers of the whole country. These are now taxed heavily to pay their share of the enormous expense of taking care of the orphans and paupers, drunkards and criminals, produced by the liquor traffic. Professor Nichols of Boston, after thorough investigation, tells us how the traffic affects the farmer financially. He says:

For every one hundred dollars spent for liquor, the farmer now receives $5.50. If the money was spent for other commodities the farmers' share would be very largely increased, as shown by the following table:

Money Spent	To Farmers.
Clothing.....$100	$21.50
Boots and shoes.....100	23.50
Cotton goods.....100	47.25
Woolen goods.....100	46.25
Leather.....100	62.00
Flour.....100	61.00
Meat.....100	64.00
Liquor.....100	5.50

So that if the $2,000,000,000 now spent for drink were expended for the necessities of life, instead of receiving, as he does now, about $100,000,000, the farmer would receive as his proportion:

Money Spent	To Farmers.
Clothing.....$2,000,000,000	$490,000,000
Boots and shoes.....2,000,000,000	610,000,000
Woolen goods.....2,000,000,000	872,000,000
Cotton goods.....2,000,000,000	845,000,000
Leather.....2,000,000,000	1,240,000,000
Flour.....2,000,000,000	1,230,000,000
Meat.....2,000,000,000	1,260,000,000
Liquor.....2,000,000,000	110,000,000

NO ALCOHOLIC INSANITY IN RUSSIA.

A Russian medical journal, Russkij Vrak, published at Petrograd, in a recent article on the degenerated mental conditions resulting from the war, claims that in the present campaign, the amount of psychoses (mental disturbances) is comparatively small, about one per thousand, while in previous wars the rate was two or three per thousand. "The main cause of the decreased rate is the total absence of alcoholism," says the Russian paper. "In the present campaign there has not occurred a single case of alcoholic insanity."

"They talk of 'personal liberty.' There is no such thing. You can't reconstruct your house, or do hosts of other important things, without getting permission. And you can't get permission to do anything inimical to the public welfare—except to drink liquor. There were only two persons on earth who ever had absolute personal liberty—Adam, before Eve came along; and Robinson Crusoe before he met Friday."

Parentheses and Brackets.
Know all writers, composers and proofreaders by these presents: Marks of parenthesis (which are frequently required) are not to be confounded with brackets (Hear! Hear!), which serve a different purpose. The use of one or the other (vide almost any newspaper page) is extremely sloppy (if you know what we mean), and exhibits lack of familiarity with, or indifference to, the technique of writing (Applause).—Chicago Tribune.

Buying at Home.
A surgeon in a Western town, engaged to perform an operation of minor character upon a somewhat unsophisticated patient, asked him if he were willing to have only a local anesthetic. "Sure," replied the other, "I believe in patronizing home industry whenever you can."

King David's Militia.
King David organized a national militia, divided into 12 regiments, under their respective officers, each of which was called out for one month in the year. At the head of the army when in active service he appointed a commander in chief.

A CHIEF IS AMONG YE TAKING NOTES AND FAITH, "HE'LL PRENT 'EM"—SO SAYS SAUNTERER.

"The Alien"
When I survey this righteous war,
And all the things we're fighting for,
There is one thing that I abhor,
Which lately I've been noting:
I must confess I was surprised
When all the country was apprised
How many men not naturalized,
Lived with us and were voting.

The low-browed Wop from o'er the sea,
Enjoying peace and liberty,
Who shirks this battle ought to be Disgraced beyond redemption;
If he had sense he would be glad
To line up with the cheerful lad
From Tampa and from Trinidad,
Who does not claim exemption.

In this big content we are in,
The Wop, the Hunkie, and the Finn
Should back us up and help us win,
And save our common bacon.
For no one but Jehovah knows,
The dreadful brood of human woes
That flourish where the Kaiser goes
About his kingdom makin'.

When Uncle Sammy takes our boys
Away from work and homely joys
To train along the Aisne and Oise,
And into soldiers turn 'em;
A million husky, alien slob,
Composed of Chinks, and Turks and Swabs,

Will scramble back to take their jobs,
And cop their pay, dad burn 'em!

The man from Cuba and Peru,
Who's lived here all these decades
through,
And hesitates his bit to do,
To him there should be given
The choice of helping man the ship,
Or packing up his little grip,
And homeward starting on a trip;
That's how I think, be Hiven!

—Arcadia-Enterprise.

While we bow to the will of God
When He takes a loved one from us I cannot refrain from thinking that death seems to take the good ones from Sanford and leave so many that could be spared without a quail. Where we have so few good ones such a loss as that of C. R.
Walker leaves a void that will be hard to fill. It is not left for me to judge and God knows best and doeth
all things for the best and maybe it is wrong for me to complain but the death of my dear old friend leaves me feeling badly today for he was one of our real progressive citizens in every sense of the word and it seems hard to give him up.

I am glad to see so many people
taking to the idea of the commission form of government for Sanford. We can have three commissioners and a city manager which is the plan being followed by many cities with good results. We must have the commission form of government if we are to have the city of our dreams and now is the time to get it. I will have more to say about this plan next week.

Orlando wanting our Board of Trade secretary makes me think that we should wake up to the fact that we have a real Board of Trade and a real secretary and we should cherish both of them. While we have many active members we have many inactive members and many who are not members at all. How any business man in Sanford can remain outside of the Board of Trade and expect the other fellow to boost his town for him is beyond me. But then there are some folks here that are beyond the comprehension of mere men anyhow and their case is absolutely hopeless.

"Germany's shell will be cracked
this fall by continued allied hammering along the whole western front, or the war will go another year and a half—until the summer
of 1918."

This is the prediction of a high navy official in close touch with plans for one tremendous effort to crush Germany this fall.

America, unable to help with many men as yet, will back up the English, French and Italian armies with vast stocks of munitions for the next three months.

His reason why victory must come
this fall or not until 1918 is:

England, France and Italy are at the peak of their strength. After this summer's campaign, their armies will diminish rather than increase.

If, with all our support in supplies the allies cannot beat down
German resistance this fall it is plain they, of themselves, will never be able to beat it down.

That means there is little likelihood of success until the United States can place her full strength on the battlefield—not before the spring
of 1919!

Germany to date, this official states, has lost 3,000,000 men, killed and permanently disabled. The loss of another 1,000,000 men, the allies believe, will mark the limit of sacrifice the German people will concede to their warlords.

The problem then is either to break this fall through the German lines and force an entire readjustment of fighting conditions, or slowly to whittle down another 1,000,000
of the Kaiser's men.

God in the Nation's Life
Putting God in the nation's life,
Bringing us back to the ideal
thing—

There's something fine in a creed
like that,
Something true in those words
that ring.

Sneer as you will at the "preacher
air,"

Scold as you will at the Bible tang;
It's putting God in the nation's life
That will keep it clear of the crooked gang.

We've kept Him out of its life too long.

We've been afraid to our utter shame—

To put Him into our speech and song

To stand at the hustings and speak His name.

We've put all things in that life but
Him,

We've put our selfishness, pride
and show;

It is time for the true ideal to come,
And time for the low desire to go.

Putting God in the nation's life,
Helping us think of the higher
thing;

That is the kind of speech to make,
That is the kind of song to sing.

Upward and forward and let us try
The new ideal in the forthright way—

Putting God in the nation's life,
And putting Him there in a style
to stay.

Fined for Selling Cigarettes.
Every now and then complaints have been filed with the mayor and council that minors in St. Cloud were obtaining and smoking cigarettes in violation of both the city and state laws. Mayor Shambow several weeks ago determined to stop this practice, and advised the last delegation that called on him in regard to the matter that whenever evidence was produced showing any business man in St. Cloud has violated these laws he would give them
the proper fine.

Monday the marshal reported that a youngster was caught smoking cigarettes, and when asked where he obtained the "cotton nails" gave the marshal the name of the dealer.
When this was placed before the mayor a warrant was issued and within a few minutes the offenders
and witnesses were in the city court.
Pleading guilty to selling to the youth C. V. Jenney was fined $1
and costs, it being his first offense.
Mr. Kenney promptly paid his fine and stated that he would stop handling cigarettes altogether.

Tuesday Rev. W. F. Kenney, father of C. V. Kenney appeared before the council to ascertain by what law his son was fined and being informed that the law said "minors,"
which meant any person under 21 years of age, he asked if it was not possible for the council to pass an ordinance prohibiting any person
using or selling cigarettes in the city.
He was advised that the city was working under an ordinance in compliance with a state law, and left with an expression that he hoped
"everybody would be prohibited from using cigarettes."—St. Cloud Tribune.

