Pair Sees UFO

By Barry Lawes

The big question today in the minds of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald P. Emerick is "What did we see?"

The couple was out in the front yard at 864 East 20th Street Thursday night when Mrs. Emerick looked into the sky and saw what she thought was a meteor falling. As she watched the object, it began to glow very brightly as it moved. Then it stopped.

Three times it moved and stopped. Mrs. Emerick reported, and each time it would get "real bright."

Mrs. Emerick and her husband were watching the object for an hour through a "ship's glass," described the object as being oval shaped and red in color, but also containing a bright green fading into a yellow around the edges.

"I don't know what it was," she said today, "but I know I saw something, and it wasn't a plane."

She said she and her husband were sitting on the porch when she saw the object. It was about the size of a fist and was moving very slowly. It was very bright and had a greenish glow around it.

Francis P. Whitehair, State Senate candidate, says he believes there is still some hope to keep Sanford Naval Air Station open and he will work for continuance of the base if he is elected.

James R. Salva, Seminole High graduate last year, has made the dean's list for the first term at Orlando Junior College. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo W. Salva, 252 Willow Avenue.

Greenlee Lewis Crowell is holding a position in the U.S. Postal Service at Sanford, Fla. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Crowell, 1215 W. 1st St.

A case of flu prevented Tom McDonald from attending the political talk at the City County Health Department Wednesday night. Tom is the only Seminole resident among the eight legislative candidates. Incidentally, there were no school board candidates on hand.

Some of the candidates we will vote on next month are so unknown that we can't even give their names straight. Bob Skinner, a House candidate, was introduced as "Bob Skinner" here the other night. He was called that in The Herald the other day also.

Lawrence J. Piver Jr., 428 Summerline Avenue, is one of 16 University of Florida engineering students initiated in Sigma Tau national fraternity engineering fraternity recently.

Qualifying for a degree from Emory University at the end of the winter quarter is Deborah Gene Scott, 437 Scott Avenue, Sanford. She will receive a bachelor of arts degree.

We understand the hand-holding decree and the ban against wearing of letter jackets by girls at Seminole High will go into effect next year. . . not this spring.

The Federal Aviation Agency assures us that the plane dropping the mine fire ant bait are safe and will be flying at 7,000 feet, approximately 100 feet above the treetops. The two-engine planes are able to climb on one engine at any time.

SAIGON (UPI)—American troops killed 44 Viet Cong in two actions on the ground while Air Force and Navy planes carried out widespread raids against North Vietnam targets, a U. S. military spokesman reported today.

At Gainesville Thursday night, the Alachua County Sheriff's Office got a report of an unidentified flying object that rose into the sky east of the city with a light trailing behind it.

A check with the Federal Aviation Agency revealed that what had been seen was apparently the Atlas-Centaur rocket launched from Cape Kennedy about that time.

Good Friday

By Rev. Leroy Soper
We call today "Good Friday." It may be that one of the reasons we call it "good" is that once upon a time it was called "God's Friday," and the "God's" was corrupted to "good."

No matter where the "good" comes from, there is no question but that the event of Good Friday nearly two thousand years ago was, in the long run, good. We are not very proud of the fact that men like ourselves conspired to have a reforming young religious teacher put to death. We shudder when we consider the kind of death he was given, and then begin almost immediately the event leading to Golgotha.

As we contemplate the cross we might well ask ourselves if we, too, are obedient. Do we follow out the will of God when the road becomes hard and when we run the risk of being rejected or thought "odd"? Do we pick up our own crosses and carry them, or do we cry out that we are being hard done to, by the world or by fate? We always have the option to reject the will of God, for we are not puppets upon some celestial strings. And we always have a way of fleeing from the cross to carry ourselves. It may be illness or affliction or rejection or we are faced with decisions, do we remember the obedience of the Man upon the Cross?

Good Friday is a symbol of the victory of faith. Only a tremendous faith in the Father could carry off obedience, since, one is surely the symbol and showing forth of the other. Christ's mission was to die for us, and the end, makes the Cross a symbol of the victory of faith.

How about our own faith? We are separated by so many years from the event of the first Good Friday that we sometimes have difficulty making it meaningful to ourselves. We, perhaps, go to church listlessly, because "it is the thing to do." Perhaps we offer an occasional prayer, often in desperation when we are faced with crisis. But the faithful behold the Cross, and pray with Christ. "They will be done." We enter into the life in Christ, and in His Church, with enthusiasm and great joy. The Father knows that the Cross is victory.

The Cross is victory attained to the end of Easter. The tomb will be found empty. The Lord will be seen alive again. His resurrection is the victory which we have in the resurrection. Jesus said, "Whosoever liveth and believeth in Me shall never die," and His words were shown to be true.

With the resurrection of Jesus Christ comes the promise of resurrection for all who will become His children. With His resurrection comes hope and promise for all mankind. "Thanks be to God, which giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ!"

The Shape of the Cross

By Ralph W. Low, D.D.
The Cross is empty. Long since they took the body of that Man and put it in a tomb. Those who find the whole understanding of God in that One who died there, talk of Him as living. They find hope in that empty Cross.

That has importance for a world in which there is so much emptiness, where so many talk of their years as meaningless, barren and pointless. There is a kind of barrenness of cynicism, a litany of hopelessness in our time. It's sad that we should have so many who feel so little. It's sad that we should be so affluent and so impoverished. If life has seemed so dry, "No," perhaps it's because we are afraid to obey an eternal "Yes."

We choose our emptiness. It's the emptiness of so much that the world calls satisfaction. Or it's the witness of this empty Cross that in the end "nothing can separate us from the love of God." That is the message in the real shape of the Cross.

Choir Sponsors Chinese Dinner In Lake Mary

By Frances Weston
Lighted together on the yard, soft multi-colored lanterns over the tables, white and red coverlets, tables and travel posters, formed the scene greeting the festive crowd at the recent Chinese dinner sponsored by the choir of the Community Presbyterian Church of Lake Mary and held in the Educational Building.

Guests were served from a buffet of egg rolls, sweet and sour sauce, rice, Chinese noodles, beef, chicken, and pork chow mein, Chinese beans, tea, coffee and punch. Following the main course, dessert of apple rolls, each topped with a egg umbrella was served.

Soft music was played during the dinner hours and as each diner left, he was bid goodbye by a gracious Chinese lady.

Sanford Pair's Son Wins Heroism Medal

M/Sgt. Joseph C. Sapp, Jr., whose parents live on Rural Route 1, Sanford, received the Airman's Medal for an act of heroism while serving in Southeast Asia.

Sapp was cited for his act of Sept. 18, 1965, when he voluntarily risked his life to save a pilot from a burning aircraft.

The citation, which accompanied the medal, reads in part:

"On that date, Sgt. Sapp rushed to the scene of a crashed aircraft. With complete disregard for his safety, Sgt. Sapp exposed himself to the hazards of burning fuel and imminent possibility of explosion in a courageous attempt to locate the pilot.

"After locating him in the burning remains of the inverted fuselage, Sgt. Sapp succeeded in tearing a hole in the wreckage, removed the pilot and carried him to a waiting ambulance.

"By his courageous action and humanitarian regard for his fellow man, Sgt. Sapp has reflected great credit upon himself and the United States Air Force."

Award of the medal was made at Shaw Air Force Base, Sumter, S. C., by Col. Victor J. Sampson, base commander.

Timely Tips To Gardeners

Now that winter is gone and spring is here (we hope), you'll want to make sure that your garden looks its best. There are a few tips for homeowners that if followed will certainly make your plantings more attractive.

First, plants need feeding. While it is important that you apply plant food, you will find that a complete fertilizer with the nitrogen content high in aerial application will give your plants an even, sustained growth. You can use either a dry fertilizer, or use a liquid, such as Ortho-Gro. However, by feeding your plants regularly now and again around the first of June, you will have good growth and bloom and healthy plants.

Many people from northern states do not realize that most of our Florida sand contains little food and that if your plants are to thrive you will have to provide the food they need.

Second, as new growth comes out on your plants, you will need to water them. It is not rain sufficient. The tender new growth needs more moisture than the old growth to be sure to provide it.

Third, be sure to prune any plants that need it in the spring, and also any plants that bloom in the spring. For example, you prune Ananas, Dogwood, Mimosa, etc. after they bloom. This is also true of Hydrangeas, Camellias, etc.

However, you should prune your Hibiscus, Isora, and other flowering summer plants in winter to make them more abundant, and to remove cold damaged wood. By now most of your cold damaged shrubs are beginning to bud out with new growth and you can determine how far back you will have to cut them.