PUBLICITY PULLS PROGRESS

"PRODUCING NOT PROMOTING" BOARD OF TRADE RESULTS
(BY THE SECRETARY)

We wish to thank the several ladies and gentlemen for their kind written expressions of the Board of Trade work. We appreciate sincerely
the fact that they think enough of the progressiveness of their town and this organization to take time to write about it. With such people, it must go ahead, it is compelled to. These letters are deeply appreciated and if you feel interested write and say so along with your letter suggest the things
you want to see accomplished.

"A community without cooperation is like a boatman who has lost his oar. You can't imagine a more helpless case. Unable to get anywhere, there is no course but to drift
with the ebb and flow of circumstances. Once lost, it is hard, indeed to recover the oar. But surely,
we don't have to get into this dangerous plight. It's our fault if we do. Cooperation, like rowing a boat, must be studied and learned.
And we can only learn it through practice. The practiced oarsman never lets go of the oar. And if we would keep from drifting we must practice cooperation. Let's get into practice and keep in practice. Let us pull together in everything that means progress for our home town. It's a case of sink or swim together."—Tampa Tribune.

B. H. Vogle of Tampa and Joshua Mickle of Bridgeton, N. J., were Board of Trade visitors yesterday.
Both are traveling men and both remark at the steady substantial improvement now going on in Sanford.

The old saying—Sanford is dormant is fast passing into the shadows. Most of us have learned that we are the dormants, not the town.
The town is what its people make it.
So it is with a government, a race or a creed. The foundation is there,
the opportunity, but the trouble lies solely in our failure to grasp them
and we make things dormant because of our inattention to the God given circumstances, privileges and resources that surround us. Sanford and Seminole county is truly a diamond in the rough. Asleep in nature's arms, she only waits the touch of progressiveness to awake and stretch into a great civic, social and financial success. It's up to us as citizens collectively to pull the latch string that for years has been hanging out.

Inevitable death has touched heavily the ranks of Sanford's progressive Christian ranks and claimed for its own—but only for the passing moment, a citizen we can ill afford to lose. That citizen, Mr. C. R.
Walker, needs no eulogy—his life was that, his every act. At the vice president of the Sanford Board of Trade he will be sorely missed and in every fibre of the organization's being his going leaves a profound feeling of irretrievable loss, surely he left a vacant place, hard indeed to fill. This expression covers his life work generally and will appeal to every individual who knew him. His righteous life, however, can but continue to breathe and scatter impulses of right that all will profit to accept and strive to exemplify.

Already the tourists are sending
in their letters telling of their return to Sanford. Fifteen have written the Board of Trade in the past two weeks and the majority state that they expect to put in from two weeks to a month in Sanford this season. We will be able to accommodate them.

In the past few days the following out of state visitors have called at the Board of Trade office for more data concerning Seminole county and Sanford: Willis King, Mobile, W. R. DeVant, Montreal, L. W.
Zoucks, Niagara Falls, P. W. Cannon, Buffalo, I. M. Stanley, Richmond, Va., Chas. K. Preston, Omaha, Frank Brown, Nashville, Vance
C. Crowley, Key-West, Mr. and Mrs.
Geo. W. Davis, New York.

Out of one hundred and fifty letters addressed by the Board of Trade to last season's visitors, more than sixty have replied favorably to coming to Sanford again. That spare room, that housekeeping apartment
you have for rent will find a profitable tenant before long.

The Board of Trade takes no issue religiously or politically unless one or the other stands in the way of upright progressiveness, then a stand is taken and the wrong must be righted, not a wrong but the error.

We wish to acknowledge payment of dues from the following members to January 1st, 1918 and to thank them sincerely: Mayor J. D. Davison, L. P. Hagan, county commissioner, Harry Haynes (new member),
W. M. Bothamly, re-instatement,
Geo. Nicolopolus, Jno. D. Jenkins,
tax collector, A. B. Commons, R. C.
Bower, B. F. Whitner, F. P. Forster,
A. D. Key, Dr. J. T. Denton.

Bear this in mind, your membership fee is used solely to advertise Seminole county and Sanford. You can't loose. Figure it out for yourself.

If you haven't already done so,
won't you send a check for your dues today?

Interesting Gossip About Old Time Bidding Stars.

WHAT THE CRITICS SAID

One Outlined That Willie Keeler Looked Too Light For Fast Company—Another Said That Outfielder Billy Sam-day Intended to Open Billiard Room
When He Quit Baseball.

Going back about twenty-five years
an eastern sport writer recently dug up some baseball gems of the past that in the light of history are of unusual interest. Items which were let-tled down as idle gossip, to be forgotten
the next day, make more interesting reading today than accounts of modern punching duels or slugger matches.
He found that:

Amos Emile was winding regularly
for the Giants.

Ed McInnes, Cincinnati's second
baseball, still plays without a glove.
Baltimore critics say that Third Baseman Muggsy McGraw has made good and will cover the position regularly.

Brooklyn has offered Center Fielder
Mike Griffin to Cleveland for Jimmy McKeever, but Pat Tebeau will not consider the offer.

Baseball is growing. Nearly 15,000
were at the Polo Grounds when Amos Emile's first out Boston. Extra ticket windows were opened.

A critic predicts that Cy Young, the yearling phenom of the Cleveland team,
will not last two more seasons
because he is carving himself to death.
There is much wisdom in this assertion.

Pop Adams is almost thirty-five years old, but he can still hit. The big fellow ragged Theodore Frobenius for two singles, a double and a triple in the recent series.

Manager Bill McGloskey of the Louisville team has issued a denial that he was going to sign a certain college pitcher on the line of an eastern university. Bill says he has no time to bother with the "rah, rah" boys, and everybody agrees with him.

Charles Nichols of the Boston team
is a wonderful pitcher, but few fans think he is worth $2,500 a season. This is the salary he held up Boston for.

Connie Mack is catching regularly for the Pittsburgh team now. This tall chap has a good whip, but does not seem to be much of a general behind the plate. Manager Al Bucken-berger is working hard to make a thinking ball player out of him.

It is reported that the Phillies are going to let out Lave Cross, who no doubt will go to the minors.

Baltimore is trying out a new right fielder named Kreder. He was played with Brooklyn. He looks too light for fast company.

Chicago has offered $4,000 for Al Sol-back, the star outfielder of the Washington team. This was a tempting offer, but Washington decided to keep him.

Chris von der Ahe says that his catchers have discovered Ed Debeaux's weakness.

Outfielder Ed Sunday says he will open a pool and billiard room when he is through with baseball.

Tommy, the big pitcher of the Chicago team, has quit baseball. Foolish move when he could have picked up from $1,500 to $2,000 of easy money for several more years to come.

Pitcher Hank O'Day of the Washington team complains that he is getting a raw deal from the umpires.
What Hank thinks of umpires would not look fit in print.

Sam Johnson, sporting editor of the Cincinnati Commercial Gazette, writes that the collapse of the brotherhood means that never again will there be any attempt to establish a second major league. Johnson is right.

Members of the Cincinnati team are ticking because of the new rule which prohibits them from drinking at the park bar while in uniform.
First Baseman Charley Combsley is said to be a sucker for a curve high on the inside.

Farmers and Fruit Growers

Items of Interest for the Man Behind the Plow

Save the Best Seed
Abnormally high prices for seed this year, and, in some cases, an actual shortage, were factors in limiting the acreage planted to certain crops, says the University of Florida extension division.

Farmers who can render effective aid to themselves and the Government by saving their best seed as far as practicable. Crops grown from improved selected seed will produce larger yields per acre. This carried out systematically will add two million bushels or more of corn alone to the normal production for 1918.

County and other local agencies can be of material aid to farmers in financing the purchase of seed when necessary either by extending credit or by purchasing in car load lots for local distribution.

Farmers who have a supply of improved acclimated seed should not sell it for other purposes with the expectation of buying seed later. Those having a surplus should advise the county agent, as good seed is always in demand at planting time.

Store the seed carefully so that it will not be damaged by improper storage and protect it from weevils.

The Florida Farmer Leads
With the nation potato bankrupt last spring, Florida was the first state to dump her crop on the hungry market. And it was a valuable contribution to the nation's food supply. She has a chance, because of her favorable location which provides a growing season for ten to twelve months of the year, to keep well to the front in the government's food production campaign. Let the Florida farmer continue to lead.