Fourth, be sure to watch for insect damage on the tender new growth and spray at the first sign of aphids, caterpillars, etc. One of the easiest sprays is Ioxon for aphid control, and also a mixture of kerosene and water. A spray of cholin insects also. If your Camellias has scale you will want to spray with Vaseline Oil and kerosene in combination. However, be sure to spray the sprays in the formulae recommended on the bottle. You don't want to burn that nice new foliage.

Fifth, plant annuals for quick color. There are many new varieties of Marigolds, Zinnias, Coleus, Verbena, Shasta, Foxglove, etc. that will come quick from seed, or you can pick up plants at your nursery, garden shop, or supply store. Use in masses for color — you'll enjoy them!

From This Slight Seed

Easter holds many spiritual wonders. Not the least among them is the almost inconceivable way in which a few short sentences in the Bible carry the Easter story from generation to generation.

Read this brief story again. There are other references in the Bible, parallel in their content, but this version is from the Gospel of John and was translated into modern English for the gospel issued as a booklet, "One Way for Modern Man," by the American Bible Society.

But on the first day of the week, Mary of Magdala arrived at the tomb, very early in the morning, while it was still dark, and noticed that the stone had been taken away from the tomb.

But she did not go in, for she did not know where they had put him. Peter and the other disciple set off at once for the tomb, the two of them running toward Jesus' head.

But Mary stood just outside the tomb, and she was crying. And as she cried, she looked into the tomb and saw two angels in white who sat, one at the head and one at the foot of the place where the body of Jesus had lain.

But women, especially if they had brothers, are accustomed to a mild amount of masculine dominance, even in the physical realm.

The Old Shell Game

The voters are entitled to suspect there is as much hokum as substance in President Johnson's evangelistic discussions of inflation and what to do about it before various groups of goggle-eyed citizens assembled in the White House.

The President's sort of evangelism is a little different from the usual kind. It is not a matter of convincing the voters that the President is a good man, but of convincing them that the President is a good man.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Chinese divisions to disarm the Japanese.

At the end, he had the job of seeing that the Japanese troops in North Vietnam were disarmed and sent home.

The American general said: "I wanted to send in two ships I had ready."

Later, some of us were talking to another American general just back from Vietnam.

"But at that, he exploded. He told me he didn't want any Chinese divisions in his command."

"So I made a compromise proposal. If he would agree to the two Chinese divisions, I'd personally guarantee they left on schedule."

"That's the deal we made. After the disarming, I saw the Chinese get on board."

One day a young Roman aristocrat consulted Seneca with almost the identical situation that troubles Carl.

Seneca told him how to handle women successfully. "Go to the archer," said Seneca, "and see how he handles his bow."

Seneca's dilemma is not new. Seneca was a Roman philosopher who lived at the time of Christ.

What About Rhodesia?

By Phil Newsum Now that British Prime Minister Harold Wilson has achieved his election victory with a solid majority in Commons, one of his most urgent tasks will be to decide what to do finally about rebellious Rhodesia and its all-white government.

For both sides April could be the crucial month. So far, the Rhodesian economy has stood up remarkably well, and other countries must be found in a market which already has a surplus of cotton and sugar.

Despite the fact that a trickle of petroleum goods have been coming in through the Republic of South Africa, the Portuguese would voice no objection to transshipment of oil for Rhodesia through its port of Beira in Mozambique, the oil embargo is hurting.

Rhodesia is operating on its reserves which, it has been estimated, will be approaching exhaustion by the end of this month.

British use of force to prevent any effective breach of the oil embargo is not discounted. Nor do the Rhodesians discount the possibility the British eventually may dispatch troops against Rhodesia as a further attempt to topple the Smith government and reinstate the Rhodesian rule.

With that thought in mind, Rhodesia last month began beefing up its reserves to reinforce its 110,000-man army. At any rate, the present key is oil and the sale of the tobacco crop. Rhodesia exports to live and to get her tobacco and sugar markets must have transportation.

In this bitter-end struggle neither Smith nor his supporters have shown signs of surrender but in a UPI interview he hinted a way out of the impasse still may be found.

Now both these markets are gone, and other outlets must be found in a market which already has a surplus of cotton and sugar.