In directing that leadership, the University of Florida extension division is urging the planting of fall pasture crops in order that the supply of grain for livestock may be conserved. This may be a round-about way of contributing but it will prove effective. For the nation contemplates a greater use of corn and rice for human food so that wheat may be exported to our allies. Meat is a valuable food and before we deprive the animals of any of the nation, we must plant something to take the place of the corn they are now consuming.

All of the corn cannot now be diverted from its common use for feeding livestock to that of feeding humans, but by growing fodder crops which include roots, ensilage, legumes, concentrates and roughage for the animals, the situation can be greatly relieved. It is from this same point of view that the increased use of potatoes is important; the potato, both Irish and sweet, is a partial substitute for wheat in times of need.

If you have a grain crop growing, rice for example, let it mature and save the grain. Save as much of your peanut crop as you can for human food by growing the roughage for the livestock. In south Florida the California black-eyed cowpea can still be planted with a view to its making a crop for food. It is in this way that the Florida farmer can keep the lead in food production by raising roughage for the animals and reducing the grain ration necessary for them under the common method of feeding.

Fertilizer stocks are low and the forecast is one of scarcity and high prices next year. By giving more attention to livestock, growing and feeding the roughage on the farm, the maximum fertility from each crop will be returned to the soil, reducing the demand for commercial fertilizers.

High Education is Needed
"Today, the wisest investment that can be made by a young man, who is not required for national service, is an investment in thorough education. Young people must not allow a temporary high wage to lead from a future of broader success and nobler service," says a prominent educator. "Never before has the world stood in greater need of men trained in agriculture, engineering and science. And at the close of this horrible and destructive war civilization must be rebuilt. Then the need of training and the opportunities for the well trained will be even greater. Schools and colleges must work harder and faster than ever, and they ought to be filled as they never have been."

The University of Florida through its courses of agriculture offers courses to fit the young men of the state to become farmers. And to be a farmer means more than to be a man able to plant a crop and reap what Nature unaided will produce. By putting into practice what is learned at the college, much wasted energy will be eliminated, crops will be better planted and tilled, production will be increased, livestock will be found profitable, and withal, the natural fertility of the farm will be conserved. It is a study worthy of all the time that can be given to it, and the reward is certain.

Full information concerning any course offered may be had by addressing the University of Florida, Gainesville.

Conserve Farm Labor
"Because so many men have been taken out of the state to join the nation's armed forces, and many more have gone to work in the munitions plants, the supply of labor in Florida has been depleted. With men going from the farms to fill the vacancies in the cities, the farmer is facing an unusual labor situation," says Director P. R. Rolfs of the University of Florida experiment station. "And there is no great relief in sight, the conditions might become more serious," he adds.

Mr. Rolfs bases his statement on a knowledge of the situation within the state. A labor census has been taken and there is no surplus farm help to be had. Each farmer will have to do the best he can to retain what help he now has and in looking for more may find it necessary to offer steady employment at an increased price. How much labor prices will advance cannot be forecast, but cotton pickers' wages have more than doubled in some parts of the south.

About the only relief in sight for the farmer is to buy improved farming implements and machinery so that he can do more work with less man labor. And when he starts out to do that he will find all machinery has advanced in price and some of it is hard to get at any price. Yet conditions are not likely to improve by waiting, and since the farmer will find it necessary sooner or later he should get it now while it can be had.

"While the conditions in Florida are not as bad as in our sister states, says Mr. Rolfs, we have every reason to believe that we will soon have a still greater labor stringency. The forehanded farmer will do what he can to meet the situation by beginning early."

RED CROSS PLANS RESEARCH

Will Take Advantage of Extraordinary Opportunity in France.

Announcement is made by the American Red Cross that its war council has appropriated $100,000 for medical research work in France. This action follows a report from Major Grayson M. P. Murphy, Red Cross commissioner to Europe, who cabled from Paris to the national headquarters at Washington:

"An extraordinary opportunity presents itself here for medical research work. We have serving with various American units some of the ablest doctors and surgeons in the United States. Many of these men are conducting courses of investigation which, if carried to successful conclusions, will result in the discovery of treatments and methods of operation which will be of great use not only in this war but possibly for years afterward. To carry on their work they need certain special laboratory equipment, suitable buildings and animals for experimental purposes. At present equipment and personnel cannot be obtained through ordinary government sources without delay, which makes this source of supply quite impracticable."

Treaty of Ghent

The treaty of Ghent was one between the United States and Great Britain which ended the war of 1812. It was concluded December 24, 1814, and ratified early in 1815. It provided for the restoration of captured territory, property and records; for the release of prisoners of war; for the establishment of a boundary line between the United States and Canada, and other matters.

Sufferings of Rich

"The poor are often overworked, but they suffer less than many among the rich, who have no work to do, no interesting object to fill up life and to mitigate the idle hours of man for action."—William Ellery Channing.

TO DIE BY POISON IF TAKEN BY FOES

Russian Women Soldiers Carry Cyanide Dose For Quick Use.

TELL OF THE FIRST FIGHT

One Girl From a Wealthy Family Describes How She Stabbed and Killed a German—Number of Women in All Armies on Eastern Front is Believed to Be Growing Steadily.

Russia's women soldiers have pledged themselves to take their own lives rather than become German war prisoners. Each woman soldier carries a ration of cyanide of potassium, to be swallowed in case of capture.

The members of the women regiments, now constantly increasing, agreed that death was to be preferred to the fate they would probably meet at the hands of the Germans.

The "Legion of Death" fighters are "good killers." From a woman's lips a correspondent heard how she had run a German through with her bayonet, firing the rifle at the same time. From others he heard how these women and girls, fresh from comfortable homes and universities, went leaping over mangled bodies in the charge, with enemy shells bursting all about them.

To See It Through

But these harrowing experiences of the women fighters have steeled them and hundreds of other girls to a new determination to see it through. Girl soldiers drilling in the streets are now a common sight in Petrograd. Huge crowds gather daily about the engineers' school, where 1,000 girls are drilling preparing to go to the front. In Moscow 1,000 men are training, while Kiev and Odessa have smaller bands. Premier Kerensky has also authorized the formation of women marine detachments and has promised to assign them to ships. The new women commands attempt no sort of decoration. Their heads are shaved, and they wear the regulation uniform, including the heavy, ugly army boots.

The five women fighters at the hospital were partially paralyzed by shell shock. One of them, a peasant girl, smiled joyously as she pointed to a German helmet on the bed beside her. It was the first war prize of a Russian woman.

"It Was His Life or Mine."

"I saw a German in front of me as I ran forward with the others in the charge," she said. "It was his life or mine. I raised my rifle. I plunged with all my strength. I stabbed him. The bayonet went deep into his body. At the same moment I pulled the trigger. He dropped dead. Then I took his hat as a souvenir."

The girl soldier smiled with delight. "What was the battle like?" another of the legionnaires was asked.

"I was very nervous just before the charge," she replied. "We knew the order was coming, and naturally we were just a little scared. But as soon as the orders to go forward came we forgot everything else in the advance."

"I could bear our girls yelling and shouting throughout the march forward. None of us were afraid once we got started. We were in the midst of a great fusillade of shots. Then terrific big shells began breaking all around us."

Stories of the Fight

"We were again frightened a little when we first saw dead men about, but before very long we were jumping over the dead and quickly forgot all about them."

"We couldn't tell what was going on anywhere," said a third girl in describing the final stages of the battle. "Commander Bochkoreva was everywhere, urging us to fight and die like real Russian soldiers."

Then the girl told how the legion took its first prisoners. "As we ran forward we suddenly came upon a bunch of Germans immediately ahead of us. It was only a second until we were all around them."

Germans Surprised

"They saw they were caught and threw down their rifles, holding up their hands. They were terribly frightened."

"Good God! Women!" they exclaimed.

"We saw wounded German soldiers raising themselves on their elbows and shooting," interjected another wounded girl. "We just forgot ourselves entirely. We were simply Russia, fighting for her life."

"The loss of Lena, the most popular member of our company, was keenly felt by all of us," she added soberly. "During the battle Lena heard that Commander Bochkoreva had been killed. She hurried forward into the shell fire, saying she was going to find her. We saw her go through one space literally strewn with exploding shells then through the smoke and flames we saw her blown to fragments."

"We also lost Boris. She used to be a musician with the Romanoff concert organization. She was killed by machine gun fire."

Five of the German prisoners the girls captured were women, wearing the German soldier's uniform.

The number of women in all armies on the eastern front is believed to be growing steadily.

PROHIBITION'S RECORD IN DENVER.

When Kansas City, Mo., was considering whether or not it should vote itself dry—which it did in November by a handsome majority—the Kansas City Star sent a reporter to Denver to investigate the effect of a prohibitory law upon that city of a quarter of a million inhabitants. Here are some of the things he reported:

"The grass crop which it was predicted would flourish in the streets of dry Denver has been a total failure.

"Bank deposits have come up nearly $7,000,000, about an average of a million a month since prohibition came.

"Business houses report collections better than ever before in the history of the city.

"Banks report a large increase in the number of savings accounts.

"Crime has shown a big falling off and drunkenness has fallen off more than 60 per cent.

"The courts show a marked decrease in divorce cases.

"The laundries report a big increase in business, showing that families that used to have to do their own washing now send it to the laundry. One laundry has 400 new patrons.

"The number of persons in the state penitentiary has decreased to such an extent that the warden closed one of the cell houses.

"The number of prisoners in the county jail has fallen off nearly one-half.

"The storerooms formerly occupied by saloons are rapidly filling up with other kinds of business."

Sanford, with Holly, Haynes and Mariows behind the push is coming to that position of importance and influence it enjoyed before the devastating freeze of twenty three years ago when the name of that municipality was synonymous with all that was progressive and prosperous in the state. This triumvirate entertained visiting business bugs of the Florida press last week, and it is true that we were among the guests, and prone to express appreciation, but our very appreciation indicates the spirit which makes men and towns grow.—Howey Tribune.

Eggs are forty cents per dozen in Arcadia. One man can raise enough Epyofian wheat, with the aid of a good Bermuda grass pasture, to feed 2,500 hens a year. That number of hens should produce at the lowest calculation, twelve dozen eggs each per year, which at 25 cents per dozen would bring him $7,500.00. He ought to realize enough money out of the male chickens he can raise and the fertilizer he can produce to pay the running expenses of his ranch and leave his egg money clear, profit. Yet we know some people who have plenty of land for a chicken ranch who are looking for fifty dollar a month jobs in the shade.—Arcadia Enterprise.

SELLING CIGARETTES
The law says that no minor shall be sold cigarettes and a minor is a person under twenty one years of age, and yet you can see minors every day on the streets of Sanford smoking cigarettes. They should be arrested and made to tell where they obtained the cigarettes and the dealer punished by a heavy fine. While there is a big noise being made against whiskey we are allowing the cigarette habit to be fastened upon our boys and the cigarette is more deadly than whiskey.

PERIL OF STAYING AT HOME
While there is so much talk about the dangers of death and injury in going abroad to fight for the country, it is interesting to note the report of an accident insurance company for one month, remembering that the accidents noted are limited strictly to that company's policy-holders and, therefore, covering only a small percentage of the total population. This report, according to the Tampa Tribune, shows that staying at home is perilous—perhaps not quite so perilous as fighting in Europe, but, at any rate, sufficiently as to draw an interesting comparison. According to this report nineteen men fell downstairs at home and were injured; ten slipped on floors and were hurt; seventy-nine sprained their ankles; three slipped in bath tubs and one died from that hurt; three were injured getting out of bed; seventy were hurt while at play; three were hurt while dressing and thirty-seven were hurt while working about the house.

One of these cases was that of a soldier who had been through some of the fiercest engagements in France entirely uninjured, and, while at home on a furlough, fell downstairs and was seriously injured. All of which recalls the story of the sailor whose ship was coming about in a great storm and who remarked: "God pity the poor people on shore tonight, with this hard wind blowing!"

JOE REESE RETIRES
Joe Hugh Reese, editor of the Orlando Reporter-Star announces the sale of his interest in that paper to his brothers-in-law, the Brosiere brothers and his retirement from the newspaper field. The announcement does not state just what the plans of Joe will be for the future but his many friends throughout the south hope he is not giving up the newspaper game for no better man occupies the editorial chair upon any paper than J. H. Reese. Sometimes an editor becomes tired enough to quit but they usually return after a vacation and Joe will never lack a position if he wishes to occupy one. Here's hoping that his retirement is only temporary and that he will decide to remain "somewhere in Florida."

THE TIME FOR HARD WORK
Palatka and Arcadia have given up their boards of trade. It may not be cause for wonder that such a step was taken, for it is difficult to keep public work of this kind going, even in towns of the size of Orlando, and this city has the advantage of Palatka and Arcadia by several thousand population. It would have been better for the towns in question if they had kept their organizations alive, though only half a dozen members constituted their bodies, than to have it go out to the world that their boards of trade had disbanded.

In every town there are those who light to make light of the board of trade. They refer to its work with sneers, and generally those who take interest enough in the board to attend the meetings and engage in its work are rewarded only with such remarks. Those who criticize seem to forget that board of trade work is public work, and that those who do it give up their time and whatever energy or enthusiasm they put into it without compensation. All in all it is a thankless job, and one which the average man tires of quickly. The little glory attached to it is not sufficient to make up for the hard knocks one gets who goes into it heart and soul, and with unselfish motives. Yet when the board of trade dies there goes up a howl, and it is not unlikely that some of those who make the loudest protest have done the least to keep it alive.

The time has come, however, when a town without a board of trade is no longer considered a live one. Palatka and Arcadia had better get busy and recognize their commercial bodies.—Reporter-Staff.

THE BOARD OF CONTROL
The Herald made the statement some time ago that as chairman of the new Board of Control Joe Earman would be for the best interests of the people and we are still of that opinion. After months of silence and attacks from the press the chairman gave out some intimation of the future policy of the board of control and the closing paragraph gives the public a good idea of the personnel of the board and the aims of the chairman. This is the paragraph: "There is wisdom in being thankful at the beginning of your undertaking—thus underwriting your gratitude—for you can never tell. Let us therefore now give thanks that the new board is composed of just the common run of men, not made up of too much learning nor fettered by customs and traditions, but by contact with their fellows able to see things as they are, with minds open to any lesson that may lighten the load they are called on to prepare. There is one thing that the board of control could do, which would be all it need EVER do, for after the start was made for it would simply be a question of keeping on, to bring the university, college and the negro industrial school to their greatest usefulness. Let the board extend the university extension division, now operating in agriculture to all lines of human interest. That's all. Simple, isn't it? But, like most simple things it carries a great principle—the one of service. University extension work means taking the education to the people

Instead of bringing the people to the education. All these great teachers named at the beginning of this writing did this very thing. That is why it is so easy to remember them and so hard to remember who is or ever was professor of this, that or the other—anywhere. Try it. The idea is as old as teaching itself, and now the universities are putting it on as fast as possible. The university of Wisconsin leading, Yale, Harvard, Columbia, Chicago, Stamford and nearly all the rest are broadening their extension work every year as far as they can get funds to do it. It's a great plan. It is the ONLY plan to make public education reach enough people fast enough to keep up with the death rate."

C. R. WALKER
Sanford today mourns the loss of one of her best citizens and yet as one of his closest friends the editor of The Herald knows that Charlie Walker is in the farthest realms above with that same sweet smile, with that same Christian fortitude and with the broad and optimistic spirit that made him the man among men in his earthly home. "There is no death! What seems so is transition. This life of mortal breath is but a suburb of the life Elysian, Whose portal we call death." Paul speaks of those "who through fear of death were all their lifetime subject to bondage."

To one who has lived an honest, true and upright life there is no need to dread death as an enemy, though it is but natural to feel a shrinkage at the thought of the plunge into that mysterious realm which lies just beyond our vision from which no one has ever returned with a description. The attempt at such a word picture in the marvelous Revelation of St. John shows that it is something impossible to be put into comprehensible language—as impossible as to explain the wonders of science to an infant. We walk by faith, not by sight" is the present word; but equally does this appear necessary applied to that which to us is now invisible and intangible. "So live that when thy summons comes "Thou go." sustained and soothed by an unflattering trust—as one who wraps the drapery of his couch about him and lies down to pleasant dreams."

"The path of the just is as the shining light that shines more and more unto the perfect day." Sometimes the departure from earthly life of a righteous man or woman is of such a triumphant nature as to make us feel that the change can be but a short walk through the "valley of the shadow" with hand held in that of the Master; to emerge into the light of the "perfect day" on the other side. We have God's assurance that He will do what is right and just by us, now and always; and it is for us to take our stand on His promises firm and immovable as the foundations of eternity, "and having done all, to stand." The entire trend of the Bible teaching declares that everything is perfect in the world just behind the veil which the All-Wise One has hung between here and there, and that it will be found to be without handicaps or limitations of any character. "Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man the things which God hath prepared for them that love Him!"

TRUTH DRIVEN HOME
From the able pen of Richard H. Edmonds, the brilliant editor of the Manufacturers Record, published in Baltimore, Md., comes a plain setting forth of facts with regard to Prussian brutality and the appeal made to American chivalry by the suffering and sorrow caused through the on-rush of the Huns into peaceful territory. The ruthless methods of the Teutons have brought dishonor upon their nation and the other nations allied with them, and the attitude of those who will fight the terrible wrongs perpetrated is defined by Mr. Edmonds in his article under the caption, "To the Womanhood of the World—A Message From America." The protection and defense of the women abroad means the safety of the women at home, as Mr. Edmonds states in the following: "Even a craven coward would be touched with the power of bravery sufficient to risk his life should he see a brute attacking a woman or a child. In that hour, however much of a craven and coward he might have been in the past, every latent spark of the divine in him would flash forth as a burning flame to scorch unto death the brute who sought to vent his brutality on a woman. Sacred above all else this side of Heaven is the safety of woman and of the innocent prattling babe, into whose eyes we gaze as into Heaven itself.

LABOR DAY'S WAR WARNING
By a coincidence Labor Day and the estrangement of the first contingent of the new national army fall in the same week. This is emphasized the intimate relationship of American labor to the great war into which this nation has been plunged. Labor, the bulwark of a nation at peace is the source of a nation's protection in war. When a country prepares itself for a great military conflict it must first turn its thought to the conditions of the means of production. It must see that the labor power of the nation is organized to produce at an increased rate the necessities first for successfully carrying on the conflict, and second for the ordinary requirements of domestic life. This means that the ordinary rate of production must be increased. To do this more laborers are required. Portions of the population not productive in peace times must be employed on the farms and in the factories. More than this, the country looks for increased effort and efficiency from every laborer. Labor Day all over this country will be celebrated, as it properly should be, with parades, with speeches and with sports. America should once more show its pride in its laboring classes, cheering the carpenters, shipwrights, electricians, miners and mechanics as they march down the streets of the cities of the land. But it is sincerely to be hoped that the spirit of the day will be turned this year as never before to full cooperation with the government in this time of stress and storm. Petty jealousies and ambitions should be shelved for the time in uniting the force of this country for the great efforts to which it has been committed. This is a democratic government. The rulers whom the people have selected have determined that the course of the nation shall be war. Thus to war should every citizen be bent.

OUR SCHOOLS
The schools have opened and this is the time to give this great movement for education our assistance and endorsement and best wishes. As the children make the start on the first day of school year we should encourage the pupils and teachers alike in making a good start. Sanford has long borne the reputation of having one of the best school systems in the state and with our new buildings and equipment there is no reason why Sanford should not be in the front ranks of educational institutions of Florida. We are starting off this year under most favorable circumstances and every one can help with encouragement and good will and the desire to make this the banner year of our schools. We are a firm believer of education. We believe in the erection of buildings that will not only afford the necessary opportunities for instruction, but that will be strictly modern in sanitary measures. We believe in employing the best of instructors for the guidance of our children in their schoolhood days and we believe in the election of trustees who will give their best thought and energy to this end. The right kind of a school board will employ the right kind of teachers and they in their turn will produce from our unlettered youth the intellectual minds of the future. Let us conserve the interests of our public schools of today for the instruction and control of our children in their young days will bespeak their standing, efficiency and success in the later years of life. If there is one single thing that can be done to improve educational conditions locally that thing should be done promptly, cheerfully and without quibble. Half measures today will not make whole men and women of tomorrow.

REtribution.
There was a youth in our town who posed as quite a wit, and when a question he was asked, he always answered, "NIL." One day he met his Waterloo in a maiden dressed in pink; he asked if she would marry him—she answered, "I don't think?"

NO LOSS TO LABOR THROUGH A DRY NATION.
Mr. Charles Stejale, the well-known social worker, a machinist by trade, is an acknowledged authority on industrial conditions, especially as related to the liquor question. His investigations show the weakness of the liquor interests' claim that prohibition would work injury to labor. He says: "If the same amount of capital that is now invested in the liquor industry were transferred to legitimate business enterprises, the number of workers employed, the sum of wages paid, and the amount of materials required would be increased fourfold. So that even though three-quarters of the total capital invested in the liquor business were destroyed the workingman, as such, would be just as prosperous. "It must not be assumed, however, that were the liquor business abolished every dollar now invested in it would be lost; as the liquor men themselves now declare. Land values would remain the same, and most of the buildings and much of the machinery could be utilized for other kinds of industries without serious depreciation in value. We are, however, concerned primarily with the great mass of workingmen who would be affected. Let us take five leading industries in the United States—namely, textiles and their finished products; iron and steel and their products; lumber and its manufactures; paper and printing—and compare them with the liquor business (including the malting industry), with reference to the number of wage-earners employed, capital invested and wages paid: "For every $1,000,000 invested in each of these industries the following number of wage-earners are employed: Liquor, 77; iron, 284; paper, 307; leather, 400; textiles, 678; lumber, 670. These figures prove that the iron industry employs nearly four times as many, paper and printing five times as many, leather six times as many, textiles seven and one-half times as many and lumber seven and one-half times as many workers for every $1,000,000 invested as does the liquor industry. "What is the ratio of wages paid the workers to the amount of capital invested in this business as compared with each of the industries noted above? Here are the figures: Liquor, 5.6 per cent.; iron, 17.6 per cent.; paper, 21.3 per cent.; leather 23.5 per cent.; textiles, 23.0 per cent.; lumber, 27.1 per cent. A quick glance at these figures shows how comparatively little the laboring man gets out of the liquor business."

A PERTINENT RETORT.
A Pittsburgh paragrapher wrote and printed this: "Has a working girl who pays $20 for a pair of shoes got sense enough to vote?" A correspondent signing himself "A Working Man" sent to the paragrapher the following with a challenge to print it as his own: "Has a workman with a family to support who pays $20 for whiskey got sense enough to vote?" It was printed with due explanation and an apology for the first paragraph.

No intoxicants are allowed the 800 midshipmen in training at Annapolis. If drink is bad for Uncle Sam's navy boys, why is it not bad for every mother's boy in the country? VAN SWEARINGEN ATT'Y GEN'L Offered the Place by Governor Catts Tallahassee, Sept. 1.—After midnight tonight and until some time next Tuesday, Florida will be without an attorney general. Judge Thomas F. West this afternoon signed necessary oath before Secretary of State Crawford, and became a member of the supreme court of Florida. The governor cannot commission a successor to Mr. West as attorney general without being in Tallahassee, and it was announced by Private Secretary J. N. Burke this afternoon that the governor would not return to the capital till Monday night.

If Van C. Swearingen of Jacksonville who, it is rumored, has been offered the position, accepts, as his friends here expect he will, he will probably come to Tallahassee immediately and establish himself in the office to become familiar with the work, etc., acting the while as ex officio attorney general. No one here remembers when a cabinet office has been vacant as long as this one will be.

President Urges Bible Reading The New Testament which the Scripture Gift Mission has prepared for our soldiers at the front opens with a message from President Wilson. The society, which has distributed about 20,000,000 Testaments and Gospel portions among the Soldiers of Europe so far in the struggle, now issues an edition of 27,000 for the American boys. Bales and inspiration and comfort the men are assured they will draw much else from reading the Bible. This is the President's admonition: "The Bible is the Word of Life. I beg that you will read it and find this out for yourselves—read, not little snatches here and there, but long passages that will really be the road to the heart of it.

"You will not only find it full of real men and women, but also of things you have wondered about and been troubled about all your life, as men have been always, and the more you read the more it will become plain to you what things are worth while and what are not; what things make men happy—loyalty, right dealings, speaking the truth, readiness to give everything for what they think their duty, and most of all the wish that they may have the real approval of the Christ, who gave everything for them; and the things that are guaranteed to make men unhappy—selfishness, cowardice, greed, and everything that is low and mean.

"When you have read the Bible you will know that it is the Word of God, because you will have found in it the key to your own heart, your own happiness and your own duty." Woodrow Wilson.

SMUGGLERS BUSY ON DUTCH BORDER

Frontier Guards Find It Impossible to Prevent It.

MUCH INGENUITY SHOWN

One Man Wrapped Himself With Layers of Bacon—Women Had Their Hats Filled With Sausages—Children Get Much Food For Themselves, but Also Give Away Information.

There was a jubilee feast at a little town on the border between Holland and Germany the other day. A woman gave it. She invited large numbers of her friends and neighbors and all toasted and applauded her. What was the reason for the jubilee? you ask. She had just smuggled her forthright packages across the border into Germany.

Strange events such as this occur daily in Holland. Smuggling is rife. So general has it become that "fear neither of the law nor of the church can stop many persons living on the border from taking advantage of the need for supplies in Germany. Even men who have been selected to put an end to it take a hand in it themselves, and sometimes even the military men who are sent to re-enforce the civilian customs officers cannot resist the temptation of making extra gains that often amount to $35 and $40 a week.

In the frontier districts no stigma attaches to fines or imprisonment imposed for smuggling. Public opinion in the districts farther inland expresses itself as concerned for the morality of the frontier dwellers.

Appeal Made to Churches. The churches have been appealed to, to assist in suppressing smuggling. The Netherlands Reformed church in one town answered the appeal by taking a severe attitude toward the smugglers. It threatened to keep every confirmed smuggler from the holy communion so long as he or she continued in this trade.

Some of the smugglers—those of the lowest order—are so little used to having money that they don't know how to spend it, and therefore generally do so in a way detrimental to themselves and to the community. Drinking and fighting are the order of the day with them. Often they cannot even get rid of their money quickly enough.

Instances are known in which they literally consumed paper money as sandwiches, spreading it between two slices of bread and butter. Also they have lighted their pipes with 40 or 50 florin bills ($10 to $24). Such men's children often suffer want and fall to the care of the community when the father is down on his luck.

Others provide well for their homes, and pianos, talking machines and other luxuries are now to be found in the most unlikely looking tumbledown cottages, and the women and children are clad like Solomon in all his glory.

The Germans also do a lot of smuggling. Large numbers of them come into Holland to eat, and upon returning home they generally take a little something for their families. The other day a party of German women, all well dressed and wearing large hats, was interviewed in the waiting room of a railway station on the border by Dutch customs officials. The women declared they had nothing with them; they were politely invited to take off their hats, and when assisted in this act by some Dutch women detectives it soon appeared that each lady had under a certain number of sausages as pads over which to do her hair. One even had concealed a whole pound of tea amid the sausage and hair coils.

Bringing Home the Bacon. Another case was that of a polite traveler whose politeness caused him to be suspected. Every stitch of clothing was removed from his person before the contraband was exposed. It was bacon, artistically cut in the very shape of his body and laid on and securely fastened all over it by leather thongs. Much astonished in spite, he was allowed to proceed on his journey, and there was mourning in one German home at least for the loss of this appetizing food.

It has become customary in frontier places for bands of forty or fifty German school boys and girls to come into Holland to get what food they may. It is extremely difficult to get rid of them, for when the Dutch frontier guard takes them back to Germany at one place they slip back at another. The only way to get rid of them is to question them about conditions on their side, and when this has been done for some time the German guard sees to it that they don't return for fear they will give too much information to neutrals or enemies.

Near Maastricht a secret subterranean passage has just again been discovered in St. Peter's mound, which led straight into Belgium. This must have been used for months, and immense quantities must have been smuggled through it. Now it has been blown up by the Dutch military, but as there are some 10,000 passages in St. Peter's it is quite likely some of these may still lead to Belgium and be known to smugglers. The secret passages in former times offered a shelter to Dutch refugees in the Spanish and French wars and to Belgians in this war, so that such a drastic way of closing up the mountains would be deplored by every one.

Sanford, with Holly, Haynes and Marlow behind the push is coming to that position of importance and influence it enjoyed before the devastating freeze of twenty-three years ago when the name of that municipality was synonymous with all that was progressive and prosperous in the state.

Eggs are forty cents per dozen in Arcadia. One man can raise enough Egyptian wheat, with the aid of a good Bermuda grass pasture, to feed 2,500 hens a year.

SELLING CIGARETTES
The law says that no minor shall be sold cigarettes, and a minor is a person under twenty one years of age, and yet you can see minors every day on the streets of Sanford smoking cigarettes.

PERIL OF STAYING AT HOME
While there is so much talk about the dangers of death and injury in going abroad to fight for the country, it is interesting to note the report of an accident insurance company for one month, remembering that the accidents noted are limited strictly to that company's policyholders and, therefore, covering only a small percentage of the total population.

This report, according to the Tampa Tribune, shows that staying at home is perilous—perhaps not quite so perilous as fighting in Europe, but, at any rate, sufficiently so to draw an interesting comparison. According to this report nineteen men fell downstairs at home and were injured; ten slipped on floors and were hurt; seventy-nine sprained their ankles; three slipped in bath tubs and one died from that hurt; three were injured getting out of bed; seventy were hurt while at play; three were hurt while dressing and thirty-seven were hurt while working about the house.

One of these cases was that of a soldier who had been through some of the fiercest engagements in France entirely uninjured, and, while at home on a furlough, fell downstairs and was seriously injured.

All of which recalls the story of the sailor whose ship was toning about in a great storm and who remarked: "God pity the poor people on shore tonight, with this hard wind blowing!"

JOE REESE RETIRES
Joe Hugh Reese, editor of the Orlando Reporter-Star announces the sale of his interest in that paper to his brothers-in-law, the Brosiere brothers and his retirement from the newspaper field. The announcement does not state just what the plans of Joe will be for the future, but his many friends throughout the south hope he is not giving up the newspaper game for a better man occupies the editorial chair upon any paper than J. H. Reese. Sometimes an editor becomes tired enough to quit but they usually return after a vacation and Joe will never lack a position if he wishes to occupy one. Here's hoping that his retirement is only temporary and that he will decide to remain "somewhere in Florida."

THE TIME FOR HARD WORK
Palatka and Arcadia have given up their boards of trade. It may not be cause for wonder that such a step was taken, for it is difficult to keep public work of this kind going, even in towns of the size of Orlando, and this city has the advantage of Palatka and Arcadia by several thousand population. It would have been better for the towns in question if they had kept their organizations alive, though only half a dozen members constituted their bodies, than to have it go out to the world that their boards of trade had disbanded.

In every town there are those who light to make light of the board of trade. They refer to its work with sneers, and generally those who take interest enough in the board to attend the meetings and engage in its work are rewarded only with such remarks. Those who criticize seem to forget that board of trade work is public work, and that those who do it give up their time and whatever energy or enthusiasm they put into it without compensation. All in all it is a thankless job, and one which the average man tires of quickly. The little glory attached to it is not sufficient to make up for the hard knocks one gets who goes into it heart and soul, and with unselfish motives. Yet when the board of trade dies there goes up a howl, and it is not unlikely that some of those who make the loudest protest have done the least to keep it alive.

The time has come, however, when a town without a board of trade is no longer considered a live one. Palatka and Arcadia had better get busy and recognize their commercial bodies.—Reporter-Star.

THE BOARD OF CONTROL.
The Herald made the statement some time ago that as chairman of the new Board of Control Joe Earman would be for the best interests of the people and we are still of that opinion. After months of silence and attacks from the press the chairman gave out some intimation of the future policy of the board of control and the closing paragraph gives the public a good idea of the personnel of the board and the aims of the chairman. This is the paragraph:

"There is wisdom in being thankful at the beginning of your undertaking—thus underwriting your gratitude for you can never tell. Let us therefore now give thanks that the new board is composed of just the common run of men, not made mad by too much learning nor fettered by customs and traditions, but by contact with their fellows able to see things as they are, with minds open to any lesson that may lighten the load they are called on to prepare. There is one thing that the board of control could do, which would be all it need EVER do, for after the start was made for it would simply be a question of keeping on; to bring the university, college and the negro industrial school to their greatest usefulness. Let the board extend the university extension division, now operating in agriculture to all lines of human interest. That's all. Simple, isn't it? But, like most simple things it carries a great principle—the one of service. University extension work means taking the education to the people

instead of bringing the people to the education.

All those great teachers named at the beginning of this writing did this very thing. That is why it is so easy to remember them and so hard to remember who is or ever was professor of this, that or the other—anywhere. Try it. The idea is as old as teaching itself, and now the universities are putting it on as fast as possible. The university of Wisconsin leading, Yale, Harvard, Columbia, Chicago, Stanford and nearly all the rest are broadening their extension work every year as far as they can get funds to do it. It's a great plan. It is the ONLY plan to make public education reach enough people fast enough to keep up with the death rate."

C. R. WALKER
Sanford today mourns the loss of one of her best citizens and yet as one of his closest friends the editor of The Herald knows that Charlie Walker is in the fairer realms above with that same sweet smile, with that same Christian fortitude and with the broad and optimistic spirit that made him the man among men in his earthly home. "There is no death. What seems so is transition. This life of mortal breath is but a suburb of the life Elysian, whose portal we call death." Paul speaks of those "who through fear of death were all their lifetime subject to bondage."

To one who has lived an honest, true and upright life there is no need to dread death as an enemy, though it is but natural to feel a shrinkage at the thought of the plunge into that mysterious realm which lies just beyond our vision from which no one has ever returned with a description.

The attempt at such a word picture in the marvelous Revelatio of St. John shows that it is something impossible to be put into comprehensible language—as impossible as to explain the wonders of science to an infant.

"We walk by faith, not by sight" is the present word; but equally does this appear necessary applied to that which to us is now invisible and intangible.

"So live that when thy summons comes Thou go sustained and soothed by an unflinching trust as one who wraps the drapery of his couch about him and lies down to pleasant dreams."

"The path of the just is as the shining light that shines more and more unto the perfect day."—Some times the departure from earthly life of a righteous man or woman is of such a triumphant nature as to make us feel that the change can be but a short walk through the "valley of the shadow" with hand held in that of the Master, to emerge into the light of the "perfect day" on the other side.

We have God's assurance that He will do what is right and just by us, now and always; and it is for us to take our stand on His promises firm and immovable as the foundations of eternity, "and having done all, to stand."

The entire trend of the Bible teaching declares that everything is perfect in the world just behind the veil which the All-Wise One has hung between here and there, and that it will be found to be without handicaps or limitations of any character.

"Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man the things which God hath prepared for them that love Him!"

A TRUTH DRIVEN HOME
From the able pen of Richard H. Edmonds, the brilliant editor of the Manufacturers' Record, published in Baltimore, Md., comes a plain setting forth of facts with regard to Prussian brutality and the appeal made to American chivalry by the suffering and sorrow caused through the on-rush of the Hun into peaceful territory. The ruthless methods of the Teutons have brought dishonor upon their nation, and the other nations allied with them, and the attitude of those who will right the terrible wrong perpetrated is defined by Mr. Edmonds in his article under the caption, "To the Womanhood of the World—A Pledge From America." The protection and defense of the women abroad means the safety of the women at home, as Mr. Edmonds states in the following:

"Even a craven coward would be touched with the power of bravery sufficient to risk his life should he see a brute attacking a woman or a child. In that hour, however much of a craven and coward he might have been in the past, every latent spark of the divine in him would flash forth as a burning flame, to scorch unto death the brute who sought to vent his bestiality on a woman. Sacred above all else this side of Heaven is the safety of woman and of the innocent prattling babe, into whose eyes we gaze as into Heaven itself.

"Who then can voice the feeling of the brave men of this country who have been held back until now from smiling unto death the vilest nation of criminals who ever polluted the earth with their presence? As Americans have heard the unprintable reports of barbarism to women and children, at which hell itself would shudder, every drop of blood in their veins has been calling with imperious power to the men of this country to rush to the rescue of the women and children of stricken France and Belgium.

"And now the nation has unleashed these men; no longer are they held back by false neutrality.

"As well talk of neutrality to a man seeking to defend his wife or daughter from a brute as to have talked neutrality between the criminals of Germany and the freemen of this country facing their responsibility to the suffering women and babies of France and Belgium. And now, through these men, in whose veins there courses the blood of true manhood and honor, of willingness to die to save a woman, this nation pledges its utmost power to France and Belgium. Moreover, these men know full well that unless the barbarians who have cursed the stricken countries of Europe can be defeated in Europe by America and the allies that the women and babies of this country will have to endure the horrors which have marked the progress of the Huns in Europe.

"These men are pledging themselves, therefore, to the women of America as well as to the women of France and Belgium, and justly before Almighty God they vow that the rapists and murderers shall pay the full penalty of their crimes against womanhood. He who attacks woman attacks in its largest sense the wife, the mother, the sister of every man, and to the womanhood of these stricken nations America pledges its honor, its life, its property to make woman forever safe."

LABOR DAY'S WAR WARNING
By a coincidence Labor Day and the entrainment of the first contingent of the new national army fall in the same week. Thus is emphasized the intimate relationship of American labor to the great war into which this nation has been plunged. Labor, the bulwark of a nation at peace is the source of a nation's protection in war.

When a country prepares itself for a great military conflict it must first turn its thought to the conditions of the means of production. It must see that the labor power of the nation is organized to produce at an increased rate the necessities first for successfully carrying on the conflict, and second for the ordinary requirements of domestic life. This means that the ordinary rate of production must be increased. To do this more laborers are required. Portions of the population not productive in peace times must be employed on the farms and in the factories. More than this, the country looks for increased effort and efficiency from every laborer.

Labor Day all over this country will be celebrated, as it properly should be, with parades, with speeches and with sports. America should, once more show its pride in its laboring classes, cheering the carpenters, shipwrights, electricians, miners and mechanics as they march down the streets of the cities of the land.

But it is sincerely to be hoped that the spirit of the day will be turned this year as never before to full cooperation with the government in this time of stress and storm. Petty jealousies and ambitions should be shelved for the time in uniting the force of this country for the great efforts to which it has been committed. This is a democratic government. The rulers whom the people have selected have determined that the course of the nation shall be war. Then to war should every sinew be bent.

It is to be regretted that strikes over the country should be so frequent, and that the men who inaugurate them and participate in them should not realize that every day's delay puts peace one day farther off; that every interruption in the industries of the land postpones by that much the settlement of the great issues that are wrecking the world. Unless the need for correction of wage scales or hours of labor is so urgent as to be imposing unendurable hardship on the classes involved, labor should insist on uninterrupted work during the period of the war. In comparison with the terrible sacrifices the men at the front and their families at home are compelled to endure, it hardly seems fitting that those safe at home, for the sake of adjusting petty grievances or gaining a few cents on a day's pay, should prolong and make greater these sacrifices.

True, capital is insisting on making all it can out of the war, and it is not surprising that labor should feel that it should endeavor to better its condition at a time when pressure is most likely to bring results. But two wrongs never made a right. Because capital insists on being unpatriotic is no excuse for labor assuming the same attitude. The government should insist that capital should bear its just share of the burden of war, and labor should, without coercion or persuasion, bend its every effort to aid in the vigorous prosecution of the war which alone can, now, bring a satisfying peace.—Miami Metropolis.

The schools have opened and this is the time to give this great movement for education our assistance and endorsement and best wishes. As the children make the start on the first day so will the school year be and we should encourage the pupils and teachers alike in making a good start. Sanford has long borne the reputation of having one of the best school systems in the state and with our new buildings and equipment there is no reason why Sanford should not be in the front ranks of educational institutions of Florida. We are starting off this year under most favorable circumstances and every one can help with encouragement and good will and the desire to make this the banner year of our schools.

We are a firm believer of education. We believe in the erection of buildings that will not only afford the necessary opportunities for instruction, but that will be bestriety modern in sanitary measures. We believe in employing the best of instructors for the guidance of our children in their schoolhood days and we believe in the election of trustees who will give their best thought and energy to this end. The right kind of a school board will employ the right kind of teachers and they in their turn will produce from our unlettered youth the intellectual minds of the future.

Let us conserve the interests of our public schools of today for the instruction and control of our children in their young days will be speak their standing, efficiency and success in the later years of life. If there is one single thing that can be done to improve educational conditions locally that thing should be done promptly, cheerfully and without quibble. Half measures today will not make whole men and women of tomorrow.

Retribution.
There was a youth in our town who posed as quite a wit; and when a question he was asked, he always answered, "Nil." One day he met his Waterloo in a maiden dressed in pink; he asked if she would marry him—she answered, "I don't think."

Make haste slowly.
Remember that some training is necessary before a man can become a farmer. Even potato raisers have to know how to drill.

TEMPERANCE NOTES
(By the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union.)

NO LOSS TO LABOR THROUGH A DRY NATION.
Mr. Charles Steale, the well-known social worker, a machinist by trade, is an acknowledged authority on industrial conditions, especially as related to the liquor question. His investigations show the weakness of the liquor interests' claim that prohibition would work injury to labor. He says: "If the same amount of capital that is now invested in the liquor industry were transferred to legitimate business enterprises, the number of workers employed, the sum of wages paid, and the amount of materials required would be increased fourfold. So that even though three-quarters of the total capital invested in the liquor business were destroyed the workingman, as such, would be just as prosperous. "It must not be assumed, however, that were the liquor business abolished every dollar now invested in it would be lost; as the liquor men themselves now declare. Land values would remain the same, and most of the buildings and much of the machinery could be utilized for other kinds of industries without serious depreciation in value.

We are, however, concerned primarily with the great mass of workingmen who would be affected. Let us take five leading industries in the United States—namely, textiles and their finished products; iron and steel and their products; lumber and its manufactures; leather and its products, and paper and printing—and compare them with the liquor business (including the malting industry), with reference to the number of wage-earners employed, capital invested and wages paid:

"For every $1,000,000 invested in each of these industries the following number of wage-earners are employed: Liquor, 77; iron, 284; paper, 307; leather, 400; textiles, 578; lumber, 570. These figures prove that the iron industry employs nearly four times as many, paper and printing five times as many, leather six times as many, textiles seven and one-half times as many and lumber seven and one-half times as many workers for every $1,000,000 invested as does the liquor industry. "What is the ratio of wages paid the workers to the amount of capital invested in this business as compared with each of the industries noted above? Here are the figures: Liquor, 5.6 per cent; iron, 17.6 per cent; paper, 21.3 per cent; leather 23.5 per cent; textiles, 23.9 per cent; lumber, 27.1 per cent. A quick glance at these figures shows how comparatively little the laboring man gets out of the liquor business."

A PERTINENT RETORT.
A Pittsburgh paragrapher wrote and printed this: "Has a working girl who pays $20 for a pair of shoes got sense enough to vote?"

A correspondent signing himself "A Working Man" sent to the paragrapher the following with a challenge to print it as his own: "Has a workingman with a family to support who pays $20 for whisky got sense enough to vote?" It was printed with due explanation and an apology for the first paragraph.

No Intoxicants are allowed the 800 midshipmen in training at Annapolis. If drink is bad for Uncle Sam's navy boys, why is it not bad for every mother's boy in the country? Can government afford to license the sale of a commodity which lowers the mental, moral and physical standard of the individual and of the nation?

The Lilly of the Bible.
The lilyum chalcidionum is supposed to be the lily indicated in the sixth chapter of Matthew, twenty-eighth verse, where it is compared with the gorgeous robes of Solomon, and its color was scarlet or purple. This lily grows profusely in the moist parts of Asia Minor.

Like Human Engine.

VAN SWEARINGEN ATT'Y GEN'L

Offered the Place by Governor Catts Tallahassee, Sept. 1.—After midnight tonight and until some time next Tuesday, Florida will be without an attorney general. Judge Thomas F. West this afternoon signed necessary oath before Secretary of State Crawford, and became a member of the supreme court of Florida. The governor cannot commission a successor to Mr. West as attorney general without being in Tallahassee, and it was announced by Private Secretary J. N. Burke this afternoon that the governor would not return to the capital till Monday night.

If Van C. Swearingen of Jacksonville, who, it is rumored, has been offered the position, accepts, as his friends here expect he will, he will probably come to Tallahassee immediately and establish himself in the office to become familiar with the work, etc., acting the while as ex officio attorney general. No one here remembers when a cabinet office has been vacant as long as this one will be.

President Urges Bible Reading The New Testament which the Scripture Gift Mission has prepared for our soldiers at the front opens with a message from President Wilson. The society, which has distributed about 20,000,000 Testaments and Gospel portions among the Soldiers of Europe so far in the struggle, now issues an edition of 27,000 for the American boys. Besides inspiration and comfort the men are assured they will draw much else from reading the Bible. This is the President's admonition: "The Bible is the Word of Life. I beg that you will read it and find this out for yourselves—read, not little snatches here and there, but long passages that will really be the road to the heart of it."

"You will not only find it full of real men and women, but also of things you have wondered about and been troubled about all your

life, as men have been always, and the more you read the more it will become plain to you what things are worth while and what are not; what things make men happy—loyalty, right dealing, speaking the truth, readiness to give everything for what they think their duty, and most of all the wish that they may have the real approval of the Christ, who gave everything for them; and the things that are guaranteed to make men unhappy—selfishness, cowardice, greed, and everything that is low and mean. "When you have read the Bible you will know that it is the Word of God, because you will have found it the key to your own heart, your own happiness and your own duty. Woodrow Wilson."

Frontier Guards Find It Impossible to Prevent It.

MUCH INGENUITY SHOWN

One Man Wrepped Himself With Layers of Bacon—Women Had Their Hats Filled With Sausages—Children Got Much Food For Themselves, but Also Give Away Information.

There was a jubilee feast at a little town on the border between Holland and Germany the other day. A woman gave it. She invited large numbers of her friends and neighbors and all feasted and applauded her. What was the reason for the jubilee? you ask. She had just smuggled her fortieth package across the border into Germany. Strange events such as this occur daily in Holland. Smuggling is rife. So general has it become that fear neither of the law nor of the church can stop many persons living on the border from taking advantage of the need for supplies in Germany. Even men who have been selected to put an end to it take a hand in it themselves, and sometimes even the military men who are sent to re-enforce the civilian customs officers cannot resist the temptation of making extra gains that often amount to $35 and $40 a week. In the frontier districts no stigma attaches to, fines or imprisonment imposed for smuggling. Public opinion in the districts farther inland expresses itself as concerned for the morality of the frontier dwellers.

Appeal Made to Churches The churches have been appealed to to assist in suppressing smuggling. The Netherlands Reformed church in one town answered the appeal by taking a severe attitude toward the smugglers. It threatened to keep every confirmed smuggler from the holy communion so long as he or she continued in this trade.

Some of the smugglers—those of the lowest order—are so little used to having money that they don't know how to spend it, and therefore generally do so in a way detrimental to themselves and to the community. Drinking and fighting are the order of the day with them. Often they cannot even get rid of their money quickly enough.

Instances are known in which they literally consumed paper money as sandwiches, spreading it between two slices of bread and butter. Also they have lighted their pipes with 40 or 50 florin bills ($10 to $24). Such men's children often suffer want and fall to the care of the community when the father is down on his luck.

Others provide well for their homes, and pianos, talking machines and other luxuries are now to be found in the most unlikely looking tumble-down cottages, and the women and children are clad like Solomon, in all his glory.

The Germans also do a lot of smuggling. Large numbers of them come into Holland to eat, and upon returning home they generally take a little something for their families. The other day a party of German women, all well dressed and wearing large hats, was interviewed in the waiting room of a railway station on the border by Dutch customs officials. The women declared they had nothing with them. They were politely invited to take off their hats, and when assisted in this act by some Dutch women detectives it soon appeared that each lady had used a certain number of sausages as pads over which to do her hair. One even had concealed a whole pound of tea amid the sausage and hair coils.

Bringing Home the Bacon Another case was that of a polite traveler whose politeness caused him to be suspected. Every stitch of clothing was removed from his person before the contraband was exposed. It was bacon, artistically cut in the very shape of his body and laid on and securely fastened all over it by leather thongs. Much diminished in bulk, he was allowed to proceed on his journey, and there was mourning in one German home at least for the loss of this appetizing food. It has become customary in frontier places for bands of forty or fifty German school boys and girls to come into Holland to get what food they may. It is extremely difficult to get rid of them, for when the Dutch frontier guard takes them back to Germany at one place they slip back at another. The only way to get rid of them is to question them about conditions on their side, and when this has been done for some time the German guard sees to it that they don't return for fear they will give too much information to neutrals or enemies. Near Maastrecht a secret subterranean passage has just again been discovered in St. Peter's mount, which led straight into Belgium. This must have been used for months, and immense quantities must have been smuggled through it. Now it has been blown up by the Dutch military, but as there are some 10,000 passages in St. Peter's it is quite likely some of these may still lead to Belgium and be known to smugglers. The secret passages in former times offered a shelter to Dutch refugees in the Spanish and French wars and to Belgians in this war, so that such a drastic way of closing up the mountain would be deplored by every one.
